

Voters approve pay hike requests for officials in 4 area townships

Four of six area townships increased salaries for township officials at meetings held Saturday in the various town halls.

ELKLAND TOWNSHIP

After a heated discussion, voters approved an increase of $700 yearly for Supervisor Maynard McConkey and a boost of $1,000 yearly for Treasurer Mac O'Dell and Clerk R. M. Hunter.

All of the voters present agreed that raises were in order, but several of the 21 persons attending felt that the raise for the clerk and treasurer were too high.

Spokesman for this group was Ed Golding Sr. He said that he felt that the clerk and treasurer should not be raised by a bigger percentage than the supervisor.

Both Hunter and O'Dell said that they would quit if they did not get the full raise recommended by the township board.

Ed Golding Jr. made motion to raise all of the salaries an equal amount percentage wise and it was defeated. This motion would have upped the supervisor $700 and the clerk and treasurer, $450.

Hunter pointed out that when the last raise was given the supervisor, the clerk and treasurer were not boosted, too.

Following the defeat of Golding's motion, the voters authorized by a 19-2 margin the following salaries: supervisor, from $2,800 to $3,500; clerk, $1,500 to $2,500, and treasurer, $1,500 to $2,500. In addition mileage at 10 cents per mile was okayed for all officers on township business outside of the township.

McConkey outlined possible road jobs and the voters decided to leave the final decision to the town board. Best bet is that Doerr Road from Elmwood Road to Garfield Street will receive attention.

This .6 of a mile is within the township's budget and C. R. Hunt has offered to furnish sand worth an estimated $1,400 if the project is authorized.

The Cass City Recreational Park program was granted $500, up $100 from the amount contributed last year.

GREENLEAF TOWNSHIP

Clare Brown, supervisor, said that it was a quiet meeting at Greenleaf. There were no salary raises and new road work is pending. The last two miles of Cass City Road in the township will be placed under construction. Grade and fill will be completed this year and blacktop the following year, Brown said.

EVERGREEN TOWNSHIP

Floyd Kennedy, supervisor of Evergreen Township, reported the township finished off the fiscal year with a $5,000 surplus. A $2,000 surplus was left the previous fiscal year.

Officials approved a $10 per meeting compensation for the township supervisor to attend meetings of the newly initiated association of supervisors.

Kennedy said a communication gap was created when the number of supervisors represented on the county board was decreased, and removing the direct voice of each township in county affairs.

He said a township fee would probably also be assessed the township to support the association. He declined comment on what the fee would be, but said the state recommendations were that the association adopt a budget of roughly $2,000.

Kennedy said complaints had been received saying that better control of dumps was needed and that township officials were preparing a resolution to license dumps in the township. He said the complaints were focused around the dump on M-53 and that he expected the resolution to be passed at upcoming special meetings.

Construction funds for a mile of grade and gravel was allocated for N. Decker Road near the Cass River Bridge. It will cost $4,000 and the township will pay one-sixth of the cost.

A mile of Pringle Road will also be graded and gravelled. Construction costs for the stretch between Decker and Leslie Roads will be $7,500 of which the township will pay five-sixths.

Township officials will confer with the county road commission and the county drain commissioner about constructing the collapsed Cass River bridge on Hadley Road to render it passable for farm tractors to cross.

Kennedy said he received unofficial word that Evergreen Township would be requested to participate in the financial funding of the Cass City recreation program, though the expected written request had not reached officials by the time of Saturday night's meet.

He said the township "would probably" support the program, and take action on it at a future meeting.

NOVESTA TOWNSHIP

Novesta Township officials met Saturday night increasing salaries and compensation for attending meetings, increasing their annual allocation to the

Gun Club may desert MUCC in deer squabble

The Cass City Gun Club heard the State president of the Michigan Deer Hunters Association Monday appeal to them to renounce their affiliation with the Michigan United Conservation Clubs (MUCC).

The president, Willard Muslof of Oscoda, said the directors of MUCC "is playing patti-cake" with officials of the Department of Conservation. He charged that Cass City Gun Club members, most of them members of MUCC, "were being used" by the MUCC which was not opposing antlerless deer hunting.

He said the Michigan Deer Hunters Association started about two years ago, because MUCC "wasn't doing the job." Cass City Gun Club president, George Lapp, said the club is "seriously considering" renouncing their affiliation with the Michigan United Conservation Club. He said about one-third of the members attending purchased $3 memberships.

The club passed a resolution urging the legislature to oppose antlerless hunting, "where the deer herds have become decimated to the point of near extinction."

There were 30 attending Monday night's meet including six junior members of the Gun Club.

Conservation officer Jim Gellhardt of Caro Game Division office defended the proposed antlerless hunt on the basis of the car kill and challenged Gun Club members to fight for other causes as well as the preservation of the deer herd.

"Those deer being killed by cars should be in the hunter's bag," he said. Gellhardt challenged the outdoorsmen to fight for public support for a more abundant duck population.

"Michigan," he said, "has more large bodies of water than any other state and could become the biggest duck factory in the world."

He said ducks provide a good portion of the annual bird kill and could provide lavish waterfowl hunting for Michigan sportsmen. "But yet," he said, "hunters do little about it."

He said farmers and property owners could plant "a little rye, a little corn, a little millet, flood it, and you got ducks," Gellhardt alleged inadequate public support of the conservation department saying, "we're leading the fight in many good things," but these are never talked about.

He said the department had 203 officers at its inception in 1929 and has about 160 now, despite the fact that the state is issuing 7 times the number of deer licenses and that the department is shouldering many new responsibilities.

He said more officers were desperately needed for more effective conservation law enforcement and he alleged there are as many deer taken illegally every year as there are taken

Open meeting set Friday at high school

An open meeting to discuss the proposed four-mill increase in taxes to operate the Cass City Schools has been scheduled for Friday night in the speech room of the high school.

Supt. Don Crouse said that the Friday meeting was designed for anyone who has been unable to attend previous sessions held at the school.

The election is scheduled April 22.

Explain senior citizens school tax exemption

Senior citizens who qualify for tax exemptions under existing laws cannot pay more than $30 in taxes if the requested four mills for operating Cass City Schools is authorized April 22, authorities revealed this week.

The tax exemption applies for all senior citizens owning property with a State Equalized Valuation of $10,000 or less. SEV is 50 per cent of true cash value.

Under the law the first $2,500 is exempt from taxes, leaving a maximum of $7,500 that could be taxed.

Many homes will be valued at less than the maximum and pay less than $30, it was explained by authorities.

FROM THE Editor's Corner

I get a shivery feeling when I walk around downtown Detroit, especially on a dark, rainy day or at night.

It increases when a cab driver answers my hail and glides up with the doors locked and gives me the careful once-over before letting me in.

It's not pleasant to walk from a building at the University of Detroit or Wayne and cast furtive glances for potential trouble all the way to the haven of the car.

The danger is real, make no mistake about it.

But given a choice, I'd sooner risk a mugging than unbridled police power. . . live with over indulgent courts rather than risk any abridgement of my individual freedom, no matter how minute.

You couldn't sell this theory, probably, to a good many Detroit merchants. Last week I drove down Warren from Woodward Avenue to Dearborn.

In this area glass in windows is rapidly going out of style. Windows are replaced with wood and brick. A print shop and several other shops on the street conduct business behind locked doors. A sign announced that the business is open. You want to enter, knock.

Consequently and with a good deal of justification, the cry from all sides is a demand to take the handcuffs off the police . . . crack down hard on criminals. . . action now to bring law and order back to our cities.

