

Parents charge school transportation policy unfair

An angry group of Cass City School District parents, spearheaded by Willis LeBlanc, Cass City, charged Supt. Donald Crouse and the school board with discriminatory practices in bus transportation Monday night at the board's regular meeting at the high school.

Most of the complaining parents live in the Walnut Trailer Park at the south Village Limits and they report that 10 children from the park are now attending school. Presently the school bus that drives past the trailer park does not stop. The park is less than 1 1/2 miles from the school and, according to Crouse, the district does not receive transportation reimbursement for any students living within 1 1/2 miles. The superintendent read the law to the board and parents attending.

LeBlanc retorted that he had called the man in charge in Lansing and was told that the State paid for any student living a mile or more from the school.

LeBlanc also said that the school was not treating all students equally. He pointed to a student in Deford that lived within a mile of the Deford school who was picked up by the bus.

Later conversation indicated that there are others. Crouse defended this position by pointing out that these students do not have a sidewalk leading from home to school and would be forced to be on the shoulder of roads where high speed traffic whizzes by. If we had one child killed walking in the road because there was no other choice, then it would be too late to reconsider our policy, he told the board.

Alfred Horne, the owner of the trailer park, said that some provision should be made to clear the sidewalks of snow in the winter. Their condition almost forces kids onto the highway, he believes. Village sidewalks extend to within about a half block from the trailer park.

The discussion failed to mollify LeBlanc who said if the school was going to pick up kids in Deford closer to the school than 1 1/2 miles, then it should pick up children all over the district the same way.

President Horace Bulen appointed a committee to study the situation. Included were Elwyn Helwig and Donald Koepfgen, from the school board; Ross Miller, the school's transportation supervisor; Horne and LeBlanc, of the parents' protest group.

LeBlanc said that if the committee failed to come up with an equal program for all students he was going to file discrimination charges against the school.

The parent group came armed with a petition signed by 56 school district residents. Most signees were from the trailer park area, but others were from scattered points around the community and several were persons without children in school.

An off-shoot of the squabble was a report that the school would not allow a student to drive kids to school in the morning. Investigation indicated that the note forbidding the use of the car did not come from the school. Later investigation revealed that the student misread the school handbook.

Trustee Mrs. Geraldine Prieskorn then suggested that persons with complaints should call the school at once. If not, rumors start flying and the truth never does come out, she said.

The remainder of the session Monday was strictly routine. The board accepted low bids for milk and meat. London's Farm Dairy, Inc. will furnish white milk for .0619 and chocolate milk for .0669 per half pint. Erle's was low bidder for hot dogs at .58 per pound and Gross and O'Harris will furnish ground beef for .59 per pound. The meat contract was let for one semester in hopes that the market would be lower when rebid.

The building use rates were also increased. Groups using the school will pay $4.30 an hour for a custodian, up from $3.95 an hour. Kitchen charges at Campbell and Deford were increased from $3.25 to $3.50 per hour and at the high school from $3.75 to $4.00 per hour.

Extra hot dogs or hamburgs at the cafeteria will cost 15 cents each instead of 10 cents.

Fred's Service Station was awarded the contract to furnish 14 bus tires at $56.31 per tire as low bidder of two bids received. He will change the tires for $4.00 each.

A pre-sale of football tickets for students will be held at 50 cents each, home and away. In Cass City, the gate charge will be 75 cents.

A complaint about a cut in allocation of the headstart program for administrative costs is expected to restore funds to the school. The school has asked for $1,350 in a total of $23,500 in the program and will likely accept any reasonable amount.

Salaries for substitute teachers were raised. Subs working 10 days or less in a row will receive $25 a day. After 10 days, non-degree teachers will receive $30 and degree teachers, $35. The jump amounts to $5 a day in each category.

The board also set the annual meeting and budget review for Oct. 13 prior to the regular monthly meeting.

Study team completes visit

South Africans defend apartheid policy

The Rotary group study team from South Africa and Rhodesia defended racial segregation and explained national problems to groups of interested Cass City residents at various meetings held during their five-day stay in Caro and Cass City.

The visit ended with a pool party at the Tom Proctor home Tuesday night.

Besides studying our area the seven visitors explained about their native countries and made a pitch for understanding of their race problem.

Team Leader William Vanden Aardweg told Rotarians Tuesday that the final seven selected were picked from over 150 volunteers for the study group which has visited several countries in the long tour. They will be in the United States until Nov. 3.

Two of the seven were from Rhodesia and the remainder from South Africa.

The men were gracious, intelligent, articulate and learned.

"We don't ask you to approve, but we do ask for your understanding, for time to work out our problems," Peter Cartwright of Rhodesia said.

The men were concerned over the bad press that their country has received. In a magazine section of a Sunday Detroit daily some of the areas of concern were spelled out.

The article said: "Violent society: Americans who guiltily regard this country as the world's most violent, may now enjoy scant comfort. South Africa with 20 million people, 3.7 million of whom are white, is far more violent.

"Each year more than 9,000 South Africans die in crimes of violence, 2,500 commit suicide and 6,000 are killed in road accidents. In crimes of violence...murder, rape and assault, the South African per capita rate is four times the American.

South Africa has the ninth highest divorce rate in the world, as many white alcoholics per thousand as in France and a tradition of racial separation known as "apartheid" which restricts the employment of non-whites and thereby fosters fear, hate and despair."

The team commented freely on the system. They defend apartheid by saying that the blacks in Africa are not the same in Africa as they are in the United States. They are tribal, little educated and a nation within a nation. Despite the statistics, the South Africans maintain that you can walk without fear anywhere in the nation and that there is never a riot.

They point to giant strides in education of the blacks and talk about cities that are planned for black people.

Even in the strict segregation of South Africa there are differences.

Rhodesia which has probably been in the news more than South Africa and is suffering under sanctions of the United Nations, is more liberal than South Africa.

In Rhodesia, Mike Raah reported, the effort is towards a combined government of black and white. We already have blacks in our congress, he said, and eventually there will be more.

In South Africa, the blacks are not allowed a voice in the government with whites...the team said that whites are helping blacks in establishing their own government, their own controls within the country.

However, there is a minority in the country that believes that South Africa should go the route followed now by Rhodesia, Jeff Chapman reported.

Members of the team made it clear that they are not talking about one-man, one-vote in

4 witnesses tell tragic details of Sunday's crash

Crash pictures and obituaries on page 8.

Four area persons and a Columbiaville youth were instantly killed in a two-car crash shortly after midnight Saturday on M-81, about a mile east of Cass City.

Dead are William Schram, 47, his wife, Dorothy, 46, their son, David, 14, all of Cass City; William Mester, 18, of Deford and Charles R. Bellin, 21, of Columbiaville.

The crash occurred as Schram was turning into Sherman's Restaurant and Mester was driving a high performance car east on M-81.

According to Cass City Police and Tuscola County Sheriff's Department reports, Mester was travelling at a very high rate of speed and crashed broadside into the Schram car. The impact virtually joined the two cars together and the vehicles went 145 feet down the road before stopping. The Schram car was pushed sideways the entire distance.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Schram were thrown from the car by the impact.

Mr. Schram was thrown from the car 18 feet past a tree that stands an estimated 15 feet from the point of impact. His wife was found seven feet from the tree. Their son was pinned in the back seat of the car. The two occupants were also pinned in the Mester auto.

Several witnesses were interviewed. Tom Dewey of Cass City said that he was parked on M-81 and said the Chevrolet (driven by Mester) went by, squealing tires in all gears.

Albert Gibas and Bruce LeValley, parked in the driveway at the restaurant, said that they saw a car coming from the east (Schram) and a flash of lights as another car came by. Then there was a big crash and sparks flying everywhere. Dale Churchill, also in the driveway, said that he saw the Mester car coming at a good clip.

The five deaths brought the accident total for the county to 26 for the year. Sixteen of the deaths resulted from three accidents.

In the spring, five persons were killed in a two-car crash and fire at the curve on M-81, five miles southwest of Cass City. Six were killed in a mishap near Millington.

