School calendar an issue

Union-school spar in 2nd bargaining session

The Cass City Teachers' Association and representatives of the school district eased into serious negotiations Monday night as a school calendar for the following year became a real bargaining issue for the first time.

At issue is the length of the school year. The union is asking for the legal state minimum of 180 attendance days. The school wants to retain 182 days, the same number that was required this year.

In previous years, the calendar was only a minor issue and quickly settled following general agreement about wage and fringe benefits.

At this early stage in the bargaining procedure, it is difficult to tell if the proposals by either side are for real or merely stratagems at the bargaining table.

Many times issues are presented in the give and take of negotiations that are there merely to be "given up" in return for agreement in other more vital areas.

The school's chief negotiator, Al Luce, also presented a few requests for the school district. He asked that the current contract be modified so that teachers would be required to stay a half hour after school on Fridays as well as the remainder of the school week that the contract now requires.

He wants the teachers to agree to pay for their own gym outfits, lab smocks and similar outfits used in courses. He also asks that a supervisor for student teachers be paid $25 under the special payment schedule of the contract.

Luce requested a clause be written into the contract requiring the CCTA to accept any teacher that meets the union's requirements.

It is likely that this is one request that will receive minimal opposition as the Union fought for years to secure an agency (closed) shop before receiving it last year.

At issue in the school calendar bargaining is what portion of the calendar is subject to negotiations.

The school's position is that the number of days in the year and when school opens and closes is open to bargaining, but other union requests concerning parent-teacher days, in-service days, marking periods and similar items are for the administration to decide after conferring with principals.

As always the opening meetings are merely feelers for what lies ahead. The hard rock sessions will start after wage demands are tossed on the table by the union.

In any case, the union says that all negotiations will stop for the summer after June 18 if agreement is not reached. Chances for settlement this early appear remote.

Attacks pollution

County DNR officer defends doe season

Thomas L. Nederveld, game habitat biologist from the Carro field office of the Department of Natural Resources, this week defended the any deer season in Region 75 and urged pollution control by local residents.

Speaking before Cass City Rotary Tuesday the young DNR officer said that the any deer season in Tuscola county was the only logical way to harvest the county's deer herd.

We issued 300 permits this season and harvested 23 does legally. However, the illegal kill was very high. . . and the only reason that the deer herd didn't explode here, he added.

After voicing the department's opinion about the controversial deer question, Nederveld continued with an outline of what should be done to control our environment. He said:

● We should have zero population growth, not more than 2 children to every family.

● We should make it illegal for farmers to use "hard pesticides" with half lives of 20 years or more.

● We should zone our land so that valuable farm land cannot be used for "half acre farm sites".

● We should control our waste so that rivers like the Cass and lakes like Saginaw Bay will not be continually more polluted. It's too late now to have it like it was, but we can take steps to keep it from becoming worse, he added.

● We should see our legislators and demand that the use of throwaway bottles be discontinued.

Few local accidents reported

The eastern half of Tuscola county was relatively free of accidents this week but Douglas Albert Englehart, 21, of Shabbona Road, Deford, wrecked his car while turning a corner on the Severance Road at the Dupree Road.

Englehart is accused of fleeing Sheriff's Deputy Larry Walker when the accident took place, rolling the car over twice. He suffered cuts and bruises. Englehart was charged with eluding an officer and reckless driving with the matters to be tried in District Court.

Agnes Heleski, 59, of Atwater Road, Bad Axe, received cuts and bruises and knocked out several teeth in a three-vehicle accident on the Atwater Road, 1/2 mile east of Ivanhoe, 8 miles west of Uby, May 14.

According to Bad Axe State Police, Mrs. Heleski was heading east when west bound George Wilfred Jackson, 36, of Oxford, attempted to pass a tractor and found himself in her path. Jackson braked but lost control of his car spinning into the Heleski vehicle. Mrs. Heleski was treated at Huron Memorial Hospital at Bad Axe.

FROM THE Editor's Corner

For the first time since I was big enough to throw a ball I've been a Detroit baseball fan. . . and not just a fair weather fan either. I was elated when the Tigers won the world championship; pulled for them during the years they almost caught the Yankees, and was a staunch supporter the year they plummeted into the league basement for the first time in history.

But Friday night I pulled for Washington.

That's because Denny McLain was pitching. Why should I want McLain to win? I don't know if I can really tell you. One reason is that he's a great pitcher and I've got this thing about wanting to see the great ones continue.

I like to see Jack Nicklaus win golf tournaments, for instance, or Dick Weber win bowling matches.

Maybe it's because of personal ego. . . I feel that these men are great performers and want my judgement vindicated.

But I really think it's because I instinctively pull for loser.

Yeah, I know that sounds like one of my senseless prattling, low can I call Nicklaus or Weber a loser? Sometimes you can win and still lose. I became an instant Nicklaus fan forever the day I watched him whip Arnold Palmer over the boob tube and he was so rudely treated by the fans that it was almost embarrassing.

I root for Weber because I remember him as the best there was. . . although I know he's been replaced by the kids on the bowling tour.

McLain's tale of woe is too well known to go into here, but he has to rank right up there with the champion losers of them all.

I guess another reason that I wanted McLain to win Friday was my contrary nature. If everyone is against it, instinctively I'm for it.

Those are my reasons for my reactions to that Friday night baseball game, but my wife has another.

She says that I pulled for McLain because it's the case of empathy for one non-conformist for another.

That's what you might expect her to say. After all, what does she know?

She doesn't even like baseball.

Construction starts on $100,000 Baptist Church

Members of the Cass City Baptist Church broke ground for a new $100,000 building Sunday and spokesmen reported that the 44x80-foot addition is expected to be completed in about five months.

Building the new facility will be Partlo Bros. of Akron for a bid price of $89,093. Elwyn Helwig, a member of the building committee, said that new pews, carpeting, kitchen appliances and other furnishings will up the cost to between $100,000 and $105,000.

The new structure will be of brick and feature laminated beams and have clear span construction in both the basement and ground floor levels.

