Council shelves plan for park beer pending March 1972 advisory vote

Plans for selling beer at the park were temporarily shelved Tuesday night after an orderly meeting in which representatives of the pro and anti-beer forces crowded the council chambers at the Municipal Building for the regular meeting of the Cass City Village Council.

An estimated 25 persons jammed the small room to capacity and President Lambert Althaver opened the meeting to a general discussion.

Jack McDaniel, a spokesman for the Elkland Township Firemen, Rotary, Lions and Gavel Club, outlined plans for the Western Round-up Ox Roast Aug. 14 and said that the clubs favored selling beer as one way of helping defray expenses for the day-long event.

Pastors from the Methodist, Cass City Missionary and Baptist churches were the chief spokesmen for the groups requesting that no sale of liquor be allowed in the park.

Possibly the most telling argument for the "dry" forces was a petition submitted by the Rev. Lloyd Streeter, pastor of the First Baptist Church, which he told the council contained some 400 names of persons who were against sale of liquor in the park.

The drys asked that beer not be allowed in the park and requested a referendum to see what the majority desire.

Althaver pointed out that the council had the authority to grant permission or not to grant permission for the sale under the law and that it was not necessary to submit the proposition to a vote.

Trustee Dr. D. E. Rawson said that the change in the ordinance was necessary for the council to have control. Under the old ordinance, he said, the village had no law that would stand up in court.

He also said that the community was changing in its outlook towards the sale of liquor and cited the recent referendum authorizing the sale of liquor by the glass as a symptom of the change.

Supt. James Blades pointed out that there would be three check point controls if beer had been authorized in the park and Bill Wallace pointed out that beer was sold in Gagetown at an ox roast without trouble.

After the question was thoroughly aired, Althaver said that he only voted in case of a tie but to put his opinion on the record he said he favored a referendum at a later point to get the true pulse of public sentiment.

Trustee Rawson made the motion to delay the granting of permits and it was seconded by Mrs. Gladys Albee. It passed by voice vote.

Discussion indicated that a referendum will be held over the matter and the date selected by the council was the next regular village election in March 1972. Meanwhile the sale of beer will not be allowed.

Ed Bergman, chairman for the Western Round-up, said that the decision to ban beer will not affect plans for the gala day at the park Aug. 14.

Pastor J. E. Kidney, one of the dry spokesmen, applauded the efforts of the service clubs and pledged support of the project.

ONE BID

Other than the discussion over liquor in the park it was a quiet council session. The council's request for bids for blacktop of Oak Street, from Main to Garfield, and Church Street, east from Seeger, was answered by only one concern, Frank Strousberg and Sons. The firm's bid of $9.85 per ton for an estimated 1,800 tons of blacktop was accepted.

The council had also advertised for bids for curb and gutter on Garfield Street. While one bid was received for blacktop, none was received for the curb work.

The council will ask again for bids and open them (if any) at the August meeting of the council.

OTHER BUSINESS

Supt. Blades revealed to the council that the street sweeper was too old to be serviceable and suggested that the council consider a new unit in next year's budget.

John Little appeared before the council to talk about his sewage disposal system.

Blades reported that the long awaited zoning and building codes final drafts will be presented to Vilican-Lehman Associates and machinery for enactment started after final review.

INTERESTED residents crowded into the Council's chambers Tuesday night to hear the question of beer at the park aired.

Council sees editorializing in beer story

An off-snoot of the squabble about the sale of liquor at the park was a charge of editorializing of the news by the Chronicle.

Mrs. Gladys Albee said that the council was misrepresented by the original beer story that appeared in the Chronicle's July 1 edition.

Trustee Dr. D. E. Rawson said that the Chronicle was guilty of florid journalism.

In an informal session following the regular meeting, Dr. Rawson said his objection was editorializing in the news.

President Lambert Althaver said that he felt that the word booze had a negative connotation.

