

By 2-1 margin

Owen-Gage says no to split

Voters turned out in record numbers Monday to resoundingly say that they want the Owendale-Gagetown School district to remain intact. A total of 807 ballots were cast and by almost a two to one margin voted against breaking up the district. The tally was 581 no votes and 243 yes votes. Three ballots were spoiled.

Supt. Allen Fennell said that the district has been operated during the year so that it can carry on with a minimum of difficulty next year.

Our grade schools are in good condition, he reported Tuesday, and about the only major purchase that has been delayed was another school bus that normally would have been purchased this year.

We'll take a long look at the needs of the high school, he continued, and see what needs to be done.

Just what the future financial plans for the school are will not be officially determined until the school board meets the first Wednesday in April.

Currently, the district is operating with a balanced budget. The school now has operating millage of 15 1/4 as a special three-mill levy has been allowed to expire.

It is a virtual certainty that the levy will have to be voted again if the school is to operate in the black next year.

Details of a request for extra operating millage and the amount requested will be decided by the board when a budget for next year is presented by the superintendent.

Fennell said that he has not yet prepared a budget for next year. . . I would like to have a more definite idea of the potential income before I finalize budget plans, he explained.

The superintendent indicated that an extra teacher would have to be hired for next year and perhaps a principal. The principal would be either in Gagetown or work on a shared time basis with the grades in both Owendale and Gagetown, Fennell said.

FROM THE Editor's Corner

Nobody bucks the establishment harder than Harold Deering.

In colonial times, he would have been one of the first to toss that tea in Boston.

In the 1930's picture him finding a job in a factory just to be in on the action as labor started its grab for power from oppressive management.

Or wouldn't he have had a ball when mid-westerners organized the International Workers of America and started that ill fated march on Washington?

You've got to believe that for him the protest is the thing.

And since he farms in DeFord it's natural that he is in the eye of the whirlpool of farm revolt.

And over the years his drive for farmer economic rights have brightened many a dull news week for the Chronicle.

Deering left the ranks of Michigan Milk Producers Association, the marketing cooperative that represents the huge bulk of the dairy farmers, "the establishment," many years ago.

I remember him pouring milk on the ground when the short-lived Fair Share group organized for higher milk prices.

Then a few years ago the National Farmers Organization had scarcely held its first meeting here before Deering was on its membership rolls.

He still is one of the most active members and a strong booster and supporter of the holding actions that NFO advocates as its power base.

Last Wednesday, he was named to the committee to organize the protest against the property tax. His name just had to be on it.

One thing that Deering never revolted against is hard work. When he spends a day working in the interest of NFO in the winter more often than not he makes up for it by working that night at the farm.

Twenty-four hour days in peak work seasons were and are common and if you can call a farm operation his size a family farm, he's got one. The whole family helps.

And all he had a few short years ago was a couple of borrowed bucks and $2 million worth of drive and desire. That's why you tend to listen when he speaks.

There is more than a shade of difference between the personal Harold Deering and the professional one.

Personally, he is soft spoken, friendly and generous. He likes people and mixes easily. . . a nice guy to be around.

But professionally he seems always to seeth.

And, all in all, farmers in the Thumb are better for it. When Fair Share challenged MMPA the cooperative accelerated its demands from dairies. When NFO started talking contracts for farm supplies, it wasn't long before Farm Bureau began talking contracts, too.

Who will say that the tax revolt might not draw attention to the property tax law and in the long run bring about reforms?

The rebels disturb the status quo.

Cynics say with a touch of truth that there is a Don Quixote-like touch to all of this . . . but when Deering and others like him start tilting windmills, a refreshing breeze often wafts across the Thumb.

BRIDGE NEEDS are far ahead of available financing, says Robert Wellington, Tuscola County Road Commissioner. One of the few bridges receiving improvement is the McArthur Road bridge over White Creek. In 1967 a guard rail and under trussess added safety and support to the bridge, but it remains a one lane bridge and Wellington said its needs as a two lane bridge remained an open question. Cost of the 1967 project was $1,584.90.

Faulty driving causes mishaps

One person was injured in one of two accidents reported in Tuscola County during the week, according to reports at the Tuscola County Sheriff's Department.

Phillip Roy Vincent of Kingston reported a dizzy spell at 6:00 a.m. March 17 caused him to lose control of his car on Rossman Road, 1/4 mile east of Kingston Road, striking a large tree.

The front of the auto was damaged. Vincent was driving alone and was taken to Hills and Dales Hospital for treatment.

A Tuesday night medical report from the hospital reported he was in good condition and was expected to be released very shortly.

Robert Wilson Westerby of Cass City reportedly fell asleep at 4:30 a.m. Sunday, March 16, on M-81, a half mile west of Graf road, where his car ran off the road hitting a county road sign. He was uninjured and no ticket was issued.

READY TO DIRECT an independent union at Kingston School are these officers: Dallas Harrison, Catherine Brzezinski, Jacqueline Opperman and Tom Bradley.

Kingston teachers kick out MEA; go it alone

The only teachers' union in the Thumb not affiliated with the Michigan Education Association or the American Federation of Labor is at Kingston School.

The district may be the only one in the State that formerly belonged to the MEA and subsequently voted to become an independent.

The Kingston teachers pulled from the ranks of the giant MEA Friday in a special election by the narrow margin of three votes.

Thirty-two of the 33 teachers eligible to vote cast ballots. The total was 17 for an independent union and 14 against. One ballot showed no preference.

The teachers had petitioned the State Labor Mediation Board for the vote after the mandatory three years under the MEA had been concluded.

The teachers will now be represented for three years before another vote to change could, by law, be initiated. Mrs. Jacqueline Opperman said.

Mrs. Opperman is the president of the new union. Other officers are Dallas Harrison, vice-president; Catherine Brzezinski, secretary, and Tom Bradley, treasurer.

Mrs. Opperman said that the present salaries paid Kingston teachers are lower than those paid on a state-wide average.

A comparison with two other area schools indicates that the Kingston teachers have a lower starting salary, but a better increment schedule.

Kingston starts at $6,300 and has a top of $8,680 after 10 years. Owen-Gage and Sebewaing-Unionville's starting salary is $6,500. But Owen-Gage's top is $8,500 and Sebewaing's, $8,600.

Pulling away from MEA will save dollars in dues for the teachers. Current MEA rates are $62 per year, per teacher.

Little change in the negotiating procedure is expected. The teachers are represented by a seven-member committee from which two serve as co-chairmen and talk with school district representatives.

In Kingston negotiations are between teachers and board members with the superintendent advising.

Annual Chamber banquet set

Ballots are in the mail for the annual election of members to the board of the Cass City Chamber of Commerce, Dick Wallace, president, announced this week.

Members will elect four to the eight-member board. The terms of Dick Drews, Jim Gross, Fred Leeson and Arie VanderMeer are expiring.

Candidates are: Gilbert Albee, Duane Chipp, Dick Hampshire, Keith McConkey, Stuart Merchant, Thelma Pratt, Bob Tuckey and Mike Weaver.

The annual banquet has been scheduled for April 15. Danny Litwhiler, baseball coach at Michigan State, will be the featured speaker.

The Citizen of the Year and the Junior Citizen of the Year will be announced at the banquet.

Hear 5 criminal cases in court

Five criminal cases were heard during the week in Tuscola County Circuit Court before James Churchill in the courthouse at Caro.

Ronald Dinkens of Lapeer, charged with resisting officer R. D. Hill December 9, in Vassar, stood mute and a plea of innocent was entered. His bond was continued and a trial date set for June 27.

Harold Curley of Saginaw was charged with possession of untaxed cigarettes in an amount in excess of $50.00. He stood mute and a plea of innocent was entered with his trial set for April 11.

Jerry Thomas Bland of Caro was charged with larceny from the residence of Coon of Gagetown on October 23. He pleaded guilty and a pre-sentence investigation was ordered. His sentence date is April 11.

Annabelle Bognar of Caro was charged with larceny from the residence of Hazel Homes. Concluded on page three.

KARPOVICH writes "delegate" nominations on chalkboard.

BY RICHARD HAINES

The underside of Tuscola county's bridges are corroding, invisible from the taxpayers' eyes. Robert Wellington, Tuscola County Road Commissioner, quietly contends the corrosion is also invisible to the county board of supervisors.

In the present tax revolt against property taxes, occasional nasty remarks surface in regards to recently announced load limitations on township bridges.

There are 146 township bridges and 47 bridges on "primary" county roads.

Wellington said $150,000 for five years would be minimal and the amount for ten years "would put the county's bridges in good shape."

Wellington reports the new limitations are the result of the lack of funds his department needs to improve or replace bridges in the county.

Many county bridges, he said, have new 2 and 3-ton limitations. He said the dilemma is that occasionally a county truck must pass over a road receiving grading or graveling treatment and when so doing, violates the county road commission's own limitation policies.

He said school buses, when loaded with children, also exceed the legal limit on many bridges.

Wellington reported the new load limitations, as with others in the past, are often not observed and trucks sneak across bridges unnoticed, making enforcement difficult.

He said the result is an acceleration of deterioration of the bridges placing harmful strains on bridges and doing irreparable damage. He said sometimes bridges can be reinforced, but foundation and structure damages cannot be repaired to their original state.

Wellington said most township bridges were constructed between 1890 and 1910 and their iron structures are now badly corroded in many instances and their foundation unadapted to the heavy weights of modern vehicles.

