

FROM THE Editor's Corner

If there weren't more to hunting than getting a deer, chances are that most nimrods would stay right around home come Nov. 15 every year.

They don't, of course. They trek off to the north woods in droves.

Most come back empty handed. Most know that they will come back empty handed before they leave.

Speaking from personal experience, I know that many don't even have a gun.

Why go at all? Just to get away from it all. Away from the phones, the routine, the sameness of everyday living.

After three or four days eating north woods cooking and listening to north woods jokes and roughing it with the "natives", everything looks better when you return home.

Actually, many hunters will tell you that getting a buck is just an added thrill to the hunting trip... sort of the icing on the cake.

Most enjoy getting out in the woods and get a charge out of just seeing a deer... any deer.

Ant that's the reason that among hunters nearly all favor a Buck only season. Deer in the Thumb has not reached the point where it is THE hunting season here.

A large percentage have lived through the rise and decline of pheasants. Most can remember the glory years of north-woods hunting when it was not uncommon to see 15 to 20 deer in a day.

What's bugging them is the unspoken fear that the Department of Natural Resources' any deer season will reduce local herds so that it will be hard to see a deer again here just like it was before the deer population started to explode.

They refuse to believe DNR figures that show a greater harvest of deer every season because of the antlerless season.

The DNR can come up with impressive figures to back its stand... and they may well be right.

Scientifically right, that is. But deer hunting involves people and landowners and sportsmen. Most of them are adamant against killing does and fawns.

Right or wrong, the DNR stand has accomplished little in Tuscola county this season except spur the posting of the huge majority of private land and make finding a place to hunt harder for the ordinary guy.

There have been few does killed and there will probably be relatively few shot between now and the end of the season.

DNR authorities might weigh the results.

It just may be that an antlerless deer season will do more harm than good here even if all they say about killing deer is true.

ONE OF THESE days Mrs. Stanley Kirn Sr. is going to take these pieces to the Detroit museum for appraisal. She bought them when a missionary in China and they date back to the Ming dynasty.

Mrs. Kirn: a personal view of Red China

For years now Mrs. Stanley P. Kirn Sr. has been saying that it was folly for the United Nations not to recognize Red China and it appears that before long her judgement will be vindicated.

Mrs. Kirn was basing her judgement on long study and her four years in the country as the wife of a foreign missionary.

It's ridiculous, she feels, that the United States has not acknowledged Peking long before.

After all, she points out, countries in South America change governments all the time and are almost immediately recognized. We should recognize Red China as a country and Taiwan as another country, Mrs. Kirn feels.

You want to remember, that my impressions of China are ancient history as far as personal observation is concerned and it's hard to learn what's happening in the country now because visits of foreigners are so restricted, Mrs. Kirn explained.

It has been a long time since Mrs. Kirn and her just graduated husband trokked to Nanking University in 1922 to start four years as China missionaries.

After a year in Shanghai the Kirns moved inland about 1,000 miles to the province of Hunan which is now Yunnaning. They ran a missionary school in a city of about 60,000 sprawled along the banks of the Yangtze River.

The kids there were just like kids everywhere, Mrs. Kirn said, some bright, some not so bright. But it was a privilege to go to school and we had no problems with discipline.

The strong anti-foreigner feeling is nothing new in China, Mrs. Kirn says. We were forced to leave in 1926 as were all missionaries in China at the time.

One reason for the ill feeling was that the city was paying indemnity for two European missionaries killed in 1900.

The payments were a real hardship when considered in the light of the times. Persons starved to death on the side of the streets was a commonsight and the country was still reeling from the worst famine in history, Mrs. Kirn recalled. Compared to China as she knew it in 1925, today's China is much, much better off, Mrs. Kirn feels.

In China 35 years ago each province was a law unto itself. Hardly 10 per cent of the people were literate, Mrs. Kirn said. Now the Chinese are one of the most educated people in the world and 99 per cent can read and write. Today there is a bit more rice in the bowl.

Like them or not, Mrs. Kirn said, the Communists have welded the country and achieved a higher standard of living than the country enjoyed before they took over.

Commission still studies salaries

Tuscola county's board of commissioners met Tuesday with a routine agenda of business items before the seven man board. One item, not settled yet, concerns the pay of county employees and that item was likely to be up for discussion on the agenda.

Commissioners Floyd Duckert of Mayville and Edward Golding of Cass City were going over those items Monday afternoon in the commissioners' meeting room.

Winter's first blast brings rash of mishaps in Thumb

High winds, starting out of the southwest, moved into Tuscola county Sunday stranding a number of hunters out on Saginaw Bay, and forcing other hunters to retreat to shore as quickly as possible with the water moving out of the bay. A coast guard helicopter picked up three more Flint area hunters early Monday morning after a cold Sunday night on the bay.

The winds knocked down at least a dozen trees, primarily in the southeast corner of the county, and swinging into the northwest, brought the north half of the county, including Cass City, its first snow of the year. The snow... always unexpected until its arrival... can be expected to bring the hunter to the trail... the procrastinator to the service stations for anti-freeze and snow tires... and the youngsters to the first pile of snow.

Ivan Kenneth Haley, 28, of Cass City was ticketed by Sanilac County Sheriff's deputies Monday night for following too closely after the car he was driving was involved in a two-car crash on M-81, about a mile west of M-53.

Haley was traveling east on M-81 when his car hit the rear of a vehicle driven by Ruth May Streussig, 34, of Bad Axe.

Treated for minor injuries at Hills and Dales General Hospital were two passengers in the Streussig vehicle, Tilley Wineski, 58, and Marge Hardwood, 33, both of Bad Axe. The road was slippery and visibility poor at the time of the mishap.

OTHER ACCIDENTS
Tuscola County Sheriff's deputies policed three accidents in the past week involving residents from the eastern half of Tuscola county.

