

New Grid coach signed

Cass City High School has signed a new head football coach for the 1969 grid season, Supt. Donald Crouse announced this week.

He is Thomas W. Spencer 31, who comes to Cass City from Inland Lakes Schools at Indian River.

His long experience as a player is a criterion for coaching prowess, Cass City's new head mentor should be a huge success.

The new coach is a veteran of high school, college and semi-pro football. Born in Saginaw, July 7, 1937, he prep'd at North Branch High School.

While there he earned four varsity letters in baseball, three in football and two in basketball. He was a two-year all conference selection. At Central Michigan University he played three years of varsity football and was a member of the varsity wrestling team. He owns a MA degree from CMU. Spencer spent a year playing semi-pro football after graduation.

While earning his Master's at Central he coached with Bill Kelly, former head coach of CMU.

Spencer has been coaching in high schools for seven years, six of them in football. Over this span his grid teams have compiled a 27-20-1 record at three Michigan schools: New Boston, Lake City and Indian River.

In basketball his varsity teams have won 54 games and lost 50. Included was a year's stint at Sanford-Meridian High School where he struggled through a 2-14 season at the school that had no Senior class. Spencer coached varsity baseball for two seasons where his team posted a 24-5 mark.

Rummage Sale - Saturday, May 3, Presbyterian church basement. Doors open 9 a.m. 4/10/3

BRUCE SHAW, Evergreen Twp. property owner, displays his petition calling for a township zoning ordinance. He hopes the new car lots on M-53 will be banned.

The church has three colleges, Brigham Young in Utah, one in Hawaii, and one in Idaho. The nearest Mormon Church from Cass City is a Saginaw facility on Center Street. The young men said if a "branch" were successfully organized here, it would later become a "ward."

Their church has age categories of the "Mutual Improvement Association (MIA) for teenagers, the Relief Society for women and a primary division for children under 12.

Jim Hatch of Cass City's "Talk of the Town" announced plans this week to begin a series of teen dances to provide recreation for area teens.

Hatch declined comment on the cost to him personally in starting the dances, but said that after several dances, he hoped a service club would lead in the creation of a teen "board of directors" that would allow the dances to be self-regulating.

He said chaperones would be at all dances and that there wouldn't be allowed any drinking, nor participants that have been drinking, or "outside" teens.

The dances, he said, are to provide "something to do" for teens of Cass City High School. He said live bands from the area would provide entertainment for scheduled dances May 3, 10, 17, 24 and 31.

He explained it was his intent to encourage area teens to have their fun in Cass City instead of going to other towns to see and meet their friends.

There will be no admission charge for the first few dances. He hinted the "teen directors" might install a charge at the gate after they had assumed responsibility for the dances.

The dances will be held in Cass City's Cultural Center from 8-11 p.m.

Two young men, Elder Brian Nichols and Elder Dick Ollickan, have become village residents and are hoping to start a "branch" of the Mormon Church.

Their church accepts Negro members, but excludes them from the Mormon priesthood because of historical scripture. The two said they "accept and sustain" the precept.

The two are volunteers but receive living allowances for their work. They expect to be in Cass City for several months and they reported there are 200 such young men working for new missions throughout the U. S.

They expect to be "knocking on doors," they said, to win converts to the Mormon church. Started by Joseph Smith in 1844, they said the Mormon church is the "fastest growing church in the world in the number of convert baptisms." Its headquarters is in Salt Lake City and they reported a free-world membership of 2.6 million.

In negotiating session

Sparks fly as teachers seek problem pupil guidelines

Another of the early rounds in the negotiations between representatives of the Cass City chapter of the MEA and the Cass City school district bargaining team Tuesday night resulted in a lot of fancy footwork, a few feints and jabs, with neither team landing a solid blow.

It was like the early rounds in most boxing matches. Neither side was prepared to launch an all-out offensive.

Sparks did fly when discipline and teacher free time was discussed.

The teachers asked the board for positive guidelines for handling a handful of hard core pupils who were disrupting classes.

Wayne Dillon said that he felt it unfair for one pupil to disrupt the entire class and several of the teachers suggested expulsion or freedom to use corporal punishment without prior administration approval.

Supt. Donald Crouse said that discipline of students was a teacher problem. Good teachers, he pointed out, have no trouble keeping students in line using the present guidelines for control that the school has established.

Dillon responded that it was possible for the teacher to keep these students in line but it was taking time from students who want to learn. Should one or two disrupt a class of 35 or 40, he asked?

Crouse replied that anyone could work with the willing bright student. What makes a teacher is how he reacts to the problem situations they face.

Some of the kids have been to court and are in trouble. The courts want them in school and we should help them as much as possible. That is part of the teachers' responsibility, Crouse feels.

Chief negotiator Jim Mac-

Tavish said that it was possible to keep the kids in line when face to face. But turn your back or let them out of sight in the hall and the trouble starts again.

The situation is getting worse every year, the teachers generally agreed.

TEACHERS' HOURS

The teachers are rebelling against "policeman" duties in the halls at noon hours, a task that they are now required to handle about once every other week.

They say that there is not adequate time for lunch when the hall duty is required.

Al Luce, negotiator for the school, and Crouse countered by saying that some teachers have as much as an hour and 20 minutes free at noon and that a shifting of time could possibly solve the problem.

Teachers should remember, Crouse said, that they are working only 5 1/2 to 6 hours daily.

The teachers retorted that they often work several hours at night and that computing hours teaching at the school was unfair and not pertinent.

Crouse said that he would rather see the teachers do their work in a full eight-hour day at the school and do nothing at home.

One reason millage is so hard to pass is that many feel that teachers are overpaid for the hours they put in, the superintendent charged.

If the teachers would remain at the school it would help this image.

The school representatives also asked for letters of intent from teachers, saying whether they planned to return or not to the system next year. The letters would be used as guide lines and would not be binding on the teachers, Luce said.

With the letters the system would know how many new teachers would be needed next year, Luce added.

The teachers refused this request saying that the letters placed the teachers in a weakened bargaining position. The schoolmen charged that the refusal was not in the best interest of education in Cass City.

Last year the letters were binding if a teacher said he was not returning. When Luce repeated that the letters were not binding this year the position of the teachers seemed to thaw although no definite commitments were established.

Agreement was reached in principle on a change in payroll deduction with more services probably being handled by the school, and non-economic topics were placed on the agenda for the next meeting May 13.

It will probably be late summer before the nifty-gritty of the economic package hits the bargaining table.

Until the school knows what money is available, crucial financial bargaining is virtually impossible, both sides agreed.

It was the only complete agreement of the evening.

Voters emphatic: no more taxes

15 acts set for annual Lions talent show

The Cass City Lions Club will present its annual Talent Show Saturday evening at the Cass City Intermediate School. Fifteen outstanding acts will compete for a variety of prizes offered by the club, Chairman Ron Keegan said this week.

The show will feature talent from all over the Thumb and will vary from modern beat to baton twirling.

Four bands and two guitar acts will highlight the musical presentations. There will be a washboard musical combo and six singing acts.

Admission for the event is $1 for adults and 50 cents for students.

Proceeds will go to the Lions sight conservation funds.

Cass City voters turned out in record numbers Tuesday to emphatically turn down by nearly a 2-1 margin the district's request for four additional mills for operating the school next year.

The vote was 674 no votes and 398 yes votes.

Supt. Donald Crouse said that what the school would do now will be decided when the board reviews the results and decides what action is necessary.

Crouse was not prepared to say whether another vote for the additional funds would be attempted.

However, most knowledgeable observers feel that another attempt to secure the funds would be made. The school has been running at a deficit of some $30,000 yearly and will have less money next year for operation than it had this year if the present state-aid formula is followed.

Cass City's action was not surprising to most observers. The anti-tax climate was at its height following the recent increase in property valuations. There has been a steadily increasing reluctance on the part of school taxpayers to authorize operating funds.

State-wide, Michigan Education Association figures show that 26 proposals were passed in March and 33 defeated.

Presently, Cass City school is operating on 14 mills as compared to a state average of 20 mills.

There was a total of 1074 votes cast. The previous record was 967 votes recorded when the issue was the Community College.

Even though balloting was quick with just one proposition before the electorate, there was a waiting line throughout most of the evening.

The final vote was not cast until 8:30 p.m.

Petitioners move to block new junkyards

BY RICHARD HAINES

Two property owners near M-53 are petitioning township residents in protest of two new junkyards. The petitions, being circulated by Edwin Comber and Bruce Shaw, call for a zoning ordinance for Evergreen township.

The two, along with Evergreen Township Supervisor Floyd Kennedy, are concerned about two property owners on M-53 one mile south of M-81, who are beginning to accumulate a number of wrecked cars.

The two owners are Charles Hartman and Wayne S. Onge. A neighbor, Mrs. Samons, said Onge works away from the area and is only in the immediate area on week ends to pick up phone numbers of people who want to see him. She said he has never left a number where he could be called.

