

Curb cost set at $2.77 foot

Council reviews $10,000 summer park program

Property owners on Oak Street from Seeger to Garfield and on Church Street, east from Seeger Street, will pay $2.77 per running foot for curb and gutter slated for installation this summer.

The figure was ascertained after bids were opened for the work at the regular meeting of the council Tuesday night.

Tom Proctor wins Rotary governor post

Tom Proctor was named Rotary district governor nominee Thursday at the annual meeting of the district held at Chesaning. Becoming the nominee is tantamount to election in the Rotary election system.

When he takes office, Proctor will become the first Rotarian from Cass City to be the governor. He won the office in competition with a candidate from Alpena and during the course of the campaign visited nearly all of the 29 clubs in the district.

TOM PROCTOR

He was feted at Rotary's regular meeting Tuesday when a special cake was cut and served to commemorate his nomination.

In other business of the meeting Tuesday, Jim Henderson, art critic of the Saginaw News, told of the importance of the arts and outlined what might be achieved in a cultural program in communities like Cass City.

PRESBYTERIAN Church Rummage sale in church basement, Saturday, May 2. Doors open 9 a.m. 4-18-3 at the Municipal Building. Lasky Construction Co. was the low bidder at a cost to the village of $2.52 per running foot. He was one of five bidders. Other bids ranged from $2.59 per foot to a top of $2.94 per foot.

The village charges property owners 10 per cent over its cost for the curb and gutter.

The surcharge helps to pay for the drainage and other preparation required for curb. On both Church and Oak the drainage was already adequate, but four large maple trees were removed this spring on Oak Street to prepare for parking.

The cost to property owners is higher than the previous work completed when property owners paid $2.61 per running foot. The cost is about 6 per cent more than it was two years ago the last time work was completed in Cass City. The bids were generally conceded to be advantageous to the village.

In other business in the brief session, trustees reviewed a $10,000 summer park program.

The cost of park supervision will be a third higher than it was the preceding year as the council approved paying Tom Spencer, director, $150 weekly. Last summer Tom Woody received $100 weekly as supervisor. Tentative plans are also underway to hire Spencer for part-time work after the summer program is over. This cost has not yet been determined but will be an additional expense because it is the first time that a winter program has been contemplated.

Despite the increase in the supervisor's salary, Dr. D. E. Rawson said that the overall cost of the program would probably be less this year than the preceding year.

Pool costs will be reduced because three lifeguards will be hired under the direction of Spencer and there will be no pool director. Substantial reductions in capital expenditures at the pool will also be recorded because of work on the apron completed last year.

Mrs. Barbara Tuckey will again handle arts and crafts and her salary will be the same as it was when she started five years ago. She receives a set amount for salary and for supplies to run her program.

Rawson said that the park committee felt fortunate to have her services.

While pool costs are expected to be less, there are apt to be changes in the cost to users of the facility. Rawson said that the traditional free period would be retained but charges for swimming lessons and other pool use time would probably be increased. He said he was not yet ready to release cost details.

Meanwhile, the off-street parking investigation committee headed by Bernard Ross reported that prices for suitable property were very high. By inference it appears that very little action will be taken this season.

Property especially desired by business and the council would be south of Main somewhere between Leach and Seeger streets.

The only other business in the session was appointing Gary Jones to represent the village in preparing for the annual Memorial Day parade.

May 11 is deadline for school petitions

The deadline is nearing for submitting petitions for the open post on the Cass City School Board, Supt. Donald Crouse announced this week.

Qualified electors have until 4 p.m. May 11 to submit petitions to Horace Bolen, president of the school board, or to the superintendent's office at the school to be listed on this year's ballot.

A minimum of 20 signatures of qualified electors in the district is needed for valid petitions. Already announcing his candidacy for re-election has been Elwyn Helwig, incumbent.

Helwig is currently serving as secretary of the board. Blank petition forms are available at the high school, Crouse said.

Firemen quell several spring grass fires

Spring fires continue to plague the Elkland Township Fire Department, several caused by careless burning by residents.

Elkland Township Clerk R. M. Hunter reported that he has sent several statements for $100 each to residents for fire calls deemed the result of careless burning.

The most serious blaze was reported Thursday at the Don Smith residence in Cass City. A building housing a boat, two lawn mowers and a snowmobile was razed. The snowmobile was saved, but the boat and lawn mowers lost, firemen said.

Saturday afternoon a fire believed to be caused by a stove at a Boy Scout camp on Elmwood Road, southwest of Cass City, resulted in a 60-acre grass fire and the burning of a barn. Damage was estimated at $1,000.

Sunday two other grass fires were quelled. At about noon, two small sheds were burned in a fire in Greenleaf township at a farm owned by Michael Flier of Almont. Damage was estimated at $500.

No damage was recorded in a grass fire on Doerr Road on property owned by C. R. Hunt at about 3:45 p.m.

THE THREE MEMBERS OF THE WRIGHT family who were in this car escaped with only minor injuries Tuesday night.

FROM THE Editor's Corner

There was a fleeting thought here to run out to the former city dump on Elmwood Road and take a picture as an object lesson for Earth Day last week. Certainly this example of pollution at its worst would have been timely.

It's been over two years now since the dump was abandoned in favor of the new sanitary landfill and the site is essentially the same today as it was then.

The only pollution control at the forks of the Cass River has been spreading a little rat poison around.

I suppose that eventually the Michigan Department of Health will get around to forcing the community to do something about turning the dumpback into what it originally was: one of the finest places for a park in the immediate area.

Where will the money come from? Actually, this project isn't as big as you may believe. A check with some people in the earth building business indicates that an off-the-cuff estimate for leveling the ground and covering the debris with a foot of earth is $10,000. There are many variables...one is covering the river banks with dirt to eliminate the refuse that has spilled over from the dump over the years.

There are stringent controls these days when you start to fool with a natural resource like the Cass. It's too bad they came 30 years too late.

While it would be hard to see how $10,000 could be wrangled from village (or township) budgets today there are reasonable alternatives that might well be started.

I'm informed that leveling the dump area isn't too much of an operation. A few days with a bulldozer should do the job.

That's the starter. Then as the dirt becomes available from other excavations it could be hauled to the site. There is always extra fill from the present sanitary landfill and from streets in the community.

You can't help thinking that we are too close to the situation to really see it. Any real estate agent will tell you what property fronting on a river like the Cass should be worth. City folks would gobble it up in a twinkling of an eye as the most (instead of the least) valuable property in the area.

For results of this kind it seems that $10,000 spread over a number of years is a very small price. All we have to do is get started.

Now would not be too soon.

Ugly youth killed; several injured in area mishaps

One person was killed and several injured in accidents involving area drivers during the week.