The sanctuary will seat an estimated 250 persons as compared to the 170 in the present church.

The basement will feature a 30x51-foot fellowship hall with banquet seating for 200. In addition there will be complete kitchen facilities in a 12x24-foot room and a series of rooms that can be altered with moveable partitions.

The new church will be joined with the present church and the present church building turned into a Christian education center.

Parts of the present church building will be remodeled as part of the new building program.

It could well be that the new sanctuary will be straining capacity as soon as it is built. Church officials reported that there was an average of 244 persons at each worship service in April. About 35 of these are children who attend a children's service held at the same time as the regular service.

Thieves loot Rapson Market in Gagetown

Bad Axe State Police are investigating a breaking and entering at Rapson's grocery store in Gagetown Tuesday night, May 11. The entry was made by breaking a basement window and once inside the thief took from $120 to $140 from a cigar box. Included were nine rolls of quarters, six rolls of dimes and four rolls of pennies.

Retired in Gagetown

Col. Wallace: no regrets after 32 years in service

It's a long ways from the peaceful little bungalow in rural Gagetown with the orchard in the backyard and the tomato plants blooming on the porch to the battlefields of Okinawa, Attu and Korea.

And frankly, Col. Lee Wallace, 57, of Gagetown dreaded the transition as much as he did the sniper's bullets that felled him twice during his 32-year career in the United States Army.

But now nearly three years to retirement he looks back at his career with serenity and there's not a shadow of doubt the military erect red soldier with the close cropped greying hair spent 32 years of his life doing exactly what he wanted to do.

As he sits today in the easy chair in the white framed house id fingers the galaxy of ribbons on his dress uniform that earned as a service pro, gruffly attempts to hide the emories and the satisfaction that comes from knowing how he earned them. . . but it peeks it in little almost indiscernible ways.

It shows in the shading of the voice when he speaks of the Silver Star with Oak Leaf Cluster for gallantry in action, the nation's third highest tribute to its heroes. It shows in the off-handed way he tells of the Bronze Star with Oak Leaf Cluster, the Legion of Merit and the Purple Hearts.

Really it shows the most in his reluctance to talk about his personal exploits. . . the actions he participated in that earned him the medals that decorate his uniform.

But with prodding from his wife he'll tell you that he was wounded in action twice. He was shot through the upper right part of the thigh at Attu. The sniper's bullet smashed through his watch pocket and took parts of an old railroad type watch with it. . . parts of that watch are still imbedded in Wallace today. "Doesn't bother me any," says Wallace.

The second time, Wallace calls "minor". A bullet went through his hand and he was off duty for only a couple of weeks during the campaign at Okinawa.

Wallace became a regular army officer 10 years after he first enlisted as an officer in the reserves. He became a regular army officer in 1946.

For him it was a day of celebration. For most of his young adult life, Wallace said he had a yen for the military life and when World War II was over he jumped at the chance to become a regular army officer.

His assignments after '46 ranged from a Washington desk job as Defense Agency New Building Coordinator to an advisor to the Shah of Iran and the United Arab Republic.

Today life has come full circle for Wallace. He lives in the home where he was born and grew up. His mother died shortly before he retired. In Florida the Wallaces have a son, Nick, 33, and his daughter, Sharon Lee, is the couple's only grandchild.

While he's out of the service, Wallace still keeps well posted on what's happening in today's army.

What about today's new relaxed standards for soldiers?

You can see, he said, gesturing towards his close cropped hair, that long hair is anathema to me. And you must have discipline to make an army function.

But whether you drill or not won't make a hell of a lot of difference. Something else will be substituted.

You know, he added, an all-volunteer army would be fine if enough enlist and you can afford to pay them enough, but it would never do in time of national emergency.

Fighting wars is young men's work and presumably an all-volunteer army would find a large number of career soldiers, many who would be too old for combat.

You can see that after three years of retirement Col. Lee Wallace keeps abreast of what's happening. Even while he is sitting in the easy chair of his comfortable living room, it is obvious that while officially Col. Wallace is no longer an active member of the United States Army, unofficially he is still very much a part of it.

THE LEE WALLACES pose with the army jacket decorated with the host of ribbons that Col. Wallace earned in his 32-year army career.

A march on the village of Reese Saturday is due in what The Michigan Education Association estimates will be 2,000 to 3,000 persons and others estimate 750 to 1,000 sympathizers with the fired 44 Reese teachers who went out on strike February 22 and refused to obey the March 5 edict of the Board of Education to return to their teaching stations.

Both sources emphasize that the demonstration will be a peaceful one and will begin at the Vassar Cork Pine fairground at noon as the marchers assemble, and end in Reese later in the afternoon after parades and a rally with several speakers take place.

Earlier this spring another rally had drawn about 750 persons to Reese in a peaceful demonstration. The coming rally will include Michigan teachers and friends of what has become known in the area as the Reese 44.

There was something of a furor over the selection of the latest staging area for the pre-march activities Saturday at the Cork Pine fairgrounds. The Vassar City Hall and Clerk June Steffen fielded many calls from irate residents of the area who questioned the Vassar council's decision granting use of the fairgrounds for the assembly.

The Vassar council made it clear that the decision was not one made by them but rather the Cork Pine Fair Board, an autonomous body in Vassar headed by Ivan Middleton.

As of this time the fairgrounds will be used as a staging area and apparently Reese will be a crowded Tuscola county community for another Saturday afternoon.

The unfair labor practices charge against the Reese Board of Education will continue Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday in Saginaw at the Saginaw County Courthouse.

The longest stock auto race in the nation is run each year at Charlotte, N. C.

North Carolina, because of its scenic mountains, rolling midlands and wide beaches, is known as Variety Vacationland.

Now, a Chrysler priced $112* less than a Chrysler.

Royal.

Every inch a Chrysler. Yet with Royal, the deal starts $112 less than Newport, previously our lowest-priced series.

A full-sized Chrysler.

The Royal is just as big as our most luxurious New Yorker. And bigger than its competition—Buick LeSabre and Olds Delta 88.

