

FROM THE Editor's Corner

When the career center for vocational training was first proposed in Tuscola county there was uncertainty here about whether or not it was worth 2.3 mills in additional taxes. Especially since the tax would be self-continuing without a review from the voters as long as the center operates.

After an hour-long discussion with Dick Potocnik, ramrod for the Center from the Intermediate School District, and Stan Gunther, local publicity director, the question remains in the grey area.

It's hard to see very much real training value from a 2 1/2 hour course every morning for two years. Especially since it will require a half day of the student's time.

On the other hand, a career center can help a student decide what he is qualified for and what he might want to do after graduation. It could keep students in high school when they have little or no interest in traditional reading, writing and arithmetic.

There can be no arguing about the need for plumbers, electricians, TV technicians and service people of all types.

The question is will the career center fill the void? The only trade that I know anything about is printing. . . and frankly I can see little help from a vocational printing school.

A course designed to teach the basic techniques of today's printing is very apt to be outdated by the time the student hits the job market.

In my 20 years at the Chronicle there have been three complete changes in systems and not one of the production people in the plant are doing the same jobs today that they were as little as four years ago.

That's the negative side of the question. There is a factor that should carry a good deal of weight with all of us. The center has the endorsement of local industry.

General Cable, Walbro Corporation and Anrod Screen Cylinder Co. officials are solidly behind the proposal. They feel it will help produce more employees to fill critical needs.

They are hopeful that persons now sent to Delta College for after high school training may be taught locally at the Center in an adult course. Industry keeps Cass City humming and its needs must be considered.

Frankly, the vocational center is just part of the loaf. What's really needed is a community college-career center and in long range benefits the opinion here is that the community college would be more beneficial.

But talking of a community college is beating a dead horse. The issue now is the career center. Because industry feels it is needed, the Chronicle supports it and hopes that the program will turn out just like the promoters vision it to be.

RICHARD HENRY FAULKNER, 6, didn't have to go deep sea diving to find a real pearl. He discovered the clam and its contents in the Cass River while teaching his brother to swim.

"JUST LISTENING" isn't much fun for little Jo Ann Meinerding, 10, and her pet mouse Snowball. She was temporarily blinded when a dog severely bit her in the face, requiring 100 stitches. Mrs. Gene Meinerding spends the greater part of the day at the hospital with her daughter.

New vote law fails to excite Cass City 18-year-olds

With the ratification of the 18-year-old vote to the U. S. Constitution, Cass City youths have been granted a new right. They appear to know of the right, but have failed to exercise it.

In a random poll of seven, 18 and 19-year-olds in the area, all knew they were eligible to vote, but only two in Elkland township and one in Novesta township had registered.

Mrs. Ferris Ware, deputy clerk for Elkland township, noted that only five youths in the 18-19-year-old bracket had registered. Out of that number, only Jan Glaspie was eligible to vote in the July 12 fire hall election.

Judging from the lack of response, Mrs. Ware speculated that possibly the youths don't know of their right to vote. From the responses by the seven youths polled, they do know, but apparently don't care enough to register. Many of the youths found themselves "too busy" or "hadn't gotten around to registering yet." One youth knew he could register but didn't know how to go about doing it.

Still, the youths all thought that 18-year-olds should have the right to vote.

Judy Heilig, 19, Mary Jane Croft, 18, and Scott Guernsey, 18, expressed the standard argument of "if you're old enough to fight, you're old enough to vote."

Boy finds pearl in Cass River

It's not every day a little boy can open a clam and expect to find a treasure, but lucky Richard Henry Faulkner did.

He found a freshwater pearl, and a very pretty one at that.

Richard, 6, was demonstrating how to use a life preserver to his brother, Timothy, 7, and sister, Trish, 4, when he found the clam in the Cass River at Sanilac County Park on M-53.

The children were at the park as a treat for working and were accompanied by their mother, Mrs. Henry Faulkner. He didn't believe there was a living animal inside, so Mrs. Faulkner took the clam home to show him.

When they pried the clam open, they found a large, hard, shiny object. Further probing revealed the tear-shaped pearl. The little gem is about one-half inch long and shiny pink with glints of blue and yellow.

They took the pearl to Flint, where a jeweler verified their identification. The boy showed it to his father there, too, who was away from home on business. The Faulkners moved here just two months ago from Flint. They live on Pringle Road southeast of town.

Unfortunately, the pearl is of little commercial value. The Flint jeweler told the Faulkners that freshwater pearls are worth $7 an ounce, and this one is only a fraction of an ounce.

Nevertheless, the Faulkner boy is proud of his find. The little jewel is going to be made into a necklace which will grace his mother's neck until Richard gets married. Then, he said, he's going to give it to his wife.

Probably every clam found in the river will be searched now for a pearl, but don't expect to find too many. They occur only when a foreign particle gets caught inside the clam and forms a cyst.

Strickland, 18, Patty Wood, 18, and Randy Kozan, 18, thought most 18-year-olds are aware of what's happening in the world through their high school classes and should be allowed to express their views.

"The 18-year-old is more interested in issues and concerned with the problems," Scott said. "They have a right to vote."

When the youths were asked which candidate they would like to see run for president, four of the seven responses were for President Nixon.

Scott, Christine, Mary Jane and Judy expressed the opinion that Nixon was doing a good job despite the criticism against the administration.

Phillip Hart, Edmund Muskie and Ted Kennedy were cited by the others as favored candidates.

Although all the youths were not undecided to which candidate they would support, only Scott expressed pro-republican leanings. The others preferred to be classified as non-preference, voting for the man and not the party.

Coming from primarily Republican backgrounds, the youths touched upon the paramount issues in the upcoming elections.

Patty, Judy, Christine, Randy and Cindy saw the war and its end as the major issue.

Just another job

Youth Corps airs views

Referring to their work as "just another job", nine area youths lacked enthusiasm for their work but expressed a need for more hours as they aired their views on the Neighborhood Youth Corps.

The Youth Corps is a federally funded program that puts low income family youths to work. The program, according to Carol Ross, director, gives an opportunity to the youths to learn responsibility, work habits and earn money to finish school.

Financed through the Department of Labor, the program is spending approximately $23,000 in Tuscola county alone. The Cass City youths, who will work for nine weeks, account for some $2,479 of those funds.

Such money would probably not be spent on the local level by the taxpayer. The net result of the money spent, gives low income family youths a

100 stitches needed

'Friendly' dog lacerates face of 10-year-old girl

By PAT DROVIN

Jo Ann Meinerding, 10, of Union City, Ind., was severely bitten in the face, Monday, July 12, by a dog whom she considered "her friend."

The little girl was visiting her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Aleksink Jr. of Cass City, when the incident occurred.

Jo Ann, whose face is completely covered with bandages, talked out of the darkness and recounted what happened.

She had cut across the field to get her uncle, who was visiting neighbors. Before going into the house, Jo Ann stopped to pet Skipper, a collie mixture, and was getting ready to go in when it happened.

"He started growling at me and then jumped up on me and started biting," Jo Ann said.

Her screaming brought the family outside, who rushed her to Hills and Dales Hospital for emergency surgery.

Over 100 stitches were needed to mend the cuts around the eyes and cheeks and literally piece back together her torn nose.

Her aunt, who spent a sleepless night with the little girl, sadly remarked, "I blame myself."

Two years ago, Skipper had bitten another girl in the face, but less severely, Mrs. Aleksink said. "He just doesn't like storms and children."

A storm was developing that evening which may have been the reason why the dog suddenly turned on Jo Ann.

The dog is presently penned up for a two week surveillance. After that period he may be put to sleep.

The ordeal has confined Jo Ann to her hospital bed for a week and a half.

"It's lonely and boring," the little girl complained. "I'm not used to just listening." Jo Ann remains a bubbly active 10-year-old despite the incident. She desperately wants to see and can't understand why the bandages must cover her face.

Jo Ann must stay in darkness most of the day and just listen to voices of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Meinerding, her aunt and uncle, roommates and nurses. It's not much fun especially when you are in pain, Jo Ann noted.

She looks forward to when her bandages are changed twice a day and can get a glimpse of the outside world. The time is brief, but she utilizes it to study the presents she has received and see what faces go to what voices.

She seems to know everything that's going on despite her temporary blindness and carries on a constant conversation with whoever is listening.

When no one is around to talk back, she confides in her fluffy pet autograph mouse, Snowball.

To keep her occupied, Jo Ann fingers her presents and collects medicine cups. She has 59. She misses her mother's homemade noodles even more than being able to play outside.

Despite the eventual plastic surgery and the near loss of an eye, Jo Ann holds no real hate towards dogs. She still likes them.

The incident prevented Jo Ann from a vacation side trip with her parents—visiting the Cincinnati Zoo and going to the baseball game. She sadly remembered the plans and her disappointment almost turned to tears.

Her family was originally coming up last Saturday to get her. Instead, they made a frantic 6-hour night trip, several days early.

Almost unaware of the long ordeal she still faces, Jo Ann mischievously likes to play with her buzzer that sends the nurses flying into the room.

Besides playing with the buzzer, she poses questions as fast as anyone can answer

Law declares 18-year-olds adults

Cass City youths may just be getting used to the idea they can vote at age 18, but starting Jan. 1, 1972, all 18-year-olds will legally be declared adults and take on the rights those over 21 now have, including the right to drink alcohol.

In a bill passed by the Senate Wednesday, July 14, the age of majority was lowered from 21 to 18. The bill, which passed the Senate on a 32 to 4 vote, has already passed the House and will now go to Gov. William Milliken for his signature.

The new law will allow those over 18 to buy and drink alcoholic beverages, bet at the race track, take legal action in the courts and draw up wills and marry without permission.

It will also allow 18-year-olds to seek medical treatment, hospital operations and voluntarily commit themselves to a mental institution, receive general welfare relief including medical care, make legal contracts, purchase property and buy insurance and seek election to a public office.

State Rep. Roy L. Spencer called the passage of legislation, "a dramatic step toward opening our society to full participation by young adults."

them. "What happens if my nose itches?" she inquired. Jo Ann was quickly told not to touch her face and she jokingly added "I don't dare sneeze either."