Dead is Randall M. "Randy" Walsh, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mark P. Walsh of Ubyly. He was fatally injured in a one-car mishap early Sunday morning on Atwater Road, about a half mile east of Ubyly.

Randy was a passenger in the back seat of a car driven by Gary T. Grifka, 17, Ubyly, according to State Police.

The car ran off the south side of the road and struck two tree stumps, demolishing the car. The engine was found 80 feet from the car.

Grifka is in Hubbard Memorial Hospital and the three other passengers, William Osentoski, 17, Marshall Osentoski, 16, both of Ubyly, and Gary M. Glowinski, 18, Saline, are patients at Scheurer Hospital in Pigeon. Walsh was born Oct. 10, 1954, at Bad Axe and was a sophomore at Ubyly Community Schools. He was vice-president elect of the Ubyly FFA.

Treated for cuts and bruises in another early Sunday morning accident was Kenneth Wilbur Mathews, 28, of Deford. He was taken to Hillis and Dales General Hospital.

He lost control of his car on Cemetery Road, about a half mile north of Kelley Road. The vehicle left the roadway, hit a mailbox and slammed into a culvert.

Mathews was ticketed for driving under the influence of alcohol, according to the report at the Tuscola County Sheriff's Department.

Cars driven by Richard James Greenwood, 36, of Cass City and Orville Kenneth Jaynes, 64, of Caro collided Friday on M-81, about a half mile south of Deckerville Road.

Jaynes was treated for injuries at Caro Community Hospital. Also shaken in the mishap were Sally Greenwood, 33, and Nancy Greenwood, 13. A third passenger in the Greenwood vehicle, Jimmy Greenwood, 12, was uninjured.

Greenwood reported to sheriff's deputies that he had stopped to make a left turn when his signals on when his vehicle was hit in the rear by the Jaynes car.

Linda W. Wright, 25, and two small children, James, 7, and Michael, 8, were shaken up in a two-car mishap at the corner of Houghton and Seeger streets

82-year-old Grace Moore's paintings among art show features

Unless they know, it is almost certain that visitors to the Cass City American Association of University Women's art show will not guess the age of one of the painters among the galaxy of local artists whose works are on display at the Cultural Center.

The show, called the "Many Facets of the Arts" opens Saturday, May 2, and will be held from 1 to 5 and 7 to 9 p.m. May 2 and from 1-5 p.m. Sunday, May 3.

The painter in question is Mrs. Grace Moore.

Mrs. Moore has been painting for four years and during this period has created about 18 canvases. That's a lot of work for artists of any age, when you consider that Mrs. Moore is now 82 it is almost unbelievable.

But if you didn't know her, it would be very hard to believe that she is as old as she is. To talk about her works on display Mrs. Moore was happy to jump into her car, drive downtown and parallel park in front of the Cultural Center... a feat that many uncertain drivers half her age wouldn't care to attempt.

The idea that she should "paint before she dies" came to Mrs. Moore when dining in Detroit with one of her sons, Marvin. She remarked as to how she'd always wanted to try it. Marvin said, why not?, and before she returned home she was supplied with all the necessary tools.

Without ever receiving a lesson, she started to work. I see in my mind what I want and I keep working at it until it is the way I want it, Mrs. Moore confided. I keep changing the picture again and again. I'm not sure that this one is completely done the way I want, she said as she waved at a picture of a sailing ship hung in the exhibit.

Cass Cityans will not have the opportunity to see the work that Mrs. Moore considers her best.

It's called "Old Violin" and she has given it to her son. It won first place in Detroit's Ford Lobby art show. Several others that she considers better have been given to other family members.

While painting is her most recent avocation, Mrs. Moore has always enjoyed working with her hands. The art exhibit will demonstrate her talent. Besides her paintings she has quilting, ceramics and needlework on display.

Among her treasured possessions are four quilts with over 1,000 yards of material each. She makes baskets. She weaves. She sews. Earlier in her life she was much in demand as a singer at special occasions.

Born in Deford, Mrs. Moore spent most of her life on a farm north of Cass City. She and her late husband, who died 14 years ago, reared four children there. Mrs. Donald (Doris) Lester lives in Royal Oak. John, of Cass City, is the only child in the area. Paul lives in Royal Oak and Marvin in Rochester.

To date, Mrs. Moore has painted only still life and landscapes. But she does not intend to confine herself to this type art.

I want to try people next, she said, as soon as I find someone that I feel I can really paint.

Behind the Counter Career Opportunity

With our nation experiencing a shortage of registered pharmacists, this has become an increasingly attractive career opportunity for young people. Each year, American schools of pharmacy graduate just about the same number of men and women, as the number of practicing pharmacists who retire or die. Even though the demand is increasing, the total number of druggists remains just about the same.

And not all pharmacy school graduates enter the retail field. Many become teachers or enter government service; others go into hospital and industrial pharmacies. Some work for drug manufacturers and wholesalers. These are attractive job opportunities that lure many young pharmacists away from retail drug stores.

Before the pharmacist sets up his own business, he usually works for another druggist, to get some experience in meeting the public's needs. Some of these then settle down to working for other pharmacists, rather than starting up new businesses — and this cuts down the total number of drug stores. In short, pharmacy is a profession that has not kept pace with our increase in population.

This is a field that has many opportunities for women and for members of minority groups who might otherwise be frustrated, upon graduation from college, to find their progress blocked by tradition or prejudice. If you know of a teenager who is beginning to make career plans, suggest that he look into the requirements for entering pharmacy in our state. It may be just what he's looking for.

PROCLAMATION

On Friday, May 1, the nation will pay tribute to the law and its indispensable role in the lives of all our citizens. The day has been set aside as Law Day USA by joint resolution of Congress and by official proclamation of the President.

The benefits that have accrued to each of us as individuals and to all of us as Americans through our adherence to the rule of law are too numerous to record. Without law, no citizen could enjoy the rights, freedoms, opportunities and protection which we take for granted. And without law administered by independent courts no community or nation could endure as a stable entity.

The theme for Law Day USA this year is: "Law—Bridge to Justice." It avers that the goal of law is to serve as a unifying influence in protecting the rights of individuals and correcting injustices. A century ago U.S. Supreme Court Justice David Davis reminded us:

"The Constitution of the United States is a law for rulers and people, equally in war and peace, and covers with the shield of its protection all classes of men, at all times, and under all circumstances."

The theme for the 1970 observance of Law Day USA on May 1 is an appropriate reminder that without the framework of law social problems would become unmanageable and justice unattainable.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, President of the Village of Cass City, do hereby designate Friday, May 1, 1970, as Law Day USA in this Village, and call upon all citizens, organizations, schools, churches, the media of information, and businesses where possible to recognize this special day and to join in its observance.

Dated at the Village of Cass City, this 23rd day of April, 1970.

