Aids patient and staff

Heart unit key to best possible cardiac care

In these days of skyrocketing medical costs and shortage of doctors, constant medical care sometimes is either too expensive or not available even though it might be needed.

Two weeks ago a machine arrived at Hills and Dales General Hospital that is designed to alleviate problems for the patient stricken by a heart attack.

It is a portable heart machine designed to include everything necessary to treat and to continuously check a patient from the arrival at the hospital emergency room through the critical stages of the illness.

But more than the new machine is involved in the treatment available. Three nurses at the facility have completed a special eight-session, one-a-week course to learn to operate the new unit. The course was sponsored by the Michigan Heart Association and held at Hills and Dales for nurses throughout the Thumb.

These registered nurses are now in position to treat patients stricken by heart disease as soon as they arrive at the emergency room.

The hospital medical staff is convinced of the merit of the program and is now in the midst of rewriting the medical by-laws so that the nurses can treat patients in the emergency room with the new machine until a physician arrives.

Mrs. Anita Nemeth, RN, talked about the new machine Friday and explained the various life-saving features of the compact unit.

The machine is attached to the stricken patient when he arrives, by a maze of electrical wires. When it is operating there is a constant picture of the patient's heart beat via the cardiograph, a device that records electrically via a blip on a radar-type screen how the heart is beating.

Besides this picture, the machine can record an electrocardiogram (EKG) if desired. In case of a sudden change in the patient's condition, the EKG is recorded automatically.

Another feature provides electric shock treatment. Called a defibrillator, it is called into action when extra stress causes the heart to beat so rapidly that it no longer pumps blood. The shock treatment can be administered to pace the heart beat and start it working correctly again.

Besides emergency treatment, the portable heart unit is used to keep tabs on a critically ill patient without having a nurse constantly in the room.

The machine is designed so that any significant change in the patient's condition automatically rings a bell and starts an EKG reading. The unit is equipped at all times with all of the necessary drugs for emergency treatment.

Hills and Dales was the first in the Thumb to have the new $4,131 heart care unit. It was made possible through donations made in memory of Mrs. Virginia Auten.

Because of its obvious value, Frank Haythorn, hospital administrator, said all Thumb hospitals will have a similar unit in the future. Already Bad Axe has purchased one and hospitals throughout the area are training nurses in the use of the unit in special classes at Hills and Dales.

In Cass City, Mrs. Nemeth reported, we haven't had to use the machine on an emergency basis yet. But because we have it here, with trained people to run it, Haythorn said, we feel that we have provided another important service in our continuing effort to provide the best possible hospital to the residents of the area.

$250,000 Donahue damage trial in Circuit Court

A $250,000 damage suit against Dr. H. T. Donahue of Cass City opened last week and is expected to last several more days in Tuscola County Circuit Court.

Mrs. Carolyn K. Harrison, executrix, seeks damages resulting from an accident involving a combine owned by Dr. Donahue and a vehicle driven by Robert James Harrison. In the crash, Harrison was killed.

The mishap occurred Christmas Eve, Dec. 24, 1964, at 5:44 p.m. Testimony indicates

An estimated 25 members of the Cass City School district attended the annual meeting of the district Monday night at Cass City School and they came prepared to ask searching questions about the school curriculum and its operating policy.

The majority were uplight about the half days for grade school students, although spending policies, the sports program and the general educational picture were also general topics of concern.

Dan Erla wanted to know why teachers were rotated during the school year for grade students and the Roy Waggs asked why the cuts couldn't have been in the high school. The Fred Martins said that intermediate students should bear part of the cut in educational opportunities.

Members of the board and Supt. Don Crouse replied that the grades were cut because

FROM THE Editor's Corner

Dogmatic statements tend to ruffle my fur. The guy that is positive that his view is the way it is...the fellow who sees everything as all black or all white...the sage that adopts half-truths as gospel...the man that can answer complex questions with a simple yes or no, to me is just that...simple.

I thought about this the other day when the giant end-the-war-now poster was brought to my office. It called for an immediate cease fire and withdrawal from Vietnam.

For a brief moment this poster was displayed in the office window...then I took it down. I took it down even though I have tended to be a dove in this nation's war effort long before the protest became popular.

As far back as the Bay of Pigs fiasco in Cuba, I sparked bull sessions by saying I couldn't see much difference in our concern with Russia in Cuba than with Russia's concern with the United States in Vietnam.

It's past time that we started an orderly withdrawal from the war. But to issue an ultimatum saying end the war NOW is an unreasonable request.

To this extent I'm a member of the "silent majority". But then I don't believe that the silent majority is as great or as uniformly united as President Nixon and Washington would have us believe.

There must be many who are in the no-man's-land of questioning our involvement and hating the war, but not certain of just what is the best course to take.

The rally of the "silent majority" during National Unity Week in Operation Speak Out calls for support of the President's Vietnam Policy, our fighting troops, national unity and peace.

It would be hard to conceive a more ambiguous platform on which to base a demonstration. For instance, when supporting the President's policy, are they backing the portion that is determined to get out of Vietnam or the portion that is determined to stay until Saigon can defend itself? He said both in his election eve speech.

On one plank of the platform, it's safe to be dogmatic: the peace plank. Everyone's for peace. The anti-war demonstrators are for Peace with a capital P. And they say they are backing our fighting men in the finest way...by insisting that they get out of the war. Many of our soldiers will agree.

If you've taken the trouble to read this far and find it difficult to find just where I stand on the war question, it's probably because I'm not sure myself.

I guess I feel that as long as the war in Vietnam is not escalated I'll string along with the administration.

But I don't feel so strongly that my approach is right that I'll demonstrate for it...or criticize the persons who demonstrate against it.

I've joined the "silent majority".

Superintendent cool to governor's reform plan

Concerned parents quiz board about school policy Monday

It was the only part of the educational system in which the children could conveniently be sent home for half days. Teachers are rotated, the board said, because it was unavoidable under the half-day schedule.

Crouse said that there were significant cuts in the Intermediate program, but because the students were not sent home, they were not apparent to the parents.

The amount of money available to the district this year was closely examined and the money spent for windows at the intermediate school questioned.

President Horace Bulen explained that the repairs were unavoidable. Some of the third floor windows were so drafty that it was becoming impossible to heat the rooms, he said, and the longer this project was put off the more money it would have cost. Installation of the $17,000 windows was by school custodians.

Treasurer Mrs. Geraldine Prieskorn lashed out at district members over the amount of money it takes to run the district. In Bay county there is only one school operating for less than 20 mills and it raises 17 mills and has a huge tax base because of Consumers Power Co., she said.

People around here had better start waking up a little bit, she said vehemently. We are operating on 14 mills, less than most of the districts around us, and our five-mill special levy runs out next year. If this doesn't pass, we close the doors, she concluded.

Supt. Crouse declined to speculate on how many mills might be needed for operating the school next year. Much depends on the program now in the State legislature.

I will say, he noted, that local residents should carefully examine the governor's present proposal.

If passed in the present form, the district would be paying more property tax (20 mills) than they are now and would also pay an increased State Income Tax. Besides this, he added, local control would be appreciably diminished.

OK golf with aid of mystery sponsor

With most of the discussion and interest centered around the budget presentation and annual meeting that preceded it, the regular meeting of the Cass City Board of Education Monday at the high school was short, sweet and uneventful.

The board quickly approved golf as another high school competitive sport when it learned that the program would be without cost to the school.

