Early copy, extra papers next week

Final plans have been completed for a gala Christmas selling season in Cass City, it was announced this week by Keith McConkey, Chamber of Commerce chairman.

The traditional free shows will be held and a host of fine prizes have been lined up as a bonus for shopping in Cass City.

Complete details will be released in next week's edition of the Chronicle. It will be published a day early so that it will be in the hands of the readers before the Thanksgiving holiday.

Extra papers will be printed so that all homes, including those in fringe areas, will receive a copy.

Advertisers, correspondents and other contributors are asked to observe one-day earlier deadlines so that the paper can be mailed Tuesday.

Average deer season opener

It was an average opening day for the 1970 deer season, according to reports of hunters who crowded into Tuscola county in record numbers.

Several hunters reported seeing more deer this year than last while others felt that there were less. . .possibly depending on the location where they were hunting on the opener.

Charge reduced in Circuit Court

Tuscola county's circuit court handled a number of criminal cases Tuesday, Nov. 17. Edward Marks, formerly of Cass City, had his charge of unarmed robbery reduced to a charge of simple assault. He will be sentenced Dec. 28.

In district court Calvin Helwig of Gagetown paid a fine of $40 and costs of $13 for being disorderly.

County DPW accepts bids for sewage system

Tuscola county's active new department of public works accepted bids on the two phases of Reese's new sewage disposal system late last week. The county public works department is comprised of Floyd Ducker and Charles Woodcock of the Board of Commissioners, Alton Reavy and Grover Laurie of the county road commission and Drain Commissioner Leslie Lounsbury of Cass City.

The public works department heard 17 bids, either for construction of the sanitary sewage system or the construction of a lagoon or both.

The low bidders were the Otto Taylor Construction Company of Saginaw for the sanitary sewer system with a bid of $663,829 and The J. C. Steadman Company of Bay City for $177,093 for the lagoon and pumping station.

pumping station. The Spicer Engineering Company of Saginaw was to go over the bids before awarding contracts. The county department of public works has been actively working for sewage construction in Millington and now in Reese with Kingston and Akron-Fairgrove due to follow in the upcoming months. Bonds on the Reese project will be sold Nov. 24. The principal purpose of the five-man department is to provide the full faith and credit of the county behind the bonds and in doing so, actively administer the development for the smaller governmental units of the county. For the first time antierless deer permits were issued, but they seemingly had little effect on the total legal kill.

No does were reported killed in the immediate Cass City area and James Geilhart, conservation officer at Caro, said that 200 hunters checked in the DNR office Sunday and 13 bucks and one doe were reported killed.

Geilhart reported an increasing number of violations, Eight

Lions seek 1000 petition signers

The Cass City Lions Club is looking for 1,000 signatures from the area petitioning the United Nations to seek the names of North Vietnam prisoners of war, Al Witherspoon, project chairman, announced this week

The petitions are available from any Lions Club member and the project here will be duplicated in all Lions Clubs in the county and the nation.

Besides seeking the names,

Besides seeking the names, the petitions ask the UN to take measures to assure humanitarian treatment of prisoners during confinement.

High school and college students can sign this petition, Witherspoon said, as it is not a legal document.

Student safety: who pays the bill?

The campaign of Mrs. Jacqueline Freiburger for student safety to and from school raises knotty problems for school and village authorities.

Basically, the answer that may prove too difficult to solve is: who will pay the bill?

Mrs. Freiburger is asking that two crossing guards be hired for up to 2 hours a day to help youngsters across main arteries and that crossing areas for the students be painted on the streets so that the children will have a recognized crossing area.

She also is requesting that the village plow the sidewalks on Oak from Main to the Campbell and Intermediate school buildings and on North Seeger to the Intermediate school. The walks between the Intermediate and High schools are plowed by the school district.

It may be that the painted crossing area can be arranged without much expense. Plowing the walks and paying for adult supervision may not be so easily solved, rustees must decide whether the village or the school district should pay the cost of safety for children attending school.

It is likely that the council will take a long look before fumping into sidewalk plowing. One reason is that at the present time, there is no equipment suitable for this work in the village.

To be fair to all taxpayers, the board might well be morally obligated to plow all the sidewalks in the village, if they plow any.

