Editor's Corner

When I talk to young persons like Jim Fritz and Jim MacTavish I am acutely aware of the generation gap. It's not that I don't have rapport with guys like this, not that I can't understand what they are trying to do, not that I can't appreciate what motivates them, not that I don't applaud what they are doing.

It's simply that as a member of the generation that grew up struggling it's hard for me to comprehend that getting ahead, security and a place in the economic sun isn't all that important to these young people.

I shudder at the thought that somehow, someway in the nebulous future I might have to depend on someone else, ask someone else for help, might not be totally self-sufficient. I'm certain that I couldn't be happy doing anything until I was first assured that I was secure from the wolf that knocked on every door when I was a youngster in school. The new generation as exemplified by Fritz and Mac-Tavish worries about society first and economic success second, if at all. For long lasting benefit who can say that men like these aren't reaching for the sounder values? Fritz serves in the Peace Corps and plans to teach later. MacTavish has taught in Africa and now teaches at Cass City Schools.

Both get their kicks from contributing. Doing something to help the other guy.

They've never said so in so many words, but I'm as sure as it's possible to be that money doesn't motivate them.

If you happen to be aware of MacTavish's role as chief negotiator for the Cass City MEA teachers' union you could ask why do it if money isn't all that important?

It's a good question, too. After two years of listening to Jim bargain, I feel that the answer is that he does it for the teachers and that low much his personal paye k comes to each month is. all that It's sort or like a contest to him and to vcheck is the way the scure is kept.

I believe he's much more interested in his Boy Scout troops, his basketball team and his chance to get some of his kids started on the right road in his classes.

It's easy to say that if these kids knew "hard times" perhaps much of their altruism would have been destroyed by the basic struggle of survival.

Perhaps that's true. If it is, it's good that they never were exposed to scrounging for a living. While previous generations were hustlin' a buck. we ran our environment into the ground, made city streets battlegrounds at night and fought one futile war after another for results that are obscure if not non-existent.

Maybe a little idealism, a little brotherhood, a different philosophy is what we need.

It could pay us all to listen to the Fritzes and MacTavishes we come into contact with. . . men more interested in filling a need than a pocketbook.

THE FIRE THAT RAZED the home of the Lawrence Hyatts first appeared to be minor, but raged out of control after an explosion Tuesday morning.

Judge Churchill directs verdict in Bock suit

In a rare decision, Circuit Judge James P. Churchill, last Thursday afternoon, granted a directed verdict that in effect dismissed the case of Eugene Bock of Cass City versus the Grand Trunk and Western Railroad. A directed verdict is possible when the Judge, hearing a case, is convinced that the evidence is so weighted on one side that he does not put the decision on the facts in the hands of the jury but rather, directs a verdict, in this case "no cause for action", in favor of the defense.

Bock had sued the Grand Trunk and Western Railroad for $250,000, charging negligence on the part of the train crew in the matter of speed and signals, in the accident that claimed the life of his wife. Ethel Minnie Bock, Oct. 6, 1967, at 6:30 in the evening, Mrs. Bock was heading west, the train was southbound when the train and car came together at the crossing of M-81 at the west end of his decision for the railroad, pointed out that the directed verdict was a rare thing in his court and that he is always reluctant to take a case out this case the evidence had simply failed to show negligence on the part of the defendant Grand Trunk Railroad, Judge Churchill said that he and all of the court understood the terrible loss of the Bock family but that the evidence presented had showed that the southbound train was traveling at a reasonable speed, the flasher lights at the crossing were on, the bells of the train were clanging, and that there was no evidence to the contrary.

Judge Churchill, citing another case, pointed out that he felt that the train crew had taken reasonable precautions and that there was a duty upon the driver of any vehicle approaching any train crossing to exercise due caution, and that the verdict, in this case, was "no cause for action".

OTHER CASES

Monday, in Tuscola County Circuit Court in Caro, before Judge James Churchill, several sentences were handed dowr in criminal actions. Douglas Warren Adkins was sentenced to 2 years' probation for larceny from a motor vehicle. Adkins also pays a fine of $200 and costs of $200 at the rate of $25 a month.

Bruce D. Thane, 17, of Kingston, was sentenced to two years' probation on a charge of larceny. He must pay a fine of $100, costs of $100 at the rate of $25 a month. He was ordered to serve 60 days in the Tuscola County Jail with credit for 23 days already served. Thane is to serve the jail term at the end of the present school year.

For felonious assault, Robert J. Sarles, 25 of Vassar, was given probation for three years with a fine of $100 and costs of $375, payable at the rate of $25 a month. Sarles serves 4 months in the county jail with credit for 2 days already served.

Split board vote ousts 65-year-old teachers

Fifteen Cents

In a split decision, the Cass City Board of Education Monday night voted not to hire teachers at the school after they have reached the age of 65. The vote was a marked departure from previous board policy which allowed teachers to work on a year-to-year basis if their health was certified okay and they were recommended by principals.

Although the vote was 4-1 in favor, the conversation among members indicated that both Art Severance and Mrs. Geraldine Prieskorn were against the change.

