CASS CITY CHRONICLE

NEVER MIND WHAT THE weatherman says, it's spring! Ignoring the snow on the ground, four-year-old Ronnie Carter is having a ball aided by a brisk March wind and a brand new kite.

FROM THE Editor's Corner

Now that cigarettes are going up again in Michigan, thousands will be quitting for hours, for days, for weeks, for months and even a few may really kick

There can never be proof but it's likely that the number counted on the fingers of one hand. Cost is the catalyst that triggers smokers into the move they have been thinking about with nagging feelings of guilt since the government's health message came wafting through

These thoughts were stirred by a young miss in the coffee shop the other day who was telling a friend that if she could last through Sunday she'd have it made: $240 per year, 2 1/2 weeks of work tax free, she bubbled.

Just if she could go through Sunday.

The chances are great that she has a lot of "Sundays" ahead. It varies with the person. A Detroit columnist reported in the News the other day that he quit over a year ago and still thinks about eigarettes every day.

Others quit without noticeable strain. Some even start and stop casually. Two that come to mind: Buck Rabideau and Bob

The odds must be a million to one for someone to start smoking and never become addicted. But friends say these guys are one-in-a-million anyway. When it comes to smoking they certainly are.

Imagine being able to smoke a pack of weeds one night and never think about them again for a couple of weeks when you decide to burn up another pack just for something to do. I hope our gal trying to quit finds it on the easy side. If she doesn't, I'll be happy to offer some helpful hints. (One of the few pleasures left to a reformed addict .) Get something to chew on or eat. If things get intolerable you can always say you gained so much weight that you were forced into smoking again. (Beit might even help... a little.)

Every day take the cigarette money and place it in a jar. It's better if done with a dramatic flair...say just before dinner every night. (This won't help kick the habit at all, but it lets the family know you are a true suffering martyr.

Re-read the latest Readers Digest cigarette horror story. (If you really kick the habit you can use these statistics to bug your pals while slyly making it possible to tell again how you quit.)

Don't be beguiled into one cigarette by buddles of lesser will. One is fatal.

If all fails and you must start smoking again, be smart. Announce it proudly, Make a production of walking up to the cigarette machine and getting your first pack and then say you've thought it over carefully. You're going to smoke again because (1) you truly like to smoke (2) it's never been proven that smoking is injurious to your health and (3) not everybody dies from it anyway.

Consumers benefit

Profits tumble for owners in village gas price war

Wednesday morning "regu-lar" gas in Cass City was selling for 33.9 cents per gallon, about four cents per gallon under the normal price. Tomorrow it could be back to normal or selling for several cents less.

The gas war that has been in progress for months in Flint and surrounding area and reached Caro a few weeks ago is now going strong in Cass

It's a war that has only one winner: the consumer. And car owners are benefiting at the expense of the station owners. For when prices are cut, the station owner pays part of the reduction, the gas company the rest. Percentage of loss varies from about a third to about 50 per cent of the amount gas is cut below former prices. All station owners agree that a price war is a costly pronosition. It's impossible to make up the profit loss with increased volûme, they say. The price break was triggered here when local owners saw regular customers deserting to fill up at Caro, which at one time were about nine cents per gallon under Cass

Floyd Luettke, co-owner of L & S Standard in Cass City, says that there hasn't been a marked difference in the amount of gas sold since the price lowered...just in the profit.

He and his partner, Louis Salas, want to call a halt to the war regardless of what happens in Caro.

They say that they are con-sidering boosting the price shortly to see if the other stations follow suit. Other owners asked why L & Slowered prices originally.

Clare Mellendorf at Sunoco sees the problem as a regional one. He hardly sees how it can be settled in Cass City until prices stabilize in Caro.

Both Mellendorf and Luettke say that factory officials have much to say about the price of gas. Every one has men that cruise every station in town checking prices, they say, and they call and say what the price of gas will be.

Bob Bader, co-owner at Cass City Gulf Service, doesn't see any immediate relief for owners. When Caro is way down below us, the volume users who drive to work get their gas there and you can't blame them, he says. But still people don't realize just how much the cut in prices affect our profits.

