

FROM THE Editor's Corner

It is unlikely that there is a student in Cass City or the Thumb that could go to a foreign country and adapt as well as most Europeans do when they visit us.

How many persons, for instance, do you know who can adequately speak a foreign language....let alone converse nearly as well as you or I?

Most Americans have stereotyped views of Europeans and foreign countries as Europeans do of us. It's the romantic, unstable French; the regimented Germans; the pompous, remote English; the Italian lovers; the sinful Swedes and the materialistic, rich, lazy Americans.

It's conceded that perhaps the stereotypes are exaggerations....but, honest now, can you picture a German sipping wine in mid-afternoon at a sidewalk cafe when there is work to be done or an Englishman in a wild (Italian-like) love affair?

An Italian-like love affair... you see my stereotypes are so ingrained that I use it when I really mean torrid, violent or tempestuous.

These thoughts occurred during the second week of a summer-long stay of two fine young men at the Haire household.

Bjorn Magnusson, 19, and Fredrik Byrenius, 16, are Swedes. Not exchange students. Just the sons of two families that hosted our elder daughter last summer.

I would consider it a rare achievement if I could speak any foreign language as well as they do English.

The pair told the other day that sometimes they even think in English. Both are friendly, polite, considerate and articulate.

Certainly their culture is different from ours. It's noticeable in religious attitudes, and social customs. Swedish laws concerning stories about sex and the nearly unlimited right to publish material that would be offensive here make headlines.

Films like "I Am Curious Yellow" were sensational and further enhanced the image of anything goes in sin-wracked Sweden.

It's only when you get an up-close look at real people that the image fades and you catch a glimmer of what Sweden is: a liberal country with a high standard of living.

It reminds again that there are no bigger percentage of sinful Swedes than there are sinful Americans, Germans, Poles, Chinese or Russians.

We need to get up-close to people everywhere before we realize that we have been up-tight about nothing.

I hope you get to meet our visitors----you'll see just what I mean.

IT WAS A SCENE similar to this that Chronicle reporter Mike Walsh witnessed Thursday when Craig O'Harris was struck by a passing auto while crossing Main Street on his bicycle.

A reporter's reaction

Drama on the street: this time a happy ending

BY MIKE WALSH

Four days at the Chronicle, my first real newspaper job, and I had yet to cover a really "big" story. Where were the five-alarm fires, the floods, tornadoes, the bank robberies, accidents and other tragic, emotion-filled disasters I had anticipated covering as a real reporter?

Thursday afternoon, however, without leaving my desk I almost became an eye-witness to a near-fatal accident.

The heat in the office was stifling as I sat at my typewriter finishing up some routine work. I've already grown accustomed to the drone of the traffic and the voices of the children on Main Street. The monotonous rumble of the trailer trucks and the whizzing of passing cars and motorcycles rarely attract my attention.

But the screeching of brakes somehow triggers a reaction, an automatic reflex to respond by looking up. I did, and sat frozen as the scene unfolded on the street outside my window.

The car had been coming down Main Street as hundreds do every day. And, like dozens of other kids, 9-year-old Craig O'Harris was crossing the street on his yellow bicycle.

A child on a bicycle is an unpredictable moving object. And the driver could hardly expect Craig and his bike to dart into the busy street. But that's what happened.

When I looked up it was like watching a film in slow motion. There was Craig on his bike in the middle of the street directly in front of the car. And the car, brakes screaming, kept coming closer and closer. Craig lifted his leg and jumped to the ground at the moment of impact and the metal of both vehicles banged together. The whole thing probably took less than two seconds from the time I looked up.

Somehow, some miraculous way the child has escaped a terrible death.

I breathed for what seemed like the first time in an hour, and realized that in spite of the

4 per cent unemployed

Area industry hums, but fewer jobs available

With an unemployment rate of about 4 per cent, Tuscola County is somewhat below the national rate of unemployment which now stands at 5.3 per cent. For Tuscola County this means that out of a total work force of 13,000 approximately 500 are unemployed.

However, according to Karl Oehmke, manager for the Caro branch of the Michigan Employment Security Commission (MESC), the 4 per cent figure is just about double that for June a year ago. During the auto industry's model change over this summer, Oehmke predicted the unemployment rate will reach 8 or 9 per cent. He attributed the employment slack, in part, to a general lag in sales in the auto industry and labor disputes in the construction business.

The recession now generally recognized throughout the country has created instability in the economy and labor market, and uncertainty among a great many consumers. Fewer jobs or the threat of job loss means fewer purchases. Less buying means less demand for production. With decreased production there is less need for workers, and the cycle continues.

Oehmke said opportunities for college students seeking summer jobs are extremely rare. Registration of college and high school students, he said, was very low, with only 7 or 8 on file.

However for the Cass City vicinity the pattern is not quite the same. Of three area firms contacted, only one reported a noticeable cutback in the number of permanent employees and summer workers.

Tom Bowers, personnel manager for General Cable Corporation, said that a slow-down in the cable industry is to blame for the decrease in the number of employees. In May of 1969 General Cable employed 474 workers, 29 more than are employed at the present time. The hiring of college students for the summer according to

Bowers, has been "little or none."

In contrast, Harold Isard of the Walbro Corporation reported that the number employed by his firm is about the same as a year ago. Walbro has also hired 20 to 25 college students this summer, again, about the same as last year.

Evans Products Co. of Gagetown, suppliers of heavy steel fabrication for the auto industry reported an actual increase in the number of employees during the last twelve months. According to personnel manager Kenneth Nye, present workers number about 250, up 75 to 100 over June 1969.

Evans Products, like Walbro, has also hired about 25 college or college bound students.

However, Curtis Cleland, counsellor at Cass City High School, reports that the story he hears from college students home for the summer and high school graduates looking for jobs is markedly different from a year ago.

The 1969 class could more or less choose from a variety of job offers. Today many of them are not working because there aren't any openings at all.

Students who do not plan to enter college have had more success than those looking for a summer job while waiting to enter college, he continued, but neither group has found the rosy conditions that students have experienced during the recent boom years.

In Tuscola County

Protest proposed any deer season

The Cass City Gun Club and other interested sportsmen are girding to resist a proposal of the Department of Natural Resources to establish an antlerless deer season in Tuscola County.

According to George Lapp, president of the Cass City club, the DNR is planning to issue 300 permits for antlerless deer in Tuscola County this year. The information was revealed at the Michigan United Conservation Club meeting held in Traverse City, according to Lapp.

There will be a meeting about the proposed regulation at the DNR meet slated at the Conservation School at Higgins Lake July 10-11.

While it isn't good to have too many persons crowding the area, Lapp said, he would welcome sportsmen from different groups to attend the meeting with him.

This is the second straight year that the DNR has proposed that antlerless deer be shot in the county.

