

Area feels credit crunch—banks raise mortgage rates

BY RICHARD HAINES

John Doe is a family man, 30 years old...three children. Income? $6,500. An average area family.

They want to buy their own home.

This has been their dream.

But the credit picture is turning it into a nightmare. The name is fictitious; the nightmare is real.

Despite what Cass City officials describe as a critical housing shortage, family financing of private homes is an uphill climb that is getting steeper.

Last week, controllers at The Pinney State Bank and Cass City State Bank told the Chronicle their home mortgage interest rates are being increased from seven to eight percent.

The move is designed to stave off the profit squeeze resulting especially from interest rates of the federal reserve board.

Two weeks ago, the governor signed a bill abolishing the seven percent ceiling on home mortgage interest rates.

Fred Pinney of The Pinney State Bank said that in five states that have the seven percent ceiling "sources of funds have dried up."

And in the area, Pinney said, some lending agencies have quit lending altogether. Controllers at both local banks expect to continue a cautious watch on loaning. No measurable "loosening up" in granting loans is expected. Fred Auten of Cass

City State Bank said the increase interest rate of home mortgage loans is "not going to make loans more available."

Controllers at The Pinney State Bank report "loans of almost every description at a peak." The Nixon Administration, in an effort to curb inflation, has in recent months raised the interest rate of loans through the federal reserve system, a main source of funds for banks.

Mr. Pinney observed that many banks, in addition to basic interest charges, charge $7.50 extra (known in banking terms as a discount) for conventional notes. He said prior to the ban on the home mortgage interest rate ceiling, officials at the bank were pondering a $5 discount.

"Some banks," he said, "charge up to a $1,000 discount when selling a $20,000 home mortgage."

Still another means to meet the profit squeeze on banks, Pinney said, is to shift conventional note loans to installment loans. "This is one of our means," he said, "of passing costs on (substituting bank costs to the loan buyer.)"

In the last year alone, Pinney State Bank installment loans have gone from a total of $300,000 to $489,000.

The two Cass City banks, controllers said, have been slow to hike their interest rates because, as one put it, "This is a farming community and our customers have been with us for a long time."

Pinney said the recently instituted "truth in lending" bill has markedly added to the paperwork of loaning funds. New, longer forms are required, he said, and it has added to the cost of administration.

Chuck Auten of Auten Motor Sales praised the truth in lending measure as "an asset to the lender for those who have their interest rates in line." He added, "We can prove we can lend at more reasonable rates (for car purchases.)"

Furniture and appliance dealers, however, differed. Harold and Stanley Asher of Thum Appliance said the "truth in lending" measure "is no good for us, just a lot more labor."

"The main question of the customers," they said, "is how much per month the payments are." They don't care about the interest."

Stanley Asher said "roughly 75 percent" of their sales were on credit with virtually all credit purchases through one of their manufacturer's installment credit plans.

Furniture and appliance cases are individuals. It is a last resort for "clearing themselves." He said, though, if a person "goes under" after he has once filed bankruptcy, there is usually a jail sentence in store for him.

One local businessman is cracking down on imprudent credit usage. Floyd "Shorty" Luetke has obtained several "small claim" forms from the Tuscola County Justice Court.

Behind his counter is a large sheet with names of some 50 local persons with the above headline, "Absolutely no more credit for these people."

Credit is too easy to get," he said. "I think I could get $5,000 worth of stuff in town right now." A person, he said, can charge just about anything.

Local charges, reports Floyd Kennedy of Cass City Gulf, "take more paperwork," than the credit card system which is pleased with.

"Shorty" agrees. "My credit cards are just like money," he says. He is pleased with the $1,000 gas business per week he receives through credit card purchases. "They pay the big companies," he said, "they forget us."

DR. LEROY AUGENSTEIN, center, was escorted through the Michigan Thumb for speaking engagements and round table discussions Tuesday by state senator Alvin DeGrow, right. Following an address to Rotary, the two talk with Rotary president Lambert Althaver.

In political swing

Augenstein reviews riots

Dr. Leroy Augenstein, member of the State Board of Education, addressed Cass City Rotary Tuesday, at the New Gordon Hotel, saying that if the Democratic Convention would have given in to student demonstrators, it could have meant the end of the two-party system in the nation.

Others are more willing to let George do it and if someone else will donate the money...well, fine. But for the most public spirited, the most concerned, the most altruistic there must be a day when the flowing money well dries.

What then?

When it comes time for the renewal of five mills now authorized for operation next year can we expect it to be donated?

Many thoughtful citizens are looking towards the State for a change in the taxing structure to solve the problem. A sort of magic wand that painlessly cures all ills.

They tend to overlook Michigan's position near the head of the list of all states in relation to the amount of state aid to schools already granted.

Everyone talks about getting the money from the State, but no one mentions giving up local school control. But in every instance, control follows the money source. The big money stick has always proved to be all-powerful. At least it has in all present educational grants not financed in part by local taxes.

