

Thumb outlook: more soaring health care costs

Inflation has touched every aspect of American life and hospitalization and health care has been one of the leaders of the upward spiral. Increased costs in materials, supplies, labor, and insurance along with a shortage of qualified personnel and a bureaucratic maze of government health programs have all helped to push the cost of health care far ahead of the rise in the cost of living.

Ten years ago a private room at Hills and Dales Hospital cost $20 per day. Today a patient would pay $38 for the same room, an increase of 90 percent. A semi-private room costing $16 in 1960 now costs $32. The $14 charge for a bed in a ward a decade ago has doubled to $28.

H. Byron Landholt, Hills and Dales administrator, cited two chief reasons for the drastic increase in the cost of hospitalization: government health care programs and increased wages for personnel.

Beginning in July 1966 Medi-Care programs became effective. According to Landholt, certain requirements were necessary to qualify the hospital under the Medi-Care provisions. For the most part, the requirements called for improved building standards and increased personnel.

The Medi-Care program is complex and complicated involving a series of independent audits conducted by the hospital, Michigan Blue Cross and Social Security offices before the hospital can be reimbursed. This often takes two to three years, Landholt said, and results in a tie-up of cash funds.

Hans Jeppeson, associate administrator of Bay City General Hospital, agreed. He said, "the Medi-Care/Medicare program is getting much better but the accounting in just about all cases is not nearly worth what it costs to accomplish it."

Landholt said the Medi-Care estimate for caring for people over 65 years of age had been too low and based on a flat rate. As of July 1 however, a new rate was imposed which he hopes will be more in line with actual costs.

The second major reason for increased hospital costs, according to Landholt, is that four years ago hospital employees were extended the benefit of the state wage/hour law which entitled them to minimum wages. (In private industry payroll amounts to about one third of total costs.) The cost of labor, he said, is rising from 15 to 18 per cent each year.

Not only are hospitals' employees demanding and receiving higher wages but more workers are needed. Specialty personnel such as inhalation therapists, physical therapists, laboratory and X-ray technicians are required. In some hospitals the number of skilled personnel has risen 50 percent in the last 10 years.

The outlook for the future is not good, Landholt said that by 1975 costs are expected to reach $100 a day per patient.

The dim financial picture is not limited to Hills and Dales Hospital alone. A Chronicle survey showed that five other area hospitals are experiencing the same crisis:

HUBBARD MEMORIAL HOSPITAL-Bad Axe

Private room. . . . $36-39/day
Semi-private.32
Ward.30

SAGINAW GENERAL HOSPITAL

Private room. . . . $41-47/day
Semi-private.36-39
Ward.35

Generally the bigger the hospital the more the costs. This is partly due to the wider range of facilities offered by larger hospitals and the number of technical personnel required.

Joseph Wetler, administrator at McKenzie Memorial Hospital in Sandusky, said daily room costs have increased $4 since the hospital opened three years ago. He also said that the cost of equipment and supplies has gone up nearly 10 percent since January of this year.

Fortunately most people are not forced to bear the entire cost of hospitalization alone.

They are protected to some extent by private insurance companies, health care coverage where they work or Blue Cross/Blue Shield insurance. However, even the cost of such protection has greatly increased.

According to John Dieble of the Blue Cross public relations office in Detroit, approximately 58 per cent of the population of Michigan are members of Blue Cross. He said the cost for one common policy for a family involving basic group comprehensive coverage has increased more than five times in the last 20 years.

In 1960 Blue Cross paid $30.10 per day of care for a hospitalized member. By 1965 this had risen to $38.86 and by 1969 it had increased to $64.

Besides increased labor costs and general inflation, Dieble attributed some of the rise in cost to poor hospital planning. Lack of coordinated planning often results in duplication of services and facilities

FROM THE

Editor's Corner

I suspect that my mother's reaction is typical of many senior citizens these days as they watched the Fourth of July come and go for another year.

Mother was bemoaning the seemingly casual way most residents celebrated the nation's independence day.

She recalled gala celebrations through the years when the Fourth was something. A really big day. She explained that people showed appreciation for their country then and the holiday was an anticipated event.

The current attitude, she feels, is a sad one.

Saturday there were few flags flying and most used the day off as an excuse to head for the golf course, the beach or the backyard barbecue.

There is no doubt that the automobile, TV and the shorter work week are responsible for the change.

It's the contention here that the change is more superficial than real.

Back in the days when the Fourth was a day to remember a normal work week was six days, 10 hours a day or more. A day off was worth celebrating just because it was a day off.

Now we are headed for the four-day week and the novelty of the parade, fireworks, baseball game and community picnic is long gone.

They shoot off fireworks when a new store opens or for no reason at all at the outdoor theatre. Thanks to TV, a parade today isn't really worth watching unless it's an extravaganza like department stores stage at Christmas.

A small-time holiday event just doesn't interest folks anymore.

Remember, too, that Independence Day occurred nearly 200 years and a dozen or so wars and skirmishes ago.

We've had a good many milestone days in our history since the Declaration. No one could celebrate them all with the furor of an old-time Fourth.

But the Fourth is a symbol of a great day and just because we don't shout as loud as we once did, doesn't mean that we've forgotten about pride in country.

There aren't too many of us who are ready to move to Cuba, Russia, China, Europe or anywhere else in search of a better life.

We still have plenty of pride. Pride in our space program, pride in American technology, pride in American achievement and pride in the firm conviction that our form of government is at least partially responsible for the highest standard of living on Earth.

It shows in the unspoken, deep-down belief that when things get down to the nitty-gritty, by golly, somehow, somehow Americans in the United States will do the job quicker and better than anybody else.

Today many of us no longer want to announce it by waving a flag or marching in a parade.

But just because we don't explode as much as we once did, doesn't mean that the charge is not still there.

FOR THE PAST two years farmers east of Cass City have generally experienced poor crop years. Barring a sudden catastrophe, yields this year should be good to excellent. This field of near head high corn at the Olin Bouck farm is one of many banner fields. The corn now measures between 5½ and 6 feet. Mrs. Bouck stands in the middle of the field to show the crop height.

Cautious optimism prevails in course for area underprivileged

Authorities in charge of a special summer program for 90 needy children now in progress at Willis Campbell Elementary School are cautiously optimistic.

Cautiously optimistic because they feel the $13,000 of Federal funds that the program costs is not wasted.

Cautiously optimistic because attendance is better during the first three weeks of the five-week course than the same students recorded during the regular school year.

Cautiously optimistic because they are teaching classes with no more than 15 students compared with normal class-loads of twice that many pupils.

We are finding out something new about these pupils every day, says Mrs. Nanette Bauer, project director, who also teaches level three, the top level, in the program.

You see, she said earnestly, each of these children has different problems and during this summer course we have the opportunity to find out what they are.

They are divided by age and proficiency and given a variety of instruction with the emphasis on reading.

Besides the top level, two other classes are taught: Level two which includes mostly third and fourth grade students and is taught by Mrs. Malvina Howarth, and Level one, taught by Miss Caroline Garety.

Besides the reading, the students receive a half hour daily motor proficiency training from Mrs. Sally Goodall to improve eye and hand coordination; a half hour of art work from Mrs. Erma Cardew, and a half hour of science instruction from Mrs. Dorothea Quick.

The teachers are helped by five aides.

The unusual program starts every morning at 8 a. m. when

State Aid formula boosts school funds 13.5 per cent

Cass City Schools will receive some 13 1/2 per cent more in State Aid funds for the 1970-71 school year than it did during the current school year, Supt. Don Crouse estimated this week after the passage of the school aid act by the Michigan legislature.

The tentative figures are

Tour to compare wheat varieties

A wheat inspection tour has been scheduled Monday, July 13, at 7 p. m. at the Howard Muntz farm, a mile west and 3 1/4 miles north of Cass City on Koenig Road, William Bortel, Tuscola County Agricultural Agent, said this week. The tour is unique in that it compares two new varieties of wheat with a pair of old standbys. The new varieties are Ionia and Yorkstar growing in the same field with Genesee and Avon.

based on a projected enrollment increase of some 50 pupils and a sharp increase in the valuation of the district. Crouse explained that the valuation jumped from $12,260 per pupil to $13,757 and said that enrollment this fall is estimated at 1,980 persons.

