

Local contests spark Tuesday's dull primary

Authorities are predicting a light vote in the primary election Tuesday, Aug. 4, after a lackluster campaign in which real competition at the State level never developed.

Sparking the election for local voters is the township campaign, two millage questions and the race for State Senator from the 28th district.

Incumbent Alvin J. DeGrow is facing Richard S. Somerville. Both men have been campaigning long and hard throughout the district for the Republican nomination which is tantamount to election in the 28th district.

While the vote may be light it is not likely that it will be as small as it was in 1968 when less than 7,000 of the county's estimated 19,000 voters trudged to the polls.

At the last primary, there were no financial issues before the electorate and only a hotly contested battle for drain commission, sheriff and various county commission posts were of interest to voters.

Seek road and bridge funds in millage vote

There are two special fund raising propositions facing voters in the primary election Tuesday, Aug. 4, one of which is unique to Elkland township.

Authorities of the Tuscola County Road Commission have labeled the need for bridge repair across the county as critical and are asking taxpayers for one mill for five years to finance bridge construction.

All in all it adds up to about $1 million over the five years. It's not enough to repair all of the bridges that are inadequate for today's traffic, Robert Wallington, engineer, said but it will relieve the situation.

In the county today, there are 90 bridges posted with load limits. In the immediate Cass City area, the two bridges posted are on Koepfgen Road, north and south of M-81.

Facing Elkland township voters only will be a request for another mill for use on township roads.

On Elkland's 1970 valuation, the mill will raise about $12,300 annually. The proposition is being presented to the voters by township officials after the problem was reviewed at the annual meeting of the township in the spring and it was decided that the money should be authorized by a vote of the people.

While there is primary competition for most State posts, it is considered nominal. And a win by one of the "unknowns" would be regarded as a colossal upset.

For the Republicans, Gov. William G. Milliken is facing James C. Turner. Turner is a crusading editor of a little known magazine, "Today," and active in politics in Livingston County. His chances against Gov. Milliken are considered nil.

In the race for the GOP nod for United States Senator, Mrs. Lenore Romney is the odds on favorite, although Robert J. Huber, her opponent, has been making a strong campaign.

Roy L. Spencer is unopposed in his bid for another term as State representative from the 78th district.

There is a four-way fight for the Democratic nomination for State governor, Zolton Ferency, the former Democratic State chairman and political warhorse, is one. Others are Sander Levin, George F. Montgomery and George N. Parris.

Philip A. Hart, the incumbent United States Senator, is unopposed in his bid for the nomination and re-election. Other Democrats without primary opposition include: Richard E. Davies, 8th district; Alexander Wnuk, for 28th district Senator, and Robert Thwing, for 78th district representative.

In the 84th district, which includes part of Tuscola County, but not Cass City, the race for the seat is between John T. Gilmour Jr., and Robert D. Young for the GOP nomination. The winner will face Robert Russell in the general election.

TOWNSHIP RACES

Causing more stir locally than the race for major posts is the battle for seats on the township board.

The race, naturally, is for the Republican nomination. Elkland township has never voted Democratic.

Robert M. Hunter Sr. and Ferris D. Ware are battling for the township clerk's post. Hunter is the incumbent and Ware the challenger.

Incumbent Arthur Randall was appointed township clerk to replace Mac O'Dell who resigned. Tuesday will be the first time he has faced the electorate.

The voters will choose between Randall and M. Arlington Hoffman who seeks to unseat him.

Also on the township ballot without competition are Maynard McConkey, seeking to continue as supervisor, and Fay McComb who is unopposed in his first try for a seat on the board. Also unopposed is Harland Lounsbury who seeks the nomination as constable.

It used to be that if it were "made in Japan" the automatic assumption was that it was of inferior quality....a pale imitation of the real thing.

Gradually, Hong Kong took over the cut-rate field and Japan has moved on to bigger and better things. Today it's hard to name a field where the progressive Orientals aren't making inroads.

This year the International Printing Exposition is being held in Japan and many of the most advanced presses and printing hardware will be Japanese made.

Many of the basic features will be copies of European and American-made machines, only they will be improved and competitively priced.

If it's manufactured, it's almost sure that the Japanese are competing. For instance, the Toyota car is one of the fastest growing imports; the Chronicle press camera is made in Japan; most wardrobes continue one or more items "made in Japan"...and so it goes.

Most Americans will say, I'm sure, that the reason for the booming sales is that Japanese work long hours for poor wages while Americans demand and get the highest wages in the world.

It's true of course...or rather it's a half truth.

Contributing Japan's success to low wages alone is like saying Sammy Davis Jr. is a star because he can sing.

David can sing; Japan's labor rate is low.

But the real story of the Japanese success is the atti-

Census report

Elkland township: part of county's rapid growth area

Preliminary census figures for Tuscola County for 1970 indicate that because of a significant population increase, Elkland township may receive upwards of $150,000 in additional state tax revenue. Cass City, however, will not be so fortunate.

The 1970 census figures show a population increase of 13,471 for the entire county. This is more than twice the amount of population growth from 1950 to 1960.

Much of the growth, however, has apparently taken place outside village and city limits.

Cass City is a prime illustration. Despite the arrival and expansion of new manufacturing firms during the last 10 years, population for the village has increased a mere 16 people, less than one per cent. While at the same time, Elkland township recorded an increase of more than 2,000 which made it the second fastest growing township in the county.

It has been estimated that each resident is worth at least $250 in tax revenue from the state. Many Michigan communities, dissatisfied with the low census count which threatens to reduce the amount of money available, are in the process of conducting their own counts. As yet no such action is planned in Cass City. Village President Lambert Althaver was unavailable for comment.

All but two county townships showed increased population. Indianfields township, according to the new statistics, is the fastest growing township in Tuscola county, registering an increase of more than 3,700 residents. This is more than double the 1960 population.

Second in population growth was Elkland township showing an increase of 2,172. The third fastest growing township was Millington with an increase of 1,743 persons. Only two other townships, Denmark and Fremont, registered increases of more than 100.

