

Area Sanilac townships show little growth

According to census figures gathered by A. Rex Sletten, Sanilac County Extension Director, Sanilac county has shown only a moderate population increase of 6.78 per cent in the last 10 years.

In townships in the northwest section there has been a population decline, the figures show. Evergreen township dropped more than 13 per cent from 984 persons in 1960 to 850 today.

Greenleaf township reversed a trend by gaining 52 residents in the last 10 years. The population there went from 601 to 653. In the preceding 10 years the population dropped from 654 to 601.

Significantly, in the last 20 years in Greenleaf township the census shows that the population has remained virtually unchanged. In 1950 there were 654 persons and today there are 653. If the census is correct.

Following a trend revealed in Tuscola county, the largest population increases are in townships surrounding county villages. Marlette township grew the largest with a steady growth over the last 20 years that has resulted in over 40 per cent more residents.

Fire guts car in village Friday

A fire believed to have been caused by faulty wiring wrecked a car owned by Alfred Bilicki of Caro Friday night.

The vehicle was parked on Leach street, near Main street when the blaze was discovered. Elkland Township Fire Department fire fighters were called to quell the blaze.

The car was parked and empty when the fire broke out.

FROM THE Editor's Corner

I know that I am different from most because I rarely attend a funeral or stop by at a funeral home to pay last respects when an acquaintance dies.

Mrs. Melva Guinther, our esteemed proofreader, spell checker and receptionist, says that I don't have the right attitude towards paying last respects. Since I use Melva and my wife as sounding boards for reactions to story ideas and the proper people approach, when they speak I tend to listen...if not obey.

Anyway, Melva says that the reason most folks trudge over to the funeral home is to try to give succor to the relatives - to try to make their grief a little more bearable. To show that you remember in a time of need.

This must be the right thing to do...really be of some use to most of the bereaved. How could the custom continue to flourish if it weren't serving some beneficial purpose?

I concede it, but I still do not understand. Not really. One reason, I guess, is that when I'm hurt, really hurt, I want to get away by myself to lick my wounds.

It's the same when I'm sick. All I want is to be left alone by everyone except those really close to me. The ones who really understand, the ones who know how it is without benefit of words.

The ones with which there is no pretense, no stiff upper lip, no false smiles, no holding back, no needless words. The ones that really care.

I'm envious of the person with the personality to talk to the bereaved without sounding insincere and pompous.

I'm distraught when I see the person with obvious good intentions trying to achieve the same results only to fall miserably short. Creating a situation that does more harm than good.

And when I'm at a funeral, I always have the feeling that I'm one of these and the rest of the mourners are feeling uncomfortable for me.

What's worse, I'm sure that the bereaved feel it, too. Just what can you say that's meaningful? I guess if you have to ask, you'll never know.

That's why even though I have the same regrets, the same compassion, the same emotions as you do, I seldom express them at the funeral parlor. It's my hang-up and I guess I'll just have to live with it.

THE PUMPKINS are big this fall. One fine crop is at the Donald Miljure farm, north of Cass City. One of these giants weighs over 100 pounds and is 5 1/2 feet around. The Miljures' grand-nephew, Peter Martin, poses with the crop and thinks about the fun ahead at Halloween with giant sized jack-o-lanterns. Ten seeds produced 17 pumpkins.

Drivers escape injury in rash of minor mishaps

Several minor accidents were reported in the Cass City area during the week as drivers and passengers escaped injury in property damage mishaps.

A car driven by Nancy E. Gjomory, 34, of Deford hit the rear of a tractor driven by Arleon Cooper Retherford, 54, on Kingston Road, a quarter mile from Deckerville Road Saturday noon.

Retherford was driving on Kingston Road when he met a second tractor on the road. He went past, then slowed to talk to the driver of the second tractor, according to the report at the Tuscola County Sheriff's Department.

When he slowed, the tractor was hit by the vehicle driven by Mrs. Gjomory.

David Samuel Wheeler, 23, of Gagetown lost control of his car on Colwood Road, about a quarter of a mile from Hobart Road Saturday evening.

He told police that a wheel left the highway and when he attempted to get back on, he swerved, hitting a post and mailbox belonging to Neil Wilson.

The windshield of his car was smashed.

Alexander Cherniawski, 18, Deford, was uninjured when he lost control of his car on Hurd's Corner Road, near Bevens Road Sunday. The car went into a roadside ditch and turned over.

A car owned by Doris N. Antilla, Cass City, was hit in the rear by a vehicle driven by Roberta Kulinski, 21, of Cass City.

The Antilla vehicle had stalled on Kelly Road, three-quarters of a mile from Englehart Road Sunday evening. The car was being pushed in an attempt to get it going.

Two men with flashlights were attempting to warn approaching traffic. The lights were not noticed by Miss Kulinski whose car hit the rear of the stalled vehicle.

THE NEW PASTOR at Novesta Church of Christ, the Rev. David Bushong, looks at the church's attendance figures. He hopes to double them in five years.

Area men back union

Idled GM workers set to ride out long strike

The confrontation between the UAW-CIO and General Motors has the solid backing of union workers who are employed by the giant auto maker and live in the Cass City area.

An interview with four local strikers reveals that to a man they feel it was necessary to leave their jobs to secure benefits they feel they have coming.

Most are quietly determined to tighten belts and scrounge along as long as President Leonard Woodcock and other Union heads say that it is necessary. Behind this determination is the unspoken fear that inflation will eat at paychecks. A factor probably is that most workers don't care for their jobs.

These men are working at various GM plants because they offer more security and more money than they can get anywhere else.

If local employment offered comparable benefits it is likely that most would leave the city factory quickly and for good.

Although two of the workers have been at GM plants for over 15 years, only one lived through the last strike against General Motors when the workers were out 119 days six years ago. Strangely enough, this worker appeared the most militant of the men interviewed.

Perhaps because Jerry Marchand, 41, lives in the Detroit area and is more exposed to heated labor-management relations than others, he takes a hard line stand.

Marchand is married to the former Cecelia Brown of Holbrook and they have a 16-year-old son. He says that "30 years and out" and taking the cap off the cost-of-living increases are the most important issues in the new contract.

Marchand says that he lived through the 1964 strike and believes he got back everything he lost and more by staying out the 119 days.

I've been at Fisher Body for 18 years, he says, and the workers have to get these things. I've got my home paid for, a little money in the bank, own 40 acres up here and can stand the strike. We all have to.

Marchand says no matter what his bosses in the union recommend, he would not vote to return to work unless the full cost of living provision and the full union demand for re-employment is met by GM.

Not all of the workers are as vehement as Marchand.

Mike O'Dell, 27, is back at Buick in Flint for a second tour. He's been there 2 1/2 years this time and drives back and forth to work.

We must have our retirement...I'm all for it, although it won't mean much to me personally for a long time, the young father of two says.

We have to have this and we have to have more money. People think we shouldn't get it, but we don't have so much to take home after they take everything out, he says.

This strike can really set us back, he adds. I'm alright for awhile...but I have house payments, car payments...you know, the usual bills that most everyone has to pay.

I was out on strike once before, he adds, but I didn't owe so much then.

My wife works and that keeps us in groceries...we'll make out if the strike doesn't last too long.

I'll vote for what the Union recommends, O'Dell says, as long as they come up with more money now.

It looks like it might be a long strike, Joe Koepf, 42, says. It all depends on how long General Motors wants it to last.

Koepf lives on five acres southwest of Cass City and is prepared to stay out as long as necessary to get "30 years and out" and cost of living adjustment.

All GM is really offering is 3 cents per hour, Koepf says almost angrily.

We've got a local problem in our plant (Chevrolet Foundry). It's so dirty you wouldn't believe it. They are trying to curb air pollution and all of that smut is coming right into the plant. It's worse now than it has ever been.

Koepf won't say that he will follow what the union recommends on a lesser contract in his key issues, but he doesn't say he won't.

