

State vacillates: school to require more money

Supt. Donald Crouse reported to trustees of Cass City School District the details of a school financial educational reform bill as outlined in a special meeting by Rep. Roy L. Spencer.

The report was submitted at the regular meeting of the Board of Education Monday night at Cass City High School and it sparked a discussion of the school's financial picture and what may be ahead for local taxpayers.

While anxiously awaiting school financial reform on the State level, neither the board or the administration is planning on it at this time. In fact, this uncertainty is one of the major problems facing Crouse and the board. Just what the financial picture will be for 1970-71.

One thing sure: the cost of running the school will be greater than it was in fiscal 1969-70 if a full program is run.

Without any increase in base wages, teachers' salaries will cost some $30,000 more next year. The money would be paid for increments in salaries granted for teaching service and for the extra teachers needed if full time classes in the grades are restored next fall.

Realistically, in addition to these increases there will be increases in basic salaries paid.

Presently the school is operating on 14 mills, not enough for a full program this year and well under enough to run a program next year.

Nine of the 14 mills raised now comes from an allocation from the county and cannot be changed. The remaining five mills is a special voted operating tax. This five mills expires this year.

At least one member of the board has stated for the record that without the five mills it would be impossible to open the school next fall. Other board members probably agree, but have made no statements publicly.

It should be emphasized that no proposal has yet been placed on the table but when it does there will probably be a combination of requests adding up to at least nine mills. Five will be a renewal of a present tax and the other four or more will be the extra money needed for a full program.

These taxes assume that the State Aid will remain the same. If reform is achieved on the State level, the entire picture changes.

But if this miracle should come to pass it would probably be many months before it wended its way through the State legislature and became final. Meanwhile, Crouse must get on with the business of the school. Along in March and April recruiting for teachers to fill vacancies caused by resigning teachers must start.

Not knowing what money will be available compounds a problem that is difficult at best.

This uncertainty also puts a crimp in the school-union negotiations as both sides usually wait for the financial picture to clear before ironing out details of the labor package for the new year.

FROM THE Editor's Corner

There isn't any question really that earth's probe of space will continue as long as there are people on this slightly shopworn planet.

Throughout history man has been pushing at new frontiers, sailing into uncharted waters.

And with every step, advocates of the status quo have complained about the cost and questioned the worth.

The Louisiana Purchase was hailed as a sellout to the French and the purchase of Alaska from Russia was labeled "Seward's folly." What good were these desolate wastelands anyway?

That's the way it was and that's the way it is.

How much basic difference, really, is there between protesting the cost of space exploration and the cost of buying Alaska? Men of little vision have claimed that both were a waste of money.

But these men won't stop exploration anymore than will the sizeable contingent that claims that a higher priority should be placed on the war on poverty than the war on space.

Right now it's hard for the layman to point to any significant advances here on earth that have been a direct result of walking on the moon.

That's one reason, as an advocate of space exploration, that I was pleased to see an announcement the other day that the moon rock has proved to act as a growth stimulant for plants.

Scientists are at a loss to explain this phenomenon but say that when the agent that produces the growth is isolated, perhaps it can be produced synthetically on earth and another of nature's secrets unlocked.

The hardware that it took to get us to the moon has opened new scientific vistas that promise to make life a little easier for us in the years ahead. But attempting to justify the space program by pinpointing the material advantages is like trying to judge a religion by the kind of church the parish builds.

For in church and in space it's the spirit that counts.

I suppose that it's a romantic notion for a middle-aged man to have, but I've always felt there was something almost mystical about probing the unknown.

I don't know if I would want to take a ride to the moon, even if I could, but thousands would. They are not satisfied with the humdrum world of today.

They look for something new, different, grander. Willing to risk all to see what is over the horizon.

They are the pioneers and the explorers who settled this country and eventually led the way to a new and better life for most of us.

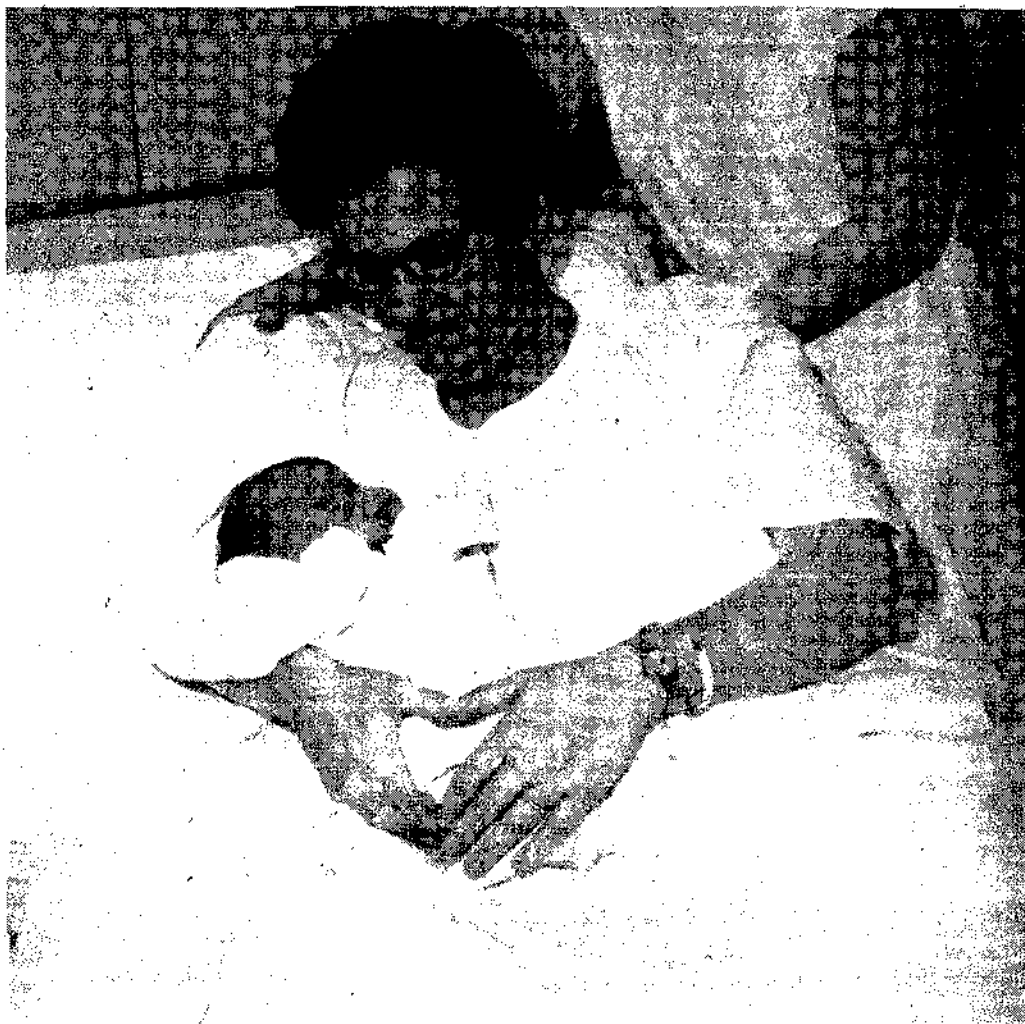

The same free spirits who today are moving into space to see what the next star has to offer and blazing a trail to a better life for us, and establishing an even greater heritage for the generations that follow.

What sort of a price tag can you place on that?

Financial problems remain

Sanilac facility staff proud of extended care record

While the Sanilac County Medical Facility in Sandusky is a place where most folks would like to have their loved ones stay if the need arises, it never has been full since it opened in August 1968.

You can't see its most impressive feature ... you feel it. It's not the impressive brick exterior, its near-luxurious interior, its array of fine hospital equipment or its outstanding physical therapy department.

It's not what the facility has that impresses most, but what it doesn't have. What's great about this extended care facility is that it has managed to avoid the depressive atmosphere usually surrounding institutions that care for the aged, the ill, the infirm.

A walk through the large day room where most of the patients gather reveals that the vast majority are senior, senior citizens.

They are aged, but they retain, for the most part, that vital spark that is often missing in the elderly...the spark quenched by sickness or loss of faculties.

And it's no accident that the patients are together in the day room to enjoy each other's company away from their rooms and their beds. It's a carefully nurtured policy of the facility.

We don't have any electrical appliances in the rooms (televisions, non-portable radios, etc.) says Mark C. Wendt, 45, the slim, youthful-looking, straight-talking administrator. We make them get up for meals if it's at all possible. We definitely do not want these patients to regard their rooms as "home." Evidently, the facility has been more successful in caring for patients than it has in meeting expenses. When it was authorized by the taxpayers in Sanilac county and planned by the Sanilac Board of Supervisors, it was designed to be self-sustaining.