It was first proposed early in 1969. At that time the department listed car-kill as one of the crucial reasons why deer and fawns should be harvested.

The proposal brought a storm of protest from sportsmen from all over the Thumb and was responsible for an organized campaign of resistance that was spearheaded by Lapp and the Cass City Gun Club.

At one of the organizational meetings to discuss the problem, an informal vote taken by the Chronicle revealed that the sentiment was 21-8 against establishing a special any deer season. It is likely unchanged.

At that time, DNR game biologists did not claim that the range in Tuscola County was overbrowsed, but did say that antlerless deer could be harvested without damaging the herd.

The problem of deer hitting farmers in the pocketbook by eating crops does not yet seem to be a problem in the county. Land owners appear to be nearly unanimous in favor of leaving the herd alone.

When the storm broke last year owners said that they would post land rather than let Detroiters come here and decimate the herd.

Sportsmen said that the deer-car kill was a traffic problem and shouldn't enter the decision. The DNR maintains that the deer-related crashes are people problems that can only be stopped by cutting the herd.

Regardless of the rhetoric, the two positions seem polarized. Local sportsmen remain adamantly against shooting antlerless deer while experts in the field feel that an any deer season is inevitable.

Last year the DNR specialists backed off and cancelled plans to shoot does and fawns.

What the position will be this year when the decision is reached July 10-11 remains a very open question.

Whether or not Tuscola County is due for its first any deer season in history is still far from decided.

KUKUCOW may be pilot unit for chain

Cass City's newest business, the KUKUCOW, has scheduled its grand opening this weekend, Bill Loomis, manager, said this week.

The unusual store features ice cream, dairy products, assorted specialty treats and delicatessen items.

It will be watched with interest by both management and the business community. The store here is one of two pilot units established in Tuscola County. The other will be in Caro.

If successful the promoters hope to establish units in other small towns around the state.

To acquaint residents with the store, a grand opening with a host of specials and a free drawing is slated during the grand opening days.

Teacher, infant killed in accidents

A three-year old baby became the 12th traffic fatality in Tuscola County Thursday when Ester Jane Powell was killed in an accident near her home on Stevens Road, about 5 1/2 miles northeast of Kingston.

The youngster had walked with the aid of a stroller about 100 yards down the road from the Powell home.

She was struck by a car driven by John Bering, 78, of Legg Road, Kingston. According to the direction the Bering vehicle was headed.

The baby was dragged 94 1/2 feet from the point of impact. She was pronounced dead at the scene from a fractured skull by Coroner J. B. Collon of Caro.

Bering reported that the baby was in the center of his lane of travel when he first observed her and said he braked and swerved but couldn't miss her.

Gene Powell, the grief-stricken father, says that the baby was on the shoulder of the road and claims to have proof that this is so.

Ester was born in Detroit April 29, 1967, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gene Powell.

Surviving, besides her parents, are: five sisters, Darlene, 8, Janet, 7, Sarah, 6, Kathy, 5, Barbara, 3 months; her maternal grandparents, Carney Rose of Russellville, Ky., and Mrs. Kathryn Green of Clarksville, Tenn.; her paternal grandmother, Mrs. Clarice Baggett of Clarksville, Tenn., and her paternal grandfather, Herb Powell of Cass City.

(And anyone else he can get to help)

I won't say that I boast about it, but when I'm dieting successfully (like now) I am inclined to discuss it if you give me an opening...and sometimes I don't even need an opening and I talk about it anyway.

My claim for fame is feeble, though, compared to Fred Leeson's.

In case you haven't seen Fred lately, he is six-foot tall and his muscular frame now supports 174 pounds. Even at 185 pounds he would have had to shed his shirt before you'd really notice he needed to lose any weight at all.

Even so, he went on a diet last week and solemnly swears that he lost 12 pounds in four days. Yes, that's 12 pounds in four days.

I wouldn't say for a minute that I doubted Fred's story. And if you don't, I've a deal for you. As one of the true believers you are invited to meet me in downtown Wilmet at midnight where I'll be offering the Brooklyn Bridge to the highest bidder.

I was talking with an inside man at the post office the other day and the talk switched to how healthy a job the mailmen in town had...walking so many miles every day should add years to the life of Stanley Kirm and Richard Root.

A day or so later this same person and I talked again. I got to thinking about this, he confided. These mailmen carry a 60-pound load on their back as they make the rounds. Would this be equivalent to being 60 pounds overweight and thus actually shorten their life span?

Naturally, I had no answer. It would be interesting to see if statistics prove that the mailmen have the same, longer or shorter life spans than the remainder of us.

One thing I can report for sure is that Stanley Kirm told me one time that when he started walking his route he felt immeasurably better than he did when he worked inside. But, then, that could have been psychological. I always feel better after I have been fishing or goofing off. To each his own.

Success story: after 50 years, the Rev. Melvin R. Vender reported at his golden wedding celebration Sunday that if he had his life to live over, he'd be a minister again.

After you've said that, you've said it all. But if you appreciate mundane statistics, Mel is a meticulous man and here they are: starting in 1944 in Cass City he baptized 163 babies, received 313 members into the Presbyterian church and was the pastor at 311 funerals and 122 weddings.

Who does the law really protect?

Mr. Haire:

Who does the law really protect?

Thursday evening, June 18, our five month old German Shepherd pup was struck and killed by a group of speeding teens.

The dog was kept on a chain but in the evening we would turn her loose for a little exercise with the children. We are the only house in the mile and cars can be seen ahead of time before passing to secure the dog, but this one was traveling too fast.

Two state police officers were kind enough to take time to make a report on the incident. We were informed we couldn't do much about the death of our dog, see a family attorney and sue for restitution or sign a complaint of reckless driving and go to court over the teens who may not even be licensed drivers. We must swear as to the driver, describe the vehicle and estimate the rate of speed they were traveling. One officer states, "the citizen holds the short end of the law." How very true that statement is. There seems to be much to protect the rights of lawbreakers but very little for the law-abiding citizen.

Will our now grieving young children someday recall and respect laws that seemingly condoned the senseless killing of their dog?

Parental control seems to be obsolete. Where are the parents while these teens are racing up and down our roads and

Ladies tell of community efforts at MSU meeting

Two Thumb women were among 12 ladies who shared knowledge of their volunteer programs at the Michigan State University College Week program Wednesday, June 17. Theme for the program was "Michigan Women Who Care About Their Communities."

Mrs. Melvin Gingrich, Bad Axe, shared the details of a four session series on Sex Education held in Bad Axe earlier this year. She presented information about how the series was organized, carried out, and evaluated.

Mrs. Frank Hearsch, Bad Axe, reported on her volunteer efforts to spark community programs for senior citizens and for youth activities.

