

Chronicle explores problems as city status questioned for village

More and more thoughtful citizens are wondering if the time has come for Cass City to move from its traditional village form of government to a home rule charter city.

The Chronicle will explore the advantages and disadvantages of the change in a three-part series. Today's installment tells the state-imposed functions of a city and their possible financial implications. The second installment will view the higher level of self-determination city status will allow Cass City and the third will tell the story of the results of a recent transition from village to city in a community comparable to Cass City's agricultural and industrial base, population and growth.

Village President Lambert Althaver reports growing interest upon the part of councilmen in exploring the applications of becoming a home rule city. He said that in future weeks, "We will probably have more serious discussion" on the topic.

The topic has surfaced in recent village council meetings, but the impetus has only taken the form of discussion. In special interview, Althaver reported that he feels the possibility of naming a committee to study the advantages and disadvantages of cityhood in terms of the community lie in the not too distant future.

One issue that arises, he said, "is whether or not we would be annexing additional boundaries." A related question, he said, is the village's present sewer system. According to long-range plans the sewer, to be effective in the village, should be extended outside the present village boundaries.

County planning consultants will make recommendations at the end of September for county-wide sewage needs and the project is expected to tie into the Cass City system.

Becoming a city would have the added advantage of placing control of city finances with the city rather than with the township.

Althaver reported having "excellent relations" with the township in the past. "We've worked well together on the sanitary landfill, and also on the fire hall."

"But who knows," he said, "maybe the village and township forms of government as we know it are obsolete." He said the village has been following the basic guidelines of the council's master plan, "but we haven't made any up-to-date evaluations of the master plan itself.

He said that for example, "Maybe Cass City needs to recognize the need for mobile home living and adjust to it." The master plan, he said, prohibits mobile home parks. He described the need for additional housing in the village as acute.

To inform the community on the emerging issue of what cityhood would mean, the Chronicle has consulted with Michigan's leading consultants in such local government transitions, the Michigan Municipal League.

The League observes that any attempt to adopt a home rule charter must originate from a locally appointed Charter Commission which recommends such a charter to the electorate who, in a special election, must decide whether or not they want home rule.

After the electorate approves it, it can be denied or affirmed by the State Boundary Commission, a committee of three, plus two from the county applying.

Boundary Commission chairman, Stewart Francke of Saginaw, told the Chronicle the basic criteria for affirmation or denial of applying charters include population, density, land area and uses, valuation, topography and drainage basins, urban growth factors, business, commercial and industrial property.

He said additional factors include: the need for governmental services, present status of services in the area to be incorporated, future needs, practicability of supplying such services by incorporation, probable effect on the local governmental units remaining, relation of tax increases to benefits, and the financial capability of the proposed municipality.

Two broad classes of activities comprise those of local government, the Michigan Municipal League observes. The first class of activities consists of certain duties required of primary local units of government by the State. These state-imposed duties include:

1. Assessing property as a basis of county and school taxes.
2. Collecting taxes for the counties and schools.
3. Conducting county, state and national elections.

The second broad class of local government activities consists of strictly local services such as fire protection, police protection, water supply, sewage disposal, zoning public health, etc.

The original purpose in organizing a village is to furnish local services to residents of a built-up area in the township which the township government, due to its limitations, cannot provide.

As a village, local residents lost local control over taxation when the 1966 state statute was implemented requiring identical property tax assessments with the township.

If the village acquires a home rule city (HRC) charter, all property would be assessed by a city assessor and a city board of review for all purposes—city, county, and school.

This would give the residents of the new city a city assessor solely responsible to them. The city would have to pay for the administration of this new function and the city tax would continue to be due in the summer as is the village tax now, and generally county and school taxes would continue to be due in December, as they are now.

The Michigan Municipal League writes that the separation from the township for assessing purposes eliminates the common situation in which a township supervisor assesses residential and commercial property at a higher ratio to value than agricultural property.

A new city probably would incur some additional expense, as compared to the present village, for the collection of school and county taxes.

The cost of conducting county, state, and national elections would be an additional expense item in terms of the publication of the election notices and salaries of election officials on election day.

If paper ballots are used, they are supplied by the county clerk.

As it is presently, separate voter registration rolls are kept. Cityhood would save the confusion of having to register and vote in two different places, with two different clerks.

The League observes that the net effect of being governed by two overlapping units of government is the lack of interest in and control of the "second" or township government.

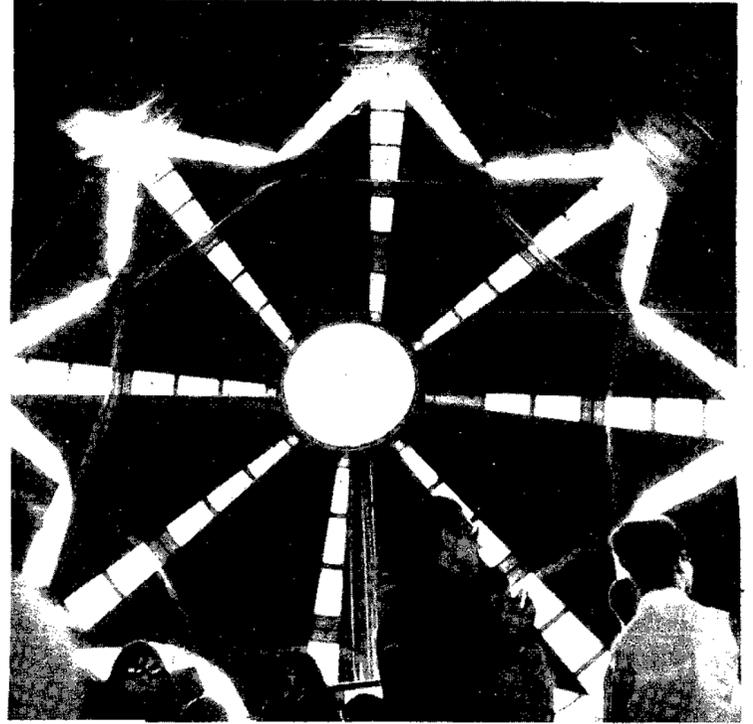

The legal autonomy of the new city would allow it to join into contractual arrangements for the provision of services such as cemetery, fire, library, disaster control, and others.

HRC incorporation eliminates any confusion about the authority of the township to enforce its ordinances within the village. There is no clear legislative answer, the League observes, to townships that have sought to enforce their ordinances within the village.

Watch for rusty water in wash

It's that time again. Village Engineer William Schram said this week that the village maintenance crew will be flushing fire hydrants Wednesday and Thursday, Aug. 6-7.

With the flushing, rust is removed from the pipes. It won't hurt you to drink it, but it does discolor clothing and officials advise that wash water be checked before using on the critical days.

A "TIME EXPOSURE" photograph of a ride portrays the dazzle of the mid-way at the Tuscola County Fair in progress through Saturday.

9 injured in car-truck crash

Nine members of a Snover family, previously of Cass City, were hurt Monday after the car they were riding in crashed into the rear of a truck on M-25 near Finn Road, State police report.

