

So it's hot where you are, is it? Better count your blessings. You could have been working in some of the real hot spots in town. Like one of the two local bakeries where the 100-degree outside temperatures were boosted to nearly intolerable levels by heat producing machinery.

Still the work goes on. Stuart Merchant fried his donuts in the early morning "coolness" and Mrs. Teresa Trisch reported that the steam from the iron at King's Cleaners wasn't all that bad. . .she kept at it all day.

Meanwhile the rest of the community sweltered and complained and looked forward to the relief that was expected to hit the area late Wednesday.

Like the old pro boozer who leaves the bars to the amateurs on New Year's Eve, I plan to stay off the roads this week end. That's news because as a family I claim that the Haires are old pro road runners.

Ordinarily there is nothing that we enjoy more than taking off for somewhere (anywhere) at the spur of the moment. I've lost count of the times that our family has jumped in the car to go to Saginaw or Bay City to buy a hamburg or

Ku Klux Klan to hold 2nd meet in county

The second meeting of the Ku Klux Klan in two years will be held in the western edge of Tuscola county on the Fourth

It is scheduled to be held at Vassar, three miles east of Lake Odessa Park.

A year ago the rally was held at the Caleb Smallwood farm near Millington.

Besides the primary purpose of the meeting which will be a talk by Imperial Wizard Robert M. Shelton, parades, games, swimming, fishing and demonstrations are planned.

Repeating the performance of a year ago, a 40-foot high cross will be burned. The Klan, known for its day Monday. But if we were to be closed down as tight as most of the businesses around town will be for the holiday I'd still be staying right around home. Riding the roads on a holiday week end brings none of the enjoyment and all of the frustrations that I like to avoid. The Automobile Club of Michigan estimates that holiday travel will total 710 million miles over the Fourth.

That means that every road will be filled to overflowing, every park will be filled to overflowing, every restaurant filled to overflowing and every trout stream overflowing with trout fisher men instead of trout.

It also means that motel owners, park managers, gas station attendants and everyone else connected with meeting the public will be about as sociable as a dog with rabies by the time the deluge of vacationers have washed through the various communities.

Never mind about looking for service. . . if you're in the north country over the Fourth you can consider yourself lucky to get served.

The stores up there will be out of about everything except some clever idea for separating you from your money.

If you want to get away from it all pitch a hammock in the back yard, grab a transistor radio and do your swimming under the lawn sprinkler.

While you're listening to the news commentator describe the traffic jams, the accidents and the crush at the beaches make plans for your trip north on July 6.

By comparison you'll be almost all alone up there. . .take off then and have yourself a

If a swimming pool wasn't available, wearing shorts, t-shirts, sandals and eating ice cream helped to make life a little more bearable.

A marked increase in the sales of fans and air conditioners was also reported by area merchants, Some 66 fans and 23 air conditioners "did their thing" for area residents trying to escape the heat.

Council okays booze at park; mulls new building and fire codes to seek special changes in the laws governing the village, a night when two separate groups appeared before trustees to secure action for causes they sponsor, as the council held its regular monthly meeting at the Municipal Building.

Tuesday the trustees okayed the sale of beer in the Cass City Recreational Park in a unanimous decision and took under advisement proposed changes in the building code.

The council did place restrictions on the sale or use of alcoholic beverages. It can be sold by a group only after written application has been received and okayed by the council.

There will be no beer sold at the park by private commercial interests,

To allow the sale the council approved an amendment to ordinance 48 that prohibited the sale. It will go into effect after publication. Among the policy rules set down, the council includes the hiring of an officer to supervise the sale. It will be in addition to the regular force and paid by the sponsoring organization.

The change was sparked by the Elkland Township Fire Department which will sell beer at the park Aug. 14 in a Fireman's Field Day.

The change also allows General Cable to hold its annual picnic and serve beer to employees.

Sure to have more lasting effect on the village are the proposed building, fire and plumbing codes.

