

FROM THE Editor's Corner

An interesting statistic popped up in a survey recently conducted by a senior sociology class at Owen-Gage High School.

While no claims are made for the scientific accuracy of the sampling, it is interesting to note the reaction to the question of sex education in the classroom.

You'll recall that sex education was once given tentative approval for Cass City but later the school board backed off before an organized protest led by Mrs. Bruce Gee.

It's always been my feeling that the protest was led by an aroused minority and that most parents and students were hoping that a course could be offered.

If you place any credulity in the Owen-Gage survey as at least an indicator of what parents in the entire area are thinking, you must concede that most folks believe there is a need for sex education.

In the sex education survey, 80.98 of the students were in favor; 7.36 against, 51.74 of the parents in favor; 30.41 against. The remainder were undecided.

There is justification for saying that these percentages may change when an actual program is presented.

Persons in favor of sex education in general may not be in favor when it comes to specifics.

An interesting statistic in the survey was that 93.3 percent of all senior students at the school were in favor of sex education in the schools.

You could say that perhaps they are telling us that somewhere along the way they have come to the conclusion that mom and dad haven't been doing all that good of a job around the home.

Even more encouraging is the possibility that when these kids get old enough to become the establishment the changes we need now will be easier to come by.

It is likely that they will take notice of the venereal disease problem that health officials say is reaching epidemic proportions.

They'll be able to remember the number of their high school classmates who were forced from school by pregnancies.

It shouldn't be too hard for them to remember that the sex education they didn't have in the classroom was available on the playground, in the halls and the rest rooms.

They may remember, too, that older kids aren't the best of all possible teachers.

And if they do, it isn't likely that they will swallow such asinine suggestions as sex education is a Communist inspired plot to ruin our country.

They may be just vocal enough, just determined enough to see that the school that educates their kids is not deterred from offering what will be as patently necessary then as it is today.

Village land owners share drain costs

Nearly every home in Cass City with the exception of a few located in the southeast section of the village received an official notice from Leslie E. Lounsbury, Tuscola County Drain Commissioner.

Most did not know what it was all about.

The notice is required by law because every property owner in the area served by the district serving Center B Drain, which is about 5 3/4 miles long, starts in Elmwood township and runs to the Cass River, will be assessed if the work is approved at the determination meeting scheduled June 30 on M-81 at the west edge of the village limits. The drain is known locally as Condensary Creek.

However, Lounsbury said, the cost to owners in Cass City will be minimal. He estimated that an average assessment in the village might be $5.

About 50 per cent of the cost of drains is paid by affected property owners and the remainder by townships and counties.

of township clerk and treasurer will be contested.

Incumbent Robert M. Hunter Sr. will face Ferris D. Ware for the clerk's post. Incumbent Arthur Randall will be pitted against Arlington Hoffman for township treasurer.

The remainder of the township offices are unopposed.

Maynard McConkey, supervisor, is seeking re-election and Pay McComb will try for the post of trustee to replace Don Buehry who is retiring from office. Harland Lounsbury is the candidate for constable.

District 2 Commissioner Ed Golding who represents most of the Cass City area is unopposed.

There will be competition in the primary in District 3 where Shuford Kirk will face James Deming for the GOP nod.

A battle is promised in District 7 in the general election where Kenneth Kennedy of Millington has filed for the Democratic nomination against GOP incumbent John Loomis.

The remainder of the commissioners are unopposed. They are: F. William Tuckey, district four; Floyd Ducker,

Sentence Thane 2 1/2 to 10 years for theft

A Deford youth was sentenced to not less than 2 1/2 or more than 10 years at Jackson Prison Monday in one of three criminal charges brought before Circuit Judge James Churchill in Caro.

David Michael Thane was sent to Jackson for breaking and entering Heacock's General Store in Wilmet.

The court recommended that Thane receive vocational training and finish high school.

Terry Brink of Caro stood mute when charged with unlawfully driving away an automobile belonging to Eber Wallace of Caro.

A plea of innocent was entered for him and a trial date will be set.

Larry James Erard of Decker pleaded guilty to larceny from a building. He allegedly took three tires and rims from a building owned by Ervin Thompson of Cass City.

A pre-sentence investigation was ordered and sentence will be passed July 13.

Board okays ag program after cost reduced

The Cass City Board of Education agreed to reinstate the summer agricultural program to the school curriculum at a special meeting Monday at the high school.

The action was taken after the board grilled Lyle Clarke, instructor, intensively about what he was doing for the students during the summer and the cost of the program was reduced.

Board members said they were concerned about the quality of the summer program and the benefit the students were deriving from it.

At the amount of money suggested when the board cancelled the program, it was impossible to consider the program, Trustee Don Reid said.

The cost was cut substantially from the proposal when the cost before the board was $500 plus 30 per cent of the regular salary. It would have amounted to an increase in summer wages approaching 50 per cent.

The program was restored when a tacit agreement was reached to make the payment $500 plus 20 per cent. Last year the contract called for $350 plus 20 per cent. The new figure has not been officially negotiated.

Besides the $150 boost, Clarke will be receiving a 20 per cent increase of whatever the final increased wage settlement is between teachers and the district.

The school board is insisting that a detailed program report be submitted in writing to them each month so they can review the program and its application.

With the reduction from 30 per cent to 20 per cent of the regular salary, much of the cost of the program to the school has been eliminated.

It is estimated that about 19 per cent of the base salary will be reimbursed by the State. However, this is in a state of flux and could be changed.

Near accord, union-school talks stall

Negotiations between the Cass City School District and the MEA Teachers' Union broke off Friday after the two parties were inches away from a contract settlement.

One more nudge in the bargaining and Cass City would have again been the first school district in the area to come to terms.

But neither side would move from final positions and the proposed contract went up in smoke.

Both Jim MacTavish, chief union negotiator, and Supt. Don Crouse say that offers made on the final day last Friday will not carry over when bargaining starts again Aug. 26.

When negotiations broke off bargaining centered around a contract figure for teachers with bachelor's degrees starting at $7,500 and ending at around $10,000 as compared with this year's schedule that starts at $7,000 and ends at $9,500.