Everyone wants a cure. . . a painless cure. . . when there isn't any.

Short of an out-and-out police state, you can't pass stringent enough laws or infringe on personal liberties enough to solve the dilemma of the cities.

Noted coach to spark annual Chamber meeting

Daniel Litwhiler, former major league baseball star, has enjoyed an outstandingly successful professional career in baseball, both as a player and a coach.

DANIEL LITWHILER

Many observers who have heard him rank him even higher as an after-dinner speaker.

Litwhiler, head diamond mentor at Michigan State for the last four years, will be the featured speaker at the annual Chamber of Commerce banquet Tuesday night at Cass City High School cafeteria.

Highlight of the meeting for many will be the selection of Cass City's Junior and Senior Citizens of the year.

In addition the new Chamber president and members of the board will be introduced.

While in the majors Litwhiler hit safely in 21 straight games and in 1941 belted a home run in every National League park.

His glove is in baseball's hall of fame for playing 187 consecutive games without an error over two seasons.

His record as a college coach includes 235 victories, 140 losses and two ties.

His coaching record is good, but Litwhiler has received more acclaim for his baseball innovations. He invented a chemical to dry a baseball diamond after rain, now used by most major league parks. He introduced an unbreakable mirror for pitchers to use to check their delivery and saved a bat in half to teach bunting.

He was president of the American Association of College Baseball Coaches in 1968 and participated as a coach in an Olympic connected baseball tournament.

Get only 75¢ in car wash coin box raid

Three Cass City car wash coin boxes were vandalized in what appeared to be attempted robbery, Cass City officer Carl Palmateer reports.

He said the incidents occurred early Saturday morning when both Roy Davis's Robo-wash and Alexander's car wash were hit.

75¢ was stolen at Alexander's Car Wash and the Robo-Car wash coin box was emptied the night previous by its owner. However two of the coin receiver devices and the one at Robo-Car wash were irreparably destroyed, Palmateer reported. Davis said the device at his car wash would cost $38 to replace.

Palmateer reported only the coin receiver, and not the coin box was damaged at Davis' indicating amateurs, and or, youths would be suspected. Palmateer said he has no leads.

Girl uninjured in auto mishap

Barbara Lee Hatmaker, 23, of Cass City struck a bridge abutment Monday, April 7, on E. Cass City Road or M-81 1/2 mile west of Cass City village limits, the Tuscola Sheriff's office reports.

Headed east at a reported 35 MPH, she told county deputies she swerved left to avoid hitting an oncoming car which was in her lane. It occurred at 12:25 a.m.

She was uninjured.

Deadly Cemetery Road stumps experts

The double fatality near M-46 came after a head-on collision. None of the fatal accidents occurred at intersections on the road.

Accidents have been scattered throughout most of the year. The study covers the period from Jan. 1, 1968, through Mar. 18, 1969. During the 15 months there has been an accident each month except two! February and July.

An oddity revealed by the record is that February was accident free in both 1968 and 1969 while January and March were relatively high accident periods. During the two Januarys there were five mishaps and during March 1968-69 four were recorded.

The more you look at the record the more puzzling it becomes. Sheriff Marr commented. It's impossible to say why the road has become a death alley. I don't believe anybody has the answer.

Within 15 months there have been five persons killed on Cemetery Road between Cass City and M-46 and the reason for the highway carnage baffles police and traffic experts.

Except for a barely noticeable curve in the road at the Cass River Bridge the road is straight and visibility is good. According to information received through the cooperation of the Tuscola County Sheriff's Department, there has been a total of 25 accidents on the road in the 15 months. Included have been seven personal injury crashes in addition to the fatal accidents.

The statistics are even more startling when the nature of the road is considered. It is only a major farm-to-market road for less than half its length.

From Deckerville Road to M-46 the road is very lightly traveled.

Most of the accidents including the fatal crashes have occurred in ideal weather conditions. Three of the four fatal accidents involved no other car and came after the drivers lost control of their car for no readily apparent reason.

Roadside trees were involved in three of the fatalities. All three deaths from single car crashes came after the vehicles slammed into trees.

DEATH ALLEY - Shown by stars are the personal injury accidents on Cemetery Road from Cass City to M-46. The stars in boxes show the fatal accidents in the period covered. Why the road has proved so hazardous is a puzzle which defies solution, officials say. (Statistical data courtesy of Tuscola County Sheriff's Department.)

Letter to Editor

Rep. Spencer outlines school financing position

April 4, 1969

Dear Editor:

I would like to express my comments on Governor Milliken's message to the Legislature on Educational Finance. I had talked with the Governor nor at length on this subject prior to his special message. We discussed whether it would be possible to consider a major revision in educational finance during this regular session or would it be necessary to call a special session this fall for that specific purpose.

With over 3000 separate bills already in the legislative hopers, Governor Milliken made the decision that it would be better to tackle this tremendously complicated problem in a special session this fall as a single item. On this point of timing I disagree with the Governor. I feel the time is NOW. All of the other 3000 plus items combined are small by comparison. I list the following reasons for my decision:

1. A great number of our schools in Michigan will be unable to provide an adequate level of education this coming year.

2. It is not in the best interest of our students to order our schools to either cut out major curriculum or to double the size of our classes.

3. It is without reason to expect our schools to cut back in professional services when all major industry has increased from 6 to 8 percent.

4. It must be recognized that over 50% of our millage issues for more property tax are meeting with failure.

5. It must be recognized that property tax falls the hardest on those that are the least able to pay.

6. It must be recognized that the only tax with sufficient yield to replace the property tax is an income tax.

7. It must be recognized that the duty of financing education must be borne fairly and equitably by all people, not just the property owner.

8. It must be recognized that control of our schools must remain in the hands of our local districts and that state aid should be so allocated to each district so that equal effort in any district will produce equal funds for each pupil.

The package of bills that I introduced will provide a remedy for all the above listed problems. It is true and just that the contribution from the state level to the local districts would be provided by an increase in the state personal income tax of 1 1/2% and the corporate income tax of 3% both earmarked for education. According to both labor and industry this is a fair split of the tax responsibility.

As for local effort and local control, the district itself would decide its level of education with the state providing matching funds so that local effort in one district of this state would be equal to a like effort in any other district. The local district would have the authority to shift the major part of its local effort from property tax to income tax and in all districts property tax would be greatly relieved of the educational tax burden.

With the yield of the local income tax being guaranteed by the state to yield $125 per pupil per 1% I believe that most districts would prefer this to property tax. For example - 1% income tax would equal 10-12 mills of property tax in most districts of outstate Michigan.

This program would greatly relieve the tax burden on senior citizens, low income families and agricultural interests, shifting the tax load to the higher income groups. To me this is as it should be.

I am going to continue my efforts to enact this program. Like most people I also deplore student rebellion on our campuses and in our schools and more effective means must be found to deal with this specific problem. However, let us not forget that this group represents a very small minority of our students and we as a society cannot afford to let this small minority destroy the educational opportunities of 99% of our students that do believe in the orderly process of law, order and justice. I would be more than pleased to explain in detail any specific part of this entire program.

Respectfully,
Roy L. Spencer
State Representative

Did you know that auto racing now attracts more than 40 million paid admissions in America each year, and among all sports now has climbed into 2nd place in total paid attendance, second only to horse racing, which has the advantage of pari-mutuel betting. . . Auto racing is one of the fastest growing American sports.

One For The Road

It was hard to say no

By Dan Marlowe

I've come to the conclusion that I must give the appearance of needing work.

Or of not having much to do. I say this because two or three times a year I'm offered a job.