Another question was asked in seriousness and innocence that goes along with being only 10 years old and in the hospital. She wondered, "Why did that dog bite me?" Unfortunately for little Jo Ann there may never be an answer.

Monkey see, monkey do

When someone mentions monkey shines in Cass City, you'd better believe him, because he's not just barking up a tree.

Victor Eubank, 14, is the owner of Jombo, a squirrel monkey who is constantly delighting the family with his antics.

Jombo is about 2 1/2 feet long, but his tail, about 18" long, accounts for most of his length. Weighing in at about one pound, the monkey is very agile. He's a brownish color and has a grey face with very large brown eyes about 3/4 inches in diameter, which take up most of the space on his face.

The Eubanks have had the monkey since last October. Vic bought it for $27 after seeing an advertisement in a comic book and getting the wild idea, as he put it, to buy one. He sent away to Florida and within two weeks received the South American animal.

Jombo sleeps in a cage made of chicken wire and wears a little brown suit made from a stocking. He eats mostly apples and bananas, bread with milk, his monkey vitamins and jello, according to Dana Eubank, 9. They don't know how old he is, but he was full grown when they received him.

Jombo held onto Dana very tightly when he was in the Chronicle office. Dana said Jombo will try to bite his shirt sometimes, but occasionally bites people, too, showing two teeth marks where he had been nipped on the wrist. The monkey growls, not chatters, he added. Jombo also stands on shoulders and can hang onto sticks with either his front or hind legs, but he doesn't hang by his tail as monkeys are often pictured as doing.

The boys say that their parents don't mind having the monkey around, but every now and then he causes some trouble.

"He doesn't break things," says Dana in Jombo's defense. "He makes us break them." Vic claims that his monkey "has a brain and is a master-minded monkey when it comes to locks."

"Last night he got a wrench into his cage," said Vic, "and tried to unlock it."

The monkey occasionally gets away and causes a ruckus. Last June he escaped, and Vic had to be called home from school. The fire department was called over, too, but Andrew Eubank, father of the boys, made a lucky catch when a gust of wind blew the monkey out of a tree where he was just about to jump, but fell to the ground instead.

The six children of the Eubank family have other animals, too. They keep fish and snails, and have a cat called Keekee who is "just a cat" and a dog named Pierre. Dana said their dog is "half-poodle and half-French", but checking with Vic revealed that the dog is half-poodle and half-dachshund.

The Eubanks live at 6632 Pine St. in Cass City.

MONKEY SHINES are no joke for the Eubank family when Jombo, their pet monkey, starts performing his antics. Dana Eubank, 9, holds the additional member of the family, as his friend, Robbie Clarke, 9, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Clarke, Cass City, looks on.

4-H corral ok, enjoin Kritzman

This year's 90th Tuscola County Fair is shaping up, but for the Cass City Wranglers things are not good.

Although Harvey Kritzman is restrained and enjoined from further obstructing free use of Koch Road, the Wranglers have not been able to use the corral off Koch Road most of the summer.

A petition of injunction was filed by County Prosecutor Leo Maki July 13. A hearing will be held July 28 at 9 a. m. to determine the fate of the road. Kritzman must show cause at this time why the road should not be used.

With the fair only two weeks away, the 54 young riders are working every Thursday evening and Sunday afternoon until the fair at Gerald Whittaker's on the southeast edge of town, according to Al Sealey, the club's leader.

Sealey said he may try to use the corral on Sunday. Saturday will be the day he goes

Mr. and Mrs. Richard L. Turner

Saturday afternoon, June 26, Miss Jane Ellen Oberst became the bride of Mr. Richard Leon Turner at the United Methodist Church of Breckenridge. The Rev. Gilbert B. Heaton of that church and Father George Serour of St. Joseph Catholic Church of St. Louis officiated at the double ring ceremony. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl F. Oberst of Breckenridge, and Mr. and Mrs. Garfield L. Turner of Cass City are the parents of the groom.

The bride was preceded down the aisle by Miss Kathleen Turner of Cass City, sister of the groom, Mrs. Dennis Schaeffer, friend of the bride, Mrs. Dean Harger, cousin of the bride, both of Breckenridge, and Miss Gretchen Oberst of Breckenridge, as maid of honor. Their gowns were of pale blue voile with white schuffly embroidery, fashioned with Empire bodices, high necklines and full cuffed sleeves. In their hair they wore florets of fresh flowers and each carried a white basket filled with a summer assortment of white, blue and yellow daisy mums, stephanotis and pink carnations accented with pink roses.

The bride, given away by her father, selected a gown of imported silk organza with a circle skirt sweeping to a brush train. The gown had a molded bodice with a high banded neckline and full Bishop sleeves with deep cuffs. Peau de ange lace outlined with white velvet ribbon graced the bodice in a bib effect. Her bouffant veil of English illusion fell from a matching lace face frame. She carried a colonial bouquet of yellow, blue and white daisy mums with baby's breath, pink roses, stephanotis and yellow star flowers.

Mr. James Turner of Saginaw was his brother's best man, and groomsmen were Mr. Ronald Turner of Cass City, brother of the groom, Mr. Robert Rabideau of Detroit, friend of the groom, and Mr. Douglas Oberst, of Breckenridge, brother of the bride. Ushers were Mr. John Lauhoff of Oscoda, Mr. David Bliss and Mr. John Maharg, both of Cass City. All were friends of the groom.

Denise Sensabaugh of Breckenridge was the flower girl and carried a basket of flowers similar to those of the bridesmaids. Daniel Stover Jr. of Los Alamos, N. M., carried the rings on a satin pillow. The bride's mother chose a light aqua dress with white accessories, and the mother of the groom wore a pale green dress with white accessories. Both wore corsages of yellow carnations and yellow sweetheart roses.

Before the ceremony Mrs. David Blacorn, friend of the bride, sang "One Hand, One Heart," and during the service Miss Gretchen Oberst sang "The Lord's Prayer." They were accompanied by Mrs. Richard Baldwin at the organ. An honored guest at the wedding was Mrs. Samuel Wheeler, grandmother of the bride. Miss Janet Stover, cousin of the bride, attended the guest book.

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Sensabaugh, Mr. and Mrs. William Stoneman of Breckenridge and Mr. and Mrs. Dale Pratt of Saginaw acted as hosts and hostesses at the buffet luncheon which followed the ceremony in the church parlor and at the reception held at the St. Louis American Legion Hall.

The five tiered wedding cake was served by Mrs. James Turner and the groom's cakes were served by Mrs. Gary Acton. Miss Cheryl Watson was at the punch bowl.

The new Mr. and Mrs. Turner are both graduates of Central Michigan University and both hold teaching positions: he in North Branch and she in Imley City. After a short honeymoon in Northern Michigan they are residing at Barnes Lake, Columbiaville.

VINTAGE YEAR FOR CHRYSLER ROYAL

ONE OF OUR BEST YEARS.

It takes something special to come up with a Vintage Year. But that's what '71 has been for Chrysler-Plymouth. We like to think our slogan "Coming Through" has had a lot to do with it, because it's our pledge, a dedication to one purpose: To come through with the kind of automobiles you want—in style, size and price—also in quality you can live with for years to come. A good example is Chrysler Royal.

Royal 2-Door Hardtop

OUR FINEST OF THE BIG.

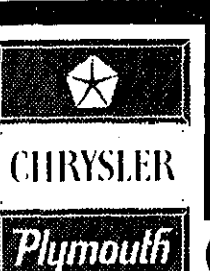

Chrysler Royal did what few luxurious cars can do. It allowed people who put a premium on comfort and space to move up with ease. For despite its full Chrysler size and quality, here was the opportunity of driving Royal at our lowest Chrysler price.

NOW, A GREAT SELECTION COMING THROUGH FINAL CLEARANCE PRICED.

'71 has been a vintage year for Chrysler-Plymouth. Quality shines and shows in every line. A drive in a Chrysler Royal, Plymouth Duster, Satellite or Fury will prove how tight and sound our '71 models have come through. See our great selection. We think you'll agree: a quality car at a final clearance price is what "Coming Through" is all about for us. For you.

1971. It was a very good year.

BY JIM FITZGERALD

And then I wrote . . .

The mail brought a question from a woman who'd seen me at a church supper. She wondered if I knew that I always have a "shy look" on my face.

The fact is, I am not so much shy as I am defensive. I use sort of a glazed, flinchy look to defend myself against an attack of small talk.

I am lousy at talking about nothing. I first realized this when I was a small boy, getting my hair cut. The barber was continually asking me what I learned in school that day. There is a bright question. I couldn't think of an intelligent answer and besides, I couldn't believe the barber really cared a darn about my schooling. So I limited my answers to one syllable, mumbled. Or sometimes I pretended I didn't hear him.

My dad went to the same barber. One day they talked about me and Dad came home to say: "The barber says you are a remarkable boy. He says he cut your hair 3 times before he realized you were deaf and dumb."

Today I use magazines to defend myself against barbers. But I can't live with my nose in a book ("But he sure tries," yaps my wife) and thus I've taken on protective coloring which might easily be mistaken for shyness, rudeness, or even snobbishness. The idea is to discourage anyone from asking me how I like the weather.

Some people, mostly women, are expert at small talk. My wife is the champion of the world. There are people in this world who don't know my name, but they know I don't wear pajamas because they bumped into my wife in a doctor's waiting room.

They end up discussing such earth-shaking subjects as muddy little boys, rice instead of potatoes, cats, college girls, and the health of Pat's cousin's brother-in-law's goldfish.

There is no such thing as two or more women, even total strangers, sitting silently in the same room. They'll talk if they have to discuss the cracks in the ceiling. On the other hand, I stood in line for 3 years in the army and never talked to the guy in front of me. I don't know if there was a guy behind me because I never turned around. I was afraid it might be a barber.

I think a man with nothing to say, shouldn't say it. I think silence is golden (you may quote that, if you wish). I think I am doing a guy a favor if I don't ask him if he's had enough rain. I think it is friendly not to disturb a man who's obviously thinking about a big fish he almost caught. The man alone at the end of the bar is not necessarily a lonely soul who would love to hear why the Tigers blew the pennant. He may be seeing splendid reflections of his childhood in his beer.