Two residents appeared before the council to talk about the five new homes under construction by Rodarte Builders in Cass City.

Bill Ewald and Tom Herron asked the council for more stringent ordinances to control building in the commun-

Adoption of the proposed codes will be delayed for a month while local builders and qualified outside parties examine them to see if they fill the present void in codes in the community.

The Federal government will not fund any program unless arrangements are made to pay back the money. That's why we will have to establish a sinking fund for the construction in the near future.

In other business, the council approved the purchase of a 2 1/2-ton Ford truck for $5.197.82 and reviewed the financial statement.

While they admit the union advanced them economically, dedication would prohibit them from joining the

Mrs. James Milligan, Mrs. F. D. Profit and Caroline Garety expressed views of today's teaching profession while talking about their years behind the desk in the Cass City school system. A fourth teacher, Mrs. Robert Hoadley, also retired this spring but was unavailable for comment. "Our main job is to teach and we can't teach and strike at the same time," Mrs. James Milligan remarked.

"Striking doesn't stand for a teacher," Miss Garety said. "In fact it doesn't bring any good to anyone,"

Further commenting on the problem Mrs. Profit remarked that "you have to think of the child first. If you can't get what you want and you are good enough, then go somewhere else."

Perhaps the greatest change all three teachers experienced in their years of teaching was present in the students themselves and the discipline problems that a teacher must face. Miss Garety strongly attributed the problem to the fact the children aren't trained

"Too many mothers are working and expect the teacher to fill the vacancy," Miss Garety said. "I've taught in one pretty big boys, but I never had discipline problems." A teacher for 42 years, Miss Garety graduated from Central Michigan University with a BS degree in elementary education. She came to Cass City in 1940 and has taught second, third, sixth and first grade during her 30 years at Willis Campbell Elementary school.

Mrs. Milligan also expressed dissatisfaction with discipline, attributing it to the bigness and the informal atmosphere of the classes.

There also is a general disinterest by the students because they are forced to go to school, "This disinterest has lowered the standards and class work, Mrs. Milligan said.

With the addition of boys to the home economics classes. Mrs. Milligan has had to prepare more of a variety in the classwork but found in most of her classes, "the best work is done by the boys." A teacher who has "taught almost everything," Mrs. Milligan has been in the Cass City system for 14 1/2 years. She received her BS degree in home economics from Michigan State University and taught home economics at the intermediate school.

For Mrs. Profit the discipline problem wasn't so much in her Concluded on page 12

Sometimes poor English is more descriptive than good English. A cutline was written last week telling the reason for an accident on Main Street. It contained the words, "bolt busted", and the staff-promptly-told-me-it-was poor English.

But I left it anyway because I feel it's a more powerful phrase than bolt broke or any other phrase that meets the approval of the simon-pure English scholar.

The brawl at Gagetown last week for the benefit of the Gagetown Athletic Association was the biggest blast held in these parts in many a moon. There were at least 500 attending but the beef and booze held out to the bitter end and so did most of the guests. Already plans are underway to stage a second annual next summer with a few refinements added for the entertainment of the guests and the enrichment of the athletic association.

If there was ever a year to prove the value of soil humus this is that year. This unusually dry cool spring has surely shown each farmer which of his fields has sufficient organic humus supplies and which doesn't.

Since early spring Iobserved excellent stands of wheat and poor ones too. Next came the sugar beets then corn and now

From my observations Igenerally found more evidence of poor stands and slow emergence being caused by compacted and crusted soil than for any other ground. Next I found the soil single reason. It is true the immediately below this turned immediate cause for poor top root to be extremely stiff stands and slow emergence, die and leathery. I couldn't dig back or growth on these soils into it with my fingers. The was effected by abnormally low soil moisture supply and crusting. But the real hidden culprit is the insufficient levels of humus.