Such a program would, of course, swell village maintenance payrolls.

A case can be presented requiring the school district to pay for the cost of crossing guards and sidewalk plowing on main arteries. The thing is: sidewalk plowing helps only children who live in the village. School buses help only children who live in the rural area. If the district taxpayers pay for one, why not the other? State reimbursement for transportation does not cover all the excense to the district.

Meanwhile, the council is looking into programs in other communities of comparable size to see how the problem is handled.

All seemingly agree that the present system needs revamping for more safety for children as they walk back and forth to classes.

No one said much about it at the school board meeting the other night. The empty chair at the head of the table was ignored and the board conducted business as usual,

But it wasn't the same without President Horace Bulen.
The loss will be even more noticeable when the irate tax-payer or the disgruntled parent comes steaming into a future meeting. For it was inevitably Horace who poured oil on the troubled water. He listened to what people had to say and more often than not was able to present a solution that satisfied without jeopardizing the school's position.

All of us who know him and those who know of him. . . . and that covers just about everyone in the area. . had to have serious second thoughts when they learned of the injury that has resulted in paralysis from the chest down and the fight for recovery he faces. It places all the little troubles, the little worries in proper perspective.

Just what am I doing and why? Am I taking the time for the really important things? Am I missing the boat?

Fleeting thoughts like this occur with any major disaster. What carves the Bulen accident so indelibly, makes it so starkly impressive, is the man. He just shouldn't have suf-

He just shouldn't have suffered a crippling injury in a fall from a bike. He kept in condition. In his early 60's, he looked younger and battled to stay fit.

A heavy smoker, he quit. He never drank anything stronger than Coke and he exercised . . . and he did it every day. It seems unjust that a man with his determination should be the one that fate struck. While the rest of us who eat too much, or drink too much, or exercise too little go merrily on our way.

It's another reason that his accident has had a profound effect. . . . many times on persons he scarcely knew.

There is now no way of assessing the recovery chances. But there is no doubt what ever that Horace Bulen will work to make the most out of whatever recovery is possible.

He has the courage, determination and desire to make it so.
All of the prayers and the good wishes of the community will be behind him.

All day Friday strangers from out of town were bugging the Chronicle to find out where the antique sale sponsored by the St. Pancratius Church was being held.

And evidently they all came armed with fat wallets. Looking out the window from a restaurant Friday I spotted an enter-prising lady with a painted milk strainer. I vouched to my three lunch companions that it probably had a way-out price . . . maybe as much as $8. To settle the question I jaunted out and sneaked a peak at the price tag still attached: $10. That's

I splurged, said the visitor, because it's what I wanted and it was already painted. At those rates, Rembrandt should have been wielding the brush.

Before you ask, I agree with the letter Mrs. Marilyn Schott writes this week about the sale. It certainly added a little life to the old burg and it's certain that lots of folks know about Cass City that never knew before.

It's equally certain that as a fund raising project it beats all hollow anything else held around town. It raised a bundle of boodle and, if you disregard labor, the cost to church members was negligible.

It took a sharp-eyed reader to point out a typo in the head of this column that continued for we don't know how many weeks. The small type in the head reads: "(And anyone else he can get to help). We "pick up" this head and reuse it week after week. It got so messy after awhile that it was retyped...

Once it slipped by it became a standard goof week after week. The line read "Any anyone. . .etc. instead of "And

Either the hunters with doe permits that were successful aren't talking or the campaign by local sportsmen's clubs has been extraordinarily effective.

To date we haven't received one report of a doe killed in the area.'...nor have we heard rumors of one that was shot.

Dairy seminar open to all

Outstanding speakers will be featured at six Dairy Breeding Seminars held throughout Michigan in visiting with dairymen on "how to make the best use of A. I. sires" to meet the needs of modern dairy farming. The seminars open to all dairymen are sponsored by the Michigan Animal Breeders Cooperative. In combination with an excellent educational program, all dairymen will be treated with a complimentary lunch.

The Dairy Seminar for this area will be held on Thursday, Dec. 3, in Applegate-Community Fire Hall - starting at 10:00 a. m. Applegate located southeast of Sanđusky.