It may have been that Cass City would have had a settlement if other school districts in the area had already come to terms.

But for the teachers the settlement wasn't so outstanding that they wanted to be the "balcony" school for the area.

Actually the point of dispute was in the salary paid teachers at the top of the schedule who hold Masters' degrees.

The school's offer was less than the teachers would accept.

Actually, the cost to the district this year would have been insignificant, but in future years could add substantially to the school's cost as more teachers arrive at the top step in the MA increment schedule.

Most of the other knotty issues would have been quickly resolved if the salary schedule had been wrapped up.

Now it is a whole new ball game and numerous bargaining sessions spread over two months have gone down the drain.

ONE OF the few communications the Freemans have received from Peru was a letter delivered this week. From left: son William, Robert and Nancy Freeman, and son Robert.

Peru quake threatens kin of Nancy Freeman

BY MICHAEL WALSH

She tried to force a smile, to look calm. But it was evident, as she sat wringing her hands and twisting her wedding band, that Mrs. Robert Freeman was more than a bit apprehensive about the fate of her family in Peru.

Nancy Freeman was born and raised in Peru, the South American country rocked by a series of devastating earthquakes in recent weeks. She and her husband Robert, a former resident of Cass City, recall the mountain villages of two and three story homes that have now tumbled into the narrow cobblestone streets claiming the lives of thousands of Peruvians.

The word the Freemans have received from Peru is sketchy at best. They do know that Nancy's parents are alive.

Their home is on the Pacific coast of Peru, a farming area, where the one story houses stand on wide streets and the fields provide a sanctuary from falling buildings.

The Freemans have received word from some of Nancy's relatives in the Peruvian capital, Lima, providing reassurance that they have survived the disaster.

They have not, however, heard from the mountainous region of Callajon de Huaylas, known as the Switzerland of Peru. It was here the death toll was extremely high due to the buildings that toppled onto the people as they fled into the narrow streets.

Here too is where Robert Freeman worked for three months with the Peace Corp between 1963 and 1965. "Now," he says, "everything we knew is gone—everything."

Nor have the Freemans heard any word about Nancy's grandfather. He lived in Yungay, the town almost completely buried in a sea of mud when an avalanche fell into a mountain lake causing the water to explode its natural earth wall, spilling into the village below.

Nancy had made plans to fly to Peru a week ago. But a phone call from an aunt in Lima confirmed that her parents were alive and that transportation in the country was virtually at a standstill.

Somewhat relieved, Nancy cancelled her airline reservations and sent the money to her mother and father.

Robert met Nancy while in the Peace Corp. Later they were married in Chimbote, Peru, which according to recent reports has been 65 per cent destroyed.

The couple who now make their home in Florida, are visiting with Robert's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Freeman of Cass City. They have three children, James, 4 1/2, Robert, 3, and William, 1.

Robert Freeman is less than optimistic about when he and his wife will finally know the fate of their Peruvian family. "It may be a month, I just don't know," he said.

Nancy watched two of her young sons romping in the yard. But somehow, it was clear her thoughts were elsewhere.

Pupils liberal in Owen-gage survey

An attitude survey conducted recently by the Senior Sociology class of the Owendale-Gagetown area School District indicates that the younger generation is somewhat more liberal than their parents about current controversial issues.

Two hundred eighty-six households were polled at random within the school district. The same questionnaire was answered by 163 high school students.

The results, released by James M. Bedore, sociology instructor showed that 76.07 per cent of the students favored lowering the voting age to 18, while 56.29 per cent of the adult community favored the proposal.

Concerning sex education in the Owen-Gage school system, 80.98 per cent of the students were in agreement and 51.74 per cent of the community favored the measure.

Legalized abortion drew a "yes" vote of 46.01 per cent of the students but only 22.02 per cent of the rest of the community polled yes.

Students were slightly less concerned about religion as a determining factor of marriage. To the question, "Would you object to your son or daughter marrying a person of another religion?" 76.67 per cent of the students replied they would not object, while 60.83 per cent of the adults said they would have no objections.

Concerning inter-racial marriage, 26.38 per cent of the students said they would object and 54.89 per cent of the adults said they would object.

Students, 82.63 per cent, said they would not object to having a Negro teacher, while 82.51 per cent of the adult community said they would have no objections.

On the question of having a Negro priest or minister, 77.91 per cent of the students and 64.68 per cent of the adults would not be opposed.

A majority of students, 54.6 per cent, and adults, 43.35 per cent generally disapprove of the extension of the Asian War into Cambodia.

The merger of the Owendale-Gagetown School District with the Unionville-Sebewaing system would be opposed by 54.60 per cent of the students and 46.5 per cent of the adults in the community.

Most students, 75.46 per cent, felt male high school students should be allowed to wear their hair as they wished, while 58.39 per cent of the adults were opposed.

Only 29.37 per cent of the adults were willing to allow high school females to wear slacks or bermudas to school, but 56.44 per cent of the students were in favor of the idea.

The question of pollution showed that 84.66 per cent of the students and 87.83 per cent of the adults would favor a law requiring anti-pollution devices on automobiles even if the device raised the price of the car $100.

Clinic to probe pills, pot, pushers

Cass City residents may discover just how acute the problem of drug abuse is in this area by attending a "Drug Awareness Clinic" scheduled Thursday, June 25 at 7:30 p.m. in the Cass City High School gymnasium.

A team consisting of several reformed drug addicts, Dr. Kenneth Sneed, their psychiatrist, Jay Franklin, a Flint clinical psychologist, and Robert Ennis, director, will make the presentation and discuss the problems of drugs, their usage and effects.

Mrs. Gerald Prieskorn, Cass City, is organizing the local program which is one of a series of such clinics presented recently in other nearby communities. Thus far she has enlisted the support of the Rotary Club, Lions Club, Gavel Club, American Association of University Women, the Cass City High School Student Council, the Presbyterian Women's Association, and the Methodist Women's Association as sponsors.