To bring this point out more fully I observed a field of corn last week upon which nearly 80 per cent of the plants had purple leaves. In diagnosing the problem cause as the prob-

Proper humus levels in this and similar fields would have kept this soil loose, held more soil moisture longer, allowed more rapid and deeper root growth and penetration, Also methods were followed. What can be done to reduce this soil physical hazard? The only one answer is to increase the organic matter and humus levels. Those farmers who are growing corn for the first time in many a year will see the humus building advantages from the plowed down corn stalk of this year's 100 bushel per acre plus corn crop. They may not see it in 1972 but, they will

A new hard-surfaced parking area on Rose Street, from Oak Street to the east of the Willis Campbell building, will probably be constructed this summer.

A sharp increase in costs for service to the community and the abolishment of the petition system for curb and gutter were among the major recommendations of the Cass City Planning Commission to the village council.

C. R. Hunt plans to turn his gravel pit on Doerr Road into a trailer park, complete with two man-made lakes.

Construction of the new modern M-46 came to a grinding halt as three graves marked only by a rosebush and a tree were found. The Rev. Ira L. Wood has accepted the position of pastor at the Salem EUB Church, replacing Rev. Robert Betts, who has been transferred to Owosso. A highlight of the summer for both the Cass City and Owen-

Gage bands will be participation in the National Cherry Festival

at Traverse City July 15. TEN YEARS AGO

The Cass City village may change the type curbing to be used on curb and gutter projects in the village to save money. The world's smallest resusitator - so sensitive it can supply oxygen to a parakeet - has been obtained by Hills and Dales General Hospital to help newborn babies who have trouble drawing their first breaths.

The Cass City Methodist Church was the scene of a nostalgic but enthusiastic reunion of the members of the Cass City High School class of 1921.

Musical ensemble at Baptist church

A program of sacred music will be presented by the Bob Jones University Ensemble at First Baptist Church Friday evening, July 2, at 7:30.

The vocal ensemble will present a varied and unusual program. A brief Gospel message will be given by one of the young men. The team includes Miss Victoria Scheffel, soprano; Mrs. Bill McCauley. alto: Chester Hobbs, bass, and Miss Kathy Nelson, pianist, Mc-Cauley, tenor and member of the University voice faculty,

County ladies at MSU for week

Several Tuscola county women recently spent a week at the Michigan State University attending College Week for Women. "Living Creatively with Change" was the theme for this year's College Week.

The women from all over Michigan attending the event had an opportunity to attend a variety of classes. They included such classes as "Plants are for People", "Drugs", Learning to Use Conflict", "Your Clothes": Fascination to Function", and "Increase Your Happiest Moments".

Outstanding speakers were featured every day. Miss Diane McKaig, executive director of Michigan Consumers Council, said that only when the rumbling of consumer frustration reaches a roar will consumer demands be heard by manufacturers. Those attending from Tuscola county were Mrs. Leonard Russell of Akron, Mrs. Harry Smit of Caro, Mrs. Walter Schrader of Reese, Mrs. Ruth Mc-Connell of Akron, Mrs. William Tonkin of Fairgrove and Mrs. David Smith of Vassar. Mrs. Smith received a Farm and Garden Scholarship to attend College Week. Mrs. Smit received a scholarship given by the Tuscola County Extension Homemakers Council.

lumber industry these days. The phrase is "clear cutting", as opposed to selective cutting, and as so often hapbusinessmen and conservationists are lining up on opposite sides of the fence.

In clear cutting, large areas of timber are harvested at one time. Every tree is cut down in areas that may cover hundreds of acres.

In selective cutting, only a small percentage of selected, mature trees in an area are cut, at varying intervals. In succeeding years, other trees are cut, but the forest is never "leveled". There always are trees of various heights left standing.

The lumber industry contends that "clear cutting" of forests is necessary to meet the increasing demand for lumber to build homes. Conservationists disagree.

They contend that clear cutting is severely damaging the nation's forest reserves and is detrimental to wildlife, watersheds, and forest soils, particularly in the national forests. They urge that clear cutting be banned

The practice began in national forests in the west more than 20 years ago. It was started in the east about seven years ago, when researchers at the U.S.