Spearheading the drive to terminate employment at 65 was Donald Reid who said that the many younger teachers looking for jobs should be accommodated

What sparked the discussion was the application by Mrs. Vera Hoadley, who teaches at Deford, to be allowed to teach

Morning blaze razes Hyatt home

Fire of undetermined origin razed the farm home of the Lawrence Hyatt family of rural Snover Tuesday morning and took with it most of the Hyatts' personal belongings.

The fire was discovered by Mrs. Hyatt at about 10:20 a. m. when she returned from the barn after washing milk cans. "At first I did not think it was too serious," Mrs. Hyatt reports, "and I called my father-in-law thinking we could handle it."

But a sudden explosion about knocked her over and Mrs. Hyatt called the Moore Townhouse was burning too strongly and fire fighters were unable to save it. Several stored paint cans added to the intensity of the blaze.

The family was able to save the living room furniture and a twin bed that was knocked down in a room under repair. The Hyatts are now staying with the Ernest Hyatt family. Mrs. Lawrence Hvatt said that the neighbors have been really helpful. They brought clothes for our three boys (ages 7, 3 and 2), carried out furniture and helped every way they could, she said.

Mrs. Hyatt said that the Argyle Fire Department also helped fight the fire and kept the blaze from spreading to the The loss is partially covered by insurance. Mrs Hyatt said that plans for building another home are still indefinite.

Because the new regulations appeared to be directed towards Mrs. Hoadley's application, Mrs. Geraldine Prieskorn made a motion that the new policy not be effective until the 1971-72 school year. This passed 3-2 with Reid and Elwyn Helwig voting no.

A motion to hire Mrs. Hoadley was also passed by the same 3-2 majority.

However, whether Mrs. Hoadley, or any other 65-yearold teacher, will be hired next year is still undetermined.

Supt. Donald Crouse has learned that a vote must have the majority of the full board's approval to pass. Monday there were only five of the seven trustees at the meeting, Horace Bulen and Donald Koepfgen were absent.

For this reason Mrs. Hoadley's case will reappear at the next meeting and the two propositions be re-submitted for action. Two contracts were awarded. The school has changed auditing firms after receiving bids. Last year the district paid $2,775 for auditing service. The cost next year will be about $1,600. It was the lowest of three bids received and was submitted by Wager, Lunt, Deh-mann of Saginaw. Other bids were $2,100 and $3,000.

Three bids were submitted for furnishing 30 bus tires, 900x20 10-ply, and the low bid was $64,76 by Fred's Garage. An offer by E, H. Pringle & Company to accept payment for some Cass City School bonds before retirement date at a discount was refused by the board. Supt. Crouse reported that Kingston School District wanted to establish a committee to study the problem of accepting tuition students from outside the district. No action was taken as at a School plans more classes for adults

Because the first adult education courses offered on an extensive basis were successful this fall, Principal Russell Richards announced plans for a second series of classes to start the first week in Feb-

The school is ready to offer 13 courses in the second semester session, Richards told the Cass City School Board Monday night.

The classes include personal typing, Bookkeeping I and II, income tax preparation, public speaking, fundamentals of golf, recreation for men and for women, auto mechanics (including snowmobile), creative stitchery, Bishop sewing I and $\ensuremath{\Pi}$ and home mechanics.

Richards said that if other courses are desired, residents should contact him at the school and an attempt will be made to establish them.

A complete schedule will be published next week, giving course descriptions, day and times, registration information and other pertinent data, RichDRUG EDUCATION

Intermediate Principal Robert Stickle reported the highlights of a drug education workshop that five teachers attended.

He said that it was stressed at the workshop that the way to teach education was as part of the regular curriculum. It should be included in health and science course, he explained, and started in the early grades,

By the time the student is in high school, Stickle said, their habits are fairly well formed,

The trouble is, Stickle added, that not enough teachers are informed about teaching drugs. To correct this, the school plans to call in experts for the teachers' curriculum day to explain the drug teaching program.

In an informal discussion, principals reported that they had no inkling of a problem at this time in Cass City Schools.

However, they added, this doesn't mean that it doesn't exist. There is no way of being

The board is hoping that the Band Boosters can raise an additional $2,000. If it does the school will be able to buy 31 new uniforms and will be able to outfit a 100-piece band.

This fall the band performed without uniforms because there were not enough to outfit all the students.

Kirk to head county commission

The Tuscola County Board of Commissioners met Tuesday in an organizational session for the first meeting of the year. The board named Shuford Kirk to his second term as chairman and Charles Woodcock of Vassar was named to his second term as vice-chair-

The board's newest member . .Kenneth Kennedy of Millington was seated as seventh district commissioner. The board will be meeting the balance of this week, or at least most of it, and they will hear reports from department heads and get the year underway as far as government is concerned.

One thing the commissioners did do Tuesday morning was to meet with the Sheriff's Deputies and make a new proposal for a contract for 1971. The commissioners and the deputies have been apart since wage talks began in August but the board reportedly made a compromise offer which the deputies were to consider Wednes-

Another meeting with the commissioners on the employee relations committee was to take place Thursday morning in the hopes that differences could be settled.