My wife says I am "just not friendly." Measured by the most popular yardstick, I guess I'm not. But there should be an other measuring stick for us quiet types. After all, I'm willing to share great gobs of my silence with perfect strangers, free. Any stranger who says that isn't friendly, he's not perfect.

I do not tell the garrulous man to shut up. He should not tell me to speak up. That's simply courtesy, isn't it? No-where is it written on a stone tablet that it is a sin to enjoy silence. No law says a night-dream is more important to the soul than a daydream. A man should be awakened from neither except for good reason.

Hotels supply "Do Not Disturb" signs to hang on door-knobs. Until I hang such a sign around my neck, I must depend upon my "shy look" to ward off insane conversation. This look says plainly I will faint dead if anyone asks if it is cold enough for me.

But if it is anything important, just knock on my nose.

Men who think too much about their past soon have grave doubts about their future.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifton E. Beutler

Maxine Ann Willson, daughter of Mrs. Bernice Jeffries of Cass City and Charles Willson of Flint, became the bride of Clifton Eugene Beutler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Beutler of Weidman, at a double ring 7 o'clock ceremony performed by the Rev. Roger Burk at the Colwood United Brethren Church Saturday, June 26, before an altar decorated with gladioli.

The bride, escorted to the altar on the arm of her father, wore a gown of chantilly and orange lace with an Empired waist, a high neckline, Camelot sleeves and a long, tiered Cathedral train. An imported fingertip veil was attached to her pearl and crystal headpiece. She carried a bouquet of orchids, carnations and ivy.

Attending the bride as maid of honor was Helen Kastraba of Caro, a friend of the bride. She wore a purple chiffon skirt with a dotted organza bodice, lavender belt, long Bishop sleeves and a high neckline with a jabot. Her headpiece was lavender flowered streamers.

Bridesmaid was Nanci Durssel of Caro, a friend of the bride. She wore a dress like the maid of honor's, but with a lavender skirt, purple headpiece and purple belt.

Anna and Lisa Willson, twin sisters of the bride from Flint, were junior bridesmaids. They were dressed in gowns of white dotted swiss with purple ribbons around the cuffs, Empire waist and hemline. All girls carried purple and lavender carnations and stephanotis.

Serving as best man was Fred Beutler, brother of the groom. Groomsman was Ray Banaski, friend of the groom from Weidman. Junior groomsman were Scott McLeod and Chuckie Willson, brothers of the bride. Ushers were Dave Osentoski, cousin of the bride, and Ron Cybulski, both of Cass City.

The mother of the bride was dressed in a pink A-line dress with white accessories. She wore a pink and white carnation corsage. The mother of the groom selected a green flowered dress with a yellow and white carnation corsage accenting the outfit.

A dinner for 350 people followed the wedding at the VFW Hall in Caro.

After a five-day honeymoon to Cedar Point, Ohio, the couple is residing in Weidman, where the groom is employed by General Telephone.

Rumptz, Tittjung married in Ubly

Linda Kay Rumptz and Anton Tittjung were united in holy matrimony at 2 p. m. Saturday, July 10, at St. Johns Catholic Church in Ubly.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Rumptz of Ubly, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Anton Tittjung Sr. of Detroit.

The Rev. Bernard Skornia officiated at the ceremony. Mrs. Richard Bukowski of Lake Orion, a sister of the bride, served as matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Susan Rumptz of Indianapolis, Ind., and Debbie Rumptz of Ubly, both sisters of the bride.

John Mergl, a cousin of the groom, was best man, and Richard Bukowski, brother-in-law of the bride, and Richard Merkhoter, cousin of the groom, served as groomsmen. Flower girl was Tina Grifka, a niece of the bride, and ring bearer was Wendy Tittjung, a nephew of the groom.

The church was decorated in white gladioli. A reception for 350 guests followed immediately at the Pigeon VFW.

The bride, escorted to the altar by her father, wore a modified Empire gown of organza and imported Venetian lace, fashioned in princess styling with a high neckline, a paneled front adorned with lace motif and pearl beading with deep cutted Bishop sleeves.

The sheer yoke and removable tribular chapel train was also enhanced with lace. A pearl seeded petal headpiece secured the bouffant cathedral length veil of silk misted bridal illusion. The bride carried a bouquet of white roses and stephanotis.

The matron of honor's dress was a floor length Georgette dress with a dirndl skirt in maize floral print touched with matching velvet ribbon at the Empire waistline. It was styled with a high neckline and long full sleeves with ruffled cuffs. Her garden hat was white trimmed with the printed material of her dress, and she carried a white basket of yellow and white daisies.

Bridesmaids' dresses and hats were identical to the matron of honor's. They also carried matching baskets of daisies.

The bride's mother wore a blue lace, A-line styled dress with white accessories. The groom's mother wore a blue, double knit, A-line styled dress with white accessories. Both mothers wore corsages of gardenias and stephanotis.

After a two week trip to San Francisco, the newly weds will live in Honolulu, Hawaii, where the groom is an electrical engineer with Kentron Hawaii Ltd. The bride is a 1966 graduate of Ubly High School and a sophomore at Santa Ana College, Calif. She is employed as a secretary.

The groom graduated from Osborn High School in Detroit and received his bachelor's degree in electrical engineering from California State College. He spent the past year in Panama.

Couple married in Saginaw

Kathy Decker and Terry Roshaw were united in matrimony at 8:30 a. m. Saturday, July 17, at the Rose Gardens in Saginaw, where lighted fountains provided a colorful background.

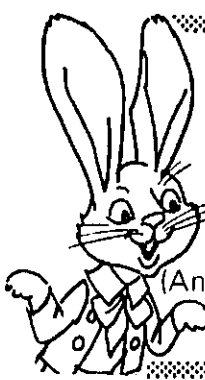

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Decker of Cass City. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Roshaw of Eugene, Ore.

A wedding breakfast followed the ceremony at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Jack Bellz. She was assisted by another sister, Mrs. Joe Loeffer.

The couple is making their home in Saginaw.

Rabbit tracks

(And anyone else he can get to help)

Harry Little received a plaque last week as one of 17 persons in the State to have completed 40 years as a licensed mortician and he's obviously very happy about it.

I was unable to discern whether he was elated because he (1) had lasted for 40 years; (2) was honored by the Michigan Funeral Directors Association at its convention or (3) the award was made at luxurious Boyne Mountain.

Boyne is a posh tourist trap that creates an euphoric atmosphere that makes its guests ready for just about anything.

I don't know quite how to explain this except to say that there must be at least 20 persons just pining away for a St. Bernard.

The Stan Guinthers own one of those giant dogs and advertised in the Chronicle for someone to care for it for a week while they are vacationing.

Before the ink was dry on the paper the phone started ringing and now Sam is assured of a week of tender loving care. Could it be that the 20 volunteers are frustrated big dog lovers who weren't quite ready to take on the responsibility of a St. Bernard around the house and are using the week to see if they should take the big plunge and buy one of their own?

When the firemen at Gagetown staged the Firemen's Fiesta recently to raise money a host of tickets were sold in Cass City. The various service club members bought many of them and now members are ready to get even when the Cass City Western Round-up is held Saturday, Aug. 14. Members are already collaring the Gagetown ticket pushers and selling ox roast tickets.

The ox roast tickets are cheaper. . . selling for $3.00 adult and $1.25 for children. . . but potential sales are greater in Cass City as kids were barred at Gagetown's blast. Tickets will be on sale everywhere. It will be hard to walk down the main stem and not run into a fireman, Rotarian, Gavelite or Lion with a ticket to sell.

In case you are missed, please don't feel left out. Fifteen of the 1,000 tickets on the market are right here at the Chronicle and we'll be HAPPY to sell you as many as you need.

4-H ACTIVITIES

4-H safety

concerns everyone

By Bernard Jardot

Safety should be a year round concern of everyone. And to put this concern into action there are three special weeks designated for safety during 1971. Poison Prevention Week was observed in March. Farm Safety Week is scheduled July 25-31, and Fire Prevention Week is in October.

These special safety weeks are of significance to the half-million boys and girls in the 4-H Safety Program. These young people, 9 to 19 years of age, with the guidance of the Cooperative Extension Service, identify hazards in their homes, schools and communities and then work to correct them. And the special week observances give added opportunities for safety activities and the involvement of others.

For more information on the 4-H Safety Program, and ways adults as well as young people can become involved, contact the State 4-H Leader or County Extension Office.

Integrity outclasses all other kinds of pull in the long run.

4 accidents result in only one injury

Two accidents occurred in the area this past week, but neither resulted in personal injury.

Sweet tooth thieves hit park stand again

Candy thieves struck at the Cass City concession stand Monday, July 19, and escaped with about $10 worth of assorted candy bars and ice cream.

The vandals apparently pried open the doors in the front of the stand, used for waiting on customers, with a screwdriver. The theft was discovered at 1:30 p. m. and is still under investigation. This is the fourth time the concession stand has been broken into since it opened in June.

Two juveniles, ages 10 and 11, admitted to stealing $21 from the coin box at the Elkland Fire Hall Thursday, July 15.

The youths were seen by Gary Musall counting some money near the old library. Musall decided to check the coin box in the Hall, when he discovered it had been pried open.

The youths admitted to the theft after questioning by Chief Gene Wilson. Charges were not filed against the youths when they agreed to pay back the money.

Ethel Elizabeth Robinson, 54, 11297 Mertz Rd., Caro, was traveling west on M-81 when the car she was driving was hit in the rear by a car driven by Hugo William Hoppe, 58, of 4765 Moore Rd., Cass City.

The accident occurred at 7:04 a. m. Monday about 500 feet east of Cleaver Road. The road was wet.

Tuscola County Sheriff's report said that another car had pulled in front of the Robinson vehicle, forcing her to apply the brakes, resulting in the collision.

No citations were filed.

Another unusual accident occurred at 8:45 a. m. Tuesday, July 13, when a truck and trailer driven by Mitchell William Blanchard, 27, of Bay City, broke a tree limb off a tree on Elizabeth Street, 200 feet east of Seeger Street in Cass City.