The two townships showing a population loss were Gilford and Wisner, down 77 and 15, respectively, since 1960.

Most county villages showed population increases though decidedly less than in the townships. Reese and Caro showed more growth than any other villages. Reese recorded a population increase of nearly 50 per cent, with 342 more residents than 10 years ago. Caro's increase amounted to just 138 persons.

Only one other village, Gagetown, which increased by 27, showed an increase of more than 25 people. Vassar, the county's only city, showed a population of 2,790, up 110 from 1960.

Both Mayville and Millington villages had a loss of population. Mayville was down 28 persons from 1960 and Millington was down 70.

Report average wheat crop in area

Spokesmen for area grain elevators reported this week that local wheat harvest is producing from 35 to 60 bushels per acre in what most termed an average crop.

County Agricultural Agent William Bortel said Monday he had discovered no sprouting, but that high humidity during recent days has made the crop too wet to store and that many farmers are having to dry the wheat at the elevators. He also reported some shattering, caused by high winds, but said the damage was very light.

Bob Wischmeyer, manager of the Michigan Bean Elevator, said recent rains may have reduced the local wheat harvest by 10-15 per cent. He also said that most of the wheat contained excess moisture and had to be dried. The yield in the Cass City area, he said, was running from 35 to 55 bushels per acre.

In the Greenleaf area, George Fisher, manager of the Frutchey Bean Elevator, reported 1 to 2 points excess moisture in the harvest and estimated a yield of 50 bushels per acre. There had been some sprouting, he said, but not enough to make discounts necessary.

Manager of the Gagetown Grain Elevator, Frank Schott, estimated that farmers were reaping an average of 40 bushels per acre this year.

Wheat prices are up slightly over last year. Monday, the price per bushel was listed at $1.31. This may be due, in part, to a decrease in the number of acres devoted to wheat farming this year. County agent Bortel estimated a decline of from 3000 to 5000 acres.

Residents draft Lloyd Severance in Evergreen

Lloyd Severance's retirement from public affairs in Evergreen township was a brief one.

Earlier this year, Severance announced that he was quitting as township treasurer after years of service.

Later, Floyd Kennedy, who has been supervisor of the township, announced that he did not want to be a candidate for re-election.

Interested township residents then circulated a petition for Severance as supervisor.

Since he is unopposed it is virtually assured that his township service will continue without a break.

Win or lose 'Ol' Charlie' will be at the fair

BY MIKE WALSH

"Ol' Charlie," has, over the span of nearly 30 years, become as much a part of the Tuscola County Fair as the 4-H Club, cotton candy, or the Ferris wheel. Each and every year he can be found grooming and training one or two of his horses at the barn on the fairgrounds. Or, he may be found sitting on a bench just outside the horse barn, swatting flies with his mod-print fisherman's hat, smoking a cigar, and talking over the old times with some of the younger men. To them he's "Ol' Charlie."

His real name is Charles Strevel. He was born in Avoca township in 1892. He's been married 40 years and has been seven times a father. And, he likes horses. No, he loves horses.

Charlie will sit for hours and tell of the countless harness races he's entered, in countless Michigan fairs and almost as many states. He's lost track of how many or how often he's won or lost.

"It's just for fun anyway," he says with an emphatic wave of his hand.

He does remember, however, his first horse. He was 17 then and now, 60 years later, he can still recall the Chestnut color.

In 1963, at the age of 70, Charlie was awarded a lifetime membership in the United States Harness Horsemen's Association, a rare honor among horsemen. And it takes very little encouragement for him to dig through his wallet and display his faded membership card. It's obvious by the frayed edges and wrinkles that Charlie is plenty proud of it.

This year Charlie had planned to enter both of his horses, Colby and Glad Lady, in the fair's harness competition. Colby, however, contracted a virus and Charlie is not optimistic about a quick recovery.

But Charlie has been primping Glad Lady for competition, and running her through the paces.

Some one else drives Charlie's horses in the harness races now. Charlie gave it up when he was 65, but not for lack of enthusiasm. He'll lift his hat and push back his thin gray hair and tell you proudly, "I still train my own horses, though."

He refers to Mrs. Strevel alternately as Ethel or "mom," and confesses when she's around that Glad Lady really belongs to her.

They don't have a phone and

The thing that stands out about "Ol' Charlie" is his vitality. His eagerness and enthusiasm belies his 77 years.

He was an employee at the Caro sugar factory for more than 20 years and retired when he was 66 only because the union made it mandatory.

Charlie and "mom" live in a tiny house, just south of Caro, with Jim Spencer, 24, whom they've raised as their own since he was eight months old (in addition to seven children of their own), and several small dogs.

Catholics lead alone in tight church league race

With two games left the Cass City Catholics have a stranglehold on the regular season Church League Softball League title. The Catholics have a 6-1 record and lead Deford Methodists (6-2) by a half game and are a full game ahead in the important loss column.

The Catholics added the Colwood United Brethren name to their list of victims during the week as Al Zawilinski pitched a no-hitter in a 4-2 decision. Colwood (4-3) has slumped badly after leading the pack for much of the first half of the season.

Dale Smith was charged with the loss. John Smentek slammed one over the fence for the Catholics.

Cass City Missionary posted its second win of the year with an 8-3 decision over cellar dwelling Owen-Gage. Joe Melendorf chalked up the win and Gary Devore was the loser.

Gagetown-Fraser keep alive faint title hopes with a win over the Baptists, 4-3. Dennis Stine was the big sticker for the winners with two hits. Russ Hillaker picked up a pair of safeties for the losers. Gary Melendorf was charged with the loss and Roger Root picked up the win.

Deford Methodist stayed in contention with a 6-2 decision over Colwood. Dale Smith was racked for nine hits as he was outduelled by Ron Nicholas who limited Colwood to three hits while striking out seven.

Gagetown-Fraser Presbyterians handed Trinity United Methodist their fourth loss against five wins in eight innings, 5-4.