Businessmen of various types suggest that my peculiar talents might profitably be employed in their particular line of endeavor. I am usually told when such a proposal is coming, because it's invariably preceded by the same question: "How much do you make from your writing?"

An honest answer from me produces an identical reaction: "You can do a lot better than that coming with me."

I don't deny it, but my response to each is the same: "Thanks, but no thanks."

Most such offers come after a speaking engagement during which my background in business has been brought out. Even though most offers of this type are well within my previous horizons of office management and allied business arts, I turn a deaf ear. I've been that route, and although I enjoyed it while I was doing it and have nothing against it, I enjoy more what I'm doing now, the financial differential notwithstanding.

Occasionally, though, I receive an offer which really tempts me, and this happened recently. It was all the more enticing because it was temporary and because it involved one of my less respectable interests in life, horse racing, a subject in which I go all the way back to the year 1933. It's not a subject which lends itself to cocktail party conversation unless one happens to meet an individual of similar persuasion. This happened to me not too long ago, and with a sympathetic and knowledgeable ear available, I reminisced at length about the bad old days.

From this conversation came the job offer. "I knew you were a worker-with-words," my cocktail party companion said, "but I didn't know you had a background in horse racing. How would you like to put it together?"

"Doing what?" I inquired.

"Doing the public relations work for a race track for the summer meeting,"

Further inquiry developed that the meeting would last for 70 days, and the emolument was $50 a day. In addition, a table in the clubhouse would be assigned at which I could do any entertaining my public relations expertise indicated was necessary. The race track would pick up the tab.

It would have meant sunrises on the backstretch amidst the ammoniac fragrances of horses and leather. It would have meant breakfasts in the track kitchen while pursuing stories for the news media. It would have meant rubbing elbows once again with some of the most raffish, most entertaining people on earth.

But I finally said no. A serious dislocation in work and living arrangements would have been involved, for one thing. And there was more than a possibility that I might be attempting to spread myself too thin.

So I said no, but with much more reluctance than usual. This was one time I almost wished I needed the work.

legally. He said roughly 200 deer are taken in Tuscola County in a good season.

He said the money hunters spend for licenses is being spent to give free public advice to urban dwellers "on where to build pools and where to plant shrubs."

Gellhardt told the sportsmen Michigan's Great Lakes fish programs were in crisis because of the fish being killed by insecticides and pesticides which accrue in the fatty tissues of the fish.

They're passing it onto their offspring, he said, and "pretty soon people won't want to even eat them because the fish will be so poisoned."

The poison, he said, "stays in the water forever."

The conservationist charged other states were not cooperating in the Federal Fish and Wildlife Division's proposal for a closed season on shooting birds in the Mississippi Flyway. He said the birds congregate in Mississippi and are "being shot off" while the bird population continues to decrease.

"Get concerned, get involved," challenged Gellhardt. He asked them to come into the Game Division's office, and "see where your money's being spent, and find out more about your conservation department."

Gellhardt stiffly resisted a suggestion conservation officials be elected, instead of appointed as a non-partisan commission. He said, "if the department is turned over to the politicians, you'll really be in trouble."

Any department can be improved upon, he said, "but I think this department's as good as any."

Township supervisor Henry Rock reported the supervisor salary was increased from $950 to $1,200 plus a $200 car expense.

The township clerk's salary was hiked from $600 to $700 and the treasurer's salary was hiked from $650 to $750. The salary of the deputy clerk was increased from $50 to $100. The township voted to increase the allocation to the Cass City recreation program from $175 to $200.

The officials voted to lay "mat" type pavement on Kelly road between Warner and Dodge roads.

The group decided to hold regular meetings on the first Saturday of odd-numbered months starting at 1 p.m.

GRANT TOWNSHIP

Sixteen met at the Grant Township Hall Saturday night for the annual meeting.

Salaries and compensation for attending meetings were increased across the board. Howard Irner, township supervisor had his salary hiked from $800 to $900; the treasurer's went from $600 to $700 and compensation for attending meetings went from $15 per meeting to $20 per meeting inclusive for all trustees and officers.

Clerk Gillies Brown said the $15,200 expected expense for the upcoming fiscal year is roughly the same as last year.

The trustees moved to pay up to $12 per resident family for dust control of township roads. Each family who participates will, as in the past, request reimbursement for money spent (up to $12) for doing it themselves or having a private firm do it.

It was moved to grade and gravel a one mile stretch of Rascue Road about 2 miles west of Rescue Store.

1970 road improvement includes grading and graveling two one mile stretches on Bach Road.

The trustees allocated $150 for a brush spray program with the roadsides to be sprayed being determined at a later date.

Grant Township supervisor Howard Irner reported several ditches in the township will be deepened and some tilled. He said residents pay 50% of the cost with the county and the township splitting the other 50%.

ELMWOOD TOWNSHIP

Elmwood Township officials met last week, hiked township salaries and agreed to make a double payment on the township's new fire truck.

The supervisor's salary was increased from $1,100 to $2,000; the clerk's from $300 to $500 and the treasurer's from $700 to $900.

"We've cut down a little on the road work," said supervisor Milton Hofmeister, "so we can save on the interest on the new fire truck."

This year the township expects to make a double payment, totaling $9,720 on the fire truck, out of a total anticipated expenditure of $27,820.

$3,500 is being appropriated for gravel resurfacing on township roads and $3,000 is allocated for blacktopping on Dickinson Road west of Hurds Corner Road.

The following dates were set for quarterly township meetings at 8 p.m. at the Elmwood Township Hall: July 7, October 6, January 5, and March 2.

The vented rechargeable nickel-cadmium batteries used for emergency lighting have been designed to require addition of water only once every 10 years.

UBLY COUNCIL IN session Thursday

Uby council backs official in shooting at youth's car

The Uby Village Council was stirred by a Chronicle story last week covering an incident between a speeding car of four youths and a local official who put a bullet crease on the trunk of the youth's car.

Though village president Francis Hund said many people had "mixed feelings" about the affair, he was in accord with the council which supported "Rob" Elliott, local village constable.

Police officers are allowed to shoot only in cases of felonies, in which the officer's life is in danger.

On Monday, March 31, Loyal Bismack, driver of the car of four youths, paid fines and costs for what was apparently a reduced charge of careless driving. Elliott reported originally the ticket was issued for reckless driving which removes the license of the driver and carries an automatic three days in jail.

Elliott had alleged in interview that Bismack was intoxicated during the high speed chase.

Mrs. Bismack, mother of the youth driving the speeding car, originally reported plans to have Elliott taken to court and expressed hopes of publicly having Elliott removed by the council.

Mrs. Bismack and her son originally reported the hiring of Bad Axe attorney Col. Harold I. Pawlowski for the court case. Village officials at the council meet reported Pawlowski called shortly after the incident "demanding" Bismack's impounded car be released. Elliott said in the event of a court case, the county prosecuting attorney would represent him.

However, following what was apparently a reduced charge, Bismack failed to attend Thursday's regular council meeting.

The Chronicle erringly reported Pawlowski and the prosecuting attorney would attend the council meeting. They did not attend.

In other actions, Uby village president Francis Hund announced last Thursday the village would be exchanging mayors with Oxford for Mayors Day of Michigan Week.

Uby community leader A. H. MacEachin, newly appointed chairman of the 14 county East Central Michigan Economic Advisory Committee, told the group that plans for land use for the area included an approved, but yet unsecured, $180,000 grant for an Elkton sewage plant.

MacEachin said the advisory committee receives recommendations from county planning commissions and other corporations and funds federal allocations for specific projects.