We have a sponsor who will pick up the tab, Supt. Donald Crouse said, but he prefers to remain anonymous. Trustee Elwyn Holwig recalled when golf for the high school was discussed several years ago, it was felt that the program should not be offered until there was a course available locally. We have one now, he said, and I'm all for it.

Besides approving the golf program, the board also adopted two suggestions of the school's auditor. The school will invest money in the student activity account and put the interest into the general fund. A copy of the board minutes will be kept by a board member (Holwig) at all times. In the past the minutes were kept at the school only.

Award $3,200 for crash injuries

Mrs. Gail L. Kirkpatrick, Pinnebog, was awarded damages of $3,200 from Leonard J. Karr, Cagatown, for injuries suffered in an accident July 15, 1966, on M-53, about a half mile west of Bad Axe.

Mrs. Kirkpatrick and her husband had been asking for $75,000 damages. She claimed permanent injuries and her husband asked for damages for the loss of his wife's services.

$549.50 per student, students from outside the district will be admitted tuition-free again this year. There are 17 students at the Intermediate and High School from outside the district.

Don Reid was appointed as a local legislative representative on the Michigan Association of School Boards to report on the governor's reform program.

Jury awards $45,000 in damage suit

Southeastern Michigan Gas Co. has about 25 days to appeal a decision reached Wednesday, Nov. 5, when a Tuscola County jury awarded three plaintiffs a total of $45,000 in Circuit Court in Caro.

The trial stemmed from an explosion that wrecked the home of Mrs. Helen Little and injured Donald Finkbeiner.

Mrs. Little received $15,000. Finkbeiner was awarded $21,000 and the Hartford Insurance Co., $9,000, for a claim paid on Mrs. Little's wrecked home.

One of the telling points for the plaintiff's case as presented by Clinton House, attorney, was the testimony of an expert witness called from Ann Arbor.

The testimony was allowed by Judge Norman Baguley over the constant objections of the defense. The expert claimed that only natural gas could have caused the explosion under the circumstances described by the testimony.

The explosion literally lifted the Little home from its foundation. The plaintiffs contended the explosion was caused by a leak in the gas line 103 feet from the Little home and seeped underground into the Little basement and ignited. The jury deliberated for two hours and 25 minutes before returning its verdict in favor of the plaintiffs.

Edwards pleads innocent of traffic charges

A plea of innocent to four charges was entered for Joseph Edwards, Owendale, Monday when he stood mute when arraigned before Judge Richard Kern in Tuscola County District Court.

Edwards is charged by Cagatown Police Chief Art Nave of careless driving, failure to stop for officer, failure to stop for stop sign and passing in a no passing zone.

Edwards has requested a lawyer. He was released on $500 bond and a trial date is to be set.

Don DeLong questioned the board about the athletic program. We have just nine boys on the varsity and a total of 24 out for JV and varsity together, he said.

Practices are running until after 6 p.m. and several boys that would like to play had to quit, he claimed.

President Bulen promised that every claim would receive careful consideration and thanked the audience for its interest in school affairs.

Declare Dennis Curtis suicide victim Monday

Dennis Lee Curtis, 19, of Deford died Monday, Nov. 10, from self-inflicted gunshot wounds at the home of his sister, Mrs. Thomas Remsing of Lake Orion, where he was staying.

According to the report of Deputy George Enners of the Oakland County Sheriff's Department, the youth died after firing a shotgun into his face. The mishap was reported to the sheriff's department at 2:52 a.m. and he was pronounced dead at the scene.

Funeral services were held Wednesday at the Huston Funeral Home, Caro. The Rev. Horace Murray of Otisville officiated. Burial was in Novesta cemetery.

Surviving are: his mother, Wilda Curtis of Deford; four sisters, Mrs. Thomas Remsing of Lake Orion, Maureen Frederick of Deford and Marsha and Sharon, at home; four brothers, Dale of Cass City, Armond of Decker and Robert and John, at home; a grandparent, Albert Curtis of Caro, and several nieces and nephews.

Voting machines due here to handle 1970 election

Cass City and Elkland township will be voting by machines at the next regular election, Supervisor Maynard McConkey said this week following a decision by the Elkland town board.

The township has voted to rent two voting machines for each of Elkland's precincts at a cost of $1,000.

McConkey said that because of new regulations the township was faced with adding two new precincts for a total of four or adding the machines.

Because of the increased cost of running an election and the problem of securing help, the board decided to switch to machines.

Machines are already in use in Indianfields township and in past elections Indianfields and Caro have been among the first to report returns. Machines are expected to hurry tabulations in Cass City also, McConkey said.

After we have used the machines for a year we will have had an opportunity to evaluate them, the supervisor said, and will be able to decide whether to purchase, rent or abandon them.

In other business concerning the township, McConkey said the board had agreed to pay for operating one of the three lights authorized in the vicinity of the high school. The one light is in the township, the other two in the village.

The board is also about ready to announce members of a five-man zoning committee for the township, McConkey said. The members will be revealed after the next township meeting.

We have heard nothing yet concerning our joint proposal with the village for the purchase of the C. R. Hunt property in the village, he concluded, while discussing township affairs.

ALTHOUGH THERE were plenty of empty seats, the interest in the annual meeting was greater this year than normal. The estimated 25 persons who attended Monday asked the school board penetrating questions about the operation of the school.

SPORTS FANS!

I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

By H.M. Bulen

Few people realize that EVERY basic rule--that's right, every basic rule, in football has been changed over the years--and football is the only sport that has had all its rules altered..Take any fundamental football rule, and you'll see it's been changed...For instance, the field used to be a different length and width...The ball used to be a different shape..Teams used to have 25 players on the field instead of 11..You couldn't pass or run with the ball..Touchdowns used to count 1 point; field goals counted 5, and so it goes..Thus, today's football is really entirely different from the way it used to be.

***

Ever wonder what the football record is for a team trying the most passes in a row without any running plays?..The record is held by SMU, which in a game against Notre Dame in 1951, believe it or not, passed in 27 consecutive plays!

***

Winning the "Coach of the Year" award is a jinx..No "Coach of the Year" in major college football has ever been able to win that award two straight years!..Last year's winner was Joe Paterno of Penn State.

14 Cass City teen-agers among 90 honored at 4-H fall achievement

Fourteen teen-agers from Cass City were among 94 4-H members honored Monday evening, Nov. 10, at the annual 4-H Achievement, held in the Wilber Memorial building, Caro.

The program was planned to show recognition to those 4-H members with outstanding records in the various projects on county, district and state levels. Out of the approximately 90 awards given, The Cass City Livestock and Needles and Kettles Clubs of Cass City were awarded three district awards, two county Key awards and 14 county medals.

The district awards are given to the county member with the highest number of points in a particular project and earns the individual an opportunity to compete for a state award during the State 4-H show held in Lansing each year.

District awards were: Agriculture, George Russell; Dairy, Tom Russell, and Clothing, Margie Clarke.

The 4-H Key award is a highly competitive award given to those members with the best over-all programs and indicate the individual's willingness to be of service to the community, citizenship and character. Those who received this award from Cass City were Margaret Battel and Margie Clarke.

The county medals are sponsored by various companies and the members are selected on an individual project record and includes other activities of a more local nature.

The Ford Motor Co.-awards for achievement, Margie Clarke, Tom Russell.

Coats & Clark Inc.-Clothing award, Donna DeLong, Mary Lee Russell.

