

Study new regulations

Village offers $10,000 for 2 lots

After three months of deliberations, the Cass City Village Council voted Tuesday to make an offer to C. R. Hunt Construction for two lots to be used for off-street parking.

The lots stretch from Leach to West streets south of the alley that runs south of Main Street and the village's bid was $10,000.

Trustee Bernard Ross investigated the property and said that the figure was a consensus derived from talking to various real estate agents and other persons who have a knowledge of property value in the village.

The village bid was part of a package offer. An offer of $20,000 for the brick building and a half block owned by the company had been tendered previously by Elkland Township which would convert it into a new fire hall.

In the original proposal submitted by Hunt, the township was offered this property plus a lot and a half with a house on it for $50,000 net.

Neither the village or the township is interested in the house.

If the offer should be accepted, the village will have acquired off-street parking for the full length of a business block.

Two new village regulations inched closer to passage as the council reviewed laws to curb junk cars in the village and establishment of minimum standards for village law officers.

On the advice of Village Attorney Clinton House, the village will amend the zoning ordinance to make it unlawful to have dismantled or partially dismantled cars in the residential or business district over 48 hours that are not in a fully enclosed structure.

Under the amendment, the time can be extended for a week with a permit from the village.

The minimum standard ordinance will be passed to qualify the department for reimbursement from the state for officers from the local department who attend State meetings on law enforcement.

Chief Carl Palmateer said the requirements are minimal and that the village wouldn't want an officer who couldn't qualify.

OTHER BUSINESS

The group insurance that the village employees have on a participating basis was altered so that room payment went from $14 to $24 per day. Estimated cost to the village for the benefit increase is $500 yearly.

Cost of sewer and water for the new building being erected for Anrod Screen Cylinder Co. totaled $2,909.50 with the village paying a half of the cost and the company the remaining 50 per cent. In addition a standard $200 tap-in fee was assessed.

The council hopes to spread a little light on two dark spots in and near the village. In the area between the village limits and the new high school there are no street lights.

What makes this an unusual situation is that the school property is part of the village, but the area under consideration is not.

The council will try and negotiate with the school and Elkland Township for three lights in the area for the protection of students.

The second suggested location for a light will be near the football stadium at the Cass City Recreational Park.

The light can be used for better parking and when the village crew piles snow taken from the streets on the site. A mercury vapor light that works automatically is under consideration here.

Village nixes road maintenance

A request by the Cass City Development Corporation for maintenance of a road to serve as an addition to the Anrod Screen Cylinder Co. factory was nixed by the village council Tuesday night.

The road would have been on the west village limits of 7th street. Essentially at this time the road would have serviced only Anrod and as a short strip would prove expensive to maintain, trustees feel.

Trustees said that an extension of Seventh street across the tracks and back of Walbro, General Cable and Anrod was not needed.

When this road becomes necessary because of expansion, the village will naturally then accept the road and maintain it, the councilmen present agreed.

Jury finds Flint driver guilty

A case appealed from the now abandoned Justice of Peace court and under consideration since July 5, 1966, was settled Tuesday when a Tuscola County Jury found Frederick Leroy Pelton, Flint, guilty of driving under the influence of alcohol.

The jury took just one hour to return the guilty verdict. Judge James Churchill ordered a pre-sentence investigation and sentence will be passed in November.

THE PAYROLL DEDUCTION program proved highly successful last year in raising needed funds for the Elkland and Novesta Township Community Chest. Making the new program work were local factories and businesses. Accepting plaques for 100 per cent participation or large contributions were these company representatives. This year's drive starts Oct. 27.

Seek citizen involvement

Officials mull highway death toll causes

An estimated 50 persons interested in increased traffic safety on Tuscola County Highways jammed Civic Defense headquarters in Caro Tuesday night to try and find a solution to the highway death toll that is reaching record proportions for the second straight year.

Included at the informal session were members of the State Police, County and State highway department, the Tuscola County Sheriff's Department, the District Board of Supervisors and members of police departments from most areas of the county.

From the opinions expressed it was apparent that there will be no easy answers to the problem.

According to the State Police what is needed is more citizen involvement and a change in the driver attitude.

Drivers should be continually bombarded with safety messages and the need for alertness on the highway, the state police spokesman said.

Coupled with this, police said, is the creation of an atmosphere that drivers will feel the police are alert...that breaking the law will probably result in swift apprehension and punishment.

One suggestion that received the endorsement of the vast majority was the establishment of a safety council to work on a continuing basis.

The need for action is apparent in a study presented to the group by the State Police. In 1968, Tuscola County had 38 deaths. Huron registered 13 and Sanilac 12.

During the last five years Tuscola County recorded more deaths in its population bracket (25,000-50,000) than any other county in the State.

Circuit Judge James Churchill and District Judge Richard Kern said that more information is needed in the district court so that the judge can sentence traffic offenders more effectively.

There is a difference, Judge Kern said, between the driver driving on a revoked license because he failed to pay a traffic ticket and one who lost his license under the point system.

In most counties, this information is available through the use of a state-wide computer system with terminals in various counties. The nearest units are in Lapeer and Bay City. Sheriff Hugh Marr said that he requested one month ago but his request was turned down.

A previous request by supervisors for a State Police post in the county was discussed. Spokesman for the Michigan State Highway Department said that it was impossible to engineer roads to solve the problem in counties like Tuscola.

A case in point, the group agreed, was M-46, which has seen a sharp surge in crashes since it was modernized.

Grover Laurie said that most county main roads have been center line marked. Township roads have not in all instances because the money hasn't been available, he explained.

Harold Johnson, chairman of the board, called the meeting and acted as a moderator as individuals expressed opinions about the problem.

One obvious conclusion is that traffic control will be more stringent. Another is that there will be a continuing effort here to alter the highway death trend.

Golding resigns council seat

Ed Golding Jr. became the second Cass City Village trustee in two months to resign his post on the council.

Golding submitted his resignation Tuesday night at the regular session of the council at the Municipal Building. He did not attend the meeting.

Golding was forced to give up his village post because he no longer lives in the village. He presently is staying in Elmwood township.

FRANK NEMETH shows how new plastic tubing is fastened to conventional tile for field drainage. Nemeth is the first in the area to install it.

First in area

Nemeth installs plastic tube drainage system

Frank Nemeth, Deford farmer, is the first person in the area to install plastic drainage tubing in place of the familiar cement tile for land drainage.