He said the Uby area, as well as all of Huron County, had been categorized by the economic group as having high unemployment and that the sewage project would be a trump in hand for attracting industry.

He said one industry has hinted interest already in possible location of a 100 employee plant in Elkton.

Huron County supervisor Bill Nugent of Bad Axe reported on that afternoon's meeting of the "augmented committee" (augmented by the involved county boards of supervisors) of the State Drainage Board for the Saginaw Valley Flood Control Project that the petitioning committee, when asked for the need for the project "wasn't able to give any answers."

Held in Albee Township Hall in Saginaw County, Nugent alleged his observations from the meeting led him to believe the valley project was needless. He called the $2 million "a gimmick for the personal gain of developers."

However Sam Quackenbush of the Michigan Department of Agriculture at Lansing who chaired the meeting, said more details would be presented as needs for the project, at the next meeting. He "severely questioned" Nugent's position saying he was sure adequate needs would be presented for the project.

Quackenbush said the Cass River which flows through Uby was a tributary of the Saginaw River and "contributed to the flood problem." He said the augmented committee would determine need and feasibility of the project and then make recommendations to the Inter-County Drainage Board which would determine Huron County's assessment "according to benefit derived."

Nugent told the Uby Council, "I believe we could do it much cheaper alone."

Village president Francis Hund read a letter from the Michigan Department of Social Services serving notice that funds were to be available for 75% of the financing of multipurpose recreational centers. The council said the funds are made available through the recently enacted $300 million recreation bond in Michigan and Hund said the council intended to get more information on it.

A letter was received from Max Anderson Consultants of Madison, Wisconsin, offering their services for consultation in the planning, requesting of funds and construction for new low cost federal housing. The letter said federal financing was for 100% of the costs of construction.

The council briefly discussed Uby housing problems expressing a general need for housing for elderly. Hund said the council would investigate the request.

The council moved to hike compensation for the village's election commission from $15 to $20.

A drawn-out wrangle developed over village pick-up service. A council member suggested the use of polyethylene paper bags and a squabble developed over responsibility for the purchase and distribution of the bags.

Councilman Earl Longuski became irate over open garbage receptacles being an attraction to flies and resulting in maggots. Councilman Fred Maurer was insistent the village should not be coerced into purchasing the bags which run reportedly from 4 to 9¢ apiece.

Hund alleged Maurer "did not understand human nature," saying only 25% of the villagers would comply.

In a resolution, the council will require that after May 1 any resident who wishes trash, garbage cans or trailers picked up, must place them in a plastic receptacle inside a large garbage container.

The plastic receptacles will be available from local merchants, said Hund. He said the council encourages residents to burn their own trash and papers and suggested the use of large wire baskets.

Rabbit tracks

BY JOHN HAIRE

(And anyone else he can get to help)

It's spring! And the frogs are out in force. Judging by the noise there must be hundreds of them down by the railroad tracks south of town.

When you find frogs you'll find boys. Monday three of them . . . two O'Dells and a Gunther . . . were back on a second "froggin" trip.

Ron O'Dell, the son of the Charles O'Dells, reported that they had to come back the second time because they had a little trouble.

We caught a few earlier, Ron confided, and I had them in my pocket. The only trouble was, he explained, when I got home in the house, one jumped out and I couldn't find it.

Through the years the Tuscola County Jail has received very favorable ratings, but none any better than the one issued last Friday by the Department of Corrections.

In a letter to Harold Johnson, chairman of the board of supervisors, it was reported that the facility will receive one of the highest ratings in the state. The inspector said that a spot check also indicated that the records were in order.

Persons working in Scouting will soon become acquainted with Hugh L. Sargent, newly appointed Saginaw Bay Area Council Scout Executive.

He comes from Green Bay, Wis., and is a friend of my sister who lives there. You'll find that he is an outstanding man, she says, and one who will bring Scouting to new heights in the area.

He had been a Scout executive in Green Bay since 1958.

Caro's Jim Gellhardt from the Department of Natural Resources reports that big perch were hitting at Fish Point on Saginaw Bay this week. Now that I have passed this along, every experienced fisherman knows what to expect.

When you arrive every native along the shore will tell you with an exasperating grin that "you should have been here yesterday".

My spies tell me that when Jim Fitzgerald, Lapeer editor, picks up a cue the balls head for the pockets like they had eyes. No wonder then that he accepted with confident, exasperating quickness my challenge for a game.

I've been thinking about the White Creek Club where I might be able to spike his coke or if worst comes to worst pay off with a home-cooked piece of round steak. The only trouble is that he insists on bringing Jim Sherman, Oxford publisher, along to chalk his cue.

And Sherman is built almost exactly like that famous tank of the same name. In fact, I'd sooner tangle with the tank.

So . . . I'll just have to come up with a neutral site or bring along Nelson Willy as cue bearer.

Seniors plan trips at 3 schools

Senior class trip days are here and with it the yen for travel. Cass City, Kingston, and Uby schools report their plans.

86 Cass City seniors plan a five-day jaunt to New York City, visiting Fifth Avenue, Cathedral of St. John the Divine, the United Nations Building, Radio City Music Hall, Rockefeller Center, Madison Square Garden, The Empire State Building, Chinatown and others.

Six chaperones will accompany the 86 of the 107 seniors on their trip May 28 through June 1. They will take a school bus to Detroit and then a chartered Greyhound into New York City.

They expect a trip budget of $8,000.

In Kingston, seniors plan a two-day dude ranch venture. A trip budget of about $600 is limiting the 42 seniors in their travels and previous misbe-

Creative clothes tips from 4-H

Fashions and styles change with the times and they vary from person to person. Changing fashions reflect the state of the world and how we live in it. How we dress also affects how we feel about the world and how the world looks to us. How we dress varies from person to person because each one of us places a different amount of importance on clothing. This may vary for example, with one's way of life, where he lives, his taste and how he or she regards clothing.

Clothes do affect people in different ways. Exactly why this happens is not always clear. For instance, high school teachers say that "dress up" days make a difference. When students wear their neatest looking clothes they behave better. It is as if they are trying to live up to their appearance.

Similarly, we must look at the clothing and knitting projects which a 4-H member chooses in its contribution to the total appearance of the wearer. Are the color and style appropriate for her? Is the fit becoming? What care will it need to retain its appearance? The member should decide all this before she plans and completes her clothing project. Her decisions may rest on other considerations than appearance alone.

Clothes can be a means of using one's imagination. Each club member needs help in learning how to combine lines, colors and textures of clothes for a harmonious appearance that spells good taste. The feeling of creating an outfit, combining accessories and dress which are just right for each other should be a creative reward for each girl.

Clothes are a means of establishing one's identity, expressing one's choice. For clothes need not be dramatic, flamboyant, unusual nor attention-getting to be expressive of individuality. Instead, individuality can be considered as one's style of dress. It has been said that clothes people wear satisfy their inner picture of themselves.

We should view clothes as an artist views his material and color. In the same way, we should select the color, fabric and style to create the appearance we desire. A 4-H clothing project can help a member learn to select appropriate choices - clothes which make her feel comfortable and at ease.

When a child first learns to dress himself, he is beginning to use clothing as a key to independence. The feeling, I can do it, gives him an important sense of achievement.

In the same way, a 4-H clothing project can provide further experiences in developing independence. A clothing project involves many decisions to be made, beginning first with what shall I make and what style will I select.

Dressing like others can provide a sense of belonging. Even elementary school children can see their clothes as being like or different from what others are wearing. The clothes a child wears may influence how relaxed he feels with other children.