BETTER HEALTH

How to determine little strokes

Back around 1905, when Ibecame an intern in a huge city and county hospital, I soon became much interested in the many elderly people who came in, suffering from symptoms that had come so suddenly one day that they were almost certainly due to a little stroke, due to the plugging up of some small blood vessel within the head___or__neck,_Such_small strokes are common in older persons and have much to do with ushering in senility. Later, when for 25 years I worked as a senior consultant in the great Mayo Clinic, again I saw hundreds of people with nervous residues of little strokes, perhaps a great change in character, or weakness of one or two muscles, or a slight difficulty in speech, or a loss of vision in one eye, or a lack of ability to walk easily. A person who was previously efficient, wide-awake, pleasant, good - natured, comfortable, optimistic, friendly, and hardworking, may suddenly become ill and discouraged, miserable apathetic, depressed and unable to work. In scores of these cases, the patients had been thoroughly studied by one or more of my able associates, without a diagnosis having been made. Commonly, I made the diagnosis in two minutes, simply by noticing a mental slowness or some nervous weakness, or by seeing in the history taken for me, that for a few months a formerly very busy and hard-working person had not gone to his office, or noting that, rominent banker looked like a common laborer. Then all I had to do was to turn to his wife and ask two questions: first, did this dullness and inability to work come suddenly? And the wife might say, "Yes; he collapsed New Year's Eve while we were taking down the Christmas tree, and he has been this way ever since," Then I would ask, "Do you find him much changed?" And usually the wife would say, "Yes, he is so changed I hardly know him; he is not my old friend and lover."

For years I was distressed because my associates who had referred me these patients would not accept my diagnosis. In one such case, one of America's leading stomach specialists, and the author of a book on medical diagnosis, thought my diagnosis of a little stroke as the cause of persistent abdominal pain that had come suddenly in a man past 60, was crazy, so he went ahead and had a surgeon operate to look for a stomach ulcer. None

In another case, an eminent lawyer of 60, twice in one week, while he was acting as chair man of a big national meeting, fell out of his chair, and after that he was a changed man; he was dull and silent, and never again went to his office. When I said that he had had two typical little strokes, the leading physician of San Francisco hooted at the "crazy idea"; he promety operated for a "chronic appendix," the most fashionable operation at the time, but naturally he found nothing wrong in the man's abdomen.

A fine woman brought meher doctor mother who until she was nad had a huge medical practice. The mother had been a happy, good-natured, muchloved and very energetic doctor. One evening after she had attended a medical meeting, while she was driving home, she had had a spell of convision in which she had run into a big street-sweeping machine; fortunately, she was not hurt, but came home a changed

I kept seeing her for years, and for the rest of her days she was a dull, ill-tempered person who no longer noticed her children and grandchildren, and never again saw a patient. My dearest friend in San Francisco, the head of a huge business, had for all his 45 years, been a strenuous worker. Then one morning he woke too dull to want to get up, bathe, dress, have breakfast, and go to his office. When his wife managed to get him there, he found himself unable even to answer his mail. Later, when I left to go to the Mayo Clinic.

San Francisco's leading heart specialist took over, and although there were no heart symptoms, for years he treated my friend futilely for heart disease. My friend lived 22 years, and then died with Parkinson's disease. He never again could work a day, but as long as he lived, he remained a friendly and kind-hearted and charming man.

Often, the plugging of the artery does not injure much of the brain. Then the symptoms may be of a sudden impairment of memory, a pain in the face, a burning in the mouth, a feeling as if something is wrong in the heart, or an attack of painful arthritis and wasting on one side. In some cases dizziness and nausea will come only in one brief attack, while in others these symptoms will persist.

I could spend most of the day telling of people with definite little strokes, which are sometimes called CEREBRAL ISCHEMIAS, because we docfors love long, unintelligible words.