In actual cash the bill as passed means that the school will receive about $87,000 more than it did this year. Total revenues from the State last year were some $661,000.

Added to the $86,000 increase will be over $60,000 in extra operating taxes okayed by the voters in June - bringing the total well over the amount needed to operate a full school program according to the projections made by the school during the campaign for extra millage.

It is unlikely that there will be enough money around so that the special levy can be reduced. It may be possible to continue the repair of the windows of the Intermediate School on the east side, installing the same type units that are now on the west side of the building. The school is receiving estimates and the issue will be on the table in Monday's board meeting.

Still to be settled are teachers' contracts. Settlements at Bad Axe and Laker schools indicate that salaries may be higher than originally projected.

It is likely that the school will continue its "middle of the road" policy with salaries, but the middle for 1970-71 may be higher than anticipated . . . and thus more costly than anticipated.

Regardless, Crouse said, there is no doubt that a full school program can and will be offered to students in the district this year.

Hiring teachers, a thorn in the side of every administrator in recent years, is much easier these days and schools are able to be more selective in filling positions.

Still on the shortage list, Crouse said, are industrial arts teachers. Cass City is still looking for one to teach Junior High, a course not offered in 1969-70.

Minor injury in cycle accident

Dele Reid Allen, 18, of Kingston was taken to Hills and Dales hospital following a spill from his motorcycle July 4. Allen had been riding the trails just north of the baseball field at Cass City Recreation Park. Apparently unfamiliar with the area, he rode up over a hill and dropped into a hole. Gene Wilson, Chief of Police, said the area had been chained off before the mishap to keep motorists out.

No one was injured in a minor two car traffic accident in Cass City July 3. A car driven by Wallace Richmond Grassman, Cass City, struck a car driven by Adeline Butler, Cass City, when the Butler car attempted to make a left turn off Main street into a parking space.

Herbert J. Holcomb, 19, and Keep cycles off grass in park, says chief

Cass City Police Chief Gene Wilson this week asked residents to please keep cars and motorcycles off the grass when using the facilities at Cass City Recreation Park.

Cycle riders have been driving the hill north of the ball fields in the new park addition, he explained.

The travel ruins the new seedings and is dangerous. We had an accident this week, Wilson said, where one boy was injured as he hit a hole at the bottom of the hill.

Wilson also reported that a chain is now installed every night at the park entrances and marked with a red flag. The new regulation was adopted by the council last week in an attempt to curb vandalism.

A MOTOR PROFICIENCY exercise given by Mrs. Sally Goodall helps improve eye and hand coordination in a special summer course at Willis Campbell Elementary School.

WORKING ON LANGUAGE with a tape recorder to avoid disturbing other students is one of the 90 students in the summer Title I program at the school. The teacher is Mrs. Nanette Bauer.

RULES FOLLOWED

One of the standard rules of political campaigning runs something like this: "If you are ahead of your opponent, then don't acknowledge that he (or she) exists."

The reasoning behind the rule is simple—why give the guy exposure when he's behind? And if he (or she) doesn't exist, then you don't have to answer campaign charges or engage in things like debates.

The rule is being followed in several campaigns during the current primary election. Perhaps the most notable one involves the Republican contest for the party's U. S. Senate nomination.

If you were to examine very closely all the campaign literature and all the speeches of Mrs. Lenore Romney, you'd still have no idea she has a primary opponent.

Her campaign against incumbent Democratic Sen. Philip Hart completely ignores State Sen. Robert Huber of Troy. When asked why she is ignoring Huber she says the Republican Party "should be united, and our main objective is beating Senator Hart. That is where I am concentrating my efforts."

When Huber challenged her to a debate recently she didn't even refuse the challenge, but merely said she had "no comment" on it.

And when a reporter pressed her on the subject by asking why she should be the Republican nominee instead of Huber, she said only, "If you have to ask that question, then I feel sorry for you."

Huber hasn't taken this treatment sitting down. After some initial fears about the dangers of making any sort of political attacks on a woman, he started campaigning hard against her as well as for the nomination.

Huber says he feels Mrs. Romney is a "delightful" person, but she has no experience in government and thus has no business in the Senate.

In an attempt to exploit the "bossism" issue, he is calling her Mrs. George Romney rather than Lenore to call attention to charges her husband strongarmed the party to get the nomination for her.

Mrs. Romney is still considered a heavy favorite and as a result has not bothered to reply to Huber. But some Republican strategists are beginning to feel the original estimates that Huber would receive only 15 to 20 per cent of the vote may be pretty light.

And if polls show Huber is making solid gains, it will be interesting to see whether Mrs. Romney begins to acknowledge his existence.

POSTER POLLUTION PONDERED

State Rep. Loren D. Anderson, R-Pontiac, is worried the current political campaign may contribute to the pollution problem now being pondered by most citizens.

As a result, he has proposed that all candidates for office make sure their campaign posters are pulled down after the elections in August and November.

"Either we are serious about doing something to stop the litter and the visual pollution or we are not," Anderson said.

"Politicians in particular should be aware of the problem and be willing to take the necessary steps to undo what they have done in trying to be elected."

Anderson tried in 1967 to get a bill passed which would have made failure to remove posters and other material a misdemeanor.

"The bill did not pass and I do not think such a bill could be passed now," he said. "So I believe it should be left up to the individual candidate to do what is right."

"I pledge now that I will see that all campaign material I use is collected and properly destroyed. I would hope that others will follow my lead. The little extra effort will go a long way toward the realization of our beautification program."

Anderson has written a personal letter to each legislator asking for assistance in his proposal.

Rabbit tracks

By John Haire

(And anyone else he can get to help)

Cash Asher, now of Corpus Christi, Texas, was born in Cass City and spent his boyhood here. Since that time he has been a resident of just about everywhere, doing just about anything . . . most of the time working as a reporter as he trekked back and forth across the country.

A brother of Stanley and Manley Asher of Cass City he is now 78 years old and he writes he is about ready to have "How Empty Is My Wilderness" published. The story is taken from the writings of Chief Red Fox, a 100-year old Sioux Indian.

Only a single man could do it. Roger Parrish, director of choral music at Cass City Schools, has resigned. He is tossing away a safe and secure job at a better than average salary to sing and play professionally. He also says he will travel to either California or Florida before returning to Europe where he hopes to teach an American High School for the Armed Forces.

Police Chief Gene Wilson is feeling a little chagrined this week because he may have made a few motorists unhappy unnecessarily.

While the incident that caused irritation was certainly legal, Wilson wishes it hadn't happened because he believes in bending over backwards to avoid making waves.

Anyway, last Friday the drivers in town parking during the violent, but brief, thundershower didn't feel it necessary to get wet to pay a nickel to park . . . so many of them didn't.

A half hour or so later when a routine parking check was made the sun was shining, the birds singing and the weather clear. Every car with an expired meter received a ticket. Most people realize that parking control would be lost without checks for violations, Wilson continued, but we don't want anyone to have the impression that we are hovering in the wings just waiting to catch a car in front of an expired meter.

We check the meters a couple of times a day and the time picked Friday just wasn't the right one, he said ruefully.

First charge for James Van Dellen

New pastors to reign at area churches

JAMES VAN DELLEN will begin his professional career Sunday at the Good Shepherd Lutheran Church in Cass City.

Sunday is an important day in the life of the Rev. James Van Dellen, the new pastor at Good Shepherd Lutheran Church.

It's a day that he has been looking forward to for many years. But now that it is here he almost wishes that it weren't. Not really, of course, for Sunday is the day that Mr. Van Dellen will be installed as pastor of his first church.

It is the culmination of a lifelong ambition dating back to grade school.

I wasn't really sure back then, Van Dellen said, as he relaxed on the sofa in the living room and answered questions with an engaging grin. But I thought about it.

In high school at Godwin Heights, a Grand Rapids suburb, I was torn between science and the pulpit. But after attending Concordia Junior College in Milwaukee, my career plans were definite.

Mr. Van Dellen received his BA degree at Western Michigan University in Kalamazoo in 1966. He immediately entered Concordia Theological Seminary at Springfield, Ill., graduating in May. He spent a year as a vicar in Los Angeles, Calif.