Mrs. Albee took issue with the part of the story that previously appeared in the Chronicle that said that "trustees okayed the sale of beer in the Cass City Recreational Park . . ." The story continued by saying, "the council did place restrictions on the sale or use of alcoholic beverages. It can be sold by a group only after written application has been received and okayed by the council."

Another part of the story said "to allow the sale the council approved an amendment to ordinance 48 that prohibited this sale."

The council felt that the story intimated that permission to sell beer at the park had already been granted.

The council pointed out (correctly) that the story did not outline that there was a need for a revision of ordinance 48 to put teeth in it for law enforcement officials.

The change in the law was spurred by a request by the service clubs to sell beer. The ordinance change discussion followed this request.

If the ordinance amendment had been delayed for a month, the law change would have come too late to make it possible to sell beer in the park Aug. 14.

The basic law was changed in the July meeting, but it would have been impossible to grant any beer sale permit until it went into effect

Wheat crop 90% harvested, yields down

The lack of rain, which has caused some southern counties to be named disaster areas, has taken its toll among local wheat producers.

Wheat yields are down all over the county this year. The kernels of wheat just couldn't fill out because of the lack of moisture, said Bill Bortel, county extension agent.

Local grain elevators report the smaller yields, too.

Bob Wischmeyer of Michigan Bean Elevator in Cass City said that with about 90% of the crop in, they're getting anywhere from 23 to 60 bushels per acre, with an average of about 40-45.

J. P. Burroughs Elevator in Gagetown reported an average of 40 bushels per acre, according to Frank Schott.

In a normal year the average yield is between 50 and 60, averaging about 55 bushels.

The rest of the crops will probably go the same way because of the lack of rain. The few showers in the past week have come too late to help most of the crops.

Bulletin

Harvey Kritzman was confirmed owner of the road to his home Wednesday morning in a Tuscola County Circuit Court hearing.

The temporary injunction was dissolved.

The road has been in dispute by the Wrangler's Club.

FROM THE

Editor's Corner

This is the story of a guy in Tuscola county. It's not a very pretty story and the chances are that it will have an unhappy ending.

We'll call him Joe (not his real name) and his story is important.

Important to him and to you. Joe is 17 years old and he's been involved in scrapes with the law. . .several of them.

The most recent is a charge of driving away a vehicle. On the face of it Joe is headed down a one-way street as a burden on society at best and a lifetime in prison at worst.

It's important to understand that Joe is no ding-a-ling. He's not dumb. In areas that interest him he's shown aptitude and the concensus of knowledgeable persons is that he could make a living as a mechanic or similar trade. He's a nice average looking young man.

Joe's parents are dead. He has been cared for in homes where his first thought has been to get away. His most recent brush with the law was for allegedly stealing the vehicle that could carry him from his court appointed guardian.

Joe has a 15-year-old brother he wanted to take with him as he fled from his troubles. His brother is really all he has.

His most recent foster home is not his first and he's been kicked around from home to home for several years and his schooling has suffered. None of the homes has filled the basic need.

Joe's in very real danger of never finishing school and of acquiring a record as a felon. In short, of placing himself in a position of never being able to get or hold a job.

I learned of Joe through a court official who told me about him in hopes that I might care enough or know someone who cares enough to give Joe and his brother a home and an environment that would give them both a chance.

We just can't afford to turn our backs on these people, my informant said, as he went on to say that cases like Joe's occur with disheartening regularity right here in Tuscola county and the Thumb.

Most of them slide by and no one but the official in charge knows what has happened.

But Joe may have been lucky. His case landed in the hands of someone who does care and is trying to help. A guy who cares enough to give serious consideration to opening his home to the youths only to be forced off by circumstances that are valid and compelling.

I suspect that the reason the story was related to me was the hope that maybe I was one that would give Joe and his brother a helping hand.

I copped out for reasons I feel are good but may be merely excuses.

It's always easier to find reasons why you can't than why you can.

Certainly what's needed is no small thing. It requires a large commitment by someone with a very large heart.