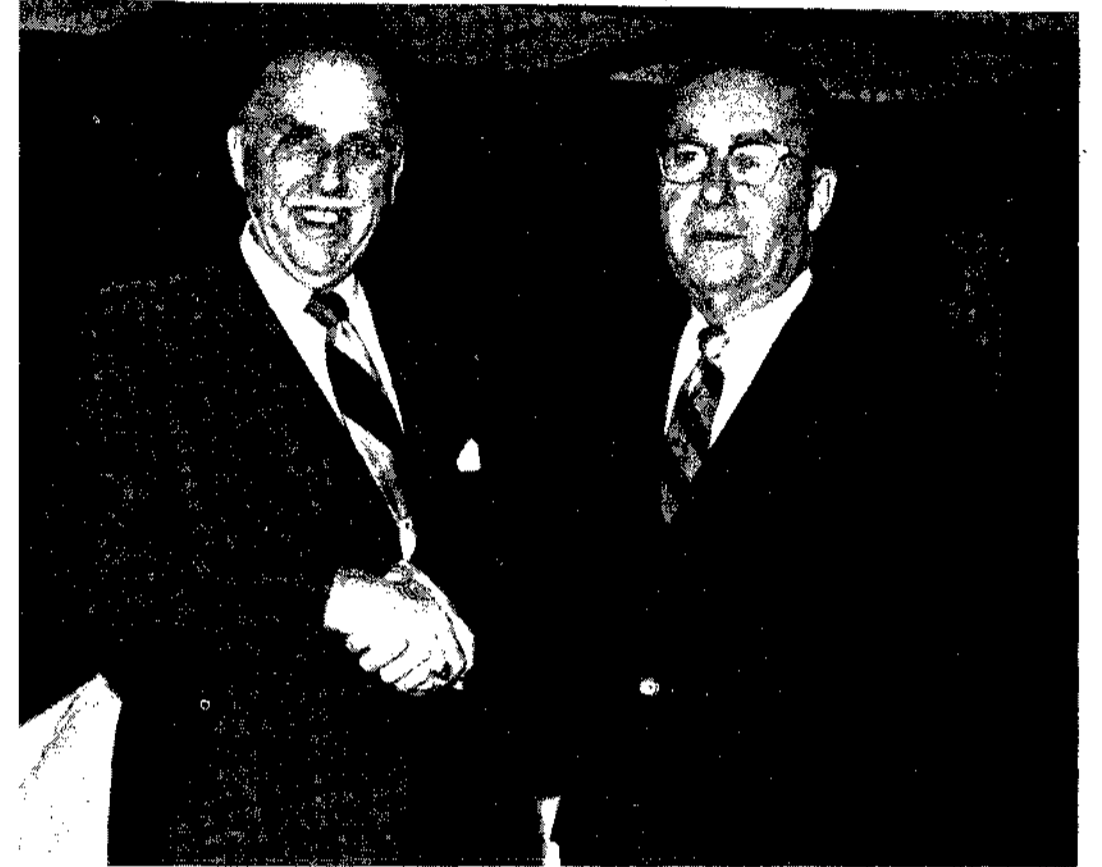

James Lesoski, 22, of Gagetown, lost control of his car in Caro striking a tree. The accident occurred at 3:05 a. m. Friday, Nov. 20, on the Gilford Road. Lesoski was treated at Caro Community Hospital for his minor injuries.

Betty Lou Anger, 32, of Kingston struck a doe crossing in front of her car as it headed north at the Phillips and Legg Roads at 1:55 p. m. Saturday. The deer came out of a section of woods being driven by hunters, according to the sheriff's report.

Cars driven by Barbara Jean

Krohn, 35, of Elkton and Robert A. Rolston, 18, of Gagetown, collided at 9:15 p. m. Thursday, Nov. 19, on Cemetery Road, a half mile north of the Bay City-Forestville Road. The Krohn car was southbound, the Rolston vehicle headed north. Rolston drove into the lane of traffic of Barbara Jean-Krohn and struck her car. Rolston was ticketed by sheriff's deputies.

RECEIVING CONGRATULATIONS from President W. E. Walpole on his impending retirement is Neil Hurry, Walbro vice-president.

How sweet it is: 300,000 ton beet crop

With about one per cent of the 1970 sugar beet crop still to come in to Caro's Michigan Sugar Plant, an astronomical total exceeding 300,000 tons of the crop has crossed the scales. Normally a crop of 220,000 tons is considered excellent... an expected crop of 250,000 tons was a "bumper" crop but the figures in this year's total have history beaten by a wide margin.

The sugar beet crop was expected to be excellent in mid-summer when heavy rains that washed many fields of beans out of existence nourished the growing sugar beets. Sugar content from latest loads of the crop is running from 14 to 15 per cent with the average yield 23 tons per acre. The one per cent still to come in comes from farmers who have taken a week to go hunting or have fields too wet to work or both.

President reports

World-wide sales, product interest sparks Walbro

An informal talk by President W. E. Walpole highlighted a banquet and award dinner Saturday night for an estimated 275 employees of Walbro Corporation at Sherwood Forest Country Club in Gagetown.

Walpole stressed the importance of the people in the organization, crediting them with much of the success the company has achieved since it came to Cass City.

He went on to explain that demand for Walbro products was at the highest level in history.

Sales of Walbro products are world-wide today, he explained. We have a salesman hired full time in Europe and another in Japan.

The acceptance of our products, he said, has enabled the company to continue at peak production.

"I don't have to tell you," he added with a laugh, "that we have been busy".

As long as we remain competitive, the president said, there is no reason to believe that the demand for our products will not continue at a high level.

The first employee to achieve retirement status from the management staff will be Neil Hurry, who ends his Walbro career at the end of the year.

Walpole recognized Hurry for his work with the company and told of his various achievements for Walbro.

Hurry came to Walbro with the Autopulse company and over the years assumed various key management and sales posts. He was instrumental in securing one of the corporation's larger manufacturing contracts.

After the president's talk, Personnel Manager Harold Isard thanked the employees for coming and then introduced employees who had earned, five, 10, and 15-year awards with the company.

Five-year awards were $25 bonds, 10-year awards, a wrist watch, and 15-year awards, $50 bonds.

All attending received boxes of candy.

Arrest Deford pair for Huron thefts

Two Deford men and a 15-year-old minor were arrested Saturday night in Elkton on a charge of possession of stolen property and breaking and entering.

The men, being held in Huron County Jail, are Hurley Israel, 25, and Frank A. Wendell, 20. The minor was released to his parents.

Police officials reported that they found a mounted deer head, four folding chairs believed to have been stolen Saturday from the Elkton Sportsmen's Club, about four miles southeast of Elkton.

The club was entered after a large front window was smashed. A space heater and refrigerator were damaged.

Other items taken from the suspects' car included a microphone from a two-way radio mobile unit. A similar unit was reported stolen from a truck in Bad Axe.

A section of heavy chain believed to have been taken from a Kroger parking lot in Bad Axe and a section of rubber hose that may be linked with vandalism of a coin car wash near Bad Axe on M-53 was also found. Damage at the car wash was set at $110.

Merchants plan gala Yule season

Christmas displays were in the process of erection on Main Street in the village early this week and Cass City merchants kicked off the Yule season with a traditional Christmas sale.

