

THE CAVERN-LIKE charred remains of the Furness home.

FROM THE Editor's Corner

The other day I ignored my mother.

She lives on West Main and I was completing a jaunt around the country side and walked right past her house. I didn't look in despite her frantic knocking on the window . . . blithely tripping right on by.

But really I wasn't there at all . . . I can't remember just where I happened to be but it definitely wasn't in front of that white frame house on Cass City's main drag.

The odds are that I was either hard at work or hard at play.

I may have been figuring out just what in the devil this column was going to be about this week . . . or trying to figure how to meet that impossible commercial printing schedule . . . or how to get across just how much I think the school needs more operating funds . . . how could I possibly write two for too . . . or why can't a week go by without those stupid mistakes that creep into EVERY paper.

But as I think about it now, I know it couldn't have been that.

For when it's only business I'm not totally blind, not totally carried away. . . I might not see you, I might not see my sister. . . but mother would crash through that mental barrier.

I must have been thinking about something vital, timely, important and crucial. Like how I was going to finagle a set of tickets for the State basketball finals . . . or how to work in a trip to Las Vegas this spring.

Or looking for one of the most elusive answers of all . . . how to get even with those local sharpies who hold three aces everytime I hold three kings.

Now that takes REAL concentration. I've never come up with that solution yet (the impossible takes a little longer) but for me walking helps.

After sitting in front of a typewriter for a few hours I seem to dry up mentally (and I know that you are thinking) and getting away helps.

Done right, good writing appears easy, effortless . . . the same way a good athlete makes a difficult play appear routine.

But often each word has to be dragged out and many times stories that reach beyond the ordinary are rewritten, polished and honed so the final product only vaguely represents the initial effort.

It is for these stories that an elusive phrase or the proper ending often comes while on a solo sojourn across the country.

Even then the results aren't always exactly what's desired . . . but in newspapering the deadline is inexorable.

I wish there were time to walk another couple of miles before this was published. But there wasn't.

Sensational fire engulfs house in several seconds

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Furness of Deckerville Road 3 1/2 miles east of Deford saw their house gutted from flames Thursday night, March 20, when flames lashed through their brick home devastating its entire contents.

Bernard Furness reported the newly remodeled house, which was up for sale for $12,000, had its contents insured for $2,000 which "wouldn't begin to cover the loss."

Mr. Furness suffered burns of the hands and arms, and slight facial burns. Mrs. Furness was admitted at Hills and Dales Monday for nausea and is reported in "satisfactory" condition.

Delay regular council meeting for one week

The regular scheduled monthly meeting of the Cass City Village Council has been postponed one week, President Lambert Athaver announced this week.

The council normally meets on the final Tuesday of every month. This month's session will be held Tuesday, April 1. Athaver said that because of a snarl with auditors in a change in bookkeeping procedures, information for the financial statement was delayed.

$20,000 grant to spark planning

Tuscola Board of Supervisors Chairman Harold Johnson announced Tuesday a $20,000 check would be presented to the county planning commission Wednesday night, March 26, as a planning grant from Farmer's Home Administration.

The FHA grant will fund costs of sewage and water studies being made by Vilican-Leman & Associates of Southfield. This aspect is but one of several, said Charles Kelsey of FHA. He said the land study is nearly completed.

A 20-year outlay is planned by the Tuscola County Planning Commission, and the board of supervisors strongly endorses the groups efforts.

In other action Tuesday, the board received, and approved a request from Clayton Hunter of the county equalization commission that staff member Virginia Kirk receive a new salaried classification "since she worked full time anyway." He said increased office responsibility has resulted from spreading several tax millages over the same townships. In addition, he said the State tax commission is requesting tri-annual assessment reviews. He said the full time staffer was needed to help review a third of the county's properties annually.

The board moved to purchase two ambulance radios for the two county coroners. While in the car, the radios will remain as property of the county and for the period during the official's term of office.

The decision terminated several weeks of deliberation by the supervisors. Supervisor Shuford Kirk strongly protested the action in earlier discussions on purchasing radios for private ambulance owners.

Last week Ben Collon pressed the board to purchase four radios which would include two for private owners.

One board member said he resented Collon's plans to bring in "a group" of county ambulance owners. Board chairman Johnson said he knew of one that told him he "didn't want" a radio for his ambulance.

The radios will cost about $1,000 apiece, plus installation. The board moved to reconsider its recent compensation for board committees. Provisions of that reconsideration will be decided at a future date.

Compensation was hiked from $10 and $20 to $15 and $25 for one-half and a full day, respectively.

Area Ferris students tell inside story of revolt

BY RICHARD HAINES

The 8,000-student Ferris State College Campus has been rocked recently by the racial strife that has been sweeping over colleges and universities across the country.

Students were surprised, the faculty appalled and the administration shocked at white-black skirmishes and open hostility that started Thursday, Feb. 27.

Traditionally, the campus has been tranquil. The college specialized in technical and vocational programs and a few professional programs.

For an inside look at the strike activity as seen by the students themselves, the Chronicle interviewed two Cass City and an Uby Ferris student for their reaction and an on-the-scene report.

The students told their feelings about the disturbances, the cause of student rivalry and their predictions for the future.

Dean Hulien, Cass City grad of '66, said that being brought up in Cass City, he never had a chance to talk to a Negro. When he arrived at Ferris State this last year, he found his roommate a Negro.

"I found out what I expected, though," Hulien had always expected any Negroes he personally met to turn out to be personal friends. His expectation came true.

Hulien was incensed at the "over-reaction" of white male students who surrounded the library which Negro students had seized. Hulien said "it was mostly started by rumors." "They were peaceful demonstrations," he said, though he conceded they were disruptive.

He reported a rumor control center was established by a Journalism faculty member and said "I think this will help."

Hulien said the affair was triggered by a Negro dorm student studying in a lounge without shoes. When a student resident advisor (RA) asked the Negro to either put his shoes on or leave the lounge, the Negro resisted and the RA called the security officers of the campus.

"He should have called the house mother," Hulien said. Asked what the house mother would have instructed the Negro to do, he said, "It depends upon the house mother, some would, some wouldn't."

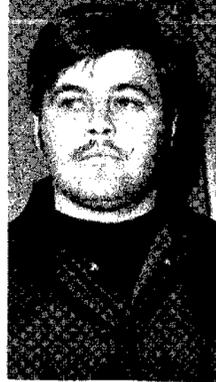

"I don't think I would have put mine on," he said. Hulien scoffed at Ferris regulations mentioning wearing of socks and no sweatshirts at campus meals. "They will tell you when to get a hair cut," he said.

Hulien said the racial disturbances made him more aware of Negro feelings and frustrations. He sympathized with their demands for a Negro house mother, Negro security officers, professors, and staff.

He said punishing the offenders "wouldn't serve any purpose." He added, "if we got rid of them we couldn't talk to them and find out what they're like."

Hulien said there were three or four Negroes in his dorm. "I feel we should try to get along," he said.

Asked if the disturbance affected their friendship, he said "it might have."

DEAN HULIEN

GARY MILLER

JOHN MacEACHIN

Hulien found scattered misconceptions he had heard to be untrue. In referring to tidiness of his roommate, he said, "he was immaculate." "My side of the room always looked like a tornado hit it, and one time he even made my bed." "I was appalled," he said.

Hulien said that among Ferris students, "there is a consensus that prejudice exists in off-campus housing."

Asked if the campus press ever investigated such indications, he said, "the college paper is primarily a tool of the administration."

After several months of companionship with his roommate, Hulien said, "I'm still not sure I understand the Negro."

NBC cameras on Caro meet

Huntley-Brinkley cameramen covered the meeting of the Tuscola County Taxpayer Association Tuesday night at the Standard Oil Center in Caro when 25 of the 30 "delegates" showed up each giving "their story."

The entire meeting was filmed and Dr. John Karpovich, instigator of a nearly statewide property tax revolt, said each of the 25 delegates presented a "very moving" story of how the property tax was strangulating the farmer's economics.

Karpovich said NBC said the film will be on the 6:30 news on an evening Thursday through Tuesday. He said the meeting was one primarily of internal organization, "getting to know each other."

