CASS CITY CHRONICLE

FROM THE Lditor's Comer

It was at Christmastime 1968 that the family trekked to Toronto to try a ride on the just commissioned Turbo, the Canadian National's all new, gas turbine, crack 100-mile-perhour average speed train.

An unforeseen emergency made us cash in our tickets and cancel the trip. Soon after the new train was pulled from the rails because of malfunc-

It's back on the road now and last week end we took the long delayed ride.

The Turbo runs from Toronto to Montreal twice daily, covering the 340 miles from downtown station to downtown station in just under four hours.

Depending on when you travel, a round trip ticket costs about

I was informed that the train is faster than a plane when driving time from airport to downtown is considered. Anyway, if trains are where it is for you, try the Turbo.

It starts and stops effortlessly, the seats are comfortable, the coaches clean, the air conditioning adequate and the two observation coaches give a panoramic view of the countryside. More important for train buffs is that the observation cars afford an up-close view of the train in operation,

Because the train uses a gas turbine, the power unit is under the elevated seats of the observation cars and the train crew is clearly visible at work. Picture a luxury limousine driven by a chauffeur behind a glass partition...,the train crew operates the exact, same way. There is an engine at the back and the front of the cars. In the front the engineer and the "fireman" prevail. In the back, the "brakeman" and conductor are in charge.

Actually it's hard to tell who is running the train. After the conductor picks up the tickets (a one-time job since there are no stops after the train leaves the city) there doesn't appear much of anything for anyone to

The engineer varies the speed now and then and someone interrupts the music to play arecording when the train is leaving and entering the stations.

If the speedometer on the train's dashboard was correct, the train cruises along at speeds from 85 to 120 miles per hour. The ride is smooth and fast.

but otherwise not much different than a conventional train.

Von chill hoor click, click, click on the tracks and the familiar sway of the coaches has not disappeared. One tip, if you want to use the observation car - take the morning train. In the afternoon the car becomes a bar and is crowded. In the morning you stay as long as you like and there is plenty

I can't report if the new train is a financial success, but the days we rode, if was about half

What made the trip for all of us both on and off the train, was the unfailing courtesy of the Canadians,

Almost without exception they took time to be helpful, time to be friendly, time to be good neighbors. This "small town" neighborliness was all prevailing even in giant metropolitan centers like Toronto and Montreal. We walked the streets day and night without fear.....joining thousands of others doing the very same thing. Enjoying what a major city can offer. When compared to our major metro areas, this ranks as a much greater achievement than designing a gas turbine train

Deny Vermillia damage claim

A Tuscola County jury found no cause for action against R & S Corporation of Akron Thursday after deliberating for two days following a four-day trial in Tuscola County Circuit Court before Judge Norman A. Baguley.

Damages of $75,000 had been asked by Russell Vermillia for injuries suffered in a crash Christmas Eve 1964.

The verdict ended the second court case stemming from the

In the mishap a pick-uptruck driven by Robert Harrison rammed into the rear of a combine owned by Dr. H. T. Donahue of Cass City after dark. The driver was killed and Vermillia was seriously injured.

In the first trial, Mrs. Harrison (since remarried) was awarded $35,000 from Dr. Donahue because of the death of her husband.

Harrison was driving a R & S Corp. truck at the time of the Shortage of rental units plaguing entire county

For persons seeking a home to rent, Cass City, Caro and most of the Thumb is similar to a town near an army post in time of war. Rentals range from scarce to none at ail. That is the concensus among local real estate men and of all persons looking for an apartment or a home

The real estate agents report that nearly every day one or two persons looking for a place to rent are turned away. Nearly every week anxious prospective renters come to the Chronicle seeking advance information about the home situation.

In a survey of three of Cass City's agents, only one had anything available to rent. Listen to the story of one newcomer to the area. He is Mike Messing, a brother of Fr. Arnold Messing, former pastor of St. Pancratius Church in Cass City.

He has been looking for a place to rent for his family of four as he wants to move into the county in connection with his job as representative of Master Mix feeds.