General Foods Corp.-Foods and nutrition, Sharon Clarke.

Allis - Chalmers - Horticulture, Carol Clarke, Dianna Fisher.

Sears, Roebuck Foundation-Leadership, Margie Clarke, Tom Russell.

Wilson & Co. Inc.-Sheep, Tom Russell.

Moorman Mfg. Co.-Swine, Richard DeLong.

The Upjohn Co.-Veterinary Science, Robert DeLong.

Handicraft-Susan Brown, Mollie Butler, Carol Clarke.

Citizenship-Margie Clarke.

The county's only State award winner, Rick Colling for his poultry project, was honored. Colling and Kay Wildner received the Danford award, highest in the county.

The program was highlighted by slides by John Duff entitled "IFYE in Honduras."

Cass City High School will have the smallest varsity basketball squad in 25 years with just nine men suited. It's no novelty for Coach Fred Hurlburt. His first year at Lakeville his varsity squad had just seven members and went to the finals of the District tourney.

Mrs. Michelle Zdrojewski, who lives on the west side of South Seeger, says that at their house they never rake the lawn. We don't have to, she explained, because the wind just blows them all away.

In the interest of justice I feel that she should come, rake in hand, to our house on the east side of South Seeger where every single one of those leaves she doesn't rake eventually lands.

With the balmy weather, the only reason that anyone would suspect that deer season will be here Saturday is the glazed look in the eyes of the afflicted.

Note to wives: hunting will probably be as good or better right here at home than it is up north and there really is only one good reason for wanting to take off for Upper Michigan. (Can you tell that I'm not a hunter?)

A year or so ago there were six empty business buildings on Main street and businessmen were concerned. So concerned that the Chamber of Commerce attempted a campaign to get new businesses into the community. That didn't work.

But today there is just one empty business building on the Main stem.

The empty buildings have either been swallowed into larger stores or filled by enterprising new merchants.

The business district today looks better than it has in the last quarter century.

Though educational reform has been receiving a great deal of attention lately, there was hardly a ripple when a Department of Education report on Michigan's vocational rehabilitation program was made public.

The report includes an in-depth study of Michigan's program and a comparison of the program with those in other states.

It showed Michigan spends the equivalent of 35 cents per resident on its vocational rehabilitation programs. This ranks the state 45th among the 54 states and territories covered.

The report also showed Michigan is missing out on millions of federal dollars for rehabilitation programs because the Legislature does appropriate matching funds. During the current year alone, the report said, Michigan will lose $6.8 million in federal funds and it would only take $1.5 million in state money to attract the funds.

The report is the result of a three-year study begun after the Legislature authorized statewide planning grants for vocational rehabilitation in 1965. The State Board of Education appointed the study board, which was headed by Don Galvin, director of vocational rehabilitation in the departments.

More than 1,000 persons participated in the study before it was completed, representing every shade of the spectrum in the area of vocational rehabilitation.

The survey concluded that 230,000 Michigan residents currently are eligible for and could benefit from rehabilitation services of the department. Yet, it said, inadequate funding and personnel result in services to only 7,000 of these people.

The problem is made more acute by the fact an additional 45,000 persons reach employable age each year burdened with a residual limitation that began in childhood or suffer a chronic illness or injury.

"Among all the constraints and limitations under which the rehabilitation program operates, none are more serious than those resulting from insufficient funding," the report said.

"A substantial general state appropriation increase would allow the department the freedom and flexibility to develop programs where they are needed rather than providing additional resources to already well endowed districts," it said.

"An estimated $23.6 million in federal funds has been authorized for release to the state of Michigan for vocational rehabilitation services in fiscal 1971," the report said. "A state appropriation of approximately $5.9 million would be sufficient to capture all available federal funds and would assure a total budget for vocational rehabilitation services of $29.5 million."

"If the Department of Education's Division of Vocational Rehabilitation is expected to adequately serve the disabled and the disadvantaged, the program must be supported by the state and federal government in a manner commensurate with this objective," the report concluded.

BOARD REACTS

Most members of the State Board of Education have been working hard in recent weeks in an effort to kill the Governor's proposal to abolish the board.

The board started out in a bad spot, since the Governor was making that recommendation at the same time Ira Polley was being forced out of office as superintendent of public instruction.

On the footsteps of the Governor's request that the board be abolished came a statement from the board outlining 25 achievements it said were the result of its existence.

Several board members have been seen in Lansing talking to members of the Legislature, trying to secure votes against the proposal.

One recent action came in the form of a board newsletter intended to show that the board members do things at meetings besides calling each other names.

It is entitled "Education...Action" and summarizes actions taken by the board at its meetings.

The first newsletter came out after the Oct. 14-15 meeting at which Dr. John Porter was hired as acting superintendent of public instruction.

Accenting the "action" theme, the newsletter writers underline the verb in each sentence which tells that the board adopted something, approved something, accepted a report, agreed to something, etc.

To err is human—and a great many people find it virtually impossible to forgive.

All You Fat, Lazy Smokers Are Courting Early Death

Are you a middle-aged male, overweight, a heavy smoker of cigarettes, with an elevated blood cholesterol level and high blood pressure?

Are you physically indolent—in a word, lazy—and have any of your close relatives died young from heart disease?

Are you neglecting diabetes?

If you must say yes to three or more of these factors you have an excellent chance to suffer a heart attack, says the Michigan Heart Association.

You are what is known in medical circles as "coronary prone," a condition which will excite no envy among professionals dealing with human illness.

Defining this is simple. The more risk factors you have, the greater your danger, a danger that begins to increase astronomically when you have more than three.

The basis for this portrait of the coronary-prone person is not the result of guesswork. It is, rather, a statistically valid finding from a research project under way since 1949 in Framingham, Mass., and this finding is being verified by other population studies throughout the nation, including one at Tecumseh, Mich.

In Framingham, 5,000 men and women were given thorough physical examinations, and then re-examined over the years. This program is scheduled to continue until 1969.

While the data are not yet complete, analysis gives a rather clear composite picture of those among the 5,000 who have had heart attacks.

Actually, this picture is hopeful because, with three exceptions, the factors which make a man a strong candidate for coronary disease are preventable, or treatable.

Our candidate cannot, of course, change his heredity, sex or age. He is stuck with these and the fact that he has them should provide him with a powerful motive to rid himself of the ones that are preventable. Overweight, cigarette smoking and physical indolence are highly preventable.

Will power and the guidance of a physician can bring down or cause a long-time heavy smoker to shuck his habit... or an overweight person to reduce... or a physically indolent man to get out and take a walk. It may not be easy, but it can be done, says the Michigan Heart Association, a Michigan United Fund agency.

A high cholesterol level presents a tougher problem; no drug has yet been found which can safely and certainly reduce blood fats in all patients.

But there is increasing evidence that diets which replace saturated fats (usually solid at room temperatures) with polyunsaturated fats (mostly fish and certain types of vegetable oils) can be quite helpful.

As to high blood pressure, in most people it can be lowered and controlled with appropriate treatment, often including medication and diet. Here medical advice is essential.

One final point: it is never too late to start a risk reduction effort.

All this does not guarantee that a slim non-smoking woman with low blood fats and no hypertension cannot have a heart attack, the Association explains.

But it does mean that each of the listed factors is associated with America's leading killer, heart attack, and that the more factors present in any one person, the higher his risk.