The 4-H clothing and knitting projects can help our teenagers develop an awareness in dressing for different occasions. How we dress and what we wear is, to a large extent, determined by our own preferences. We are also influenced by what others feel is appropriate for a particular occasion.

Young people need to learn how to make decisions on their own whenever possible. You can assist youth to become better decision-makers through 4-H project work by spending time with them in planning what they will attempt to do and how you and the member can work together.

If the 4-H leader has worked with the member throughout the project in planning, accomplishment, and evaluating, the girl will have a good idea at the end of the project how successfully her plan has worked for her. Evaluation should be a continuous process that takes place all during the project as each step is accomplished. In this way evaluation is a tool which helps the member learn as the project progresses.

With these important points in mind, the 4-H youth program in Tuscola County has developed a county wide personal appearance achievement program to be held on Saturday, April 12, 1969 at the Caro State Home and Training School. All 4-H members in clothing and knitting projects will have the opportunity to have their garments evaluated on the member.

The evaluation session will start at 9:30 a.m. and will include a dress revue in the afternoon at 1:30 and a revue of finalists at 7:00 p.m. The public is invited to attend this important event in the lives of our 4-H youth. I am sure you will find this event as time well spent for you and your teenagers.

Hugh Brenneman Abortion is a social problem

In this very exciting age in which we live, and this era of great scientific and technological advance, it is only fitting that professional people should re-examine their role in the affairs of society. After all, the professional man is first a citizen - a member of society with all the rights and all the responsibilities that citizenship implies. Some professional ethics are the same as ethics for any other group of people working together in a common cause.

The import of this thought is simply that ethical principles which guide or should guide men, as rational beings possessing free will are guides for doctors, merchants, bankers, homemakers, or any special or particular group within society.

The rightness or wrongness of abortion, for example, is not determined by medical ethics. It is a matter about which the physician may have special knowledge and experience. But this special knowledge and experience does not create a "medical" ethic. In this area as in many others, the practice, discipline, and the professionalism of the physician must reflect itself in the application of socially accepted principles of right and wrong.

The importance of socially accepted ethics in business is seen in the comment made by Betty Furness who was formerly the special assistant for Consumer Affairs to President Johnson. She said, "The simple fact of the matter is that countless numbers of this country's consumers are falling victim to marketplace depredators every month of the year." She frequently voiced her belief that it is up to government to see that the marketplace mends its ways, in other words adopts ethical principles and enforces them through laws.

The business community may be unable to establish and enforce ethical principles in business dealings without governmental sanctions.

There appears to be little question that the American consumer has genuine dissatisfaction about a number of facets of the marketplace today. Too often the complaints appear well-founded. The consumer is restive about prices and credit, advertising and promotions, quality and safety, durability and maintenance, and a host of other aspects of the goods and services he purchases daily for personal and household use.

This has given rise to what is known as the Consumer Movement. . . legislative activity in behalf of consumers. Actually, the consumer movement insofar as legislation is concerned dates back to the turn of the century when the Pure Food and Drug Act was enacted. But no period of legislative activity has produced as many new consumer protective laws as the current one, whether it be due to government concern or a lack of private enforcement by business of business ethics the top marketing executives are saying today that marketing will soon be regulated by law far more than it has been before.

Whatever the reasons behind it, the consumer movement has generated a rising flood of legislation which provides re-education and organization to the point where business may find itself in a quasi-utility status insofar as marketing is concerned.

The states are moving swiftly into the consumer field. Three-fifths now have some type of consumer protective agency or official within their government, and legislation pending in Congress would subsidize this activity through federal grants. Local governments are starting to get active as well.

Paralleling this governmental activity is the recent growth of voluntary consumer organizations. The increase in state and local groups was climaxed by the formation of a new national body, the Consumer Federation of America.

What are needed are positive business solutions to consumer problems. Some of these may be legislative. The fact of the matter is, businessmen are realizing more fully, that to whatever extent they permit the consumer to be taken advantage of today, they will have to blame themselves, along with the politicians, for tomorrow's new regulations.

There's no shortage of ideas for goods, some would generate more grade labelling of products, some would limit private advertising expenditures, or represent consumer interest in the government with broad powers to make surveys and investigations into business practices, prices and profits.

The wisemen say that advertising people and businessmen in general must take greater initiative in showing concern for the consumer. They note that identifying with true consumer interests is itself in the best long run interest of business.

It seems clear that now is a good time for business to apply the same energies to closing the business-consumer communications gap and allay the consumer's restiveness by telling it like it is. But it isn't solely communication, a part of it is plain old-fashioned business ethics.

One of the hopeful signs is the activity of community businessmen and consumer representatives on local levels to meet and discuss the problems of consumers in the community and identify specific complaints. This is probably the most effective means of learning the total proportions of the problem and of demonstrating to consumers and the public as a whole, that business is moving effectively to deal with consumer dissatisfactions by dealing with its own members and the way they do business.

Hawk nine pins hopes on pitching in loop race

Like the Detroit Tigers, the Cass City Red Hawks are going with strong young arms in its bid for a Thumb B Conference baseball championship.

Two sophomores, Rob Alexander and Kim Hopper, are expected to carry the bulk of the hurling chores and each have shown the ability to throw the ball through a brick wall. In 17 innings last year, Alexander chalked up 23 strike-outs and in 10 innings Hopper whiffed 17.

Like most young hurlers, the test will be whether they can throw enough strikes to be effective.

If Hopper and Alexander round into shape quickly, the team should have a shot at the crown this spring.

Besides pitching, Alexander hit at a robust .324 clip last year. Others with experience out again this year include Tom Kolb in the outfield. The Senior outfielder hit .272 last year. Tony Davis and John Smentek are infield veterans and Lee Taylor is expected to do the catching.

Newcomers expected to see plenty of action are a trio of Juniors. In the outfield will be John Wencley and Bruce Eshelman and at first, John Bifoss.

A total of 33 boys reported for varsity and junior varsity baseball this season. The JV coach is Tom Woody. The season will kick-off Tuesday when the Hawks play Sebawaing at Cass City Recreational Park. The team will look sharp in the field this year as new uniforms will be used for the first time this spring. The league season starts April 24 at Sandusky.

The schedule:

VARSITY BASEBALL
(All games 4 p.m.)
April 15 Sebawaing, April 17 at Millington; April 21 Mayville; April 24 at Sandusky; April 28 Marlette; May 1 at Vassar; May 8 Lakers; May 12 at Caro; May 15 Sebawaing; May 19 Bad Axe; May 20 at Unionville; May 22 Frankenthum; May 26-28 reserved for league make-up games.

JUNIOR VARSITY BASEBALL
April 21, at Mayville; April 24 Caro; April 28 no game; May 1 Sebawaing; May 8 at Lakers; May 12 Lakers; May 15 at Bad Axe; May 19 at Caro; May 20 Bad Axe; May 22 at Frankenthum.

THIS PITCHING DUO will carry the hopes of the Cass City Red Hawks. From left, Rob Alexander and Kim Hopper.

An organizational meeting for officials of the Cass City Little League will be held Monday, April 14, at 7:30 p.m. in the General Cable conference room.

RARE SKELETON of a pre-historic animal? An artists sculpture? A strange but friendly monster? Nope, just the charred remains of a roadside stump at the corner of Cedar Run and Elmwood Roads. Ronald Cybulski, 19, son of a nearby farmer, examines the stump.