They joined 10 other featured volunteers for luncheon with Mrs. Clifford Hardin, wife of the secretary of the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Following the luncheon each of the volunteers spoke to approximately 50 persons about her particular project. Questions and answers followed. The detailed descriptions would show others in Michigan how to duplicate successful volunteer efforts in such projects as Sex Education Program, Senior Citizens and Youth Programs, Ambulance Service, Youth Protection Agency, Baby Clinic, Operation Face-Lift, Transportation Corps and others.

About 700 ladies from Michigan attended the four-day College Week program which is a segment of the total Family Living Education program of Michigan Cooperative Extension Service.

Dr. Lois Humphrey, Family Living Program leader, met with the volunteers following the presentations. She said that each section was taped so that further questions on these community programs can be answered throughout the year. In this way, Michigan women who care can thus receive help in improving their communities.

streets? Not concerned as long as they aren't interfering or bothering them? It would certainly seem so.

We lost our dog to speed happy teens; will it take the loss of someone's child before they are stopped?

Mrs. Clayton Lane

Dear John,

Along with my renewal I enclose the current graduation program, just to show what I have been doing lately.

Our teachers just ratified a 70-71 contract for a maximum of $15,150 for classroom teachers with ten years experience and a master's degree. Sorry they couldn't settle in Cass City. Last year we had a strike. It's pleasant to know when school will begin in September.

SPORTS FANS!

I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

By H. M. Bulen

Here's an unusual oddity about veteran pitcher Hoyt Wilhelm, who is still active in baseball...He hit a home run his first time at bat in the major leagues in 1952 and didn't hit one again, in 18 years and over 900 games played!

***

One of the most amazing turn-about by any player in baseball history has been accomplished by outfielder Matty Alou...Few fans are aware of the fact that Alou, who today is one of the game's top hitters, was an entirely different kind of batter in the middle of his career...In the three seasons from 1963 through 1965, Alou had a combined batting average of only .213...In the four seasons from 1966 through 1969, Alou has a combined batting average of .355!

***

Here's another oddity...The 1927 Yankees are often called the greatest team in history...yet did you know they do NOT hold the record for winning the most games in a season? The '27 Yanks won 110 games, but two other teams have won more in a year...The Cubs of 1906 won 116 and the Indians of 1954 won 111.

TWO OF ROLAND Limberger's five dead cows as they looked just minutes after they were electrocuted when lightning struck the tree at the right.

Limbergers lose 10 per cent of herd in storm

Almost 10 per cent of Roland Limberger's herd of milk cows were wiped out last Wednesday when lightning struck a tree under which they had gathered as protection from a sudden afternoon storm.

Six of Limberger's best base cows had huddled beneath a large oak on the Shabbona Road farm, near Deford. According to Mrs. Limberger, lightning apparently struck the tree and traveled down the trunk electrocuting five of the cows standing in shallow water at its base. A sixth cow, crippled, was expected to live.

Mrs. Limberger estimated the value of the dead livestock at $2500.

A little lime or boron spray could cure "apple measles," Michigan State University horticulturists recommend leaf analysis to detect imbalances that could cause this nutrient disorder. They've found that lime applications at planting time will help prevent "measles." Additions of boron in deficient trees will also correct the situation.

There's more than sugar in Michigan's MIRACLE BEET

Sure, it produces sugar... 170,000 tons in the past season... a tribute to the progressive sugar-beet growers in Michigan's Saginaw Valley, working hand in hand with the state's two processing companies. But that's only the beginning. The 1,431,339 tons of sugarbeets harvested in 1969 yielded much more than its principal product—sugar.

In cash, the crop and its final products added up to $42.9 million. Much of that money has already been plowed back into Michigan's economic cycle. Millions of dollars for payrolls, farm equipment, consumer goods, and in processor supplies. And, as always, in taxes paid to local and state government units... over $600,000 from the two Michigan processing companies alone. In short, the sugarbeet produces economic sweetening for our state, as well as flavor sweetening for our table, with Big Chief and Pioneer—Michigan Made Pure Sugar! Tall accomplishments from a humble sugarbeet... a miracle which repeats itself each year.

Motorist jailed for driving without license

Two area men appeared in District Court this week because of driving infractions.

ACCIDENTS

He is survived by his grandmother, Mrs. Mathilda Welland of Manistique, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henning Mattson, also of Manistique, and a brother, Jerry Mattson of Utica.

Mr. Mattson was buried Friday in Fairview Cemetery Manistique.

OTHER ACCIDENTS

Lawrence Emerson, Cass City, was not injured last Thursday when the car he was driving hit a tree which had been felled across the road.

Emerson had been going south on Schwegler Rd. at the Milligan intersection when his car struck a tree which had been cut down by the C. R. Hunt Construction Co. The company said no signs were set up but there was a man on either side of the tree at the time of the mishap. The car sustained damages to the front windshield and the hood.

Joe Ray Spencer, Cass City, appeared before District Court Judge Michael Dionise Monday on a charge of driving with a suspended license. He received a fine of $50 and was ordered to pay court costs of $25 or spend a month in jail.

Tuesday, Harold Groth, Cass City, also appeared before Judge Dionise under two charges. For careless driving he was given a $25 fine and $25 in court costs or 15 days in jail. For the second count, driving with a suspended license, he was fined $50, court costs of $25 and 10 days in jail.

Reporter impressed with "Funny Girl"

EDITOR'S NOTE: Mike Walsh, the Chronicle's summer reporter, saw "Funny Girl" before coming to town and was so impressed that he knocked off a review. These are his views about the film now showing in the local area.

Combine the splendor and extravaganza reminiscent of an Oscar and Hammerstein musical, the passion and romance of Cecil B. DeMille's GONE WITH THE WIND, and the slap-stick comedy characteristic of the Marx Brothers, with the exceptionally talented Barbra Streisand and you have the ingredients for one of the best motion pictures of all time: FUNNY GIRL.

Adapted from the Broadway musical of the same name, FUNNY GIRL is the story of Fanny Brice and her rise to fame, fortune and heartbreak. But it is also the story of a young woman who has the will to persevere in the face of disaster.

Miss Streisand, (the girl who never had a singing lesson in her life), long recognized as one of the most talented vocalists in the business, demonstrates that she is an equally superb actress and comedienne. Her Academy Award for best

Bike parade draws 100 to park

Last Thursday was parade day for nearly 100 Cass City youngsters participating in the local parks and recreation program. The parade, which has become an annual event, was complete with colorful wagon-floats, costumes and paper flowers, as the children made their way down Main Street led by Cass City Police Chief Gene Wilson.

The bicycles, wrapped in crepe paper, with their streamers flowing behind them passed Main Street shops amid the laughter and shouts of their drivers.

"The parade was just for fun," said Mrs. Barbara Tuckey, director of the creative arts program. "It was something creative and we try to orient the program toward fun and if the kids pick up skills along the way, fine."