Bigger outside.

Bigger inside.

With a bigger trunk.

And a bigger engine. Royal's 360 V-8 delivers more power, too. Power for freeway cruising without strain. Power for safe passing. All on regular gas.

What's Royal got that Buick LeSabre and Olds Delta 88 don't have?

Royal also gives you a better suspension system: torsion bars instead of coil springs.

The ride is firmer.

More controlled.

On a trip to the supermarket, you might not notice the difference. On a quick expressway lane change or a tight turn, you surely will. The Royal won't sway or lunge.

Outside of Chrysler products, only two American cars have torsion bars—Cadillac Eldorado and Oldsmobile Toronado.

Another difference: Royal's body is welded into a single solid Unibody. It's the strongest way to build a car. And there are no body bolts to work free and rattle.

Buick and Olds use the old body-bolted-to-frame technique.

A Chrysler priced to introduce you to Chrysler.

Yet for all this extra value, Royal is priced just about the same as LeSabre and Delta 88.

Myths about menstruating women

BY DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

I just read a marvelous book called "The Menstrual Cycle," by Dr. Katharina Dalton, who in order to write this book has questioned and studied thousands of menstruating women and girls, and correlated their menstruation with various emotional and psychic disturbances.

Dr. Dalton points out that menstruation is a word used in medical circles, and by some women, but seldom by men. There are many nicknames for menstruation, such as "monthlies," "periods," or even "the curse." As she says, "At a time when sex is so openly discussed, this blinkered attitude to menstruation is utterly Victorian. Only recently has the subject been considered to be respectable enough to mention in the press or radio." She says that the average woman menstruates some 400 times in her life, and she points out that rarely does a woman go through life without an occasional painful or troublesome menstruation, so it is important for a woman -- and for the men in her life -- to understand something of this process.

The fact that menstruation has for long been considered unmentionable may be one reason for the lack of general knowledge about it, and for the fact that there are numerous "old wives' tales" about it. Dr. Dalton has a fascinating chapter on the mythology of menstruation. For instance, in many countries, the presence of a menstruating woman in a place where men are working is believed to cause much harm. She is blamed for making wine sour, for blighting crops, for rusting iron and turning bronze and copper green. She might cause a cow to abort, make seeds dry up and make fruit on trees die; or she might cause bright mirrors to become dulled, the edge on sharpened metals to become dull, the gleam of ivory to be dulled, a hive of bees to perish, strings of harps and violins to break, clocks to stop, and boiling linen to turn black. These strange ideas will explain why East Indian women make it a practice to go into purdah (a form of retirement) during these times.

In some communities, women are isolated in a special room during menstruation and during that time, they must not eat from dishes that are used by the rest of the family. Once when I was visiting a native Hawaiian in his grass house, I saw at the lower end of his yard a tiny grass hut. When I asked him what that was for, he said that it was for his wife to live in when she was menstruating and religiously "unclean" and untouchable.

There are even more devastating myths. For instance, in some parts of the world, it is thought that a menstruating woman must not walk between two men because one of them will then certainly die. Or if she had touched some fish or game which later was taken by a fisherman or a hunter, the man might die. In a forest, she would call out to warn men of her presence so that they might avoid her, because if a man were to meet a menstruating woman there, he would turn gray and lose his strength.

In the Middle Ages, menstruating women were forbidden to attend church or to take communion. The Indians of Bolivia believed that menstruation resulted from the bite of a snake. In Italy, menstruation was thought to cause madness and tuberculosis. In ancient times, when Jewish women ended their menstrual period, they were required to undergo a ritualistic cleansing, taking a special type of bath. In Indonesia, a menstruating woman may not enter tobacco fields or work in rice paddies. In Saigon, women during menstruation are not employed in opium factories lest the opium turn bitter.

In France, menstruating women were kept away from sugar refineries because they might turn the sugar black; in Syria they are not allowed to pickle food because they might cause the food to putrefy, and in southern France they may not breathe on mayonnaise, for fear they might keep the sauce from thickening.

In some places, the girl who starts menstruating is shut up in a darkened room. Even today, in some houses, menstruating girls are not allowed to take a bath or wash their hair.

Dr. Dalton's book is full of excellent, factual information about menstruation; she discusses and describes normal menstruation, emotions and menstruation, the pill, the change of life, premenstrual problems and painful menstruation, ovulation, and other important aspects of the subject. As Dr. Dalton says, "It is my hope that by opening up this subject to a wider audience, I may induce women to appreciate that there is an answer to much of today's unnecessary suffering; (and) that men may gain a sympathetic understanding of the problems of the opposite sex."

"The Menstrual Cycle" is published by Pantheon Books, a division of Random House, 457 Madison Avenue, New York, 10022, and costs $4.95.

Alvarez, Dept. CCC, Box 957, Des Moines, Iowa 50304.

Need more education to spur growth

Persons who attended a series of two March meetings sponsored by the Cooperative Extension Service on "Community Development" were asked to fill in a follow-up questionnaire, according to Ann Ross, Thumb Extension home economist.

Participants were asked which information gained was of most importance and what action should follow these meetings. They were also asked to indicate whether or not the meetings showed the importance of county government.

Surveys were returned by well over half of the 120 who attended the two meetings held in each of Sanilac, Tuscola and Huron counties. All, without exception, indicated that the meetings showed the significance of county government.

Many of those who responded were concerned about zoning and wished for additional help in getting zoning explained and zoning ordinances passed.

Others indicated that it was imperative that local decisions be left in the hands of local people.

The most common concern was that "more meetings like these are needed so that many more people can become aware of the growing problems in our area."

"To find out on your own," suggests Mrs. Ross, "visit your County Planning Commission, your township board meetings, your Board of Commissioners, your local or county School Board or the Boards which advise the Health Department, the Social Services Department, the county libraries or the County Road Commission."

Also watch for further educational meetings, sponsored by the Cooperative Extension Service, in which local leaders and professionals will encourage understanding and involvement of local people in decisions which affect their future.