Right now Federal programs are pouring some $35,000 into Cass City Schools for programs that may be meritorious but would be chopped unceremoniously if the authority rested with the Cass City School Board and the superintendent.

$35,000. Just under half of the estimated $78,000 needed to run a full program here. $35,000 for teacher aides, for training of underprivileged, for video tape machines....and we send our youngsters to school for half days. And we can do nothing to change it.

Another situation that we can't change, although many of us won't admit it, is the salaries paid teachers and supervisors in the system.

In rural Cass City many of us do not command the salaries now paid our school supervisors...there is a natural resentment. But we can't hire a qualified superintendent for less than the going rate....and make no mistake, we are not paying more than the going rate.

There are no easy solutions to our present school dilemma. Our best chance for a quality educational program can come only when all of us face up to our responsibilities.

Stopgap donations to save any certain segment of the program are sure to cause justifiable resentment among the parents of the less favored.

We should tighten our belts, live with this inferior, frustrating program for a year and resolve to do everything possible to rectify it before the next school year.

Education is going to take its lumps in Cass City. Better now than next year when a millage defeat could close our schools.

Head of the Biophysics Department at MSU, Dr. Augenstein said that "it is easy to get a riot started," and that "Democracy is not indestructible."

Dr. Augenstein shunned the idea that issues can be reached and affected through demonstrations. He added that only the crest of the issues can be reached in the waves of a demonstration.

He scoffed at Mayor Daley's "iron-hand" rule of the Democratic convention and said the term "law and order" meant for many keeping suppressed minorities in tyranny.

The State Board member said there are important defects in our society and that some bitterness on the part of the young was justifiable.

He said extremely, on the part of the demonstrator, saying his cause is holy, is as evil as prosecuting those who have broken the law without observing their rights.

His Rotary address is part of a get-acquainted swing through the Tri-county area. He spoke to some 40 women Tuesday morning at the home of Mrs. Richard Drews.

Bud Almas, the new owner of the New Gordon Hotel, is no stranger to Cass City or to the Thumb area. He comes to the community from Kingston where he operated a restaurant.

Born in Wickware, his parents operated a milk route. He is a graduate of Marlette High School.

Before coming to Kingston he ran a restaurant in Dearborn Heights.

Almas is married and has five children from six to 18 years old.

The purchase includes both the hotel and the restaurant, the new owner said. He expects to reopen the New Gordon Restaurant shortly, he said.

Bizarre glacier created area's famed rock wall

BY RICHARD HAINES

Area farmers, frustrated by the year's bizarre weather conditions, are to be reminded that in the last several thousand years, the entire Great Lakes region has been subject to a tumultuous combination of lake-extinguishing droughts, subarctic temperatures, and thousand-year periods of excessive moisture.

Biology pro Robert Hirn, a Cass City teacher turned carpenter, reports the area of Cass City and a straight line westerly belt extending seven or eight miles was once a "stationary front" of North America's largest and most recent glacier.

The Wisconsin Glacier spanned across several states from Pennsylvania to the northwesterly midwest states. It would between Uly and Bad Axe, extended between Cass City and Gagetown and southwesterly towards Frankenmuth. It constituted a massive blanket of arctic ice from 1,000 feet to a few miles thick stretching from the Arctic southward.

Containing millions of tons of soil and rock (glacial drift) it melted, dumping the glacial drift at its southern edge. This stationary front produced what is called a moraine, a build-up (deposited) accumulation of stone, clay, silt left by the massive glaciers.

The effect is a topographical ridge which is quickly noticed in Tuscola County on any geological map showing changes in elevation levels. Gagetown sits on one of the highest crests of the moraine.

When the glacier melted faster than it accumulated (advanced), it receded northward. When it accumulated faster than it melted, it advanced southward. Both of these processes continued under the slight influence of seasonal change of temperatures.

But in the Cass City-Gagetown belt that extended curvically through the Great Lakes, an extraordinary thing happened. For hundreds of years, the front edge of the glacier melted at almost exactly the same rate as it advanced.

The Wisconsin Glacier receded (melted) in a northwesterly direction creating a massive lake at its head. The moraine prevented the lake from drifting backward and the Saginaw Bay including the area about 50 miles inland was one gigantic lake.

During this time (about 6,000 years ago) a massive drainage channel formed along the southern edge of the moraine draining southwesterly towards Frankenmuth towards the Grand River Drainage System and eventually into Lake Michigan. Waters from the southern tip of Lake Michigan drained towards the Illinois River and eventually into the Mississippi River Basin.

Later, the glaciers receded altogether and Lake Huron was ROCK WALL—Biology pro Bob Hirn says an area rock formation may have been caused by the actions of a very shallow lake that froze for many consecutive years, pushing the rocks to the shallow lake's edge as the ice broke up. It can be seen from M-53, about one-half mile south of the M-53 and M-81 junction. It is known by local residents as "the rock wall."