This week's event will be a treasure hunt with the loot stashed in various places in the recreation park. Next week the children will begin copper enameling as their major project in addition to a variety of other crafts such as working with liquid plastic, plaster of Paris, and stitching.

"We do more than make pot-holders," said Mrs. Tuckey. According to Mrs. Tuckey, the program is financed by the area Community Chest and Elkland and Novesta Townships. The money goes to provide materials and pay salaries.

A man needs a lot of education to realize what a lot more there is to learn.

It's not trying and failing that proves the metal of a man, but his failing to try.

Week-end tourney ahead for Erla's

Erla's softball team will venture out of Uby Recreation League action Friday, Saturday and possibly Sunday to play in an invitational tourney at Mayville.

Manager Dan Erla is predicting better results than the club achieved in two exhibition tilts Saturday against Bay City Roma Inn at Cass City.

The Foodmen lost both of the Saturday tilts, 4-2 and 5-3. The invitational will pit teams from Bay City, Port Huron, Reese and Cass City. The Erla nine will be at full strength for the event.

Against Bay City, ace hurler Al Bosch was missing and when Bosch is on the mound, Cass City is at least 50 per cent stronger.

Our pitching wasn't too bad, though, Erla said. A new man we picked up from Snover, Dick Blank, did a good job for us in one game and Jerry Hillaker was effective in the second game.

But there are few pitchers in the Thumb to equal Bosch, especially when he is right. The veteran hurler from Inlay City proved it again in the Uby League Friday night.

He hurled Erla's to a 2-0 decision over Smokey Saddle Shop of Uby to post his second win of the season.

Bosch limited Uby to three hits and two walks while striking out 12 in the shutout effort. Jim LaRoche was the hitting star for the Foodmen.

He singled in the first inning, stole two bases and rode home on a sacrifice fly in the first inning. In the fifth he singled home Dean Hoag with the only other run scored in the game.

Erla's opens its quest for the two-peat and out tournament title Friday night when a team from the Akron area is expected to provide the competition.

Giants out front in Little League

Last year's champions of the Cass City Little League, the Giants coached by Elwyn Helwig, are well on their way to winning their second title in a row as the season enters its final stages.

The Giants are 6-0 and lead the second place Tigers by a full game. All the rest of the teams are already also-rans in the loop title race and have only the post-season play-offs to look forward to.

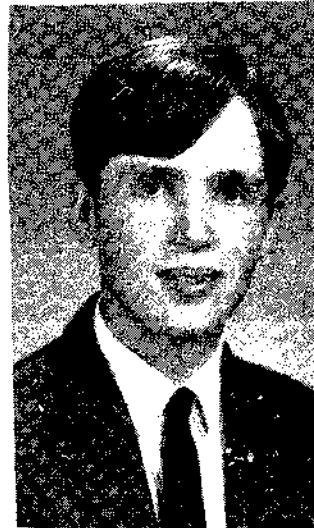

The tourney this year will be played the week of July 13-17, League President Jim Johnson said. Rained out games will be played Tuesday through Friday, July 10-14.

The standings:

	W	L
Giants	6	0
Tigers	5	1
Pirates	3	3
Yankees	2	4
Cubs	1	5
Oracles	1	5

Rabideau to study in Puerto Rico

Dan Patrick Rabideau, 19, a junior at Central Michigan University majoring in Spanish, will be spending his third year of college at a university in Puerto Rico. From August until May he will attend the Puerto Rican university, taking regular academic courses in addition to completing the requirements for his Spanish major.

Dan Rabideau

Rabideau, the son of Mrs. Marion Carroll, Gagetown, is participating in an exchange program arranged by the Foreign Language Department at CMU with the university in Puerto Rico. The program consists of reciprocal scholarship grants by the two schools.

He graduated from Cass City High School in 1968 and plans to teach at the secondary level following graduation from CMU in June 1972.

Unbeaten Mets lead in Minor league

With the Minor League baseball schedule already in the last half, only one team is undefeated and three teams are still in the running for the regular season league title.

The favorite now has to be the Mets who have charged through three games undefeated to lead the White Sox by a half game in the standings.

The White Sox dropped from a tie for the loop lead by losing to the Dodgers Monday, June 15.

The big game will be Monday, June 29, when the White Sox and the Mets clash. If the Sox win, the race will be wide open to the finish.

The battle rages as a must win game for the Sox while the Mets will still be in the thick of the pennant scramble even if they lose.

If the Mets win.... the boys on the team can start clearing a place on the mantel for the championship trophy.

The standings:

Mets	3	0
White Sox	3	1
Dodgers	3	2
Braves	2	2
Indians	1	4
Angels	1	4

Father-son banquet at Novesta church

About 60 fathers and sons attended the father-son banquet June 19 in the basement of the Novesta Baptist Church.

A short program followed the meal. A toast to fathers was given by William Patch Jr. and a toast to sons by William Patch Sr.

Slides of the Holy Land were shown by the pastor of the Day-ton Center Baptist Church, who also gave a short message. Several vocal and instrumental numbers were presented.

Rotary club schedules snowmobile drag race

"If It Fitz. . ."

Hunting made easier

BY JIM FITZGERALD

There should be a wolf at every door so a sportsman could shoot it without getting his boots dirty.

This thought occurred to me while watching a Sears Roebuck commercial on TV. I know that sounds strange, Doctor, but I really haven't been feeling well since Agnew became a household word. My neck is sore from typing antiadministration columns while looking back over my shoulder.

Anyway, Sears is selling a

"sonic fish call" for only $9.95. It's battery operated, you see, and hangs on a line. You drop it in the water and the fish come swimming, lured by some sort of mating sound. And when the fish gets to the sound, it doesn't find another fish waiting with open gills, you know what he does. He bites your hook. "You'll catch more fish than you ever did before," Sears promises.

Ge, that certainly is marvelous.

Now if Sears could just do something for those wolf hunters, I learned about them via TV, too. Let's face it, TV is a splendid source of education. If it weren't for the tube, I wouldn't know anything. I wouldn't even know that Doris Day is hazardous to the health of diabetics.

But about the wolves: This travel-adventure film showed a pack of them running across the snow in Alaska. They were being chased by a low-flying airplane. The wolves didn't have a prayer. The plane swooped down and a man leaned out and pointed his high-powered rifle. Bam, Bam, bam. Dead wolves all over the place. What fun!

But it's work, too. And dangerous. That shooter might fall out of his plane. It would be nice if Sears could develop a sonic wolf call. Bring the wolf to the hunter.

Or how about this idea? Play sad, sad music in the woods. Constantly. This would depress the animals. They would commit suicide. The hunter's toughest job would be strapping the carcass to his fender or airplane wing. Sears could use the animals' suicide notes in their advertisements.

