

FROM THE Editor's Corner

Over the years many college students have completed an internship at the Chronicle during the summer months.

And nearly all of them have had something to contribute, something to offer from which the rest of us on the staff could learn.

Not many come to the paper with sharpened professional skills, boasting a keen eye for the story and the ability to tell it in terse, compelling style. Some do, but most don't.

Nearly all of them pop in with a fresh view, a new outlook, something that stirs the placid water of Cass City. Almost before you realize it the very essence of what is good about this village is what lulls you to sleep to what the world is all about these days.

When a young college student enters you become aware again that it's a changing, challenging world we live in.

Long hair, beards, dress mode and other visible signs of change are still topics of the day in Cass City. But today's young scarcely notice. They haven't time to be caught up in what appears to them to be a pointless discussion. Kids today wear what pleases them and whatever it happens to be isn't going to change the character of the guy wearing it, they feel.

Most any college kid you ask will have an opinion about the Vietnam war, abortion, population control, individual freedom and most any of the other fundamentals you'd like to talk about.

That's not new, of course; most college students rapped about them when I went to school.

But a feeling persists that the talk was more abstract, more theoretical, less real in my generation than it is today.

When it came down to the nitty-gritty it was where can I go to make the most money the quickest for most of the depression babies.

Today's kids don't have that hang-up and most of them are choosing professions measured on a different scale.

Money is one of the yardsticks, but it ranks behind the measurement of the job in terms of self-satisfaction and contribution to society.

Last week another of these students, Pat Drouin, of DeWitt, joined us for the summer. She'll be a Senior at Michigan State next year and already she has spent a summer in France.

Maybe she'll be able to clue us in on the vintage year for those great French wines.

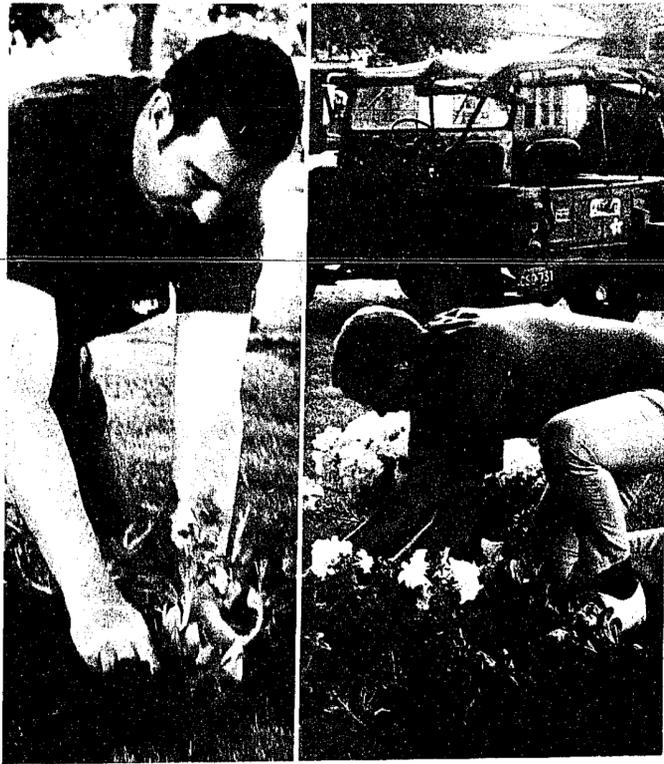

Likely, her contribution will be much more significant than this. What it will be I can't say.

But she appears cut from the same mold as most of the students who stopped here briefly on their way through a professional career.

The odds are great that Pat, like the students before her, will leave behind another fresh viewpoint.

I've always felt that we've gained as much from most of the students as they have from us. Sometimes more.

It would be surprising and disappointing if the trend doesn't continue. But it always has and I suspect it always will.

4-H Corral empty: kids wait for prosecutor

The Cass City 4-H Wranglers Club has not been able to use the corral located on Koch Road, 1 1/2 miles south of Cass City, for several weeks and it could be several weeks more before it is legally decided whether or not they have a right to unobstructed access to the road.

Prosecutor Leo Maki said Tuesday that as prosecutor it is his responsibility to represent the (Tuscola) county in the issue and that he planned to represent the Tuscola County Road Commission in the case.

But the prosecutor refused to be pinned to a time when he would appear in court. The prosecutor's job here is just a part time one, Maki said, and we act on these things as they come up.

I'd hope that by the time your next issue goes to press, that we will have had time to file an injunction in the matter.

Maki pointed out that as far as his job as prosecutor was concerned the aid that the case might bring the 4-H club was incidental.

You must remember, he said, that this road has been there for 30 years and nothing was done about it.

Meanwhile, Leader Al Seeley says that he values his life and the welfare of the 4-H'ers too much to risk using the road under the present circumstances.

The riders haven't had a meeting since Harvey Kritzman, who claims that the road belongs to him, pointed a shotgun at Seeley when he was using the road that leads to the corral. Kritzman has maintained the road and lived at the end of it for 27 years and is not about to give it up without a fight, legal or otherwise.

Regardless of the final outcome, it now appears that the corral will be of relative little use to the 4-H'ers in preparing for the upcoming Tuscola County Fair.

We are going to meet out at Whitaker's, but it's not the same as meeting in the corral where everything is designed to help train the horses, Seeley said.

But until some official action comes from the prosecutor's office the group will not be using their quarters on Koch Road.

The end of the three-year squabble is not yet in sight.

Judge to sentence Villarreal July 12

Samuel Villarreal, 59, of Phillips Road, southwest of Kingston, waits for July 12 and the sentence that will be pronounced by Circuit Judge James P. Churchill on the conviction of manslaughter reached by a Circuit Court jury late last Wednesday afternoon.

The jury of seven women and five men deliberated the case against Villarreal for a total of 11 hours in two days before bringing in a verdict of manslaughter, one of four possible verdicts against the tall Mexican-American farmer in the death of his wife Thelma Villarreal, 57, December 27.

The Villarreal trial on the prosecution's charge of first degree murder took more than a week to complete and the jury had to decide whether Villarreal

Controversy swirls around 5 new village HUD homes

A controversy swirls around the five new homes now under construction in "Cass City" by Rodarte Builders of Saginaw.

It stems from the type of construction used in the homes with representatives for FHA and Housing and Urban Development on one side and a local builder on the other.

Gary Deering, of Deering and Spaulding, feels that the inner-construction of the homes is inadequate.

Certainly it is different from the construction techniques used by local builders, but an FHA inspector on the job Tuesday said that the five new homes meet or exceed FHA standards.

Deering feels that some of the studding should be larger, the partitions in the home constructed differently and other items of construction changed.

Items of a technical nature hard for the non-carpenter to understand.

Two points that were brought up by Deering are easy to understand and do illustrate the different techniques. Deering points to the natural gas pipe in the building. He says that it should be an inner pipe protected by an outer shell for safety.

Rodarte Builders reply that the pipe used in their homes has been certified safe by the United States Underwriting Laboratory.

Deering says that using aluminum windows in homes cause sweating and swelling with temperature changes.

The builders reply that the homes come complete with storm windows and screens.