Behind the Counter Night Driving

Each year, the National Safety Council reports thousands of cases in which an accident resulted from the driver falling asleep behind the wheel—even if only for an instant. They have a few suggestions that may help you:

1) Don't drive at night, unless you must, particularly in bad weather.

2) Don't start a long trip at night, or when you feel tired, or after you've had a heavy meal.

3) Don't have "one for the road," in the hope that it will pep you up; alcohol is a sedative, not a stimulant.

4) Don't use drugs that will pep you up or calm you down; they can also affect your vision, your judgment and your reflexes. When their effect wears off, you'll feel more tired than before.

5) Don't drive more than three hours after your normal bedtime.

6) If you must drive, keep a window open—even if it's only a crack.

7) Keep switching radio stations, to avoid drowsy middle-of-the-night music; rock-and-roll may irritate you to the point where it will help you stay awake.

8) Stop every so often (at least once an hour) to get out, and walk around your car a couple of times.

9) As soon as you feel sleepy—when you blink to keep your eyes in focus, or yawn—get off the road. If you can't find a motel, pull into a service station or parking lot, and nap in the back seat of the car.

Traffic accidents have become a national epidemic—but this is one cause of death and injury for which there is no medical panacea.

roughly triple its present size. The rich farmlands surrounding the Saginaw Bay constitute what at one time was the river bottom of this massive lake.

Still another river, the Ottawa River at Northern Lake Huron, drained the lake carrying waters easterly in a shortcut route to the St. Lawrence Seaway.

These circumstances resulted into still another event and the glaciers continued to guide the fate of the Great Lakes region.

With the warming of the area, and the disappearance of the glaciers, the area lost its moisture. The "low water stage" set in. Lake Huron dwindled to practically nothing.

Land formations blocked drainage from southern Lake Michigan. The Ottawa River dissipated. Drought set in.

The dissipation of the Ottawa River, Hirn said, is partly due to what is known as crustal rebound the "springing back" of the earth's outer layers because of the compacting that resulted from the pressure of the glacier's weight, although he said this is only a few inches every hundred years.

Hirn said knowledge of the glacier's workings help explain much of Cass City area's present landscape.

He said the onetime drainage channel south of the moraine caused by the glacier's melt-waters formed a beachhead at Deford causing its beach-like soil. The waves once lapped upon the ridge running through what is now the location of a small community.

He said a wide belt of land between Deford and South Cass City was once the riverbottom of the drainage channel and that most of the land is still a silty, marshy, light soil.

Other spectacular feats were accomplished by the glaciers, he said, including the Lee Hill Tow just south of the M-24 - M-46 junction where a river running over the glacier gradually cut a channel through the glacier and when it spilled over the edge of the glacier, or when the glacier melted around the trapped-in glacial drift, a "Kane" was left, a big cone of gravel.

He said also that one mile west and three south of Kingston geologists theorize a river ran either through or near the bottom of the glacier and deposited glacial drift over an elongated channel either through the glacier, or near its "floor". And today, he said, a gravel ridge snakes its way over the countryside.

He said another feature believed to be caused by the glaciers is located about one-half mile south of the M-53 - M-81 junction and is known as the "stone wall". He doubts the anthropologists' claim that Indians toted these stones there for a fortification. He gives credence to the geologists' theory that glacial water melt drifted back over this area and for hundreds of years seasonally froze solid, slowly inching the rocks to the edge of the shallow pondlet, just as ice pushes itself upon the shore when it breaks up at springtime.

Hirn offers little comment as to what the next thousand years will bring. "Perhaps we are in an inter-glacial period," he said, "and maybe the mile high glaciers will slide back upon us."

3 area youths die in mishaps

Two young men died this week as the result of an automobile accident and a murder.

Russell P. "Rusty" Lukoski of Marshall, formerly of Ubly, died in an automobile accident in Weatherford, Okla.

Lawrence G. "Larry" Lukoski, 19, a cousin to Russell, was shot while working at a service station near Zilwaukee exit on I-75.

Rusty Lukoski was on a vacation trip, taking a few weeks off before entering the Marine Corps.

It was the third violent death in the family. Two brothers, Ernest and David, died in a fire in Ubly in 1953.

Funeral services were held at St. Mary Catholic Church at Marshall Tuesday.

Larry Lukoski was found sprawled in the driveway of the gas station at about 4 a.m. He was last seen alive at 3 a.m. by a State Police patrol.

Officers reported that apparently there was no attempt at robbery as nothing was missing from the station.

He was the son of Arthur Lukoski and the former Miss Christina Glaza. Both are former residents of Ubly who moved to Saginaw about five years ago.