The meeting is open to the public, but Mrs. Prieskorn particularly encourages students in grades 7 through 12 and their parents to attend.

"We want to emphasize," she said, "that following the initial presentation, the young people will be given an opportunity to talk freely and frankly with the members of the clinic team without the presence of their parents or teachers." Other smaller groups will be formed involving both parents and young people.

Mrs. Prieskorn talked with two former drug addicts at a similar clinic held recently in Pigeon. She termed the discussion "a real eye-opener."

Mr. Jay Franklin, of Flint, a clinical psychologist, is assistant director of the Drug Awareness Clinic. He will be among those speaking with Cass City residents. The purpose of the clinics as he sees it is to give the community a direction, if it is concerned and interested, in combating the growing menace of drug abuse.

According to Franklin, drug usage will be shown from the

LOOKING FOR GOD

Some say you find God just as well in a garden, in the woods, or on a golf course as in a church — that God is everywhere. But be honest about it.

Are you not more apt to think of weeds, or mosquitoes, or a poor shot than you are of God? And after all, you have made this outing to seek pleasure.

But when you go to church, it is with the specific intention of worshipping. Here you engage in prayer, praise and thanksgiving. Here you mingle with people who are seeking God and have come to feel His presence. In the quiet beauty of a church you find few outside distractions, and you know that this place is dedicated to the service of God.

For peace and happiness which comes from really feeling God's presence, worship in the house of the Lord this Sunday — make it a regular practice.

SPORTS FANS!

I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

By H. M. Bulen

Here's an interesting fact about golf that shows, more than anything else, how this game has grown. In 1934, the leading money winner in pro golf, Paul Runyan, won a total of just over $6,000 all year--and he was the LEADING money winner, which means everybody else made less. Today's leading money winners make almost 40 times more than that, or over $200,000 a year!

Here's an oddity about the baseball career of TV star Joe Garagiola when he was a big league ball player...In 1948, Garagiola batted only .107 for the Cardinals, yet the Cards kept him...But then in 1950 Garagiola batted .318 and the Cards traded him!

Did you know that the great baseball star Ty Cobb never had a number on his uniform in all the years he played in the big leagues. The reason was that Cobb retired in 1928 and the majors didn't start numbering all players until 1931...Thus many top stars of the past went through their whole careers without ever having a number on their uniforms.

Rabbit tracks

By John Haire

(And anyone else he can get to help)

I believe, I believe! Black cats are bad luck. Especially when they invade your home in the wee hours of the morning. We had one that woke everyone on the ground floor from a sound sleep Monday night. My wife heard it first as it meowed and then jumped on her bed, only to be gone when she sleepily kicked the covers.

She heard it again and for a moment felt that perhaps ghosts walked as she rubbed the sleep from her eyes.

You see we don't have a cat...or at least we thought we didn't. By this time I was awake and joined the chase. Only the feline faded.

Kitty, kitty, kitty? Our 10-year-old boy woke. The cat was discovered under a bed and he darted under after him. It escaped.

Kitty, kitty, kitty? We surrounded it behind the sofa and I bravely took the broom.

Scat, cat. Out the door it went. We have yet to discover how the cat pussy footed in through our closed doors and screened windows.

The long arm of coincidence always amazes me. Mike Walsh, our summer internist from Michigan State, arrived this week. One of his first chores was writing an obituary for Roy Childs of Pontiac, a former resident of Cass City.

He took the copy, did a double take and said, "I know this man. He is a neighbor of ours."

What do you suppose the odds of this ever happening are. If it were in a fiction story, who would believe it?

Do you take your furniture polish with, or without?

You say you don't drink furniture polish? Well then, why do you include it when figuring your weekly "grocery" bills? Come on, admit it. We all do it. Checking out at the supermarket, we think: "Wow! I used to get 4 bags of groceries for half that!" Yes, you did. But, years ago, those bags held groceries. Today, you're buying more and more non-food items with your food. Things like pots and pans, charcoal; even fertilizer and encyclopedias are now sold in supermarkets.

Sure, inflation has forced food prices up; but, not as much as other things. From 1958 to 1968, food went up 16% while clothing was up 20%.

housing 27%, medical 45%. Since 1950, farm output per man has increased 6% annually compared to 2.5% for all other industries. Americans spend only about 16.5% of income on food; the lowest in history and about half of any other country in the world! It's all due to the amazing efficiency of the American Farmer, implementing the modern farming methods encouraged and practiced by members of the Michigan Milk Producers Association.

So, next time you check your food bill, please just count the food items. Then count your blessings.

Critical need for new homes in Michigan seen

Nearly 1.4 million Michigan-ers live in housing that is either "poor" or "very poor," according to a report drawn up by the Michigan Housing Authority.

This includes more than 500,000 persons who live in homes that are "dilapidated and ruined or close to ruin," the report said.

The federally funded report concluded that Michigan should "set a policy and begin an active program of funding, designing and helping develop new housing" for the 431,600 families involved.

It was issued through the Governor's office the same day Gov. William G. Milliken signed into a law a bill increasing the bonding limit of the State Housing Development Authority from $50 million to $300 million.

residential construction will range from a low of 60,500 per year to a high of 121,000 per year.

As a result, he continued, "current new construction is not keeping up with new family formation, nor is it affecting to any degree that part of the market in poor housing."

It said the new housing which is being built "is not affecting low and moderate income families nor minority groups."

"Every major trend examined shows new residential construction is not keeping pace with the rate of decay, nor keeping up with the number of new families being formed," he said. "In short, the basic trends are not only unfavorable, the programs to date have not changed the patterns."

the history of the Michigan Guard. But the men will use a baton and this means something to a crowd of people."

Radike was trained to use the baton by the State Police. He directed the training of guard officers early in June and the officers now are training their own units.

He said it is not difficult to learn to use the baton because the basic holds and command positions are the same as with a bayonet.

"It would probably take half an hour to learn how to use them," he said.

MUST LEAVE LAW

In addition to the new weapons being used by the guard, Milliken and the Legislature also have put on the lawbooks a new law aimed at helping control campus violence.