Gas wars are old stuff to Mellendorf and Luettke. They went through one in 1965 when gas sold for about 32 cents per gallon.

For Lynn Hurford of Lynn's Leonard Service and for Bader and Floyd Kennedy the war is the first they have experienced in Cass City.

Not hurting at all are operators at S T & H and Mobil stations which are owned by distributors who must absorb all of the cost of gas reduc-

SANDY SCHUETTE - ready to see the world.

Sandy Schuette set to see world in Air Force blues

Sandra "Sandy" Schuette, 19, enlisted in the WAFT after she graduated from Cass City High School last spring to see the world. She was accepted in November.

After four months in Air Force blue she has seen a small slice of it, but she is still determined that she will see much before her four-year hitch is over.

Tops on her list of things to do when she returns from furlough to Lackland AFB in Texas will be to apply for overseas

This is my chance to see the world and I'm going to see as much as possible, she says with an infectious smile. While things aren't exactly as she imagined they would be Sandy has no regrets. I've already learned a lot, met a host of wonderful new people and am looking forward to meeting more, she confides.

It's sure that she she will have more leisure time at Lackland, her first permanent duty

Previously there wasn't a lot of time for anything other than the Air Force school where she spent four months learning to be a computer operator and paper processing specialist. Air Force school operates

Despite the rigorous schedsights.

Around military installations the story is that service people are treated like dogs. Most times when the girls go to town they wear civilian clothes. But once I decided to wear my uniform to see what it was like. I was treated just grand, Sandy

Sometimes it's the guys in service who don't really know much about women in service, she noted. I needed a hop back to Texas when my furlough is over and I went to Wurtsmith to inquire. The soldier in charge said he was sorry but only military personnel could ride. He wouldn't believe until I showed him my credentials, Sandy said with a laugh.

For the former Cass Cityan, the Air Force is definitely THE branch of service. I just love flying. I knew I would, even though I'd never been in a big plane before entering the service, she said.

There are usually openings ule, it's possible to see the for girls in the Air Force even though it is the most popular branch of the Armed Forces.

The reason is the turnover in personnel. About half of the girls who sign for a four-year itch never make it to the end.

That's because it's easier for women to get out than it is men. Pregnancy calls for an automatic honorable discharge.

Another way that many of the girls are mustered out is through marriage.

For Robert Searls

L-dopa offers hope after 20 years

For nearly 20 years now the Rev. Robert Searls of Cass City has been slowly becoming more afflicted by Parkinson's disease, the illness that attacks the nervous system and is sometimes known as "shaking

During this time, Searls has tried a variety of cures and has been under constant medication. Nothing has been effective except on a temporary

The first few of the 10 operations that I received helped, says the former Methodist minister, but the last ones didn't seem to make much difference. Now a new drug that has received wide publicity offers new hope for him, it's called L-dopa. Like all new drugs it holds much promise and much chance for heartache.

In original tests, it has proved successful in varying degrees to about 75 per cent of a relatively small group of pa-

It appears, one article in a medical journal says, that the chances for complete recovery are best if the disease has been of short duration.

Complete recovery occurs only a small percentage of the time. But startling improvement is not unusual, according to one article that Searls has

One person in Cass City that has become afflicted with Parkinson's Disease has received L-dona and the improvement has been very noticeable, Searls said.

After 20 years the disease has progressed to a point for Searls where walking is difficult and the right arm and hand shakes nearly constantly.

Too many people fail to realize how common Parkinson's disease is, Searls noted. When I first learned I had it, I was had heart trouble and that Parkinson's disease was less

Has Modern Science Made the Bible Obsolete?

Many high school biology teachers teach that man evolved from a lower form of life; but the Bible teaches that God created man. Who is right? Should we twist the Bible so it will harmonize with modern theories? Everyone should be interested in the evidence on both sides.

concensus is that Cass City has been fortunate this year in hiring many new teachers that have proved to be of top caliber and fit well into the school's system.

In the public eye are Coaches Fred Hurlburt and Tom-Spencer and Band Director James Kot. Supt. Donald Crouse says that there are others that are equally valuable that are not as well known.