The State of Michigan, he said, has a per-axle limitation, but does not have a total weight limitation.

Wellington said his department began an analysis of overall bridge needs in 1964 and 1965. The department recognized, he said, that an overall bridge replacement plan was needed.

However, despite fund requests from the county supervisors for 4 consecutive years, no funds have been received that would allow an adequate bridge improvement or replacement program.

He said this year, his department never even made a fund request for bridge improvement. No funds were received through the property tax.

Other counties received funds to supplement funds received through the State Motor Vehicle and Road Fund which is allocated on a per-mile basis based on separate county needs.

"But Tuscola County Supervisors," he said, "have allocated nothing."

Wellington said the county has many other needs than bridges, and that his department would have to be patient in recognizing the needs of other departments, as well as those of the county road commission.

In Sanilac County the road commission was given supplemental funds by supervisors of $100,000 and Henry Hill, commission secretary, reported about 3/4 was earmarked for bridge replacement and repair. Last year, he reported Sanilac supervisors appropriated $50,000 to supplement their budget.

Huron County supervisors appropriated a supplemental $125,000 of which a portion of $65,000 for primary roads went to bridges. $60,000 was for matching funds of townships, however none went for bridges and secretary-manager Murray Hagen reports a severe bridge problem in Huron County.

Wellington said he would like to see the townships exercise more initiative in road and bridge improvements, but that they had to put up 50% of the financing, and that conservative township minds were generally unwilling to cross this bridge.

Most township leaders, he said, are unwilling to set up bonding programs and exercise the kind of road improvement leadership they exercised in the early 1900's before road financing was made through state sources.

This has made township people passive about their own road needs, he said.

Look for mail box vandals

Bad Axe State Police are investigating the destruction of three rural mail boxes reported twisted off their posts. The vandalism was reported by the owners, Ruth Zmierski, John Lapeer and James McLellan of Greenland Road.

Evidently the boxes were vandalized by persons who stepped from a car to destroy them.

Draw 100 names for jury duty

The names of 100 Tuscola County residents were drawn by Clerk Archie Hicks for the April term of District and Circuit courts.

The jury panel has been doubled in size because of the addition of jurors for the district court.

Previously, about 45 persons formed the panel, but served only in Circuit Court. Under the new arrangement, the jurors will divide their time between the two courts.

Jurors from the area include: From Cass City, Holly Althaver, Lester Battel, Frances Golding, Helen M. Jezewski, Phyllis Little, Edward Lebiada, Cheryl Ann Paladi, Ethel Smart, and Raymond Spaulding.

Jurors from Kingston include Anna Campbell, Leona Henderson, Harold McLaughlin. From Deford, Gladys Reavey, Emory Vandemark, and William Walkiewicz. From Gagetown, William Lenhard.

Tuscola taxpayers to lead State movement

BY RICHARD HAINES

An estimated 400 to 500 farmers and property owners rallied into the jam packed Caro Gun Club hall last Wednesday night voicing demands for a change in the property tax as a system for financing local schools.

30 delegates were nominated from the floor to initiate the new organization to be called, "The Tuscola County Taxpayers Association."

If they are unsuccessful, their spokesman, Dr. John Karpovich said, "Let us withhold" our property taxes and the schools will close, the courts will close and the county offices will be shut down."

Karpovich stood on a step ladder to give himself more posture before his iam-backed standing audience who had signed over 300 petitions, "We, the following property owners, protest increased property tax," when they ran out because of the over-flow crowd.

About 40 chairs were filled and after them about 400 people standing up, sitting on tables, and even the piano. It was so packed, people coming in late couldn't even get in, and others, seeing all the cars in front and about 1/4 mile down the road, reportedly never tried to.

Karpovich said they will test the property tax in court both for constitutionality and for equity. He said they will build a strong county organization, and because they are the first to get started, they will "have to help others get started."

He said their new organization will watch the legislators, "and if they do not vote our way, we will vote them out."

If the first two kinds of pressure don't work, Karpovich said "Let us withhold" our property taxes.

"There are many of us," he said. "We have power."

About 15 disturbed high school students attended fearing to the operation of their school. Police were notified of possible disturbance, Karpovich said, in anticipation of trouble.

No trouble occurred however, and Karpovich said he was pleased at their questions they asked for a period when the questions of the youths dominated the meeting.

One man asked that if farming was difficult under property taxes, then why farm? "Why eat," answered one man. Another man in the audience responded, "I think this young man wants to farm so he can get an education," and as he did so, the crowd yelled and applauded with approval.

The meeting was conducted without the use of a PA system and speakers from the audience had to raise their voices to be heard by all. As they did so, the crowd listened intently. At least until the floor was open for nominations of "delegates", it was an extremely orderly meeting under the circumstances.

$478.67 was collected at the door in contributions as the audience parted from the meeting.

Farmers seethe at property tax spiral

BILL MATTS

Bill Matts, Columbia Township, says farmers are making less money per acre than in 1950 when farm costs were less. Farm products are at a low price, he said, and inflation has forced up the cost of machinery and farm needs.

He contends farmers are only getting 72 to 73% parity (rate of costs in relation to rate of prices received for products sold).

Matts says "I'll have to borrow if I want to complete a tool shed," and he said he needs the tool shed to farm efficiently. "Everybody's in debt," he added.

Matts' 80 acres are valued at $800 per acre and he says he is paying about $10 per acre for property taxes. Matts is angered at his recent assessment and says he "would have trouble" selling it for that, though he could have 2 or 3 years ago.

He doesn't feel the property tax should be abolished, merely that a more equitable system of taxing for school finances should be established. "Our income doesn't warrant these kind of taxes," he said.

RICHARD DONAHUE

Richard Donahue of Columbia Township owns 220 acres and farms 440 acres of cash crops including beets, corn, wheat, barley and beans.

Last year his property taxes were $1885 and he said his township assessments were hiked 70% this spring.

Donahue contends the method of tax collection is unfair "I don't mind paying taxes, he said, "but I think this tax deal is an unequal way of doing it."

A lot of farmers are living on depreciation, they have to, he said.

Donahue contends that farmers and rural folks are getting

Rabbit tracks

BY JOHN HAIRE

(And anyone else he can get to help)

Last Christmas the employees at Walbro Corporation exchanged gifts. Drawing the name of Mrs. Bonnie Zeidler was Clyde Wells. His gift wasn't much, but the card was classic. It read: To Bonnie from Clyde.

My wife says I shouldn't, but I'm going to anyway. This is national wildlife week (Mar. 16-22). Do your duty... protect the wild Haires.

Kids are probably sniffing glue in Cass City. Four or five empty glue tubes have been picked up on the walk in our block on two separate mornings.

Some of the inner-city problems evidently trickle out to suburbia. At a gas station in Troy, there is a full time shift of three persons. Two do the work and one takes the money. Why doesn't the man who takes the money do any of the work? Because he's locked in a cage, that's why.

The money is passed through a slot smaller than the opening in a bank cage window and the cage not only shields the money changer from a gun in the ribs, it makes it impossible for anyone to even see who is doing the work.

Art Paddy, a coach who left Cass City in 1952, has a team in the Class B quarter finals. In an article in an area daily this week he reported that one of his three best teams was a Cass City club with a 16-0 record.

Since the story appeared we've heard several different versions of just what team he referred to.

Just for fun, we checked. The team played in 1951-52. Its members were Tom Schwaderer, Bob Wallace, Tim Burdon, Don Tuckey, Russ Foy, Stan Guinther, Graydon Agar, Roy Wagg, John Ellis and Dick Wallace.

Only Wagg, Dick Wallace and Guinther still live in the area. Incidentally, the team failed to get out of the district... it was upset by Vassar, a club the Hawks defeated twice in the regular season.

SPORTS FANS!

I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

By E. M. Bulen

Did you know a big league outfielder once made THREE errors on one play... How did it happen... One afternoon Smead Jolley was playing the outfield for the White Sox... The batter hit a single and the ball rolled through Jolley's legs for error number one... Jolley turned to get the rebound off the wall but the ball went back through his legs again, for error number two... Then he finally got hold of the ball, but he threw it wild into the stands for his third error on the same play!

When the Olympics are held nowadays, more than 100 nations participate, but did you know that when the 1904 Olympics were held, only eight nations in the entire world took part!... Times change, don't they?

Few fans know that basketballs were a different size for many years than they are today... From the beginning of basketball till the 1930s, basketballs were bigger and, therefore, harder to handle and harder to get into the basket... The size of the basketball was reduced by about 10% in 1935 and that's one reason why more scoring came to the game... But, oddly, when fans argue today about why there's more scoring now, the fact of the change in the size of the ball is hardly ever brought up.

Ubly youth receives FFA State award

Martin Kubacki, son of Mr. and Mrs. Casimer Kubacki, Priemer Rd., Ubly, will be awarded the State FFA degree at the 40th annual Convention of Michigan Future Farmers of America.

The convention is being held at Michigan State University in conjunction with Farmer's Week.

To receive this degree a FFA member must have been active in the FFA and in Vocational Agriculture class for at least two years. He must have demonstrated qualities of leadership, citizenship and co-operation. In addition he must have earned at least $500 by his own efforts from his supervised experience projects.

Martin was one of the 196 State FFA members who received this award. It is annually given to the top two per cent of the FFA membership in Michigan.