Its only reward will be possibly saving two young men who are going downhill on a greased slide. Even a large dose of concerned care might not stop it. And the guy who tries gets no guarantees.

Nothing's certain about this whole affair except that Joe and his brother are in dire need.

If you feel you'd like to learn more tell us and we'll tell the proper people.

Maybe Joe's story doesn't have to have an unhappy ending?

Fire destroys house leaving family of 10 homeless

A 10-member Colwood family was left homeless as a result of a fire that swept through their home late Monday afternoon.

The Harvey McCreedy family, of 2680 Dickerson Rd., a mile east of Colwood, watched as firemen tried to contain the blaze that completely gutted the two story, gray shingled home.

Faulty electrical wiring apparently started the blaze which was discovered in the basement by Tim McCreedy, 10.

Tim told Caro Fire Chief James Stapleton that the wires all around the furnace were on fire, setting off the blaze.

Caro's fire department answered the call at 4:30 p. m. Once at the scene they immediately put in an assist call to Elkland Township and Gagetown Fire Departments.

Around 20 volunteer firemen battled the fire for more than two hours, but their efforts were fruitless as flames and smoke bellowed from the house, fanned by brisk winds.

At several moments during the blaze, flames shot through the roof and sides of the home.

Firemen crawled through windows to drench the fire and attempted to chop away sections of the roof and siding to further their efforts in extinguishing the fire.

Some 10,000 gallons of water were brought in to fight the fire as spectators and cars lined Dickerson Road for a half mile.

McCreedy said that few family possessions could be saved because the smoke was just too bad, forcing the family outside.

Several of the boys had run and got buckets of water to put out the fire when it was first discovered, but it created too much smoke and began to choke them.

McCreedy said he grabbed his five-year-old daughter and took her outside. By that time the fire had spread out of control and they couldn't re-enter the home.

Mrs. McCreedy heard of the news from a hospital bed in Hills and Dales where she is recovering from surgery.

Efforts by neighbors, friends and relatives to supply the family with clothes and food have been made. The nine family members presently at home have been divided among friends and relatives until other arrangements can be made.

McCreedy said, "I've got friends I didn't even know I had," appreciating their generosity and help.

The family had lived in the 80-year-old house for about 10 years. The house and its contents were insured for $12,000, McCreedy said.

FIREMEN FIGHT the raging blaze that gutted a rural Colwood home Monday afternoon, leaving 10 persons homeless. Volunteer firemen from Elkland and Elmwood Townships were called to assist the Caro fire department in battling the fire.

Jaycees to form; members invited

Young men of Cass City voted last Thursday evening to organize a Jaycee chapter in the village.

At a special meeting in the old library, attended by over ten men, it was decided to complete organizational plans for the new group immediately and start arrangements for affiliation with the state and The United States Jaycees. The new chapter already has over 20 members and has initiated two projects to begin its community development program. New "Welcome to Cass City" village entrance signs will be proposed to the proper authorities in the near future. Also approved were plans to participate in the Western Round-up festival Aug. 14 by operating a hot dog stand on the midway during the festival day.

Other business conducted was the election of temporary officers who will serve until formal elections take place sometime next month. Those selected were James Blades, chairman; Jack McDaniel, secretary, and Douglas Wilson, treasurer.

The chapter will meet at 8:30 p. m. Thursday, July 29, at the old library. Chairman Blades issued an open invitation to all young men to attend the meeting. Blades said: "We feel that every Cass City young man can benefit from membership with the Jaycees. It gives us a means of improving ourselves and our community."

Any interested young man can get more details or free transportation to the next meeting by calling Ray Pranger at 872-4098.

Skunk coats out, skunks in—a smelly problem

By PAT DROUIN

Because skunk coats are out, skunks are in.

The abundance of skunks in the area has caused some particularly "smelly problems" for local residents.

These most adequately endowed creatures of mother nature delicately leave their calling cards on the family dog, occasionally on the family dog's owner and along the highway for the benefit of those who missed the full impact.