He said last week their group distributed 1,000 leaflets at MSU's Farmer's Week and has since had phone calls from throughout the state on steps to take in organizing local taxpayer associations.

The delegates moved to request an audience with Governor Milliken and to write to The Michigan Education Association "to tell them we have a problem."

Karpovich said it was the intent of their group to have "schools taken completely off the property tax."

Gary Miller, graduate of Cass City High School, was unimpressed by the new Negro demands at Ferris State College.

Though in off-campus housing, Miller is a five-year pharmacy student at the college.

Miller felt the disturbance was "just a publicity stunt" and that the disturbances aggravated racial distrust. Many Negro students, he said, lost financial aid programs because of their participation in seizure of the library, and later, the administration.

Miller felt blacks and whites "were only tolerating each other. Whites haven't done anything to understand blacks, and blacks haven't done anything to understand whites."

The pharmacy student said he was "quite surprised," at the sudden Negro actions. "I still don't understand why they did it, he said, in reference to the seizure of the library and administration building."

"A lot of white students weren't going to tolerate it. They couldn't see any purpose in it. I don't feel anybody's justified in doing that - they can't keep 200 students from going to class (the library)," he said.

Miller said the disturbance created quite a stir on the normally quiet campus. "For once you could walk through the student center and hear some discussion." He said the disturbances revealed differences between blacks and whites where before they had been unnoticed.

Asked about prejudice in off-campus housing in the city of Big Rapids, he said, "I don't know."

Miller said the Big Rapids campus was unable to obtain a Negro professor. "If he's single, what can he do? There's no social life for a Negro who's single," he said. He reported Ferris had tried to obtain a Negro professor.

Miller said a Negro professor "would be much more limited." He would be "sort of alone," he said.

Miller believed Big Rapids to be "quite a conservative town." He said, "If went Republican last year and the Board of Trustees is more than likely a conservative one."

Asked if he believed increased awareness to Negro frustrations a gain for improved racial harmony, he said "possibly." Perhaps they don't have respect, he said, "but you can't force that."

Miller said he had no black friends, but he attributed that to lack of blacks accessible to him because of where he lived.

Miller paid tempered compliments to the college president, Victor E. Spathoff. "He made the school what it is - but it's that he's kind of set. Concluded on page three.

BY ARTHUR HOLMBERG

Valedictorian and salutatorian honors for the class of 1969 of Cass City were announced this week.

Leading her class of 107, with a grade point average of 3.949, is Lynn Haire, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Haire, of Cass City. Lynn is the energetic president of her class this year, an office she also held when a freshman. Her leadership has also extended to the student council, in which she has taken an active part. She is the present secretary-treasurer of the Thumb B student council. Through her high school years, she has been a continuous member of the National Honor Society. Additional activities have included a variety of school clubs and a number of honors won at music festivals. Lynn will attend Michigan State University next fall, after a summer spent in Sweden under the Youth for Understanding student exchange program. Her major at State will be in social work and she hopes some day to work with children, preferably those from under-privileged areas.

Salutatorian at the June 5th Commencement will be Marilee Turner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Turner, of Decker. While earning a grade point average of 3.800, she has found time for a host of other activities, including serving as secretary of the local student council in her senior year, student secretary two years, Biology lab assistant as a junior, and representing her school at Girls' State during the summer of 1968. Also a National Honor Society member, her outside activities have included 4-H work and church activities. Marilee has been accepted at Michigan State University, where she plans to enroll in a pre-law program.

Suspect juveniles in beer heist

Several juveniles like doing things in style. At least that's the report of George Lapp, President of the Cass City Gun Club, in reporting about $150 worth of beer and utensils stolen from their hall Sunday night.

He reported 7 cases of beer were stolen when youths broke through the east window with the aid of a 2x4. No use having a party, Lapp said, unless you can do it in style. He said it was completely logical that they also take pitchers to pour the beer from the "pony" kegs.

After taking a cooler, cups, and pitchers, the youths left two cases in the Gun Club hall. Lapp said, "they probably didn't have room."

He said the county sheriff is following up some positive leads.

On March 14 the seventh grade sponsored a dance. Music was supplied by the "Human Creed", a local group with Al Pierce, Bill Pierce, Roy Pierce, and Ralph Carb.

The dance was considered such a success that the eighth graders decided to hold another one the next week, which was last Friday.

On March 19 the final games of the intramural basketball tournaments were held. The Lakers clinched first place by defeating the Titans 35-33.

On a spring day, away from school students stay! It's that time of year again. Everybody has got the incurable spring fever and the seniors have contracted Senioritis.

The juniors and senior classes held class meetings last Monday morning. The juniors' meeting dealt with prom festivities.

The seniors chose a graduation program cover, their motto, flower, and color during their meeting. The class has finally earned enough money for their trip to New York in May.

Tuesday Mr. Charles Seeley, a representative of Michigan State University, spoke with interested juniors about college.

The kindergartners at DeFord are busy making kites and learning the "Kite Song." Other classes have been making mock pussy willows with puffed rice.

CLUB NEWS

The drama club held a very important meeting after school last Tuesday concerning the all-school play. The prices of the tickets were set at 50 cents, students, and $1.00 adults.

Various committees were established at the meeting. Linda Brown heads the program and publicity committee and Carla Calka, Karen Gaffney, Marsha Geister, and Marilee Turner will work with her.

Mrs. Thomas Jackson is to supervise the costume committee which is headed by Ellen Morgan. Those helping Ellen are: Carol Clarke, Jan Glaspie, Bill Spencer, Mary Jane Phetteplace, Lynnea Rabideau, and Karen Gaffney.

The committee for make-up and hair stylings has three co-chairmen: Marsha Geister, Barb MacRae, and Marilee Turner. Others on the committee include: Carla Calka, Karen Gaffney, Jan Glaspie, Pat Bauer and Ken Eisinger.

A "shift" crew will be composed of members from the various committees. All of these committees and committee chairmen are under the direction of a major chairman, Pam Dobbs, who is student director for the school's play.

A Pop Club meeting was held after school Thursday for the purpose of electing next year's officers, who are: Chris Craig - president

Debbie Marker - vice-president Sherry Bacon - treasurer Sally Whittaker - secretary Margie Sattlerburg and Shari Geiger - pointkeepers.

This year's officers: Pam Dobbs, president; Jan Weippert, vice-president; Chris Craig, secretary; Libby Hillaker, treasurer and Mona Calka, pointkeeper, are to be commended on a job well done.

Name winners in bowling tourney

Edwin Nunn and Pete Kautz Jr. of Lexington captured the doubles championship of the Mid-Thumb Bowling Association annual tournament with a total pin count of 1279, including handicap.

Roy Wagg and Carl Kolb of Cass City were fourth with 1254 and Dale Iseler and Martin Zawilinski, Cass City, were fifth with a count of 1250.

Walter Taroschuck of Sandusky captured the singles event with a 718 handicap count.

Gilbert Maurer of Uby won the all events title with a total pin fall of 1910. His team score was 697; doubles 552, and singles, 589.

Maurer also won the high actual all-events with a 1802 count.

The doubles and singles were bowled at Cass City Lanes Mar. 1-15.

Ferris students cite sport rivalry

In his ways. He still listens, but he knows he'll be replaced pretty soon.

The college senior felt the administration handled (it) very efficiently, "though the board overestimated his control."

Miller doesn't expect the disturbances to occur again.

"He has gone out of his way to get colored students," he said. He reported about 350 black students on the 8,000 student campus.

Miller said it was his private observation that "outsiders used them" (Ferris Negro students). He said security officers on campus reported outsiders.

He added that the black students on campus joined the NAACP last winter, giving them outside affiliation, but he didn't attribute any assistance from NAACP.

Of the students involved in a mass surrounding (by whites) of the library building which black students had seized, he said he believed most were freshmen and sophomores looking "for something to do for excitement."

Most of the older students, he said, know better than to pay attention to rumors.

JOHN MacEACHIN

1966 Uby graduate John MacEachin, a Ferris dorm resident, predicts further disturbance on the traditionally quiet campus is "quite possible."