The MABC Board recognizes the fact that modern dairy herd management is becoming much more complex and sophisticated. A dairyman is called on in his daily routine to make many important decisions, which should be based on the latest proven concepts. The basic idea for holding this Seminar is to expose the dairyman or those who assist him in deciding how to select the proper sire for use in his herd. With this idea in mind, MABC has made an effort to secure the best qualified speakers possible for this Seminar.

Featured speakers will be well known personalities. highly respected in dairy circles, namely John Hecker Jr., Sire Analyst for Select Sires, Inc., formerly MABC Sire Analyst; Dr. Clint Meadows, Professor and Dairy Extension Specialist at Michigan State University; Dr. E. B. Burnside, Associate Professor of Animal Breeding, Department of Animal Science, University of Guelph, Ontario, Canada, and Jim Day, Manager of Sales & Service at MABC, formerly with Holstein-Friesian Association.

In addition to the educational value of this program there will be door prizes for those in attendance,

"If It Fitz. . ." A different drummer

BY JIM FITZGERALD

When Joe died suddenly, after living only 43 years, my big sister revealed her old fashioned upbringing. "He just never found a good woman," she explained.

Her meaning was plain: If Joe had married well, or even just so-so, he'd still be alive today. If he'd married a real catch, he'd still be alive 40 years from now, sleeping each night with a great-grandmoth-

The evidence against bachelor Joe, when whispered in sight of his casket, sounded bad. He left his hometown 10 years ago, moving to wicked New York City, and never returned, not even for Christmas. He lived in the same hotel room for 6 years and it must be assumed that all his worldly possessions were in there with him. No refrigerator that spits ice cubes. No 2-car garage, No power lawn mower. No lawn. And, even if he'd had a lawn, he had no one to tell him to

When Joe's body was sent home in a box, his family was fearful of looking at him. The heart attack that killed him came while he sat in a bar. Had his face been ravaged by 10 years of dissipation? He'd been one of the most handsome guys in town. But now. . . He looked fine. Not a bit different than when he was 33. Joe looked better than some of us contemporaries who stood nearby, mourning him. And remember, he was dead.

His family felt a lot better when they saw how good Joe looked. They figured those 10 years maybe hadn't been so bad after all.

I'll bet they weren't. Not for Joe, I remember Joe well, He was something, I'll tell you. He was one of a large group of World War 2 veterans who used to meet regularly in the 'Alibi Bar, or Harrington's Taproom, or the Legion euchre room. Those were fun days when we worked as little as possible, or went to college and studied as little as possible. And always, we had as much fun as possible.

No one enjoyed himself more than Joe. And no one was more enjoyable. It was always a better party if Joe showed up.

For the rest of us, the party ended sooner. We all found good women. I even own a lawn mower now, and I swore I never would. I don't know what Joe did those last 10 years, but I'd be awfully disappointed to hear he ever put up a storm window.

Joe marched to a different drummer. Certainly he was out of step with a lot of the world. Certainly he could have been more considerate of his relatives back home. But pardon me if I can't tch tch. I mourn Joe's death because he was one of the most delightful guys I knew. But I can't mourn his

SPORTS FANS!

By H. M. Bulen

What's the longest any pro or college football team ever went without winning a game? . . . The record is held by RPI which once went 6 years and 43 consecutive games without a win!...RPI won a game on Oct. 17, 1959 and then even though they played a full schedule every year in between, they did not win another game until Oct. 23, 1965.

Nowadays, all pro football teams except the Cleveland Browns have distinctive insignias on their helmets--but few people know that the person who started it all was not an owner, or a publicity man, but a player . . . A halfback on the Los Angeles Rams in 1948, Fred Gehrke, was fooling around one day and painted rams horns on his helmet. . .Soon, the club took that as its official design, and that started the trend of almost every team having a design on their helmets.

Here's a football oddity. . .

Texas A&M outgained Alabama 115 yards to 59; out-passed them 194 yards to 16; and out first-downed them 13 to 1 -and still lost the game 29-21!

Table salt can be harmful rejoicing when several drugs were constructed which relieved diabetics in those many cases in which the disease appeared in a mild form late in the person's life. These remedies could be taken by mouth. not with a hypodermic needle, and this brought great happi-ness to thousands of adult diabetics. Still, the young patient who gets his diabetes early in life, perhaps in his childhood or early adulthood, must take insulin and must keep injecting it into his muscles throughout his life.