The truck, which is owned by the Duro Supply Co. of Bay City, had been using the road for a long time, sheriff's report said, and the wind must have been just right that day to bring the limb lower than usual so that the truck could not clear it.

William T. Walkiewicz, 52, of Deford, and his wife, Gertrude, 45, escaped injury Sunday when the car they were in collided with a car towing a boat on a trailer driven by Susan D. Bishop, 16, of Pontiac.

The accident occurred at 5:15 p. m. at the intersection of Sebewaing and S. Elkton Roads, four miles east of Owendale in Huron county.

Passengers in the Bishop car were treated for bruises and abrasions and released from Scheurer Hospital, Pigeon. They are Robert E. Johnson, 25, and Dena Jimson, 19, both of Pontiac.

Walkiewicz told officers he was headed east on Sebewaing Road when the Bishop car stopped at the intersection in the middle of the road. He was unable to avoid the collision and hit the auto broadside, damaging both vehicles extensively.

A Minden City man was injured Sunday when he was struck by a car driven by Charles M. Williamson, 60, Deford.

The accident occurred at the intersection of Mushroom Road and M-53 in Sanilac county when Williamson pulled out of Mushroom Road after stopping and hit the northbound motorcycle driven by Tribus A. Regentin, 23, which he had failed to see. No citations were filed.

Regentin was taken to Marquette Hospital for treatment and discharged.

81 sires produce better cows

The "theory" has been that the various bull studs could, through careful selection and sampling of several bulls, select those with superior ability to transmit high production to their daughters. Generally, cows resulting from Artificial Insemination (AI) have been reported to have higher yields than non-AI sired cows. This difference has often been either personal observations or research done on a state or regional basis.

Recently, the United States Department of Agriculture released the results of a nationwide comparison by breeds and ages. From 1954 through 1968 they compared the yields of non-AI versus AI sired cows calving in the same herd. Looking at the results of over 320,000 herd records for a year, they are able to substantiate the theory mentioned above. Two year olds that calved during 1968 show the following superiority of AI-sired cows for actual milk yield, the first year: Ayrshire 740 pounds, Guernsey 315 pounds, Holstein 340 pounds, Jersey 141 pounds and Brown Swiss 42. With $6.00 a hundred milk, the AI-breeding fee is returned and with pretty good interest -- $44.40 for the Ayrshires in the first lactation.

The superiority of AI-cows showed, in both milk and fat, for all age groups and breeds with only one exception. The 3 and 4 year old Brown Swiss did not increase butter fat yield. The levels of AI-superiority varied from year to year, but the trend was for AI superiority to increase across the years from 1954 to 1968.

The AI theory can now safely be called a fact. There is no reason for this trend of increasing superiority of AI-cows to slow down with improved selection procedures and a larger per cent of cows on DHIA test to provide production records.

With the AI bulls, we should have better cows coming into our herds each year.

Jobs of Youth Corps told

were doing something worthwhile for the community to merit their $1.60 an hour pay. Louis Laming, 15, has found little time to "goof off" while working at the schools and felt he has "learned to be more careful of jobs" he has had to do.

"Pleasant people help make the job easier and fun," Cindy Strickland, 16, said. Cindy works for the village as an office helper. The training she has received has helped her to be more responsible and she noted, "if you please the village, you've pleased everyone else."

Although the youths basically approve of the program, they expressed one major complaint. They want more hours.

The Youth Corps program limits the number of hours to 26 a week due to state working laws for minors. At only $1.60 an hour, Cindy noted, "it doesn't go very far."

Most of the youths are saving the money for the upcoming school year, although no restrictions are placed by the Youth Corps as to how the money can be spent.

Lorie Spear, 17, who is an office helper at the high school, disagreed. "Twenty-six hours is enough," she said. She prefers to have the extra time for swimming and sunbathing.

In setting up the hours, Supt. James Blades found one inconvenience to the program. Because some of the youths are involved in driver's education classes, it limits the flexibility of the youths' hours to work.

Russell Richards, high school principal, noted that another drawback to the program was its lack of cohesion.

Although the program works through the school to find applicants, once a youth is placed the school no longer has a record of him.

"We don't have them long enough to make a real impression on them," Richards said, questioning whether the program really does teach the youths responsibility and work habits.

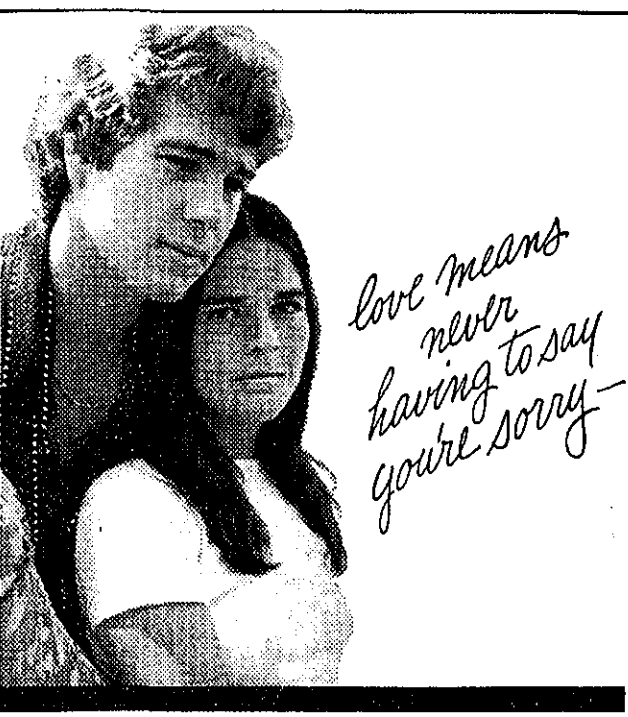

Richards continued to say that the program was useful for the kids as well as for the schools. "The little things that need to be done around the school are accomplished through the program," he noted.

Whether or not the Youth Corps is a success in achieving the goals it has set down, nine area youths have jobs for the summer, are earning money and the village and schools will look a little neater this fall, thanks to their efforts.

Rumptz, Tittjung married in Ubly

Linda Kay Rumptz and Anton Tittjung were united in holy matrimony at 2 p. m. Saturday, July 10, at St. Johns Catholic Church in Ubly.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Rumptz of Ubly, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Anton Tittjung Sr. of Detroit.

The Rev. Bernard Skornia officiated at the ceremony. Mrs. Richard Bukowski of Lake Orion, a sister of the bride, served as matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Susan Rumptz of Indianapolis, Ind., and Debbie Rumptz of Ubly, both sisters of the bride.

John Mergl, a cousin of the groom, was best man, and Richard Bukowski, brother-in-law of the bride, and Richard Merkhoter, cousin of the groom, served as groomsmen.

Flower girl was Tina Grifka, a niece of the bride, and ring bearer was Wendt Tittjung, a nephew of the groom.

The church was decorated in white gladioli. A reception for 350 guests followed immediately at the Pigeon VFW.

The bride, escorted to the altar by her father, wore a modified Empire gown of organza and imported Venetian lace, fashioned in princess styling with a high neckline, a paneled front adorned with lace motif and pearl beading with deep cuffed Bishop sleeves.

The sheer yoke and removable tribular chapel train was also enhanced with lace. A pearl seeded pearl headpiece secured the bouffant cathedral length veil of silk mist bridal illusion. The bride carried a bouquet of white roses and Stephanotis.

The matron of honor's dress was a floor length Georgette dress with a dirndl skirt in maize floral print touched with matching velvet ribbon at the Empire waistline. It was styled with a high neckline and long full sleeves with ruffled cuffs. Her garden hat was white trimmed with the printed material of her dress, and she carried a white basket of yellow and white daisies.

Bridesmaids' dresses and hats were identical to the matron of honor's. They also carried matching baskets of daisies.

The bride's mother wore a blue lace, A-line styled dress with white accessories. The groom's mother wore a blue, double knit, A-line styled dress with white accessories. Both mothers wore corsages of gardenias and Stephanotis.

After a two week trip to San Francisco, the newly weds will live in Honolulu, Hawaii, where the groom is an electrical engineer with Kentron Hawaii Ltd. The bride is a 1966 graduate of Ubly High School and a sophomore at Santa Ana College, Calif. She is employed as a secretary.

The groom graduated from Osborn High School in Detroit and received his bachelor's degree in electrical engineering from California State College. He spent the past year in Panama.

Couple married in Saginaw

Kathy Decker and Terry Roshaw were united in matrimony at 8:30 a. m. Saturday, July 17, at the Rose Gardens in Saginaw, where lighted fountains provided a colorful background.

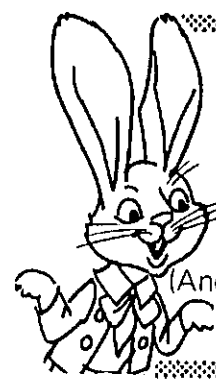

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Decker of Cass City. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Roshaw of Eugene, Ore.

A wedding breakfast followed the ceremony at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Jack Beltr. She was assisted by another sister, Mrs. Joe Loeffler.

The couple is making their home in Saginaw.

Rabbit tracks

(And anyone else he can get to help)

Harry Little received a plaque last week as one of 17 persons in the State to have completed 40 years as a licensed mortician and he's obviously very happy about it.

I was unable to discern whether he was elated because he (1) had lasted for 40 years; (2) was honored by the Michigan Funeral Directors Association at its convention or (3) the award was made at luxurious Boyne Mountain.

Boyne is a posh tourist trap that creates an euphoric atmosphere that makes its guests ready for just about anything.

I don't know quite how to explain this except to say that there must be at least 20 persons just pining away for a St. Bernard.

The Stan Guinthers own one of those giant dogs and advertised in the Chronicle for someone to care for it for a week while they are vacationing.

Before the ink was dry on the paper the phone started ringing and now Sam is assured of a week of tender loving care.

Could it be that the 20 volunteers are frustrated big dog lovers who weren't quite ready to take on the responsibility of a St. Bernard around the house and are using the week to see if they should take the big plunge and buy one of their own?