DROWNING VICTIM

Funeral services were held Monday in Bad Axe for Jerry Walter Bucholz, 28, of Decker who was drowned early Friday in a gravel pit in Evergreen Township, about 10 miles southeast of Cass City.

Sandusky State Police reported that Bucholz could not swim and went into the water at 3:40 a.m. with two companions. He disappeared beneath the surface.

His body was recovered in about seven feet of water.

Bucholz was born Dec. 18, 1941, in Bad Axe. He and Miss Gloria Best were married in 1968.

Surviving, besides his widow, are: his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Bucholz, Bad Axe; a sister, Mrs. Sharon Rolston, Bad Axe, and two brothers, Gene of Pigeon, and Dale, of Bad Axe.

The Rev. Charles W. Thompson, pastor of the Faith Missionary Church, officiated at the final rites.

Burial was in Colfax Cemetery.

Funeral arrangements were by Hunter Funeral Home. The Rev. Fr. Joseph Friske officiated at the final rites. Burial was in St. Agatha Cemetery.

Gagetown girl succumbs

Final rites for Miss Mary Jean Comment, 22, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Comment of Gagetown, were held Wednesday at St. Agatha Church in Gagetown.

Miss Comment had been suffering with a brain tumor for six months and succumbed at University Hospital in Ann Arbor Sunday.

He said he would talk with congregation leaders on the possibility of a growth development program.

He said the family was impressed with the community, and is "looking forward to a nice long time here."

The congregation plans a welcome reception at the church at 8 p.m. Sunday.

Justly famous, they tell me, is the gourmet food served in Europe. The Swedish smorgasbord has been widely copied here.

Yet for an American teenager, cheese and bread (a Swedish staple) has its limitations. Our elder daughter, due back from Sweden Saturday, has already ordered a backyard picnic with the following on the menu: cheeseburgers, potato salad, corn on the cob and rice pudding.

A doff of the topper to Chuck Auten as Cass City's super rationalizer. Discussing the new physical educational program the other evening Chuck explained why he was not the first in line for the exercises.

That's a wonderful program, Chuck said dead seriously, but you must keep it up. Starting and stopping is the worst thing you can do. Now I know that I won't be able to carry the program through, so in the interest of my health, I'm just not going to start.

Among Michigan's weeklies, the Chronicle position of not accepting cigarette advertising is in the minority. In a survey answered by 50 weeklies, publishers were in favor of accepting by about four to one.

Bucking the consensus, the Chronicle still feels that if it's banned from the airwaves it should be removed from the print media.

The decision was reached because of the health hazard. But disregarding this, how could I possibly print cigarette ads and tacitly agree that the airwaves are more powerful than the printed word?

The irony of the school situation these days is that being good is no guarantee of success.

Many school authorities agree that as a private school St. Agatha was one of the best. It closed at the end of the last school year because there wasn't enough money.

The closed school was selected for special recognition as a "newsworthy school" by Instructor Magazine...one of 59 schools honored. (The Chronicle reviewed St. Agatha in depth in a two-part story in December.)

The announcement of the award was made in the August-September issue of the magazine.

Over the years Dr. Harry Crandell has been the source of a good many news tips. Most of the time the paper can rely on him for a nod in the right direction for a juicy farm story.

But when the story concerns him, he's as sly as a Missouri mule and twice as stubborn. In a personal story situation I doubt if he'd tell you the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth if you loaded one of his hypers with enough truth serum for a mule and stuck it wherever it is that it does the most good.

All this is preamble explaining why we didn't print a story about Doc and Clarence Merchant receiving well deserved certificates for service to the Tuscola County Fair.

We were the last to know.

Here's a football oddity...Although the New York Jets won the pro football championship last season, NOT ONE of their players finished first in rushing, passing, pass-receiving, punting, punt>Returns, kick-off returns or interceptions!...The rushing title was won by Paul Robinson of Cincinnati; the passing title by Lenny Dawson of Kansas City; the pass-receiving title by Lance Alworth of San Diego; the punting title by Jerry Wilson of Kansas City; the punt-return title by Noland Smith of Kansas City; the kick-off-return title by George Atkinson of Oakland; and the interception title was won by Dave Grayson of Oakland.

Can you imagine a big league sports stadium being constructed from beginning to end in less than four months!...When Forbes Field in Pittsburgh was built, construction did not begin until March, 1909—and on June 30, 1909, the park opened,...Oddly enough, 30 years later when lights were put in for night games, it took four months just to install the lights!

Surprisingly few golfers seem to know the yardage by which pars are set for each hole...A hole more than 470 yards is usually a par 5...A hole from 251 to 470 yards is usually a par 4...And a hole less than 251 yards is usually a par 3.