The new law makes it a misdemeanor for students and non-students alike to refuse to leave a university when ordered to vacate by an administration official.

"This is a clear indication of the Legislature's intention to end the disruption and destruction of property that has occurred on our university campuses," Milliken said.

BAYONETS OUT

Michigan National Guardsmen are training this summer to use riot sticks instead of guns with bayonets in riot situations.

The 36-inch long ash night-sticks, or batons as guard officials call them, are a new addition to the guard's weaponry. They were brought into use at the order of Gov. William G. Milliken after four students died from National Guard bullets at Kent State University.

"Batons are more credible than bayonets in a crowd," explains Brigadier General Floyd W. Radike, who is in charge of the training.

"A crowd knows you aren't going to really use a bayonet and the guardsmen know it too," he said. "I'm sure there's never been a person impaled during

LOOKING AT the certificate symbolic of recognition as church of the year are the Rev. J. E. Kidney, pastor of the Cass City Missionary Church, left, and Harold Whittaker.

Missionary church lauded as best in Michigan in '69

The Cass City Missionary church has been named the outstanding church in Michigan in its denomination, the Rev. Larry DeWitt of the State Christian Education Department, announced last week at the church conference grounds at Brown City.

There are some 55 churches and Cass City was judged on a variety of criteria.

Among the statistics the Rev. J. E. Kidney, pastor, and his church officers are most proud of are the increases in church membership and attendance. There was a 20 per cent increase in Sunday School in 1969 and a 41 per cent increase in the last two years.

The condition of the church, parsonage and grounds were also considered.

For winning, the church received a $25 certificate which will be used to buy educational equipment for Sunday School and church.

Rev. Turbin will be replaced at Trinity by the Rev. Elizabeth D. Isaacs who presently is the pastor at Elkton.

Rev. Eldred Kelley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Kelley of Cass City, Mich., and a student at Asbury Theological Seminary at Willmore, Ky., was elected to Probationary Membership during the Detroit Annual Conference of the United Methodist Church at the 129th consecutive meeting of the conference held on the Adrian College campus at Adrian, Mich. June 11-15. He was ordained a Deacon in the United Methodist Church by Bishop Dwight E. Loder on Thursday evening.

Rev. Kelley was graduated from Cass City High School. He received the B. A. degree from Spring Arbor College at Spring Arbor, Mich. In 1966, and studied at Central Michigan University in Mt. Pleasant, and taught in the public schools for four years before entering Asbury Theological Seminary.

Pesty Weeds Get Push In Play Areas

Are ugly weeds and unwanted grasses invading the patio, barbecue or poolside area? There's no need to waste weekends pulling and digging them out.

These family recreation areas can be kept free of pesty weeds throughout the year with a simple application of a soil sterilant, non-selective weed-killing chemical.

Such a herbicide destroys all vegetation on which it is sprayed, desirable as well as undesirable grasses and plants. It also sterilizes the soil to prevent further weed invasion.

This kind of weed killer is perfect for removing all unwanted grasses and broad-leaf weeds from terraces, sports areas, playgrounds, driveways, building foundations, fences and similar areas.

Under Control One application of a non-selective herbicide eliminates pesty plants for the entire summer. About a week after treatment, the weeds start to turn white or brown. As a rule, most are dead in about three or four weeks.

This formulation may be applied any time when vegetation is growing actively. If weeds or grasses have already captured favorite backyard spots, cut them back to the ground. Use the non-selective spray when re-growth appears.

For best results, be sure the air is calm when you spray, according to agronomists, at Amchem Research Farm, Ambler, Pa. Spray drift from this type of general weedkiller can injure or destroy grasses, flowers or ornamental plantings.

Be Selective Most non-selective weed killers will not spread out to damage desirable grasses or ornamentals growing next to treated areas. Nor will they soak down to where there are tree or shrub roots.

SUMMER PROGRAM

It was not immediately clear whether the price would be standard this year. Last year the fees were on a sliding scale.

Kids 12 and under paid 15 cents; 13 to 18 year olds paid 20 cents and the over 19-year olds paid 35 cents.

The vast majority of the fees paid last year were 15 or 20 cents. The traditional free period was maintained.

Meanwhile, Spencer said registration for recreational programs not now in progress will be held next week.

Starting June 22, persons interested in golf, tennis, volleyball, archery, badminton or physical fitness should register at the clerk's office at the municipal building.

Ten persons must register before a class will be held. Classes will be held from 10 to 12 noon and from 1 to 2 p.m. Each class meets twice a week: Monday and Wednesday and Tuesday and Thursday.

The golf league for 11 and 17 year olds starts July 8. Interested persons can register with the clerk, Spencer said.

2nd isolette now in use

The second isolette presented by the Hills and Dales Hospital Auxiliary is now in use at the hospital. According to hospital authorities the gift helps solve a touchy problem at the facility.

The isolette is used for intensive infant baby care resulting from premature births and similar problems.

When two babies arrived at once that required this care, it was always a problem to decide which need was the more critical.

The second unit has features that the first lacks. The most important is an infant servo-control which automatically controls the baby's temperature.

Two undefeated in minor league race

Monday, June 29, promises to be showdown time in the Cass City Minor Leagues. It's then that the two current undefeated league leaders, the White Sox and the Mets clash for what could be the regular season title.

In games through Monday, June 15, Keith Murphy's White Sox had charged to three straight victories and Fred Martin's Mets had two victories in as many tries.

There are still plenty of pitfalls before the two giants collide and in the Minors anything is possible...but anyway you look at it June 29 will be crucial for both clubs.

League managers say that the quality of play in the loop this year is higher than it has been in many seasons.

The team standings:

	W	L
White Sox	3	0
Mets	2	0
Dodgers	2	1
Braves	1	2
Indians	1	3
Angels	1	4

New attorney opens office in Marlette

The area's newest attorney officially hung out his shingle this week on Morris Street between Main and Wilson in Marlette.