I've looked in Vassar, Caro, Gagetown, Cass City and all points in between, he confided, and so far have drawn a blank, About the only thing available, he said, are apartments

Right at this time, John Mc-Cormick said, rentals are about as tight as I've seen them. The demand varies.

But finding just what you want is always hard. Ed Hahn said that the influx of people from the city is helping keep the home rental market tight. Many of the smaller homes that might be available for rent have been snapped up by people moving out of the city, he noted.

Rentals are tight all over the Thumb, remarked B. A. Calka. We have some every now and then, but not often, not enough to meet the demand.

What we need, Calka feels, is about a 50-unit apartment building about half way between here and Caro. I've talked to contractor after contractor about this but after a preliminary investigation they always turn away.

The reason they do is that there appears to be no way that any promoter can secure an adequate return on his investment by building an apartment in the Thumb. .

In today's tight money market, any investor has to have a return of about 15 per cent on his investment, one agent

That translates into rents far above what is paid in the area and what the average work-

Parked cars cause Cass

City mishaps

Parked cars played a significant role in auto accidents in Cass City during the last week. The accidents resulted only in property damage as no one was injured.

No injuries were reported last Wednesday when a car driven by Debra Chippi, 16, of Cass City, collided with a parked car on Weaver Rd. The other car owned by David W. McNaughton, also of Cass City, was parked just off the street with the rear of the vehicle in the street. Miss Chippi told police officers she was going ved to the side of the road to avoid hitting an encoming auto, instead striking the rear of Mc-

Naughton's car. In another auto mishap last Wednesday, a car driven by Lyle Alexander Koepfgen, 74, backed into a car driven by Kathleen Sarah Nester, 67, both of Cass

The collision occurred when Koepfgen attempted to back his car out of a parking space on Seeger St. striking the southbound Nester car. No one was injured,

The Cass City patrol car was damaged early Saturday while parked at the Sinclair Gas Station at the corner of Main and Seeger Streets. A van, owned by the General Telephone Co., also parked, rolled back into the cruiser. Driver of the van, Larry James Kidney, 17, told officers that he had just finished washing the truck, backed it into the driveway, parked it and got out. As he was walking away, the vehicle began to move backwards and he was unable to stop it before it hit the police car.

er in the Thumb can afford to Costs of building are not substantially different here than in the city, but wages are lower. According to the agents, rents in Cass City vary from about $75 to $125 with one broker reporting a house that was rented for $165. He mentioned the rental as unusual and not apt

By contrast, rents of $165 in metropolitan areas are considered low.

But rental units are available in the city if you make the money and can pay the price. By comparison rents in the Thumb are a real bargain. But like all real bargains, they are exceedingly hard to find.

Kingston undecided

Area schools set opening dates

All area school systems, with the exception of the Kingston system, have set opening days for the 1970-71 academic year. A secretary in the office of the Kingston School Superintendent said this week that no opening day or book distribution schedule has been set. The delay, she said, is due to the teacher negotiations which began Wednesday.

Authorities at the school this week revealed details for handling used books. Students will be able to sell used books to the school during the week of Aug. 24.
They will be evaluated as good, fair or poor. Books rated good will be worth 75 per cent of original value. Fair books are worth 50 per cent and poor books, 25 per cent. All books must have an estimated life of at least one year. Books with loose covers or broken binding will not be pur-

The Cass City School system, which will begin teacher negotiations next week, will open its doors to students September 8 with a full day session planned. High school pupils will run through their schedules prior to ternoon. The opening day for schools in Ubly is slated for Monday, August 31. Books will be distributed on that day. New teachers will be welcomed on August

Mrs. Karr was kept under oxygen after tests showed she was dead so that physicians could prepare for kidney transplants and the transplant of any other body organs still useable, her husband reported. A memorial service for Mrs.

Mrs. Karr leaves four children, Mrs. Kitty Cutcher, Pontiac, Laurie, 17, Scott, 15, and Jeffrey, 14.