But it hasn't been. For fiscal 1969, Wendt says, the facility will have a deficit of $20,000. The loss doesn't appear to be the fault of the administration or the staff.

Wendt says that costs are now running about $21 per patient per day, a figure competitive with costs of similar facilities throughout the State.

The patient load has gradually increased so that an average of nearly 85 per cent of the available beds are in use.

Sanilac has a somewhat unique method of computing charges to patients. The total cost of operation for the month is added and then divided by the number of patient days chargeable to meet the costs.

At first glance it would appear that it would be impossible to be in the red if everyone paid their bill. But the bugaboo is the Federal payment system, "Private" patients (not on any government health aid plan) pay this cost and so do Medicare patients, but Medicaid patients (those without funds) are paid for by the government at a set rate several dollars per day cheaper than the facility's cost.

The Medicaid plan was changed after the Sanilac facility was built. To really understand the dilemma it is necessary to understand the services offered by an extended care facility. We can't take patients unless they require special care and treatment, Wendt explained. Treatment that doesn't require a medical hospital, but does require specialized services and training. Because of governmental medical payment programs these distinctions are very real. To remain qualified for government money, chronically ill patients that can be handled in a nursing home cannot be handled by an extended care facility.

Our board has opened the facility to non-county residents after county patients are cared for, Wendt said, because so far we haven't enough county qualified applicants to fill our beds. We can still use more.

To ease the financial burden, Wendt is toying with plans to build a nursing home adjacent to the Facility. There aren't any beds available in Sanilac county for these patients, he said, and if we could build a nursing home in our complex here, we would have all the basics (laundry, kitchen, housekeeping, etc.) to care for it without expansion in these expensive areas.

The near $1 million facility has all the basic equipment of a modern small hospital except for the operating room and equipment and X-ray facilities.

PHYSICAL THERAPY

Of all the services offered, the one that Wendt and the professional staff of doctors and nurses are most proud of is the physical therapy department.

One nurse reported that in several instances patients have been admitted unable to eat or even wipe their nose and after treatment were feeding themselves. It's just wonderful, she said, with obvious pride.

We're one of three extended care facilities in the State with a physical therapy department and a licensed practitioner, Wendt noted.

It's been just great for our patients here and those who are treated on an out-patient basis, he says. We average about 25 out-patients a month.

We could be even more effective, the nurse claimed, if we were able to treat patients earlier. Early treatment following a stroke, for instance, is vital for best results. The sooner we have them the better the chances for rehabilitation are.

And rehabilitation is the ultimate aim of Wendt and every person on the staff. On the day shift this usually includes two registered nurses in addition to licensed practical nurses and other staff help. A RN is also on call 24 hours a day and a physician is also always on call.

On any given day there are about 50 persons from Sanilac and adjoining counties at the facility and the staff is constantly working to make them well enough to discharge or to make them as happy as possible while they are patients.

They are doing quite well at it.

Judge Baguley: County facing drug problem

It can happen here, it is happening here and it will probably get worse, Judge Norman A. Baguley, Lapeer, told members of the Cass City Rotary Club Tuesday at the New Gordon Hotel as he discussed the drug addiction problem in Michigan and in Lapeer and Tuscola counties.

The question is what to do about it, Baguley said. Let me point out, he stressed, that I am not in favor of making drugs of any kind legal.

Regardless of the reports, I believe marijuana is addictive. Probably not physically addictive, but certainly it creates an emotional dependence, he said.

The judge does see a need for a change in the laws. In certain cases a person convicted of possession of Pot can receive under the law a minimum sentence of 20 years in prison. This of course is out of reason and makes enforcement harder. There is no doubt we need changes.

For example, he continued, in Lapeer county two young girls were found with marijuana seeds. They planned to grow the plants as an experiment. I am sure that they had no intention of selling or using it. They were guilty of a "situation" felony. Sentencing these girls to 20 years is of course unthinkable, he added.

But we do need a strong educational program to decide how best to combat this threat. We cannot foster the "can't happen here" attitude and expect to successfully combat the drug problem.

A survey in Detroit schools showed that kids were starting to use drugs at 10 and 11 years old and a large percentage had tried or were using drugs when the survey was taken.

A major problem in dealing with convicted users is what to do with them, Baguley explained.

Our prison at Jackson is overflowing and it is doubtful if any kind of rehabilitation will take place in jail anyway. Just because a person is in prison doesn't mean that his drug supply will be cut off, the judge said.

Prisoners find a way to get drugs and alcohol in prison if they want them, he explained. Don't ask me how, but they do.

Our hospitals are also overflowing. In certain cases we can get hospital treatment, but this lasts for only about three weeks and really doesn't answer any of the basic problems.

What we need, Baguley said, is a massive program that deals with the addict and also stresses ways to keep persons from becoming addicts.

(And anyone else he can get to help)

If you tune in Jan. 25 to the Science Quiz program over WNEB-TV, you will see a close race between the two teams from Cass City Schools. In fact, the regular question and answer period ended in a tie. A special tie-breaker was asked to decide the ultimate champion.

I am not about to spoil the fun by revealing who won when the show was taped Sunday. You'll just have to find out when the regular broadcast is made.

The memories of the fathers of players are better than mine...but most of them are a little hazy, too.

I checked every year but the right one last week when I delved into records to see if we had ever defeated the Lakers in the regular season.

I skipped 1964 and that was the year of the Red Hawk. Cass City won twice that season, 84-45, and 56-54.

Fred Knoblet remembered one victory (his son Jim was playing) and even recalled the score, 56-54, but clean forgot the other win.

Phil Retherford (his son Ed was playing) remembered the two victories, but sort of thought Cass City won one other time the next year when they didn't.

Arthur Hartwick, Novesta Township treasurer and one of the younger grandfathers in the Deford area, has the snow bug syndrome.

By now he has probably completed the purchase of a new snowmobile. Not one of those sedate, grandfatherly 15-horse jobs, either. But the biggest, fastest one available.

It may just be that he got the snow bug virus from his son Allan, who has been whipping one of his machines around the country just about every night for three weeks.

The snow bug safaris into the back country are scaring more than the deer. Nothing's inviolate anymore.

Nearly every trip out these winter nights, riders report flushing game parked in lovers' lanes.

The Deford State Game area is deteriorating as a wild-life sanctuary.

A parent writes about her concern about the drug problem in Cass City in this week's letters to the editor. Her points are well taken, as most concerned parents will agree.

Outside of the interview where the Chronicle quizzed a dozen kids to explore the drug use situation a year and a half ago, there hasn't been much publicity about it.

But this is changing. Chief Carl Palmateer has an interview on tape with a local anonymous user that he has played to the village council and will play to various local service clubs.

I haven't heard it, but if it brings the problem into focus, maybe it should be taken to our schools and to every club or organization that would care to hear it.

Fight to keep government local

By Margaret Ann Ross, Extension Home Economist.

Dr. Alvin House, Michigan State University Governmental Specialist, spoke recently to groups in Huron, Sanilac and Tuscola counties.

The participants asked many questions regarding assessment of property for purposes of taxation. Under a new state law local assessors will need to be certified within a few years. They will have to pass a written examination for which they can prepare through classes in the community colleges.

Dr. House discussed the functions of township, county and regional governmental units. "Citizens had better decide to build a strong unit of local Government somewhere along the line - the logical place may be the county level," says Dr. House.

Dr. House also stated that "Government is a very vital part of the community. The way decisions are made has a tremendous effect upon what kind of community we have. Too long we have neglected local Government. What we fight for from here on will be to keep what we think should be kept at the local level in county Government." The participants felt concerned about keeping the Government close to the people. They were also concerned about needed services such as refuse disposal.

The meetings with Dr. House were sponsored by the Cooperative Extension Service Family Living program. "County Government" will be the topic for discussion in many Extension Study Groups throughout the Thumb.

SPORTS FANS!

I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

By H.M. Bulen

Few fans realize the weird record the New York Giants have made in pro football championship games....The Giants have reached the final pro championship game 14 different seasons...but then unbelievably, they lost a grand total of 11 of those times!...They reached the final championship game in 1933-34-35-38-39-41-44-46-58-59-61-62 and 63, but won the championship only in 1934-38-56!

Here's a tough football question for you...Only three college teams from the north-eastern part of the U. S. have gone to major bowl games since 1960, and two of the three are easy to name--Penn State and Syracuse, but who is the third?...Answer is a school you don't usually think of when major bowl games are discussed--Villanova, which went to the Liberty Bowl in 1962.