Cass City Supt. James Blades inspected the homes and said that his inspection revealed that the five homes meet or exceed the present building code and would do the same after the proposed new building code is adopted by the council.

Deering is showing more than casual interest in the homes because two of them are under construction directly across the street from his home.

He fears that the homes could devalue his property.

The homes under construction qualify for low income families under the HUD program.

Essentially this allows low income families to move into new homes with practically no investment.

Rodarte advertises as low as $200 down. To qualify families must have net earnings of $6,400 a year or less.

The net figure is determined after the family's income is computed and the $600 per dependent subtracted from the gross earnings.

The wage earner must have been working for at least six months prior to buying the home.

There are no previous residency requirements and the homes are open under HUD financing to anyone, anywhere as long as they make less than the maximum amount allowed.

However, sales of the homes are not restricted to low income families. Anyone can purchase but the down payment rises to normal levels if Federal guarantees of the mortgage are not available.

Rodarte Builders say that normally they expect to complete a home in 30 to 45 days. This includes seeding of the lawns and other details. When Rodarte leaves, the buildings are ready to walk into, a company representative said.

Some of the houses are complete with garages, others are not. It is expected that the homes will sell for around $19,800 to $21,100.

Jack McConnell, a builder for Rodarte Builders, said that the company has received letters of praise from home owners and Action Centers in Saginaw for the houses they have constructed.

In Flint the HUD program has caused trouble in neighborhoods where families moved in and were unable to keep up the homes or pay the taxes on the property.

That was due to the quality of the people not the quality of the homes, the FHA representative said.

Change in vacations ends 16-day Cable strike

A 16-day strike at General Cable Corporation in Cass City ended Monday when members of Local 8222 of the United Steel Workers voted to return to work starting with the third shift Monday.

President Mrs. Grace Nemeth and Plant Manager Richard Rinaldi agreed that the significant change in the offer accepted and the offer rejected 16 days earlier was in vacation schedules.

At issue was when vacations were to be taken. The company was holding out for a two-week closing of the plant when all vacations would be mandatory.

The union wanted vacations at the option of the workers. The settlement worked out and ratified called for a one-week closing of the plant and the second week for eligible employees to be taken during other times of the year.

In essence, Rinaldi explained, what the settlement means is that when employees ask for their second week the company will take a look at it and if production isn't damaged too severely, grant the request.

Unofficially the vote was about 170-140 in favor of returning to work, Mrs. Nemeth said. In the first vote there was about a 20-vote margin in favor of turning down the contract.

Besides the vacation issue there were some minor changes in the contract language.

The economic package accepted was the same as the final offer made before the workers walked off.

It called for a wage and fringe package that the company figured amounts to 82 cents per hour and what Mrs. Nemeth figured was 76.6 cents per hour.

The signing of the contract assures continued production for the next three years in the community's two largest plants, Cable and Walbro Corporation.

Both Mrs. Nemeth and Rinaldi thanked the community for its cooperation during the strike.

Union-school set to sign contract

A tentative agreement between the teachers and the administration at Cass City School was reached in nearly all-night bargaining Friday at the high school.

The agreement came on the final day of bargaining before the two sides would have adjourned for the summer.

Details of the agreement will not be released until the school board and the teachers have had an opportunity to approve the proposed contract.

Actually, all of the purely economic issues were settled Friday in bargaining that started Friday at 7:30 p. m. and ended at 4 a. m. Saturday morning.

Prior to Friday the two teams had haggled over side issues.

In sometimes bitter bargaining two knotty issues were decided: personal business days and binding arbitration.

The administration was determined to avoid binding arbitration and the teachers were equally adamant about personal business days.

Finally the issue was resolved when the teachers agreed to give up on binding arbitration in return for two personal business days.

However, the administration did put a few minor restrictions on the business days.

First only teachers with 5 years or more service in the system will receive two days... the others will receive one. Second, the personal business days cannot be taken before holidays or on the first or last days of school.

Third, the teachers must give two days' notice in writing to the administration. No more than two teachers can be off at one time.

Otherwise the teachers get the days off with pay with no questions asked. If all teachers use the day it will cost the district an estimated $6,000.

The remainder of the questions on the teacher and the school agenda were relatively easy to solve.

Early in the negotiations, the administration's conduct code regulations were given the heaviest and the union's demands for class size regulations and request for teaching specialists dropped.

One of the more knotty problems in the bargaining about salary was in the area of insurance. The teachers had requested full family coverage instead of a maximum of $30 monthly paid by the school this year.

When this position was altered by the teachers negotiations started to move and ended in the contract now going out to teachers for ratification.

Sponsors elated with results of Smith benefit

The David Smith family of Decker has nearly $500 more to ease the strain on the family budget this week following a benefit dance and dinner held Saturday at the Decker Masonic Hall.

We had more food than we could handle, a sponsor of the event said, and nearly everyone who attended pitched in to help the family. David Smith is seriously ill in the Sanitarium County Medical Facility and has been stricken for 1 1/2 years.

When the benefit was organized it was hoped that $200 would be raised. Everyone was just wonderful, said an elated Betty Walkowski, who helped organize the affair.

Beauty, dignity, tradition blossoms in Bird garden

Judging from the vitality, dignity and beauty of Mrs. Clara Bird, everyone should have a flower garden.

The 82-year-old woman has managed her garden for some 30 years and feels it has added purpose and meaning to her life.

"I'm out of doors to work in the garden and the time gets away from a person. It's so good for a person to keep a garden," Mrs. Bird remarked.

The garden itself manages to maintain beauty in tradition. Set on the 80-acre farm that the late V. A. Bird owned, it was once the homestead for the first Bird settlers to come from Canada in 1857.

"That hollow was where one of the first post offices was built," Mrs. Bird pointed out. Following grassy foot paths that weave in and out of maples and scotch pines, clumps of poppies, irises and Chinese peonies blossomed in the late afternoon sun.

Although she sadly pointed out areas that needed work, the garden somehow possessed a continuous flow of color and greenery.

"I most generally go out in the morning to work in the garden," Mrs. Bird said, but added that it has become quite a big job, forcing her to cut back on the number of flowers that are planted each spring.

Containing irises, oriental poppies, quince, violets, painted daisies, roses, columbine, lilies, tulips and daffodils, the array of flowers seems almost inexhaustible.

Occupying about an acre in size, the garden also is interspersed by flowering judas trees, lilacs, English hawthorn and locust trees.

The locus trees were left standing "because they were here when the Birds first settled on the farm," Mrs. Bird said.

A split leaf birch seems to mark the calmness and tranquility the garden radiates.

The garden stands at the side of the stone house, occupied by Mrs. Bird and her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Fred McEachern.

Built in 1931 by her late husband, the house resembles an English manor. Perhaps because of its back drop, the garden takes on a somewhat formal, regal atmosphere.

"I think June is my favorite month," Mrs. Bird said, "because everything is in bloom." Her daughter preferred to think in more practical terms and quipped, "the weeds haven't started yet."

But even Mrs. Bird's "weeds" turn up flowers.

"I almost pulled this out, because I thought it was weed," Mrs. Bird said, pointing to a clump of tiny white flowers. Instead she left it in to see what would happen. To her surprise lovely white flowers blossomed.