Dale Cubitt went the distance for the Methodists and Roger Root picked up the win. Dennis Stine continued his hot hitting with three safeties for Gagetown-Fraser.

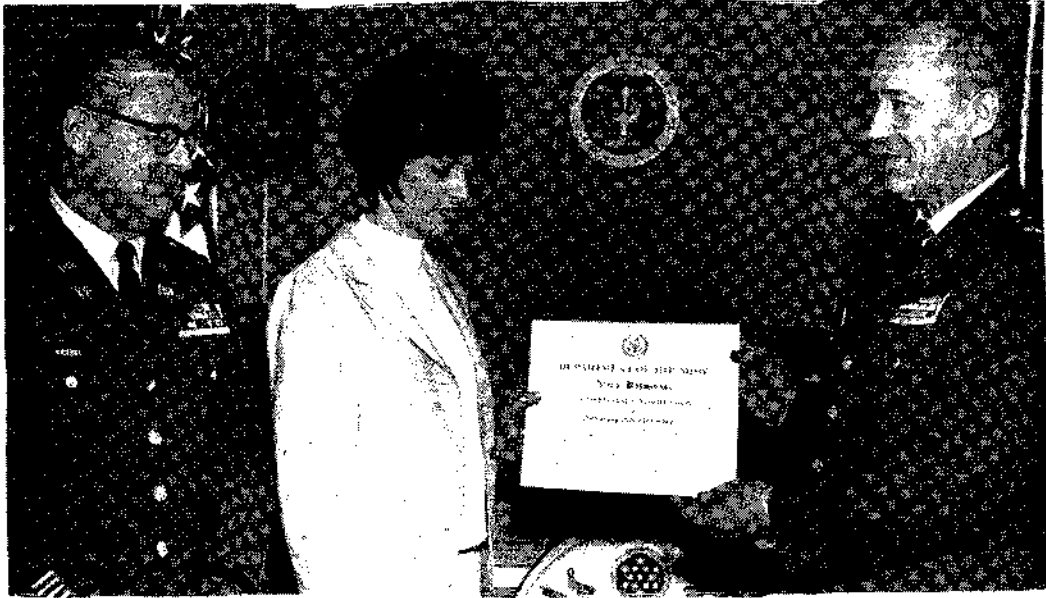

Shabbona Methodists posted an easy victory over Cass City Missionary, 10-0. Les Severance hurled the shutout and chipped in with a home run to help pin the loss on Joe Melendorf.

The standings:

	W	L
Cass City Catholics	6	1
Deford United Methodist	6	2
Gagetown-Fraser Presbyterian Church of Christ-Ellington	5	2
Colwood United Brethren	4	3
Trinity United Methodist	4	3
Shabbona Decker Methodist	3	5
Cass City Missionary	2	5
Cass City Baptist	1	6

SPORTS FANS!

I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

By H. M. Bulen

Any idea how long it's been since there was a 0-0 game in the National or American Football Leagues? There hasn't been a scoreless tie in big league pro football for the last 27 years! Last one was in 1943 in a game between the Giants and Lions.

Here's a little-known fact. One of the greatest swimming instructors of all-time, Bob Kiphuth, a man who taught so many great Olympic and college swimming champions of the past, could hardly swim himself. Kiphuth originally had made studies of muscles and exercises and took the job as swimming coach at Yale in 1918 to test his theories--even though he was no swimmer himself. In the next 40 years his pupils won over 500 swimming meets, losing only 12, and in addition he was head of winning U. S. Olympic teams five times.

Here's one hard to believe, but it's true. Only ONCE in the last 57 years has any Chicago Cub won the National League batting championship! From 1913 through 1969 the only Cub who ever led the league in batting at the end of any season was Phil Cavarretta in 1945.

Erla's league title reign ends

All good things come to an end and for Erla's the end after seven straight Ugly Softball league titles and six play-off victories came this year.

The Foodmen lost two of three games played during the week and dropped out of contention for the loop toga.

We're getting ready for the play-offs next week, Manager Dan Erla said, and we'll be tough when the post season classic gets underway.

Erla is pinning his hopes on some familiar names and a full crew of regulars together for one of the few times this season.

Back in uniform while home on furlough is Wally Hempton and his bat and glove was missed all year by the defending champs.

Elwyn Helwig showed that he is ready to help on the mound as he hurled a four-hitter in a loss to Snover Tuesday, July 21.

The loss was the first of two one-run defeats by Erla's. Helwig struck out eight and didn't walk a man. He hit a batter in the last of the sixth and it proved fatal as two base knocks moved him around to account for the Snover win. Innes hurled a three-hitter for the winners.

Erla's lost its second straight one-run decision the following night as Bad Axe Altes turned nine hits into four runs and a 4-3 decision.

The Beermen defeated Al Bosch, the first game he has lost in the league in several years.

Monday, the Foodmen got back on the winning trail as they posted a 12-2 decision behind Dan Erla. The game was called after five innings because Erla's was in front by 10 runs. All of the hitters had a field day at the plate in the one sided contest.

Zaap pack is back

Muggy, hot weather helps spawn hordes of mosquitoes

Zzzzzzz...zaap...ouch!
The mosquitoes are here. THE MOSQUITOES ARE HERE.

According to the World Book Encyclopedia mosquitoes are "among the deadliest enemies of man and domestic animals." They can fly long distances (up to 20 miles) in their quest for food.

There are over 2,000 different types and nearly all of them have headed for the Upper Thumb and every one must be a female.

For it's the females that do all the stinging and in recent weeks the area has been infested by such a horde of the summer pests that oldtimers are saying that there are more of them right now than they can ever recall experiencing before.

The pests have been so numerous and so active after finding victims that they have chased the backyard barbecuer indoors, curtailed sporting activities and skyrocketed the sale of pesticides and chemicals.

There was an unconfirmed report that one local plant was on the verge of closing because employees were being constantly harassed.

Persons at Cass City Recreational Park have been chased away from ball games and other activities. Village Engineer William Schram is poised to spray the park. The trouble has been, he reports, that just when I'm ready to start, it rains again.