Donald P. Neumann, a 1969 graduate of Detroit College of Law, and admitted to the Bar in June '69, actually began his private practice shortly after the first of the year but recently opened his office on a full time basis.

Prior to coming to Marlette, he practiced as an assistant prosecutor in St. Clair County. Neumann and his wife, Patricia, are living on South Van Dyke. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Neumann of the Marlette Leader.

Necessity knows no law and it's the same with extravagance.

Erla's split first Ublly loop games

For several years now Erla's has dominated the Ublly Recreation Softball League.

There is nothing to say that they won't win again this year...but the road to the crown promises to be harder than ever before.

There are more good teams in the loop this year than any year since we joined, Dan Erla, Erla's bossman, said this week. The results of the first two games tends to confirm this opinion.

To win, the Foodmen will need to be at full strength. The opening game they played against Aites of Bad Axe without one of their top pitchers and the Beermen promptly bounced them, 6-2, in the opener Tuesday, June 9.

Jerry Hillaker started on the mound and was relieved by Dan Erla in the sixth. Erla's garnered just five scattered hits while Bad Axe scored early and often to salt away the victory.

Premier chucker Al Bosch returned to the mound for Erla's in the second game of the season Friday and tossed a neat three-hitter while blanking Snover, 1-0.

Almost as effective for the losers was D. Blank who allowed six hits but kept them well scattered.

Bosch showed mid-season form in the victory. He walked one, hit one and struck out 16.

Erla's scored the winning run in the sixth inning without benefit of a hit. Louie Tebbits walked and scored on infield outs and an error.

Terrastan-a new floor covering

Terrastan, a new type floor covering, is a product that will cover wood, tile and similar floors, according to the manufacturer.

For this reason, says Richard Jones, we are handling it in our plant.

The new floor covering is immune to all household chemicals and is said to be unaffected by grease, oil and gasoline.

Samples of the new material are on display at Richard's TV and Appliance Store in Cass City.

Federal grant sparks second youth program

The Thumb Area Economic Opportunity Commission, with offices in Caro, has received a grant of $30,190.00 from the Detroit Archdiocesan Opportunity Program. The 84 young people, ages 14 to 18, will work for non-profit agencies, mostly schools, hospitals, and government agencies, for a ten-week period. They will be paid $1.45 an hour for the work that they will be doing.

While in the program the youths will be supervised by adults in necessary and meaningful work. In addition to providing needed money to the youth, the program aims to provide skills, work experience, discipline, and help with their personal problems.

"If It Fitz. . ."

The general chokes

BY JIM FITZGERALD

A kid from Illinois, while doing his duty in Vietnam, got a bullet in his heart. Somehow, he didn't die, thus getting his name on a lot of front pages. The Associated Press reported: "Army surgeons have removed a Viet Cong bullet from the heart of a 20-year-old American soldier in what they call an operation unprecedented in the Vietnam war."

"We've never had a case like this before," said Dr. Elias Hanna, cardiac surgeon at the army hospital in Saigon. "There have been cases in which the heart was punctured by fragments, but this is the first time a whole bullet has been removed from the heart."

All of which turns me on and off.

I'm naturally tickled the young man will live. But Holy Cow, Mabel.....

What a lousy world it is when we must celebrate the removal of a bullet from a heart. It would be the same thing if the Detroit Tigers burned all their bats and tried to hit the ball with toothpicks. And then had a joyous festival because they only lost the game 20 to 1 instead of 20 to 0.

What's to celebrate? Why did the big boos burn their bats in the first place?

Why did humanity put that bullet in the boy's heart in the first place?

Batting at baseballs with toothpicks is no way to win games. Any player with such a silly idea would be straightened out quickly by his manager.

Fighting wars is no way for a 20-year-old youth to live to vote. Most bullets in the heart, and elsewhere, are extremely hazardous to the health. But the boys keep going to war anyway. Blame it on stupid management.

Maybe someday there will be more unusual surgery resulting from war. It could be performed on this stupid management—the big shots in Washington and Moscow and Hanoi and Saigon. The stuffed shirts who talk peace endlessly in Paris while boys bleed endlessly in Vietnam.

The Associated Press might report the operation like this: "Surgeons at Walter Reed Hospital have removed a large mass of liquid from the throat of General Butch McWinwright, the Pentagon veteran who gained fame by using computers to count dead bodies."

"The general was choking on the liquid which was later identified as the blood of a 20-year-old soldier killed the day before in Vietnam."

"General McWinwright is expected to recover completely although it appears his speech will be affected. He used to shriek like a hawk but now he coos like a dove."

Mr. and Mrs. Daily Creason

The Creasons were married June 16, 1913, in Kokomo, Ind., by Rev. Frank Wilson. Mrs. Creason is the former Edna James, Mr. Creason is a semi-retired farmer. Both were born in Kokomo. The couple have five sons and two daughters, Thomas and Charles of Cass City, Alfred of Marlette, Wayne of Saginaw, Frank of Utica; Mrs. Walter (Pauline) Mills of Frankfort, Ind., and Mrs. William (Adelene) Winchester of Gagetown.

DeGrow officially seeks re-election

Pledging to continue to work for better educational opportunities for Michigan's youth and a more equitable tax reform designed to ease the burden on property owners, Sen. Alvin DeGrow (R-Pigeon) announced today that he would seek re-election to the state senate from the 28th senatorial district.

In current moves to stress the teaching of vocational education in our high schools and our community colleges," said Sen. DeGrow, who is a past district governor of Rotary, past president of the Chamber of Commerce and a life member of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

The senator from Pigeon said he is concerned with the increase in drug use by youngsters in the Thumb area and pledged to press for legislation designed to educate youngsters to the extreme danger of drug dependency, and to provide measures for rehabilitating those who already have gone so far that they need help.

Sen. DeGrow also re-emphasized his support for the fundamental concept of local control of village, city, township and county government.

"This is difficult, primarily because people have a tendency of running to their state government for help on problems they could, with more determination, solve at the local level," said Sen. DeGrow.

"But I am definitely opposed to any unnecessary centralization of governmental power and authority in Lansing if problems can be better solved at home."