According to the Michigan Department of Conservation, the influx of skunks is only due to inflation.

Skunks and their flavored furs are no longer trapped for spending money as they once were by children during the depression.

The fur of the skunk is deep, rich and glossy which makes a strong durable leather when dressed, but is no longer considered one of the more prominent furs by the fashion elite.

With the increase in skunks, the tomato juice canning companies have experienced a marked rise in sales.

Tomato juice is considered one of the better methods to remove this harmless creature's strong body odor.

For the more adventurous soul, skunk meat is considered white, tender and sweet, provided care is used in preparation to avoid the taint from the scent glands.

It is unlikely the meat will make the menus of the area's restaurants, but skunk steak might raise a few eyebrows.

Pet lovers might find the skunk an irresistible family pet, but prospective pet skunk lovers should be warned that it is unlawful to possess live skunks taken from the wild.

The skunks can be "deodorized" but because they can carry raties they have yet to make the most wanted pet list.

If one should happen to come nose to tail with a skunk, it is best to let the skunk alone. He is considered one of the gentlest and most inoffensive creatures and obviously has the "upper tail."

If his patience should be riled, the skunk will stomp his feet and raise his tail. Unless the white tip comes up, his enemy might be spared, but once the tip is in motion it's "bombs away."

Although their numbers have increased and they do present some smelly problems, a skunk basically is a good friend. A large part of his diet is made up of mice and harmful insects.

For those interested in helping a friend, they just might try leaving a can of Right Guard on the steps for a passing skunk. Maybe he'll take the hint. Or better still, free circulars on skunks, their good points and how to handle the bad ones, are available from the Michigan Department of Conservation - minus the smell.

Village 'finds' new park site on river

The village of Cass City owns a park that it never knew it had.

The land fronts along the Cass River, running for some 700 feet west of the railroad bridge and is directly across from the village's waste treatment plant.

The land that Supt. James Blades discovered is owned by the village, fronts on the south side of the river and gives the village control of the 700 feet on both sides of the river.

Blades said that Neighborhood Youth Corps workers had been cleaning up the area to make it a primitive park area.

"It's quite nice," he added, "you should all go and see it when you have time."

Small world department. While fishing in one of the more remote sections of the Jordan River Saturday a car drove by, stopped and out jumped a passenger. It proved to be Dale Turner, formerly of Decker, now a preacher in East Jordan.

Turner preached his first sermon in East Jordan after chucking a farm career to enter the ministry. He appeared brimming with contentment and reported that he's entered an all new world filled with wonderful people at his pastorate.

I hope you'll notice the questionnaire about the Chronicle in the paper this week and take the time to fill it out.

Like the ad says we want to offer you the stuff you like to read and this is the way we hope to learn what it is. It will only be meaningful if enough of you do us the favor of filling out the form and getting it back to us.

Does time fleet by faster as you grow older? It seems to me that summer just has started and boom it's time to start the fall schedule again.

Maybe one reason why the summer has gone in a twinkling is because I've never had it so good at the office.

Over the years, I've been grateful if there has been one writer in the office to help out. . . .this summer I have two. . . . Kit McMillion and Pat Drouin.

Believe me it's wonderful. Deadline time comes and it's almost like any other day of the week. No sweat, no pain.

Time flies when you are busy, they say. It races with jet speed when you have the talent around to take most of the working load off your back.

This summer I know how it feels to be a publisher. A publisher is supposed to be the guy that owns the paper and spends his time directing the activities of the people who do the work.

That's me this summer.

Ron Crandell, a Senior at Cass City High School, is getting an education this summer at Mackinaw. He's opened a gift and antique store there which he'll run through the tourist season.

There has been no report on whether or not he's lost money, made money or merely paid expenses.

Regardless, he'll come back richer than when he left.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert King

Miss Sherry Whittaker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Whittaker of Cass City, became the bride of Robert King, son of Mrs. Vera King of Cass City and William King of Lexington, Mich., in a 4 p. m. ceremony at the Cass City Missionary Church Saturday, July 10.