Probably one of the reasons that he was anxiously eyeing the end of school was to set up permanent housekeeping with his family. While in school he married the former Judy Bond of Grand Rapids and the couple are parents of two-year-old

James Richard and five-month-old Laura Marie.

The new pastor won't be making many ripples in the congregation of the church. He plans to go along with the service that his parishioners are used to.

They told us at school that we only learned the basics and that our real education starts now. I go along with this, he added.

Mr. Van Dellen is in accord with the civil rights movement in progress across the country but feels violent protest is wrong.

It called attention to the problem but in the end may result in more polarization of the races, he feels.

He has mixed emotions about the Vietnam war and is reluctant to join the camp of either the Doves or the Hawks.

He was ordained a Lutheran pastor June 28 and will be installed here at special services at 3:30 p. m.

He and his wife will meet members of the congregation and other interested persons at an open house at the church immediately following the installation.

Rev. Elizabeth Isaacs

Cass City Trinity Methodist Church welcomed its new minister last week, the Reverend Mrs. Elizabeth D. K. Isaacs.

Mrs. Isaacs has been in the ministry for nearly 25 years. "The Lord called me," she said, "I guess it's the only work I felt I really wanted to do."

Born in Manchester, England, of Scottish parents, she received bachelor of arts and master of arts degrees from Wayne State University in Detroit. At Northern Theological Seminary in Chicago she earned a bachelor of Divinity degree and a master's degree in religious education. Later, she did graduate work at the McCormick Theological Seminary in Chicago.

She admitted that she had met with some difficulty in entering the ministry because she was a woman. She described it as "subtle discrimination" by some fellow clergymen.

It has been difficult she said, being a wife and mother as well as a minister. "It's hard, but it's worked out very, very well. My family is so cooperative," she said. Her husband, James Isaacs, is a semi-retired realtor operating out of Port Austin. Her 18-year-old daughter, Mary, will be a student at Alma College this fall. Her son, John, 11, will be a sixth grade student in Cass City.

Mrs. Isaacs began her career with the Presbyterian missionary service in Mexico. Before coming to Cass City, she was minister of the Methodist church in Elkton where she helped to bring about a merger with the Evangelical United Brethren church.

Society, she said, is finding it difficult to adjust their religious habits to the rapid changes taking place in the world. "We're having a hard time letting our souls catch up to our technological advances," she said, "but it'll come."

Beside ministerial appointments in Port Austin and Port Hope, Mrs. Isaacs held the position of Minister of Education at the Birmingham First United Methodist church. She was also assigned to the Campbell Memorial Methodist church in Ferndale.

THE REV. Mrs. Elizabeth D. K. Isaacs: preaching is what she wants to do.

Vaccine aborts threat of rubella measles epidemic

MEASLES MUZZLED

State health officials say the massive measles vaccination campaign they carried out last winter and spring was successful in stamping out a threatening measles epidemic in Michigan.

An estimated 600,000 kindergarten through third grade school children, normally key spreaders of the disease, were immunized during the campaign.

State Health Director Maurice S. Reizen said as a result "the rubella epidemic has been aborted in Michigan."

"The stage is set for our continuing rubella vaccination program aimed at ensuring that rubella will never occur in epidemic form again," he said.

Success of the immunization program has saved "many Michigan babies" from severe crippling birth defects which can occur when rubella hits a mother in the early months of pregnancy, says Reizen.

For many years rubella, also known as German Measles, was regarded as a mild disease. But in the 1940's research revealed it as a major cause of birth defects.

In the past, rubella epidemics have swept the nation every six to nine years. The last U. S. epidemic resulted in killing or crippling an estimated 50,000 unborn babies whose mothers contracted the disease.

Reizen said Michigan "is among a handful of states in the vanguard of the attack on the disease."

WAR PRISONERS CONCERN

Approximately 50 Michigan families have husbands, sons or brothers who are believed to be prisoners of war in North Vietnam.

They are part of a total of some 1,500 or more men who apparently are prisoners of the North Vietnamese.

The word apparently is used because virtually nothing is known about the condition of these men or even whether they are alive.

To focus attention on the plight of these men and their families, Gov. William G. Miliken recently proclaimed a "prisoner of war week" in Michigan.

The proclamation was the result of the efforts of a Mount Clemens woman whose husband is a prisoner of war in North Vietnam.

Major Donald Odell was shot down over North Vietnam in October of 1967. His wife, Shirley, did not know his fate for more than 14 months.

Finally, just before Christmas last year, she received a very brief letter from him which told her he was at least alive.

Her experience, Milliken said, "is tragically typical of the situation."

"Can you imagine having some relative or friend who has disappeared some place in the jungles of Vietnam and is missing?" Milliken asked.

"He may be dead or seriously wounded. He may be a prisoner of war of the North Vietnamese. But the terrible burden of not knowing whether he was in pain or being mistreated or dead would be an enormous emotional burden for someone to bear 24 hours of every day.

"One of the primary causes for concern is that so little is known about loved ones who may be extremely ill or seriously wounded."

Milliken urged all Michigan residents to write to the North Vietnamese government to urge that it treat prisoners humanely and allow the prisoners to correspond with their families.

"It might help the situation if the people of Michigan all expressed concern that those prisoners be given decent treatment and that their families be notified about their condition," he said.

"I feel this might be accomplished if enough people notify the Hanoi government in North Vietnam of their deep desire for improved treatment," he said. "We ask that people in Michigan, alone or in community groups, express their concern for the men missing and captive."

SPORTS FANS!

I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

By H. M. Bulen

If you think you have trouble on a golf course sometimes, did you know that a woman in a ladies invitational tournament once had a 91 on the 130-yard 16th hole. That's a 91 on one hole! . . . It really happened. It's doubtful if that record will ever be topped.

Here's an amazing fact from tennis. . . The nations of the world have been playing for the Davis Cup, which symbolizes the world tennis championship, for 70 years but only four different countries have ever won it. . . The only nations who've won the Davis Cup are the U.S., Australia, Great Britain and France. . . You'd think more than just four different countries would have won it in all this time, but they haven't.

Here's a tough question. . . How can a baseball player drive in three runs in one time at bat without hitting a fair ball? . . . Well, suppose he comes up with the bases loaded and hits a foul ball down the third base line; the third baseman, thinking the ball might roll fair, throws his glove at the ball to keep it foul. . . A little-known rule says when a fielder throws his glove at a ball and hits it in such a situation the batter gets an automatic triple. . . Thus, this batter would drive in three runs in one at bat without hitting a fair ball!

BUSY BUZZING oat fields last week were planes loaded with chemicals to kill the Cereal Leaf Beetle. Clinton Law who arranged for the plane to serve his farm customers says that all farmers should watch oats closely before they are damaged beyond recovery.

Colwood still reigns in Church league

If form is followed in the Cass City Church League this year look for the game between Colwood United Brethren Church and the Cass City Catholics to be decisive in the battle for the league crown.

Colwood keeps rolling along undefeated in four games while the Catholics have lost once in four outings. Still very much in the running is Deford which has also only lost once.

However, on paper the Catholics appear to be potentially the strongest. They boast good pitching and a team of young athletes. Colwood has a group of veterans who have been as good as they needed to be so far this season.

The Cass City Baptists haven't looked too overpowering this year while losing their first two games of the season, but the team came on like gangbusters against the Owen-Gage Methodists, winning 20-3.

Gary Mellendorf pitched the win and Earl Rayl was charged with the loss, Steve Wells collected three hits for the winners and Arnold Karr had two safeties for Owen-Gage.

The Catholics passed a key test when they bested the Trinity Methodists, 5-1, last week. John Maharg allowed just two hits as he picked up the win. Fred Hurlburt took the loss. Clark Erla and Phil Gray collected two hits each for the winners.

Murray Caister banged out two hits to show the way for Colwood as the league leaders kept Cass City Missionary from entering the winners' circle, 5-3.

Dale Smith chalked up another win and Joe Mellendorf absorbed the loss. Gagetown-Fraser Presbyterians walked off with a victory over Shabbona by defeating Les Severance who previously had hurled his team to a victory over the Catholics.