Although the recent hail storm knocked down and pelted many of her flowers, Mrs. Bird remarked that this was perhaps one of the finest springs for her garden.

"The flowers and trees outdid themselves," she said. "Everything was just beautiful."

Mrs. Bird modestly accounts for her green thumb through just plain "hard work."

But after all her work, only the mock orange and delphiniums are left to bloom, she sadly remarked.

However, if people can resemble the traits their flowers possess, Mrs. Bird has managed to capture the beauty of her roses, the stateliness of her irises and the freshness of her daisies.

Greenleaf sets zoning board

Greenleaf township is following in the steps of other area townships and started down the long road that leads to zoning Friday when the town board adopted an ordinance creating a zoning board.

Judging by the time it took other area townships, it will probably be two years before actual zoning is completed if no serious objections are received from township residents.

Elkland township is nearly ready to complete zoning.

IN THE MIDST of the many flowers in her garden, Mrs. Clara Bird pauses to look at her oriental poppies.

Rabbit tracks

By John Haire

(And anyone else he can get to help)

The Wenatchee Daily World in Wenatchee, Washington, printed a festival edition this spring of 102 pages. One of the key people in producing the edition, according to the editor, was Dave Kraft. Dave handled the recreation and industry sections.

It's always nice to hear nice things about Chronicle alumni.

Negotiations between teachers and school in Cass City is almost as ritualistic and formalized as the famed mating dance of the prairie chicken.

In the dance the chickens always beat their wings against the ground and make a lot of noise for effect before progressing to the business at hand.

The union and the school representatives always spend most of all but the final negotiation sessions beating their wings, too, making a lot of noise, but not doing much of anything.

Most of next year's contract now up for ratification was hammered out in the final two meetings of the year.

Today (Tuesday) is my birthday and I don't feel anything except a bit of awe. How can I be 49 years old? After you get to be 25 I guess that feeling stays forever. My mother gets very peeved if I mistakenly tell the world that she is 79 when actually she is only 78 and will not be 79 until Nov. 11.

Speaking of ages, I was called to task the other day by Mrs. Geraldine Prieskorn. She called it unfair reporting when I listed her birth date and didn't list the date of the other candidates.

She was right of course and I apologize for telling the world that she is now a young-looking...whoops, I just avoided making that same mistake again.

Here's the latest box score on our monster dog, Snoogie: Totally destroyed, 2 feather pillows and 2 sleeping bags; chewed almost beyond repair, a baseball bat and cushion for a lawn lounge chair.

Let me tell you for sure that Snoogie came within just a hair of going to his great beyond. Our 11-year-old gathered up that miserable mongrel into his arms in his room and hung on (literally) for dear life until the tides of rage receded and the danger point had passed.

Title I program to begin Monday

A five-week summer school program for 100 grade school children will begin Monday at 8:30 a. m., it was announced by the Cass City school system.

The federally funded program is an extension of the Title I program, whose focus is on culturally and educationally deprived youngsters.

Under the direction of Mrs. L. C. Bauer and over-all direction of Robert Stickle, the program attempts to strengthen individual students for next fall's regular school program.

Reading, math, environmental studies and physical education will be taught by the five-member staff with the help of five teachers' aides.

Operating under $29,000 in funds for the year, the summer program is limited to 100 children in grades one through six.

Based on teacher recommendation, test scores and other educational needs, the children are admitted to the program from the Cass City, Evergreen and Deford school systems.

The Title I program has been in operation for six years in Cass City and will begin its second year for the summer school extension program.

Library begins story hour

The Rawson Memorial Library began its summer story hour Tuesday from 10 a. m. to 10:30 a. m. with 36 children attending.

The story hour is being sponsored by the library for children from age three to third grade.

Mrs. Alvin Hutchinson, librarian, also noted that the library had received some Charlie Brown books and are available to be checked out.

Mrs. Kenneth J. Eisinger

The Trinity United Methodist Church was the scene of the marriage of the former Linda Irene Brown and Kenneth James Eisinger Saturday, June 19, at 4 p. m. The Rev. Elizabeth Isaacs, pastor, and the Rev. James C. Brald of Sanford officiated at the ceremony.

Miss Brown, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Brown, wore an Empire bodiced, A-line gown of white organza with ivory-lit lace accenting the lantern puffed sleeves and mandarin necklined bodice, enriched with clusters of glowing pearls. Ivory peau d'ange lace traced a cathedral veil of white silk illusion to compliment the dress. The bride also wore diamond earrings, a gift from the groom.

The bride's attendants wore long dirndl skirted gowns of dark forest green jersey crepe with white linen circled scooped necklines and accented by Empire waists.

Maid of honor for the wedding was Mona Calka, Cass City. Attending as bridesmaids were Libby Hillaker, LaDonna Brown, sister of the bride, and Sandy Eisinger, sister to the groom, all of Cass City.

Tim McComb of Cass City was best man. Gary Eisinger, brother of the groom, Randy Brown, brother of the bride, both of Cass City, and Mike Terry of Penton served as groomsmen. Jim Copeland of Gageton, a cousin to the bride, and Don Hendrick of Snover, an uncle to the bride, were ushers.

For the wedding, the bride's mother selected a long sleeved dress of silk Shantung pastel print with a lime green sleeveless Irish liner coat and matching accessories. She wore a corsage of phalaenopsis with stephanotis.

Mrs. Kenneth Eisinger wore an A-line mint green lace dress designed with a scalloped neckline and matching accessories. A white orchid corsage adorned the dress.

The church was decorated with white gladioli and carnations.

Services held for Roy Brown

Roy Brown, 84, a lifelong resident of Evergreen township, died Sunday, June 20, at the Tuscola County Medical Facility, Caro, after a long illness.

Mr. Brown, who was born in Sanilac county, July 21, 1887, was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Brown. He was married to the former Celia M. Lorentzen, Sept. 6, 1911, in Palms. Mrs. Brown died Sept. 5, 1967.

Mr. Brown was a member of the Reorganized Latter Day Saint Church of Shabbona.

He is survived by one son, Grant Brown of Cass City; two grandchildren; two sisters, Mrs. Charles Shearer and Mrs. George Murray, both of Lapeer, and two brothers, Lloyd and Ross Brown, both of Cass City.

Funeral services were conducted Wednesday, June 23, at 2 p. m. at Little's Funeral Home. The Rev. Richard Culp officiated. Burial was at the Elkland Cemetery.

They chose dresses of silk over taffeta featuring bishop sleeves and high necklines. Pastel flowers were at the waists and sleeves. The maid of honor was dressed in blue and the bridesmaids in pink. They carried sprays of carnations and roses to match their dresses.

Assisting the groom was Dennis Hill of Harbor Beach as best man, Robert Zurek of Bad Axe and Donald Klebba of Detroit were the groomsmen.

One hundred and fifty guests attended a wedding dinner at the Williams Inn in Harbor Beach.

The bride's mother wore an off-white A-line dress and pink accessories complimented with a corsage of pink carnations.

Following a week's wedding trip to Northern Michigan and Niagara Falls the couple will live in Cass City. The bride is employed at Hamill Manufacturing Co., Uby, and the groom works at General Cable Co., Cass City.

"If It Fitz. . ."