Rabbit tracks

By John Haire

(And anyone else he can get to help)

Alger Freiburger can now see practically nothing. When he first received his leader dog he ventured out on sunny days because the bright light on the sidewalk gave him a slight clue to directions.

The sun no longer helps. In a way, he says, this has been a blessing. Because daylight and dark have little meaning, he now travels the community and isn't dependent on the weather for his walks.

Naturally, his other senses have been sharpened and a change in the routine is disconcerting. Normally, he crosses Main street at Seeger street where the traffic light helps regulate traffic.

When you can't see, little things make a big difference. The traffic is a little confusing today, he said, as he waited on the corner...it's hard to hear a pattern.

Almost unnoticed by most of us, but a serious problem for Alger, was that for a brief period the signal was turned off for repairs and the normal stop and go pattern had disappeared and with it the sounds that he uses to "see" his way around the village.

Spokesmen for the Cass City teachers' union said that they were happy with the way I reported the news last year when I sat in on teacher-school negotiations.

Representatives of the school have somewhat reluctantly placed me on their team again.

We don't believe that this is the way to do it, Supt. Don Crouse said this week, but if we are going to release news as we go, we want you to report it so it will not be presented on a bias basis for either side.

It just doesn't seem natural for me to be reporting these sometimes acrimonious meetings without alienating one side or the other...or (even more likely) both sides.

But if the 1970-71 contract is hammered out as early and as equitably as the one signed last year no one should complain: not the teachers, not the school board and not the taxpayers.

Don't look for anything startling to come from these negotiations until the State Aid to schools situation clears. Meaningful negotiations last year didn't really begin until the State adopted a formula and the two parties knew what money would be available.

In the collection of local paintings to be presented by the AAUW in its art show there is one with the vague outline of a nude boy and girl walking away from you hand in hand.

I mention this painting for two reasons: one, it struck me as a highly unusual exhibit for a local artist and two, the AAUW would like to have a large crowd at its show and what better way to stir up interest than an item like this?

SPORTS FANS!

BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

By H. M. Bulen

Here's one that will surprise a lot of people...Despite the fact that the Kentucky Derby is by far the most famous of all horse races, there are actually SEVEN other races in America that pay more money to the winner than the Kentucky Derby does!...Those seven that are worth more than the Kentucky Derby are the Arlington-Washington Futurity, Garden States Stakes, Yankee Handicap, Gardena Stakes, Champagne Stakes, Pimlico-Laurel Futurity and the Preakness.

Here's an oddity...The name of the award that baseball gives to the top pitcher every year is the "Cy Young Award"---yet, did you know that Cy Young himself LOST more games than any other pitcher in big league baseball history...Young lost 315 games and no one else is close to that.

What's the fastest anyone has ever played 18 holes of golf on a regulation course?...The record is held by a man named Len Richardson who once played 18 holes in the amazing time of 31 minutes...He was a track star and ran all the way between shots.

Mrs. Ceneith Barrons, Kingston, a veteran of 14 years, retired from Walbro Corporation Friday, but her family will still be well represented among the employees of the company.

Mrs. Barrons is at retirement age but two of her nine children work at the company and have no thoughts about quitting, presumably for many years.

One of them, Mrs. Jackie Woldan, went to work shortly after the plant opened and has 15 years with the corporation. The other, Mrs. Marguerite Collins, has been employed 4 1/2 years.

The two daughters were among some 35 fellow workers at the plant who feted Mrs. Barrons Friday noon at an informal luncheon.

Mrs. Barrons started work cleaning the plant and then went into production. For the last five years she has packaged service kits.

The genial grandmother says she has no plans for the retirement years other than just taking it easy. She says that she'll have time now to go back to the crochet and fancy needle work that she used to do before entering the plant.

I used to sell some of my work, she recalled, but I doubt if I will now.

I have my grandchildren to keep me busy, she said, and they will probably make good use of anything I have a chance to make at home.

Red Hawks unbeaten in Thumb B baseball

Cass City Red Hawks notched two of three hits and all of their runs in a fifth inning rally as they opened the Thumb B Conference season Thursday with a 3-1 decision over Frankenmuth.

Rob Alexander started on the mound for the Hawks and picked up the victory with relief from Kim Hopper who pitched to one man in the seventh to preserve the victory with the tying runs on base. Alexander struck out 14 while allowing four hits, two by Mike Plesko.

Tony Davis started the rally with a scratch single. Gene Salas followed with a base knock sending Davis to third. Salas stole second. Kip Hopper laid down a squeeze bunt scoring Davis and sending Salas to third. He scored on a fielder's choice.

Hopper eventually counted the final run on an Eagle bobble.

In practice scrimmage against Kingston last week the Hawks won 5-4. Fred Harbec pitched and underclassmen played much of the game to gain experience. Coach Fred Hurlburt said.

SANDUSKY GAME

Cass City remained undefeated in Thumb B Conference baseball competition this week with a decisive victory Monday over Sandusky, 11-4, at Cass City Recreational Park.

The game was played in ideal baseball weather and the Hawks responded with a lusty hitting display. The club lashed out 14 hits in the seven innings while Kim Hopper went the distance on the mound for the win. He struck out 16.

Cass City scored twice in the first inning and was never behind. They added another in the third and iced the game with six runs in the fifth. Rob Alexander, who played left field Monday, and John Wencley both connected for doubles with the bases loaded as they each collected three hits in four tries. Tony Davis chipped in three safeties in as many official trips to the plate.

Thursday the Hawks will try to make it three in a row when they play at Marlette.

Task force says State's economic future bright

UPSWING PREDICTED

Persons worried about Michigan's economic outlook this year have received some encouraging words from Gov. William G. Milliken.

The governor told the legislature in a special report that statistics indicate the state will "see gradual economic improvement in the months ahead."

His prediction was based on a report given to him by a special task force he appointed earlier this year to take a look at how the economy is moving.

"The report says that unemployment peaked in February and gradually will level off except during the summer months when graduates and students enter the work force and the automotive industry has model change-over," he said.

Among these factors he listed the following:

Increases in social security benefits which went into effect in April and were worth $4.5 billion annually across the country.

Removal this coming July of the federal surtax, which is expected to add $4 billion to takehome paychecks in the coming year as well as meaning $2 billion more for corporations.

Increase in July of the federal income tax personal exemption to $650 per person, adding $1.5 billion to after tax incomes in the country.

Increased wages expected to be given postal workers and other federal employees as well as to many workers in private industry.

A somewhat pessimistic note to the report was added by the governor who said some factors could "dampen" the effect of the above named factors by dragging on the economy.

Among those he named were:

A federal cutback of military expenditures and the subsequent release of thousands of civilian employees into the job market.

The possibility of work stoppages in major industries, such as the auto industry, which could trigger secondary layoffs in supplier industries.