Dear Editor:

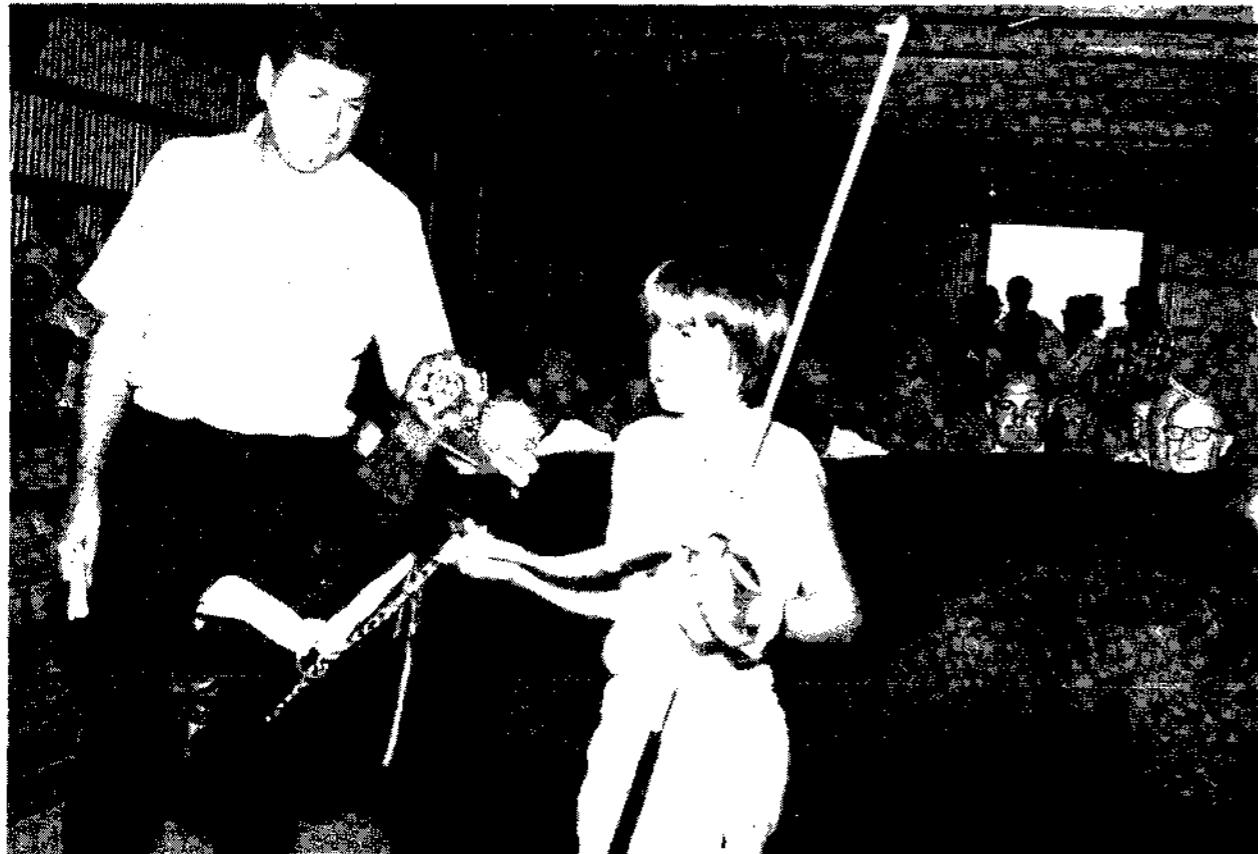

I think you have been badly misinformed, but CCS does not stand for Colwood, Cumber, Sunshine and Sutton Methodist Churches. The letters actually stand for:

Colwood United Brethren
Colling Nazarene
Sunshine Methodist
Sutton Methodist

Colling has been misspelled many times and we would appreciate it being changed.

Highway tax

funds return to village, county

Motor Vehicle Highway Fund collections for April, May and June of 1969 are being distributed to Michigan counties and to cities and villages, the State Highway Commission reports.

State Highway Director Henrik E. Stafseth said net receipts of the highway fund during the three-month period amounted to $73 million, an increase of $5.9 million, or 8.9 per cent, compared to the same period of 1968.

Receipts are derived from license plate fees and a state tax on gasoline and diesel fuel, both collected by the Department of State for deposit to the Highway Fund.

Allocations to area villages include $5,643 for Cass City, up from $5,289 for the second quarter of last year. Caro went from $9,304 to $9,935. Gagetown received $1,911, an increase from the 1968 allocation of $1,797. Kingston received $1,425, an increase from 1968 of $1,336, and Ubly was allocated $2,429, up from $2,276.

Tuscola county received $250,219, compared to last year's $288,217 for the same quarter. Sanilac received $239,716 compared to $218,834 last year. Huron County was allocated $220,557 compared to last year's $203,478.

Play-offs start in Church loop

An upset marked the first round of play-off action in the Cass City Church League Monday. Deford, who finished the regular season with a 5-6 record, topped Fraser-Gagetown, which tied for second in loop play with an 8-3 record.