The Highland Games and Gathering of Scottish Clans is presented each July on Grandfather Mountain in western North Carolina.

Area ladies complete course for waitresses

Mrs. Mary Kerr - Extension Agent

"If you seek a pleasant peninsula, look about you" is Michigan's motto. But, if you seek a better waitress you might look to the graduates of a recent waitress training session held in Uby.

Class members met for fact-packed training sessions at the Community Bank and concluded Wednesday at the Huron County Building office of the Cooperative Extension Service which sponsored the training.

Not only were styles of service detailed, but also discussed were safe food-handling, knowledge of the area, state health laws, grooming, billing accuracy and attitudes toward employers and customers.

Average attendance was 23, which included professional waitresses as well as beginners and other interested people.

Persons receiving certificates for completing all sessions of the course were: Grace Herriman and Melanie Lobdell of Caro; Cecelia Zuraw and Janet Zuraw of Gaytown; Judy Sneyer, Lila Maurer, Joy Anthony, Edanna Sweeney, and Nancy Geboski of Uby; Rosemarie Chagnan, Dawn Anderson, Kathy Herrington, Dorothy Anderson, and Lillian Wing of Bad Axe.

Classes were taught by Extension Home Economist Mary Kerr and Ann Ross and Huron County Sanitarian Ed Sager.

Learn this lesson well--there is no reward for finding fault.

Uncle Tim From Tyre Says:

Dear Mister Editor:

Do you recollect the report a few years back where this cotton mill in North Carolina give 200,000 dippers to this African country, and the men over there used em fer head turbans? The way things is gitting turned around, Mister Editor, switching ends with them dippers wouldn't git a line in the papers now.

Not to long back, the wimmen set at home and welcomed their men back from hunting and fishing, cause what the men bring home was what the family had to eat. Now I see by the paper where a bunch of wimmen is calling themselves Friends of Animals, and they want to do away with hunting complete. That is, they want to stop men from hunting animals and start hunting wimmen more.

Before everthing got switched around, wimmen that wanted the men to pay some mind to em could think of a lot better things to do than carry signs around on a stick inviting the men to prove their manhood. And while one bunch of wimmen is trying to stop hunting, more of em is trying to git laws passed to make three-year marriage contracts legal. It looks like the wimmen want the men around the house, but not fer long.

A salesman stopped by the country store Saturday night, and he got into a discussion the fellaers was having about how old is old enuff to vote. The salesman, that looked to be about 40 year old, said he was fer raising the voting age to 40. Farthermore, he said, the worst mistake ever made in trying to run a Government by the people and fer the people was when the men give the wimmen the right to vote.

Mister Editor, I won't go that far, cause I know if we got the wimmen really riled they could vote men plum out of the country. But it does look like wimmen has got this disease of turning everthing around and looking at it from the back side. And I think we ought to worry when the wimmen that introduced a bill making marrying a three-year contract said they knowed the idea would go over with the 18-year-old voters.

Actual, it ain't the short-term marrying that's switched around, it's the understanding of what marriage is in the first place. Maybe I'm wrong, but I alius had the idee that gitting married is a serious business, and that picking a mate was a fer cry from buying a car that you can turn in as soon as the next model comes out.

But general speaking, Mister Editor, the more some things gits turned around, the more they wind up like they was. Fer instant, I take all this stuff about free love and "commune" living with a big grain of salt. All these folks is trying to do is git the family idee catching on again. The old fashion family, pa, ma and the younguns, may come back in style if we keep switching around.

Yours truly,
Uncle Tim

Saranac best county alfalfa seed choice

For alfalfa yields of five to seven tons -- and more -- per acre, Saranac is the best choice overall, but several other varieties should be considered for Tuscola county, advises Bill Bortel, Tuscola County Extension Agent.

Michigan State University crops specialists have summarized results of several years' research at MSU Experiment Stations and on commercial farm operations throughout the state. Here are some recommendations based on this research:

For short term stands (two to three years), Saranac is the first choice. Second choice, especially for two years, are the non-wilt-resistant Flammande-type alfalfas such as Du Puits. Others which yield as good or better are: A-24, PAT-30, Warrior and Glacier.

For medium term (three to five years) first choice is Saranac with Vernal a close second. Others close to Vernal in yield are: WL-202, PAT-525, Warrior and Progress.

For long-term stands (over five years), Vernal is the first choice. Second choices are WL-202 and PAT-525.

The top yielding varieties in the first two years in each of two MSU tests were the fast-growing or fast recovery types. These were the Flammande-type alfalfas. But they are susceptible to bacterial wilt and, because of their fast recovery, are not as winter-hardy as some of the other varieties. The non wilt-resistant Flammande types stood up well in short-term stands but lagged far behind in stands of three years or more.

Saranac, on the other hand combines fast recovery, wilt resistance and acceptable winter-hardiness -- yet it was near the top in yield in the first two years and kept on producing good yields for up to five years.

Happiness that comes with a price tag attached is easily lost.

ONE FOR THE ROAD
Marine salvage
costly business
 By Dan Marlowe

The subject of marine salvage encompasses everything from a boy on a Florida beach picking up a gold Spanish coin deposited by the tide, to the U. S. Navy spending $84,000,000 (charged to the Air Force) for recovery of the atomic bomb lost near Palomares in 1966.

The history of marine salvage is now between the covers of a single exhaustively detailed book with dozens of handsome pictures, some of them quite rare. The book: MARINE SALVAGE, by Joseph N. Gores, Doubleday, $12.50. Its artful subtitle comes closer to telling its true story: "The Unforgiving Business of No Cure, No Pay."

To the professional salvage company, there are three types of salvage: strandings, sinkings, and towings. All are undertaken on one basis only: if not successful, the salvage company receives nothing for brutal, dangerous work usually attempted in the worst of weather.

The history of marine salvage is dotted with far more companies who went bankrupt overestimating their capacities to do a job than those whose executives retired to a life of ease from successful endeavors.