And that all of us have it within our power to reduce the risk of becoming a victim of heart attacks.

Final rites for accident victim Elaine Prich

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Thursday at St. Peter's Lutheran Church, Bach, for Elaine M. Prich, 20, of Owendale, who died in a one-car mishap early Monday on Williamston Road, 4 1/2 miles southeast of Owendale.

The Owendale High School senior evidently lost control of her car and it left the road and hit a tree stump. She was pronounced dead at the scene from multiple injuries.

Her untimely death has caused the Owendale Senior Class to postpone its class play, originally scheduled for Thursday and Friday, for one week.

The girl was discovered at about 4 a.m. Monday after the girls' father, Albert, started a search with a neighbor boy when his daughter did not come home.

The wreck was discovered by the neighbor. Miss Prich was born July 23, 1952, at Bad Axe. She was a member of the band and active on the yearbook and school paper staffs.

Surviving are her parents, a brother, Brian, and two sisters, Shirley and Lynn, all at home; her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. George Prich Sr. and Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Neumann, all of Sebawaing. The Rev. F. J. Sattelmeyer will officiate at the final rites and burial will be in the church cemetery.

One person was injured in one of four minor accidents reported to the Tuscola County Sheriff's Department during the week.

Mrs. Anastasia Lasceski, 42, Kinde, was injured in a two-car mishap Thursday on Cemetery Road, 100 feet north of the Cass City Village limits. She was taken to Hubbard Memorial Hospital in Bad Axe for treatment.

Mrs. Lasceski was a passenger in a car driven by Gordon Albert Lasceski, 49, of Kinde. According to a report by Cass City Police Chief Carl Palmar, a car driven by Charles David Hoy, 79, of Caro made a left turn in front of the Lasceski vehicle.

Hoy was ticketed for failure to yield right-of-way.

The right side of a vehicle driven by William J. Rocheleau, 67, of Gagetown was damaged in a one-car crash on M-81, near Gerow road Thursday morning.

Rocheleau reported he went to sleep while driving and went into a roadside ditch.

Eddie George Palacki, 27, of Cass City reported he killed a deer while driving on Cemetery Road near River Road in Novesta Township Friday.

The deer darted in front of the car while he was driving at 7:30 p.m.

No injuries were reported in a crash Saturday on Bay City-Forestville Road, a half mile west of Hurds Corner Road.

David Allen Peters, 23, reported that his car hit some dirt in the road and he lost control and went into a ditch at about 1 a.m.

A passenger in the car, Barry Kuhl, 21, was also uninjured.

Jones opens new appliance store

Dick Jones who has operated Richard's TV Service from his home in Decker for several years, this week announced the opening of a new store at 6523 Main street, Cass City.

Jones said that he will feature a complete line of Admiral televisions, radios and appliances while continuing his television repair service. The new store will be open for the first time Friday when a grand opening is planned to acquaint persons in the area with the new store and its owner.

Today is when we build lots of tomorrows out of yesterdays.

A snowmobile and a parked car owned by Richard Wright were damaged in an unusual accident Thursday.

Three snowmobiles on the back of a pickup truck driven by Robert Edwin Wilson, 17, of Oakland tipped off as the truck was rounding the corner of Pine and Seeger.

One of the snowmobiles hit the Wright car causing slight damage to the car and the snowmobile.

Stuart Atwell said that the three units were part of a large shipment hauled from Chicago for dealers.

The units traveled all the way here without incident, he said, and those I ordered were delivered before the trouble occurred as the driver was on his way to make delivery of the last three machines to a Detroit area dealer.

Huron group elects officers

The Home of the Aged group for Huron county met at the Standard Building in Bad Axe Thursday, Nov. 6, with 27 in attendance.

It was decided to change the name of the group to Huron County Home Care.

Election of officers was held with Mary Severn of Elkton named president. Clara Webster of Caseville is vice-president; Veronica LaBelle of Bad Axe, treasurer, and Marjorie Gottschalk of Bad Axe, secretary.

Mrs. Iva Hayward, Home Finder for the Bureau of Social Services, and Mrs. Barbara Lock of Port Huron, a Social Work Consultant for the Division of Adult Health, were guest speakers.

Edith Allen of Pigeon, hair stylist for the homes, also attended.

The next meeting will be held at the Standard Building in Bad Axe Thursday, Dec. 11, at 1 p.m. with a potluck Christmas party.

DONAHUE TRIAL

that it was a rainy night.

The combine was being driven by Russell Vermilya and was in Wisner township on its way to the Donahue farm here from Prescott.

The plaintiff claims that it was not lighted.

In the crash Vermilya was injured.

The case is being tried before a jury and Judge James Churchill is presiding.

Pitfalls seen in proposed State cigarette tax hike

To the casual observer it might appear raising taxes will bring in a fixed amount of revenue and that each additional penny or percentage of tax would result in an equal increase in revenue.

That, however, isn't the case. This truism of government financing has come to the fore again with the debate over Gov. William G. Milliken's proposal to raise the cigarette tax 5 cents per pack.

If the tax were raised by only 3 cents, his aides say, it would bring in an additional $11 million for each penny raise per year. But, if it is raised by the 5 cents asked for, the yield will be only $9 million for each penny rise, or $45 million instead of the $55 million which would be realized if the $11 million per penny rate were true.

Government officials say there are several reasons for this.

The first is the fact that as cigarettes grow more expensive, some people reduce smoking because of the cost. Another factor is that persons living near the state border will drive across the border into a state with a lower cigarette tax to buy large quantities of cigarettes.

When this happens, the state not only doesn't get the increase it loses what it was getting originally. In Michigan's case this is 7 cents per pack. The other factor is one that many citizens do not consider: bootlegging.

Eastern states such as New York have long had problems with bootlegging of cigarettes from states such as North Carolina, which had no cigarette tax until this year. New York has a 12 cent tax, and a bootlegger with a car full of tax free cigarettes can undercut the New York price and still make a lot of money.

In testimony before the Senate Taxation Committee recently, a New York tobacco dealer said currently more than one million bootlegged packs of cigarettes are sold in New York state every day. Morris Weintraub said this is costing the state of New York $50 million a year in decreased revenues.

Committee chairman Harry DeMaso of Battle Creek has scheduled a meeting for this coming weekend (Nov. 1) with New York officials to discuss the problems of bootlegging and its relationship to higher taxes.

Weintraub, who is managing director of the Wholesale Tobacco Distributors of New York, told DeMaso's committee raising the cigarette tax would be "opening Pandora's box."

If the 5 cent raise is enacted, it would put Michigan's cigarette tax at double the Indiana tax of 6 cents, giving Michigan residents more impetus to drive to Indiana to buy cigarettes.

If the Michiganders drove to Indiana, they would purchase other things, such as groceries, there and deprive the state of some of its sales tax revenues as well, opponents argue.

And they say the bootlegging of cigarettes from Kentucky, where the tax is only 2.5 cents per pack, would be very much a reality, since Interstate highways now make it a short drive between Kentucky and Michigan.

Should the Legislature decide to take Milliken's advice and raise the tax, however, Michigan won't be alone.

At the last count, 18 states have raised their cigarette taxes this year and more than one-half of them are now collecting at least 10 cents a pack.

And despite the arguments against raising cigarette taxes, states bordering the low tax states do have high cigarette taxes.

For instance, Tennessee has a 13 cent a pack levy despite the fact it is bordered by Kentucky and its 2.5 cent rate and North Carolina and its 2 cent rate.