In the opening game, form was followed as the Baptists (8-3) polished off Decker (6-5) with comparative ease.

The third round of the playoffs is slated Thursday when the Baptists face Deford at 7 p.m., and the winner of Tuesday night's games play at 9 p.m.

CCSS was to have faced Owendale-Gagetown and Shabbona was to have met the Catholics in Tuesday's action.

In the windup of the regular season the Baptists topped Trinity United Methodist Monday, Aug. 11, and the Catholics posted an easy victory over the Church of Christ.

Tuesday, Aug. 12, Shabbona whipped Deford, 11-10, and Fraser-Gagetown cinched a share of second place with a 3-1 decision over Ellington-Nazarene.

Tourney ends year for Junior golfers

A best ball tournament ended the first season for the Cass City Junior Golf League, Director Tom Woody reported this week as 28 participated in the event.

Ladies compete in tourney at Sherwood Forest

Ladies from Sherwood Forest Country Club hosted ladies from the Verona Hills Club in Bad Axe and Scenic Golf Club in Pigeon Wednesday, Aug. 13, and 65 women participated in the 9-hole event.

Winners from Verona Hills were: Leona Tennant, low gross, 41, and June Hebert, low net, 30. Three were tied for low putts with 16. They were Kay Neeb, Dorothy Barckholz and June Hebert.

Sherwood Forest winners were: Jeanne Guinther, low putts (16) and low gross (48), and low net, 36.

Scenic's best were: Joan Slocum, low puts (15), Anne Hengg, low gross (47) and Florence Kundinger, low net (33).

First flight winner was the team of Don Galbraith and Scott Guinther which posted a 45.

Second flight winners were Steve Selby and Jerry Toner with a 46. Clarke Hillaker and Mike Lowe won with 62 in the third flight.

There were four teams in each flight. In the girls' competition, Barb Auten and Cindy Guernsey won with a 62 over Linda Koepfgen and Joan Erla.

In the wind-up of the season's league competition, first flight honors went to Craig Guernsey with 18 points. The second flight was won by Kim Glaspie, 18 points; third flight by Steve Selby, 17 points, and girls' flight won by Barb Auten with 18 points.

The stars and planets will soon be closer to Michigan State University, thanks to a new observatory under construction on the campus. It is scheduled for completion this winter.

New coach expects Hawks to win again

A new regime in Cass City High School football starts Saturday at 1 p.m., when candidates for the Hawk grid squads report for physicals at the high school gym.

The downtrodden Hawks, doormats of the league for several seasons, will be starting fresh under the tutelage of Tom Spencer, 32, who has been a winner in the past...and confidently expects to be a winner again at Cass City.

While making no predictions, Spencer sees no reason why Cass City can't be a winner, too.

Our road to recovery starts Monday when we go to twice-a-day practice, Spencer said. We'll be ready when the season opens, he added. Ready to play and to win, Spencer says that he isn't as concerned about size or speed of the boys he's to coach as he is about attitude. The right attitude, he explained, is 10 times more important.

In the letter I sent to prospective players I told the boys that I have strong feelings about smoking and drinking. If they are this type, there is no room for them on the squad.

We want boys who are determined to play, determined to win. I've never yet had a boy who broke the rules who helped me when the going was tough, the chips were down, Spencer said.

Our boys must be in condition. We plan lots of running and lots of agility drills.

One thing the new coach doesn't expect from the boys is anything that he's not prepared to do himself. He keeps himself in top physical condition. His daily routine includes running at Cass City Recreational Park.

He looks as if he's ready to don pads and helmet and take over as line-backer, the position he played for two years as a pro in Port Huron and for three years at Central Michigan University.

Spencer says that he wants to hold extensive meetings with his assistant coaches this week to talk about this year's team. I'll need all the help that Bob Watson, Fred Hulbert and Roland Pakonen can give me, he said.

Basically, Spencer said, I'm a fundamentalist. Everything is based on the guys knowing the fundamentals of the game. We'll probably run from a balanced line and use a multiple offense with a few I formation plays. We'll have a few surprises ready for every game and hope to play a brand of football interesting to the fans.

Because of the school's financial condition, how the team draws the fans is important. Football and basketball must pay its own way under the new austerity program at the school.

Nothing will do it like a win.

Erla's almost pulled the game out of the fire in the sixth. Hoag opened with a walk and LaRoche singled to put a pair on with nobody out. But Collins bore down, pitched over an error and allowed just one marker to cross the plate. It was Erla's last chance to pull out a victory.

As usual, both Bosch and Collins turned in sparkling games on the mound. Bosch struck out six and allowed four hits. Collins also whiffed six and allowed just three hits.

For the year, Erla's posted a 18-7 won-lost record and were champions of the Ubly Recreation League.

In the league, Erla's lost just one game. The other six defeats came in the tourney and against top flight teams in exhibitions.