Nearly all stores in the community have special offerings for the event to lure shoppers into stores where shelves are stacked with Christmas items.

Meanwhile, Chamber of Commerce President Keith McConkey announced the most ambitious town-wide Christmas program ever staged here.

It will feature free shows each Saturday afternoon for all children 12 and under and a giant prize giveaway in three Saturday afternoon drawings.

Participating merchants have pledged prizes worth $25 or more and they will be on display at participating stores.

The gifts will have a retail value of over $1,000. Shoppers can register for the gifts at the Santa Claus house to be erected on Main Street.

Ten prizes will be given Saturday, Dec. 5, and 10 more presented Saturday, Dec. 12.

In the grand finale, 25 prizes will be presented Saturday, Dec. 19.

Please pass Dorothy

BY JIM FITZGERALD

Hello there. My name is Jim and I'm your columnist, Henry is in charge of the adjectives and Ronald has the nouns. I will be happy to introduce them to you. You'll also want to meet Phyllis who slices the commas and apostrophes. I know she has some you'll like.

You are probably wondering what that first paragraph is all about. Well, Margie is in charge of paragraph explanations but she is busy right now, still explaining last week's column to a little old lady who forgot to order commas. So I'll substitute for Margie. . .

It all started last month when I phoned a Howard Johnson motel in Lansing to reserve a room. A sex bomb answered the phone. I could measure her sexiness by the way her voice made the phone sweat in my hand. I told her my name, "Oh, that's a nice name," she said. "So easy to remember."

I then told her my wife and I needed a room Saturday night. "Surely," she said. "My name is Rita, Jim, and I'll be looking for you Saturday."

That night I took my wife out to a fancy restaurant so she could eat good food while I explained to her why I didn't think she should accompany me to Rita's place Saturday. Just as I was describing the typhoon season in Lansing, a lovely waitress appeared.

"Hello there," she purred. "My name is Dorothy and I'm your waitress for the night."

"Hello Dorothy," I said, standing up like Mother taught me. "My name is Jim. I'll bet you know Rita."

During the ensuing conversation, Dorothy somehow discovered that my wife wanted a drink before dinner. "You must meet Alice," Dorothy said.

"She's your cocktail waitress."

So we met Alice whose voice was even throatier than Rita's and Dorothy's. She nodded knowingly when I ordered bourbon and water, a real man's drink. And she hardly blinked when I said it was for my wife, I wanted a Tom Collins with 2 cherries.

"I think I like this place," I told my wife.

"I think Alice has a bad cold," my wife said.

Later we met Harry, who was in charge of slicing the bread, and Ronald, who opened the wine.

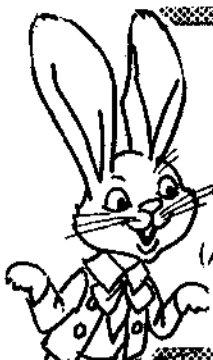

"I wish Mother hadn't taught me it's rude to ask for toothpicks in any place that has a white tablecloth," I said. "I'm dying to meet whoever is in charge of toothpicks. Or should that be whomever?"

"I don't know," my wife said. "Let's ask the girl in charge of grammar."

Anyway, I decided I liked the personal touch offered by Rita and Dorothy and gang. For too many years I have been buying service from nameless faces. From now on, I want the guy who pumps the gas to introduce me to the guy who wipes the windshield. It's too risky reading their names off their shirts. You might say "Hello, Fruit of the Loom" to some guy with no sense of humor.

And that's how this column will be run from now on. If I could just get Trixie and Goldie together for a second, you could meet them and I could end this nonsense in proper fashion.

Trixie is in charge of the Onwards and Goldie has the Upwards.

It's time for all small fry to let Santa know what's needed for Christmas. We've started our special Chronicle delivery to the North Pole and we'll print Letters to Santa in our editions between now and Christmas.

If the letter is accompanied by a wallet size picture we'll publish it with the letter providing it is clear enough. For newspapers, black and white pictures are much better than color photos which sometimes cannot be reproduced.

For most drivers, running into a deer is a sad story resulting in a smashed car and sometimes injury.

Most times, too, the deer is so badly mangled and the bones so crushed that it isn't worth butchering.

Russ Schneberger ran into a spikehorn last week and defied all the odds.

First, the impact failed to leave a scratch on his car. Second, the collision killed the deer. Third, the deer was cracked in the head and the meat was undamaged, and fourth, it was a young deer, the best for the table, if not the trophy room.

Those rigs you've been seeing working up and down north and south Cemetery Road (Seeger Street) are testing for the possibility of oil.

I'm indebted for this information to M. B. Auten. While I hesitated to go and ask the workers what in the dickens they were doing, M. B. dashed out with his usual disdain for the conventional and found out.

Besides learning about the oil testing crews, M. B. also hosted a pair of distinguished visitors Saturday: Jim Lewis, a former superintendent at Cass City who went on to become a vice-president at the University of Michigan, and Frank Ortman of Detroit, a personal friend and large contributor to Hills and Dales General Hospital.

The meeting was called for the express purpose of playing bridge. I won't say who won and if you're going to need a loan shortly, you'd better not ask.

Soil District accepting '71 tree orders

Tree planting is a good way to turn an unproductive land liability into an asset. Realizing this, land owners in the Tuscola Soil Conservation District have planted over 5,500 acres of trees in the past 27 years.

Once an area that is of little value is planted to trees, the value of the land increases from year to year.

If odd areas and unproductive lands are left uncovered to erode, the value of the land decreases each year. Planting trees not only improves the appearance of badly eroded and worn out land, but it will produce a valuable crop of timber or Christmas trees, according to Cyril Jacot, District Conservationist.

A solid planting of trees will practically eliminate erosion by slowing down the winds and holding the rain drop where it falls. Plantings in two or three rows along the west and south property lines will help decrease wind velocity and control erosion. They can also be planted to protect the home and livestock from prevailing winds. They make the farm a more attractive place to live and make a beautiful recreation area, especially around a farm pond.

It is wise to choose a species that is adapted to a definite site. In making this decision, soils and moisture conditions should be considered.

Some species are adapted to a wide range of conditions, while other species are not. Wildlife packets consisting of trees and shrubs that provide cover and food for wildlife will also be available. Should a landowner need assistance in selecting a proper tree for a given site, the Tuscola Soil Conservation District offers technical help.

It is the feeling of the District that there is even a greater need for tree planting, so they will make available tree seedlings for planting in the spring of 1971. They are accepting tree orders now at the District Office located at 852 S. Hooper Street in Caro, Mich.

SPORTS FANS!