Here's a Super Bowl oddity...The man who holds the honor of scoring the first touchdown in Super Bowl history--Max McGee--was not a starter in that first Super Bowl game, in 1967, and was not even supposed to play...But another player's injury put the aging McGee into the game and he immediately caught a 37-yard pass from Bart Starr for his historic touchdown.

Avoid injury in mishap

Injury was avoided in a minor accident Thursday at the corner of South Elston and McAlpine Roads, six miles southeast of Owosso.

Cars driven by John A. Bruno, 44, of Owosso and Ronald E. Nicholas, 35, of Owosso, Bruno was driving south on Elston Road and Nicholas was traveling east on McAlpine Road. Bruno reported to Huron Deputy Larry Ringvicki that Nicholas pulled in front of his car.

BEHIND THE COUNTER

Baby sitting

These days, baby sitting is an important job. It is often a necessity to young parents who need an occasional night out. And for teenagers, it reflects the extra responsibility and trust that comes with the extra spending money.

However, there are aspects of baby sitting that shouldn't be overlooked. Dr. William R. Lenz of the Detroit Health Department recently noted in "Healthy" magazine:

1) Ask the child's mother for explicit instructions on any schedule to be followed. Also, before the parents leave, learn your way around the house and where things are. Write down the phone number where the parents can be reached, and have other emergency numbers handy: police, fire, family doctor.

2) Let your own family know where you are and when to expect you home. Arrange in advance to be escorted home after dark.

3) Don't entertain friends while baby sitting, without permission. Don't turn on the radio, TV or phonograph full blast—you might not be able to hear the baby if he cries.

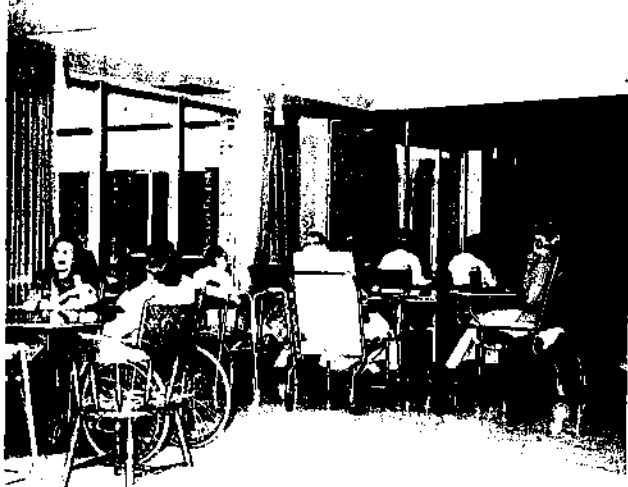

4) Watch little children when they are near windows, stairs, light plugs or cords, stoves or hot radiators.

5) Be sure a child can't reach matches or poisonous substances of any kind. Keep small and sharp objects out of reach; small children have a tendency to put such objects in their mouths.

6) Cancel a baby sitting engagement if you are ill, especially if you have a cold or are coming down with one.

Supreme Court decision

Order criminal sex exam

The Michigan Supreme Court this week upheld a verdict reached before Judge James Churchill in Tuscola County that resulted in a life sentence for Milton Shields of Bay City, but ordered the court to have Shields examined by three qualified psychiatrists. The examination will be to determine if Shields is a criminal sexual psychopath.

Shields was convicted of assault with intent to commit murder in the brutal assault on a Bay City woman in Vanderbilt Park in the fall of 1966. He beat and cut the girl and left her without clothes lying in the park. Judge Churchill sentenced him Jan. 30, 1967, for life for assault with intent to murder and for 8 to 10 years for assault with attempt to rape.

Shields appeared in court to ask for bail. It was denied by Judge Churchill.

If the examinations indicate that Shields is a psychopath he will probably be sent to Lonia State Hospital for treatment.

Usually a person certified ill after the examination is sent to the hospital until judged well by attending physicians.

If the examination indicates that Shields was not ill he will be returned to prison at Jackson to complete his sentence.

Roger L. Jaynes, Silverwood, out on bail for slandering times from a car owned by Mayville Motors while waiting sentencing in Tuscola County Circuit Court, faces a second slandering charge allegedly committed while he was awaiting sentence of the first offense.

Jaynes had pleaded guilty as charged when he appeared before Judge James Churchill on the theft from Mayville Motors.

When he was picked up on the second charge, Judge Churchill cancelled his bail and he is now in the county jail awaiting disposition of his cases.

Two men appeared in court on charges of uttering and publishing a Michigan National Bank check for $110.22.

One of the men, Roy Leo White, Saginaw, pleaded innocent of the charge and a trial date will be held.

The second man accused, Herman Morris Hodges, Saginaw, pleaded guilty as charged. He was sentenced to 1 1/2 years to 14 years in Jackson Prison. Credit was allowed for 76 days spent in jail waiting disposition of the case.

Kenneth Carlisle, Vassar, pleaded guilty of eluding a police officer when he failed to stop when halted by a policeman in uniform and a marked car.

A jury trial held before Judge Norman Baguley Tuesday, Jan. 6, resulted in a 45-day jail sentence for Roy Clava Commis, Deford. In addition he was fined $100 and ordered to pay costs of $800.

Commis was found guilty of driving under the influence of alcohol on M-24.

Letters to Editor

Althaver feels tax rate needed

Dear Mr. Haire:

I would like to make some comments on your editorial of last week.

All taxpayers should be aware that the major portion of village revenues - i. e., property-tax is paid in July and August of each year. However, the village operates on a calendar year budget and pays its employees each week from January through December. In order to keep our employees and to provide the continuity of service that village residents want, it is necessary to carry over certain funds at the end of each year. I think you will find this to be true in almost every unit of government since very few of them have their main source of revenue timed to come in at the beginning of their fiscal year. In order to provide this continuity in 1966 and in 1969, the village had to borrow sums of money, thus costing the taxpayers some interest and also creating a temporary past due situation with some village suppliers.

I think it is also very important for all citizens to be aware of the fact that the funds on hand at the end of 1969 are due primarily to a reduced street program for 1969. Due to the fact several large curb and gutter projects are coming up for the village and that not enough funds are received from the state to pay for each project within one year, the council decided early in '69 not to do any curb and gutter work but rather to carry over funds from the state in order to complete a larger project.

In 1970, through eleven months of 1969 less than $30,000 out of the originally budgeted $47,900 had been spent on streets. It should also be noted street revenues are up approximately $5,000, all coming from the State Highway Department.

We all know what inflation has done to the cost of goods and services over the last decade. Early in the 60's the village tax levy was reduced from 15 mills to 13 mills and while the assessed valuation has almost doubled in that period, the greatest portion of this burden has been carried by industry. Immediately below your editorial in last week's paper is an article concerning the waste water treatment plant and its need to expand during the 70's. Figures in the hundreds of thousands are mentioned and the preliminary planning and engineering alone to handle this expansion justifies increased revenues, yet the village council has consistently tried to hold down the property tax burden within the village and seek new ways of providing the services that most residents want.

This letter can only superficially comment on the problems encountered by our village government and its fiscal policies, but I do think it is important that all citizens be aware of the overall problem. The funds on hand at this time are due primarily to the street revenues and expenditures—not increased tax collections. The suggestion that a tax decrease might be forthcoming is not in line with the demands for services or the increasing costs of those we already provide.

Yours truly,
L. E. Althaver
Village President

What are we doing about drug problem?

Mr. Haire:

What are those in authority doing about the drug problem in the Cass City schools? This question is a very important one and I would appreciate knowing specifically what is being done to eliminate the pills and pushers which do exist in our schools.

I'm very thankful that my teenager is aware of the danger of narcotics and wants nothing to do with the pills which are so easily accessible to those who want them. Are the parents fully aware of how easy their son or daughter can purchase these pills? For a mere 25¢ they can become addicted to drugs. It's rather paradox that so many parents are opposed to sex education, something I believe to be both essential and beneficial to our children, but none are speaking out on the drug problem.

Because of threatened physical violence our children can't come forward with any information on the pills or pushers. What can we do as parents when we are aware of the danger but don't know how to go about fighting it without endangering our own children? That is why I would appreciate knowing what is being done to rid our schools of this alarming threat.

A Concerned Parent.

SCHOOL BOARD MEET

If any agency shop is formed, all cooks, custodians and bus drivers will be forced to either join the union or pay an equivalent amount to the dues paid by members. If they do not join the union they will not be liable for fines or initiation fees and will have no vote.