A sports enthusiast, MacEachin said sports rivalries heightened racial rivalries and said antagonisms "might be high this spring."

MacEachin told the Chronicle that last winter a Negro basketball team, in a surprise upset, beat a powerful campus (all-white) fraternity team.

On Thursday night, the night of the March 6 outbreak, the intramural basketball tournaments culminated and the Negro "Gorillas" beat the white "Choppers."

The teams, the cheerleaders, and even the fans were "separatist," he said, and they play, cheer, and sit among their "own people" he said the cheerleaders have their own "soul" cheers.

MacEachin reported Ferris to have "one of the best intermural sports programs in the state" and he said the intense competition heightened the racial rivalry.

"I knew a few of them (Negroes) personally" he said, "and individually, we're the best of friends, but when they get in a group, all Hell breaks loose."

MacEachin also contended administration negligence in preventing the disturbance.

"The administration is kind of backwards," he said. MacEachin described Ferris President Victor E. Spatheff as a "straight conservative," "a one-man running the show type president," that had become remote to both students and faculty.

He said the college president "lost in popularity" after the disturbances and afterward, "you would see him out among the students, just talking to them," whereas before this was rare. "I know the Negro students don't trust him."

"He had it pretty easy," he said. He added that one of the aftereffects was "that it might alert the administration that they are going to have to change with the times."

One of the things the Board of Trustees did was place a Negro on the board, MacEachin sympathized with the Negro's aims. "I look up to them for having guts enough to go into an administration building."

He said he favored black demands for Negro history and cultural courses and for a Negro professor.

MacEachin anticipated problems in getting a Negro professor because, there wasn't one who would come to live at Big Rapids. He also felt there was a limit in what the administration could do, "that the more you do for them (the Negroes), the more they go over."

The Ferris sophomore said the disturbances jarred a lot of personal friendships, and heightened an awareness of "each people's" feelings.

MacEachin said, "it was so new to Ferris, before they never thought of there being any trouble."

A time of crisis is a time for reflection and re-evaluation.

WELL-PLANNED Vacations are like other things - forethought enables people to spend them profitably.

Rabbit tracks

BY JOHN HAIRE

(And anyone else he can get to help)

Our State Senator Alvin DeGrow spoke to students at Cass City this week and told them that he had two secret desires. One was to be senator and the second was to be a small town newspaper editor.

Now I'm a small town editor and my ambition is to be a dime store owner. I'll confess this urge didn't hit me as a small boy . . . it came rather late (too late as a matter of fact) in life.

To be precise it hit after I observed how Senator DeGrow and his cousin, Gerald Priesskorn of Cass City, operate Ben Franklin Stores in their respective cities.

The irresistible longing came after it dawned on me just how easy they have it.

To put it succinctly . . . they have it made.

The Dale Mellendorfs lent a helping hand at Chandler's Restaurant when owner Ann Zeplin was called to the hospital because of the illness of her mother this week.

Mrs. Mellendorf had helped out on a part-time basis before, but it was probably her husband's first venture in the restaurant business.

Dale's a sheet metal and heating equipment professional working in the city and moonlighting in Cass City.

Now I know where he gets his stamina. That coffee Tuesday was strong enough to stand alone.

The Cass City Chronicle buys the Lapeer County Press and in it Jim Fitzgerald, editor, writes a second column, other than the one that appears in the Chronicle.

It's a personal thing and in it Fitz occasionally boasts about his pool playing skill and the pocket money he has won over the years playing the game.

Now the Press doesn't receive the Chronicle and so I'm going to depend on the grapevine to get this message to the august editor:

A challenge for a game for a steak supper. I make this offer not because I'm a very good pool player . . . but because it just seems to me that anybody who writes as well as Fitzgerald just can't be all that good.

I'm willing to pay for a night on the town for him to prove it.

SPORTS FANS!

I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

By H. M. Bulen Here's one that even real good baseball fans have trouble answering . . . See if you can guess which RIGHT-HANDER in big league baseball history hit the most home runs in one season? . . . This is a tough question since the answer cannot be Babe Ruth or Roger Maris because they are lefties . . . The correct answer is Jimmy Foxx and Hank Greenberg. . . Each hit 58 homers in one season, Foxx in 1932 and Greenberg in 1938.

Do you know when the first Masters golf tournament was held, and who won it? . . . First Masters was in 1934 and the first Masters champion was Horton Smith.

Here's one that's hard to believe. . . Can you imagine a big league team playing regularly on a surface that is not regulation! . . . Two of the playing surfaces in the National Hockey League are, oddly enough, smaller than regulation size in length! . . . A big league hockey rink is supposed to be 200 feet long, but Boston's is only 191 and Chicago's is only 188.

List top topics for bargaining

As usual, opening negotiations between the Cass City School District representatives and the Cass City Education Association center around mostly non-economic questions that will have to be settled before the bargainers get down to the nitty-gritty of salaries and increment pay.
According to a publicity release issued by the Association and signed by Mrs. Betty Murphy, union president, and James MacTavish, chief negotiator, the union was to open talks Monday stressing topics such as personal business day, pupil ratio, fringe benefits and released duty from non-instructional activities.
The teachers want to raise benefits, stop non-instructional activities, decrease pupil ratio and take leave for personal business without explanation.
In addition to these major areas of concern, the teachers also are seeking a "closed shop" ... saying that all teachers pay the same amount of dues as association members do.
Other questions that will appear before the representatives include binding arbitration, discipline, professional business days, payroll deductions, increment pay for transferred teachers and loss time pay due to accident or disability resulting from school functions.

Board chairman Harold Johnson suggested Dehmel could "invest" up to $3,000 in legal fees.

Uncle Tim From Tyre Says:

Dear Mister Editor:
Clem Webster flat out declared at the country store session Saturday night that most of what's right and wrong with this country can be laid to cars. He said he had decided this after seeing two items in the papers. One said President McKinley in 1900 became the first U.S. President to ride in a car, and the other was a piece about how the Russians is going wild over cars.
Clem was of the opinion cars fer the Russians is about the best thing that could happen to the rest of the world. If cars take them over like they has us, allowed Clem, the Russians will be too busy looking out fer their-selves to make trouble fer everybody else.
Take your pick of problems, Clem went on, and you'll find a car at the bottom of it. If it ain't more payments than a feller can make, it's traffic jams caused by work on the roads to get rid of traffic jams. If it ain't air pollution, it's people that build up all their meanness til they git behind the wheel. R it ain't all the farming and grazing land being paved over fer parking lots, it's them car mechanics that won't make house calls and won't even look at your car without a appointment two weeks ahead.
The item about President McKinley called 1900 "the innocent years," said Clem, and that was because we didn't have snuff cars to haul everybody into everybody's business in them days. The only thing that can

Chuck Nemeth: a tough competitor in a tough sport-enduro racing

It would be fair to say that motorcycles dominate the life of Chuck Nemeth, 26, of Cass City. After all the balding, heavy set bike enthusiast not only makes his living selling them, he gets his kicks from riding them. It would appear to be an ideal arrangement and for Nemeth it undoubtedly is. Since he was 17 he has been fiddling with one bike or another. "I bought an old junker nine years ago and built it up... ran pretty good, but it always seemed to be breaking down." But he made do with the makeshift machine until 1964 when he was able to buy a new motorcycle and enter competition.

Nemeth's specialty is endurance races where the premium is not on top speeds but running at an average speed and passing hidden check points at exactly the right times. Nemeth is an expert at it. Earlier this month he competed in two enduro races in the south.

In the Stony Mountain Enduro national meeting in Georgia he finished second in the heavy weight division. This Enduro covers 500 miles and attracted over 500 riders from all over the country. There were only about 20 or so in the event which Nemeth finished second. The heavy-weight bikes check in at about 400 pounds, Nemeth grinned, and a smaller fellow just doesn't care to wrestle them out of a mud hole in a long, grueling race.

Nemeth's build is ideally suited to the big bikes. He stands 6 feet, one inch and is a robust 235 pounds. After his second place finish in Georgia, the contest trail led to Daytona, Fla., where Nemeth finished first in a 175-mile event. It was another in a long string of top finishes. Since he won his first in the latter part of 1965, Nemeth has picked up a total of 10 trophies in events across the country.