The commissioners have been offering a salary increase of $350 a year plus 75 per cent of hospitalization costs. The Sheriff's Deputies have asked for salary increases of $400 and 100 per cent of hospitalization costs.

Alex Nugent: weathers well with work, westerns

Alex Nugent of rural Cass City doesn't claim to have the world's largest collection of western stories but he does have several hundred including many stories you'll not find on the shelves of your favorite book store.

The reason is that Nugent has been reading them since he first whiled away the hours with a job at Western Union in Toledo, O., when 13 years

And that more than spans a lifetime for most of us, for recently the enterprising Nugent turned 87 years old. That's 74 years of reading the best (and the worst) of the sagas of the west. Naturally, all of the westerns that Nugent has read aren't kicking around his neat-asa-pin home on M-81, south of Deckerville Road, but he has more than a large cardboard box of them now and all are in book-store condition. The covers are intact and the pages in good condition. . . .

hard to tell from new books. But a glance at the covers shows that some of them must be a decade old. How long has it been since pocketbooks sold for a quarter? He has some of them. Also that sold for 40¢, 50¢, 60¢ and 75¢. You can trace inflation through his collection. And inflation has hit Nugent and his wife like it has all persons retired and living on a fixed income. But the chances are that the Nugents have suffered more than most couples. The reason, of course, is that he has been retired from his job as tool and die grinder for 22

That was long before pensions came in and the Nugents now must make do with money they have coming from Social Security. To boost the family coffers Nugent has been in a variety of businesses. For many years, he raised ring neck pheasants and did quite well selling the birds to city hunters and as a gourmet dish

Today that business is no more. It died when pheasant hunting in the Thumb withered with the bird population. But the pheasant pens are not empty, Replacing the ring necks are ornamental pheasants, the some that sold for 35¢, some Another endeavor related to pheasant hunting is also on its way out. The Nugents won't be raising any more Registered Hungarian Pointers.

out of the pheasant business

Our first batch of pups went quickly, Nugent explained, but now that no one pheasant hunts around here anymore, the dogs are getting hard to sell. But just because he is quitting pheasants and dogs, don't assume that Nugent will be fully retired. There is still his Christmas tree business. We have a plantation of about 300 to 400 trees, he says, and we buy seedlings from Pennsylvania every year. Used to get them from the State, he snorted, but I don't like the way they do business. Anyway, he plans to plant his usual quota of seedlings this year and to continue to care for the trees already planted.

Evidently, his many jobs around the farm have agreed with Nugent. He looks and acts much younger than his years. He's slightly, but only slightly hard of hearing and as far as can be ascertained from a casual visit, he could pass for a man 20 years his junior.

But the years have piled up and today, sometimes a little rest in the afternoon is welcome, if not absolutely neces-

That's when a good west-

The reaction we get to the question we asked last week on whether basketball or football players must be in the best condition depended a great deal on which sport was of most interest to the player. The concensus among players who liked both equally was that gridders needed to be stronger and basketball players in better condition.

It's hard writing this trivia this week. I sit down to the typewriter after scrounging out an idea and just as I get ready to start Ray Spaulding who is building an office for us here runs a skillsaw through a piece of masonite and boom! everything leaves as I rise out of my chair in semi-shock.

Monday night at the school board meeting, Elwyn was obviously suffering with a cold. Now when you have a cold you bundle up tight and keep warm, don't you?

Of course you do. You do unless you are like Elwyn, He goes around to these meetings wearing nothing but a suitcoat. All I ever wear, he shrugged, when I asked him about it.

Each year about this time Supervisor Maynard McConkey gets a little lesson in advertising. It's when the township advertises for Senior Citizen exemption filing days, Every year, he says, we advertise the dates a couple of weeks ahead, but many eligible persons never see it or forget about it when the time comes.

That's the reason, of course, that you hear and see those commercials again, again and again, . . . people do forget. This year the dates are Jan. 15-16.

It's a dollar a pound when the first big weigh-in comes Feb. 2 and if those guys are really serious I'll need to float

And could it be an attack on my flanks (pun intended) that the Quaker Maid Dairy Store, owned by Don and Gerald Stilson, is offering ice cream cones for a nickel for five days as part of their grand opening?

After all, ice cream is one of the principal reasons that I'm a noted food-aholic.

When it's that cold, Stanley claims, the walking is easy. The snow is crisp and you don't slip or slide around.

What's really putrid is the 40 degree weather when the snow is half melted and the slush is everywhere, he says, I sort of spur Staninto conversation about his job every chance I get. His route requires by far the most walking of any job

Most of us are too lazy to even contemplate a job like his. Yet, from talking with Kirn, it's apparent that he likes his work and has never regretted leaving the warm comfort of the post office for the rigors of the route. He's more healthy, too.

SPORTS FANS!

By H. M. Bulen

One of the oddities of pro football is that it's the only sport where players who hardly ever play, lead their teams in scoring!. . . Most of the leading scorers in pro football are field goal kickers, yet most field goal kickers play only a fraction of the time in a game.

