

Final rites Friday for drowned sailor

Funeral services for drowning victim, Petty Officer First Class Ralph Leyva, USN, will be held Friday morning at 11 a. m. at St. Agatha Church, Gagetown.

The remains were to have arrived Wednesday. Prayer services for the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Leyva of Gagetown will be held Thursday at 8 p. m. at Hunter Funeral Home in Gagetown. The death oc-

Leyva and Carmen Villalva were married Oct. 28, 1961, in Rota, Spain. The couple had two daughters, Rosie and Rachel, who were living with their mother at a naval base in Yokusuka, Japan, at the time of their father's death.

A career noncommissioned officer, Leyva received his basic training at Great Lakes Naval Training Center in Illinois. For the last 18 months he served aboard the USS Westchester off the coast of Vietnam and previously served three years at the Naval Training Center in Memphis, Tenn. He received the Good Conduct Medal and was chosen "Sailor of the Month" by his unit while stationed in Spain. Surviving are his widow; two daughters; his parents; four brothers, Joseph of Vassar, William, Paul and Claude, all of Gagetown; two sisters, Mrs. Owen Quinn and Mrs. Jerry Lamoureux, both of Decker, and his maternal grandmother, Mrs. G. Pena of Cass City.

Burial will be in St. Agatha Cemetery.

Debate financing of $100,000 fire hall

The Elkland Township Board wrestled with ways to finance the proposed new town hall-fire hall Tuesday night in a session held at the Cultural Center without coming up with any definite answers.

The problem facing the board is the proper way to raise between $80,000 and $100,000 the building will cost and still keep the extra tax levy at one mill.

A mill ($1.00 per $1,000 of assessed valuation) raises a little less than $12,500 in Elkland township. A special one-mill levy now in force will bring funds available to $25,000 when it expires next year.

What the board is committed to doing is to raise the amount needed with a mill tax and stretch the number of years it is levied to cover the cost of the building. That way, they say, we will not be asking for any increase in taxes.

The original building planned for the township was about half the size of the presently proposed structure which has been approved by members of the fire department.

The new building will have 5,300 square feet of floor space and is 60x90 feet. The fire department will be served by three "bays". A bay is space directly behind a door trucks can use. Each bay will house two vehicles, parked one behind the other. There will be a 30x50 foot concrete apron outside the truck housing area for washing and cleaning.

There will also be several rooms in the building. The largest will be the meeting room which is 23x29 feet. It will be serviced by an adjacent kitchenette. It will also be used for voting.

A 14x12-foot room will house the township's voting machine and a 16x16 foot room will be partially fireproofed and used for township records.

A 13x15 foot room has been created for housing firemen's supplies. In addition there are the usual shower and toilet facilities.

The building will face Church and will feature a horseshoe shaped drive around the building with parking in the rear and the west side.

Originally, the township board was trying to hurry up the millage proposal so that it could be presented to the electorate May 3. However, questions concerning the financing have delayed this timetable and nothing is certain except that the May 3 date will be too early.

Supervisor Maynard McConkey will be seeking answers from the township attorney and other sources before the proposition goes to the people.

Trustee Fay McComb, who is a builder, believes that money can be saved if the township does not require performance bonds and let bids. He estimates the structure at $80,000 completed this way. If it goes to State supervised bids and high labor costs, he says, the architect's estimate of $100,000 will be closer.

In other business Tuesday,

McConkey reported that the township zoning plan under study for over a year is about ready to be presented for adoption.

FROM THE Editor's Corner

Sitting on the sidelines removed from the actual confrontation between the teachers and the school board of Reese School District, a dispassionate viewpoint is that somewhere along the line the kids have been forgotten. My sympathy is with the group of citizens who bonded together with a single purpose... get the children back in school. The feeling persists that the teachers acted irresponsibly when they walked off the job in the middle of the school year.

After all, it's not like leaving a car stalled on the assembly line. If the teachers felt that the final offer made before school started last fall was unacceptable... they should have quit then, not when they did.

Without going into any of the details of the offer, I know that both sides can drum up statistics showing that their positions are the "right" ones.

While no one says anything about it, there may also be a personality clash between the two factions.

Certainly, a strike as lengthy and as bitter as this one must have been the result of other factors than just money.

The tragedy is that if the strike were settled today (Monday) the effects will stretch for years and years. James MacTavish, who was the chief negotiator in Cass City for several years for the Cass City Teachers Association, said that when he first started teaching in a district smaller than Cass City he went through a bitter dispute between teachers and the school board. It was before the teachers were organized and the school board was firing teachers because they traded with merchants outside the community. The teachers took the case to court and won... naturally.

This was over 10 years ago and citizens of the community still aren't talking to each other and the effects of the hassle still linger.

Think how much more bitter and long lasting the Reese hassle will be. Here it's not just teachers and administration. It's teachers, administration and, most importantly, students.

It is hard not to feel that the most recent stratagems at Reese are merely ploys for public sympathy.

It is hard to visualize running a school with 44 new teachers... but that's what the Reese school authorities have said is happening.

It's hard to believe that the union can really expect the school board to abdicate its responsibilities and submit to binding arbitration.

The best hope for solution has to rest with the concerned citizens who are determined to see that their children get an education. It's too bad that they didn't get this interested earlier.

But if they were successful today, everyone connected with the school mess will suffer for years to come.

There should be a lesson here for every Thumb school and every community. We should learn it well.

Tell land owners plans for new Petroglyphs park

Property owners involved in the proposed Sanilac Petroglyphs Park learned from representatives of the Department of Natural Resources the future plans for park development Saturday in a special meeting at the Lynn Spencer home.

The proposed facility in the Holbrook area will affect some six different property owners, if all the land the DNR seeks is purchased.

It was revealed at the meeting, Mrs. Lynn Spencer said, that the majority of the owners favor selling to create the park if all details can be ironed out.

There is a minority against selling, she added, but the DNR can proceed with plans without this property if it has to.

What most owners in the area are interested in, Mrs. Spencer feels, is the preservation of the petroglyphs.

Actually, the purchase of any land, outside of the area already donated to the DNR by the Michigan Archeology Society, is still in the distant future.

Before the DNR can even attempt to approach the land owners money must be secured from the legislature for the purchase, Mrs. Spencer said.

Saturday's meeting with the property owners and the neighbors was for the express purpose of exchanging first hand information about what the proposed park was all about and how it would affect our area, Mrs. Spencer explained.

An estimated 20 persons were on hand for the meeting. They learned the details and were told that the DNR has no plans to start condemnation proceedings against owners to secure land for the park, Mrs. Spencer said.

