

FROM THE Editor's Corner

If the lady overheard bending the ear of Senator Alvin DeGrow of the 28th district were asked if she were against pollution, the answer probably would have been an emphatic yes.

It's hard to find anyone nowadays who isn't against pollution...it's almost like motherhood and religion.

But the trouble is too many are like the lady who was airing her views to the Senator when he appeared at the Mini College in Cass City. She's against pollution only by the other guy. The trouble is that too many of us tend to be the same.

While I eavesdropped, our angry housewife outlined the "reasons" why Michigan Sugar Company in Caro should not be attacked for polluting the air and the Cass River:

- The farmer needs the plant to process the beets and enable them to make money.
- The only trouble comes from the "city people" who are moving into the area and don't care about the people here anyway.
- The sugar company was there first and if these people don't like it they should move back to wherever they come from.
- The company is providing a lot of needed jobs for men in the area.

Now wait, before you assail her views. Aren't we all just a little guilty of specious reasoning about pollution?

How about a cigarette butt tossed onto the street? A septic tank without an adequate drainage bed? A fire with wet leaves in the yard? Burning papers in back of the Chronicle? Burning rubber coated wiring at the Sanitary Landfill? The use of "hard" pesticides on our farms? The list is endless.

A ray of light peeking through the smog is the growing awareness of the dangers. Self-curbs are becoming more frequent.

Probably the biggest hang-up to action is the lurking suspicion that things aren't as bad as they have been painted.

The lack of a sense of urgency enables us to talk pollution to death, while doing little to pass laws with teeth and cracking down on violators. There are too many committees and not enough arrests.

It's the same type self-delusion that prevails about other health menaces: cigarettes and cancer; diabetes and sugar; drinking and driving. Monkeying with any of these three is a game of Russian Roulette; yet millions play everyday.

After all, the evidence that pollution abounds is at least as clear as the fact that diabetes can't eat sugar. It's documented in every large city and many smaller ones by smog and in the country by the death of pheasants and the fish with pesticide residue so high that there is a question whether they are fit to eat.

And our arguments for continuing to ruin our environment must appear as asinine to trained ecologists as the lady's arguments about the sugar plant did to me.

$800 received

Help pours in for Keyzers

A host of unsolicited but appreciated help has flown in to Mrs. Helen Keyser of Cass City, a widow with seven children, since her home was gutted by fire 10 days ago.

A total of $800 has been given to the family by five area churches, the Elkland-Novesta Community Chest, service clubs and some 25 individuals.

The family is temporarily in a house owned by Jack Spencer at 4391 Woodland. It is expected to be at least two months before the fire gutted house where she lived will be ready for occupancy.

The Keyzers were helped by insurance carried on personal property. The trouble, Mrs. Keyser sighed, is that the insurance pays only the depreciated value, not replacement.

Several major pieces of furniture escaped major fire or water damage, but the smell of smoke permeated the room near the fire exposed furniture.

I've asked professionals, Mrs. Keyser said, and they tell me that it's impossible to get it all out. I'll have to work on it and do the best I can, she added.

The fire was believed to have been started by a reading lamp plugged in close to a curtain.

Over the years, Mrs. Keyser has experienced more than her share of misfortune. She lost her husband six years ago when a beam struck him on the head while he was working in Gage-town.

The recent fire had to compound the normal problems of a widow with seven children. But when you talk with Mrs. Keyser, you forget about them.

She talks frankly, smiles frequently and is too busy picking up the pieces to brood about the past.

Senior citizens' tax exemptions broaden

Elkland Township Supervisor Maynard McConkey announced this week that new laws affecting senior citizens' tax exemptions are now in force.

Essentially, the law provides that senior citizens are now eligible for $2,500 in exemptions regardless of how much their home is assessed for if they earn less than $6,000 yearly.

Previously, the law required homes to have State Equalized Valuation of $10,000 or less and an income of not more than $5,000 yearly to take advantage of the tax break.

McConkey said that the new more liberal law was not apt to affect many residents within the village of Cass City.

The principal beneficiary will be the retired person 65 years old or older who is living on a small farm, say of 80 acres or so, McConkey noted. These persons were previously cut off from benefits because their land was assessed at more than $10,000.

Township or village residents wishing to apply for the exemption can do so during the annual board of review Mar. 9-10, McConkey said.

Ambitious street program boosts village budget

An anticipated five per cent increase in valuation in the village property tax will be all that is necessary to maintain a record-size village budget in 1970, according to details revealed at the regular Cass City council meeting Tuesday night at the Municipal Building.

The tax rate is expected to be maintained at 13 mills and total taxes from all sources are expected to increase to about $136,000 from last year's $132,389.

However, a record street improvement program will push expenditures well above the 1969 total. Some of the money will be derived from the $46,742.97 that the village carried over from the previous year.

In 1969, only about $32,000 was spent on streets. This year $80,000 is earmarked for street work and another $8,850 will be placed in a sinking fund for resurfacing of Seeger Street, possibly in 1971. Estimated cost of work on Seeger is $22,400.

The council is firmly committed to two projects this summer. The first is Church Street, east from Seeger to Ale.

Curb and gutter and related work will be installed this year at an estimated cost of $12,664. Also slated is that part of Church that runs from the Cass City Recreational Park entrance to the municipal building at a cost of $2,806.

The second major project this summer will be on Oak Street from Main to Garfield Street. Curb and gutter, drainage and related work will cost an estimated $17,200.

President Lambert Althaver said that the total of 6,100 feet of curb is one of the largest projects here in recent years and hopefully will bring an advantageous bid to the village when the work is let.

While the street program calls for heavy expenditures, the remainder of the budget totals less than it did in 1969.

The total is $213,088 budgeted as compared to $216,000 spent in 1969. The reason for the decrease is non-recurring expense items that were paid in 1969. Included was $10,000 for park land purchased and $2,500 paid for meters.

Administrative costs and general operating costs are expected to be greater due to cost increases.

The budget, including carryovers, is listed at $283,018, an all-time high for the village. Last year's financial statement showed total expenditures of $220,856.38 and a total budget figure of $267,599.33.

DELEGATION AT MEETING

Several members of the Retail Division of the Chamber of Commerce were on hand to urge the village to acquire land in the block south of the alley between Seeger and Leach streets rather than Leach and West streets.