I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

By H. M. Bulen

While some pro football teams have trouble finding just one good quarterback, the Chicago Bears of 1948 had 3 of the greatest quarterbacks of all-time on their team that year--Sid Luckman, Johnny Lujack and Bobby Layne--and, oddly enough, failed to finish first.

Did you know that 14 National Football League teams once went out of business in just a 6-year period? . . . In 1926 there were 22 teams in the NFL but 14 of those teams failed financially by 1932, and the league was down to only 8 teams.

Here's one to test your football knowledge. . . Suppose a pass is thrown toward the end zone. . . The ball hits the goal post and goes right into the hands of a receiver before it touches the ground. . . The receiver is standing all by himself in the end zone with the ball. . . Is it a touchdown? . . . Answer is no. . . Even though the ball didn't touch the ground, it's an incomplete pass. . . The rules say a pass becomes incomplete and the ball dead as soon as it touches a goal post.

An introductory offer to people who have never owned a Chrysler.

We want to introduce as many people as possible to the finest-designed, best-built Chryslers we've ever offered. So we're coming through with the Royal. A brand-new series of Chryslers. At a new low price. $112* less than any other Chrysler series.

Coming through in a big way.

Royal is every inch a Chrysler. Uncompromisingly full-sized.

It's also a bigger car than our chief competition, Buick LeSabre and Olds Delta 88.

With a roomier interior. And a bigger trunk.

A matter of inches.

Our new 360 V-8 is ten cubic inches bigger than the engines on Buick and Olds.

More important, especially in a car this size, our engine comes through with more horsepower. All on regular gas.

A difference of opinion.

LeSabre and Delta come with coil spring suspension systems. The Royal uses torsion bars.

They'll tell you coil springs are better. We'll tell you torsion bars are. Who's right?

Well, we urge you to try them both and make up your own mind.

It is interesting to note, however, that GM does use torsion bars on two models; one of the most expensive Cadillacs, and the most expensive Oldsmobile.

Now are we coming through?

Embarrassing questions.

Ask your Buick or Olds dealer about options. An electric sliding sun roof?

Or a stereo cassette player available with a microphone?

In reply, all you'll get is a red face.

Royal, on the other hand, lists both of these features on its long option list.

Built and engineered with extra care.

The Royal body is a single solid unit. Unitized with over 5000 individual welds.

The competition uses bolts to mate the body to the frame.

On a test drive you probably wouldn't notice any difference. But the differences are there.

Our Unibody is stronger for one thing. It also stays tighter longer. So there is less chance of welds and seams opening up and forming rust pockets.

Another thing to remember is that Royal has no body bolts to work free and rattle after, say, a year or so of driving.

A car for people ready to move up.

Chrysler Royal. An introduction to Chrysler luxury and quality.

Coming through at a price you can afford.

That's our offer. Welcome to Chrysler.

A Grandmother!

Are tall-case clocks joining the battle of the sexes? Here's a liberated "grandmother" clock, 74 inches tall, and everyone always thought a grandmother clock had to be shorter than a grandfather.

"Not so," said the designer of this Ethan Allen clock in American traditional styling. "Height is not the criterion. In the terminology of the trade, a grandfather clock has more ornate styling and more complicated mechanism, and possibly a moon dial."

Without getting into any arguments about equality, let's simply say that the grandmother clock shown is in antique pine with a bonnet top, panel doors and handsome wood turnings. The mechanism is weight-driven, with pendulum and Westminster chimes.

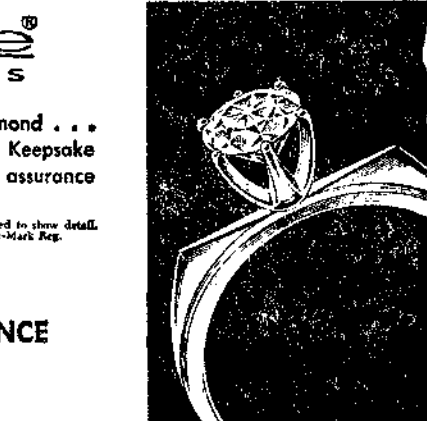

Standing more than six feet tall, it makes an impressive room accent at a grandmotherly price.

BETTER HEALTH

Fancy terms for imagined diseases

BY DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

We doctors have always had fads of diagnosis which generally after a few years have been given up. This is what happened to neurocirculatory asthenia (NEURO meaning nerves, CIRCULATORY referring to the arteries, A, with-out, and STHENOS, strength). That was a popular diagnosis between 1910 and 1940. Dr. Michael J. Halberstam wrote about it recently, saying that probably what most people really had who received this diagnosis was cardiac (heart) neurosis, cardiac anxiety, and cardiac codding.

Dr. Halberstam tells of a patient he had seen some 50 times for what was called neurocirculatory asthenia because of sudden bouts of chest pain unrelated to exercise, or episodes of shortness of breath coming on even when the patient was at rest or mildly active.

The man sometimes had chest pain for a week and once had a persistent fast pulse. However, the results of all his tests failed to show anything serious. He did have other problems. He was overweight, he smoked heavily, he saw a psychiatrist twice weekly; but he never had bodily symptoms outside of his heart and artery system. He is one of those many souls who unconsciously fastened on cardiac symptoms as a way in which to cope with life.

We doctors have always used rather non-specific terms such as neurocirculatory asthenia to satisfy neurotic patients such as Dr. Halberstam described. The man would never have been satisfied, and probably would have been angry if he had been told the truth in simple terms -- that his trouble was arising in his brain and not in his body.

I have seen numerous patients who had been given the diagnosis of neurocirculatory asthenia at one time or another in their travels from doctor to doctor seeking relief from their miseries. They would come complaining of chronic ill health, perhaps with much fatigue, loss of energy, and lack of joy in life. A woman would say perhaps that she had to force herself to work, especially in the morning, but by evening she might feel better. Often such a woman would say that at times she could "jump out of her skin".

Usually when I get to see such a woman, I find that she has been examined thoroughly, so I am more concerned with taking a history than sending her for more laboratory tests. As I talk to her, I learn that she sleeps poorly. She may be unable to stand crowds or to drive a car in traffic. She may have such claustrophobia (fear of small, closed-in spaces) that she cannot go into a telephone booth or a Pullman berth. She may be full of a number of silly compulsions to do certain things and she may worry without reason. She may have an exaggerated fear of illness and death and disaster. She may be so suggestible that she thinks she has all the diseases she hears about. She may rush to a doctor whenever slightly ill, and she may want to be filled with penicillin and other antibiotics.