And the weather, of course, is the reason that mosquitoes have been so thick and vicious. Mosquitoes lay their eggs either on the surface of water or a place which will be later covered by water. In the Thumb this year, that includes every bush, every blade of grass, every street, every field.

Accentuating the problem for many is the fact that this is the first summer in several years that mosquitoes have been a major problem.

If the hot humid weather continues, it is probable that the mosquito problem will continue with it.

The average mosquito has a life span of about two weeks. If a life span of two weeks sounds discouraging, stop reading right here.

For it's two weeks for the average mosquito, male and female together.

Actually, the male who is less hardy and doesn't bite, always has a shorter life span than the deadly female which lingers and lingers, maybe up to three weeks.

Wouldn't you know it?

Rabbit tracks

By John Haire

(Any anyone else he ca.) get to help)

Tuesday's election promises to be a dull affair county-wide, but in Elkland township local competition and a special request for road money should bring voters to the polls.

Without checking the records, a guess is that it must be the first time in over a decade that anyone has contested a township office. Certainly it is the first since the township switched from the caucus to the ballot to elect officials.

On separate ballots taxpayers will be asked for a mill for five years for township bridges and township roads. We have no strong feelings about either except to point out that if it has to come to a choice between bridges or roads, roads is the better choice.

Our need for better roads is more critical than the need for new bridges. In the priority system outlined by the county at the township annual meeting, Elkland township was not scheduled for immediate work on any of its bridges.

On the local level, I'm sure that the township would be in good hands with any of the candidates on the ballots.

It's seldom that younger persons are interested in, or qualified for, the positions that are contested this year.

Both Art Randall and Ferris Ware are young men who have made their way in local business and have shown a willingness to work on payless area projects for the good of the community.

Randall faces Arlington "Barney" Hoffman, who is well known locally and has held various positions in the village. Probably, the reason for the competition here is that Randall was appointed and has yet to be tested at the polls although his career work as a banker should make him well qualified for the township treasurer's post.

Ware was asked to run by a couple of township taxpayers who believe that R. M. Hunter's Florida winters makes him unavailable too much of the time. Hunter points out that he has a capable deputy which he pays that handles the office while he is away.

It promises to be the pivotal issue in the campaign between two popular candidates.

The money question and the local contests put spirit in an otherwise dull election.

They tell me that the two trees planted by the village in front of my house on South Seeger are sycamores. Since planted three years ago their survival chances have been nip and tuck.

At one time most of the leaves had withered. The top of one tree was broken and various parts of the trunks of both have died.

At one time we gave them up for dead but they had a miraculous revival.

With justification you could say that they have been syc-a-more than they have been well.

And that pun's not too healthy either.

600 at Rotary snowmobile drag

A snowmobile grass drag race sponsored by the Cass City Rotary Club attracted an estimated 600 persons and 79 machines Sunday to Meadowbrook Trout Pond near Caro.

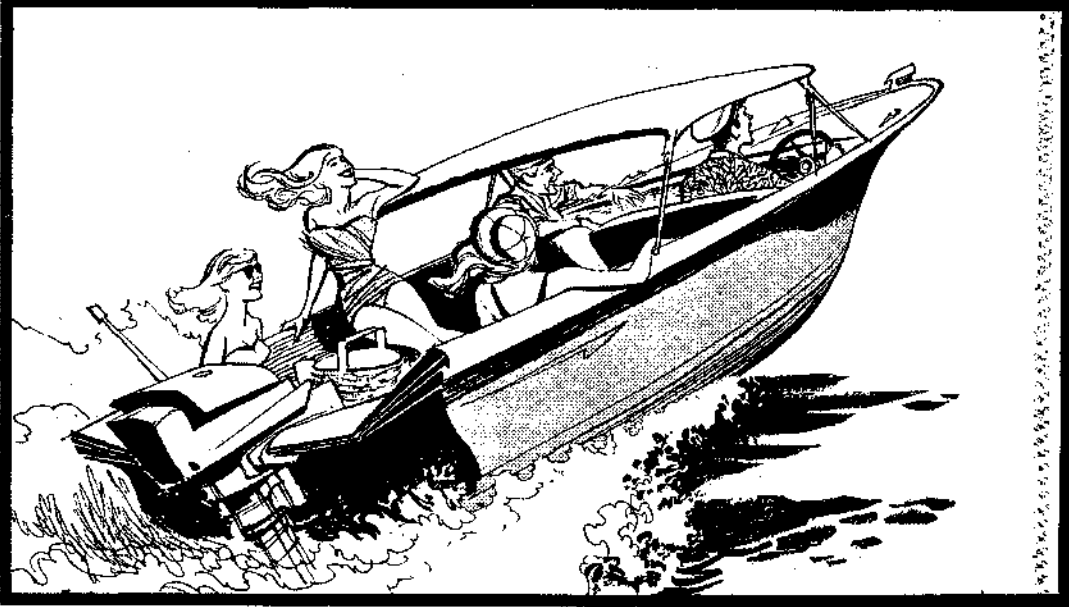

Directing the event was Rotarian Dick Erla. After expenses it is estimated that the club will net about $150.

Erla and other Rotarians active in the project agreed that with operational changes suggested by the club's first try as a race sponsor, the event could be both a money maker and a popular public service event.

In a report to the club, Erla said that he was gratified with the help received from club members and especially pleased with the help of the Boy Scouts who directed traffic and were generally available to help wherever necessary.

Peters recovering from auto crash injuries

A spokesman at St. Luke's Hospital in Saginaw said Wednesday that Dwayne Peters, 34, Cass City, was listed in fair condition and "doing quite well."

Peters was seriously injured Thursday when his car was struck from the rear by a car driven by Mark S. Panknin, 22, of Caro, Thursday night. Panknin was not hospitalized.

Peters' two children, Michele, 5, and Dwayne Jr., 7, were taken to Hills and Dales Hospital. Michele was treated and released but Dwayne Jr. was admitted. He is listed in fair condition.