McLachlan ends 25 years on hospital board

Archie McLachlan, one of the senior members of the Board of Directors at Hills and Dales General Hospital, has resigned.

The board accepted his resignation Monday and appointed Mrs. Doris Fritz to fill his unexpired term which runs through next year.

McLachlan was a member of the hospital board for 25 years and one of the members who served before, during and after the successful drive that resulted in the facility for the community.

Minor injuries in area accidents

The week-end snowstorm, which has become a regular visitor this winter, caused a number of accidents but no serious injuries. Friday afternoon Ronald Leonard McLaren, 18, of Decker was heading west on the Snover Road when his car hit the heavy slush, went off the south side of the road and rolled over on its top.

According to Sandusky State Police McLaren was taken to the Marlette Community Hospital where he was treated for hand injuries and a head laceration and released. The 1966 model car was totally destroyed.

At 4:05 the same afternoon, Hazen Fritz of Sebawaing was driving east on the Canboro Road, 1 1/2 miles east of the Caseville Road, near Owendale, when he hit slush and upended his car on the bridge spanning the Pigeon River. Fritz was uninjured.

Marvin William Lambert, 41, of 4035 Shay Lake Road, Kingsford, ran into trouble Saturday afternoon. According to Tuscola County Sheriff's Deputies, Lambert was heading north on the Chambers Road southwest of Caro when an approaching car forced him too near the edge of the road and the snow caught the wheels of the car pulling him into a ditch.

Two hours later Peter Cherniawski, 19, of English Road, Deford, was heading north on the Froede Road, 3/4 of a mile north of M-48. Cherniawski struck an icy spot and lost control of his car and landed in a ditch.

George Romzek, 32, Sandusky State Trooper, was seriously injured Wednesday night just before midnight when he swerved to avoid a deer crossing highway M-90 southwest of Marlette. Romzek was driving in an easterly direction on M-90 just west of M-53 with trooper Richard Rogers when the accident occurred. The new state police cruiser was a total wreck and Romzek was taken to Port Huron General Hospital where he underwent surgery for a badly broken nose that required more than 100 stitches. He also sustained lacerations and puncture wounds around the mouth. Rogers was shaken up but not hospitalized.

Caro teachers ready to sign

The Caro School District has annually paid, by substantial amounts, the highest salaries in the Thumb area.

Because of this, probably, the district is usually one of the first to reach an agreement with the union.

They are first for 1971-72 as the Caro Education Association and the Caro Board have reached apparent agreement of next year's master contract.

The contract is expected to be ratified by the CTA membership in two weeks.

The CTA has received an eight per cent salary boost bringing the beginning teacher's wages to a minimum of $8,000 yearly and extending the top of the scale to $14,049 for a teacher with a MA degree, 10 years' service and 75 hours of extra credit beyond a Masters.

POULTRYMEN from the midwest crowded into this building Friday to view the automation features of JNR, the latest major farm operation to open in Tuscola county.

Kapalas test new concept in $175,000 egg business

An egg manufacturing plant expected to gross between a quarter and a half million dollars opened for business Wednesday on a farm southeast of Cass City. And poultrymen and industry personnel from three states were present Friday to view the facility before an expected flock of 30,000 birds arrive.

The interest does not stem from its size. There are much larger operations at several Thumb locations now.

What has turned on the people in the business so they turned out at the informal "open house" are the new features of the operation owned by the Norbert Kapalas of Southfield and managed by Alden Asher of Cass City.

Two innovations are brand new to the area and one is almost entirely new to the industry.

Automation is the keyword. The care, feeding and egg gathering can be handled by one man. When all the machines are running right it could be possible to gather the eggs, place them in crates and ship them out without placing a hand on as much as a single one. There is even a fork lift to move the filled crates.

This utopian automation won't occur of course, but the eggs will roll onto a conveyor that will take them from the coop to the office where they enter a machine that enables them to be picked up 30 at a time. The machine that picks up the eggs is not new to the industry, but it is new to Michigan.

Even newer is the "high rise compartment" theory.

The cages are built 10 feet above the ground. The droppings of the birds fall through the cages and if the designers are correct birds can be housed for eight years before it will be necessary to clean the coop. Whether this is so or not remains to be seen. It's so new that it has never been proved in the field.

Some of the grizzled veterans of the poultry game are skeptical. My birds create about a foot a month, one visitor said, and I house 25 per cent less birds than proposed here. I just don't see how it can work.

County Extension Agent William Bortel said that only time will tell. We will just have to wait and see, he said. One thing sure, any automation such as this (the egg gathering machine) will have to be used to meet today's high labor costs. It is a valuable addition to the county's agriculture, he added.

While there may be some doubt about the new concepts... there was unanimous agreement among the visitors that the new business was going first class.

Norbert Kapala isn't quite sure just how much he will have invested, but says that it should be in the neighborhood of $175,000.

For his investment the Detroit heating contractor has a building 46x396 feet complete with 15 cooling fans.

At the front of the building is a 30x50 foot office that includes two private offices and a bathroom complete with shower. Adjacent to the office is a 20x20-foot cooler where eggs are stored waiting for pickup.

The entire operation is geared to producing eggs. There is no grading, sorting, candling or washing at the farm. That's done in Brighton where the eggs are sold.

Kapala calls the new firm JNR and it is tied in with Farm Bureau for marketing and feed. John Albrecht, who helped steer Kapala into the venture, said that his company will sell him the feed and arrange for once-a-week pickup of the eggs to be hauled to Brighton.

At Brighton the eggs will be sold for the average five-day price that prevailed at a near-by market. And that's probably where the risk comes in. Albrecht estimated that it would take an average price of about 28 cents to break even. That's about where the market is today. It has been much, much lower and much, much higher. A year or so ago eggs were selling for 55 cents a dozen or more.

Persons in the business say that a point in favor for the new operation is that it doesn't need an immediate profit to survive. Kapala is willing to wait three years or so to show a profit if he has to.

Birds placed in the cages this week are expected to last 13 months. They are purchased from Farm Bureau for $1.55 each and have a salvage value of 25 cents each when removed.

While in the coop the chickens will be at peak capacity for from 28 to 32 weeks.

At peak production, Albrecht says he expects some 25,000 eggs (60 cases) will pour out daily.

That's a lot of eggs... but if things go well, it's only a beginning.

The new plant is designed to double the capacity by adding a wing if the first venture prospers.

But it may be a few years before this plan is hatched.

THE PRINCIPALS in the establishment of JNR pose by a machine, first of its kind in Michigan, capable of handling 30 eggs at a time for easy crating. From left: John Kapala, Mr. and Mrs. Norbert Kapala, owners, and Alden Asher, manager.