OTHER BUSINESS

The board authorized the school to furnish hot lunches to students at the Darbee school at Caro providing details can be worked out with the Tuscola Intermediate School District.

The lunches will have to be furnished to the 55 children at no cost to Cass City School District. The increased volume is expected to make the cafeteria operation more efficient, Supt. Donald Crouse said.

The contract for Rosemary Galloway to teach fourth grade was signed by the board and special approval given Mrs. Iva Profit to teach next year. Mrs. Profit is 65 years old, the mandatory retirement age, and school policy makes it necessary to receive special permission to teach after this age.

The decision was reached in a session closed to the press and public following the regular meeting.

Drive carefully, motorists—don't make a kindergarten a victim of your carelessness.

CMU offers courses at Bad Axe

Registration is being held open for all classes offered in Bad Axe by Central Michigan University's Off Campus Education. A total of eight courses are scheduled with classes being held in Bad Axe High School.

Students may now enroll at the first meetings of classes. Instructors will register enrollees at the beginning of the class periods.

The first class meeting for Industrial Education 403 Industrial Education in the Elementary School will be Monday, Feb. 2, at 7 p.m. Also meeting the same night and at the same time will be Industrial Education 417 Design and Construction of Teaching Aids. Each earns two hours credit and is open to graduate students, seniors and qualified juniors.

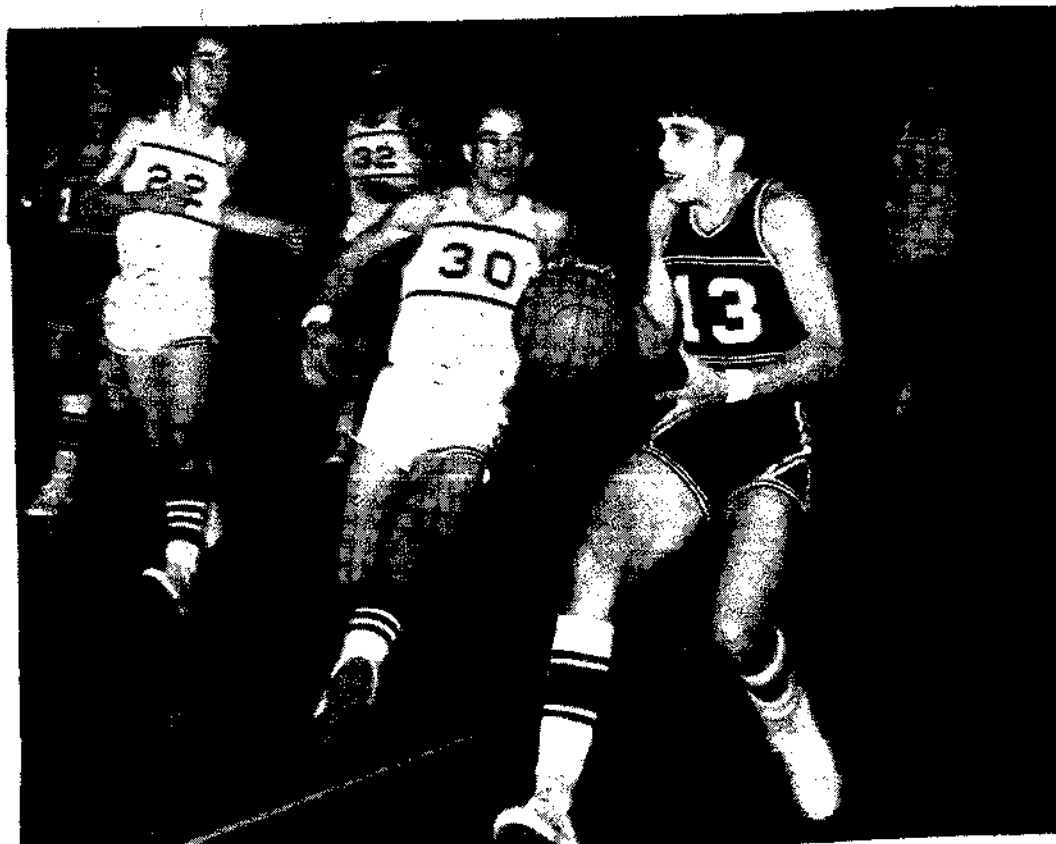

Meeting for the first time Tuesday, Feb. 3, at 7 p.m. will be History 211, United States to 1865. This course earns three hours university credit. Geography 101 Environment and Man, taught by Keith Decker, will also meet at this time and students will earn three hours credit in this course.

Thursday, February 5, at 7 p.m. will be the first meeting of Biology 102, a three-credit course taught by Loren Kontio. Secondary Education 371 Mental Hygiene will meet that night and be taught by Dr. Donald Bertsch. This course, two hours credit. Scheduled to start on April

6 are the two workshops in Health Education, 402b and 402c, one dealing with mental health and the other with sex education. Donald Breckon will conduct these workshops which earn one hour credit each. Preliminary registration for all the classes at the Bad Axe center was conducted by Off Campus Education staff members on January 6.

PAUL BLISS intercepted a pass and drove down the floor for a basket Friday. The Cass City sophomore is seeing more action as the season progresses. For details of the Caro victory see page one of second section.

Supervisors to protest assessments

Township supervisors met with the County Board of Commissioners this week to discuss the State Equalization of property for tax purposes.

It was the consensus that the township was over assessed. To try and prove its point, the supervisors will attempt to collect details of actual land sales and report them to the tax commission.

In other business, Shuford Kirk was elected chairman of the board replacing Harold Johnson, Caro, who resigned. The election was almost a foregone conclusion. Kirk had been acting chairman in early sessions this year. The vote made it official.

In other business, Judge Norman Baguley swore in Bill Tuckey, Caro, as a commissioner from District four to replace Johnson.

Women's rights: State and Fed. laws conflict

WOMEN WIN ONE

Advocates of women's rights won another round in their battle to receive equal treatment with men in Michigan.

Attorney General Frank J. Kelley issued an opinion which said a Michigan law prohibiting women from working more than 54 hours a week or 10 hours a day is unconstitutional.

Kelley based the opinion on the 1964 Federal Civil Rights Act, which bars discriminatory employment practices on the basis of sex.

The federal law, however, applies only to employers with 25 or more employees, so women working for small firms still are subject to the restriction, Kelley ruled.

Kelley's opinion said the conflict between the state statute and the federal law "is readily apparent."

"Since Michigan has no law limiting the number of hours a man may work, a woman is denied the same rights to overtime compensation as her male counterpart in direct violation of the federal act," he said.

He also said the Michigan law limits a woman's chance of gaining a supervisory position since in many cases extra hours of work are required for management positions.

"Any denial of employment opportunities on the basis of sex alone constitutes a violation of the federal law," Kelley said.

The Michigan law, originally enacted as a protective measure for women employees, has been under constant fire from various women's rights groups in the state in recent years.

They have claimed in testimony before House and Senate committees the state law was unfair because some employers used the hour limitation as an excuse for not hiring women.

The whole question is another example of a law originally enacted as a protective measure later being attacked, under different circumstances, as a discriminatory measure.

Another such instance came in the area of voting when the poll tax, originally used to increase the number of persons eligible to vote, later became in the south a means of preventing Negroes from voting.

RATES STAY LOW

Michigan homeowners who complain about their electric bill don't have very many places to go to get a lower one, according to the Michigan Public Service Commission.

The Commission has released a survey which says

Michigan residents pay less for their electricity than the residents of 47 other states.

Commission Chairman Willis F. Ward of Detroit said the average residential electric bill in Michigan is $7.59 for homeowners who use up to 500 kilowatt-hours of electricity per month.

Only Washington and Oregon have lower bills, he said.

The average bill throughout the country for 500 kilowatt-hours of electricity per month is $10.37, according to Ward.

"The Public Service Commission is proud that Michigan electric utilities are among the most efficient in America," he said. "Our electric rates are low despite the fact that most Michigan homeowners buy electricity from privately-owned electric companies."

He said the bargain of Michigan rates is further shown by comparing rates paid by Detroit residents with those of other major cities.

The average 500 kilowatt-hour customer of Detroit Edison and Consumers Power had a monthly bill of $6.84 in 1968. This compared with a cost for the same service of $15.76 in New York City, $13.74 in Florida, $12.81 in Boston and $12.80 in Chicago, he said.

FANCY TITLE

Cass County drew national attention this month when it established a new title for its dogcatcher. Steve Toth, who holds the job, is now referred to as Cass County Animal Welfare Officer. A rose by another name really does smell just as sweet.

Men who are out for all they can get are soon in for it.