Top cattle prices sparking spring farm auction sales

40 head of Holstein cattle sold at high bids, reports Harland Lounsbury, Cass City dairyman, whose farm cattle (except for 40 heifers) and machinery were sold in auction Saturday, April 5. His Holsteins averaged $405.

Lounsbury was generally pleased at the sale results, which totaled about $33,500. County Extension official Al Ballweg said beef prices have been strong the recent 2 or 3 years, and that dairy cattle tend to fluctuate with beef prices. This has been "encouraging for the beef producer", said Ballweg.

Lounsbury said he sold his farm machinery and most of his herd "because my gross has been about the same, and my net, less and less." He is now service manager at Bulen Motors.

He still maintains corn and wheat crops with roughly half of each in government grain programs.

At the auction, Lounsbury said his milk equipment sold "real poor." He was unhappy also, he said, with the sale of a diesel tractor which went for $4075.

He was "generally satisfied" however, with the sale prices for his large amount of farm machinery.

Faith is an asset, but don't expect it to do the impossible.

The Want Ads are newsy too.

MSU recommends new Saranac alfalfa variety

Saranac is the new alfalfa variety recommended for southern Michigan. Alfred Ballweg, county extension director, says this variety, or another comparable "Flammande alfalfa" such as DuPuits, is one of the keys to production that permits three harvests in one season.

"Saranac is wilt-resistant and good for a four-year stand," says Ballweg. "It can generally be cut about a week earlier than Vernal, an old Michigan standard variety."

The agent advises that farmers who plant alfalfa this year should try the new variety which has produced excellent yields in Michigan State University tests at East Lansing and in over-state trials. "As much as 5.5 tons of hay have been cut from a stand in its fourth year," he reports.

For long-term stands and in areas where winters are more severe, farmers may want to try limited plantings of Saranac and use Vernal as their first choice variety.

Since Saranac can be cut a week earlier than other varieties it offers another advantage. It will likely be possible to treat fields for the alfalfa weevil between the first and second cutting. Treating stubble is less expensive than treating fields with full-grown alfalfa plants.

Women's Council names officers

Election of officers was held Monday evening when St. Patrick's Women's Council met. Twenty-seven members attended the meeting held at the social hall.

Mrs. Clarence Erla advanced to the presidency, replacing Mrs. Tom Herron. New officers named were: Ann Rogers, vice-president; Chris Erla, secretary; and Delores Tuckey, treasurer.

Mrs. Herron spoke on parish. She urged members of the parish to write their representative in congress this month.

The council is planning a rummage sale this month. The annual mother-daughter banquet will be held Wednesday, May 21, and Mrs. Maxine Maharg and Marion Turner are in charge.

Refreshments were served by Elsie Hahn, Shirley Johnston, Lois Sugden and Michelle Zdrojewski.

The first mining in the Sudbury District of Ontario began in 1886 when some 3,000 tons of copper ore were removed. Today the area is the world's leading source of nickel, yielding nearly 20 million tons of ore annually.

A co-ed pajama party. ....

By Richard Haines

I suppose it's every young man's wish to attend a girls pajama party. Recently . . . it almost happened.

Any of you Cass Cityans ever hear of a co-ed pajama party? How 'bout you Ublians?

On quite a few Michigan campuses, pajama dances are in full swing. The "in" folks are in pajamas.

I was at Pajama University in Ann Arbor about a month ago and the halls of learning were throbbing to the undulations of a dimly lit, but packed dance room in a dental "frat" house.

The curriculum was pajamas a course.

Most of the girls wore "not quite seeable through", but still, sleek negligee. Doing the Monkey with a girl in a pink negligee must be the ultimate.

And the fellas wore knee lengths and full sizes—stripes, prints, and solids. Some of the guys' pajamas looked like maybe they'd been worn the previous 90 consecutive nights.

The idea is to attend the dance wearing what you sleep in. The next time I'm in pajama-town, maybe I'll find someone who sleeps in the nude. Maybe they'd like to attend a special dance.

Shortly after that week end, there was a pajama dance at Saginaw Valley College. One fellow who attended said he wore only his white cotton shorts when he slept. One guess what he wore to the dance.

The teachers, pretending not to notice, talked and sat with nare a brain's throb.

The other students . . . a smirk here, a snicker there, said it somehow "added" to the atmosphere.

It's the first time I ever subtracted to get an add.

Among the most powerful permanent magnets known are those made from an alloy of iron, nickel, aluminum and cobalt.

Most homemakers know they'll save themselves time and energy if they clean up those oven spills right away. But when occasion doesn't allow it and you have a full-scale cleaning job ahead—what do you do?

First, try to tackle the job when toddlers are not around. There are a number of oven cleaning methods you can use. One of the simplest and oldest methods is the ammonia technique. It involves placing a saucer of regular ammonia on a rack in your oven overnight. Next, scrub the dirty spots and stains with a soapy steel pad and water. If you try this method, remember to stand to the side of the oven when you first open the door to avoid breathing in the vapors. Use this method only in a room that has been well ventilated by opening a window or turning on an exhaust fan.

There are also a number of commercial oven cleaners on the market. Some spray on, others are applied with a brush. But whichever you use, avoid getting the cleaner on that thermostat in your oven. The most important thing to remember in using these commercial cleaners is to read the manufacturer's directions, gain an understanding of them, and then follow the instructions explicitly.

Some manufacturers now offer teflon-coated oven liners. These can be removed and cleaned easily by washing in your sink with sudsy water. At an extra initial cost you can purchase one of the new ranges with self-cleaning ovens. These let the oven do the cleaning work for you. Manufacturers estimate it costs seven to ten cents a cleaning, depending on local utility rates. This is comparable, and sometimes even less expensive, than using commercial cleaners on ovens which are not self-cleaning.

Uncle Tim From Tyre Says:

Dear Mister Editor:

I'm sorry I ever brought up that "think break" business. The fellers at the country store got wound up on the subject Saturday night, and I was glad when it came time to lock up and go home.

Zeke Grubb reported he had saw by the paper where this state attorney in Virginia allowed a convict is not qualified to say the death penalty is cruel unusual punishment "as he has not undergone it." Zeke said that puts the stopper in the worry jug. The Russians or the Chinamen ain't blowed us up yet, allowed Zeke, so we ain't qualified to worry about getting blowed up.

The Government is spending $350 million a year making germs and gas, and the Army has got enuff now to kill 30 times as many people as they is in the world. A few drops of the stuff can kill a feller, Zeke said, and the Army is shipping it all over the country by railroad. No need to worry about a train wreck busting a barrel of germs. Zeke said, cause we ain't qualified to worry about someone that ain't happened.

Actual, Zeke said, what we got to worry about is the Russians. They got enuff germs and gas to kill everybody in the world 240 times. It ain't that we're worried about them using them deadly chemicals on us, he said, it's that we got to have more stored up than the Russians fer our own protection. A feller could stub his toe carrying a bucket of them germs, said Zeke, and put an end to the population explosion forever.

Ed Doolittle said he had saw where this scientist said the only way to feed all the people in the world was to kill off a few million ever now and then, so all them stored up germs might come in handy. Incidental, said Ed, he had saw where some families of dead folks that had been froze to wait for a cure to bring 'em back to life now is having 'em thawed out and buried. Ed said he figured the world is getting so full of problems living a second life probably won't be worth the trouble.

Clem Webster got the floor and declared Castro has the right idee to do away with worry. He promised folks in Cuba a sugar crop of 10 million tons a year. He won't git it this year, but he ain't worried. He is jest stretching the year. In Cuba, when they finish December 1969 they will go to January No. 2 1969 and keep going in 1969 til they git them 10 million ton.