If all this seems confusing, it is only because it is. In taxation, as in other fields, every action sets into action a series of reactions and counteractions. The trick in this problem is to select the most effective tax action.

TO SET SPEED LIMIT AT 45 PER HOUR ON M-81, NEAR REESE

Speed limits of 45 miles an hour will be established soon on M-81 at the Saginaw-Tuscola county line, just east and west of Reese, the Department of State Highways said today.

The speed zones will extend from the west village limits westerly for 1,500 feet, and from East Street easterly for 2,000 feet. The existing speed limit of 35 miles an hour through Reese will not be changed.

The new limits are the result of a study by the Highway Department and the State Police, in cooperation with the village police chief.

The limits are authorized in a traffic control order signed by Henrik E. Stafseth, state highway director, and Col. Fredrick E. Davids, state police director. They will be enforced as soon as speed limit signs are posted.

James E. Hall pleads innocent

James Edwin Hall, 29, stood mute and a plea of not guilty was entered for him on a charge of unarmed robbery of $28 from Ernest Hagerdorn, Clio, when he appeared before Judge Norman Baguley in Tuscola County Circuit Court.

Hall's bond was continued and a trial date will be set.

FULL COUNT

Life must be worth living—the cost has tripled and quadrupled and we still hang on.

SOLUTION

Highway deaths will decrease only when the motive power ceases to regulate the speed.

DAMAGES AWARDED

The defense conceded that Karr was negligent in the accident and the case stemmed around the amount of damages.

The defense claimed that Mrs. Kirkpatrick did not suffer permanent injuries in the crash. Attorneys for both sides agreed that Mrs. Kirkpatrick was entitled to $558 for doctor and hospital bills and the loss of her car.

The jury ruled that Mrs. Kirkpatrick's husband, Robert, was not entitled to any damages.

"Well, it was either run into this truck or have an accident!"

Silent sergeants hurt image

BY JIM FITZGERALD

It's 24 years since I was an army sergeant but I still wear my hair in the standard topknot fashion, with most of my ugly skull showing through. I was reminded of this recently when pictures of Sgt. William Wooldridge and William Higdon began appearing in the newspapers.

These guys are right out of Central Casting. The photos showed only their few hairs, many stripes and brave jaws. But you can bet a 3-day pass you could cut your finger on the crease in their pants. They always stand stiff and bark yessir and nossir to officers. Back at the barracks, their beds are made so tight you could bounce a bowling ball off the blanket.

Such sergeants are made of the stern stuff required to keep America safe. They make Little Old Ladies feel secure and they furnish the raw material from which John Wayne fashions Academy Award nominations.

Soldiers like Higdon and Wooldridge are usually pictured on recruiting posters. But here they are on the front page and the headline says "Sergeants Take Fifth in Kickback Scandal."

Goodness gracious. Is nothing sacred?

Higdon and Wooldridge appeared before a U.S. Senate investigation committee. They are accused of having their meaty paws in Uncle Sam's pockets. It is charged that millions of bucks were swiped in a sweet racket wrapped around the operation of army service clubs in the U.S. and overseas. Given a chance to deny the accusations, the sergeants refused to answer for fear they might incriminate themselves.

They have a perfect right to clam up, of course. It is one of the rights they fought for in Vietnam or Colombia or Little Rock. But what about the image of the hard-core American sergeant? Can you see John Wayne hiding behind the 5th amendment when questioned by some lousy pinko senator? I guess not.

And, for gosh sakes, what about the image of the crew haircut?

Everyone knows that long-haired boys are shiftless punks who shouldn't be allowed in school unless they're playing guitar at the senior prom. Some of my best over-40 friends can judge a boy's character, ambition, relatives, friends and blood type simply by his haircut. This saves a lot of trouble. College professors have created elaborate psychological tests which cannot reveal that much about a person. But you and Spiro know what a bunch of weirdos those professors are. Some of 'em even wear beards and carry signs.

All responsible parents raise their children to understand that the more hair a man has, the less likely he is to be elected commander of the Legion unit. But now comes some crewcut sergeants to fog up our prejudices.

What's the answer?

Well, I just remembered why I bucked so hard for sergeant's stripes 24 years ago. It was so I could be admitted to the Sergeants Club at Camp Polk, La. That's where all the action was—booze, girls and gambling. I gained a lot of bad, longtime habits to go with my short hair. And my conduct has been somewhat suspect ever since.

I think I'll be a good boy, turn over a new leaf, and let my hair grow.

Alfred Ballweg ends long career as agriculture agent

ENDS CAREER — 33 years as an extension agent will end for Alfred Ballweg, right, when he retires at the end of the year. His replacement is William Bortel, now ag agent in Gratiot county.

A long career in county extension work will end this year when Alfred Ballweg, 59, steps down as Tuscola County Extension Agent after 14 years.

Ballweg said that he is retiring to take a well-deserved opportunity to escape the day-to-day pressure of the work of an extension agent.

While he is retiring as agent, the comparatively young Ballweg said that he will have several projects that will keep him busy after Dec. 31.

They will be agricultural related jobs, he said. And I also have a farm in North Dakota to look after, Ballweg said.

Although only 59, Ballweg will have completed 33 years as an extension agent when he retires. Nineteen of these years have been in Tuscola county. Before he came to Caro he served 14 years in North Dakota. He also was an extension advisor in Germany for six months.

His replacement is William Bortel, agricultural agent from Gratiot county for the past 10 years.

Although ending his career with the extension office, Ballweg will not be severing his ties with the county.

He built a new home in Caro in 1967 and plans to stay right there in the foreseeable future. He has a son in high school and a daughter in college.

Ballweg can't point to one single event as the highlight of his career. Just say that while I was in Tuscola county I had a most interesting and challenging job and that there are no finer people anywhere than those that I have been privileged to work with.

It is a fine note on which to end a career.

BEHIND THE COUNTER

Geriatric

Medicare patients can now afford doctors and hospitals, but some of them can't afford to get well. At least, that's the theory of Dr. Don R. Lipsitt, of Harvard Medical School.

The people he's talking about have chronic and ill-defined problems their doctors can't do much about. Such conditions are often related to deep, prolonged and unrecognized depression.

The doctor may feel frustrated because he can't help the patient to feel better—or he may feel it's not a "real" illness. Most physicians are trained to deal with acute conditions that can be treated, and this may be their basis for deciding who "has a right" to their time or to medical care.

"Some complaints legitimately command the doctor's interest, while others do not," Dr. Lipsitt said.

He discards the idea that these patients "enjoy their misery" or "need to suffer." However, they do respond when allowed to talk about their problems. "Perhaps they are satisfied with the visits their doctors call useless," he said. "Perhaps they hope repeated contacts will reveal an explanation and a remedy for what ails them."

In going from doctor to doctor, the patient learns it is his symptoms that entitle him to medical attention—he is eligible for care only as long as he's ill. Then he literally "can't afford to be well," Dr. Lipsitt concluded.

He sees value in assuring the older patient of continued care and attention regardless of an illness; then his attention can be directed to more constructive ways of dealing with the underlying problem.

Uncle Tim From Tyre Says:

Dear Mister Editor:

Ed Doolittle was in charge of the hole service Saturday night at the country store. He opened the session by saying he had heard of a fellow that allus put a dollar, a dime and a note in the church collection for foreign missions. The note said, "the dime is fer them heathuns, and the dollar is fer the missionaries to git it to 'em."