Uncle Tim From Tyre Says:

Dear Mister Editor:

The teller that runs the store was busy with his new price marking outfit when the tellers got there Saturday night. He was back in the canned goods with one of them ink pads and a stamper with a handle on it.

He said until the past year or so he could keep in mind the price of everything in the place, but the wholesaler's keep going up on their prices so fast until he can't recollect all the changes. He said if he didn't have a close check, special on meat, he would be selling stuff for less than he paid for it.

It's a downright shame, the store teller said, how everything keeps going up except wages. It ain't so much that the price of everything is so high, he allowed, as it is that the value of money is so low. Until recent, he said, we compared our dollar with the 1938 dollar, but we ain't seen that lately. It must be cause the 1960 dollar wouldn't buy nothing in 39, so them economists had to come up to about 49 before they could tip the scales.

THIS HUGE TANK that was placed in operation last week is part of an ambitious expansion program at Wesley Milk Co. This tank and other equipment used in the processing of milk is expected to cost about $17,000. Another $10,000 is slated to remake the front of the building into an ice cream parlor. The $10,000 does not include the fountain facilities, already owned by the company in Detroit. Manager Gerald Stilson helps unload the new equipment.

Keep it clean.

Signs plastered all over, noisy claims and a lot of splashy words may impress some people—but we're betting you're not one of them. So our message to you is straightforward, simple. We're coming through with low year-end prices just like the competition... maybe lower.

We have a great selection, from truly economical Valiants up to luxurious Chrysler New Yorkers. Also, we consider the end-of-model shopper a very important person: bargain hunters are vital to us and we never forget it. Help clean up clean-up sales. Come on over and check us out.

Sex goes up in smoke

BY JIM FITZGERALD

Knuckling under to the cancer fighters, the cigarette industry has promised to quit advertising on TV.

I truly appreciate the concern for my health, but what am I going to do for sex education?

I have been a student of cigarette commercials ever since that marvelous day, many years ago, when sexy Julie London stuck her butt from out of the dark and seductively knocked her boyfriend's ash off.

Any fool could see that guy who would use his cigarettes to pick up a beautiful broad in a bar. He had been giving her the eye across the room all night, twitching his eyebrows, wetting his lips and blowing in his own ear. But she wouldn't give him a tumble, until...

And then there was that guy who would use his cigarettes to pick up a beautiful broad in a bar. He had been giving her the eye across the room all night, twitching his eyebrows, wetting his lips and blowing in his own ear. But she wouldn't give him a puff, until...

He put his pack of smokes on his table, in plain view, and drummed on them with a tattooed fingernail. It was her brand and he was obviously her kind of man! She knocked down 2 waiters getting to our hero and demanding to know: "Your apartment or mine?"

Admittedly, these commercials are not the type of sex-smoke education that should interest a married man, especially one whose wife has a reach-a-silly millimeter longer than his stride. But I was taking notes for my son, I don't want him brain-washed by Smokey the Bear and the American Cancer

Jack catches up with Jill and quickly begins the soft talk. He tells her that a lot of wives have husbands who work nights, and soon they'll go away together alone and straighten things out. She doesn't believe him. Then Jack lights up a butt and blows smoke in Jill's face. And she believes, she believes.

"L & M is the cigarette for two together," the announcer says as the music plays louder and Jill lovingly puffs a puff from Jack's butt.

I tell you, it's like magic. I no longer smoke cigarettes, but the next time the poker party lasts too long, I am going to blow cigar smoke under our bedroom door. My wife will plump my pillow. Marvelous. How am I going to learn important things like this if there are no more cigarette commercials on TV? I hope I don't

"It's a great gasoline!"

LEONARD

The young man in the rallye jacket is Doug Innes, rallying enthusiast and member of the Detroit Region Sports Car Club of America. The last big rallye Doug drove in was really brutal—for the gasoline. He drove in low temperatures with high humidity, perfect conditions for throttle icing in cars. He used Leonard Premium 500 gasoline and reports, "I didn't have a bit of trouble. It's a great gasoline!" Try a tankful—and you'll agree.

4-H Youth Agent

Some of the most outstanding 4-H members in Tuscola County will participate in the 1969 4-H Youth State Show at Michigan University from August 19-22.

There are many featured displays, events and tours scheduled for our youth attending this important annual event. The main theme for this year's event is "Man and His Environment."

A highlight of this year's 4-H youth State Show will be a full-scale model of the Apollo 11 Spacecraft Command Module which will be on loan from the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA). Another unique display will be a computer that 4-H members can build for about $500.

The major aim of 4-H Youth State Show is to provide new and stimulating educational experiences for Michigan's 4-H members and other youth. We hope to generate learning experience through participation involvement in experiments, demonstrations, action exhibits, presentation and the discussion of issues.

We wish to invite all interested youth and adults to come down for the day to visit our 4-H youth exhibits and activities during this week's program.