Personal, Mister Editor, I'm going to quit any serious worrying, I mean thinking. Ever day is doomsday by somebody's perdition, and I've lived long enuff to know if we jest set and wait fer troubles to find us, most of 'em will wear themselves out, and we'll be rested up fer them that catch us.

Yours truly,
Uncle Tim

AROUND THE FARM

Aim for 5-ton alfalfa crop

By Don Kebler

Higher crop value per tillable acre can be possible from alfalfa but, we must achieve higher yields.

Michigan farm operators are producing an average of 2.02 tons of hay per acre. On this basis, this hay crop is costing more than its value because it takes at least 3 to 3 1/2 tons per acre to break even on all costs.

We know that alfalfa yields of 5 and 6 tons per acre are not too difficult to achieve especially if the cultural inputs are closely followed. In other words, if the crop costs generally required for a corn crop were applied to alfalfa the value of alfalfa produced would be greater than now.

How about the cultural practices necessary to grow a profit crop of alfalfa? For those who really want to do the proper job, they need to select a proper site and, even though alfalfa does grow on a wide range of soils, a deep well drained and fertile soil is best. Other cultural management recommendations are: meet time requirements, use the best varieties, inoculate the seed, soil test and follow a proper fertilizer program, prepare a good seed bed, band seed whenever possible, follow weed and insect control programs and, make your first cutting at the first sign of buds on the alfalfa plant.

I don't believe it necessary to elaborate too long on the reason to harvest alfalfa at a less mature stage of growth. We all know the longer alfalfa grows between cuttings, the higher the content of the plant will be in just plain woody fiber. And livestock won't do much on low nutrient value sawdust.

We have some data now that indicates when harvesting the first cutting of alfalfa on June 1st instead of June 20th, the feed value per ton can increase by at least 8 dollars. Twenty-eight dollar per ton alfalfa at six tons per acre surely makes this crop a real good competitor to a 23-ton per acre corn silage crop.

So to all farm operators who produce alfalfa, strive for one or both these goals:

- 1) Produce at least a 5-ton per acre alfalfa crop.
- 2) Compare the value of the crop produced. If the greatest value comes from alfalfa rather than corn as silage, you may realize a greater profit from growing alfalfa. This is especially true where at least equitable corn silage yields are not obtainable to alfalfa yields on the same field, on the same farm and by the same operator.

How to sew a rigid fabric

A puckered seam takes the "chic" out of a new outfit. And washing may bring even more drastic results.

According to Judith Schroeder, Extension Home Economist with the Cooperative Extension Service, this can easily happen when sewing rigid fabrics, material with a close or firm weave or where some extra process has fixed the yarns in position so they are not flexible.

While a stretchy fabric gives when stitched, a rigid fabric will tend to resist the needle, the thread, and its tension during machine sewing. This causes the seam to look puckered and less smooth.

To avoid this, loosen the tension on the thread. This reduces the pull of the stitches as they are made through the rigid fabric. Another technique is to use fewer stitches per inch with the slightly loose thread tension.

A fine, sharp needle penetrates the fabric with less distortion. Needles may have to be changed frequently because some fabrics dull them. Fine thread also gives less resistance to a rigid fabric, and some threads of synthetic or man-made fibers are finer than cotton threads.

Any rigid fabric requires machine stitching techniques with a slightly loose thread tension, fewer stitches per inch, and a fine needle and thread size that gives it the least resistance. Today's fabrics in this category include tarpon cloth, kettle cloth, taffeta, durable press, wash and wear and vinyls.

Development of breakaway nickel stainless steel lightpoles, which shear at their base when struck by a car, promises increased highway safety. Extensive tests have shown that damage to a car, after collision, is minimal and the driver remains unhurt and in control of the automobile. The first major installation of such safety poles has been made by the Minnesota State Highway Department.

Folic Acid

Many birth defects, infant deaths, miscarriages and serious complications of pregnancy are now blamed on a shortage of folic acid (vitamin B complex) during pregnancy. Dr. Martin L. Stone, of New York, and his colleagues studied 250 pregnant women and found 20% of them lacked the vitamin.

And 35% of the babies born to the women suffering from the folic acid deficiency also lacked the vitamin.

Dr. Stone points out that pregnant women need many more times the amount of folic acid in their daily diet than non-pregnant women, because of the metabolic changes that occur during pregnancy, and because of the demands of the growing fetus. The vitamin is needed for the manufacture of protein and the basic body-building enzymes.

Tests can determine whether such a deficiency exists. Women should have such tests before they become pregnant, Dr. Stone suggests. Pregnant women should obtain prenatal care as soon as possible, to avert any possible danger.

Folic acid is normally found in green-leaf vegetables, but your doctor may decide that your diet needs to be supplemented during pregnancy with synthetic vitamin B complex.

"If It Fitz..."

The secretary's silly syllables

BY JIM FITZGERALD

This middle-aged woman came into my office, obviously troubled, and she had some good questions. I couldn't give her any good answers.

That night I was reading about Defense Secretary Melvin Laird and I thought Gee, if I had his smooth tongue I could have given that nice lady some bad answers that sounded good.

Secretary Laird was explaining the Vietnam situation to a Senate committee: "Our orientation seems to have been more on operations than on assisting the South Vietnamese to acquire the means to defend themselves," he said.

Marvelous. Can you think of a daintier way of saying that the U.S. is doing the fighting while the South Vietnamese watch?

More from Laird: "It is apparent that a successful infrastructure effort will thus require a substantially higher enemy rate of attrition than has yet been realized."

Beautiful. What the man means is that we must kill the bad guys faster than they are being born.

Laird also said the U.S. has not yet achieved "the development of indigenous forces which would be capable of suppressing insurgency on their own if North Vietnamese and U.S. forces were withdrawn."

How about those syllables?

No one is going to accuse our Defense Secretary of using 4-letter words. What Laird was saying is that if the U. S. and North Vietnam troops dropped out, the south Vietnam army would be smeared by the Vietcong.

And what it all amounts to is Laird's admission that, after 15 years of spending and bleeding in Vietnam, the U.S. has not nearly accomplished its objective. Remember, we were going to send a few of "our boys" over there for a few months to train the South Vietnamese troops, to show them how to stop Communism from spreading (any closer than Cuba?). Sure, it was a civil war and really none of our business but, what the heck, it wouldn't take long for our military experts to get things going the right way. Remember the Bay of Pigs? The boys will be home for Christmas for sure.

You bet. Over 50,000 young Americans have had their last Christmas. Santa Claus failed them in Vietnam. Ten thousand American soldiers have been killed since the stuffed shirts sat down to talk peace in Paris. And if you think that's the worst of it, you should visit some military hospitals where there are teenage boys who will never walk or talk or see or move again.

"Why does it have to be? When will the killing end?" That's what the middle-aged woman asked me. She had brought me a picture of her son to go with the story I was writing about him. He had been killed in Vietnam the week before, 10 days after his 20th birthday.

She couldn't stop the tears. I couldn't give an answer.

Secretary Laird should be forced to mouth his bloody nonsense to the mothers of these dead boys. He should look them in the eye and tell them their sons are part of the necessary U.S. attrition if there is to be a successful infrastructure effort whereby indigenous forces may suppress insurgency.

I wonder if Laird could spout all those silly syllables with a mouthful of Vietnam mud?

Plumbing group meets in village

The Thumb Area Plumbers Association (TAPA) met in Cass City March 12 at the New Gordon Hotel where Robert Ryland was host for a reorganization meeting.