Hartman was unavailable for comment but Mrs. Hartman said he planned to accumulate more cars and build a garage. About 10 cars are hidden by a woodlot from M-53, but trees are being cut for expansion. There are considerable junk parts surrounding the line of wrecked cars.

Shaw has 16 signed petitions and plans on getting more. Comber has delayed getting signatures, but intends to start signing up in the next few days. The two own property which literally surround that of Hartman's.

Shaw, who lives on West Pringle 1/2 mile off M-53, charges the car accumulations and the condition of the front yard of the Hartman property are a discredit to the area and have caused 40 adjacent acres he has for sale to drop 25% in value.

Comber, an English teacher at Kingston High School, intends on moving from the area to attend law school. He said he would have kept the site as a future home, but that the accumulation of wrecked cars are killing his chances. He said he intends to sell his property in the near future.

He alleged the M-53 area was turning into a rural slum. Mary and Merl Winter own a very large junkyard about 5 miles north from the M-81 junction on M-53. They have started a "used truck parts" business about a half mile south of their present business; however, there are also junk piles on this.

Cass Bartnik and his brother have a junkyard at the junction of M-81 and M-53.

In addition, the Thunder Road Speedway has two groups of wrecked cars, one at the ramp-way and one near Winters, though they are a distance from the highway, according to Bartnik. This totals six groups of wrecked cars in about a 7 mile span.

Comber said area property owners "don't know what's happening."

Comber charged Hartman's own house is situated on property "so low in elevation it should be zoned non-residential." Hartman's yard is extremely wet and muddy.

Evergreen supervisor Floyd Kennedy said a zoning ordinance was established about 6 years ago at a cost of $1,000, but petitioners forced the issue to a public vote which rescinded the board's action.

Asked about the new junkyards, he said, "We've got to put a stop to it now, for the benefit of the township." He said he didn't think the new yards could be stopped or banned, "it looks like they're there permanently."

Kennedy said there were things he didn't feel necessary, "but according to the zoning fellas, that's the way you have to set it up." He said farmers are particularly reluctant to support a zoning program.

Shaw said he felt a vote on a new program would receive adequate support to pass.

Drug Costs

In a period when the price of most goods is steadily rising, you may be surprised to learn that drug costs are a smaller part of America's health-care dollars than ever before. According to the Department of Commerce, only 14 cents of that dollar is now spent for the purchase of drugs from retail outlets—and only 9.8 cents of that is spent on prescription drugs. The figure was 17.5 cents, 20 years ago.

At the same time, these drugs are saving you money because they are more effective. Three decades ago, a case of pneumonia would cost the patient a $500 hospital stay, not counting the loss of time away from work. Today, the patient is cured with 30c pills prescribed by his doctor. A case of mastoiditis might entail an operation (and possibly impaired hearing) that could cost more than $1,000. Now the inflamed mastoid is cured for $15 to $20 worth of prescription drugs.

In 1930, a mental patient could expect to remain in an institution for 30 years, or for the rest of his life. Today, with the help of new drugs, 75 percent of these patients are discharged after the first year. It once took more than a month for patients with lobar pneumonia to be cured and back to work. Now $15 to $30 worth of drugs will cut that time from five weeks to two, at a time when it costs almost $60 a day to keep a patient in the hospital.

Yes, prescription prices have increased less than the general increase in the cost of living, so it is now possible for your drug dollar to buy more in better health today than ever before.

Letter to Editor

Why are we in Vietnam?

Ubyly, Mich.
Dear Editor:
Why are we in Vietnam? Where is the United Nations? I thought that it was to be up to the United Nations to settle all disputes such as the one in Vietnam.

We've helped some 100 nations - how many showed up to help settle the dispute in Vietnam? I wonder if we belong there. For all the money we have spent on the United Nations - what are we getting back in return?

The ones that deserve the most are, of all things, the most forgotten ones - they are our soldiers. How much are they worth to the United Nations? If the United Nations

Rabbit tracks

BY JOHN HAIRE

(And anyone else he can get to help)

The great automobile defect recall campaign finally reached the Chronicle. A week or so ago Jim Moore, shop foreman, received a card saying bring his Chevy in for a safety check. Huh! grunted Jim, after three years if anything was going to go wrong it should have happened by now.

The hazard was a leak in the exhaust system and the questioned parts are all new now.

But he'll take the car in anyway... just to see what happens.

No man is an island... but I felt like one at the teacher-school district negotiations Tuesday. Every so often each side would desire to caucus (that's a fancy word meaning go by themselves and talk things over) and when they did, I didn't. I finally settled on a little adjoining room to myself during these intermissions.

The only thing... there wasn't any TV. At the next session May 13 I'll be better prepared... I'll bring a book.

Hey man, what would you think about teachers punching clocks, kicking out tenure and establishing a seniority system the same as industry's?

Al Luce, negotiator for several schools, including Cass City, says that the idea's not so far out as it sounds.

We may have just this system in the not too distant future, he predicts.

As a matter of policy the Chronicle doesn't print marriages or marriage licenses against the wishes of the persons involved. Requests to keep marriage licenses from the paper are honored and marriages are printed when the newlyweds request it.

We followed this rule in the recent wedding of M. B. Auten and the former Mrs. Lucy Starman.

Since that time we have been bombarded with questions about it and received several thinly veiled hints that we were censoring the news.

If you are a track fan... or even if you are not, how about lunch at Cass City Recreational Park Saturday.

The Scouts are handling the concession at the Gavel Invitational for money for a summer trip to Idaho. Six Cass City Scouts are slated to attend the National Jamboree. They have $100 each from Rotary and need $255 each to attend.

Speaks to retired teachers

Donald Laeder, Tuscola County speech correctionist, addressed the Tuscola County Retired Teachers Association Wednesday, April 16, at the home of Mrs. Clara Korte in Caro.

Laeder is seeking expressed needs for a summer speech correctionist camp. The camp, he said, would encourage a more relaxed atmosphere, but would have to be sponsored by private funds.

Laeder described correctional diagnosis for regarding lisps, stuttering, pronunciation of certain consonants and for those who were unable to speak with adequate loudness because of a traumatic experience.

It was announced the Michigan Retired Teachers Association will hold its state convention May 1 at Mt. Pleasant. County delegates include Mrs. Virginia Chisholm and Mrs. Margaret Haire, both of Cass City.

Deford Club collects 50 Vietnam kits

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Holcomb and daughter Patty visited Mr. Holcomb's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Alward of Grand Blanc, Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Marge Peterson and children spent the week end in Detroit with her family, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Johnson, Mrs. David Korte, Mr. Gus Rissman and Tommy. It was Tommy's 20th birthday. She brought her son, Tommy, home to visit.

REAL PROGRESS
Interest yourself in the affairs of your community—that is the life-blood of democracy.

Over 50 "Vietnam Kits" have been collected by members of the Cass City Future Medics Club and are Vietnam-bound. Both children's and soldier's hygiene kits have been donated by individual members of the club and also by local residents who have heard about the project, club president Jean Butler reported.

wanted to join, the name was changed to Future Medics and the membership expanded. The hygiene kits include towels and toiletries. The children's kits include paper, pencils, crayons.

The club sponsors include Mrs. James Ballard and Mrs. Donald Koepfgen.

24 teams eye Gavel Invitational meet

One of the highlights of the spring track season and the most prestigious event of Cass City High School's spring sports agenda at Cass City Recreational Park will be held Saturday.

Hawks trail in meet at park

Weather has washed out two scheduled track meets at Cass City High School and Coach Bob Watson's young and comparatively inexperienced thin-clads are missing valuable practice time with the Thumb B Conference meet (May 21) just a month away.

The last time the Hawks were in competition was Wednesday, April 16, when they finished last in a triangular meet with Frankenthum and Bad Axe. Frankenthum picked up 78 1/2 points; Bad Axe 48 1/2, and Cass City, 33.

It is not likely that the local track will be used until this Saturday's giant Gavel Invitational.

In the triangular meet, Cass City won just three events. Jim Selby defeated Frankenthum's Dave Dietzel in the mile. Dietzel was a point winner in the event in the conference meet last year.

Other events won by Cass City include the 880 by Craig Guernsey in 2:14.4 and the pole vault by Mic Miracle with a leap of 10 feet.

Selby and Guernsey paced Cass City with 5 3/4 points each.

The various events were won by:

2-mile - Steadman, BA, 10:59.5; Keinath, F; Gucha, BA; Marker, CC.
880 relay - Frankenthum, 1:37.8; Bad Axe.
Mile - Selby CC, 4:53.9; Dietzel, F; Rummel, BA; Herrington, BA.

120-yard high hurdles - List, F, 16.3; Guinther, CC; Munger, F; Guernsey, CC.
440-yard dash - Tom Wekyer, F; Herzog, F; Bernthal, BA; McLeish, CC.
880-yard run - Guernsey, CC, 2:15.4; Hoehauf, F; McCracken, BA; Wentworth, CC.