Alvin DeGrow

Sen. DeGrow, a variety store owner who entered the senate in 1968 after the resignation of veteran Sen. Frank D. Beadle of St. Clair, represents Huron and Sanilac counties and parts of St. Clair and Tuscola counties.

In his first term as senator, he was named Chairman of the Senate Committee on Agriculture and is a member of committees on municipalities and elections, health, social services and retirement, and the legislative council.

"In the time I have been in the senate, I feel that I have established a good working relationship with my fellow senators—which is extremely important," said Sen. DeGrow, a native of Huron county.

"Until that relationship is established and the intricacies of legislative procedure are assimilated, a legislator is just one among 146 persons working toward goals, many of which conflict with the goals of others."

Sen. DeGrow said that in recent years the primary work of the legislature has been in passing the annual budget and in solving problems—mostly financial—dealing with education.

"In these days of constantly rising costs of all governmental services, the task of putting together a budget adequate to meet the needs of the people, but frugal enough to avoid undue financial burden on the taxpayer, is an extremely difficult one," said Sen. DeGrow.

"Our budget problems and the problems of education are almost inseparable. More than half the state's revenue goes for educational purposes."

Sen. DeGrow, who was a member of the Tri-County College Executive Committee created to establish a Community College for Huron, Tuscola and Sanilac counties, said he would continue to work for the establishment of more community colleges and their expansion to meet the needs for local communities, especially in the rural areas where most young people have difficulty financing a 4-year education.

Winchester house: bizarre and beautiful

By Dan Marlowe

Ponce de Leon sought his particular version of the Fountain of Youth in Florida 400 years ago.

Sarah Winchester sought her version in San Jose, California almost 100 years ago.

Neither succeeded, and despite Ponce de Leon's head start in the history books, it's likely that Sarah Winchester will be longer remembered.

Sarah Winchester was the widow of the famed Winchester Rifle manufacturer's son. She lost husband and small daughter tragically young, and turned to seances and prophets of the occult to try maintain contact.

In some manner, one of these consultants convinced Sarah Winchester that she herself would never die as long as she kept building onto the already considerable mansion in which she lived just south of San Jose.

For the remainder of her long life Sarah Winchester kept carpenters, masons, and plumbers continuously employed until at the time of her death at age 85 the mansion consisted of more than 160 rooms sprawled over 6 acres.

And what rooms!

Trap doors and secret passageways abound; there are blind chimneys, with closet doors opening onto blank walls or into space. In the 160 rooms there are 3 elevators, 47 fireplaces, inside rooms with no outlet yet with screened doors and windows and stairs that go nowhere.

Surprisingly, although the house was built so long ago it has many almost-modern features. It has window shutters which open and close with a crank; gas lights which operate by pressing a button; and one-piece porcelain laundry tubs with molded-in washboards and soap trays.

The house was so well built that it withstood with only minor damage the earthquake of 1906 which practically leveled San Francisco a few miles to the north. For the 36 years that the sound of the hammer and saw was never stilled on the Winchester estate, there were many beautiful things built into the spawning rooms in addition to the bizarre.

There are gold and silver chandeliers, stained glass windows inlaid with German silver and bronze; front entrance doors valued at $2000 then and priceless now; and many art windows valued at more than $1000 each. And in warehouses, awaiting Sarah Winchester's planned continuation of her life-sustaining building program, there are hundreds of light fixtures, sashing and doors; cedar, oak, ash, walnut, mahogany, maple, cherry, and rosewood interior finish of the finest; hardware, screens, tile, plumbing.

Everything bought, catalogued and stored by the woman who believed that continued building would bring never-ending life.

No words can do justice to this picturesque monument to a misguided idea. It has to be seen to be believed. The house is now a museum known as the Winchester Mystery House, and with excellent reason.

Test corn hybrids thrive on 3 farms

By William Bortel

Which corn hybrids are the best adapted for Tuscola County in producing 150 bushel of dried shelled corn can better be answered this fall when the Tuscola corn variety plots are harvested. The three plots are looking very good for this time of the year and we are hoping for good growing conditions so that each hybrid will provide its optimum yield.

Many farmers are asking what are the different hybrids planted and where are the plots located. The first plot was planted on the Arnold and Mike Zwerk farm on April 27. The actual plant population is 24,000 to 26,000 plants per acre. The plot is located in section 23 of Denmark township on Wilder Road.

The second plot was planted on the Ray Laurson farm on April 28. The actual plant population is 20,000 to 22,000 plants per acre. The plot is located in section 7 of Fairgrove township on Darbee Road.

The third plot was planted on the Tom Laurie farm on May 1. The actual plant population is 27,000 to 29,000 plants per acre. The plot is located in section 24 of Elmwood township on Cedar Run Road.

The thirty different corn hybrids are as follows: Jacques JX-162, JX-142, Funk's G-4252, G-4360, 4444; Garbo-S-96, S-100, S-92; Pioneer 3773, 3658, 3561, 3956; P.A.G. SX76, SX69, SX52; Super Crost S-19, S-27; Asco; Lowe XR-202; Great Lakes Hybrid 500, 275-2X; 555, 67-775; DeKalb XL-45, SX-306; SX-15A, EX-22, XL-24; Asgrow ATC-39; Occidental OXY-362.

AGENT'S CORNER

Tells of stain removal

By Mary E. Kerr - Extension Agent

Summer means many things to Mrs. Homemaker. It means fresh fruits and vegetables, outdoor living and lots of laundry. All the fresh fruit and vegetables that are available and the family's enthusiastic acceptance of outdoor living often gives Mrs. Homemaker a headache when it comes to the laundry. Why? An unnoticed fruit or vegetable stain may result in a permanent stain. A fresh stain can be removed fairly easy. Mrs. Homemaker can remove this type of stain from washable articles by sponging it with cool water or she can soak the stain in cool water for 30 minutes. She may find some stains may take longer and some may require an overnight soak.