The Schram-Mester tragedy was also the third traffic accident that resulted in the deaths of five persons each.

In May of 1969, a crash of cars driven by Kenneth Hurd and George Taylor claimed the lives of five on Elmwood Road.

One other accident was reported to the Sheriff's Department involving area drivers during the week. Dennis Fred Francis, 17, reported that a deer darted in front of his car on Cemetery Road, a half mile from Severance Road, Monday at dusk.

Francis said that he slammed on his brakes to avoid hitting the deer, lost control on the slippery road and went into the ditch.

He was uninjured.

FROM THE Editor's Corner

Dan Marlowe, author and columnist, recently was expounding via a Chronicle column that his thoughts about a hijacking of a plane of gamblers sparked a short story and subsequently his latest paperback novel, "Flashpoint."

You expect a writer of topnotch mystery yarns, like Marlowe, to take a little poetic license with the facts and dramatize for effect.

But his description of the plane of professional gamblers on a plane avoids ridicule only because most people have weird conceptions of what gamblers say, do and think.

In his saga about gamblers in "Flashpoint," he depicts them as coming from all over the nation as soon as the plane rears up for Las Vegas. A wild gambling orgy immediately starts all over the plane...with thousands and thousands of dollars floating around the room.

The story intimates that most of the gamblers are either crooks or on the outer fringes of the law.

I have no way of knowing how Dan researches background material for his stories, but it isn't likely that he talked with anyone who knows anything about this phase of gambling before he started writing.

In gambling terms, the odds must be about a million to one. If he had, he probably would have changed his characters from lawbreakers to lawyers and from bus to businessmen.

Most are out for a vacation of which gambling is a phase. The majority bring their wives. A planeload of guests that received a free ride (all expenses) last winter included a New York banker, a wholesale grocery distributor from Philadelphia, a manufacturer of advertising pencils and novelties from Detroit, a three-drugstore chain owner from New Jersey, a television script writer from New York and others of a similar ilk.

If you held up the whole planeload you could come up with no more money (perhaps

For Todaros - a labor of love

Work, money produce champion pony

For Joe Todaro, the world revolves around his wife and horses, his job and horses, his daughter and horses and horses, horses, horses.

For his wife, the former Janet Alexander of Cass City, the world revolves around her husband and horses, her daughter and horses, housekeeping and horses and horses, horses, horses.

Right now the Bad Axe couple spends about four or five hours a day training a prize-winning registered Hackney mare pony and three other horses. The mare was the Reserve Grand Champion at this year's Michigan State Fair and is the pride of the Todaro family.

Besides basic good breeding, the Todaros have used a massive dose of tender loving care to bring the pony to championship class.

They purchased the mare for $350 as a suckling colt...today they feel it's worth $1,500 and they aren't selling.

Every day Joe spends about an hour training and grooming the pony. Hackneys are high spirited and it takes patience and talent to break them for the showing.

The coat must be brushed to bring out the gloss, the tail must be tied so it will grow longer, the stall must be spotless, the exercise precise, a constant vigil maintained.

If you do all these things, have the knowhow to break the horse and are ready to spend about $10,000 on equipment and facilities, horses will be your hobby as it is for the Todaros. Equipment for horses is expensive.

The viceroy, a cart used in shows, and the fine (show) harness costs about $1,000.

Special shoes that make the pony step high cost $35 each. Blacksmithing runs another $16 per foot.

Added to the $10,000 investment is the cost of the four horses that are housed in the newly-erected barn and the cost of feeding them. The animals are never pastured.

The Todaros justify the expense by saying that the money others spend in a bar or for snowmobiles or other recreation, they spend on horses.

It's natural for Janet to do so. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nick Alexander of Cass City, she has been exposed to horses all her life.

Right now, Dad has racing horses, she said, but I still feel that his true love is training show horses. I know mine is.

Joe doesn't come by his love of horses quite so naturally. He lived in a city suburb as a youth. When he became exposed to horses, he soon made up for lost time. He's spent all of his young adult years with them. Before quitting to take a job at a trailer plant in Marlette, the young Todaro worked as a professional handler for an owner.

But if you want to get anything of your own, Joe says earnestly, you can't do it working for another guy.

That's why he purchased the home on M-33, about 4 1/2 miles southwest of Bad Axe, and turned the wild backyard into a neat barn and corral with a showing area rapidly on the way to completion.

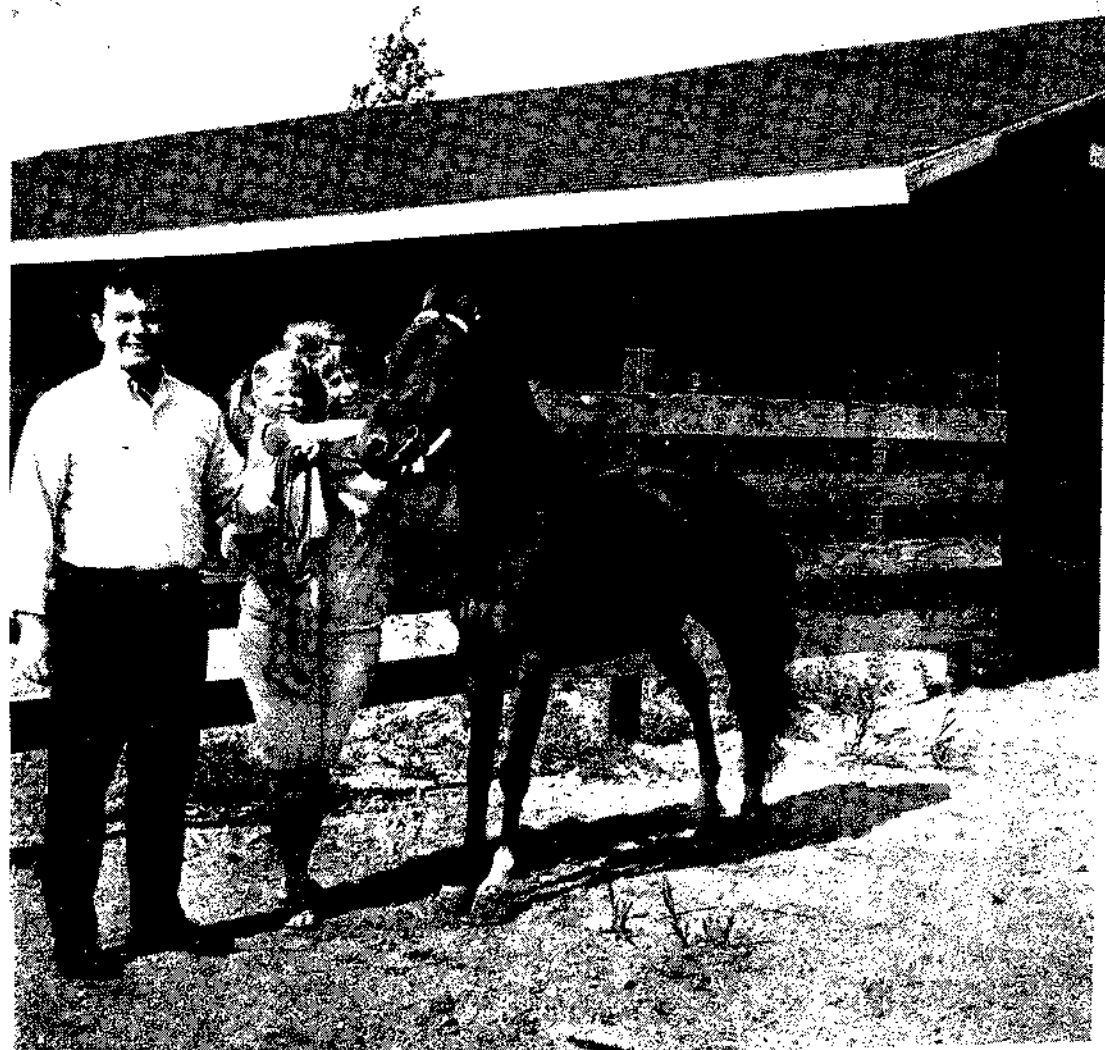

I'm doing it as fast as I can, Joe says, but it takes a while when you do all the work yourself.