Some anxiety or uncertainty may cause her to urinate every 20 minutes during the day, but not at night. When panticky, she may suffer from diarrhea. She may vomit or faint easily with emotion; she may perspire freely when tense or even when writing a letter. She will probably at times feel short of breath, or feel that she is smothering. Occasionally she may feel a lump in her throat, and often she is likely to have palpitation, headache, and back-ache. She may have weak spells or feelings of lightheadedness or swimming in the head. She almost certainly will be constipated, and she is likely to suffer from mucous colitis. She may also complain much of painful menstruation or lack of sexual feeling, and often she will suffer from heartburn, regurgitation of food, and feelings of butterflies in her stomach.

When I get this type of story from the patient, I feel that probably the best thing I can do for her is to help her to understand that an operation and many more tests are not going to relieve her of her miseries and distresses. The chances are that her abdomen is already crossed with the scars of several exploratory operations that did not help her or only caused her to feel better for a short time afterward when she thought she ought to be feeling better; and then the old symptoms came back.

Today, rather than being told that she has neurocirculatory asthenia, she may be told that she has low blood sugar (hypoglycemia), another fancy term we doctors have used to make many highstrung and hypersensitive patients happy. And she may be given a special diet to follow. The only problem is that after the novelty of the fancy diagnosis and interesting diet has worn off, the poor patient has the same old miseries and discomforts and is looking for a new doctor.

When dealing with your own personal health problems, it is often helpful to become knowledgeable about the treatments, symptoms, and terminology of the ailment you wish to describe to your doctor. For instance, you can learn more about the problems of blood pressure by reading Dr. Alvarez' booklet, "Blood Pressure." Just send 25 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope along with your request for the booklet to Dr. Walter C. Alvarez, Dept. CCC, Box 957, Des Moines, Iowa 50304.

Pregnant dry cows need proper ration

Pregnant dry cows need the proper phosphorous-calcium ration, points out Bill Bortel, Tuscola county extension agent. These animals need 2 units of calcium for each unit of phosphorous. Too wide or too narrow a ratio can lead to milk fever.

All corn silage rations lack calcium, and alfalfa rations lack phosphorous. Provide mineral supplements to balance these rations. For corn silage rations, provide 2 to 3 units of calcium for each unit of phosphorous in a mineral supplement. For a high alfalfa ration, little or no calcium is needed.

Detailed information on energy, protein, vitamin and mineral requirements of pregnant dry cows is in Extension Bulletin E-667, available from the Tuscola County Cooperative Extension Service office in Caro.

Zontians to fete patients in Caro

The monthly dinner meeting of the Zonta Club was held at the home of Mrs. Gertrude Carr Tuesday, Nov. 17, with Mrs. Florence Karr, cohostess. Plans were made for the annual club Christmas party which will be at the home of Mrs. Florence Karr Dec. 15.

The Zonta club will hold its quarterly birthday party the first of December for patients at the Tuscola County Medical Facility at Caro. Each quarter the club gives a birthday party for patients who have birthdays falling in the three-month period.

An interesting and informative program, a discussion of Family home legal problems and probate led by Mrs. Alice McAleer, was presented.

It's paradoxical, but the big head affects only little heads.

Bulen adopts "needy youth"

In place of the boy in The Philippines, financially "adopted" a few years ago and who no longer needs PLAN help, Mr. H. M. Bulen, Dale St., Cass City, has financially "adopted" Washington Leon, a 10-year-old Ecuadorian boy, through Foster Parents Plan, Inc., 352 Park Avenue South, New York, New York 10010.

A Foster Parent's responsibility is financial, not legal, and the child grows up within his own family. The $16 a month (or $192 a year) contributed by the Foster Parent through PLAN for a minimum of one year, provides a monthly cash grant, supplementary new clothing and household goods carefully selected to meet the needs in each area. In addition, PLAN offers medical care when called for, primary school education, and in some cases vocational training. The family receives guidance and counseling from the North American Director and a staff of trained local case workers.

PLAN's purpose is to help the child and family to become self-supporting through improved health, nutrition, and educational opportunities.

Holiday week end brings special driving problems

Thanksgiving week end, which begins at 6 p. m. Wednesday and ends at midnight Sunday, could be the most dangerous holiday period of the year on state roads, according to Automobile Club of Michigan "Bring 'Em Back Alive!" studies.

Although Auto Club expects only 2 million cars on roads for special trips to visit friends and relatives this week end as compared with over 3 million vehicles on summer holiday week ends, deaths are usually 10 per cent higher for Thanksgiving.

"Major reason is that most of the Thanksgiving holiday driving is to the homes of friends and relatives who live within a 25-mile circle of danger," according to Auto Club General Manager Fred Rehm.

Rehm points out that trips close to home account for 85 per cent of all holiday fatal accidents.

"Longer hours of darkness and more bad weather than in summer are also factors," Rehm states.

Alcohol is another major factor, Rehm points out that Thanksgiving Day is the official start of the winter holiday season, and many persons who usually do not drink and then drive will do so this week end.

Rehm says that Michigan motorists can "Bring 'Em Back Alive!" this Thanksgiving if the following steps are taken:

*Be extra alert in familiar territory. This is where most highway deaths occur.

*Plan trips so they begin and end in daylight. Add extra travel time to compensate for inclement weather.

*Don't drive more than 200 miles round-trip if only one day is available.

*Avoid driving more than 400 miles one-way on freeways if a week-end trip is planned. This will allow a full day at destination plus a day each for going and returning.

*If alcoholic beverages are consumed, remember the "one-for-one" rule. It suggests allowing one hour per ounce of alcohol consumed before driving.

Auto Club reminds motorists planning trips into Detroit that the downtown area will be congested Thanksgiving Day because of a parade and football game.

Approximately 500,000 persons are expected downtown to watch the J. L. Hudson Co. parade if weather is good. Woodward will be closed to traffic late Wednesday night from Antoinette (near the Ford expressway) south. As the parade progresses south, cross streets will open. The parade is expected to begin at 9:20 a. m. Thursday.

Over 57,000 spectators are expected to jam Tiger Stadium Thursday to watch the Lions-Oakland Raiders football game which begins at noon.

Central Vacuum Is Available — at a Price

Can today's homemaker find happiness with a central vacuum cleaning system — or is the cost out of sight? An average installation, in a six- or seven-room house, would now cost from 500 to 600 dollars. Not inexpensive, certainly, but still within dream-come-true range.

A built-in central vac can be permanently installed in older — as well as new — homes. Power unit, in basement or garage, connects by tubing to wall receptacles in various rooms.