Vroom! That's Grandpa

BY JIM FITZGERALD

There's supposed to be a little boy inside every old man, screaming to get out. Lately, a lot of these dumb kids are getting out and buying motorcycles.

The result is grandfathers in crash helmets, completely enveloping both Harley and Davidson in middle-aged spread. When I see an old crook roaring down the road, I am reminded of a refugee fleeing a bombed city in whatever vehicle was available in the emergency. I keep expecting to see his wife trailing along behind, wheeling the family possessions in an old baby carriage.

I know a guy who sells Hondas and one night he took advantage of my bent elbow. He said he'd be over to my house that week end to give me a ride on a 747 or whatever 2-wheeled monster he was pushing at the moment. I nodded in agreement because he was buying. The next morning, when I realized what I'd done, I jumped out of bed and left town for 3 weeks.

A 60-year-old friend recently told me how he had his Honda going 90 mph on the freeway the day before. His nose was still touching both his ears and his teeth were bent in.

"You own a 1971 Cadillac with air conditioning and a roof. Why would you want to ride a motorcycle?" I asked him, "If God had wanted man to ride motorcycles he would have given them leather families."

"It is exciting," my friend explained, "like the wind in my face and I like the feeling of risk."

"You can get the same feeling by sticking your nose too close to an electric fan," I said.

I have a 50-year-old Honda-friend who likes to hit the road and the trails at 5 o'clock every morning. He hits them often because he enjoys skidding and slipping and bumping on the roughest terrain he can find. You can track him the same way you'd track Hansel and Gretel except his crumbs are skin.

"You could kill yourself," I told him. "Motorcycling is for young men with nothing to live for. You're old enough to smell the joys of retirement but you could blow the whole thing on that bike. It will be the first time I've been a pallbearer for a man dressed in a black leather jacket with 25 zippers."

"The trouble with you is you have no sense of adventure," my friend snorted, kicking sand in my face. We weren't at the beach but this guy has carried his own sand in an autographed Charles Atlas bag for 35 years.

He is right. My idea of adventure is to sit with my family and pretend to read the newspaper while I am actually watching Raquel Welch on TV. Happily, I can enjoy this type of risk despite the certain knowledge that Raquel would pick a motorcyclist over me every time. There is something to be said about being over the hill and I just said it.

There's a little boy inside me, too. But I only let him out to shoot pool. And if he ever suggests that the Honda shop will cash my Social Security check, I will drown him in Geritol.

Onward and Upward, 4-wheeled.

Small talk is often a smoke screen for a scarcity of ideas.

Uncle Tim From Tyre Says:

Dear Mister Editor:

Summer has really got to our little place. If I didn't know it from the heat and the bragging the fellers is doing about their gardens, I couldn't miss it at church. I got to looking around at the wimmen in church Sunday, and it was so funny I stayed awake through the sermon.

Some of the young gals wear them floppy hats that's got enuff material in em to make three of their dresses. And the older wimmen that I won't call heavy, but I will say they is more of em than some others, allus wear tiny hats that you can hardly find on their heads.

But I'll say this fer the wimmen at our little church, they ain't none showed up yet in them overalls that's in fashion now. Maybe it's because the overalls is to hot fer summer, or maybe it's like my old lady said. She told me them overalls zip up the back and they ain't no way wimmen can zip em by theirselves. She said she could see wimmen would have a problem if they sudden needed a zipper helper during church.

Another reason I know it's summer is that Ed Doolittle reported during the session at the country store Saturday night that he has got from his congressman the latest list of pamphlets put out by the Department of Agriculture. He said he hadn't got one in recent years, so he figured this was part of the Nixon Administration's campaign to win the farm vote. But the timing is the same. Ed allowed, coming to late to do him any good with his garden.

Ed said they is 1,000 or more on the list, and he said it was amazing to him that a Government that needed so much help from the citizens could be expert in so many things. Fer instant, Ed said, he was ordering a pamphlet called "The Housefly and How to Control It" to see if he had to form a study committee and call in the health people for a survey afore he put up a screen door and got his old lady a new swatter. Zeke Grubb was full agreed with Ed that it's a wonder how a Government that has so many problems of its own can find time to offer so much advice. Zeke said he had saw in his lifetime Government git control of roads, rent, prices, wages, crops, credit and everything he could think of except the hereafter, and he said he wouldn't be surprised to see Congress or the Supreme Court git started on that.

Actual, Mister Editor, I see by the papers where U. S. Senator Sam Ervin says these are times that tax our patience. I reckon if they can tax that, the hereafter is next.

Yours truly, Uncle Tim

Mother of the bride

In a few minutes she will be walking down the aisle. Bruce will be at the altar to meet her, and when they walk out of the church, they will be man and wife.

Even though we have been planning the wedding for weeks, it is hard to believe the time is really here. It seems like only yesterday — though actually it was twenty years ago — that our little girl was christened right in this same church.

What an all-important part of our lives this church has been! I have turned to it both in times of joy and times of sorrow. So has our daughter.

Now, as I slip into my place in the first pew on the left side of the aisle, it is with the wonderful feeling that this church is a part of her, too, and that its teachings will stay with her forever. I could not ask for more.

BETTER HEALTH

A stormy menopause

BY DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

Some middle-aged women owe many of the distresses and discomforts they feel to the emotional and physical storms of the menopause; they may have flushes and sweats and brief spells of depression; sometimes a woman feels pain as the bones of her spine begin to soften and to collapse and she starts to get a "dowager's hump."

Other women go through this time without a symptom of any kind. Their menstrual periods simply become irregular and eventually stop. If before the change the woman was in love with her husband, affectionate, and able to respond normally to sexual intercourse, the chances are good that after the change she will continue to be happy and sexually responsive. Actually, in some cases the woman is even more interested and sensitive sexually after the menopause.

I have found that the giving of ovarian hormone to the disturbed woman can bring her great relief, and can make her feel immensely better, if she has been suffering greatly from a difficult menopause. I was delighted, when around 1935, female hormone came on the market, and I was able to help many a patient with it. What kept distressing me was that for years, many doctors would frighten their menopausal patients, and would refuse to prescribe female hormone for them, because they said that it would produce cancer.

I couldn't see any logic to this, and I would try to reassure my patients by reminding them that since the age of 14 or so, the woman's body had been full of female hormone that was produced by her own glands, and she had not developed cancer, so why should she get a cancer when I gave her a little more hormone? I had been giving female hormone to hundreds of women for 30 years, and I have never heard of a single patient who got a cancer apparently because of it, and so I have no fear of it.

I was so glad when some four years ago at a national convention of gynecologists it was decided that they did not know of any good reason why they should fear female hormone. Also, the U. S. statistics show no sign of an increase in women's cancers in the past 30 years, during which time female hormone has been prescribed.

I prescribe usually a tablet of ovarian hormone a day, but if this does not give good relief, I tell the woman to run up the daily dose until her breasts hurt, and then to drop the dose back down a bit until she finds the amount that will relieve her flushes and sweats without making her breasts sore. I advise her to keep taking the hormone for the rest of her life. It will tend to keep her tissues young, and it may keep her bones from becoming so lacking in lime salts that her spine will cave in, or a hip may become easily fractured if she should fall.