All were released after General Hospital emergency treatment. Troopers identified the injured as Mrs. Selma Schulz, 36, the driver of the car; and her children, Tiana, 3; Meta, 8; Ludwig, 12; Caroline, 10; Selma, 3 months; Johan, 9; Tustobert, 11, and Werner, 7.

Two persons suffered minor injuries Monday afternoon in the collision of automobiles, driven by Keith M. Brown of Ubyly and Roland L. Warczinski, of Palms, on Bay City-Forestville Road, near Bushley Road, about five miles northeast of Cass City.

The injured are Mrs. Joyce Brown of Ubyly and Mrs. Helen Warczinski of Palms.

Both drivers and two children in each car escaped injury. State Police said both cars were going west and that the front end of the Warczinski car and the rear end of the Brown car were damaged.

Officers charged Warczinski with careless driving and Brown with driving on an expired license.

Five area persons escaped injury Tuesday, July 29, when two cars brushed one another on the narrow road curve of Burmon and Crawford Roads.

Investigating deputy Bruce Tait reported that David Michael Laiko of Kingston and his passenger Roger Lloyd Jaynes of R.R. 2, Silverwood, received no injuries.

Laiko was traveling west on Burmon Road.

William Henry Zemke of DeFord and his two passengers, Kurt Edward Zemke and Chris Paul Zemke, were traveling east on Burmon.

No summons was issued.

Large loss in fire near Ubyly

An Ubyly fire of undetermined origin occurred July 23 on the farm of Edward Bukoski on Jurress Road, two and one-half miles northeast of Ubyly.

The barn was in the process of being painted. The loss was estimated at between $10,000 and $12,000. The Ubyly Fire Department responded but the blaze was beyond control before it could reach the scene.

Near Gagetown a barn belonging to Lee Wallace on Maxwell Road, four miles northeast, was completely destroyed Saturday, July 19. It contained an early model car, fishing tackle, tools, and lumber. The loss was estimated at between $2000 and $4000.

101st Huron Co Fair opens Sunday

Persons responsible for presenting the 101st annual Huron County Fair are pulling out all the stops this year to make the seven-day event one of the greatest in history. J. L. Ruth, manager, announced this week.

From the opening all-denomination Vesper Service Sunday, Aug. 3, at 2 p.m. to the closing show Saturday, Aug. 9, when the Imperial Hell Drivers Thrill Show will be presented at 2 and 8 p.m., an action-packed schedule is planned.

Highlights of the Monday show will be horse pulling and steam threshing contests.

Tuesday 4-H and FFA judging starts, followed by pony pulling and a tractor pull. The Huron County Bean Queen will be crowned. Wednesday is children's day when rides are reduced until 6 p.m. Open class judging will be held and a livestock parade and talent show will be evening entertainment highlights.

Senior Citizens' day is Thursday. The annual 4-H and FFA Livestock Sale will draw large crowds at 3:30 p.m. Harness races are slated in the early evening and the night show will feature a professional variety show.

Harness racing and tractor pulling will feature the day's events.

Bands from Bad Axe, Owen-Gage and Sebewing are slated to perform on various days during Fair week to add to the festivities.

Battle-scarred Cass City soldier

in Vietnam reports "war is hell"

EDITOR'S NOTE: This report of the war in Vietnam written in the words of a Cass City GI is presented as he wrote it. While the literary style might be short of professional standards the grim, reality of the war shines through the account. We present it to you as a reminder of what the war is all about to the men fighting it.

I was first sent to Vietnam in late March of 1969. I arrived to my assigned unit about two weeks after my arrival. When I arrived at our company headquarters I was told that our company was seeing a lot of action and this is when I was the most nervous person anyone had ever seen. I was not alone though because there was 5 or 6 others right along side. We walked, very slowly, down to the chopper pad to wait to catch one to the field. It wasn't long and we were there, sitting in the middle of a rice paddy while chopper after chopper moved in and out. While here we met our CO (Commanding Officer) and our Platoon Leaders. They welcomed us with opened arms, dirty fatigues, and bearded faces. From here we got choppered to the base of a mountain in a valley with nothing but mts. and a river. We no more than got off the chopper and zap, zap, zap...

The Americans had killed 2 Vietnamese people carrying rice or salt for the NVA (North Vietnamese Army). We later walked past these people and to my surprise there were the first dead people I had witnessed in the Republic of Viet Nam, one woman and one man.

We moved further down the valley and then came my first real test at mountains. We moved for 4 or 5 days through the mountains in tremendous heat.

When everyone heard we were moving out of the mountains they were very happy, but even more so when they heard they would be choppered out. Only one man had been injured so far until we moved to the open field where the choppers were to pick us up. We caught sniper fire once along the trail but moved shortly afterwards. We got to the place of pick-up and machine guns blasted out. Everyone was trying to get in a hole or behind something when I heard the 3rd Plt. Sgt. holler, "Two KIA's (killed in action) and two wounded." Who, I kept saying to myself but no one seemed to know. I lay there with bullets zinging all around. Soon I rolled over 'n down a small hill for protection. Two other ARVN trained soldiers soon moved in. Then the choppers were on the way. As they came nearer one chopper, protected by gunships moved in and circled the area with smoke so the choppers (6 of them) could land fairly safe. Night was falling and as the choppers came and went I kept praying that daylight would exist for a while longer, but no success. Night-time came and the choppers left. Our company and the ARVN's were left behind, so to speak. I was scared, even more so then before. We slept the best we could through the night and prayed for daylight to arrive. It finally did and we were changing our pick-up area about 300 meters downstream. It seemed to take forever but finally the time came, the fifth chopper of the 3rd lift. Boy what an exciting moment seeing the area from about 500 ft. up. What a relief. After this trip to the mountains the men were talking "RE-UP". Some of these guys had been in-country 8 months or more. This RE-UP program is for 3 more yrs. This gets them a job in the rear. To do this a person has to really be sick of injuries, rashes, blood, death, heat, etc. This made me think but then I finally decided the field before I give anymore yrs to the army. So here we sit just off one of our fire-support bases in the paddies again. This night was a much better night to sleep.

The next few days we roamed through old deserted villages looking for weapons and a few other articles. Things were going very good.

We worked a few (6) APC's (anti-personnel carriers) for this mission through the villages and one afternoon we stopped in on a village and got re-supplied. We got sodas, mail, and a few other things. Everyone was glad to get word from the loved ones back in the world. Also on this chopper came a man who went in to RE-UP and called his folks and decided not to. He was in my platoon and so I was introduced and talked for awhile. Soon the word was out that in 95 minutes we would be moving. We packed our gold (mail) and sodas and began to move. I walked 2nd in my platoon because I was RTO (radio-telephone operator) then. We walked less than 100 meters when down to my knees I fell and I could hear the APC's opening up with their 50 caliber: and then was the cry for a medic 3 men behind me. At first I thought it was incoming but then found out it was a mine. I was shaky and they said call for a dust-off. I tried and tried but my radio had gone dead. I hollered up front and another man got the dust-off. I dropped my pack and radio and went back to help the 1st man, our sgt., E-5.