But it wasn't his night last week and he was charged with a 6-4 loss. Roger Root took the win. Guy Summers was the big stickler for the winners with three hits.

The Gagetown-Fraser nine wasn't able to maintain its winning surge when they locked horns with Colwood and lost a 7-5 decision.

It looked for awhile as if they might push through the week undefeated as they scored five times in the first two innings before Dale Smith settled down and pitched shut-out ball the rest of the way.

Meanwhile, Colwood kept pecking away at the Presbyterian margin to set the stage for a three-run victory rally in the sixth.

Victim of the uprising was Roger Root who took the loss. Smith helped his own cause with three hits in four tries.

After losing a crucial game to the Catholics, Trinity Methodists bounced back to walk over Novesta-Ellington, 14-5. Hurlburt registered the win and Don Englehart took the loss.

Deputies schedule shooting practice

Deputies of the Tuscola County Sheriff Department and other county village police officers will be participating in a day-long shooting exercise at the Caro Gun Club Saturday, July 11.

The event is part of a 23-week police training program being given to 27 county officers. The officers will practice the use of pistols and shotguns at Saturday's session.

The standings: Monday, July 8

	W	L
White Sox	6	1

Braves	3	3
Angels	2	5
Indians	1	8

Ralph Zinnecker smashed a home run for the losers and Mike Murphy countered with a round tripper for the winners.

HOSPITAL COSTS

In hospitals that are close together. Hospitals, he said, should cooperate in keeping costs down by providing different services and facilities.

"Hospitals are not supposed to be competitive," said Dieble; "they should subordinate profit to the good of the community."

One Cass City area business firm which provides a Blue Cross plan for its employees reported that the cost of coverage per month for an unmarried person rose 20 percent since 1965. During the same period the cost of a family plan went from $19.60 per month to $25.08 per month, an increase of 28 percent.

While there has been an increase in almost every area of health care the rise in drug cost has been significantly less. The cost of most prescriptions and over-the-counter drugs has risen an average of only 1.2 percent in the last five years. Mass production and competition have actually cut the cost of such items as vitamins and some antibiotics.

SUMMER SCHOOL

ing any predictions. They can and do point to the less than five percent absenteeism as indicative of excellent student response.

It's probable that the tests will reveal a marked increase in reading skills.

But now, a little over half way through the course, teachers are content to say only that the course will certainly eliminate any summer regression on the part of the pupils and alert future teachers to any specific pupil problems that the summer study uncovers.

The kids? It's fine by them . . . as long as the course includes a trip to the Detroit Zoo and plenty of good food at breakfast time.

VILLAGE OF CASS CITY COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS

The regular meeting of the Cass City Village Council was held on June 30, 1970 at the Municipal Building. Trustees absent were Albee and Rawson. The minutes of the regular May meeting were read and approved.

A report of cash on hand was given.

The Police Committee reported a need for an ordinance to restrict alley parking. This request is to be clarified by Chief Wilson and then referred to the Village attorney. The Police Committee also reported that three guns had been purchased by the village for the police department. A discussion was held on the advisability of keeping the present police car as a second car. A motion was made that the 1969 police car be sold by public bid with council reserving the right to reject any and all bids. The bids must be submitted by the July 28 council meeting. Motion carried.

After some discussion the council voted to establish a nightly curfew on the park to curb vandalism and reduce traffic. A motion was made by Trustee Ross and supported by Trustee Holmberg that a curfew be established in the Cass City Recreational Park one-half hour after each activity is completed, and the park entries are to be marked with appropriate barricades. Motion carried.

The question of the employees sick time was clarified as a result of the Chronicle's reporting of proceedings held on December 26, 1967. Record is to be made in the council minutes that the following action was taken and effective January 1, 1968. The number of sick days for village employees can be accrued to the maximum of 60 days. This time is to be used for illness only.

At the May meeting a new type water meter was discussed. It is attached to the outside of homes instead of inside the house as current meters are. The cost is $47 instead of $37 for the type presently used. Because of the savings in labor required to read the meters the village decided to buy only the new type meters and when repairs are necessary present meters will be changed to the new type at a cost of approximately $16.00.

A motion was made by Trustee Christner and supported by Trustee Ross that the bills as reviewed by the finance committee be approved for payment. Motion carried.

There being no further business, a motion was made by Trustee Christner and supported by Trustee Jones that the meeting be adjourned.

Hartel enrolls in Delta course

One student from Cass City is currently enrolled in the Delta College Summer Festival of Arts Photography Workshop.

He is Lee J. Hartel, 4192 Seeger Street.

The 6-week Photography Workshop is being directed by Curt Leese, award-winning photographer. The program is directed to those who already have some experience with an adjustable camera and an interest in serious further expansion of their hobby.

The Photography Workshop is one of six workshops offered in the 7th annual Summer Festival. Total enrollment for the summer programs has topped the 200-mark.

Former residents now retired

Mr. and Mrs. Leo "Larry" Hutchison of Owosso announced their retirement from teaching recently. He is a former resident of Cass City and was graduated from Cass City High School. Mrs. Hutchison is a former resident of Elkton.

Mr. Hutchison had headed the drivers education program for the past 12 years in Owosso. Previously he had been a football and baseball coach.

Mrs. Hutchison had taught third grade in Owosso for the past 19 years.

Erla's title hopes threatened in Ugly Loop

Erla's long stranglehold on first place in the Ugly Recreation Softball league may be broken this year as the Foodmen dropped their second game of the year Thursday, 4-2.

The champs lost to Snover as Innes tossed a seven-hitter to defeat Dan Erla who allowed six hits.

Erla's played with just eight players and still managed to stay in the game until the sixth inning when Snover rallied for two runs on as many hits to take the game.

Erla's is not yet out of the regular season title race with more than half the season left, but they can't afford to lose again if they expect to retain their loop title.

They will try and get back on the winning trail Friday when they play Smokey's Saddle Shop.

Auvil named to National Honorary

Steven R. Auvil, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Auvil, Snover, was recently honored for his "high scholarship and character" with his initiation into the Michigan State University chapter of Phi Kappa Phi, a national collegiate honorary.

He was graduated from MSU in June with high honors and was awarded a bachelor of science degree in chemical engineering.

He plans to return to MSU for graduate study.

"If It Fitz. . ."

Men just don't understand women

BY JIM FITZGERALD

And then I wrote . . .
A familiar answer was received when I asked Anne how come she cried when my wife had a sore throat.
"You just don't understand women," she said.
So true.
My wife, Pat, had a rusty throat last week and when she talked it sounded like a screen door being opened for the first time in 50 years. Anne told Pat that she couldn't converse with her at any great length because her (Pat's) scratchy voice made her (Anne's) eyes water.

This incredible empathy didn't surprise Pat. It's no wonder. She cries when she sees the beams of huge searchlights sweep across the sky because a gas station is having a grand opening and she is touched by the meaningfulness of the occasion.

I have heard tales of husbands having sympathy pains when their wives were pregnant, but I have never actually known a man who has experienced this phenomenon. Myself, I didn't feel a thing until months later when Blue Cross rates went up. Therefore, I remain dubious about Jack gagging when Jill is choked. But there was no arguing with Anne; those were wet, real tears in her eyes.
I asked how such a thing could be and that's when I got the standard you-just-don't-understand-women answer.

There is no reasonable report an honest man can make when faced with this declaration of feminine omniscience. A man can know a woman so well he can safely predict her reaction to a given situation — she will always prefer a restaurant 15 miles back, for instance. But he can never understand how, while passing it at 60 mph, she can be absolutely certain the skipped restaurant served better food than is offered at the crummy dive where her stupid husband stopped. She even knows there is soap and clean towels in the rest room 15 miles back, and she has never poked her smart nose inside the place.

If you ask her how she knows such things, she'll tell you it's because there was a cute baby sitting in a car parked in front of the restaurant. And if you get frustrated enough to drive 15 miles just to prove she is wrong, you'll find out she is right.

So what man could understand?

Take our dog, and someone did. We gave it away. This Monster Dog did nothing except bark and chase cars and it plainly needed a home in the country.