To vacuum, the homemaker plugs a lightweight hose into the wall receptacle.

Now Storm, Screen Doors Are Updated with Wood

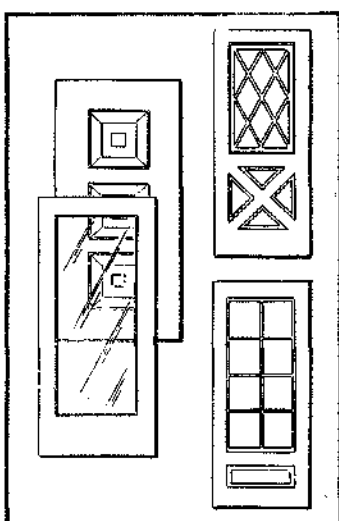

If the present storm door is old-fashioned, unattractive and needs seasonal maintenance, it's time for a change. Modern wood combination storm and screen doors can add to home beauty and subtract upkeep chores.

These new combination doors of ponderosa pine are especially designed to blend with wood panel entry doors. The wood units can be painted or stained to match the entry.

They are readily available at local lumber dealers in stock sizes and in a variety of Colonial and contemporary styles.

The doors are permanently installed and require practically no maintenance. Factory-treatment with a chemical preservative guards against weather abuse.

Because the doors are fitted with interchangeable glass and screen panels, a few turns of the screwdriver are all that's needed to adapt the sash for different seasons. New models feature a large

See record $133 million spent in state's boom snowmobile market

Nearly one-half million persons are expected to spend a record-high $133 million on snowmobiling this winter in Michigan, according to Automobile Club of Michigan.

"Michigan will have 205,000 snowmobiles in use by this spring, which will be more than a 50 percent increase in the number of vehicles registered by last spring," states Jerry E. Fisher, Auto Club's touring manager.

He adds that Michigan dealers expect snowmobile sales to climb 20 percent above last year's mark when over 60,000 machines were sold.

Currently, there are more than 130,000 registered snowmobiles in Michigan, and major distributors across this state expect that 75,000 new machines will be sold by spring.

"Safety and shortage of areas where snowmobiles can be used will be major problems this winter despite the enthusiasm about this mushrooming sport," Fisher states.

Fisher points out that 19 persons lost their lives in Michigan snowmobile accidents last winter, compared with 13 who died during the 1968-69 winter, the first time official records were kept on snowmobile deaths.

Last winter, 13 persons died in collisions with other vehicles on state roads, five persons drowned when machines broke through the ice, and another death occurred when a snowmobiler hit a wire strung across the gate to a ball field.

Snowmobiles have been a growing source of irritation to many private property owners and sportsmen.

Snowmobiles running recklessly across private property, ruining lawns, trees and disturbing farmlands were a major reason for recent state legislation (effective January, 1969) regulating these machines.

Some sportsmen claim that the snowmobile is used illegally during deer season, and when lakes are frozen these machines are overrunning once remote fishing spots.

"Despite complaints," states Fisher, "snowmobiles are here to stay and the economic impact across the state has been notable."

Sales tax on snowmobiles sold in Michigan since 1965 has amounted to $4.68 million. Last winter alone, Michigan realized $1.04 million from sales tax on accessories and $910,000 on taxes from gas for off-highway use. In addition, over $600,000 has been collected by the Secretary of State in registration fees ($5 for a three-year period).

Major snowmobile associations in Michigan, including the newly formed Michigan Snowmobile Distributor's Association (MSDA), are urging the state legislature to spend more tax money on maintaining and creating trails.

"If Michigan spends its snowmobile-generated tax funds to create more places for snowmobiles, operators will be more apt to stay off of private property and public roads," according to MSDA spokesman Ron Gamble.

The accompanying Auto Club map indicates that this winter there will be 30 Michigan state parks which allow snowmobiling, double last year's number. As last winter, 29 State and four National Forests will allow snowmobiling.

The greatest increase in state parks allowing snowmobiling is in southeastern Michigan. Last winter, only four southeast Michigan state parks had marked snowmobile trails as compared to 12 parks open for snowmobiling this winter.

During the 1970-71 snowmobile season, Fisher points out that $133 million will be spent by snowmobilers in Michigan.

"Last winter, Michigan residents spent $26 million on snowmobile accessories alone," states Fisher. "This year, $98.4 million will be spent on equipment ranging from special clothing to new machines."

Also, the average snowmobiling couple is expected to spend $75 per week end.

Fisher points out that $34.3 million will be spent by 105,000 snowmobiling families taking special week-end trips to resort areas this winter. This averages out to $2.3 million spent each week end in Michigan during a 15-week snowmobile season.

Auto Club points out that the average cost of a snowmobile is $900, although inexpensive models cost about $600. The more luxurious model, with sliding canopy, room for two on a front seat, variable-speed transmission, heater and even a cigarette lighter can cost up to $2,500.

Above the cost of machines, the average snowmobile enthusiast will spend a minimum of $100 for clothing. Snowmobilers must wear special clothes since temperatures drop dramatically at high speeds due to the "chill factor."

On a day when there is no measurable wind, the temperature is at zero (F), and the snowmobile travels 25 miles per hour, the actual temperature on exposed skin is 45 degrees below zero.

Clothes that are warm for skiing, hunting or ice fishing are usually inadequate for snowmobiling. It is recommended that the novice consider these items and costs: boots, $20; one-piece suit (avoid two-piece) $75; mitts, $10; helmet $17 to $25 (recommended for high-speed machines), otherwise a hood or cap with ear flaps for under $10 is adequate; goggles, $4; face mask (wool), $4; thermal underwear, $12; socks, $3, and sweater, $25. (Children's clothing is between one-third to 50 percent less, depending on quality.)

Auto Club advises all snowmobilers to keep these simple safety rules in mind during the winter before starting out on any trip:

- *Avoid illegal use of roadways where most snowmobile deaths occur.
- *Know trails and stay on marked trails.
- *Carry area maps plus a compass.
- *Be aware of state regulations in the Snowmobile Law.
- *Stay off ice on lakes and streams if conditions are not ideal.

- *Avoid alcohol.
- *Never travel alone. You usually can't walk out of forests in an emergency if snow is deep.
- *Carry safety gear such as snow shoes, flare gun, first aid kit, axe, extra fuel, new spark plugs, tools for minor repairs and rations.

Everyone loves a bargain—whether it's Mother in the local supermarket, or Dad laying in a supply of shotgun shells for the hunting season or Junior buying his candy bars at three for a dime. And what fun it is to tell our friends of the lucky purchase—even if, in the final accounting, the results are somewhat dubious!

