

Village moves towards full time supervision

For about 10 years informal discussion among village trustees has swirled around hiring a village manager to handle the burgeoning affairs of expanding Cass City.

Tuesday night at the regular meeting of the village council at Cass City the council set in motions a plan to adopt an ordinance that will move in that direction.

Spurred by the untimely death of Village Engineer William Schram the council agreed to hire a man to be the final authority under the council and to coordinate the affairs of the village.

President Lambert Althaver pointed out that the village would be spending $300,000 next year and preparing the budget and other administrative details requires more time than non-paid officials can devote to it. Officials receive only token payment for attending meetings.

In the early years, location of valves, sewer and water lines and other important details needed for maintenance was not recorded. President Althaver said that work accomplished in the last five years has been mapped, but previous to this the records are, at best, vague.

The man will be known as a village superintendent, not village manager, Trustee Dr. D. E. Rawson said that if a village manager were hired he would take most of the authority away from the village council, but a superintendent would not. Althaver said that the job would offer a good enough salary so that, hopefully, there will be several applicants for the position. No figures were mentioned.

Meanwhile, work on the revised zoning ordinance for the village continues. Althaver said that an important planning meeting was scheduled for Oct. 21.

At this time several land use changes will be discussed, he said, and urged trustees to attend.

The new ordinance will spell out restrictions in greater detail and also establish regulations to cover mobile and pre-fab homes in the village.

Another important change in the new zoning will be the establishment of a workable building code. Two model codes are under study, Althaver said.

While plans moved ahead on these laws, the council voted against establishing an ordinance to prohibit rock festivals in the village.

Trustees didn't pass the law because they felt the village would be covered by an Elk-land township ordinance currently being adopted.

Several major maintenance items that will need attention were outlined by Althaver.

He said that a new wiring system is needed for the lights at Cass City Recreational Park, pointing out that 25 per cent of them went out during a Junior High football game last week.

The system is a quarter century old, he said, and the wiring is about shot. We're making temporary repairs, but a complete new system is needed.

First step in the campaign will be to check with the school to see what its long range plans for using the field are.

Authorized at once at an estimated cost of $750 to $1,000 is a new roof for the Municipal Building this fall.

In other business, the board made Mrs. Charlene Pranger a deputy clerk with powers to act for Clerk Mrs. Celia House.

Mrs. Pranger is working as a secretary for the village.

The village voted not to charge Leonard Damm for replacement of any portion of the sidewalk next to his building that was recently rebuilt.

When curb and gutter was installed on Oak Street, new walks were needed from Main to the alley to allow for angle parking and parking meters.

Since Damm has recently paid to replace his walk the council will not charge the standard 50 per cent of costs to him.

FROM THE Editor's Corner

It has been a frustrating decade in sports at Cass City High School. It's doubtful if the football team has won as many as half its games in any season in the last 10 years and until last year the results were about the same in basketball and baseball. Track wasn't much better.

The record is clearer than the reason for it. Could the school be the league doormats year after year after year unless there were reasons in addition to this talent?

Is it due to the lack of winning traditions and proper mental attitude? Has a losing attitude resulted in a losing tradition?

Certainly, it's different now. The change is marked when you knew it like it was and weren't around for the decline.

Bob Walpole, who played at Cass City High School near the end of the championship era, is back in town after 10 years.

He can't get over the attitude of the fans. It's hard to believe, he says, with a mystified shake of his head, Cass City fans talk like they expect to see a loser.

Bob, you see, hasn't been conditioned to the facts of sports life here. While Cass City was going about the business of sports practice in the same old way other schools weren't.

Sports went year-around at many schools, not here. And Cass City was hampered by a succession of different coaches.

To compete today, it's necessary to attend basketball camps in summer, take footballs on vacations and practice, practice, practice.

Start early when the kids are 10 years old or younger. Until recently, Cass City tried to get by without it.

That's almost like shoving a student into high school before they have finished elementary school.

To compete and win a fair share the year-around approach is not advisable, it's mandatory.

Over emphasis? Sure. High school sports are following in the steps of its big brother on the college campus.

It would be better if no football practice started until school started. If the basketball team played only during basketball season, if there were no Christmas, holiday tournaments...or holiday practices. Nothing outside the sports season in question.

But that's not the way it is or is likely to be. There will be more, not less, sports emphasis in the future.

Granted that the inherent character building facets of high school sports is an educational must, there is no other way to go.

A sports program that shows nothing but losers does nothing for the school or the town. Face it. A winning team is good for the students and in small towns, the community. An undefeated football team generates more community pride than a merit scholar. It shouldn't, but it does.

And if we want one, we must be ready to pay the price.

And the price gets higher all the time.

9-year-old in theft of $55

Cass City Police Chief Wilson said that a nine-year-old Cass City youth had admitted stealing $55 from the home of Wilma Eubank on Pine Street this week.

It was the second offense for the youngster and his case has been turned over to the probate court for action.

In other activities, the department is investigating the theft of three pairs of shoes from Parsch's Store in Cass City.

RUMMAGE SALE - In Presbyterian Church basement, Saturday, Oct. 10, starting at 9 o'clock.

A TREE WAS donated to Cass City Public Schools by the Elkland-Novesta Community Chest this week in the name of Willis Campbell to commemorate his over 20 years as chairman of the local drive. Dedicating the tree that was planted in front of the building that bears his name are Bill Wallace, retiring board member, Campbell and Community Chest President Don Erla.

Vegetable diet, well water key to good health—Jaus

Fred Jaus is still simmering because he went to Caro recently to renew his driver's license and the standard eye examination revealed that from now on he would be required to wear glasses when behind the wheel.

I can read as well as you can...just give me that paper and I'll show you. Maybe when I'm older I'll need them, but there's no reason for me to wear them now, he snorted.

Next Nov. 3 the Cass City area native will be 89 years old.

And over the years, the pioneer resident has developed some strong convictions about what it takes to reach his advanced years and be as healthy as he is.

Most of his theories are unconventional, but for him, at least, they work.

The number one no-no is meat. A tender juicy steak, rare roast of beef, pork roast or veal cutlet is high on his list of items that will do you in before your time.

But avoiding meats only wins half the battle, according to Jaus. When you banish them from your dinner table, you must replace them with vegetables.

Not just any old vegetables, either. They must be grown organically...commercial fertilizer robs them of their health giving properties, he feels.

And don't drink Cass City's water, cautions Jaus. For years now I've been hauling my water from a flowing well about three miles from Bad Axe.

Cold, pure water that I carry in jugs that are clean, really clean, he adds. If you follow these rules, get nine hours sleep each night and stay away from booze, Jaus feels you'll be as healthy as he is.

The natural tendency to dismiss the whole affair is tempered by the results.

Jaus has yet to take his first aspirin, yet to make his first visit to the hospital, yet to need doctor's care.

And his mind seems as sound as his body. His wife died in 1933 and his only daughter, Mrs. Laura Lenzner, lives in Bad Axe.