Especially, when the site work must be sandwiched around the care given the horses and the many shows that the Todaros attend. In the summer they go to as many as are available...piling up trophies and establishing their reputation.

For when you produce a winner, the money people come around and want you to train their horses.

You know, the young couple said wistfully, everyone has to have their dream and ours is making a living training horses to ride and to show.

For the Todaros this would be the ultimate happiness...making a living with a labor of love.

THE JOE TODARO FAMILY poses in front of their newly erected horse barn with their champion Hackney pony.

(Any anyone else he can get to help)

You are almost a native when you can read Down Memory Lane and remember the incidents recalled in the 25 years ago section.

Personally, I haven't reached the true native status yet, but many of the names are familiar after 20 years here and I catch myself glancing over these items more and more frequently each year.

Nothing like small town cooperation. Monday the Chronicle shipped out a two-piece typesetting machine that no longer meets the requirements of our shop.

The machines weighed 1750 pounds. One piece was handed for shipping with a banding rig borrowed from Walbro Corporation. The machine was lifted onto the truck with a hi-lo borrowed from Croft-Clara Lumber Co.

It was later weighed at General Cable Corporation and while they had it in the air the Meiers truck driver saw to it that a weak brace was shored up to assure a safe ride to Kansas City, the equipment's new home.

Mrs. Helen Stevens, who just returned home from a trip abroad, is telling friends about a narrow escape. She missed by just one flight taking one of the planes that have been hijacked by the Arabs in recent weeks.

When we all get through shuddering about the most recent carnage on the highways in the Cass City area, the chances are things will go on just about as they did before.

Just as the accidents that killed five on Elmwood Road and the accident on the curve of M-81 that killed five others quickly faded as we all became caught up again in the pressures of everyday living.

Most reform suggestions swirl around better police protection. "They ought to do something" is the cry.

The truth is that we should do something.

We need to be continually aroused and concerned. We need to do more than grouse about the dragsters on North and South Seeger and Main Streets. We need to swear out a complaint and be willing to go to court to see that the offenders are punished.

We need to write the auto manufacturers complaining about high performance cars with low performance drivers.

We need to do it ourselves. Leaving the other fellow to do it, just won't get it done.

The record proves it.

The shake shingle syndrome has moved from South Main Street to North Main. But if you don't look close you'll never know which business building has it.

It's the L & S Sport Center now under construction. The shingles are on a tiny roof that leads into the building's side entrance.

Now, look again. You'll see it.

People have failed for every reason—except lack of advice.

Mr. and Mrs. Dale F. Daniels

The First United Methodist Church in Caro was the scene of the three o'clock double-ring wedding ceremony, performed by the Rev. Benjamin C. Whaley, uniting Miss Freda A. Linderman and Dale F. Daniels in marriage, Aug. 29.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred J. Linderman of Decker and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard L. Daniels of Caro.

Given in marriage by her father, she chose a floor-length gown of lace over taffeta with long puff lace sleeves, high neck, Empire waistline with tiny pearls around neckline and waistline. The detachable cathedral train fastened to the back with a bow and the fingertip veil was held in place by a satin rose trimmed with pearls. She carried a bouquet of red roses and white carnations.

Mrs. Ronald J. Badgley of Harbor Beach, sister of the bride, was matron of honor.

She wore a powder blue chiffon over taffeta gown designed with high neckline and long puff sleeves. A matching headpiece completed her ensemble and she carried a bouquet of red roses and carnations tinted blue to match her dress.

Daryl Daniels, brother of the groom, was best man.

The bride's mother wore a light aqua crepe dress with matching lace coat with white accessories and the groom's mother chose a dark aqua linen-rayon dress with matching lace coat with white accessories. Both mothers had corsages of red roses and white carnations.

A reception was held following the ceremony at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard L. Daniels, the groom's parents.

The couple will live in Caro. The groom is employed at Faulkner Construction in Midland and the bride at General Cable Corporation, Cass City.

"If It Fitz..."

How women should dress

BY JIM FITZGERALD

Victor Costa, the fashion designer for Suzy Peretta, has invited me to "a special press showing of his daytime, casual and cocktail clothes."

The invitation adds that a continental breakfast will be served in Hudson's Horseless Carriage Room.

What do you bet you can't get oatmeal with brown sugar at a continental breakfast?

It beats me how I got asked to such an affair. I don't know Suzy Peretta and Victor Costa from Lum 'n Abner. I am bewildered by the idea of daytime, casual and cocktail clothes.

SPORTS FANS!

I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

By H. M. Bulen

Here's quite an oddity...The man considered by many to be the greatest football player of all-time, Jim Thorpe, never played football and never even saw a football game until he was 17 years old!

Here's a football fact a lot of fans aren't aware of...The team that won the Super Bowl last season, Kansas City, did NOT even finish first in its own division!...Many people now forget that Oakland finished first and Kansas City second in the Western Division of the American Football League last year, but under rules in effect last season, special playoffs were held between the 1st and 2nd place teams and Kansas City beat Oakland to start on its way to the Super Bowl championship.

One of the real jinxes in sports is one that few people realize....Did you know that no quarterback in the National Football League in the last 10 years has been able to win the passing championship two years in a row, and no quarterback in the American Football League has ever won the passing title two straight years.

Announcing the 1971 Duster.

The big difference in small cars.

We first introduced the Duster as the best transportation bargain in America. It still is. And we built Duster to be America's "small-enough-but-big-enough" car. And it still is.

Small car lovers of America, your day has come.

You have more tires to kick, more doors to slam, more hoods to look under, more colors to choose from and more test drives to take than ever before.

Which leaves us to convince you that Duster gives you the most car for the money. That it's small enough, but big enough. And that, all in all, it's the ideal small car.

Room. More of it to accommodate more passengers. More of it to accommodate more luggage.

Most small cars are four-passenger cars. And when you sit in some of them, they feel like they were built for three-and-a-half passengers.

Duster's a five-passenger car. It seats five comfortably.

Besides carrying more up front, Duster carries more in the trunk. You can stuff 15.9 cubic feet of stuff into it. (One of the new small cars has about a third as much trunk space.)

Small enough for maneuverability. Big enough for stability.

Duster's small enough to slip into about 3/4 of a parking space. Yet it's big enough to give you stability on the open highway.

It has our unique torsion-bar suspension (for better handling). And unibody construction—its strength completely surrounds you.

So Duster can handle stop-and-go city traffic as well as freeway traffic because it's the right size, the right weight and it handles.

Our small-enough-but-big-enough car has a small-enough-but-big-enough engine.

Duster's standard engine is our rugged 198 cubic inch, 125 horsepower Six.

It gives you great gas mileage and a little more power than other small cars' smaller engines.

And that's a perfect combination.

Options. You have over 50 to choose from when you order a Duster.

Think of it this way. It's a convenience to have a lot of conveniences to choose from. If you're considering buying a new small car, and you have certain options in mind to go along with it, you may find Duster the only small car that offers them.

There are things like a Stereo Cassette Tape Player, V-8 engine, vinyl roof and power brakes that you just can't get on some small cars.

No doubt about it. Duster is the car for the times.

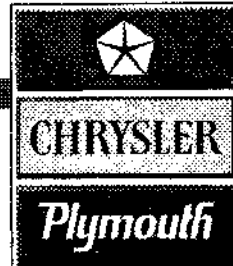

Over 175,000 Duster buyers thought so last year. And we expect more of the same kind of success with the 1971 Duster.

Before you buy a small car, look at our small car.

Duster. Built and engineered with extra care.

See the new Plymouth Duster today.

Coming Through.

AGENT'S CORNER
Develop new nonwoven blanket
 By Judith Marks - Extension Agent

Blanket manufacturers developed a new non-woven blanket just in time for long, cold winter nights.