During the past four years in the FFA, Martin has been both active in group activities and in individual projects. As a freshman he started out with crop projects of oats, beans, wheat, barley and corn. To round out his freshman year he also had some rabbits and a steer.

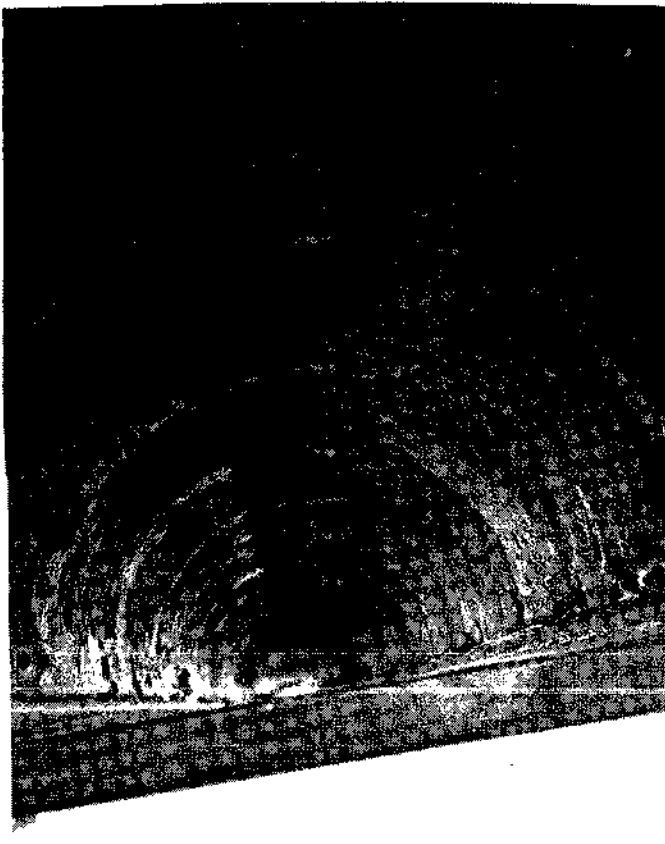

This past year he had oats, corn, wheat, beans, a steer and the rabbits.

For the past two years he has served as the President of the Ubly Chapter. He has served on the Supervised Farming, Leadership, Earnings and Savings, Conduct of meetings and the recreation committees. As a freshman he was on the parliamentary procedure team in the district leadership contests and also on the meat judging team. This year he represented the chapter at the district contests as the public speaker. His topic was "Agricultural Occupations."

Puterbaugh grad of Ag Institute

Larry Puterbaugh, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ryerson Puterbaugh, Snover, was among 152 graduates of the Institute of Agricultural Technology at Michigan State University, March 14.

He graduated in the Agriculture Production program. An industry is a partner with MSU in offering programs. The on-the-job training while learning provides work experience and a broad insight into the entire business.

PART OF AN under-bridge arc-structure shows severe corrosion and deterioration, while its above bridge appearance looks in A-1 condition. The bridge on the Dodge Road south of the Gifford Road over White Creek has recently received a 2 ton limit. Wellington said the bridge is "fairly well traveled."

Bean growers in all-out campaign

The Michigan Bean Growers Marketing Cooperative is starting its final all-out campaign to complete organization of all Michigan Navy Bean growers into one marketing and bargaining organization, announced Leo Marker, bean grower from Tuscola County and a director of the Cooperative.

Marker pointed out that officers of the Cooperative have been meeting with leaders of various farm organizations this winter to gain support in a united program for Navy Beans.

Our goal, Marker said, is to have at least 75% of the growers of Michigan Navy Beans signed up as members of our organization before harvest time this year. We all ready are half way to our goal and with the current campaign underway we should soon reach our objective of having one strong bargaining organization for Navy Beans operating by harvest time.

Charged in the same larceny was Ruth Reynolds of Caro. She stood mute, a plea of innocent was entered and her bond continued. Her trial date is also June 25.

Last week's Chronicle erroneously reported Attorney W. Wallace Kent Jr. to have been charged in Circuit Court. It should have read as follows: Attorney W. They sent all the way to Boston for that special piece of glass. Look closely, and you may see it in the east front window. From inside you can read the inscription: "In Memoriam..." and then his name.

Grandpa called himself "a retired handy-man." But in those days lumber was cheap and labor wasn't. So when they said "we can't afford to build a church," Grandpa disagreed.

"Get me the boards and a few strong fellows to set the beams. I'll build your church," said Grandpa!

Before he finished, there were fifty men and lots of dollars to help him. You can see why they sent all the way to Boston for a piece of glass.

Grandpa is gone. Yet the Christian who is eager to put his faith into action is still able to share God's blessings with hundreds of his neighbors... and posterity as well!

AN UNEXPECTEDLY massive crowd voiced support at tax revolt meet.

HIGH SCHOOLERS fear half day sessions if tax payments are withheld and jabbed numerous questions at Karpovich.

Withholding an expensive proposition

Tuscola County Treasurer Arthur M. Willis reports tax "withholding" to be an expensive proposition. He reported: "The treasurers of the townships and villages return all unpaid taxes and assessments to the county treasurer for the collection of delinquent tax during the month of March each year. Village treasurers return all delinquent taxes the 1st of each year. The local treasurer continues to collect delinquent personal taxes even after the filing of the return of unpaid taxes with the county treasurer, as the collection and responsibility of the same remains with the local treasurer. Fees collected by the county treasurer, as required by State law, cover a 4% collection fee and interest at the rate of 1/2% per month, starting when taxes are returned delinquent, on March 1."

So live that your religion is an ambition - not a habit.

Expanded Teen Ranch serves 20

On Thursday, March 13, Teen Ranch opened its second home. The ranch is now able to care for 20 boys at one time. The rambling, brick ranch house has a private apartment for Mr. and Mrs. Donald Potter and family, serving as house parents, and five semi-private rooms for the boys. Teen Ranch gives boys a second chance. They participate in community affairs such as 4-H, school and church, which provide a well-rounded balanced life (mental, social, spiritual, and physical). Each boy has a personal project i.e. gardening, cattle, woodworking, heavy machinery or automotive. All this in preparation for a life's vocation. Some will finish high school; others will serve the community as an economic asset rather than a liability. Additional contributions are necessary to care for the rebuilding of young lives. A per diem rate cares for about two-thirds of the daily costs. The total project needs an additional $50,000 to complete the necessary funding. We need civic groups, church groups, corporations and businessmen in addition to several individuals to complete the plan of the five-house project. Your contribution, large or small, to Teen Ranch, Marlette, Michigan, will be deeply appreciated.

THE SQUEEZE
It's true-history does repeat itself, and every time it happens a great number of people find themselves shortchanged.

TAX REVOLT

the burden of school financing while town folks send more kids to school and pay little property taxes besides.

Donahue also expresses optimism that the Tuscola County Taxpayers association will be a healthy threat to legislators in impelling them into change for school financing.

HAROLD DEERING

Harold Deering of Deford says farms are now producing below the cost of production. Previously his farm was assessed at $120,600. He said the township has just had an 18% increase.

His livestock consists of 30 hogs and 275 Holsteins with about 100 head milking. Deering is incensed at the new tax assessments, especially when the cost of machinery and farm needs are at an all time high while prices of farm goods sold are maintained near the traditional level.

Deering expressed discontent at the school's performance saying high school counselors were unnecessary and that the principal and the teachers should do the counseling.

He also scorned supervisors "who set their own wages." He is disenchanted with the services of the county saying the bridges were dilapidated and that the roads, which were once graded every 2 or 3 weeks, are now graded only 2 or 3 times per year.

Deering held high hopes for the new Tuscola County Taxpayers Association saying "nobody is on the payroll" and that meetings have been set up in five different counties.

Fifth generation on centennial farm

The Michigan Historical Commission has recently designated the farm owned by Mr. and Mrs. John Esau, northwest of Cass City, as a centennial farm. To qualify the farm must have been in the same family for 100 years or more. Today the fourth generation of the Schenck family (Mrs. Esau) makes their home at the farm.

While the farm was purchased from David Wright and wife, the Schencks are the only family that has lived at the farm at the corner of Koepfgen and Milligan roads.

The Wrights were land speculators in New York and purchased the land for resale from a lumber company, John Esau explained. Jacob Schenck purchased the original 160 acres for a very few dollars per acre.

The land went from Jacob to Travis Schenck. When he died it was divided into four equal 40-acre plots among the four children.