Then I went back to the next man and to my surprise it was the man who was going to RE-UP that very morning DEAD. He had set off a 105 artillery round that had been booby trapped by the VC. So I came back to the Sgt. E-5 and helped put him on a stretcher. He wasn't hit but the concussion had knocked him down very hard and he was so hot burning up he was so hot. We got them ready for the dust-off and BOOM! again. The APC in front of us had loaded a round in the chamber of their 106 and closed the bridge and it went off. The APC commander got the extreme back blast and our CO got part of it too. The track commander was dead instantly and our CO was bleeding from the face and arm. Finally the dust-off got here and we loaded them all on and sat a minute before leaving. I guess I really didn't realize what had happened until it was all over. Then, WOW, I thought, 2 more dead 'n two more wounded. This is when I thought "War is Hell."

(And anyone else he can get to help)

Remember the days when half the fun of flying (for men) was ogling the stewardesses? Well, the airlines are feeling the labor shortage pinch, too. Last week on a brief vacation flight, the first thing I noticed was that a couple of the girls were a shade less voluptuous than before and two of them in the "Friendly Skies" could have used a cleaner uniform. It's not that you'd be ashamed to walk down the street with even the least of them... still some aren't the living dolls you've grown to expect.

Small world department: Lynn Haire, an exchange student in Sweden, reports she received a call from a student who is also in Sweden. She turned out to be a cousin of the former Chris Schwaderer of Kingston, who worked two summers at the Chronicle.

Where there's a will, there's a way. Cass City Scouts attending the National Jamboree in Idaho flew west for the big event. That's the deluxe way. Many troops chartered buses. A couple enterprising scouts really cut expenses by cycling. Craig Guernsey, who informed us of this, didn't say how long it took them to arrive, but did explain that they started "somewhere close to Michigan."

Cycling is becoming an in-thing I discovered in Denver last week end. Many youths armed with sleeping packs were cycling over the mountains and across the plains on holiday excursions.

And if you find this hard to believe, how about the fellow I overheard talking about walking across the country and already had four states behind him?

Cheyenne, Wyo., staged its annual Frontier Days while we were visiting and we took in a day of the week-long festivities.

Out in wild west land they take their ridin' and ropin' seriously...and their drinkin', too. Cheyenne, about two-thirds the size of Bay City, goes on a week-long binge during the event and lank, squinty-eyed cowboys in Levis and boots are about matched with curious, round-eyed tourists in sunglasses and shorts.

The rodeo is the largest of its kind and featured $100,000 in prize money. Still, with hundreds of contestants, I wondered how the cowboys could transport themselves and their horses from meet to meet and still make a living.

The answer, one veteran said, is that the contestants share rodeo, live together and look out for one another. A rodeo regular can live on the road for about $10 a day...a feat which is more remarkable than riding the fiercest of Brahma bulls.

Church league pauses for annual all-star game

The Cass City Church League will take time out Thursday night, Aug. 7, for an all-star game at Cass City Recreational Park. The game will include two of the best players from each team in the 12-team loop as selected by managers and three players selected at large to form 15-man teams. The teams are picked by lot with the even numbered players forming one squad and the odd numbers the other. Meanwhile, one of the best balanced leagues in recent years has provided interesting ball games during the regular season. With eight games played there is not an undefeated team in the league and all teams have won at least one game. Colwood-Cumber - Sunshine-Sutton leads the loop with just one defeat in eight outings. Fraser-Gagetown and Decker-Snover are hot on the leader's heels with just two losses.

Live steam show set at Caro Fairgrounds

The 14th annual Saginaw Valley Live Steam Show has been scheduled at the Caro fairgrounds Aug. 8-9-10 when the usual varied program will be offered. Twelve large inspected engines will be featured in the show and such varied events as threshing, straw baling, hay rides and pulling contests will be offered. Model engines and antique tractors are welcome at the event, authorities said.

The standings, July 26.

Erla's cop title in Ubly play-offs

Erla's added the play-off championship to its regular season title last week as they swept past Nugent's, 3-1, Wednesday and Carlings, 6-1, Friday.

The Nugent game was especially close as the losers actually out-hit Erla's 3 to 2 while losing. The Foodmen scored single runs in the third, fourth and sixth innings.

Two of the runs came without benefit of a hit or a walk. Only in the sixth when Elwyn Helwig singled and Jim Knoblet doubled did the champs score an earned run.

Nugent's went out in front early. In the first inning Shrock timed one of Al Bosch's fastballs and slammed it for a home run. It was the first and last time that the Motor nine was able to score.

After this blow, Bosch mowed down the Ubly team with ease, striking out 12.

Erla's had an easier time in the championship tilt with Carlings, the only league team to defeat them this year. The game was settled in the first inning. After two were away, Hillaker was hit by the pitcher, Helwig walked, Nichols singled and Maharg cleaned up with a three-base knock.

The three runs were more than enough to win. Matching his performance in the first game, Bosch whiffed 12 and allowed just two hits, both in the fourth inning when Carlings counted its lone run.

With the title safely tucked away the Foodmen now wait for the coming Class C State Tourney. They are the defending State champions and will open defense of their title in district play at Port Huron.

While waiting for the tourney to start, Erla's will play exhibition games.

Saturday at 7:30 p.m. at Cass City Recreational Park, Erla's will play Roma Inn of Bay City. Sunday, Aug. 3, the team will play a benefit game in Owasco at 6:30 p.m. against the State Class D champions.

I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

By H. M. Bulen

Here's a football oddity that shows how fortunes can change for a team...The once-powerful University of Pittsburgh Panthers in the final 10 years of Coach Jock Sutherland's regime (1929 through 1938) lost only 11 games... But in the most recent 10 years (1959-1968) Pitt has lost 59 games!

Here's quite an oddity from pro football that many fans aren't aware of...The Buffalo Bills of the American Football League won just one game last season--and what team do you think that one victory was over...Buffalo beat of all teams, the champion New York Jets... In the 13 other games during the season, the Bills were unable to win...But, oddly, the one game they won was against the very best team in the league...Strange, isn't it?

Did you know that the reverse barb on the end of a fish-hook was originated NOT to keep the bait on the hook as some believe--but rather to prevent a caught fish from slipping off.

Michigan may be first to curb cigarette ads

Cigarette advertising and the regulation of it has been the concern of Congress and the Federal government up to now. But a member of the Michigan Senate says he is going to impose a partial ban on the advertising of cigarettes in Michigan when the legislature convenes again next January.

William Faust, a non-smoking Democrat from Westland, notified his fellow senators of his intentions during a recent Senate debate of a bill to outlaw advertising indicating discrimination in the sale or exchange of real estate.

Faust proposed an amendment to the bill to require cigarette advertising to describe the "harmful effects of smoking" as well as urging customers to purchase the particular brand advertised.