For many years he worked for a local implement company, driving truck. Never was in an accident where anyone was hurt, and I didn't wear glasses, either, he said, turning again about his driving restriction.

Jaus' trouble is that he retired when wages were low and his social security is very small. Had to have some more money to live on so I built myself an 8 1/2 horsepower buzzsaw and sell hardwood.

Last year I had 30 cords and it all went fast. I sell it for $13 a cord delivered here in Cass City. This year I have about 45 cords and I cut it all myself.

Didn't need any help to see how to do it either, he said, as he carefully placed his glasses under the seat of his car and bent down to add another slab to the growing stack of neatly piled wood in his backyard.

Change unlikely now

DNR pledges 'long look' at '71 antlerless season

RELATED PICTURES ON PAGE 14.

Despite the angry protest of an estimated 450 sportsmen from Tuscola county and the entire Thumb Sunday at a special meeting at the Caro Gun Club the odds are great that there will be an antlerless deer season in the county this fall.

The only faint hope for hunters in favor of banning the any deer season now rests with Gov. William Milliken, Bill Campbell, one of the protest leaders said, Wednesday morning.

The governor has demanded a complete report of the situation to be on his desk Wednesday morning.

Meanwhile, Dave Arnold of the DNR spoke to the Tuscola County Board of Commissioners Tuesday and explained the department's position on the any deer season.

The Commissioners had gone on record as being in favor of killing the any deer season in the county the previous week.

One commissioner, Charles Woodcock of Vassar told the Chronicle that he "had it up to here" with the deer question and that any information for the paper would have to come from reporters covering the meeting.

Arnold told the commissioners that there wasn't anything that could be done to change the regulations this year but that the DNR would "take a long look" at the regulations for next year.

Meanwhile, sportsmen in favor of banning the antlerless season pushed ahead with plans to post as much of the private land as possible.

We already have 25,000 signs printed, Campbell reported, and have 10,000 more on order.

If you figure that out on the basis of a sign every 100 feet, you can see that the majority of the land will be posted.

At the meeting Sunday, DNR representatives repeated that GUS SCHOLLE a member of the commission, backs the DNR in its antlerless deer stand. I'd never shoot any animal myself, he told sportsmen Sunday, but believes that an any deer season is necessary. At the right is Bill Campbell, meeting moderator, while members of the DNR listen to Scholle's views.

the reason for the doe season was the increasing traffic hazard that the swelling herds cause.

Sportsmen said that all game is killed on the road and that shooting deer just for that reason was not right.

Rep. Roy Spencer told the group that he had always voted against antlerless deer season and would continue to do so. Senator Alvin J. DeGrow reported that he would represent the people in this issue.

The reason for the concern of most hunters is that most can recall the times when deer were plentiful in northern Michigan.

After the antlerless season concluded on page 14

Link youth to 9 open county theft cases

Nine more area unsolved thefts have been tentatively removed from Tuscola County's unsolved files following the arrest of Phillip Alvin Wright, 19, of rural Cass City.

The nine places burglarized all reported that cash was stolen. The total amounted to over $500, according to the police report.

Tuscola County Deputy James Southworth and Deputy Sergeant

William Bliss handled the investigation that led to the arrest.

Seven of the thefts were from homes in the Caro area. The other two involving the suspect were in the Deford-Kingston area.

It was the second arrest in two weeks by the sheriff's department that involved a series of breaking and enterings.

By John Haire

(Any anyone else he can get to help)

Russ Schneberger makes a living selling furniture and appliances, but his heart is really in his garden. He read the measurements of the giant pumpkins grown on the Miljura farm in last week's Chronicle and dashed home with his tape measure.

They had me beat, he confided, but just by a quarter of an inch.

Roger Marshall says that a skunk has made his house a home for a long time now and he hadn't paid much attention. It went its way and I went mine, he said casually.

But recent events have changed the picture and the Marshalls have a growing problem.

Now there are two skunks. Once when he was coming out on the back porch after dark, Roger felt something between his legs and looked down ready to pet the family cat. Only the cat developed a white stripe. Nothing happened.

Then, the other night the pair of skunks started fighting and snarling. Roger dashed into the house for his gun as the skunks went round and round.

The trouble is that they never got far enough apart to shoot one without disturbing the other, so Roger never fired a shot.

And time is growing short...very short. One of those skunks says Roger, is obviously very, very pregnant.

My personal observations last week about funerals drew many comments. The majority echoed the sentiments expressed by Mrs. Emerson Kennedy, but a surprising minority said they knew just how I feel because they had experienced essentially the same emotions themselves.

Regular readers will recall that after several disastrous bouts with choppy water and boats, I vowed "never again."

At the time, Tom Proctor said, "You'll do it again." Well, Proctor's right and Thursday I expect to "try it one more time at Manistee."

My wife urged me on: "Don't you dare bring home one of those greasy, dirty old Salmon," she commanded.

How long can an ad be expected to have "pulling power?" According to Mrs. Lorraine Donnelly, at least a year.

She ran a Chronicle liner in April, 1969, and last week a man from Kinde became the 65th person to inquire about the land she offered for sale.

The land has long since been sold...to one of the first persons who saw the ad, Mrs. Donnelly's daughter, Mrs. Ted Branczeisz, who didn't realize that the property was available until the listing appeared in the paper.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Mark

Nancy Mae Peck and Robert Edward Mark exchanged wedding vows Saturday, Sept. 5, at St. Robert Catholic Church when the Rev. Fr. Charles Jacobs officiated at the noon ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of the Raymond Pecks and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Archie Mark of Flushing.

The bride's gown was of snoflake dotted swiss lined with angelmist taffeta. The sheer yoke was trimmed with imported daisy lace and the empire bodice held a softly gathered floor length skirt. The detachable train was outlined with grape lace and appliqued with daisy motifs.

Her cathedral length imported illusion veil was designed by the bride and was held by a semi-circle of fresh flowers placed at the back of her up-swept coiffure. She carried an old fashioned basket filled with an assortment of garden flowers.

Mrs. Sharon Malone was matron of honor for her sister, Cheryl Mark, sister of the groom, and Nancy Simpson were bridesmaids. The attendants wore gowns with white bloused tops and apricot antique satin skirts. The blouses had accents of avocado velvet ribbon and the girls each wore an initial pin, gifts of the bride. They carried baskets filled with flowers in confetti colors.

SPORTS FANS!

I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

By H. M. Bulen

Here's a football fact some one found in the rulebook that hardly any fan is aware of. Did you know that when a team kicks off at the beginning of a game it doesn't have to do it in the conventional way... A team could kick off by having a player drop-kick the ball... Although drop-kicking went out of style years ago, it is still very much legal.

Can you imagine a major college football team going through an entire season and NOT scoring a point?....Has it ever happened?....The answer is yes....Last time was in 1923 when Villanova University played eight games and did not score a single point all season!