100-yard dash - Reif, F, 10.6; Fredericks, CC; Beyerlein, F, and Guchwa, BA, (tie).
180-yard low hurdles - List, F, 25.5; Munger, F; Guinther, CC; Guernsey, CC.
220-yard dash - Reif, F, 24.5; Beyerlein, F; Guchwa, BA; Fredericks, CC.

Mile relay - Frankenthum, 3:49; Cass City.
Shot put - Tambylm, BA, 47 feet, 1/4 inch.
Long jump - Nugent, BA, 18 feet, 10 inches.
High jump - List, F, 5 feet, 6 inches.
Pole Vault, Miracle, CC, 10 feet.

The only other points won by Cass City in the field events were by Guernsey who finished fourth in the long jump.

6-mill levy needed for Uby schools

The Uby Community Schools Board of Education at its regular monthly meeting April 14 established six mills for two years as the proposal to be voted on at the annual school election to be held on June 9. This proposal will replace the present 3 1/2 mill levy that expires this year.

Board members in deciding the amount to be asked took into consideration many factors, pointing out this is the first time in three years the board has had to ask for additional operational millage, and the present budget is a deficit one. The aim of the new proposal is again to bring receipts and expenditures into line.

Other proposals on the ballot will be the election of one board member, the four year term of Carl Sageman, and the assumption of the Uby bonded debt (1965 High School Addition) by those districts annexing to Uby Community Schools three years ago.

Several other items were acted on during the meeting. A two-year contract for Leonard Sinke as Superintendent, was approved.

Spencer awarded Alma scholarship

William B. Spencer of Uby has been awarded an Honors Scholarship by Alma College, according to Dr. John R. Kimball, vice president for administrative services at the college.

Spencer, a senior at Cass City High School, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Spencer of Route #2 in Uby.

2 injured in minor area crashes

A Unionville couple, Mr. and Mrs. Emmet Eckfeld, were taken to Caro Community Hospital after the driver, Eckfeld, pulled into the path of Elsie Mary Schrader, Saginaw, when making a left turn from M-46 Monday, April 14.

Eckfeld received a summons for making an improper left turn. The front end of the Eckfeld auto was damaged and the sheriff's department reported the 1968 station wagon of Schrader's was totaled.

Mrs. Eckfeld was treated for 2 days at Caro Community Hospital for cuts and bruises. Sheriff Deputy Larry Walker investigated the accident.

James F. Peters of Saginaw was issued a summons for failing to yield the right of way when he struck the rear fender and bumper of the auto of Wellington Plane of Kingston on M-46, 1/2 mile east of Phillips Road on April 16.

There were no injuries. The accident was investigated by Robert Fox and Larry Walker of the Tuscola County Sheriff's Department.

Amasa Anthes III of Cass City reported to sheriff deputies he fell asleep on April 20 at 3:30 a.m., when his auto left the N. Dodge Road, 1/2 mile south of the Bay City-Forestville Road damaging the front and right side of the auto. He was uninjured.

The accident was investigated by deputy Ron Phillips.

SIGN NEW COACH

According to a reliable source in Indian River, Spencer's move was a surprise. He was well regarded in the Northern Michigan community and had just recently purchased a home in the community.

Indian Lakes this year decided to split basketball and football coaching duties and Spencer was offered the option of coaching either sport next year at the class D school.

Sources close to the school reported him leaving only because he felt that Cass City could be a stopping stone in his coaching career. The new coach married the former Judy Fairchild of Boyne City in August 1963. They have two children, Barbara Jean, born in August 1964, and John Kelly, born April 1, this year. Besides coaching, Spencer will teach biology.

day. It is the 11th annual Gavel Club Invitational. Already there are 24 schools entered including Flint Kearsley which regards the meet as its very own.

The large Flint school has competed in each of the 10 previous meets and won seven of them as Flint-area teams put a hammerlock on the team titles.

The titles that Kearsley didn't win, were annexed by Clio (1962) and Davison (1964-65).

Of interest to older Cass City High School sports fans is the entry from West Bloomfield, near Pontiac.

One of the coaches at Bloomfield is Art Paddy who was a mentor here in the 1950's. Clio and Davison aren't entered this year but Flint Beecher, Mt. Morris and Montrose are.

There are many familiar faces in the list of schools that have already entered, Frankenthum which holds three of the meet records is back, as is Vassar, which dominated the field events in 1964 and 1965 with meet records in the long jump and shot put.

Oldest meet record was set by Flint Ainsworth when in 1963 Henson whipped through the high hurdles in :14.9.

Ainsworth will not compete this year. Strangely enough, Kearsley, the dominant school in the meet, does not hold a single individual record.

The list of entries includes Carrolton, Saginaw SS Peter & Paul, Caseville, Merrill, Harbor Beach Our Lady, Yale, Harbor Beach, Essexville Carber, Lakers, Sandusky, Marlette, Akron-Fairgrove, Kingsley, Bay City, John Glenn, Cass City and Mayville.

The preliminaries and the field events will be held in the afternoon starting at noon Saturday, while the finals are slated for Saturday evening.

Trophies for the champion and runner-up will be presented as well as medals to individual winners.

Trophies will also be given to teams winning the relay events.

Auxiliary plans membership tea

The annual membership tea of the Women's Auxiliary of Hills and Dales Hospital will be held Friday, April 25, in the hospital meeting room from 2-5 o'clock.

Mrs. James Gross and Mrs. Horace Bulen are co-chairmen. All area women are invited to attend.

The regular monthly Auxiliary meeting will be held at 2 p.m. Monday, April 28, in the meeting room.

Boys' baseball

Seek adult help in program

Little League President Dean Hoag announced this week that the popular Minor and Little League programs in the community are in danger of collapse because of lack of adult support.

At a meeting at General Cable Friday when Hoag was re-elected president and Lee Hartzel was named secretary-treasurer, it was disclosed that the program lacks a manager and four coaches.

Someone is also needed to take charge of the Minor League program, Hoag said.

Sign-up for both leagues has been set for Friday, April 25, at 7 p.m. at the Intermediate gym. Boys 7-12 years old are eligible to participate in the programs.

Try-outs for Little League only (boys 9-12) will be held at Cass City Recreational Park April 29-30 and May 1 and 2.

Details about Minor League try-outs will be announced later, Hoag said.

There are some 130 boys participating in the Little League program and only six fathers reported at the organizational session.

Boys interested in playing should bring $1.50 for insurance to be paid at sign-up time.

Chambers pleads guilty in Gun Club larceny

The following cases were brought before Judge N. Baguley of the Tuscola County Circuit Court Tuesday.

Gary Neil Chambers, Cass City, was arraigned for breaking and entering with intent to commit a larceny at the Cass City Gun Club on March 23. A plea of guilty was accepted and a pre-sentence investigation was ordered. Sentencing was set for June 17, 1969.

Pedro Balderas of Cliford was sentenced for assault without a weapon to one year in the county jail.

The assault was made upon a child of the family, Nov. 7. He was found guilty by jury trial.

David Mata of Bay City was sentenced for driving away the auto of Clifford R. Smith without the intent to steal. The incident occurred on Oct. 25 in Columbia Township. He was assessed $400 fines and costs, and placed on probation for 2 years during which he is prohibited from drinking alcohol.

The sheriff's office has signed a complaint against John Douglas Alexander, Owendale, for being disorderly and failing to produce identification upon the request of a police officer. The charge resulted from a fighting incident April 9 near the Gageton Hotel.

Dave Asher to sing with Olivet Choral

David Asher, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alden Asher, Cass City, left Saturday, April 19, with the 32-voice Olivet College Choral Ensemble on its annual spring eastern tour. Mr. Asher, a tenor, will be graduated in 1971. The tour's itinerary will include concerts on college campuses and in churches in Rochester and Candalegua, N.Y., South Britain, Conn., Keene, N.H., Salem and Amesbury, Mass.

SPORTS FANS!

BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

By H. M. Bulen

Did you know that, oddly enough, in the entire history of big league baseball, only one manager has ever been able to win pennants in both the National and the American Leagues?...The only manager to do it so far was Joe McCarthy who won the National League flag managing the Cubs in 1929 and then won 8 American League pennants managing the Yanks between 1932 and 1943.

Here's quite an oddity... There were once 2 brothers who played big league baseball in the 1920's, Emil and Bob Meusel...Each played in the majors exactly 11 years with Emil finishing with a lifetime batting average of .310 and Bob finishing with a lifetime average of .309!...What are the odds that 2 brothers playing that long would finish with lifetime averages that close to each other?

Here's an interesting statistic that shows why the Detroit Tigers were able to win the pennant last season...The Tigers rallied to win a total of 40 different games last year in which they were either behind or tied in the 7th inning or later...They, thus, turned out to be one of the greatest late-inning rally teams in history.

Losing fight ends for James Kloc

Funeral services for James Edward Kloc, 19, son of Mrs. Bernice Kloc of Deford and the late Eugene Kloc, will be held at St. Michael's Friday, April 25, at 11 a.m. Father Eugene Susalla of St. Michael's church will officiate.