FOUR TUSCOLA COUNTY girls were among 175 from Michigan attending a Young People's Citizenship Seminar at Central Michigan University. They were sponsored by the Michigan Farm Bureau. From left: Jane Laurie, Ann Kuck, Marsha Wallace and Laurel Reinert.

The proposal received instant support from another non-smoking senator, Anthony Stamm, a Republican from Kalamazoo, who said it was a "progressive step."

But the manager of the bill being considered, Coleman Young, a Democrat from Detroit who does smoke, told Faust to leave his bill alone. Young told Faust he didn't want to lose the bill because of the amendment and told him to wait until next January.

Immediately, Faust withdrew his proposal, saying "I didn't want it to come to a vote yet, so I withdrew it." But the Westland lawmaker said "I am serious, though, and this serves notice on everyone that next January I will sponsor a bill."

The proposal to have such advertising tell the "harmful effects" of smoking would be an effort to comply with federal regulations, he said. In that way, the media wouldn't be deprived of freedom of speech, but no positive advertising would take place, he said.

If Faust is successful in his attempt, Michigan would be the first state to impose restrictions on the advertising of cigarettes, a subject which has received much attention from Congress and several regulatory agencies up to now.

Pop music may make you deaf

Teenagers who frequent dance halls that feature amplified music may endanger their hearing. Researchers have found that the average volume of the bands which are heard in local dance halls exceeded the lowest damage risk criteria used by industries.

The loudest band's din hit the average listener with a volume equivalent to a loud auto horn at a distance of a few feet. Researchers also found that some pop musicians themselves already show permanent hearing loss. They tested 25 musicians before and after a four-hour evening on the bandstand. Seventy-five percent of the group showed no change in their hearing, but the other 25 per cent disclosed a temporary hearing loss that ranged from 10 to 25 decibels. The researchers think that some permanent hearing loss could result "after a few years" of the same nightly exposure. They say there is no evidence that the musician can become toughened to the sound level and thereby escape damage. They recommend a safety device for musicians exposed to this professional hazard—well-fitting ear plugs.

Loss of hearing by children who are just getting ready to begin school or who are in the early elementary grades is especially important. This is the age group in which language development and intellectual development is actively taking place. The vast majority of these children are from otherwise healthy backgrounds and usually have enjoyed good normal health. They simply suffer from a collection of fluid in the middle ear. It's a very difficult condition to detect and diagnose, because sometimes it is painless, there is no fever, and there is no drainage from the ear. It is usually first suspected by the teacher who finds that the child is not hearing well in school; perhaps isn't performing as well as she thinks the child should.

Furthermore, at home the child will often have difficulty in his relations with his family because he seems to lapse off without hearing instructions and will often turn up the television or the radio louder than the rest of the family wants it. If the child is noted to be functioning this way in school and at home and is taken to the physician, it's a bit of a tricky diagnosis, but most physicians will pick up the hearing loss by examining the ear carefully.

The two major causes of this condition are repeated or chronic adenoid and tonsil infection and also frequent allergies. Both of these conditions are fairly easily taken care of.

Another age group with hearing problems is the older age group. Almost three-quarters of the people over the age of 75 have a very significant hearing impairment. Doctors used to feel that very little could be done with this nerve type loss of hearing by the aged. However, more people are enjoying the use of hearing aids. It can be determined whether they will enjoy the use of a hearing aid by certain special tests. This is often done in hearing centers which usually have a selection of hearing aids on hand which can be tried by the patient to learn which of the instruments provides the greatest improvements in hearing for him. These centers do not sell hearing aids, but refer patients to a hearing aid dealer who sells and services the one found to be most effective.

But hearing aids cause many problems too. They are not easy to learn to use and they should be supplemented by lip reading.

Everyone who has a hearing loss, from the mildest loss to total deafness should be concerned with lip reading. A person with a mild loss needs lip reading to assist him when he has difficulty in groups, in noise, or in understanding some soft spoken people. Lip reading fills in the words he misses here and there.

Cass Cityan tops at Thunder Road

Lyle Truemner of Cass City placed first in Thunder Road's short track race in Saturday night's mid-season championships. He won $75 and a trophy, and has won over $700 this season at the track. He received $50 for a recent quarter-mile track record time of 23.1 seconds.

Nine hundred excited fans jammed the bleachers as drivers competed for $800 in prize money.

Qualifying drivers had been racking up points to compete in the mid-season championship in seven consecutive events since May 24.

Jerry Kellitz of Deford won $95 for his second place in the short-track race and "Doc" Wilcox finished third after a fierce battle with Truemner that ended when Wilcox's car was forced out by a busted gas tank.

Wilcox broke the half-mile track record recently with a 23.1 seconds record. His placing Saturday night brought him $45.

In the half-mile, 30 lap race, Jack Faust of Owendale received $95 cash plus a trophy for his first place.

Larry Mathew of Kingston won $80 for second and Jerry Schueki of Royal Oak placed third in the half-mile 30 lap race.

Other proposals include such extreme measures as a complete ban on cigarette advertising, a step which has been taken in several European countries.

The National Association of Broadcasters' Television Code Review Board recently made a

Irresponsible attacks hamper sex education

Sex education has become a topic which equals, if not surpasses, parochial school aid when it comes to raising the tempers and blood pressures of Michigan residents these days.

The specific subject which served as a lightning rod for the furor in the last few weeks is a set of proposed guidelines for the teaching of sex education in public schools. The proposals were drawn up by a 25-member committee selected by the State Board of Education after the board was instructed by the Legislature to set up some guidelines.

Opposition to the guidelines arose even before they were made public. This was led by state board member James F. O'Neil of Livonia and by a group calling itself "the United Committees of Michigan."

The specific guidelines around which the controversy is boiling may be unique to Michigan, but the controversy around sex education in general is not.

At least 35 states have had controversies over the subject erupt to some degree, all in the past year or so.

The National Education Association conducted a survey earlier this year and concluded that the controversies were being touched off by the John Birch Society and similar right wing groups.

This is not to say all opponents of sex education or forms of sex education are extremists or right wingers, for they come from all political persuasions. It does mean, as one Birch Society official has been quoted as saying, "That this is a highly emotional area and is ripe for exploitation by a group in need of a cause."

Robert Welch, founder and leader of the John Birch Society, has labeled sex education "a filthy communist plot." His group has formed committees entitled "Movement to Restore Decency" around the country in an all-out campaign against sex education.

Part of the controversy here in Michigan revolves around what exactly is sex education. Mrs. Pauline Iyenaga of Lansing, one of the 25 members of the advisory committee, talked of this in helping present the report of the committee to the state board.

"Sex education involves a great deal more than the mechanics of sex," she said. "In some ways it is unfortunate that the name 'sex education' is given to this area since it prompts such an emotional response in some persons."

"What we're really dealing with is all relationships which persons of one sex have with another on many different levels," she said.

The committee report itself, anticipated organized opposition of some type to sex education in the schools.