Reduced business profits which tend to cause management to launch cost reduction programs that include reduction of employment.

As far as defense cutbacks go, however, Milliken said the state "is in a far better position today than it was following the Korean War."

"Prior to the 1957-58 recession, an estimated 200,000 manufacturing jobs—equivalent to 20 percent of the state's total manufacturing jobs—were eliminated as a result of cutbacks in defense spending at that time."

"Today, an estimated 50,000 Michigan workers are involved in defense work, and much of it is highly technical and research-oriented," he said.

"Most of these jobs will not be affected by a reduction in defense spending during the next year."

In order to keep a continued close watch on the economy in the coming months, Milliken has appointed a special advisory group to meet periodically and report to him.

"In its report to me, the special economic task force emphasized that its findings were based on economic data available at this time and that the data continually change," he said.

"Economic indicators, the task force cautioned, could change direction quickly and it urged that a watchful eye should be kept on these indicators in the weeks and months ahead."

But, he said, his general conclusion from the findings was "Michigan's economy retains its basic strengths and the state is being set for a significant increase in economic activity in the months ahead."

Wixon Club hosts Federation meet

The Wixon Club of Caro hosted the Tuscola County Federation of Women's Clubs, Thursday, April 23. Presiding at the meeting were Mrs. Sterling Harris, president, of Caro, and Miss Lela Kelley, Vassar.

Max Lawrence, mayor of Caro, welcomed the clubs.

Mrs. C. H. Haines, Vassar, told of "An Inter-American Friendship." She described a vacation spent in Corozal, Mexico. The people were very friendly and pleased when she named Corozal as Vassar's sister city.

Mrs. Ward Atkins gave the news of Girlstown, stating that the new addition will hold 12 girls instead of 8 as in the present home. When the pennies collected by all the Women's Clubs of Michigan were counted, the total was $6,000 to be used toward the new addition.

Mrs. Edward R. Green, vice president, read a message from the State president urging all clubs to help to keep America beautiful, safe and clean. She said the conservation and legislative chairmen were very important, and should be given more attention.

Mrs. Keith McConkey gave the treasurer's report and Mrs. George Murray the auditing report.

Hugh Marr, sheriff of Tuscola County, spoke of Crime Prevention.

Mrs. Bruce Liberacki invited the club to Unionville in 1971.

The students were feted at an Academic Achievement Dinner by MSU President Clifton R. Wharton Jr. and Provost John Canton.

Community bank stocks issue is oversubscribed

James H. Tamblin, President of Community Bank, Bad Axe, announced today that the $700,000 capital note issue of the bank has been oversubscribed. The capital note issue authorized at a special stockholders' meeting March 14, is being sold to increase the capital account of the bank. Growth of the bank's capital in the last several years has been outstripped by its growth in deposits and loans. Retained future earnings and the increase in capital should be adequate to support forecasted future growth of the Community Bank system.

The capital notes are of two series - Series "A" will be issued in the aggregated amount of $300,000 due April 15, 1975, with an annual interest rate of 7 1/2% payable semi-annually. Series "B" will be issued in the aggregated amount of $400,000, due April 15, 1978, with an annual interest rate of 8% payable semi-annually. Rights to subscribe to the notes were issued to shareholders of record March 31, 1970.

When Family Adds Room, Insurance Needs Change

Relaxing in the new family room, who wants to ponder the possibility that this latest addition to the house might someday go up in flames?

But if a fire did occur, would insurance be adequate to pay for the loss?

"Chances are it wouldn't, unless you changed your homeowners policy after the remodeling," says Stephen P. Janco of CNA Insurance.

It's even possible that the house was under-insured long before the carpenters were called in to add a room.

For example, a home was insured for $20,000 on replacement cost basis three years ago. Recently a room was added at a cost of $4,000.

If the original homeowners policy remains unchanged, the house is at least $4,000 under-insured.

During the past three years, inflation has also left its mark. The cost of replacing this home probably has increased about 20 percent—another $4,000.

Rebuilding after a fire would cost about $28,000. Since the unchanged insurance policy provides $20,000 coverage, the family would have to pay for $8,000 of the loss.

To prevent this sad result, three steps are suggested.

1. Every time there's a major change in the home, such as substantial remodeling or a room addition, have the family's insurance agent visit the house so that he can accurately assess the new insurance needs.

2. Make a complete inventory of the home's contents. To be sure the value of new possessions is adequately covered by the insurance policy.

3. When the homeowners policy is renewed (usually, every three years), double check coverage to be certain it represents the home's current value.

Wind blown soil erosion threatens Saginaw Bay land

More than one-quarter million acres of land near Saginaw Bay can contribute to air pollution and sedimentation if the right conditions of dry soil surface and high winds occur in the next few weeks.

This is the finding of a recent survey of wind erosion conditions in the four-county area of Bay, Saginaw, Tuscola and Huron, reports L. W. Kellogg of the USDA Soil Conservation Service located in Caro.

Mr. Kellogg adds that on February 26 there was a strong wind which caused damaging soil movement. Even though soil moisture conditions are generally good and there was snow cover or frozen soil during much of this time, some soils blew. This caused traffic hazard of reduced visibility and extra house cleaning to remove the dust that blew in. It is estimated that it would require 3000 5-yard dump trucks to haul away the soil that was blown into the road ditches, drainage channels and onto highways or streets during this time. And, he cautions, the blow season is just really starting.

The danger increases as the soil surface dries out, as more land is plowed for spring planting, and as vegetation is bulldozed off for building projects.

Fortunately, concerned people are doing something about wind erosion. Landowners co-operating with Soil Conservation District are using permanent vegetation, cover crops, windbreaks, strips of small grain, crop residues and conservation tillage methods to keep soils in place.

Industrialists, builders, farmers, or others who have a problem of blowing soil are invited by Paul Findlay, Chairman of the district, to call or come in to the Tuscola Soil Conservation District Office at 852 S. Hooper Street in Caro to obtain professional help in planning solutions to the problem.

Mason Wilson, 77, of Cass City succumbed Friday, April 24, in Hills and Dales Hospital following a lengthy illness.

He was born in Troy, Mich., Dec. 17, 1892, the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Wilson. He and the former Mary Sargent were married Dec. 25, 1912, in Caro. In 1918, they moved from Elkton to Cass City where they made their home.

Mr. Wilson was a member of Trinity United Methodist Church and was a past worshipful master of Tyler Lodge No. 317, F & AM.

Besides his widow, survivors include a daughter, Mrs. Carl Stafford of Engadine, Mich.; two sisters, Mrs. Stuart Pfaff of Saginaw and Mrs. Carl Bloomfield of Silverwood; two grandchildren, and five great-grandchildren.

Burial was in Elkland cemetery and committal services were under the auspices of Tyler Lodge.