Except at the actual time of delivery, there were few Fitz tears shed over the departure of Monster Dog. It was generally agreed, after considerable brainwashing by Old Dad, that big dogs do not belong in the city. Even softhearted Pat went along with the giveaway. "No more Monster Dogs for us," she vowed, looking at the table leg Monster Dog had chewed in half.

But as I type these words, there is another Monster Dog on our back porch. It has been there several days. No one knows where it came from. I know where it is going — nowhere. My wife and children are feeding it.

"If you feed that mutt, it will never go back where it came from," I said with usual male logic, all brilliant.

"It's hungry," my wife said, "where's your heart?"
"Yeah, yeah, yeah," said the kids who will feed that dog faithfully until I say it can stay and then they will never feed it again, I will.

"But you said you'd never own another big dog," I whimpere.

"This is different," Pat said with usual female logic, all dense.

Don't ask me to explain this. The only thing different about this brown and white collie is its bark — it's hoarse.

Which brings us back to Anne and her empathy. She may be credible, after all, because every time that lousy dog barks, I cry.

Letter to Editor

No evidence exists that Pot is medically safe

Joyce M. Lane

Decker, Mich.
R.I. 48426

July 6, 1970

Mr. John Haire, Editor
Cass City Chronicle
Cass City, Mich.

In reply to Mary Lou Spencer's open letter.

Count me not as just a parent who attends one drug information program and am convinced, but one who has familiarized herself and family with every aspect of the use and abuse of drugs.

I may belong to the so called "establishment" but don't see myself as completely square. I do not see people in colors but realize racism is a great problem in our country. I have participated in demonstrations and protests where I believed society was guilty of injustice. I believe when something is unjustified speak up! That is our God-given right. It was at a demonstration lauding Senator Phil Hart's work and understanding in the Welfare program that I met and conversed with him. I agree promiscuity is on the rise, so is venereal disease. They say times have changed, the Bible and the Ten Commandments have not. Moral rights are founded on the fundamental principles of right conduct rather than on enactment or custom. The conclusion of all the material I have read on marijuana or pot as most choose to call it, gives no real guarantee that it is safe to experiment with. The statements made by those who say pot is "medically safe" are not supported by scientific evidence. Students at Harvard insisted it helped them even as their grades went down and their ability to cope with society decreased.

I, too, am concerned about the need for more knowledge of the physical, personal and social consequence of marijuana. In 1967, a study of narcotic addicts showed that more than 80 percent had previously used marijuana. No, there is no real direct cause-and-effect link between the use of marijuana and narcotics but a person predisposed to abuse one drug may be likely to abuse other, stronger drugs. Also, users of one illicit drug may be exposed to a variety of them through contacts with drug sellers and other users.

I feel many parents are to blame for the drug problem we face today not only in our nation but our community as well. Many have had the idea, "pretend it isn't here and it will go away," attitude too long. Our young adults lack enough parental authority, have too much free time and money given them too easily. With time and money, no place really to go and with many parents who really don't want to be bothered, what do we expect of today's youth? Is it no wonder we are now faced with serious drug problems?

I can only hope and pray that my children will not experiment with drugs. They have and will continue to be informed. What are the special risks for young users of marijuana? The U.S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare has this to say: "Breaking the laws dealing with marijuana can have serious effects on the lives of young people. They may find their education interrupted and their future shadowed or altered by having a police record. An arrest or conviction for a felony can complicate their life and plans at many turns. For example, in many States, a person with a police record must meet special conditions to obtain or renew a driver's license. Conviction can prevent a person from being able to enter a profession such as medicine, law, or teaching. It can make it difficult for him to get a responsible position in business or industry. Special hearings are necessary before he can hold a government job. Before a student tries marijuana, he should be aware of the social and legal facts about getting involved with the drug." Is it really worth it?

We must face the problems of tomorrow with a clear mind not with one floating along on a foggy sweet smelling cloud of smoke.

Farm Management tour to feature varied operations

A variety of agricultural enterprises will be open to visitors during the 22nd annual State Farm Management Tour in Saginaw County, July 14-15.

Michigan State University specialists will present educational programs at four farms. Also, the specialists will be available for answering questions. The variety of farms on the tour should interest nearly every farmer in the state.

Tuesday (July 14) buses will leave the American Legion Hall in Frankenmuth at 1 p. m., 1:30 p. m. and 2 p. m. to take visitors to the Prairie Farm area. Tour stops include:

Kunk Farms, a 1,267-acre cash crop farm operated as a corporation, features modern grain handling and drying equipment.

Flatland Farms, a father-son partnership between Ed and Larry Brabant, is a 1,080-acre cash crop enterprise with irrigation. Sugar beets and navy beans are the main crops.

Don Althaus raises about 900 acres of cash crops. A 12-row bean drill and four tractors averaging over 100-HP help provide optimum labor efficiency. He uses a seven-bin arrangement for crop storage.

An evening program, with Bavarian food and entertainment, will be held in Frankenmuth. The program, which starts at 7 p. m., will focus on rural-urban relationships.

Rotational experiments at Michigan State University's Perden Research Farm near Chesaning will be open to visitors both mornings.

Wednesday morning, five other farms will be open to visitors:

-- Arnold Schluckebier raises 1,460 acres of cash crops. Mechanization reduced seasonal labor to 280 hours in 1969. A new machine repair shop allows fast repair and winter maintenance work.

-- Morrow Bros. & Sons maintain 65 registered sows, primarily Chester Whites and Hampshires. Their hog barns feature well-designed heating and ventilating systems.

-- Bantz's Fruit Farm offers a variety of recreation-fruit enterprises. The operation includes a cider mill, a gift shop, a steak house, an orchard and ski slopes.

-- Warden Farm keeps 140 dairy animals in a cold free-stall barn. Milking is done in a double-four herringbone parlor. Silage and high moisture corn is stored in air-tight silos.

-- Elmwood Farms operated by Ralph and Walt Frahm, features 60 registered Guernseys and a comfort-stall barn. They also raise wheat, sugar beets and navy beans.

The tour concludes with a Wednesday noon luncheon at the Saginaw County Fairgrounds. Dr. Clifton R. Wharton, Jr., president of Michigan State University, will speak.

Contact the county Cooperative Extension Service office for more information.

Hearing

Undetected hearing loss can result in juvenile delinquency, according to a recent study in Kansas. Researchers there found a high number of reform school children with hearing loss.

None of the ear problems had been detected, and parents and teachers described the children as stubborn, withdrawn, retarded and delinquent. Sometimes the child failed to pass school grades, or just dropped out of school.

About 10% of the nation's school children are believed to have some hearing disability, with 3% severe enough to need treatment. But not all states have screening programs to detect these problems, and most of those that do exist are limited to the early years.

That means a hearing loss in later childhood or adolescence must be severe, if it's going to be detected. In Kansas, for instance, some hearing problems of older boys may result from gun blasts while hunting, and from tractor noises. In any part of the country, ear problems can develop from large or infected tonsils or adenoids, allergies and sinus infections.

Experts agree that when a child is doing badly in school, both his sight and hearing should be carefully checked.

Instruct your children not to pick into the ear canal with tooth picks, hair pins or similarly dangerous objects, since this can lead to an infection in the canal or may puncture the ear drum.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael C. Hollenbeck

Rev. Allen Stebbins of Caro performed the wedding service for Joyce Kay Gordon and Michael Charles Hollenbeck at Wahjamega Country Church Saturday, June 27, at 2:30 p. m. The church flowers were red, white and blue.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Marian Gordon and the late Mr. Clyde Gordon. The parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Donald Hollenbeck.

The bride chose a white organza gown fashioned with an Empire waistline and long full sleeves gathered to the cuff. Venice lace was at the bodice, cuffs and edged the floor length mantilla. She carried a long stemmed red rose.

Jean Russell of Unionville was the maid of honor. Mrs. Karen Hollenbeck of Mt. Pleasant, Gayle Hollenbeck of Grand Rapids and Rinda Ray of Snover were the bridesmaids. They wore Empire style crepe gowns fashioned with red bodices, long sleeves, and Navy blue skirts featuring white lace floor length sashes. They each carried a long stemmed white rose.

Marvin Hollenbeck of Mt. Pleasant was the best man. Don Beltz of Marlette, Brent McCummins of Marlette and Edwin Gordon of Caro were the groomsmen.