That new guy (Woodcock) isn't going to sell out cheap, he feels. Meanwhile, Koepf is ready and able to sit it out as long as it takes with his wife and five children. I've got my application in at the sugar factory to go to work, if I have to, he says.

The Roger Deerings have been preparing for the strike for a year. Deering, 31, is a 5-year veteran at Pontiac Motors and the family that includes seven children lives on the income his job provides.

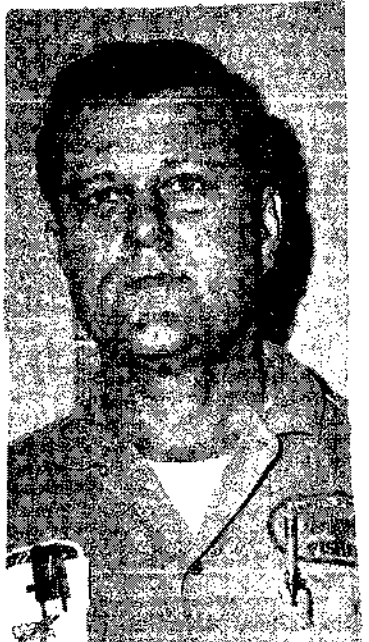

We couldn't go along indefinitely, he says, but we can get by. The family has already purchased Christmas presents, they have paid all but long term obligations, no current bills to worry about.

Already Roger has a part-time job to tide the family over during the time the strike is on.

Fringe benefits are his most important issue. Full payment of Blue Cross is essential, Deering feels. Where would I be without it with these seven kids, he asks?

We need 30 years and out, too, he says. These things are more important than salary.

But Deering says he'll accept whatever the union bosses feel is fair. They are looking out for our best interests and if they feel it is okay, so will I, he concludes.

Trio arrested; 12 area cases solved

A lengthy investigation by Deputy Sergeant William Bliss and Deputy Ronald Phillips has resulted in the arrest of Robert Clair Crosby, 17, of Kingston and two minor Deford youths on charges of breaking and entering.

After the arrest, the suspects confessed breaking and entering on 12 other occasions in the Deford-Kingston area.

Most of the violations resulted in the theft of items of relatively little worth. Damage caused by the thieves as they made illegal entry was often more costly to property owners than the articles taken.

Portable radios, wrist watches and similar items were favorite targets for the youths. Bliss and Phillips followed numerous leads to track down the thieves. A car was spotted in the areas at the time several of the thefts occurred. At one, a good set of tire tracks was visible.

Most of the breaking and entering were at cottages and other locations where owners were gone for long periods.

While the arrest cleared up many of the thefts in the Deford-Kingston area, sheriff's officials say that another group is still active.

Sheriff Hugh Marr said that the arrest this week cleared up many of the unsolved cases in the area, but the docket will probably not be swept clean until the second group is apprehended.

Crosby was taken before Justice Richard Kern where he waived examination and was bound over for trial in Tuscola County Circuit Court.

His bond was set at $1,000.

Seek teacher for head start

Recruiting is getting under way for a full-time teacher and aide and fifteen qualified children for the new full year Head Start program at the Cass City school system, Mrs. Jacqueline Freitag, Cass City elementary principal, said this week.

An eleven-thousand five-hundred and five-dollar grant has been appropriated to the Cass City Elementary School by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare for the remainder of the year to operate their full year program.

By having a full year program, it is hoped that Head Start will be able to have the

New pastor aims to double church size

The Rev. David Bushong, 27, the new pastor of the Novesta Church of Christ, feels that there is a wide open field for evangelism both within his church here and in the community at large.

The challenge of the church is to double in five years, the young, energetic pastor said when asked about the future of the church in the community.

We have the positive leadership in our church...the men with the leadership and dedication to make it so, Bushong believes.

To achieve his aims, Mr. Bushong will divide his time three ways: preaching, evangelism and training of church leaders.

While he expects to make calls on any of the unchurched, for the most part these calls will be on a referral basis. I've found going to the home and just knocking on the door is a waste of time, he confided. You can accomplish so much more if the person is at least willing to listen.

There is a lot of work to do right among the members of our congregation, he added. I'll call on all of these people first.

Already the new minister has tentatively scheduled two revivals a year. One is not enough, he believes, and more than two a year doesn't leave time to follow up referrals. Besides the revivals, the minister would like to see a very active youth group...possibly sponsoring free films at the high school in an evangelistic endeavor.

Mr. Bushong is a 1969 graduate of Cincinnati Bible Seminary. He also attended Tri-State College in Indiana for two years and has taken extension courses from Indiana University.

He comes to Cass City from Fountain City, Ind. His church here is about three times larger than his previous parish.

The new pastor, his wife, Thelma, and their 14-month-old baby have moved into the parsonage across from the church on Cemetery Road.

Pleads guilty

Charles Edward Master of Deford pleaded guilty Monday before Judge Richard Kern in Tuscola County District Court to a charge of a minor transporting alcohol. He was fined $20 and costs of $18.

Marriage Licenses

Marriage licenses issued or applied for in Tuscola county during the week were:

Andre Joseph Stratton, 18, of Otter Lake and Marlene Marion Schiefer, 16, of Millington.

Jerry Lynn Sharp, 20, of Akron and Sally Jane Weber, 20, of Caro.

Edward Walter Keimath, 22, of Vassar and Marcia Ann Cummings, 22, of Millington.

Owen Gene Pierce, 29, of Cass City and Alyce May Crowell, 38, of East Lansing.

Men who travel in circles find it hard to make both ends meet.

Three Zontians to attend Toledo meet

The Zonta Club of Cass City held its regular monthly dinner meeting at the home of Helen Baker with Toby Weaver, co-hostess. Fifteen Zontian birthdays were celebrated with a birthday cake.

Helen Baker and Helen Stevens gave a report of the Zonta International Convention, held at the Conrad Hilton in Chicago in July.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Gladys Fort with Marie Roch, cohostess.

Edith Little, delegate, Helen Baker, Area Director, and Esther McCullough will attend the Fall Zonta Conference Sept. 25-27 in Toledo.

More than 300 members of District 5, Zonta International, will meet in Toledo for the conference.

A highlight of the conference will be presentation of medals and wings to two of 12 1970-71 winners of Amelia Earhart scholarships, an international project of Zonta.

A Japanese theme has been chosen for the Saturday evening dinner as Japan is the sister country of the Toledo Zonta Club.

Growth of Zonta has made it necessary to divide District 5 into two subdistricts, 5-A and 5-B.

Remember--it takes just as much energy to wish as to plan.

BETTER TREES STARTED IN CONTAINERS

Growing trees in containers may produce heartier, faster-growing specimens at lower costs.

Michigan State University foresters are planting valuable hardwoods such as black walnut, black cherry, etc., in containers to prolong the planting season, accelerate growth and improve survival. The method also eliminates need and cost of nursery production and transplanting.

1971. You've changed. We've changed.

Chevrolet

Worth seeing Worth owning. Worth waiting for.

Vega. Not just another little car, but one little car that does everything well. You get more room, more weight and more power than most little cars give you, yet the gas mileage is right in the same neighborhood with the best of them. Vegas come dressed up, too, not stripped to the bone so you have to add a lot to make them liveable. Drive one. You'll see.

Caprice. There's a double layer of steel in the roof, a steel guard beam in each door, power disc brakes up front, a new power ventilation system inside, a wheelbase two and one-half inches longer. You get the looks and comfort of a six- or seven-thousand-dollar car, but at Chevrolet prices. And that's the kind of change during these tight-money times that all of us can appreciate.

Vanishing tailgate. A big change in our big wagon. The window goes up into the roof, the Glide-Away tailgate vanishes beneath the floor. Out of sight. Out of your way for easy loading even in a closed garage or when you have a trailer hooked on.

See what we mean by putting you first? September 29 at your Chevrolet dealer's.

"If It Fitz. . ."Pardon my interdiction

BY JIM FITZGERALD

There wouldn't be so much campus unrest if there were more interdiction at the generation gap.