They said a lot and house owned by Keith Pobanz on Pine and Leach was available.

The council promised to take into consideration the request. Trustee D. E. Rawson said that a house owned by Mrs. Gladys Fort in the middle of the block might be better situated for parking if it comes on the market.

The council had previously made an offer to C. R. Hunt for parking along the entire block from Leach to West for $10,000, but it is doubtful if it will be accepted or that the village will sweeten its proposal.

Paul O'Harris appeared before trustees to object to a new fire hall near his home at the corner of Oak and Church

Police problems aired at council

The resignation of Carl Palmateer as chief of police in Cass City has caused several problems for village trustees, it was revealed in the regular meeting of the council Tuesday night at the Municipal Building.

With two full-time and one part-time man available for patrol instead of three full-time officers, the crew has been working many overtime hours.

The standard for police officers (paid on salary) in the village is 56 hours weekly. They report as much as 30 hours overtime in a week.

The police committee was asked to check the log for hours before action is taken. There undoubtedly will be an adjustment made.

One adjustment was completed Tuesday. The part-time officer that works for the village, overlooked in the last round of wage boosts, was upped from $2.50 to $2.75 per hour and the raise was made retroactive to coincide with the boosts received by the remainder of the force.

A request for payment for attending court in off-duty hours was tabled. It may be that pay for the part-time man will be arranged if he is forced to leave his regular job. However, it was the consensus that the regular force should be able to work out court appearance to coincide with duty hours.

Since Palmateer left, officers say that there are no guns available as all guns now in use are purchased by the police-men. (Palmateer owns two and is letting an officer use one.)

The department would like the village to buy pistols. Decisions about this and other police department matters will be tabled until a new chief is hired.

OLD PROBLEM

An old problem was reintroduced Tuesday by President Lambert Althaver. It was whether to buy bulk tanks and operate pumps for gas instead of purchasing it from various stations in the community.

The village uses about 1,000 gallons a month and could save 8 cents per gallon. At $80 per month the tanks would soon pay for themselves.

However, there are drawbacks. Right now the police car

Kingston settles damage suit for $11,500

The village of Kingston made an out of court settlement Monday by granting Frank White damages of $11,500 for injuries suffered in an auto accident.

The jury trial was being held in Tuscola County Circuit Court in Caro before Judge James Churchill.

Still facing the village in related cases are claims by Carol Duke for $25,000 and by Adrian and Gail Hutchinson for a total of $20,000.

The White suit and related cases stem from accidents occurring at the intersection of Lee Hill Road and M-46.

White claimed that the village of Kingston was negligent because an employee of the village removed a stop sign from the corner contributing to the accident at the intersection. It was alleged that the employee removed the sign because the State Highway Department had given the village the poles that held the sign.

Lee Hill Road at M-46 makes a sharp jog and White was injured when he was unable to negotiate the turn without stopping.

In the accident, White received permanent injuries to his back.

The case opened Thursday and the settlement was reached Monday.

street. He said that he felt it would devalue his property.

Trustee Dr. William Selby said that he also felt that it would be far from the best location for the facility.

Althaver takes key Walbro post

Lambert E. Althaver is the new Executive Vice-President of Walbro Corporation, Cass City.

Walbro manufactures its own line of float feed and diaphragm carburetors for lawn equipment, chain saw, and snowmobile engines; Autopulse and Dupree electric fuel pumps for cars, trucks and power boats; and injection molded plastics items (through its wholly owned subsidiary, Arjay Manufacturing Company, of Vassar.)

Althaver relinquishes the post of Vice President-Finance, and remains as a Director of the corporation. In his new position, he functions as general manager of all Walbro operations, enabling President Walter E. Walpole to devote more time to long range planning and policy.

Althaver joined Walbro in accounting in 1954, immediately following his honorable discharge from the Army. He was made assistant treasurer in 1956, elected a Vice-President in 1962, elected to the Board in 1969. During the years 1958-1961 he was general manager of the Walbro subsidiary, Omro Products Company, Omro, Wisconsin.

Throughout his 15 years with Walbro, he has also been active in civic affairs at Cass City. He is now President of the Village of Cass City, a post he has held for 5 terms, President of the Cass City Rotary Club, Vice-Chairman of the Thumb District-Boy Scouts of America and Vice-Chairman of the Tuscola County Planning Commission.

He is married to the former Holly Walpole, and has two children - Brian, 14, and Lauren, 11. He holds a B. A. degree in business administration from the Principia College, Elmhurst, Illinois.

For 73-year-old Hazel May

Elixir of youth: 18 Thoroughbreds

Even the most ardent booster of equal opportunities for women would probably pause before suggesting that all women be allowed careers similar to the one followed by Mrs. Hazel May, 73, of Deford.

It's not a profession for most women of any age and, in fact, few men of comparable years would be able to follow in the footsteps of the robust Mrs. May who lives alone on a farm, about 10 miles south of Cass City on Cemetery Road.

Mrs. May is a breeder of thoroughbred horses. She has 18 of them.

Caring for 18 horses is a king-sized job under the best of conditions. But this winter, it has been harder than normal. The water in the barn has frozen and Mrs. May hauls all of the water from her home to the barns for the herd. How much time does it take? I spend all of every day working with them, Mrs. May said simply.

At best race horse breeding is a chancy business. But talking to the heavy set, folksy owner, it's apparent that this is what she wants to do and what she will continue to do as long as she is able.

Ask about her horses and in minutes Mrs. May whips out registration papers to show that several of her horses are direct descendants of "Bleinhelm II" and "Man Of War."

And with almost the same breath "My Sweet Peach" enters the conversation. The "Peach" is the best horse that Mrs. May has been connected with in a quarter century of breeding. She won a $10,000 race for mares at Hazel Park in 1965 and is now one of the prize mares at the Deford farm.

Every breeder has one or more animals they visualize as a potential champion. That horse at the May farm is "Dodo May," a 10-month-old colt.

Mrs. May feels that "Dodo" (pronounced like the verb, do, repeated) has a chance of becoming an outstanding racer. A real money maker.

No one knows for sure until the horse is trained and timed. Mrs. May can't ride, but feels that she can handle the exercising this spring. It's possible that the colt will be turned over to a trainer later.