Here's quite an oddity about Notre Dame football. . . Although they've been one of football's most successful teams, they have developed a strange "last-game-jinx". . . That is, despite their many victories over the years, Notre Dame has done poorly in the last game of the regular season . .In the last 10 years, the Irish have won the last game of the regular season only 3 times!

Here's a football question few people can answer correctly. . . Can a quarterback hand the ball off to a halfback, and then go out for a pass himself -- in other words, can a halfback throw a pass to a quarterback. . . Surprisingly, the answer is "no" in pro football, but "yes" in high school and college football. . . The quarterback is not elegible to receive a pass in pro football, but he is in high school and college ball.

Give that man a medal

BY JIM FITZGERALD

The magnificent hoax was pulled off by some soldiers to demonstrate that the wholesale awarding of medals has cheapened their value to the point where a true hero is reluctant to accept one. Military brass hats exchange medals like peanuts, competing to see which can wear the most ribbons on his manly chest. The generals also like to see their rugged faces reflected in the medals hanging on their troops. Everyone knows the dumb enlisted man couldn't earn an award without the inspiring leadership of General Chicken who phones brave orders to the front from his penthouse foxhole. I remember how it was in 1945.... After over 2 years in the army, I ended up at Camp Polk, La., still a buck private. I was made an assistant to a colonel who was also a chaplain, in that order. My main job was to drive him once a week to the other side of campwhere he gave patriotic-Christian sermons to the Negro soldiers who were not allowed in the camp's main church unless they were carrying brooms.

"I can't have any buck private working for me," the colonel said. Overnight I became a Mrs. Heck greeted guests in a coat dress of powder blue corporal. 3 months later I was lace over taffeta with matching a sergeant.

One day it was announced there would soon be a big sage of pink carnations and parade and ceremony at which a visiting general would pin medals on deserving enlisted

"Write yourself up for a Legion of Merit," the colonel ordered. That was the highest award given for outstanding service performed under non-combat conditions. "Can I get that for changing

"I've never had an Ontario, Canada; assistant who didn't win a med-Wayne, Mich.; Westland, Deal and I don't want to start ford, St. Ignace, Rudyard and Right here, because there

Mrs. Mabel Heck of Elkton are still people around who is the groom's grandmother. remember, I'd better admit I was a lousy chaplain's assistant. The awful truth is that my nickname around camp was The Drunken Padre. When the chaplain thought I was out posting church notices, I was actually drinking beer in the sergeant's club or shooting pool in the day room. My being assistant to a chaplain was generally regarded as similar to Al Capone being secretary of the treas-

I really didn't care much about getting a medal. All I wanted was a discharge which was due in a few months. So I put pickled tongue in cheek and wrote how I had most distinguished myself at Camp Polk, thus earning the Legion of Merit.

That winter it had been ordered that every jeep in camp switch to winter tires. They meant switch tires, not wheels, You had to get a crowbar, or whatever, and pry 4 tires off the rims, then pry 4 others on. That was work to which I was unaccustomed, There were something like

1,500 jeeps in camp. By Christmas, 1,499 had switched tires. My jeep was the lone exception. The chaplain never noticed because he always looked up, straining to see how many officers in heaven out-ranked

This shirking was not accomplished easily. I had to drive the other way whenever an MP vehicle came into sight. I had to park behind trees. Most of all, I had to procrastinate skillfully whenever the motor pool captain wanted to know when I was going to change those %$%&*% tires. I usually told him I'd do it tomorrow but today I had to drive the chaplain to chapel. "I'd change them now but I don't want to interfere with every soldier's right to worship as he sees fit," I would explain. Captains never argued with generals or God. The tires were never switched. Unfortunately, the colonel didn't agree that this devotion to dereliction was worth the Legion of Merit, He dropped my write-up into his sinner file and never mentioned the subject again.

And I hadn't thought about the colonel for 25 years, until I read about those 2 dogs getting Bronze Star medals. If they had been his dogs, it wouldn't have been a hoax, Onward and Upward.

mental troubles of Mrs. Barbara Field Benziger. The highly intelligent Mrs. Benziger wrote many things that impressed me deeply, but what stands out in my memory is that her wealthy parents, instead of taking loving care of her and meeting her emotional needs, hired governesses for her. They probably were very good governesses, but still they could not take the place of good, loving and concerned parents. Perhaps largely as a result of this neglect of the girl during her childhood and adolescence, for a while she was so badly disturbed mentally that she was locked up in a mental hospital.

Dr. Salk points out that the women who become mothers simply to fulfill a social goal are most likely to turn their children over to someone else to care for them as soon as possible. Of course, there are some women who are forced by financial necessity to go back to work soon after their child is born, but Dr. Salk objects to the attitude that it is desirable for mothers to "get rid of the kids and go to work," whether they have to or not, and the feeling that a woman is of necessity deprived of the opportunity to fulfill herself if she has to stay home to care for her small children. Dr. Salk feels that "No matter how qualified and competent a nursemaid is, the response of the biological mother, under most circumstances, is deeper, warmer, and surer." It is also true, as Dr. Salk points out, that a mother should have some time for herself after she has attended to the needs of her child. After pursuing her own interests, she can come back to her child refreshed and with new ideas. Dr. Salk concludes that motherhood need not be the be-all and end-all for a woman; a perfectly normal and fulfilled woman may still want to dedicate herself to other things, and she should not be the object of any contempt for having made this choice.