NO SOLUTION

One of today's greatest problems seems to be a way to find time to do the things we would do if we had the time.

THE CHRONICLE often prints news that displeases, vexes, disquiets, distresses, provokes. Provocative news.

Much of the news you'll read in The Cass City Chronicle may not delight you - - not because it isn't true, but because it is.

The larger your stake in what's going on, however, the more you need to know what all factions are saying or planning. . . and what the consequences are likely to be.

People of consequence read us not only to be entertained, or to find accord with their viewpoint, but to keep well informed. They use The Cass City Chronicle as a vantage point. . . a perspective on what's happening, good or bad.

You know all this of course. You and the more than 3,400 other families who buy and read The Cass City Chronicle each week.

Ideal weather boosting winter sports, snow country reports bonanza

The winter fun season is in full swing in Michigan.

And, barring a sudden turnabout in the current highly favorable weather, present indications are that Michigan's 73 winter sports area operators will have one of their best seasons in history, according to Jerry E. Fisher, Automobile Club of Michigan touring manager.

At the least, resort owners are expecting the best season in four years.

Low temperatures, which have built early snowfalls into a good base, have brought excellent skiing conditions this winter, Fisher said. The base in most resorts now is so solid that it would take a prolonged warm weather siege to hurt skiing.

Unlike previous seasons, when skiing was mainly a week-end activity, people have been flocking to resorts during the week, with the weekends themselves crowded almost to capacity in some instances, according to Fisher.

All winter resort areas in the state have improved upon what Mother Nature gave them by either extending or upgrading ski runs and installing new lifts this season.

But by far the largest expenditure by ski area developers has been on lodges, chalets and condominiums. More than a third of the state's major ski areas are equipped to serve their patrons around the clock with accommodations ranging from plush condominium apartments with sauna and heated pool to dormitory facilities and cafeteria-style meals.

This winter, 28 ski areas offer week-end and week-long package rates. They spread across the state from the Irish Hills in Southeast Michigan to the extreme west end of the Upper Peninsula where Big Powderhorn is located near Bessemer, Fisher said.

Last winter, 350,000 skiers spent $35 million in Michigan. Many ski areas with overnight lodging facilities expect business to jump between 15 and 25 percent before the current season is over.

Just six years ago, there were only 200,000 skiers in the state. Thirteen years ago, Mt. Holly, near Pontiac, became the first ski area in Michigan to install now-standard snow making equipment.

STATE LIBRARY HELPS TRACE ANCESTORS

The state library is offering its services to Michiganders who want to trace their ancestry.

Among the sources the library has for ancestor researchers are the Michigan Pioneer Record, a unique source of information about residents of the state from the earliest times through the Civil War.

The 33-volume collection was begun 10 years ago and includes information on 3,000 pioneers, their location, occupation, descendants and political or military contributions.

Biographical information on prominent residents since the Civil War will be found in the Michigan Biography Collection.

Visitors who have names of ancestors they want to check out will be helped by trained staff members if they visit the library.

ing equipment. By 1964, 27 other state areas had followed Holly.

Persons who are considering week-end or week-long (usually five-day) skiing packages already have pumped a considerable amount of money into the state's economy with just equipment and clothing. One resort owner said sales at ski shops started earlier this season and added, "They can't keep up with the business."

Expenditures per person for good skis, bindings and boots, plus fashionable clothes, requires an initial outlay of $250 a person, with a bare minimum of $175.

Those planning to stay at a lodge which offers week-end packages should be prepared to spend between $30 and $50 a day per person (based on double occupancy).

A stay at either Boyne Mountain or Shanty Creek, both located in popular northwest Michigan's Lower Peninsula, is an experience hard to match for push accommodations. But they're expensive.

At Shanty Creek, near Bellaire, the week-end skier should be prepared to spend $96 per couple for a week-end package which includes breakfast and dinner Saturday plus Sunday breakfast, lodging Friday and Saturday nights, an all-area tow ticket for Saturday and Sunday, plus one group ski lesson.

At Boyne Mountain, a comparable week-end package costs $130 per couple, and up.

Southeast Michigan's Irish Hills offers perhaps the least expensive accommodations in the state. Dormitory space is available for private individuals for $3 a person a night. Or, a week-end package is $35 a person—or $70 per couple—which includes two nights in the lodge's dorm, five meals, two days skiing plus a group ski lesson.

The skier who is willing to shop can usually find a lodge to fit any reasonable budget. Families will find skiing vacations reasonable since most areas offer reduced rates for children.

Although overnight lodge facilities are available at one of every three ski areas in the state, not all offer week-end or other package rates. Fisher recommends that individual lodges be contacted for details. Advance reservations are essential.

Lower Peninsula skiers will find that West Michigan has the greatest selection of lodges offering week-end and five-day packages. These lodges stretch from the Holland area north to Nub's Nob and Boyne Highlands, both located between Harbor Springs.

Six of 17 ski areas in East Michigan now offer overnight lodging facilities: Pinnacles, Sylvan Knob, Ausable Lodge, Four, Bear Mountain and Skyline.

Those seeking a week-end package in Southeast Michigan should contact the following lodges: Alpine Valley, near Pontiac; Pine Knob, near Clarkston, and Irish Hills Sports Park.

Frankenmuth next!

Caro waltzes to win as Hawks lose shooting eye

WAITING FOR THE rebound after his shot is Joe Hillaker, 51, of Cass City. In good position is Richard "Zike" Miller, 41. Craig Miles (back to camera) of Caro is also ready for the rebound. Caro spurted in the last half to win.

Mrs. Fred Iseler heads church group

Officers were named at Good Shepherd Lutheran Ladies Aid meeting Monday evening, Jan. 5, at the church. Mrs. Fred Iseler is president.

Re-elected to office were: vice-president, Mrs. Harold Deering; secretary, Mrs. Maynard Stine, and treasurer, Mrs.

John Haire. Mrs. Al Avery was named Christian Growth chairman.

The Social Action Committee will meet at the church Wednesday, Jan. 21, from 10 till 3 o'clock. The project will be working on children's dresses for World Relief.

The group will serve the meal for the District Lutheran Laymen's League at the church in April.

Fifteen attended the meeting when Mrs. Olin Bouck and Mrs. W. Hacker were hostesses.

Advertise it in The Chronicle.

Cass City has been a hot and cold basketball team this season, alternating good and bad games in Thumb B competition.

Following last Friday's defeat to Caro, 62-44, the Hawks should be ready for a good game this Friday against League Leading Frankenmuth.

But even with a "good" night most local fans aren't even dreaming of a victory over the tall, talented Dutchmen from the chicken dinner city.

For Frankenmuth has been mopping the floor with all competition, more often than not going over the century mark in games in Thumb B Competition.

Judging by previous scores, the Hawks will be hard-pressed to stay within shooting distance of the Eagles when they meet at Frankenmuth.

A quirk in the schedule pits the Hawks against the roughest team in the loop Friday and probably the weakest team on the schedule (St. Charles) the following Tuesday.

But it's not the Bulldogs that Cass City is thinking about.

It's Frankenmuth. If Cass City turns in a performance against the Eagles like the one against Caro, it could be a long, long night for local fans.

The Hawks were guilty of 21 turnovers and miserable shooting. Coach Fred Hurlbert's charges hit just 31.7 per cent from the field and an extremely poor 40 per cent from the free throw line.

Richard "Zike" Miller and Tony Davis, whose outside shooting sparked the Hawks in the victory against the Lakers, were as cold Friday as they were hot Tuesday. Miller hit two of 10 and Davis, three of 15, for a 20 per cent average from the field.

The Tigers moved in front in the first quarter behind the shooting of Craig Miles, the heavy Tiger center, who tallied 14 of his team's 22 points in the opening stanza.

Cass City bounced back in the second stanza. The Cass City defense tightened and the Tigers went stone cold, scoring just one free throw in the period.

The Hawks missed an opportunity to put the game away with some erratic shooting of their own in the period. The nine points Cass City registered left them two shy of the lead at the intermission.

The visitors' attack was probably hurt by the loss of Miles who sat out the period because of his tendency to foul.

He was back in the third period and the Tigers started hitting the meshes again. Their 15-13 advantage in the quarter shoved them into a four-point lead going into the final period.

In the opening minutes the visitors blew the game wide open, stretching their lead to 12 points and coasting in for the victory.

Joe Hillaker led the Hawks from the field with 23 points and also collected 21 rebounds, more than all of the rest of the team combined. Rob Alexander hit 10 points, Davis, seven, and Miller, four, to account for Cass City's meager point total.