You maybe don't understand that sentence. But I like to keep this column typically topical. Everybody talks about campus unrest here, interdiction there, and the generation gap everywhere. What am I supposed to write about, the League of Nations and Knute Rockne?

When I lived on a campus there was always a bunch of guys getting drunk and putting No Parking signs in the shower. Or they hollered around the girls' dormitory, asking for silk panties when they really wanted something else. Or they snake-danced through town, blocking traffic and bugging merchants.

Mostly, I used to flop in bed and listen to all that noise outside. Or I would retreat to a lovely tavern that sold 10 cent beer. It was frequented by war-weary veterans who had no energy for yanking up parking signs. We often discussed the young nuts who were throwing rolls of toilet paper at each other so as to help Michigan State beat Notre Dame at football the next morning.

But I can't remember anyone saying: "My, there is a lot of unrest on the campus tonight." These were the recuperation years following World War 2 but already there was trouble starting in Korea. Another thing I never heard said in that lovely tavern was: "Boy, somebody better interdiction those Koreans or the first thing you know, somebody is going to interdiction us."

Another thing often discussed over that cheap beer was how come our fathers didn't send us haircut money so we could buy more beer with it. Or how come our mothers kept sending cookies when what we wanted was money for beer. Or how come our fathers couldn't understand why we were studying to become writers and bullfighters, like Ernest Hemingway, rather than merchants and carpet salesmen, like our fathers.

But I can't remember even I guy saying, "The trouble is that we have a generation gap." I think it is ironic that, in 1947, we never said any of these words that everyone is saying now.

Panty raids and snake dances were pretty harmless things, especially when you look at today's Kent State and bombed libraries. The "police action" in Korea was a family brawl compared to the bloodshed in Vietnam. And the 1947 teenager might have thought his dad was a square, but Junior didn't flip out on pills and go live in a doorway in San Francisco.

Things are a lot uglier today, but the words are prettier. You don't kill the enemy, you interdiction him. There's not a bunch of violent jerks destroying and disrupting on the campus. That's just unrest. And that's not bitter hate and disrespect between long-haired, turned-on Junior and his racist, Wasp father. It's only a gap.

Going steady is discussion topic

Panelists from the Caro High School speech class will discuss the pros and cons of going steady in an open meeting on Wednesday, Sept. 30, at 7 p.m. The meeting to be held at the Civil Defense Center at Caro, is designed for youth and youth leaders.

Students from Tuscola county schools will be invited as well as all 4-H, Scout, church and other youth leaders.

Following the panel on Going Steady, Home Economist Ann Ross will help the group discover how people can gain better understanding of each other. The meeting is the first of a series designed to develop leadership among youth and adults.

ENGAGED

JANELLE SUE DAVENPORT

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick M. Davenport of Constantine announce the engagement of their daughter, Janelle Sue, to John J. Hunter, son of Mr. and Mrs. William C. Hunter of Cagatown. Miss Davenport is a graduate of Constantine High School and will graduate from Ferris State College in December with an A.A.S. Degree in Cosmetology. She is a member of Alpha Gamma Delta.

Hunter graduated from Cass City High School. He is a graduate of Ferris State College with an A. A. S. Degree in Optical Technology, B.S. Degree in Business Administration and a member of Pi Kappa Alpha Fraternity.

He is now employed with F. W. Woolworth Co. in Traverse City.

A January wedding is being planned.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey J. Linderman

Miss Linda Sue Taylor and Harvey Jacob Linderman exchanged wedding vows Saturday, Sept. 12, at the Fraser Presbyterian Church. The Rev. John Osborn of Deckerville married the couple in an eight o'clock double-ring ceremony. The church was decorated with white gladioli.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Taylor of Cass City and the groom is the son of Mrs. Phyllis Linderman of Cass City and the late Harvey Linderman.

Mrs. Bernard Babich of DeFord was matron of honor for her sister and Miss Wanda Hacker of Cass City was bridesmaid.

The bride fashioned her wedding dress, which was a satin and lace floor length gown. She carried an arrangement of white spider mums and red roses.

The bride attendants' gowns were avocad, sleeveless fashioned and were floor length. Their flowers were also white spider mums with yellow roses.

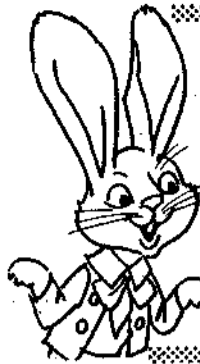

William Linderman of Pontiac was best man and Elmer Parrish of Cass City, groomsmen. Ushers were John Shagena and William Woodward, both of Cass City.

A buffet dinner reception was held at the DeFord School and the couple left on a wedding trip to northern Michigan.

They are making their home in Cass City where both are employed.

"NEW LOOK" FOR FOODS?

Michigan State University food scientists have taken the color, odor and taste out of plant protein. The process will enable food processors to remove objectionable colors (like green from oranges or carrots, for example). It would also allow them to use colorless, odorless and tasteless plant protein as a means of enriching low protein foods.

(Any anyone else he can get to help)

Gas retailers say that the price of national brand gas in Cass City is the lowest right now of any in the State. Regular has been selling for 26.9 per gallon for almost two weeks. In the hotbeds for price cutting, the Flint and Detroit areas, gas was selling this week for 28.9 cents per gallon and up.

While gas is cheap in Cass City, it still has a long way to go to meet the gas war price posted in Davison recently. A national brand there sold for 19.9 per gallon.

For years now, the Chronicle has been burning its surplus paper in a barrel in the alley....a practice followed by the majority of Main Street merchants.

Ordinarily, the air pollution this causes is unnoticed. One night recently, the havoc that this burning wrought was easy to see.

In the trash burning that night was something that caused a veritable smoke bomb. When coming out of the Cultural Center, it looked like a fog had descended on Main Street, except that this fog stung the eyes and wafted a pungent scent across the town.

Cass City is already on the alert from the health department about burning trash in barrels and it won't be too long before burning will be banned in town and at the Sanitary Landfill.

The ban in town will be a little more costly than our present system. No one likes to think what massive changes at the landfill would cost, now that the village has just completed the most modern facility in the area.

But the alternative is really worse, isn't it?

Shades of the Detroit Lions. The Lions are charging for pre-season football games for the first time this year.

Cass City High School will charge to see Junior Varsity football games....also for the first time this year.

The first game is tonight when the young Hawks entertain the Bad Axe Hatchets and the price is really not all that much: 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for students.

The last traces of Cass City as Christmas Town should disappear shortly. A couple of years ago the Chamber of Commerce stopped holding a Christmas home decoration contest and several years before this the community-owned displays were not erected.