More and more commonly today, skin specialists say that one of their greatest problems that brings patients, especially women, into their offices, is skin sensitive to and inflamed by one of the modern detergents. The skin ulcers that some detergents produce on some skins sensitive to certain chemicals, cause much distress.

AROUND THE FARM

Estate planning available in course

By Don Kebler

Legal consumants can formulate and write wills, estate transfers, trusts and ownership contracts and they consult. However, only you cantell these consultants what you wish to have included in these legal documents.

What you decide to include in these documents, depends on what you believe to be the best for your needs.

Improper or insufficient knowledge has in the past and, will continue in the future, to be a misguiding harmful deterrent to your intended needs. Let's take for example a will. For many years, people made wills to meet their needs at the time of issuance. More often as not these wills are never changed even though the old will has become obsolete. A will should be a living document varying with the changes and needs.

People without wills should inquire from consultants to see if a will is necessary and if so see that one is drawn up. Too many times in my years in Tuscola county I have heard or witnessed heart rendering examples of no will, too late or it should have been when estates were probated. This is one example of it could have been instead of it should have been. Actually a good and changing will program is the end product of a thorough estate planning knowledge. A will is one of many legal facets of a proper estate plan. A good estate planning program is fueled by the helpful services of attorneys, insurance cancellers, bank trust departments, stock brokers to name a few.

How these helpful services can fit into one's estate planning program was seen last year by families attending last year's county estate planning and property transfer short

Anyone interested in learning the estate planning, wills and property facts are invited to attend this year's short course. There will be a oneday session for farm and nonfarm estate planning Feb. 19. and a second day continuation of the farm estate planning Feb 26. Each session will be from 10 a, m, to 3 p, m, with a two dollar per person dinner charge.

month these days, said they must be one cause he saw just a month or so ago where Congress had adopted a farm bill, and everbody knows you can't have farming without USDA experts. He said the last pamplet he got told him how to tell the age of fish, and if they was anything he couldn't get along without, that was it. He said they ain't a farmer or rancher in this country, except them that gits Guvernment pay fer raising fish in their ponds, that gives a hoot how old the fish they catch is.

pamplets more than onct a Farthermore, Ed was able to report they is a secretary of agriculture. He said this was so cause he saw by the papers where Secretary Hardin called the farm bill a "victory fer U. S. Agriculture," and in order to say sompun like that, Ed allowed, you got to be. But Ed admitted that was the first and last thing he ever read that Secretary Hardin said.

Clem Webster said the answer to the hole matter was as plain as the $10 billion deficit in the Nixon fisacal year. He said Nixon adopted a no policy farm policy when he wen' in office, and it was found that a Department of Agriculture can stick out like a sore thumb under that kind of a policy. So the President rolled out the Vice President fer a speech agin somepun after ever meal ever day, and under the artilery cover he jest slipped USDA out and hid it.

What happened, said Clem, was that trying to git a farm bill thru Congress made not having a USDA look sorta odd. so the President got up in the night the middle of November, got a shovel from the shed and went out and dug up his USDA. This proved smart, Clem said, cause by the time Secretary Hardin was called on to say what he said he was set up in business and it looked like he had been there all the time and folks had somehow forgot.

Zeke Grubb liked Clem's explanation. Zeke said it fits right in with what all them column writers said after the Novemher election about a farm revolt. Zeke was of a mind that it didn't go unknowed in the White House that most of the House seats and governer's chairs took over by Democrats was in farm country. Nixon, allowed Zeke, saw his no farm policy farm policy didn't work, Practical speaking, Mister Editor, I got my almanac so I don't need USDA pamplets on fish, but I'm glad its found.

Yours truly, Uncle Tim

TRAFFIC SNARLS STUDIED

Electronics will go to work in an attempt to cut down on those stop and go tie-ups which plague all the freeways in the Detroit area, according to State Highway Department plans.

The department received the go-ahead to start installing an electronic detection and control system which will alert a control center instantly whenever traffic is stopped or slowed for any reason on any lane of the freeway.

It will cost $5 million and take five years to get fully installed and be operating on all 65 miles of Detroit's freeway network. State officials hope to get federal funds to help pay for it. When it is completely installed, some 2,000 detection sensors will be either imbedded in the payement or suspended above the freeway to keep constant surveillance on traffic flow. The information they feed in will be digested in a computer.

Operators in the master control center then will be able to direct immediate help to the trouble spot, and also will be able to direct traffic away from the blocked lane by activating ramp and freeway signals.

The system is important because congestion occurs daily on Detroit's freeway system, with nearly half of it experiencing frustrating stop-and-go conditions during several hours of both morning and afternoon peak traffic periods. Nearly 13,000 stalled vehicles or accidents obstruct Detroit freeway traffic every year and block lanes for a total of 1,220 hours a year. One blocked lane on a threereducing the freeway's capacity to 57 per cent of normal, so getting the lane opened up again is of primary importance, especially during rush hours when all lanes are bumper to

A master of suspense

Anyone desiring to make the acquaintance of the psychological suspense novel at its best should read George Simenon's latest, NOVEMBER.