It was their first official meeting since their split with the State Plumbers group. Ryland said the group split because Thumb Area Plumbers allegedly were not getting the benefits "as the Detroit group is."

The next meeting is scheduled for the 17th, at 7 p.m., at Klump's Restaurant four miles south of Harbor Beach.

The Oroville Dam in California, highest in the United States, uses a specially engineered trashrack system to prevent logs and debris from entering its powerplant turbines. Designed entirely from more than 700,000 pounds of nickel stainless steel, the trashracks stretch over 70,000 square feet.

From left to right in the front row are his daughter, Mrs. Irene O'Dell, Theodore Hendrick and granddaughter, Karen. In the rear are his 15-year-old grandson twins, Douglas (left) and Duane.

A 96-acre farm owned by Theodore C. Hendrick of R#2, Cass City, has been designated as a Centennial Farm by the Michigan Historical Commission.

Hendrick still has the original plat certificate of the original owner, James Travis, which was signed over from the Land Office by President James Buchanan on June 1, 1860.

Travis sold it to Wheeler Ovaatt who sold it to Hendrick's grandfather in 1868 for $500. In 1867 the property tax on the then 100 acre homestead was $6.49. Hendrick still has the original property tax statement.

His grandfather, Orson Hendrick, reportedly built the first log cabin on the homestead.

Mr. Hendrick's wife, Effie, died last June. He has five brothers and sisters including Jenny Ola Hayes, 87, of rural Cass City; Eunice Finkbeiner, 85, of Flint; Fannie Finkbeiner, 78, of Owendale; Arthur Hendrick, 94, of Alamo, Texas; and Orson Hendrick, 78, of St. Louis, Mich.

His daughters include Mrs. George Fisher of Uby, Mrs. Irene O'Dell of rural Cass City, Mrs. Isabelle O'Dell of Pennsylvania and Mrs. Sherwell Kelly of New Boston.

Mr. Hendrick said he liked farming because it allowed him to "be out in the open."

Let Hurds Road job for $129,948

Frank Strausberg and Sons of Saginaw was the low bidder for 3.4 miles of road work in Tuscola County at a State Highway Commission bidding held April 2 at Lansing.

Strausberg bid $129,948 for paving Hurds Corner Road between M-81 and Bay City-Forestville Road, northeast of Caro.

A total of four bids were received. Completion date is Aug. 15.

To prevent sticking and jamming of door locks that must operate in corrosive atmospheres, cylinders of high-quality locks are made from a copper-nickel alloy.

Copyright 1969 Keister Advertising Service, Inc., Strasburg, Va.

On a busy night in New York—or any other city—it pays to be expected. After our wanderings we crave welcome.

There is somewhere else we are expected . . . and welcomed!

Here is an aspect of religious concern which isn't emphasized enough: Whatever you've done about it, you are conscious of the fact that you need God. But are you aware also that God needs you?

Or, putting it another way, do you realize that one of the churches in our community has been expecting you—waiting for you to add your strength to that of your neighbors, your brothers in faith?

You don't need a reservation. Only a reverent heart.

Gov. Milliken fights "pork barrel" of water bonds

"WATER FIGHT"

Everyone wants clean water, but there's disagreement in the state Legislature over whose streams should get first priority under the $335 million anti-pollution bond issue.

Attempts are afoot to earmark the funds for individual projects rather than letting the State Water Resources Commission say how the money should be spent.

And Gov. William G. Milliken is visibly upset with apparent attempts to "pork barrel" the bond issue for the voters back home.

****

"It is absolutely imperative that these (bond) bills move through the Legislature without pork barreling and that they get through in sufficient time so that we can get some of the very critical projects under way this spring," Milliken said.

The Governor wants the lawmakers to authorize the Water Resources Commission to appropriate the money. He says Commission experts are "highly qualified" to determine which projects are needed first.

****

Chairman Charles O. Zollar of the Senate Appropriations Committee insisted priorities would be followed in the Legislature as set by the Water Resources Commission.

However, lawmakers apparently are going to try to retain a certain amount of control over the spending. Zollar's committee plans to set up the spending of the bond money along the lines of a capital outlay law.

Under this procedure, final approval must come from the Legislature's Joint Capital Outlay Committee.

****

The hassle continues, meanwhile, over apportionment of the $100 million recreational bond issue. The Governor is pressing harder than ever for his plan to allot most of the money to the big urban areas, and outstate legislators remain as adamant as ever for the so-called "70-30" formula.

Conservationists and their friends in the Legislature argue that voters approved the bond program last fall with the understanding that at least 70 per cent of the funds would go to outstate projects and only 30 per cent to the cities.

****

Milliken maintains there was no such promise and that the urban centers need the money more than the rural regions because of population density.

It appears Milliken may be fighting a losing war. Even his fellow Republicans are critical of his plan and say they will work against it.

NEW VOTE PLAN

Revamping the oft-criticized U.S. Electoral College system in Michigan is the aim of a bill before the House. The measure would allow the state to split its 21 electoral votes among the presidential candidates rather than casting all for the nominee who wins a statewide plurality.

****

Specifically, the bill provides for 19 electors from the state's 19 congressional districts to be picked by each party in the Legislature, plus two statewide or at-large electors.

A congressional district elector would be obligated to cast his ballot for the presidential candidate getting a plurality of the votes within the district. The at-large electors would vote for the candidate getting the statewide plurality.

LITTLE IMAGINATION

For lack of a better name, state officials are calling a seven-story building in the new capitol complex "The Seven Story Building."

It's not very original, but it's the best they could come up with in a hurry. The other three buildings in the complex are also aptly named: The Treasury Building, The Highway Building and The Mason Building.

Already, some suggestions have come in to give "The Seven Story Building" a real name like perhaps "The Attorney General Building" because that's who occupies the top two floors or maybe even the "Kelley Building" for Atty. Gen. Frank J. Kelley.

RETURNS TO CAPITOL

Wilfred G. Bassett, Speaker of the House from 1961 to 1964, is back at work in the lower chamber as an assistant clerk, not a legislator.

Bassett, a Jackson attorney, resigned from the State Workmen's Compensation Appeal Board to take the post. He is a Republican and a University of Michigan Law School graduate.

Practically all the new passenger cars built for railroads in the United States during the past 20 years have been sheathed in gleaming nickel stainless steel.

Members of the Cass City Business and Professional Women's Club interviewed candidates for the club's annual scholarship grant.

Five Cass City senior girls are under consideration for the award. They include: Karen Gaffney, Karen Smith, Kaye Spencer, Vivian Englehart and Joan Orzel.

The nominating committee presented candidates for club officers. They will be elected at the next meeting.

The slate includes for president, Sherryl Seeley and Betty Jo Agar; for first vice-president, Grace Nemeth and Betty Carmer; for second vice-president, Phyllis Wenk and Laura Bryant; for recording secretary, Helen Bartle and Mable Wright; for corresponding secretary, Mardell Ware and Clara Gaffney, and for treasurer, Margaret Weippert and Dorothy Schram.

The club will be part of a new district number 11 and officers are now being named. A candidate for assistant director of the district is Verna May MacRae of the Cass City Club.

Delegates to the spring District Five meeting at Mt. Pleasant will receive $20 for expenses. The delegates are Mable Wright, Margaret Weippert and Clara Gaffney. Alternates are Verna May MacRae and Sherryl Seeley, who will represent the club at the State Convention at Grand Rapids in May.

For trouble-free performance in home swimming pools, filters, handrails, ladders, light niches and piping are made of nickel stainless steel.