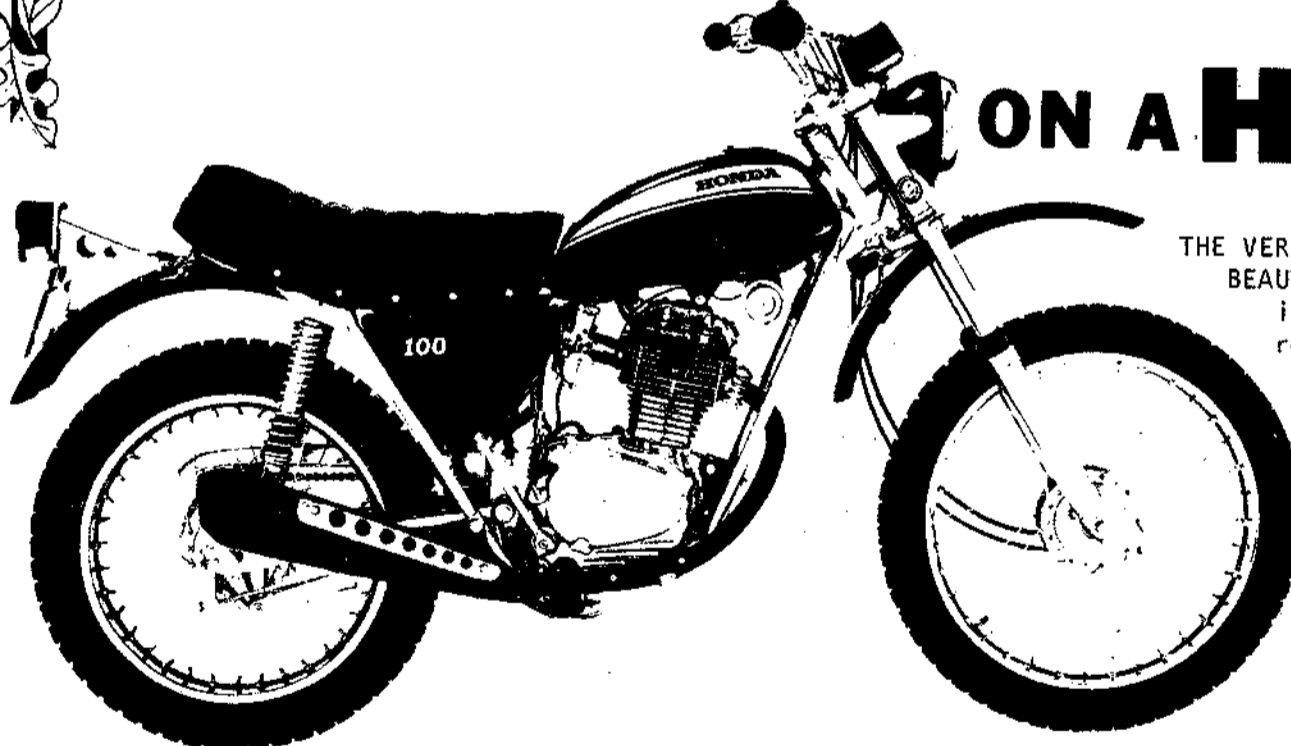

Now the Chamber of Commerce is offering its old displays for sale.

Most of us can remember the ohs and ahs these displays created as they were spotted strategically around town and the hours and hours it took to build and maintain them.

Regardless, I'd imagine that interested persons will be able to pick up a giant bargain from the Chamber.

After all, what can you do with a Yule display if you no longer want to erect it at Christmas?

The Very Best Time
To Buy Is NOW

MOTOSPORT 100
- New for 1971!

Here's one of Honda's all-new bikes for the 70's. The Motosport 100 has the power and lightness to make it one of the hottest dirt machines going. First the power—the vertical OHC single-cylinder engine delivers an amazing 11.5 bhp @ 11,000 rpm. That's enough power to really churn through sand and mud...and climb steep grades. The five-speed transmission is a cinch to shift and rugged enough to take a real beating. As for the lightness—just look at it.

The "Dynamic V" styling gives it the appearance of a bird in flight. And what about the pleated, bolted single seat... wider and higher handlebars... and the radical, curved, black tailpipe? No doubt about it—this is the bike for the dirt. Knobby tires are standard. And the headlight and speedometer are easily removed. Ride the new Motosport 100 to the desert, mountains, backwoods... wherever you want to go to get away from the crowd.

FROM THE FILES OF THE CHRONICLE

FIVE YEARS AGO

All that was left standing of a new house at the Amasa Anthes Jr. residence, near Gagetown, Wednesday, Sept. 22, after a devastating wind storm, was a wall and window, leaning against a broken telephone pole. Other buildings were also destroyed. Damage at the Anthes farm alone totaled $12,000.

Cass City's new combination fire hall, police office and library took another step toward realization when council members authorized attorney Clint House to seek approval on the issues "not to exceed $53,000" for the purchase and remodeling of the former H. O. Paul building.

Gifts continued to roll in for Mrs. Barbara McCreary, the mother of three small children, who continues to receive continued help from a variety of sources as Cass City residents helped her back on her feet. A fire gutted her trailer home and her husband abandoned her.

Mrs. William Zemke and Gerald Hicks, both of Deford, have been named co-chairmen of the Community Chest fund drive in Novesta township for 1965.

Members of the Cass City grid squad ate their pre-game meal at a "training table" at the New Gordon Hotel. It was sponsored by Erie's, Cass City Oil and Gas and the Gavel club for players, coaches and managers.

TEN YEARS AGO

To make the village water system self sustaining the village council voted unanimously to up water rates some 40 per cent in Cass City. The rate was upped to meet costs of the department.

Plans have been completed for the third annual fall fashion spectacular and dessert party in Gagetown, Mrs. Sherwood Rice Jr., publicity chairman, announced.

Irv Claseman, athletic director at Cass City High School, was one of 20 coaches throughout the state to attend a meeting of the basketball rules committee at Lansing.

A garage in back of Pleasant Home Hospital caught fire from a fire in a nearby incinerator. Damage was estimated at $150 to one wall of the building.

It costs money to keep Cass City operating properly. Facing the village at the present time is a $4,000 remodeling job of the water softening facilities at the Municipal Building and the purchase of a new police car.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Cass City's "B" squad has been working hard for the past few weeks under the tutelage of Rev. Arnold Olsen, in preparation of their six-game schedule which opens with the Caro freshmen at Caro Oct. 1.

Mr. and Mrs. Hiram McKellar celebrated their golden wedding anniversary.

Airman McLaren assigned to Minn.

Airman First Class Michael K. McLaren, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth J. McLaren of Bay Park Road, Unionville, has graduated at Keesler Air Force Base, Miss., from the technical training course for U. S. Air Force air traffic controllers.

Airman McLaren, now qualified to direct aircraft to radar controlled landings, is being assigned to Duluth International Airport, Minn., for duty. He will be in a unit of the Air Force Communications Service which provides global communications and air traffic control for the USAF.

The airman is a 1969 graduate of Unionville Community High School. His wife, Brenda, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mike Pavlichek of Owendale.

Mrs. Charles Glenn, missionary from South America, was an overnight guest of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Turner and girls Friday.

ONE FOR THE ROAD

Always something new in baseball

By Dan Marlowe

The first big league ball game I ever saw was on Labor Day, 1920.

I was seven years old, and the game was played at old Braves Field on Commonwealth Avenue in Boston. I sat with an uncle in what was called the right field jury box, an unsheltered part of the bleachers.

I went to the Cincinnati Reds-San Francisco Giants double-header here this past Labor Day, and it was thus rather forcibly impressed on me that I had been viewing big league baseball for exactly 50 years. It may not make me an old-timer at the pastime, but I'm certainly on the way up the ladder.

Any number of people I know can't understand my fascination with baseball. It's always the same, they say; nothing ever happens that's different. I can't understand this attitude, because despite the uncounted games I've seen over the years, something new always seems to be happening.

As it did on Labor Day. In the late '40's and early '50's when Ted Williams was terrorizing American League pitching, Lou Boudreau, then manager of the Cleveland Indians, devised a gambit known as the Williams Shift. Knowing that Ted was trying to knock the cover off the ball on every swing of the bat, and that he was a strong right-field pull hitter, Boudreau moved his infielders sharply over with the third baseman actually playing shortstop and the shortstop playing behind second base, this to narrow the target area into which Williams could hit effectively.

The shift gave him the third base line, daring him to bunt, but home run hitters drive Cadillacs, not bunters, and Williams kept swinging for the fences. Over the years variations of this shift have been employed for strong pull-hitters, and then along came Willie McCovey of the San Francisco Giants, a murderously strong pull-hitter who usually hits for average as well as distance. Against Willie the managerial tendency to shift became more pronounced especially in the late innings of tight ball games. Nobody wanted Willie to hit one out and win the game with one swing of his big bat.

On Labor Day, Manager Sparky Anderson of Cincinnati employed a shift the likes of which I've never seen in 50 years. When McCovey came to bat, the Cincinnati third baseman, Tony Perez, turned and trotted out to left field. The left fielder moved over to center, the center fielder moved over to right, and the right fielder played the foul line. The shortstop played the normal second base position, only much deeper. The second baseman moved into short right field, and the first baseman played the right field line. The pitcher covered first on anything hit to the infield. There was no one stationed on the

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Arnott of Grand Blanc spent Sunday evening visiting Mr. and Mrs. Laurence Hyatt.