Letter to Editor

Stick to pool,

John, says Fitz

Dear John:

Geez. You better stick to pool and forget movies. If you saw "Casablanca" 6 times, it's past time for you to realize that Lauren Bacall wasn't in it. The movie you were referring to, when Bacall seeks a whistle from Bogey, was "To Have and Have Not," from a novel by Hemingway. It was in this movie that Walter Brennan originated the skip-walk he later used as McCoy on TV.

I offer all this information by way of letting you know I am not only a great pool player, I am the world's leading expert on old movies.

Modestly yours,
Jim Fitzgerald

Special test plots to rate 28 corn hybrids for County farmers

WILLIAM BORTEL, left, and Tom Laurie start unloading bags of seed for a test plot that will be planted on the Laurie farm to measure relative effectiveness of hybrids.

Tom Laurie of Gagetown is one of three Tuscola County farmers who are working with Bill Bortel, county agricultural agent, to determine which varieties of seed corn are best for the area.

Laurie, Arnold Zwerk & Sons of Vassar and Ray Laursen, Fairgrove, have agreed to grow test plots of 28 hybrid seed corn varieties this year.

There will be eight rows of each hybrid planted across an 80 rod field...about a quarter of an acre each.

The corn will be picked and shelled and ranked at each location on a moisture corrected yield per acre.

While there may be different results on each of the plots, Bortel predicts that the top five at one location will be among the top half at the other sites.

A handout will be printed telling the results on each of the three plots, to be distributed among corn producers of the county.

The plots will provide an opportunity for farmers to compare hybrids at each location and select good seed corn for their farms.

The hybrid varieties used were furnished free by corn growers and were designated as the best variety for the county. Twilight meetings will be held during the growing season so farmers can make comparisons.

At the Laurie farm the corn will be planted in a field fertilized with 300 pounds of 49 per cent urea, 200 pounds of 62 per cent potash and 300 pounds of 6-36-6.

Bortel said that past experience has shown that the plots are apt to show as much as a 40-bushel difference between the yields of the best and the poorest yielding hybrids. That's about $2,000 so it's important that the farmer select the best, he continued.

While the results of the plots this year are important and will give an indication of the trend, the tests the following year are equally as important...if not more so.

Repeatability of yield is vital. If a hybrid is at or near the top two years in a row, it will have proved itself to be among the best for the climate and soil in the county.

Corn on the western edge of the county will probably be planted this week and the field at Laurie's will be planted next week, weather permitting.

Bortel says that early planting is best for corn and Laurie agrees because it allows the corn to dry in the field.

The agent explained that all of the farmers who have agreed to the experiment have records of growing good corn crops. With this experience they hope to make the results county-wide better.

Laurie is one of the area's larger cash crop farmers. He owns 200 acres on his Cedar Run Road farm. In addition he rents 55 acres.

That's his. Besides his acreage he shares 350 acres with Grover and Jack Laurie. The men work the land together. Almost all of our land tools except tractors are jointly owned, he said. On all three farms the Lauries farm about 800 acres.

The joint ownership helps reduce the large capital investment cost for large, modern equipment.

While work on the farms is a joint effort, profit from all of the operation except the 350 acres worked on shares goes to the land owner, Tom Laurie explained.

Tuesday evening.

A pick-up truck driven by J. D. Alexander, 29, Cass City, collided with the Wright vehicle. Alexander told Cass City police that he was driving east on Houghton, stopped for Seeger and then started up and hit the Wright car.

The car swerved out of control, crossed the street and tipped over on the lawn in front of the former Cass City Hospital building.

Both vehicles suffered relatively little damage.

In a report of an accident concerning Larry James Hartwick, 20, of Cass City it was reported that his car fishtailed into a car driven by Wendell John Samson, 26, of Bay City.

Hartwick slammed on his brakes to avoid hitting an unidentified car he thought was getting ready to turn left as previously reported.

However, he did not fishtail into the Samson car.

The Samson car was also attempting to pass and was behind the Hartwick vehicle and hit the rear of the Hartwick car. Totally, there were six cars involved in the mishap, but no one was injured.

Plan for Migrant Mission stores

Members of the Huron-Tuscola Migrant Mission have completed plans for another season which will include the operation of two clothing stores, one at Fairgrove and the other at Sebawaing.

During the six weeks two workers will be obtained. Already signed to serve is the Rev. Eric Price. Cars will again be furnished.

The stores will be open Fridays from 2-9 p.m. and Saturdays from 9-5 p.m.

Donations of clothing will be received at both stores May 12. The Fairgrove store is in the former Fairgrove bank building and the store in Sebawaing is in the store of Mrs. Emerlein, next to Kohtz Floor Covering.

The next meeting of the organization has been set for May 12 at 8 p.m. at Sebawaing United Methodist Church.

"If It Fitz. . ."

The wrong kind of father

BY JIM FITZGERALD

The right kind of a father spends his weekends doing jobs around the house and playing with his odd kids.

Or something like that. Sometimes it is difficult to understand exactly what my wife is saying, especially when she talks at the same time she is doing something else, such as hitting my ears.

Anyway, it was Saturday and the sun was shining and the air was warm. Perfect weather for outdoor athletics. And that's what I was doing - watching some outdoor athletes on TV.

"Come out and play basketball with me," my son Eddie asked.

"I'm too old for that game," I answered.

"Gee," he said. "What kind of a father are you?" my wife asked. "Your only son asks for your companionship but you'd rather watch TV."

"Speaking of TV," I said

cleverly, "I keep seeing these commercials where the mother and daughter are frolicking together and they are both so well-stacked no one can tell which one is the mother until she opens her mouth and you see it is full of Grape Nuts. But you never see commercials where no one can tell the son from the father. The reason is that Dad works too hard to stay young and trim, with soft hands. He is too busy making money to buy jeweled identification bracelets for his wife and daughters so they can tell each other apart. I think I'm going to cry...."

"If you don't play basketball with Eddie, you will have something to cry about," my wife said (or was it my daughter?).

Anyway, I played. And in only 5 minutes my weary legs buckled and I fell hard to the ground. I heard a rib crack. Every kid in the neighborhood was watching. I wanted to bounce right up to show them what a great sport the old man was. Except I couldn't move.

"Are you ok, Dad?" Eddie asked after he'd picked up the ball and made 2 points while standing on my hand.

I assured him I'd live. The only question was whether I'd ever get on my feet again. I kept hoping my moaning and screaming would bring my wife to the door, tears in her eyes. But she never showed. I finally staggered into the house and collapsed at her feet.

"The bulb over the sink in the bathroom just burned out," she said. "Change it."

"Don't you care that I have been mortally wounded while making my son my buddy?" I asked.

"Do you want to shave in the dark?" she answered. I had to stand on the sink. A huge globe enclosed the bulb. It stuck. I jerked. The globe fell, breaking into millions of pieces and smashing a hole in the side of the sink.