JAMES EDWARD KLOC

He died Tuesday afternoon, April 22, after a lengthy illness. He was born Jan. 12, 1950.

In high school, he was treasurer of the FFA chapter in his senior year, was on the football team, and in his junior year, was a member of the Northwestern School of Taxidermy. He graduated in 1968. He had completed a fall term at Montcalm Community College.

Surviving are a brother, Edward; five sisters, Caroline Rutkoski, Theresa, Elaine, Helen and Jeanette Kloc, and grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Malkowski of Caro and Mrs. George Kloc of Deford.

Rosary will be recited at 7:30 p.m. Thursday. Burial will be at St. Michael's cemetery.

L. Puterbaugh at Cattlemen's school

Larry Puterbaugh of Shover enrolled as a student in the Graham School for Cattlemen at Ganett, Kansas, for a week of intensive training in artificial insemination, practical methods of cattle care and herd management.

Tell County 4-H program goals

BY BERNARD JARDOT

I would like to take this opportunity to share with the people of Tuscola county a short report on our 4-H Youth Program - as to what it is and what are its goals.

The 4-H Youth Program is the educational youth program of the Cooperative Extension Service and is conducted jointly by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, the state Land-Grant Universities and the county governments. Also we have some non-government organizations that help promote the 4-H youth program on the State and National level.

Many of you may have wondered as to where our 4-H members live. On the national level the members are divided as follows: 37% come from the farm, 34% are rural non-farm, 21% live in towns and cities and 8% come from the large Metropolitan areas. This may surprise many of you who may have the impression that the 4-H is still a farm oriented youth organization. In Tuscola County our members are about equally divided between the rural farm families and families of rural non-farm or village background.

In this country we have about 400,000 local leaders who volunteer to help guide and encourage our 4-H members with their project work and other activities. These 4-H leaders help the members in their personal growth and development for our 4-H motto is "To Make The Best Better."

The typical 4-H'er enrolls in three projects a year if we consider that the nation's 3.2 million 4-H members carry about 7 million projects annually. Many of our Tuscola County members will carry more than 3 projects each year. The younger teen leaders help the adult leaders in working with the younger 4-H members. In this way most of our 4-H members have the opportunity to learn how to be constructive and not destructive in our society today.

Our members also have the opportunity to speak out on the significant issues of importance to our youth today. As it is

Declining prices blamed

Area scrap iron yards becoming vestige of past

BY RICHARD HAINES

A report from area salvage dealers indicates the industry has taken a turn for the worse. In the last 15 years, the going rate for scrap iron has gone only down and dealers have had to make up for it or retain the business on a leisurely basis only.

Howard Sheppard, manager of Johnson's Auto Parts at Bay City and past Cass City high graduate, reported 3 or 4 major closeouts in the area within the last 5 years.

Asked if the decline in the price of scrap was seriously affected his business, salvager Manley Asher of Cass City said, "It has affected it tremendously."

"Dealers have been forced into other things," he said. He said his retention of the business is only "as a hobby." "If it pays the expenses, I'm happy," said Asher.

He reported a wrecked car inventory of about 200 cars, but said the demand for his car parts has significantly declined.

"People don't have old cars anymore," he said. "They make car payments of $80 to $90 per month and drive a late model car."

He said when a car starts to "go," instead of renewing it with a new engine or transmission, it's often sold for junk.

He reported demand for machinery parts in the Cass City area as pretty stable. "A lot of farmers," he said, "can't afford $10,000 and $12,000 combines." He said they still want tires and parts for combines and other farm machinery.

Asher said his biggest headache comes from larceny of parts from his yard. "They come in during the day, price a few parts, then come back at night and take it."

He attributed the largest portion of larceny to youths and said he felt the training of "the young today" is responsible for it.

Cass Bartnik, yard owner at M-81 and M-53, said there was still some demand in machinery parts, but that the prospects for the future were in late model car wrecks with salvageable bumpers, fenders and accessories.

Bartnik, who owns the business with a brother, works on cars in a large garage harboring an abundance of accessories. "Farmers ask to have something made and then never come to pick it up," he said, leaning his elbows on his right leg which was perched on one of his several piles of things.

Another dealer, Merl Winter, who is in business with his son, hosts a vast acreage of obsolete farm machinery and portrays a grim picture of the scrap iron industry.

Located on M-53, Winter has life-long experience in the industry and easily recalls when car and machinery parts represented a thriving business.

However, as farmers moved into bigger, and more sophisticated equipment, and as the price for scrap shrunk to nearly nothing, Winter's hopes have shrunk with it.

"The older farmers are selling out," he said, leaving no demand, only a supply, of used machinery parts and used machinery.

Winter railed at property taxes and increasing labor costs as additional impairments to the industry.

His son has started a used truck business, he said, as a new branch of the business.

Winter said larceny was "a major problem." "It doesn't do any good to have newer type car parts; they just come and take them."

Leo Czewski, a "strictly junk" dealer, just east of Uby, said labor and transportation costs are closing in on his salvage business.

He has been in the business 15 years and said he used to farm, but became ill, "and was left with this junk business."

He has few cars, but an abundance of machinery parts and a wide array of metal household items, most in the last phase of their product lives. One dealer said Czewski "drives around the country and picks up stuff."

Czewski said he has a sideline of picking up industrial stampings such as Bassett's in Cass City, that helps sustain his business.

He reported the work wasn't easy—that it was a "full time job" seven days a week.

Another Uby dealer, Wilford Russell, whose lot harbors 900 to 1,000 cars crammed in rows of similar kinds, has been in the business five years.

"There is no money in junk," he said, adding that there was little in auto parts or car bodies either.

His lot is so crammed with wrecked autos that he is forced to sell a couple hundred a year to make room in his lot for later model wrecks. As for acquiring cars to sell for scrap, he said, "I don't even want them."

Russell said the increasing fee for truck licenses and prices of tires, compounded the problem of a deflated iron scrap price.

A diligent German Shepherd on the lot keeps away human predators, he said.

Howard Sheppard at Johnson's Auto Parts in Bay City has a teletype system for communicating with about 30 other yards in the state and midwest for car parts in both buying and selling.

They have about 500 late model wrecks for car parts and body sections. He said the largest segment of demand came from "the younger set," looking for hot rod parts.

WILFORD RUSSELL, Uby, ponders the nearly 1,000 wrecks from which he sells parts. He said the only time he sells cars for scrap is when he needs more space in his yard for later model wrecks.

LEO CZEWSKI, Uby, prepares to load a dismantled gas truck box on a truck to sell as scrap iron. He said high transportation and labor costs make the going rough for the scrap yard operator.

He said selling the older wrecks for scrap was "too much fuss," that they gave old car hulks to a scrap deal for $3 per ton.

"We quit trying," he said, to make profits on scrap iron. The older mines have been reopened, he said and there is new efficiency in processing crude iron.

Hirschfeld's in Bay City are the chief buyer of iron scrap in the Thumb area, dealers report. Robert Hirschfeld said about 300 wrecks per week are baled up and whisked off to steel mills. He reported about 10,000 to 12,000 wrecks are baled up annually.

He said the price of scrap iron often fluctuated monthly with the market and said the decreased price in the last decade has been due to an abundant supply of scrap from all sources, including especially industrial scrap.

It is doubtful the salvage business will slip into a state of oblivion. A petition movement near Cass City is calling for zoning ordinances and some township leaders are indicating they are unwilling to accept, never mind sustain, a salvage yard in their community because of fear of it blemishing the community.

But still, it remains one of the few American industries where a buyer can legitimately get something for nothing.

"If It Fitz..."

Motions tabled with class

BY JIM FITZGERALD

For days my wife has been coming up out of the basement in a weary condition, moaning, with bloodied fingertips and paint on her shirt.

This is not because she cancelled the Mrs. America contest and she has nothing to train for. It is because she didn't attend Michigan State University and therefore has no class.

What my Patricia is doing in the basement is finishing a table. This is a project of tremendous proportions, as any husband married to an antique-nut will tell you.

When my wife wants a new table (or most anything made of wood) she does not go downtown and buy it. She finds an old aunt on her deathbed. She waits patiently, and kindly, for the dear lady to die. Then she swoops into the deceased's home and makes off with a kitchen table that George Washington slept under.

"I am saving you $100," Pat explains as I get a $1,000 sprain in my back carrying the table into the basement.

You might wonder why the table goes into the basement instead of into the kitchen where it is needed. You must be a bachelor. The thing is, see, that Pat doesn't really like this table. Yet, it must be scraped and sanded and reglued and re-nailed and painted 5 times. This takes 14 months. In the meantime, the old kitchen table has been given to a married daughter and we eat off the floor.

Anyhow, that's how it is and that explains what Pat has been doing in the basement.

"Listen," I said, "this has got to stop. I am a graduate of Michigan State University and I can't have my wife sanding and painting a 100-year-old table just to save me $50. I want you to go downtown tomorrow and buy the nicest table you can find. Tell 'em Jim sent you. That's class."