Some menopausal women need a great deal of psychological help from a sensible doctor, especially if the flushes are very frequent and so disturbing that the poor woman can get little sleep or rest. Fatigue may tend to make everything seem worse to her. It is serious when psychic changes come, and particularly such changes as tend to bring a rift between the woman and her husband.

If, as sometimes happens around this time of life, the woman lets herself get fat, unattractive, not too clean, and poorly groomed, and if she keeps complaining continually about her discomforts, until her husband's capacity for sympathy is exhausted, there will not be much happiness or comfort left for him in the home. He may then separate himself from the wife emotionally, or he may move out of her room or even out of the house. He may seek the affection of another woman, or at least, the wife may suspect or fear that he might, and this will bring her mental torture and great insecurity. Naturally, the woman feels terribly lonesome, and she joins the "nobody-wants-me" club.

It may help and encourage such a woman to remind her that she is going through a stage that millions of her sisters are going through, and that like them, she will recover after a few months or years. It may help also to encourage her to lose some weight, get a new hair-do or take some make-up lessons, and develop some of her own interests and talents outside her home.

My greatest difficulty is with the depressed woman who has always been more or less psychopathic. In her case, the female hormones may perhaps stop the flushes, but they may not greatly change her depressed mental outlook. Then she can often be helped miraculously by a few electroshock treatments.

Soil...an excellent purifying agent

By William Bortel

Well-managed soil and soil materials can be used as a decontaminating mechanism. Sands and gravels are now used in the filtration plants of many modern cities.

Deep, moist, and well-aerated soil is a powerful waste disposal medium for organic materials because of the millions of decomposing organisms present in each gram of soil. The more completely the organic wastes can be mixed into the soil, the faster will be the disintegration.

The colloidal fraction of the soil acts as a purifying agent because of its exchange properties. Thus, many soluble materials, including gases, can be absorbed so that the original quality of both water and air are not greatly altered.

Soils are a complex mixture of many chemical compounds, both organic and inorganic. Several materials, when added to the soil are rendered less soluble or precipitate as insoluble chemical compounds, thus greatly reducing if not eliminating, the opportunity for pollution to occur.

The mere fact that soils have wide distribution makes them readily available as a decontaminating agent. Agricultural lands, which usually are composed of deep soils, can benefit greatly by serving as a medium for safely receiving many of these pollutants.

Summarizing, soils have six properties that make them uniquely suitable for use in waste disposal problems:

1. Soils, especially agricultural soils, have a tremendous filtering capacity. 2. Soils have exchange properties which allow them to absorb impurities in much the same manner as occurs in a modern water softener. 3. Soils, especially the surface horizons, contain large numbers of microorganisms which have great biological activities which allow them to digest many organic wastes. 4. Soils have wide distribution, thus making them universally available. 5. Soils, especially agricultural soils, have depth, therefore, great volume. 6. Soils are composed of many chemicals, both inorganic and organic. Chemicals precipitation occurs when certain wastes react with the compounds in the soil.

Yes, soils do have properties which cause them to be uniquely suitable for solving several of the pollution problems today.

A word of caution may be necessary. Because the use of soil as a decontaminating agent is a relatively new concept, certain precautions and regulations need yet to be worked out by massive research efforts. This is the responsibility of all of those who are interested in effective land use as well as all persons who want to live in a more productive and healthful environment.

Statistics prove that the man who can think for himself and is not afraid of work will never find his field overcrowded.

GREENLEAF TOWNSHIP CLERK

Now, a Chrysler priced $112* less than a Chrysler.

Royal.

Every inch a Chrysler. Yet with Royal, the deal starts $112 less than Newport, previously our lowest-priced series.

The Royal is just as big as our most luxurious New Yorker. And bigger than its competition — Buick LeSabre and Olds Delta 88. Outside and in.

Royal's 360 V-8 delivers more power, too. Power for freeway cruising without strain. Power for safe passing. All on regular gas.

Royal also gives you a better suspension system: torsion bars instead of coil springs. The ride is firmer. More controlled. On a trip to the supermarket, you might not notice the difference. On a quick expressway lane change or a tight turn, you surely will.

Outside of Chrysler products, only two American cars have torsion bars — Cadillac Eldorado and Oldsmobile Toronado.

Another difference: Royal's body is welded into a single solid Unibody. It's the strongest way to build a car. And there are no body bolts to work free and rattle. Buick and Olds use the old body-bolted-to-frame technique.

A Chrysler priced to introduce you to Chrysler.

Yet for all this extra value, Royal is priced just about the same as LeSabre and Delta 88. Royal. With everything you expect of a Chrysler. At a price you don't.

Coming Through with more car, and more kinds of cars, within your price.

Pre-cuts—a new dress option

Judy Marks — Extension Agent

Now they're building dresses like they build houses! Pre-cut houses have been on the market for some time and now pre-cut apparel is available to the home sewer.

The self-contained kits will include pre-cut and marked fabric pieces, sewing instructions, and all notions, bindings and belts. Some pattern pieces might be pre-trimmed or decorated with stitching. Some kits will include pockets, bound buttonholes and prefinished placket-type openings.

This innovation in home sewing borrows a building construction term—it's called "modular" clothing. The kit for a man's necktie was quite popular this last winter.

These kits offer a new option for the people who like to make their own clothes. To decide if it's for you, you will want to consider these questions:

--Do you enjoy shopping for fabrics and matching them to the patterns of your choice? --Is it hard for you to visualize how a pattern and a fabric will look together when the garment is finished?

--Do the stores near you have a wide variety of sewing notions, trims and fabrics? Or would it be an advantage to have these things gathered together for you?

--Are you willing to pay more for the kit in order to save time and energy?

--Can you wear a standard pattern size, or must you alter patterns? Remember that pre-cut garments will make major alterations difficult, if not impossible.

--Can you be sure the pre-cut fabric has been selected, cut and marked with the same care that you use?

--Is information given about potential shrinkage, if any, or shape and size retention?

--Are you provided with information regarding fiber content and care recommendations?

Award medals to Roger Erard

Sp-4 Roger Erard, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Erard of Decker, has been cited by the military for service in Vietnam.

Erard entered the service Jan. 1, 1970, and is due home July 9 after a year's duty in Vietnam.

He was awarded the Purple Heart for wounds March 21 and the Air medal with V device for Nov. 15. He is with Troop C 16th Air Cavalry.

Don't worry about the things you can't change or influence.

Many Roman Catholics support abortion reform

In the emotional, and often bitter, debate waged both in Michigan and elsewhere over reform of abortion laws, the Impression has grown that the Roman Catholic Church and all its members solidly oppose any change in the law.

It is true that the hierarchy of the church has steadfastly opposed any relaxation of the strict legal prohibition against abortion except to save the life of the mother. But many members of the church disagree with that position—some of them quite openly.

The result in Michigan has been the formation of a group which calls itself "Michigan Catholics for Abortion Law Reform." Chairman of the group is Dr. George LaCroix, chief of obstetrics at Detroit's Hutzel Hospital and associate professor of obstetrics and gynecology at Wayne State University.

A recent position paper issued by the group put its position quite bluntly:

"As Catholic citizens of Michigan, we object to attempts by the Catholic hierarchy to impose its religious and moral beliefs upon the citizens of Michigan," the statement said.