The accident occurred when Peters turned onto Cass City Rd. from Schwieger Rd. Panknin who was going west on Cass City Rd. was unable to stop in time to avoid hitting the Peters' car in the rear.

Two drivers escaped injury Saturday when their motorcycles collided on Gun Club Rd. near E. Dayton Rd. in Indianfields township.

No injuries were reported in a two car crash in Cass City Monday.

A car driven by Katherine Lynn Detgen, 20, Bad Axe, struck a car driven by Virginia Marie Meredith, 44, of Snover. ONE FOR THE ROAD

Scalped heads replacing long hair

By Dan Marlowe

Reflections upon the passing west coast scene:

I read somewhere not too long ago that of all the scientists the world has ever seen, 60% are alive today.

The statement was made in deference to the tremendous proliferation of scientists since Sputnik.

I'd like to add a corollary to the statement, however, and it goes like this: of all the cowboy boots ever made, 60% are being worn today, and by people who never saw a cow outside a barbed wire fence.

Some days it seems to me that half the footwear on the city streets is cowboy boots. Another 40% is sandals. Where does that leave the shoe manufacturers? Since they can't lick 'em, they must have joined 'em.

Which--somehow--brings up the subject of hair. Michigan high schools have been known to have a problem with male hair lengths from time to time. This is to inform them they haven't seen anything until they see San Francisco hair. It is LOOOOOOOOOONG.

When they wear shirts and jeans, it's impossible to tell the boys from the girls. Shoulder-lengths are common; down-the-middle-of-the-back not unusual. Oddly, facial hair seems to be departing the hippie scene since the Establishment has taken it over. Far more beavers, mustaches, mutton-chops and goatees are seen on Madison Avenue types these days than upon love children.

By far the most unusual sight on San Francisco streets, though, is the street band. Made up of fifteen to twenty members garbed in Hindu costume, they play a variety of instruments consisting of cymbals, bells, wood blocks (for rhythm), tambourines, and an occasional five-stringed guitar.

Male members--and they outnumber female three or four to one--have their heads completely shaved except for a long scalp lock in the back, exactly as our pre-Columbus American Indians. The effect is weird to see white, pale faces under bald pates and above such exotic dress.

The bands have a money-making routine. They stake out a busy corner (during the day, Powell and Market, where the cable cars turn around, and at night at Grant and Broadway, the heart of the nightclub district) and begin to chant the Hare Krishna, keeping it up for hours, with different members of the group slipping away from the chanting center at times to pass among the audience with extended tambourines.

The rhythm is highly infectious, and has an odd side effect. San Francisco is noted for sidewalk preachers, too, and when within range, the long-drawn-out chant of the Hare Krishna seems to turn them on. They stand and shout and rant and rave in competition with the rhythm, mutually ignoring each other.

The scalped-head appearance of the Hare Krishna bands makes me want to make a prediction. I was out here 13 years ago when long hair first began to cover the ears. If the scalped-head appearance is the beginning of another new trend, and it could be, parents are going to be sorry they ever questioned the length of their offsprings' hair.

A man is not fit to lead if he lacks courage to stand alone.

tude and the personality of the people, just as the key to Davis is his tremendous drive and talent as an entertainer.

An intimate glimpse of this national trait came my way recently through the eyes of a Swedish foreign exchange student visiting at our home.

She said a Japanese student spent a year with them and it was an eye opener.

In Japan, our visitor said there is time for nothing but work. When he first arrived it was his custom to work every day from early in the morning until about 2 a.m. the next morning. Eat, sleep, work, that's all.

He told us, she explained, that there was no time for play, no time for dating, no time to have fun. The Japanese don't court girls. They are picked by parents. After one date, if the man calls again, it's assumed that a marriage is in the making.

Working and a pride in achievement is a point of national honor for every Japanese.

It may be that this is why fewer defects are found and evidences of faulty, I don't give a damn workmanship are scarce in many Japanese products.

It is a trait that Americans have lost in the vast complexes of the modern factory.

Most Americans take pride in their homes, their possessions, their own creations. But for the most part, the car they work on is the factory's. Anything goes and it shows.

As Japan continues to steadily grow and prosper will this dedication to excellence end? Will Japan travel the same route as the United States.

I'd guess that it might. While in Sweden, our gal says, the Japanese never came out of his book for the first couple of months. But at the end, she points out, he was dating steadily and going out a lot. The 20-hour work day was no more.

Given the right environment and the opportunity, the Japanese will prove that they have the human frailties of all of us.

Figures may not lie, but some get snarled up in statistics.

Men who meet with no opposition meet with little success.

NEW VOTING machines are being installed at a rapid rate in Tuscola County. In this year's primary, machines will be used for the first time in Elkland and Elmwood townships. Elkland has four machines and Elmwood, two. The machines are expected to cut hours from the time formerly required to tabulate election returns.

To acquaint voters with the new machines instruction periods will be held in each township. Elkland voters may visit Friday from 1 to 9 p.m. at the Cultural Center. Elmwood voters can look over the machines from 4 to 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday. Clerk R. M. Hunter displays the new machines.

AROUND THE FARM

Soil compaction

a profit thief

By Don Kebler

Soil compaction is a farm profit thief in Tuscola county as well as anywhere else land is farmed.

This serious soil problem was perhaps the first agricultural problem effecting crop production I observed when arriving in Tuscola county.

At first I noticed the effects of this compaction on poorly drained farm land and especially in field depressional areas.

In the last six or seven years, I have noticed certain soil types in the county where crop production is nearly impossible to maintain at an economical level because of this compaction.

Our county soils map shows these compacted soils extending on a northeast southwest line west of Unionville, Akron, Fairgrove and Gilford.

On this soils map these soils are classified as Burned Muck over Clay. This soil type was formed in marshy and swampy pockets and prior to its first cultivation the muck was burned off. After burning off most the muck very little organic material was left to be incorporated into the stiff blocky, leathery clay underlay. If this soil had formed under the same vegetative and moisture conditions as its bordering soils, it would have been the same as those we classify as Brookston, Parkhill, Sims which are silt loams.