Michelle Zdrojewski. . .whoops, Michelle McGladdery Zdrojewski, called the office last week with a paper hot off the press and said if the Chronicle was looking for an Irish colleen like it said, gosh and begorrah let it be known that she is Irish.

I may not be a beautiful Irish colleen, Michelle added, but faith! I am IRISH.

We'll admit that a little of ol' Ireland peaks from the corner of her eyes. . .but how could we be sure? Even her husband says she's Polish. . .now.

Dr. Harry Crandell, who knows just about everybody, once was acquainted with the late J. C. Penney.

It's not true, says Harry, that all Penney did was work. Crandell got to know Penney in his salad years while he was shepherd to a flock of prize winning sheep at the International Livestock Show. He was quite a guy, says Harry.

Now can't you just see the tight fisted, internationally known business tycoon trading sheep with Doc?

It's hard to imagine Penney coming out second best. But it's even harder to imagine Harry doing anything but make money with anything connected with sheep.

Edsel Connell, a former resident, popped in to get the address of Jason Kitchin in Florida. Mr. Kitchin who lives in the Shabbona area suffered a heart attack and Connell wanted to send his regards.

Jason was my first teacher, says Connell. I wasn't an apt pupil. . .but that wasn't his fault. He was the best teacher I ever had.

Arlie Brown is back in town. . .well in the Snover area. In his younger years Arlie often tripped the light fantastic and spiced many a night with his unique talent for telling a story or describing an acquaintance. He was the Don Rickles of Cass City's night life.

Arlie says he is on leave from Lapeer State Hospital while he attempts to re-enter the backhoe business.

But don't look for Arlie in any of his former haunts. . .he's been on the straight and narrow for two years now and he likes it.

Caught in the backwash of the $400,000 check kiting on East Tawas and Hale banks that received front page coverage in the metro dailies last week was A. P. (Fred) Tyo, son of the Alex Tyos of Cass City.

Fred worked for the person allegedly involved, Gene C. Ballinger of Tawas City. He and the rest of the Ballinger employees were laid off when the story broke.

Fred reports that he was given two weeks severance pay when he was discharged and he was paid by check.

And the check was good.

Hill speaks to seed growers

The Tuscola county certified seed growers held their annual meeting last week with over 50 members in attendance. The directors elected Norman Roth of Reese and Clifton Metcalf of Fairgrove to their board of directors for a period of three years.

The growers had an opportunity to visit with Dave Hill of Great Lakes Hybrid in regard to marketing certified seed with their company. Harold Laswell, Duane Bell and Dr. Larry Copeland were in attendance to brief the growers on what is new in the certified seed program and what to expect in 1971.

It appears as if there will be a shortage of good quality, blight-free seed available to growers in 1971, states Bill Bortel, County Extension Director. At the present time there will be a shortage of seed to plant 100,000 acres.

THIS FIRE ON the Frank Weatherhead property in Gagetown was set by Gagetown Chief Charles Wright. The barn was torched as an easy way to get it out of the way for two modular homes that are due to be erected early this spring, firemen said.

What are you doing about environment?

BY BERNARD JARDOT

It's a pleasure for me to share with you some of the trends in our Natural Resources and Environmental Conservation Education through the 4-H youth programs.

During the sixties we realized a most successful supplement to our on-going Wildlife, Forestry, Soils, and Water projects with the basic conservation program series. In checking our records we find that in addition to our natural resource projects, over 250,000 young people in Michigan were involved in one of the five basic conservation projects. Also a renewed leader-teacher interest in Natural Resources and Conservation was expressed for these basic project ideas.

As we now look to the new Environmental Conservation concepts we must stress even greater relevance to the environmental problems and issues of the day. We are developing activities and concepts for each project in the old series that will enhance ecological understanding and will focus on the basic values involved.

The resulting action may well be found in acceptance of self and group disciplines associated with values that recognize people as part of the environment. That we ask that plans and designs for living go with nature, rather than against nature. We hope to realize these objectives in our 4-H Youth Environmental Conservation program.

Stress planning at Caro meet

Local and state officials spoke about concerns in Community Development at a meeting in Caro March 17.

State Representative, Robert Young of the 84th District, urged the group to "express their views" to their state legislators. He further urged that local and regional plans be outlined so that funds can become available for local programs.

Tom Schroeder represented the East Central Economic Development District and described their planning services.

Bill Walker and Ed Hustoles, consultants from Villac-Leman and Associates, told about plans for housing in the county. A questionnaire will soon appear in local newspaper to gather data about local housing needs.

County Commissioners, Shuford Kirk and Floyd Ducker, detailed the functions of the Board of Commissioners. They included a description of the Department of Public Works in Tuscola county.

Ralph Hartman, County Planning Commission, urged people to get interested and involved in zoning, water, sewage and sanitary land fill are urgent concerns NOW because of population growth.

Jim Neal, MSU District Resource Development Agent, advised the thirty people in attendance that "informed participation" is the key to successful community growth.

Bill Bortel was moderator for the meeting which was organized by Extension Home Economist, Ann Ross, as part of the Family Living program.

Mrs. Barbara Green, Caro; Mrs. Beth Russell, Akron; and Mrs. Marian Schrader, Reese, served on a reflection panel for the meeting.

gram with our 4-H clubs and the special 4-H conservation program with the 5th grade classes in Tuscola county.

Conservation of Natural Resources is like God and Motherhood. We all believe in it but many of us take it for granted. But there is a growing group of people, both young and old, who have quit saying "Let George do it", and are doing something about the problems themselves. What about you - what are you doing about it?

"If It Fitz. . ."

Sorry, I don't care

BY JIM FITZGERALD

The $20 million hoopla over the Ali-Frazier prizefight reminded me again of an important freedom.

That is the freedom to not give a damn.

It seemed the whole world was turned on by that fight. It was broadcast live on TV in Yugoslavia at 4 o'clock in the morning, for Lord's sake. People actually paid hundreds of bucks each for seats near the ring where those 2 brutes belted each other. Incredible.

I've never been to a horse race because I'm not convinced the horses enjoy it. I've never shot a deer because I've never been attacked by a deer. I've never owned a snowmobile because they make sense only when you want to go where a warm car won't go and I've never wanted to go there.

So I can relax and sip my tea when the boys get in terrific hassles over such earth-shaking questions as:

1. Should racetracks be run by guys who belong to the Mafia according to testimony given before Congressional investigating committees? (Such testimony never leads to arrests because Efrem Zimbalist Jr. doesn't attend Congressional hearings for fear of bombs).