"While abortion may or may not be an acceptable solution to us as individuals, we respect the view of those who feel it justified in certain desperate personal or medical circumstances," the statement said. "We respect the views of each religious group in Michigan and their right to follow their personal theology. We do not seek to impose our religious or moral beliefs upon others of differing faith, and we urge the Legislature to avoid adopting the stance of any single group."

Statistics to point up their belief that members of the Catholic Church are far from solid in their position on abortions are advanced by the group.

Among the points: --an article in the March 24th issue of the Michigan Catholic which reported a survey taken in the archdiocese of Detroit showing that five out of every six persons questioned believed that "each abortion situation must be judged individually." About half the priest and members of religious orders polled also concurred.

--A report by the Michigan Clergy Counseling Service that 32 per cent of the Michigan women who have gone to New York to obtain legal abortions are Catholic. The total of Catholic women who have made the trip was estimated at between 30,000 and 45,000.

--a survey of Catholic physicians in New York showing that 31 per cent of them favor the present liberalized law there and another 8 per cent wanting only slight modifications in the law.

Firmly behind attempts now being made to reform Michigan's abortion law, the committee says the need for reform is "evident."

"This country has grown great and strong by respecting separation of Church and state," the statement said. "We urge our legislators to maintain this respect."

NEW GARBAGE COLLECTORS

No one planned it that way, but State Highway Director Henrik E. Stafseth says his department is being forced into a role as Michigan's chief garbage collector.

He says the new role is the result of a 1965 state law designed to upgrade town dumps. The law required regular sanitary landfills.

But, he says, since the law increased the cost of operating a town dump, many townships simply closed their dumps.

"This has resulted in a shifting of garbage and refuse from town dumps to roadside picnic and rest areas all over the state," he says.

The problem is now so bad that some roadside picnic sites near major resort areas accumulate as much as four truckloads of garbage over a single week end, he says.

To combat the problem, the department is asking the state for tougher enforcement of a 1963 law prohibiting the dumping of refuse, other than normal litter generated by travel, at roadside facilities maintained by the department.

As a start, the department has posted warning notices at most of the 1,200 freeway rest areas, roadside parks and picnic sites on the state highway system warning that it's illegal to dump garbage there.

The sign reminds motorists that violation of the law is punishable by 90 days in jail and/or fine of $100—a price that would seem to make it uneconomical to dump the family garbage in a picnic area.

Luck is a hit and miss affair, but it is usually with the folks who don't count on it.

TWO GREAT LEADERS...

outstanding in Michigan.

Called "The Red Napoleon", Pontiac—mighty chief of the Ottawas—possessed great wisdom, and his courage in war was far-famed. In 1763, Pontiac led his painted braves against Fort Detroit, then held by the British, in an ill-fated attempt to regain the Red Man's ancestral home. Despite his courageous leadership, Pontiac was defeated by another great leader, Major Henry Gladwin, commander of Fort Detroit, whose bravery and fighting skill were legendary. Two brave and gallant leaders: Pontiac and Gladwin... the Big Chief and the Pioneer... each in his own way, dedicated champions of their people.

Just as there were only two outstanding Michigan leaders stamped with the greatness of Major Gladwin and Chief Pontiac, so too are there only two brands of Michigan-made pure sugar—"Pioneer" and "Big Chief." Look for the "Michigan-Made" seal on the familiar red, white and blue bags on your grocer's sugar shelves. That seal is your assurance of uniform quality and purity in the sugar you buy, and you'll find it only on "Big Chief" and "Pioneer"... two great leaders, outstanding in Michigan.

whatever you're making...
Michigan Made Sugar makes it better.

Letter to Editor

Senator DeGrow speaks of state control of schools

June 18, 1971

Mr. John Halre
Cass City Chronicle
Cass City, Mich. 48726

Dear John:

I probably never would have said anything if I hadn't read your editorial this week. Enclosed is a copy of the press release that I sent out a couple of weeks ago. As far as I could tell only two papers, Pigeon and Sebawaing in the Thumb, carried this press release.

I know what you think about political propaganda but this one was different and I can only assume that when you saw the return address on the envelope you threw it away without reading it. The resolution is what many, many people in the Thumb area have been asking for. It has been introduced and the Senate will be acting on it in the next few days. However, as I pointed out in the release, there are several things that I would like people to think about before they vote on the measure. I cannot predict if a two-thirds majority needed to put this before the people can be secured. If it is, the questions asked and many others should be resolved in individuals' minds before they go to the polls.

I think that you could do your readers a great service by presenting to them the pros and cons of this amendment so that if it is adopted they won't come back in future years and say: "Why weren't we told about what might happen?" If you are interested in doing this, I would be glad to supply you with more questions that people might ask themselves.

Sincerely,

Alvin J. DeGrow, Pigeon
State Senator - 28th District

The article follows:

Sen. Alvin J. DeGrow (R-Pigeon) is co-sponsor of a resolution to eliminate property taxes as a source of school operating funds but warned that the measure has some unanswered questions.

The resolution, which was introduced in the Senate Wednesday, May 26, would also lower the current 15-mill limitation to 10 mills but permit school districts, by a vote of the people, to raise up to six mills for school operating purposes.

The measure would submit a proposed constitutional amendment providing such changes to a vote of the people at a special election on November 2, 1971.

"Because of the great number of persons complaining of burdensome property taxes needed to finance school operations, this proposal would provide some of, though not all, the answers," said Sen. DeGrow.

"The proposal provides that the legislature shall adopt a program of general state taxation to provide funds for school operating expenditures and shall determine the distribution of state aid for school districts."

"Very simply, this undoubtedly will require a rather substantial increase in the state income tax to make up for the revenue lost if the property tax is to be removed for school operating purposes and voters should be aware of this before they vote on the change in the constitution."

Sen. DeGrow also warned of another potential pitfall of the proposal.

"It is almost axiomatic that the level of government which provides the financing for some service is the branch of government which makes the rules," he stated.

"I can see the possibility, if this amendment to the constitution is approved, of the state having almost complete say about education in the public schools."

"As of now, locally-elected boards of education retain much of the control over school operations. The time may come when authority of local school boards will be usurped by state regulations that will almost certainly go along with state-wide financing of our schools."

"I am not too sure that many people would want to relinquish their right to run their own schools and give this power to the state board of education in Lansing."

"These are some of the facets about this proposal that the people of Michigan will have to face if the constitutional amendment is put on next November's ballot."

2 die, several injured on Tuscola County roads

Tuscola county's traffic death toll increased by two this week and a number of accidents concerning this area were reported although the two fatal accidents were in other parts of the county.

Richard Harold Flewelling, 19, of Flint, was driving a small foreign sports car in a westerly direction on Arbelia Road, southwest of Millington at 6:40 Thursday morning. He was unable to brake for a stop sign at Bray Road, slid through the intersection and into the side of a north bound truck driven by George Carl Hill, 41, of Clio.

Flewelling died at Hurley Hospital in Flint. Mrs. Mary Helen Dutcher of Caro was killed instantly Friday night about 10:05 when her car flipped over three times on the Hinson Road, just south of Fairgrove, and she was thrown from the car. Mrs. Dutcher had formerly been from Sebawaing and was born 27 years ago in Cass City. She was the 7th fatality of the year.