Spring is decision time for most teachers. The time when they are deciding whether to stay or seek another job. That's one reason why Crouse and other administrators at the school are anxiously awaiting the results of the school millage vote

The reception of the taxpayers to the request will be a determining factor for many on whether to stay or leave. It appears that Cass City has come up with more than its share of dedicated teachers. Teachers who do that little extra simply because they take pride in the job and the achievements of their students. Teachers like this are becoming more and more rare and it goes without saying this is what separates a good from a fair or poor school system.

We can't afford to lose them.

Public high school sporting events in the city may be on the way out. Every year the serious situation worsens. Saturday I took four boys, eighth grade and younger, to Flint to the Regional basketball tourney there.

After Flint Central lost the night game a young black who appeared to be about old enough to be an upperclassman in high school walked up to the eighth grader and poked him. I hustled the boys away without further incident.

Don't feel that it can't happen here. I saw a Cass City High School boy walk up to a smaller Harbor Beach youth and rip a school boosting visor from his head after Cass City lost in the districts. The youth was obviously spoiling for a fight with someone just because Cass City was beaten in a close game.

The incident in Flint and in Cass City are symptoms of the same malady.

This week's story about Sandra Schuette is not the first by the Chronicle. While she was in high school we ran a story about Sandy living away from home to complete her Senior year at Cass City. Several other times our paths crossed while she was a student.

She was the toastmaster at the Senior graduation and a friend of my elder daughter.

Sandy is articulate, engagingly frank and pretty. But more than this she exhibits a poise rare at any age and almost non-existent at 18. It's always fun to talk with her,

With spring easing its way toward Tuscola County, there are only a few weeks left to get everything ready for planting. Here's where decision

In visiting with many of the commercial farmers of Tuscola county, it appears as if more corn will be planted this year. As the farmers are selecting their hybrid numbers, there are several considerations that should be made. Will the corn be used for corn silage, high

Teen Ranch in campaign for new facility

How Michigan Teen Ranch, Inc. near Kingston is turning misdirected boys from potential criminals to productive citizenship will be told over radio station WKYO, Caro, Tuesday, March 24, from 6:30 a.m. to 6:30 p.m.

Also described in detail will the proposed Vocational Building at the Ranch, which will aid in teaching these aggressive boys how to use their talents for the benefit of many people. Money pledges will be asked to help make the building a reality.

On the day-long program will be the boys themselves, judges, police officials, court case workers, Ranch personnel and directors, as well as a host of others, all interspersed with good music.

The proposed vocational building, erected and equipped is estimated to cost $28,000. $13,000 of this amount is already on hand. Pledges toward the remaining amount to be paid over a 12-month period can be made by phone, by mail, or by rence Keinath, Caro; Henry clipping a coupon in an advertisement in this newspaper.

Since the Ranch was opened in January 1967, 52 boys have been given a family-life type of home under the guidance of God. Of these boys, 22 have been returned to their own homes or foster homes, and only seven have had to be referred to places of more intensive psychological care. The rest of the boys are now at the

SPORTS FANS!

By H. M. Bulen

One of the most fantastic records in all of sports is held by the United States in basketball competition in the Olympics....Did you know that the U. S. has never lost even one basketball game in Olympic history?...Since the beginning, the U.S. has 54 consecutive Olympic basketball triumphs.

Not much publicity was given to an odd incident that happened at the beginning of the current basketball season..... But it proves that strange things happen all the time in sports....Officials called a foulon Florida State before they even started to play their home opener...It seems Florida State put the player benches at the end of the court instead of along the sides as college rules now require...Thus, this game turned out to be the only one in history that started, not with a jump ball and regular play, but with a foul shot.

Few people know that one of the head coaches in the National Football League once played pro basketball in the National Basketball Association ... Bud Grant, the head football coach of the Minnesota Vikings. played basketball with the Lakers from 1949 to 1951 on the same team with the great George Mikan.

moisture corn or dried corn to sell? With corn silage or high moisture corn, a longer maturing corn can be used whereas a shorter maturity corn must making helps pave the way for a be used for dried corn to sell.

The first consideration is selecting a "modern day corn."