It would be nice to say that he took to racing naturally, with almost instant success. But that isn't the way it was. "You have to gain experience," the Cass City riding veteran pointed out. "I raced nearly two years before winning my first trophy."

Besides the enduros, Nemeth has tried his hand at speed racing. But his size which is a help in the heavyweight enduro class, holds him back when it comes to racing. So now he sticks to what he does best. Racers are divided into A and B classes. A is for experts and B for the novice. While Nemeth competed in class B in the south, his victories gave him the necessary 100 points and from now on he will be competing with the best in the A group.

It won't be long before he'll test his wings in the new competition. The next meet is slated in Indiana in May. Nemeth will be there.

CHUCK NEMETH and the two trophies he won in enduros held in Georgia and Florida.

Behind the Counter Warts

Cures for warts range from "the merely weird to the somewhat disgusting," it has been said. Your forefathers were urged to rub them with fresh lard, with milkweed juice, or with a grasshopper's "tobacco spit." Tom Sawyer believed that warts would be cured by burying a dead cat at midnight in a place where someone evil was buried.

Warts have been considered almost supernatural, in the way they come and go, but they are simply viral infections of the skin's outermost layer. They are not caused by contact with toads, but apparently can be affected by mere suggestion.

Warts most often occur on the hands, fingers, soles of the feet, the groin, and on the face and scalp. Treatment today depends on the location, size and number of warts.

One method is "cautery," by which the warts are dried up by sealing off the blood supply and nerve endings. An electric or supercooled needle are used in this process, which seldom leaves a scar. Sometimes warts must be cut off, or an acid solution may be used to destroy them. Corn plasters may soften the warts so that they can then be scraped off.

Some doctors have hypnotized warty patients successfully, and suggestion therapy is widely used. Dr. E. W. Rosenberg, of Memphis, sometimes paints children's warts with a harmless ointment that glows under ultraviolet light. This "magic" convinces the children that the warts will disappear—and they do.

Coffee klatch-a-dismal gathering

by JOHN HAIRE
It was coffee klatch time for a group of grade school parents at Willis Campbell Elementary School Monday. I was one of them. I attended as the parent of a third-grader. I came away with a dismal, pessimistic feeling. Monday 14 of 40 persons invited attended the informal session. A couple of others called in and were forced to cancel. Fourteen out of 40, that's all. Mrs. Jackie Freiburger, grade principal; Robert Stickle, intermediate principal, and Don Crouse, superintendent, breezed through a well planned formal presentation. They told us about Cass City's operational cost per pupil being among the lowest in the Thumb at $456.63. Explained how the State Aid formula cuts out any increased revenue for the school even though property taxes have been increased. Showed how the large bulk of the school's cost is in salaries and related expenses, impossible to cut. Demonstrated that the four mills requested was the minimum necessary to continue to operate the program. The evidence was there; Cass City was getting more than most for its educational dollar, but the time had come where more was needed. It was a convincing argument, but most of the persons attending were already convinced and probably the only person present who was not, evidently remained unswayed.

Dick Donahue sparked a lively discussion when he pointed out that he felt that the property tax was unfair... that he was paying more than his fair share as a large land owner in Columbia township. And when citizens as normally progressive as Donahue take a stand against more school funds not on the basis of the school's needs or the school's management, it has to open grave doubts for supporters of the request.

new farm tool

Farming isn't what it used to be. There are still farm houses, farm barns, silos, cows and corn but they are different too. The fences are electric, the corn is hybrid, the cows are purebred, the silos are prefabricated and the barns may contain anything from a galaxy of odd looking machinery to a stage for community players, or from horse stalls to a locker room for a golf course. The houses, the kitchens are modern, a picture window overlooks a pleasant lawn and as often as not there is probably a television and a hi-fi set ready to bring the world of music and the world itself to the farm family at a flick of a switch. These are outer evidences of rural progress. Just what is being done with the land, what the results are in terms of higher income, better products, newer services is a highly technical and fascinating story.

When Michigan State University did its Project 80 study, they based it on the census of 1964 and they listed 93,000 farms in this state. According to the study, by 1980 more than half of these will disappear from the state. . . some 45,000 farms will be absorbed or lost to farming.

Michigan has a large variety of farms because it produces many different commercial products. Sixteen major types of farms are classified in the state ranging from dairying, to crop, to different classes to livestock, etc.

Michigan has seen a gradual increase in capital requirement for farm expansion. This leads to corporation organization and the corporate farm is developing. Bankers are looking for opportunities now to bring outside capital into agriculture. Seventy-five thousand dollars is the minimum capital invested in a major farm. Many in Michigan have 100 to 300,000 dollars and a considerable number exceed 500,000 dollars in capital investment. Capital is considered by their most important tool.

There are some fairly large farms in Michigan. The largest dairy farm has well over 1,000 cows. Some poultry operations produce eggs with 100,000 hens in the laying flock. A new proposed cattle feeding operation in one unit will produce initially 100,000 head of stock cattle a year. That will expand by a third the total amount Michigan now produces and they are expecting to increase to 300,000 head in a year, thereby doubling Michigan's cattle feeding production.

If the downward trend line in hours of labor since 1950 were extended it would reach zero in 1984. Of course, as labor goes down the capital requirements are going up, proportionate to the decrease in labor. Labor is still one of the major items of expense on a farm. Feed is a very big item of expense and in crop expense, fertilizer is a major item. The margins of profit have been pretty thin but that has tended to make farmers much more efficient and effective than in the past. They are better managers because of it.

Many farmers were using migrant labor and high school labor because much of the work has been done by hand. For example: until just recently the digging of the trees on a nursery farm had been a hand operation. Now it is in the process of being shifted from hand digging to mechanized digging and the operation of the mechanized digger will do the work of 15 men. Another machine can do the work of possibly 30 men in digging shade trees.

The farm manager today is in the same role as that of a plant manager. The ability to cost out, analyze, understand the personnel and know the role of marketing along with the tools available and to be able to put these together within the rules of business are required of farm management today.

Of the many youngsters on farms today only room for about one in ten will remain in the future. Of course, they can move into related agricultural businesses as they wish but because of the number of farms, the larger scale of operations, etc., there is less need for numbers.

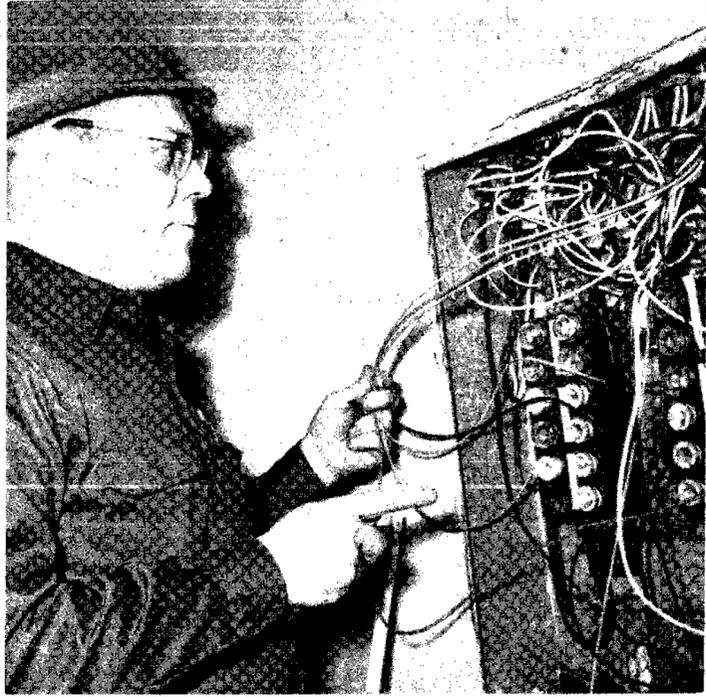

The computer is a tool of farm management. For several years Michigan State University has had a Telfarm program. This is an electronic farm record program for management. There will come a day when a farmer will be able to use a simulator, a model of his farm. This will be designed so it will apply to nearly all of the general types of farms that there are in Michigan. The farmer can index his records in this and play a game. . . he can test proposed changes in his crop or livestock enterprises and see the impact upon his labor requirements, on the capital requirements. This can be set up so that he can trace the results through several years. The day will soon be past when farmers will experiment and go broke in the process. They will do their experimenting with a kind of a computer game situation and then find out where the largest profit opportunities exist. Computers will be as easy for farmers to use as the telephone is today. There are 45,000 farmers scattered all over the state and they will have access to kinds of equipment now on the Michigan State campus. These present accessible facilities are valued at more than four million dollars.