Mark Allen Herr, 13, was driving a vehicle on Little Road, west of Keillitz Road, when he lost control in gravel and hit a tree. The Herr boy was driving a compact car with Robert James Fry, 11, as a passenger when the accident occurred. They were taken to Caro Community Hospital for treatment of their injuries. Mark Herr lives at 2902 Keillitz Road, Cass City, Robert Fry at Hurds Corner Road.

Harry B. Turner, 66, of East Akron Road, Caro, was driving north on the Jacob Road Thursday morning about 11:30 when he came to the intersection of M-81. Turner stopped but failed to see Richard William Frantz, 22, of Uby heading southwest on M-81 and the two cars collided when Turner entered the intersection. There were no injuries.

Robert James Deeg, 23, of Cettel Road, Sebawaing, had a stainless steel nitrogen tank trailer tip over as he turned from Seeger Street west to Main Street in Cass City Monday morning. No one was injured. The equipment was the property of the Klein Fertilizer Company.

Burton Henry Allen, 1542 Cedar, in Deford was heading west on M-46 about 6 a. m. Tuesday morning. According to the sheriff's report, Allen fell asleep and struck the guard rail near Sheridan Road. He was uninjured.

ONE FOR THE ROAD Misconceptions about Alaska abound

By Dan Marlowe

A letter from Anchorage, Alaska, "We don't want to be loved, we just want to be understood. The misconceptions about our life-style here alienate us from our fellow Americans in the 49 smaller states. We resent being automatically classified as frontier relics of the Nineteenth Century."

"There are only 304,000 of us, so we have learned to accept provincial put-downs from pseudo-sophisticates who can't appreciate our blessings. We understand the need for the great mass of Americans to cherish an image of this vast land as wild and primitive, free of civilized problems. It's true we once had a big edge, but I'm sorry to report we're now much less different than many of you would like to be."

"You think I'm kidding about the misconceptions? Less than 20 years ago a senior editor of one of the world's largest publications arrived in Anchorage with a tent and supply of food and fuel. She didn't believe there would be shelter and food."

"Only last year a major American publisher produced an expensive book on Alaska that is regarded by Alaskans as the definitive book of erroneous information about our state. Item: the book reports that Eskimo hunters are finding it difficult to feed the horses they use for hauling sleds because of a shortage of walrus meat which, according to the book, is a staple in the horse diet. Most surprised by this revelation are the Eskimos, most of whom have never seen a live horse."

"The myth that Alaskans are so different as to be almost 'foreign' persists in business, too. Major Alaskan companies are resigned to having large suppliers in the smaller states ask them to please remit in U. S. funds."

"There is a television commercial in which parka-clad women, presumably Eskimos, circle a fire while rubbing hands on their well-groomed hands. The punch line is: 'Even in Alaska.' The supposed Eskimo women slushing the lotion on their lovely wrists are as obviously fake as their snow-field backdrop. The women are Oriental models who have never been north of Seattle. I suppose because the phony models aren't shown coming out of igloos we should consider this progress of sorts."

"I hope the next commercial involving Alaskan women is filmed at Anchorage International Airport. The admen could get some interesting effects filming the more affluent Alaskan ladies returning on Air France, BOAC, and SAS jets from shopping trips to London and Paris."

"Don't love us, just understand us!"

AROUND THE FARM

Trees, bees and sundry things

By Don Kebler

The word "variety" certainly defined the types of information requests which came across my desk last week. The questions ranged from swarming honey bees to farm chemical uses. The swarming bee problem soon alleviated itself when the swarm flew away. One problem which can happen to anyone who buys and plants landscaping trees and shrubs became real evident and needs further explanation. When I visited the residence and examined the tree in question, here is what I found. This twelve to fifteen foot tree was purchased the fall of 1969 at a nursery. The spring of 1970 it was dug, balled, transported ninety miles and transplanted. This tree sent out good growth of leaves last year and when I saw it this year's leaves were out and wilted. I noticed the tree had not been pruned back and had a split in the back near the ground. The back peeled away easily disclosing no living back tissue anywhere circumscribing the trunk.

The tree was dead. It had lived off the root reserve food supply in 1970, replaced very little during the year then budded and leaved out from the leftover root and bark food supply before death occurred. What one should do to help prevent this same circumstance from occurring is to follow these good recommended practices whether the landscape materials are trees or shrubs. (1) Be sure the balled roots are of sufficient capacity to support the plant while establishing its feeding system. (2) Prune, or have the nursery man prune, the tree or shrub before you leave the nursery. This tree I saw and the small balled-up root area would have had a far better chance of survival if at least 2/3 of the branch and top wood had been removed. Myself I would never have accepted the tree.

Generally the questions on chemical use were for weed and home yard insect controls. I find a good number of people either spraying chemicals too late, the wrong kind or improperly mixed. My only suggestion to these situations is identify the problem cause, know when to expect it next year, have your pre-need chemicals available, mix to directions and apply at the right time. Substitute programs either don't work or revenge is taken on the weeds or insects after the big damage has long before been completed.

4 plead innocent
in county courts

In Tuscola County Circuit Court Monday before Judge Norman Baguley four county residents stood mute with not guilty pleas entered for them and with pre-trial conferences to be scheduled with attorneys; Ernest C. Blackmer, 28, of Vassar, is charged with driving under the influence of liquor, third offense, which is a felony punishable by five years in prison.

Phillip Roy Vincent, 24, of Caro, is charged with larceny from a building, John Michael McClure, 19, of Vassar is accused of possession of marijuana and Charles Tebedo, 43, of Vassar is charged with assaulting a police officer.

In District Court, before Sanilac County Judge Eugene Deegan, Douglas Gray, 19, of Gagetown, entered a plea of guilty to being drunk and disorderly. Gray, with a lengthy record of similar offenses, was sentenced to serve 35 days in jail and pay a fine and costs totaling $100 or spend 20 additional days in jail.

MURDER TRIAL

real was guilty of murder in the first degree which includes premeditation and malice; murder in the second degree, which includes malice but no premeditation; manslaughter, which is described in law as an unlawful killing but with no premeditation or malice, or a verdict of innocent. The jury brought in their verdict shortly after hearing court reporter Ken Gangler of Unionville read verbatim the complete testimony of Villarreal. The testimony had been taken through the efforts of an interpreter who, during the trial, had translated the English questions into Spanish and repeated Villarreal's Spanish answers into English. The reporter's recall of the testimony was without the troublesome interpretation and in a concise fashion Villarreal had told of the events of Sunday afternoon, Dec. 27... the fight that had developed because of his common law wife's phone conversations rather than fixing dinner, Villarreal's cutting the phone line outside the house and the confrontation between the two that led, in his testimony, to a struggle for the Browning 12-gauge automatic shotgun loaded with rifle slugs.

According to Villarreal's testimony the shots were triggered while the struggle for the gun went on with Tillie hit in the abdomen. She died that evening at Caro Community Hospital. Villarreal said that he had asked her not to follow him outside the house... just to let him alone.