A good corn of two or three years ago is normally outdated today. The single, three-way and special crosses are moving in fast for their greater yields. If one looks at corn plot results, he will note that almost every time the first 5-10 hybrids are single, three-way or special crosses. However, if you are not striving for top yields, you will want to use our old 4-way crosses.

The second consideration in selection of a corn hybrid is the ability of the hybrid to stand stress of thick planting. Here in the Thumb area, each ear of corn has 5-6 less kernels per row than they do in southern Michigan. Also, each ear of corn in southern Michigan has 5-6 less kernels per row than they do in Indiana. Therefore, we need to plant our kernels of corn much closer together than they do south of us to get the same yield. For top yields in Tuscola county, we need to have a harvest stand of 24,000 to 26,000 plants per acre.

If a corn producer uses these two objectives in selecting the corn to grow on his farm, top yields will result as more corn is grown in Tuscola county.

AAUW seeks local art show exhibits

Samples of creative work are being sought as entries in a spring showing of area artists and craftsmen being sponsored by the Cass City branch of the American Association of University Women. Painting, sculpture, china paint, needlework, woodwork, or water color exhibits are eligible. All entries should be brought to the Cultural Center on Saturday, April

The show, "Many Facets of the Arts," will have three divisions: The Practical Arts and Crafts, The Fine Arts, and Children's Art. The practical arts will include needlework,

All entries in the show must be original in design, not something made from a kit, Because of the large number of works anticipated, AAUW planners have set a limit of one entry per person in each category. Mrs. Lambert Althaver, show chairman, stressed that artwork does not need to be framed but should be matted. The show itself will be held May 1, 2, and 3, but all entries must be submitted at the Cultural Center on April 18 so that proper display arrangements can be

File $150,000 damage suit

Donald Stewart this week filed suit in Tuscola County Circuit Court for damages of $150,000 stemming from the death of Dennis Allen Stewart in an auto crash on M-72 in Alcona County.

An unusual aspect of the suit is that Stewart is suing the owners of both cars involved in the mishap.

Defendants in the case include John William Comment, owner of one vehicle, and Eugene Comment, its driver. Also named is Dick Green Leasing Inc., owner of the second vehicle involved in the mishap. James Frances Costello Jr..

the driver, was not named. Stewart is claiming that both cars were operated in a careless and negligent manner.

WSC hears facts about Israel

Israel, Its Land and People was the subject presented by Mrs. Keith McConkey when the Woman's Study Club met at the home of Mrs. Harold Perry Tuesday, Mar. 10.

After tracing the history of the country, Mrs. McConkey told of present day achievements of the Jews. By draining swamps and building soils, Israel now ranks second in the world in citrus products and is a leading producer of figs and dates. TelAviv is the nation's newest city and Palestine its oldest. Today all citizens, including girls, are asked to serve three years in military service and reservists are on call until they are 55 years old.

Taxes are the highest in the world and are going up as the undeclared war drains national resources.

Two seniors named State Farmers

CASS CITY'S State Farmers for 1970 are Dave Little, left, and Dave Milligan. They will receive their awards next week at East Lansing.

SERTA FOLD-O-BED SOFA DURABLE VINYL OR 100% NYLON

Two Cass · City High School Seniors will be honored as State Farmers during Farmer's Week at Michigan State University next week. The boys are Dave Milligan, son of James A. Milligan, and Dave Little, son of Keith Little.

The farm awards run in the families of both boys. Milligan's brother, Bob, was a State Farmer and Little's dad was a State Farmer and American Farmer, Both Bob and Keith were State FFA secretaries.

on the basis of their work on farm projects and FFA work. Dave earns about $500 a year with his dairy cattle. He has 3 cows and 12 heifers. He rents 80 acres as part of his project. Actually, he is the right hand of his father and together the Milligans work 560 acres near their home on Bay City-Forest-and the remainder rented. This is big enough to make money on a dairy farm, Dave ville Road. 280 acres are owned

The Milligans have 30 cows now and if Dave joins his dad after graduation there will be more. However, his future is still undecided. He is wavering between following the footsteps of his elder brother to study agriculture engineering at MSU or staying on the farm.