Not that there haven't been successful endeavors. Perhaps the most famed recovery in terms of money salvaged vs. cost to salvage was the HMS Laurentic. A converted White Star liner, the Laurentic struck a mine near the Irish Sea in 1917 while carrying 43 tons of gold worth five million pounds when a pound was a pound. In salvage operations that consumed parts of six years, all but 25 of 3211 gold ingots were eventually recovered for 99.2 percent recovery at a cost of only 2.5 percent of total value recovered.

But the Laurentic was an exception. More typical, possibly, was the case of the Normandie, which burned and capsized at a New York pier in 1942. Raising it cost almost 4 million; projected outfitting would have cost another 20 million, and there were no takers. Eventually the hulk was sold for $166,000, hardly a profitable settlement.

MARINE SALVAGE is an extremely readable history of man's ingenuity in raising things from the sea. The book covers the progress of the art from the days of naked divers to the sophisticated submarines Alvin and Aluminaut. And even with the best of equipment, never too often available, the art of the salvor isn't easy.

Salvage to many means diving in scuba gear among the rotting timbers of wrecked Spanish galleons, and the book has much to say on the subject. There were actually four major treasure routes used at various times by Spain, England, France, Portugal, and Holland. First was the 1500-1802 Caribbean route; the second was much longer, from Peru around Cape Horn to Spain (1534-1810); then the Acapulco-Philippines run by Manila galleons (1570-1850); and finally the Spice Route with ships loaded each way between Europe and the Far East (1502-1870).

Archaeological salvage is becoming increasingly more important. Artifacts are raised and sunken cities mapped. A great many supposedly knowledgeable opinions about the ships and the abilities of ancient sailors have had to be revised in the light of recent discoveries.

Legend and rumor are damaging factors in the search for any long-sunk ship. Despite his success with the Laurentic, Commander G. C. C. Damant, the man who recovered more gold in one operation than anyone has ever taken back from the sea, was moved to remark: "The only gold worth going after is in a newly sunk ship, when the government shows you a bill of lading and where the strong room is."

Otherwise legend and rumor will blow up values to impossible heights, and men will grimly expend fortunes instead of finding them.

But there is a breed of man who would rather attempt it than anything else, and this is his history.

Huge in scope and beautifully detailed, MARINE SALVAGE is almost surely the definitive word on the subject for many years.

Wide range of 4-H attracts over million

BY BERNARD JARDOT

Americans are a hungry lot! Someone has figured that the average American during his lifetime eats 150 cows, 24,000 chickens, 225 lambs, 26 sheep, 310 hogs, 26 acres of grain and 50 acres of fruit and vegetables. And he also uses 9450 quarts of milk.

American agriculture's efficiency has made it all possible. A tremendous producer, American agriculture also is a huge consumer of manufactured goods and services.

It is little wonder that nearly a million youngsters between the ages of 9 and 19 find the 4-H agricultural program interesting and exciting.

The program is sponsored by many friends of 4-H in the industry and business world and along with our many volunteer adult and teen leaders the 4-H agriculture programs have helped many young people. The 4-H agriculture program includes a wide range of projects from automotive to livestock and tractor to veterinary science.

Farming the fertile acres of America is only one of the career choices available to 4-Hers enrolled in the program. Open to them are career opportunities in agriculture research, reclamation, forestry, banking and credit, government, education, communications and an almost unlimited variety of other areas.

According to one source, 15,000 new jobs open each year for college graduates majoring in some phase of agriculture and there are only 8500 candidates to fill the need. In fact nearly one employed person out of every three works somewhere in agriculture.

For more information concerning the 4-H agricultural program, please contact the county extension 4-H office.

Attorneys argue motions in Villarreal murder trial

In Tuscola County District Court this week, John Stephen Daniel, 35, of Hurds Corner Road, Cass City, entered a plea of guilty to a charge of driving under the influence of intoxicating liquor. Daniel was fined $100, costs and judgement fee of $54 and will serve 7 days in the Tuscola County Jail beginning Monday, May 24.

In Circuit Court there were no criminal matters except one concerning Samuel Villarreal, 59, of the Kingston area and his coming trial for murder June 8.

Prosecutor Leo Maki, Assistant Attorney General John Wilson, who will work on the state's side in the case, and Defense Attorney Clinton House took testimony and argued a motion concerning what statements should be admitted as evidence and which should not be considered evidence when the actual trial comes up. Judge James P. Churchill, who will hear the case, has not made his decision as yet on Monday's motions.

Karen Sue Folsom, 25, of the Caro area, was bound over to Circuit Court charged with murder Friday after an all-day, intensive, preliminary hearing in the court of District Judge Richard Kern.

Mrs. Folsom is charged with the slaying of her husband, Allen, 33, Dec. 3 in the Folsom home on highway M-46 near M-24.

Judge Kern continued the bond at $50,000. Witnesses for the state said that Folsom was killed by several blows to the back of the head and most of the testimony concerned witnesses from the State Police Crime Laboratory who connected Mrs. Folsom to the scene of the crime, the basement stairway in the Folsom home. Mrs. Folsom will be arraigned before Judge James P. Churchill June 1 and Judge Churchill has been scheduled, by lot, to hear the trial.

Bonds maturing on or after July 1, 1986, shall be subject to redemption as a whole or in part, in inverse numerical order, at the option of the County prior to maturity on any one or more interest payment dates, on or after July 1, 1982. Bonds so called for redemption shall be redeemed at the par value thereof and accrued interest plus a premium on each bond computed as a percentage of the face amount thereof in accordance with the following schedule:

2% if called to be redeemed on or after July 1, 1982, but prior to July 1, 1986,
5% if called to be redeemed on or after July 1, 1986, but prior to maturity.

Notice of redemption shall be given to the holders of bonds called for redemption by publication of such notice not less than thirty (30) days prior to the date fixed for redemption, at least once in a newspaper or publication circulated in the City of Detroit, Michigan, which carries as a part of its regular service, notice of the sale of municipal bonds. Bonds so called for redemption shall not bear interest after the date fixed for redemption, provided funds are on hand with the paying agent to redeem the same.