Miss Arlene Simmon of Kingston was a Sunday afternoon guest of Miss Melanie Turner.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Laydorek and baby were Saturday evening callers of Mr. and Mrs. Laurence Hyatt.

Mr. and Mrs. Grant Meredith were Sunday callers of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Klee Jr. and girls of Minden City.

Mr. and Mrs. Vern Geister and Diane were Sunday evening callers of her grandmother, Mrs. Owen Smith.

Mrs. Dale Turner was a Saturday afternoon caller of Mrs. Azalee Kaddatz at the Marlette Winge.

The first fall meeting of the Shabbona Extension group will be held Monday evening, Sept. 28, at the home of Mrs. LeRoy Sefton at 8 p.m. The lesson on "Powder Puff Repairs" will be given by Mrs. John Agar and Mrs. Bruce Krizman. New members are welcome.

left side of the diamond at all, in effect daring McCovey to bunt for a hit.

He didn't bunt all day. The first time he came up against this shift McCovey hit a screamer two football fields beyond the parking lot, halfway to the Hunters Point Shipyard. I mean he really crushed it. But three times in the second game he hit grounders to right and was thrown out from short right field, so Manager Anderson probably got a draw for the day against the big slugger. Nothing new in baseball? There's something new every game.

4 stops featured in corn field day

Tuscola County's "Corn Field Day" will be held Friday, Sept. 25. The day's program will be a tour of four stops featuring the three county "Corn Variety Plots" and modern day culture practices.

An itinerary of the tour is as follows:

10:00 a.m. TOM LAURIE FARM - Located 2 miles south of Gagetown or 4 miles west and 2 miles north of Cass City on Cedar Run Road. Featuring one of the county's three "Corn Variety Plots" representing 30 of the best adapted hybrids grown in the Thumb area. Plant population is 30,000 stalks per acre. Excellent comparisons can be made.

11:00 a.m. DUANE HOUTH-OOFD FARM - Located 5 miles west and 1 mile south of Unionville on Kirk Road. Thick planting of corn and narrow rows will be viewed. A field of corn planted in 14-inch rows and 40,000 stalks per acre and another field with 34,000 plants per acre should be seen by all corn growers. An adjoining field demonstrates corn planted after harvesting wheat. There may be a place in a livestock program to use this practice for late fall green chop or corn silage.

12:00 noon - FAIRGROVE RESTAURANT - The dining room has been reserved for tour participants wishing to eat with the group.

1:30 p.m. RAYMOND LAURSEN FARM - Located 1 mile north and 1 2/3 miles west of Fairgrove on Darbee Road. Featuring another of the three "Corn Variety Plots" representing the same 30 best adapted hybrids grown in the Thumb area. Planted population was 28,000 stalks per acre.

2:30 p.m. ARNOLD AND MIKE ZWERK FARM - Located 3 1/2 miles east and 3/4 mile south of Richville or 1 mile north, 1 mile west and 1/4 mile north of Vassar on Garner Road. A corn herbicide plot will be viewed. Modern day herbicides and practices will be discussed. The tour will adjourn to the last of the county's three "Corn Variety Plots" located just north of this stop.

Dr. Nicky Smith, Plant Pathologist, will be in attendance during the day to answer questions on the Southern Corn Leaf Blight situation. Blight will be discussed at the Laurie and Laursen stops.

Each stop of the day will show something different and all are encouraged to attend the entire tour. However, the day has been laid out so one could catch part of the tour if conflicts prevent one from attending all day.

Cass City—Sebewaing battle to tie; prep for rugged Frankenmuth

After playing to a scoreless tie with lightly regarded Sebewaing in the season's opener, Coach William Philbin's Cass City Red Hawks were busy this week preparing for the opening of the Thumb B Conference season.

Preparing for Friday's game looms as one of the toughest chores that the team will face all season. For the conference opener is against Frankenmuth, the defending champions, at Frankenmuth.

Before the season opened, the Eagles were undefeated in 23 straight games and last year were listed as State champions in one rating poll.

The statistics:	CC	S
Yards rushing	264	206
Yards passing	20	76
Passes complete	1/7	4/15
Intercepted by	4	2
First downs	9	11
Total plays run	64	71
Punts, average	7/26	4/34
Fumbles lost	1	0
Penalty yards	40	120

Some of the luster was rubbed off last week when Saginaw Lutheran Seminary snapped the winning streak in the season's opener.

Still, Frankenmuth is the team to beat in the Thumb B and Cass City has yet to prove that they can play football with the strong boys this year.

Coach Philbin was satisfied but not overjoyed with the team's performance against Sebewaing. We played fair...did everything but score, the coach said this week as he recalled the scoreless deadlock.

Gene Salas was impressive picking up 77 yards, an average of 5.9 per carry, Philbin said.

Paul Bliss intercepted three passes and the entire defensive secondary was good, according to the coach.

There wasn't much for either team to get excited about during most of the game. Sebewaing made several mild threats to move the ball down the field and each time was stopped, either by a pass interception or penalty.

Cass City was unable to muster any kind of a sustained drive until the final moments of the final period. Cass City moved to the Indian 37 in the first quarter and just past mid-field in the third period.

In the final quarter, Cass

City moved to the Sebewaing 32 before losing possession and later in the period mounted the only real drive of the game. They started a march down the field that moved deep into Sebewaing territory, covering 82 yards before the clock ran out.

The Hawks were able to call only one time out during the drive as players with leg cramps used up the other time outs earlier in the half. When the game ended Cass City was on the Sebewaing 14-yard line. The Hawks escaped serious injuries in the game and will be at full strength when they invade Frankenmuth Friday.

CRAIG GUERNSEY (number 42) for Cass City stopped Art Reinhold (23) of Sebewaing after a long gain in the second half. Neither team was able to mount a sustained drive in the 0-0 deadlock.

ON WINGS

The buying power of a dollar today is unable to keep up with its good-bye power.

Uncle Tim From Tyre Says:

Dear Mister Editor:

The fellers was setting around and general relaxing at the country store Saturday night when Ed Doolittle up and allowed it were a funny thing to him that we could all rip and snort and have our say amongst ourselves, but we'd all be scared stiff to say a word in front of strangers. Clem Webster contradicted Ed right off, as he allus does, and said they is no thing strange about that, it's jest human nature.

The fellers was general agreed with Clem and, personal, I was to. I have a lot of fun writing you this piece ever week, Mister Editor, and I can usual put down what I'm thinking. But, to be honest, I have trouble speaking up at our meetings unless I'm spoke to direct and ask somepun.

But Ed went on to say that he was of the mind that down deep everybody likes to hear himself, and I'll have to agree with that. If not actual hear himself talk, at least git the idee that somebody else is paying attention to him.

What got Ed on the issue was this report he had saw where a policeman was caught delivering a sermon in a New York City church at 3 o'clock in the morning. The officer had climbed in the window looking fer prowlars, he hadn't found none but he had saw the pulpit up there in front of all them empty pews and it had jest got the best of him.

The policeman had a lot of stuff he wanted to git off his chest, so he perceeded to make a speech. He said later he didn't know the pulpit was wired fer sound and turned on, and that his speech went out over loud-speakers in the churchyard and woke up folks said he was speaking pritty good, but that he was calling fer support of President Nixon in a strong Democrat ward and that wasn't worth losing sleep over.

Ed allowed that everybody at one time or another wants to git up on the stump and tell the world what for. Nobody wants to tell it like it is, as the younguns say, went on Ed, we want to tell it like we want it to be.

Actual, Mister Editor, I am of the mind that it ain't possible these days to tell it like it is, cause they constant change the name of it. Fer instant, I see Sing Sing Prison now is Ossining Correction Facility, and the warden there is a superintendent. Poor is disadvantaged and welfare is social service.