The new blanket, which comes in several colors, feels like velvet, also both washable and drycleanable.

The non-woven blankets depend on a core of polyurethane foam bonded to a nylon net for their warmth. The foam surface is coated with a resin. Then nylon fibers and color are flocked on and set by heat. The surface can also be patterned or "carved" during the final process.

Electrostatic flocking is one of the newest methods of making non-woven materials. It differs from old-style flocking which used a chemical adhesive to attract the flocking fibers and did not allow dry-cleaning. Electrostatically flocked materials can be dry-cleaned or laundered and machine dried.

Manufacturers claim the non-woven blankets maintain their velvety look and texture through as many as 50 washings and dry cleanings. They also claim the new blankets resist shrinking, piling and shedding and that the foam core construction gives plenty of warmth with very little weight.

The same method of non-woven construction is being used in other products, notably carpets and baby clothes.

Whatever type of blanket you choose, look for explicit care instructions and for best results follow them.

Uncle Tim From Tyre Says:

Dear Mister Editor:

Bug Hookum told the fellers at the country store Saturday night that high on the long list of things he don't understand in this world is insurance. He said he had thought the situation up one side and down the other about the store owner that got his shipment of clothes stole and he was of the mind that the biggest crooks in the story is the insurance company.

Bug said the big trouble with insurance is that it ain't. It is like this country's civil defense set up, it looks good and it gives us a nice feeling of being protected, but down deep we all know that when the time comes it won't work. The little pig's straw house worked fine till the wolf came along, was Bug's words.

Nobody thinks life insurance protects agin dying, allowed Bug, but the idee is if we got some we can do our folks one last favor by doing it. Life insurance is nr'nt cut and dried,

Bug said, cause a feller is betting he won't live long, the company is betting he will, and both is hoping the company wins.

The kind of insurance that's bugging Bug is where judgement is involved. With life insurance, a man is alive or dead and they ain't much question, but insurance on cars, agingittin' bad sick but not dying, agin acts of God and man on property, agin being robbed or burnt out or otherwise done in by yore feller man, Bug allowed, is just a way to make sure the insurance companies windup ownin' everthing and running the country.

If you got car insurance and you git in a wreck, the company either cancels yore policy or shoots yore rate out of sight so's you might as well paid the damage in the first place. Actual, Bug said, it's gittin' to the place where it's cheaper fer a feller not to file a claim. If you got insurance on yore house and you file more than one damage claim ever 10 year, the company cancels, went on Bug. The fellers were general agreed with Bug that the only thing insurance insures is that the insurance company will git theirs first, and if the pore feller that pays ever month gits his at all it will be the hard way, like hiring lawyers and wading through the quicksand of the court like the store owner that got his clothes stole. Ed Doolittle put the stopper in the insurance jug, Mister Editor. He said it is true that insurance companies, rich living Government, Government contractors and lawyers has got locks on this country, and the locks has got so many combinations till all a feller can do is hold his nose and pay his taxes and his premiums.

Yours truly,
Uncle Tim

The way to start a day right is to start the night before.

There's more than sugar in Michigan's MIRACLE BEET

Sure, it produces sugar... 170,000 tons in the past season... a tribute to the progressive sugar-beet growers in Michigan's Saginaw Valley, working hand in hand with the state's two processing companies. But that's only the beginning. The 1,431,339 tons of sugarbeets harvested in 1969 yielded much more than its principal product—sugar.

In cash, the crop and its final products added up to $42.9 million. Much of that money has already been plowed back into Michigan's economic cycle. Millions of dollars for payrolls, farm equipment, consumer goods, and in processor supplies. And, as always, in taxes paid to local and state government units... over $600,000 from the two Michigan processing companies alone. In short, the sugarbeet produces economic sweetening for our state, as well as flavor sweetening for our table.

with Big Chief and Pioneer—Michigan Made Pure Sugar! Tall accomplishments from a humble sugarbeet... a miracle which repeats itself each year.

ONE FOR THE ROAD

Communicate better with plain words

By Dan Marlowe

St. Paul said it first: "Except ye utter by the tongue words easy to be understood, how shall it be known what is spoken?"

If St. Paul were around today, I believe he would apply his stricture to the written word as practiced by some businessmen, educators, and heads of government bureaus.

Consider the following sentence grandly offered by a professor of behavioral sciences in a great university:

"If the correlation of intrinsic competency to actual numerical representation is definitely high, then the thoroughly objective conclusion may inexpungably be reached that the scholastic derivations and out-growths will attain a pattern of unified superiority."

It's my belief that the man who wrote that sentence is hiding something, perhaps the fact that he doesn't know what he's talking about.

Or consider this one from a government regulatory agency: "The board's new regulatory goal is to create a supervisory environment conducive and stimulative to industry adaptation to fundamentally altered markets, giving you the option to restructure both sides of your statement of condition, but the decision-making and the long-range planning functions is management's."

How much more simple to have said: "Go ahead and make your plans but check with us first."

A well-known authority on reading in the public schools expresses himself like this:

"Perhaps the task of developing proper motivation is best seen, at least in a nutshell, as limiting the manipulation of extrinsic factors to that of keeping homeostatic needs and exteroceptive drive low, in favor of facilitating basic information processing to maximize accurate anticipation of reality."

This is communication? The elements of this style of writing are simple: infinitives must always be split, a fancy word is better than a plain one; and if at all possible, certain cant words should be included such as raisins are sprinkled into oatmeal.

A partial list of the favorite words overused by the obtusators (oh-oh, they've got me doing it, too) would include the following: "Parameters", "Interface", "Input", "Output", "Message" as in "Message the data", "Sophisticated" as in "Sophisticated technology" or "Sophisticated hardware", "Meaningful", "Viable", "Relevant", and "Innovative."

With an arsenal like that, you, too, can write obscurely. But don't expect to be understood.

Lutheran women resume meetings

Chairman Mrs. Al Avery led the topic at the Lutheran Women's Missionary League meeting Monday evening, Sept. 14, at Good Shepherd Church. Members participated in the study lesson from the LWML quarterly booklet.