Judge Churchill ordered the Kingston area farmer to be held without bond and the July 12 sentence depends upon the pre-sentence investigation being completed by that date.

Erla's card games with best in state

Erla's no longer play in a formal league and Manager Dan Erla has used the new freedom of scheduling to book some of the State's finest teams on games played Wednesday and Saturday.

This week the Foodmen will play two State championship teams. Wednesday Ude Loans of Lapeer was to have been at the Cass City Recreational Park. The Loan sharks won the Class D toga last year.

After warming up against the Lapeer nine, Erla's really step into fast company. Saginaw Expressway Bar, the 1970 Class A champs, will play here Saturday.

Erla's best chance for victory in both of these games rests with the strong right arm of Al Bosch.

Bosch showed in the season's opener last Saturday that he still retains the old magic that pitched Erla's to the State title several seasons ago.

He shutout Saginaw Old Mill, 1-0, and didn't allow a hit until two were out in the last inning. Bosch struck out only three men (low for him) but his control was nearly perfect as he hit one batter and didn't walk anyone.

STAND OPEN

The concession stand will also be open from 11 a. m. to 8 p. m. Monday through Saturday and from noon to 6 p. m. Sundays at Cass City park.

Yankees in front in Little League

The Cass City Little League is headed into the home stretch of regular season play and the Yankees have a stranglehold on the regular season championship with a two-game lead over their closest rival with four games left to play.

While the Yanks are undefeated in six games, most observers feel the league is more evenly balanced this year than it has been for several seasons.

For the last two years the Giants have dominated the play and were undefeated. This season last year's champs have a 3-3 record and have only the play-offs to look forward to if they are to cop another trophy.

The second place Pirates (4-2) have been very good when Jack Guc has been on the mound and suffered their two losses this season when their ace was ineligible to pitch.

The Yanks started the second round of competition Tuesday, June 15, with a slugfest, 25-10, win over the Tigers. The Yanks raced off to a 21-1 lead behind their ace hurler, Phil Bader, and then coasted to victory behind Tony Doerr. Doerr banged out a home run for the winners and 10 of the 11 Yankees at the game collected hits.

Dan Erla started for the Tigers and took the loss. The Pirates outlasted the Cubs, 10-9, as Jack Guc helped his own cause with a home run in the final inning to tie the score from where his teammates went on to take the win.

When Pena is pitching the Orioles are as tough a team as there is in the league. But when he isn't, the team doesn't appear to have the over-all strength to win.

Last week Pena played shortstop and the Giants chalked up a 12-4 decision to move their season record to 3-3.

The standings: (Through June 21)

Yankees	W	L
Giants	4	2
Tigers	3	3
Orioles	2	5
Cubs	2	4
	1	4

Pena lashed out a home run, but the Giants roared to a 10-4 lead in the first three innings to salt away the game. Hutchinson was the winning pitcher.

The Tigers gave the Yankees an assist in their quest for the league title as they topped the Pirates Friday, 7-2.

Joe Gruber hurled excellent ball for the winners while his team took advantage of Dean Alexander's wildness to score the victory. Gruber struck out 12.

In the final game of the week, the Pirates proved that on certain nights they can come up with the most explosive attack in the league as they topped the Orioles, 17-4.

And the Pirates did it the hard way, pinning the loss on hard throwing Ernie Pena as the Oriole ace had trouble finding the plate.

The Cass City Church League swung into action last week with six games played on three nights.

The season opened June 14 with DeFord Methodist topping Shabbona-Lamotte in a well played game, 3-1.

Gary Kelley outpitched Leeland Hirsch to rack up the win. In the nightcap two veteran teams collided and Colwood outslugged Ellington - Colling, 13-8. Dale Smith racked up the win and Tim Andress took the loss. Roger Burk banged out a round tripper. Lowell Smith collected a triple and two doubles while Burk added a triple to his home run for Colwood. Joe Graham chipped in with a pair of singles.

Mark Lockwood, Luis Arroyo, Dick Colling and Andress had two hits each for Ellington.

Tuesday, June 15, the Owen-Gage Methodists topped the Cass City Baptists, 14-4. Gary DeVore took the decision over Gary Melander.

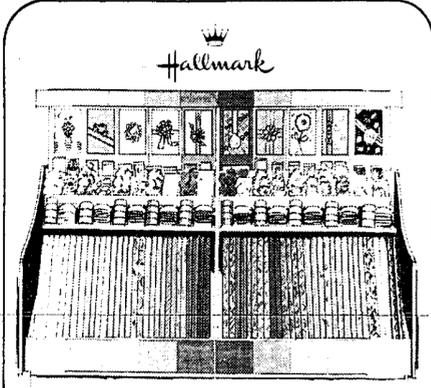

In the nightcap, the Catholics, always one of the league's strong teams, outslugged Ellington-Colling, 13-9. John Maharg was the winning pitcher and helped his own cause with a pair of home runs.

In the late game Snover-Laing measured Cass City Methodists, 11-7, as Gene Dorman bested Stoutenburg.

In the final game of the week, a new team in the league, the Cass City Lutherans, chalked up an easy win over Cass City Missionary.

An old pro, Nelson Willy, took the win in a 12-2 decision. Tom Woody slammed a home-run for the winners.

Free swim set again

After reconsidering its previous recommendations, the Park Committee re-established the free swim period to allow more children into the program who might not be able to afford the 25-cent fee.

Free swimming will be available from 4 p. m. to 5 p. m. Monday through Sunday. Additional free swim periods will be added as the program progresses.

The committee, after polling members of the Village Council, also adopted a policy not to charge residents of Cass City, Elkland, Ellington, Evergreen and Novesta townships the $10 fee for swimming instructions. People living outside of these townships will pay the $10 fee.

Other changes in the program include the addition of a pre-school swim class for children of kindergarten age and under from 11 a. m. to noon on Fridays.

Besides the $7.50 individual passes, a $20 family pass is also available.

Synchronized swimming will be offered for those who are interested, Saturday mornings, free of charge and on July 2, the first swim, dance party will be held.

A tentative schedule for the summer recreation program was also announced by Skip Pranger, recreational director. Such sports equipment as tennis rackets, basketballs, footballs, frisbees, croquet sets and shuffle board are available for park users and can be checked out at the Municipal Building.

Beginning June 28 through July 8 at 1 p. m., tennis will be offered with the first week for instructions and the second week for a round robin tournament according to age groups.

Badminton will be offered July 12 through July 29 followed by archery, July 26 through Aug. 5. Both sports will have a week of instructions followed by tournament play and presentation of ribbons.

Coming events planned by the recreational programmers will be a fishing contest, July 24, a frisbee tournament, Aug. 9, and a bike treasure hunt, Aug. 10.

All Tournament Days will be held July 15 and Aug. 5 for boys and girls in different age groups to participate in such events as soft ball throw and croquet. Ribbons will be awarded to the first three winners in each age group.

Women interested in periodical bike trips under the direction of Mary Isaacs and men interested in pitching horse shoes on Friday nights are asked to contact Skip Pranger or Jim Mastie at the park.

The arts and crafts program is being offered at the Campbell elementary school gym from 2 p. m. to 4 p. m. Monday through Thursday under the direction of Linda McIntosh.