Michigan's farmer today is on the national and international scene. For example: A nurseryman at one time was small and grew a little bit of every thing that was hardy in the area that the consumer might want. Today the profit margin has fallen so he has to specialize in the plants that he can grow on a scale that is competitive with anyone in the country. Today Michigan evergreens are going to Nebraska, Iowa, Minnesota, Wisconsin. Some of the young plants that he starts with originated from seed that came from Japan. He has to do in his little portion of the world what he can do better than anyone else within the country and in many cases within the world.

Michigan is known as a big industrial state but the gross product produced by Michigan agriculture is in all its aspects greater than the total national product of at least 40 of the nations of the world. Michigan is dependent upon trade for survival. Ninety percent of the navy pea beans of the country are produced in Michigan. . . 60 percent of the red tart cherries. Michigan exports dairy products, food grains, white wheat, feed grains. The world is its market. It will stay competitive against most stimulated and synthetic foods and all other forces at play. Michigan is not going out of the agriculture business in the near future.

"CUTCH" O'DELL examines Tuscola County Courthouse's basement distribution box, one of several being rewired with heavy wiring.

State asking for better wiring

Due to pressure from State inspectors, the Tuscola County courthouse is being electrically rewired because of gradually increasing electrical equipment overheating low capacity wiring. Courthouse custodian "Cutch" O'Dell reports that fans, humidifiers, electric typewriters, adding machines, calculators, IBM equipment, and especially Xerox machines in several offices are overloading the building's circuits. O'Dell said electrical contractors are reluctant to bid on the job because of unknown work requirements. He reported Lester Anderson of LMA Electric near Caro has started rewiring during evenings and week ends, in critical areas.

Mr. John Haire Cass City Chronicle

Dear Sir:

What a fine paper you have been publishing! That is, until this last edition.

My first glance is at the "Editors Corner" to see what the school board has done now. If they continue to lock you out, there are "bugs", you know.

Your photography is excellent and one day I may find Katie Crane looking at me from one of your pages.

You are also reaching out and it wouldn't surprise me to read our Bay City Commission Official Proceedings one day.

Now! - This last issue. The biggest social event in years and I almost wrote the paper looking for it. Don't tell me you were bought off!!! You wouldn't!!!!

Sincerely, Lois R. Folkert

AROUND THE FARM

Lime increases crop profits

By Don Kebler

Lime where needed and in proper balance with other plant food needs, has been known to increase crop growth and subsequent profits.

Both George Washington and Thomas Jefferson applied lime materials and knew its value. So have some of our county farmers seen the value of using lime materials supplying calcium.

Just recently I received figures of crop yield increases that occurred from an Ohio study and sent to me from the MSU Soil's Department.

From this Ohio research it shows that at soil P-H ranges of 5.7 to 6.8 where three tons of limestone was applied per acre a four-year rotation of corn, wheat, alfalfa, alfalfa gave the following per acre crop yield increases - 5.6 bushels shelled corn, 5 bushels wheat, 1.6 tons hay and 1.0 ton hay the second year.

Placing sale values on the crop production increases we note an increase value of about $66 per acre during the 4-year rotation.

What does this amount to in extra profit above costs to the farmer? Let's use the maximum cost of lime materials in Tuscola County which would be $21.00 for a three ton application. If the farmer absorbed this full lime cost his maximum return according to the Ohio research would be $45 per acre over 4 years. If this same farmer used a less costly yet equally effective liming material available in the county he could realize at least another dollar per acre over the four years.

If the operators received cost share through the county A.S.C.S. office for this lime use his four year profit above costs would be at least another ten dollars per acre.

After compiling these figures my next question was "how many tillable acres would there be in Tuscola County that would possibly need liming materials?"

M.S.U. and Tuscola County soil test reports in 1967-68 year showed that forty percent of the farms tested had a soil P-H of 7.0 or less. Indicating lime might be needed. In the thirteen townships encompassing these below P-H 7 soil tests the county A.S.C.S. reports 169,000 crop production acres.

After selecting what I consider a conservative figure of possibly 4500 acres that might need lime I computed the minimum possible increase crop profit of slightly over $200,000 in four years time. Maximum profit, considering the price of lime materials used and if cost share applied to all materials used on the 4500 acres, would be another fifty thousand dollars.

Assuming I am low on the acres estimated to be needing lime material and go to a suggested figure of ten percent of the total county crop-production acreages or 25,000 acres the four year possible spread would be between one and one-half million dollars farmer profit.

Regardless of what figure you may use, you must admit there is a real profit potential and some of it could reach your pocket. Your quickest way to find out is to have your soil tested and then go from there.

Dr. Zhivago Returns

The Cass Theatre announces the return engagement of the 6 time academy award winner, "Doctor Zhivago". This now famous love story that took place in Russia during the early part of the 20th century, and during the period of the Russian revolution, will be in Cass City for 3 days only, as an Easter Special on April 4-5-6. "Doctor Zhivago" will be taken from release right away, and brought back in years to come as a classic says MGM studios.

The Cass has scheduled an engagement of the all time winner, "GONE WITH THE WIND", soon. This will mark the seventh time that "Gone With The Wind" has been released, and it plays to millions more people every time it is released.

Movie-goers are in for a special treat this time, because "Gone With The Wind" has been reproduced into 3-D Cinema-Scope and Stereophonic Sound. Adv.

Dancing at the Armory

BY JIM FITZGERALD

Here's a hot one for the boys at the Alibi Bar. I've been asked to fill in for the society editor of the Port Huron Times Herald. She's taking a vacation and wants a guest column to run between the girlie ads and wedding stories.

Ordinarily, I don't have much to offer the society section of any newspaper. My peanu de sole thoughts are few and soiled. But

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

GENERAL
State of Michigan, Probate Court of the County of Tuscola, Estate of Barbara L. Coulter, deceased.

File No. 20383.
It is ordered that on April 3, 1969, at 11 a.m., in the Probate Courtroom Caro, Michigan a hearing be held on the petition of William S. Ruhl, executor, for allowance of his final account and for assignment of residue.

Publication and service shall be made as provided by Statute and Court Rule.

Dated: March 1969.
C. Bates Willis, Judge of Probate.

Clinton C. House, attorney for estate, Cass City, Michigan.
A true copy.
Beatrice P. Berry, Register 3/13/3

by a coincidence, I have lately been thinking about long-ago dance parties and other such fancy-pants affairs. And to complete the cliché and make the coincidence amazing, these social events occurred in Port Huron.

This fit of nostalgia grabbed me when I read they are going to tear down the Port Huron Armory. They need the space to park cars. Egad. The day is coming when the law will require people to walk sideways to cut down on the room needed between the cars. The first man on the moon will install parking meters. But that's another column...

In my boyhood, the Port Huron Armory was dance headquarters of the universe. They had one of those big crystal balls that spun from the center of the ceiling and reflected little lights all over the place. Real class. Once in awhile a name band would be hired, but usually the music was provided by a guy who could play the piano and 3 of his friends who couldn't play the radio without help.

What I remember most about the Armory dances is that they were usually sponsored by the LRT and the girls asked the boys. LRT was not an hallucinatory drug. It was some sort of a Greek sorority which flourished in the public high school. In fact, the LRT is probably still there, numbering among its members the daughters of many of the girls who used to berate their dates for writing my name on their dance cards.

I knew one dance step - the box. I still do it today. Forward, sideways, backward, sideways, forward, do it again, do it again, hot diggity. This is pretty snappy for a few minutes but it gets a little wearisome after a few hours (and a few years, my wife would add if I let her stick her nose in this column.)