The Rev. Joseph Polmounter, uncle of the bride, and the Rev. James Kidney, pastor, officiated the ceremony in a church decorated by candelabra and baskets of blue and white flowers with blue and white bows on the pew.

The bride chose a gown of satin-peau and Swiss lace with long bishop sleeves, wide cuffs edged in lace and a high mandarin collar. Matching lace also highlighted the bodice, Empire waist and edged the hem of her gown and chapel length train. Her silk illusion veil was secured by a cap of lace and pearls. Serving as her matron of honor was Mrs. Kathy Gulds, cousin of the bride, of Cass City. Kimberly McClure, cousin of the bride, of Flint, was flower girl. She was dressed identical to the other attendants and dropped rose petals.

Larry Whittaker, brother of the bride, and Larry and Jerry King, brothers of the groom, were ushers. Ring bearer was Edward Larson from Lapeer.

The bride's mother selected a light aqua dress trimmed in navy blue with navy accessories. The mother of the groom wore a light blue dress with white accessories.

Organist for the wedding was Mrs. Robert Titus with Sally Whittaker, cousin of the bride, as soloist. Miss Whittaker sang More, We've Only Just Begun, and The Lord's Prayer.

Following the wedding a lawn reception and buffet dinner was held at the bride and groom's new home at 6730 Pine St. in Cass City for 300 guests.

The bride is a recent graduate of Howard's Bay City Beauty College and the groom is employed at Hills and Dales Hospital.

"If It Fitz. . ."

I got no culture

BY JIM FITZGERALD

Only one thing bugs me about driving to Detroit to see the Tigers or ogle the go-go girls: I can't get there without passing by Oakland University where they have the Meadow Brook Music Festival every summer.

"We have got to go to that festival sometime," my wife always says. "Sixten Ehrling is conducting the Detroit Symphony orchestra next Sunday, with Pinchas Zukerman on the violin."

"Yeah, we really gotta," I say. But, deep in my beer-can heart, I know it can never happen.

Wrong. It happened. An invitation came from Donald O'Dowd, president of Oakland University. He wanted my wife and me to join him for cocktails and dinner at his home, after which we would all go to the concert.

"I think it's time we got some of that culture," I told my wife.

"You just can't resist the free booze and food," she said.

I don't know how I ever married a dame with so little couth.

Anyway, that Sunday, after watching the Tigers blow one in the 10th to the lousy Senators on TV, we were off to Oakland U. in search of culture.

President O'Dowd appears amazingly young to be head of a large university. "You don't look a day over Sixten," I said, chuckling at my clever use of a pun to demonstrate that I knew the name of the band leader.

My wife nudged me gently, spilling my drink. "Sixten Ehrling is not conducting tonight; Arthur Fiedler is," she whispered in my ear as I licked my gin off the table.

This set me to thumbing through a brochure which listed all Meadow Brook attractions for 1971. She was right. Fiedler was waving the baton that night. A few days later, Andre Previn was taking over, and then Mitch Miller, followed by Skitch Henderson. Sixten was also scheduled several more times.

What surprised me was that all these guys lead Sixten's orchestra – the Detroit Symphony.

"You mean guys like Previn and Fiedler don't have their own groups? They just come into town with a little stick and take over some other guy's band?" I asked my wife.

"Lick your gin," she answered.

"Major League baseball should look into this idea. They could station 2 teams permanently in each city. Only the managers would travel around, taking turns managing each team against each other. They'd save millions in transportation costs," I said. "And managers are as important to baseball teams as conductors are to orchestras. If changing leaders can make the same violinists and horn blowers sound different, why wouldn't switching managers improve a 3rd baseman's throw to first?"

"Quiet," my wife said, "someone might hear you. Any idiot knows that different conductors conduct different types of music and that's what makes the same orchestras sound different."