Later, we visited "Dodo" at the barns and it was quickly apparent that it is here that Mrs. May spends most of her time. The horses follow her around almost like kittens.

Mrs. May moved to Deford from Romeo where she and her late husband raised horses and operated a riding stable for a quarter of a century. She moved because the city was closing in on her and it wasn't quiet enough for the horses.

Already erected on the Deford farm are the high wooden fences that mark the horse ranch. Stalls have been made ready to separate the horses as the need arises. The horses are fit and well cared for.

The barns receive more attention than the house, Mrs. May has been in her new home for five months, but has not yet found time to completely unpack. There are a cat, a dog and a chicken running around the rooms and it is apparent that Mrs. May thinks about the comfort of her horses before she does her own.

One thing sure, she says emphatically, I didn't come here to wait to die. I keep busy. I used to send and receive 400 cards at Christmas.

Now I get "only" about 60. All of those friends who asked me why I worked so hard have died off. But I keep going, she said proudly.

Work has been her tonic for a lifetime. She lived in married officers' quarters in World War I. She was a buyer in Columbus for five years and worked at Hudson's in Detroit.

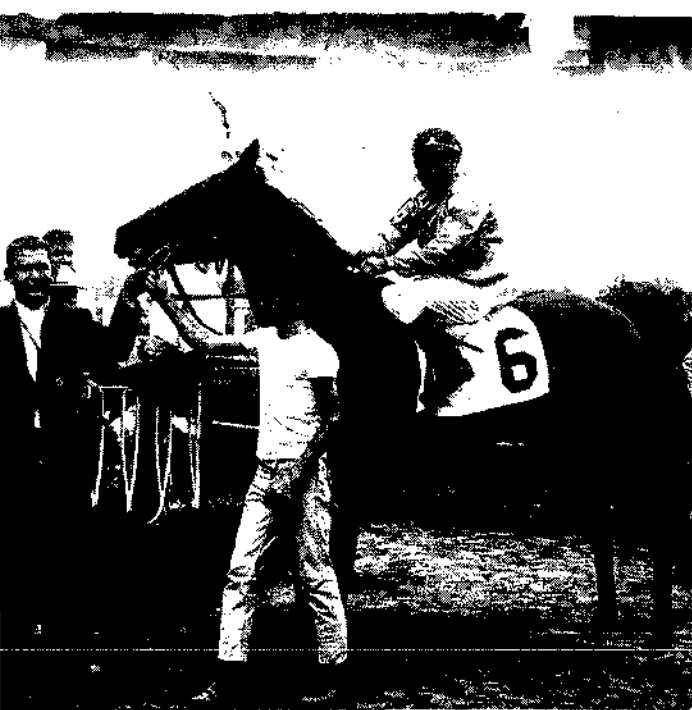

She helped with the riding stable at Romeo and reared a daughter. She has six grandchildren living in the Detroit area.

Besides her daughter, she reared 27 foster children from underprivileged homes. She was vice-chairman of the State of Michigan for the American Legion Auxiliary and active in politics, speaking on the same platform with former governor G. Mennen Williams.

Now her house is empty. But the barn is full. For Mrs. May, the full barn makes for a full life.

For the Deford grandmother every one of her 18 horses is a winner.

Who can dispute it?

"MY SWEET PEACH" in 1965.

ONE OF A HERD OF 18 Thoroughbred horses looks for a tasty hand-out from Mrs. Hazel May who keeps young with the demanding schedule needed to maintain the herd.

Rabbit tracks

(And anyone else he can get to help)

The announcer at the Caro-Cass City basketball game broadcast Friday that a man's gold wedding band had been found under the bleachers.

Immediately, 90 per cent of the married women present remarked that it probably belonged to their husband or made some other pertinent impertinent remark.

The 10 per cent of the wives who said nothing were the ones with husbands who never had a band and were sitting there fuming at the wasted opportunity.

Unemployment payments are designed to help the person who loses his job because there is no work.

At least that was the original intention. But consider the case of the Cass Cityan who was laid off after 29 years at Nestles in Uby.

He went to apply for benefits and discovered that he was not eligible until after he had not been working for a period long enough to equal the amount that he would have been paid on the job for his severance pay and accumulated vacation pay.

Consequently he receives no supplemental benefits at all.

There is sort of a chain-letter effect to the sale of Girl Scout cookies. When the two daughters were of age, all the friends and neighbors were "asked" to buy.

Since that time, these "customers" have grown a few sales girls of their own.

And you know who is among the first that they remember. This year the Haires have 14 boxes.

Intermediate Principal Bob Stickle was all smiles this week following the drawing for the Class C District Basketball tournament here. The reason for his glee is that Harbor Beach and Cass City are in opposite brackets.

Stickle is the tournament manager. If form is followed, Cass City will face Harbor Beach in the finals. Most tournaments are finishing on Friday and Cass City's finals are on Saturday.

Because of this a full house is not a remote possibility. If it all happens, it will be the first full house in the history of basketball at the new high school.

2 Cass City seniors to cap school years still together

Graduates at Deford

The paths of Laura Lajoie and Bernadette Zimba have been closely intertwined for most of their 18 years. The two girls have been together in school and in church for most of their lives.

It took several odd quirks of fate to keep the girls in close association. They were both born in Garden City in 1952. Laura was born Feb. 25, the daughter of Mrs. August Lajoie and the late Mr. Lajoie. Bernadette was born May 7, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Zimba.

The Zimbos moved to Deford in 1953 and the Lajoies followed. As a result, both girls spent their first eight years in school at Deford.

They also made their first communion together at St. Michael's Church in Wilmet and entered Cass City School together four years ago as Freshmen.

Now seniors, the girls will graduate in June. But when they receive their diplomas it is likely that the trail together will end. Laura has definite plans for college. Bernadette's post high school plans are undecided.

'Watch Bottom Row!' That's Rule for Success in Siding

The key to an attractive siding job is the application of the bottom row.

So says Bill Hammond, siding manager of the Building Products Division of GAF Corporation.

Make sure that the bottom row is applied level to a chalk line. If it is, the rest of the application job is easy since the bottom row will function as a level base and all subsequent rows are applied up on it.

For do-it-yourself application of mineral siding, here are the basic steps.