But think of the many bargains about which we have no doubt — really big, genuine bargains... like the beautiful color of leaves on an autumn day or the aroma of roast turkey that's in the kitchen stove at this very minute. And, since it's Thanksgiving, it is only appropriate that we should mention the tremendous bargain of our heritage and freedom.

When you come to think of it, we are always getting more than we are giving. We are on the receiving end. The biggest part of our life — the overwhelming part of our life — is what is given to us.

Let us then become conscious of our moment-by-moment dependence on God, the awareness of life as a gift. For what is religion but receiving, seeing, believing, praising and thanking God?

Basketball clinic slated

Defense key for Hawks in Thumb B title quest

Cass City High School's basketball team will live or die by its defense this year, Coach Fred Hurlburt said Monday as he watched his charges perform in pre-season practices.

It was the team's defense that carried it to a 10-6 record in 1969-70 and made the Hawks the surprise team in the Thumb B Conference.

It will be the defense that carries the load again this year if the Hawks are to match or better last year's record and become a factor in the league race for a championship.

It is the first season in 10 years that Cass City fans can look for a team that will have at least an outside chance of winning it all.

We are farther along this year than we were last year at this time, Hurlburt says, and I think the squad has the courage and determination to keep improving.

The challenge to the Hawks this year is to produce a team that will compensate for the loss of some stellar players through graduation.

The biggest loss was probably left by Lanky Joe Hillaker, an all-conference center, and the team's leading scorer and rebounder last season.

Coach Hurlburt will also have to find a pair of guards to replace Marty Zawilinski and Tony Davis. Zawilinski was the team's ballhandler and a rugged defensive player last season. Davis had been a varsity regular for three years.

But there appears to be enough talent coming up to take some of the sting from the loss of these Hawk stalwarts.

Anchoring the forward wall will be Rob Alexander, at about 6 foot, one inch, and Richard "Zike" Miller, who inch for inch is as good a rebounder as there is in the Thumb B. He came into his own playing defense in the second game against Frankenmuth last year when he stuck to Mike Piesko, Frankenmuth's all everything, like paper to the wall.

Also counted on heavily will be Scott Guernsey who was the sixth man last season. He came off the bench to spark several Hawk rallies last year. All of these boys are Seniors.

The player that may be able to make fans forget the loss of Zawilinski is Sophomore Paul Bliss. Bliss earned a letter as a Freshman and fans will be waiting to see if he develops to his expected potential.

Augmenting these veterans will be a group of players from last year's Junior Varsity and the varsity bench.

Coach Hurlburt says that the team will likely have more depth than it had when the season opened last year.

A better line on the squad will probably be available after Friday when the Hawks will scrimmage with a neighboring school at 1 p. m.

Also helping Cass City's chances will be a more balanced league. Last season, the title was virtually conceded to Frankenmuth which had a corner on much of the league's height and talent. The Eagles went to the State quarter finals before losing to the eventual State Class C champions, Muskegon Christian.

The second annual meet the players night and basketball clinic will be held Wednesday evening, Dec. 2, at Cass City High School gym, Coach Fred Hurlburt announced this week.

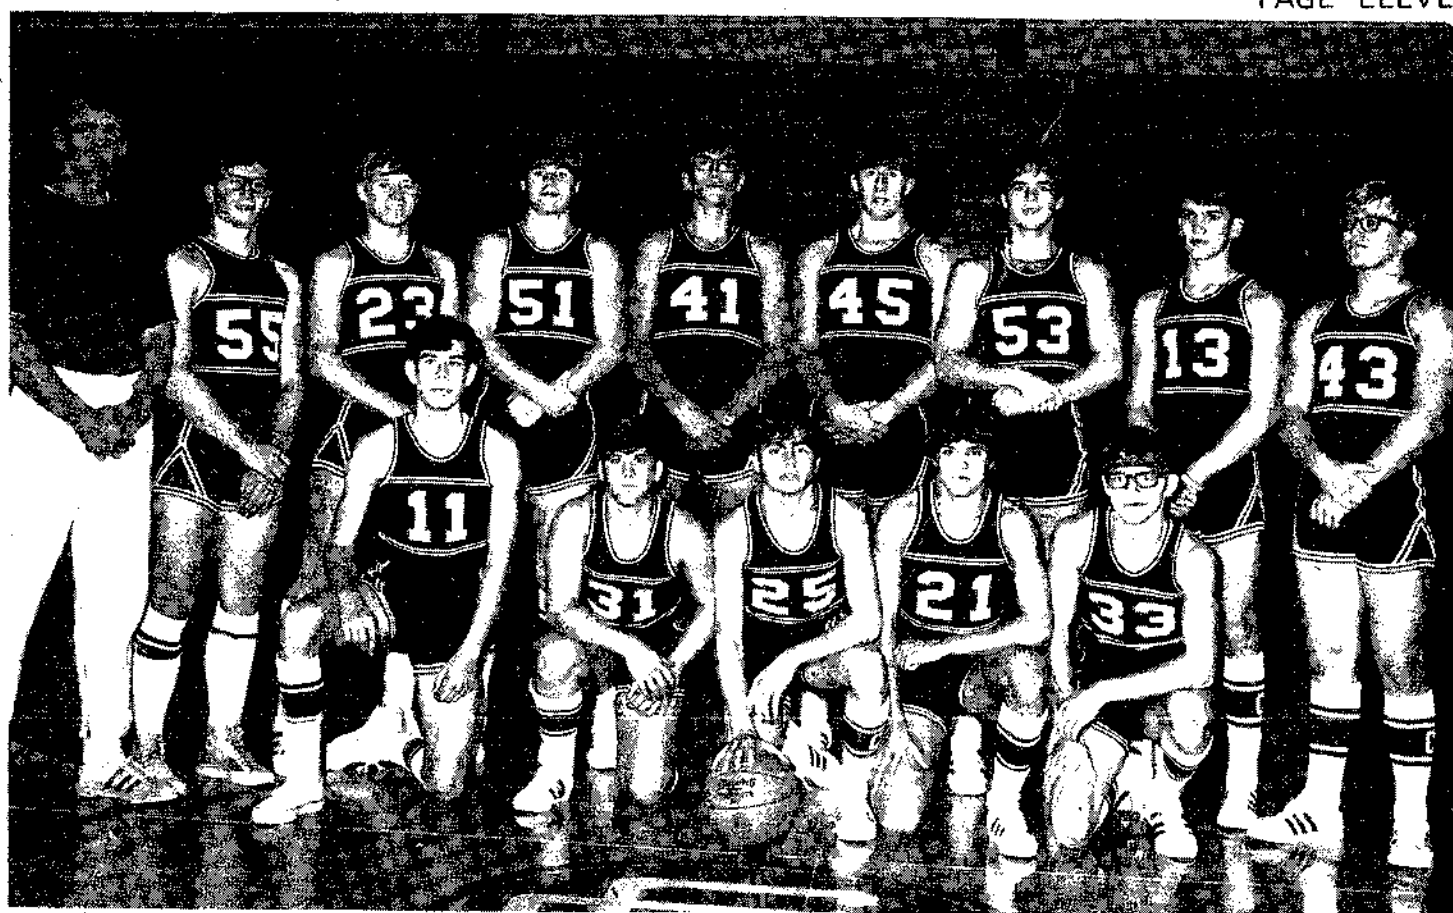

Players from the seventh grade through high school will be present and officials will be present to explain rule changes.