Of course, animal suicides might take some of the glamor out of that great TV show, The American Sportsman. That's the one where movie stars in armored tanks risk their lives shooting jungle animals with telescopic cannons.

But perhaps the Great White Hunter could prove his virility by standing nearby and actively encouraging the suicide. From the bottom of a cliff he could holler up to a tiger: "Go ahead and jump, you bum."

So he wouldn't have to get too close, Sears could sell him a megaphone. Battery operated. Onward and Upward.

MSU conference to seek answers to pollution

A 1970 Summer Institute on Environmental Quality: Now or Never, will be held at the Kellogg Center for Continuing Education at Michigan State University. It will be a three-day conference to be held on June 29, 30 and July 1.

The audience will include individuals from Government, agriculture, industry, labor, and education from Indiana, Ohio, Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota and Michigan.

The program is designed for a holistic approach in developing an understanding on environmental pollution. Presentations are planned which will cover all facets of the problem. These are to include microbiological, ecological, physiological, and engineering studies as well as the sociological, psychological, philosophical, and economical approaches to this broad problem. This program should be of particular interest to all people involved in the concern for our environment from the above mentioned fields. It is also planned that each person attending the conference will be supplied with a copy of the proceedings that will serve in his own organization as a good basis for continuing further work in the field of environmental quality.

The three-day activity is sponsored by the Society for Industrial Microbiology and Public Health, Continuing Education Service, Michigan Agricultural Experiment Station and Michigan State University.

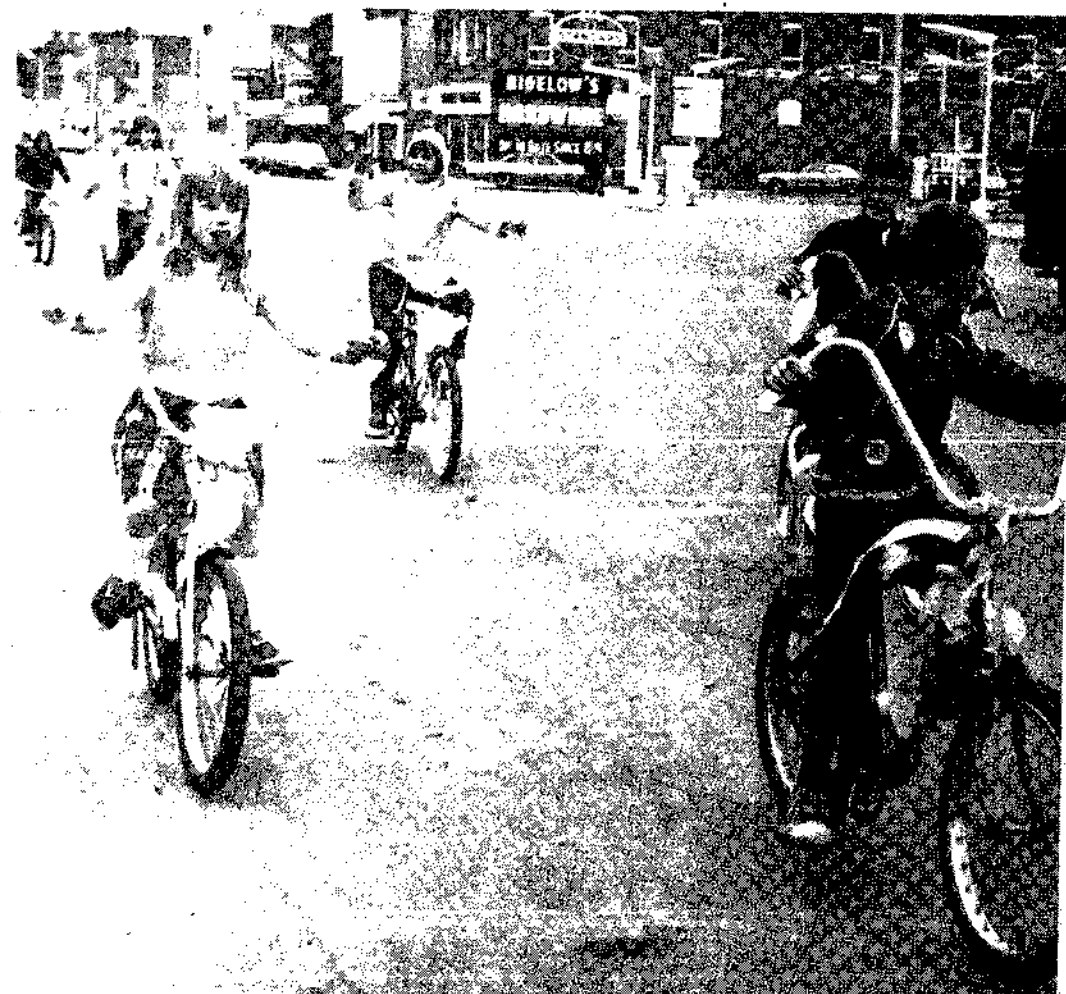

Advance registration forms and programs are available at the Extension Office (located in the Civil Defense Center in Caro).

Low mercury content in area pheasants

A recent survey was conducted to check levels of mercury of pheasants killed along the highways. The breast muscle was checked to see what the levels of mercury were. The average turned out to be .10 p.p.m. The lowest level found was .01 and there was only one bird over .5.

What do these levels mean? The State and Federal regulatory controls are .5 as maximum levels which are safe in fish. This points out the fact that there was only one bird found with levels above .5 and pheasant hunting will continue this fall.

The interesting result of the whole study was trying to locate areas within the state containing highway killed pheasants with high mercury levels. No specific parts of the state or areas could be isolated as areas causing high levels of mercury. Highly farmed agriculture communities were compared with non-farmed communities and levels of mercury were as high in one community as the other. Dr. Zabik of the Pesticide Research Center of Michigan State University states that mercury from agriculture probably has very little effect on levels of mercury in the pheasants from what the study has shown.

THE ANNUAL BICYCLE parade traditionally kicks off the summer recreation season in Cass City. It is the first and the biggest of the many events sponsored by the village for the entertainment of the children.

Uncle Tim From Tyre Says:

Dear Mister Editor:

Bug Hookum made a strong case for wimmen's rights during the session at the country store Saturday night. Bug had saw these statics that showed 20 per cent of the households in this country has wimmen for breadwinners, and that wimmen on the average make less than half what men do.

Bug told the fellers this kind of treatment hadn't ought to be allowed in a free country. He said he was 200 per cent in favor of letting wimmen win the bread for 100 per cent of the households, and he was jest as strong for paying the wimmen a wage that would permit their husbands and younguns to live in the manner to which they has become accustomed, as they say, under a man breadwinner.