First, using a chalk line and level, establish the lower edge of the surface to be sided at the point where it meets the foundation wall.

Next, cover the surface with an asphalt-saturated felt. This type of felt is today's standard covering for home sheathing material and adds waterproofing protection should any wind driven moisture penetrate the joints of the siding.

Start at Corner
The felt is applied from rolls horizontally with a slight overlap, starting from the bottom of the house and working up.

Next, draw a horizontal chalk line around the entire structure to be sided. Nail a wooden lath along the bottom edge of the surface to be sided at the point where it meets the foundation.

For the first row, start at the corner with a full panel and apply the siding panels in a row, with the top edge lining up parallel with the horizontal chalk line. Nail the bottom of the panel into the wooden lath.

After each panel is nailed into position, insert an asphalt backer strip behind the end of the panel.

These backer strips, which are inserted behind each vertical joint between panels, add extra protection against penetration of moisture.

The second row also starts at the corner, but with a half panel of siding. Once this panel is in place, apply full panels, making sure that the nails ride just on top of, not through, the previous row of panels.

Starting with the third row, merely repeat the procedure, beginning row three with a full panel and then alternating the first panel of each successive row between half and full panels.

Can Be Cut

If a panel does not fit exactly at the end of a row, or around a projection, mineral siding can easily be cut with a saw to the required form.

If individual metal corners are used, apply them upon completion of each row, making sure flanges are securely hooked at the bottom and that the top is firmly nailed.

Complete the siding application by nailing the last or top row at the bottom as usual and also at the top. To insure a good, secure siding, also top-nail those panels which are applied beneath projections such as windows and overhangs.

To finish the job, and to make certain of a weather-tight application, caulk all points where siding panels end-but into such projections as door and window casings, interior corners and all openings made in panels to allow for passage of pipe, conduit, electrical fixtures.

For an attractive application, use matching caulking.

CONTROLLING LIGHT

General Electric designs a 600-watt solid state fluorescent dimmer which can control from four to 12 4-watt fluorescent lamps. It provides smooth control of light from "Off" to full brightness.

The question: can Milliken help other GOP hopefuls?

COAT TAILS MEASURES

One of the intangibles involved in any political campaign is the "coat tail" strength of the candidates at the head of the ticket.

"Coat tails" is a political term meaning a candidate's ability to pull other members of his party to victory which they might not otherwise have.

The classic candidate who didn't have substantial coat tails is Dwight Eisenhower, who won huge majorities for himself but couldn't transfer his popularity to other Republican candidates. Franklin D. Roosevelt, on the other hand, had tremendous coat tail strength.

On the state level in recent years former Gov. George Romney displayed coat tail ability, though not in overwhelming proportions. For the Democrats, Secretary of State James M. Hare had coat tails, bringing many a voter who had voted for Romney back into the Democratic column for the rest of the ballot.

One of the big questions in the mind of planners in both parties these days is how long Gov. William G. Milliken's coat tails are going to be.

Milliken is considered pretty much a sure thing for reelection, barring any unforeseen circumstances in the approaching months.

But no one is sure whether he can transfer his popularity to other Republican candidates, such as those for the Legislature.

"He hasn't been tested on this yet," explained one party strategist. "We just don't know how he'll do. It's something you just can't figure until he's been down the road once."

With membership in both houses of the Legislature split almost evenly between the two parties, Milliken's ability to pull other Republicans to victory is crucial.

At present, Republicans hold a 20-18 edge in the Senate while Democrats have a 57-53 margin in the House.

The outcome of the legislative races is made even more important by the fact the Legislature will redistrict Michigan's 19 Congressional districts next year. Control of both houses would allow a party to shape the districts to its own advantage without worrying about having to compromise.

Republican State Chairman William McLaughlin says the length of Milliken's coat tails will be "very important."

But he qualifies that by saying, "you've got to have horses out in those races who can do the job on their own. The leader of the ticket is just frosting on the cake."

"If you don't have much strength on the bottom of the ticket, it's too much to ask of any one person to pull the whole ticket," he said.

Michigan Democratic Chairman James McNeely, of course, is not conceding victory to Milliken.

But McNeely does think "whichever party carries the Governor's race is going to carry both houses of the Legislature."

"It's going to be close and individual candidates will make a difference," he says. "And if the election is very tight then that prediction doesn't hold."

"But if either candidate carries by a sizable margin, he should take both houses of the Legislature for his party," McNeely says.

There are many months and many campaign miles to be traveled between now and November, and anything could happen.

It is indicative of Milliken's personal strength right now, however, that his coat tail strength is being talked about rather than whether he can win.

And while he has been in office only a little over a year, polls show his "recognition factor" with the voting public is climbing rapidly. Aides say that while he could go to the bank alone and not be stopped when he took office, he now is stopped wherever he goes by autograph seekers, another sign of strength.

The final decision about his coat tail strength won't be made by the strategists now worrying about it.

That decision will come in the voting booth next Nov. 3, and it will be made by John Q. Public.

Commissioners in routine session

Routine matters occupied the Tuscola County Board of Commissioners Tuesday in a regular session at the courthouse in Caro.

The board approved the hiring of a man to supervise and care for Vanderbilt Park, owned and operated by the county.

There was general agreement that the man hired last year had been doing a good job and should be rehired.

Supervisors have some $1,000 allotted for the park and grills are expected to be made available this year.

The salaries of the board of canvassers was raised to equal the money paid supervisors as required by law. The rate went from $25 to $30 per day and from $15 to $20 for a half day. Mileage will be paid at 10 cents per mile.

To enable the County Highway Department to sell and dispose of gravel pits no longer needed, the county will transfer the land to the department from the county.

The book work is needed so that clear title can be granted to prospective purchasers.

Nature freezes water, but expects you to cut your own ice.

Poised for Frankenmuth

Cass City's peak performance staged before small crowd

It was a mid-week date and a meaningless game, so consequently relatively few fans saw the Cass City Red Hawks in one of their finest performances of a fine season.

The Hawks annihilated Lakeville at the Cass City High School gym, 91-40. To make the night complete for local fans, the junior varsity came from 15 points behind in the first quarter to nose out the Lakeville JV's, 71-69.