Ed allowed he wanted to pitch part of his sermon for the evening around that thought. The reason we got such high federal taxes today, said Ed, is cause all the counties and all the states in the union is allus running to Washington ever time they need somepun. The states demand "states rights," but they spend half their time begging the federal Government to take their rights and give them money, was Ed's words.

Mr. Republican Ed said it plain that he is all fer states rights, but he is just as strong fer all the Governments that use his money to see what it's used fer. Folks is fooling themselves, said Ed, when they think they can beg all them federal grants with no strings hooked on to tell them how to spend 'em.

As strong as he was fer Nixon getting to be President, Ed said, he was a heap less than happy about the way things has been going. Ed said he thought Nixon was a real Republican, but he now has decided he is like a windmill. He turns which ever way the wind is blowing.

The way it is now, Ed went on, we send a dollar to Washington and we are lucky to git a dime back. And what makes him even sicker, Ed allowed, is that we grab that dime like we're gitting somepun fer nothing. Ed had saw where if a private charity outfit has to spend a dollar to give away a dollar it is mighty pore business, but he was of the opinion the federal Government builds fires with money and then runs the smoke through so many pipes the pore taxpayer never feels the heat.

Ed said this idea of the Nixon Administration about giving a drop from the great money bucket back to the states reminds him of the story about the fellow that rewarded his dog fer faithful service by giving the dog a piece of his own tail. He kept feeding the back end of the dog to the front end till the dog ate himself up. And the story goes that ever time the fellow give the dog a bite of dog the dog licked his chops fer more.

The tail has been wagging the dog so long in this federal aid business that we're running out of dog, was Ed's words. And whenever Government tries to cut back, folks holler fer more services. Zeke Grubb's benediction was that the only difference he sees in Administrations is the Republicans pull down their shades, and the Democrats ought to.

Yours truly,
Uncle Tim

Gary Ross in Vietnam

Equipment Operator Third Class Gary L. Ross, USN, son of the Jim Hewitts of rural Cass City, is serving with U. S. Naval Mobile Construction Battalion Seven in Vietnam. In Vietnam Seabees build air-strips, temporary housing, port facilities, fuel storage tanks, drill water wells and construct other facilities as they become necessary. Occasionally they become targets for enemy snipers. When this happens the builders become defenders and put to use the skills acquired in combat training. The first Navy Medal of Honor recipient in Vietnam was a Seabee. Ross's address is: Gary Ross EO3, B556402, U.S. Navy, A Co., MCB 7, FPO San Francisco, Calif. 96801.

Snowmobiling: a new 4-H project

Snowmobiling is now an official 4-H project that combines recreation with learning about safety and small engines. With about 75,000 licensed snowmobiles in Michigan, young people are learning that snowmobiles offer new adventures for wintertime sports. The project is expected to develop skills in handling and maintaining a snowmobile, appreciation for the necessity of laws governing snowmobiling, interest and enthusiasm for the out-of-doors in winter, and understanding of interrelationships of people working together. Through this 4-H project, youths will become familiar with the snowmobile. They will learn about maintenance and repairs, safe operating procedures, the code of ethics for snowmobilers, and the proper dress for snowmobiling. They will also plan and lay out snowmobile trails, and learn to load and transport the snowmobile safely. The snowmobile 4-H project makes an excellent family project. Teaching materials and more information are available from the County Extension Office.

IN RECOGNITION of its "superior representation," Auten Motor Sales, in Cass City, has been named one of the outstanding Ford dealerships in the nation. The award is given to those dealers who excel in managing their business, merchandising their products, serving their customers and providing quality franchises. Ford's Lansing district sales manager, J. C. Sutherland, (left) presented the award to dealer Charles Auten.

You can't miss with electric heat.

For openers, it comes with a three-year operating cost guarantee. That's in writing. And is issued only by Edison-Approved Electric Heat Contractors.

If the operating cost doesn't live up to the guarantee, Edison will work with your contractor to see that it does. If things still don't work out, the equipment will be removed and your money will be refunded.

If you'd like to know more about clean, quiet, flameless electric heat, we'll have an Edison-Approved Electric Heat Contractor call on you. Naturally, there's no obligation.

Convert your house to the home of your dreams with modern electric heat.

"The operating cost of our electric heating system is guaranteed in writing," says Cecil Hanes of Orchard Lake.

Mrs. Olin Bouck and Mrs. Ronald Fox were in Sandusky Friday to attend the Sanilac County Women's Meeting. Rev. Father McEachin of Harbor Beach talked on pornography. The next meeting will be Dec. 5 and it will be the annual Christmas party. All Farm Bureau Women and guests are invited. Mrs. Bouck received a gift as retiring secretary. Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Fueter visited Mr. and Mrs. Vern Galloway Saturday evening. A number from this vicinity including Mr. and Mrs. Henry McLellan and Jim and Mr. and Mrs. Olin Bouck attended the Nicholas-Stine wedding Saturday evening in Cass City. Mr. and Mrs. Harold Voorhies of Troy visited Clara and Alma Vogel of Caro Sunday. They also called on Mrs. R. B. Spencer at Hills and Dales Hospital and attended the funeral of Charles Bond.

Mrs. Donald Becker spent Monday evening visiting Mr. and Mrs. Olin Bouck.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester O'Dell of Ashley and family visited in the Elmer Fueter home Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Battel and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Battel received word of the birth of a son to Mr. and Mrs. John B. Battel of Dayton, Ohio, on Nov. 8. The baby weighed eight pounds, six and a half ounces and is named Michael Andrew.

Fraser Ladies' Aid met Wednesday. Dinner was served to about 45 persons. One quilt was finished in the afternoon.

The newly refurbished sanctuary of the Fraser church was dedicated Sunday afternoon. A coffee hour was held following the services. About 100 persons attended.

ONE FOR THE ROAD

Cigarette tax

invites bootlegging

By Dan Marlowe

A controversial aspect of Governor William Milliken's education proposals is his designation of an additional 5¢ per-pack cigarette tax to help finance the program.

Michigan wholesalers and retailers were quick to point out via a news release from their Michigan Tobacco and Candy Distributors and Vendors Association that cigarettes are not only subject to a cigarette tax at present, but also to the 4% Sales Tax, an example of tax on tax.

Moreover, they point out that it is discriminatory to expect the 1/3 of the Michigan people who smoke to assume the tax burden of the remainder who do not smoke. Their argument is that increasing costs of education should be borne by all taxpayers, not just those who use one commodity or other.

Michael Spaniolio, executive secretary of the Association, quotes figures which show that the present Michigan cigarette tax of $80 million exceeds specific taxes on beer, wine and liquor by $20 million. The proposed 5-cent increase would make the cigarette tax double these other taxes.

The law of diminishing returns also comes into play. Wholesalers and vendors feel that such an increase will result in loss of business to Michigan from tax evasion and flow of business to adjacent states where the tax is much less. Indiana has a 6¢-per-pack tax; Kentucky's is only 2 1/2¢. Michigan's proposed 12¢-per-pack tax would certainly invite the bootlegging of cigarettes into the state.

Governor Nelson Rockefeller of New York State admitted recently that a 5¢-per-pack increase in New York in 1963 resulted in a $40 million loss to New York City and State last year. Organized crime has taken over a big share of the cigarette business in New York. It's obvious that where a $1-a-carton difference exists—as would be the case between Kentucky vs. Michigan cigarettes—it's an open invitation to cigarette bootleggers to move in.