Both principal and interest will be payable at such bank and/or trust company which qualifies as a paying agent under federal or Michigan law and which shall be designated by the original purchaser of the bonds. Such purchaser shall have the right to name a similarly qualified co-paying agent. The designation of the paying agent and/or co-paying agent shall be subject to the approval by the county.

The bonds are to be issued for the purpose of defraying part of the cost of acquiring and constructing the Kingston Sewage Disposal System. They are to be issued pursuant to the provisions of Act No. 185 of the Michigan Public Acts of 1957, as amended, in anticipation of the payment of the amounts to be paid to the County under a certain contract dated December 31, 1970, between the County of Tuscola and the Village of Kingston, whereby said Village agrees to pay to the said County the capital cost of the Village of Kingston Sewage Disposal System, in semiannual installments in the same amounts as the semiannual maturities of the principal of and interest on the bonds of this issue. The aggregate amount to be so paid is $360,000 plus interest, paying agent fees and other bond handling costs.

The said bonds will be payable, as to both principal and interest, from the amounts collected from the Village pursuant to the above-mentioned contract. The full faith and credit of the Village is pledged for the making of the required payments to the County. Pursuant to a favorable vote of more than 4/5 of the members-elect of the Board of Commissioners of the County of Tuscola, the full faith and credit of said County is pledged to the prompt payment of the principal of and interest on said bonds.

For the purpose of awarding the bonds, the interest cost of each bid will be computed by determining, at the rate or rates specified therein, the total dollar value of all interest on the bonds from the date of issue to their respective maturities and deducting therefrom any premium. The bonds will be awarded to the bidder whose bid on the above computation produces the lowest interest cost to the County. No proposal for the purchase of less than all of the bonds or at a price less than their par value will be considered.

A certified or cashier's check in the amount of $ drawn upon an incorporated bank or trust company and payable to the order of the Treasurer of the County of Tuscola must accompany each bid as a guarantee of good faith on the part of the bidder, to be forfeited as liquidated damages if such bid is accepted and the bidder fails to take up and pay for the bonds. No interest shall be allowed on the good faith checks and checks of unsuccessful bidders will be promptly returned to each bidder's representative or by registered mail. Payment for the bonds shall be made in Federal Reserve Funds.

Bids shall be conditioned upon the unqualified opinion of Dickinson, Wright, McKean & Cudlip, attorneys, Detroit, Michigan, approving the legality of the bonds. The cost of said legal opinion and of the printing of the bonds will be paid by the County. There will also be furnished the usual closing papers, including a nonlitigation certificate, dated as of the date of the delivery of the bonds, including a certificate that no litigation is pending affecting the issuance of the bonds. Said bonds will be delivered within forty-five (45) days from the date of sale and if said bonds are not delivered by twelve o'clock noon, Eastern Standard Time, on the fourth-fifth day from the date of sale, the successful bidder may withdraw his proposal by serving notice of cancellation in writing on the undersigned in which event the good faith check shall be promptly returned. Bonds will be delivered at New York, New York; Chicago, Illinois; or Detroit, Michigan.

The right is reserved to reject any or all bids. Envelopes containing the bids should be plainly marked "Proposal for Village of Kingston System Bonds." Chairman of Board of Public Works

Tips for control of cereal leaf beetle

By Don Kebler

Even though the cereal leaf beetle has been in Tuscola county for several years, we still have questions regarding this insect. Questions each year are somewhat different from the previous ones and this year is no different.

This year the first flights of the adult beetle were earlier as far as the size of the oat plants were concerned. Our growing oats were between two and four inches tall when the beetle flights began this year. In past years, the beetle damage was most noticed just before oat heading took place.

When these adult beetles came out of hibernation they flew to their feed which is any form of tender grass. Generally oats are the most tender grass family plants around at this time of year. These adults first feed to build up their energy so as to mate and lay eggs. These adults generally eat completely through the leaf in strips parallel to the leaf veins.

Once the eggs are deposited in clusters of one to five, the adults begin to die. However, your troubles are not finished at this time because now or later emerging adults can invade the field, feed and lay eggs also. The adult flight period generally begins around the middle of April and continues to around the end of June for all practicality's sake.

The eggs must have 60 degrees F. or higher temperatures before hatching begins. Lower temperatures delay hatching.

So when do we economically spray to control this beetle?

First of all, very few cases of serious beetle and larvae damage have occurred on young corn, wheat or barley. Oats are most susceptible to real economic loss. When oat plants are under five inches tall, growing slow and have three to five larvae per plant, it would pay to spray. If these plants are growing fast, it may not pay to spray. If little or no beetle and larvae feeding has occurred prior to flowering or heading, it is questionable to spray even though there are eight to ten beetles and/or larvae per plant.

Each field must be judged on its own appearance. However, under no case should anyone apply a preventative spray before the adult beetles invade the field. Recommended insecticides only last from one to possibly three days after applying. The most effective spray for these beetles is after the eggs have hatched.

Sevin is our first choice before the oat plant heads out. This chemical is not cleared for spraying headed grain. Sevin will kill beetle eggs, larvae and adults. Thiodan is cleared this year but cannot be applied on headed grain.

Malathion can be applied pre- or after grain heading but is not an egg killer like Sevin. Lastly, don't overlook the possibility of aerial application of these insecticides and, don't spray unless it is economically feasible.

The French Club at Cass City High School held a French dinner at the home of Patty Wood May 5 when each member brought a French dish.

After the dinner, the club presented Mrs. B. H. Shaw a gift for her leadership. Barb Auten was chosen French Club president for next year.

In other club activities, 21 students of the French club went to Pain-Court, Ontario, the week end of April 23.

They were hosted by the French students in Pain-Court who were in Cass City last fall.

The Cass City students attended classes Friday afternoon when they arrived in Pain-Court. Friday night they attended a school dance and Saturday night attended a party in their honor. They left Sunday morning after attending Mass with their hosts.