I do not make these things up. Just stop by and ask to use our purple restroom. Move the soap dish a few inches and you'll see the hole which shall remain in our family forever as a reminder that the man of the house is not the right kind of father.

Onward and Upward and my ribs still ache.

A LEADER DOG furnished by Mrs. Jerry Peterson of Deford has successfully gone to school at the Lions Club school at Rochester. Helping Mrs. Genevieve Krawczyk of New York is her new constant companion, "Princess."

Peterson's pet now serving as "Leader" dog

The second Leader Dog from the area to successfully complete training at Rochester Leader Dogs for the Blind school is now serving Mrs. Genevieve Krawczyk of New York, Alger Freiburger, Cass City Lions member, reported "Princess" was donated to the school by Mrs. Jerry Peterson of Deford. About 30 per cent of the dogs submitted to the school complete the training.

Dogs are always in demand at the school, Freiburger said. Any resident with a dog one or two years old they wish to give to the school should call him. Labrador Retrievers and German Shepherds are the most successful breeds.

HAPPENS EVERY TIME People go on vacations to forget things, and find they have, soon after leaving home.

Uncle Tim From Tyre Says:

Dear Mister Editor:

So far, I ain't heard tell of any football summer reruns. The basketball wars is over for a spell, and baseball ain't got warmed up on TV yet. I don't know about you, Mister Editor, but I am glad to have a breather. To tell you the truth, tho, I miss them instant replays.

The session at the country store Saturday night got me to thinking about how a feller can set and watch the biggest mistakes of his life flash afore his eyes a few seconds after he makes em. The fellers was talking about the mails and roads and general how the hurrier Government goes the behinder it gits.

Bug Hookum got the floor right off to report on this game called "What if?" He said folks set around and list all their problems. Then they ask one another what if so and so happened, what would we do? Everybody comes up with an answer to the "What if?" and then the group works on the best answer. The only rule is that everybody has to agree on any decision.

Bug said this hole country is run on the "What if?" plan, and as far as he knows they ain't never been one decision that everybody was agreed on. "What if?" ain't a bad system, allowed Bug, provided somebody hits on the right one ever now and then. Fer instant, Bug said we never said "What if Korea?" but we shore said "What if Vietnam?" and went right on in over our head. Now everybody is saying "What if Laos?" and all the rest of them funny names over there, but ever day we git in deeper and deeper.

All the fellers was full of what ifs, Mister Editor, even the feller that runs the store wanted to know what if we was to sudden go home a hour early one Saturday night. He said it like he wouldn't mind finding out, but Josh Clodhopper told him not to worry cause we had a tradition to uphold.

Ed Doolittle wondered what if this country's planners had ask theirselves what if six lane roads all over this country ain't the full answer to our transportation problem. The road is gitting two deep in cars, Ed allowed, and it takes you longer to drive to the airport than to fly across the country, but our railroad stations is standing empty and the railroads want to quit hauling people altogether. The Government final is asking what if you can't go anywhere on the train and that's a start, was Ed's words.

It went on like that, Mister Editor. Clem Webster had some what ifs about this postal corporation and how Congress still could overrule it on any action. Zeke Grubb said what if the worst we could say about President Nixon is that he don't like parties and likes to go, to bed and git up early.

Personal, I would like fer ever Administration to have a TV instant replay so they wouldn't keep running so many bad plays over and over.

Yours truly,
Uncle Tim

AGENT'S CORNERTips for consumers' protection

By Mary E. Kerr - Extension Agent

Today's consumer not only needs to shop wisely to save money, but also to protect himself from bad merchandise and frauds. The attorney general, legislators, and other agencies are constantly working to protect the consumer. Here are some ways you can protect yourself and make their job easier.

1. Read tags and labels on all items. They give information on the care of the item, as well as telling you just what you can expect from a purchase.

2. Know what guarantees mean and how far they go. Some guarantees mean nothing. Please don't make the mistake in thinking there is magic in the word "guaranteed."

3. Ask questions about the product. Don't hesitate to have any problems cleared up.

4. Be wary of pressure selling. Give yourself time to find out why the salesman is so anxious to sell a product.

5. If a new product doesn't perform as it is supposed to, let the manufacturer know. Most manufacturers hate to lose one customer.

6. Arm yourself with basic information, especially before making a major purchase. The Cooperative Extension Service has bulletins on subjects ranging from children's shoes to carpet beetles to hind quarters of beef. Almost all of these are available without charge from the County Extension Offices in Bad Axe, Caro and Sandusky.

Install officers at homemakers' night banquet

Mrs. Glade Schuster, editor of Saginaw News Valley Lines, was the featured speaker for the Tuscola County Extension Homemakers' Night banquet held recently in Reese. Mrs. Schuster spoke on "Consumer Fraud," which is often found in certain franchised deals, misleading advertising, and discount buying plans.

A scholarship to College Week for Women at Michigan State University from June 16 to 19 was awarded to Mrs. Paul Findlay, Caro, in honor of Mrs. Schuster. A Frances Clark Memorial Scholarship to College Week was given to Mrs. George Thurston, Vassar. Alternates for these scholarships are Mrs. Robert Allen, Millington, and Mrs. Edward Schluckebier, Reese.

A Reese high school group played several musical selections. Roll call showed about 160 members and guests in attendance. Eleven quilts for the needy were on display. These were made by members of Tuscola extension study groups as a part of the Angel Project for volunteers in Huron, Sanilac and Tuscola Extension work.

The candlelight installation service led by home economist, Ann Ross, involved everyone in attendance. Mrs. Walter Jackson was installed as chairman. Others installed were Mrs. Walter Schrader, vice chairman; Mrs. Jack Denismore, secretary; Mrs. Joe Young, treasurer, and Mrs. William Tulloch, community chairman. Also installed were council members representing the other extension study groups.

Door prizes of floral arrangements were drawn by home economist, Mary Kerr, and presented to 15 lucky ladies. The centerpiece was presented to guest speaker, Mrs. Schuster, by Mrs. Walter Schrader, program chairman for the annual homemakers' night.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis DeLong

Sharon A. Avery, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Avery of Caro, became the bride of Francis DeLong, son of Mr. and Mrs. Don DeLong of Cass City, Saturday, April 4, at 4 p.m. at the First United Methodist Church in Caro. A double-ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Ben Whaley.

The bride, given in marriage by her parents, chose a full bouffant gown of imported French Chantilly lace, having a scalloped designer's neckline, a fitted natural bodice, tapered long sleeves and a full skirt with its front a cascade of ruffles to the hemline and the back complemented with a removable Watteau chapel-length train secured from Dior bows at the shoulders.

A petal headdress, highlighted with aurora crystals, held her butterfly veil of silk mist. Bridal illusion and she carried a bouquet of white carnations and yellow sweetheart roses.