Nemeth is placing the lightweight, hard plastic tile in a 38-acre field on Deckerville Road. He is enthused about its potential for drainage.

It's supposed to last a life time, he explained, but no one really knows because it hasn't been on the market that long. There isn't any guarantee that goes with it, he explained.

It's not any cheaper than conventional tile, Nemeth says, but it looks like it might be better. The reason for this, he noted, is that tile previously in use had drainage openings at the end of each foot-long tile. In the same distance the new tile will have about 40 openings.

While Nemeth is the first, he evidently will not be the last to switch to the new method. He named several other farmers who were thinking about switching or had contracted for installation.

While the tubing is new in this area, it has been used in farms for years in Canada with good results.

According to information of the manufacturer, its major advantage is its uniformity in drainage because of the evenly spaced outlets in the tube. Other desirable facts include less breakage, lightweight and resistance to acids, alkalis and frost damage.

Actually, the new plastic tubing system is a marriage of the old and the new. The tubing, adaptors and connectors are all plastic, but manufacturers have not yet come up with a plastic main.

Nemeth reports that there is sometimes difficulty buying the mains from area tile manufacturers when the remainder of the job is plastic.

Farmers shouldn't be looking to plastic to save installation costs. Total plastic drainage systems cost about the same as cement tile drainage. The $112 per 1000 running foot cost of the tile is higher than conventional tile...but installation costs are cheaper.

The only reason for putting in plastic, Nemeth said, is that you feel it will do a better job. Like most progressive farmers, Nemeth is sold on tilling as a profitable farm practice. He put in tile on another section of his farm last year and used his government payment allotment for it.

I'll have to pay for all of this myself, he explained, but tilling is what this field needs to be productive.

Nemeth has been a farmer in the area all of his life. Together with his wife, Amy, he now farms 120 acres of a 160-acre farm he owns. A dairy farmer, he feeds most of the crops he grows to his 25 milk cows.

5 minor injuries in area mishaps

Five were injured in area accidents reported this week to the Tuscola County Sheriff Department in Caro.

Three of the accidents occurred Friday.

A car driven by James Asel Collins, 18, of Pigeon collided with a vehicle driven by Wesley Dale Keyser, 18, of Harrisville on East Caro Road, near Deckerville Road.

Treated for injuries at Caro Community Hospital was Linda M. Nieschulz, 16, of Pigeon, a passenger in the Collins car. Keyser and three other teenage passengers were uninjured.

The mishap occurred when Collins was attempting to pass the Keyser vehicle and it pulled into the left lane to pass another slower car ahead of it.

Both cars were traveling northeast on Deckerville Road.

Another Friday accident occurred when Richard L. Dubs, 19, of Kinde fell asleep while driving on Colwood Road near Hoppe Road in Elmwood township.

His car went into a roadside ditch and rolled over. A passenger, Jane Flores, 20, of Pigeon received cuts and bruises but refused treatment.

Claude Harry King, 65, of Gagetown was treated for injuries at Hills and Dales General Hospital in Cass City for injuries received in an accident at the curve on Cedar Run Road, near Hoppe Road.

King said he was driving along and missed the curve. Two more car-deer accidents were investigated. Wednesday, Sept. 24, Cecil E. Putnam, 36, hit a deer as he was driving west on M-46 near Hurds Corner Road.

Monday Rinerd Alfred Schember, 25, hit a deer on Sanilac Road near Lobdell Road at about 2:40 a.m.

Schember reported that the deer jumped in front of his car before he could swerve to miss it.

Buy cheap county land for profit

How important are accessories in your wardrobe? Accessories in your wardrobe are important as they belong in every outfit you wear. The color, texture, and size of the accessory play a part in tying the outfit together or creating accent and contrast. The accessory whether it be a handbag or a pin can have an effect on the over-all appearance of the outfit you wear.

Accessories which are similar or related to the outfit in color, shape and texture, tie an outfit together. Accent accessories call attention to their color, texture, or shapes which contrast with their surroundings. A center of interest which can be created by grouping the accent accessories is more pleasing to the eye than having small scattered spots of accent.

Your accessories can express your personality. Accessories can create optical illusions such as increasing or decreasing height.

By using different accessories with the same outfit you can change the over-all appearance of it. This way one can make their wardrobe more versatile.

Accessories do much to an outfit, they add accent, create a center of interest, or "tie" an outfit together. Wardrobes can be brought up to date through the use of accessories. Accessories can also make an outfit right for a certain occasion. One can express their personality through the use of accessories.

Even though accessories are small, they influence our over-all appearance.

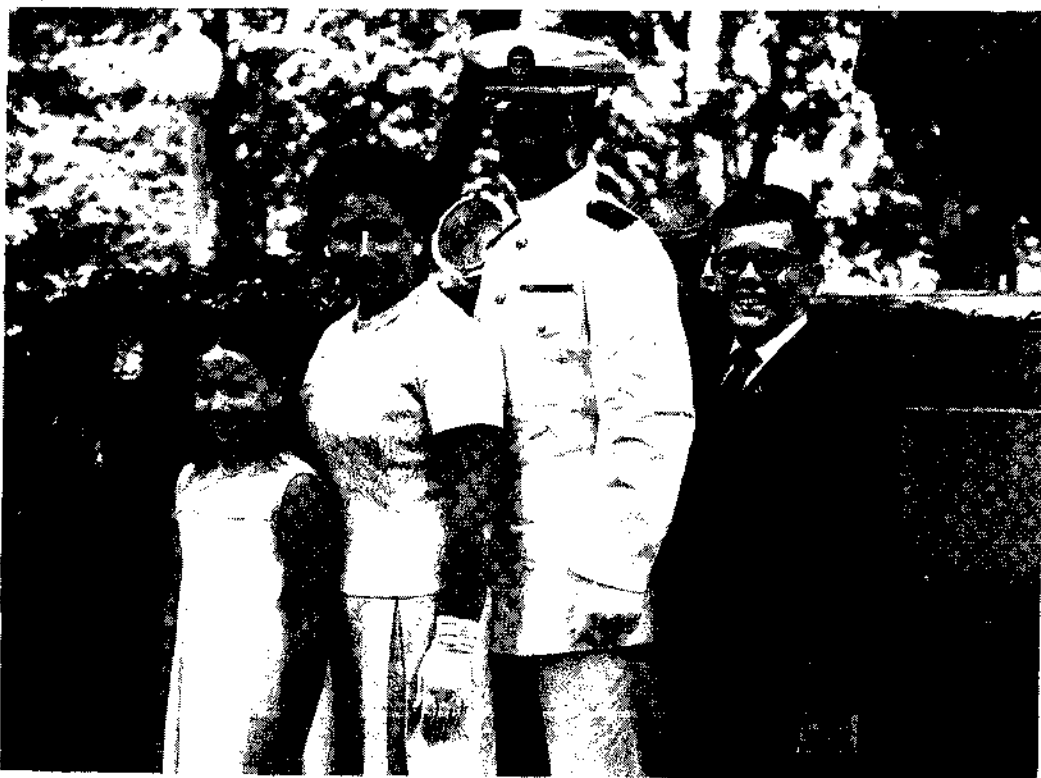

What chance is there for a young fellow to make a living by producing food when land, machinery, labor, taxes and other inputs are so high? I'll have to admit the future does not look rosy when you total up the probable investment and try to determine if a fair return can be obtained.