A reception was held in the church basement.

Following a wedding trip to Canada the couple will live at Marlette. In the fall they will live at Kalamazoo where the groom will attend Western Michigan University.

FROM THE FILES OF THE CHRONICLE

FIVE YEARS AGO

The Rev. Richard Eyer officially took over the reins of his first church Sunday in an impressive installation ceremony attended by 180 persons and clergy from neighboring communities. Looking into the future, briefly, Eyer said that his immediate plans call for visitation with every member of the congregation. The largest summer sale in the history of Cass City starts Thursday and continues through the weekend as local merchants have gone all out to promote Cass City and their businesses with a pre-centennial sale. Most every merchant in the community has hopped on the band wagon with special buys designed to lure folks from the entire area into their stores.

The Cass City Centennial commemorative brochure, with 88 pages of stories, pictures and advertisements, is now on sale at the Cultural Center. The work is bound with a long-lasting leatherette cover. Preliminary response to the results of months of work by many, many interested Cass City residents indicates that the 1,800 books will be gobbled up at $1.00 per copy.

A fire that might have turned into a disaster was quickly doused Thursday night, July 8, at Frutchey Bean's former Farm Produce installation at the east village limits. Fire Chief Nelson Willy was unable to pinpoint the cause of the fire which caused about $200 damage in the roof of a small cupola atop one of the elevators.

James Rosenstangel of Cass City was the best man. Groomsmen were Tom Sokol, brother of the bride, Steve, Louis, Michael and Bob Papp, brothers of the groom, Shawn and Jeff Papp, nephews of the groom, and Tom Quinn, brother-in-law of the groom.

The mothers of the couple wore corsages of white carnations and yellow rosebuds.

A reception was held at the American Legion Hall, Auburn Hts., for 400 guests. The couple are living at Pontiac following a wedding trip to Arizona.

festivities await villagers, area residents and visitors.

The creaking Cass River bridge will wheeze its last summer, as the Tuscola County Road Commission announced this week that the bridge on Cemetery road, south of Cass City, will be replaced.

TEN YEARS AGO

A record 396 votes were cast in the annual school election Monday at Cass City High School and some 75 persons attended the annual meeting that followed at 8 p. m. In close balloting two candidates were named for four-year terms and two for three-year terms. William Ruhl led all candidates at the polls with 306 votes for one of the four-year terms and James Milligan also won a spot on the board with 217 votes.

The addition to the Cass City Elementary building has been delayed for several weeks by a backlog of work in the Municipal Finance Commission, President Lester Ross told voters at the annual school meeting Monday. The finance organization must rule on all bond issues before they are sold. In Cass City's case, approval is regarded as a formality.

Residents of the Deford school district rejected discussion of annexation to Cass City Monday night at the annual meeting following the school board election. "We're going to try to run our own school," said Mrs. Marjorie Pringle, secretary of the Deford school board.

Cass City's sidewalks will be bulging with specials and the town will assume a carnival air as local merchants and the Chamber of Commerce combine to bring area families Sidewalk Days Friday and Saturday. Rausch Shows of Reese will be in town both days with rides for the kiddies.

The long smoldering controversy between the village of Gagetown and Elmwood Township came alive again Monday when the Gagetown village council threatened to cut off service to the township unless its demands for a change in the program are met.

Jim Sweeney was chairman of the committee to make arrangements for the reunion for the class of 1955 of Uby High School. Jim was president of the class in his senior year. Thirty-three members of the class and their wives and husbands were present when they met Saturday at Farmers Hall.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Bank deposits in the two banks at Cass City have more than doubled in the past three years. The June 30, 1942, statements of the two financial institutions have shown total deposits of $1,409,290.86. The statements of the two banks dated June 30, 1945, and published in the Chronicle today show deposits in the two banks to be $3,060,228.26.

"Applicants for gasoline rations must continue to make applications direct to their local War Price and Rationing board, either in person or by mail, even though the actual issuance of coupons is by mail from the mailing center in Saginaw," the Tuscola War Price and Ration board chairman announced today.

Monday, July 16, is waste paper pickup day in the Cass City community. Householders are requested to have bundles ready by 9:00 a. m. and place in plain sight of the truck driver.

Capt. Horace Buleh has purchased two village lots east of the Elkland Roller Mills on East Main street from R. M. Taylor and Arlan Hartwick. They are located across the street from the Chevrolet garage building where Capt. Buleh conducted an automobile business previous to entering the service.

Dr. F. L. Morris, president of the board of education, presided as chairman of the annual school meeting of the Cass City district Monday evening and called upon Rev. Arnold Olsen to offer prayer before the business of the evening was conducted. Secretary F. E. Hutchinson read the minutes of the annual meeting of 1944. Mrs. Lucy Starman and E. L. Schwaderer were elected as trustees.

Pfc. Joseph Lapak of Gagetown has been awarded the Combat Infantry Badge for outstanding performance of duty with the 103rd Infantry Division in ground combat against the enemy.

Warning that nothing has occurred to improve the fuel outlook for next winter, Capt. Donald S. Leonard, state fuel conservation director, is urging householders to lose no time in making arrangements for their supply of coal. Because of a drop in coal production, consumers of coal for heating will be restricted next winter to 80 percent of their normal supply.

THIRTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Carpenters finished their work Wednesday and the painters will finish the interior decorating today on the new service station of the S. T. & H. Oil Company on the corner of Main and Seeger streets in Cass City. The official opening of the station will be held on Saturday evening, July 13.

Twenty-one attended the annual school meeting of School District No. 5 Elkland, Monday night, and listened to reports of Secretary F. A. Bigelow and Treasurer M. B. Auten. The amount of tax levied on the property in the district in 1936, according to the budget will be the lowest since 1920.

One of the most interesting places which L. I. Wood visited when he and Mrs. Wood spent several months in the South this winter was Andersonville, Ga., where 50,000 were confined during the course of the Civil War. Mr. Wood's father, O. C. Wood, a member of Company A, 5th Michigan Cavalry, was among these prisoners for a nine-month period.

Better sales and better prices for farms are indications of the up-trend in agriculture, according to Governor W. I. Myers, farm credit administrator.

A bronze tablet in the Memorial Arch at Simpson Park Holliness Camp Meeting grounds near Romeo will be unveiled Saturday afternoon, August 3, in honor of the late Rev. W. B. Weaver, a former pastor of the M. E. church in Cass City who died Jan. 30, 1935.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael D. Scheidt

Miss Ronda Lea Murray and Michael Dennis Scheidt were united in marriage May 23 in a noon ceremony at St. Mary's Catholic Church, Williamston, in a nuptial mass said by the Rev. Father Matthew Fedewa.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Murray of Williamston, former Cass City residents. Mr. and Mrs. Roger Scheidt of Williamston are the groom's parents.

Her mother's wedding gown of ivory slipper satin was worn by the bride as she came down the aisle on the arm of her father.

The dress featured mantilla lace with a satin ruffle accenting the bodice. Tiers of lace and ruffles cascaded down the back and flowed into a cathedral train.

The bride wore a diamond lavalier belonging first to a great-aunt and now to an aunt. Her fingertip veil was held in place by white carnations, red roses and baby's breath, which framed her face. She carried long stemmed white carnations, red roses and baby's breath tied with white lace ribbons.

Maid of honor was Miss Sheila Murray, sister of the bride. Other attendants were Mrs. William Schoff, Arlington, Va., Mrs. Timothy Patty of Chicago, and Miss Kathy Murray, sister of the bride.

They were dressed in identical gowns featuring a red and white polka dot bodice, white chiffon circle skirt and red sash. They wore picture hats with red streamers. All dresses were made by the bride's mother. All carried flowers identical to the bride's bouquet.

Miss Marilyn Murray, sister of the bride, was flower girl. Her dress was identical to those of the bridesmaids. She carried baby's breath and red roses in a basket crocheted by her great-aunt.

Best man was Keith Handell of Flint. Groomsmen included David Vantien of Grand Rapids, Leon Gottschalk of Lansing and Terry Scheidt, brother of the bridegroom.

Ushers were Timothy Scheidt, brother of the bridegroom, Timothy Murray, brother of the bride, Timothy Walbridge of Grand Rapids and Theodore Nastal.