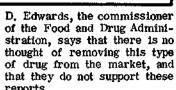

Another type of diabetic who gets his diabetes later in life, perhaps in his fifties or sixties, has so mild a form of the disease that it can be controlled with diet alone.

Diabetes mellitus is a hereditary disease in which the pancreas, the big digestive gland that contains the important "islet cells" (the islets of Langerhans) that in a normal person produce insulin, does not function properly; the resulting lack of insulin in the person's body can eventually produce

Years ago, before insulin was discovered by Drs. Banting and Best in Toronto, we doctors had to stand by and watch young children and young adults who developed diabetes waste away and soon die, and we did not know any way to give them the insulin they needed to save them. Now, thanks to daily injections of the drug, a diabetic. with proper good care of his health, can live out his normal life-span happily and productively.

People often wonder why insulin must be taken by injection rather than orally, and the reason is that insulin is promptly digested in the stomach, and when digested, is of no value. However, when a few years ago a different type of drug was discovered that could be taken by mouth without being digested, some diabetics -those who got the disease later in life -- could give up their daily injections. The oral type of drug works differently from the insulin, that is, by stimu-lating the "islet cells" in the pancreas to release more insulin. The difference is that in youngsters, the "islet cells" are almost gone, so that little insulin can be produced.

Now, the medical world and diabetics who have been taking the oral type of drug, are much disturbed by press reports that say that not only does the oral type of medicine have no value, but even that it sometimes injures the heart. Such statements are not supported by the AMA. the Food and Drug Administration or the American Diabetes Association; and Dr. Charles

It is hard to believe that a medicine that has been used for years with satisfaction can be valueless or even harmful, but I think most physicians will accept the statement of the head of the FDA and will reserve judgment. One difficulty is that there are a few men who seem to be happiest when proving that our foods and beverages are either lacking in something necessary to health, or are full of something that is harmful to health.

Under the circumstances, I feel that if I had a diabetes that had come to me after middle life and that had been controlled with an oral type of drug, I would go on taking the drug until statistics have been well checked, and perhaps all the recent fears have been cleared away.

As I have often written here, it is possible to do harm with almost any drug if given in enormous quantities. When some men give to rats a dosage of a certain drug some 50 times greater than the dose commonly given to human beings and some of the rats develop bad effects and perhaps even cancer, I do not get excited. My old professor from Vienna used to remind me that even table salt can be a fatal poison when a big enough dose is taken. He told me that in Germany, the servant girls were known to commit suicide with an overdose of table salt.

Dr. Alvarez regrets that he cannot enter into correspondence concerning personal health problems. However, he has provided a number of booklets covering an equally large list of medical subjects. You may be interested in his booklet, "Diabetes Which Appears in Middle or Late Life," which you may have by simply sending 25 cents and a stamped, selfaddressed envelope along with your request for the booklet to Dr. Walter C. Alvarez, Dept. CCC, Box 957, Des Moines, Iowa 50304.

"Many children, faced with a situation they cannot handle, will react by hesitating and withdrawing, shutting their mouth clam-tight, even running

Such children are excessively shy and unfortunately this shyness is often misunderstood. While not all children are equally sociable, some children are less responsive to social situations because they lack self-reliance. This shyness is an indication that something has gone wrong during the process of growing up. And this makes it difficult for your child to take part in the new activities facing him. But it's not too late to help.

Your shy child needs to have a better opinion of himself. He must always feel that you want and love him, no matter what. He needs the security that comes from knowing that his parents are standing by with a caring attitude, understanding, interest and support. This support may take many forms. It may be standing by, watching him with a smile and no words. It may be offering suggestions to help. It may be showing him how to do something so he can do it himself. It may be reminding him of the rules.

Always it is letting him assume as much as he is currently able to assume.

ONE FOR THE ROAD

Brainwashing the Chinese way

Through an odd coincidence this past week I was exposed twice to the subject of brain-

A friend sent me a copy of William Sargant's BATTLE FOR THE MIND, published in England. The book's subtitle The Mechanics of Indoctrination, Brainwashing, and Thought Control". It was first published in 1957, after the Korean War.