I do believe there are opportunities to make money on some of the less expensive land areas of Tuscola County. The area I have in mind is the southeastern part of the county in parts of Wells, Dayton, Koylton and Fremont townships. Some of the land area has been farmed in past years but has gone back to quackgrass and in some fields just plain brush. Much of the area that has been farmed in previous years consists of a loam to a sandy loam soil. It is no problem to clean up the quackgrass and brush and bring the land back into cultivation for the production of high value crops. With irrigation from a farm pond or well, crops, such as strawberries, raspberries, tomatoes, carrots sweet corn, potatoes, and other vegetable crops can be successfully grown.

A number 1 question that first comes to the forefront is there a market for these crops? I believe there is a present market and even a better market developing for the future. We need only to realize that we are on the fringe of an exploding population to the south, southeast and southwest of Tuscola County. One thing that this exploding population needs and wants is food. More particularly do they want to buy in season such high value crops as I have mentioned.

Here in Tuscola county we have the soil and water resources. We have the know-how. We also have the present and future potential market. What we need is people interested in combining these resources and know-how and put them to work.

At the present time a grower in Wells township is harvesting and marketing 1800 lbs. of quality tomatoes per day to the Hamady Brothers in Flint. Returns on a per acre basis make this a profitable venture, especially when this particular piece of farm land was abandoned to quackgrass and brush for a number of years. This same grower has plans completed to establish one of the largest strawberry beds this county will probably ever have had. If he comes through with a crop of berries he already has plans made for harvesting. There is a market so let us put more of these idle and abandoned acres to a productive use.

Parking meter revenue off

A comparison study of parking meter revenue was submitted to the village council Tuesday evening by President Lambert Althaver.

It shows that revenue is steadily decreasing in the village.

In the first eight months in the last three years the total fine and cost money received was: $3,857.66 in 1967; $3,609.72 in 1968, and $3,257.03 in 1969.

The decline is not alarming, Althaver pointed out, but simply a reflection of the better off-street parking and better rear entrances available to shopping today as compared to three years ago when meters were first installed.

Tell benefits of 4-H program

Literally, the world has never been younger. Youth-if you count everyone below 20 in that category-now comprises over half the world's population. In the United States alone there are about 45 million in the 9-19 age group.

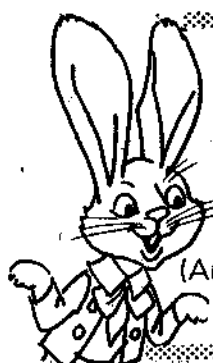

Some have called this a "youthquake" and indeed it is, not only in numbers, but also in terms of the problems and opportunities that face today's young men and women.

Better schools, more leisure time, greater affluence among the young, and exciting career opportunities all make being a young man or woman, boy or girl, a complex business. At a very early age, young people begin to hear that they will soon inherit a world filled with problems. This is not news to most young people. They already have many problems to solve, decisions to make. Through the 4-H program, youth may pursue their interests while practicing decision-making and problem solving at the same time.

Young people throughout the United States and around the world have found that in its simplicity, the "learn by doing" concept teaches some of the most complex ideas.

A member's selection of 4-H projects may reflect exactly what he hopes to do in adulthood or it may reflect the diversity of his abilities and an attempt to make some decisions about his future. Many more members belong just because they like it.

4-H membership is widely scattered among farms, small towns and urban areas. In spite of this 4-H continues to reach out to serve more members. There are still many young people who do not have any association with educational youth organizations. As the nation has changed over the last 50 years, the 4-H program has changed, too. Young people are far better educated than they once were; they are competent to do more detailed work. They demand a greater challenge.

Rabbit tracks

By John Haire

(And anyone else he can get to help)

It's been an ordinary week: (1) I received an unsigned letter about the school situation, (2) I was eaten out because I failed to mention that the Konrad Konwalskis are back in the bakery, (3) A girl said she was misquoted, (4) Mrs. Janet Bishop sunk a painless barb when she suggested that I forget about writing this nonsense and hire my daughter, (5) It was rumored at the school that I was a "fair weather" football fan and (6) I spent two days trying to come up with sparkling feature stories to fill the void created when there just wasn't any news this week.

Phil Retherford tipped me off to a fine field of cranberry beans, six miles south of Cass City, and I decided to get the details.

Now a businessman but still a frustrated farmer, Phil went with me on a Thursday a couple of weeks ago to get the details. We arrived at about 11 a.m. and it was drizzling. No combining today, we sagely observed, so after checking a few pods, returned to town.

It's really going to be a bumper crop, my expert farm advisor advised when we hit the light at the four corners. Thus aroused I returned to the field the next day at about 2 p.m. only to find the equipment gone and the field harvested.

Checking with Bill Zemke I learned the owner's name was Jim Trisch of Caro. So I called...and was told that he had checked into a hospital with a bad back and his wife was out in the field filling in.

Two more calls the same night resulted in nothing but busy signals...and I never did get the story.

Is it because it's apt to be someone you know that a siren in town always brings an eerie, apprehensive feeling?

Certainly it's not the same in Detroit when sirens are sounding during all hours of the day and night and no one pays attention.

How not to make money department: invite all the members of the local service clubs to an eat-all-you-want barbecue and then serve roast beef, roast pork and ham for $3.00 a plate.

The White Creek Club tried it last Thursday and the final audit for the 43 meals served showed that the club didn't make anything on the dinner.

But then it didn't lose anything either. And that's got to be considered a moral victory when you observed how much some of those guys can pack away.