But back to the peak varsity performance. Coaches from Ubly and Deckerville were on hand to see what the Hawks had to offer in next week's upcoming district tournaments and they came away impressed. Ubly Coach Dick Holdship said it was the finest defensive team that he had seen in the Thumb this year.

Tuesday, the offense wasn't bad either although the Hawks were helped by the visitors who evidently feel that defense should be left to the Pentagon.

The game was actually decided in the first period as the Hawks charged to a 22-6 lead and coasted in for the victory. Coach Fred Hurlburt was able to use his entire 10-man squad and all broke into the scoring column.

Rob Alexander and Joe Hillaker led the attack in the opening quarter. Alexander hit on numerous drives on the baseline and short pops from the side. He had 10 quick points before Hurlburt opened the gates of mercy and started substituting. Hillaker scored early and late. He netted 27 points on 10 buckets and seven charity heaves.

He received a lot of help that doesn't show in the scorebook. Time after time he was hit by Tony Davis, Marty Zawilinski and Richard "Zike" Miller with good passes as he slid along the key for close-in shots.

Zawilinski broke into double figures as he hit four baskets and four free throws for 12 points. Davis hit five buckets for 10 points. They both connected on beautiful drive-in shots and were able to drive more Tuesday than at any other time this year. Miller hit for nine points, the only starter that failed to reach double figures.

It's too bad that Cass City wasn't able to bottle some of its hot shooting and save it for Friday night.

For Friday the Hawks face tall, talented and tough Frankenmuth in the final game of the regular season.

In the first meeting between the two schools, the Eagles demoralized Cass City with a full court zone press and won about as they wished with the substitutes playing much of the game.

Local fans will be watching with interest to see if Friday's game will also be a one-sided. Even the most ardent Cass City fan is not expecting a victory. A moral victory would be one where the Hawks extend the visitors enough so that they are forced to go all out to win.

CARO GAME

Coach Bert Bleke of Caro blew his cool and with it the chances for the Caro Tigers to rack up a victory over the Cass City Red Hawks Friday night at Caro.

The Hawks won 48-46 and Bleke was charged with three technical fouls and ejected from the game with seconds remaining.

It marked the first time in the history of the Thumb B Conference that a coach was sent to the showers.

Neither team had much to brag about in the game. Cass City could take consolation in the fact that the team was good enough to win on a night when there was a lid on the basket the entire evening.

A glance at the statistics tells the story. The Hawks converted just a little over 28 per cent from the field, connecting on 15 of 53 attempts. Caro was better, but not much. The Tigers hit 34 per cent on 21 of 61 tries.

Cass City was guilty of just three turnovers and played a tight defensive game. The tilt was actually won on the free throw line where the Hawks hit 18 of 29 for 62 per cent.

The game was a switch of the tilt played earlier in the year in Cass City. In that game the Hawks forged in front at the half by two points, only to fade badly in the next two quarters as the Tigers won going away.

Last Friday Caro left the floor in front at the intermission, 29-26 and Cass City finally won the game. But it was nip and tuck the whole way. At the end of three periods, Cass City had a slender 36-35 lead.

The Tigers tied the score in the final period and the lead sea-sawed as the closing moments of the game approached. With less than 10 seconds left, a Tiger was detected foul-

TONY DAVIS was all by himself as he drove in for an easy two points after the Hawks intercepted a Lakeville pass and beat the Falcon defense down the floor. Cass City won 91-40.

ing and Coach Bleke blew his stack at the referees.

The result was not one, but two technical fouls. Cass City missed the pair and also the personal foul, but kept possession of the ball for the remaining moments to register the narrow victory.

Joe Hillaker led all scorers with 24 points. He hit five field goals and 14 of 22 free throws. Rob Alexander had 11 points. Richard "Zike" Miller netted eight points.

In the preliminary, Cass City lost to the Tiger Junior Varsity, 65-53.

7th grade

cops opening tourney game

The Cass City seventh grade basketball team won its opening game in the Seventh Grade tournament at the high school, defeating Marlette, 56-33.

The young Hawks went in front 18-9 in the first quarter and were never behind.

The team used a full court press on defense and Coach Jim MacTavish credited the victory to a team effort. Cass City shot 39 per cent from the floor and 50 per cent from the free throw line.

Jerry Toner netted 13 points. Other scorers were: Joe Zawilinski, 12; Don Karr, 9; Rick Damm, 8; Jim Root, 5; David Eberline, 4; Kim Hill, 4; Ben Hennessey, one.

The Red Hawks were to have faced Frankenmuth Wednesday at 7 in the second round.

In other games Monday, Frankenmuth topped Kingston, the Lakers beat Vassar and Caro edged Sandusky.

which drew one of two byes. The second bye went to Sandusky and the Redskins face the winner of the Marlette-Harbor Beach clash Thursday.

The finals will be Saturday night. All games start at 8 p.m.

Judging by comparative scores during the season, Cass City and Harbor Beach will be co-favorites.