And then another friend-in quite a different part of the country--mailed me a tape made of a psychiatrist in the armed forces speaking to a group of officers at the Army War College. The subject of the psychiatrist's lecture was brainwashing.

The book and the tape between them cleared up many misconceptions I had on the Brainwashing as a generic term came into the S. vocabulary after Korea. was the first war in which our prisoners were exposed to forced-draught study of a different political ideology.

In Korean prison camps the Chinese Communists' exploitation of the new art was brilliant. Very little force was used, in contrast to the Japanese prison camps of World War II. The first step was simple: the Communists isolated the leaders. They isolated the officers (those whose psyche gave no indication of eventual cooperation), the better educated, and the natural leaders. If a man organized a baseball game, he was per se a leader. The Communists wished to deal with the apathetic, the uneducated, the dis-The amazing part of it is that careful armed service evaluation of the procedure indicates that the Communists had to remove only 5% of the prisoners to reduce leadership to a vacuum. And the Communists' indoctrination of the remaining 95% was both thorough and far-reaching. It was insidiously simple. Most people have read headlines about the Chinese system of informing, even children against their parents. I had never understood previously that this is the backbone of the Communist structure, this encouragement, this insistence upon tale-bearing against anyone doing anything inimical to the Communist

Consider: a revolution inescapably must begin with an agreement between two men. Other trusted men are brought into the cabal, and the snowball grows. But what of a society where no two men trust each other because in the minds of each the other might be an

By Dan Marlowe were returned to the U. S. after the cease-fire, psychiatrists evaluating them noticed an odd thing. On the hospital wards the prisoners would speak freely to the nurses and the doctors, but not to each other. At any hour of the day or night, there was silence on the wards. These men had

had been divided -- in the prison camps by the fear of informers

in their midst until no concerted action on their part was ever possible. Many have heard the story of the prisoner who made a tape for the Communists to the effect that in his home town education was arbitrarily denied except to the wealthy. "I wanted my mother to hear my voice and know I was alive," he explained when he was re-patriated. "And everyone knows it isn't true." The 700,000,000 million in the world who receive no information except from Communist sources didn't know it wasn't true, and it seems a high price to pay for one soldier's wishing to have his mother hear his voice. Of such small triumphs is the Communist ideology perpetuated.

Men in Communist prison camps were usually divided into groups of from 12 to 15. When their resistance level had been lowered sufficiently, the group might be given an assignment to write something derogatory about their home towns. If there was even one holdout in the group, none of the men in the group had their next meal until the rebel conformed. Thus the pressure was internal as well as external. What could be bad about an act that was insisted upon by one's comrades?

From a hundred such groups the Chinese might extract only one nugget sufficiently exploitable to be used in the Communist press around the world, The only limit to such exploitation is the number of Communist publications. There is no limit to the damage done to the American way of life among those who have no other concept of it.

Captured Communist psychiatrists stated that the average American is not loval. He is not disloyal in the active sense of being a traitor perhaps, but he isn't loyal to his local government, his employer, or even his family. The Communist psychiatrists stated that the average American will make a deal, that he will compromise to obtain better treatment for himself, that each man has his price and the average price isn't high.

It's not a comforting thought with the communist and capitalist ideologies confronting

TWO GREAT LEADERS

Outstanding in Michigan. They met to make history on that eventful September day in 1819. Two great leaders - Lewis Cass, Michigan's first territorial governor, soldier, pioneer...and Ogemaunkeketo, proud, brave chieftain of the Chippewas. Each spoke bravely and with dignity in behalf of his people. When their pow wow was ended, Ogemaunkeketo and Cass... the Big Chief and the Pioneer . . . had made the Treaty of Saginaw a reality.

Today, we have a natural product that reminds us of this outstanding leadership: Michigan-made pure sugar... "Pioneer" and "Big Chief"... at your fingertips in their familiar red, white and blue bags at food stores everywhere. "Big Chief" and "Pioneer" — two great leaders -outstanding in Michigan!

Dr. Fleenor rejoins staff at Albion

Dr. Wayne H. Fleenor, emeritus member of the Albion College staff since his retirement three years ago, has re-joined the College working in the area of church relations, according to Dr. Bernard T. Lomas, College president.