"At $5 a seat, it smells gypy to me. These traveling conductors are only in town for a day or so. The musicians read every note off the sheets. The conductor could mail them his orchestrations and it wouldn't make any difference who waved the stick," I said. "Did Glenn Miller lead Tommy Dorsey's band? No. They all traveled from town to town in buses, with Betty Grable singing in the last seat."

Our discussion ended when the music began. And my wife gave me a triumphant look every time she caught me tapping my foot to Arthur Fiedler's pop tunes.

"You did enjoy it, didn't you?" she insisted as we headed back home.

"Yes," I admitted, "but I would have enjoyed it more if the Tigers had won today."

"You just ain't got no culture," she said.

ONE FOR THE ROAD

Radio put-on pays off

By Dan Marlowe

A young, blond ex-Texas disc jockey bought a small, 250-watt, low-power radio station in Miami a few years ago, and the listening habits of the area have never been the same since.

Unable to fill all the available spot commercial time when he first took over the station, the new owner decided to kill two birds with one stone by creating instant "commercials" himself which would startle listeners and make them aware of the radio station.

A typical sample is the following:

"Men, are you at that difficult age between 18 and 40, dissatisfied with the present, uncertain of the future? Then consider the advantage of a military career. Face the future with confidence as a paid member of the French Foreign Legion. Beginning pay starts at 3240 francs per month and you can earn extra by qualifying for the camel corps. And here is special news: If you are currently out on bail or have reason to know that you are wanted by the law, the legion has a place for you."

Delivered in radio's usual well-modulated and completely dead-pan voice, commercials such as the above bring listeners to a dead halt in whatever they happen to be doing. They produce mass double-takes as people try to assess whether they really heard what they thought they heard. And they produce telephone calls to the station to find out. Moreover, people keep listening.

When the legion ploy played out, another commercial advertised the wonderful opportunities to sublet a room with a fabulous view of San Francisco Bay. The last line of the commercial gave an address to be contacted--Alcatraz Island.

Following that listeners heard what sounded at the outset like an ordinary commercial but wound up as an invitation to join a platypus-watching society in the Australian outback. Then the station started plugging a mythical "sister" station situated in Moosejaw, Saskatchewan, which always broadcast the scores of the Canadian Professional Football League's Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

Or consider this "commercial" for alfresco living:

"Summer is just around the corner and you're probably making plans now for festive parties around your swimming pool. To make these parties the talk of the neighborhood, plan now to have a shark in your pool. Imagine the surprise on the faces of your friends frolicking in the water when they see that gray fin slicing the surface near them. These handsome little fellows will grow to 12 feet long and 200 pounds in weight. For the most riotous pool parties ever, slip a shark into your pool."

Still another waggish approach advertises the pleasures of shopping in Djibouti, French Somalililand, and other nearby resorts of the Red Sea, stressing the "refreshing" changes of temperature from 124 in the daytime to the low 40's at night.

"We try to come up with something logical-sounding but not quite probable," the new station owner says.

He must be doing something right.

Advertising revenue was up 300% during his first year of operation.

Perfectly planned picnics provide pleasant, peaceful panaceas for problem plagued people! Right? Picnics do require some special planning, however, so here are some ideas.

Be sure to keep cold foods cold. If you take salads made with salad dressings, cream pies, deviled eggs, or poultry products, be extra careful to keep them well cooled. They spoil easily, and you may get sick. If you do not have a cooler, line a metal case with ice. Cover the ice with wet newspapers. Put the dish of food in and cover tightly.

Put hot foods in a casserole. Wrap the dish in aluminum foil then in newspapers. It will stay hot for a long time this way.

Sandwiches can be made the night before, but you must be careful to butter the bread well before adding the filling. Wrap each sandwich in heavy waxed paper. Place on a tray or plate and cover with a damp towel and heavy foil. Refrigerate.

Cold fruit, like melons, will stay cool 2 or 3 hours if you wrap them in foil, then wrap thickly in newspapers.

Don't forget paper napkins, salt and pepper, forks, knives and spoons. Pack wet washcloths in a plastic bag for cleaning hands and faces.