Now I claim that the White Creek's own Don Shagene is still the uncrowned champ, but he'd better get with it for it was apparent that several of the visitors had been in training and are capable of providing a serious challenge.

Did you ever wonder how the gate receipts are divided in pro football between the home and the visiting team?...Visiting teams in both the National and American Leagues get a 30-thousand dollar guarantee for each game or 40% of the gate, whichever figure is larger.

Can you guess which big league baseball team played the most years without winning a pennant?...Answer is the old St. Louis Browns of the American League...They played every year from 1902 through 1943--a total of 42 consecutive seasons--without winning a pennant...Finally, in 1944, they won their first flag after the longest wait by one team in history.

Here's an oddity about the new head football coach at Navy, Rick Forzano...He never played college football...Forzano was injured when he was a freshman at Kent State years ago, and thus becomes one of the few major college coaches in history who never played varsity college football himself.

BEHIND THE COUNTER

Spathe and Medicine

Now that Americans have landed a man on the moon it is still argued that the money should be spent on fighting the illnesses that are still all too common on earth. According to Apollo's space scientists, it's possible for us to do both—explore the moon and improve medical science at the same time.

And they can point to examples of how this has already been done. For example: • The basic space helmet concept was used to design a hood worn by patients in a children's clinic, so that their consumption of oxygen can be measured while they exercise.

• Electronic sensors used to keep tabs on the astronauts' physical condition have been adapted to continuously monitor the pulse, respiration, blood pressure and temperature of heart patients and others.

• A technique used to clarify photos of the moon by putting TV signals through a computer is now being used to clarify X-rays.

• A device designed to count meteorite hits on a spacecraft is the basis of a new instrument that measures muscle tremors, helping doctors in the early detection of nerve ailments such as Parkinson's disease.

• A meter used to measure the elasticity of bones of men living in space for weeks at a time is used to study the problem of brittleness in aging bones.

In all, 2,750 technical innovations have been passed over to U.S. industry and science by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. These could be as valuable as the moon landing itself.

Karpovich heads tax protest group

Dr. John Karpovich, originator of the tax protest group in Tuscola county and chairman of Voice of the People-Michigan, was named chairman of the executive committee of a national tax protest organization.

He was one of 31 delegates attending a regional meeting at Cleveland Sept. 27. Delegates from Michigan, Ohio, New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Alabama and the District of Columbia were named to the committee.

The original group in Tuscola county was protesting the high property taxes. The regional group stated that taxes were not the problem but symptoms of the problem.

The group will attack government spending on all levels. Another meeting will be held in Denver, Colo., to organize the South Central portion of the United States, Karpovich said.

Baptists to launch fall SS contest

The Baptist Sunday School will launch a contest Sunday, Oct. 5, which has also been designated Rally Day.

All departments of the Sunday School, nursery through the three adult classes, will participate in the contest, which has a football theme.

Head coaches for the two teams are Bill Ewald for the Conquerors and Harold Rayl for the Victors. Yardage will be compiled on the basis of attendance, bringing visitors, etc. The contest will run five weeks.

Participating in a skit last Sunday to introduce the contest were: Sportscenter Patrick Van (Stan Gunther); the two head coaches and star players, O. J. (Jim) Hanby, Nighttrain (Jeff) Ware, Gallop'n' (Mark) Gunther, Big Daddy (Steve) Wells and Ramblin' (Randy) Perry.

4-H'ers at Delong home

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Don DeLong of Cass City was the scene of a Japanese style 4-H achievement meeting on Monday, September 15.

Mrs. Lyle Clarke, also of Cass City, is the leader of the all-girl "Needles and Kettles Club".

The mothers of the girls were served tea in a formal Japanese style and then girls were served tea in the same manner. They were also presented their certificates of achievement and year pins by Mary Kerr, Extension Home Economist.

After the formal tea ceremony, which included some genuine Japanese costumes and Japanese napkins, the mothers and daughters enjoyed refreshments which they ate with improvised chopsticks!

Sanilac care facility receives "float bed"

Dr. Gerald L. Groat, Medical Director of Sanilac Medical Care Facility in Sandusky, this week announced the acceptance of the gift to the Facility of a "Float Bed" by Messrs. Charles and Arthur Kappler of Yale and Mrs. Douglas Fishburn of Detroit. Charles Kappler is presently a patient in the Facility. Mrs. Fishburn and Arthur Kappler are his sister and brother.

The "Float Bed" is a specially designed container filled with water replacing the mattress of a bed. The patient actually "floats" on this pool of water; thus relieving "pressure point" skin irritation.

"The therapeutic value of the 'Float Bed' when utilized in conjunction with systemic medical treatment is one of the most recent and beneficial developments in the care of skin breakdown due to restricted blood circulation. (EX: Bed Sores-Body Burns)," Dr. Groat stated. We are especially pleased with this generous donation to the Facility by the Kappler family, as this equipment enables us to continue to enlarge the program of Rehabilitative Nursing being pursued by the Administration and Staff of Sanilac Medical Care Facility.

The introduction of this equipment in the Thumb area is another "First" for the County Extended Care Facility, and a significant step forward in the development of Total Health Care for all citizens of Sanilac County.

Sanilac Medical Care Facility presently utilizes an Active Medical Staff of five Physicians; Medical Director Gerald L. Groat, M.D., Decker, M.D., Sandusky; Michael Jayson, M.D., Marlette; Robert L. Simich, D.O., Sandusky, and Charles O'Shaughnessy, M.D., Decker.

Letter to Editor

Need understanding of ghetto dwellers

To the editor:

I have often heard the comment that slum people are dirty because they are lazy, and that by doing something about their surroundings they can help themselves. Those who hold this view are oversimplifying a complex problem.

Let me illustrate with a realistic example: here is a family that rents an apartment (room would be more accurate; it is more than they can afford) and shares the bathroom with four other families. This shared facility would not be so bad were it in working order, which would enable a diligent mother to clean it could she afford the equipment-cleanser, toilet bowl cleaner, brush, sponge, mop, detergent and bucket for the mop water. Unfortunately the water does not run in the sink, so the only running water in this bathroom is in the toilet bowl. With proper household equipment she still would have to break her back importing wash and rinse water from another shared bathroom or perhaps from a kitchen.

Still, a mother might clean it to protect her family from disease if it didn't belong to the landlord and if those other four families would help keep it clean. By now, however, economic disability and moral discouragement have usually destroyed her initial supply of incentive-however large that may have been.