I am happy to say that my impression today is that most lay people are recognizing little strokes, although many physicians are failing to make this easy diagnosis. I just saw a patient with a typical little stroke, with a marked change in character, who had had a gallstone removed surgically. All this did was to throw her into so bad a depression that she had to spend three months in a mental hospital.

Recently, I wrote a book, Little Strokes, in which I summed up what I have learned during my many years of experience with such patients; the book was published by Lippincott in 1966, and can be ordered from your bookstore.

If you would like a small pamphlet Dr. Alvarez has prepared for his readers on this same subject, send 25 cents and a self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request for, "Little Strokes," to Dr. Walter C. Alvarez, Dept. CCC, Box 957, Des Moines, Iova 50304.

Letters to Editor

Raps prosecutor for job attitude

Mr. John Haire Cass City Chronicle Cass City, Michigan

I have just completed reading "4-H Corral Empty Kids wait for Prosecutor". I was amazed at the attitude projected in that article by our Prosecutor Mr.

Mr. Maki is right, the prosecutor's job is perhaps a part time job. One that only pays him approximately $18,000 annually. It would appear that since he is underpaid, he must devote a great amount of his time to a private practice. Since he is new to this area he must build up that private practice in order to make a decent living, therefore county affairs must come second it seems.

Could this be the reason a trial attorney from the States Attorney General's office was called in to try the Villarreal murder case? As I recall the previous article about the corral. Mr. Maki's reason for not being able to handle the question of the road was he was too busy handling a murder case specifically the same one the Attorney General's office was trying for the county.

Does not the fact that people's lives have been threatened if they use this disputed county road to get to a corral on Dr. Scollon's property concern the prosecutor. Apparently not, why else would he say "any aid that might be brought the 4-H club is incidental". It would seem to me that the public welfare and safety is in question if they choose to use the road. One man has already had a gun pointed at him and the man doing the pointing told the Chronicle that "I should have shot him and got it over with". But that apparently is no reason to attempt rapid process of the case. I wonder if Mr. Maki realizes that in one year he will be going before the people of this county and asking for reelection to his low paying parttime job. Perhaps it's time to make the office of Prosecutor a full time position with no outside practice.

> Respectfully, William Bliss Jr.

Thanks 3 teachers for capable service

Cass City Chronicle

Mr. John Haire, Editor

Mr, Editor,

As a former student and teacher in the Cass City Schools, and as a taxpayer, I want to say "thank you" to Miss Caroline Garety, Mrs. Vera Hoadley, and Mrs. Iva Profit, our retiring teachers, for their many years of capable and conscientious service in the classroom.

I also want to express my appreciation to all members of the teaching staff of the Cass City School system for their efforts and accomplishments this past year in promoting the education of our students.

Tuckey sees UP in 800-mile bike trip

Most persons at one time or another have traveled to the Upper Peninsula to see the sights, but not many can say they saw Michigan by bike. Jeff Tuckey of Cass City can make such a claim with a great deal of pride and sense of accomplishment. Jeff was among 29 boys involved in an 800-mile Campus Life bike trip that took them across the Upper Peninsula of Michigan to such places as Copper Harbor, Tahquamenon Falls, Marquette and Mackinac Island

The trip began June 11 and ran for nine days with the boys averaging some 100 to 110 miles a day. Jeff would have preferred going at a slower

"We went 120 miles in the rain the first day," Jeff related. "After awhile you just keep watching the front tire to make sure it's moving," he said. Jeff, the son of Mr. and Mrs.

James Tuckey and one of seven children, said the trip "opened my eyes" to people, places and scenery in Michigan. "People would pull up in their cars and ask who we were, what we were doing and why," he said. "Most people were pretty

Ironically, Munising, which greeted the travelers with a sign "The friendliest place in Michigan," turned out to be the most unfriendly.

A local resident, who evidently dislikes cyclists, warned the group to get out of town. The police, fearing violence, advised them to leave, "That's a mean town," the 16-year-old recalled with distaste.