If the stain remains after sponging and/or soaking, Mrs. Homemaker will need to work a detergent into the stain. This should remove the stain. Sometimes, however, Mrs. Homemaker may find a stubborn stain that the detergent treatment will not remove. In this instance she will need to use a chlorine or peroxygen bleach to remove the stubborn stain from washable articles.

Mrs. Homemaker knows that when any fruit juice is spilled on a fabric it's best to sponge the spot immediately with cool water. Some fruit juices, she found, are invisible on the fabric after they dry and turn yellow on aging or heating, this yellow stain may be difficult to remove.

What will Mrs. Homemaker do when she wants to remove a stain from non washable articles? She reaches for her copy of the bulletin on stain removal she received from her local Cooperative Extension Service Office. The bulletin explains how to remove over one hundred different stains from both washable and non washable articles. Are you going to let stains get you down at laundry time, or are you going to do what Mrs. Homemaker does?

Soils lab closes; end of an era

BY DON KEBLER

Tuscola County's soil testing laboratory closed its doors officially Monday, June 15, 1970. The closing of this laboratory ends a county soil testing program which began January 1, 1951. In its nineteen and one-half years, nearly ten thousand soil tests were made at the facilities.

From its origination until its termination, this laboratory was owned jointly by four county organizations which contributed $125 each for equipment. These organizations and their representatives at the time of the founding of the laboratory were: Tuscola County Farm Bureau, Henderson Graham; Tuscola County Soil Conservation District, Reid Kirk; Farm Products Company, Cass City, F. H. Reid; Caro Sugar Beet Growers Association and Caro plant of Michigan Sugar Company, Charles L. Mavis and Gilbert Smith, respectively.

The soils testing laboratory was housed at the Caro Farmers Cooperative Elevator all this time and at no charge. Supervision and accuracy was under the jurisdiction of the Tuscola County Cooperative Extension Service and Michigan State University.

A fee of fifty cents was charged until about five years ago when it was raised to seventy-five cents. The only other change was in relocating the laboratory from the old Caro Farmers Cooperative elevator office to the railroad depot next to the elevator.

Why was the county soil testing laboratory closed? There are several reasons, the main one being its use declined to the point of unfeasibility to continue operation. Another reason is that more accurate testing methods along with expensive equipment and technical full-time help has become available through Michigan State University's soil testing laboratory. Lastly, soil testing services are now readily available through commercial sources.

The sponsoring organizations have turned over the equipment to the County Cooperative Extension Service. Soil reaction or pH tests will still be made for anyone desiring this information for lime needs at this office. We of the County Extension Service, Michigan State University and the sponsoring organizations feel this soils testing laboratory was instrumental in starting the educational program necessary to promote and provide an excellent farming tool, that of soil testing, fertilizer, lime and tile recommendations and for diagnostic work.

Now it is up to Michigan State University and commercial soil testing laboratories to carry on now that this laboratory has terminated its role.

If the people, especially the farm operators, continue to use the advantages of soil testing, they will enjoy the benefits of a continually improving soil testing and recommendation program indefinitely.

Behind the Counter Foot Care—

It's a shame to see people confined to their homes by sore and swollen feet. Not only is there great discomfort, but many persons are embarrassed by their appearance and the hobbling gait. There are a few things you can do to keep your feet in good condition:

- 1) Be careful in the fitting of shoes and stockings. Avoid the steady wearing of extremely high heels, running shoes or slippers.
- 2) Keep toenails clipped, and remove the cuticle and dead skin from around their edges.
- 3) Use an antiseptic, absorbent foot powder to reduce infection, particularly that which develops between the toes. This powder will also act as a deodorant, keeping the skin dry and comfortable.
- 4) Never sit on your feet. When possible, put your feet up on a chair or high footstool, to improve circulation. In older people, this will help keep swelling to a minimum.
- 5) Wash your feet often, taking time to soak them in warm and soapy water that will help the muscles relax.
- 6) Then massage each foot in turn. Make a fist of one hand, and rub the knuckles over the ball and arch of the foot to further ease muscle tension. Then slowly rotate each toe, one after another.
- 7) If a callus should form, soak a cotton square in lotion and tape it over the area. Leave it on overnight. During the day, an adhesive callus pad should be worn till the problem disappears.

HUGH BRENNEMAN

Ways to become hooked on pills

The brain and spinal cord are known as the central nervous system of a human being. Amphetamines are drugs which have a great capacity for stimulation of this system. With small doses of amphetamines this stimulation is limited to elevation of mood. As the dosage is increased apprehension, volubility, tremors, and excitement occur.

Stimulants of this type have been used in medical practice for the past 35 years. They have appropriate uses for persons required to do routine tasks for prolonged periods under adverse circumstances. For example, under medical supervision, amphetamines were administered to an orbiting astronaut prior to re-entry. Also drugs delay the sensation of hunger and have been prescribed for weight reduction of obese persons.

As might be expected, patterns of abuse and misuse have been established during that time. For many persons these substances develop dependence-producing characteristics which can bring about serious personal problems. Although, unlike narcotics or barbiturates, over-medication with these stimulants does not lead to physical dependence, their abuse is continued by psychic demands - to overcome depression or fatigue or to attain the excitement the dependent person associates with the drugs. Fortunately, abrupt withdrawal of the drugs will not produce seizures nor is it life threatening. Depending upon the intensity of abuse, all measurable traces of amphetamine should disappear from the body in about 2 to 7 days.

How do people get hooked? - that is to say, become dependent on amphetamines? Some might start in the physician's office where a prescription is given as treatment for depression or as an adjunct to weight reduction. But most cases come from illicit channels where drugs are sold indiscriminately to a variety of customers. Truck drivers might take them to stay awake during long hauls or teenagers and young adults buy them looking for "kicks." Just how much drug dependence of the amphetamine type exists in the United States is unknown but it is increasing rapidly and physicians are now aware of the inherent danger in prescribing these medications.