The adult drivers were Mrs. Arlington Hoffman, Mrs. Howard Bacon and Mrs. B. H. Shaw, who is club sponsor.

Ask bill for pay boosts to be passed before vote

Irritation and chagrin about pay increase for legislators would be reduced if a proposal by Sen. Robert Richardson, R-Saginaw, becomes law. Taxpayers were irritated earlier this year and legislators were chagrined when a $2,000 per year pay increase was permitted to become law at the same time the same legislators were looking for ways to cutback the payroll and reduce expenses so the state would not sink so far in the red financially.

concern that the electorate is somehow given a 'fast shuffle' through the device of a late determination and almost impossible effort to reject raises. "Those legislators seeking re-election would be answerable to their constituents for the new proposed salary level prior to the election," he says. "This could restore a great deal of confidence by the people in the elective and legislative process."

which have been made, and the length of time the present owner has held the house. Also, where a dealer is involved, the house would have to be covered by a warranty in compliance with all applicable codes. "It must be recognized that an individual seller may not be financially able to bring a home into compliance," Forbes says. "However, a real estate dealer should be able to do so."

WHO'S RESPONSIBLE?

Raises were approved by the State Officers Compensation Commission, which is required by law to meet shortly after the November election in even numbered years. It works out the pay scale for the next two years for legislators, the Governor and the Supreme Court justices.

Complainants felt the raises should have been proposed and either accepted or rejected before the election, rather than just after, so that the people could have made them part of the election campaign.

Sen. Richardson introduced legislation which would require the commission to make its recommendations by April 15 of election years. The Legislature would then have until Nov. 1 to either accept or reject the raises.

Richardson feels his proposal would "eliminate the present

The many pitfalls which lie in the path of prospective home buyers would be covered over quite a bit by legislation being pushed by a suburban Detroit legislator.

State Rep. Joseph Forbes, D-Oak Park, introduced a bill which would require that prospective home buyers be told what's wrong with the house, what it costs to operate the house and what kind of a profit the home seller will make.

Anyone who bought a home and then found the law governing the sale had been violated could either cancel the sale or seek court damages within 18 months of the sale.

Under the Forbes bill, persons selling a house would be required to disclose all housing code violations in the house and information on taxes, heating, insurance and other costs.

The real estate dealer would have to disclose the amount paid for the property by the present owner, any repairs

Annual Grant Cemetery service

Memorial Day services at Grant cemetery, Owendale, will be held Sunday, May 30, at 2 p. m. An interesting program is planned and everyone is invited.

Florence Sheuvelt is secretary of the Grant Memorial Association.

A real threat for harassing a seller could develop if the bill became law. A buyer could threaten court action for real or imaginary failure to comply. Deficiencies the seller did not know about could develop after a sale to haunt him.

Forbes feels Michigan "badly needs" this legislation.

"Facts have shown that home buyers commonly do not know all the facts," he says. "If they don't ask, they aren't told. If they do ask, in many instances they are only told half-truths at best."

"Once they sign the purchase papers, they are stuck."

"They have practically no real recourse under the law. Unfortunately, it is the low income family, who can least afford to be bilked, who is hurt the worst."

Forbes says some speculators make an "enormous" profit selling homes to low income families.

"An average profit of 109 per cent was indicated by a recent study in Detroit," he says. "This inflated price is borne by the low income families, or in the case of welfare recipients, by the State Department of Social Services and the taxpayers of Michigan."

North Carolina leads the nation in the production of furniture and brick with High Point and Sanford being the respective capitals of the industries.

Lakers soundly trounce Hawks for loop title

Lakers took home a 9-3 victory over Cass City, Monday. With the triumph, they also claimed the Thumb B Conference baseball championship. Cass City would have forced a tie for the honor, but the Hawks played their worst ball in two years, according to Coach Fred Hurlburt.

The Hawks missed their star catcher and top hitter, Kip Hopper, who didn't play for disciplinary reasons. Rob Alexander struck out 14 Laker batters.

Lakers opened the scoring in the first. Alexander had struck out the first man he faced, but the ball got away from the catcher, who then threw the ball past the first baseman into right field for a two-base error. The Lakers eventually scored on a wild pitch and had a 1-0 lead they never relinquished.

Lakers added three more runs in the third on a triple, a walk, an error, a single and a passed ball. The Hawks were down 4-0 at the end of three.

The visitors built the lead to 5-0 in the top of the fourth, before Cass City fought back in the bottom half of the inning. A walk, a single, another walk loaded the bases for Gene Salas, who responded with a single to score two runs. Alexander scored shortly after when the Laker hurler walked a Hawk with the bases loaded. The inning ended with Lakers in front, 5-3.

The visitors later added two runs in both the fifth and seventh innings to ice the game and the championship. The contest marked the first loss in the year for fireballing Alexander.

The Hawks close out their season Thursday at Caro.

MAYVILLE GAME

The high flying Hawk baseball team traveled to Mayville last Wednesday, May 12, for a tune-up for the title tangle with Lakers. The "warm-up" produced a 7-1 victory.

Coach Fred Hurlburt was pleased with his club's hitting, saying the Hawks tagged the ball for eight hits. Kim Hopper was the hitting star with a three-run homer that decided the game.

Mayville was able to touch Cass City pitcher Fred Harbec for only two hits. He received praise from Coach Hurlburt for pitching his best ball of the season.

"Unto These Hills" and "Horn In The West", two of western North Carolina's outdoor dramas, are seen by more than 175,000 persons each summer.

THE PERFORMANCE OF Rob Alexander, caught here in action against the Lakers, will go a long ways towards deciding how far Cass City can go in the first annual State Baseball tourney that opens Thursday at Cass City.

Tourney time: Hawks eye end of slump

Coach Fred Hurlburt and the Cass City Red Hawks swing into the first State baseball tournament in Michigan's history today (Thursday) at 4 p.m. when the Hawks face Vassar at Cass City Recreational Park. Cass City will reign as heavy favorites to top the Vulcans and it's well that the team will be facing a weaker team in the opening tourney round.