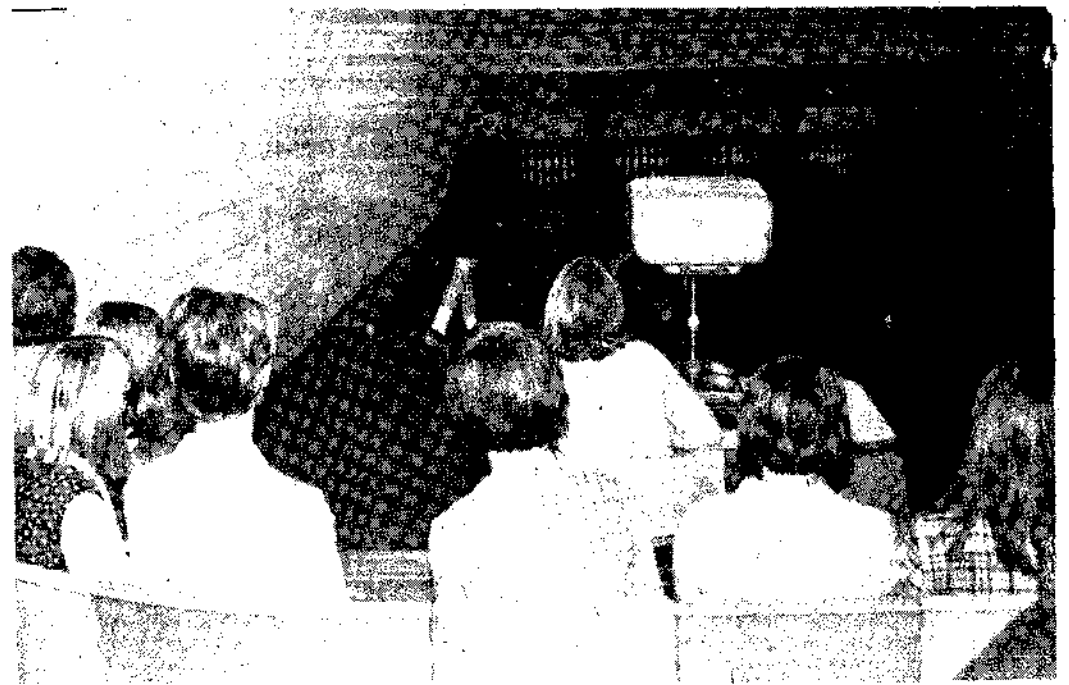

Two parcels were sold immediately and two others remained in the family. Mrs. Esau inherited 40 acres from her mother and purchased an additional 40 from her brother. Today the farm has 80 acres.

The original home burned about 40 years ago, Mrs. Esau said. Today the oldest building on the farm is the barn which dates back some 90 years.

The Esau's modern frame home was built about 20 years ago.

POSING WITH THE SIGN designating their centennial farm are Mrs. Ruth Esau and daughter, Mary Beth.

UBLY STUDENTS as they participate in their new class in bowling.

Bowling popular at Uby High

Students of Uby Community School are participating in recreation they can use later in life.

It has been a little over a month since the 204 students have joined the bowling program sponsored by Uby Community School's physical education department. Initiated by the students, their coach, Miss Candy Holdship, presented the students' request to the school board.

Superintendent Leonard Sinke and the board approved the idea. A program is now established whereby both boys and girls participate, in alternate weeks. The students pay 30¢ per ten frames and often times a game will last two or three days, and transportation is provided by the school.

"They're enjoying it," said Coach Holdship. She said that since they've started the program with Uby Lanes, youths have jammed the lanes on week ends and have had to be "shooed away."

The coach said there "isn't too much" for the kids to do in town anymore, and that "it's something they can use later on."

Superintendent said the bowling program helped the students achieve educational objectives and that "I feel quite strongly about them getting recreational skills they can use later in life."

No cure seen for acute State physician shortage

DOCTOR SHORTAGE

A Michigan State University economist says that even immediate expansion of all Michigan medical schools wouldn't provide enough doctors by 1980 to keep pace with the state's present inadequate number of physicians.

Dr. David I. Verway, a research associate at MSU, reports in the current issue of the "Economic Record" that Michigan has 4.66 per cent of the nation's personal income, and 4.34 per cent of the population, but only 4.15 per cent of the physicians in private practice.

In order to maintain the present relationship of doctors to population, Dr. Verway estimated the state will need 7,600 additional physicians by 1980.

Even immediate expansion of all of Michigan's medical schools would not produce that number of doctors by then, he added, adding that the state relies heavily on foreign manpower for its supply of physicians.

"It has been estimated that 14.3 per cent of all Michigan medical doctors graduate from foreign medical schools," he said.

POOR CHANCE

Michigan specialists account for only 3.88 per cent of the national total, he added.

Dr. Verway cited several factors which have contributed to the doctor shortage in the state, including:

Michigan, with a higher birth rate and a greater share of its population in the younger age groups than the national average, has an above average need for services to treat diseases peculiar to children.

City dwellers, who utilize medical services more than rural residents, comprise a greater proportion of the state's population than are found in many other states.

Riot-control legislation much weaker than that vetoed by former Gov. George W. Romney last year was passed by the state Senate.

The measure would authorize local officials to declare a state of emergency when a riot appears imminent and the Governor is out of the state.

It now goes to the House, where Democratic leaders have vowed to kill it. The Democrats hold a 57-53 edge in the lower chamber.

Senate passage came after Gov. William G. Milliken lifted his objection to the bill. But the Governor had insisted on the provision giving him complete authority over riot prevention when he's in Michigan.

FALSE ALARM

False alarm, that's what a state Supreme Court justice says State Natural Resources Director Ralph A. MacMullan sounded recently about the celebrated Martiny Lakes decision.

Justice Eugene F. Black of Port Huron says that contrary to MacMullan's statements, the court did not close 95 per cent of Michigan's salmon and trout streams to public fishing.

"Martiny decided no new public right, and no new private right in any stream," said Black, who authored the opinion that triggered the furor.

"If It Fitz..."

I've got a problem, Ann

BY JIM FITZGERALD

Dear Ann Landers:

I certainly never thought I'd ever write to you. Then I got married. Since then, I've wanted to drop you a line at least once a week. But I've been too busy. One of the things I've been busy at is reading your column every day.

"Did you read Ann Landers today?" my wife asks me at breakfast. I always know what this means. It means you have again punctured huge holes in the head of some dumb husband who made a twitchy move toward daylight. And my wife is telling me I will benefit from your wise advice because, by an amazing coincidence, I am the same kind of a dummy. These amazing coincidences occur once every weekday and sometimes twice on Sundays.

If I do not read your column by dinner time, I will be reminded again. Have you ever eaten a layer cake with one of your columns between the layers? It is something to chew on.

Listen, Ann, I don't really mean to be critical. You give a lot of stupid answers but this is not all your fault. You are asked a lot of stupid questions. And besides, these complaining women usually don't give you all the facts to work on. Take that woman who was worried because her husband wore her nightgown to bed. You advised her to bundle Dumbo off to the funny farm. Your advice would have been different had you known that Dumbo's wife has somehow lost 63 pairs of his pajamas in the laundry in just 2 years. In Dumbo's pajama drawer there is nothing except her nightgowns and 26 jars of cold cream. Should he wear cold cream to bed?

However, Ann, please do not be discouraged by the nagging of just one dummy husband who can't stomach newsprint in his cake. Yours is a voice that should not be stifled. The world needs someone who deals publicly and intelligently with the important issues of the day. How else would Myrtle Housewife know it is socially acceptable to be slightly rude to a neighbor divorcee who borrows Myrtle's husband to do some plumbing and plumb forgets to return him? Gracious. Remember that divorcee who didn't even return the cups that Dumbo came in?

I'll admit, Ann, the biggest reason I've wanted to write you in the past was to give you heck for loading my wife's gun. But that's not the reason for this letter. The truth is, I've got a problem...

It's my wife. She is a back-seat driver when we are not in a car.

This incredible truth struck me when I took the family to the movie in the big city last Sunday. Before sitting down, it is always my task to storm the popcorn counter for sufficient supplies to feed 4 fat faces for 2 hours. I get in line behind the brass rail which separates the spenders from the lookers. The kids get the seats. My wife waits on the other side of the rail, ready to help me carry off the booty. Only she doesn't wait. She leans over the rail and gives me directions.

"Not too much butter," she says. "Don't forget the napkins. Are you sure jumbo sizes are big enough? Not too much salt. The butter is right in front of you. You pay that girl over there. Don't forget your change."

Some movie day, for sure, she is going to fall over the rail. Which brings me to my problem, Ann:

If she does fall, should I put down the popcorn and pick her up? Or should I step over her and deliver the popcorn to my starving children? Please answer quickly, Ann. This popcorn is getting heavy.

Onward and Upward.

Farm Bureau forms new credit union

The Tuscola County Farm Bureau established a Credit Union for members, at an organizational meeting Tuesday evening, March 11, at the Farm Bureau Center in Caro.

Assisting the group were Vincent Schickinger, Field Representative for the Michigan Credit Union League, and Robert McEllen, Executive Director of the Saginaw Chapter, with which the local organization is linked.

Arno Keinath of Millington was elected to head a seven-man Credit Union Board of Directors. Other officers are: Cecil Wallace, Caro, vice-president; Frank Satchell, Caro, secretary; Harold Perry, Cass City, treasurer, and Miss Loretta Kirkpatrick and Mrs. Wilbur Achenbach, assistants to the treasurer.

Other members to the board are Gerald Hicks, Deford; Charles Hoist Jr. of Clifford, and County Farm Bureau President Leon Keinath of Millington.

Also elected was a three-member credit committee consisting of Wilfred Leix, Fostoria, for a one-year term; Alfred Goodall, Cass City, for two years, and John R. Graham, Caro, for three years.

An audit committee composed of Gerald Hicks, Clifton Lotter, Silverwood, and Maynard McConkey, Cass City, was appointed to meet twice each year, acting in a supervisory capacity.

Mrs. Hunter recalls booming Gagetown of lumber days

It was one of Gagetown's biggest parties ever... The March of Dimes Birthday Ball held at the Gagetown Opera House. Though the host doesn't remember exactly how much was collected, she said that, for the times, "it was a great deal of money."

The host? Mrs. C. P. "Tilly" Hunter, 90 years old and still entertaining.