I remember one steady date who insisted we break the monotony by walking. That was a 1940 dance step where the couples simply walked along the edge of the floor, hanging onto each other loosely. To distinguish it from an ordinary walk to the john, or to the parking lot to neck, you were supposed to take a half step backward every so often. The trouble was, I could never learn when every so often was. I kept heading north while she was going south. She finally decided that was a good arrangement and I haven't seen her since.

A guy got dressed up for a dance in those days. I can even remember pressing my own pants. The girls wore long, crinkly dresses with necklines that teased, not shocked. Every school orchestra copied Glenn Miller or Tommy Dorsey and, with the right head snuggling on your shoulder, that's how they sounded.

For most of the dancing boys, a war was waiting.

Come to think, war is what armories are all about.

I will dance the fanciest box you ever saw on the day they can tear them all down.

GAGETOWN GRADES 1-4 in 1909 include many persons still in the area, says Ottomar Sting who turned this picture into the Chronicle.

The rarity is that every person is identified. They are: teacher, Maggie Steward.

Top row: Edith Hurd, Ellen Monroe, Ida and Elaine McEldony, Tena Hughes, Myrtie Sting, Clinton McGinn, Frank Berry.

Middle row: Helen Palmer, Clara Russell, Cora Clara, Bessie Shaw, C. M. Black, Ottomar Sting, Leland TerBush, John Golly, Clayton TerBush.

Front row: Ruth Berry, Beulah Morrison, Pearl Allen, Tena Crawford, Anna Gore, Jenny Wells, Vera Rogers, Theodora Burden, Glen Seekings, Glen Rogers.

Band Boosters meet Monday

The Band Boosters held their meeting Monday evening, March 24, in the band room at Cass City High School, President Mrs. Lanore Field presided. Plans are under way for a bake sale with Mrs. Pauline Brown as chairman. It will be held April 19. Parents will be contacted to contribute baked goods.

Band Director William Ferguson spoke about giving awards to all grades in band and asked the Band Boosters to cover the costs of medals and certificates, which they agreed to do.

A band concert will be held Sunday, March 30, at 4 p.m. at the high school gymnasium.

Mrs. Betty Crandell presented an invitation from the Caro Fair Board for the school band to appear at the Caro Fair Wednesday, July 30.

The next meeting will be held Monday, April 28, at 8 p.m. in the band room and parents are urged to attend. Anyone having a child in band is a Band Booster.

Good Friday Union services scheduled

The Union Good Friday Service, sponsored annually by the Cass City Council of Churches, will be held in Cass City United Methodist Church April 4 from 1:00 to 2:00 p.m.

The Rev. Donald Turbin, minister of the church, will deliver the message and will be assisted in the service by other local pastors.

The united choirs of Cass City and Salem United Methodist Churches will render the anthem.

The final in a series of Sunday evening Union Lenten Services will be held in the Presbyterian Church March 30 at 7:30 p.m. with the Rev. Ira L. Wood, minister of Salem United Methodist Church, speaking.

The public is cordially invited to share in these community services.

Miss Keyworth dies in Port Huron

Miss Marian A. Keyworth, 89, of Port Huron died Sunday, March 23, in Marwood Manor where she had resided the last five years.

She was born in Valley Center, Mich., Sept. 17, 1879, the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Keyworth.

She lived in Detroit most of her life.

Mrs. Keyworth is survived by a niece, Mrs. Maude Tallmadge of Sandusky, and three nephews, William Parrott of Cass City, Rev. Earl W. Parrott of Flint and Kent K. Parrott of Port Huron.

Funeral services were to have been held Wednesday afternoon at Little's Funeral Home, with the Rev. Dean A. Parrott officiating. He is pastor of the Free Methodist Church, Kalamazoo. Burial was in Elkland Cemetery.

Bad habits are stumbling blocks for good intentions.

Gifford OES in Star Point meet

About 40 attended the monthly meeting of Gifford Chapter No. 369 OES at Gagetown March 18. Fifteen officers were present.

This meeting was designated as Star Point night. Each Star Point read an article which was followed with an appropriate hymn sung by Marjorie Karr. Recognition was given to both past and present Star Points of the Chapter.

Two officers, Esther and Electa, accepted invitations to participate in Vassar's Friends' Night March 25.

Refreshments were served by the March birthday committee.

Gagetown Council Proceedings

A special meeting of the Gagetown council was held, Thursday, March 20, at 7:30 p.m. with 5 councilmen present. Deering absent. The new officers were sworn in by Richard Burdon, trustee. They are president, Eleri Sontag; clerk, Leota Ashmore; treasurer, William Ashmore; assessor, Richard Carroll; trustees for 2 year terms, Eugene Comment, Leroy Stapleton and James England.

Committees were appointed by the president as follows, streets, E. Comment, chairman and street commissioner, L. Stapleton and H. Polk. Water, Harvey Polk, chairman, A. Deering and E. Comment. Park, James England, chairman, R. Burdon and A. Deering. Building Permits - Leroy Stapleton, James England and R. Burdon. Clean up committee, J. England chairman, R. Burdon and A. Deering.

A motion was made by Comment and supported by Stapleton to accept the committees as appointed. Carried 5 votes.

The president presented a list of rules and regulations to be followed during the year 1969-70.

- No. 1 - All meetings are to be conducted in an orderly manner.
- No. 2 - No one shall bring up a new subject until the issue being discussed is fully completed.
- No. 3 - Any councilman making a motion from the floor, shall state it clearly, so that it appears as he intended in the minutes for future reference.
- No. 4 - The council will not act on any problem developing from strictly hearsay.
- No. 5 - All important issues shall be voted upon by roll-call vote.
- No. 6 - The president has the power to take care of minor issues that cannot wait, providing the cost is under $100.00.
- No. 7 - Any citizen having a problem must appear before the council in person or by letter. The problem will not be presented by a councilman unless the citizen with the problem is present.
- No. 8 - There will be no criticism of the maintenance man by citizens. He is doing what he is told. He can't work for several bosses. If anyone feels he is not doing right, then come before the council along with the maintenance man and discuss the issue, and not discuss it on the street.
- No. 9 - No street shall be swept unless it is dry and suitable for sweeping.
- No. 10 - If we cannot plow snow for one person, we will not plow it for another, unless he has to go out of town to work, then the maintenance man shall help with the village equipment regardless of what the neighbor may say. On the other hand, if the neighbor can't get out to work, then he also should be helped, without criticism from the streets.

A motion was made by Polk and supported by Comment to accept the rules and regulations of the president. Carried 5 votes.

A motion by Polk and supported by England to adjourn. Carried.

FIRING LINE

The White Hats chaperoned us

By Richard Haines

It's graduation time. And class trip time. Party-time. In my junior year in high school, the president of the school board threw the party—the kind high school seniors usually throw only for themselves.

But you have to understand the president. He was "Hank" to us, and he promised to open the champagne at 3 a.m.

The group all brought their own (BYO) and heck, by 3 a.m. nobody could even make it to the refrigerator.

My twin and I didn't arrive until about 2:00 a.m. and we made it to the refrigerator all right, but we still didn't get any.

Now I doubt if board chairman Horace Bulen would throw a senior party this year for the Cass City gang. But still, seniors, you could ask.

But if he does and if he promises champagne, make sure he lets you open it at midnight. Because if he doesn't, he's only putting you on.

Our class of '64 was a rollicking one. Yessiree, all eleven of us were there including my good-time Charlie twin. He loves graduations.

And for him, like the rest of the class, only New York City would suffice for the senior class trip. Big City Lights.

As you know, senior classes are extremely careful in picking the "right kind" of chaperones. My twin nominated "white hat Hank," and he was the unanimous first choice.

But another choice was our Mother, White Hat Mother. I don't know why we had to go to the world's fair. Our three cars were the world's best three-ring circus one could ever attend. And we all had a ringside seat.

On the way out we had hoped to snooze part of the way. I had always wondered whose idea THAT was.

But my mother wasn't much of a ringmaster. My twin seemed to have grabbed the other end of the whip and he didn't let go until we got back to hometown of Alanson.