If he goes to school he doesn't know whether or not he would return to the land after grad-

Dave was president of the Cass City chapter of the FFA as a junior and is the club reporter this year.

Dave Little also raises cattle as his project. However he specializes in Shorthorns and presently has five purebreds, in-

Besides his cattle, Dave raised 17 feeder pigs as a project. The project tied in nicely with the Little Brothers farm operation. At the farm the family raises some 1,000 feeder pigs to about 40 to 50 pounds (8 to 10 weeks old) and then they are taken on contract to feed for market.

If things go well, the family would like to have the barns to finish feeding the pigs until they are ready for sale.

Perhaps this will be a project for Dave who says his plans after graduation are to stay right on the farm and work. The Littles have 600 acres and 150 Shorthorn cattle in addition to the feeder pig operation. Dave is president of the Cass City FFA this year and last year served as vice-president.

"If It Fitz. . ."

Let's hear it in church

BY JIM FITZGERALD

It has always bothered me that applause is forbidden in church sanctuaries.

I hear some fine speeches and great singing in church. And I've often been embarrassed by the dead silence which follows these splendid performances. If it were a Rotary meeting, or even a fellowship meeting in another part of the church building, there would be great clapping of hands.

But the performance is given in somehow "sacred territory" and the performers receive only hurried assurance from the pastor that "we all enjoyed that.*

Admittedly, part of my problem is I don't attend church regularly. I depend on touts to let me know when something special, something down my alley, is planned. It doesn't matter what church, synagogue or Gospel tent. If the program appeals to me, I'm liable to slip in late and grab a seat in the back.

As a result, I generally hear the "specials" more apt to sat-Regular church-goers might well say that on most Sundays there is a lot not to clap about.

It was several years ago that I created a mild ruckus by writing why I don't go to church every Sunday. My complaint is that too many churches for too many years have encouraged or at least ignored white racism rather than fight it as Jesus Christ would have. This is no attempt to revive that argument. I mention it only to explain what I was doing in church last Wednesday, I was touted on to a good one.

The speaker was Fr. Fred Williams, the black pastor of an Episcopal Church in the Detroit area. He was introduced by my favorite Chinese minister. And the audience, filling the sanctuary of Lapeer's Episcopal church, was made up equally of Protestants and Roman Catholics, including nuns and priests. As a man whispered in my ear that night, "This is a natural for a nut like you." Fr. Williams expressed surprise - and delight - that a town of 6,000 lily-white persons could produce such a crowd to hear a Negro sound off. And then he sounded off real good, baby.

To sum it up succinctly, Fr. Williams said too many Christians really aren't. Too many hide from the problems of racism and other evils. Whose fault is it? He quoted Pogo of the comics: "We have met the enemy and he is us."

Father Williams criticized Nixon's appointment of Judge Carswell to the Supreme Court. He noted that Spiro Agnew "is the biggest kook on the front page." And he rapped a "Victorian clergy guilty of village thinking,"

It was the kind of stuff many people think should not be said in church. I think church is where it SHOULD be said, first, last and always...

After the speech, there were questions. Someone asked "what can we small-town people do?" Another man stood up and said some nice things about me, God bless him. We've never met and he didn't know I was in the back pew. "What this town needs is more Jim Fitzgeralds," he said as I discovered I can still blush. The least I could do, upon request from the altar, was take a small bow. And, omigosh, a smattering of applause was heard throughout the sanctuary! (To keep my humble image, I hasten to admit I was dealing with a stacked deck. Many of those people were automatically on my side or they would not have been there listening to a Negro preacher. If that unknown man had so praised me most anywhere else, he'd have been hooted down and possibly slugged. When I write a column like this, the mail reaction is usually 4 to 1 in favor of deporting me to the nearest ghetto.) Anyway, my point today is the applause. Maybe a prece-dent was set. I got only a few claps. But when Fr. Williams said good night, the clapping was practically thunderous. In the sanctuary!

It was splendid, I recommend it to all parsons. And anytime the guest speaker is Fred Williams, I'll be glad to come lead the clapping.