The only time Jeff found himself in trouble with his bike was when he applied the brakes too hard to stop and ended up on the ground with the bike on top of him. It was more a matter of hurt pride and he quickly added, "I got up fast."

The bike, bearing a sign, "caution nervous person driving," also had a very small

"If I were to do it over again, I would have a better seat," Jeff said. Riding a bike for six hours can make a person pretty sore, he noted. Jeff found the hardest part of the trip going up Brockway Mountain at Copper Harbor and the most dangerous, riding on Mackinac Island. "Bikes and horses just don't mix," he emphasized.

A typical day's itinerary, Jeff said, would be getting up at

Jay Hartley dies in Caro

Jay C. Hartley, 76, a former resident of Cass City, died Sunday, June 27, at Caro Community Hospital.

A lifelong resident of Tus-cola county, Hartley was born Oct. 31, 1894, in Cass City. He was married Nov. 19, 1918, to Mae Belle Rondo. She died July 14, 1967.

Surviving are two sons, Carl and John, both of Pontiac; four daughters, Mrs. Marie Cybulski of Cass City, Mrs. John Cybulski of Holly, Mrs. John Lyle of Owosso and Mrs. Earl Parker of Decker; 18 grandchildren; four great-grandchildren, and one sister, Mrs. Claude Spaulding of Caro.

The funeral was held Wednesday, June 30, at the Huston Funeral Home, Caro, with the Rev. Ben Whaley officiating. Burial was in Ellington ceme5:30 a. m., bike for 20 miles and then stop for pancakes. Head and heart sessions, where the boys discussed Christ and their roles in life, were held after breakfast. They would continue biking until lunch, with occasional rest stops to "cool off." The day's riding ended around 5:30 p. m.

with the boys setting up camp. "I didn't mind getting up at 5:30, I'm used to it," Jeff said. But for those who did mind, a drenching of cold water was sure to follow. "I only got it once," he said, "but never again."

With 800 miles logged, it would seem likely that bigger and better trips are in the making. Jeff, however, strongly denies having any desire to start across the United States by

Although he would like to take the trip again next year, the "wandering wheels" prefers home and a good comfortable car for travel.

Set final street program details

Final revisions and plans for the 1971 street program were revealed Tuesday by Supt.
James Blades to the Cass City Village Council meeting in regular session at the Municipal Building.

New construction will cost the village an estimated $48,000 and of this amount Cass City will receive some $30,000 from State sources. However, President Lambert Althaver said that the State funds will also have to stretch over road maintenance as well as new construction.

One of the more interesting projects in the village will be a prime and double sealcoat to be placed on Maple Street from Third Street to the south village limits. It will cost $1,481.40 and is admittedly an experiment to see if the gravel can be covered and last long enough to be more economical than constant grading of the streets. Besides the double seal on Maple there will be regular asphalt surfacing of three other streets in the community. They

Church from Seeger east for $8,000; Pine Street at Oak Street for $320, and Oak Street from Main to Garfield for Garfield Street from Main to the railroad will absorb much of the village money this year. Excavation will be $5,000; curb and gutter is estimated at $2,800 and storm sewer work will cost $2,500. Other storm sewer work is slated on Leach Street for a total cost of $3.750.

An estimated $11,000 will be spent on sealcoat in the

These streets will be receiving treatment: Ale from Main to Third; Brooker from Houghton .o Third; Downing from Main to Church; Fourth

Hacker spends 2 days on

MMPA tour

John Hacker of Cass City was one of more than 70 youths and adult leaders from throughout Michigan to learn about milk marketing and the functions of a dairy farmer cooperative during a visit to Detroit Thursday and Friday. The tour was sponsored by Michigan Milk Producers Association with the cooperation of Michigan State University Extension Service.

A tour of a modern dairy plant, and talks by Glenn Lake and Jack Barnes, MMPA president and general manager, respectively, described MMPA bargaining.