For Cass City has not been playing good baseball in recent weeks. . . certainly not as good as anticipated when the season opened a few weeks ago.

But all athletic teams run in streaks and Cass City fans are hoping that maybe, just maybe, their team's slump is behind them.

The fans feel if the club plays up to potential, it could be a definite threat in district 51.

But if the slump continues, what might well be Cass City's finest chance for a district baseball trophy for years to come will be less than good.

Cass City trails in triangular track meet

The cold weather and a fine Bad Axe team were just too much for Cass City's thinclads to handle last Wednesday, May 12. The Hawks were outdistanced by both Bad Axe and Harbor Beach in a triangular meet at Bad Axe. The final totals were: Bad Axe 67 1/2, Harbor Beach 45 1/2, and Cass City 35.

Again it was lack of adequate depth, plus a horribly weak performance in the field events that spelled defeat of the Hawks. Cass City did have four first place finishes in the meet. Bad Axe and Harbor Beach counted with five each.

Craig Guernsey again won the 880 run, winning in 2:19.4. Curt Strickland won the mile in 5:00.7. The two other Cass City firsts were in the mile relay and Tim Stickle's victory in the two-mile. The Hawks winning relay team of Guernsey, Curt Freiburger, Dale Vollmar, and Harv Frederick covered the mile in 3:59.6.

The only Hawk performer to finish second was Frederick in the 440-dash.

Golfers lose despite best team effort

The Cass City golf team turned in one of its finest performances Tuesday, May 11. The Hawks hosted the league champions of Caro. Although Cass City set a school record of 165, the Caro team was one stroke short of a league record with a 153. Jude Patnaude and Craig Helwig tied for the Cass City lead with 40's. Rich Lowe shot a 41, and Kim Glaspie rounded out the team with a 44.

Thursday, May 13, the Red Hawks bombed Akron-Fairgrove with freshmen and sophomores. Cass City underscored Akron-Fairgrove 171 to 214. Rich Lowe and Kim Glaspie both shot 44's for Cass City.

The team journeyed to Alma to play in the Regional 13 golf tournament. Coach Tom Woody was very pleased with his team showing considering the sport is only in its second year. The Hawks finished 14th among 23 schools that participated. Rich Lowe shot an 88, and Jude Patnaude an 89 for Cass City's best efforts.

Medalist for the event was Phil Caffrey of Gladwin who shot a 76.

The red Hawks will wind up their season Friday, May 21, with the League Tournament at Bad Axe.

Oscoda won the regional with a score of 314. Cass City's score was 369.

Regional track meet

Strong winds kill tries for records

Cass City's Recreation Park was the site of a Regional Track meet last Saturday. Classes B and D schools competed for the championship in their respective classes. In the "B" section, Carrollton won with 41 points, edging out runnerup Mt. Morris with 35. Cass City finished seventh in the B standings with 10 points. Unionville won the "D" portion of the meet. The Eagles ran away from their competition. Unionville scored 90 to runnerup Carsonville's 35.

A strong wind prevented the athletes from attaining the times they would have gotten in normal conditions. The top three finishers in each individual event will now advance to the state meet to be held at Michigan State University, Saturday, May 22.

Cass City thinclads to qualify for the big state meet were Craig Guernsey, Curt Strickland, Curt Freiburger, Dale Vollmar, and Harv Frederick. Guernsey will run his specialty, the 880 run. He finished second to Gary Coggins of Mt. Morris, edged out, 2:06.75 to 2:07.3. After he runs the 880, Guernsey will run a leg of the mile relay. The relay team finished third in the regionals.

The unit includes Guernsey, Freiburger, Vollmar, and Frederick.

Strickland will participate in the mile. He finished third in the regionals, behind Jerry Bartow of Crosswell-Lex, and Mark Fisher of Carrollton.

Area track buffs viewed some mighty talented performers Saturday. Roy Young of Mt. Morris won both the 100-yard dash and the 220-yard dash. His times were hurt by the wind, but he has run a 9.4 hundred, and is a good bet to win at Michigan State. His time in the 100 here Saturday was 10.4.

In the "D" pole vault, an Arenac Eastern athlete went above the existing state meet record with a vault of 12'9". His name is Seder, and he's a man to watch in the state meet.

The complete results:

JV nine post 3 wins during week

The Cass City JV baseball team posted three victories in their last three games. The little Hawks beat Marlette twice, with Lakers being the other victim. The Marlette scores were 12-8, and 17-12. Lakers fell 7-0.

Mike Frederick was the winning hurler in all three games. His best performance was against Lakers, as he allowed only two hits and struck out 13 batters.

The Hawks collected five hits against Lakers, but all were clutch blows. Cass City played errorless ball, in what was probably the finest showing of the year.

The two Marlette games featured a barrage of hitting. Slugging stars for Cass City were Scott Guinther, who had three hits in each contest, and Al Romig. Chet Sieradzki and Dale Alexander, all of whom collected three hits in one of the games.

The little Hawks now stand 6-2 for the year, with two games remaining. The last home game is Thursday, May 20, against Caro. A game at Sebewing May 25 closes out the schedule.

JV thinclads chalk up 3 wins in row

The Cass City junior high track team succeeded in capturing their third victory, May 11. The victims were the Caro Tigers, who fell 75-34.

Winning events were:

Pole Vault: Mellendorf, 8'10"; Shot Put: Spencer, 44'2"; Long Jump: Stoutenburg, 17'; High Jump: Karr, 4'10"; 60 yard high hurdles: Karr, 9.7; 60 yard dash: Stoutenburg, 9.6; 75 yard dash: Mellendorf, 9.5; 100 yard low hurdles: Stoutenburg, 13.5; 100 yard dash: Spencer, 11.8; 220 yard dash: Karr, 25.4; 440 yard run: Schad, (C) 63.5; 440 relay: (Newsome, Spencer, Decker, Mellendorf), 52.8; 880 relay: (Hillaker, Eubank, Brooks, Marker), 1:56.2.