You remember the time that high ranking Greek was visiting this country and he said he liked to eat, drink and talk, and where one paper called him a glutton, drunk and gossip. But that may of been telling it like it was.

Yours truly,
Uncle Tim

Dr. D. MacRae

dies in Bay City

Dr. Leonard Douglas MacRae, 64, of Bay City died Thursday, Sept. 17, at his home. He had been in ill health the past few years.

Funeral services were held Saturday, Sept. 19, at the Trinity Episcopal Church, Bay City.

Born in Sanilac county Dec. 1, 1905, he graduated from Cass City High School in 1923. He resided in Bay City since 1944. He and Edna Hardies were married Dec. 18, 1931.

He practiced in Gagetown several years before moving to Bay City.

Dr. MacRae did research work on use of carbon dioxide and also researched effects and control of dicumarol dosage. He collaborated in writing a textbook on carbon dioxide therapy.

Besides his widow, a son, Douglas W. MacRae, M.D., of New Haven, Conn., and a granddaughter survive.

Others are: six sisters, Miss Anna M. MacRae of Detroit, Miss C. Alexandria MacRae of Bad Axe, Mrs. Keith (Lorna) Karr of Grosse Pointe Woods, Mrs. Alvin (Lela) Hall and Dr. June MacRae, both of Gagetown, and Mrs. Eaton (Margaret) Kelly of Detroit.

Also surviving are four brothers, Dr. K. Ivan MacRae of Cass City, Raymond of Detroit and Calvin and Bruce, both of Cass City.

The doctor was a 1931 graduate of the University of Michigan School of Medicine. He was a member of the Bay County Medical Society, the Michigan Medical Society and the Society of Biological Psychiatry.

He interned at Ford Hospital in Detroit.

Graham's Holsteins top DHIA herd

John Graham of Caro was tops among Tuscola County dairymen in milk production under DHIA testing, supervisors reported this week.

The Graham herd of 110 cows recorded daily production per cow of 40 pounds of 3.2 milk.

Second in production was Donald Koepfen of Cass City with 64 cows, 39 pounds of 3.5 milk. Other DHIA records were: Clare Carpenter, Cass City, 60 cows with 39 pounds of 3.5 milk; Donald Delong, Cass City, 62 cows with 38 pounds of 3.4 milk; and Ronald Hampshire, Kingston, 45 cows with 38 pounds of 3.7 milk.

The Donald Koepfen herd was named as the most improved. Other herds among the top five in improvement are owned by: Davis Nelson, Mayville, Lloyd Wals, Vassar; John Graham, and Clare Smith, Mayville.

Tuscola county's official and owner/sampler tested herds averaged 34.7 pounds of 3.47 milk while Michigan's official and owner/sampler tested cows averaged 33.7 pounds of 3.55 milk.

Tuscola's top herd was well under the top herd in Sanilac county. Phillip Cripps of Palms with a 27-cow herd produced 51 pounds of 3.5 milk.

Don Chard of Shover, with 62 cows, posted a record of 47 pounds of 3.5 milk to rank fifth in Sanilac county. Leslie Severance of Decker with 72 cows reported an average of 45 pounds of 3.7 milk to rank eighth.

Sanilac county's official and owner/sampler tested cows produced 36 pounds of 3.56 milk.

Alfalfa crop needs attention

By Don Kebler

Alfalfa is one of the necessary forage crops of a dairyman. However, the least cultural attention has been given to this important crop.

In the past alfalfa was a crop taken for granted to grow and produce favorable yields with the least amount of attention. Today our dairymen who produce alfalfa hay yields of better than 3 1/2 tons per acre must follow known favorable cultural practices. No longer do these dairymen seed their alfalfa with a small grain and harvest the crop for the yield that comes naturally.

These operators are taking particular pains in soil testing for lime and fertilizer recommendations, using the most modern seed, growing more than one variety to spread-out their alfalfa rotations, following good weed and insect controls, and harvesting more often at a better forage quality stage. A majority of these successful high quality high yielding alfalfa producers are also planting the crop alone and not as seedling in small grain. This method is called band seeding and most operators are band seeding around the first of August. Most recently a few have tried early spring band seedings with good success even to the point of harvesting quality hay the year of this seeding. Both methods have been proven to be a far greater advantage generally than seedings made in small grains.

So what can be done this fall on established alfalfa stands. Lime can be added where needed and fertilizer applied as per soil test based recommendations if not already done so far this year. Fall is the best time to control broad leaf winter annuals as many of the mustard family species start germinating and growing at this time. Yellow Rocket can only be controlled with the recommended herbicides when sprayed in the fall. There are two recommended herbicides and both control Yellow Rocket and annual broadleaf winter annuals. Both are applied after the fall killing frosts on alfalfa more than 1 year old. Simazin at 1 1/4 pounds per acre active ingredient or M.C.P.A. at 1/2 pound active ingredient per acre are recommended herbicides. M.C.P.A. should be applied in the late fall.

Try these practices in a complete program and in the long run you'll reap real alfalfa dividends.

Debbie Wissner top scholar, tests show

Debbie Wissner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Wissner, is the first student from Owen-Gage school to earn a spot as a semi-finalist in the national merit scholarship program.

DEBBIE WISSNER

A senior, Miss Wissner has maintained an A average for her first three years of high school.

Competing with 710,000 students in 17,000 schools nationwide, she qualified as a semi-finalist in 1970-71 after taking the scholarship qualifying test given last February.

One per cent of the students are eventually selected as finalists.

Miss Wissner will attend the University of Michigan next year, majoring in journalism.

Spencer pleads guilty to reduced charge

John Vernon Spencer pleaded guilty in Tuscola County Circuit Court Tuesday afternoon to a reduced count of driving under the influence of liquor.

He had originally been charged with negligent homicide following an accident in Millington township in which Ralph L. Ellis was killed.

An autopsy was not taken at the time of the accident and because of the lack of definite proof of the cause of death, the State agreed to the lesser charge.

Spencer had requested a jury trial and after he changed his plea the jury was dismissed. Judge Norman Baguley who presided ordered a pre-sentence investigation.

Monday, Edward G. DuRusell stood mute when charged with driving under the influence of liquor before Judge James Churchill.

A plea of innocent was entered for him and a trial date will be set.

In a jury trial heard Tuesday, Sept. 15, Luis P. Medina of Gilford was found innocent of breaking and entering a building on Gilford Road owned by Jose Garcia.

The jurors were: Barbara Salgot, Pearl Putnam, Lloyd Laver, Robert Bank, Lydia Kaemming, Laurine Lee, Norbert Fader, Harry Brown, Lewis King and Eloise Meyer.

James Edwin Hall, 30, of Clio pleaded guilty to simple assault in another case heard Sept. 15. The charge was reduced from assault with a dangerous weapon.

The case stemmed from Hall's attempt to steal $24 from Ernest Hagerdon.

Whittaker in basic training

Army Private Guy E. Whittaker is assigned to Company B, 19th Battalion, 5th Brigade, in the training center, Armor (USATCA) at Fort Knox, Ky.

He will spend the next two months learning the fundamental skills of the soldier in today's modern army.

Following the completion of basic training, Pvt. Whittaker, who is the son of Mrs. Irene Whittaker of RR#3, Cass City, and Guy Whittaker, will receive at least an additional eight weeks of advanced instruction or on-the-job training to qualify him in a specialized military skill.

He is a graduate of Oakland University at Rochester, Mich., and a 1966 Cass City High School graduate.

enriched activities that they will need in order to cope with the school situation. It has been found that children from lower economic backgrounds have not had the experiences necessary to equip them to compete on the same level at school as children from moderate and high-income backgrounds.

The Head Start teacher and aide will be working in conjunction with Mrs. Frelburger and Mrs. Cynthia Brumer, Head Start director from the office of Economic Opportunity in Caro, to set up the program in Cass City and recruit children who qualify for the program. To qualify, children must come from families whose incomes meet OEO poverty guidelines.