Simenon is running a strong race with John Creasy for the title of most books published in a lifetime. I suspect that Simenon is lightly ahead, although the two men's literary executors may be the first to know for sure.

What is amazing about Simenon--and less true about Creasy -- quantity aside, is the quality of his work. Intendays Simenon produces a suspense novel the average author would be proud to mail to his publisher after a vear's work. And--it may be said -- a suspense novel the like of which the average author never mails his publisher.

Simenon is the master of the psychological suspense novel. To a degree unmatched by his contemporaries, he has no equal at the development of chilling suspense in the understated manner. His gift for characterization -- considering the speed at which he works -- can be compared favorably with the best in the genre. In NOVEMBER, Simenon is back on familiar ground. He presents the reader with a middle-class French family with former pretensions to something better, now in the final stages of familial disintegration. They live in a 100-yearold house in a wooded grove in a Paris suburb.

There is the father, fiftyish, ex-junior army officer, now a minor league civil servant with a great need to proclaim his importance to himself as well as others.

The mother, an unpretty girl, has turned into an unhappy wife. She is shrewish, embittered, and an alcoholic.

The daughter, 21, is an assistant in a laboratory run by a professor old enough to be her father. She is in love with the professor, and she is the narrator of the story.

The son, 19, a student at the university, is rebellious. impatient, and unforgiving.

Into this unhappy family after a long succession of previous maids comes Manuela, an earthy creature who delights in pleasuring men as well as herself.

Father and son are drawn into the orbit of this brazenly seductive creature, and the final frail family ties are rent. In the tradition of the suspense novel, there is a crime, and there is detection, albeit much more low-keyed and subtle than in the ordinary suspense novel. This type of story is Sime-

Tips for profit with veal calves

Top quality yeal calves can be produced with either whole milk or high quality milk replacer specially formulated for veal production.

About 10 pounds of whole milk is required to produce a pound of veal. Calves will gain an average of 1.8 to 2.2 pounds per day from 100 pounds to market weight when properly fed and managed,

Calves should get colostrum for the first 48 hours. Colostrum contains antibodies, vitamins and minerals that help prevent diseases and get the calf started right.

Milk replacers must contain high quality milk products, about 24 per cent protein and 20 per cent added animal fat with lecithin as an emulsifier. Replacers containing cereal products are unsatisfactory. About 1.3 pounds of milk replacer powder will be required to produce one pound of gain. Growth rate and feed conversion will depend on the calf's health and the quality of the milk replacer.

ers 1404, Lucky Strikes 1215, Feed replacers according to Team High Games: Born Losers 504-485, Unknowns 425, the manufacturers recommendations. Mixing water should Lucky Strikes 423-416, Alley normally be warmed to 90 to 100 degrees F.

Grain and hay should not be fed to veal calves. They will grow more slowly on this feed. and their meat will be red colored. Buyers like the meat to be white.

Select only healthy, vigorous calves that weigh 85 pounds or more at birth. Male calves from the larger breeds are preferred.

Best housing is insulated and thermostatically controlled. It should have forced ventilation. Calves should have fresh air, but not drafts.

Individual stalls (2 feet wide by 4 feet long) are preferred, but group pens will work if kept dry and clean.

Periodically, all calves should be taken out of the pens, and the pens should be thoroughly cleaned and disinfected. Use a combination detergent-disinfectant in high pressure sprayers to clean walls, ceilings and equipment. Let building dry out before putting calves back in pen.

Thoroughly clean and dis-infect all pails, nipples and milking equipment after each feeding. Rinse equipment with iodophor or chlorine disinfectant after cleaning and allowing to air dry. Watch calves carefully for illness. Main thing is to diagnose and treat diseases early. Work out medication and treatment program with your veterinarian. Most milk replacers contain some antibiotics to help prevent bacterial infections.

You have heard this before: Fight winter colds by drinking lots of orange juice every day. Vitamin C in orange juice and vitamin A in other foods help keep you healthy.

Vitamin C, or ascorbic acid, fights colds by helping your body resist bacteria that cause colds. Citrus fruits (they are abundant now), berries, melons, green leafy vegetables, broccoli, cabbage, tomatoes, and green peppers give you large amounts of vitamin C. Potatoes are also a good source of vitamin C.

Since your body cannot store vitamin C, it is wise to eat one food every day that is high in vitamin C. When you cook broccoli, cabbage, and other green leafy vegetables, use a small amount of water to help conserve the vitamin C.

Vitamin A is another vitamin that helps to fight colds. Vitamins A keeps the mucous linings in your throat and mouth healthy. In this way, it helps to fight infection.

Vitamin A is manufactured in your body when you eat leafy green and deep yellow vegetables. Your body stores vitamin A, so you can eat a green or yellow vegetable every other

So, instead of spending your money for expensive medicine. buy lots of inexpensive vegetables and fruits. It just may keep your doctor bill down.