They ain't no sensible reason, Bug allowed, to keep a good woman down. Like the feller said, Bug declared, the Indians had the right idee in this country til them civilized invaders come along. In the good old days when the Indians had the country to theirselves, allowed Bug, the wimmen kept the tent, raised the younguns, planted the crops and general kept things going while the men hunted and fished. You got to be real civilized to figger you can improve that kind of system, was Bug's words.

Ed Doolittle was agreed and disagreed with Bug. Ed said he is fer giving wimmen all their rights, but agin pushing them out in front of everything. Ed said men and wimmen needs one another, and he had lived too long and was too fer down the pike to believe wimmen really wants to run things, or that men can git along without em.

Ed said he never has saw a bachelor that could do anything as well as a married man that has got a wife to keep reminding him what he wants to do and how to do it. Ed pointed out that we ain't never had but one bachelor President, James Buchanan, and he was about the biggest flop of all, including all the New Dealers, Fair Dealers, New Frontiers and Great Societies.

Come to think on it, went on Ed, we had ought to git wimmen more involved in the simbles of our country. The Statue of Liberty is a lady, Ed said, and a lady holds them scales of justice, but what we really need is fer Uncle Sam to have a wife to keep him straight. Here this pore feller is trying to handle ever problem under the sun, and he don't have a good woman to brew him a cup of coffee mornings. How can Uncle Sam know what he thinks unless he asks his old lady, Ed wanted to know.

Personal, Mister Editor, I never give it much thought, but I am general agreed with Ed. Fer some reason I allus thought Miss Columbia and Uncle Sam was real close, but I reckon they ain't hitched cause she is still Miss. Maybe they got one of them modern relationships, and that means more trouble.

Yours truly,
Uncle Tim

ONE FOR THE ROAD

Wrestling pro loses for $2,500 weekly

By Dan Marlowe

It's the ultimate in cliches, of course, that all kinds of people can be met in a hotel.

Two men that I've met in this hotel in San Francisco have been interesting to talk to because each represents an aspect of life not encountered every day.

One is a musician, a drummer.

The other is a wrestler.

The drummer played in Artie Shaw's original band which made its breakthrough in the first swing concert ever held in New York City in 1934. He has since played with name bands all over this country and much of Europe.

He complains to me now, however, that he is practically obsolescent in his own time. Listeners for big band swing music are all his age or slightly younger, with fewer of them every year. Younger listeners have their own style of music to which he can't—or won't; he didn't specify—adapt.

He has already applied for premature Social Security, and while he is far from being a relief case—he plays golf three times a week—he does represent the phenomenon of a capable craftsman whose craft has in large measure deserted him. Jobs for his type of drummer are harder and harder to find, even with the numerous contacts which he has developed through the years.

Like the salesman who was selling buggy whips when the automobile came along, the drummer must change with the times or retire, and as I've indicated, he has already made his choice.

The wrestler is another story.

He might be categorized as a professional loser. Promoters of wrestling bouts build up winners, crowd pleasers who draw customers. There has to be a steady diet of bodies fed to these winners to maintain their reputations, and the bodies are the professional losers.

The wrestler who lives in the hotel is a small man by pro wrestling standards. Invariably he is outweighed by the men he faces in the ring, often by 60 to 70 pounds. He is cat-quick, which is little help, however, when caught in the bear-hug of a 300-pound weight lifter. So he loses, often legitimately, occasionally illegitimately. Wrestling is a hippodrome, and the promoter builds up the winners carefully.

There is nothing hippodromish about the punishment these men take though. They wrestle on the average of six nights a week—on a circuit here which comprises Modesto, Stockton, San Jose, Merced, and Sacramento, with an occasional safari to Reno, Nevada. And they wrestle with all kinds of aches, pains, bruises, strained ligaments, and — occasionally — broken bones. They don't dare miss a turn because of injury; there are too many more professional losers eager to take their places.

The wrestler's working day might last only 18 minutes, but what an 18 minutes! He can expect, on the average, to be thrown from the ring three times, to be dropped half a dozen times, to be slammed to the mat from head height a dozen times, to be headlocked and armlocked and full-nelsoned and punched by "villains."

For this he is well paid, ranging from $300 to $500 a week. A carefully nurtured winner might make $2500 a week, until the flesh gives out. Wrestling is big business, even for the cannon fodder which makes it all possible.

Mrs. Laurence H. Wood Jr.

Cass City Missionary Church was the setting for the double ring ceremony Saturday, June 20, at 7:30 p.m. when Rev. Donald Taylor performed the marriage of Judy Lynn Heronemus, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Heronemus of Decker, and Laurence H. Wood Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Laurence H. Wood Sr., of Northville.

Music for the wedding was played by Elsie Lindsey, organist, and Steven Dallas, pianist. Barbara Eldridge was the soloist.

The altar flowers were baskets of white gladioli and blue mums.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, chose an Empire gown of imported Chantilly lace frosted with sequins, styled with a high ruffled neckline and bishop sleeves. A petal headpiece of lace frosted with sequins held secure her fingertip veil. She carried a small satin Bible in an arrangement of a white orchid, roses and long streamers.

Cheryl Whitaker of Cass City was the maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Janice Hamilton of Mishawaka, Ind., Joan Stahly of Lincoln, Neb., and Jill Herbst of Algonac. They wore chiffon Empire gowns styled with A-line skirts with backfullness featuring bishop sleeves and mandarin necklines. Embroidered lace was at the necks, cuffs, bodices and waistlines.

The maid of honor wore a blue gown. Bridesmaids' gowns were pink, Nile green and maize. They carried colonial bouquets of carnations, tipped to match their gowns, and three red roses in the center with matching streamers.

Gregory Wolfe of Battle Creek was the best man. Groomsmen were Gregory Leckenby of Farmington, Nelson Ludwig of Mishawaka and Charles Wood of Northville. Richard Heronemus and Robert Wood seated the guests.

The bride's mother wore a Seakist Empire dress and a matching coachman's coat with self buttons on the front panel and self-belted back. The groom's mother chose a whip cream pink dress featuring a stand-up collar and long puffed sleeves. Four rows of lace were down the front of the dress. They both wore a white orchid.

The bride was a 1966 graduate of Cass City High School. She received a B. A. degree in education from Bethel College, Mishawaka. The groom graduated from Northville High School in 1966. He received a B. A. degree in Biblical literature from Bethel College.

The bride was guest of honor at three bridal showers given by friends and relatives.

A wedding reception was held in the church basement for 250 guests. Steven Dallas was guest pianist.

Out-of-town guests came from Indiana, Ohio, Texas, Nebraska, Northville, Farmington, Detroit, Battle Creek, Algonac, Saginaw, Bay City and Lansing.

The bride wore a blue Empire dress of whip cream material styled with a ruffled neckline and cuffs, with pearl buttons at the neck for the wedding trip to Otsego Lake.