Interviews for the positions of Head Start teacher and aide will be held at the Principal's Office, Cass City Elementary School, Friday, Sept. 25, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. (See the classified ad for further details.) Anyone who knows of children who might benefit from the Head Start program is urged to contact either Mrs. Jacqueline Frelburger at the Cass City Elementary School or Mrs. Cynthia Brumer, Economic Opportunity Commission, 233 E. Sherman, Caro, Michigan.

Thumb veterinarians issue rabies warning

Concern is expressed by members of the Thumb Veterinary Medical Association on the possible danger of spread of rabies throughout the area because of outbreaks in the northern part of St. Clair County and also in southwestern Sanilac County.

Veterinarians report that at least eight persons in two families and two practitioners have taken a series of Pasteur-type injections, usually 14 or more, depending on the situation.

Dr. Robert S. Johnson, Yale, said at least four animals are known to have died of rabies during recent months, including a horse, calf and skunk, as confirmed cases, and a goat, believed to have had rabies, in northern St. Clair County. A cow is also known to have died of rabies in the vicinity of Brown City.

Skunks are the most prevalent carrier, particularly since they are numerous in all parts of the Thumb. They transmit the virus disease of rabies to domestic animals, including cows, horses, dogs, cats and all other warm blooded animals through biting them.

We strongly urge everyone to observe carefully any change in disposition of their livestock or pets, particularly if a skunk has been known to be in the vicinity.

If you see a skunk in your farmyard, especially in the daytime, destroy it by all means, pick up the carcass with a shovel and bury it. Of course, you should wash the shovel thoroughly afterward.

Beware of the wild animal who appears to be tame and shows no fear of humans. Keep your children away from them. Such an animal should be suspected of rabies as its behavior is abnormal.

If there is any possibility that anyone has been exposed to rabies in any way at all, he or she should consult their physician immediately.

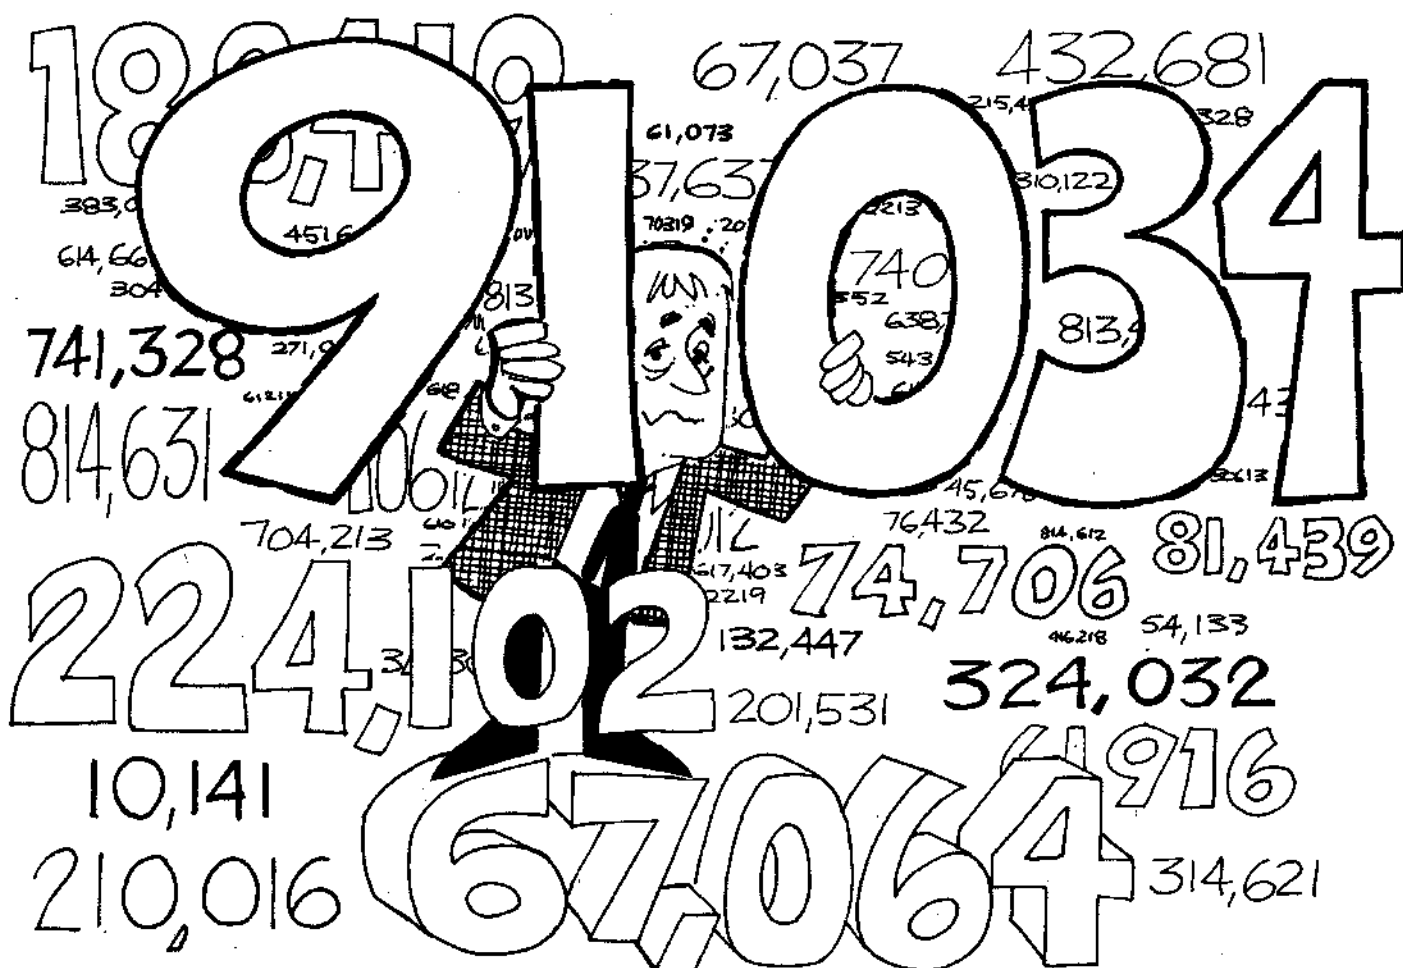

If you think one of your domestic animals has rabies, call your veterinarian immediately. Stay away from such animals and above all don't touch them in any way.

memo to advertisers

CONFUSED?

Sometimes it is difficult to find your way through all the claims and counter-claims of advertising media.

But there is one no-nonsense report that tells it exactly like it is—not like we (or anyone else) dreams it to be.

That's the report of the Audit Bureau of Circulations, an advertiser controlled circulation fact-finding and fact-reporting organization.

Next time you question a circulation claim, just ask to see proof—the ABC report.

And that's a fact, for sure.

Meet Dr. Alvarez

"America's Family Doctor"

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Walter C. Alvarez's medical column will be appearing weekly in the Chronicle. The doctor's background appears in this story and the first regular column starts below his picture.

An early sign of the scientist appeared in Dr. Walter C. Alvarez as a small boy when he tried to remove a splinter from his finger with a pin. His mother commanded, "Oh, don't do that, take a needle."

"But why?" asked young Alvarez.

"Because a pin is brass and a needle is iron."

Again the lad asked, "But why should that make any difference?"

The point is that at an early age Alvarez began asking about the "why" of things and has never given up the search.

That, in essence, is the story of Dr. Alvarez, much-honored, world-renowned physician, scientist, consultant, teacher, editor, author and newspaper columnist. For nearly his entire 81 years he has been sweeping the cobwebs of folklore out of medicine and shining into the dark corners the bright light of common sense and pure science.

"Nothing sticks harder or longer in this world than a stupid and useless practice," declared Dr. Alvarez in his autobiography, "Incurable Physician." "Even we learned physicians will sometimes fight for our right to follow some 5,000-year-old bit of stupidity."