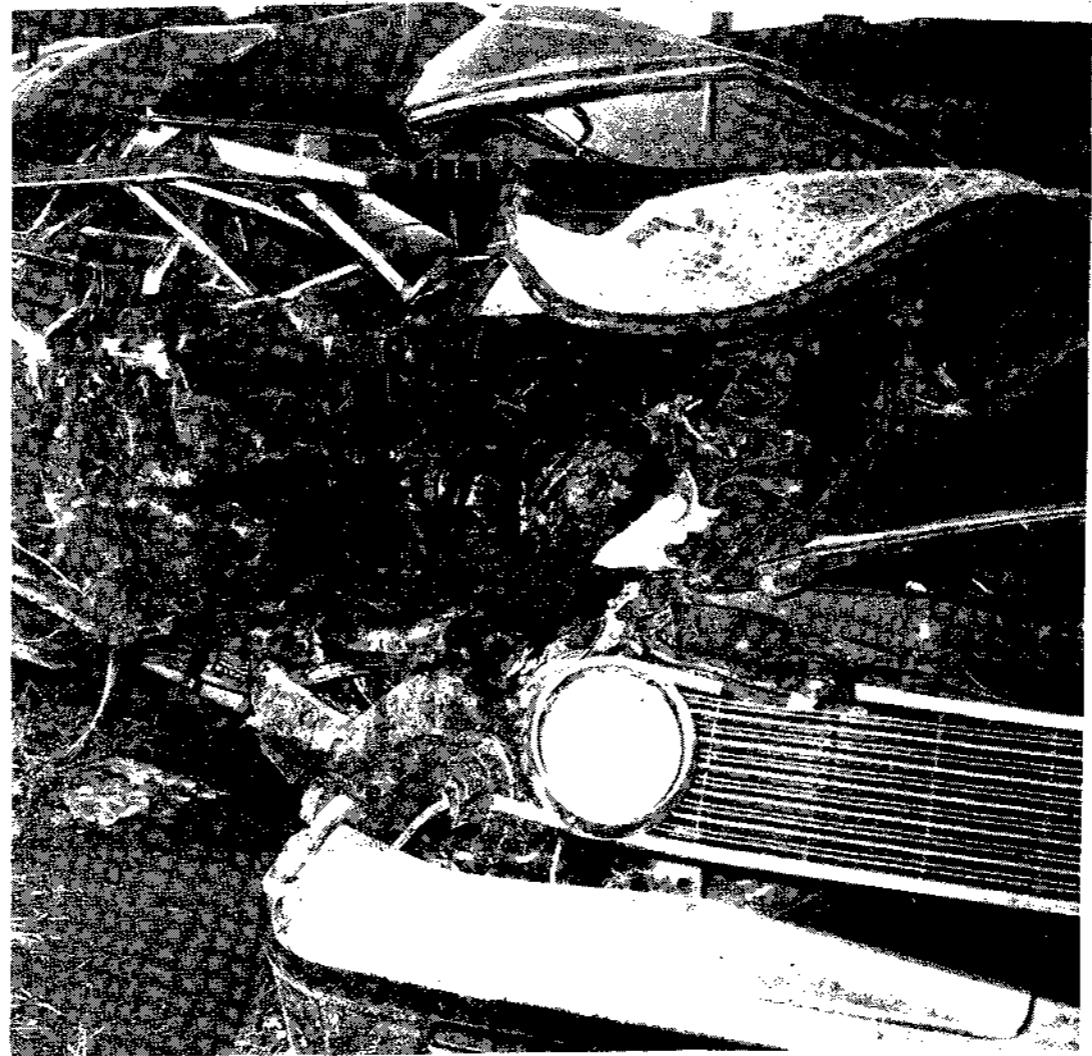

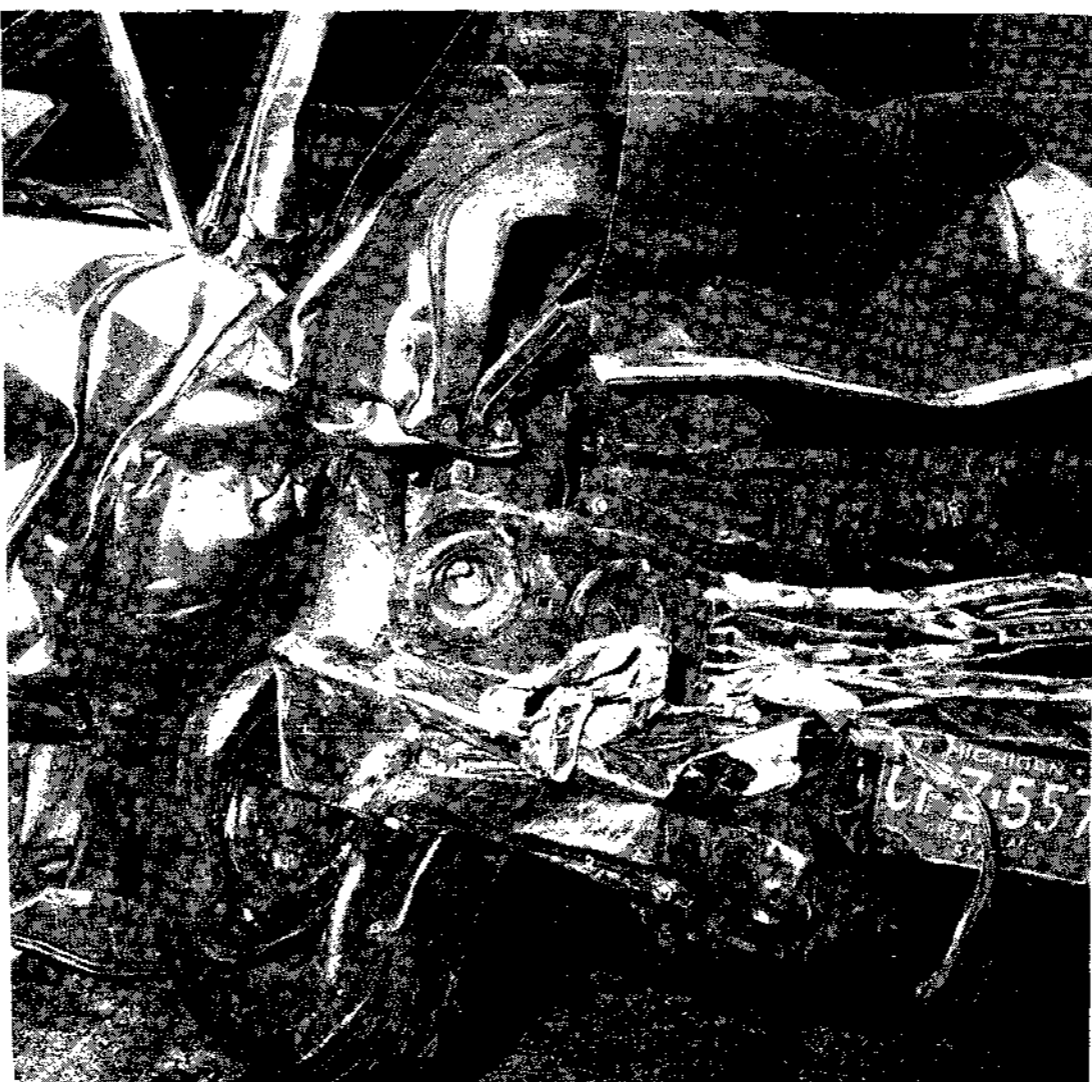

Mrs. Avery, Mrs. Olin Bouck and Mrs. Clarence Miller attended an LWML meet at Our Savior Lutheran Church, Bad Axe, Wednesday, Sept. 9.

Mrs. Frank McComb and Mrs. Olin Bouck were cohostesses at the dessert lunch.

Next month's plans include a trip to Frankenmuth for the group.

THE TANGLED remains of the cars involved in the 5-death crash early Sunday reflect the terrific impact that occurred. The Mester car is at the top and the Schram vehicle at the bottom.

CHARGE LANGENBURG WITH THEFT OF GUN

Louis Langenburg, 39, of Cass City was placed on $3,000 bond while waiting to be arraigned on a charge of larceny from a building in Bad Axe.

Langenburg allegedly stole a .38 caliber revolver, handcuffs and case, and other similar equipment from the State Police Post at Bad Axe.

All the stolen articles were recovered when Langenburg was arrested last Wednesday.

CASS CITY VILLAGE COUNCIL MEETING

The regular meeting of the Cass City Village Council was held on August 25, 1970 at the Municipal Building. All the trustees were present.

The minutes of the regular July meeting were read and approved.

The financial report for the month of July was reviewed. President Althaver reviewed a section of the proposed updated version of the Subdivision Regulations Ordinance as presented by a Villean - Leman Planning Consultant at a meeting before the Planning Commission. One major change is that a preliminary plat can be accepted by the Planning Commission without approval of the council although the council has the right to overrule the commission. Other proposed changes include cash or a performance bond guaranteeing that the proposed work is completed; suggested fees for acceptance of a preliminary plat; underground installation for all utilities in new subdivisions.

The next meeting with the Villean - Leman Consultant is scheduled for Sept. 17 with the Planning Commission and the council.

The following bids were received for the police car: Elwood McDonald - $700, Richard Eria - $397.97. Both bids were rejected, and the village will keep the car as a back-up unit. A motion was made by Trustee Ross and supported by Trustee Christner that the village keep the 1969 police car until the end of the year on a trial basis and refuse both bids. Motion carried.

Plans for a year-round recreation program have been shelved until this year's program is evaluated. Tom Woody is finishing the summer program.

Purchase of a new lawn mower for the park was authorized. Estimated cost is $1,000.00.

An extension of the tax collection date to Sept. 15 was moved by Trustee Ross and supported by Trustee Christner. To date 95% of the taxes have been collected. Motion carried.