"You'd better explain yourself," Pat answered. "Last week, when you bought our first new car in 6 years, you said we couldn't buy another thing for 15 years. That was the day the grocer caught you trying to return non-returnable bottles."

"Yes," I admitted, "but that was before I read about the table bought by Michigan State. They paid $3,580 for a Brazilian rosewood table to go in the boardroom of the new $5.9 million administration building. This table is 39 feet long and only 8 guys are going to sit at it—the MSU trustees. They can table 1,365 motions at one time. And they meet only once a month."

"I didn't know you went to such a rich school," my wife said.

"Neither did I," I admitted. "I remember when they called it a cow college. If there are still cows at MSU, they probably have split-level stalls with carpeting and color TV. Starters with no fingernails are probably flown in from Hollywood every morning to milk them."

"As a taxpayer and an alumnus, I support that university. And it just isn't right for the strangers I support to have a $3,580 table while my wife breaks her back trying to make a $22 table look like $75," I said.

"But I like old tables re-finished," she said. "I don't want a 39 foot table. A table that size for 8 people doesn't make sense, especially when they meet only once a month. You might call it class; I call it a waste of our money."

"That's what I get for marrying a peasant," I said.

That's what I said. But if that girl ever gets out of the basement long enough, I am going to run her for MSU trustee.

Knowledge of area key to nabbing Pike spearing violators-Geilhart

BY RICHARD HAINES

Jim Geilhart, Tuscola County Conservation Officer, is on the lookout.

For violators, that is, Warm Spring nights are starting fish "running."

This time of year suckers and carp are headed upstream to spawn. With them come the pike. But the season on pike won't open until May 15.

"The violator," said Geilhart, "is a different breed of cat."

Geilhart said the "hard core violator" is quick to suspect an officer when an oncoming car is nearing their fishing site or a ditch-stream in which they may be spearing.

"They throw them in a field," he said, "and the officer doesn't have a chance."

"And sometimes they'll make a break for it," he said. Geilhart said the key to capturing an escapee from a stolen fish scene is "to know your area."

Sometimes, he said, the officers get a glimpse of the suspect and then the problem is reduced to merely waiting for him at his own home, which Geilhart says he has done in the past.

The conservation officers said they would lose 50% of their effectiveness if they used the "post system" whereby officers changed posts to boost their versatility, as State Police officers do.

Perhaps that's what gives Geilhart an advantage. He's served 7 years as a Detroit policeman, as well as 7 years as a conservation officer.

Being in the area for a longer period results in the officer being better known, he said, and when this happens, the local residents are significantly more willing to sacrifice themselves in helping an officer enforce the law.

Geilhart said spring is one of his busier times of the year, and his "rural rounds" checking in on fishermen takes him into the late hours of the night.

Law enforcement of the conservation department is becoming increasingly demanding, he said.

"People call us because somebody has stuck a sucker in his mailbox, or because some industrial plant is polluting a stream and we're the ones who have to answer."

"They call us for everything," he said.

It's not uncommon for Geilhart to chalk up 150 miles nightly checking 100-200 licenses per night. He devotes most of his attention to the northwest corner of the county and south towards Akron.

Geilhart's trained eye can spot a tiny twinkle for miles in his nightly check of lantern carrying spears.

A quick gush on the gas pedal and a ready hand on his exterior sealed-beam spotlight bring him alongside up to 500-1,000 spears on a busy week.

He said there are two kinds of violators, the hard core smoothies and the occasional violator. The hard core acts like a fishing license check is a relaxed break from his fishing. They make it look like it's nothing, he said, sort of an art.

The occasional violator gets shook, he said. If they're nervous, there's something wrong, he said.

Geilhart said the occasional violator knows he's not supposed to, and he feels bad about it, but he'll still do it, if he feels sure he can get away with it.

One carload of boys, one of many stopped in a single night, showed Jim his military identification (military on-leaves can fish without a license) and Jim asked him, "How's the girls in Texas?" "Pretty nice," he answered. Geilhart's a free conversationalist when it comes to asking for licenses while searching cars. He's made it quite an art himself.

Nobody has to tell him that when he pulls up to a large group, the word spreads down the line pretty fast that Geilhart's around.

One group of three men were discovered that night in a van parked beside a large stream. As we pulled up they were in the van playing cards and drinking beer on a table in the van. An unattended pote was picked up by one fellow as we walked up to the van.

Beer bottles were floating listfully in the stream near the van. "Those your bottles?" Geilhart quizzed?

"Nope," they said. "It's the same kind of bottle," he said, giving him a cold Geilhart gaze.

With little else said, we left the van after a license check verified proper licensing.

"There's something attractive about heaving a bottle," he said. "I hate that," he said when people litter up parks and streams like that.

After a long period of driving and checking, we nabbed a young man about 25 and his father, with three pike, fishing on their own property. "You can just see this guy," Geilhart said, he and his dad, just wanted to go back and get a couple.

"But the fish don't know I'm their friend, they're dead fish."

The one thing that stands out, said Geilhart, is the reaction of the violator: "Why do you have to give ME a ticket?"

GOSSIP

People who give their friends nothing to talk about make a big mistake—the less they hear the more they suspect.

CONSERVATION OFFICER Jim Geilhart checks several licenses of a group of youths spearing for suckers in the ditch-streams of northwest Tuscola county.

Records prove that many pay for nighttime forays

Department of Natural Resources spokesmen say that only a small percentage of violators are caught, but do apprehend enough to make spearing pike a risky proposition. Recently these are the violators who were nabbed by alert officers.

Kenneth Wayne Lassiter of Caro paid fines and costs of $65 for having in his possession "two northern pike illegally taken during closed season in Tuscola County April 8." He was issued a summons by game warden Jim Geilhart at N. French Road, Caro.

Johnathan D. Wilson of Reese paid $15 fines and costs for not having a proper license to fish. He was ticketed by Jim Geilhart on April 7 in Gilford Township.

Walter A. Kilbourn of Reese was fined $15 fines and costs for not having a fishing license. He was issued the summons while shooting fish by "use of bow and arrow" on April 7, in Gilford Township. Jim Geilhart issued the summons.

Dwayne K. Fischer of Akron paid $15 fines and costs for fishing without a license in Akron Township. He was ticketed April 7 by officer John A. Walker.

Raymond M. Rayan of Akron paid $15 fines and costs for fishing without a license. He was ticketed April 7 by officer John Walker in Almer Township.

Daniel Lee Schmidt of Kaw-kawlin paid $15 fines and costs for "attempting to take fish with the use of a hook and a line in waters over which this state has jurisdiction without having first procured the proper license." He was ticketed by officer John Walker April 6 in Wisner Township.

Joseph Newbold of Birch Run paid $101 fines and costs for having 3 northern pike in his possession on the corner of M-81 and Bradford Rd. He was ticketed by officer John A. Walker April 1, in Denmark Township.

Henry C. Kuhne of Caro paid $24 fines and costs for having in his possession a spear for the purpose of taking fish during a closed season against spearing. He was ticketed by officer John A. Walker Mar. 28, in Almer Township.

Eugene S. Salgat of Caro paid $24 fines and costs for having a spear in his possession during a closed season against spearing. He was ticketed by officer John A. Walker Mar. 28, in Almer Township.

Matthew A. Dinnan of Flint paid $15 fines and costs for taking fish with a hook and line without a license. He was ticketed by John A. Walker April 7, in Akron Township.

Alec A. Stiles of Otisville paid $15 fines and costs for not having procured a fishing license. He was ticketed by officer Jim Geilhart in Fair-grove Township April 11.

Deloice W. Brown paid $15 fines and costs for not having procured a fishing license. He was ticketed by Jim Geilhart April 12 in Columbia Township.

Randall W. Thompson of Bay City was fined $15 fines and costs for fishing without a license. He was ticketed April 6, by officer John A. Walker in Wisner Township.

David Scott Remington of Bay City paid $15 fines and costs for fishing without a license. He was ticketed by officer John A. Walker April 6, in Wisner Township.

David J. Peyok Sr. of Reese paid $101 fines and costs for having two northern pike in possession in an automobile. He was ticketed by John A. Walker on April 1, in Denmark Township.

Marlin James Damm of Reese paid $101 fines and costs for "taking 2 northern pike from waters over which the state has jurisdiction when the season for taking of northern pike with a spear was closed." He was ticketed by John Walker April 1, in Denmark Township.

Dale R. Campbell of Reese paid $23 fines and costs for fishing without a license. He was ticketed by Jim Geilhart April 7 in Gilford Township.

Daniel E. Simon paid $50 fines and costs for having one northern pike in a sack on his back during the time that the season for taking pike with a spear was closed. He was ticketed by officer John A. Walker in Akron Township on April 5.

James Walter Bierlein of Reese paid $101 fines and costs for "having in possession in an automobile 3 northern pike taken illegally from a cut on the corner of M-81 and Bradford Rd., during the season closed to the taking of northern pike with a spear. The three pike weighed 5 3/4 lbs.

It is much easier to stick to a job you're stuck on.