Ring bearer was Steven Scheidt, brother of the bridegroom.

Organist was Miss Becky Loomis of Cass City. Miss Kathy Schneider was soloist.

Guitarists included Miss Pat Parment, Rex Salisbury and Rick Shuck.

Commentator for the service was George Stewart.

Altar boys were Joseph Murray, cousin of the bride, and Michael Manack.

An album with names of the wedding party, songs and responses was prepared by the bride and bridegroom and presented to each guest upon arrival.

Attending the ceremony were eight grandparents: Mrs. Howard Loomis of Cass City, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Murray of Cass

Rodeo scheduled by Koylton church

A horse show and rodeo will be sponsored by the Koylton Baptist church Saturday, July 25, starting at 10 a. m.

Area residents are invited to bring their horses or ponies for the event, which will be held a mile west and 1 3/4 miles south of Kingston on Phillips Rd. Ribbons will be awarded to winning contestants.

ROGER L. LITTLE HARRY L. LITTLE

Uncle Tim From Tyre Says:

Dear Mister Editor:

Afore the fellers took up the regular agender of news of the week at the country store Saturday night, they was a short discussion of Independence Day and a full endorsement of the United States of America. Ed Doolittle and Clem Webster, that usual is on opposite ends of ever issue, was happy to stand solid agreed in what Clem called "a show of unity that goes beyond party lines and personalities."

Ed said they is a lot going wrong with this country of ours, but the old USA still has more going right than any society ever has. Furthermore, Ed allowed, most of the problems in this country right now we brought on ourselves by trying to help one another and everybody else in the world that's in trouble.

The fellers was full agreed with Ed, Clem said it done his old heart good to read about the demonstrations being held in support of our country this week. He said times has changed since he was a boy and the Fourth was just about the most exciting day of the year except Christmas. He said folks change their way of celebrating, but he was happy to see they still is some that don't mind standing up and being counted as a man that loves his country.

No country in history, allowed Ed, ever has shared her wealth like the United States, and no nation ever has had more to share. No society ever has tried to come face to face with problems like we have, Ed went on, and he reckoned no society ever has had more trouble solving em.

Bug Hookum said he allus kept in mind that a big reason for observing the Fourth is that old fellers like us can set around and talk about anything and anybody in this country. Bug said he wasn't much on schooling, but he knowed enuff to understand that freedom to think and talk and go and do what you please don't come easy in this world and ought to be considered precious.

Where else but in the U. S. can a man have his say like that feller did a few weeks back that was invited to a meeting of businessmen with the President? You recollect, Mister Editor, that this feller interrupted Nixon's speech and give the President 15 minutes of his thoughts on how to run the country. When the other businessmen was shocked, he told em he understood he was invited to express his views and that's what he done.

In spite of everthing - inflation, war, riots - this country still is going strong. We pay taxes to all levels of Government of $1,500 a year per person, but our per-person income after taxes still has gone up more than the cost of everthing in the past 10 year. We got 10 million more jobs than we had in 1960, but we still ain't got enuff. We keep working at it.

Yours truly,
Uncle Tim

AROUND THE FARM

Winter barley: a versatile crop

By William L. Bortel

The 1970 Michigan State University Crops-Soils Field Day was held last week in East Lansing. A few of the commercial farmers of Tuscola county were present to look at new research now in progress. I would like to summarize two of the research stops that could be of significant value to farmers of the Thumb area.

WINTER BARLEY

Winter barley is a versatile crop which is not used to its full capacity in Michigan. As a feed grain, yields of over 100 bu./acre are not uncommon, and the crop is frequently mature by about the 4th of July. This means a supply of grain when feed supplies on the farm are traditionally low and the work load is distributed better by having harvest. Winter barley being early escapes midsummer drought and thus helps spread the risk.

Attempts are being made to develop malting varieties. A group of farmers, elevator operators and county agents are cooperating with the Rickel Malt Company of Detroit and the members of the industry to test new varieties such as Cass barley for malting. The program is still experimental.

Double cropping is also a possibility with this crop. Last year 90 bushels of barley plus a good yield of soybeans and white beans were obtained by researchers at M. S. U.

WEED CONTROL IN CORN

Heart attack fatal
for V. B. Rocheleau

Victor B. Rocheleau of Gagetown was pronounced dead on arrival at Hills and Dales Hospital after suffering a heart attack Saturday, July 4.

Mr. Rocheleau, 51, was born at Gagetown Dec. 3, 1918, and had been a lifelong resident. His parents were Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Rocheleau. He married Viola Spencer Oct. 4, 1941, in Port Huron.

Surviving are his wife; one daughter, Mrs. Richard Wyant of Auburn; one son, Robert, of rural Cass City; four brothers, Leroy, Richard, Gerald and Patrick, all of Pontiac, and four sisters, Mrs. Don Wood, Mrs. William Bright, Mrs. Harvey Carr, all of Pontiac, and Mrs. Leland DeLong of Clare.

Funeral services were held Wednesday at St. Agatha church, Gagetown, with Rev. Glenn Cronkite of Pigeon officiating. Burial was in St. Agatha cemetery.

the weeds you are trying to control. Then select the chemical or combinations of chemicals to kill the selective weeds you have.

Preplant treatment with atrazine plus Sutan at 1 + 3 pounds per acre gave good control of annual broadleaf and grass weeds. This treatment must be incorporated or thoroughly mixed in the upper 2 inches of soil immediately after application. If nutsedge is a problem, the rate of Sutan in the combination should be increased to 4 pounds per acre. Late season grasses such as fall panicum are controlled by the Sutan. Some problems with fall panicum and crabgrass have resulted where atrazine has been used alone in continuous corn.

Pre-emergence treatments of atrazine in combination with Lasso, Ramrod, Lorox, or Prometryne (Primaze) give good to excellent control of annual weeds. Many combinations have been evaluated. In cases where more than 2 pounds per acre of atrazine is used in one season or more than 1 season, corn must be grown the following year without atrazine before the rotation is shifted to susceptible crops such as oats and soybeans. With crops such as dry beans to follow corn no more than 1 pound per acre of atrazine should be used in the corn in one season. Injury to corn from Lorox and Primaze may occur on sandy soils and under conditions of excessive rainfall.

Post-emergence treatment of atrazine and a non-phytotoxic crop oil is an effective control measure for annual weeds in corn. Nutsedge and quackgrass can also be controlled. Annual grasses should be no more than 1/2 to 1 1/2 inches tall at time of treatment. This post-emergence application should be considered an emergency measure and used where preplant or pre-emergence were not made or were not completely effective. Split applications of atrazine of 2 pounds per acre plus 1 gallon of oil made on nutsedge 2 inches tall and again 2 weeks later was the most effective post-emergence control measure for that species.

Agent's Corner

By Judith Marks

Extension Agent

The doorbell rings, and you make a dash to pick up the scattered toys. Sound familiar?

This probably wouldn't happen if the children had their own toy storage and play area. A child doesn't need a whole room to himself. But he does need a place where he can start a project and leave it spread out overnight if necessary.

With a place of his own, your child will be less likely to make the entire house his play area.

Fixing storage for your child's play area not only helps him, but often challenges your creativity and imagination.

For instance, open shelves are best for often-used toys, because he can see them. You could use brick and board shelves. If possible run the shelves around a corner. This adds a cozy atmosphere and gives a more secluded spot for play.

An inexpensive, washable rug adds a touch of warmth and keeps the play area from expanding to other parts of the house.

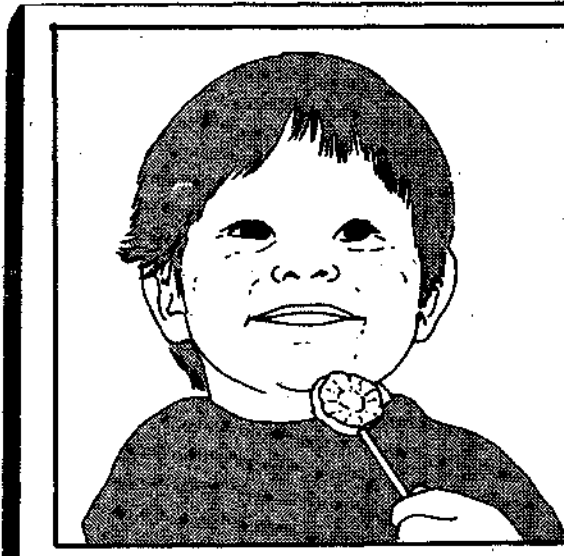

For the seldom-used toys, small boxes and chests do nicely — perhaps painted in bright colors, and decorated with water decals. These can also double as a spot to sit.