But this soil didn't form under these much more favorable natural conditions. Therefore, it had all the characteristics conducive to near maximum soil compaction at its first tilling by man.

This soil did not have the good durable resilient qualities of its neighboring silt loams and has become even more compacted especially under a small grain, beans and sugar beet rotation.

I have noticed some fields of this soil type to be so seriously compacted that it is nearly impossible to produce a corn crop economically, let alone beans, sugar beets and small grains.

The only way to obtain agronomic value of these soils is through the incorporation of large quantities of organic matter--the deeper the better.

The fastest method we know to incorporate large amounts of organic matter is a fall rye planting, plowed down in the spring, followed by a spring buckwheat planting plowed when in bloom and re-seeded to rye--plowed the next spring and planted to a cash crop. Proper fertilizer use must be followed too. This method is called the Wilker Quickie and it achieved results.

Diplomacy never solves all the problems--it side-steps them.

A dollar may not go as far as it used to, but today it's easier to get one to replace it.

Council in brief meet

Sealcoating of streets to cost $5,000

The village president was on vacation, one councilman was missing and it was a hot, hot night. In short it was a perfect time for a short, short regular session of the Cass City Village Council and that's what was held Tuesday night at the Municipal Building.

The whole affair was wrapped up in an hour as committee reports were heard and bills authorized for payment.

The trustees did vote to spend $5,000 on village streets, money that was not budgeted at the beginning of the year.

In recent years, the village has been able to carry over funds and finding the extra money was not really a major hurdle.

The money will be spent for sealcoating village streets. Village Engineer William Schram reported that he and Lester Ross of C. R. Hunt Construction surveyed streets and estimated that there were some two miles of street that need coating.

Sealcoating is used on streets that previously have been hard-surfaced. Tar and fine stone are placed on the asphalt to fill cracks.

For two miles the cost would be $7,500. The council voted to coat as much as $5,000 would buy. Hunt Construction will do the work on a cost-plus basis. The discussion did not reveal why $5,000 was authorized, instead of the complete job.

No outline of what streets would be given priority was presented Tuesday. Mrs. Gladys Albee, a member of the street committee, mentioned West and Leach streets from Church to Huron, Garfield from the railroad tracks to Doerr Road and Huron street around the hospital as prime areas.

Trustee Bernard Ross reported that things are better at the Sanitary Landfill. Fires, scattered papers and debris have been a cause for concern. Ross said that he was at the facility three times last week and he felt it was generally good. He said that Jerome Root Jr., Elkland Fire Chief, was also keeping tabs on the area.

He explained that one of the troubles appeared to be scavengers who sort the junk looking for copper wire that has been discarded.

The council refused payment of a bill for $35 for clothes which became rust stained while the village was flushing hydrants. The woman concerned was not identified by trustees.

According to President Pro Tem Dr. D. E. Rawson the lady burned the clothes after she was instructed to take them to the cleaners while still wet.

The ambitious year-around park program suggested in the spring is now in a state of limbo. Director Tom Spencer leaves Aug. 6 and for at least a week there will be no park director. It is likely that Tom Woody will be available to take over for the final three weeks.

It may be that the year-around program attempt will be abandoned.

The village council is not sure whether or not they want to sell the old village police car or keep it for emergency use.

They have been advertising to see how much it will bring. On this basis there has been no one willing to submit a bid.

The village will advertise use of the area in an attempt to find buyers. Principal bidders in previous years have been local auto dealers.

When and if any money comes from the sale of recreational bonds the village wants to negotiate for work soon to be completed. The council's priority are the Little League fields, the road north of the playground and the park shelter.

In other decisions the council voted to charge President Althayer $5 per load for fill dirt hauled to his house from the excess taken from Church Street work and turned down a request for a light on Virginia and Huron Streets because it would serve only one home.

Arraign pair in county circuit court

In Circuit Court Monday, a Cass City man, Edward E. Mark, 25, and Billie Nidiffer, 17, of Caro were arraigned before Judge James P. Churchill on a charge of unarmed robbery.

The pair is accused of assaulting and robbing a 17-year-old youth June 12.

Nidiffer stood mute and a plea of innocent was entered on his behalf. Mark was allowed two weeks to obtain an attorney.

In other Circuit Court action Monday, a Vassar man, Kenneth Carlisle, 42, was given a probation extension for failure to report to his probation officer. He had earlier been convicted on a charge of eluding an officer.

Richard Curry of Caro was sentenced to six weeks in the county jail with credit for 29 days served. The action stemmed from a probation violation, failure to report to his probation officer, and failure to make restitution.

Curry had previously been convicted for driving away an auto without intent to steal.

Local school boards must bow

The State Board of Education has been giving sweeping powers to regulate and review acts of discipline by local school authorities.

The grant of authority came in an opinion by Attorney General Frank J. Kelley who said the state constitution empowers the board to make rules governing expulsion or suspension of students.

Any time a student is thrown out of schools, he must be reinstated if the rule under which he was thrown out conflicts with one drawn up by the state board.

The opinion upheld the state board's recent action in overruling the Oak Park school board in a controversial discipline case.

Acting Superintendent of Public Instruction John W. Porter said the ruling "takes a form which will be of great benefit to both the student and the school districts of the state of Michigan."

"While the questions he answered have been pending for some time, there is greater applicability now than perhaps ever before," he said.

Porter said the ruling "clears the way for prompt action on the promulgation of rules for procedural safeguards working to the benefit of both students and school districts as questions of due process arise."

Additionally, we are now in a position to provide appropriate guidelines for state review of decisions of local school boards when those decisions relate to compulsory attendance and the educational rights of the students," he said.

Kelley holds that the state board is given supremacy in discipline cases by a clause in the constitution giving the board "leadership and general supervision of all public education."

He noted that rulemaking on discipline may well be needed to resolve potential conflict between the state's compulsory attendance law and the explicit right of schools, upheld by the courts, to suspend or expel students for gross misconduct or persistent disobedience.