When the firemen at Gagetown staged the Firemen's Fiesta recently to raise money a host of tickets were sold in Cass City. The various service club members bought many of them and new members are ready to get even when the Cass City Western Round-up is held Saturday, Aug. 14. Members are already collaring the Gagetown ticket pushers and selling ox roast tickets.

The ox roast tickets are cheaper. . . selling for $3.00 adult and $1.25 for children. . . but potential sales are greater in Cass City as kids were barred at Gagetown's blast.

Tickets will be on sale everywhere. It will be hard to walk down the main stem and not run into a fireman, Rotarian, Cavellite or Lion with a ticket to sell.

In case you are missed, please don't feel left out. Fifteen of the 1,000 tickets on the market are right here at the Chronicle and we'll be HAPPY to sell you as many as you need.

4-H ACTIVITIES

4-H safety

concerns everyone

By Bernard Jardot

Safety should be a year round concern of everyone. And to put this concern into action there are three special weeks designated for safety during 1971. Poison Prevention Week was observed in March, Farm Safety Week is scheduled July 25-31, and Fire Prevention Week is in October.

These special safety weeks are of significance to the half-million boys and girls in the 4-H Safety Program. These young people, 9 to 19 years of age, with the guidance of the Cooperative Extension Service, identify hazards in their homes, schools and communities and then work to correct them. And the special week observances give added opportunities for safety activities and the involvement of others.

For more information on the 4-H Safety Program, and ways adults as well as young people can become involved, contact the State 4-H Leader or County Extension Office.

Integrity outclasses all other kinds of pull in the long run.

200 entries in record sized Holstein show

HOLDING TROPHIES presented at the District 1 Black and White Show held July 14 at the Tuscola County Fairgrounds are general chairman Clare Carpenter (left) and secretary-treasurer Mrs. Clare Carpenter, both of Cass City. Ron Opperman of Vassar (right) acted as ringman for the day.

The Tuscola County Holstein-Friesian Association played host to the District 1 Holstein Show July 14 at the Fairgrounds in Caro.

The show, deemed largest ever held in the district, drew more than 200 entries from the seven county district. The best of the black and white bovines came from Huron, Sanilac, LaPeere, St. Clair, Macomb, Oakland and Tuscola counties to vie for prize money, ribbons and 32 trophies supplied by local businessmen.

While the local entries placed high in their respective classes and will receive top money in premiums, the only recipients of trophies were Ed Opperman of Vassar for his aged cow and David Bortel of Caro for first place junior railbird judging competition.

Clare Carpenter received fifth for aged cow in a class of 20; Bob DeLong sixth in senior heifer calf in a class of 18; Terry Keinath ninth for junior yearling in a class of 19; Mark Cox fifteenth for junior heifer calf in a class of 26 and Ed Opperman eleventh for two-year-old in a class of 32. The largest share of winners came from Apache Ranch in LaPeere county, which placed first in twenty classes.

The William Ludwig family of Lum, LaPeere county, also captured top awards in eleven classes, including best herd. Debbie and Jeffrey Ludwig won the senior and junior showmanship competition, respectively.

As computed through a point system, Apache Ranch was named premier breeder, and the title of premier exhibitor was given to William and Lois Ludwig.

LaPeere county won the best county youth herd award, and Debbie Ludwig was chosen top youth showing at the black and white show.

Railbird judging was won by Mrs. Stanley Hinton of Bad Axe in the senior division.

Judging the show was Velmur Green of Green Meadow Farms at Elsie. Assisting local officials were James Plog, National Fieldman for the Holstein Association; Bill Bivens, Dairy Specialist for the Tri-County area; Mrs. Joyce Furu, Marshall, Secretary of the Michigan Holstein Association and Tuscola County's Extension staff.

Clare J. Carpenter, Cass City, a member of the District 1 Board, served as general chairman. Mrs. Clare Carpenter, Cass City, as clerk-secretary and Ronald Opperman, Vassar, Tuscola Co. Holstein Association president, acted as ringman.

Apache Ranch also took the trophy in bull calf, junior yearling bull, aged bull, junior champion bull, senior champion bull, grand and reserve champion bull, senior heifer calf, junior yearling heifer, senior yearling heifer, junior and reserve champion female, junior get of sire, 4-year-old female, senior champion cow, grand champion cow, senior get of sire, produce of dam, dam and daughter and best udder.

Dolan Sweeney of Uby took senior yearling bull and reserve champion bull, and John McKiernan of Sandusky won 3 best females.

Ludwigs also won 2-year-old bull, reserve champion bull, junior heifer calf, fall calf 2-year-old female, 3-year-old female and reserve champion cow.

The most common error is to mistake ambition for ability.

Prevent grain storage damage

Insect damage in small grain storage can be avoided by good sanitation. Insects and their contamination can cause hol- lowed out grain, destroy germs and cause hot areas with spoil- age and fungus growth. The following measures may be used to reduce damage from stored grain insects this year:

(1) Avoid storing grain in buildings that house hay, straw, feed and animals. Such build- ings constitute a constant source of pest feeding and re- production.

(2) Clean storage bins. Sweep down the ceiling, walls and floor, remove the old grain and dust left from the pre- vious year. Be sure to clean up any spilled grain outside or under the bin. If it isn't feasible to remove existing old grains, use an insecticide grain treatment of malathion or pyrethrin or fumigate before new grains are added. Follow insecticide label directions.

(3) Apply a residual spray to empty bins. After the bins have been cleaned and repaired, spray the ceiling, walls and floors at least two weeks be- fore grain storage. Apply mala- thion to the point of run-off. Then let the bin dry thoroughly before adding the new grains.

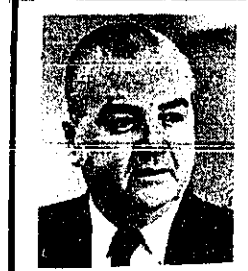

(4) Store any dry, clean, sound grain. Any grain stored above 12 per cent moisture content is susceptible to heating, fungus growth and stored grain insect infestation.

(5) Inspect grain at frequent intervals. Check grain every 30 days especially during warm summer and autumn months. Determine insect infestation by taking the grain temperature and by visual inspection of the grain.

Coming Auctions

Saturday, July 31 - Mrs. Worthy Tait Sr. will hold a household auction at 370 W. Grant St., Caro.

Saturday, Aug. 7 - Raymond and Theresa Murawski will sell farm machinery, household goods and miscellany at the farm located five miles east, five miles north and a half a mile east of the Kinde school on McGardle Rd.

ONE FOR THE ROAD

Little unknown tidbits

By Dan Marlowe

Things I'll bet you never knew till now:

1. That the phrase "turn down" originated during Rev- olutionary days in this country. It was the custom for a swain to present the object of his adoration a highly decorated hand mirror known as a "court- ing mirror." If she looked into it and smiled, then placed it on the table, mirror side up, it signified her acceptance of love. But if she placed it face down, a "turn down," it meant a re- jection. From this courting cus- tom the expression "turn down" came to remain a refusal of any offer, amorous or other- wise.

2. American frontiersmen originated the expression "flash in the pan" because of the fre- quent misfirings of their old flintlock rifles. The rifle was loaded through the muzzle and fired by the steel hammer strik- ing a piece of flint at the breech. The resulting spark was supposed to ignite a thin trail of gunpowder contained in a "pan" under the hammer. The powder, in turn, ignited the main charge in the barrel and fired the bullet. Frequent- ly the trail of powder was broken, and this resulted in a "flash in the pan" when the rifle didn't fire. Thus "flash in the pan" eventually came to mean any dazzling, quick-lived action that results in failure.

3. Before the advent of the electric iron, women used heavy flatirons to press clothes. The irons were heated by placing them in or over glowing coals. The irons retained heat only for a short period, so the wo- men used three or four at a time. Some women, in a hurry, used five or six irons, but this was too many to watch and usually the irons became too hot and scorched the clothes. From this it became common to say that such women "had too many irons in the fire", and the expression became gen- erally used to indicate anyone who had too much activity in too many different areas.

4. Before soap was manu- factured and packaged, clever people made their own soap from ashes and waste animal fats. This soap, slick and jelly- like, was called "soft soap." Because it was hard to make, scarce, and much prized, people who wanted favors from an official would give him a quan- tity of "soft soap" to gain his good will. Today we still say "soft soap" when someone tries to work his way into another's favor.

5. When we settle an argu- ment or a misunderstanding, we often use a saying that began with the custom of the early American Indians. Before gather- ing around a fire to talk peace and smoke the peace pipe, they buried their hatchets, scalping knives, and war clubs in the ground, since it was a rule of the Great Spirit that all weapons be buried in this manner before a conclave. And so the expression "bury the hatchet" still signifies the burial of differences in arriving at peace terms.

6. In the Middle Ages homes were equipped with heavy knockers to announce visitors. The device consisted of a plate, having a large nail head upon which the knocker would strike, creating a noise to alert the occupants. Often it required many thumps of the knocker on the striking plate, or door- nail, before someone answered. Eventually the nail head would become battered and worn, and it was then said that the door- nail was "dead." This soon gave rise to the popular expression "dead as a door nail", which as early as 1350 was used to in- dicate lifelessness.

Hope for the best, then buckle down and work for the best.

Taking a chance

That's a high fence for a young man to walk, but take a good look at his face, and you'll see that he's not only determined to do it, but con- fident that he can.

Chances are, with this al- titude, he won't slip. At least, he'll have far less chance of slipping than if he ap- proached "fence-walking" plagued by self-doubt.

So many of us approach tasks, challenges, opportuni- ties, with a nagging convic- tion of our own failure, even before we begin. We need more faith in ourselves. Self- faith comes only from a far greater faith: Faith in God.

Face up to your own "fence-walking." In the course of life, we all have to do quite a bit of it. Find the courage to start by listening to what your church has to say to you.

AROUND THE FARM

Truck driver law explained

By William Bortel

Effective Jan. 1, 1972 -- instead of July 1, 1971 -- the law requires that all drivers in interstate commerce, including farm truck drivers, must:

1. Be at least 21 years old;
2. Pass a road test;
3. Take a written exam in federal motor carrier safety regulations;
4. Carry a medical certificate issued within the past 24 months certifying that prescribed physical standards are met;
5. File with the employer a complete history of driving employment and experience, including violations.