The birthday was the annual March of Dimes which was initiated by President Roosevelt. And Mrs. Hunter, a staunch Roosevelt fan, hosted with Ray Toohey (now deceased) a historically recognized Gagetown event that turned out to be its biggest party.

Her son, William C. Hunter, describes her key assets as that of exactness and acumen and her quiet manner, and neatness of dress support her son's argument.

She is past president of the PTA, the Altar Society, and the Woman's Study Club.

"I have to be doing something," she said. One of the things she's done is serve as secretary of the Cleaners Lodge for 50 consecutive years.

Being 90 years old means being one of Gagetown's living historians, though dates don't come easily to Mrs. Hunter.

The attractive mobile home in which she resides used to be the site, years ago, of a sawmill pond. And Mrs. Hunter remembers when Gagetown was a bustling tiny city of 7 general stores, a chicken factory, sawmills, and an opera house.

"I wish we had them back," she said. But two devastating fires in Gagetown's past and the population drift to suburbia have changed Gagetown to a very quiet village.

Perhaps in one way, the pattern has returned to Gagetown that existed when she was just 18 and a bank proprietor, J.L. Purdy of the State Savings Bank, asked her to be a teller in his bank.

It was near the turn of the century when the banker had come to her father's farm-house to ask her if she would accept the job. She did, and soon afterward became head cashier.

When her husband died in 1936, she replaced him as the Gagetown post office postmaster where she worked until 1948. After that, she was a part time Casualty Insurance Agent in Gagetown for some twenty years.

"I like people," she said, adding, "and the hardship of age is, you don't have the people around you, and I miss that."

But Mrs. Hunter still enjoys the company of her children including Mr. William C. Hunter of Gagetown, Mrs. Delos Wood of Toledo, and Francis Hunter of Grosse Pointe Woods.

Still, one of her favorite social activities is playing bridge. "It keeps your mind alert," she said.

BRIDGE ANYONE? Mrs. C. P. Hunter says bridge helps keep her alert. She's ready for another hand with her son, Carroll "Bill" Hunter.

WCTU institute at Cass City church

The Cass City Missionary church was host to the WCTU Eighth District Institute Tuesday, March 11.

Mrs. Betty Reid of Saginaw, president, opened the program by speaking on "Action Ahead Preparation." Rev. J. E. Kidney, host pastor, gave the message in the morning session.

A letter was read which was sent by WCTU members to President Nixon, commending him for his stand against liquor in the social functions in the White House and for having special religious services for various faiths in the White House.

The following reply was received from the White House: "As I undertake the responsibility of providing new leadership for America in the years ahead I want you to know how grateful I am for your thoughtful message."

"The knowledge of your support and your prayers will be a source of strength and inspiration in the years ahead."

Richard Nixon

The pledge to the American, Christian and Temperance flags followed and Mrs. Winifred Dorman, recording secretary, spoke on "What is the WCTU?"

Social Service Director Mrs. Jessie Booth gave the address, "Social Service, Concern Beyond Physical Relief," and exhibited many articles for veterans, shut-ins and for ill children which she had made.

Prayer was offered by Mrs. Harriet Rayl for worldwide WCTU work, which was organized in 1873.

Potluck lunch was served at noon.

The afternoon devotional period was followed by an address by Milton Gelatt, juvenile officer from Tuscola County.

The meeting closed in a friendship circle with prayer by Mrs. Betty Reid and singing "Blest Be the Tie that Binds."

The fellow with a fiery temper fills tomorrow with regrets.

Uncle Tim From Tyre Says:

Dear Mister Editor:

The feller got into a bull session at the country store Saturday night after Ed Doolittle brought in a handful of his newspaper clippings. Ed got things rolling when he reported J. Edgar Hoover was going to retire. He said this would come as a shock to the five million people in this country that don't read nothing but the fumbles and alius thought Dick Tracy was head of the FBI.

Ed waved another clipping in front of the feller and told where England is trying to get a law again tattoos on boys and gals under 18 years old. These youngsters get the names of their sweethearts sewed on 'em, and then they find out it's a heap easier to change sweethearts than to change tattoos.

And our Government, allowed Ed, is paying for a study on the "sycological differences" between sailors that has been tattooed once, them that has been tattooed more than once and them that hasn't been tattooed at all but wish they has. Ed said it was powerful odd to him that people in this world would be so interested in somepun as permanent as a body tattoo when everything else is changing so fast.

Another study the Government is making cost $90,000 to figger out low income wimmen git less medical care than them with incomes of $10,000 a year or more. Ed said he could of done that research fer a heap less than $90,000. And he saw where the National Institutes of Health had work $100,000 to this scientist to work on a snoring cure, but it turned out the scientist snores so bad he can't git a good night's rest so he can work on the cure.

Clem Webster got the floor and he allowed that most of the time we outsmart ourselves in this research business, and a heap of progress is more trouble than benefit. Per instant, Clem saw where scientists went through 11,931 steps to make a enzyme, but after 369 different tests they ain't figgered out what to do with the thing. But these same scientists can make a wonder drug for one cent and the wonder is they got the gall to charge us 50 cents fer it.

Onct in a long while, allowed Clem, the average feller gits a break. He had saw where this outfit in England is looking fer ugly men to be advertising models because people is gitting tired of looking at nothing but pritty men in newspapers and on television. This outfit wants to show a ordinary feller can catch a gal and drive a fancy car.

If this idee gits around to using old fellers fer models in somepun besides ads fer laxitives and life insurance they might be a new day dawning fer all us at the country store, said Clem. Personal, Mister Editor, I'd call this modeling plan a daymare. I understand that's a new word in the dictionary that means a day-dream gone sour.

Yours truly,
Uncle Tim

FIRING LINE

It was a beautiful meeting

By Richard Haines

I'm for the underdog. Last Wednesday night at the Caro Gun Club hall, I rubbed elbows with about 50 underdogs, and, as one elbow rubber put it, "the little people."

United by fear and anxiety, 450 farmers and property owners crammed the hall to voice their personal support for a change in the property tax method of financing schools.

I'm taking an observer point of view on the arguments of the tax change. What I like is the meetings.

I love meetings, especially underdog meetings.

And last Wednesday night was the best underdog meeting I've ever been to.

At arriving, the place was so 'durn packed I couldn't even get in.

So, with my camera upraised on one hand, I started nudging through, through the jungle of human backs and big, warm, farmer shoulders.

"Scuse me, 'scuse me, 'scuse me."

Well before I knew it I was right up front (as always).

Man, that place was packed. Folks had to really speak up so the others at the end of the hall could hear.

What was cool was Dr. John Karpovich up on the step-ladder-sock'n it to them-telling them what they wanted to hear.

He did it with the command and confidence of an uncommon man.

And he ran the meeting with impressive orderliness. As a member of the rowdy generation, seeing a meeting like that impresses the Heck out of me.

As a student of government, watching those nominations being made from a crowd like that really does something to a man. Folks demanded when giving nominations, at Karpovich,

"We want you, John," but he never answered.

One man came in late and faced with the great mass of people, asked "What's everybody so 'hooped' up about?" Almost defensively, Karpovich answered, "We're upset about the property tax." "So am I," thundered the newcomer and the whole joint peeled with anxious laughs.

If you're a meeting lover, this was a beautiful meeting. The cars were backed up all the way to the main road and the Gun Club house sits quite a skip and a hop from the road.

It was so jammed that people couldn't get in. They were sitting on tables, standing in the kitchen, and sitting laurel to laurel on the piano. Some reportedly saw all the cars, and never even tried to get in.

When one man couldn't be heard very well, Karpovich said, "would you stand up, please?" He yelled, I AM standing up, and Karpovich blushed in front of the sea of heads and faces. Then Karpovich laughed, and the self-conscious crowd laughed with him.

There was a feeling of urgency to the meeting. 450 threatened people were mad at taxes, mad at teachers, mad at supervisors, and just generally provoked, and there was lots of spirit kicking around in the air.

When one man suggested a head tax for supporting the schools, a low grumbling swept over the crowd and the man next to me said, "No, not a head tax, we want... a school... for everybody."

But after listening to most of the meeting, there was little question these folks didn't want good schools for their kids.

And when I looked towards them after he had said that, he looked about ten feet tall.

Agent's Corner

By Mrs. Ann Ross
Extension Agent

If your home were damaged by fire, tornado or another disaster, could you remember which items were destroyed? Most of us couldn't.

This is the reason why periodic inventories are a "must" for renters as well as homeowners. Inventories aid in determining how much insurance coverage you need for security and if disaster strikes, they help you avoid financial loss.

It's best to make a room by room inventory of your belongings. Include furnishings and household appliances as well as clothing, jewelry and other personal items.

List the major items in each room, their approximate date of purchase and what you paid for them. Make a carbon copy of each page and store one copy in your home file and the other, perhaps, in a safe deposit box. This way, if your home file is destroyed, you'll still know what personal property went with it.

It's also a good idea to keep your inventory up to date. Check your property at least every two years. However, if you've accumulated a great many belongings and feel it's too much work to make an inventory, at least take pictures of each room. Include as much of your personal property in each picture as possible.

Picture-taking is also a good idea for valuable heirlooms, antiques, collections, furs, jewelry and silver items. For example, you might want to capture grandmother's china cabinet and dishes on film. If you can show your insurance adjuster just what you had, it might be easier to collect a claim on such unusual items.