Stanley Edzik Sr., that's what. On his 66 acre farm just west of Cass City Edzik has more than 100 pigeons, with more hatching every day. The birds are housed in a small out building at present, but Edzik plans to build a larger more modern house or convert another building for the purpose. The pigeon house is a kaleidoscope of color as the birds flutter from perch to perch. Pigeons, according to Edzik, are hardy creatures that require only a minimum of care. Most of the work in raising the young is done by the mother pigeon. Because the gestation period is relatively short, multiplication is a rapid process. The female sits on the eggs for 14 days. When they hatch she feeds them with food she has already digested. After three to four weeks she expels her new family. She continues however to feed the adolescents for several more weeks. Two is the average number of eggs produced by the female. The young birds, called squabs, mature at about 8 weeks and begin raising their own young shortly after. During the winter months the pigeons remain in their house and withstand tik peratures without the aid of artificial heat. Edzik does not breed the pigeons in the winter because the young, unlike the older pigeons, cannot tolerate the cold. Pigeons are relatively easy to care for and Edzik spends only about an hour a day catering to their needs. They are fed a pellet formula and a mixture of various kinds of peas. To keep his fowl healthy he mixes vitamins with their water and has a supply of cold tablets on hand if one does happen to become ill.

Campbell family: race pros win enough to pay expenses

by MIKE WALSH

Snowmobiling as a winter recreation has become an institution in Michigan. Each year thousands of families join the ranks of snow lovers who spend a good many chilly hours abroad this modernized, motorized sled. As a matter of fact, the sport has enjoyed such spectacular success that it's no longer novel. It's become an accepted part of our winter wonderland activities. But, that good ol' Yankee ingenuity, being what it is, has already modified this north country passtime to include the warmer seasons as well. Snowmobile racing, in Michigan, has done what auto racing has failed to do: it's bridged the weather gap and is fast becoming one of the state's most popular all-weather sports. Harold N. Campbell, of Jacob Rd., has been a part of this fantastic transformation. A farmer and sawmill operator by trade, but a racer and mechanic at heart, Campbell has established himself as a professional snowmobiler in less than a year

Actually, racing has much deeper roots in Campbell. The father of three sons, he found it necessary to help them build their hot-rods some years ago. Snowmobiling was something he and his wife had done for pleasure. But when some friends urged him to look into the racing aspect, it was only natural that he would. And he did, to the tune of nearly $6000.

Entry fees for the races average about $10 per machine. The size of the purse therefore, depends on the number of entries and Campbell says approximately 90 per cent of the entry monies are returned to the participants in the form of cash prizes. A first place winning will net the racer an average of $40 in most races. In addition to the prize money, Campbell also receives $100 from the manufacturer of his machines for every first place.

For the Campbell family. snowmobile racing has become a business. And their winnings, usually are enough to cover the expenses involved. "I guess racing's in our blood," he says with a sigh and a smile, like a man who's happily resigned himself to an enjoyable fate. Now, six snowmobiles, countless races, both winter and summer, and a dozen or so trophies later, he's hooked. In fact the whole family's hooked. His sons, Rex, 30, and Bill, 32, both of Caro, and Richard, 28, of Pontiac having long since given up hot-rods, now help to race dad's snowmobiles. His wife Bonnie, though she doesn't race, has become the bookkeeper.

The racing year, according to Campbell, is divided into two seasons, the winter season. which runs from November to March, and the summer season which officially begins July 4th and continues until mid-October. The contests are sanctioned by the Michigan International Snowmobiling Association and the U.S. Snowmobiling Association, Campbell is a member of both.

The winter season, which he prefers, is highlighted by the annual "500" at Sault Ste. Marie in February. The feature event for the summer, is the final race which is by invitation only for those racers who have captured the required number of first places during the season.

The major difference between summer and winter snowmobile races, other than the absence of snow, is that the summer contests are drag races while the winter races are held on oval tracks. Speed is the concern in the drag races. Speeds of from 80 to 100 mph are not uncommon. The winter races are actually endurance contests, which try the maneuverability of both man and machine.

The trophies that hide the tops of both a television and bookcase in their home would seem to indicate that the weather has had little effect on the

SPORTS FANS!

By H. M. Bulen

How's this for an oddity from sports....Did you ever realize that some race horses make more money in one year than the President of the United States or almost any other person in the country!.....Some leading race horses make over $500,000 in one year!