Amphetamine - type drugs were in widespread use before their dependence - producing properties were recognized. Their ability to cause euphoria and psychic stimulation led to their removal from over-the-counter nasal inhalers. However, restricting the legal acquisition of stimulants by forcing them to be obtained solely on prescription didn't put an end to their misuse and today these drugs are part of a major medical and social problem. The problem of abuse is world wide. Japan had a major outbreak in the 1940's and early 1950's. As many as a million persons, including many teenagers, became regular abusers. And many cases of toxic psychosis were reported. In one year police arrested 55,000 abusers of amphetamines.

Great Britain also has had a serious problem involving the abuse of dextroamphetamine, which is a tablet containing both dextroamphetamine and amobarbital. At one time, the chief abusers were women in the age range of 35 to 50 years who initially received the drug for weight control.

In the United States the Drug Abuse Control Amendments of 1965 require that detailed records be kept on the manufacture, and distribution of the drugs covered. The law stipulates that a prescription for a stimulant or depressant drug is valid only for 6 months and, in that time, is limited to 5 refills. However, misuse is still possible within these limits. Recent surveys of the production of these stimulants in the United States indicate that annually over 100,000 pounds of amphetamine and methamphetamine products are used in the United States - enough to supply 25 to 50 doses per person for every man, woman or child in the country!

Physicians are frequently requested to prescribe stimulants for a variety of non-medical reasons. Students want them for all-night "cram" study sessions. They find that stimulants increase volubility during examination, but don't realize there is a concurrent loss of accuracy. Requests come for use of the drugs in sports. Controlled studies have shown that amphetamines can drive trained athletes to increased performance in individual events involving strength and endurance. However, it has also been shown that this practice can, by artificially pushing the athlete beyond his normal endurance level, be harmful or even fatal. Using amphetamines for this purpose also violates principles of sportsmanship and has been condemned by the major amateur sports associations and, of course, the American Medical Association as well.

Wasp may check alfalfa weevil

BY WILLIAM BORTEL

With the "Alfalfa Weevil" invading Michigan during the last two years and now Tuscola County, many people have been trying to stop the weevil from damaging our alfalfa fields. Sprays have been used but they are costly.

The Biological Department at Michigan State University has found a wasp parasite which may have possibilities of stopping the Alfalfa Weevil. The wasp lays its eggs on the adult alfalfa weevil which in turn kills the weevil and helps the wasp multiply. The wasp has no harmful effect to our environment or people.

The parasite wasp was placed on two farms in Tuscola County. Both farms are located south of Millington where the Alfalfa Weevil is more severe this year. The wasps were placed on the Henry Forsyth farm last week and the Warren VanForn farm this week.

MSU crops-soils field day set

The 1970 Crops-Soils Field Day will be held at Michigan State University on Wednesday, June 24, 9:30-3:30 p.m. The wagon tour to the plots starts from the Crop Science Laboratory which is located on the south side of Mt. Hope Road between Farm Lane and Hagadorn Road.

The annual activity attracts many commercial farmers from all corners of Michigan to look at new research now in progress. Tour stops this year on both soils and crops projects will be made from the following:

A. Soils

Former resident dies in Pontiac

He was employed as an electrician by the General Motors Truck and Coach Corporation in Pontiac.

ing wire. Donald N. Frey, president of General Cable, said the advanced product costs less than conventional copper wire and assures the same electrical performance as the conductor it replaces.

The new wire metallurgically bonds copper to an aluminum core. Both copper and aluminum serve as a conductor. The wire is conventionally insulated and is listed by Underwriters' Laboratories.

The combined metallic conductor contains only 30 per cent copper and weighs about 60 per cent less than conventional copper electrical building wire. Standard industry hardware may be used with the new product, according to Mr. Frey.

General Cable has a long history in multi-metal wire development. Its Indiana wire and steel division has produced large quantities of copper-clad steel for communication applications for the past ten years.

Uncle Tim From Tyre Says:

Dear Mister Editor:

The fellers at the country store was wondering Saturday night whatever come of the plan Henry Ford had for showing the Russians how to make cars. They had heard a while back where young Henry might sell them some trucks and learn om how to make cars on the mass production, but they ain't heard no more of the deal.

It were Clem Webster that allowed he was glad young Henry had saw fit to take the advice of the fellers. You might recollect, Mister Editor, that just a few months back the subject of cars was give a going over at the store, and it was full agreed at that time the way to make shore the Russian economy don't never catch up with us is to give ever Russian at least one car to support.

Clem reported young Henry said he might sell the Russians some trucks as long as doing it don't hurt this country's defense. Clem said he was getting off word to young Henry that they ain't nothing he can do that would be a bigger favor fer the U.S. than to flood Russia with cars and trucks.

Like they say in Geneset, went on Clem, cars begat roads and roads begat more and bigger roads and bigger roads begat bigger cars and bigger cars begat drivers that want bigger cars and faster cars and big, fast cars begat more accidents, upkeep and gasoline than their owners can stand and the whole business keeps building until the cars is driving the people down six lane roads to the pore-house.

If the Russians had plenty of cars, Clem allowed, they wouldn't have no time to worry about spreading their communist poison all over the world. They would have to spend everything they could make on cars, and they wouldn't have nothing left fer spying and paying other countries to do their fighting.

Zeke Grubb said he was sorry to break up Clem's dream, but that they wasn't no chance fer young Henry to put Russia on wheels. Old man Henry made cars at a profit so's he could make more and better cars, and that profit is what got the car business in high gear, Zeke said. When the Russians need somepun the government sees to it, Zeke allowed, but when they just want somepun usual they do without. With the government in the car business, Zeke said, they ain't no hope of git-ting too many cars in the way of communist messness.

Personal, Mister Editor, I ain't never been much fer cars. Except fer a trip to town now and agin, my feet has allus took me most everwhere I need to go. But I can see some powerful changes cars has brung about. Like I saw where the interstate highway system that was to cost $27 billion in 1955 now is figgered at $70 billion, and them Government road experts says that may be a low and Mrs. Walter (Gertrude) Mickelson of Tucson, Ariz. She also leaves eight grandchildren and 15 great-grandchildren.

Yours truly,
Uncle Tim