What's the difference between college football and pro football?...One player has been quoted as saying, "In college ball you work hard all week before each game; in pro ball, instead of working hard all week, you work hard on Sundays--and then spend the rest of the week recovering."

But pay as though you did?

We don't believe advertisers should have to play guessing games with circulation figures. The facts are too important to the effectiveness of their sales messages and the cost of advertising space.

To eliminate the element of chance, our facts and figures are audited and verified by the Audit Bureau of Circulations. Through an audit report, ABC tells us and our advertisers exactly how much circulation we have, where it is distributed, what readers pay, and the answers to many other questions about our circulation audience.

Don't guess—ask to see a copy of our latest audit report. Be ABC-sure!

When you go shopping for clothing or fabric, do you really know what you are buying? Special finishes are often applied to garments and fabrics to make them more desirable. Hand tags and labels usually indicate what finishes have been applied to the fabric. Most of the special finishes are not visible to the naked eye.

Let's take a closer look at some of these finishes: Antibacterial finishes help make a fabric bacteria-resistant. These finishes check growth of odor forming bacteria on fabrics and keep apparel fresh smelling and hygienically clean.

A crease and wrinkle resistant finish makes the fabric resistant to wrinkling. The finish helps the fabric to recover rapidly from wrinkling after wear. A water repellent finish may be combined with wrinkle resistant finishes which seems to result in a resistance to water-borne stains and soil.

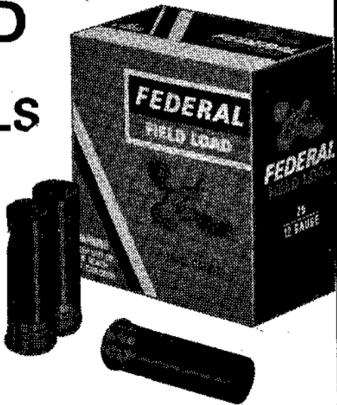

Another finish we hear much about is Minimum-Care or Wash and Wear finishes. Fabrics with Minimum-Care requires a little ironing after laundry before they are worn. After repeated wear and laundering the fabric with the wash and wear finish has a good appearance without any ironing.

A few of the other finishes include anti-static, flame-resistant, mildew-resistant, stain and spot-resistant, water repellent and shrink resistant. There are also perfumed or odorless finishes which may be applied to camouflage or cover up an unpleasant odor of finishing materials.

Next time you purchase fabric or clothing read the hand tag or label and discover what finishes have been used on that particular article.

WHILE CUTTING HAY on the Clare Carpenter farm this summer a fawn without a mother was found. The Carpenters started bottle feeding it and the young doe adopted the family. The Department of Natural Resources was contacted and spokesmen there said it was doubtful if the deer could survive if turned loose in the north.

Meanwhile the young deer has grown fond of its daily bottle and never misses a feeding. It spends the night in a near-by woods and gets along famously with the two large dogs which are also permanent residents. The Carpenter farm is on Bay City-Forestville Road, 3 miles east of Gagetown.

ONE FOR THE ROAD

Lusteg proves perseverance pays

By Dan Marlowe

There is a name I will be watching for in National Football League game accounts this season.

Perhaps in vain, because at the moment the gentleman is unemployed. His name is Booth Lusteg, and SPORTS ILLUSTRATED recently told his story.

Lusteg is a totally improbable type who in 1966 made himself into a placekicker by sheer determination and gallons of sweat. He was an athletic buff who wanted to participate, and he just wouldn't quit. At 4' 11", he was high school all-State in basketball and lettered in baseball and football. The lack of physical equipment never deterred him.

Professionally, he first tried baseball. (Basketball had been given the coup de grace at the University of Connecticut where he couldn't make the team.) He abandoned baseball after being released by 8 minor league teams in two years, none above Class D.

He married and taught math on Long Island, but the dreams of sporting glory wouldn't evaporate. In 1966, he began placekicking. Because he was then 27 years old, he used his brother's name and credentials when talking to coaches while seeking a job. He finally talked himself into a tryout with the Buffalo Bills and made it.

But that was only the beginning. The number of teams that Lusteg has kicked for—or tried out for—sounds like a roster of the teams in the NFL, the AFL, and the football minor leagues. One year he was out by five different teams before the season even opened. And this was done to a man who his second year with Buffalo was second in the league in scoring. As Lusteg himself says, placekickers are always suspect. When one is having a fairly good year, it's standard for the coach to feel that someone else might do even better. Lusteg feels that placekickers have a lot in common with plumbers in that both are vaguely suspect as though they could both be up to something uncomplicated.

Lusteg was released by Pittsburgh in 1969 but caught on with the Packers in the middle of the season. He did the job for them for the balance of the year, but in the off-season the Packers drafted a kicker, and in training camp this summer Lusteg found himself in his usual desperate struggle for athletic survival. The Packers let him go at the last cutdown.

But don't count Booth Lusteg out. He is now employing his familiar tactic of badgering pro coaches for a tryout. Eventually one of them will become disenchanted with his present kicker, and Lusteg will get another chance. And he cut again. An athlete he's not, a hero he just may be.

Lusteg says it best: "I offer losers a rallying cry. 'If Booth Lusteg can make it, anybody can.' I'd rally with them if I weren't so busy trying to catch on with another team."

Booth Lusteg: the personification of Everyman's dream of himself as Athletic Hero.

Banquet to fete county 4-H leaders

BY BERNARD R. JARDOT

The 4-H Youth Programs success in Tuscola county depends a great deal on the attitude and effectiveness of our many volunteer adult and teen leaders. These individuals are the backbone of our 4-H program through their unselfish time and energy that each gives to their 4-H club. It is these volunteer leaders that we recognize each year at the annual Tuscola County 4-H Leaders Recognition Banquet. This event is sponsored in part by the many fine banks and lending institutions in Tuscola county.

The Leaders' Recognition Banquet for our Tuscola County 4-H Leaders will be held on Monday evening, October 5, at the Sacred Heart School in Caro. Our 4-H leaders should be reminded that the event starts at 7:15 p.m.

One change in this year's event will be the invitation of our County Medal Award winners and other outstanding teen members to also participate in this program. The program will also include a county demonstration team presentation and a review of the Tuscola County 4-H program through a slides presentation.

A LITTLE CHRONICLE WANT AD gets Big Results

Uncle Tim From Tyre Says:

Dear Mister Editor:

Personal, Mister Editor, I ain't never had a craven fer none of that hay in pritty boxes that was give such a badname a while back, so I ain't in a position to say if the stuff is fit to eat. It was the opinion of the fellers at the country store Saturday night, tho, that by the time the cereal folks git done telling their side, the newspapers will be to falt fer the hole business.

It were Clem Webster that allowed as how the papers usual git blamed fer everthing, and the number of vitamins in corn flakes ain't no exception. Clem said he recalled where Department of Agriculture experts said a while back that newspapers was falling down on their job of explaining food prices to the public. These experts said folks could git more food fer their money if the papers was to "put food prices in better perspective."