Did you know that the first American astronaut ever to fly in outer space--Alan Shepard-once played varsity college football?....Shepard played for Navy in 1942, '43 and '44.

Here's an oddity from baseball....The man who invented the curve balt-Candy Cummingsturned out to be a below-average pitcher himself, losing more games than he won in his big league career--yet he was the man who gave the game a pitch that is one of the hardest to hit....While other pitchers became great because of the curve ball that Cummings invented, Cummings himself was not successful with his own knock home runs into Cherry St. And I take my son to Tiger Stadium to see Al Kaline knock home runs into the grandstand where Cherry St. used to be. Cherry St. was moved back and just the other day they renamed it Kaline Drive, Onward and Up-

My only problem with my dad was that he wasn't just a fan; he could also play baseball. He once pitched a no-hitter for the University of Detroit and he was signed to hurl for the Washington Senators. Only a chronic sore arm prevented him from becoming a major league hero. At least, that's what Grandma and Grandpa used to tell me. Naturally, Dad would like to have seen his only son shine on the diamond. He never said much about it, but I knew that Schoolboy Rowe and Tommy Bridges at Navin Field were second choices. He'drather see me pitch for the Port Huron Skunks at Pine Grove Park. So I tried. From the time I was old enough, I went out for every team there was. It turned out there were just 3 things wrong with my game. I couldn't hit the ball, I couldn't throw it, and I couldn't catch it. But I was a great cheerleader.

Because of my lungs, I was allowed to join several schoolboy teams. And in later years, I even belonged to an army team that starred a couple of guys who later played professionally. My position then was behind the wheel, driving the team bus. The only time I got in a game was when only 8 other guys showed up. Then they'd stick me in right field and bat me 9th, behind the pitcher. Sometimes I played 10-man softball and the 10th man was always stationed right in front of

I didn't give Dad much to be proud of. He never complained. but I've never forgotten the humiliation of inning after inning in right field never touching the ball. And when a left-handed pull hitter came up, the manager switched me to left field. And when a tardy teammate finally arrived, perhaps limping and blind in 1 eye, he'd always pinch-hit for me.

I was a real Charlie Brown. So the other day I got wondering about my son, Eddie. I raised him to be a baseball fan - I like his company at Tiger Stadium - but I never pressed him to be Babe Ruth or Sandy Koufax. He's on a midget league team and I didn't want him to think he had to make me proud. So I told Eddie about what a bum I used to be on the ballfield. I confessed to all those lonely innings, stuck far in the corner of the outfield where the ball

"That's nothing," laughed Eddie. "I play the outfield, too. And there's always a man out there cutting the grass. He never stops; he just cuts around me. He knows nothing's going to happen out there. I'm getting to know him pretty well."

Marvelous. No wonder I like to watch ballgames with Eddie sitting beside me. Fortunately, we usually take his mother, too. If a foul ball comes our way, she can catch it.

What really bugs me is to read where some scientist just told Congress that Wheaties, Jack Armstrong's Breakfast of Champions, is no good. I grew up on that stuff. And this scientist says Wheaties has so little energy value, a guy might as well have a shot of whiskey for breakfast. Now he tells me.

AGENT'S CORNER

Mrs. Margaret Ross - Extension Agent -

President Nixon's Task Force on Rural Development has reported its findings in a publication entitled "A New Life for the Country" available on loan from your County Extension Office.

Specifically the Task Force makes strong recommendations for rural areas. Rural development, based on local initiative, should be aimed at job creation, industrial and population dispersion, cultural enrichment and improved quality

The Task Force recognizes the importance of the establishment of the Federal Council on Rural Affairs. This Council was set up by Executive Order in November of 1969, Michigan's Governor Milliken created the State Council on Rural Affairs in March, 1970.

The Task Force hopes to see the development of national policies for future economic and social growth, as well as the streamlining and simplifying of existing Federal programs.

The Task Force urges that planning for community needs should be the responsibility of enlightened and concerned local people - with revitalization of and local government during the 1970's as a major goal.

The Task Force urges that communities which are too small to manage a worth-while rural development program themselves should unite with other communities, towns and counties to pool their strengths into viable economic growth centers.