With her in the back seat, my twin and I rotated at the wheel. My twin doesn't waste much time on the road. He held it right on 90 all the way.

Dealing those Pennsylvania mountain curves at 90, I guess, was just part of my twin's disposition.

"Don't you think you should slow down, Bob," White Hat Mother kept asking?

"Why?"
"You might get a ticket."
"Na."

Mother was sitting in the back and the car had a loose door handle in the back seat over since. And for some odd circumstance, that seemed to be the year Mom started getting grey hair.

We didn't get any tickets, but I know something we did get. When Dad saw the front tires at our home arrival we got Hell.

There was plenty of tread in the center. On the edges? Nothing.

One of the things we had hoped to do was stick together on the route eastward. I think the gayest moment in my life was the moment we all flew into each others' arms in Big City Lights.

The party was on.

Award Bronze Star to Rex DesJardins

U.S. Air Force Chief Master Sergeant Rex H. DesJardins, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. DesJardins of Decker, has been decorated with the Bronze Star Medal for meritorious service while engaged in military operations against Viet Cong forces.

Sergeant DesJardins was cited for his performance as a radar maintenance superintendent at Udorn Royal Thai AFB, Thailand.

The sergeant was presented the medal during ceremonies at Shaw Air Force Base, S.C., where he is now assigned in a unit of the Tactical Air Command.

Sergeant DesJardins, who also holds two awards of the U. S. Air Force Commendation Medal, served during the Korean War.

He is a graduate of Marlette High School. His wife, Geraldine, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Hickson of Fort Worth, Tex.

Men seeking faultless friends remain forever friendless.

Plymouth Scores Most Points in Three Tests

A Plymouth Fury I scored the highest number of points of all 60 cars that competed in fuel economy, acceleration and braking tests of the Union/Pure Oil Performance Trials at Daytona Beach, Fla.

The Plymouth Fury, competing in Class V for cars equipped with standard V-8 engines, scored a total of 98 performance points out of a possible 100.

Two other Plymouth entries finished first in their respective classes, giving the Plymouth line of cars winners in three out of the nine classes of competition.

Other Plymouth winners were a Valiant Signet in Class VII for six-cylinder compact economy cars, and a Barracuda in Class IX for sports compacts.

The Union/Pure Oil Performance Trials, held under the supervision of the National Association for Stock Car Racing, compared the basic performance characteristics of American-made 1969 models which are in the popular price ranges.

The fuel economy tests measured a car's fuel consumption at an average speed of 40 miles per hour over a distance of 18.567 miles.

The fuel economy tests measured a car's fuel consumption at an average speed of 40 miles per hour over a distance of 18.567 miles.

The acceleration tests measured the time it took a car to accelerate from 25 to 70 miles per hour.

The braking tests demonstrated the car's high-speed stopping capability immediately after severe brake usage.

The 60 stock cars competing in the tests were taken directly from dealers' showrooms throughout the country to provide a realistic comparison of various makes and models.

Wagon Air Deflector
The 1969 Plymouth Fury station wagon models have a new and efficient air deflector, mounted at the rear of the roof to divert air around and across the big rear window, significantly reducing vision obstruction. By blowing clean air over the window, the deflector prevents rain, dust and grit from accumulating.

Special price

Everyone says special, but we really mean it, and we can prove it. Snapper's a special car, limited edition model from Plymouth. Once the model is discontinued, it will be pretty tough (or impossible) to get one. Among the features that make it unique is a special roof, a kicky new turtle-shell vinyl top with "camp" Snapper emblems scampering across the roof pillars. Snapper's special paint is an exclusive metallic muted-gold; cool. And Snapper comes equipped with a lot of other neat features, too: deluxe vinyl interior, white sidewalls, deluxe wheel covers, bumper guards, and a helpful little time-delay ignition switch light. The whole package goes at a special price (and we really mean special) for a limited time. Equip one to your personal needs, with anything from a Super Commando 440 V-8 to 8-track stereo, and it becomes a truly individual vehicle. At your Plymouth Dealer.

The winning two-man team at each of the 100 regional and state contests being held this spring will compete for $125,000 worth of scholarships, prizes, trophies and automotive equipment for their schools at the National Finals at the Indianapolis 500 Speedway in mid-June.

Winners at local and national contests are chosen by the speed and skill with which they find and fix malfunctions under the hood of a new Plymouth and restore the car to normal operating condition. All teams work on identical cars that have been deliberately tampered with in the same way.

Plymouth Dealers sponsor a two-man team from their local school and make a Plymouth car available to practice on. The teams from the 2,000 participating schools, which have a combined enrollment of 150,000 students taking automotive shop courses, are selected by school instructors.

The Plymouth Trouble Shooting Contest originated in Los Angeles in 1949. It was sponsored by Plymouth Dealers there who sought to recruit young men as mechanic trainees. The annual contest grew in size as educators gave it their support.

Since the contest became national in scope in 1962, scholarships have been awarded to 116 students and full or part-time jobs have been found for more than 15,000 young men.

CASS CITY CHRONICLE

Sleep in Heavenly Peace

Peace is a baby sleeping. Peace is a walk in God's forests. Peace is gentle Love for one another.

Great word . . . Peace! We see it in the newspapers, on T.V., in magazines beside horror pictures of war and carnage. But, Peace is not something outside ourselves. It is within. It is the quiet calmness of mind and soul, unperturbed, undismayed.

But it is difficult to acquire this frame of mind, this elusive state of soul, this tranquil spirit.

To achieve it we need guidance and help, and therefore we turn to our Church. Here, one sets problems in order, sees difficulties in perspective and consults with one's Creator. Peace of heart is a two-way street—our way to God, and His way to us.

Commendation medal to Merchant

Specialist Four Grant L. Merchant, 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Merchant of Cass City, received the Army Commendation Medal Feb. 7 while serving with the 4th Infantry Division near Pleiku, Vietnam.
Spec. Merchant earned the award for meritorious service as a fire team leader in Company D, 1st Battalion of the division's 35th Infantry.
The Army Commendation Medal is awarded to personnel who, while serving with the Army, distinguish themselves by heroism, meritorious achievement or meritorious service. The medal was established by the Secretary of War Dec. 18, 1945.

Spec. Merchant, who was also awarded the Purple Heart for injuries, has been a patient at Valley Forge General Hospital at Phoenixville, Pa.
He is now spending a 30-day leave at his home before returning to the hospital at Phoenixville, April 7.

Agent's Corner By Mrs. Ann Ross Extension Agent

Consumers' buying practices at the grocery store show whether they are concerned about saving a few dollars or not.
Here are some shopping pitfalls that show where the extra "food" money may be going:
- Buying services in addition to the product. If you haven't time to "do-it-yourself", you buy it already "done." For instance, cut-up chicken costs more than whole chicken; sliced cheese is more expensive than chunk cheese; prepared sandwich mix costs more than mixing your own; ready-made cookie dough costs more than that made at home.
- Impulse buying. You pick up extras that may be luxury items not on your shopping list.
- Shopping daily. This leads to buying more expensive small quantities and often encourages more impulse buying.
- Poor sales resistance. If someone hands you a sample to taste, you feel obligated to buy.
- Name brands versus store brands. Are you apt to select a name you recognize regardless of price?
- Multiple-pricing. Do you go ahead and buy what's packaged up or priced as a group or have you the courage to take just the amount you need?
- Over-buying -- especially in the perishable food line. Discarded food is expensive even if it was on sale when you bought it.
- Shopping with children. Pressure from the young fry fills many a shopping basket.
- Snack items - Those ready-to-eat snacks are luxury items, usually.
- Non-food items - Excessive use of paper products can add cost to your "food" bills.
These are shopping pit-falls. It pays to watch yourself, folks.

Ubyly Community Club hears details of proposed college

A. H. MacEachin spoke to the Ubyly Community Club monthly dinner meeting Tuesday, March 18, on project progress on the proposed Tri-Community College.

He observed that the college was highly recommended by "the Ubyly FFA people". MacEachin serves on the citizen's committee presently promoting the establishment of the college. 32 members and guests also heard Mr. James LeCureux of Ubyly Future Farmers speak on off farming occupations and the upcoming activities of the FFA chapter.