Even Ed Doolittle, that ain't give up complete on being called in as a farm price support expert by the Nixon Administration, said he don't find much perspective in the papers, and he wouldn't know it if he got hit side the head with it. Ed was full agreed with Clem, tho, that blaming the papers fer high prices is like cussing the bucket cause the well run dry.

Zeke Grubb and the rest of the fellers took up fer the papers in this case. Zeke was of the mind that what happens to food prices happens after food leaves the farms, and cereal and bread is good examples. A loaf of bread in a pritty cellofane bag might have a nickle's worth of wheat and the rest of the 25 cent is paid fer all the vitamins, minerals, iron and them big words fer stuff that has been added. Zeke recollected the little feller that when he was told to say the blessing at breakfast he looked at what was in front of him and asked "fer corn flakes." By the time the corn gits to be flakes in them little luminum boxes, allowed Zeke, the only thing fit to eat is the milk you pore on em.

Gitting back to the papers, Ed allowed they jest git the message from one place to another, and the cereal folks don't need to worry cause they got the mamas of this country with em. Ed went on that dry cereal and TV is all a mama needs to sleep mornings, so it don't matter how bad both is, they're here to stay. As long as the cereal commercials on TV keep the younguns happy eating the stuff, everybody's happy, was Ed words.

Personal, Mister Editor, I think the cereal commercials helps everybody too. When I see some pritty gal on TV telling me that a glass of somepun'she's selling has as much pep as bacon and eggs, I git hungry fer the real thing, not a glass of store-bought nutrition. So I reckon cereal ain't a total loss even fer my generation.

AROUND THE FARM

Farming: the nation's largest industry

By William L. Bortel

Agriculture is the nation's biggest industry. It employs 4.6 million workers. This is more than the combined total employment in transportation, public utilities, the steel and the automobile industries.

Agriculture's assets total $307 billion. This is about one-half of the market value of all corporation stocks on the New York Stock Exchange. Production assets for each farm worker are about $50,000—approximately double that of each manufacturing employee. Of the three million producers, over two million sold less than $10,000 worth of farm products and of this group nearly 1.3 million producers sold less than $2,500 worth of farm products. And less than 200,000 producers exceeded $40,000 in sales of farm products.

From these figures it is evident that farming is small business but requires an exceedingly high capital investment. The returns are low. Although the consumer spent 121% more for farm produced food in 1969—up from an average of $43.4 billion in the base period of 1947-49 to $95.9 billion—the net income of farmers decreased 6%. In 1947 net farm income was $17,114 million and only $16,045 million in 1969. Prices received by farmers in 1969 for all commodities were the same as in 1947 but costs have skyrocketed.

Farmers spend over $50 billion annually, of which $38 billion is for production of crops and livestock and the balance is spent for food, clothes, drugs, furniture, appliances and other goods and services. Nearly $4.9 billion was spent for farm tractors, machinery and equipment. $4.1 billion was spent for fuel and maintenance of machinery—farming uses more petroleum than any other industry. And nearly $2 billion is spent annually for fertilizer and lime.

Farming uses enough rubber products each year to put tires on 7.5 million cars. It uses more electricity than is consumed in the cities of Baltimore, Boston, Chicago, Detroit and Washington, D. C. It creates three out of every ten jobs in private employment. Farmers pay about $5 billion annually in taxes.

For this the farmer received 41 cents of each $1 spent for food as compared to 47 cents in 1950. In 1969, farm labor and management got $1.57 an hour for their work as compared to $3.19 an hour by labor in the manufacturing industries. It is not the farmer who is profiting from the increase in food prices. The increase is a result of rising costs of performing the marketing services. This includes rent, insurance, maintenance and telephone—up an average of 108% in 1969 over the base period. Prices of new plant and equipment increased 76%. And wages, interest rates, taxes, packing materials, fuel, light, power, transportation, etc., also increased in cost.

If America or the consumers in this great Nation are interested in continued abundant supplies of food at a reasonable cost, we must recognize the place of agriculture in our National economy.

Yours truly,
Uncle Tim

Feds cite Caro Poultry Plant

The U. S. Department of Agriculture announced today that Caro Poultry Plant, 350 Green St., Caro, doing business wholly within the State, has been made subject to provisions of the Federal Poultry Products Inspection Act, because the firm was producing poultry products under conditions clearly endangering the public health.

All products of the plant are being detained, officials said, and the plant is not entitled to operate under the Poultry Products Inspection Act until it is capable of producing a safe, clean, and wholesome product.

USDA's Consumer and Marketing Service took the action under the Wholesome Poultry Products Act as the State has no poultry inspection program of its own.

USDA announced Sept. 1 that all intrastate poultry plants in Michigan would, at the State's request, be placed under Federal inspection surveys as soon as Federal inspection surveys of the affected plants are complete. USDA has authority in the interim, however, to act immediately on any plant found to endanger the public health.

C&MS said that serious sanitation deficiencies were identified in the Caro plant during a Sept. 1 survey by Federal inspectors. The Governor was notified in accordance with Wholesome Poultry Products Act requirements, and plant management was given 10 days to submit written arguments or request an oral hearing.

Officials said a Sept. 17 re-survey of the plant showed that proper corrective action has not been taken. The plant was then made subject to Federal inspection and all products were detained, C&MS said.

BETTER HEALTH

Mongolism evident in child's palm

BY DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

Over one hundred years ago, the great Sir Francis Galton, a founder of the science of genetics, became interested in the differences in finger prints in different people.

Now, I find, in Medical World News, a remarkable article on the subject of finger, hand, and foot print patterns, with several pages of summaries of work done by many researchers in several countries.

There are a number of other peculiarities of the finger prints which are observed in many mongoloid children, and about half of the mongoloids have a peculiar line across their feet.

the articles, said that even without seeing the mongoloid child, he could recognize its disease and make an "absolute and positive diagnosis," from seeing the palms of the hands alone.

In another article on the subject of finger print patterns, Dr. Sidney B. Weinberg told of having examined the hands of 17 infants who had died of the so-called "crib deaths."

Also, Drs. Stowens and Sammon, working with Dr. N. Bigelow in a state mental hospital, Marcy State Hospital, studied 700 schizophrenics and found configurations that are unusual in the general population and common in schizophrenia.

A new test for hepatitis In a news release from the Marquette School of Medicine, Milwaukee, Wis., I read that hepatitis viruses in blood can now be detected within 30 minutes, by a new test which is reportedly simple enough to be performed with every pint of blood that is donated to a blood bank.

A NEW TEST FOR HEPATITIS

This is good news and an important step forward, because until now, the fact that hepatitis viruses could not be recognized in blood meant that the giving of transfusions could be dangerous; a person could be given diseased blood and come down with the serious "serum hepatitis," in which the liver becomes inflamed, and death sometimes occurs.