I'll even throw in some whistles and cheers. "C'mon, let's hear it out there. brethren,"

program at MSU

BY BERNARD JARDOT

I wish to share with the people of Tuscola County my impressions of the recent 4-H Leadermete program for adult and teen leaders which was held at Michigan State University. This meeting was developed jointly by the State 4-H Youth Council, the Cooperative Extension Service of Michigan State University and the 4-H Club Foundation of Michigan.

The purpose of this meeting was to provide an educational opportunity for all to explore what the responsibilities and opportunities are for our many 4-H adult and teen leaders. The program content was designed to bring attention to the people who attended, just what the role of teen leader development can be in all phases of the 4-H youth program.

The theme for the program was "We Listen and/or Care." With this as a focal point, both adults and teens came up with many suggestions as to how we can help both understand their role. In general the delegates to this Leadermete Workshop, reported that we must sharpen our ability to listen, teens and adults should meet together to plan their 4-H programs, and that teens need to respect adults and adults need to respect teens.

The big bang of the space age

The sonic boom has been called many things - a thunder clap, a "sound of progress," a "window-rattling crescendo." Perhaps the most apt term has been a "karate chop out of the

All of us have experienced a sonic boom. It's the Big Bang of the space age, And it seldom fails to startle one.

It occurs everywhere from the suburbs of cities to the small towns in the desert. One such small towns in the desert. One such small town called Boron is in a 200-mile swath of desert known as "the sonic boom corridor." Residents of this town are pelted by booms from the 750 flights that each day use Edwards Air Force Base. The Boron Chamber of Commerce has tried to capitalize on this by claiming it's the "Boom Capital of the World."

Boron was known as the "Borax Capital of the World." In that capacity it was used to general percussions because there was an open pit mine near the town and blasting in it was conducted regularly. But residents point out that the sonic booms are a little harder to take than the blastings at "the big hole." The sonic booms shatter windows, cut off conversations in mid-sentence, and knock merchandise from store shelves.

Last year 47 claims for damage were filed by the citizens of Boron and three other nearby towns.

A few of the residents are utterly unaffected by the din and seldom file claims. Some of them take the viewpoint that the planes have to be tested and someone has to suffer the inconvenience of booms as the price of the nation's security.

That may be all right in a small town in a desert but when that same situation occurs in major populated areas the situation can be quite different. Consequently, a great deal of research is going on to determine the response of people to sonic booms. This is particularly important because the SST - a hugh new plane built to fly across oceans and around the world at record supersonic speeds - will soon be in operation and it is expected to create sonic booms of monumental proportions.

Researchers are trying to find out how people of different

They are using a sleep study laboratory which contains bedrooms which are isolated from sound. In them, sleeping subjects are presented a large variety of recorded sounds. A special device has been arranged so that the booms created in the laboratory simulate the actual sonic booms of aircraft very realistically.

The sleeping subjects are hooked up to an electro-encephalograph and their brain waves are measured during different phases of undisturbed sleep and also during the time of the booms. Tests are very carefully set up so that the subjects have no warning when or how often, or which night the test sounds will be presented. Three age groups are used: ages 7 and 8, another 41 and 54, and another 69 and 72.

The responses of the age groups differed. The two older persons were awakened by the boom noise about two-thirds of the time, whereas the middle aged and youngsters only five and two percent of the time respectively. Surprisingly enough, there was no clear-cut indication that the louder booms had any more effect than the booms of lower intensity.

Indirect physiology responses result from the startle produced by sonic booms of even moderate proportions. These responses are difficult to predict because persons differ in their response both as to kind and degree.

Other research should provide basic criteria necessary to the design of a future commercial SST which would enable it to fly over populated areas without undue annoyance to the residents of such areas. Meantime, the present generation of SSTs will probably be restricted essentially to routes over water and be traveling too slowly to produce a sonic boom while landing or taking off from commercial airports.

Young couples can make their furniture buying dollars go a long way if they stretch their imagination.

Inexpensive pieces such as cushion seats, card table dinettes and brick'n board book shelves can be used by the young couple. Furniture sales, discount houses and even used furniture stores may be a good source for the couple. Used furniture is especially fun if the couple enjoys refinishing and browsing through old stores. Safety and durability are very important as the furniture has to stand up to any number of young children. It is best to avoid furniture with sharp corners, wobbly shelves and many legs. Furniture pieces that have coated surfaces and metal structure are protected from hard use.