The couple will live in Portland, Oregon.

New books added to public library

New arrivals at the Cass City Public Library include two non-fiction books, "China As I See It" by Pearl Buck and "Up The Organization" by Robert Townsend, the theme of which is how to stop the corporation from stifling people and strangling profits.

Four new pieces of fiction include: "Calico Palace" by Gwen Bristow; "The Assassin" by Evelyn Anthony, the setting for which is New York; "Three" by Sylvia Ashton-Warner, with a London setting; and "Baldur's Gate" by Eleanor Clark, with a 1952 fictional date and the setting in a small New England town.

Mrs. Kenneth R. Sweeney

Fr. Bernard Skornia officiated at the marriage ceremony for Mary Jane Hund and Kenneth R. Sweeney at St. John's Catholic Church, Uby, Saturday, June 20. The altar flowers were white and yellow gladioli.

Mark Schmalz and Charlotte Brinker provided the music for the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Francis A. Hund of Uby, the bride approached the altar in a Victorian gown of sheer organza featuring short puffed sleeves and a redingote Empire A-line skirt, trimmed with maize satin lace through three-dimension fine Venice lace at the neckline and cuffs. A Victorian face frame of Venice lace held the three-tiered veil of illusion. She carried an arrangement of lilies-of-the-valley, baby's breath and ivy surrounded by white and yellow daisies.

Mrs. Janet Ericson was the matron of honor. Mrs. Joan M. Wruble, Mrs. Gwen Cutler and Miss Kristine Hund were the bridesmaids. Karen Wruble, Laurie Ericson and Suzanne Booms were the junior bridesmaids. Their floor length maize linen gowns were styled with high Victorian necklines, puffed short sleeves and self fabric trim. Matching bowheadpieces held their bouffant veils. They carried bouquets of white and yellow daisies.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. Angus W. Sweeney of Uby, the groom was attended by James A. Sweeney, best man, and groomsmen, Mark S. Hund, John C. Wyrick, Michael Jagels, Jon Zinger and Harvey McIntyre.

Greeting guests at the reception held at Sherwood Forest Country Club, Gagetown, the bride's mother wore a pink A-line knit dress featuring a cowl collar and embroidered trim. Her corsage was pink daisies. The groom's mother wore an aqua knit coat and dress ensemble styled with a jeweled stand-up collar. She chose a blue daisy corsage. Among the 250 guests attending, the out-of-town guests were from Bad Axe, Cass City, Detroit, Rochester, Utica, Grand Rapids and Saginaw.

The bride is a June graduate of Central Michigan University and a sixth grade teacher at Uby Community Schools. The groom is a senior at Central Michigan University.

Following a wedding trip in the western United States the couple will live at Uby.

Farm Ladies push frozen cherries

"A fresh cherry pie made from Michigan cherries is a treat for all of us," said Mrs. Earl G. Hecht of Vassar, chairman of the Tuscola County Farm Bureau Women's activities, as she announced plans for their newest project now under way.

The farm women are promoting the sale of the best quality of Michigan red tart cherries to its members. In cooperation with the Michigan Agricultural Cooperative Marketing Association, an affiliate of Michigan Farm Bureau, some of the state's abundance of cherries will be brought to the county.

Orders for these partially frozen, pitted and sugared cherries may be placed anytime in the next two weeks at the Tuscola County Farm Bureau office, at 416 Wells St., Caro, or with Mrs. Clare Carpenter, Cass City or Mrs. Hecht.

The slush-pack cherries will be in an attractive plastic container, ready to re-package for home freezing or canning. Delivery is expected at harvest time, probably about the third week of July.

"We invite Farm Bureau members to stop at the Farm Bureau office or contact one of us and sign up for as many of the 30-lb. containers of cherries as you want," Mrs. Hecht urged, "but get your order in early so no one will be disappointed."

The Want Ads are newsy too.

Behind the Counter Beauty Superstitions

It was once thought that strawberry juice would get rid of freckles, whitening and preserving the skin. Marie Antoinette, for one, insisted on taking baths in crushed berries. And rinsing the face with red wine was a sure-fire way to save your skin, according to the ladies of the 16th century. Mary, Queen of Scots, asked for (and received) a regular government allowance of wine in which to bathe.

Most of the ladies in her court had to content themselves with milk baths. The popularity of that skin treatment has since soured.

At least in a royal treatment of the skin is the moisturizer after the bath. One contains the moisture retaining properties of the cactus-like aloe vera plant. Cactus cream?

But not all the old ideas have proven foolish. Our great-grandmothers powdered their face with cake flour and used beet juice as rouge. Now a cosmetics firm has come out with a face powder made of corn-cob dust, so fine it can't clog pores.

And in ancient Greece, women sat in the sun with their hair covered in a sticky mixture of honey and hard-boiled egg yolk, to lighten their locks. Women in the last century also used egg yolk in their home-made shampoos, and egg is still an ingredient in many commercial shampoos.

Or take the old idea that women who retire after midnight will look pale and haggard. There's plenty of scientific evidence to back up the concept of "getting your beauty sleep."

Hepatitis: its cause and cure

Hepatitis is an inflammation of the liver due to a virus. This virus is one which, fortunately, most people make a complete recovery from. Hepatitis is an extremely prevalent disease and fairly infectious. Although doctors know that it is basically a virus, the virus has not yet been cultured and grown in a laboratory. For this reason, it is very hard to identify the people who have, or have had, this particular disease.

It is very probable that the number of patients who have been infected by the virus is much larger than the number of patients who are diagnosed. Probably one or two percent of the population may be diagnosed at some time as suffering from hepatitis. There are, perhaps, 10 times as many that show evidence of having been infected at some time.

The symptoms related to hepatitis are many and varied, but the symptoms that lead a doctor to suspect hepatitis are jaundice and lack of appetite. In addition to this is fatigue of an extent and magnitude that is far beyond anything that the person has tolerated in the past. These are the tip-offs to the doctor. The physical examination may help, as may the examination of the urine and of the stools. There are also some reasonable specific tests of the blood which give the diagnosis with a high degree of competence.

The doctor has no anti-viral agents for this disease in his armamentarium. The treatment in general is essentially one of watchful waiting, because this disease has a tendency to heal itself. However, to help this along, the first thing needed is bed rest. Premature physical activity before healing is complete, may prolong the total disease process, and lead to a relapse. The vast majority of patients get better. Hepatitis is a disease which is serious in terms of the morbidity—that is to say the amount of time lost from work or from normal activities. It is less serious as a cause of mortality, although deaths do occur. Recovery once it has occurred is complete. There is no alteration in the life pattern of a patient after recovery.

Hepatitis, being an infectious disease, has at least the promise of being eventually a preventable disease and responding to vaccine. Eventually this vaccine may be produced and there are some hopeful pointers in that direction now.