Caro made it a clean sweep Friday night by winning the JV game, 64-43. The Tigers took command of the boards and the game in the opening minutes and were never threatened.

Experience ripens our judgment--teaches us how to choose the best life has to offer.

BY JIM FITZGERALD

'Tis the season for a columnist to look backward and review for his panting readers the most important things he wrote about during the past year. ('Tis also the season for columnists to start off columns with 'Tis. Actually, 'tis a shame I can't think of anything better. But you should know how cheap I work.)

Anyway, here's something different. Picking through my pile of clippings and soggy cocktail napkins, I found a huge store of column ideas which never reached print. So here are the top 7 things I DIDN'T write about. These were chosen because they were on top of the pile:

1. A woman wrote Ann Landers saying it was silly for females to worry about having beards. All you need is a sense of humor, she said. She and her husband go to barbershops and get shaved together, and they laugh and laugh when the barber drops his scissors in shock. I was going to write something about the perils of being a barber, or a husband for that matter. But instead I snuck home in the middle of the day to see if my razor was wet.

2. My youngest sister, a budding old maid at 27, announced her engagement. I was going to write something smart about that. But then I remembered 5 years ago, when she announced her engagement to another guy. I wrote something smart about that. And nobody has seen him since. Big brothers can be a bigger pain than little brothers.

3. A judge in Port Huron, my old hometown, ruled that a white couple could not have cus-tomies of a boy they loved, and who loved them, because the boy was a Negro. "He looks black to me clear from here," said Judge Halford Streeter from his bench when he saw the 5-month-old baby in his courtroom. "Who will he date when he's 15?" I was going to write that Judge Streeter looks bigoted to me clear from here. But everytime I get angry at rednecked public officials, I can't write for the vomit in my throat and the tears in my eyes.

4. The Catholic Church ruled it was ok to go to Sunday Mass on Saturday afternoon. I was going to write a bitterly nostalgic, born-too-soon column about my younger years and the many times I took a sick head and shattered nerves to Sunday Mass out of pure fear - fear of mortal sin and fear of starvation through meals withheld by my mother. But then I remembered that the only Saturday I left the poolroom before closing was the Saturday it burned down. For some of us, there is little hope no matter how sweet the medicine.

5. The Marathon Oil Co keeps mailing brochures, trying to sell me Lady Pepperelli blankets. Standard Oil fills my mailbox with pleas to buy pots and pans. And so on. I was going to write that I accepted gasoline credit cards on the understanding that I'll use them to service my car, not furnish my house. But I was afraid my name might be turned in to the neighborhood gas station and someday I would use their restroom and disappear forever into an oil depletion loophole.

6. Many Agnew boosters rapped newspapers for reporting only bad news, and ignoring the good. I was going to write a column saying that 3 million American boys were NOT killed in Vietnam yesterday; and 4,000 TWA planes did NOT crash; and 6,547 hydrants did NOT wet dogs. But I decided the best news would be to write nothing at all. Instead, I reprinted the entire script of a Doris Day TV show.

7. A reader wrote that I should quit writing this boring nonsense and devote the space to crossword puzzles. I was going to write 300 4-letter words meaning meathead. I was going to type 150 of them while horizontal, and 150 while vertical. But while horizontal, I fell asleep.

Onward and Upward.

CASS CITY VILLAGE COUNCIL MEETING

A regular meeting of the Village of Cass City Council was held on December 30, 1969. All members were present except Trustee Holmberg.

The minutes of the regular November meeting were read and approved.

The financial report was reviewed in detail.

Joe Frederick was present to request that a "No U Turn" sign be installed in front of the laundromat. The council will look into the matter.

President Althaver informed the council that Nelson Willy, Supt. of the Waste Water Treatment Plant has been awarded a training grant to assist him in taking the Phosphate Analysis and Removal Course, Gull Lake, Mich. Jan 19-23, 1970. This grant is made possible by funds from the Water & Wastewater Equipment Manufacturers Assoc.

Trustee Rawson moved that the bills as approved by the finance committee be allowed. Motion supported by Trustee Albee, Yes 5 - No 0. Motion carried.

There being no further business to come before the council, Trustee Ross, supported by Trustee Selby, moved to adjourn.

Little Hawks tumble little Tigers twice

Cass City's Junior High chalked up two more cage victories in games played Friday at Caro.

The seventh graders scored a convincing 60-21 decision and the eighth grade staged a last half rally for a 40-31 victory.

It was nip and tuck for the entire first half for the eighth grade. At the intermission the little Hawks were in front 19-17.

In the final two periods Cass City widened the margin to post the victory.

Scoring was evenly divided for Cass City. Mark McClorey was high with 11. Mike Frederick chipped in nine, Dave Hillaker had eight and Tom Mellendorf, 8. Scott Hartel scored four. Mark DeNoyelles scored 12 for Caro.

The next game is Jan. 22 at Lakers.

The seventh grade Hawks took a lead in the opening quarter and added to it throughout the game to win going away.

All 23 players on the squad saw action and Coach Jim MacTavish said that the key to victory was the aggressive full-court press the team used the entire game.

Four Hawks hit in double figures. Joe Zawilinski was tops with 15. Don Karr hit for 12, Dave Eberline, 10, and Jerry Toner, 10. Rick Damm netted 8, Jim Root, 4, and Ed Stoutenburg, 1.

It was the third victory in a row for the seventh graders. The team plays at Lakers Jan. 20 and will scrimmage Kingston at Cass City Jan. 21 at 6:30 p.m.

The Hawks bested the Lakers 36-35 in the first game between the clubs. The results of Tuesday's game should be a clue to the relative improvements of both teams.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel D. Lyons

In an afternoon ceremony Rev. Douglas Wilson performed the marriage of Jane Caroline Ballard and Daniel David Lyons at the First Presbyterian Church Saturday, Dec. 20.

Parents of the bride are Dr. and Mrs. J. H. Ballard of Cass City. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lyons of Erie, Pa.

The bride wore a floor length gown of ivory peau de soie fashioned with long sleeves with Alencon lace trim at the wrists. The bodice was of Alencon lace. Her silk illusion veil was edged in lace that framed her face. Applied clusters of grape leaves were on her skirt and veil.

Barbara Ballard of Cass City was her sister's maid of honor. Dorothy Bahna of Glenbrook, Conn., Katherine Scharl of Drayton Plains, sisters of the bride, and Diane Hurley of New Haven, Conn., were the bridesmaids. They chose princess styled floor length crepe gowns of cinnamon brown. Matching lace with aqua ribbon was at the wrists, necks and down the backs of the dresses. Their shoes were of matching cinnamon brown peau de soie.

Roy Gabriel was the best man. Groomsmen were Thomas Cole of Pennsylvania, Emil Chimenti of Pennsylvania and James Ballard of Texas.

A reception was held at Sherwood Forest Country Club following the ceremony for 80 guests from Texas, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Connecticut, Lansing, Drayton Plains, Alpena, Detroit and Caseville.

Following a wedding trip in Northern Michigan the couple returned to Cass City to spend Christmas Eve with the bride's parents.

They will live in Gainesville, Florida, where the bride is a senior at the University of Florida and the groom is a medical student at the university.

Attempt to revive Holstein show

The annual meeting of the Tuscola County Holstein Breeders' Association was to have been held Wednesday, Jan. 14, at Caro.

One of the principal discussion topics was to have been the revival of the County Black and White show on a consolidated basis with neighboring counties for a multi-county show, Ron Hampshire, president, reported.

A hick town is a place with no place to go you shouldn't.

Down Memory Lane

FROM THE FILES OF THE CHRONICLE

FIVE YEARS AGO

Dr. K. I. MacRae, Cass City osteopath, has been named chief of staff at Cass City Hospital, Inc.

The trailer house of Harold Crawford at Walnut Trailer Park was damaged by fire. The upstairs of the Roger Guin-ther home was also damaged during the week by fire.

Cass City Lions approved a $500 donation for the proposed refurbishing of the Cass City Cultural Center.

Henderson Graham, former probate judge of Tuscola County, will not have to pay back any of his 1964 salary...but he will not collect the amount due him for the remainder of the year, following a Supreme Court ruling that he would not be allowed to serve.

Cass City Junior Women's Club presented an IPB machine, used in the treatment of respiratory ailments, to the Cass City Hospital, Inc.

Mrs. Fritz Neitzel of Cass City has been hired to teach fifth and sixth grades at Deford Community School beginning second semester.

TEN YEARS AGO

The zoning law plan as suggested by George Vilican, planning expert for Cass City, was accepted with slight variations by the local board.