Interstate commerce is involved if the delivery point is outside the state. For example, a Michigan farmer taking a load of grain to a local elevator is not involved in interstate commerce. But if he drives to an Ohio elevator, he is involved in interstate commerce, and the federal truck driver requirements affect him.

The federal truck driver regulations are in effect now if the gross weight of the truck is more than 10,000 pounds or if the driver was hired after Jan. 1, 1971. Forms for the required written examination, road test and physical examination are available from:

- American Trucking Association, 1616 "P" Street, N. W., Washington, D. C. 20036;
- Michigan Trucking Association, 501 South Capitol, Lansing, Mich. 48900. (Telephone: 517-489-5701), and phone: 517-489-5701), and -- U. S. Government Printing Office, Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D. C. 20402.

Detailed rules and regulations are listed in "Motor Carrier Safety Regulations, Revised Part 391, Qualifications of Drivers, MCSR Amendment No. 10." This is printed by the Bureau of Motor Carrier Safety, Federal Highway Administration, Department of Transportation, Washington, D. C. 20591.

The Lansing office of the Federal Highway Administration, Office of Motor Carrier Safety, is at 211 Federal Building. Telephone: 517-372-1910, Extension 654.

4-H'ERS ATTENDING YOUTH WEEK

Several 4-H members from Tuscola county are attending the 4-day State 4-H Youth Week at Michigan State University, which began Tuesday, July 20.

About 350 youth from across the state will expand each day with a new idea from the theme, "We've only just begun."

It will be an action filled week as the delegates do their own news broadcasting, produce their own newspaper, select a planning committee for 1972 and talk about the world as it is and what can be done about it.

Women's Lib seeks practical legislation

Though most of the publicity in "women's liberation" has gone to the demonstrators, the more vocal proponents of "women's lib" as well as some quieter advocates of the cause, both male and female, have been working for some practical advances on the legislative scene in Lansing.

In the current session, two pieces of legislation focus attention on areas where women traditionally have faced obstacles not placed in front of men.

The first is the bill sponsored by Rep. Dennis Cawthorne, R-Manistee, to require that women be paid equal salaries with men when they do the same work as men. It is designed to correct the situation found in many places where men and women, working side by side at the same job, are paid different wage rates based solely on their sex.

The second is the bill sponsored by Sen. William S. Ballenger, R-Ovid, and would guarantee any Michigan woman a leave of absence if she becomes pregnant and would guarantee her her old job back after she has the baby if she wants the job back.

Again, many industries and businesses do not allow women to come back to their old job after they have been off work to have a baby. The worst example Ballenger cited involves a woman who had worked for a firm 17 years and 11 months before leaving work to have a baby. The woman's company would not let her go back to work after the baby was born.

Neither Cawthorne nor Ballenger have been overly vocal in pursuing their respective bills. But that doesn't mean they haven't been working hard on them. In a legislative body, the legislators who make the most speeches often are the least influential. While they are speaking, the quieter, more effective, lawmakers are going around rounding up support on a one by one basis for their legislation—the way most bills are passed.

EMERGENCY MESSAGES

The Michigan State Police and the Michigan Association of Broadcasters are cooperating once again this year in a program designed to notify vacationers if someone back home is trying to reach them with an emergency message.

The plan is simple, but effective. If someone needs to contact a relative traveling in Michigan with an emergency message, he can first contact the State Police. The State Police determine the area of the state where the person is probably traveling and contacts radio stations there.

The radio stations then broadcast, between noon and 1 p. m., the names of persons for whom emergency messages are waiting at State Police posts and instruct them where to call to receive the message.

Hundreds of messages of this nature are delivered, says State Police Director John R. Plants, particularly during the tourist and hunting seasons. But many times it is quite difficult, if not impossible, to complete their delivery.

Emergency messages are delivered only to persons when regular facilities such as telephone or telegram cannot be used.

Plants says while the system of using radio stations does not totally replace hand delivery of messages, it reaches many persons not otherwise located and reduces hours spent on hand delivered messages. So far as is known, no other state has a similar system.

SHOOTINGS RISE

Michigan workers injured on the job have included an increasing number of shooting victims in recent years, according to the Michigan Department of Labor.

Though it has no specific statistics available on shootings, it says 23 per cent of the people who are injured on the job are struck by objects, and an increasing number of those objects are bullets.

A number of the employees shot are shot either during holdups or because of accidents which would not happen if there were proper training and supervision of employees who handle weapons, the department says.

But there are always the exceptions to any generalization and that's true in this case, too. One of the shootings involved a slaughterhouse worker who shot himself in the hand when his aim was ruined by an uncooperative pig.

BETTER HEALTH

Screening programs help

BY DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

Of late, more and more screening programs are being used to help to detect certain diseases in people who may not even suspect that there is anything wrong with them. I just read in a release from the Disease Detection Information Bureau that last year in Vermont the health department screened 3,609 persons for diabetes, and 68 persons were found to have it.

Of 2,087 persons screened in 1970 for glaucoma, a serious disease of the eyes which tends to run in families and tends to come in older people, there were 53 with abnormal eyeball pressures, and in follow-up studies 21 were found to have definite glaucoma. One reason why such screening is so important is that glaucoma tends to "creep up" on its victim without his realizing soon enough that something is wrong.

By the time he notices that he is not seeing well enough and goes to a doctor, the disease has often done serious damage to the eyes which cannot be cleared away.

Anyone, especially if he is over 40 or if he knows that someone in his family has glaucoma, should be on the watch for the danger signals: frequent changes of glasses, none satisfactory; inability to adjust the eyes to darkened rooms, such as theatres; loss of side vision; blurred or foggy vision or rainbow-colored rings around lights.

Glaucoma comes when more fluid goes into the eyeball than goes out. This greatly increases the internal pressure, producing tension in the eyeball. The increased tension pressing on the retina (the seeing part of the eye) can eventually cause blindness.

Nowadays, the tension or fluid pressure in the eyeball is measured in the ophthalmologist's office with a tiny metal scale, called a tonometer. There are certain eye drops that can frequently control the situation if they are taken regularly. If they do not work, an operation may have to be performed. The greatest help in treating glaucoma is early detection of the disease.

Diabetes is another disease in which early detection can be very important in preventing or cutting down on the damage it does to the body. Anyone, and especially a person who knows there is diabetes in his family, should watch out for suspicious symptoms such as excessive hunger and thirst with frequent and copious urination, loss of weight, itching of the skin and perhaps crops of boils. Any child who, after learning to keep his bed dry at night, goes back to wetting it, may be diabetic.

In the screening programs mentioned, public health nurses played a valuable role. After the persons with suspicion of disease were found, the nurses made sure that each person followed up the tests with a visit to a physician; they also gave these persons information about diabetes or glaucoma. The Disease Detection Information Bureau is at 3553 West Peterson Ave., Chicago, Ill. 60645.

HELP FOR HARD-OF-HEARING PERSONS

I was interested to see in the Volta Review, a journal geared to helping persons with hearing difficulties, that the Alexander Graham Bell Telephone Company has developed a receiver into which is built a volume-control dial. The user can turn it up until he makes the voice that is coming through the telephone as loud as he needs it. This could be a great help to many hard-of-hearing persons.

A NEW TREATMENT FOR BRITTLE BONE DISEASE

There are some people who are born with a rare disease which causes their bones to be so brittle that even simple activities, such as turning out in bed or bumping into a chair, can cause them to break a bone.

In some of these cases, the person has to spend his life in bed. Even stepping out or putting on his shoes can break a bone! Now I read that Dr. E. J. Eyring of Ohio State University in Columbus, Ohio, has found that big doses of vitamin C will greatly reduce the brittleness of bones. One of his patients, a nine-year-old boy, had had 56 broken bones during his short lifetime, but during the year when he was taking the vitamin C he had only one broken bone.

Dr. Alvarez' booklet, "Diabetes Which Appears in Middle or Late Life," is available to you. If you would like a copy send 25 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope along with your request for it to Dr. Walter C. Alvarez, Dept. CCC, Box 957, Des Moines, Iowa 50304.

LOTS OF HOT AIR was of the essence during the balloon breaking contest, sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce during Cass City's Sidewalk Days.

ONE LITTLE GIRL was temporarily shut out in the mad scramble for pennies given away during Sidewalk Days. But before the contest was over most youngsters found enough pennies for a treat in the Chamber sponsored event.

JIM HANBY, left, and Tim Fahrner demonstrate their watermelon eating techniques that won them $5 during Cass City Sidewalk Days. A $25 drawing was won by Mrs. William Zimba. Both events were sponsored by the Cass City Chamber of Commerce.

Gun safety class offered by Gun Club

A meeting to set up a hunter's safety course is set for Tuesday, July 27, at 6:30 p. m. at the Cass City Gun Club.

A new Michigan law states that all those applying for a hunting license this fall must pass a hunter's safety course if they have never applied for a license before.

The purpose of the course is to teach safe handling of fire arms and ammunition.

There is a small fee that goes to the state for the course, and a certificate is granted upon completion.

The club is located 4 miles south on Cemetery Road, 1 mile east on Severance Road and 1/4 mile north on Englehart Road.

Sparkling wire ignites grass

A small grass fire was started Friday, July 16, when an electrical wire dropped to the ground in a vacant lot across from 4333 Ale St.

A passing motorist, Cecil Wells, spotted the wire burning and stopped to get help from Clark Helwig, 4333 Ale St.

Firemen were called to the scene, but Wells and Helwig had put out the fire by the time they arrived. No apparent reason could be given for why the wire started burning.

Arraign 3 in district court Monday

Several area persons were arraigned in District Court Monday before Judge Richard Kern.

George Frank Wright, 42, of 386 Forde Rd., Deford, waived his right to a jury trial. He was arrested in Kingston Monday on an assault and battery charge.

Edward Arthur Wendell, 22, Shabbona Rd., Cass City, was arrested Saturday for being drunk and disorderly. He was fined $50 and paid costs of $19.