2. Is it right for greedy, brutal hunters to kill female deer, thus preventing does from spawning bucks to be "harvested" by nice blue-eyed guys who go hunting simply to enjoy the fresh air - but come home angry if they haven't shot anything bigger than a squirrel?

3. Should 2-year-old children be allowed to drive their snowmobiles alone across freeways after 10 p. m. or should it be required that they tow a sled carrying 2 people whose combined ages add up to at least 12?

It is arguments like those that make me the world's champion coat-holder. I couldn't care less. Of course, I figure I'm holding coats for a bunch of idiots but. . .to each his own. If I owned a snowmobile, a deer rifle and a season's pass to the racetrack I'd trade all three for a quiet week end of good reading and indoor sinning.

So it was with me and Muhammad Ali and Joe Frazier. There is no more stupid activity than 2 men beating on each other until 1 of them falls unconscious. It is not a sport. It is the old Lions-vs-the-Christians scene with the drooling Romans jamming the coliseum in search of blood. It's ambulance chasing made profitable.

I don't blame Muhammed and Joe and their promoters for cashing in on the modern Romans. If they didn't, someone else would.

But the biggest thing wrong with this world is that people won't stop killing people. So go tell your kid that violence is wrong and stupid. And then tell him how you paid $100 to watch 2 guys slug each other. Tell your kid wow! you sat so near the fighters you got splattered with their blood.

Don't ask me for all the wise answers.

But also, when you and he are fighting, don't ask me to give up my freedom to not give a damn who wins.

Uncle Tim From Tyre Says:

Dear Mister Editor:

I recollect a feller said once that the only way to make shore that crime don't pay was to let the Government run it. With all them millions being made off Army PXs and little odd jobs like the Supreme Court judges take to "advise" big companies and the stocks all them cabinet members have in outfits they beg Congress to give money to, it looks like even the Government can make a go of crime.

The fellers took up this matter of everybody thinking these days that laws of God and man is made for everybody else. What got em started on the subject Saturday night at the country store was this piece Zeke Grubb had saw in the paper about a civic club was holding Crime Prevention Week. Zeke reported where this piece said the club was putting on a feed and inviting all the law in the county to help celebrate Crime Prevention Week.

Zeke said after he read the piece all he could think of was what his preacher told him once about the church being for sinners. Zeke took this to mean that the folks that go to church general ain't the ones that need it the most. He allowed that the same would hold for them that attends Crime Prevention Week feeds. Wonder how many crooks is celebrating the week, Zeke wanted to know.

Ed Doolittle said he was of the mind that the civic club was jest telling the police they was behind the law. Ed said about the only way you can prevent a crime is not to do one, but being agin crime in public is like being agin bad weather. We can talk, but they ain't a heap we can do, was Ed's words.

The trouble, allowed Ed, gits back to having respect for the rights of others. The police can't do a thing afore the crime is done, Ed said, and they are pritty tied up about what they can do after. If a man's got mean doing in his heart they ain't much we can do afore he does it, allowed Ed.

Actual, said Clem Webster, that had listened as long as he could without gitting in his dime's worth, the courts don't help none even after the police catch em. The court throws the case out on some legal point, or gives out suspended sentences that jest puts the crook on the loose agin. Course, Clem said, this could be cause the jails is full.

Mister Editor, the fellers don't buy none of that about a jense in the body making a man be a crook. But their talk about courts reminded me of the time this feller was up ter stealing two of his neighbor's mules. He told the judge the neighbor had stole his wife and he took the mules to git even.

The judge ruled that a wife that would run off weren't worth much to start with, and he ordered the feller to give back one of the mules. I reckon our courts can use more of them kind of judges.

Yours truly,
Uncle Tim

Birthday party: young at heart Miss Mall, 90, feted

Miss Rosalia Mall is old in years, but young in spirit. That's the only conclusion that you can draw after talking with her at her home on Gagetown's State Street.

Saturday, Miss Mall celebrated her 90th birthday. But at the age when many have a tendency to live in the past, the area's senior, senior citizen is concerned not with what's gone before, but what is happening today.

I think it's terrible, she says, that we are sending our boys over to Viet Nam in this senseless war. They should be brought home at once. . . . We don't have any business over there. Close your eyes and you could be talking with today's young college student.

Open them again and you are forced to remind yourself that Miss Mall is celebrating her 90th year.

She's a wisp of a woman with hair that's not all grey. And she stands erect and proud. The years have used her gently and you're a little shocked after you have stopped to count and realize that 10 years have passed and she's changed scarcely at all.

Reaching a 90th birthday in her mental and physical condition is an occasion worth commemorating and 29 friends and relatives helped her do it Saturday night.

A birthday party was held at a restaurant in Sebewaing and Miss Mall was the honored guest.

Maybe one reason that she is still hale and hardy is that through the years Miss Mall keeps busy. She has been a Chronicle correspondent for 43 years, . . . and still continues to write the Gagetown news. She could be the oldest active correspondent in the State, if not the nation.

And she is not a part-time contributor. Every week, except for rare brief vacation periods, Miss Mall's Gagetown news arrives regularly.

Although she has been in the Gagetown area longer than most of her current associates, Miss Mall was not born here. She is a native of Canada, born March 21, 1881.

She came to Tuscola county in 1883. The family farm was located about a quarter of a mile from the former Bingham school and it was in this country school that Miss Mall received her primary education.

She later went to a Saginaw business school and worked for 20 years for Dunn Bookkeeping in Saginaw before returning to Gagetown. She was employed at the post office for many years prior to her retirement.

While Miss Mall has no trouble remembering the early years, . . . she isn't particularly interested in talking about them.

She'd rather talk about the news of today not yesterday. It keeps her young.

MISS ROSALIA MALL opens flowers, one of many gifts she received on her 90th birthday.

BETTER HEALTH

If you smell there is a reason

BY DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

A while ago, in the journal, "Patient Care," Dr. Harry Wiener wrote a fine article about various body odors and how they may be signs and symptoms of certain diseases. Many physicians have agreed with Dr. Wiener that a doctor's nose may sometimes be a useful diagnostic tool. My old professor of medicine used to be able to diagnose typhoid fever by the smell of the patient, and Dr. Abram Hoffer, the great Canadian psychiatrist, tells me that schizophrenics, when seriously disturbed as in a delusional flare-up, have a specific and unmistakable body odor. Usually, there is no odor from a healthy and reasonably hygienic person.

One of the easiest unpleasant odors to diagnose comes from a disease called OZENA, which is a crusty inflammation of the nose. Some experts advise the use of a neostigmine solution, sprayed into the nostril four times a day to help in eliminating the trouble. A good doctor should also be able to recognize the bad odor that comes from the mouth of a person who has some large dental cavities.