No picnic is over until the place is as clean, or cleaner, than you found it. Dispose of papers and leftover food when cans are provided; otherwise, take them home.

Have fun.

Cass City—Look out

By Kit McMillion

I have come from a strange and distant land to live in your city and since I've been pestering everyone in town the past couple of weeks, I imagine some of you are interested in who I am.

Actually, I come from Illinois where I lived in a small town no one has ever heard of called South Elgin. It's about 50 miles west of another little town called Chicago.

As a June graduate of the University of Illinois at Champaign-Urbana, I was getting pretty anxious because I was still unemployed and absolutely broke and there were only a couple of weeks of school left.

One day as I was rifling the mail I spied an innocent-looking brown paper envelope with "The Cass City Chronicle, Cass City, Michigan," written in the corner, and addressed to me!

I tore the thing open and jumped up and down for a full five minutes blubbering things to my roommate until she got me calmed down enough for me to tell her somebody wanted ME to work on their paper as a reporter.

I had never heard of Cass City, but after checking my Rand McNally road atlas, I assured myself that it really existed. I had no doubts that I wanted the job, so I cut the rest of my classes and wrote a reply saying I'd love to work for Mr. Haire and could start just as soon as he wanted me.

I sat around and twiddled my thumbs and did little things like take my final exams and waited. I waited for what seemed like eternity, but it was really only a little more than a week.

Finally, I got THE letter saying I had a job.

I jumped up and down some more and here I am.

And here I have been interrupting everyone else's business so I can do mine, which is probably the funnest part about journalism.

While I was at the sheriff's office in Caro last week finding out who did bad things and got caught at it, a very nice deputy that I was pestering about the funny initials they use as a code on the arrest records -- I was sure it was a secret code that I wasn't supposed to know about -- asked me where I was from and when I told him no, I didn't have people here and yes, I really was from Illinois, he raised his eyebrows and asked me how I ever came to get a job in Cass City.

Well, journalists always take care of their own and I was offered a free want ad in a newsman's newspaper which my eagle-eyed editor saw. And that's how I came to be here.

I got more and more apprehensive as me and my rented car came closer and closer to Cass City, but now that I've been here three weeks, I think I'll stay.

Meow.

Develop new kind of winter wheat

Ionia soft, white winter wheat is a new variety that tops Genesee in yield, has excellent milling quality and offers resistance to leaf rusts, powdery mildew and the "A" race of Hessian fly.

Michigan State University crop scientists developed this new variety especially for Michigan wheat growers, notes Bill Bortel, Tuscola county extension agent.

This is the first year of seed availability, and there is more Ionia seed than any other variety. About 4,000 acres of certified Ionia seed have been harvested.

Ionia is a Genesee-type wheat MSU scientists developed by back-crossing Genesee to a soft red winter wheat variety, Redcoat.

Ionia yielded an average of eight percent more than Genesee in 28 MSU tests in eight Michigan counties over five years. Where powdery mildew and leaf rust infections were high, the four lines which make up Ionia out-yielded Genesee by about 10 percent.

Tests by the USDA Regional Soft Wheat Quality Laboratory at Wooster, Ohio, and the Michigan State Miller's Association have shown that Ionia has the same high pastry quality of Genesee.

Ionia is the first release from MSU's comprehensive wheat breeding program. Efforts include improving milling quality, increasing insect resistance and developing hybrid wheat for increased yield.

Pvt. John Bulla completes basic

Private John A. Bulla, 17, recently completed eight weeks of basic training at the U. S. Army Training Center, Armor, Ft. Knox, Ky.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Bulla, 6777 Kelly Road, Cass City.

He received instruction in drill and ceremonies, weapons, map reading, combat tactics, military courtesy, military justice, first aid, and Army history and traditions.

Uncle Tim From Tyre Says:

Dear Mister Editor:

Pritty soon, allowed Ed Doolittle at the country store Saturday night, we'll be reclaiming all our garbage and trash, buying everthing with credit cards and gitting trading stamps in the deal, and the hole cycle of life will be repeating itself and nobody will know why. Ed was reporting to the fellers on this study he had saw about the ways waste material is being reused these days.