If a loss occurs, notify your insurance company as quickly as possible. Next, prepare an itemized list, including the purchase dates of your damaged or destroyed property. If you've prepared a household inventory list ahead of disaster, you'll find your losses will be less and your reporting job easier.

Janet Auvil

The fourth and fifth graders have posted some students' "good" papers along with a roster, under which there is a sign saying, "Something to Crow About!"

After completing a detailed study of birds and their habits, the 5th and 6th graders have been visiting other classrooms and presenting their reports to the students.

With the recent ending of a marking period came several plans for this spring. A junior high science night is scheduled for March 28th and the junior high achievement night is scheduled for April 10th. There is also a possibility of a history night.

tory night. All these exhibits will be open to the public from 7 to 9 p.m. on the given dates.

C.C.H.S.

During a meeting last Tuesday the student council decided to charge a ten-cent deposit on all ping-pong balls because too many were being destroyed. (One of the busier meetings!)

Wednesday morning homerooms were lengthened to allow students to sign up for next year's classes. Immediately following homerooms the students went to the gym for an assembly. Lt. Tom Beffrey with the Police Community Relations of the Saginaw Police Department, spoke to the student body about narcotic and drug abuse and its effects. Following an explanatory speech, Lt. Beffrey presented a film on his topic.

Finally at 10:00 a.m. Wednesday morning, students arrived at their first hour classes. (Well, that beats 8:35 a.m., any way!)

Thursday was report card day again! (It seems I write that every other week.) Four marking periods down -- two to go.

Thursday evening the student teacher basketball games were held. In the first game members of the G.A.A. met the women members of the faculty. Although the women faculty had a distinct advantage in Mrs. Jon Farhner, they defeated the students by a score of only 19 to 16.

Mrs. James Wynes coached the women faculty and Judy Snear coached the G.A.A. members.

The second game was between the men faculty and some senior boys. The faculty, who were coached by Mr. Robert Watson, defeated the students, who were coached by Terry Brinkman, by a score of 65-26.

The student council made $80.00 on the games. The entire amount goes toward the Thelma Hunt Scholarship, a yearly award granted to a senior by the student council.

Two buses loaded with approximately eighty students from Mr. Hirm's biology classes and Mr. Peterson's chemistry and physics classes left at 7:00 a.m. Friday morning to visit the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor.

Upon arrival in Ann Arbor the students were divided into two smaller groups. One group visited the nuclear reactor while the other group visited the chemistry building and art museum.

At noon the groups met to eat lunch at the union, after which the entire group toured the campus by bus. Later in the afternoon the group visited the botanical gardens.

Meanwhile back at the ranch (school), with about one-fourth of the students gone to Ann Arbor, many teachers found themselves without a class. (Much to their disappointment?) The buses finally returned at 8:30 p.m. with eighty completely exhausted kids!

TID BITS

The junior prom committee had a meeting last week at which a number of important decisions concerning the prom and banquet were made. In spite of some objections to having the prom and banquet on two separate week ends, the committee decided to do so. The committee also decided to invite all high school teachers and their husbands or wives to the banquet, and in-a-goddad-vida was chosen for the theme of the prom.

The senior council met last Thursday afternoon. The council narrowed the selection of mottos to four and submitted them to a class vote on Monday. The class motto is "Rough is the road that leads to the heights of Greatness."

Thursday morning a Thumb B student council meeting was held in Caro. Those who attended the meeting from Cass City were: Gary Vollmar, Sally Geiger, Cindy Strickland, Terry Brinkman, and Lynn Haire.

The Thumb B is sponsoring a state-wide Battle of the Bands at Cass City High School on April 25, 1969.

In order to compete for $300 in cash prizes, bands will be required to pay a $10 entry fee and to audition at C.C.H.S. on April 12. All entries should call C.C.H.S. any school day from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. or write to Battle of the Bands at Cass City High School.

Four bands will be chosen to take part in the contest for three top prizes of $175, $75, and $50.

Posted in Miss Morrison's room are "Handy Alibis for Students." These helpful hints inform the student how to reply:

-- When he is given an objective test: "It doesn't let you express yourself."

-- When he is given an essay test: "It's so vague. You don't know what's expected."

-- When he is given many minor tests: "Why not have a few big ones? This keeps us on edge all the time."

-- When he is given a few major tests: "Too much depends on each one."

-- When he is given no tests: "It's not fair! How can she possibly judge us?"

-- When every part of the subject is taken up in class: "Oh, she just follows the book."

-- When he is asked to study a part of the subject by himself: "Why, we never even discussed it!"

-- When the course is in lecture form: "We never get a chance to say anything!"

-- When the course consists of informal lecture and discussion: "We never cover any ground!"

-- When students present reports: "She just sits there. Who wants to hear the students? They don't know how to teach."

-- When detailed material is presented: "What's the use? You forget it all after the test."

-- When the general principles are presented: "What did we learn? We knew all that before we took the course!"

Under the direction of Mr. William Ferguson, C.C.H.S.'s Senior Concert Band attended the District Class B Solo and Ensemble Festival Saturday at Flint's Central High School.

The band played "Gallant Men" for their march requirement; "Overture in Bb" for their selected concert number; and the Class B required number, "The Good Daughter." The band was also judged on its sight reading ability.

MRS. JON FAHRNER and Judy Snear at the student-faculty basketball game Thursday night.

C.C.H.S.'s band returned with a III rating.

The junior high band attended their district festival the Saturday before the senior band and also received a III division rating.

Plymouth Scores Most Points in Three Tests

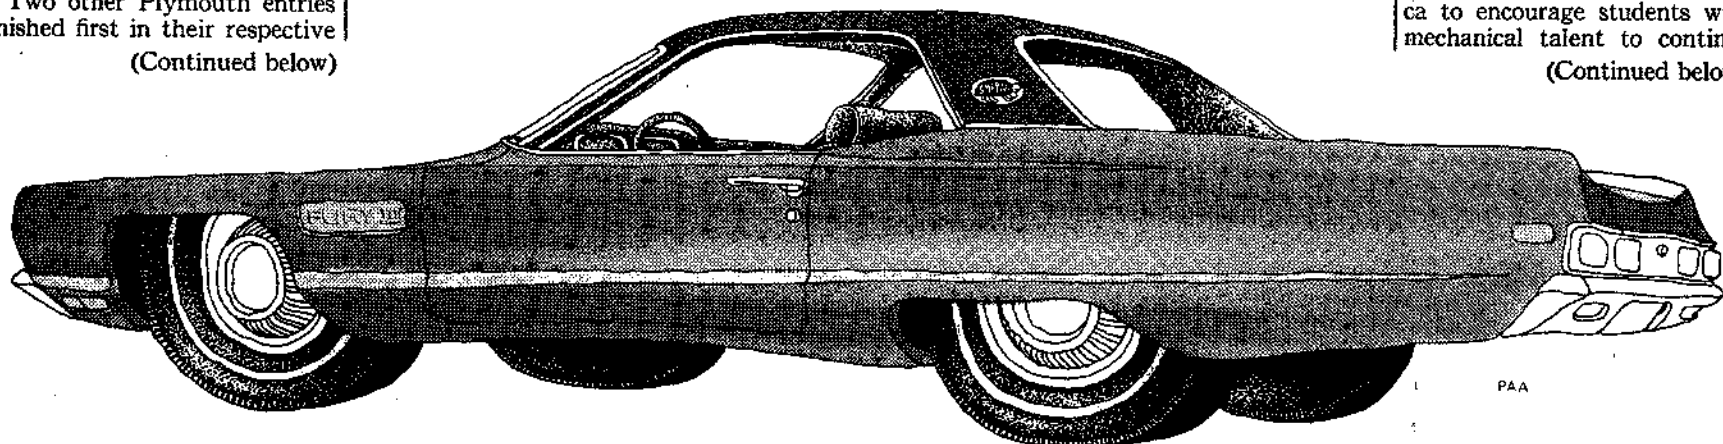

A Plymouth Fury I scored the highest number of points of all 60 cars that competed in fuel economy, acceleration and braking tests of the Union/Pure Oil Performance Trials at Daytona Beach, Fla.

The Plymouth Fury, competing in Class V for cars equipped with standard V-8 engines, scored a total of 98 performance points out of a possible 100.

Announcing a special new Plymouth.

At a special low price.

Everyone says special, but we really mean it. Snapper's a new limited edition car like Plymouth has never made before. It'll shield you from weather's whims under a groovy turtle-shell vinyl top and carry you in a metallic muted-gold body. It has a "camp" Snapper emblem, like the one in the middle, on each roof pillar. An extended roofline that lets your rear seat passengers actually lean back (over 3" extra head room). And, of course, many of the "special" features that most people want: deluxe vinyl interior, white sidewalls, deluxe wheel covers, bumper guards, and a kicky little time-delay ignition switch light, all at a special package price (again, we really mean special). Naturally, you can personalize a Snapper even more, with everything from a Super Commando 440 V-8 to air conditioning or 8-track stereo; just ask your dealer. As a limited edition model with your own personal options, Snapper is a truly individual vehicle. See one now, at your Plymouth Dealer.

classes, giving the Plymouth line of cars winners in three out of the nine classes of competition.

Other Plymouth winners were a Valiant Signet in Class VII for six-cylinder compact economy cars, and a Barracuda in Class IX for sports compacts.

The Union/Pure Oil Performance Trials, held under the supervision of the National Association for Stock Car Racing, compared the basic performance characteristics of American-made 1969 models which are in the popular price ranges.