They further recommend that efforts be made to get greater use of existing educational facilities in all school districtsparticularly for adult evening schools and industrial skill training, Upgrading Housing and Health Care are urgently needed in rural areas. Comprehensive area-wide health care programs should be expanded in countryside areas.

Whatever is done in rural areas will be "built on land and depend on water" so land and water resources should be creatively used and conserved.

Transportation systems are also vital to the enrichment of rural living.

For those of us who live in the country (non-urban areas), rural development should be our most urgent concern. "If there is to be 'new life' for the country, who's to deveop it but you and I?

For the tourist, New York City with its 5 million or so people can be a small place, two Swedish visitors who spent the summer in Cass City learned this week.

Bjorn Magnusson left for New York City and the east coast a couple of weeks ago. Freddi Byrenius left last Wednesday. Wednesday afternoon Freddi was walking down Fifth Avenue near St. Patrick's Cathedral and walked right into Bjorn in a chance meeting that must rank as a million to one shot.

Notes about a quick trip to Canada. Our neighbors to the north share many of our problems. The papers were full of stories about dope and a rock festival. And the days we drove through, the pollution at Sarnia and London was as great as any I have experienced anywhere. There was a rancid stench and the gray fog stung the eyes. It was worse in these comparatively small cities than it was in Toronto or Montreal. In fact Montreal appeared to be quite pollution free...until we drove onto the high hill overlooking the city and tried to pick out landmarks through a thin, but complete, man made pollution

People watchers can have a ball in Montreal. For young and old, the micro-mini is in, really in......shorter than the minis normally seen in Michigan. The hair style is mostly long and shaggy and beards abound although in the downtown section at least there were only a few scattered hippies. Those that were around were treated casually. No one seemed to make a big thing out of the way his neighbor was acting and most everyone appeared to be having a fine time. The Canadians seem to have more time to enjoy life than Americans.

A sure sign that summer is almost over: Monday evening

ONE FOR THE ROAD

In small towns look for casinos

By Dan Marlowe

Eastern Nevada is much greener than central Nevada.

This is due not so much to increased rainfall -- even eastern Nevada averages only 9 inches annually- but to the fact that all the mountain valleys have water.

Ely has two springs alone which supply the entire community with water. These two springs have a pumping capacity of 2825 gallons per minute with a current peak demand of only 1350 gallons per minute. The water is hard and requires treatment for boiler use, but the important fact when taking into consideration the surrounding desert is that it is there.

Cottonwood trees, some reaching 70 feet in height, box elders, and Chinese elm grow in profusion in town. Cottonwoods, in particular, need lots of water, and they are never seen outside the piped-water Mountain valleys is an apt term. Ely, for instance, is at 6,400 feet, yet is dwarfed by the mountains around it. I took all the wrong clothes. At that height I expected it to be chilly, like San Francisco, but during the day it was 80-85 degrees, and only well after midnight did the temperature come down appreciably.

In all Nevada towns the best place to eat is the local casino. Food is good, and cheap, since gambling pays the freight. The casino is also apt to be the best kept up building in the smaller communities, if not in fact the largest.

Driving at night in Nevada can be hazardous. Few of the huge ranches are fenced, and signs along the highway saying WATCH OUT FOR CATTLE FOR NEXT 80 MILES are common. This is in addition to the DEER CROSSING hazard which is as prevalent as it is in Michigan. Ely has a unique cable television system. Actually cable is a misnomer. Ely has an antenna atop a 13,000 foot mountain which pulls in 3 channels from Salt Lake City which is 280 miles away. These signals are in turn fed to a "reflector" antenna at 10,000 feet, and every living soul in the Ely environs with a television set picks the signals off the air with no cable involved.

This involves no freeloading, however. The system is countyoperated, and when anyone moves in, he is automatically billed by the county for the television system. If the new arrival doesn't have a television set, he has to go to the county offices and prove it. The charge will then be annulled. This is one time when the individual is presumed guilty until proven

In the thousands of acres where springs aren't close to the surface, nothing grows more than waist high. One of the sights most difficult to become accustomed to is the miles of driving in Nevada with absolutely no shade.