Distracted by a group of falling books, Jack B. Kreiner, driver of an Owengage school bus, went off the road on the soft shoulder and rolled over into a ditch. Eight children were injured, none seriously.

Feted by the Cass City Rotary Club for their long service to the community were two of Cass City's senior citizens, Mort Orr and Charles Patterson, both received honorary Rotary pins.

Ben Glanton and James Wallace of Cass City, employees of the Walbro Corporation, completed a one-week course in Wittenberg University's Management Development Program.

Mike Bryant was named president of the newly organized Cass City 4-H Saddle Club. Other officers include: vice-president, Elizabeth Matlack; treasurer, Marilyn Brown; secretary, Susan Barnes, and reporter, Mary Bustamante.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Bryant returned from Chicago where they had attended the merchandise show for three days.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Uncle Tim From Tyre Says:

Dear Mister Editor:

Ed Doolittle ain't doing very good on that reservation to look on the bright side of things this year. Ed came to the session at the country store Saturday night with more of his newspaper clippings, and it were hard for the fellers to find a ray of hope in his report.

First off, Ed had saw where this column writer made a list of what happened last year and what is coming up this year, and Ed allowed it if it wasn't for the moon folks in this country wouldn't have much to shoot for. Them moon trips prove we can get out of this world, but they shore ain't much help in running it, was Ed's words.

On that list he saw of "Great Decisions 1970," Ed said they was such items as "What Course for the Kremlin," "The Middle East," and "France After DeGaul," but they didn't mention the price of wheat nor beef on the hoof. Ed said it looked to him like our Government is spending too much time worrying with the impossible, when they ought to do somepun about the possible.

For instant, allowed Ed, ain't no Congress ever in history been as far behind in their work as this one. They has fiddle faddled around a hole year, Ed said, and he moved that the fellers add to their resolutions for Congress to git cracking.

One clipping Ed brug to the session warned they was signs of anticipatory downturns in segments of the economy for 1970. What all that means, Ed allowed, was that some folks expects some things to go faster slower. He said you never can tell which $10 word Government multi-experts will use to cover up what they say, but that he has a pretty good idea what happens when the economy goes from bad to worst to terrible.

A recession, went on Ed, is when you got to tighten yore belt. A depression is when you ain't got no belt to tighten, and a panic is when you ain't got no pants to hold up. He said he figgers a anticipatory downturn is when you begin to give serious thought to taking up yore belt a notch.

Another report that Ed looked on the dark side of was about the claim that we was paying the Filipinos to help us in Vietnam. Ed was of a mind that he'd heap ruther pay em to help us fight than pay em not to fight us. This way we git somepun out of the deal, was Ed's words. All we got out of billions we have give them countries to keep em from joining the communists is blackmail fer more billions, was how Ed put it. The fellers was full agreed with Ed on this matter, Mister Editor. Zeke Grubb said it looked to him like us and Russia has bought more friends than we can afford.

Yours truly,
Uncle Tim

AROUND THE FARM

Farm partnerships are here to stay

By Don Keblor

Over the last year or so we have heard or read that tomorrow's farming businesses will be multiple owner operations.

If this comes to pass, the single one-operator one-family farming business could for all practical purposes cease to exist as we now know it to be.

The type of operational agreement, whether it be a partnership or a corporation, is not as important as who controls the business. Will it be farmer or non-farmer stock holder owned?

I know of no such farmer owned partnerships between non-relatives in our county. There are some brother partnerships and corporations and quite a few father-son partnerships in the county. I have been told there are a few partnerships between non-related farmers.

There are advantages as well as disadvantages in multiple partner farm operations. On the advantage side a larger farming operation could be accomplished by the partners than by each in his own single operation. Machinery inventory can be reduced and or replaced with fewer, larger and more efficient power units. Quantity buying of fertilizer, feed, seed, fuel, etc. could certainly be accomplished. There could be greater opportunities for business credit and possible income tax advantages. How about family recreation and vacations especially for those livestock operations? Partnership gives a greater free time probability than the one family operation. There is greater flexibility of operation especially in management decisions, planning and machinery breakdown problems.

This list of advantages can be enlarged depending on the individual unit.

The big disadvantage for individual farm operation consolidation to a partnership operation is that consolidation means the end of the individual's owner-operator state as we are accustomed to. The individual operator will no longer be his own boss but with a group of partners all making decisions together. The big hindrance to consolidating individual operations into a partnership is for the individual operator to locate other operators who are desirous of pooling their resources to work together in partnership.

The time it takes to change our rural picture from one-family farming operations to a partnership type is uncertain. However, the farmer today still has majority control of our agricultural land. Can he maintain this control down the road into the future?

There are advantages as well as disadvantages in multiple partner farm operations. Mr. and Mrs. Jim Doerr and family visited Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Cleland and family and Guy Cleland in Bad Axe Friday evening.

Mrs. George Schad was a Wednesday lunch and afternoon guest of Sara Campbell and Harry Edwards.

Mrs. Dave Sweeney visited Mr. and Mrs. Ray Depinski Wednesday afternoon and Mrs. Ernest Willis Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Gaylord Lapeer and Mrs. Curtis Cleland were Monday lunch and afternoon guests of Mrs. Fern Copeland at Bad Axe.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Hewitt spent Wednesday in Pontiac.

Mary Barber of Detroit was a Saturday overnight guest of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Gibbard and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Muril Shagena and girls were Saturday dinner and afternoon guests of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Shagena and Sherry at Unionville.

Mr. and Mrs. Leland Nicol visited Will Nicol and Mrs. Herbert N. Hichens Monday evening.

The church club will meet Saturday evening, Jan. 17, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Laming.

The color movie, "Cleft Palate Rehabilitation," will be shown at the next meeting of the Parents' Association for Cleft Lip and Cleft Palate Children.

The meeting will be held at the new Special Education Offices, 207 E. Grant, Caro (across the street from the jail) Monday, Jan. 19, beginning at 8 p.m.

All interested persons are encouraged to attend.

In Catholic Family Service the counselors strive to focus upon the family as a unit and endeavor to strengthen constructive and wholesome relationships between members of the family. Some of the types of problems with which the agency works are: the area of family counseling which would include marriage problems, parent-child problems, personality adjustment, economics, alcoholism, mental illness, physical illness, and old age. The area of child welfare would include the unmarried parent, adoption, and boarding homes.

Catholic Family Service offers its assistance to all persons living in the upper Thumb area. Over 50% of the agency's clients are of a religious faith other than Catholic. This organization is a member agency of the United Fund in Huron, Sanilac, and Tuscola counties.

AGENT'S CORNER

Egg bargain formula

Just eggs—exactly how can you get the best of egg values now that you have to shell out so much for a dozen eggs? The break comes when you understand egg sizes and the rule of 8 cents.

Most grocery stores sell only three or four egg sizes. Actually, there are six established sizes for eggs. Jumbo size eggs weigh 30 ounces or more per dozen while the extra large size weighs 27 ounces or more. And so it goes with a 3-ounce differential between sizes... large, 24 ounces; medium, 21 ounces; small, 18 ounces, and peewee, 15 ounces.

This gives us the background for understanding the 8-cent rule. Check the price of one dozen medium size eggs, then check the price of one dozen large size eggs of the same grade. How much difference is there? If there is less than 8 cents difference in price, the bigger size is a better buy. For example, medium size eggs are selling for around 78 cents a dozen. If large eggs sell for 83 cents a dozen, the large eggs are a better buy. They offer more egg for the money.

Shucks now, isn't that easy?

The alcoholic is suicide prone

The medical profession has been accused of being slow in acting upon the fact that alcoholism is an illness. However, to my knowledge no doctor wishes to avoid his responsibilities. He simply knows that his work goes for naught unless others take up where his services must needs taper off.

The rehabilitation of the alcoholic frequently breaks down as soon as he leaves the hospital or the physician's office. The patient finds himself face to face with the very real issues of where he will go, what he will do, and what he can expect from his environment. If he must find his way alone returning to the exact situation which conquered him before, it is very probable that he will be unable to withstand much stress before again resorting to alcohol.

By the time an alcoholic has been first seen by a physician, he is often estranged both literally and figuratively from his family and friends. He may very well have lost his job or it might be in great jeopardy. Although, many people may recognize that his alcoholism is an illness, they are not generally as supportive and sympathetic as they would be if he had, for example, a serious physical ailment unrelated to alcoholism.

The alcoholic's continued deterioration is almost always coupled with a lack of close inter-personal relationships with his family or his friends. This in turn influences a striking percentage of them to find early deaths, often by suicide, unless concerted effort is made to reestablish needed sociological balance.