"Schools welcome questions and constructive criticism by informed groups and individuals," it said.

"However, nationwide and statewide extremist organizations counter the public school's responsibility for directing the educational process within the democratic philosophy by trying to stifle free expression of views opposed to their own."

"They make irresponsible, uninformed and near libelous attacks on individuals, institutions and organizations that disagree with them," the report said. "Their goal is disruption and undermining of democratic procedure through coercion, intimidation and even violence to prevent or to force change."

As might be expected, that section of the report was booed loudly by the unruly crowd which attended the public presentation of the proposed guidelines.

It probably was to be expected, at least by the males in the state, but the Michigan Department of Natural Resources has confirmed that it's the female mosquitoes which cause all the trouble for humans.

A report issued by the Department says female mosquitoes make all the noise and do all the biting.

"Male mosquitoes are harmless," the report said. "Their beaks are not fitted for piercing."

"Females bite and hence can transmit disease," it said. "They are the only ones which buzz."

Now, if they'd only come up with a way to spot the difference before the mosquitoes get to you....

MR. AND MRS. EVERETT STARKEY (at left) and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Schrijber working at the Fairgrove United Methodist Church food stand at the Tuscola County Fair's mid-way.

Some things just never change at the Tuscola County Fair. The fair just wouldn't be the fair without the merry-go-round, the 4-H show, the garden exhibits and the food concession booth operated by the ladies of the Fairgrove Methodist Church.

The organization has served three generations of fair-bound county people and four of the ladies have been with the program since it started 29 years ago.

The four, Mrs. Fay Townsend, Mrs. Mary Profit, Mrs. Jora Phillips and Mrs. Everette Starkey, have seen many changes in the operation since 1941.

The principal change has been in the way the concession operates. In the early days, Mrs. Starkey recalled with a laugh, we struggled with an old, smoky Perfection oil stove and everyone furnished food.

Pies, vegetables, chicken and similar items were brought from home for sale at the fair and earned the ladies a well-deserved reputation for good food.

Today nearly everything is purchased. If you go to the fair Monday you sample delicious homemade pies...but if you arrived Tuesday or any other fair day, the pies you tasted came from the bakery.

Still, it's generally agreed that for food served at the fair, the church booth puts out quality that is in a class by itself. It's not cooked at home anymore, but there is a permanent kitchen established and the magic touch of expert cooks is apparent when you sit down to eat.

That's probably the reason that finding customers has never been a problem for the Methodists.

But sometimes finding help is. We have about 40 families involved here and sometimes we have more help than we need, Mrs. Starkey confided, and other times we just don't have enough.

The young people pitch in and help by waiting on tables and sometimes bring their friends even if they don't go to our church, she said.

They like to get out for a day, Mrs. Starkey explained, and when they work we furnish their meals.

But despite these problems,

About 8 weeks have passed since this has happened and I've learned it takes not only watchful eyes and opened ears but the man upstairs, too, to keep alive, safe, 'n sound.

It makes a grunt, as we infantrymen are called, really think how great a job in the rear, such as clerks, cooks, truck drivers, must be compared to living in the field. Fresh water, clean clothes, showers every night, mail every day, cold sodas and beer anytime is only a dream in the life of a grunt.

From this article I hope the people back in "the world" (the U. S. A.) can understand and become concerned with this war.

To me and my buddies beside me war is hell but to the people back home, the parents, the wives, the high school and college students, the girlfriends and lovers, "Is War Really Hell?"

Think about it. "Thoughts aren't everything, but action works wonders." Please become concerned because one day your buddy, your son, the neighbor's boy, someone you admire and love will be sent. Then what will you say? "WAR IS HELL!"

It'll be too late to do anything then. What do you think?

Chili and Son of a Gun Stew ahead.

Holding the menu at a grotesque angle to catch the faint flicker of the light from the candle in the "fashionable" darkness of the dining room I searched for these dishes of the west.

Jail House Chili and Son of a Gun Stew.

Is this the place, I timidly inquired? The right place, but the wrong day. Jail House Chili and Son of a Gun Stew are served on Monday...but there was roast beef at $6.00 and steak at $7.00.

ever not so mundane prices. But we got even in Cheyenne. We stopped for a smorgasbord at a restaurant called Petersen's. It featured an array of salads and vegetables, soups and juices, potatoes and three meat dishes. The day we visited they had chicken, roast beef and stuffed peppers.

The management urged you to try all three and the quality was excellent.

The price? $1.89 for adults, $1.00 for children.

SWELLS FUND—Past President Richard Drews presented a $200 check to Frank Haythorn, Hills and Dales Hospital administrator, last week to be used for the heart fund at the hospital. The check was a donation from Rotary to the project. Haythorn said that a $3,500-unit will be used at the facility.

A PRETTY GIRL and a pretty summer day make a very pretty picture. The leaves of this white birch—a fitting match with the flowers in the skirt of Bev Hrabec of Cass City.

400 served at Fuelgas open house
 An estimated 400 persons were served free roast beef sandwiches Friday and Saturday as Fuelgas Co. of Cass City celebrated its anniversary in unique fashion.

Company officials cooked a 100-pound roast in a stove in the appliance showroom of the store to make the sandwiches for guests.

In addition to the free lunch, the company gave away six prizes during the two days. The major gift was a gas stove presented to Mrs. Bernice Deeg of Gagetown.

LOOKING OVER ONE of the test plots are Lyle Clarke, right, vocational agriculture instructor at Cass City High School, and one of his pupils.

Accurate records needed

FFA in special program

Cass City Future Farmers of America (FFA) are participating in a test plot program sponsored by Michigan Bean Co. Winners with outstanding test plots will attend an awards banquet during the upcoming school year.

To participate the FFA boys must maintain a comprehensive record keeping system on their test plot. Most of the test plots are segments of larger acreages the boys have as FFA crop projects.

Soil tests, fertilization and growth records are kept and the record manual will be turned over to Michigan Bean after the crops have been harvested. FFA counselor Lyle Clarke reported the participating boys included Randy Hampshire, Dave Little, Dennis Little, David Milligan, Lee and David Deering, and Dan Caister.

"If It Fitz. . ."

Cat-lovers, don't read this

BY JIM FITZGERALD

Let's start this sad story with a question: Am I the only hard-hearted Scrooge who hates to have a cat jump on his face, especially when he's sleeping which is often because I'm mighty tired of the way things have been going around my house?

Several years ago I wrote that cats were stupid animals, with about as much real usefulness as the Prince of Wales. This was after some dumb brood asked Ann Landers if it would be ok if her cat were her bridesmaid (Ann said yes, if the wedding were held in a kennel which it probably was. The world knows no foolishness to match that which fills pet cemeteries with weeping and flowers every Memorial Day).

Anyway, I also wrote with glee about my childhood when I used to drop cats off roofs. This was not cruelty, it was scientific research. I dropped them 10 times each to test the 9-lives theory. Actually, I never hurt a cat, a fact dueless to my humanity than to the neighborhood architecture. Ours was a ranch-style block and a full-grown cat could jump over the highest roof.