I knew of a sad case in which a doctor friend of mine, a brilliant researcher, got signs of a peptic ulcer and lost some blood. He was given a transfusion of blood which unfortunately had in it the hepatitis virus, and he quickly got the violent type of the disease.

The new test was developed by two Marquette researchers and has become the routine procedure at the Milwaukee, Wis., Blood Center. One of every 200 volunteer blood donors, and one in every 20 paid ones, can transmit hepatitis virus, hence, many a person's health will be saved by the new test.

Dr. Alvarez regrets that because of the heavy volume of mail, he is unable to enter into correspondence concerning personal health problems. However, he has provided booklets covering a large list of medical subjects. You may be interested in his booklet, "Heart Trouble," which may be yours by simply sending 25 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope along with your request for the booklet to Dr. Walter C. Alvarez, Dept. CCC, Box 957, Des Moines, Iowa, 50304.

NEW MILKING SYSTEM

A semi-automatic milking system that will greatly increase present milking rates has been developed by dairy researchers at Michigan State University.

This system, which has an automated detaching unit, can help a farmer milk 80 to 120 cows per hour, according to Dr. C. A. Lassiter, MSU dairy researcher. That's two to three times the rate of milking systems now being used.

Completes 2nd tour in Asia

Thelma Eubank: depllores godless people

After seven years in South-east Asia where she served as a missionary for the Church of Christ, Mrs. Thelma Eubank, 61, is taking a year-long vacation.

Talk to this dedicated religious teacher and the impression emerges that she would rather be back winning souls than in Cass City visiting with her son and family, the Andrew Eubanks.

Although she appears to be the picture of health, Mrs. Eubank is under doctor's orders to do nothing for the next year.

While in Asia, Mrs. Eubank was an instructor in a correspondence Bible course. We reached over 15,000 persons over the last four years, she said proudly.

Most of them were Indians or Chinese. The Malaysians are Muslim and the government wouldn't allow us to talk with them, she added.

The missionary worked in Singapore and Malaysia. Her first tour was at Singapore where she stayed three years before returning to the States. While on furlough she spent the year talking to Church of Christ congregations. When she returned she settled in Malaysia.

For working for the church she received $293 per month.

Of this amount $118 was used for postage and other expenses of her school. The remaining $175 was her salary. I always spent more than the $118 for the school, Mrs. Eubank said.

In Malaysia, you know, our money is worth three times more. I lived very comfortably on my salary.

The dedicated missionary sprinkled passages from the Bible throughout the interview and says with pride that her denomination is Bible oriented.

She believes in a literal translation, too. For instance Mrs. Eubank doesn't believe that there is a place for instrumental music in the church because the Bible doesn't mention it.

The Eubanks and several other Church of Christ members in the village believe this so strongly that they built a separate church in Cass City.

Mrs. Eubank doesn't know just what she may be called to do in the future. Her plans are indefinite.

It wouldn't be surprising if she decided to return to the missionary field. Because for her, the most outstanding thing about life in Asia is that there are literally "thousands and thousands of persons with no concept of God whatsoever."

THE BIBLE IS the source for the rules governing the Church of Christ, says Mrs. Thelma Eubank, a missionary to Malaysia now visiting at the home of her son, Andrew Eubank, of Cass City.

Letters to Editor

Wonderful people helped us in time of need

Dear John,

It seems you and I constantly disagree. Just because you don't understand something, don't knock it. I think you will agree that the Kennedy family came much too close to a trip to the funeral home. Yet, we all say the one good thing about Kenny's accident was the wonderful people you get to know.

I wish I knew how to write the words that would express our feeling about the things people have said to us that were meaningful. I hope you never need to know how you remember words of comfort. How can I explain how wonderful it was to have Mr. and Mrs. Fred Iseler come and sit with me one long lonely Sunday night at St. Mary's. Elizabeth McCool, who had gone through our tragedy, saying, "Maxine, it will make a better person of you." Pastor Eyer saying, "Crippled is only a word it will draw your family closer together."

Never will I forget Kenny's face, when Dale Turner, breaking all rules at St. Mary's, just walked into the intensive care unit and said, "Hi Ken, you'll make it."

The morning of Kenny's first and most serious operation, a man who I never saw before came up to me and said, "My wife and I have never prayed but when we saw all the blood coming from your son as they wheeled him down the halls, we went home and prayed for him."

That same day after waiting about six hours for Kenny to come out of surgery, we were about climbing the walls. The mailman brought us a copy of "Ideal's Words Eternal" from Janet and Art Severance.

What can you say that's meaningful? Just words and just being there.

I have been told that I was the only one at Kenny's graduation with dry eyes. Well, we expected something nice at his graduation and while expected tributes are nice they aren't the ones you remember the most. Ken deserved some praise because it wasn't easy to go back to school in a wheelchair and it wasn't easy going past the gym door everyday seeing your friends do all the things you couldn't do.

The meaningful things we remember most were the kids who took him Christmas caroling, (Pushing that wheelchair through snow just isn't fun). The cheerleaders who spent time at the games talking to him. Henry Sherman who pushed him through swing-out. The kids who came to his graduation party. Bruce McLeish who took Ken so many places. The boys who helped him in drafting class. Tim Karr who made Ken's Senior Trip possible and all the others who just took time to say hi. You don't know how good Ken would feel after Gary Sefton would come to visit and just tell which girl was going with which boy.

It's easy to say let me know if I can do anything. Some people just go ahead and do things. As Lynn Atwell did when she pulled Ken out of the water.

As you can see, I can write humor better than serious thoughts. Serious thoughts bring tears. But thank heavens there are people to share tears with. When Kenny was so sick Mr. Escklisen walked up to me on Main street and said, "Maxine cry." After I cried, I felt better.

I pray that people in and all around Cass City will continue to go to funeral homes and hospitals or wherever a kind word is needed.

Thankful for those meaningful words. The Kennedy's.

$10,000 quota

Payroll deduction campaign to kick-off Community Chest drive

The annual Elkland-Novesta townships community chest drive will kick-off this week as employees at local plants and businesses will be asked to contribute through the payroll deduction plan.

President Don Erla said that payroll deductions have helped the Community Chest achieve its goal in recent years and are responsible for a significant amount of the money collected. The quota for 1970-71 will remain the same as it was last year: $10,000.

Erla reminded residents that funds donated to the Elkland-Novesta chest are primarily used for local projects. Ten per cent of the money is given to the Michigan United Fund for state-wide projects.

The remainder is used in the area. Needy families, recreation, Little League, Christmas baskets and scouts are among the charities and organizations that depend on the "one gift for all campaign."

An itemized list of the many projects that benefit from Chest funds as well as a breakdown of revenues collected appear in the Chamber's annual report published in this issue.

A new use for the money that starts this year is the establishment of a fund to build a new community pool.

Erla presented the village with a $1,000 check this week to be used only in the construction of a new pool.

In other business newly appointed officers and trustees were announced by the president, Larry Davis is the vice-president, Lynn Albee, Scott Kelley and Jon Fahrner have accepted positions as trustees.