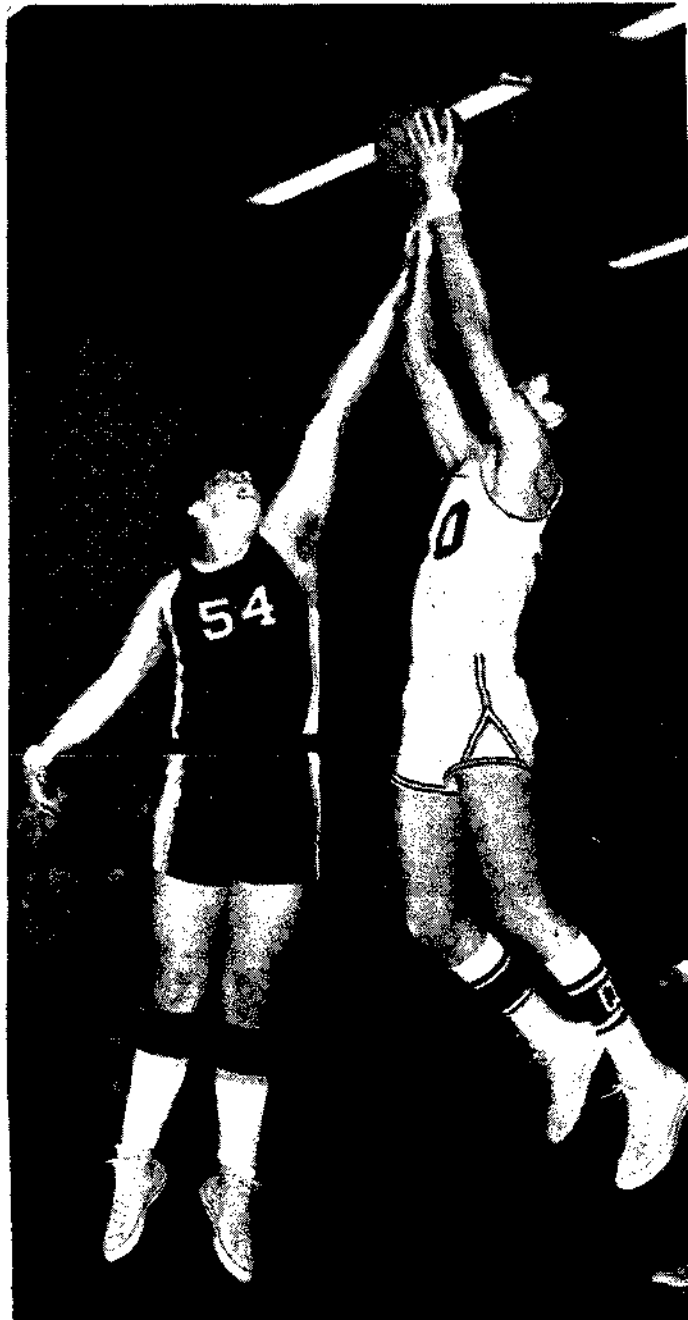

But the play of the various schools during the regular season indicates that a victory by nearly any of them would not be regarded as a tremendous upset.

Any school that comes up with two or three extra hot shooting nights could win.

In this way, the tourney is similar to last year's when all six teams were close in ability and Ubly rallied to cop all the title.

A notable difference in the outlook for Cass City fans is that the Hawks enter the competition this year as a co-favorite instead of one of the also-rans.

JOE HILLAKER got up in the air to snag this rebound Friday from Craig Miles, the Caro defender. Every one was important as the Hawks won a narrow two-point decision.

Chainsaw Big Meal Ticket for Deer

The whirring sounds of chainsaws wielded by commercial loggers, field workers for the Department of Natural Resources, and hired tree-cutting crews echo a welcome "come-let's-get-it" call for thousands of deer in northern Michigan during the winter. This season, the DNR has programmed commercial logging operations on about 26,000 acres of state forests in that part of the state as part of its annual efforts to help deer through the winter and to generally improve the animals' range over the longer haul. In addition to that, commercial cuttings are humming this winter on an estimated 100,000 acres of private holdings and U.S.

Forest Service tracts to provide vital lifelines for deer and upgrade future living conditions for these animals. Elsewhere, on about 8,000 acres of northern state forest lands where timber is non-merchantable, the DNR has set up tree cuttings with bulldozers and hand crews to boost deer food rations. Besides promoting these regular tree-cutting programs, which produce hundreds of deer-feeding scenes like the one above (left), the DNR stands ready to mobilize a more massive, emergency plan to step up relief for whitetails should the need arise as it did last winter. —Michigan Department of Natural Resources

4 injured in
2-car
area mishap

Leo Paul Osantoski, 76, of Cass City was hospitalized in Deckerville Community Hospital for injuries suffered in a two-car mishap Sunday on U.S. 25, a mile north of Deckerville Road.

Also taken to Deckerville Hospital were passengers in a car driven by Francis Biniecki, 30, Warren. They are: Mary Biniecki, 30; Robert Smith, 16, East Detroit, and James Biniecki, 6, Warren.

The mishap occurred when Osantoski was attempting a left turn into a private drive and collided with Biniecki who was travelling south.

All of the injured persons are in satisfactory condition. Sandra Ann David, 19, of Cass City escaped injury last week when she lost control of her car on Cedar Run Road, three-quarters of a mile from Hobart Road in Elmwood township.

She reported to members of the Tuscola County Sheriff's Department that she lost control on an icy spot in the road. The car skidded 75 feet into a ditch, rolled onto its top and skidded 175 more feet and rolled back on its wheels.

"If It Fitz. . ."

Why she married me

BY JIM FITZGERALD

I was watching the FBI on TV when I finally realized why my wife married me.

I don't know why it took me so long to wake up. What happened to me has happened to thousands of guys and I've seen their sad stories told dozens of times on TV and in the movies. The plot is so familiar. There's this schnook, see? He wears glasses and stutters a little and makes $53.24 a week. He has little to offer a girl, other than deep sincerity and a job taking care of his mother the drunk. Schnook is a real loser.

Along comes this blonde doll. Sometimes her hair is black, but her thoughts are always blonde. She is the most beautiful girl Schnook has ever seen. He knows she could never care for him. He is, in fact, afraid to talk to her. He just stares and dreams.

But what's this? Doll likes Schnook. She takes a cinder out of his eye and invites him to her apartment for Sunday dinner. Schnook is obviously overwhelmed with this unexpected attention. In return, Doll is coyly whelmed.

One thing leads to another, with Doll leading all the way and Schnook stuttering in her wake. Finally, if it's a TV show for the family, they plight their troth. If it's a movie, they simply climb into bed.

Either way, Schnook has scored way beyond his wildest fantasies. He doesn't know why he is so lucky. Neither does the audience. But everyone soon finds out when Doll suddenly excuses herself to go buy a roll of Tums.

In a dark bar she meets a mean but handsome devil. You can tell they have been lovers for years by the way they snarl at each other. It turns out that Handsome is a bank robber and, aha, Schnook is a bank teller. Doll's assignment is to find out from Schnook what time the bank guard takes a coffee break. She tells Handsome and, right after the next commercial, the bank is robbed and Schnook finally learns he has been played for a schnook.

NOW LET'S SEE how fact can be as sickening as fiction. The other day my side of the family had a get-together. There was the usual review of the most recent embarrassments caused by my columns. While my mother counted my drinks, my sisters counted my chins. The usual sympathy was extended to my wife and the usual question was asked her: "Why did you marry him?" Then I went home and watched the FBI and I knew why.