Interested residents are invited and the coaching staff will be ready to answer any questions that residents may have, Hurlburt said.

The Eagles lost virtually everything from that team, but can turn to a strong bench. Bad Axe will also keenly feel the loss of Bublitz, one of the stronger centers in the league. Most other Conference schools are in the same boat. It promises to be one of the most wide open league races in recent years and right now it is impossible to write off the chances of any team in the loop.

PORK CAN BECOME GOURMET FOOD

Pork can become an economical gourmet food with the help of seasonings, accompaniments and careful cooking methods. Herbs and spices have an affinity for pork. Fruits and vegetables, perhaps as a salad, served with richly browned pork enhance its flavor. Pork roasts will be juicy, flavorful and safe when cooked slowly to 170 degrees internal temperature.

THIS MAY BE THE strongest Hawk Junior Varsity in recent years. Kneeling are: Curt Strickland, Dale Auslander, Al Romig, Tim Stickle and Kip Hopper.

Standing: Coach Roland Pakonen, Kim Glaspie, Drew Guernsey, Mark Posluszny, Randy Wright, Kurt Freiburger, Bob Ross, Gene Salas.

There just could be a thread of truth in mother-in-law jokes. But I question why they're always aimed at just the mother of your spouse. They could apply just as well to a father-in-law or to your own mother or father.

It's another one of those generation gap situations, perhaps. Only this time, it's usually not a teen-age problem. It's one of married adult daughters and sons and their parents and in-laws.

As a parent or in-law, of married off-springs, how can you avoid the "meddling mother-in-law" trap?

For one thing, both generations have to be able to "give" a little. One method of solving problems and conflicts is to compromise. So be ready and willing to make some adjustments in your way of thinking.

Then remember, young couples have the right to make their own decisions -- and their own mistakes. So, go easy on suggestions. Remember that advice is more likely to be treasured when it's asked for -- or when it's not given very often.

Another thing to keep in mind is that your children are adults, too. So, try meeting them on a friendly, equal level, instead of trying to control them. The first loyalty of your son or daughter should be to his wife or husband. So don't force him to choose between you and his mate. Help reinforce their loyalty to each other by thinking of the two as one -- as a couple, a pair, a unit.

So let your married children work things out for themselves. That may be difficult for a parent to do -- but the harder you try to keep them tied to you, the quicker you'll lose them altogether.

Hairy wheat beats

cereal leaf beetle

"Hairy" wheat still looks like the best bet for warding off the cereal leaf beetle. And it's an equally good bet that the beetle will not develop the ability to overcome the leaf hairs that repel it.

Michigan State University crop scientists have found that wheat lined with tiny hairs on the leaves (pubescence) resist egg-laying females and the larvae of the cereal leaf beetle. This characteristic is being incorporated into Michigan wheat varieties to protect growers from a potential 22 per cent yield loss that occurs with severe beetle infestations.

Commercially acceptable resistant varieties should be available to farmers in about five years.

The beetle resistant soft white wheats being developed will also have excellent pastry quality, carry resistance to the Hessian fly and the wheat disease, powdery mildew.

Michigan State scientists believe the beetle will not evolve to the point where it can overcome the hairs that repel it. That's because the insect will find it easier to move to non-agronomic plants when it finds wheat leaves uncomfortable.

Parochial issue: the battle started 117 years ago

If you have the feeling the battle over state aid to parochial schools has been going on for quite a while, you're even more right than you probably think. The issue is 117 years old in Michigan. Despite passage of the constitutional amendment designed to kill off state aid to parochial schools, the issue appears destined to stay with us for some time.

It first came up in 1853, when Michigan Catholics asked for state money because they thought public schools in the state were too Protestant in their approach to things.

They specifically objected to remarks by the man who then was serving as state superintendent of public instruction, Ira Mayhew. He had given a lecture to the Legislature on public education sprinkled with phrases such as "We, the descendants of the Puritans."

schools. Both times the proposal was defeated by voters.

Michigan's parochial schools did not get substantial state aid until the 1960s. In 1963 the Legislature provided for the transportation of nonpublic school students in public school buses and in 1965 the state provided for nonpublic school students to receive the same auxiliary services, such as counseling, as public school students receive.

Now the whole question is up in the air again as a result of the new amendment to the constitution, and it will probably take years for completion of a myriad of court tests before the situation clears up.

INCREASE SLOWS

The enrollment of students in Michigan's public school systems is up again this year, but not by very much.

Statistics drawn up by the State Education Department put the official public school census for 1970-71 as 2,180,699, an increase of only 16,000 from last year.

The rate of increase has been declining for several years as a result in the slackening of the birth rate a few years ago.

The enrollment figure produced by the census, incidentally, is only 1,301 students less than the state's budget bureau estimated earlier this year.

MAILBOXES HAZARDOUS

The State Highway Department wants Michigan residents to stop beating their plowshares into mailboxes.

They feel the same way about wagon wheels, welded chains, iron pipes impeding in concrete-filled milk cans and other assorted obsolete farm equipment.

It's not the mailbox itself the department objects to, but the solid, unyielding nature which the objects have when a motor vehicle hits them.

The department says traffic accident statistics for last year show 2,510 accidents involved mailboxes and 21 of them were fatal.

An appeal to Michiganders was issued to use small pipe or wood in constructing the bases for mailboxes.

It said highway engineers favor the pipe construction with the base set off the shoulder of the road to facilitate highway maintenance in the winter and summer.

From a safety point of view, the ideal mailbox support will bend or fall away from the vehicle when it is struck and not hurdle the hood and smash into the windshield, it said.

It said, for example, wood posts not more than five inches in diameter or a regular four-by-four board make satisfactory supports.