A diabetic often has a sweetish-smelling breath. A baby with PHENYLKETONURIA (called PKU for short), a chemical defect that can injure the brain of a newborn infant unless he is quickly given a diet low in phenylalanine (a certain component of food) can have an unpleasant or horsey odor to the breath.

A certain type of bad breath which smells markedly of urine can be a sign that the person's kidneys are in very bad shape, especially if the person is a man past the age of 60. I once had a man in my office with such breath, with lips that were covered with white crystals. Examination showed that the man had a serious prostatic disease.

Foul smelling stools can be an indication of celiac disease, or a CYSTIC FIBROSIS of the pancreas, a hereditary disease which affects the lungs and digestion of children.

A "fecal" breath can be an indication of liver disease. If the liver is healthy and normal, it removes all the odor that may be with the intestinal gas that comes up out of the colon. When the liver is not working properly, the foul-smelling gas goes through it and is breathed out through the lungs. Experts say that each day large amounts of colonic gas are removed from the bowel by the liver and the lungs.

Also, if the person is under severe stress, as with anxiety, what happens is that the chemical filtering action of the liver is temporarily shut off.

Drying of the mouth can be responsible for the bad breath of some persons when they become nervous, excited, anxious or frightened. The ancient Roman poet Martial spoke of the foul breath of prisoners about to be executed in the arena, and I have noticed the same type of odor on the breath of a person who has been through an upsetting courtroom battle, or on a woman who has been watching her husband die. It plagues a few women when they are sexually excited. These persons can get help perhaps by taking tranquilizers.

Some bad body odors come simply from lack of cleanliness. An easily recognized odor is that of too much sweating in the armpits. Some surgeons have tried removing a bit of the skin of the armpit in order to get rid of some of the smelly sweat glands, but I have never seen this done. It helps to shave under the arms, to wash with an antibacterial soap, or to use antiseptic creams.

In some very stout women, I have recognized an odor due apparently to the growth of a mold between heavy breasts and the chest wall. The stout person has to be careful to bathe every day to get rid of body odor.

For bad smelling feet, the person can twice daily immerse the soles of his feet in a 10 per cent solution of formalin for five minutes. Formalin must not be used in the groin or armpits, because there it could cause some inflammation. Socks should be changed frequently.

Persons taking certain drugs can develop a bad breath from the medicine. Also, men who love a pipe can have an unpleasant odor on the breath after smoking special types of pipe tobacco, and alcoholics can have an unpleasant odor to their breath.

If you would like to have a copy of Dr. Alvarez' booklet, "What Is Epilepsy?" simply send 25 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope along with your request for it to Dr. Walter C. Alvarez, Dept. CCC, Box 957, Des Moines, Iowa 50304.

AAUW meets at Crandell home

The Cass City branch of the American Association of University Women held their March meeting at the home of Mrs. Harry Crandell, assisted by Mrs. Carroll Howarth. Mrs. Stanley Kinn Sr. presided at the business meeting. Members were given a sheet listing some of the safer pesticides and herbicides for home use, by Mrs. James Kot.

The program consisted of a talk by Mr. Potocnik of Caro, co-ordinator of vocational education for Tuscola county. Present plans are for a millage vote in August to establish what would be called the Tuscola Area Career Center in Caro. Using many charts Mr. Potocnik showed areas that would be served, administration, what happens to vocational education graduates, course offerings and proposed solution area center concept.

The establishment of such a center, said Mr. Potocnik, would in no way reduce the teaching of vocational subjects in the present schools but would greatly enhance the opportunities for the majority of high school graduates. Also the center would be able to offer a broader curriculum with instructors who have specialized in vocational education. Adult education classes would also be offered.

ONE FOR THE ROAD Suggestion box: a booming business

By Dan Marlowe

I remember seeing a movie 25 years ago in which a wife annoyed by having a big, fat, lazy, brother-in-law underfoot got him a job in a factory.

The brother-in-law was placed in the factory at the juncture of two feed-belts where shining rows of cans came off one belt at right angles to another, usually with a good deal of confusion and jamming. The third day the brother-in-law was on the job, the foreman came along and found him sleeping in a corner on a bale of rags. The foreman looked at the shining rows of cans marching along the belts in military precision and discovered that the brother-in-law had devised a simple invention which kept the cans moving and did his work for him.

The foreman transferred the brother-in-law to another job, where two days later he created another device which eliminated his job. When it happened a third time, the company applied for patents on the devices only to find that the brother-in-law had patented them first. In the movie, of course, the big, fat, lazy, brother-in-law ended up owning the factory.

It doesn't work quite that way these days in industry, but there's a substitute that does quite well for ingenious people, the suggestion box. These days the cultivating, evaluating, and rewarding of employee ingenuity is big business.

A United Air Lines pilot calculated that jetliners would require less power if the center of gravity were changed by moving cargo to the rear. United saved so much money by using the suggestion that they were delighted to pay the pilot $45,850, and this is far from the largest suggestion award ever paid. A technician for IBM Corporation once received $75,000 for proposing a better way to repair vital computer components.

The list is as wide as industry. Winning suggestions frequently involve complex technology, but there are numerous exceptions. At GM's Chevrolet plant in Flint production workers were using an expensive tool to cut washers out of rubber tubing. When an ingenious soul discovered the same job could be done with a pair of five-cent razor blades, and they lasted longer than the tool. The payoff: $10,000.

At GM's truck-and-coach division in Pontiac, vehicles shipped in railroad cars were being scraped and damaged by chains used to hold them in place. A clever employee slipped rubber hoses over the chains, and won $1775.

Suggestion boxes don't always work. One company reported: "Rejections made people mad and awards didn't make them too happy since they thought they could be larger. We soon gave it up." Another company noted: "All we got out of our box was suggestions to drop dead."

But the system is here to stay. Last year $43,000,000 was

The Want Ads Are Newsy Too!

There are days when Jim feels "all geared up." Like many men today, he has the sense of being just a cog in a wheel—no real identity. This is wrong!

It takes a great many Jims, all kinds, to keep the wheels turning. But each is important, and each is an individual. God intended men to have not only a sense of identity, but a basic self-esteem.

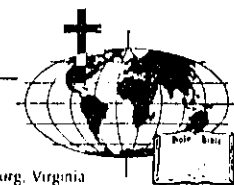

Maybe you've been underestimating yourself! Maybe you've been feeling that you are just one of the crowd! If so, during this Lenten season you'd better take a new look at both the world and yourself.

For a new perspective, maybe you'd better start going to church.