Truly remedial treatment for the alcoholic requires the combined efforts of community forces mobilized and utilized to their fullest extent.

Most states have alcoholism programs of a governmental variety. Some provide direct patient service; some are referral agencies and others have active educational and research functions.

Many members of the clergy have enlightened themselves about alcoholism, and their churches and religious organizations sponsor active educational programs.

Some industrial concerns have been developing comprehensive programs for alcoholic employees. Industry becomes very important when the main obstacle to an alcoholic seeking treatment is the fear that he will lose his job if he does so. Whether the patient has a job to which he may return (or at which he may start anew) can prove to be a critical factor in his recovery. The physician's contribution toward the patient's return to gainful employment is important because sound judgment must be exercised as to an alcoholic's employability. An overly optimistic recommendation can jeopardize the person's standing even further and increase the employer's skepticism about future referrals.

There are other community resources for the alcoholic associated with mental health such as clinics, mental health centers, state hospitals, the Salvation Army and many more.

One of the most successful voluntary organizations has been Alcoholics Anonymous. Its basic aim is to bring its members to help each other achieve and maintain sobriety through a "twelve-step program"—a resocialization process promoting assumption by each individual member of an increasingly greater responsibility first to himself and then to others. Each member achieves a self-concept in which the need for outside assistance is recognized and accepted. It is not unusual for these members to gain an evangelistic fervor.

Under some conditions work with the family is required. Frequently little more is needed than simple explanations of what is happening to the patient at any given time and offering the family sympathetic support. For this, community resources, such as the Al-Anon family groups, work closely with Alcoholics Anonymous. Relatives or friends of alcoholics are eligible for membership. These Al-Anon participants often derive from these contacts the strength needed to help the alcoholic.

Another organization is the Al-Ateen. The idea is to get the children of alcoholics to understand the parents' problem. They find that their particular situations are not unique and that ways can be found to adjust.

Physicians are doing a great deal to foster better understanding, trying to change negative attitudes toward the alcoholic which often permeate all levels of social organization. The nature of the illness and the medical problem of such patients in general should be better known.

Local Girl Scout activities told

Three of Cass City's Brownie troops enjoyed a Christmas party on their regular meeting day, preceding Christmas. There was a gift exchange and refreshments were served.

Brownie troop 644, under the direction of Mrs. Duane Rushlo and Mrs. Robert Vargo Jr., decided to give their gifts to forgotten children at Caro State Hospital. Duane Rushlo delivered the gifts.

Brownie troop 784 delivered tray favors to Hills and Dales General Hospital for Christmas and were given a tour of the hospital.

On Dec. 22 the Cadette troop, with Mrs. Gerald Whitaker and Mrs. Paul O'Harris as leaders, were joined by other troops for caroling. The group went to the county medical care facility near Caro and later returned to sing at Hills and Dales.

The project was completed at the Scout rooms when Mrs. Dick Greenwood served hot chocolate to the participating Scouts. Included in the group were members of Junior troop 170, with Mrs. Dan Erla and Mrs. Rodney Krueger as leaders; Junior troop 113, with leaders Mrs. Robert Fischer and Mrs. Carl German, and a Junior troop accompanied by leaders Mrs. Dick Joos and Mrs. John Zmierski.

Tell winners in bowling tourney

Dave Albrecht and Ken Butler, Sandusky, retained their championship crown when they won the Mid-Thumb Bowling Association match game doubles tournament held recently in Cass City.

Winners in the eliminations with handicap, were: Burr Eveleth-Gil Mauer, Argyle, 2063; Carl Miller-Dick Ball, Sandusky, 2053; Bob Elliott-Emory Haag, Marlette, and Danny Allen-Don Doerr, Cass City, 2041; Russ Schneeberger-Roy Wagg, Cass City, 2035; George Janssen-Charles Guinther, Cass City, 2004; and Dave Albrecht-Ken Butler, 1977.

4-H keys proper diet for teens

BY BERNARD JARDOT

4-H Youth Agent

The percentage of people with poor diets increases sharply from childhood to the teen years, and foods high in calories often replace foods with important nutrients in teen diets, according to many of the national surveys.

The 4-H foods and nutrition projects have been developed to help our girls and boys learn more about food than just how to cook it.

The 4-H foods program helps our young people learn more on how nutrition affects health and appearance, how to plan, purchase, prepare, and serve nutritious meals. The project also deals with the cause, extent and remedies of malnutrition, and we also try to point out career opportunities in the field of foods and nutrition.

Nine to twelve year old members learn what foods are best to eat. They also learn why it is important to select a good recipe and follow directions carefully, and the importance of safety and cleanliness when preparing and serving foods. Our teen age members learn the scientific principles of food preparation and storage. They learn how foods may be combined for well-balanced, appetizing meals.

Outdoor cookery is an increasingly popular part of the 4-H foods and nutrition program. Young people learn about planning, preparing and serving outdoor meals.

Interested young people should contact the County Extension Office at the Civil Defense Center in Caro. Adults are also needed to serve as leaders.

Michigan Bean to fete students

More than $1100 in cash prizes will be awarded to area high school students by Michigan Bean Division of The Wickes Corporation at the 13th annual "Big Acre" awards banquet scheduled for January 13 in Frankenmuth.

Started in 1957 by Michigan Bean elevators, the Big Acre program encourages interest in cash crop farming among young farmers in the Saginaw Valley-Thumb districts by providing competition among FFA chapters and high school agricultural classes.

Participating schools were Alma, Brown City, Capac, Caro, Cass City, Chesaning, Cornuna, Crosswell-Lexington, Decker, Hemlock, Merrill, New Lothrop, Owosso, Reese, St. Louis, Sandusky and Swartz Creek.

Prizes, ribbons and certificates of merit will be awarded to local and state winners in five cash crop categories: beans, wheat, corn, oats, and soybeans.

ONE FOR THE ROAD

A saga of a house and inflation

By Dan Marlowe

A friend sent me the following thought-provoking comment on inflation:

Some years ago it occurred to a certain man that when the house trim needs paint, the floors begin to creak, and the roof springs a leak, it's time to sell out and move on. Neglect of this type, however, caught up with the gentleman at a time when he had no desire to move. So the man merely toyed with the idea of selling as an incentive to spur himself into getting the property back into shape.

First, he planted a freshly-painted FOR SALE sign out front and set an unreasonably high figure on his house. Similar homes in the neighborhood were moving at $15,000, so he set a firm price of $19,500. Meantime he painted the porch, sodded the lawn, and repaired the garage door. When the spring house-buying spurt ended, he took down his sign for the year.

But the next spring he put it out again. Houses in his area had inched up $1,000, so he confidently increased his asking price by $5000, still not wanting to sell. That spring he remodeled the kitchen and finished off the basement. When a house was worth as much as he now said his was, the man reasoned, it ought to offer more.

Two years ago he added a swimming pool and patio and converted an extra closet into a half bath. He raised his asking price another $5000. That was the year a few people actually went so far as to ask to be shown through the house.

The following year even more people arrived. The man developed canned retorts to the inevitable questions. When asked about the taxes, for instance, he said "High!" When asked about the neighbors, he said "Mixed!" And when asked about the schools, he said "Full!" The answers were calculated to get those who proved undismayed by the once-again-increased asking price out the door as quickly as possible.

This past spring the house needed little work, but the man tacked another $5000 onto his asking price, anyway. He became concerned when no one commented either upon his discouraging replies or to his astronomical price, and then came the blow.

It wasn't until a house-hunter offered the man his full asking price, now $34,500, introduced his companion as a lawyer, and handed over a certified check in the full amount that the man realized that his plan had backfired.

Sure, he had the $34,500, but he now had to get out and find a new home for his family. He had to play the same game in reverse, and he discovered that a lot of other people must have been doing the same thing that he had.

He still hasn't found a house. He's looking nights and week ends, and screaming about the high interest rates at the bank which he's going to have to pay on the additional $10,000 or so it's going to take him to settle his family in a comparable home.

If time marches on, nowadays so does inflation.

Counties allotted FAS road funds

Federal Aid Secondary (FAS), road money received by the Michigan Department of State Highways is slightly less than received in the previous year, authorities at the highway department revealed this week. A total of $10.7 million was received, about $70,000 less than the previous year.

Michigan's counties received 66 per cent of the money and the highway department 34 per cent.

Under this formula, Tuscola county's share was $90,498, Sanilac's share, $98,461, and Huron county's share, $87,616. FAS money is earmarked by law for use on state secondary (farm to market) and county secondary (major county) highways.

Time is easy to kill, but it will come back to haunt you.