The fuel economy tests measured a car's fuel consumption at an average speed of 40 miles per hour over a distance of 18.567 miles.

The acceleration tests measured the time it took a car to accelerate from 25 to 70 miles per hour.

The braking tests demonstrated the car's high-speed stopping capability immediately after severe brake usage.

The 60 stock cars competing in the tests were taken directly from dealers' showrooms throughout the country to provide a realistic comparison of various makes and models.

Wagon Air Deflector

The 1969 Plymouth Fury station wagon models have a new and efficient air deflector, mounted at the rear of the roof to divert air around and across the big rear window, significantly reducing vision obstruction. By blowing clean air over the window, the deflector prevents rain, dust and grit from accumulating.

their education and pursue careers in the growing automotive service business.

The winning two-man team at each of the 100 regional and state contests being held this spring will compete for $125,000 worth of scholarships, prizes, trophies and automotive equipment for their schools at the National Finals at the Indianapolis 500 Speedway in mid-June.

Winners at local and national contests are chosen by the speed and skill with which they find and fix malfunctions under the hood of a new Plymouth and restore the car to normal operating condition. All teams work on identical cars that have been deliberately tampered with in the same way.

Plymouth Dealers sponsor a two-man team from their local school and make a Plymouth car available to practice on. The teams from the 2,000 participating schools, which have a combined enrollment of 150,000 students taking automotive shop courses, are selected by school instructors.

The Plymouth Trouble Shooting Contest originated in Los Angeles in 1949. It was sponsored by Plymouth Dealers there who sought to recruit young men as mechanic trainees. The annual contest grew in size as educators gave it their support.

Since the contest became national in scope in 1962, scholarships have been awarded to 116 students and full or part-time jobs have been found for more than 15,000 young men.

Air pollution damages crops

By Alfred P. Ballweg

A recent article in the August-September 1968 issue of Crops and Soils magazine gave a very interesting account of the importance that air pollutants will play in crop production in the years ahead. The article, "Damage by Air Pollutants will Triple by Year 2000," is as follows:

"Public demands for transportation, industry, and electricity will increase air pollution during the next 20 years, says a Pennsylvania State University scientist. By the year 2000, the major problem for plant life may be the chemical reactions that occur when motor vehicle exhaust ingredients are exposed to sunlight."

"F. A. Wood, plant Pathologist at Pennsylvania State, says sunlight triggers a chemical reaction among exhaust mixtures and creates air pollutants called photochemicals. Compounds originating from industrial sources may also react in this manner. Gases developing from hydrocarbons and oxides of nitrogen are forms of photochemicals."

"Photochemical pollutants will triple by the year 2000, Wood says. Over 87 million pounds of hydrocarbons and oxides of nitrogen will be emitted into the atmosphere annually from motor vehicles alone."

"Ironically, Wood says, if all motor vehicles were powered by batteries, the increased electricity needed to charge the batteries would at least double the present air pollution from coal-burning generators used to make electricity. In short, one form of air pollution could replace another."

"Photochemicals damage trees and other vegetation more severely than most other air pollutants. At present the most serious air pollutants that injure trees and other vegetation are sulfur dioxide, fluoride, ozone, and a gas known as PAN.

"Soot and smoke from burning coal and fuel oil are the major sources of sulfur dioxide, one of the most damaging pollutants. Wood predicts there will be less sulfur dioxide in the air by 2000 or soon thereafter with photochemical pollution becoming the major problem."

"Fluorides are increasing in the atmosphere, Wood says, and are the most toxic to plants. Fluorides originate from impurities in raw materials used to make aluminum, steel, oil, brick, and pottery, and from rocket fuel combustion."

"Ozone, a photochemical air pollutant among the most harmful to plants, originates from reactions in polluted atmospheres. Oxides of nitrogen, emitted into the atmosphere by motor vehicles and a variety of industries and utilities, react in the presence of sunlight and oxygen to form ozone."

Frank Albert Townsend, 74, retired barber who formerly lived in Decker, died unexpectedly Friday in Mt. Clemens General Hospital. He had lived in Richmond the last three years.

Mr. Townsend was born May 21, 1894, in Hopkinsville, Ky., and married Mary Alice Proctor in 1920 in Pontiac. She died in 1944.

Funeral services were held Sunday in Richmond. Burial was in Elkland cemetery.

It's sad, but true—one good turn builds up hope for another.

Michigan State University scientists have discovered a "natural" control of floodwater mosquitoes. They found that a tiny, worm-like parasite (a nematode) enters the mosquito and either kills it or disrupts its reproductive system. The scientists are currently trying to learn how to best take advantage of this natural control, in lieu of costly and potentially hazardous pesticide programs.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest E. Bouck

Our Lady Gate of Heaven Catholic Church in Detroit was the setting when Monica P. Lutzen and Ernest E. Bouck were united in marriage January 25. Fr. William F. Yakes officiated at the double-ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Sylvester Lutzen of Detroit and Mr. and Mrs. Olin Bouck of Cass City are the parents of the bridegroom.

"Ave Maria" and "On This Day" were sung by Miss M. Prion.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother-in-law, William Bertin, wore an Empire gown of Chantilly lace with long ruffled sleeves and ruffled hemline. Her chapel-length wattle train was accented with rows of lace. Her bridal bouquet was pink and white roses.

Mary Tuohy, friend of the bride, served as maid of honor. She wore an ankle-length skirt of pink moiré, with pink crepe turtle-neck blouse and carried pink and wine carnations. Bridesmaids Alice Montheil, Vicky Holloway, Maureen Murphy and Ellen Henna were gowned identically to the maid of honor and carried like bouquets.

Serving his brother as best man was Roger O. Bouck of Cass City. Groomsmen were college roommates Jim Wilson, John Matuzak and Frank Baldwin, and friend, Don Asher. Ushers were Bill Connor, Jim Asher and Elwin Morrell.

A reception was held immediately following the 10 a.m. ceremony at Cragars Pickwick House in Detroit. An evening reception honoring the couple was held in Unionville at the VFW hall.

The groom's mother wore a gold brocade dress with matching accessories and an orchid corsage.

After a trip to the east coast and Niagara Falls, the couple is at home at 6854 South Mission, Mt. Pleasant. Both are seniors at Central Michigan University.

They are: President, Mrs. George Murray; 1st vice-president, Mrs. Joseph Crawford; 2nd vice-president, Mrs. Harold Perry; recording secretary, Mrs. Paul Murray; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Ernest Croft; treasurer, Mrs. Frederick Pinney; legislative reporter, Mrs. Donald McAleer; parliamentarian, Mrs. Edward Baker; and publicity, Mrs. C. U. Haire.

Mrs. George Murray was named as delegate to the state convention and Mrs. Edward Baker, alternate; Mrs. Archie McLachlan was chosen delegate to the district convention with Mrs. Harry Falkenhagen as alternate and Mrs. Joseph Crawford was named delegate to the county convention with Mrs. Sam Blades as alternate.

Mrs. Keith McConkey presented the program on Africa. She stated that Africa is the second largest continent with great undeveloped resources. It has the world's greatest diamond mines, large gold mines and other minerals. It also has a fertile soil and extensive forests as well as the world's largest desert and longest river.

There is no written language because each area has its own language.

Other disadvantages are the lack of good roads, a dependable rainfall, and modern farm machinery.

The eastern Congo, Mrs. McConkey said, is noted for its tall men - many 7 to 8 feet tall.

Missions have aided in developing the Congo and French is widely spoken.

Africa is changing and developing faster than any other area in the history of the world.

Mrs. Donald McAleer reported on the legislative day at East Lansing and stated that people should write and not call when they wish to get in touch with their senator or representative.

Mrs. Paul Murray, conservation chairman, speaking on health, said that heart disease was the main cause of death in the U.S.

Roll call was answered by some fact on Africa.

Worker conference held by Baptists

A Sunday School worker conference was held at the Baptist church Tuesday night, March 11. Superintendent Ferris War was in charge.

Pastor Richard Can' showed a film on "The Role of the Teacher" and conducted a discussion period. Mrs. Stan Gunther presented devotions and Miss Mary Hanby gave a report on Sunday School goals for the year.

Those present divided into buzz session groups to discuss "The Most Successful Sunday School Lesson I Ever Taught."

Refreshments were provided by the junior high and senior high instructors, Stan Gunther, Mrs. Dean Hoag and Dick Shaw.

Behind the Counter Strep

Rheumatic fever most often strikes children between the ages of five and 15 years, and often leaves a damaged or impaired heart. Research has disclosed that the fever is preceded, in most cases, by a sore ("strep") throat.

When a child complains of this and is taken to a doctor, the area of the sore throat is swabbed. The doctor may not tell the parent that he suspects a strep infection, but he obtains a culture from most of the sore throats that he sees, just to be safe.

The swab is mailed in a special kit to a laboratory, where it is examined for streptococci. If the culture is "positive," the laboratory notifies the doctor immediately - sometimes by phone. Other tests must then be made to rule out other diseases, but full diagnosis is usually quite rapid.

Treatment of the infection can then begin immediately, to prevent the usual inflammation of the joints, heart muscles and valves, which usually follow about two weeks after the sore throat disappears.

A variety of drugs has been found useful in treating the many steps of rheumatic fever, but if caught early enough, the disease no longer presents the continued threat it once did.

Prompt therapy is essential, so don't take a chance with your youngsters' sore throats - make sure your doctor sees them in time to swab their throats for possible strep infection.