THE VIOLENT wind and rain storm that struck the area Saturday afternoon blew down limbs of trees all over the area and compounded area farmers' problems with the bean harvest. Agricultural Agent Bill Bortel has already termed the bean crop a disaster for many area farmers.

This tree that was uprooted by the wind broke the windshield and put slight dents into the vehicle at the home of Elta Caverly on Third Street.

Council delays okay of $1,000 Chest gift

A $1,000 gift went begging, at least temporarily, Tuesday night as the village council refused a check from the Elkland-Novesta Community Chest for the establishment of a new pool at the Cass City Recreational Park.

The Board of Directors of the Community Chest voted to give the money to the council to establish a fund for the erection of a new swimming pool. The money was earmarked for a new pool and for no other purpose.

Trustee Dr. D. E. Rawson said that he didn't want the village to accept the money until it was clearly established that the village would be under no commitment to build a pool just because they accepted the money.

Rawson and Village Attorney Clinton House questioned whether a donation of this type was legal use of Chest funds.

Chest President Don Erla said later that it was not the board's intention to commit the village to a pool project. They were the logical body to hold fund drives, he said, and this is why we presented them the check.

The donation will be re-considered at a special meeting, probably next week.

Elect Huron delegate

Harold Abke, a Columbia township farmer, was named to the County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee by delegates to the ASC County Convention, held Tuesday, Sept. 22, at the County Civil Defense Center.

Abke has been active as a community ASC committeeman for a number of years before his election to the County Committee. He will serve a three year term beginning October 1.

Other present members of the committee are, Mike Singer, Akron township, and Louis Wenzlaff, Kingston township. Positions on the committee for the coming year will be Singer, Chairman; Abke, Vice-Chairman, and Wenzlaff, member.

The delegates also named Paul Vollmar, Almer Township, and Fred Goodchild, Juniata Township, as first and second alternates to the committee. Electing the county committeemen were community committeemen from the townships.

Included from Elmwood township were: LeRoy Evans, William LaFave, Maurice Evans, committeemen, and Paul LaFave and Ben Hobart, alternates. All are from Gagetown.

In Elkland township the committeemen are Alfred Goodall, Donald Doerr, Homer Muntz and the alternates, Don Kruse and Don Buehly. All are from Cass City.

Ellington township's committeemen are: Frank Satchell and Floyd Putnam, Caro, and Robert Schell, Cass City. Alternates are Chloris Pomeroy, Cass City, and Marion Gordon, Caro.

Novesta township's community committeemen are: Edward Lebtoda, Cass City, and Gerald Hicks and Elmer Voss, both of Deford. Alternates are Sylvester Osantoski, Cass City, and Frank Spencer, Deford.

Kingston township: Frank Nemeth Jr., Chester Karpowski and Arthur Morell, committeemen, and Paul Gyomory and William Zimba, alternates. All are from Deford.

Wells township: Roy Beardslee and Howard Beardslee, both of Caro, and Louis Babich, Deford, committeemen, and John Sokol and Merald Crittenden, both of Caro, alternates.

Council bars groups from "fire hall" building

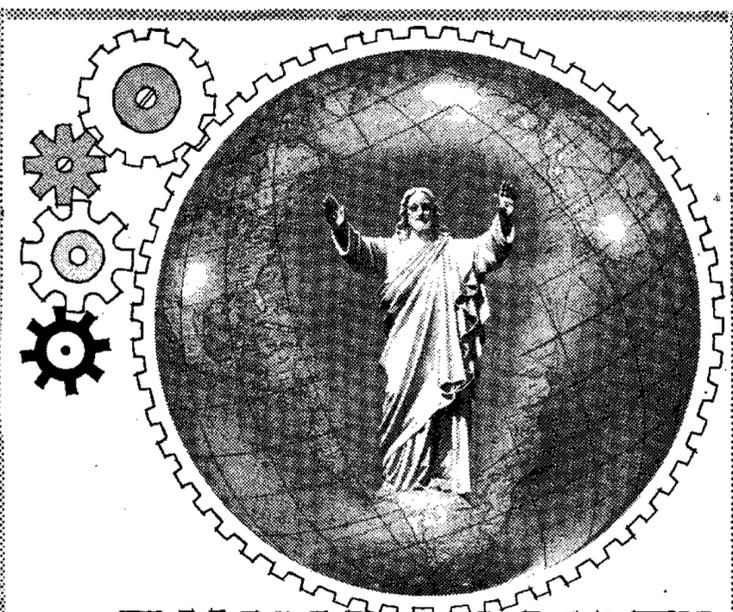

Sometime soon the village will be faced with a problem of what to do with the building that it owns on South Seeger Street, smack in the middle of Cass City's business district. The building houses the fire department, meeting rooms and was the former library. The building is old, the furnace needs repair and there is a parking problem around it. Right now work on the furnace is needed. The council voted to make minimal repairs and close down all but the portion used by the firemen.

That means that the meeting rooms used by the Scouts and other organizations will not be available. The library has already moved to its new quarters.

It appears that the council now leans towards razing the building entirely and using the area for needed off-street parking.

If it does, long-range plans will call for the addition of two or three rooms to the present Municipal Building at the park.

Wheels in Motion

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Day	Book	Chapter	Verses
Sunday	Philippians	3	1-16
Monday	II Corinthians	6:14 to 7:1
Tuesday	Genesis	28	10-22
Wednesday	Exodus	3	1-15
Thursday	Exodus	13	17-22
Friday	Deuteronomy	32	1-12
Saturday	Psalms	119	105-112

When the gears of a machine mesh together in motion, things begin to happen. Wheels turn, and power is transmitted to every part of the mechanism.

Prayer is something like that. Individual prayer is a vital and sacred thing. Each of us has moments when we—and we alone—must turn to God.

And collective prayer—mass prayer—can be a tremendous force for good too. It is as if thousands of "spiritual gears" suddenly were meshed together into a unit directed by a single purpose.

On Worldwide Communion Sunday, remember the power of collective prayer. Join with your neighbors throughout the globe by attending church and praying both for peace and for each other.

Politicos use free mail to boost election campaigns

In 1965, members of the Michigan House spent $16,000 of state money to mail letters and literature to their constituents.

In 1966, the total increased nearly five times to $76,500. In 1967, it subsided slightly to $68,500 but in 1968 it skyrocketed to $222,000.

It slid down to $150,000 in 1969, but by the August primary, this year's total stood at $238,000—an average of better than $2,000 per House member.

It didn't take too much analysis to come up with the fact that every increase came during an election year. That gave some observers the idea, which seems apparent, that some House members were using tax money to publicize their campaigns.

When the figures were disclosed, the House leadership moved to ferret out any blatantly political literature from any future mailings at state expense.

The lower chamber set up two committees to review mailings of both Democrats and Republicans from now on. The Democrats will be supervised by three Democrats, while the Republicans will be supervised by three Republicans.