AGENT'S CORNER

Spring means painting

Judy Marks - Extension Agent

This time of year means it's cleaning time to many people. Spring may also mean painting time.

Choose your paint carefully. Be sure and investigate the new improved types on the market. Read the labels on cans and ask the dealer questions. Tell him where you plan to use the paint, so he can make recommendations.

There is no single best all-purpose paint. Each paint type has its own virtues and limitations. Not all paints have all the desired qualities. Choose the one that best fits the job you're doing.

When shopping for paint, look for the following characteristics:

Hiding power -- the ability to cover with one coat.
Easy application without run or brush marks.
Fast drying.

Smooth, even appearance with no indication of overlapping strokes.
Little or no odor.

Easy clean up -- easy paint removal from brushes, rollers, buckets or pans.
Washability -- necessary for kitchens, bathrooms or utility rooms, which will get frequent scrubbing.

Serviceability -- Paint that stands up to the usual two to three years of wear between paint jobs.
If you find some of the above points helpful, the bulletin "Painting Room Walls" is just for you. Color, application and materials are discussed. This bulletin also gives a step by step description of painting wood furniture. To get your copy of "Painting Room Walls", just contact one of the "Thumb" Cooperative Extension Service Offices in Sandusky, Bad Axe or Caro.

See shortage of blight free seed

By William Bortel

Good quality bacterial blight-free Navy bean seed may be in short supply this year. As of early March, samples from 325 lots of certified beans and from 275 lots of non-certified beans have been tested for blight. Approximately 78 per cent of the certified seed lots and only 43 per cent of the non-certified seed lots tested free from internal blight infection and hence are acceptable for planting in the 1971 season. Using this as a basis for estimating available disease free seed, there should be approximately 90,000 cwt. of certified seed or enough to plant 270,000 acres of Navy beans. On the other hand, only 29,500 bags of non-certified seed lots are acceptable for planting. These lots will be sufficient to plant an additional 90,000 acres. We are assuming the 100 pounds of seed will be sufficient to plant 3 acres.

An additional supply of disease-free seed, enough to plant approximately 100,000 acres, must be found before the planting season begins in order to provide enough disease-free seed to plant all of the Michigan bean acreage. Disease-free Seafarer beans are in greatest supply and account for over one-half of the seed lots. Approximately one-fourth of the seed lots are the variety Sanilac and the remaining one-fourth are divided equally between Gratiot and Seaway. The largest number of seed lots infected with bacterial blight came from Huron and Tuscola areas where we received a heavy rainfall during the growing season.

If we are going to stop the bean growers' biggest enemy

(bacterial blight), we must plant bacterial blight-free seed. Growers that still have seed not checked for internal bacterial blight, we would highly recommend that every effort be made to forward these beans to the laboratory for testing immediately. Spring will soon be upon us and it takes approximately one month to run the test.

DON and GERALD STILSON, OWNERS

The first day was crowded and hectic. The second day generally quiet but in any case the Reese School District has its schools open and operating with 1,243 studying under 32 teachers, while the 44 recently fired striking teachers continue to picket the school.

Superintendent of Schools, Dr. Bruce Dunn, announced shortly after nine Friday morning that the schools would re-open Monday morning and that new teachers had undergone orientation the previous day. The buses were to pick up both public and parochial school students on the regular schedule Monday morning.

The school has been out of operation for four weeks because of a strike begun Feb. 22 by the Reese Teachers Education Association which had been teaching without a master contract since September. The four weeks were filled with tension and drama including an order that the teachers return to their teaching stations Mar. 5, the firing of the 44 of 46 teachers when they refused to do this; the request for a temporary injunction by the teachers against the board of education for hiring new teachers; the interviewing and hiring of a new staff by the board of education; the refusal of Judge Norman A. Baguley to grant the temporary injunction after an unprecedented Sunday afternoon hearing of arguments in Tuscola county's courtroom.

Monday newsmen, photographers, townspeople, and picketing teachers from as far away as Lansing and as near as Akron-Fairgrove were on hand for the re-opening of the schools. Judge Baguley had met with attorneys for the two sides Sunday afternoon and laid down rules on where picketing could take place.

The high school itself reported less than ten students absent after the month-long shutdown and Tuesday's second day of school was reported to be quiet with far fewer pickets and little traffic congestion.

The legal questions are still to be answered. The board of education had set Monday night for hearings, as ordered by law, for the fired members of the Reese Teachers Education Association, but when illness forced the absence of the board's attorney, the hearings were postponed until Thursday night.

The hearings, reportedly at the request of the teachers' association, will be closed to the public. The permanent injunction hearing asked by the Reese Teachers Education Association against the board of education is still to be heard but no date is set as yet. In the meantime the National Education Association has offered support to the Reese Education Association and state groups of superintendents and boards of education have offered support to the Reese board and Dr. Dunn. For the students the doors have opened and there is homework in the evenings once again.

Library loses services of Mrs. Arthur Little

After 21 years, Mrs. Arthur Little will be quitting her job as librarian at the Rawson Memorial Library in Cass City.

Mrs. Little will be replaced by Mrs. Alvin Hutchinson who will begin her new duties Monday.

However, Mrs. Little said that she will bow out slowly. "I'll stay around until Mrs. Hutchinson learns her duties," she reported.

Mrs. Little said that she is ending her long career for personal reasons. All of us have to quit sometime, she added.

OUTREACH helps families

Have you ever read something about poor families and thought, "I wish I could do something to help"? You can - by teaching them consumer and homemaking know-how.

According to Mary Kerr, Extension Home Economist, the Cooperative Extension Service is planning a volunteer training program called OUTREACH.

OUTREACH will give volunteer homemakers basic information on food buying, nutrition, home management, money management and other homemaking topics. The training sessions will also include ideas on how to work with adults, insight into the problems of the poor, and information on the many agencies serving Tuscola county.

The OUTREACH training program is open to all homemakers who are interested in helping one or two low-income families through education. For more information please contact Mary Kerr, Civil Defense Center, Caro - 673-3161.