Please note, dear cat-lovers, that I wrote these terrible things many years ago when I was young and brave and single. And I was immediately attacked by hordes of Little Old Ladies. They collected cat hairs from their furniture and braided them into a cross which they burned in my front yard. Ever since, I have been very respectful of cats and their owners. I even observe National Cat Week, drinking my booze from a saucer. I pray that nothing written here today will be misunderstood. I want no more trouble with old ladies, especially relatives. Cats are fine.

Except the stupid things keep jumping in my face.

Steady readers (Mother and Aunt Madeline) are probably wondering how a cat ever came to live in our house. Well, in the first place, it's not a cat, it's 2 cats. Honest. In a weak moment, I promised the 2 youngest kids a pet to make up for the loss of our expected child. I decided a cat would be less trouble than a dog. And my brilliant wife decided the 2 kids might fight over ownership of 1 cat, so let's get one for each of them. (This worked great. Now Eddie wallops Christie "because your cat scratched my cat".)

So now the house smells like a barnyard. So now the new furniture might as well be old furniture because it's covered with blankets so the cats can't tear it up. So now I have to look carefully before I sit or step.

And now, worst of all, I must argue with my wife over whether it is cute for 2 cats to leap into the face of a hard-working breadwinner who likes to snooze while watching TV.

"It means they love you," she says. "I'll kill them both," I says. "Daddy's a dirty rat," Eddie says. "If you hurt those cats I'll tell the police," Christie says. Boy. If a man's home is his castle, this king has been overthrown and there are cats littering on my throne.

There was a big discussion about what to call the cats. The kids wanted something clever, such as To and Fro or Huff and Puff. I suggested Dumb and Dumber. There was finally a democratic vote, while I was at work, and the cats were named Molly and Polly. But I call them Onward and Upward. Through my tears.

Mrs. Roth dies at daughter's home

Mrs. Iva Mae Roth, 71, of Mayville died Tuesday, July 22, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Fred Martin of Cass City. She had been ill four months.

Mrs. Roth was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Brown and was born June 13, 1898, in Fremont township. She was married to Clarence Roth in Detroit, Oct. 25, 1917. Mr. Roth died Oct. 7, 1962.

She was a member of the Mayville Free Methodist Church and its missionary society.

Surviving are: three daughters, Mrs. Martin (Kathryn), Mrs. Lloyd (Geraldine) Webster of Owosso and Mrs. Stanley (Thelma) Schneidt of Caro; 10 grandchildren, and three great-grandchildren.

Other survivors are: her father, Russell Brown of Vassar; two sisters, Mrs. Myrtle Tapp of Dearborn and Mrs. Mary Bader of Vassar, and three brothers, Walter of Vassar and Clayton and William of Caro.

Funeral services were held Thursday at the Free Methodist Church, Mayville, with Rev. Fred Singer officiating. Burial was in Fremont cemetery, Mayville.

FIRING LINE

If I were the editor

By Richard Haines

The saying usually goes that while the cat's away, the mice will play, but all I did was mouse around for news.

Saturday afternoon, as I write this, I'm alone. There's only a shady, cool breeze drifting through the office and I am here alone with the tap of my type.

I've a long road to tread before I'd ever make editor. A fact which I'm occasionally reminded of as the "blue pencil" has scrawled the same page as mine.

As big, bad John, I would probably also be politically moderate, though slightly heavier on the social criticism side.

Nice daydreams. I don't think we're daydreaming though, when we say our generation compared to that which has preceded us is distinct and apart, and I apologize if you find that annoying.

Our generation assumes more autonomy, judges more discriminately and is unafraid of irony and contradiction, as I observe it. And those three qualities go together to make us anti-heroes.

One has said that only the innocent can be harsh. The guilty are soft because they are sentimental.

But I shall not be an elitist that claims superiority in its values because our generation is also more impatient, indulgent and ignorant of the progress of the past, than the generation that has gone before it.

Continuing.....
Editor or not, the thing interesting about news is the opportunity to observe first hand, and write about the men who make it. History is made largely by men and there are those in Cass City who impress me.

There are several epoch-making Meredith Auten types around who have carried the town forward. And covering the newsmakers that move the times gives a rich meaning to the task of writing it.

We are a town rich with its own history, yet we are a town never too old to think anew.

As two young druggists, its young theatre owner, its enterprising businessmen, its talented industrialists give me a lot of hope for this town.

Cass City has a rare balance. Deep in its soul there is a unique solidarity. Rare, indeed, in this age of contention and strife. Yet Cass City still has impetus.

And the gap of the generations softened in this observer when recently Keith McConkey told me, "This town has young people in it and that pleases me." And hearing him say it pleased me too.

The new bride with a little cookbook learning can be a mighty dangerous thing.
The Want Ads are newsy too.

Mrs. Robert M. Dye

The Deford Methodist Church was the setting for the evening ceremony Saturday, June 14, at 7:30 p.m. which united in marriage Jane Rona Venema and Robert Munro Dye. The Rev. Walter Roshaven of Bay City officiated at the ceremony.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Maynard Venema of Deford. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Dye of Bay City.

The bride wore an A-line skimmer of veiled organza with a built-in chapel length train. Drifts of lace motifs also complimented the dress and its train. The sleeves were elbow-length and accented with a petite bow. Petals of pearl edge organza and lace, all topped with rosebuds and crystal highlighted, secured the bouffant veil of bridal mist illusion. She carried an arrangement of white sweetheart roses, daisies and ivy.

Miss Kathy Bishop was maid of honor with Eileen Hicks and Judy Venema, sister of the bride, as bridesmaids. They wore blue A-line crepe dresses with Empire waists and puffed sleeves. They wore matching headpieces and carried baskets of daisies and ivy.

Best man was Stuart Frank and groomsmen were Harold Krohn and Calvin Venema. Seating guests were Florian Filary and Allan Venema.

A reception was held immediately after the ceremony at the Deford School, after which the couple left on a honeymoon trip to the Smoky Mountains.

The couple are making their home in Bay City.

AAUW prexy urges support of school levy

To the Editor:

On Monday, August 11, the citizens of the Cass City school district will go to the polls to vote on a three and one half mill operating levy to run our schools for the coming year. The board of directors of the Cass City branch of the American Association of University Women would like to urge a favorable vote on this proposal.

We have a modern high school building, some outstanding teachers have been attracted to our school system, our students are eager to learn. But running an educational program takes money. The Cass City school board is not asking for millage for "frills." The millage requested is necessary to present an adequate program.

The AAUW supports tax reform, and hopefully this will eliminate the inequities in the present tax program, but meanwhile, THERE ARE CHILDREN TO EDUCATE TODAY. The first grader who does not learn to read well because he spends only half of the day in school will be handicapped for years to come. The boy who is at the right stage of his physical development to benefit from junior high athletics or the girl who would receive lifetime enjoyment from being exposed to fine music need our support now.