Official Proceedings of The Tuscola County Board of Supervisors

OCTOBER 28, 1970 NO MORNING SESSION AFTERNOON SESSION

The Tuscola County Board of Commissioners was called to order by the Chairman Shuford Kirk.
Roll Call. A resolution was read from the Cheboygan County Board of Commissioners:

At a regular session of the Tuscola County Board of Commissioners held in the Court House in the Village of Caro, Michigan on October 28, 1970 the following action was taken: A resolution was read from the Cheboygan County Board of Commissioners.

WHEREAS, the present statutes permit Judges of the Circuit and District Courts to assess fines and/or costs, in varying amounts and proportions at their discretion and will, and WHEREAS, assessments levied as fines are credited to the library fund and costs levied are credited to the general library fund and costs levied are credited to the general operating funds of the County of origin, and WHEREAS, this statutory, discretionary power to levy at will, costs in amounts large, small and at times none, places the Judiciary in an unwarranted, undemocratic and all powerful position to exert, at will, a financially disastrous economic pressure upon the Counties to force compliance with its request for constantly increased Supplemental Salaries and other according and personal demands and economic and personal demands, and

WHEREAS, it is the studied and firm conviction of the Cheboygan County Board of Commissioners that under no circumstances whatsoever, should the Judiciary have any legal authority or opportunity, either expressed or implied, to exert economic pressure upon the Counties to compel compliance with its request and/or demands of any natures whatsoever, and

WHEREAS, this Board is of the decided opinion that such afore mentioned withholding of costs, where practiced, on the part of the Judiciary, savors of, borders upon and is tantamount to legalized blackmail and/or extortion and should not and must not be tolerated in or by any Michigan Court, and

WHEREAS, the practice of materially reducing and in instances, withholding cost entirely (and this Board believes the practice has been and is now quite general throughout the State) is unethical and offends the dignity of both the Courts and the Counties; the oppressors and the oppressed,

NOW THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED, that the Cheboygan County Board of Commissioners hereby respectfully request the State Legislature to forthwith, take such legislative action which in their opinion, would remove in its entirety, this ever present threat of economic reprisal, and through such remedial action restore to the Courts the dignity, honor and integrity which the Citizens of this State have a legal and moral right to expect from their Judiciary.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that copies of this Resolution be sent to our Governor, State Senator, State Representative and to all County Board of Commissioners.

Resolution Committee Clark F. Most, Chairman Robert G. Henderson

Ray Chimner

Moved by Woodcock supported by Loomis we adopt the resolution and copies be mailed to our Legislators and a copy of our affirmation be mailed to Cheboygan County. Motion carried.
Commissioner Woodcock presented the estimated budget Moved by Woodcock supported by Ducker we adopt the tentative budget. Roll call vote: 7 yeas, no nays. Motion carried.

Motion by Loomis supported by Ducker a hearing on the proposed County Budget for 1971 be held at 11:00 a.m. in the Commissioners room in the Court ..ouse on December 8, 1970. Carried unanimously.

Minutes of October 27, 1970 read and approved. Minutes of October 28, 1970 read and approved.

Ok ay Unionville, Caro M-24 route

north to a connection with M-25 at Unionville has been approved by the State Highway Commis-

The Commission chose the Caro-Unionville corridor over two proposed alternatives, one running from Caro north to M-25 northeast of Sebewaing; and the other from Caro northeast to a point west of Cass City, then directly north to Caseville on Saginaw Bay.

Approval of the route by the Federal Highway Administration will set the stage for a hearing on design features of the highway probably before the end of the year. The Com-mission's schedule calls for construction of 8.3 miles of the highway from Caro to M-138 east of Akron in 1974. Work also will include reconstruction of four-tenths of a mile of M-24 in Caro.

The final six miles of the project, running along existing M-138 corridor from east of Akron northerly to Unionville, is programmed for construction

The Commission said the corridor selected would furnish the best highway service between Caro and Sebewaing, the largest communities in the area, and benefit the most people requiring a year-around, north-south travel route on weekdays, Among other bene-

Extension of M-24 from Caro fits, it will provide an all-season route between Sebewaing and the Detroit area, promoting recreational activities and economic development, the Commission said. The route also is shorter than the alternatives and can be built sooner for less cost. Each of the alternatives had advantages over the other two, but those of the chosen route outweighed the others, the Commission said.

Keport one minor mishap

The annual January thaw is taking its time in coming and with extremely cold weather and snow law enforcement activities were down throughout the Thumb of Michigan.

This area recorded only one accident and that took place Monday, Jan. 11, when James Hoffman, 41, of Shabbona Road, Decker, lost control of his car and swerved into a tree on the south side of the Bay City-Forestville Road, Hoffman was traveling east, one half mile west of the Cemetery Road, when the accident occurred. He was treated and released from Hills and Dales Hospital.

Over the week end accidents. both automobile and snowmobile, were kept at a minimum.

Sanilac park proposal

The first hurdle in creating a State park in the New Greenleaf area where the Sanilac petroglyphs (Indian rock carvings) are located was overcome Thursday night when an estimated 75 persons approved the creation of the new facility.