A well styled metal table and chairs would be a wise choice for the dining area. They will resist wear, hold the budget line and offer maximum efficiency in a small apartment. The ease of cleaning these items is another advantage for the busy young couple.

One area in which you shouldn't sacrifice comfort for economy is bedding.

When buying large furniture pieces, it's best that they be neutral in color and design. Accessories can brighten up a room, and are more easily discarded if a move is necessary.

Chemical mace with pistol grip

ONE FOR THE ROAD

By Dan Marlowe

The WALL STREET JOUR-NAL recently took a tonguein-cheek look at advertising in an unfamiliar medium.

The JOURNAL directed its editorial eye at the pages of a magazine called Police Chief. a monthly published by the International Association Chiefs of Police.

Police Chief ads are presented in the "now" style of generalcirculation magazines, "Are you updating your nonlethal weaponry?" asks an ad, "Trade in that old-fashioned spray can of Chemical Mace and get $3 toward the price of a secondgeneration model with the new pistol-grip trigger."

The magazine's 10,000 subscribers learn all there is to know about products as wideranging as riot guns and .38 caliber pistols and custommade badges and "throw-away" nylon handcuffs.

Modern weapons, it appears, come in easy-to-use, conven-ience packages. Smith & Wesson's 5-pound Mighty Midget tear gas kit "puts 12 grenades, 12 grenade launching cartridges and a grenade revolver launcher right at your finger-tips." The ad includes some sage advice: "No riot mob is going to stand still while you say 'Wait for me, gents, while I go back to the station and get my tear gas.' "

The Mighty Midget even has its own advertising slogan, A full-page advertisement shows an opened 12-grenade kit with a caption in large, bold type: Two Six-Packs To Go."

No self-respecting police department uses plain tear gas today. Instead, the ads urge them to acquire the "Paralyzer," the "Pepper Fog," the "Mob Disperser," or the "Riot Squasher." There's even an item known as TGA, a tear gas antidote in a spray can for that moment during a riot when things quiet down. "It provides your department with an important public relations plus," the ad promises.

Some ads look no different than those in ordinary catalogues. A rugged-looking man conservatively attired in a business suit and sweater, however, turns out upon second glance to be wearing a "sweater" which is actually a plainclothesman's bullet-proof vest. "A shoulder-holster may be worn comfortably over it, denying that telltale shoulder-holster bulge," the ad states, implythat no self-respecting plainclothes man should be with-

Far more sensitive problems are handled with brisk assurance, too. A picture shows a policeman frisking a young woman who has her back to the officer and her hands pressed against a wall. A delicate situation for a search? Not at all. The policeman is conducting a "no touch" search with his Friskem Electronic Nitestick. "Just pass it near the suspected areas," instructs the ad, "and any iron or steel object will cause the meter to jump,"

The JOURNAL's inquiries appeared to indicate that business was good in the areas mentioned.

In other words, it still pays

Award Navy medal to D. L. Bradley

Spring Training

With the spring sun beckon-ing you out-of-doors, doctors are offering some sensible suggestions on preparing yourself for the summer months ahead.

Tone your body slowly; don't try to play four sets of tennis on your first day on the courts. If you've put on a few extra winter pounds, take them off sensibly — no crash diets. This is a good time for a medical check-up, including advice on exercise and diet.

 This is the time, too, for your immunizations. Most dec-tors prefer to give shots in cool weather, rather than in midsummer. Tetanus shots for you, if you're at all active. For the children: tetanus, whooping cough, measles, diptheria and polio may all be indicated. • As part of your spring clean-ing, chuck out all those state, out-of-date drugs in the medicine cabinet. If you don't know if a medication is still useful, let me check it for you. • Call your local Red Cross for information on first-aid classes. This could save a life on the beach this summer, if you know about artificial respiration and treating bad cuts.

This might be a good time to brush up on your swimming, oo. Or if you need instructions in handling a boat safely, you still have time.