A motion was made by Trustee Rawson and supported by Trustee Christner that the bills as reviewed by the Finance Committee be approved for payment. Motion carried.

There being no further business, a motion was made by Trustee Albee and supported by Trustee Holmberg that the meeting be adjourned.

Talking it over

Some of the key moments in our education are those times when we discussed with someone older the interesting things we learn.

But, to speak frankly about religious education today, one of the serious handicaps facing boys and girls who are sent (not brought) to church is that they have little opportunity to "talk it over" at home.

Moral and spiritual growth is nurtured by family discussion of the truths taught in classroom and pulpit. But this presumes that parents and children together are sharing the experiences of worshipping God and studying the Christian Faith. Candidly, too, it presumes that the parents will be the pace-setters... advanced enough in their own religious growth to answer simple, urgent questions.

It was always fun to tell "Sis" what we had learned at school. But, remember, it was Dad and Mother we counted on when we couldn't find the answers!

For your children's sake — and your own — attend church regularly.

Is your home going to turn into a desert this winter?

In wintertime, people in houses with flame-type heating wake up mornings with that stuffed-up feeling. With hoarse, dry throats. Furniture dries out and starts creaking.

Sound familiar? You bet it does. The best way to stop it is with electric heat.

You see, electric heat isn't a dry or drying heat.

So you usually don't need a humidifier. The moisture from bathing and cooking is all you need for natural comfort.

An Edison-Approved Electric Heating Contractor will be glad to tell you all about comfortable, moisture-retaining electric heat. He'll figure your operating cost, and there'll be no obligation. And right now, your contractor's offering a $100 trade-in on your old heating system. Call him for an electric heat survey, or mail the coupon below.

He'll show you how to turn your desert into an oasis.

Storing beans may bring more profit

By William L. Bortel

The 1970 crop of beans in Tuscola county will soon be entirely in the bag and the bean grower wants to say, let's forget the 1970 crop year and look forward to 1971. However, we can't shut the door on 1970 until the beans are marketed at the most profitable situation.

Let's look at the 1970 crop. It looks like it will hurry Tuscola county to harvest over fifteen bushels of beans per acre. This would be the county's poorest bean year in over ten years. In talking to a few of the elevators, they also state that the beans coming to the elevators and reported yields will be the lowest in many years. Also, Tuscola county planted 5,600 acres less beans than last year.

A month ago it was reported throughout the bean industry that Gratiot and the north side of Saginaw counties had bumper yields. The hot dry weather during setting of the beans has reduced yield in these areas. It was stated Friday that Gratiot county may have its second or third poorest bean crop in the last ten years.

This all adds up to a smaller number of total beans bagged at the end of 1970 year. We don't know what the total bean crop will provide in number of bags but we are quite certain it will pay you to store your white beans. There is an excellent chance that the price of beans will move higher if enough beans are stored on the farm or in the elevator.

So the 1970 bean year has not drawn to a close until you, the bean growers, market your beans at the most profitable situation.

government. None suggested that the blacks have more than an equal voice in running the country...even in the distant future. All approved of the social and economic segregation that prevails.

The right to vote is restricted by age, education and the taxpaying ability of the citizen.

You must remember, the team stressed, that lack of money is a massive problem in the country. Nearly all of the tax funds come from whites and we are doing what we can to promote the welfare of both blacks and whites.

The South African team members pointed to a new modern hospital and new schools for blacks in the segregated system as evidences of this progress. They said that if there were not restrictions on the voting that the uneducated natives would bring chaos to the countries.

The visit of the study team to Cass City was arranged by Tom Proctor. The visitors left Wednesday morning for Pigeon and later will go to Harbor Beach.

Rotarians gave the visitors a rising ovation after their appearance at Rotary and commended Proctor for arranging the visit.

Deer hunters plan protest meet Sept. 27

The Thumb Area Deer Hunters Association met Monday night at Cass City when some 75 members discussed ways of protesting the upcoming doe season authorized by the Department of Natural Resources.

Willard Mussoff, president of the Michigan Deer Hunters Association, was a guest speaker. Plans were completed for a public meeting to be held Sunday, Sept. 27, at 7:30 p.m. at the Caro Gun Club.

The association has invited area State representatives and congressmen to attend to hear protests aired.

Library seeks volunteer help

With work about completed at the new Rawson Memorial Library, the massive job of moving the books from the old library to the new is beginning.

To facilitate the shift, Mrs. Arthur Little, librarian, said, the facility will be closed starting Monday, Sept. 21, until all books are moved.

Authorities issued a plea to service clubs and individuals for help in carrying books to the new building. Children's express wagons are also desirable. Volunteers are asked to call a board member or the library to offer help.

Letters to Editor

No reason for doe kill in Tuscola county--Campbell

To Thumb Area Deer Hunters:

Do you know that does and fawns are going to be killed in Tuscola County this year?

The DNR after promising at last year's meeting at the Caro Gun Club, that there would be no doe season in Tuscola County; has this year opened it to the killing of does and fawns. The deer are not starving, there is no crop damage of any extent, so their only excuse is that deer are being killed by cars. Granted some deer are being killed by cars in Tuscola County, but so are people being killed. The DNR feels that by eliminating deer and reducing the herd to almost nothing we will eliminate the car-deer accidents. I wonder if these same people would use the same logic in reducing the car-human kill in Tuscola County. Fortunately for all of us we have people in the law enforcement agencies who think a little better than our game experts.

I have talked to many people in the last few weeks about deer hunting and have not found anyone in favor of a doe season here in Tuscola County or anywhere in the state. Apparently the only ones who want a doe season in Tuscola County are our so-called game experts in Lansing and the biologist from Sebawaing. I wonder who these people think the deer belong to or who they are working for. When we, the hunters and sportsmen all over the state raise so much opposition to the hunting of does and fawns, you would think the message would be quite clear to them; but I guess this is not the case because they seem to feel they know more about what is good for us and the deer, than we do. Many of us spend 12 months of the year following and living with the deer, but our advice is not even asked for, much less heeded. Perhaps this is because as D. H. Jenkins, Chief of the Research and Development Division stated in an inter-office communication dated July 28, 1970; that all of us who oppose the killing of does and fawns come from the lowest socio-economic status groups. In other words we are the poor people, poorly educated and apparently as far as the DNR is concerned, not to be listened to. In fact, as he goes on in his letter, we are to be re-educated and taught to support the DNR policies.

This is the same DNR that, as pheasants became scarcer, increased the length of the pheasant season and when the hunters turned to grouse and all but exterminated them, the same DNR opened a winter season.

It appears their policy on deer is the same as on pheasants and grouse. Deer hunting has just come to the point where it is good all over the thumb and now they want to ruin this. It seems that everything the game experts touch, they destroy; and yet they feel we should support their policies. Certainly their policies are not in the best interests of the wildlife and the hunters. In fact, I wonder just where their interest lies. Many of these people in the DNR have a lot of power and have been in power for a good many years. Is it possible the DNR has become tainted like many other government and social agencies?

Closing trails to cyclists is unfair

Dear Editor:

I feel I must write as I am very concerned about the recent dispute between the motorcyclist and the DNR and the closing of our state land to cross country racing. It seems discrimination plays a large part in the everyday life of the average American, we read about it in our newspapers and we see it on tv but it seems the largest body of people who are discriminated against are the motorcycle riders. Almost every month we read how different states have adopted laws that infringe on a cyclist's personal liberties, helmet laws, eye protection, special operators license, written tests, and the list goes on. I do want to make it clear, I hate to see people on cycles without helmets and eye protection, it is foolish to ride without these, what I don't like is someone telling me I have to wear one.

All this is bad enough but now the DNR is quietly closing off to motorcycle trail riding, large areas of land, and you and I are letting them do it because we don't take enough interest in what they are doing.

This situation doesn't happen to the horse set and did you ever stop to think of the mess they make also! In fact many cases the equestrians are the people who lead in the fight to keep all motorized vehicles off their beloved trails.