Joseph Patrick Rinke, 21, of 3446 Sixth St., Owendale, was arrested in Cass City Friday for driving under the influence of alcohol. He was fined $85 and paid costs of $54.

Record crowd enjoys 3-day Gagetown field day

IN THE HOT seat is Paul Hunter doing his bit for the Gagetown Firemen at the annual field day. He's ready for the fall. . . .

AND IT wasn't long in coming as someone hit the bull's eye and he starts his quick descent into the tank of water below. . . .

CAREFUL NOW the water's cold and it's wet. . . .

A LITTLE SOAKED but ready for more. After all the first time is the worst. After that it's all down hill. The dunk booth was one of the most popular of the three-day event.

The annual Gagetown Firemen's Field Day was held this past week end amid a carnival atmosphere and a marathon bluper ball tournament.

According to Chuck Wright, fire chief, the 3-day event had one of the biggest turnouts yet. Approximately $600 was raised which will be used to purchase equipment for the 24-member force.

Wright noted that everyone who helped made the Field Day so successful.

Booths were operated by the Owendale Lions Club, the Athletic Club, the Gagetown Women's Club, St. Agatha's Catholic Church, the Junior Woman's Club and the Gagetown Firemen, with rides for the children.

The biggest event of the Field Day was the bluper ball tournament.

Sixteen teams competed for the championship through elimination play. Sebewaing eventually won the tournament by defeating Pigeon, 8-7, in the last game of play Sunday night.

The bluper game is played similar to softball, with a 16-inch ball that is thrown at least 10 feet above the batter. The ball must strike a 20x40 home plate for a strike to be called.

Bluper ball is "an older gentleman's game," Doug Comment, athletic club member, said, although some team members were as young as 18-years-old.

Each team paid a $10 entry fee to cover the cost of equipment and trophies. Teams came from Elkton, Sebewaing, Mac Creek, Pinconning, Sheridan, Flint, Caseville, Colwood, Owendale, Gagetown, Pigeon and Bay Port.

Although Gagetown failed to win the bluper ball tournament the Gagetown firemen captured the water battle championship by defeating Owendale Saturday afternoon. It was the second year in a row that the Gagetown firemen secured the title under Chief Wright.

Ah, can you smell those steaks sizzling over that open fire? Or how about those juicy hamburgers? The corn on the cob should be done soon, too.

Cooking over a charcoal fire gives meats and other foods such a marvelous flavor, that we all look forward to summer outdoor cooking. Building the fire can be troublesome, though, so here are some tips for building a charcoal fire.

Tip 1: Start the fire one-half to one hour before you want to cook the food. The charcoal should look gray in the daytime or glow red at night, and there should be no flame.

Tip 2: Use the right amount of fuel. Twenty-five to 30 briquettes are enough for grilling hamburgers or hotdogs. Once the charcoal is gray, spread the briquettes apart so there is one inch of space between each piece.

Tip 3: Plan for a good draft. Charcoal burns from the bottom so there must be enough air for the fire to keep burning.

Tip 4: My favorite starter trick is to put 10-15 briquettes (for small fires) into an old coffee can. I squirt liquid starter into the can - about 5 or 6 good squirts. Then I put the can lid on and let it set for about 15 to 20 minutes. The charcoal absorbs the lighter fumes and burns very quickly when ready for use.

Tip 5: Be sure to pour water on any burning charcoal when you are done cooking.

Any unburned charcoal can be used again, so let the pieces dry thoroughly.

Pleasant cooking on your outdoor grill!

COMPETITION WAS fast and furious during the Gagetown Firemen's Field Day bluper ball tournament. Sebewaing won the 3-day event with an 8-7 decision over Pigeon in the title tilt.

to fill in the holes. If he is stopped he may call police to intervene.

The 4-H corral has not been used since early June when Harvey Kritzman pointed a shotgun at Seeley and told him to keep off his land. He claims the road belongs to him.

Seeley states he is not afraid of Kritzman, but stopped going because he doesn't want any kids hurt. He added that he doesn't understand why they can't use the road because Kritzman has never told him why except that he doesn't want them on his property.

The disputed road is about 1 1/2 miles south of Cass City and is the only access to the corral which the club has used for five years. It is also the road that leads to Kritzman's home.

The land was donated for club use by Dr. Edward Scollon. It cost the club $250 to build the corral, and the telephone company donated the poles valued at another $200, Seeley said.

Kritzman had been giving the club trouble since last fall about using the road. He has dumped gravel in the roadway and dug holes there to try to prevent use of the road.

The Tuscola County Road Commission, however, says Koch Road is a public road and ordered the county prosecutor to file an injunction against Kritzman for use of the road. The road was taken over by the county road system March 26, 1936, under authority of Act 130 of the Public Acts of 1931.

Maki filed the petition Tuesday, July 13, one day after the sentencing of Samuel Villarreal. The trial portion of the case was completed June 16 when Villarreal was found guilty of manslaughter.

Maki said earlier that he could not act on the injunction until after that case was done, although an assistant prosecuting attorney from Lansing was brought in to handle the case.

Seeley had not been notified of this action as of Thursday and said then he could not understand why the prosecutor could not take a little time to file a temporary injunction sooner.

Last year the Wranglers did very well at the fair, placing in every class and even taking home the reserve grand champion mare award.

This year they may not do so well, their leader said. Showing at halter and the showman-ship class won't be too bad, Seeley explained, but for the competition under saddle they need practice and lots of it. This they have not had this year.

The 350 x 220 foot corral off Koch Road can hold about 50 horses at a time. Whittaker's 150 x 100 foot corral can hold about 20 horses.

Seeley said the club is very grateful to the Whittakers for the use of the corral, but it just isn't the same, as well as being an inconvenience for the Whittakers.

In spite of the Wranglers' unfortunate plight, the fair this year promises to be bigger and better than last year, according to Walter Jackson, president of the Tuscola County Fair Association board of directors.

Opening day, Monday, Aug. 2, features a new treat. At 8 p.m. a country western show will begin, featuring comedian Jack Ripley, who is noted for his impersonation of Charlie Weaver. This is the first time in three years that this show, which will feature the Grand Old Opry type of music, has been at the fair.

Preceding the country western show will be the colt stakes. In six different races, two and three-year-old colts and fillies will compete for $12,000 in prize money. Post time is 6 o'clock.

Tuesday is Kid's Day, and youngsters under 12 will get rides on the midway at reduced prices. This year the Happyland Show is providing the entertainment.

A fun show for the kids begins at 1 p.m., and harness racing starts at 8:00 in the grandstand.

Wednesday dawns Horseman's Day, featuring a 12:30 horse gymkhana and 8 o'clock harness racing.

Senior citizens get free admission Thursday as part of Merchant's and Senior Citizen's Day. The afternoon grandstand is also free to senior citizens that day.

The 4-H and FFA livestock sale begins at 1:30 p.m., and harness racing starts at 2. At 7 p.m. the first night tractor pull that the fair has ever held will be the preliminaries to the state tractor pulling contest. The day's events will be capped with the crowning of the Tuscola County Bean Queen in a pageant at 8.

Farmer's Day on Friday will feature the state tractor pulling championship at the grandstand at 1 p.m. A demolition derby begins at 7:30.

A 9:30 a.m. pony pulling contest starts off Sportsman Day, Saturday, followed by a horse pulling contest at 1 p.m. Motorcycle practice and time trials begin at 5, with racing at the grandstand beginning at 8.

Gates open at 8 a.m. every day. General admission for adults is $.75. Children up to 12 years are admitted free every day, and those between 13 and 16 inclusive must pay a $.50 daily entrance fee.

There are more entries this year than last year, president Jackson said, especially in merchant displays and livestock. There have not been as many entries in crop production this year, probably due to the lack of rain which has ruined crops.

Nevertheless, Jackson said, they expect 50,000 people this year, 10,000 more than last year. About 15,000 exhibits will compete for $13,000 in premiums, and $25,000 will be awarded in the horse racing.

The fairground's office will open a week before the fair. Entries to exhibits such as hobbies, flowers, and handicraft will be accepted on a first come-first serve basis up to noon on Monday. Specific information can be obtained at the fair office, 678-2161.

Judging of horses begins at 8:30 a.m. Monday and continues at 8:30 a.m. Tuesday and Friday. Dairy cattle and sheep are judged Wednesday at 9 a.m. Beef cattle, swine, farm products, home canning and preservation, fine arts and handicraft, Christmas trees, needlecraft and bees and honey are judged on Tuesday.

Floriculture shows will be judged on Monday and Thursday.

3 appear before Judge Baguley on pot charge

Willie Andrew McQueen was given six months probation by Judge Norman A. Baguley and paid $200 fine and $300 costs Monday in Circuit Court on an assault and battery charge.

McQueen, of Detroit, was accused of assault with attempt to murder in the shooting of Ulysses Williams of Detroit Nov. 9, 1969.

The incident took place in Vassar county at the home of McQueen's ex-wife, Williams received a wound in the right side which hospitalized him for two weeks.

The case took so long because a long adjournment was requested by McQueen's attorney, Theodore B. Sallen, while McQueen was undergoing psychiatric testing. McQueen had stood mute at his Jan. 19, 1970, arraignment, and a plea of not guilty was entered for him.

Two youths were sentenced for the possession of marijuana. They each received 24 months' probation, a $200 fine, costs of $200 and 30 days in the Tuscola county jail, with three days' credit.

They are Robert John Burkowski of 168 Maple St., Vassar, and Michael Frank Buchanan of 227 Division St., Vassar.

The offense occurred April 17 when they were sitting in a car parked in the parking area of the Halfway Truck Stop in Vassar.

A Michigan State Trooper stopped and requested identification of the young men. He saw a bottle under the seat of the car and arrested Burkowski as being a minor in possession of intoxicants. The bottle contained wine.

When asked to get out of the car some objects fell to the ground that were identified as marijuana.

Burkowski's jail sentence will begin Aug. 2.

Robert A. Kabat of 1884 S. Reese Road, Reese, was arraigned for possession of marijuana also, but sentencing is to be Aug. 16.