Hacker enjoyed a banquet and Tiger ball game Thursday and participated in discussion ······

Dewey pleads guilty to drunk charge

Tuscola county court action was slim this week with two matters in Circuit Court before Judge James P. Churchill and one matter in District Court before Judge Richard Kern.

Thomas Dewey, 21, of Cass City, made a plea of guilty before Judge Kern to a charge of being drunk and disorderly. He was arrested Friday night, released on $50 bond Saturday morning and paid a fine of $25 and costs of $14 on the Ernest Gotwalt, 19, of Leix Road, Mayville, was sentenced to serve from 3 to 4 years in prison for larceny from a building by Judge Churchill Monday. Gotwalt had several charges against him when he pleaded guilty to the larceny from the Juniata store of Ervin Colosky. He was given credit for 62 days served in the Tuscola county jail.

Last Wednesday afternoon a pre-trial conference between attorneys ended with Joseph Kaplaniak, 41, of Boy Scout Road, Caro, pleading guilty to a reduced charge of aggravated

The original charge had been one of assault with intent to commit great bodily harm less than murder. The charges stemmed from an altercation which Joseph Kaplaniak stabbed Ralph Rowell Feb. 16 in Caro. He will be sentenced July 21 by Judge Churchill.

Ten ladies attended a retirement dinner at the Pine Room in Caro Monday evening, arranged by the board of Rawson Memorial Library, honoring Mrs. Reva M. Little. Mrs. Little retired recently as librarian after completing more than 21 years.

Present, besides Mrs. Little, were the library's board trustees, Mrs. Charles Tuckey, Mrs. Esther McCullough, Mrs. K. I. MacRae and Mrs. Meredith Auten.

Others were: the new librarian, Mrs. Barbara Hutchinson; the cataloger, Mrs. Esther Kirn; two former board members, Mrs. Robert Keating and Mrs. John Zinnecker, and the bookkeeper, Mrs. Alice Mc-Aleer, Mrs. Little was presented a gift.

Initial hearing scheduled in Folsom trial

The initial hearing in the trial of Karen Folsom, 25, of Caro, will be the hearing on a motion by the defense set for Friday of this week. Attorneys for Karen Folsom will be questioning the admissibility of some matters contesting the pertinence of the evidence to the prosecution's charge of murder in which it is alleged that Karen Folsom killed her husband Allan Folsom at their home Dec. 3, 1970. The motion will be heard by Judge James P. Churchill,

Catholics lead in Church League play

The Cass City Catholics continued to show the way in the church league as they remained undefeated.

Other games in the busy week of diamond action featured both slugfests and pitchers' duels. Friday, June 18, Shabbona measured Owen-Gage, 9-3. Leland Hirsch chalked up the win and Gary DeVore took the loss. Deford outlasted Ellington Nazarene in a slugfest, 10-9, in the nightcap. McKee hit an inside the park home run and Gary Kelley was the winning Monday, June 21, Colwood hammered a 15-10 decision over the Baptists. Dave Smith was the winning pitcher and Gary Mellendorf was charged with the loss.

Lowell Smith and Jack Hillaker slammed home runs while Lowell Smith, Hillaker and Clyde Wells chalked up two hits each.

In a well played game in the night contest, the Catholics topped Trinity Methodists, 4-1. John Maharg went the distance for the Catholics, striking out nine while Stoutenburg was effective for the losers.

Dave Asher collected two hits and Rick Lorentzen blasted a round tripper. Tuesday, June 22, the early game was won by the Missionaries who edged Novesta Church of Christ, 8-7. Mark Tuckey pitched the win and Don Englehart took the loss.

Dave Smith, Larry Whittaker and Les Nicholas each banged out three hits.

In the second game SnoverLaing Methodists walked over the Lutherans, 14-4. Gene Dorman bested Ken Martin on the mound.

Al Romig and Bruce Denton were the leading hitters. The game was called at the end of five innings.