Agent's Corner

By Mrs. Ann Ross Extension Agent

If you're skipping meals, cutting out potatoes, and eating toast instead of bread to lose those extra pounds, you've succumbed to a case of "calorie confusion."

Skipping one or two meals a day is "calorie confusion" because the end result is usually more eating at other meals and often uncontrolled snacking. What happens is that the dieter often tallies up more calories during the day than if he or she had stuck to a normal, wise meal routine.

The same kind of "calorie confusion" surrounds the potato. A small potato contributes about the same number of calories as a slice of bread. It's the extra additions to the potato (sour cream, gravy, etc.) that adds to the calorie-count.

Toast stays in the same calorie league as bread. It's merely bread without the water content.

Relying on this kind of "calorie confusion" actually makes dieting difficult. Fad or notion dieting can leave the dieter still in the "heavy weight" class yet deprive him or her of much needed nutrients.

A wise dieter will plan to get milk, meats, fruits, vegetables, bread and cereals into his every day eating schedule. He or she will know what each food (size of serving of food) counts, calorie-wise. This means getting a good calorie-counting guide and know how many calories your meals will give. "Counting Calories" is available free at your County Cooperative Extension Service Office.

Why skip meals? If you prefer to have more "little" meals do so. Just save some foods from main meals and eat them instead at mid-morning or afternoon or in the evening. The calorie count can still total the same -- but you won't be so hungry.

FIRING LINE

Says drivers are fasts and slows

By Richard Haines

Bad drivers, ugh! Everybody's always got the gripe about some whacky driving habit.

Every Tuesday I cover the sheriff's department's accident reports to find out what blood's been spilled where. The accident report is a light, hard to read, insurance policy type print and it mathematically describes which direction the drivers were driving, where, and how the cars collided and whether or not the drivers were injured.

But I always get my "har, har" in when I read the (usually) one line statement of the drivers explaining that it wasn't THEIR fault. In one open-highway sideswipe recently, the drivers claimed something to the effect of, "I was in my lane, and I got sideswiped." The other: I was going down the road and he swiped me."

You never saw such sweet innocence.

Sometimes I'll be working late in the office here on Main street, and there will be a roar at the spotlight at the end of the block. By the time I look up they're going by like they were on the John Lodge Expressway.

I divide drivers between the fasts and the slows.

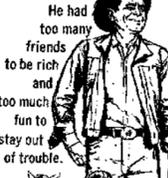

Fast drivers pull out in front of you, make risky passes, go through yellow lights and

One For The Road
Jockeys strongest pound for pound
By Dan Marlowe

The ladies are formidable opposition for the gentlemen in all walks of life these days. It's no secret they are no longer in the kitchen.

The race track is the most recent sphere of masculine influence invaded by the women. Girl jockeys have been competing in the machievellian art of steering a race horse around two turns to the finish line via the shortest possible route.

The voice of experience suggests that this time the ladies may have bitten off slightly more than they can chew.

A free-running horse who gets out of the gate well can win a race from end to end with a girl on his back. Or a piano, for that matter. The rub comes when a sulky horse must be rammed through fluid race track traffic from far back in the field. It comes down to a matter of strength.

I've never been a jockey -- the little matter of a 200 pound frame since high school took care of that possibility -- but in 35 years I've observed perhaps 2000 of them at close range. Pound for pound, jockeys are among the strongest of men, particularly in the arms and shoulders. They have to be to convince a 1200 pound horse to go where the 105 pound jockey wants him to go.

The best place on a race track to watch jockeys in action is at the end of the backstretch just before the horses head into the final turn and the homestretch. Santa Anita in Arcadia, California is one of the few race tracks which permits its patrons to go into the infield and observe from this observation post just inside the fence.

Day after day in sunshine and in rain I've occupied this station and watched tons of horseflesh hurtle into the turn, five or six abreast, with jockeys kicking, yelling, elbowing, and driving for the inches of room which might make them a winner. The earth shakes, literally. On a dry track, it's spine-chilling. On a wet track, with gobs of mud as big as bushel baskets flying from beneath the churning hooves, it's unbelievable.

"Move over, you dum-de-dada, I'm comin' through!" is among the politest of the screams heard at the far turn. If the invited party doesn't move over, and the invitee indeed "comes through", there can easily be a jockey in the infield, horseless, or race horses down all over the track.

I've watched Ted Atkinson and Eddie Arcaro aim a horse between two others in a space so narrow I've flinched instinctively even though yards away. I've watched roughriders in the image of the youthful Manny Ycaza intimidate an entire group of jockeys by his fearless, reckless chancetalking to improve his position. And I'll say without fear of successful contradiction that the far turn on a racetrack is no place for a female let alone a lady.

Girl jockeys are going to find a horse occasionally takes it into his head to go where the horse wants rather than where the girl wants, and she will just be along for the tragic ride.

I'd like to predict that within a year the girl jockeys will pack it in. They may not go back to the kitchen, but they'll leave the racetrack to the boys.

Girl Scout troop activities told

The monthly meeting of Girl Scout leaders was held April 14 at the Presbyterian Church. Camping plans were made for the summer. Any girl who is a non-scout may attend the camps. If interested they should call 872-2369.

Junior Troop 170 went with their leaders, Mrs. Don Eria and Mrs. Scott Kelley, to Saginaw April 15 where they toured the art museum.

Mrs. Tom Herron and Mrs. Hank Nolan took their Brownie Troop to Caro State Hospital where they visited Cottage 17 and distributed Easter baskets.

Brownies of Troop 247, with leaders Mrs. Bob MacKay and Mrs. William Kritzman, were given a tour of Hill and Dales Hospital.

Junior troops are now delivering Girl Scout cookies.

"Two-thirds" crop rental plan outlined

By Don Kebler

More than ever farmers are pondering the question of land rent whether it be for cash or share-crop. It isn't only the renter who is wondering about the costs and returns of land rent agreements; the landlords are too. On top of this the question of buying or selling versus renting between the two is being tossed into the hopper. Cash rent very quickly tells both renter and owner who makes or loses money. The buyer of farm land can come up with a good idea whether he can pay the principal and interest and make a profit too. Share crop rental agreements are being questioned more lately as to the economics and equity to both renter and landlord. What constitutes an equitable share-crop rental agreement? Michigan State University agricultural economics department has an outline of the different share-crop agreements that are felt to be most equitable to both parties involved. Let's look at the most common of the three types outlined -- the one-third landlord two-thirds renter share crop agreement. Under this agreement the renter supplies all the machinery and machinery costs, all the labor, and two-thirds the crop costs of fertilizer, seed, herbicides, insecticides, etc. The landlord furnishes his land, no labor and one-third the crop costs. Any differences are bartered between the two parties. On sugar beets the division is one-fifth and four-fifths.

In furnishing the land the operator under this agreement is expecting to receive five percent of the value of his tillable acre plus taxes providing his share of the crop value produced by the renter meets this amount.

For example, on land valued at $800 per tillable acre, the 5% return on investment would be $40.00. So with, say $10 per acre taxes, this owner would need to realize $50. In this example if the landlord doesn't pay his share of the crop costs the renter would have to produce a 17 ton sugar beet crop to pay the landlord's share. The renter would have his share of about 13.5 tons to market if the price was $14.50 per ton. Can the renter realize a profit on this basis? On the same basis of rental share crop agreement, it would take 150 bushels of shelled corn and 38.5 bushels of navy beans per acre at $1.00 per bushel and 6.50 per cwt. respectively to pay the landlord. This would leave 100 bushels of corn and 26 bushels of navy beans for the renter's share. Here again the landlord realizes his $50 per acre but, how about the renter?

In these examples if the renter can realize profit he will not rent this land unless he can have a reduction in costs or an increase in his cropshare. Also if the landlord pays a share of the crop costs, the value of crops produced will have to be increased or the landlord accept a less return or not rent.

Regardless of the situation the most equitable share crop rental agreement is generally one where the landlord furnishes his share of the crop expense, inflated farm land values and high cost-low profit farming is heavily contributing to the economic bind of land rental opportunity and/or to pay mortgages.

FB ladies set Detroit tour plan

The Tuscola County Farm Bureau women's club will go to Detroit June 4, leaving from the Sunoco Station at the intersection of M-24 and M-46, at 7:00 a.m. and returning about 8:30 p.m.

The women will have the opportunity to shop, lunch, then attend the 2:00 matinee performance at the Fisher Theatre. Featured will be "Lovers" starring Art Carney. Transportation will be provided by the women's organization and reservations, on first come basis, may be made with Mrs. Ford Boyne, Marlette. The cost of the stage show is $5.00 and preference as to main floor or mezzanine must be stated in the reservations.

Micro-Charger

The sure way to beat micronutrient troubles

Are your crops showing signs of micro-nutrient deficiency? Then you owe it to yourself to find out about MICRO-CHARGER, the totally different micro-nutrient supplement for blended fertilizers.

MICRO-CHARGER is a micro-nutrient coating on each fertilizer granule in the exact formulation your soil needs. It can't settle out, as "shotgun" formulations do.