The disease is infectious. In some instances at least it is put in the category of a contagious disease. However, doctors feel that it requires fairly prolonged and quite intimate contact for a person to be infected by the disease. Those that are exposed may benefit by getting injections of gamma-globulin. They must get this reasonably soon after exposure for it to be effective although the disease has a very considerable incubation period. Several weeks elapse between the time of infection and the time that the symptoms appear. During that time if the Gamma-globulin is given it tends to suppress, although it doesn't cure, the disease. It does make the patient sufficiently immunized then he can fight off the virus a little more effectively.

Doctors, today, do not feel there is a great deal of importance in diet insofar as this disease is concerned. Diet came into the whole picture of liver disease in relation to the consumption of alcohol but hepatitis has nothing to do with alcohol. Also, during World War II, when hepatitis was recognized as the disease that it is, the mortality in the troops that got the disease was higher in those troops that originated in countries where there was a very serious level of under-nutrition. This was an association that had to be recognized, but, in fact, in the normally fed North American adult there is no reason for concern on dietary grounds at all. It is true that people may lose their appetite and not want to eat anything at all for several days. Sometimes one might help them over this particular spot with intravenous fluids and so on, but this isn't often the case. Certainly it is not true that man can eat himself to healthful hepatitis!

There is considerable hope in the future for stopping hepatitis. This is the so-called Australia antigen. There is a reasonable hope that future work will lead to better methods of prevention, better methods of detection of the carrier, and eventually to the preparation of a successful vaccine.

Some teenagers are mighty good kids in spite of the company they keep—at home.

200 at livestock 4-H training clinic

BY BERNARD JARDOT

About 200 4-H and FFA members, leaders, parents and guests were in attendance at the annual Thumb Area Livestock and Dairy Leader Training Clinic June 15. Extension 4-H Youth Agent, Bernard Jardot programmed this event for the Thumb Area Counties with the help of local leaders and specialists of Michigan State University.

This event was programmed to include training in proper selection, fitting, showmanship and judging for dairy, beef, swine and sheep members. The schedule included the Fitting and Showing Training in the morning and selection and judging in the afternoon. A special lunch was furnished at noon by J. P. Burroughs and Sons and Master Mix Feeds who also gave awards to the top judging winners. We were very pleased by the fine cooperation we had from the local business concerns.

We were also pleased with the help contributed by our local 4-H and FFA leaders in the Thumb Area along with their members who contributed to this fine program.

We wish to acknowledge the help received by specialists from Michigan State University, such as, Dr. Richard Dunn, Roger Hale and Jim Day along with Bill Bivens, District Dairy Fieldman, and Bill Bortel, Tuscola County Extension Director. These people along with our local 4-H and FFA leaders and teen leaders really made this event the success it was. This fine cooperation with our business friends toward the promotion of the Junior Livestock and Dairy programs has helped considerably toward the success of this event and other activities.

This event has once again demonstrated that our local leaders with the help of teen leaders and outside specialists can assume a major role in developing their own youth program.

The Want Ads Are Newsy Too!

yours is the hand that lights your child's face

We've heard so much about the effects of insecurity on the life of a child! It seems urgent to find a picture of security... that elusive ideal that parents want to provide but can never be sure they have.

Notice the importance of the light in our picture. It doesn't really come from that fatherly hand. Someone else has provided the light which links father and son. The father merely stood in that light... and held his son's hand!

Sunday — Father's Day — in hundreds of thousands of churches, earnest fathers will stand in the Light. With their sons they'll worship God... experience again the spiritual understanding of life. See the brightness of that true security reflected in youthful eyes.

Are you in the market for a new swimsuit? Do you know which one to purchase? Everyone can find the "just right" swimsuit if they consider the following four angles.

First is to decide how much money you can spend on a swimsuit.

Next thing is to decide what are your needs and wants. If you do lots of swimming and water skiing consider the bathing suits with shoulder straps that stay firmly in place. For sun bathing and splashing, consider the dressmaker suits in one or two piece models.

The third angle to be considered is to learn what is available. There are many fibers and combinations to select from. A knowledge of the general fiber characteristics used in swimsuits will be helpful in making a wise selection.

Examining the workmanship both inside and out is the fourth angle to consider. Carefully check the size and cut of the suit as well as the size of the neck, arm and leg openings. Closures and built-in foundations should also be checked. Consider the trims and general overall appearance for serviceability and style.

A smart swimsuit shopper keeps alert for sales, learns good brand names, learns to read the fiber labels and understands the information given on the labels. She also checks the workmanship, checks the fit in all sorts of positions and compares prices and quality before making purchases.

Entertain Zontians at Little cottage

Members of the Cass City chapter of the Zonta Club met June 16 at the Caseville cottage of Mrs. Harry Little. A potluck dinner was served, followed by group singing.

A report on a birthday party for the patients at Caro Nursing Home was given.

Mrs. Helen Baker and Mrs. Helen Stevens will be delegates to the Zonta International Convention to be held in Chicago July 5-8.

The next meeting is scheduled for September.

It's very easy to find excuses for not doing the things we don't want to do.

Volcano Erupts in Cass City

Starting Thursday, July 2, the giant screen of the CASS theatre will premiere the new Cinerama adventure "KRAKATOA, EAST OF JAVA". This big screen adventure has been on reserved seats in the large cities, and now everyone can enjoy it at regular prices.

Filmed in Super-Panavision, you are there when a raging river of molten lava runs right out at you, and a terrifying tidal wave engulfs you. Critics say that "KRAKATOA, EAST OF JAVA" has so much 3-D depth, that you should have seat belts to hold you in your seat during the performance. "KRAKATOA, EAST OF JAVA" is the story of a ship that sets out looking for sunken treasure in the year 1883, only to get trapped near an island with an erupting volcano. "KRAKATOA, EAST OF JAVA" will play for just four days, July 2-3-4-5 at the CASS. Some of Hollywood's top stars are in the new Cinerama adventure, including Maximilian Schell, Diane Baker, Brian Keith and Sal Mineo.

Richard Hendrick, owner of the CASS says that "KRAKATOA, EAST OF JAVA" is the perfect entertainment for all ages during this holiday week, because it is jam packed with exploding adventure.

CASS CITY

Hi...

I'm Reese Lamb, Michigan's Truck Driver of the Year.

I'd like to ask you a favor.

Keep your cool driving on the hot Fourth of July.

The highways will be crowded...traffic may move like a snail...and tempers may flare.

Don't let a hot temper cause you to blow your stack.

When your stack blows...your patience goes...And you may be heading for trouble.

This is how accident statistics are made.

You don't have to be one if you keep your cool. So keep your cool on the hot Fourth of July.

If more people do...fewer will die.