Thursday Deford whipped Colwood, 8-5, behind the hurling of Ron Nicholas in a game that was close all of the way. In the nightcap, the Baptists got on the winning side of the ledger with a 11-6 decision over Shabbona, Mellendorf chalked

Set swim party Friday at park

A swim, dance party will be held Friday, July 2, at 8 p. m. to 11 p. m. as part of the swimming pool activities planned for this week.

Swimmers interested in forming a swim team with competition against Caro, Marlette and Frankenmuth are asked to inquire at the pool. Swimmers must be 17-years-old or younger.

Those also interested in tennis, badminton, synchronized swimming, archery, playing horse shoes or bike riding are asked to contact Skip Pranger at the Municipal Building for more information.

New hours for the concession stand were also announced. The stand will be open from 1 p. m. to 10 p. m. Monday through Saturday and from noon to 6 p. m. Sundays.

OPPORTUNIST

He's a man with an open mind-open only to ideas that will suit his own purpose.

"I WANT OUT", this little pre-swimmer says, during an hour of instruction. He cried for most of the time, despite efforts to teach him that the water can be fun.

Erla's find that class does make a difference

Class does make a difference. The difference was noticeable in games played last week by Eria's who took on a pair of State Champions.

Ude Loans of Lapeer was the opponent Wednesday, June 23, and the result was a pair of easy victories for the Foodmen. The Lapeer nine is the Class

D State Champions.
Saturday night Erla's played
The Expressway Bar of Saginaw. Expressway is the Class AA champions of Michigan. The visitors won both games easily.

Against Ude, Erla's won without their ace hurler, Al Bosch. The first game was won behind Dan Erla and Elwyn Helwig, 11-7.

Erla pitched the first five and Helwig the final two. Dean Hoag collected three hits and Nicholas slammed a home run. Hillaker had a perfect night. He was hit by the pitcher, walked twice and slammed a single in four trips to the plate.

The nightcap was called after four innings as Erla's won 9-1. Helwig pitched for Cass City and Dillon took the loss for the visitors.

Saturday night, Expressway jumped on Al Bosch for 11 hits including several bunt singles and rolled to a 7-2 decision over Erla's.

Cass City's only runs came in the third when Hoag reached first on an error and rode home on a home run by Hillaker. Cass City touched winning pitcher Rousseau for just two

In the nightcap, it was no contest. Jim Frier hurled a seven-hitter but did not allow a run as he coasted to the win behind an 11-hit attack of his mates, 10-0.

Actually, it was a pretty good ball game for the first five innings. The visitors led 3-0 at the end of five but then batted around and scored seven times to turn the game into a rout. Erla's will not play Saturday. The team was to have played the Catholies from the Church League Wednesday night before taking off for the long holiday

Despite the loss of their first game of the season to the then tail-end Cubs, the Yankees clinched a share of the league title when the Pirates were also upset.

title when the Pirates were also upset.

Tuesday, June 22, the Yankees topped the Giants, 9-5, behind the pitching of Phil Bader.

The winners, raced to a 5-0 lead in the first two innings and then withstood a Giant rally to win the game.

The Orioles chalked up their third win in seven starts with a 7-5 decision over the Tigers.

Pena led the Oriole attack with two hits in three tries including a home run. Almas was the winning pitcher and Ken Martin took the loss.

The first of the week's two upsets was recorded in the next game when the Giants topped the Pirates, 8-3. The Pirates went into the last inning leading 3-2 only to have the Giants rally for six in the last inning to win, Brian Hutchinson was the winning pitcher and Dean Alexander took the loss.

The Cubs scored the upset of the year when they measured the undefeated Yankees, 10-9, in eight innings. The Yankees scored twice in the top of the eighth only to see the Cubs score three times in the bottom of the inning to win. Clark Haire, who relieved Jeff Hartel, took the loss and Kurt Little, who relieved David Bartnik, was credited with the win. After tasting victory the Cubs decided that they like it and they scored their second straight win Monday night. It was a slugfest with the Cubs outlasting the Tigers, 21-17. Each team collected 12 hits.