Even as an intern at the old City and County Hospital of San Francisco he had the temerity to question the age-old custom of giving patients violent purges before operations. It was obvious to Dr. Alvarez that some patients were so weakened by this preoperative treatment that they couldn't survive surgery.

Weeks of research disclosed that purging was a remnant of the idea of many primitive peoples who believed they had to prepare themselves in this way to face an ordeal. In 1918 Dr. Alvarez published his evidence in a paper. Soon many surgeons throughout the world either quit giving their patients purges or prescribed milder preparation for surgery.

Dr. Alvarez has sometimes been condemned for criticizing members of the profession but contends no man should stop learning or thinking when he leaves college. Knowledge is not routine; it changes constantly. To treat patients successfully the physician must keep studying to stay abreast of new drugs and new methods of treatment.

Interest in medicine and the scientific method developed early in Alvarez's life. As a boy in Hawaii where his father was employed by the territorial government as a physician, the younger Alvarez learned a valuable lesson from the family's humble Hawaiian neighbors. To communicate with them he had to use only the few words of English they knew. This experience helped him in later life when he took medical histories from illiterate immigrants and still later when he wrote a newspaper medical column for lay readers.

It also taught Dr. Alvarez to avoid the technical jargon which some doctors use to cover up their ignorance. He has always preferred to speak plainly to patients and to write plainly in a simple language laymen as well as physicians can understand.

In 1926 he was invited to become a member of the staff of the Mayo Clinic. The next quarter of a century was a highly productive period. Dr. Alvarez was able to continue his researches, to observe an endless parade of patients and to write books. In 1938 he became editor of The American Journal of Digestive Diseases and in 1941 began editing the new journal, Gastroenterology. In 1950 he was editing the new journal, G. P.

Reaching mandatory retirement age in 1950, he left the Mayo Clinic for Chicago and promptly opened an office. In 1951 he gave up editing G. P. and became editor of Modern Medicine. In 1952 he was writing a syndicated newspaper column and was trying to answer 120,000 letters a year.

The same year he assumed the additional responsibility of editing the journal Geriatrics. Books, booklets, and professional papers have continued to flow from his typewriter, including his autobiography, "Incurable Physician," published in 1963. Today his quest for knowledge still never ends.

"Today," he stated, "I have no interest in the hundreds of papers I have published; but I am anxious to get to the writing of several papers and books that I have planned and for which I have gathered hundreds of facts. Only the work that lies ahead interests and delights me."

Watch for his column weekly in the Chronicle.

Set lesson topic

Why do some communities seem to be so happy, so progressive, so able to work out their problems? And why do others almost fall apart?

Perhaps it is the human relations that need bolstering. So a lesson has been scheduled for Tuscola County in the Civil Defense Center, Caro, on Sept. 30 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Awareness, empathy and stereotyping will be discussed along with case studies, slides and games to show how people relate to other people.

The meeting is open to all interested persons. Those attending are asked to bring a list of community problems that need attention.

BETTER HEALTH

Emphysema is predictable

BY DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

In the great City of Hope National Center in Los Angeles, and some other hospitals throughout the United States, there is a test now being tried out. It is designed to show that persons born with a deficiency of a certain chemical called AAT in the blood are especially vulnerable to emphysema and other obstructive diseases of the lung, especially if their lungs are challenged by cigarette smoke, or other irritants.

This new test, sometimes reinforced by the giving to the patient of diethylstilbestrol has been used on 2,000 apparently normal persons. It was designed by Jack Lieberman, MD, of the City of Hope. Dr. Lieberman found 5 per cent had inherited the deficiency from one parent, and .04 per cent from both. The person who inherits a tendency to emphysema from only one parent is not especially vulnerable to the disease as long as he doesn't smoke, but the heavy smoker stands a good chance of getting the disease.

Persons with a double inheritance (from both parents) have a 90 per cent chance of getting emphysema, even if they do not smoke. Certainly, if I were smoking two or three packages of cigarettes a day I would run to the nearest laboratory to get the Lieberman test made.

THE DAY-CARE MENTAL HOSPITAL

For some time I have been reading of so-called "day-care centers," which offer short-term intensive treatment for several types of mentally ill persons. There are quite a few mental patients who are too ill to be cared for at home, but not so ill that they need to be kept constantly confined in a mental hospital. They can get all the treatment they need spending about seven hours a day at a day care treatment center.

A typical day begins at 9 a.m.; there may be an hour of perhaps socializing with a few patients talking with a doctor; then from 10 a.m. until noon, the patient takes part in an intensive, so-called, group therapy session, with the stimulus and response from visual or audio-tape play-back. After lunch there is further social interaction followed by intensive, group-treatment; and after 3 p.m., each patient receives some individual psychotherapy. Out of 147 patients treated in this way, only 15 had to be sent into a mental hospital. Dr. Furst said that of the 132 patients who remained on day-care, 40 returned to normal function; 14 went back to work, and 11 youngsters either continued at school or returned to school. The cost of the treatment was half of that of the usual hospital.

HELP FOR PARENTS OF DIFFICULT CHILDREN

I am always much interested when a book comes to my desk which I feel sure could greatly help thousands of parents of children who have some failure in mental or nervous health and perhaps have become problems of education or control. Some of these children are problems, if only because they cannot be tolerated in a school room because they are a disruptive influence. They are restless, they talk or walk around at inappropriate times, and they cannot pay attention for long.

I just received a very helpful book called, "Crisis in Child and Mental Health, A Challenge for the 1970's," and I find it packed full of valuable information such as many parents need. It is published by Harper and Row.

EFFECTS ON HEARING OF LOUD MUSIC

A while ago, I made note in this column of studies made which had shown that some young people who love to spend evenings in a hall where very loud orchestras play, can be shown to suffer some hearing loss. Now I see in an article by Dr. R. L. Vorhees, of Seattle, that another study has been made of rock music and its effect on hearing. Dr. Vorhees says that although we know that rock music has produced definite damage, this damage apparently occurs only in those persons who are particularly susceptible to loud sounds. Persons who develop ear noises or other hearing problems after listening to rock music, should have an ear specialist study them.

Dr. Vorhees gave references to four other studies on the effect on hearing of loud music. Evidently, many people love to have their music so loud that they are not able to talk to one another. Others, like me, are distressed by loud music, and never go to a place where there is an orchestra playing loudly and a singer shouting through a microphone.

Dr. Vorhees is at the University of Washington School of Medicine in Seattle.

With the occurrence of respiratory diseases rising every day, you should be certain to take every precaution against them. One of the most important steps you can take to protect yourself and your family is to learn as much as possible about lung diseases and the hazards of smoking. You may be interested in Dr. Alvarez's booklets, "Pulmonary Emphysema," and "What We Know About Cancer," which can be yours by simply sending 25 cents per booklet and a stamped, self-addressed envelope along with your request for either or both of the booklets. Address to Dr. Walter C. Alvarez, Dept. CCC, Box 957, Des Moines, Iowa 50304.

Yearning replaces endeavor in some peoples' way of life.

Annual Farm Bureau meet set in Cass City

The Tuscola County Farm Bureau is preparing for their annual meeting scheduled for Oct. 6, at the Cass City High School, starting with a 7:00 p.m. barbecue chicken dinner.

The group will honor an area resident with the Distinguished Service to Agriculture Award and the Outstanding Farm Bureau Couple who have excelled in contributions to the organization and the community will be recognized. Other local people will also be honored for achievements.

Queen candidates, Connie De-Long of Cass City, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald DeLong, and Janet Russell, daughter of the Royce Russells of Gagetown, will be introduced, with the Tuscola County Farm Bureau Queen crowned. The winner will be placed in competition for the state title.

The policy development committee, headed by Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Goodall of Cass City, will present resolutions pertaining to county, state, national affairs for consideration.

Reports are scheduled from State Director Jack Laurie, Regional Representative David Pohl and election of directors will take place.

Tickets are available from community farm bureau groups, board members, and at the County Office, at 416 Wells Street, Caro.