Kabat was arrested May 3 in Indianfields township for driving without a license, but the charge was changed when police found marijuana in his pockets.

All-Events Day set July 28

Area youths will have an opportunity to show their athletic prowess when the Cass City Recreational program sponsors an All-Events Day Wednesday, July 28, at the park from 1 p. m. to 4 p. m.

Competition will be broken down into three age groups for boys and girls, eight and under; nine through 12, and 13 through 16 years of age.

A softball, football, frisbee and free throw will be held as well as three-legged races, sack races, block races, standing broad jumps, balloon tosses and penny scrambles.

Following the park activities, a penny dive, races and a greased watermelon battle will take place in the pool. Ribbons for the winners in all three age groups will be presented.

A treasure hunt will be held for all children 12 and under Thursday, July 22, at the Campbell Elementary gymnasium at 2 p. m. Prizes will be awarded to those who successfully complete the hunt.

Because of the interest shown, bike tours for women will be held every Wednesday at 6:45 p. m. Women are asked to meet at the bike racks at the pool.

Fishermen planning to compete in the Cass City recreational program's fishing contest are asked to turn in their entry blanks at the pool.

4 teams still in race for Church loop title

The Cass City Church League is staging one of the closest races in years with three teams very much in the running for the championship and a fourth with an outside chance of winning it all.

The three front runners, Deford, Catholics and Snover, have each lost just one game. Deford retains an edge as they have won six while their two closest rivals have won only four times.

The Catholics scored a big victory in the first game of the week Monday, July 12, as they knocked off previously undefeated Deford, 5-3.

John Maharg bested Gary Kelley for the win.

Phil Gray knocked in four runs with two hits and Clark Erla chipped in a run-scoring double.

The game was even closer than the final score indicated as the winners were forced to go eight innings when they scored three times for the victory.

In the second game, Novesta Church of Christ bounced back to score a 9-7 win with Don Englehart. Losing pitcher was Leland Hirsch. Tom Kolb and Englehart each had two hits for the winners.

Tuesday, July 13, the opening game was close all the way as Snover stayed in the title chase with a 6-4 decision over Colwood. Gene Dorman bested Bob Smith. Don Smith slammed a home run and was the game's leading hitter.

In the nightcap, the fast improving Cass City Methodists hammered out a 20-5 win over Ellington. Eldon Stoutenburg chalked up another victory for the Methodists while Mark Lewis took the loss.

The Lutherans were unable to solve the slants of Gary Mellendorf and bowed to the Baptists, 3-0. Nelson Willy was the victim of poor hitting support.

Arthur Mellendorf and Steve Wells each collected two hits and Glen Mellendorf made two good catches in the outfield. Gary Mellendorf pitched a one-hitter.

In the second game Missionary-RLDS scored an 11-9 decision over Owen-Gage. Gary DeVore was the loser and Rinerd Schember took the win. Dave Schember smashed a home run while Marvin Irer had four hits in four tries.

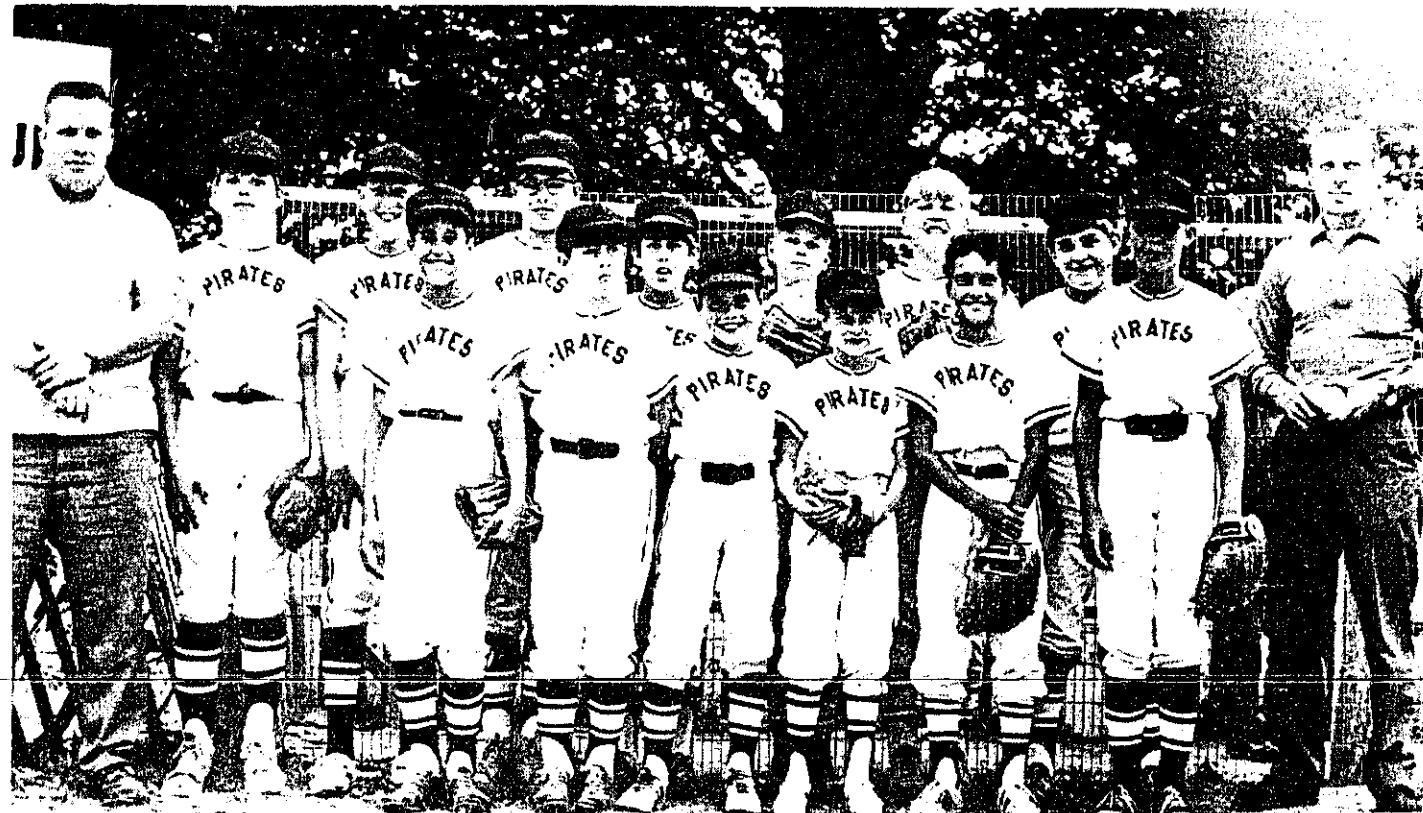

Friday the Methodists outslugged the Shabbonans, 11-9.

Stoutenburg won another for the Methodists while Lee Hirsch was the loser. Rick Lorentzen was three for three and Mike Murphy collected three hits in four tries.

In the second game, Deford got back on the winning track with a 6-0 decision over Church of Christ. Gary Kelley pitched the shutout and Don Englehart took the loss. Len Truce and Louie Tibbitts were the leading hitters for the winners while Lee Hartel slammed a double for the losers. Kelley struck out seven.

cards Caro,

Marlette meets

Competition for Cass City's swim team swings into high gear with two meets scheduled. The first was to have been held Wednesday evening against Caro and the second, Monday against Marlette. Both meets start at 6:30 p. m.

The Marlette meet will be a return match. Earlier the swim team played at Marlette and was defeated.

An incomplete report of the previous Marlette meet was published last week. Other winners for Cass City against Marlette were:

Tim Stickle, Cass City's big point winner, with a first in diving with a total of 156.7 points. Stickle's two dives were a front 1 1/2 tuck position and a back somersault in layout position.

Randy Brown, third in diving with 132.6 points. He did a front 1 1/2 tuck and a front layout dive.

Norm McQueen of Caro took the barrel bending in a winning time of 15.3 seconds. Monty Montel of Fairgrove took second and Gamet took third.

Montel won the cloverleaf race in 21 seconds, with McQueen second and Peasley third.

Hunt won the balloon busting, with Lindsay Karpovich second and Peasley third.

Karpovich won the catalog race, where riders must ride a certain distance and find the right page in a catalog, in 32.1 seconds. Scott Altizer of Caro took second and Gamet third.

The tire race, in which contestants must crawl through a tire and remount their horse, was won by Hunt, with Altizer second and McQueen third.

But Peasley of Deford won the pony under harness, and George Czekal of Cass City placed second.

Scott and Lee Altizer won the pick up race, with Hunt and Don Gamet coming in second. Chuck and Ray Peasley took third.

Musical barrels was won by Hunt, with Dennis Gamet second and Lee Altizer third.

Forest Lobdell won the boot scramble. Jim Altizer came in second and Hunt third.

Ken Monroe took the bareback wrestle, with Jim Altizer second and Rose Gamet of Caro third.

SUN SHADES

For keeping away the sun fashionably, Joanna Western Mills has developed a translucent stock window shade called "Sunhex" that lets in filtered light to flatter any room.

Pirates cop Little League play-off crown

The Pirates, runners-up in the regular season, swept through the play-offs to cop the post season classic trophy with a pair of victories.

The Pirates drew a bye in the first round action and then mopped up on the Orioles and the Cubs to take the title.

In the first game the Orioles played the Pirates to the wire before bowing, 5-4.

Bob Pena continued his heavy sticking as he slammed a three-run homer and a double. But the Pirates turned walks and timely hits into enough runs to win.

Meanwhile the Cubs outlasted the Tigers who won their opening tournament game with the Giants to set the stage for the championship game.

The Pirates won in a slugfest, 14-10, to claim the title.

Erla's to face strong Mayville

Erla's played just one game last week and posted an easy victory over Sebewang Log Cabin, 9-1.

Al Bosch coasted to victory as he allowed four hits and struck out 11 while his teammates were backing him with a 10-hit attack.

Big stickers for the Foodmen were Gene Mazure with three hits in four tries, including a triple and double, and Hillaker with a home run in three official trips.

Erla's have only one game scheduled this week. Saturday, July 24, they will meet a good Mayville nine in what figures to be a close game.