Mrs. Harry Avery Jr. was matron of honor and the bridesmaids were Mrs. Lawrence Avery of Caro, Miss Connie DeLong, Miss Donna DeLong of Cass City and Miss Shiela Murray of Williamston.

They wore identical gowns of blue and white peau de soie featuring an Empire waistline with a scoop neck, puffed sleeves and a floating back panel trimmed with a large bow and tiny blue and white daisies. Bubble veils were secured to a cluster of heart-shaped petals edged with tiny pearls. Each wore a tiny pearl necklace, a gift of the bride, and they carried bouquets of white daisies.

Best man was Duane DeLong, the groom's brother, while groomsmen included Harry Avery and Lee Avery, brothers of the bride, Manuel Benitez and Grant Merchant, cousin of the groom. Seating guests were Dick and Bob DeLong, brothers of the groom, and Kirt Kritzman, cousin of the groom, of Bay City, Tim Murray of Williamston, also a cousin of the groom.

The flower girl, Gretchen Kritzman of Bay City, cousin of the groom, wore a floor-length gown identical to the bridesmaids and carried a basket of rose petals. The ring bearer was Jeff Loomis, cousin of the groom.

The bride's mother chose a princess fashioned mauve pink silk Shantung coat dress. The dress featured an Empire waist with pearl encrusted Venice lace, oval neckline and brief sleeves. The coat had a high collar adorned with lace. She chose white accessories and her corsage consisted of pink roses.

The groom's mother chose a coat dress ensemble of rayon acetate rare moment champagne semi-fitted with matching Venice lace trimmed beads. Contrasting mint-green accessories and a corsage of yellow roses completed her attire.

The reception for 400 guests was held at the Dom Polski Hall.

The couple left on a two-week honeymoon to Florida and are now residing in Cass City.

AROUND THE FARM

Recipe for 150 bushel corn
 By William L. Bortel

Our forefathers called corn the "Golden Crop." The image changed as the price of corn dropped and farmers called corn their non-profit crop.

However, the stronger price of corn during the last year, caused more interesting growing corn. Also, with more and more livestock being fed in the Thumb area, corn should hold as a profitable crop for the farmer.

Corn production has changed during the last few years and there are a few requirements today for a top yield of corn.

The first requirement is a "modern day hybrid." The new single, three-way, and special crosses will out-yield our old four-way crosses if they are planted thick and sufficient nitrogen used. Plant only the best hybrids even though they may cost a little bit more. A cheap hybrid that was popular a few years ago may be the most expensive item you buy this year if it doesn't yield with the "modern day hybrid."

The second requirement is thick planting. Many of the new hybrids should be planted at 25 to 27 thousand plants per acre. We need our corn planted much thicker in Central Michigan and the Thumb area since the weather does not permit the ears to grow as long here as Southern Michigan and Indiana. However, we can stay in competition with Southern Michigan with more ears per acre.

The third requirement is sufficient nitrogen. It takes a minimum of one pound of nitrogen for a bushel of corn. If a farmer is satisfied with 100 bushel of corn, never use over 100 pounds of nitrogen. However, if you are looking for 150 bushel of corn, try 175 pounds of nitrogen on a few acres.

The fourth requirement is plant early. Research has shown that a farmer loses one bushel of corn for each day he delays in planting after May 1.

The fifth requirement is weed control. We should never have a weed problem with the good herbicides on the market. Atrazine has done an excellent job of weed control. By using proper recommendations for specific weeds, the corn fields today should be free from weeds.

The above five requirements are each needed for the ingredients of 150 bushel corn crop. With 150 bushel corn crop, we can once again call corn, our "Golden Crop."

Soil stewardship week observance set for May 3-10

Soil Stewardship Week, a nationwide observance which places emphasis on man's obligation to God as stewards of the soil, water, and other related resources, will be celebrated locally, May 3-10, according to Ron Pattullo, chairman, Sanilac Soil Conservation District.

"Resources and Renewal," the theme of this year's observance, underscores the responsibility which each citizen has in dealing forthrightly with current issues involving stewardship of renewable natural resources. The Sanilac Soil Conservation District and some 3,000 companion Districts throughout the nation along with their State and National Associations are sponsoring the event for the 16th consecutive year.

Among the local events designed to encourage widespread recognition of Soil Stewardship Week is a promotional dinner for all pastors of all faiths from Sanilac County.

The Sanilac Soil Conservation District will distribute, upon request to churches of all faiths, program blanks, bulletin inserts, posters, and booklets created particularly for this year's observance. For any of these call 648-2116.

The materials were prepared by the National Association of Soil and Water Conservation Districts, in consultation with a Soil Stewardship Advisory Committee composed of leading church men in the nation. The committee consists of the Rev. E. W. Mueller, Lutheran Council in the USA; the Rt. Rev. John George Weber, National Catholic Rural Life Conference; the Rev. Harold S. Huff, Methodist Church; the Rev. Henry A. McCanna, National Council of the Churches of Christ in the USA, and Dr. C. Wilson Brumley, Southern Baptist Convention.

Members of the Sanilac Soil Conservation District Stewardship Committee are Mrs. Eddy Schell, Mrs. Ron Pattullo, Mrs. Walt Wood, Mrs. Ken Bennett, and Mrs. Erwin Carter.

Betting on cock fights is legal in Puerto Rico.

ONE FOR THE ROAD

A political play backfired

By Dan Marlowe

The Michigan House of Representatives voted recently to place the issue of permitting 18-year-olds to vote on the ballot again this fall.

It is expected that the Senate will follow suit shortly.

Thus the Legislature transfers to the voters the thorny decision of yes or no. In other words, the Legislature can say to the younger generation "We gave you a shot at it," while the fact remains that the voters turned down this same proposition by a 2-to-1 margin the last time. Young voters obviously have an educational campaign ahead of them if they expect to persuade their elders to give them the vote.

It shouldn't be too surprising that the Legislature passed the buck in regard to this matter. Historically, law-making bodies have been wary of franchising young voters. And not without reason. The whole situation calls for a re-telling of a true story which illustrates both sides of the picture.

During the 1890's at Dartmouth College in Hanover, New Hampshire, the town fathers realized that a substantial number of Dartmouth students were over 21 and residents of Hanover for most of the calendar year, hence subject to a city poll tax if levied.

This obviously represented an untapped source of revenue, and the tax liability was advertised and collected. When the next town meeting was called to order, however, it was found that the qualified students outnumbered the remainder of the townspeople.

The meeting became boisterous along predictable lines. It followed reasonably that a student was elected and installed as president of the meeting, and another student was elected secretary. The meeting then proceeded with orderly efficiency to vote that a schoolhouse must be erected upon the town green, and that said schoolhouse must be 13 rods long, 3 feet high, and 3 feet wide.