DNR to study

Interested residents gathered in Sandusky for a meeting with representatives of the Department of Natural Resources and Rep. Quincy Hoffman and Sen. Alvin DeGrow.

The group learned that the Michigan Archeological Society which owns some 240 acres that includes the rock carvings is ready to give the land to the State if it is made into a park.

What is proposed is a park that includes about 600 acres. The plan will now be turned over to the DNR for study and recommendation.

After DNR approval the park plan would go to the state legislature for financing.

If all goes smoothly, it will still be some time before the park becomes a reality. Leroy Miller, of the DNR parks division planning department, said that it would take five years to develop the facility.

City was in front, 8-4. In the No camping is planned at third period Coach Ed Wolford the location. of the Lakers switched his defense to a man-to-man and started pressing Cass City's guards.

Hawks stall in effort to slow

Lakers Thumb B Title express

Thumb B Conference title ex-The strategy worked and the itors got back on the track in Lakers outscored Cass City 10 to 3 to take the lead that they never relinquished.

The stall reminded veteran local fans of a game against Frankenmuth when the Eagles fielded one of their superior

In a determined effort the coach at the time, John Oswald, placed his charges into a game-long stall. The Hawks lost this game, 20-3.

Close observers of the local scene conceded that Cass City's best chance of an upset Friday was with the stall.

The Lakers this year boast plenty of firepower and the team's front line is big enough to completely dominate Cass City on the boards.

Cass City will face a similar problem Friday when they visit the county seat at Caro. The Tigers are second in the Thumb B and on the basis of games played must rank as solid favorites over Cass City.

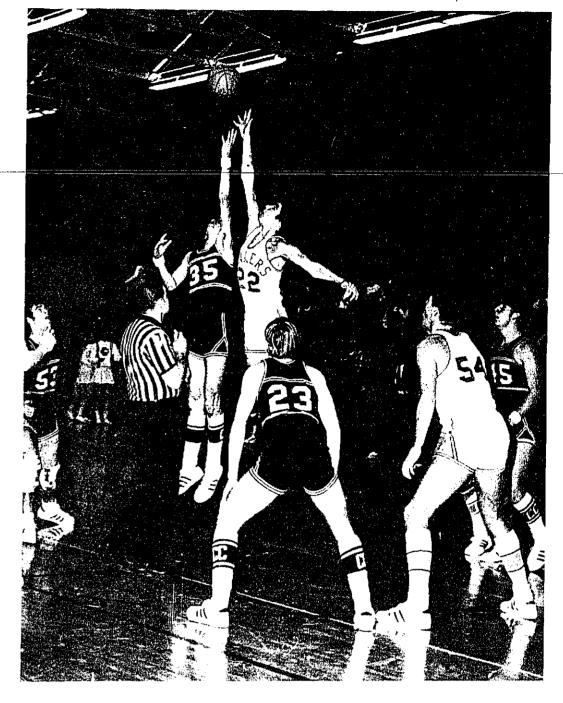

JV GAME

When the season started it was the varsity squad that was losing the heartbreakers. Now it is the Junior Varsity. In a game that was marked by technical and personal fouls galore, the Hawks lost in overtime, Trailing by a single point, Cass City's Kip Hopper was fouled as the final whistle blew. He converted one of two tries to send the game into overtime only to have the team bow in the extra three min-

One bright note in the var-sity game was the Hawks' proficiency from the foul circle. The team made 7 of 10 for 70 per cent, by far the best effort of the year.

Letter to Editor

FRESHMAN SCOTT HARTEL, number 35, and Randy Damm, 22, strain for a rebound in Friday's game against the Lakers. Cass City stalled most of the game, losing 26-21.

How 8 pups were saved

Your article on the dog who owns you was of unusual interest You see we are the second "owners". The first one dropped eight puppies in a sack on the side of the road. Having an empty pen and empty head we picked them up and came home to pen them until new owners would be found. They would never have been done away with! Due to the adver-

were lucky enough to find homes for all except one and guess what, she (Princess) is still here. An enormous lap dog when she does get in the house. By the way she joined a full house, 6 dogs were already living here. One brother dog had a nice home south of Cass City but was not a house pet, so he squirmed his way to his neighbor's heart and house. Then went home and packed his luggage and moved. Smart. Two others are at a Pigeon farm,

I wonder how they made out, We are always happy when we know one of our dogs is making life a little more fun for their new owners.

> Sincerely, The Curtis Clelands

P. S. By the way our Princess is at Dr. Crandell's having a major operation so we do not add to the dog population of

Hawk Frosh avenge loss

The Cass City Freshmen turned the tables on the Lakers last week and avenged their lone loss of the year, 64-48. It was the Lakers that knocked Cass City from contention in the Freshmen holiday tournament held here.

The game was close until the final period when Cass City posted a 17-8 margin to win going away.

Mike Frederick was high point man with 22. Nick Gibbas added 19 and Dave Hillaker had 13. Tom Mellendorf scored 10. Coach Tom Woody said that Scott Guinther played a fine defensive game. Gibbas led the team with 16 rebounds.