Select right seed for '70 wheat

By Alfred P. Ballweg

Now that wheat planting time is just around the corner one of the important decisions growers have to make is, am I growing the best variety and is quality seed of this variety available. In order to grow a good crop of wheat the very best seed is none too good.

Because of sprout damage in our 1969 wheat crop, concern has been expressed that enough good seed may not be available. Sprout damage reports coming into our office are that damage ran all the way from 0 to 40%.

I talked to Duane Bell, Mgr. Michigan Foundations Seed Assc., MSU, to report our concern and he said we were fortunate because in Southern Michigan sprout damage tests were as high as 80%. According to crop scientists, sprout damage to wheat kernel does not mean that it will not germinate unless the injury has been severe. Growers are advised when treating the seed to cut the strength of the seed treatment chemical in half thereby reducing the danger of further injury to the weakened condition of the seed germ.

The variety Genesee is our old stand-by and is widely grown and generally has performed very well. Appearing on the horizon are new varieties like Yorkstar and Ionita.

Yorkstar is a New York variety released by Cornell University. In 14 nurseries over a three-year period, Yorkstar gave a yield increase of 2 1/2 bushels over Genesee and 3 1/2 bushel over Avon. Yorkstar has a relatively short straw—5 inches shorter than that of Genesee. On the negative side, Yorkstar has a definitely lower test weight than Genesee—2 pounds per bushel less. This may be a problem. But flour yields have been as high as with Genesee and Avon.

Yorkstar is not as uniform as Genesee and Avon.

The Ionita variety was bred by Dr. Everson here at Michigan State University. Ionita has moderately better straw strength than Genesee and is one inch shorter. Its yield in the 14 nurseries averaged 2 bushel per acre more than Genesee; test weight was the same as Genesee.

In terms of disease and insect resistance, Ionita shows considerable superiority over Genesee and Avon.

When mildew and leaf rust infections were high Ionita averaged 10 percent better yield than Genesee. Of 28 wheat varieties tested in the Eastern United States, Ionita was in the top 10 in most of the tests.

Avon has the high-yield record and excellent quality of Genesee. It is two inches shorter than Genesee and is stronger strawed.

Tips for producing best alfalfa crop

Alfred Ballweg, Tuscola County extension agent, says alfalfa can be planted anytime after August 1.

The agricultural authority says alfalfa will germinate and get a good start in the late summer and fall. It is best to seed alfalfa or alfalfa and bromegrass without any nurse crop.

He recommends drilling and cultipacking.

Soil should be tested to be certain the pH is right for alfalfa crop. Saranac or one of the Flemish or French varieties should be used for short rotations, Ballweg contends. For a rotation crop of four or more years, vernal is still the best in most areas of Michigan.

"Remember, alfalfa can't stand wet feed so plant it in a well-drained field," the agent concludes.

All the safety laws in today's world are useless unless motorists become safety-minded.

THE LION'S SHARE OF a big job was completed Tuesday, Aug. 12, when Rotarians, baseball coaches and kids turned out to rake the new Little League diamonds. After a Rotary-sponsored wiener roast, the volunteers turned to and completed about two-thirds of the job. Tuesday night, Aug. 19, more volunteers returned to work on the final third of the fields.

Child's allowance teaches management

By Mrs. Ann Ross - Extension Agent

The best learning device a child has in money management is an allowance.

An allowance should be a tool parents use to teach their children how to manage money properly. It should never be used as a disciplinary device—given or taken at will. But instead, an agreed upon amount of money should be given regularly to the child, regardless of behavior.

Just because a child completes a household task, such as making his bed, dusting furniture, or drying dishes, is no reason an allowance should be increased. In most families these duties are expected of a child because he is a member of the household.

However, if your child completes a task over and above his required ones, such as washing windows or painting screens, you may feel he deserves extra compensation. How much you give him will depend on the circumstances and your financial situation, but this should come in addition to his regular allowance, not as part of it.

The time to increase an allowance is when you and your child decide that it should be enlarged to cover more responsibilities. An allowance should stop only when a child is ready and able to take complete control of his money needs—not just because of an outside job.

How should parents manage allowances when their child has an outside job? If it's a high-paying job and family finances are tight, re-evaluation of the allowance may be necessary. But if this is done and the allowance is decreased, the child should understand that his allowance is being lowered because of family needs and that he isn't being punished because he has gotten a job.

Likewise, to take away an allowance because a child has failed to perform a required household task or received low school grades, is wrong. When parents do this they're depriving their child of the learning experience of managing money. In addition, because children even at a young age realize that money buys many "good" things, they may wrongly connect the giving and taking away of money with parental love.

WITH THE HELP OF village equipment and the volunteer assistance of Eldon Stoutenburg the labor gang raked enough stones to fill a large truck. The stones were piled into the bucket of the dozer and hauled away to the waiting truck.