Why the interest in Ely, Ne-

Annual Ram Day sale set Sept. 9

The annual Ram Sale Day sponsored by the Michigan Sheep Breeders' Association in cooperation with the Animal Husbandry Department of Michigan State University will be held at the MSU Beef Cattle Barn in East Lansing on Wednesday, September 9. Purebred sheep breeders will assemble over 100 top quality rams and offer them for sale. All rams will be inspected weighed and priced and penned by breeds. This procedure makes it possible for buyers to look at a large selection of rams from some of the best flocks in the state with a minimum of time and travel.

The offering will include yearling and two-year-old rams from the more common breeds as well as a few outstanding ram lambs that have met rigid weight requirements. The rams will be for sale from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

The use of a good ram is one of the first steps toward increased income from a flock. The cost of the ram spread over the number of lambs he will sire over a two year period is a very small item.

A BARN FILLED with hay was struck by lightning Tuesday night and was still smoldering early Wednesday morning. Who owned the barn was not immediately apparent as no one lives on the farm located on Green Road, near Joshua Road, southwest of Cass City. The Elkland Township Fire Department was called to fight the night blaze.

Erlas look to next year after losing in district

A cut on the hand of Elwyn Helwig may have cost Erla's a coveted District Class C softball championship last week end at Port Huron.

Helwig was on the mound for Erla's Saturday against Burger Chef in the second game of the

The veteran fireballer had pitched to a couple of batters and retired them. But the Chefs protested a bandage over a cut on Helwig's throwing hand and he was forced to remove it. He started bleeding profusely and was forced to leave the mound after pitching to only three batters. Al Bosch took over and Erla's went on to

But pitching two nights in a row took its toll with the veteran mound ace and it caught up with him in the finals Sun-

Bosch had opened the tourney against the Kentucky Colonels, the eventual champions, and hurled Erla's to a four-hit shutout victory, 2-0.

After the win against the Chefs all Erla's had to do was defeat the Colonels one more time in two games to move into the regionals.

But the pace began to tell Sunday. Bosch was hurt by some shoddy defensive play and gave up a couple of key hits and the Colonels won 7-3.

In the championship tilt, Dan Erla was the only other pitcher available to the Foodmen. He went two innings and allowed four hits and two runs. Bosch took over and suddenly found his form. He shut out the Colonels the rest of the day.

But it was too late. The best Erla's could do against Gerry Collins was three hits and a lone run in the fifth inning. The Colonels 2-1 victory gave them the title.

The tourney was a repeat of the action held in recent years between the two teams. One or the other has always been the Class C winner.

It may be that history will repeat itself next year. Earlier this season there was talk that Erla's might call it quits after a season in which they lost both the Ubly League regular and play-off championships and failed in the district.

But Manager Don Erla said this week that the plans to end it all have been discarded. We've got our eyes on a couple of new ball players and we expect to be back next summer better than ever, he reported.

Grid physicals due Saturday

Highway tax funds divided

Cass City will receive $6,770 for the second quarter receipts from the Motor Vehicle Highway Fund, the State Highway Commission announced this week. The refund is up more than $1,100 over the same period last year.

Highway Fund receipts are derived from motor vehicle license plate fees and a state tax on gasoline and diesel fuel, collected by the Department of State Highway Director Henrik E. Stafseth, said net receipts of the Highway Fund during April, May and June of 1970 amounted to $87.1 million, an increase of 19.3 per cent compared to the second quarter of 1969.

Stafseth said the increase is due to several factors, including a one-month extension for obtaining motor vheichle license plates; an increase in the rateof-weight tax for trucks; and the normal increase of the number of motor vehicles and miles being driven.

The license plate deadline this year was moved from the last day of February to the last day in March, resulting in a substantial portion of license plate fees showing up in the second quarter instead of the first quarter.

Tuscola county will get a return of $297,033, its share of the $29.6 million which will be returned to Michigan counties. This figure is an increase of nearly $47,000 over the same period in 1969.