Most folks seem to think that all cyclists are hippie type maniacs who have no greater desire in life than tearing up the countryside, well, it just isn't so. There are riders who seem to have little concern for their actions but on the whole, motorcyclists are like everyone else. I think our area should be thankful for the fine clubs we have here. It could be worse! We do it as a family and we are just as concerned about our state land and our wildlife as the DNR. More I think! We are strongly opposed to the shooting of our does and fawns this fall, also you would think rather than giving the rider a rough time they would be trying to catch some of these out of season violators. Sometimes the DNR just doesn't make sense. All we want is to be able to enjoy our chosen sport whether it be road or trail.

I think it is time to write our congressmen to watch our local DNR, after all who does the state land really belong to? Etselene Ter Bush

I believe the time has come for a good housecleaning in our conservation department. Now is the time to write your state senators and representatives and demand that an investigation be made of these people and their policies and remind them of the people whose interests they are supposed to be serving. Let's spend 6¢ and a few minutes of our time and do it today.

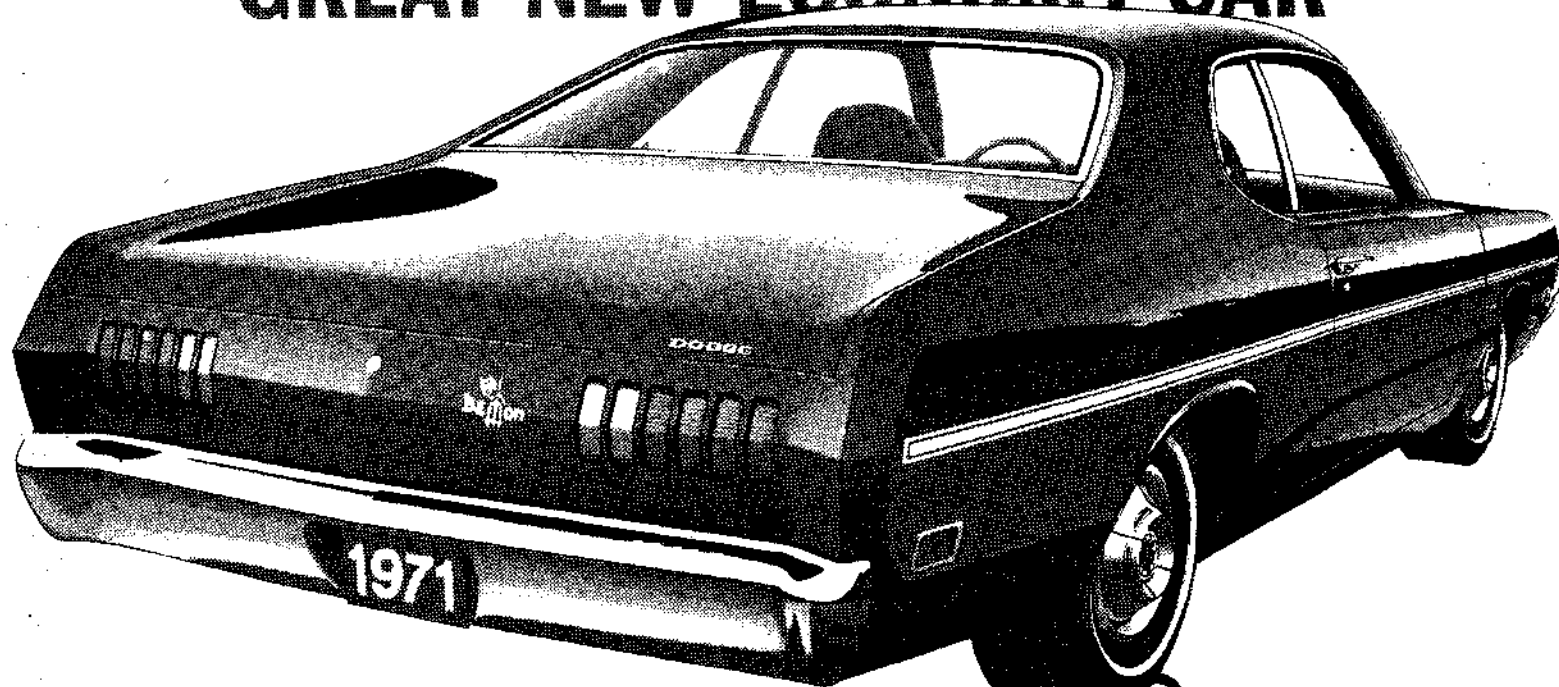

If you are interested in preventing the senseless slaughter of our thumb area deer, please contact me as soon as possible. Even though it is too late to prevent the issuing of doe permits in Tuscola County, we can still prevent the senseless slaughter of the does and fawns. Call me and write your state senator or representative today.

Yours truly,

See mercury pollution the beginning of major problem

MORE POISON?

Some experts on pollution feel the recent furor over mercury pollution is just the beginning of a major problem.

State Health Director Dr. Maurice Retzen sums up their feelings with the statement: "I think we've only seen the tip of the iceberg with chemical pollution."

"How many other poisons such as cyanide and arsenic are floating around in the water?" he asks. "Who knows?"

"One thing is certain. We cannot become complacent about this problem. It's a very real threat."

Even if no more pollution similar to the mercury contamination were discovered, it still would take years to clean up the situation.

Officials say they don't have enough information on the subject to make concrete predictions.

"The best we can do is draw upon the experience in other states and countries," says William Turney, assistant chief engineer in the Michigan Water Resources Commission.

"In Sweden, for example, some biologists believe it may be tens of years before their inland lakes clear up."

Turney doubts, however, that it will take that long to clear up the mercury pollution in Lakes St. Clair, Huron and Erie and the Detroit and St. Clair Rivers.

The main reason is that Michigan's contaminated waters are fed and emptied by a large river system. "This flushing action will act in favor of helping the problem," he said.

Gov. William G. Milliken has said the ban on eating fish from the St. Clair area may go on "for years and years and years" because of the pollutant's toxicity.

Mercury has a long life inside the human body, or other living creatures once it is taken into the system.

The metal has a half life of 70 days. This means the body expels half the mercury in it in a 70 day period. In the next 70 day period it expels half the remaining mercury, and so on.

As a result, the body never gets completely rid of it and any person on a steady diet of mercury continually is building up the amount of it in his body.

Mercury has a slow, but deadly, effect if it is built up to too high a dosage. It destroys brain cells one by one. Early symptoms involve fatigue and loss of memory. If carried far enough, the condition, known as Minamata Disease, produces a human vegetable who eventually dies.

RUSTLERS OPERATE

Rustlers still exist in Michigan, say state officials, though now they're going after things other than the traditional cow.

Not long ago, three men were caught stripping the weathered hemlock siding from isolated area barns.

Much of the lumber, which sells at a premium price to interior decorators, has disappeared from barns in Antrim, Charlevoix and Otsego counties.

The siding is the chief covering on barns in northern Michigan. When it originally was purchased, it sold for $10 per thousand feet, but that price has jumped to $475 per thousand feet in the rustler's black market, causing the jump in thefts.

SALT POLLUTES

The State Highway Department is urging local governmental units to be careful how they store salt used on icy highways.

When salt is stored in open or uncovered areas, heavy rain can cause chemical seepage into nearby ground areas, contaminating underground water.

Highway Director Henrik Stafseth said the storing of salt in open piles through the summer may be the cause of water contamination reported in several areas of the state recently.

"For this reason," he says, "the Highway Department implemented a program in 1960 requiring all road salt for use on state highways to be stored only in properly designed closed or covered facilities."

The department offers counties, cities and towns financial help for salt storage to help spread the cost of providing closed or covered facilities over several years.

begins new season

The WSCS of Trinity United Methodist Church began the year's session Monday evening, starting with 7:30 dessert served by Mrs. Robert Keating and her group I committee.

Two members of the South African team visiting in the area under the auspices of Rotary, made a brief appearance at the meeting.