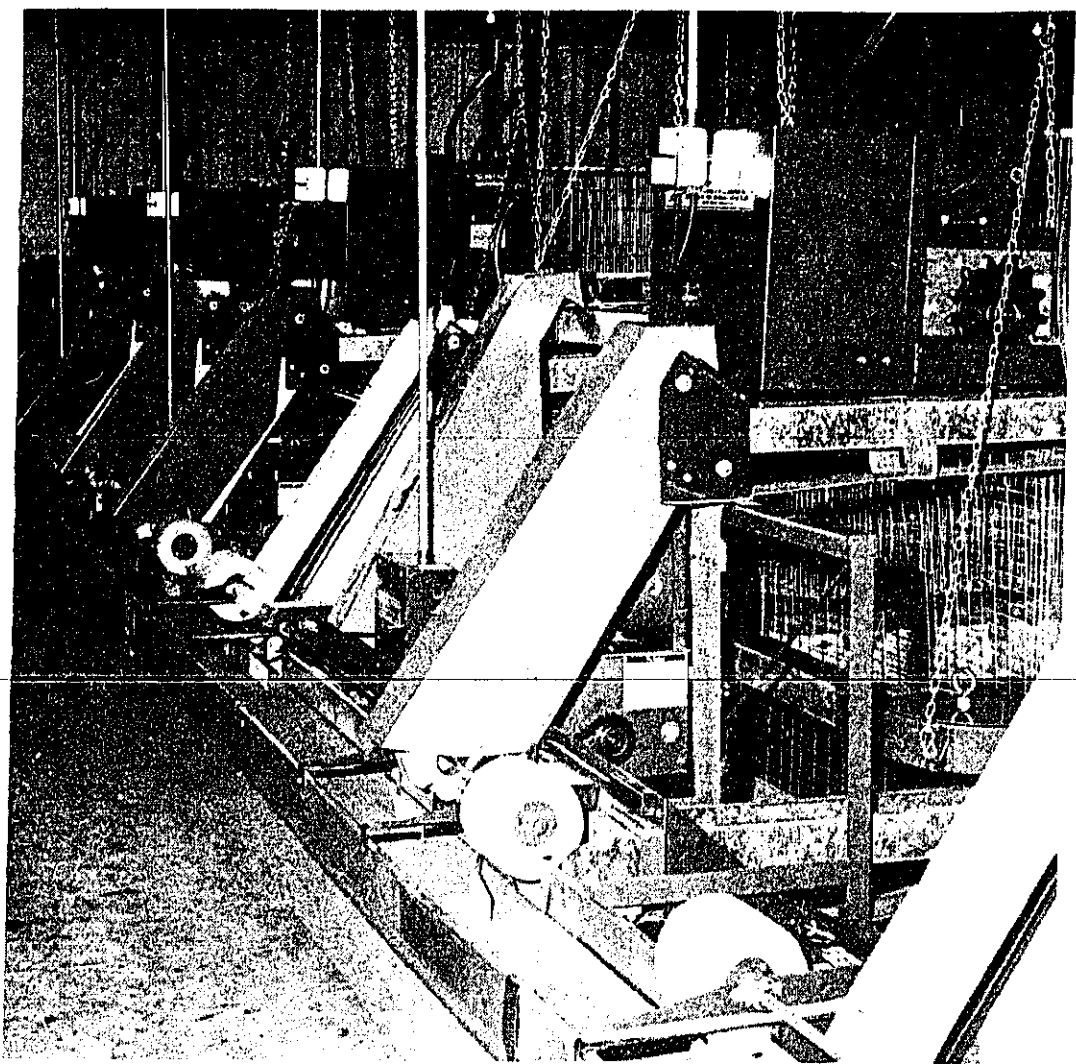

8 openings in popular golf adult course

Interest in golf is at a peak in Cass City and as a result an overflow demand has resulted in three sections of the golf instruction course, Principal Russell Richards said this week.

Golf is one of the courses offered in Cass City High School's adult education program. There will be two sections operating on Monday and another on Tuesday, Richards explained.

There are 8 openings in the Monday sections. Originally the courses were to be taught by Tom Woody, golf coach. But Woody is taking courses towards a degree himself and will not be available.

The Tuesday and one of the Monday courses will be taught by William Philbin and the other Monday course taught by Dale McIntosh. Lessons start April 5 and the cost is $7 for seven weeks.

EACH OF THE ROLLERS is used to guide eggs coming from cages to the master conveyor in foreground from where they are gently transported to the machine used in crating.

See story on page one.

Few cases heard in Tuscola district, circuit courts

The Tuscola County Court-house has been an abnormally quiet place this week. Circuit Judge James P. Churchill took a week's vacation, turned his back on the snow and cold and headed south for sunshine and golf.

With Judge Norman Baguley in Lapeer for the week there were no matters before the court on the normal Monday motion day.

In Judge Richard Kern's District Court, there were fewer matters than usual and just one that affected this area. Louis McNulty, 35, of 5505 Shabbona Road, Decker, entered a plea of guilty to a charge of reckless use of firearms. The incident that triggered the charge occurred outside the Walbro plant when allegedly, an attempt was made to search McNulty's car. McNulty demonstrated to Judge Kern how he had handled the Savage rifle holding the gun at "present arms" and objecting to the search.

Judge Kern refused to accept the plea of guilty, continued the $1,000 personal recognizance bond, and will set a date for trial.

In Huron County District

Court Tuesday, Kenneth Hewitt, 23, and Kerry Snider, 18, both of Elston, entered pleas of guilty to a charge of unlawful use of narcotics, reduced from the original charge of possession of marijuana. Both were sentenced by Judge John Schubel to fines of $200, costs of $100 and 30 days in the county jail.

Korean pheasants released

Sometime after dark Wednesday night an estimated 1,000 adult Korean pheasants were to have been released in Huron county.

The birds were released on two sites: on Ivanhoe Road, a mile north of Ivanhoe, and on Carpenter Road, three miles east and one mile south of Fillion.

The birds were reared in an outdoor pen in Huron county and will be released as part of an experiment to see if the Korean strain can adapt more readily to the area and provide birds to replace the Ringneck Pheasant that has virtually disappeared from the area.

Sanilac women to stage show in Decker

A second quilt show is coming to Decker Masonic Hall, Decker, May 3, 10:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m.

The show will be co-sponsored by Sanilac County Farm Bureau Women and Sanilac County Extension Homemakers Council.

Any interested person may show a maximum of three quilts completed during the past three years: one patchwork, one applique, and one embroidered. Entry blanks will be available soon, reports Mrs. Lynn Spencer, Ugly, Sanilac County Extension Homemakers Council Chairman.

The first successful quilt show took place at the Sanilac County Farm Bureau Building April 30, 1969, sponsored by the Sanilac County Extension Homemakers Council. It was initiated as the result of a survey of elderly citizens of Sanilac county conducted in 1968, revealing an interest in recognizing this dying art, providing an opportunity for showing how quilts are made, and enjoying the fellowship of a common interest and between generations.

Rocky road ahead in House for liberal abortion law

Though they have finally won a victory in the Michigan Senate, backers of the drive to reform Michigan's century-old abortion law know they are far from final victory.