Grand Champion Beef was sold by Dean Little of Cass City to Merritt Cohen of Merritt Packing. The 920 lb. animal sold for 42¢ a pound.

car sales in this country, so goes the country.

I don't know about the car industry, but I notice in your paper where they is plenty of cars for sale, old and used. Course, I see they call used cars "previously owned" nowadays. I think the advertising business has learned a lot from selling cars. Fer instant, I recollect seeing this ad in the paper onct that said "For Sale, Slightly Used Mules."

But the reason Clem brung up the slowdown in the car business, he said, was to suggest that Henry Ford see if he could work somepun out with Hungry. Clem recalled where Young Henry's plan to sell trucks to the Russians fell thru. Well, he had saw in the paper where they was 100,000 people on waiting lists fer cars in Hungry. Clem was of a mind if car makers here could work out a deal with Hungry without gitting into problems like the gold drain, that 100,000 market shore would perk up their busiyear ago Clem was ready to give up on the spend happy Johnson Administration, and that Nixon is trying to git things back on a sound foot. Just recent, Ed allowed, he had saw where Nixon was trying to cut out some of the logjam in Guvernment. Fer years, Ed said, ever time a problem come up somebody jest named a committee til we've got more committees in Washington than people. They is 1,519 committees jest in the executive branch, Ed said, with the secretary of commerce serving on 48 of em, and the secretary of agriculture on 43. That ain't no way to run a $200 billion business, was Ed's words, and Nixon is trying to do somepun about it.

Clem come back and said he still ruther have plain inflation than inflated prices along with deflated jobs and buying power. No matter what you call it, went on Clem, a feller still has got to work like a dog to be able to live like one. And Clem said if car sales would help, he still is fer sending Young Henry to talk to the folks in

Letter to Editor

Pastor says editor prattles

Mr. John Haire, Editor Cass City Chronicle Cass City, Michigan.

Dear John:

I read most of the prattle you write in your editorials and often disagree, but usually say nothing since I'm of the opinion that few if any people take you seriously anyway. But your column on abortion is of such a serious nature that I want the community to know that I thoroughly disagree with you.

You say "abortion is murder or not murder depending on what you believe." Oh beautiful, John! All you proved by a statement like that is that you are for situation ethics. Killing someone is murder only if you think it is murder. Whatever you think is right must be right. The only problem is John, your thinking is faulty. A boy in school nfay think that 7 and 3 is 8 but that does not make it so. "Murder" of course is a legal term. Our state could legalize the killing of human beings as you want to do. But just for the record, thinking it is right does not make it so.

Your reasoning concerning abortion as a curb for the population explosion is astounding. If we are going to turn to killing in order to solve this problem why not kill old people instead of killing bables. Mind you I am not for killing either one but I ask that question simply to point out that killing people is not the way to solve the population explosion.

My reasons for opposing abortion go far beyond the superficial arguments presented in your editorial. There is a spiritual question which must be faced. That which should concern us as we consider the subject of abortion is not simply the causing of a physical body or fetus to cease development but also the taking of the soul from that fetus. Man is more than a mere animal. It is perfectly all right to cause your family household pet to have an abortion of unwanted puppies. This is true because animals do not have a Spirit. Those who favor abortion are in effect treating man just like an animal. We do not know the exact time of the creation of the Soul. The following conception. We dare not say even the first month that the fetus does not have a Soul. A law which would legalize the possible separation of the Soul from the fetus is a law which has an implicit assumption of atheism. Do we want laws with atheistic assumptions? Or do we want laws with theistic assumptions which does teach, however, that the Soul is created by God sometime before birth. (See Luke 1:41, 44), Since we do not know exactly what time the Soul was created the only safe thing, the only Christian thing is to assume, when considering abortion, that the Soul was created bonor life? A doctor once told a patient who desired an abortion that immediately following the birth of the child if she placed her finger firmly upon the jugular vein of the infant for one minute the baby would no longer be a bother to her. The mother looked at the doctor in horror and said, "But that would be murder!" The doctor had made his

Once a person recognizes that man has a Soul which is created by God, he can never with conscience before God condone abortion. To do so would be to condone murder.