In the absence of state board rules, local districts may prescribe their own disciplinary codes and many have done so.

But the opinion said once the state acts, local rules will control only if they "afford greater procedural safeguards."

"If It Fitz. . ."

There's no Prince Chuck

BY JIM FITZGERALD

The visit of Prince Charles and Princess Anne came just in time to make me remember the Kentucky Derby and the Indianapolis 500.

The thing is, I asked myself if anything in the world interested me less than British Royalty. And the answer was no, but the Derby and the 500 come close.

All horse races turn me off simply because no horse ever told me he liked running around with some guy sitting on him and hitting him with a stick. Actually, the "Sport of Kings" is simply legalized gambling, not much different than craps in Las Vegas. Eliminate the betting, and the race fans could all ride to the track in the same taxi.

As for car races, 'round and 'round they go and if no blood is spilled, it's a ho-hum day for the spectators. I can understand why grown men risk their lives playing with expensive toys on racetracks. It's thrilling and the wages are good. What puzzles me is why anyone would pay to watch. The only excitement is when cars are crumpled and bones are broken. If that's what turns you on, the seats are much cheaper alongside the freeway and the chances for gore and crash are much greater.

But back to royalty. The whole idea is repugnant to any thinking man. Why should a nation pay homage, not to mention hundreds of thousands of dollars, to a Prince Charles simply because his mother is Queen Elizabeth? It's fair enough for a kid to be born rich - if his dad or his granddad made the dough. But when it's the taxpayers who pay for the pomp and potatoes, a guy should do more than bleed purple to earn it.

However, if that's what they like in Britain, so be it. It's no bur on my throne. Except. Except when royalty comes calling in the U. S. and the whole country goes ga-ga learning how to curtsy properly. Nuts.

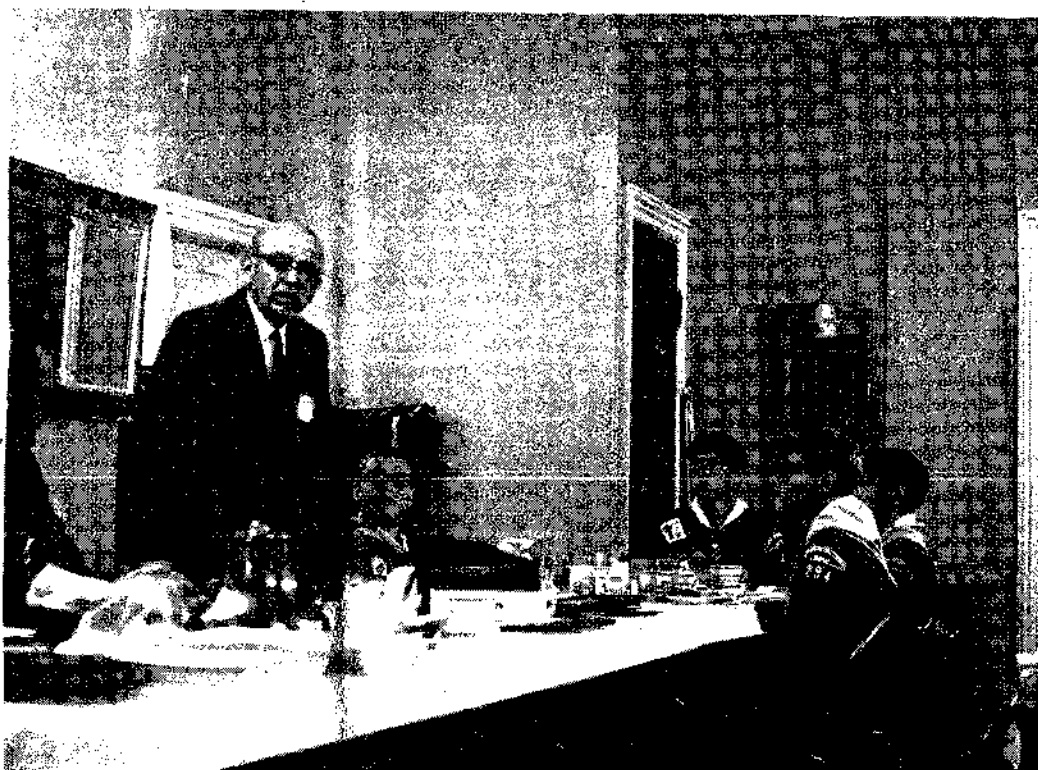

If Charlie and Annie showed up in my backyard I would bow from the waist only while closing the windows.

If this sounds discourteous, I'm sorry. But I can't stomach the royal ground rules. Whenever the High and Mighty come calling, the White House repeatedly reminds the press and everyone else to keep their distance. We commoners are instructed to "speak only when spoken to and to address them only as Your Royal Highness". La de da. And they don't even pay their own motel bill.

I can shut my eyes and see Prince Charles visiting our Grand Canyon. He is posing for pictures and slowly backing toward the edge of the canyon. Dozens of people want to warn him of the danger. But none of the spectators can speak because they have not been spoken to.

Finally, one irreverent Irishman dares to open his mouth unbidden. But before he can get out "Hey, Your Royal Highness" it is too late. Down goes Charles.

"If I could have called him Chuck, he'd still be alive," the Irishman says.

FOR MANY YEARS the Cass City Rotary Club has been the sponsoring organization for Boy Scouts in Cass City. Each year the charter must be renewed. Renewal time came up again July 21 and Keith McConkey acted as toastmaster as a group of local scouts reported on the year's activities and the program at Camp Rotary in Clare from which they recently returned.

Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Anthes

White gladioli decorated St. Columbkille Catholic Church, Sheridan, for the wedding ceremony Saturday, July 18, when Elaine Marie Powell became the bride of Aaron James Anthes. The Rev. Fr. George Kilmas performed the four o'clock double-ring ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Sanford Powell and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Anthes, all of Cass City.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, approached the altar in a gown of silk organza over taffeta and imported Venice lace. Designed with front princess styling, her full bou-fant gown had a wedding ring neckline and short Victorian sleeves. The chapel train was attached from a large bow at the back. A sculptured coronet held a butterfly veil of bridal mist illusion. She wore a diamond pendant necklace, a gift from the groom, and carried a cascade arrangement of white roses, stephanotis and ivy.