Events in space within the past weeks have shown us that the future holds experiences we cannot possibly foresee, and our children will live in a far different world from that which we have known. While we cannot predict what that world will hold for them, we do know that those with a good education will be able to adjust to any conditions with grace and confidence. There is nothing we can do for our young people which will stand them in better stead than voting "yes" on August 11.

Mrs. Stanley Kirn, Sr. President

Mr. and Mrs. Roger A. Trisch

The Sutton United Methodist Church was the scene of the ceremony June 21 at 7:30 p.m. when Linda Sue Russell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Russell of Cass City, was united in marriage to Roger Allen Trisch, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Trisch of Caro. The couple were married by Rev. Willis Braun.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her father. She chose a gown of silk organza with the bodice and short sleeves of Venice lace with a high round neckline. The Empire waistline held the removable chapel length train with square corners and Venice lace medallions and a band of lace across the bottom. The A-line skirt of the gown was trimmed also with Venice lace medallions.

Her shoulder length imported bridal illusion veil was held in place by a Venice lace daisy wreath. The bride carried a bouquet of pink rosebuds and white carnations.

The bride's attendants wore pink semi-fitted sleeveless A-line gowns of linen-like Korati, with a high band neckline. A train from the waistline in back was trimmed with pink and white daisies at the top and on the front waist. Their headpieces were matching pink daisies with veils. They carried bouquets of pink roses and white daisies with pink streamers.

Miss Donna Russell, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Miss Jeri Willson was bridesmaid. The flower girl, Judy Smith, niece of the bride, wore an identical gown of the bridesmaids.

The bride's mother wore a mint green linen Korati dress with matching coat and hat with beige accessories.

The groom's mother wore a turquoise dress with white accessories. Both mothers wore corsages of yellow roses and white carnations.

Dennis Trisch, brother of the groom, was best man. Tom Lounsbury, cousin of the bride, was groomsmen.

Ring bearer was Jeffrey O'Dell, nephew of the groom. Seating the guests were Kenneth Thomas, brother-in-law of the bride, and Gene Trisch, brother of the groom.

Soloist was Mrs. Kathleen Putnam who sang "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer". Organist was Mrs. Paul Findley. A reception for about 200 guests was held at the VFW Hall in Caro.

A four tier wedding cake was served by Mrs. Floyd Dodge, aunt of the bride. Mrs. Merritt Allen, aunt of the bride, poured coffee and Mrs. Mary Trisch, aunt of the groom, also poured.

The newlyweds toured Northern Michigan on their honeymoon and are now living at 637 W. Lincoln St. in Caro.

Taking temperatures

When you're told to take a person's temperature, it is often assumed that everybody knows just how this is done properly. And when it isn't done just right, the resulting misinformation can be dangerous.

Hold the instrument firmly at the top (never by the bulb) and shake it with a quick flick of the wrist until it registers 95° F or less. To read it, roll it back and forth between your fingers—still holding it by the top—until you can clearly see the ribbon of mercury. The degree of temperature is recorded at the top of the ribbon.

Make sure the patient hasn't had a hot or cold drink within 15 minutes prior to taking the temperature. Place the thermometer under his tongue, tell him to close his mouth, and leave the thermometer in place for at least three minutes.

Read the thermometer again, carefully and quickly. An arrow usually marks the normal range between 98° and 99°. Slight variations are usually not important, but should be noted.

After using it, the thermometer should be cleaned with cotton balls saturated in cool water and soap. Rub firmly to get into the grooves and around the bulb. Never put the thermometer in hot water, since it reads only up to 110° F and will break at higher temperatures. Clean it off twice, and then "rinse" with clean cotton saturated with cool water. Always store the thermometer in its case when not in use, to keep it clean and safe.

TO USERS OF VILLAGE WATER SERVICE

During the flushing of the hydrants Wednesday, Thursday, Aug. 6 and 7, there may be an abundance of crystalized iron (rust) in the water supplied to your area of the Village.

This condition does not render the water unfit or harmful for consumption; however, clothing washed in this water will probably become discolored.

Check the color of your water before placing your clothing into it.

The Village is not liable for damage caused by this condition.

Your cooperation will be greatly appreciated.

Toil: It's wilder than glue sniffing
 By Dan Martowe

I've found a way to bridge the generation gap. Simply take a middle-aged man and a 20-year-old youth and put them side-by-side in hospital beds for a week. Eventually, they'll talk.

I was the middle-aged man in just such a pairing recently, and I'll have to say I learned a lot. I don't understand all of it, or condone all of it, but I probably came closer to getting an inside look at the thinking of the "now" generation than if I had read 50 books on the subject.

My next-bed companion had a Prince Valiant haircut and sideburns that continued downward and met under his chin. Literally. He had four girlfriends, bright, pretty youngsters who visited him at carefully-timed intervals. ("Got to keep the chicks happy, man.") He had the musculature consistent with his job in a foundry which consisted of swinging a 10-pound hammer in 110° heat for 8 hours. He had a chromed motorcycle and motorcycle-leathers plus a car ("Got to have wheels for the winter, too, man.")

We fenced for a couple of days before he opened up with me. "I took one look at that gray hair when they brought me in here," he confided, "and I thought to myself, oh, man, look at the square they've stuck me in with. But you're not too bad."

When he found out from one of the nurses that I was a writer, and when I showed interest and asked questions, he took me on a verbal guided tour of his world.

"Who smokes marijuana?" I began.

"Like everyone," he shrugged. "Well 90%. On 'speed' (methedrine, dexedrine) it's 50%. On the acid, like cherry bombs, yellow bellies and chocolate drops, maybe 20%. On horse (heroin), 5%. Then there's the new stuff."

"New stuff?"

"Yeah. They call it 'toil'. You've heard of glue-sniffing?"

"Yes."

"Well, now we get cans of cleaning solvent for marine-engines. We put four or five drops on a rag and put the rag in a paper bag, then sniff. Never when we're alone, though. Got to be someone with you to make sure you get your head out of the bag. You never saw anything like it, man. Wavebands of lights."

"You enjoy all this?"

"It's something to do. You try something, you find something you like, then you stay with it. Of course at parties it can get wild. A friend of mine had five speed pills, a sniff of toil, and a six-pack of beer. He was zonked for two-and-a-half days. But usually we watch it a little better than that."

"The girls do it as well as the boys?"

"You've seen the chicks who visit me? Three do and one doesn't. That's one thing that's different these days. Used to be a guy would be prodded to conform. You know—everyone sniffs, so you sniff, too. Now nobody cares. There's athletic squares who don't use anything. Nobody bugs them. We talk about doing our own thing, and we mean it."

"Are all these things easy to get?"

"Some more than others. But there's twenty places within twenty miles you can take your pick. Half of them are schools."

"The kids sell the stuff?"

"Sure. You buy from someone you know."