High-yield farming needs the extra "charge" that MICRO-CHARGER gives. Ask us about it. Come on in, or call us now - before micro-nutrient deficiencies take their toll.

Uncle Tim From Tyre Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR

What chance has a farmer and rancher got anyhow? That was the question took up by the fellers during the session at the country store Saturday night. They didn't come up with any solid perditions on what is to be, Mister Editor, but they shore give what is and was a first class going over.

Zeke Grubb said life on the land is a gamble, allus has been. A feller can study a team's record and do pritty good figgering a game, and he can size up a race horse within a reasonable doubt, but they jest ain't no way a farmer and rancher can hedge his bets. All other gamblers is pikers compared to them that depend on the land for a living, was Zeke's words.

Day in, day out, ever move he makes is a gamble, allowed

Zeke. He can start feeding a bunch of calfs or tie up all his money in broilers, and before he can git 'em half ready to sell the bottom drops out of the market and he can't make enuff to pay fer their feed. There's allus the boll weevil, drouth, flood, wind, hail and if he misses 'em all one year they'll hit him double the next. Farmers know the odds, Zeke allowed, but they can't do nothing to change 'em.

Per instans, Zeke said nature has been saving up and recent has turned everthing loose on the coast of California. If the rain and the mud wasn't enuff, some man made problems like them oil wells in the ocean was throwed in fer good measure. And by summer, Zeke said, we'll probably be right back to drouth and woods fires.

About the only place where country folks is better off is in raising their own food. They don't do it much any more, Zeke allowed. Not long back he said, ever family had a little garden somewhere on the place. Probable, the cost of all the chemics, seeds and bug killers has went up so much to where it's cheaper to raise vegetables in big batches.

Incidental, Clem Webster, that went along with the Great Society as long as it went along with him, said he thinks the Nixon Administration has the right idee on paying farmers not to farm. They ought to be a limit on how much a feller can git paid fer doing nothing, and that goes fer them big corporations that draw millions of dollars on land they rent fer less than the payments fer not growing nothing on it. Clem said he had saw where 1,700 farmers got Government checks from $50,000 to $500,000 fer not farming, and that shore took the gamble out of farming.

I reckon there's somepun good to say far overthing. I see where this woman shot her husband with a bow and arrow so's not to wake up the younguns. It takes a mighty fine mama to be so thoughtful.

Yours truly,
Uncle Tim

Farm Bureau tops membership quota

Tuscola County Farm Bureau members have reached their membership goal of 1921.

County President Leon Keinath of Millington and John R. Graham, Caro, joined Office Manager Loretta Kirkpatrick to relay the victory news to Michigan Farm Bureau.

"The continued good support of our affiliate companies plus the hard work of our members has made this achievement possible," beamed Keinath. "Tuscola has been trying for a record breaking year in membership for ten years and we accomplished it this year," he added.

It is reported that with the local success, all six Thumb counties which make up District 6 have now topped their goals. Tuscola retains title as second largest membership county and District 6 the largest member district in the state's 13 districts. Michigan Farm Bureau, also with a record year, had half of their 71 counties reach goal by April 1.

It's a waste of time to think unless you're ready to act. The Want Ads are newsy too.

Services held for Orville H. Bogert

Funeral services for Orville H. Bogert were held Thursday, April 17, at the Briggs' Funeral Home, Akron, Mich., with graveside services at the Riverside Cemetery, Vassar. The Reverend John Hicks of the Akron Presbyterian Church, which Mr. Bogert attended, officiated at the services.

He died suddenly Tuesday, April 15. He was born near Vassar April 12, 1879, the son of the late John and Orcella Bogert. A brother Oren and a sister Rena predeceased him. He was married Dec. 22, 1905, to Bertha J. Ridgeman of Vassar and to them were born three children: Neil, who died at nine months; Loraine, Mrs. William C. O'Dell of Cass City, and Bernard W. Bogert of Port Huron. Mrs. Bogert died in 1938.

In 1951 he married Mrs. Minnie Bussing of Akron and moved to that vicinity to make his home. She died in March, 1968.

Except for three years in Detroit when he was employed by the Michigan Central Railroad Company, Mr. Bogert spent his entire lifetime in Tuscola county. The biggest portion was spent as a businessman in Vassar. For several years during that time he was a member of the Village Council and while in Vassar attended the Methodist Church. He was also a member of the Vassar IOOF Lodge.

After moving to Akron to live, he continued to drive to Vassar where he worked at the Miller Grain Company until he was over 80 years of age.

Besides his son and daughter, he leaves 11 grandchildren and 14 great-grandchildren and several nieces and nephews.

keen competition -- most of which were boys! Congratulations, Jeane.

C.C.H.S.

In a junior class meeting last Monday morning some of the juniors were awarded prizes for their efforts in the class's magazine sale earlier this year. Tuesday the senior class visited the circuit court in Caro in connection with their government studies. When the class first arrived at the courthouse, Judge Kern of the district court told the class how the newer district courts are organized and operated.

Tuesday being motion day in Caro, the class witnessed a number of divorce cases in the morning, after which Judge Churchill took time to tell the class something of the Circuit Court and to answer students' questions.

Mr. James Wynes, government teacher, required that the students not leave the courthouse block at any time Tuesday. Therefore, during the lunch hour there were 100 students eating lunches out of brown paper bags somewhere within that small block! Some ate outdoors, some congregated on the floor and stairways of the main lobby, while still others were directed through the tunnel by a custodian to a room in the jail house.

After lunch the class returned to the courtroom to hear a few "criminal" cases, which included a forgery, a mistrial appeal, and a possession of a concealed weapon.

The class returned to C.C.H.S. at approximately 3:00 p.m.

Wednesday a student council meeting was held. The council discussed the Twirp Week Carnival and censured some students and teachers for conduct during a recent assembly.

Student conduct at assemblies has been the topic of discussion recently not only in faculty circles, but in student circles as well.

Many students, that is, a ma-majority of them, are ashamed and embarrassed at the ways some of their classmates act in these assemblies and are even a little hesitant to attend the assemblies for fear that the guests of C.C.H.S. will be given a rough time and a bad impression.

C.C.H.S. used to have the reputation of having good student audiences and most students wish that good reputation to return.

The Senior Council met last hour Wednesday to discuss class finances and plans for the trip to New York.

Thursday was the Thumb B Talent Show. Cass City's acts visited Caro and Frankenmuth, while C.C.H.S. hosted Vassar's and Sandusky's acts.

After school Wednesday and Thursday try-outs for next year's cheerleading positions were held. Judging the contestants were Mrs. James Wynes, Miss Carol Morrison, Mrs. Wilbert Goodall, Carla Calka and Lori Smith, graduating Varsity cheerleaders, and Pam Dobbs, 1968-69 Pep Club president.

The list of next year's cheerleaders includes: Freshmen: Patti Rabideau, Gail Miracle, Linda Koepfgen, Suzi Zawilinski, Lynn Rayl, and Cheryl Kozan.

Junior Varsity: Diane Asher, B. J. Haire, Linda Zawilinski, Mary Powell, Karla Stine and Barb Crow.

Varsity: Sherry Bacon, Cindy Strickland, Jill Auten, Anne Bulen, Sally Geiger, and Shari Geiger.

Congratulations, girls! The senior class held a meeting Friday in which those going on the senior trip signed for rooms and chose whether to attend the Copa or a Broadway show. The first $5.00 for either of these events will be furnished by the class treasury. If a student doesn't wish to attend either event, he will be given $5.00 in spending money.

The class chose for their class song, "Those Were The Days."

TID BITS

The Cass City sweaters that the sophomores ordered earlier in the year arrived last week and were on sale in the gym during the lunch hours.

Mrs. Jackson has gone into the formal business! She is selling the formal for girls in school. As of Monday she had six in her collection.

Mr. William Ferguson, after a six-day honeymoon, returned to C.C.H.S. Monday. His band students spent the past week in study hall with Mr. Robert Watson.

After school Thursday an honorary tea was given for Mrs. Meredith Auten. Sandy Schuette was chairman of the activity which was attended by the faculty of the Cass City school system.

Last week marked the end of the fifth marking period. Only 23 more scheduled school days to go for seniors! (As of Thursday, April 24.)

After six weeks of play practice nightly, the cast of "Harvey" now finds itself with nothing to do on week nights. The play which was presented this past week end, drew approximately 500, gratifying to the cast and director.

Former Cass Cityan

Author finally settles down -as 5-course Alpena teacher

This story is reprinted from the Detroit News. Myron David Orr has been a frequent visitor to the Cass City area over the years and is well known to scores of Cass Cityans.

ALPENA — His five novels have sold over two million copies and a sixth is in the works, but Myron David Orr likes to be known as an educator. He is a professor at Alpena Community College.

Orr has mastered many professions. He practiced law, served as a forest ranger, locomotive fireman, sailor on the Great Lakes, U.S. Marine captain, reporter, editor, farmer, musician and playwright.