This is not to say that ghetto people are the noble underprivileged or anything like that. Even if we could force them to adopt our white standards over their own black heritage, they would not necessarily achieve our proficiency in conformity to our standards. (Note the black bourgeoisie, many of who generally lost much of their spirit and vision- powers enabling them to forgive and relate to other people-in exchange for success in white goals, both social and economic. Some of them have let our goals enslave them, destroying their humanness.)

My point is that we aren't helping ourselves or them by condemning them. Let's get to the root of the problem by acquiring understanding and grounding our opinions in facts-something closer to the whole truth than what we now have. Perhaps after we have done our best to offer a viable solution to many of the problems of living in slums, we can offer some valid criticisms. Meanwhile let's not be so harsh.

GOLDING RESIGNS

Golding's resignation followed that of George Dillman by one month.

While Golding's seat on the council has not yet been filled, Dillman's chair has been taken by Gary Christner.

He was appointed by President Lambert Althayer and the council, and officially confirmed at Tuesday's meeting. Christner works for a bookkeeping concern and has been in the community about two years. He has been active in many community affairs since moving to Cass City.

Another change in the village staff was also announced. John Alvin Rands, 25, of St. Clair was hired as a village patrolman to replace James Jezewski.

He was selected in a special unannounced meeting held Sept. 23 when five candidates for the position were interviewed.

Rands has two years experience working on week ends for the St. Clair Police Department. He will join the Cass City Department Oct. 6. He is married and has two children.

"If It Fitz. . ."

Getting fired takes class

BY JIM FITZGERALD

When Henry Ford fired his top foreman, Semon Knudsen, he kicked off an incredible amount of newspaper and TV publicity. All of which gave us hired hands and our wives plenty to worry about.

The society writers and photographers even went to the Knudsen home to find out how Mrs. Knudsen was taking the dumping of her husband.

"If you get fired," my wife told me, "I won't have a thing to wear for the interviews. The drapes need cleaning, too."

One reporter asked Knudsen if he still owned Ford cars. "Yes", he answered, "we have 2 Cougars, an LTD station wagon, a regular Ford and a couple of Marks IIIs, I think."

But he wasn't sure. That's embarrassing.

"The next time you're in the garage, make a list of our cars," I told my wife.

"We don't have a garage," she said. "And we're using our carport for a porch."

"It might be better if I rent the township hall for the press conference where I explain that I don't know why I was fired," I said.

Verily, the Knudsen affair has made it obvious that a man must be prepared in case of sudden canning. It's not something you can do easily, such as getting a job. It takes planning to be fired properly.

For instance, I need a nickname. Knudsen was working on a 5-year contract worth about $3 million plus stock options. But the reporters took the snob by gleam off all that dough by calling him "Bunkie." Golly, that's right down to earth. Fact is, the only other Bunkie I know is an airedale.

Ford will pay Knudsen $700,000 for doing nothing the next 3 1/2 years and shucks, the general public would probably have a tough time feeling sorry for him if he weren't just Plain Bunkie.

Another thing a fired guy needs is "a man." Bunkie admitted he'd had many job offers since Ford got a better idea. He was leaving on a vacation trip himself but Knudsen said he "had a man investigating the offers." That's the same sort of class I showed in 1946 when I paid a friend to stand in line to get my unemployment check.

Most important, a working slob should practice smiling under adverse conditions, perhaps while someone is pounding his foot with a sledge hammer. All the reporters agreed that Bunkie showed his teeth and made little jokes but "fooled nobody." The keen-eyed writers described him as "staggered" and "near shock." The Detroit News even accused Knudsen of shrinking and "his suit was too large for him."

Where does a man go to get sanitized? It is a screwy world where the firing of a multi-millionaire can keep news and society reporters typing and gushing for days. When Joe Schmoe gets fired, and his kids get hungry, the only way he can get in the newspaper is to get shot while robbing a grocery store.