The big push for the controls came from Republican leader Robert Waldron of Grosse Pointe, who said he was disappointed when the two parties were told to police themselves.

"This isn't quite as far as I wanted to go, but it is a step in the right direction," he said. Waldron would like to see lawmakers who have already abused the mailing privileges be required to pay their postage bills out of their own pockets.

Mailing privileges are authorized because it is felt part of the duty of legislators is to inform their constituents in newsletters what is going on in Lansing. Some also use mailing to poll constituents.

But Waldron said the fact $76,000 was spent on mail in July provides "circumstantial evidence that the mails are being used for campaign purposes."

The most glaring example he cited involved a lawmaker who ran a successful primary race for a nomination to the state Senate and spent $3,818 in state money on postage in July. In August, his postage bill totaled $9.40.

PRISONS CHANGE

Prisons around the country and in Michigan long ago ceased being the dungeon-type places depicted in western movies.

The latest evidence for this continuing change and modernization comes from the Southern Michigan Prison at Jackson.

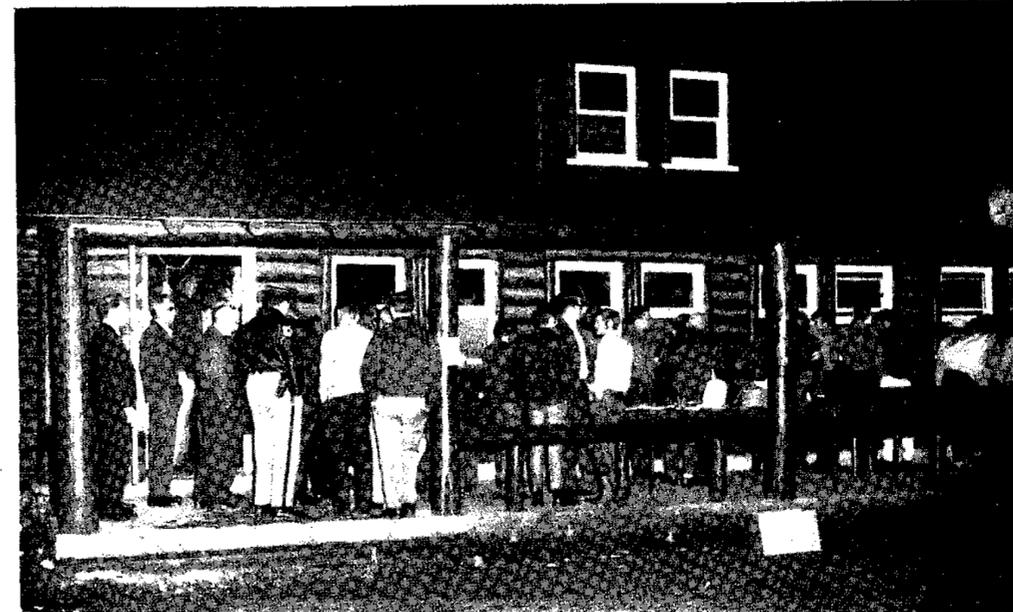

Inmates at the prison who keep a good record for themselves can now pick up a telephone and call their family or friends once a month.

Officials believe it is the first prison in the nation to institute such a program.

"The inmates are just delighted with the new change in rules," says Warden Perry M. Johnson. "If the program works as well as it has so far, we might expand it to include even more inmates."

SPORTSMEN PACKED the Caro Gun Club to listen to the antlerless deer controversy aired. Many picked up no hunting signs to help a campaign to keep doe hunters off private land.

WAITING PATIENTLY TO crowd into the packed Caro Gun Club Sunday were these hunters, most of whom wanted to see the antlerless deer season banned.

Old homes offer special features

There's nothing new about remodeling a basement for additional living space. But to start with an area 54' high and dig down through earth and gravel to gain an additional 2 1/2' of height is a bit unusual!

That's what happened when Mr. and Mrs. Richard Flusser tackled the job of remodeling a home built in 1856.

Careful planning, lots of hard work and a choice of modern building materials resulted in a relatively roomy basement, complete with studio for Mr. Flusser, an opera stage director.

On the top floor, there's a work area for Mrs. Flusser, a graphic artist and former television set designer — who actually did most of the remodeling work.

The Flusser House is located in New York City on the site of the Bouwerie (farm) of Peter Stuyvesant, last director general of the Dutch Colony of New Netherlands. The district was recently designated historic by the Landmarks Preservation Commission.

Thus the Flussers, while modernizing for more space, naturally wished to retain the fine old features of their historic home.

The original brick wall is a highlight of the basement studio, where a combination sheathing-siding plywood with water-resistant glue-line was the choice for other walls and ledges. Metal bi-fold doors enclose furnace and meters.

The highly textured, Early American wood paneling and creamy white louvered doors complement the brick wall.

Indoor/outdoor carpeting was a practical choice for flooring, and a ceiling system conceals ugly pipes.

Both Flussers' work area dramatizes an architectural feature — a stained glass dome between floors.

Footage could have been gained by eliminating the dome, but to preserve this feature, she defined the tiny area by pulling it together with Charter Pecan paneling and moldings.

To the left are stairs leading to the roof, and on fair days light from the open door and skylight provides a sun-drenched artist's studio.

STRESSING COLOR

"Design 70" line of carpet patterns presented by Johns-Manville features unusual abstract patterns and bright, vivid colors. Carpet, in continuous filament nylon level loop construction, has high density commercial rubber backing.

Lions complete broom sale

Annual Lions Club broom sale in the village is in its second week and local members report that the response of local persons to the project that raises funds for the Lions Sight Conservation project has been good.

Members have been canvassing the area with brooms and say that any home or business missed can buy brooms by calling Alger Freiburger.

DEER PROBLEM

the deer were noticeably fewer and they are afraid that the same thing will happen in the Thumb.

They refuse to believe DNR authorities who steadfastly maintain that the lack of feed, not the doe season, was the cause of the reduced deer herd in Michigan.

Deer have not been a problem for local farmers and property owners and they generally back the drive to eliminate the antlerless deer season.

OEC announce appointments of 2 counselors

The Thumb Area Economic Opportunity Commission in Caro announces the appointment of Mrs. Cynthia Brumer as coordinator of the Thumb Area Head Start Programs and of Miss Carol Ross of Cass City as counselor-coordinator for the latest neighborhood youth corp program.

MRS. CYNTHIA BRUMER

As Head Start Coordinator, Mrs. Brumer will assist Head Start teachers in planning their programs, maintain the necessary administrative procedures and provide a communications link between the Head Start Programs and the community.

Mrs. Brumer is a 1970 graduate of Michigan State University with a B. A. in elementary education. She is a native of the Thumb Area having graduated from Lakeland High School at Elkton-Pigeon-Bay Port. Her husband, Harry, is the assistant county supervisor of the Farmers Home Administration in Caro, where the Brumers live.