He's a historian, too, and once took the Michigan Historical Commission to task for a blunder on a historical plaque at the famed Biddle House on Mackinac Island.

Born on a farm near Cass City in the Thumb, Orr moved to Port Huron as a child where his father served as a customs officer. It was the summer of 1913 that he became interested in the history of the Great Lakes and Michigan which ultimately led to three of his novels — "The Citadel of the Lakes," "Mission to Mackinac" and "The Outlander."

The restored Niagara, Commodore Perry's flagship during his victory over the British on Lake Erie in 1813, had stopped at Port Huron during a commemorative tour of the Great Lakes. Orr and his father visited the ship and the skipper, Capt. William Morrison, related to them many fascinating tales about the glorious vessel.

ORR'S WRITING DAYS had to wait as he went to law school and from 1928 to 1942 maintained a law practice in Caro with his brother, former State Senator Herbert P. Orr.

The Orr family had its roots in Caro and Tuscola County with a law practice there since 1905. Orr's grandfather, Myron D. Orr, was the first doctor to serve Tuscola County.

"White Gold," a story dealing with whitefish, was Orr's first venture to hit print. It was published in serial form in the Bay City Times and later published in book form.

While serving as a Marine captain at military government school in Columbia University in New York, his outlook on writing changed from hobby to profession. A friend, Leo Margulies, editor of Standard Publication, promised to buy "everything I could write," Orr recalls.

During college work at Columbia, he found time to write many short stories for Margulies.

Orr has written more than 200 short stories, including a series, "Archie McCann," about a lazy beachcomber hero in the South Seas.

AS HIS THESIS at Columbia, Orr submitted his novel, "The Citadel of the Lakes."

"I wrote the book seven times and the first time it landed in the furnace," Orr remembers.

"The Citadel" was the turning point in Orr's new career. It was a stroke of luck that the book reached print so soon.

Orr's wife, Thelma, employed as a nurse in a New York hospital, handed a copy of her husband's book to an elderly patient who sought some reading. The man was Frank Dodd, chairman of the board of Dodd, Mead & Co., a New York publishing firm. Dodd handed the book back to Mrs. Orr with a note — he liked it and wanted to print it. The novel sold over a million copies.

Orr was a part-time instructor at Rutgers University and then at Long Island Junior College, happy with his dual role of educator-writer. But he longed to return to the blue waters of Lake Huron and when an offer came from Alpena Community College, plus a nursing post for his wife at Alpena Hospital, the Orrs came to Alpena in 1957.

WHILE SERVING as main speaker at ceremonies dedicating the restored Biddle House on Mackinac Island in 1959, Orr figuratively punched holes in the historical bronze tablet marking the site.

He asserted two dates were in error in the brief text of the Historical Commission site marker. And he screened photostats of original documents to back up his claims. An apology came later from the commission and the marker was changed. Orr's fifth novel "The Outlander" was printed the same year. The central figure in the book is Edward Biddle who occupied the house in the 1820s with his Indian princess bride. The Alpena school board waived retirement restrictions this year for Orr and he plans at least one more year as pro-essor of law, journalism, creative writing, Michigan history and English at the college.

The Orrs live on the Lake Huron shore, south of Alpena, where the author spends his evening hours on his sixth novel—a contemporary piece which should be ready for publication early next year.

CASS CITY CHRONICLE

State Board member to speak here

Marilyn Jean Kelly, member State Board of Education, will address the teachers of Tuscola County at their annual district banquet to be held May 1, at Cass City High School.

Miss Kelly will speak on such issues as aid to private schools, students rights, and financing of public schools.

Teachers from the nine high school districts throughout the county are expected to be present to listen and react to her remarks.

In addition to Miss Kelly's address, the teachers are scheduled to elect new officers and hear a report on progress of the MEA sponsored Prisoner Education Project.

Lutheran Auxiliary to observe 7th year

The Lutheran Children's Friend Auxiliary, West Thumb Chapter No. 10 held its April meeting at St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Linkville, Monday evening, April 14.

Devotions were led by Rev. Edward Reinker. Mrs. Clarence Kern presided over the business meeting with 10 members and five guests present.

Mrs. Arthur Haag showed slides to the group of the Home in Bay City and also the Detroit office. She was assisted by Reinhardt Bauer.

The group will observe their seventh anniversary in July with family night. A potluck supper will be held at Kilmanagh July 13. Election of officers will be held.

Mrs. Paul Roemer and Mrs. Edward Reinker were appointed to the nominating committee. Groceries were brought for the Children's Home in Bay City. Rolls and coffee were served by the Linkville ladies.

Bronze Star presented to David McNaughton

Army Staff Sgt. David W. McNaughton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elwyn A. McNaughton of Saginaw, former Cass City resident, has received the Bronze Star Medal at Camp Eagle, Vietnam.

Staff Sgt. David W. McNaughton

Sgt. McNaughton was presented the award for meritorious service in ground operations against hostile forces in Vietnam. At the time of the presentation he was an administrative supervisor in 2d Battalion, 506th Infantry, 101st Airborne Division (Airmobile) at Camp Eagle.

McNaughton graduated from Cass City High School in 1965. He entered the service in September, 1967, and served one year in Vietnam. After a 30-day leave, he is now stationed at Fort Benning, Ga. His wife, the former Connie Krug, lives in Cass City.

Michigan Mirror

To study complaints against errant judges

JUDICIAL WATCHDOG

Michigan's new agency for disciplining judges, the State Judicial Tenure Commission, is functioning after a 10-month hiatus following voter approval of a constitutional amendment setting the unit up.

Members include five judges, two lawyers, a doctor and a former university president. Judge John H. Gillis of the State Court of Appeals is chairman.

Complaints against nine judges were submitted promptly. All were taken under consideration without comment.

Operating rules provide that the commission shall conduct its investigatory work behind closed doors. The purpose is to separate the crank and unjust complaints from those worthy of study without ruining a judge's reputation in the process.

Rules also provide the commission can receive complaints from any party. If the secret probe turns up evidence supporting the complaint, then a formal document outlining the charges and findings will be made public.

The judge involved then will get an opportunity to present evidence and arguments in his defense at a public hearing before the commission.

Decision comes after that. The commission must decide whether to recommend the jurist be removed from office, censured, asked to retire; or if the issue should be dismissed. Only the state Supreme Court can oust a judge from the bench. And such removal does not disqualify him from running for office in the future.

The commission can take action against a judge for misconduct, chronic drinking, senility, incompetence, laziness, physical or mental disability or other behavior deemed prejudicial to administration of justice.

Supreme Court Chief Justice

Thomas E. Brennan said action against a judge because of opinions expressed in court decisions "is a very delicate area" in which the commission must exercise great caution. He said appellate courts are set up specifically to review purely judicial questions.

"We certainly don't want our judges to stop being courageous because of this commission," he said. "That would be wrong."

But Brennan said the commission should "act strongly and vigorously where a judge's conduct has brought a measure of disgrace to the bench, or loss of public respect for the courts."

The real purpose of the commission is to protect judges from unjust attack if they are fit, and discipline them if they are not.

Previously, procedures necessary to remove a judge from office were so cumbersome that they never were invoked effectively. One of these was impeachment.

Members of the commission serve without pay. A bill before the Legislature would allow them $50,000 for expenses, but Gillis said the commission initially will use the facilities of the court administrator's office.

PESKY PESTICIDE

Gov. William G. Milliken has petitioned Interior Secretary Walter J. Hickel to investigate a pesticide threat in Lake Michigan.

He noted increasing concern in Michigan and other states bordering on the lake over the harmful effect of hard pesticides on Coho Salmon and other game fish.

"I would appreciate your immediate consideration of this urgent matter," Milliken told Hickel. Copies of the message were sent to the governors of Illinois, Indiana and Wisconsin. Milliken's request was the latest development in the continuing controversy over Lake Michigan pesticides. Last month, the federal government impounded 22,555 pounds of Coho found to contain dangerous levels of dieldrin and DDT.

Fish scientists and biologists have warned that Coho caught in Lake Michigan may become too contaminated to eat in a few years if action isn't taken to stop the spraying of chemical pesticides.

Legislation to restrict the use of hard insecticide chemicals is before Michigan lawmakers. The State Natural Resources Department has suggested they be outlawed altogether.

Vassar to host county convention

The Tuscola County Federation of Women's Clubs will hold its 46th annual convention at the Vassar Methodist Church Thursday, April 24. Registration and coffee hour will be from 9:00 to 10:00 a.m. and the convention will convene at 10:00.

Mrs. Joseph Crawford has been named delegate to represent the Cass City Woman's Study Club at the convention.

Also attending will be Mrs. Harold Perry, Mrs. Paul Murray and Mrs. George Murray. Plans have been made to present a gift to the club having the largest percentage of members present.

Dr. Mitchell Urban, a noted physician at Caro State Hospital, will be the guest speaker. The Vassar Senior Woman's Club will host the occasion and the luncheon will be served by the ladies of the church.

The cost of living is so high today that it takes a raft of money just to keep afloat.