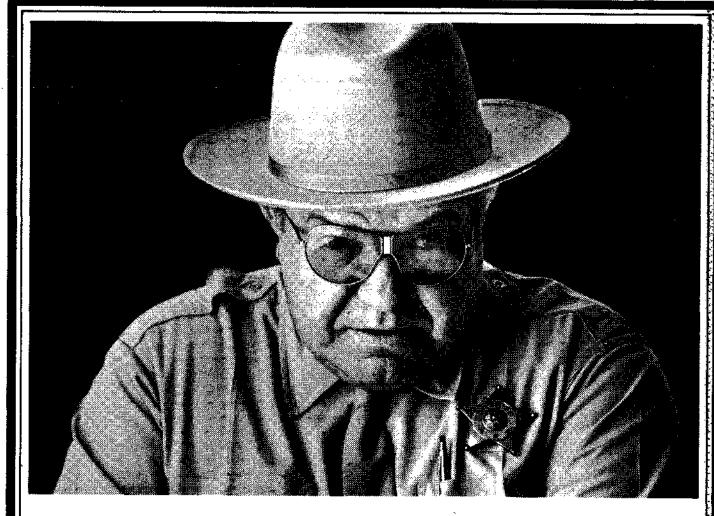

• Remind the children what poison ivy looks like, along with other poisonous plants, bushes or vines. Their memories can be short, from summer to summer.

It is true, allowed Zeke, that we ain't been able to git the car stopped, and that they has choked the cities and is working on the country. Nobody will drive into big cities when they can git everthing they want in them towns that has built up around parking lots, was Zeke's words. Clem Webster was agreed with Zeke that cars has got a powerful grip on the people and the economy of this country, but Clem was of a mind that cars is jest part of the picture, Clem said they is too many folks trying to git from one place to another at the same time. The fellers got started when Zeke Grubb said he had heard this feller say on the radio that they was five times more cars in this country than in the rest of the world put together, and the only way fer Americans to have enuff room fer their cars;

Zeke allowed cars got this country moving, and it looks like they is going to run it ragged. Cars now is being blamed fer everthing from air polution. to unemployment and social rate. He is still working on the fine points of the plan, but he has got it figgered to where we can group folks by the letter that begins their last names and assign days fer them to travel. If we had four groups, then we would jest have a fourth of the people on the road ever day. Clem would give everbody a few emergency travel days in a year fer cases of sickness and such.

Personal, Mister Editor, I like Clem's plan. You hear they do this at ball games where they ain't room fer everbody. And hospitals work this way, cause a hospital with 100 beds and 120 patients has got to figger somebody is up walking nd all the

Thanks staff for story about horses

Kind Sirs:

Sorry for the delay in thank-ing you and all your staff especially your newswriter for all of your trouble and interesting article you published in your paper regarding the life of myself and horses. The part I admired: it wasn't in any way a half false write up, it was a real true well written report in every respect and not overdone in any manner.

I only hope at a later date in the year when I get going you will be able to visit me and see my horses in real shape and form and if I live long enough Cass City might be proud of at least one of them going places.

P. S. Don't forget to thank Dr. Crandell for making the write up possible.

It said no legislation is needed to deal with campus disorders and that there has been "only a very minimal amount of communist or subversive activity" in campus unrest in

Aware of the skepticism awaiting the report, Huber said, "I should point out," he said in releasing it, "that many people thought our study was going to be a witch hunt. This report shows that it is the furthest thing from what it is."

When asked if any subversive influences helped cause student disorders, he said, "Oh, there are a few. But the total is very minimal on Michigan campuses. And I think that is something we should all be thankful for."

The report was put together by the Chicago consulting firm of Higher Educational Executive Associates and was presented to the Huber committee for its consideration. It is the result of a year of studies and interviews, and was emphatic in its statement that no legislation is needed.

"The fundamental problem on many college campuses is to divert student unrest from translation into campus disorder and to channel the energies which are reflected in student unrest into more productive mechanisms and paths." the report said. "The intervention of the legislature, however well intentioned, is unlikely to contribute to this process."

In addition to recommending no new legislation, the report says specifically that scholarships, grants and loans should never be withdrawn for any reasons other than poor grades.