The State of Washington has an 11¢-per-pack tax on cigarettes, while the State of Oregon's tax is 4¢. Washington has a higher population than Oregon, and a higher per capita income, yet per capita cigarette sales in Oregon are 67% higher than in Washington, solely because of the price differential.

Governor Milliken undoubtedly feels that he has a popular issue in increasing cigarette taxes due to the industry's current problems in the area of health, yet the fact remains that the present tax—let alone an increase—hits persons of lower income with greater force than those better situated.

A loss of business to Michigan wholesalers and retailers from tax evasion and flow of business to adjacent states is hardly good business. A better way should be found to finance the governor's education program.

And this column is being written by a man who never smoked a cigarette in his life.

26 attend meeting of Legion Auxiliary

Twenty-six were present Monday evening for the monthly meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary.

During the business meeting, with Mrs. Philip McComb presiding, members voted a contribution to the United Fund drive. Thirty-eight gifts for the Veterans Hospital Christmas gift shop program have been selected by rehabilitation chairman, Mrs. Wilbur Morrison, and mailed to the Battle Creek hospital.

Mrs. Betty Cline of Port Huron, Seventh District Association president, was a guest and spoke at the completion of the business meeting. Mrs. Cline is the former Betty Hobson of Cass City.

Games and refreshments were enjoyed at the close of the meeting.

The December meeting will also be a Christmas party.

Never accept free gifts if you really value your freedom.

The world was better off when most theories were progressive, but non-explosive.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION General

$5,000 project completely paid

94 at dedication of Fraser Presbyterian Church

THE REV. JOHN NIPPER shown with new pulpit and cross.

NEW PEWS are part of the new interior of the Church.

Members and friends of the Fraser Presbyterian church, 94 of them, attended a special dedication Sunday following the completion of extensive remodeling of the church's interior.

The $5,000 project was completed with memorial gifts from members and with $2,000 raised for the project by the Ladies Aid. The entire program was completed on a pay-as-you-go basis.

The remodeling included:

New pews with cushion seats. A new enlarged church chancel with new lectern and pulpit. A large framed cross behind the chancel.

New fixtures and new carpeting throughout the church. A new railing and baptismal font built by Henry McLellan.

The remodeling enables the church to still use the building on M-53 that has served the rural congregation for 93 years, the Rev. John Nipper said.

During its long history the building has been remodeled twice and added to once. The first remodeling came in 1918 and the second in 1930.

An addition of about 450 square feet for classrooms for the Sunday School has been the only enlargement of the building.

Records of the early history of the church are vague, Nipper said, because they were lost in a fire.

It is known that a Rev. Fraser was the first pastor of the church.

The congregation today has about 100 members and 57 families. It is served by Nipper as part of a circuit with the Uby Presbyterian Church.

The circuit is the first pastorate for Nipper. He is a native of California and came to Michigan from the West. He served a year at a church in Oregon before he was ordained. He is married to the former Charlene MacRae of Cass City.

Pvt. R. B. Cybulski stationed in Korea

Pvt. Ronald B. Cybulski, son of Mr. and Mrs. Steve Cybulski of Cass City, took basic training at Fort Knox, Ky. From there he was stationed at Fort Polk, La., for eight weeks of A.I.T.

After graduating from A.I.T., he spent a 15-day leave with his parents.

He was then sent to Fort Bliss, Texas, for three weeks of Redeye Gunners training and to an overseas replacement station at Fort Lewis, Wash., where he remained four days before going to Ton Duong, Korea.

His new address is: Pvt. Ronald B. Cybulski, 384-50-4165, H.H.C. 1/31, Inf. (Redeye), A.P.O. San Francisco, Calif. 96207.

Skydiving is not dangerous

Paratroopers used to shout "geronimo" when they jumped from airplanes before they pulled the ripcord. This was done in order to allow plenty of time for clearing the plane before the parachute blossomed out. They wait considerably longer than that now. In the sport of skydiving the parachutist jumps from the airplane and falls clear for some time in a free fall descent. Parachuting has become a big sport and a big attraction since World War II. And, it has become stylized. Points are given for turning, twisting, forming stars, for maneuvering in company with other skydivers, etc.

In 1510 A.D. the great genius Leonardo DeVinci conceived of the idea of a parachute, but it wasn't until 279 years later--about 1789 A.D.--that an exhibition of parachute jumping was given, using umbrella-shaped parachutes made of canvas with a hole in the center--not too different from those in use today.

To execute a jump, a skydiver first decides on the altitude--usually 7500 feet. From this height he gets 30 seconds for his free fall. As he leaves the plane he falls down towards earth in a spread eagle position until reaching opening altitude.

Despite appearances skydiving is not a dangerous sport. The United States government says that only 1/10 of one per cent of the people who parachute are ever injured or killed in military operations outside of war zones. The record of a neighboring locale shows that of over 600 first time civilian students, only two had received broken legs, one a broken arm, and another a broken ankle during a three-year interval.

Parachutists fall at the rate of 125 miles per hour. The chute reaches top speed after 12 seconds and then covers a thousand feet in five and one half seconds. The sensation of falling is rather hard to explain. As one skydiver told me, "When you jump from higher altitudes the ground actually doesn't seem to be coming at you fast at all. Of course, when you get down near opening altitude, or lower, you get what they call "ground rush." The ground seems to be coming at you at a tremendous rate."

The minimum age for jumping is 16 with parental consent. Anyone above twenty-one years of age can jump.

Before the first jump is made, five to eight hours of training is given a new student. It takes that long to learn how to do a door exit, make parachute landing falls, learn to steer the parachute and operate the reserve. The student also learns how to pack a chute. He must be able to pack his own before he jumps. All reserve chutes have to be packed by experts and must be repacked every 60 days.

A jumpsuit is worn to protect the jumper. It flares out when he is falling so it gives more surface area and thus more chance to do backflips, turns or whatever.

Skydivers use an altimeter to tell them when to open their parachutes. The red area on an altimeter starts at 2500 feet. Some skydivers use a stop watch. From 7500 feet they will get 30 seconds of free fall time. So, when the stop watch indicates that 30 seconds has passed they pull the rip-cord. More experienced jumpers jump from as high as they can. Naturally, the higher they go the longer they fall, and the more fun they have. Many times skydivers have gone for records on high altitude jumps where they have had to carry oxygen. Oxygen is recommended for any jump over 10,000 feet. These particular jumps are called "halo" jumps--but not for the reason you might think! It's because they are High Altitude, Low Opening jumps.

Wind, cloud coverage and other weather is a big factor. Skydivers have to operate by the same rules as regular aircraft. They have to stay clear of the clouds. They don't jump through them because they don't know what they will meet when they come out on the other side!

It's safer and more economical. Fertilize now.

Why is it safer to fertilize before planting season? Well, you'll be sure you've got the job done. The nutrients your young plants will need will be there. Wet Springs won't slow you down so much. You'll be able to use more of the good days for planting.

How is it more economical? You don't take a chance of paying higher prices for fertilizer or equipment or men.

Haste makes waste. There's always a rush at planting time. Let us help you get ready now.

Simple solution to rising car prices.

The Simple Machine. Ford Maverick. Still $1995***

Our small car has scored a big success. And the reason is simple--solid value. Now, with other car prices going up all around it, Maverick is going its own Maverick way. It still costs $1995* and that's still a small price to pay for a car that's simple to drive... simple to park... simple to service... simple to repair... and simple to own.