DR, FLEENOR

Dr. Fleenor is also associate of Albion's First United Methodist Church. An Albion graduate, he also holds a bachelor of divinity from Garrett Theological Seminary and a doctor of divinity degree from Albion. Prior to his first term with the College, Dr. Fleenor served Methodist pastorates in Jackson, Camden, Parma and Eaton Rapids from 1929-41, and then for the next six years was executive secretary of the Michigan Conference Board of Education. From 1947-61 he was man of the committee on scholarships and student aid. In 1961 he was named director of church and campus relations, a post he held until his retirement in 1967.

Road funds up 6.8 per cent in 3rd quarter

Cass City and the threecounty area shared in the 6.8 per cent increase in collections the third quarter of the Motor Vehicle Highway Fund, according to information released this week by Henrik E. Stafseth, director of Michigan State Highway Commission, Tuscola's share of the road money jumped from $247,035 for the third quarter of 1969 to $264,594 in 1970.

Sanilac county increased from $236,899 to $255,167 while Huron county received $238,155 as compared to $222,086 in the corresponding 1969 quarter.

Cass City's share went from $9,940 to $10,570. Other area communities received: Caro, $10,570; Gagetown, $2,007; Kingston, $1,501; Ubly $2,559.

After predetermined expenses are collected, 46 per cent of revenue goes to the highway department, 34 per cent to the 83 counties and 20 percent to Michigan's incorporated cities and villages.

Offer college degree courses at area schools

Persons in the Thumb area interested in earning credit toward a bachelor's degree will have the opportunity to do so if studies made by two Michigan Universities determine there is a need to set up classes. Central Michigan University and Eastern Michigan University will cooperate on an undergraduate degree program of course offerings if enough people in the area are interested. Classes will be started as soon as possible and be conducted in Marlette, Students could enroll in either of the sponsoring universities. The response by potential students will determine the courses to be offered. The program will be tailored to the needs of those planning to enroll, since some of the students may have college or university credits toward degrees and others will be beginning their college work. Those interested in seeking course information should contact Paul Oberle, Central Michigan University office, Mayville High School, Mayville, Mich., 48744. He may be reached by telephone during school hours by calling (517) 843-6511.

Antique show put village back on map

Dear John

After only three weeks of day and night work. . . . our Antique originality sale and show is over - over on the selling side, but a beginning of the new look!! We are exhausted, elated, relieved, but most of all happy. We made a lot of money, which was our aim for the church. However, more important, we made many friends, put Cass City back on the map again (since we were "The Christmas Town)," brought business to Cass City - the gas stations, restaurants and local businesses enjoyed new customers.

We had people from the entire state, Canada and even Portland, Oregon, Some came to look, others to buy and many to obtain ideas. We feel we had volume, but could have hundreds of particular items. . .items common to us town people, but a treasure to those from the city.

We could have filled five stores the size of Joe's and sold everything. Time was our problem. We got big fast and ran short of time to get bigger. One customer from Hamburg, Mich., purchased a chair for their church altar. One last, minute customer (very senior citizens), from Garden City purchased several leftovers, but in the rush to get in forgot the parking meter. They quite rapidly received a parking ticket, which we even more rapidly paid ($1.00 to the city we might add) in any event they

we can enjoy reading over and over again.

We couldn't have put on such an event without our parishioners' donations and hard working men and women in the church.

Our parish priest, Fr. Gengler, is a little delighted over the results. (Thanks for helping carry the one pick-up load in, Father).

Our most sincere thanks to Joe Riley who donated the use of his building for this sale. We'll clean every corner for you.Joe.

Most of all thanks to the Head of all our churches for holding back our unpredictable Michigan weather - This was all for Him - and He gave us the strength to carry it through.

> Respectfully yours, Mrs. Alan Rogers and Mrs. Robert Schott For St. Pancratius

Hawks rally to top Panthers in final game

Cass City High School spotted visiting Birch Run a touchdown in the first quarter and then came roaring back to score twice and win a nip and tuck battle, 14-8.

It ended the season on a high note for the Red Hawks who played a highly satisfactory came in a losing effort to Bad axe the previous week.