The meeting further authorized the construction of a suspension bridge across the Connecticut River, and the building of a board walk to Lebanon, a small town 7 miles away which was a favorite watering hole of the students.

The entire town meeting and its commitments were eventually reviewed by the New Hampshire State Legislature, which subsequently annulled the proceedings.

With this historical precedent firmly in mind, the position of the Michigan Legislature becomes clear. The gentlemen have plainly done their homework.

It may not be the way it should be, young people, but it's surely the way it is.

4-H dog clubs to organize in Cass
City and Caro

BY BERNARD JARDOT

Young people and their parents play important roles in 4-H programs and so can the family dog. The 4-H dog care and training project can improve Fido's life while helping young people understand their animal's behavior.

This 4-H project, as in other 4-H animal projects, provides comprehensive instruction in dog care and training. Under the direction of local adult and teen leaders, the 4-H dog project may help youth learn to accept personal responsibility and develop their leadership abilities.

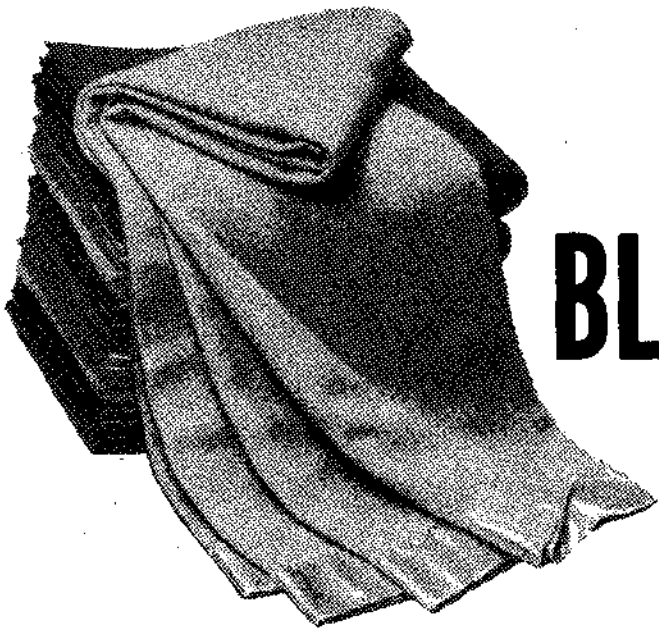

The young people learn the relationship of animal health to human health, the different dog breeds, housebreaking, grooming, obedience training and opportunities to share in dog activities.

If your children are between the ages of 9 and 18, and are interested in joining a 4-H dog club, contact the Extension 4-H office for more information.

There will be a 4-H dog club organized in Caro and Cass City this spring. The organization meeting in Caro will be May 20 at 8:00 p.m. in the Civil Defense Center, Caro, and in Cass City May 27 at 8:00 p.m. in the Cass City Jr. High School.

FROM THE FILES OF THE CHRONICLE

FIVE YEARS AGO

Ray Toohy, rural route carrier at Cass City, has retired after 21 years and nine months of service with the department.

Dale W. Abke has been named the new superintendent of the Owendale - Gagetown area schools effective July 1.

A thief who believes in making himself at home stole a television set and food from an unoccupied Cass City area home owned by Earl Bolick, now of Flint.

George Rabideau, 73, native of the area and former Cass City businessman, died at a local hospital. Rabideau, who had been in retirement for several years, started the automotive sales firm currently operated by two of his sons.

High winds and general dryness of area woods and fields prompted Conservation officials to cancel all area burning permits until conditions improve.

Cass City Area Centennial entered its fourth "jail-less" week, moving Kangaroo Court Judge, Cliff Ferguson, to issue an ultimatum to the culprits who carried the 1,500 pound jail away. "We want it back by next Sunday evening, that's the deadline."

Attack mental retardation

During the past ten years we have taken the first major steps toward coping with mental retardation. Widespread interest has developed.

Centers have been established, some for diagnosis and evaluation of mental retardation, others for research, teaching and professional training.

Every state has developed some plan or other for mental retardation services. Some have testing for Phenylketonuria, others offer vaccination of children and adults against measles. Practically all states are doing something about providing special school programs, such as vocational rehabilitation programs and special material centers for education of the handicapped.

Volunteer workers have markedly increased as community mental retardation programs have grown and the concept of family and community based activities for the retarded is accepted.

This progress sounds good and it is-but as in all great problems it isn't enough, not by a long way.

The human underdevelopment in poverty areas isn't being touched. Mental retardation isn't being identified until school years, if then. Unfortunately, it is in the earliest childhood that most can be done about it.

Simply stated 5 out of 6 mentally retarded (5 million out of 6 million) are never reached by a service and a good many of those 200,000 who are warehoused are not being rehabilitated.

Things to be done are fairly obvious, more and better manpower, more imaginative use of existing resources, more public-private partnership in programs, services and research, better translation of research results into service programs, and more special education training included in the social and institutional planning for the future.

M.D.s are seeing an increasing number of retarded children because of improved ways for fetal and infant salvage and also because of a greater emphasis upon keeping the retarded in the home and in the community.

According to recent reports retardation from intrauterine malnutrition affects 1% to 2% of all babies born. This means 1,200 to 1,800 such babies each year in a single large city like Chicago. Progress is being made toward predicting such retardation and altering the process before there is a permanent stunting of the child's growth and intelligence. Doctors think that some subtle maternal nutritional defect may be present which has not been pinpointed and that this defect might be removed by improving the mother's metabolism through special nutrients.

But the identification and diagnosis of mental retardation itself is difficult. Over 200 causes of retardation have been identified.

The key point emerging today is the need for follow-up once a diagnosis has been made. This calls for the drawing up of a life plan for the child which will remain sufficiently flexible so that it insures the realization of each child's full potential and provides for continuing care - perhaps for a lifetime. This would include appropriate diet, drugs or surgery, correction of other handicaps which might be present and then continued counseling with major emphasis on services that aid the child in habit training, social adjustment, school readiness - and perhaps, above all, family support.

youth-by the drawerful

In a nation as big as ours there is always a tendency to overlook the individual and to think only of groups. Youth gets the brunt of this generalizing.

Many of our boys and girls are delinquent. But some folks would have us believe that every child is a potential delinquent.

Time we realized that children aren't chicks! They don't grow up by the drawerful to have the same characteristics and habits.

Children respond to love, parental example, religious guidance. They possess an ever-increasing aptitude for responsibility, trust, and faith.

Most of our boys and girls will grow up to assume their rightful place in an orderly, Christian society. Some will populate our jails. But the destiny of the individual youth is not a matter of chance and percentage...

It is determined primarily by the conscientiousness of loving parents, and by the persistency with which his natural religious interests are cultivated.