Simple to drive. Turn on the engine and you turn loose the power of 105 horses. Yet Maverick rivals the economy imports in gas mileage.

Simple to park. Maverick can U-turn in a tighter circle than the leading import. It can nip around corners and slide into tight parking spaces with amazing agility.

For more information about Maverick see your Ford Dealer or write: Maverick Catalog, Dept. N-1, P.O. Box 1503, Dearborn, Michigan 48121.

Simple to service. Maverick is easier and less expensive to maintain than an economy import. Maverick requires fewer oil changes, fewer chassis lubrications, too. You save time and money.

Simple to repair. The Maverick Owner's Manual has 24 pages of instruction for routine maintenance jobs you can do yourself like change spark plugs, adjust ignition timing, and more. Fenders and grille can be replaced in a matter of minutes.

Simple to own. The simple machine can start solving money problems for you right now. Check it out at your Ford Dealer's. The price that made it famous now makes it a better buy than ever.

*Ford's suggested retail price for the car. White sidewall tires are not included; they are $32.00 extra. Since dealer preparation charges (if any), transportation charges and state and local taxes vary, they are not included, nor is extra equipment that is specially required by state laws.

Too busy describes how many of us feel. This heavy schedule often centers around the children's activities such as Scouts, piano lessons, 4-H, PTA.

And because we feel busy, we think we must be caring well for our family.

But is our time really being spent for the activities that bring happiness and personal growth to the family members? Look for clues to tell you if you are neglecting one area of great need — love.

Does your child's smiling and soap-shiny face come for your good night kiss? Does he know that you really love him and enjoy being with him?

Does your child feel loved when he returns from his busy day at school? Does he know that it is he, himself, and not his performance that is your primary concern?

Does the atmosphere at home allow for his mistakes as well as success. Can you share his experiences without belittling his limited knowledge or skill?

Do honesty and fair play so permeate your attitudes that he is assured of your continued support and understanding even when he learns (from you or others) that he has done something wrong for which he must accept responsibility?

Guiding, with love, is the primary role of parents. Are you too busy?

Seek harmony in new MSU osteopathic school

OSTEOPATHS ADVANCE

As far as members of the osteopathic profession are concerned, 1969 has been quite a year.

At the start of the year there were more than 2,000 osteopaths in the state. But, at the same time, they had no schools to train osteopaths in Michigan.

Now, one school is in operation in Pontiac and the Legislature has authorized Michigan State University to organize a school of osteopathy. State Rep. Josephine Hunsinger, D-Detroit, has been the chief legislative supporter of the osteopaths and thinks the situation is "wonderful".

***

The two-college status now enjoyed by Michigan osteopaths was not planned and almost certainly will end soon.

It is expected that when Michigan State's osteopathic program is in full swing, the Pontiac school will be closed and the students and facilities transferred to East Lansing.

The fledgling Michigan College of Osteopathic Medicine (MCOM) at Pontiac was created only after the osteopaths grew weary of waiting for legislative action. After waiting so long, they went ahead and built a $500,000 basic science building at Pontiac with donations.

The school opened its doors this fall with an initial enrollment of 16 students.

Meanwhile, the Legislature passed a bill to give the school $240,000 in state funds and a second bill to create a state-supported osteopathic school at one of the three state medical colleges.

The $240,000 appropriation bill was vetoed by Gov. William G. Milliken, who then signed the bill to affiliate an osteopathic school with one of the three state medical schools.

Michigan State was awarded the osteopathic school this fall by the State Board of Education, which had been given the authority to make the final decision.

The other two eligible schools were the University of Michigan, which said privately it didn't want the school, and Wayne State, whose conditions for acceptance weren't acceptable to the osteopaths.

At both places the existing medical schools have been in operation for a while and are established, but MSU is just starting its medical school. It's no secret that most physicians and osteopaths could learn to love each other more, especially the older ones. The opportunity for harmony at a new medical school is considered better.

LESINSKI FACES DECISION

The Chief Judge of the Michigan Court of Appeals, former Lt. Gov. T. John Lesinski, is faced with a dilemma as he contemplates his future.

Lesinski thoroughly enjoys his job on the Appeals Court and there aren't many things that would prompt him to leave it. One of those things, however, might be a seat on the State Supreme Court.

And next year is an election year with two of the justices on the high court up for reelection.

Lesinski candidly admits he is thinking about running for the high court, but he hasn't come close to making up his mind yet.

Saving That Deer for Dinner

Good cleaning and rapid cooling are two "musts" in preparing a freshly-killed deer for the tenderest, tastiest results. Let's suppose you've just bagged your first white-tail. What now? Assuming your deer is dead, first put your rifle back on "SAFE" and attach the validation tag to the animal. Cut open the entire body cavity, moving from between the hind legs almost to the base of the neck (1). Insert the knife with the cutting edge UP and use your first and second fingers to hold the skin and muscles UP away from the innards. Next, remove the innards, working down from the neck to the tail. Turn the deer belly down and let it drain. Afterwards, tie the fore legs between the antlers or beside the head (2) so it will be easier to drag the deer to camp. In camp, prop the carcass open (3) and protect it from sun, rain, and flies in warm weather. If the weather is warmish (above 55 degrees), head for a locker plant or your home freezer. For the trip home, carry the carcass atop your car or across the trunk (4). Many a venison dinner has been overheated and spoiled on the front fender of a car.

Check Points for Deer Studies

Successful hunters can help Michigan's deer studies and learn more about the whitetails they're taking home by stopping this season at any of the roadside biological checking stations star-marked on this map. It takes Department of Natural Resources game men only a few moments to examine each deer and record the information they need—just the right amount of time for hunters to enjoy a "good stretch". Under a new phase of fact-finding, game men at these stations will collect fat tissues from about 200 deer for pesticide studies. DNR biologists do not suspect a problem of pesticides in Michigan deer, but they want to find out the relative residue levels of DDT, Dieldrin, and other such "hard" pesticides in whitetails of various ages from different parts of the state. Studies of the samples taken this season will show whether deer accumulate pesticide residues as they age, and give DNR game men a starting point from which deer may be checked for pesticide levels in the future. The DNR's checking station at the Straits of Mackinac Bridge will be manned for deer studies during the November 18-23 period. The other four check points will be operated during the November 16-18 and November 22-23 periods. —Michigan Department of Natural Resources

Impala's hidden persuaders:

①350-cu.-in. engine

A new more powerful standard 250-hp V8 makes the 1970 Impala move with all the more assurance. On good ol' regular gas.

②Anti-theft column lock

A locking system is built right into the steering column. When you take your key with you, you lock not only your ignition but your steering wheel as well.

③Aluminized exhaust system

It simply means that your original muffler, tailpipe and exhaust are going to last longer than you'd probably expect them to.

Fair enough?

④Side guard beams

They look like highway guard rails, and they're built into both sides of the car for extra protection in case of impact. Not too many cars have them.

⑤Inner fenders

Up inside every fender is another fender to protect against slush and mud and help keep your Impala looking young.

⑥Flush and dry

We build the car so that rain and wash water can run down through the inside of the rocker panels, then out. Air follows to do the drying.

⑦Full Coil suspension

Huge coil springs at all four wheels are four big reasons why a Chevrolet Impala rides smoother and quieter than a low-priced car has any right to.

On the move.