Jeff Chapman, assistant manager of Executor and Trust Company at Pretoria, spoke on the role of the South African women as compared to that of U. S. women. He pointed out similarities in their lives, noting that fashions are one season behind that of the western world. The absence of television in the African country brought about a different home life.

Philip Van Rooyen, a lecturer in architecture at the University of Pretoria, spoke on the African women and their homes. He noted that there are eight major African groups, with many different languages spoken. The African Zulu wife, who is purchased, usually has one or two children before marriage and if the marriage does not work out her husband may ask for the return of his money. "They are highly religious people, believing in one God," he said. "And religion has a definite place in every home."

The Rev. Elizabeth Isaacs set the theme of the year's study of "Risk and Reality", speaking of "The Idle Christian." She suggested the purpose in life be one of caring, by taking every opportunity to give, whether it may be of a gift or of one's self. "Whether in the community or far away, reaching out to others brings unmeasurable rewards," she said.

Mrs. Harlan Dickinson conducted a pledge service using the theme, "God So Loves A Cheerful Giver."

Presiding at her first session, Mrs. Edward Baker commended Mrs. Grant Hutchinson, immediate past president, for service to the society, and presented her with the traditional past president's pin.

Plans were finalized for the rummage sale slated for Oct. 3 and bazaar Nov. 7.

The Society paid tribute to Mrs. Florence Myers and Mrs. William Profit, deceased members of the group.

William, received $3,500. The Campbells live in rural Caro. The defendant in the case was General Motors Corp., manufacturer of the car in which the accident occurred. The Campbells had asked for damages of $60,000 for the injuries suffered by Mrs. Campbell in the accident. The Pontiac automobile in which the accident occurred had been driven 11,000 miles.

Members of the jury were: Robert Bank, Betty LeBlanc, Beatrice Buzzard, Lorraine McLeod, Lewis King and Jacqueline Wilson.

In other cases, two criminal arraignments were held and a driver's license restored.

Patrick James Goslin was granted a driver's license for a year or until restored by the Secretary of State's office. The restricted license will be for working purposes only and does not permit the driving of a passenger car.

Rance Kilbourn, 21, of DeFord pleaded innocent of breaking and entering an occupied dwelling owned by Marilyn Crete with the intent of committing a larceny. A trial date will be set and $500 bond was continued.

James Trim, 32, North Branch, stood mute when accused of unlawfully driving away a car owned by Esther Sales. A plea of innocent was entered for him and a jury trial authorized. Bond was continued at $1,500.

Karr wins foxhound title in 2nd try

Clayton Karr, Cass City, won the Michigan State Field Championships for foxhounds in a grueling three-day test of ability and endurance at Lapeer. The championship was held Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday and to be judged a dog was forced to run at least five hours for three days.

Ten judges then scored the dogs on hunting, trailing, speed and drive and endurance. The Karr hound was judged ninth in speed and drive and first in endurance among the 106 dogs entered from the United States and Canada.

It was the second time that Karr has entered a dog in the race. The champion is one of four that Karr has on his farm, about 10 miles east of Cass City. The trials are the same as a regular hunt. The dogs are turned loose to pick up the fox trail the same as they are under actual hunting conditions.

In the three days of running, the Karr hound wore practically all of the padding from one of its feet.

CLAYTON KARR poses proudly with his hound that won top honors in the foxhound contest at Lapeer.

Inexperienced Hawks poised to open grid season at Sebewaing

The Cass City Red Hawks lift the curtain on the 1970 football season Friday when they are hosted by Sebewaing in a non-conference game.

The tilt will mark a number of firsts for Cass City. It will be the first game against Sebewaing in more than a decade. It will be the first game as members of the varsity for several young Hawks and the first glimpse that fans will have of the squad under the direction of new coach Bill Philbin.

Regrettably, some things have not changed. One is the Hawks' relative position in the Thumb B Conference in pre-season estimates.

All experts have consigned the team to a position as also rans. Realistically, most local supporters would be happy if the club could win half of its games . . . but this promise to be a tall order.

After all, in the last two years Cass City has won only two games and tied one.

Several of the better players from last year are missing and it's a relatively green team that will face Sebewaing.

While Frankenmuth will definitely not be the powerhouse that it has been in recent seasons, the league does have several teams with plenty of talent

. . . making it harder than ordinary for rebounding squads to post a good won-lost record. Sandusky, Caro, Bad Axe and Frankenmuth all are expected to have good, sound teams.

There will be a few familiar faces on hand when the opening whistle blows. Tim Knoblet, a junior, who worked his way onto the varsity from the JV squad last year, is one. He is slated for right guard on offense and the important middle linebacker post on defense.

Craig Guernsey will alternate with Louis Salas at left halfback on offense and will be the team's safety on defense.

Fred Harbec will be at quarterback and defensive end spot. He's another player who worked his way to the varsity from the JV's at the tail end of the 1969 season.

Kim Hopper will be at right end on both offense and defense. He's a veteran and one of the bright spots on the team.

Scott Guernsey is the last of the veterans. He will be at right halfback and cornerback.

New to the varsity this year are Bob Hennessey, defensive end and center; Drew Guernsey, left end; Gene Salas, fullback and defensive halfback; Greg Eshelman and Gene Hopper, slated for two-way duty at the tackles.

While Cass City can't boast much speed or experience, they will have some size.

Coach Philbin says that the team is two or three men short of having a good football team and the stress has been finding them in the drills that have preceded the 1970 season.

OUT OF CRATES -- into a large pen go these Korean pheasants as the DNR attempts to establish a new breed in the Thumb.

THESE PHEASANTS haven't shown any special ability to adapt to new surroundings, say Department of Conservation officials. The Korean pheasants are about two-thirds the size of Chinese pheasants. The female is darker and the male has a wide band around the neck and has a blue rump.

DNR plants Korean pheasants in experiment

Michigan's first shipment of 600 young Korean pheasants was moved as scheduled into central Huron County Sept. 9 under a Department of Natural Resources experiment aimed at finding a "new home" for the birds in areas where this state's own ringnecks have gone downhill.

Another 600 Korean pheasants, which still were too young to leave the care and protection of the DNR's game farm near Mason when the first transfer was made, are slated to be Huron County-bound in late September.

Those birds, plus the first batch of 600 averaging 10-12 weeks old, will be fed and watered in enclosed rearing-holding pens during the winter.

The birds were released about 14 miles northeast of Cass City. The site was selected because the Korean pheasants prefer woody, shrub areas. DNR officials believe that it would be impossible for them to survive in the "flat farming" area of western Huron County.

It is hoped that at least 1,000 of the new birds will survive the cold-weather months for release into open lands of central Huron County when next spring's break-up comes.

The Korean pheasants will be kept this winter in 75 by 300-foot covered pens in Sheridan and Lincoln townships under a "supra-gentle" release plan developed in Missouri to help the birds become adapted to their new surroundings before they are liberated.

Under that same hold-and-release pattern, each of the two townships is scheduled to be stocked with 500 more Korean pheasants in the spring of 1972 and again a year after that.

Next spring the birds will be released into an electrically fenced six-acre site. The fence is designed to keep predators away, not to keep pheasants in. The birds will be able to fly out, but game men feel that they probably won't leave the township.

DNR game men, of course, are hoping the new birds will make the grade where home-grown ringnecks have failed but they say it will take about 8 years of pheasant census work to tell if the experiment is successful.

They will keep tabs on pheasant population in unstocked control areas as well as in the release areas to see if there is any difference in overall pheasant numbers which can be traced to this experiment.

If pheasants show a significant upswing in the release areas and, at the same time, remain at relatively low levels in the control zones, the DNR will consider expanding releases of the Korean birds into other places where there is similar, suitable habitat.

Victor S. Janson, the DNR's pheasant specialist, points out that the new birds bound for Sheridan and Lincoln townships seemingly will find satisfactory nesting and winter cover, plus favorable food conditions in that part of Huron County.

this state's own ringnecks have not prospered under those same conditions.

The birds going to central Huron County in September were hatched in June and July at facilities of Michigan State University and since then have been reared at the DNR's game farm near Mason.