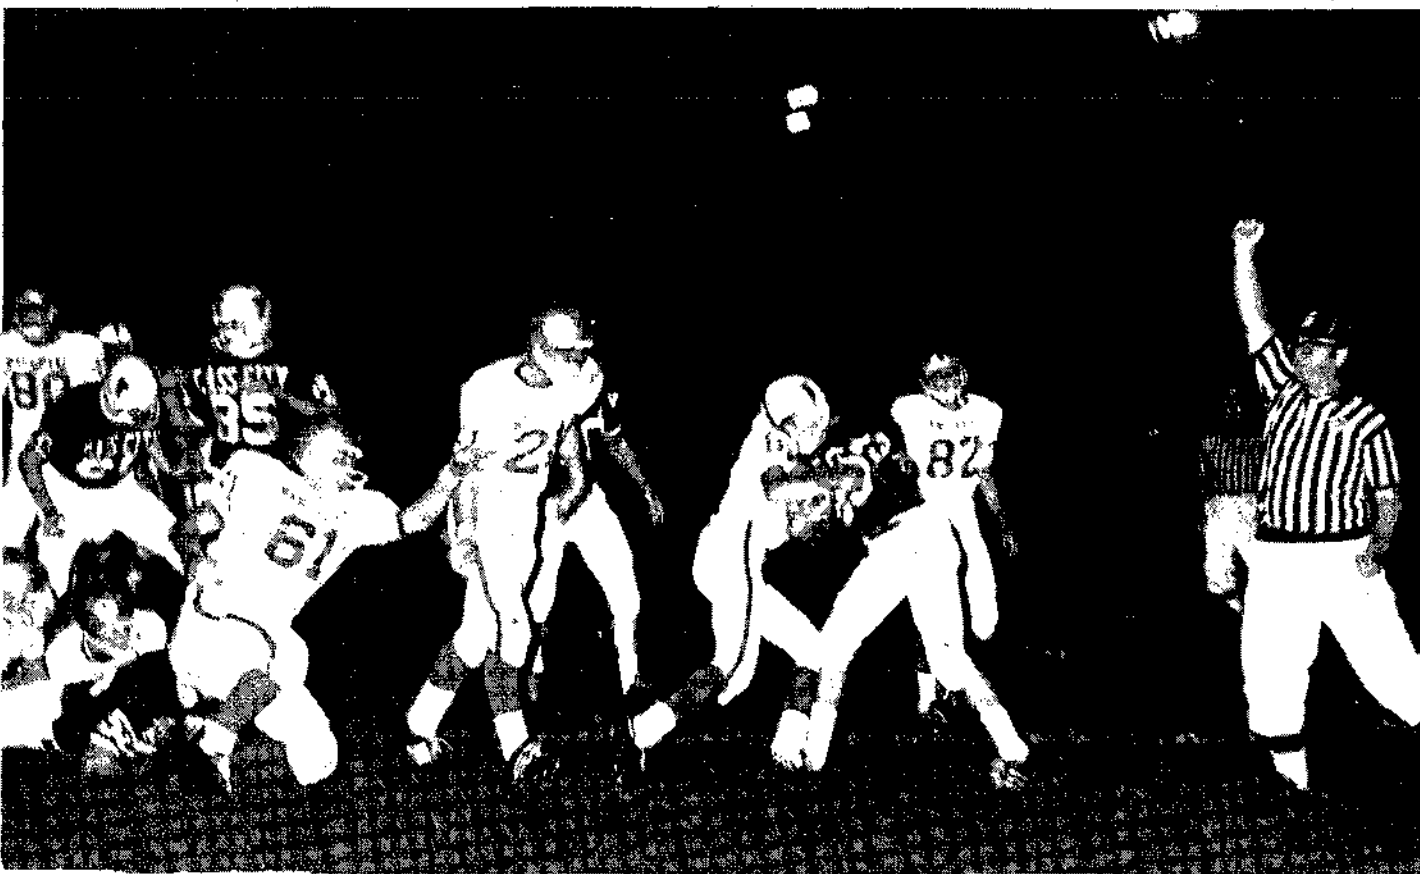

And that's no bunkie.

Laugh at trouble and you're on the right road to happiness.

2 first half TD's power Hawks to 14-10 decision over Marlette

TOUCHDOWN—Craig Guernsey goes crashing over standing up for the first marker of the game early in the first period. Cass City scored twice in the first half and then held on for a 14-10 decision.

Fresh from a narrow 14-10 victory over Marlette last Friday the Cass City Red Hawks take to the road this week to meet the Vassar Vulcans in a game that must be rated a toss-up.

The Vulcans haven't shown any devastating power this season although they did defeat Sandusky last week by converting an extra point.

Sandusky defeated Cass City 18-6.

The Hawks won over Marlette with two long marches in the first half and then hung on for the win as the Red Raiders staged a last half rally.

Cass City kicked off and held Marlette on downs and then marched 45 yards the first time they went on offense in an impressive drive.

Most of the yardage was covered on straight ahead power plays through the center of the line. It was an impressive performance.

And it was a performance that the Hawks were unable to duplicate again during the game. Shortly before the half the team mounted a drive on its own 30 that went all the way into the end zone...powered by the passes of Rob Alexander and the running of John Smentek.

The Hawks were forced to fight both Marlette and the clock...they scored with 28 seconds left in the half.

Meanwhile, the defense was doing its job holding the visitors in check. The only points Marlette was able to garner was a safety when Cass City fielded a punt and tried to run it out of the end zone.

At the half, the score was 14-2 and Cass City clearly dominated.

In the final two periods, whenever Marlette didn't stop the Hawks they were stopping themselves. Several off-side and illegal motion penalties kept Cass City from moving down the field.

Meanwhile, Marlette started to move the ball. In the third quarter Cass City fumbled and the visitors took over on their own 35.

The Red Raiders marched with precision to the four-yard line for a first and goal as the quarter ended.

Cass City then made the goal-line stand that eventually spelled victory. The first play from the four gained nothing and on the second the visitors fumbled and Cass City recovered to end the threat.

Marlette finally got on the scoreboard with a TD mid-way through the final period. Thirty yards of the 60-yard march came by penalties. Cass City was socked with a major penalty and then took another for protesting the decision. Marlette's Mike Getsen scored on a broken play.

The statistics:

Passes attempted	12	12

Uncle Tim From Tyre Says:

Dear Mister Editor:

Ed Doolittle allowed Saturday night at the country store that the way this country is going is like drinking klicker. A feller can't ever get the right amount of klicker in him to suit him, declared Ed, and he allus thinks he ain't got enuff until he gets too much. Onct he gets too much, went on Ed, he figgers to ease off gradual by drinking more and more.

It looked to the fellers like Ed was going to speak in parables agin, but Ed went on that he was talking about President Nixon's New Federalism and his new welfare plan. Ed, that said afore elections last fall a Republican Administration was the onliest thing could save this country, went on talking like a man trying to eat his words without swallowing.

What most worried him, allowed Ed, is that the President practical said they ain't nothing fer this country to do but hit the bottom and start over. If Mr. Nixon's family plan welfare ain't a man trying to drink hisself sober, they ain't no cows in Texas, was Ed's words.

Farthermore, Ed said, he had spent some weeks mulling over New Federalism, and the best he can flager is that it goes the New Deal, the Fair Deal, the New Frontier and the Great Society one better. Fer the first time in the history of giveaway in this country, allowed Ed, all a feller has to do to git took care of by the few working taxpayers left is prove he's pore. He don't have to be old, nor sick, nor crippled, nor nothing, jest pore.

If Congress goes along this the first solid proposition the Nixon Administration has come up with, said Ed, the cost of welfare will go up from $4.2 billion to $8.2 billion a year, and the number of folks on welfare will more than double to 22.5 million. And it would cost more to find jobs fer them Mr. Nixon's says he'll put to work than to pay 'em fer not working. As fer that dab of tax money he says he'll give back to the states to do the paperwork to git it, much less tell what they done with it.

By the time Ed wound down, Clem Webster was grinning like a mule eating briars. Never in all the years of discussions, Clem said, had he herd Ed talk so hard about Mr. Lincoln's party. Farthermore, Clem, that has stood up fer the Democrats under some mighty hard words from Ed, said Ed didn't even claim the Democrats got the country so messed up nobody can run it.

Anyhow, Mister Editor, Clem and Ed was agreed them 22.5 million is going to vote theirself family assistance or whatever you want to call somepun fer nothing as long as they got energy to go to the polls.

Yours truly,
Uncle Tim

It's safer and more economical. Fertilize now.

Why is it safer to fertilize before planting season? Well, you'll be sure you've got the job done. The nutrients your young plants will need will be there. Wet Springs won't slow you down so much. You'll be able to use more of the good days for planting.

How is it more economical? You don't take a chance of paying higher prices for fertilizer or equipment or men.