Zoning started more than 50 years ago, but only 506 Michigan townships have been zoned and 197 more are in the planning stage. This is only half of Michigan's 1,247 townships which have zoning ordinances.

The low number may be due to the term "zoning ordinance". People don't buy the word "ordinance" because of its connotation. People would accept zoning a lot better if it were referred to as a "protective code," This would replace the negative idea of an order.

Zoning reserves land for specific uses, Motivation to zone stems from the desire to control community growth. land maintains its Whether value or drops in value, becomes a junk yard or a garden, will be decided by the people taking the initiative to zone. State Sen. Beebe predicts abortion reform bill in '71

REFORMERS STILL PUSH

Highly emotional issues involving changes in the law quite often take several years before they can pick up the momentum they need to pass.

Past examples have included such items as open housing legislation, the state income tax and parochiaid.

The latest addition to the list of those proposals which waited their turn and then passed may be abortion reform.

When the highly emotional issue was first brought up in the Michigan Legislature a year ago, supporters secretly said it would be three years before there was any action.

The proposal lost last year and lost again this year. It was unable to get out of the Senate either time.

But Sen. N. Lorraine Beebe. R-Dearborn, says the time may be ripe now for victory by abortion reform forces.

"It takes time for an emotional issue such as abortion law reform to be accepted," she says. "You can't forget that just a few years ago the issue lic. We've come a long way in just getting people to realize there is a problem here."

Mrs. Beebe heads the Senate Committee on Health, Retirement and Social Services. She says the committee will be working this fall and winter on refining the bill that fell only one vote short of passage in the Senate earlier this year.

The defeated bill was sponsored by Sen. Gilbert Bursley. R-Ann Arbor. It would have permitted Michigan residents to obtain abortions during the first three months of pregnancy for any reason. The bill would have permitted abortions beyond that period if the woman's physical or mental health were in danger or if there were a "significant" risk that the baby would be defective or impaired.

It also contained a "conscience clause" that would protect doctors or women from having to perform or have abortions against their will.

Bursley already has requested that the abortion bill be the first legislative bill drawn up for the 1971 session. "We really think we have the best bill in the nation, now, but we will look at it again with the idea of making it even better," he says. "We will be York to see how their law works

Bursley said the committee may add a section to the bill which would require the permission of a husband before a wife could obtain the operation. In this year's proposal the permission was optional.

"I really don't have any serious objections to such a provision and if it makes that big a difference in whether or not we get the votes, I'll go along with the change," he says. Both Bursley and Mrs. Beebe think they will have the best chance they've had in the past two years of passing the touchy issue next year. Mrs. Beebe says she was assured of at least two more

List 9 new bathroom trends

There are at least nine bathroom trends influencing builders, new home buyers and those who plan to remodel existing homes.

They're listed by the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau: 1. People have become disenchanted with small bathrooms and are asking for larger and more luxurious ones. Many are now at least 8x10 feet in size, compared with the 5x7 average of the past few years.

2. Off-the-floor water closets, already popular in public washrooms, are being ininstalled in more homes.

3. Bathroom vanities with two lavatories are enjoying a boom. The bedroom vanity with running water is also a 4. The trend to colored fixtures is continuing, with many homes having one white bathroom and the others in color.

5. Decorated fixtures with flower, fruit, abstract, Grecian, Early American and other designs reminiscent of great grandmother's bowl and pitcher — are gaining many fans for bath and bedroom vanity lavatories.

6. It's predicted there will be a bathroom for every bedroom in virtually every new home within 7 to 10 years.

7. Mudrooms, built off the kitchen or in the basement to divert the traffic pattern and trap dirt before it gets into the rest of the house, are making strong gains. A typical mudroom is equipped with a lavatory, water closet, shower, work counter and a place to put damp clothes and boots. 8. Bathrooms are being specialized to the needs of users — for example, "juvenile" fixtures for early training of youngsters, "teen-age" bathrooms, and specially-designed fixtures for disabled or senior citizens.

9. Bidets, whirlpool baths, home steam baths and automatic temperature controls for the bath and shower are growing in popularity.

Weber said it is thought that a spark from the near-by village dump may have ignited the lumber. No estimation of damage was available.