"Only half congratulations are in order now," was the way Mrs. Lorraine Beebe of Dearborn put it when a bill to allow any woman to receive an abortion for any reason during the first 90 days of pregnancy cleared the Senate.

"Full congratulations will be in order only when a bill has been passed by both houses," she said.

It took three years to get a bill of some sort through the Senate, and the makeup of the House indicates it may be an even tougher fight there than it was in the Senate.

Mrs. Beebe, a former state senator from a heavily Catholic district is believed to have lost her bid for re-election last year because she supports abortion reform. She says supporters will work even harder now that they are near success.

"Now that we've been given some hope, I know the women throughout the state will be working harder than ever," she says. "This proves that if you work cooperatively through the legislative process you can get things done."

With matters such as the state financial crisis confronting the Legislature, it will probably be months before the House tries to come to grips with the abortion question. When it does,

Youth for Christ presents The Earl Nelson Singers in an adult concert Saturday night, March 27, at 7:30 p. m. in the Caro Baptist Church.

The Earl Nelson Singers Company was established in 1963 by Earl E. Nelson, then a vocal music teacher in Lansing.

The original group of Singers joined together, stating as their goal, "the preservation of the beauty and dignity of Negro folk music and the transmission of the proud Negro heritage, unaltered, to posterity."

The Singers Company is a nonprofit organization with a wide range of performance experiences in concert, radio and television all around Michigan. The group is composed of adults and has grown from approximately 20 to 45 members. The performing group consists of about 30 singers. Since the group's beginnings, Mr. Nelson has run for and won the seat for the 67th District in the Michigan House of Representatives.

In addition to a wide range of spirituals, representing a showcase of the Singers' repertoire and individual talents, the program will feature a selection of gospel songs. No admission will be charged. A free will offering will be taken during the concert.

Harvey backs dairy increase

Concerned over soaring production costs and the price squeeze facing Michigan's Eighth District dairy producers, Congressman Jim Harvey Thursday introduced legislation boosting milk parities by five per cent for the 1971-72 marketing year.

Harvey's measure, H. R. 6425, will not only assist the dairy farmers, but will also help stabilize and maintain current consumer milk prices.

Dairy producers have been caught in a price bind, with production costs climbing more than five per cent over last year.

The increased parity calls for a minimum support of 85 per cent and a maximum support of 90 per cent during the new marketing year, which begins April 1. The parity hike represents a boost of about five per cent over the present level.

Harvey has been joined by a sizeable group of bipartisan Congressmen in introducing similar legislation. These bills are pending in the House Agriculture Committee.

4. Lessee agrees that it will pay a Basic rental of Nine Hundred Twenty-Five ($925.00) Dollars per month, in advance, on the first day of each month during the term of this lease.

GO KRAFT AND GROW

Company outlines position in Walbro strike issues

Because of its past history, its involvement in community affairs and its management staff that is numerically dominated by Cass City area persons what happens at Walbro concerns the entire community.

Walbro owes its existence in part to local merchants and community boosters who financed its start 17 years ago and through the years the association has been increasingly beneficial for all concerned.

Walbro people are community people for the most part and what affects them affects most Cass Cityans in one way or another.

An orderly, non-violent strike has been in progress for two weeks. Last week management sent a letter to the employees. It outlines Walbro's position and because of the impact of the strike in Cass City we reprint it here to give local residents another look at the questions involved.

March 16, 1971

TO WALBRO EMPLOYEES:

"Last Wednesday, March 10, you took a calculated step and began a strike against your company for higher wages and fringe benefits. This is your prerogative, but we believe it was not a good decision and may have been made without considering all the facts. I am, therefore, addressing this letter to you, hoping to help you better understand the problems we face together.

"Do you know that you are demanding a wage and fringe package which would cost $1,400,000 over a three-year period - yes, one million four hundred thousand dollars - fantastic isn't it? Where will this $1,400,000 come from? Certainly not from profits, for this sum is considerably more than the company earned from 1955 through 1970 (six years). The other avenue open is through price increases. We will make selective price increases wherever possible, but with certain customers we will be forced to hold the line because of competition and prior commitments. After careful analysis we find price increases over the next three years will not give us the necessary funds to meet your wage and fringe benefit demands... far from it. If price increases, and to a lesser extent profits, cannot provide the necessary funds over the next three years, then what is the solution? Frankly, I have no answer, except to tell you that your demands are unsound - not in the cards.

"Against your demands the company offers to you a total package, which will cost just over $900,000. This package includes:

- (1) liberal wage increases in each of the three years, totaling nearly $620,000;
- (2) a provision for cost of living increase in the fourth quarter of the second year of contract with an eight cent cap;
- (3) the best medical-hospital insurance plan in the Thumb which will cost Walbro an additional $130,000 over the present plan (hospital-medical costs are sky rocketing);
- (4) improved vacations;
- (5) the start of a pension plan;
- (6) other benefits such as extra holiday, shift premium increase, etc.

"Every specific demand made by your representatives has been considered and acted upon even though not granted in its entirety. I believe this package proves without question your management's interest and concern for your welfare.

"Certainly you and I want the company to grow and to prosper, so as to provide job security with equitable income and benefits for all. Your management has labored long and conscientiously over the offers we have made to your representatives. We believe them to be very generous and the limit we can go and still keep our products competitive in the marketplace and leave incentive and opportunity for profit to Walbro. Remember, we are the smallest and the only wholly independent company selling carburetors and electric fuel pumps. As such, we do not have the profits, the resources or the clout of the giant companies against whom we sell.

"Walbro was welcomed to Cass City in the summer of 1954 as a new and untried company. There was little or no industry at that time and Walbro provided jobs where jobs had not been available. From a very small start the business has grown and today 500 people are gainfully employed. Your job today is the result of this growth and progress. We fervently hope this progress will continue for the good it can generate for you, your family, the community and all whom this business touches.

"Consider what I have related to you in this letter. I am confident your conclusion will be that Walbro is a good place to work - that its policies, its wage structure and fringe benefits are among the best. But above all, remember it is to your distinct benefit that Walbro continues to be a profitable and successful business. Any strike is an economic disaster! Let's get on with the job of producing the best carburetors and pumps we know how to build. After sixteen years of progress together, let us not now allow division to cancel out all we have worked for and gained. We sincerely have your well-being at heart."

Most Sincerely,

W. E. Walpole
President

WORKERS AT WALBRO Corporation signed in at Union headquarters on West Main Street Tuesday to receive first strike benefit checks. There has been no progress since workers walked off two weeks ago. The company's position in the dispute is reported elsewhere in this issue. Workers receive up to a maximum of $40 per week. Receiving her check from Sally Kelley is Diane Powell.