Former pastors slated to speak at church

The Rev. Samuel R. Wurtz of Lapeer will be the guest speaker in Salem United Methodist Church, Cass City, Sunday, Aug. 3, at 11:00 a.m. The Rev. Mr. Wurtz is well-known in this area, having served as pastor of Salem Church for many years. Now in retirement from the itinerant ministry, Mr. Wurtz often serves as a pulpit supply in various areas of the state. Sunday, Aug. 10, the Rev.

Stanley P. Kirn of Cass City will be the speaker. Mr. Kirn is also a former pastor of the local church, now retired but quite active in pulpit supply ministries.

During this period the minister of the church, the Rev. Ira L. Wood, will be on vacation. He invites the many friends of the guest speakers to attend these services and renew friendships.

Agent's Corner

Why new products fail

By Mrs. Ann Ross - Extension Agent

While the debate continues as to how much protection the consumer needs, consumers themselves still retain considerable power in the marketplace. In 1968, about 9,450 new products were introduced, but 80 per cent of these failed to meet their projected sales goals.

In view of this, why are so many new products introduced every year? The hope of hitting the marketing "jackpot," plus the need for replacing items that are losing their consumer appeal, is a stimulus to the continued creation of new products.

But, the majority of all new products that remain on the market don't surpass existing product sales—most only have comparable earnings.

A recent investigation of 75 product failures indicated these reasons for the consumer dollar vote going to other products: (Note: the following total is more than 100 per cent because more than one reason was important in several cases.)

Consumers could not identify differences from existing products - 36 per cent

Poor product positioning (the price and/or quality was either too high or low in relation to existing products) 32 per cent

Poor timing - 16 per cent

Performance of product (failure to live up to its claims - 12 per cent

Lack of marketing experience by company - 8 per cent

Fewer than one per cent of all new products "catch on" with consumers to the extent that the product is extremely profitable for the producer. And strangely, the products which have high acceptance in short term testing frequently don't "wear well" in longer time periods.

And at least for food products, it has been found that a most of the difficulty in predicting product sales seems to come from determining consumers' taste preferences.

but why?

Becky is a water baby—one part mermaid, three parts fish. We took her to the lake this summer, and she splashed and tumbled in the water joyously. I had to watch her every minute. I finally had to take her out by force—much to her consternation and objection. It took some doing to distract her.

Actually, it's relatively simple to comfort a small child whose wishes have been thwarted. A toy, a cookie, sometimes a loving hug will turn the trick.

But how about grown-up frustrations? When sick with disappointment, heartbroken or dejected by a bad turn of events, where can an adult turn for consolation and support?

God's Church is the mainstay to every situation. Radiating God's goodness, it offers reassurance and relief to the baffled and the hopeless. Men turning toward its promise find new confidence and faith and hope recovered.

FINAL WEEK

"Bargains You Won't Believe"

We're Clearing Out Our Inventory at Ridiculous Prices

Still Good Selections In All Depts.

OPEN FRIDAY 'TIL 9

It doesn't complicate your life.

Maverick is the simple machine—simple to own, simple to repair, simple to service, simple to drive.

It doesn't cost a lot.

With prices everywhere going sky-high, Maverick comes along with a down-to-earth price—$1995.*

It doesn't have a tiny trunk.

Maverick gives you 10.4 cu. ft. of trunk space—nearly twice as much as the leading import. Now the whole family's luggage can go along for the ride.

It doesn't squeeze you in.

Some big people live in this country. That's why we made Maverick bigger than the imports. Lots of legroom and shoulder room.

It doesn't squeeze you out.

It's great for parking, great for handling, great for zipping through traffic.

It doesn't cost a lot for maintenance.

You can do most maintenance jobs yourself, if you want. If your mechanic does it, he can do it in a lot less time. Great when time is money and the money is yours.

It doesn't need a lot of service.

Maverick oil changes and chassis lubrication come less often than in the leading import. (Isn't it time you started seeing less of your mechanic and more of your car?)

It doesn't burn a lot of gas.

Maverick gives you the kind of mileage you'd expect from a little import—even with a powerful six-cylinder engine.

It doesn't hold back on power.

Turn on the engine and turn loose 105 horses—nearly twice as much as the leading import. This means highway power, passing power. The kind of power you need.

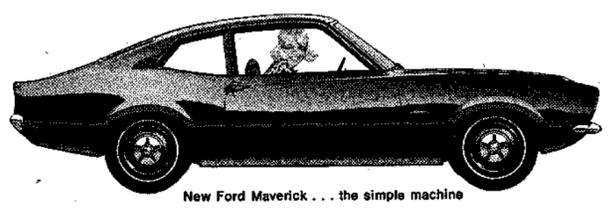

It doesn't handle like a kite.

The road might be wet and the wind strong but Maverick's tread is wider than the car is high—great for stability. (Most economy imports are higher than their tread is wide.)

It doesn't follow the herd.

Maverick's new, different. A bright idea with bold, new colors. See your Ford Dealer for the rest of the story. Find out why Maverick is the hottest selling new car to come along since Mustang.

Cheaper by the doesn'ts.

Uncle Tim From Tyre Says:

Dear Mister Editor:

There was this piece in the paper the other day that said one out of ever five wimmin in this country over 35 year old is a widow. I don't know how many folks saw it, Mister Editor, but Bug Hookum shore did. He come to the session at the country store Saturday night with a head full of questions about all them widows.

First off, he wanted to know why the piece didn't say nothing about widowers. He was of the strong opinion they is more to this men and wimmin numbering business than has come out. Bug said he never was much for them statics, but he has his own ideas about people.

Most of them Government reports, allowed Bug, reminds him of the feller that thinks if it is 130 degrees by the stove and 20 degrees over at the window the whole room is a nice 75 degrees. When you use them statics on folks they jest don't stack up, was Bug's words.

Wimmin may be natural longer livers than men, Bug said, but that don't make no case fer so many 35 year old widows, cause most husbands make it to 50 or so. Bug figured the piece didn't consider men that has buried one wife and married another one. General, Bug said, wimmin ain't as likely to git married agin as men.

Clem Webster said in the first place he couldn't see why Bug was so concerned about the report, and in the second place the reason for the 35 year age was simple. That was as old as any of the wimmin would say they is. In the third place, Clem allowed, he personal was more worried about wimmin of all ages taking over everthing in this man's world.

Fer instant, Clem saw where this woman in New York had gone to court cause she couldn't git hired fer a baseball umpire. Clem said that was as far as wimmin could go in the wrong direction. He said if it took his old lady as long to call a ball or strike as it does to pick which hat to wear to church, they never would git a ball game played.

Furthermore, said Clem, if a woman got to be a umpire right off she would go to court to git special restrooms and big mirrors at home plate so she could check her outfit ever inning, and she would sue the fellers fer cussing in front of a lady when they struck out.

The fellers was general agreed with Bug on not putting faith in them statics, but Zeke Grubb was disagreed with Clem. Zeke said we git the wimmin's ruling on everthing, and he didn't see that balls and strikes was no different. Personal, Mister Editor, if statics can prove wimmin has 2.4 younguns each, they can lie about anything.

Yours truly,
Uncle Tim