Any night now, she will go after the Tums. She is probably just waiting until I mumble the combination to the office safe in my sleep (I can never remember it when I'm awake).

I'm anxious for the final scene. In most movies, Doll decides she likes Schnook ok after all. At least, she doesn't want him murdered - just robbed and badly beaten up. She throws herself between him and a bullet fired by Handsome. She either dies or gets 4 to 8 years in prison.

Either way, as my wife leaves I am going to tell her I won't feed the cats while she's gone. Onward and Upward.

MR. AND MRS. Leroy Sefton of Decker have been vacationing in Naples-on-the-Gulf, Florida. Here they are admiring a large welk shell they found on the beach.

Uncle Tim From Tyre Says:

Dear Mister Editor:

The fellow that runs the store announced during the session Saturday night that he was coming to town to get a sign made. He said he was going to post cover charges in the store like them city night clubs has. You may have saw him at yore place this week.

He said Saturday night that he wasn't calling no names, but that he has got regular customers that come in the store, take a seat, reach over and grab a bananer, toss the peel on the floor, git a apple and eat it, toss the core down with the bananer peel, pinch off a hunk of cheese to go with a handful of crackers and final git so stuffed they got to buy a bottle of pop to keep from choking.

What the store feller said he has in mind is a $5 a night grazing charge, pay in advance. If these customers don't like that system, he said he will put in scales at the door, way em when they come in, wayemagin when they leave, and set a $5 a pound fattening fee.

Ed Doolittle, that was munching a handful of grapes and having trouble with the seed and his store bought teeth, told the store feller that he was of the mind that the grazing charge and the fattening fee was mighty big answers to mighty little problems. Ed said he liked a plan with user incentive, as the Government boys say, like a food stamp deal where regular customers git bonus stamps for Saturday night use with ever $5 or more grocery order.

Besides, went on Ed, they was more pressing items on the agender. Per instant, Ed said he didn't want to brag, but he was happy to report where the Federal Government had took notice of his advice about the census form to be used this year, and they had cut out most of them questions it would take a lawyer, a detective and a lot of help from on high to answer. Ed said the form is bad enuff, but not as bad as it started out.

Another big move Ed reported was where taxpayers this year can use their credit cards. The taxpayer can make out his own ticket, the Government gits the money right away and the taxpayer gits them painless monthly payments the hole year. Course, allowed Ed, Uncle Sam don't charge but six per cent on overdue taxes, and the credit card folks charge 18 per cent a year on unpaid balances.

They jest ain't nothing like the American way of life, allowed Ed, and it ain't no wonder this big Knight newspaper chain hired a staff psychologist. We need folks with that kind of training these days to finger out the news, Ed said, and to help newspaper fellers that go off the deep end trying to make sense out of their feller man.

Yours truly,
Uncle Tim

The high cost of artificial hair

"To prevent the hair from turning gray, anoint it with the blood of a black cat which has been boiled in oil, or with the fat of a rattlesnake." This prescription comes from the famous Papyrus Ebers, a medical book written in Egypt about 1552 B. C. Since Egypt occupied the dominant position in the ancient medical world, the Papyrus is of great importance as a record of the medical knowledge of that day.

The book also contains prescriptions for people who are losing hair: "When it falls out, one remedy is to apply a mixture of six fats, namely, those of the horse, the hippopotamus, the crocodile, the cat, the snake and the ibex. To strengthen it, anoint with the tooth of a donkey crushed in honey."

An extra-special hair dressing for the Egyptian queen Schesch consisted of equal parts of a heel of an abyssinian greyhound, date blossoms, and asses' hoofs, boiled in oil. This choice preparation was intended to make the royal hair grow.

There is still no known drug or hormone, preparation or device that can significantly postpone, retard or cure hereditary baldness.

Hair growth is affected by sex hormones. Because many more men than women become bald, the male hormones are probably involved. The influence of sex is also shown in the parts of the body involved. In "male pattern baldness" all the scalp hair except a rim may be lost, while a luxuriant beard remains. In women, hair loss is more likely to be diffused, but occasionally a pattern baldness occurs also in women.

Hair loss cannot always be explained by hormone-hereditary patterns. Hair loss due to the breaking off of hair above the scalp surface is probably increased by such things as too frequent permanents and dye treatment, curlers that pull at the scalp and rough teasing or ruffling of the hair. Also, hair loss in both men and women sometimes results from correctable factors in their physical health or environment. Many of the theories put forth explaining baldness are completely unscientific. You can disregard such "explanations" as lack of nourishment to the hair roots, excessive tightness of the scalp, lack of nerve endings, or lack of circulation. Bald men's scalps do not lack blood supply, nutrients, or nerves, and any treatment aimed at these supposed causes such as massage, vibration and electric treatments will naturally fail.

However, don't be discouraged. There are answers to the problem of baldness. In one way, called hair transplanting, a 1/8 inch diameter plug of healthy, hair-bearing skin is removed from areas such as the back of the head near the neck and transplanted to the bald area of the scalp where hair is needed. Such transplants are performed only by qualified plastic surgeons. They are quite expensive and long drawn-out procedures—a bit bloody and sometimes painful.

Another way is to use a good hair piece. Since all good hair pieces are custom made, the first session with the barber is a very careful fitting. At the beginning of the fitting, a felt marker or grease pencil is used to draw an outline of the bald area on the scalp; then a special absorbent paper is moistened and applied to the head. It is pressed until it fits tightly and is held in place by pressing tape over all the folds. When it is removed, the imprint of the black marker comes away with it and then the paper cap is trimmed up to the line. A sample of the natural hair is snipped and taped to the paper cap. Once a style is agreed upon, the materials are sent to the wig makers and a couple of weeks later the hair piece is ready to be put in place.

The cost of a good hair piece for a man depends upon the amount of work and material that goes into it. The very, very least that one can expect to spend is $100 and the prices go on up to $500 and more. Care of the hair piece is not difficult. It is easy to put on. Once a week it gets a thorough cleaning in a dry cleaning solution, is combed out, new tapes are put in place, and it is ready for another week of wear.

The hair piece is held in place by double-sided adhesive tape. Three tapes are used. The wig stays in place through wind, rain and anything else that might come along.