The bride's sister, Mrs. Paul Izydorek of Decker, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Marsha Geister of Decker, Mrs. Dolly Parrish of Caro, sister of the groom, and Miss Karen Gaffney of Cass City.

Shannon Izydorek, niece of the bride, was flower girl. Her dress was similar to the bride's with pink bows and a matching pink hairpiece. She carried miniature carnations.

The bridal attendants' gowns were floor-length orchid chiffon, with Mrs. Izydorek's in contrasting pink. The brides were underlain with white daisy illusion. Orchid embroidered daisies edged with white lace enhanced the jewel neckline, cuffs of the short sleeves and the Empire waistline. White picture hats with matching net streamers completed their ensembles and they carried colonial style arrangements of carnations and baby's breath.

Groomsmen included Tom Bardwell of Cass City, Clint Warner of Deford, Dolly Parrish of Caro and Jim Wissner of Owendale.

Ushering guests at the ceremony were Dennis Powell and Jim Thompson, both of Cass City.

Randy Vollmar of Cass City was ring bearer.

Mrs. Powell chose a mint green chiffon dress with lace coat. White accessories complemented her outfit, including a corsage of white roses. Mrs. Anthes wore a yellow linen dress with matching coat. Her accessories were white and her corsage, yellow roses.

A buffet supper and reception were held at the American Legion Hall in Unionville for 350 guests.

Following a week's wedding trip to Northern Michigan, the couple are making their home on Hartwell Rd., Owendale.

The bride is a 1969 graduate of Cass City High School and her husband is a 1969 graduate of Owen-Gage.

The couple are employed in Cass City.

Happy day!
Money in the mailbox!

But does it have to be money? How about a letter from someone who loves you? Or four tickets to the next World Series? Or an invitation from good friends to dinner?

And surely, good things don't have to come by mail. They could come in kind words from a friend. Or in your boss saying, "I'm giving you a raise." Or as an "A" grade on a carefully-researched term paper.

But what is the "best" happiness? Where can we find it?

The best happiness is a letter from God, saying that His Son is your invitation to His Kingdom.

Where can you find this letter? In the Bible and in church this Sunday and every Sunday.

Muggy summer days provide the ideal climate for growing mildew. Wherever it is damp, warm, poorly aired, and poorly lighted, mildew molds flourish. Homemakers can arm themselves for this summer battle by knowing how to prevent mildew and knowing how to remove it.

To prevent mildew from growing, simply take away the things it needs to grow. This means keeping clothes clean so the mildew cannot feed on soil and stains. Providing adequate ventilation for cooking, laundering, and bathing areas is important in preventing dampness. De-humidifiers are especially helpful for damp basements. Some chemicals, such as calcium chloride, are useful for absorbing moisture from closets and other small areas.

If clothing or household fabrics do become mildewed, wash them at once with soap and water. If stains remain, moisten the stain with a mixture of lemon juice and salt. Then spread the article in the sun to bleach, rinse it thoroughly, and allow it to dry. Remember to be careful with colored fabrics.

Mildew in wood is more difficult to remove. Thoroughly clean mildewed wood by scrubbing it with a mild alkali, such as washing soda. Rinse well with clear water and allow the wood to dry thoroughly.

Musty odors, which are often found in basements and shower stalls, usually disappear if the area is well heated and dried. On cement floors and on tiled walls and floors, get rid of mustiness by scrubbing with a solution of liquid household bleach. Use 1/2 to 1 cup of bleach to a gallon of water. Rinse with clear water and wipe as dry as possible. Keep windows open until walls and floors are thoroughly dry.

Opportunity is bound to come your way, but don't expect it to wait until you get ready.

Uncle Tim From Tyre Says:

Dear Mister Editor:

Well, summer is really upon us, ain't it, Mister Editor? I don't reckon the heat bothers you folks in town, cause from what I hear you even got air condition umbrellers fer getting from office to car and from car to house.

This feller that's been poring concrete fer 30 year was by the store Saturday night, and he allowed this is a bad time fer concrete work. I didn't know a concrete man was a expert on hot weather, but he told the fellers that hot weather makes concrete crack and not set up proper.

Usual, he said, a few cool nights come along ever now and then to keep concrete from expanding too much and cracking. When the days and nights is hot, concrete is bad to crack, he allowed.

Ed Doolittle said after the feller left that he didn't need a concrete man to tell him it's hot. He said he saw a dog chasing a cat last week, and both of em was walking. That report reminded Clem Webster of the summer message a church put on the outside bulletin board. The sign read "You Think It's Hot Here!"

Summer is a time farmers and ranchers got to make hay, Bug Hookum said, but he had saw this piece where folks that went into recreation farming was having problems. A official of the Farm Bureau says it don't do farmers much good to turn their places into golf courses, campgrounds and nature trails when everybody that uses em buys all their stuff in town. All the farmer gits out of the deal after the Department of Agriculture talks him into setting up them recreation facilities, allowed Bug, is trash and pollution the campers bring from town.

This Farm Bureau feller said recreation on the farm causes fire hazards, ruins fences and crops and general makes a mess. They still is a lot more money in raising crops and cattle than campers, was Bug's words.

Clem Webster had this clipping where a scientist has discovered how to make genes, which is purty clost to life itself. Clem said he reckons the new genes is the first big step to breeding perfect people, and he hopes after scientists turn out the perfect man they can work on the summer head cold that is one of the ailments. Clem said he is shore them germs that lived two years on the moon was cold germs.

But some promising things has come about this summer, Mister Editor. Fer instant, I see where this feller come up with a idee to git the Guverment out of debt. He says the Guverment had ought to print jest one side of paper money, and sell the other side fer advertising. I say print a good looking gal on both sides, so we won't mind kissing them hills goodbye.

Yours truly,
Uncle Tim