For the final touch, give the child a small table for snacking, rolling clay or cutting paper. It doesn't have to be fancy. A few pieces of scrap lumber can make one that fills the need. And children enjoy "decorating" such a table themselves.

ONE FOR THE ROAD

How experts repossess cars

By Dan Marlowe

Large cities create a type of job unknown in small towns. One big-city job of this nature is performed by a hardy group known as "repo men."

As the name indicates, their job is to repossess automobiles on which payment has been defaulted. Most work for credit and collection companies to whom defaulters have been turned over by banks, credit unions, and finance companies carrying paper on the automobiles in question.

In its simplest form, repossession consists of going to the address on record of a customer in arrears and saying: "Look, man, pay up or I take it." The true repo men never sees this kind of customer, however, since the agency holding the paper has already tried this and a lot of other stratagems before turning over the account as uncollectable.

When a repo man gets an assignment, he can be sure that he is dealing with a hard-core delinquent, perhaps criminally so. With the easy brand of credit in vogue these days, there is a breed of motorist who never pays a cent for a car other than the down payment necessary to get it out of the showroom. When the car is eventually repossessed, he changes enough of his statistics to render himself unidentifiable as a no-pay, and gets another car.

Less criminal-minded types will pay up the arrears when their car is repossessed, then fall behind again. It's not unusual for repo men to repossess the same car two or three times. The actual mechanics of the job are complicated. First the defaulter must be trailed to his current address. This involves detailed detective work using the telephone and Polk cross-directories, interviews with neighbors at the last known address, talks with former employers, and anything else necessary to get a lead.

When the lead is obtained, the repo man drives to the address with a little canvas sack on the front seat beside him containing hundreds of car keys, curved tweezers for opening car door locks, and cable jumpers for starting locked engines. If his assignment sheet says "Repo on sight," he doesn't bother contacting the delinquent. One way or another he gets the car started and drives it off to the repo garage.

The extent to which some delinquents will go to hide a car from a repo man is incredible. Some will swap cars with friends, so that the car in default is never at or near the indicated address. Some (the outright criminals,) knowing that a repo man works from car description, motor number, and license number, remove the engine number from their car and re-register it, thus acquiring new plates.

Repo men rarely see the better neighborhoods of a city. With few exceptions, they work in the ghettos and slums, both white and colored. Since respect for the law is minimal in these areas, a repo man with cable jumpers on a car's engine at 4:00 a.m. is likely to find himself surrounded by an angry neighborhood gathering. The cardinal rule in the business is that once a car is spotted, never let it get away. Sometimes what it takes to accomplish this was never recommended in church.

In summary, all it takes to be a good repo man is cynicism, dedication, intelligence of a high order, a grim satisfaction in matching wits with the enemy, and more guts than anyone man should have.

Lawyers term Michigan's election system poor

Michigan may have the most unusual method of picking its Supreme Court members of any state in the union.

Candidates for the court are picked in political conventions held after the primary in August. In November the candidates then are placed on non-partisan ballots and selected on a theoretically nonpartisan basis.

This is, according to a high court member who is seeking re-election this year, "probably the poorest method in the nation" for selecting members of the court.

Former Chief Justice John R. Deethmers, when asked about the Michigan method, said "I think it's a very poor system."

Many other members of the legal fraternity, as well as Deethmers, have been pushing for years for adoption of the Missouri plan for selection of judges.

Under the Missouri plan, judges from the state Supreme Court on down to the district court level are nominated by a commission made up of persons appointed to it by the courts, the bar association and the Governor. The commission nominates three persons for any judicial vacancy which occurs, and the Governor then names one of the three nominees to the post.

After a period of time, the person appointed as judge is placed on an election ballot along with the question, "Shall this judge be continued in office?" If the majority of voters say yes, then he is retained. If they say no, he is out.

"That system takes the judges out of politics and the politics out of the judges, so to speak," Deethmers said. "I have gone around urging that for quite a few years. I did it at the constitutional convention, but I wasn't successful."

The constitutional convention is responsible for the current selection method. The committee handling the question of election of judges was able to agree on a nonpartisan election of judges.

But it deadlocked on how to nominate judges and finally decided to leave it up to the Legislature. The Legislature also decided to do nothing. As a result, the method in operation before the new constitution was adopted: nominating by political convention was retained by default.

Deethmers finds himself in a rather unusual position as he begins his campaign for re-election to the high court.

Though he has been on the state Supreme Court for 24 years, he is much less well known than any of the three candidates the Democrats probably will field.

The Democrats are expected to make their choice between former Gov. G. Mennen Williams and John Swainson and former Lt. Gov., now Chief Justice of the Court of Appeals, T. John Lesinski.

"My name hurts me, there's no doubt about that," Deethmers conceded. "My strategy this year has to be to get known. When I was first elected in 1947 after two years as attorney general, I was well known, but the position is not one which throws you in the limelight and a lot of water has crossed the dam since then."

The only way a candidate can get known is to spend money and this presents a problem, too, since judges can't solicit funds like other candidates.

"I won't solicit funds, but I expect the Republican Party had better come up with some," he said. "In 1947 I spent (only) a nickel to get elected, and in 1953 I got practically nothing."

"In 1961 I got $1,700 -- they got real generous," he said. "Well I can tell you it's going to take more than that this year."

BEAR HUNT PLANNED

A limited bear hunting season in the northern lower peninsula will be allowed again this year by the Department of Natural Resources.

The season will be from Oct. 8-14 and will be limited to 850 permit holders. DNR officials hope it will result in a kill of some 50 bears, the same as last year's season.

DNR will also set a Sept. 10 - Nov. 5 bear season in the upper peninsula, the same as a year ago, and tracking dogs will be permitted.

DNR sets the seasons with the aim of allowing hunters a chance to go into the field and kill a bear, while at the same time protecting the state's bear population from losses which it might not otherwise sustain in the winter and spring as a result of disease and other factors.

Leonard Premium 500 rallye-proved for total performance!

During a rallye, fuel gets a total test. It has to operate finely-tuned engines without a miss. Provide quick acceleration with lots of stops and starts. Maintain sustained speeds. And deliver top mileage to boot. Isn't that the same thing you want from a gasoline? Then switch to Leonard Premium 500: the official fuel for the Press-On-Regardless, voted best national rallye of the year by the Sports Car Club of America.

A great gasoline!

Today's Oldsmobile:
The year-end buy that pays off three ways.

Cutlass 5 Holiday Coupe

1. You save big money when you buy it. The 4th Annual Year-End Sale is on now at your Oldsmobile dealer's—and the savings are substantial on every new Olds in his stock!
2. You save even more money as you drive it. Olds is famous for features that help keep costs down. Like Positive Valve Rotators in every V-8 for peak performance thousands of miles longer... rustproof inner fenders... aluminum exhaust system... bias-belted tires... many more!
3. You get a nice bonus at trade-in time. An Olds is a good investment—traditionally you get more of your dollars back when you're ready to trade the next time around.

If you think you can't afford an Oldsmobile...it's time to think again.

4th Annual YEAR END SALE

Herman Adams dies after long illness

Herman J. Adams, 68, died Friday, July 3, at Hills and Dales Hospital after a five-month illness.

He is survived by his wife, the former Clara Kaatz; two daughters, Mrs. Albert Denton of Jackson and Mrs. Keith Winkel of Gaylord; a son Howard, at home; a brother, Elmer Adams of Unionville, and eight grandchildren.

Mr. Adams was born at Sebewaing Jan. 13, 1902, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Adams. He was married April 17, 1937, at Gagetown. He was a retired farmer.

Rev. Joseph Friske conducted the final rites Monday at St. Agatha church, Gagetown, and burial was in the church cemetery.

If you have a new leaf to turn, prepare to turn it now.