The group's search for a chairman for this summer's Ubyly home-coming continues. A letter from Orville Hurford indicated he would have to de-line the offer. The Ubyly Community Club, which annually sponsors the athletic banquet for sports participants, named Fred Maurer, Fred Ruthko and Mark Tenbusch to head the Athletic Banquet Committee.

The banquet is slated for April 8 in the high school gymnasium at 7:30 p.m. and ticket sellers include Lambert Jaroch, E. Alfred Lowell, Duncan McIntyre and Mark Tenbusch. Martin Kubacki of the FFA Chapter gave a talk, "Careers in Farming."

The Ubyly FFA parliamentary procedure team presented a mock meeting. Included were Ronald Briolat, Ervin Depciniski, Gary Gwisdalla, Kevin Kubacki, Dennis Lemanski, and Robert Pawlowsky.

A treasurer's report of the Community Club showed a balance of $932.88 as of Feb. 28.

To Confirm six Palm Sunday

Six teenage members of Good Shepherd Lutheran Church will be confirmed Palm Sunday, March 30, at the 9:30 worship service.

They are Mary Peterson, Morris Powell, John Hacker, Michael Stine, Dennis Schulz and Lou Ann Kennedy.

Other services scheduled for Holy Week include: Maundy Thursday with Holy Communion at 8 p.m.; Good Friday - Tenebrae service at 1:30 p.m.; Easter Sunrise with Holy Communion at 6:30 a.m.; Easter Worship at 9:30 a.m. and Sunday School at 10:30 a.m.

Learn to reason things out - new ideas are the best capital anyone can have.

DAVE ABRAHAM prepares for a mock "run to second" in the gym of Ubyly Community High. Baseball coach Jerry Herp reports last-year-lettersmen returning this year include pitchers: David Johnston and Karrey Dea and players Paul Engle, Ron Rook, Fred Ruthko, Bob Malason and Eugene Mauer. The team has taken 3 of 5 championships in the Western Thumb Baseball District.

SHEET METAL AND DUCT WORK

One For The Road
An hour early in the wrong city
By Dan Marlowe

I had an experience the other day that has me on the verge of applying for a legal guardian. During the year I usually have a number of speaking engagements, some of which go rather far afield. Last August, for instance, I received a phone call from the other side of the state, asking me to speak before a woman's group in March. As a rule I hesitate to book too far in advance because I have a phobia about not breaking a commitment once it's made, and six months in advance I rarely know what my status will be in regard to a book contract that might leave me pinched for time. In this instance, however, I said yes to the speaking engagement.

The March date eventually arrived, and since I'm the type of individual who has been an hour early for every plane or train I've met in my life, I left the house at 5:30 a.m. and drove west in a leisurely manner. I checked into the hotel at 10:30 a.m., had a leisurely lunch, a leisurely stroll, and took a magazine back up to the hotel room with me to kill a little more time before the 2:00 p.m. speaking engagement.

At ten minutes to one I came down into the lobby from the hotel room, ready for a leisurely cab ride to the auditorium, since I had decided against getting my own car out of the hotel garage again. "I want to go to 286 Capital Ave., N.E.," I told the cabbie.

He turned in the front seat to look at me. "Where's Capital Ave., Mac?" "You're a cab driver and you don't know the streets in your own city?" I countered.

"I'll call the dispatcher's office," he replied. "Wait a minute," I said. I had the confirmation of the engagement in my pocket. I took it out and looked at it. The group to whom I was to speak was in Battle Creek. At that moment I was in Grand Rapids. In a lifetime of eventful happenings, that instant of discovery has to rank high.

"How far to Battle Creek?" I said in a wee, small voice. "Eighty miles," the cabbie said.

I looked at my watch. 70 minutes to cover 80 miles. I drew a deep breath. "Battle Creek," I ordered.

I wouldn't want to repeat the ride, but I made the engagement only two minutes late. The cabbie waited for me and brought me back to the hotel in Grand Rapids after my talk. I couldn't call it a profitable speaking engagement, but at least I maintained my record of never missing a commitment.

Reconstructing the crime later, I can understand the original error. At the time I received the phone call invitation, I was just leaving the house for Grand Rapids, so Grand Rapids became fixed in my mind. What I will never understand, however, is that twice I received communications from the program chairman, which I answered. I blithely typed out her address in Battle Creek twice, and I STILL went to Grand Rapids.

Anyone want to apply for the position of legal guardian to a fast-deteriorating writer?

Knowledge is power only when hitched to the right theory.

Baptists honor 42-year pianist
 Mrs. Stanley McArthur was guest of honor at a surprise birthday party Wednesday evening, March 19. The party was held in the Baptist church parlors following the midweek prayer service and was planned by the music committee of the church.
 Mrs. McArthur is a member of the music committee and has served as pianist at the church for 42 years. She is also active in many other capacities, including Sunday School teacher, JOY club leader, and officer in Lael Club and Women's Missionary Union. Around 80 persons attended the party.

New color combos defy tradition
 Rules that used to prescribe how you decorated your home are being altered, particularly where color is concerned. "Colors are being used today in freer and more exciting combinations than ever before," according to Judith Schroeter, Extension Home Economist with the Cooperative Extension Service.
 Old color phobias are being overcome -- pink and orange, once bitter enemies, are now being teamed together for a terrific impact. Bright red walls and hot orange floors defy the rule stating "brightest colors in smallest amounts and cool, light colors for background area".
 It has been stated that you may use any color combination, as long as you understand the effect they will create and know that this is the atmosphere you want in your home.

Since prescriptive, traditional rules are being up-dated, people are freer to express their own likes and dislikes with no fear of doing something "wrong" or being "out of fashion".
 However, some guides still direct in selecting colors to create the atmosphere you wish. Being familiar with color qualities will help. For example knowing what effects colors may have on your perception of space, and remembering that colors may change according to other colors with which they are combined will help in your selection.

One pitfall of combining colors is that almost every combination is pleasing in small amounts but may look altogether different in medium and large amounts.
 For example, a gay cheerful print fabric combining red-orange, green-blue, and violet may be very attractive. But translated into amounts to fill a room space, the effect of the colors could be harsh, vibrating and confusing. Most people would find it uncomfortable.
 Since very few can plan a total color scheme at one time, your job is more likely to purchase or replace furnishings to fit into an existing color scheme. You may maintain the mood or shift the color harmony slightly.
 Periodic color changes in a room also give a homemaker an opportunity to select from the many new fashion colors appearing on the market.

Novesta Baptist services slated
 Rev. James Ronald MacDonald will be the speaker at special meetings slated at the Novesta Baptist church March 30 - April 2. Services will be held at 11 a.m. Sunday and 7:30 each evening.
 MacDonald and his wife are missionary candidates under the Conservative Baptist Foreign Mission Society and will be doing missionary work in Naples, Italy, particularly among Navy personnel and their families.
 He has been pastor of the First Baptist church in Spring Lake, Mich., for five years. He is a graduate of Bob Jones University and attended Northern Baptist Seminary, Bethel Baptist Seminary and Central Baptist Seminary.
 Rev. George Harmon, pastor, extends an invitation to the public to attend the services.

Promote R. Gibbs at Fort Knox
 Ronald C. Gibbs, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Gibbs of Clark Road, Unionville, was promoted to Army private pay grade E-2 upon completion of basic combat training recently at Fort Knox, Ky.

If you have the idea that electric heat is too rich for your blood, you'd be surprised at the number of average people who are putting it in their homes.
 Their present homes. You'd find—just like they—a cleaner house than you've ever experienced. A quiet, even heat, completely worry-free. It's also more comfortable—never desert dry.
 If you'd like a no-obligation estimate on installation and operating cost, call us for the name of an Edison Approved Electric Heat Contractor near you.
 Don't wait for your next house to enjoy electric heat. You can afford it right now. Honest.

DREAM HOME YOUR HOUSE WITH ELECTRIC HEAT.

"This big old farmhouse of ours has electric heat," said Albert Foege of Plymouth. "We heat both floors—nine big rooms—and the cost is cheap. Runs us only a little over $300 a year."