It looked for awhile as if it were going to be another one of those nights in the first quarter. The first three times the Hawks took the ball from scrimmage they fumbled and all three times, the Panthers re-

All of the bobbles were deep in Cass City's territory. The defense turned back the Panther challenge twice, but the third time, Birch Run moved in to score. It was a 22-yard scamper by Clarence Neff that netted the score. The extra points try was good and the visitors were

Two key plays turned the game around for Cass City. Deep into the second quarter, Paul Bliss faded back and hit Richard "Zike" Miller with a pass in the right flat, Miller darted across field, shook a tackler and saw daylight, streaking into the left corner of the end zone for the marker. The play covered 55 yards. The score was tied a moment later as Bliss passed to Scott Guernsey for the extra points.

Linebacker Tim Knoblet was responsible for setting up the winning touchdown for Cass City. He came busting through the line on a blitz to block a Panther kick and give Cass City the ball deep in Birch Run territory.

Three first downs and 10 plays later, Bliss powered around end for the tiebreaking

The Hawks turned in another strong defensive effort. Birch Run was able to run for 185 yards, but much of it was between the 30-yard lines.

When it counted, the Hawks stopped the visitors' drive.

It was the last game for eight seniors on the squad. Although Coach William Philbin will have a strong nucleus of underclassmen back next

On defense, for example, four of the five players making the most tackles have played their last game for Cass City.

Junior Tim Knoblet was credited with 13 in an outstanding game. Tom Hunt picked up 12. Marty LeValley and Kim Hop-per had 11 tackles each and Miller had eight.

Another Senior, Scott Guernsey, was a bulwark on offense, played safety on defense and was the team punter.

Dan Calster and Bob Hennessey filled vital roles in the Red Hawks' picture as did Henry Wilson after he reported out for the team.

Bean Day at Caro Tuesday

Al Latimer, president of the Tuscola Bean Growers Association, is the chairman of the annual Tuscola County Bean Day slated Tuesday, Nov. 24, at Sacred Heart School in Caro. Latimer announced a varied program starting at 10 a. m. and continuing until 3 p. m. Before the free noon lunch is served, John McGill, executive-secretary of Michigan Bean Shippers Association, will speak of "Containerized Handling of Beans for Export*. Harold Laswell will talk about "See Supply - 1971" and Dr. Fred Saettler, USDA Plant Pathologist, will talk about "Bacterial Blight and the Future of Beans."

Dr. Wayne Adams of Michigan State University will speak of "New Plant Breeding Developments* and William Bortel, Tuscola County Extension Director, will talk about "Corn Culture Practices Leading to Better Beans* and the Tuscola corn report will be ready for producers. Since all of the speakers will talk between 10 a. m. and 12 noon, their talks will necessarily be brief and to the point. In the afternoon, reports and elections will be held followed by a talk by Don Kebler about "Fertility and Management Practices of Beans" and Dr. Clifford Bedford, MSU food science department, who will talk about "Mechanical Damage to Beans and Its Effect on Canning Quality".

One report that will be particularly important to the growers concerns moving beans overseas in export containers. which hold 400 bags each.

A recent shipment of Michigan Navy beans to England is receiving special attention, as the big sealed, trailer-like carriers are wired to keep a constant tab on temperature and humidity inside. There are 19 electronic probes, taped into carefully-spaced bags through-out the load, to check on heat and moisture conditions. When the shipment arrives in England, the beans will be checked carefully for quality and appearance, and data from the electronic units will be assessed to determine how well the containers serve the bean

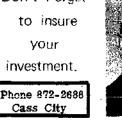

Actually, the containers have been in use for most of a year, and this is the second time that the delicate monitoring devices are employed. The other shipment was made in the hottest, most humid conditions July could inflict, and export containers worked "beautifully"

Officials of Michigan Bean Commission are confident that cold-weather conditions are better to maintain bean quality in transit.

The project, taking place in Detroit, will result in the rehabilitation of 1,000 housing units in the inner city. And while the total cost will be $15 million, the project will be paid off by persons who move into the renovated units and by federal grants and won't cost one cent of state reve-

The buildings being rehabilitated are structurally sound, but otherwise in serious disrepair, some to the point they are not occupied.

Each building will be outfitted with new mechanical and electrical systems. The kitchens will be furnished with new sinks, refrigerators, stoves and disposals, and each apartment will have a communications system and burglar alarm.