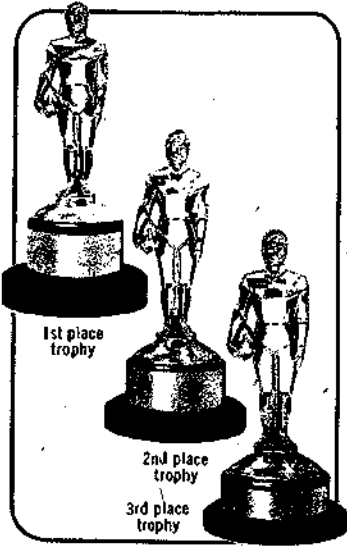

Haste makes waste. There's always a rush at planting time. Let us help you get ready now.

In some ways, electric heat is better than warm summer sunshine. For one thing, it's even the year around. And it stays that way during weather changes. Also, with electric heat, drafts and cold floors become a thing of the past.

With flameless electric heat, you'll never wake up in the morning feeling dried out.

You even get an operating cost guarantee. In writing.

If you'd like a free estimate of installation and operating cost, we'll arrange for an Edison Ap-no obligation.

Convert to electric heat. Winter

FROM THE FILES OF THE CHRONICLE

FIVE YEARS AGO

There will be no extension of the Cass City water service to residents outside the village unless they are willing to be annexed and share the tax burden.

Property owners in Gagetown approved borrowing $53,000 to help pay for the replacement of the village's ancient wooden water mains.

The committee appointed last spring to pick a spot for a new Cass City High School has unanimously endorsed the "North Donahue" property as the future location of a proposed school.

Cass City's centennial next year will be big, spectacular and expensive, Cass City Community Centennial Corp. members learned as they approved a centennial budget of $13,260. Donald Crouse, superintendent of Cass City Schools, has been appointed to a special committee to investigate vocational training and higher educational needs in this area.

Mrs. Preston Karr of Cass City was installed as president of the Central Michigan Chapter of the American Association of Hospital Accountants.

Six Cass City Boy Scouts, Tom Moore, Chuck Crandell, Jeff Spencer, John Asher, Robbie Alexander and Scott Guernsey, and Scoutmaster Jim Jezewski participated in a 10-mile hike in the area east and south of Cass City.

TEN YEARS AGO

The Little League diamond and the skating rink will be given a general face lifting this fall with funds furnished by the Cass City School District, the village and perhaps Elkland Township.

Narcotic control

laws need revamping

Most of us take drugs for medical reasons. If we were a heart patient the doctor might prescribe digitalis. People with peptic ulcers take antacids.

But some individuals want to use them to shut out the real world and enter upon a world of unreality. Others see in these same drugs adventure, excitement, an easy way to develop and enjoy their senses.

Drugs are chemicals that act upon the body's own chemistry. They fight infections, substitute for chemicals the body might lack such as insulin, or improve our ability to function by stepping up or slowing down the activity of glands or organs.

But taken without professional advice or directions, drugs can injure vital parts of the body—the liver, the kidneys, the heart, and most importantly the brain. They can lead to drug dependence, either of a psychological or physical nature, or both.

Most of us haven't considered fully the impact of the abuse of drugs by one individual or by several individuals on society and what can be or should be society's answer.

The criminal sanctions provided by Michigan statute law are very harsh. For the sale or conveyance, that is the giving away, of marijuana and other drugs a judge must give as a minimum sentence, 20 years. For just the possession of it or even its control, the imprisonment is 10 years.

The drug problem seems to be growing despite such legal penalties. The idea originally was, of course, to have long sentences available so those that trafficked in drugs and made huge profits from them could be put away for a long period of time. But the trouble is the courts usually wind up with the little fellow who is a user and who might sell drugs just to get the profits and turn around and satisfy his own need. The heavy sentence seems to be a simple solution that just doesn't work because it doesn't get at the root of the problem.

Unfortunately it is youngsters that are primarily involved. The number of casualties among them from drug dependence is overwhelming.

It appears that individuals begin with marijuana and then escalate to other substances particularly to what is called "speed" or amphetamines. After this they go onto the hard narcotics, heroin.

There has been a sharp curtailment recently of the supply of some drugs...marijuana at the moment. But when this happens the marijuana cigarettes are sometimes cut with anything from alfalfa to tea leaves or they are laced with other drugs.

Some drugs are more responsible for crime than others. Heroin seems to do most of the damage. In the past two decades, 90% of the arrests for felonious use of drugs involved heroin usage. The problem is really one of people who, having become addicted, go out and commit crimes so they can finance the purchase of drugs. This is one reason for the increasing crime rate. Drug addicts will car boost, or mug, or pander or submit to prostitution in order to get money necessary to pay their $20 to $100 daily drug bill. Although there are many drug users in the ghetto, some users are youngsters coming from substantial neighborhoods. It's almost become an epidemic in this nation today.

The sheriff of one of the major cities of the nation says that 60% of the people that are housed today in his county jail are there because of drug-connected crime. Perhaps if we get rid of this drug dependency problem we will have done a great deal toward getting rid of crime in the streets.

Horses - popular 4-H project

The 4-H horse project has increased enrollment so rapidly that it is now the most popular 4-H animal project in Michigan, according to director of Michigan 4-H Youth Program, Gordon Beckstrand. High enrollment in the 4-H horse project seems to be associated with urban areas. Few of these youths are the sons and daughters of farmers, but they may live in an area that allows them to keep horses or they may keep their horses at boarding stables. In Tuscola County there are 160 members enrolled in the horse project. The 4-H members learn about horse care, feeding and training as well as judging and showing experience.

The farm population now comprises about 6 percent of the state's population, but participation in Michigan 4-H youth programs has continued to increase, and to include more and more non-farm families. This means that the program appeals to many youth in rural but non-farm families, suburbs and urban.

Youth and adult volunteer leaders throughout Michigan are now involved with 4-H Expansion month that will end with the National 4-H Week of October 5-11.

The Expansion month drive has three goals. They are: Increased participation in the local 4-H youth programs, expand local and national 4-H youth facilities through fund-raising efforts and expand the public's image of 4-H youth programs to an all-youth program, both rural and urban.

ONE FOR THE ROAD

about censorship

By Dan Martowe

Large corporations are like icebergs: seven-eighths of their mass lies beneath the surface, invisible to the eye.

Last spring the Smothers Brothers were fired by the CBS Television Network amidst counter-charges of contractual malfeasance by the network and corporate censorship by the brothers.