Miss Ross is a June, 1970, graduate of Spring Arbor College with a dual degree in psychology and social science. She is a 1966 graduate of Ubyly High School.

The program under her administration will include 33 in-school youth to be hired at $1.45 per hour for 7 1/2 hours per week and 10 dropouts to be hired for 25 hours per week.

Hawks seek first victory in home grid opener with Sandusky

The Cass City Red Hawks will attempt to overcome the effects of a 40-0 thumping at the hands of the Frankenmuth Eagles last Friday when they play their home grid opener against Sandusky Friday at Cass City Recreational Park.

On paper, it appears that the Hawks will have another frustrating evening. Sandusky fell last week to Bad Axe, 26-6, but the Redskins have shown enough in two games to rank as slight favorites over winless Cass City.

While the outcome of last week's game against the defending Thumb B Conference champions was never in doubt, the big red machine from Germantown is not the awe-inspiring outfit that it has been the last few years.

As usual, the Eagles are big, big, big. But they lack the speed and the finesse that the team boasted the last two years.

While Frankenmuth didn't distastefully march down the field like the powerhouses of the past, the Eagles were able to come up with the big play when it was needed to break open the game.

After apparently being stopped, the winners scored on a 70-yard gallop by Bob Galsterer after a fake kick with fourth and 12 yards to go deep in their own territory.

Another score came on a 16-yard run following a busted play. The Eagles started a sweep around their own right end and were apparently stopped cold for a loss. But Duane Suppes reversed his field smashed over center and scored standing up.

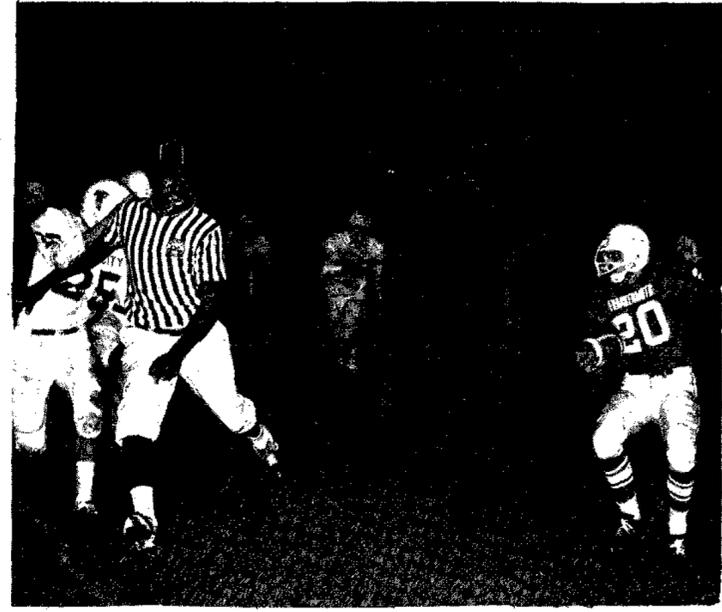

These two scores broke Cass City's back and allowed the winners to pile up the score.

Ken Boesneck passed 31 yards to Bob Huber and 18 yards to Bruce Serreck for scores and Chuck Sanders capped a drive by plunging over from the one-yard line.

yards. The winners controlled the ball for 72 plays while Cass City was in possession for 55 plays.

The Hawks fumbled seven times losing 3, and Quarterback Fred Harbec was intercepted four times to present Frankenmuth with golden opportunities. The Eagles were much too good a team to pass them by.

On defense, Tim Knoblet was responsible for 13 tackles and Marty LeValley, all-conference lineman in his first game this year, picked up 11 tackles.

IT LOOKS AS if one of the officials is running interference for Duane Suppes (20) of Frankenmuth on this run. Actually, it's an optical illusion and Kip Hopper made the tackle after the Frankenmuth back racked up a good gain.

Except for woodcock, which may be hunted from sunrise to sunset, the shooting timetable above covers all migratory birds in Michigan for the 1970 season. The new schedule, modified to account for this year's generally improved waterfowl picture, offers Michigan sportsmen more hunting time afield than last season. It brackets hunting hours on a Monday-through-Sunday basis to avoid confusion that might be created if the timetable shifted hours in the middle of weekends. The new setting of those hours on a weekly basis will also reduce to a minimum the loss of shooting time such as occurred last season. As in recent years, the shooting schedule divides the state into 2 areas—the entire Lower Peninsula and eastern part of the Upper Peninsula, and the western Upper Peninsula. Hunters are urged to check the 1970 Rules for Hunting Waterfowl in Michigan for a detailed description of the timetable's dividing line between the eastern and western Upper Peninsula.

CLOSED TO GOOSE HUNTING
1970, 1971 and 1972

Starting with the 1970 season and running through 1972, these shaded areas will be off limits to hunting geese under a plan to increase the birds' numbers in this part of northwestern Lower Michigan. The closure in part of Leelanau County is aimed at re-establishing this area as a major stopping point for geese so, hopefully, it will produce excellent goose hunting again after the no-hunting order is lifted. The three-year ban is also designed to build up local goose flocks in the Ludington State Park area of Mason County, the Mesick area of Wexford County, and the Elberta area of Benzie County. The exact areas covered by the closure are as follows: LEELANAU COUNTY—Lands enclosed by Highway M-72 on the south, County Highway 667 on the west, and Highway M-22 on the west, north, and east; BENZIE COUNTY—Lands lying west and north of Highway US-31, and west of Ely Road; WEXFORD AND MANISTEE COUNTIES—Wexford, Hanover, Antioch, and Springdale townships in Wexford County, and that portion of Marilla and Dicks townships in Manistee County bounded by USFS Road 5393 on the north, Marilla Road on the west, Coates Highway on the south, and USFS Road 5229 and the county line on the east; MASON COUNTY—Hamlin and Victory townships, and that part of Pere Marquette and Amber townships lying west of Highway US-31 and north of US-10. —Mich. 6,000 acres soil mapped in county in '70

Arthur Cratty, State Conservationist of the U. S. Soil Conservation Service, recently indicated that 497,976 acres of soil mapping was completed in Michigan during fiscal year 1970.

This brings the total acres of modern detailed soil surveys to approximately 12 million acres, or about a third of the State's 36.5 million acres.

During fiscal year 1970, 6,069 acres were soil surveyed in Tuscola county. These maps were used by Cyril Jacot, local Acting District Conservationist for the U. S. Soil Conservation Service, as a basis for resource planning with many individuals and groups in the county.

Mr. Cratty indicated that eight modern soil surveys are published in Michigan and available to the public. These include Grand Traverse, Osceola, Arenac, Muskegon, Montcalm, Ionia, Sanilac, and Lenawee counties. In addition, Delta, Emmet, Charlevoix, Leelanau, Gladwin, Ottawa, Shiawassee, Genesee, Lapeer, St. Clair, Macomb, and Livingston counties are mapped and are awaiting final publication.