There are other ways to acquire hair besides using the hair piece. One of these is hair weaving in which a woven form is first tied to the man's hair, using his own hair as an anchor. Additional hair is woven into it. This hair piece is never removed—it is shampooed and combed just as the natural hair. The difficulty with this is that as the natural hair begins to grow out, the woven form loosens and then the man must return to the barber shop for a retightening—at $50 per session!

Agent's Corner

By Mary E. Kerr
Extension Agent

Much is heard today about the nutritionally deprived limited resource families. This is a social problem that must be solved.

But another nutritional problem is related to the fact that more of us are eating more of our food away from home or which was partially prepared away from home.

So we don't always know what we are eating, nutritionally speaking, that is.

Was the bread you ate today enriched so as to include vitamins which had been "milled out" of the flour? How much of your daily requirement of the B vitamins did you get from the cereal and breads you consumed?

For instance, when you buy the delicious pre-prepared casseroles from your nearby grocer, how much protein do you really get from that ham casserole? Oh yes, the ingredients are listed on the label—but are they translated into nutrient needs so that you know what you are really getting for your money? Chances are, on most products, they are not.

There are tables and charts available which will tell you the nutrient quantities for standard food products. But they don't tell - can't possibly tell - what is in the multitude of products we can choose today.

And snacks and "eating out" have become a way of life for us. Food substitutes and imitation foods are fast becoming commonplace, also. So are we getting, nutritionally, what we think we are?

Increased communal feeding, centralization of bulk preparation, mass distribution of pre-cooked products, and international traffic in bulk foods set up new conditions for nutrition and for food safety.

Good nutrition is a social as well as a personal problem. A free bulletin, "Nutritive Value of Foods," will tell you the nutrients in most common foods. It won't answer all your questions but will give you a place to take off from. Available at your County Cooperative Extension Service Office.

Air pollution danger to all

Air pollution endangers the well being of everyone, whether you live in an industrial city or in a remote rural area. With this in mind we have developed a new 4-H weather project involving air pollution.

Due to the widespread effects of air pollution, this new 4-H project should interest many of our young people.

The member learns how the earth's atmosphere was created and how it is maintained through a balance of nature. They also learn which elements are examples of natural air pollution and which are man-made air pollutants.

Interested young people and adults willing to serve as leaders should contact the County Extension Service Office at Caro.

FLU Special

Every two or three years, public health experts predict an epidemic of influenza in the U.S.—and they are generally right. Such has been the case this year, with flu now raging from coast to coast, through 35 states.

Most of this year's flu has been the A-2 virus, nearly identical to the type which swept the nation in 1957. However, the number of deaths is higher than expected.

In most adults, influenza is a relatively mild disease that sends the patient to bed for three days with sniffles, coughing, nausea, diarrhea, cramps and various aches and pains. However, it can also reduce one's resistance to more serious diseases, such as pneumonia.

Vaccines have been developed and are now widely available. Doctors urge their "high risk" patients—especially older people with chronic heart and lung ailments—to take advantage of this protection.

But once the flu strikes, there isn't much that can be done. Get plenty of rest and drink extra fluids, and use aspirin to reduce the pain and discomfort. By staying home, you will also protect other people and lessen the chance of spreading the disease.

AROUND THE FARM

More corn acreage seen in county

By Don Kebler

Over the years we can say that field corn has on the average returned as much profit as navy beans.

In some years navy beans have returned more dollars than corn and in others the reverse is true.

It is true navy beans are considered an easier crop to produce over a shorter season but, it is also true that navy beans are a more hazardous crop to produce than corn.

Cash crop farmers in our navy bean growing area are confronted with a possible serious problem of common blight in navy beans in 1970. This disease problem has been worsening over the last two years and has resulted in widespread soil and seed contamination problem. Clean navy bean seed treated with antibiotics to destroy blight bacteria and disease free fields will be at a premium in 1970.

Because of the possible replication of widespread common blight damage in 1970, many navy bean growers are asking the question, what crop can I economically produce in place of navy beans?

Tuscola County has a reputation of being a bean producing county as far as total acres of crops produced. Field corn production is a minor acreage use crop because of this. However, more people are thinking about producing corn in 1970 than in many a year. Many are inquiring about malting barley production too.

Both corn and malting barley have a place in our agricultural economy. Malting barley is a specialty grain crop. The Thumb malting barley is considered to be the best anywhere.

To make corn a more enticing cash crop, some recent area changes in farm enterprise developments have occurred. There has been an increase in the livestock numbers and poultry flocks in the Thumb. More beef and hogs are being fattened in this area. Tuscola County and Huron County rank third and first respectively in the state as to number of laying hens.

This increase in the number of livestock and poultry mouths to feed places a greater demand for a local corn supply. This could very well change this area from a corn exporter to an importer due to a possible deficit in total corn produced.

In the last two years many loads of high moisture corn have left Tuscola County to buyers in Huron, Sanilac, Genesee and Lapeer counties. A startling increase in exports to these counties occurred in 1969.

If this trend of livestock to corn continues to expand then Tuscola County is strategically located as the most potential hub for supplying the corn needs.

In closing, I should say here that if ideal navy bean growing conditions occur in 1970, the incidence of common blight on navy beans could be greatly reduced. A growing season in 1970 similar to what we had in 1968 and 1969 could cause some real blight problems.

New Camaro. Feb. 26th.

We've never announced a car at this time before. But then nobody's ever announced a car like this before.

Super Hugger

If it were an ordinary sportster, we'd have introduced it at the ordinary time. Instead, we took the time to build a whole new Camaro.

We started with a sleek new shape and a low road-hugging stance.

And added more hood. A faster fastback. Wider doors. And new deeply contoured bucket seats.

The instrument panel wraps around you. With enough dials to make you think you're piloting a 747.

There are four transmissions. And six power plants up to the Turbo-Jet 396 V8 that you can order.

Pick the one that best suits your driving. Then go pick on an open road.

And make it one with plenty of twisting turns. Because Camaro has a remarkable new suspension. And standard front disc brakes for a leech-like grip on the road.

New Camaro. The Super Hugger.

Other sportsters always feared it might come to this.

And they were right. Only their timing was wrong.

Putting you first, keeps us first.

CHEVROLET

See it. At your Chevrolet Sports Dept.