There's an interesting article in the October ESQUIRE exploring the confrontation in depth. In a day-by-day review of the events, writer Bill Klonan makes it abundantly clear that the brothers were fired not for contractual malfeasance, not even for a certain "blueness" in their material, as was generally supposed, but because of the social comment contained in several of their satiric skits. In other words, corporate censorship, exactly as Tommy Smother's claimed. Further, Klonan claims that there was no hard-and-fast editorial policy at CBS, no book of rules, nothing but the individual judgement of a single man, William Tankersley, vice-president for Program Practices. Once this became evident in the aftermath of the firing it was not only Klonan who felt that no individual was qualified to pass upon what was fit for 10,000,000 television viewers to see.

But the CBS iceberg crunched on. In a satellite article to his main piece, Klonan relates his three-week endeavor to arrange an interview with CBS brass in an attempt to learn CBS policy. In a classic runaround of unreturned phone calls and corporate linguistics, he was never permitted to talk face-to-face to the decision-making Tankersley or any of Tankersley's superiors.

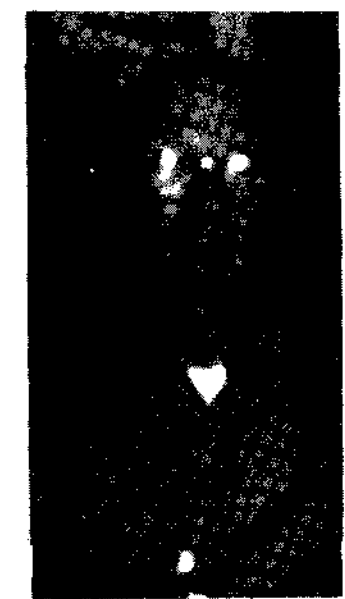

Klonan persisted in his effort from May 21st to June 10th, at which point he blew his cool. Speaking to the president of the network's (Robert Wood) secretary, Klonan writes that he said: "I asked her to tell Wood that I was onto his game, that I knew the network was a shaky legal fiction that required a whole floor of lawyers to support, that I knew that neither it nor Bill Tankersley was licensed to exist or to impose their views of reality upon the rest of the country, that Tankersley had no rule book by which he determined what was or was not in good taste, and that as far as I could determine the network was run by frightened curish functionaries with about as much sense of public responsibility as the old Czarist bureaucracy. I asked her to ask Mr. Wood to envision how that would look in print."

"I'll mention it to him," the secretary said politely.

Bill Klonan printed it, but the iceberg crunched on.

Finkle, Associate Professor of Population Planning of the University of Michigan, and James Jonah, Political Affairs Officer of the United States Delegation to the United Nations.

Teachers' salaries up 9.3% yearly for last 4 years

Most taxpayers may not realize it, but teachers' salaries have risen faster than ever since teachers began organizing into unions four years ago.

Up until that time, salaries rose at a fairly consistent rate of $200 per year, or about 3.4 per cent per year. But in the last four years the average rise in pay scales in the state has ranged from $600 to $700 per year, or 9.3 per cent. Today, only the state of California pays its teachers better than Michigan.

And Detroit pays its teachers with bachelors degrees more than any other large city in the country.

The change in the rate of increase was proven by a study completed recently by the Citizens Research Council of Michigan.

"The fact that the legalization of collective bargaining and the rising level in annual teacher salary increases were coterminous can hardly be viewed as a coincidence," the council said.

"It must be assumed that there has been a causal relationship between collective bargaining and the surge in teacher salary levels," it concluded. And, the council said, with teachers getting their way in the field of salaries, their organizations are turning their attentions to other areas.

"Even now there is evidence that teacher organizations are becoming interested in negotiating other school policies such as class size," the council said. And, it predicted, the issues could lead to stronger dissension between teachers and administrators than purely monetary considerations.

"School administrators and boards are concerned about the possibility of relinquishing management and school board rights and prerogatives," it said.

"On the other hand, teachers generally appear to want a greater voice in determining a broad range of matters that affect their work and are pressing for broadening the scope of negotiations," the council reported. If this is true, the relative calm on the education front this fall may not continue over the next few years.

HARE PROTESTS

The man in charge of administering the new state law requiring suspension of a person's drivers license if the person doesn't pay a traffic ticket within 40 days says he doesn't like the law.

Secretary of State James M. Hare says he expects more than 120,000 Michigan drivers will lose their licenses this year as a result of the new law. This is almost double the total who had theirs suspended for a period of time last year.

"What I don't like about this law," he says, "is that it does not make any distinction between the 'traffic tramp'—the person who is in constant trouble because of chronic bad driving—and the person who just has one infraction, many times for a minor equipment violation."

Hare labels the law "unfair, unjust and too punitive in many instances."

The seven-term officeholder, who announced plans to retire from his job in 1970, says he doesn't think the law is keeping anyone off the road either.

"While there is no doubt that more persons are paying their tickets than ever before, I don't believe it has any effect on keeping the suspended driver off the road," he said. "It just increases the number of persons driving in Michigan with suspended licenses."

He said he likes the system Illinois is using, where a driver who receives a ticket for a moving violation surrenders his drivers license to the arresting officer.

The ticket he receives serves as a temporary license pending the court appearance date.

If the driver does not appear, he doesn't have a valid drivers license any more.

POT AND THE KETTLE

During the close of a recent, particularly heated, meeting of the State Board of Education, a brief exchange took place between Republican member Leroy Augenstein and Democrat Michael Deeb.

Augenstein said he hoped the board would do no "headline hunting" in the next few months. This prompted Deeb to say he knew of no one on the board who "chases headlines more than Dr. Augenstein."

All was quiet for the next week.

Then, the first board member to deliver a press release in the wake of the meeting was—Mr. Deeb.

THE CHRONICLE

"What's in the cup, Granddad?"

Not many bother to answer the countless questions he loves to ask. But usually he can count on Granddad.

"What was in The Cup at church this morning?" It's a question many people ask—people sincerely wanting to know its significance... people who like to argue. (Is it wine or grape juice?) Theists... theologians... people older and wiser than a little boy.

"Why can't I drink The Cup, like you and all the others, Granddad?"

"You're a little young, Sonny. It's one of the important things in life... a privilege... a part of growing up!"

"What does it mean, Granddad?"

"It means remembering... remembering what God gave us—what Christ did for us—what the Church is to us. It means being truly sorry that we have failed to do our very best."

"I don't understand, Granddad."

"But you will. That's why we all go to church... to learn... to understand... to remember... to love our Lord."

"Maybe I do understand, Granddad, about The Cup—'cause I already love the Lord."