Seek help for retarded children

Albert McCoon, president of the Tuscola County Association of Retarded Children, this week outlined the plans for the county organization and issued a plea for help from area residents.

Two missionary faiths united

A merger of the United Missionary Church and the Missionary Church Association will have little immediate effect on the denominations in the Cass City area, according to the Rev. R. D. Culp of the Mizpah United Missionary Church.

The merger was completed Sunday, Mar. 16, at a 5-day conference in Detroit.

Churches involved in the merger in the area are the Cass City and Mizpah United Missionary. All of the churches in the two denominations will now be called the Missionary Church.

Delegates from the area attending were the Rev. J. E. Kidney, Culp and Clair Tuckey.

He said that inactive members can help just by joining and paying membership dues of $3.00 per year. The money can be sent to McCoon at Box 70, Marlette.

Funds received will be used to help establish a program for the 200 mentally handicapped in Tuscola county. Only a small percentage are helped in classes in the county Day Care Center, McCoon claims.

Some of the money collected from fund raising projects and dues will be used to convert a recently purchased building into an activity center.

One For The Road

Why allergy?

Nobody knows

By Dan Marlowe

20,000,000 Americans wake up these chilly March mornings and give thanks that the hay-fever season is six months away.

No one knows why 10% of our population suffers from this most discomfiting of ailments and the other 90% doesn't. No one knows why 5,000,000 of the 10% are additionally allergic to items as varied as cat hair, chemicals, drugs, metals, house dust, false eyelashes, and a list of other exotic substances that could easily run off the end of this page.

Basically, hay-fever in its purest form is a reaction to ragweed pollen. In an average year 250,000 tons of ragweed pollen is deposited upon the American people from the atmosphere. In a bad year it runs considerably higher.

The California coast, the Pacific Northwest, and the southern part of Florida don't have ragweed, but sufferers aren't completely safe even in these areas. There are a number of other substances which produce similar discomfiting reactions: timothy, bermuda grass, bluegrass, orchard grass, American elm, red oak, and hemp.

Hay-fever is classified as a fast-reaction allergy produced on contact with the offending pollen. This is in contrast to the slow-reaction allergies such as the rash that occurs after contact with poison ivy. No one knows why allergies wax and wane in intensity but seldom go completely away. Or why the individual after long periods of not reacting to a particular substance suddenly reacts violently.

Hay-fever in itself is seldom crippling except in its most virulent forms, but some of the complications resulting from it can be. Chief among these is asthma and its accompanying respiratory villain, emphysema. While there is no cure, in recent years doctors have come up with some help for such sufferers.

Living with a known allergy can be comparatively simple if you can avoid contact with what sets off the allergic reaction. Hay-fever sufferers know that it is almost impossible to avoid contact with the ragweed pollen in the air from August 1st to the first heavy frost.

People tend to smile at the stories of girls allergic to their own hair, or husbands allergic to their wives, or of bankers allergic to the ink used on currency. The allergies aren't a bit humorous to those affected, however. The most effective, long-lasting relief from an allergy is usually given by a series of injections of the offending substance which desensitize the victim. These injections don't work in about 15% of the attempts at relief, though, and again the doctors don't know why.

The majority of allergy victims learn to live with their condition after a fashion. They console themselves with the thought that one of these days medical science will come up with a cure-all. Medical science itself is less certain. Allergists admit they are just beginning to feel their way.

Along with 20,000,000 other victims, I know that I seldom look forward to the late stages of the "good old summertime."

Plan for year's program in 4-H

BY BERNARD R. JARDOT

At one of the early 4-H meetings, leaders, parents and members should cooperate in planning a program for the coming year. This should include the setting of dates, choosing the meeting places, and deciding what will be emphasized at each meeting.

Planning ahead is very important in any club program. Preparation of a calendar of activities makes it possible to send a schedule to each home represented, and makes it possible to enter dates in the community calendar so as to avoid conflicts with other events. It also makes it easier to schedule local resource people, set up special events, and order films!

A good club program includes a variety of events of interest to all the club members. These may include such things as: speakers, tours, trips, demonstrations and clinics. A well-balanced program includes some events in each of the following areas: educational, recreation and social.

When planning club programs, you will want to have your objectives clearly in mind. This simply means deciding what are the important things you and your members want to learn. For education to be accomplished, the interest, attitude, knowledge, understanding, skill or appreciation of the learner must undergo some kind of change.

The first step in developing a program is to decide on the changes you want to bring about in the members. Next you must locate and review the material you wish to use in your training sessions. This is followed by deciding how the material will be presented. After you have presented it to your members, it would be well to evaluate with the members and parents to see if you may wish to make changes or add new activities for next year's program.

The above suggested steps can be used by all youth groups, not just our 4-H groups. The main point is that we are concerned with the growth and development of our young people and not just what projects they may have. You may be surprised to find that the adults grow along with the youth, community may be acquired by actually developing the disease and of course with an illness antibodies appear and the patient begins to recover. These antibodies persist in the bloodstream and protect the individual from developing the same illness again.

Hugh Brenneman

Prevention is better than cure

Artificially acquired immunity protects the individual from developing the disease in the first instance. A shot of vaccine is given which contains antigens, an antigen is a substance foreign to the body which stimulates the body to form antibodies. When antibodies are thus formed, it is known as active immunization.

Ideally it is possible to irradiate any animal disease. However, due to the economics involved it is sometimes impractical to irradiate a disease and this is where the immunization factor comes into play. In other words, vaccines are used to control a particular disease. The disease may have established itself in our wild animals over which we have no control so to protect our domestic animals we give them a good vaccination.

Actually the word vaccine itself comes from the word vaccinia which refers to the cow pox virus. This was used by Jenner in 1790 to protect against small pox in humans. Dr. Jenner, a real acute observer noted that in small pox epidemics the milk maids never came down with it. He thought about this and finally decided that there really was something to it so he started to use this vaccine to protect humans.

In producing immunization through vaccination an animal is injected with a specific vaccine for a specific disease. Protection is not provided against all diseases but rather against the ones that are economically significant or that have a direct impact on the public health.

Of course, it is best to prevent a disease rather than wait for the disease to happen. When the disease strikes it is going to cause a great economic loss generally, especially now in our larger congregation of animals. These animals are congregated from any backgrounds in feed lots. When you increase the number of animals in one area, you multiply their exposure to disease.

Manufacturers are providing vaccines that are adequate to meet new diseases as soon as they are identified by the researchers. The vaccines that veterinarians are using today are much more refined. There is much less pain to the animal, much less tissue reaction, the animal just doesn't get sick with these types as they might have before. The manufacturers have also been able to combine vaccines to make it possible for three or four vaccines to be given in one shot. This is economy and it also saves the animal from having to be vaccinated three or four times.

The culture system is the present method of producing virus vaccines -- the ones that produce active immunity. Tissues are isolated from an animal and put into tissue cultures. The virus grows and is modified or weakened so they will provide active immunity but won't actually cause the disease to occur when they are injected. These vaccines are tested prior to release to the veterinary profession. In the laboratory they are first tested for the presence of bacteria, to see that they are sterile, then they are injected into laboratory animals, such as guinea pigs, hamsters, etc. to prove that there is neither bacteria nor toxin present. Finally they are injected into the animals the vaccine is intended for and observed to see that there is no reaction. After this laboratory data has been gathered and put together it is sent to the U. S. Agriculture Research Service in Washington, D. C. The Veterinary Biological Licensing Division has the responsibility of reviewing the data to see that it is adequate. If it is, large field trials are authorized.

The final results are sometimes dramatic. An infectious, communicable disease called hog cholera was pretty active in Michigan and throughout the U. S. in 1932. Up until a few years ago it cost the American swine producer, $50 million a year. Then a national eradication program was instituted and today Michigan has been declared hog cholera free. There are nine states in the United States that now have this distinction.

When and where a particular animal is supposed to be vaccinated can be decided by consulting a veterinarian that does this vaccinating. Many times these vaccines are necessary in one part of the state and may not be in other areas. The veterinarian in the area would know which vaccine should be administered and at what age the animal should receive it. Age is quite important in many animals.

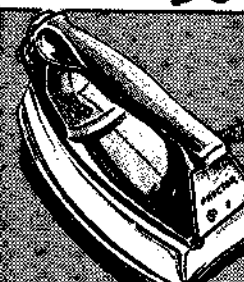

Ask for names of farm servicemen

The Tuscola County Farm Bureau Women are enlisting help to compile a list of men and women now serving in the armed forces who are from a Tuscola County Farm Bureau family.

The group have launched into the project of sending a gift package to each service personnel on their birthday. The only requirement is that they must be a member of a Tuscola County Farm Bureau family prior to entry into the armed service.

Members are asked to submit the names, addresses, and birthdates so their son or daughter can be remembered to Mrs. Ford Boyne, Marlette, Michigan 48453.

This is one guarantee that holds water.

It's the guarantee that goes along with every approved electric water heater. And it says you'll get all the hot water you need or you get back the purchase price plus installation costs. You have a full year to make up your mind about it, too.

And should you need it, Edison gives you No-Charge Repair Service. No charge for electrical operating parts and labor.

Call Edison, your plumber or appliance dealer, and start enjoying constant hot water with a new electric water heater. We're sure you'll never have any cause to use its watertight guarantee.

Unless you use it for a paper cup. EDISON