First off, said Ed, he was happy to announce that old newspapers can live agin as feed fer stock. A Maryland agriculture research center has found that you can grind up papers, mix in molasses and other stuff and feed it to cows. The cow eats the news, and folks that make the news eat the cows and the green grass grows round and round, was Ed's words.

Clem Webster took note that the Food and Drug Administration probable will find somepun wrong with this deal, special with feeding cows some of the news that the Guvernment finds hard to digest. Clem was talking about that top secret report The New York Times got a copy of and printed that told how we got trapped in Vitnam. The food and drug people fer shore would find that cows fed on them issues of The Times would give milk and meat unfit fer human use, Clem allowed.

But keeping on with his report, Ed said scientists is learning to recycle garbage in a lot of ways. Cans and bottles is being used to pave roads in Japan now, and work is being done to make "glassphalt" roads here. Ed allowed if we can git all the beer cans and soda pop bottles off the pavement, we'll have enuff road building material from now on.

New ways is being learned to git rid of waste and git a bonus fer our effort, Ed said. Fer instant, he said Palo Alto, California already is burning garbage in a new furnace, catching gas from the burning and using it to generate electricity. Farthermore, the city can burn the garbage fer $1 a ton, figgering the sale of the extry electricity.

In other cases, said Ed, glass and paper is being collected and turned into new glass and paper. And some plastic bottles is being made that will dissolve when they're throwed away, and some others can be burned easy.

Ed had some good news about clean air and water, but he said reports in this area was mixed. Fer instant, one scientist said they is as much oxygen in the air now as ever, but on the other hand he had saw this headline in a piece about air pollution, "He shot a arrow into the air, and it stuck."

But one of life's little mysteries, Mister Editor, still is who pays fer trading stamps. Ed had this clipping that reported the Bureau of Labor Statistics says trading stamps don't make no differunce in prices. Maybe they jest happen, like ants at a picnic.

Yours truly,
Uncle Tim

BETTER HEALTH

Cluster headaches explained

BY DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

I recently saw an excellent article on cluster headache, which is the name for a type of headache which for years was studied intensely at the Mayo Clinic by Dr. Bayrad Horton. It is often called Horton headache. Also it is sometimes called histamine headache, because it can be brought on by giving a person histamine (a common chemical in the body that has much to do with allergies) and it can sometimes be banished by desensitizing the person to histamine by giving him doses of increasing size.

The headache often comes in the early morning hours and is usually described as burning, knife-like or throbbing. Often it causes the suffering patient to wake up and to walk the floor in an agony until perhaps in a few hours the headache goes away.

In some ways, the headache makes one think of migraine, but it is decidedly different from classical migraine, which does not behave in that way at all. For one thing, in my experience with a few thousand sufferers, severe migraine is much more common in women; Horton's headache tends to attack men. Also, unlike migraine, the Horton headaches tend to appear in a series, perhaps every night for five or six weeks and then they may quit coming and may leave the patient alone for months or even years. During a spell of terrible headaches anything that causes dilation of the brain arteries, such as alcohol, nitroglycerin, or histamine, will make the pain more severe.

As with migraine, preparations of ergotamine may relieve the headache. Also, breathing oxygen may help. Often, however, during the worst part of an attack there is little that the doctor can do to relieve the agony. As I said, Dr. Horton used to desensitize the patients to histamine and this worked well for some of them. I read that there is a new treatment with a drug called BC-105, but I have no personal experience with the drug as yet, and it apparently is still in the experimental stage and is not yet available in a drugstore.

A GOOD WAY TO WORK

Sometimes, as one reads, he will run onto a thought that can be most helpful to him for the rest of his days. One such thought was given me years ago, by a friend of mine who spent a vacation of several weeks in the California Sierras. He told me that every day an old mountaineer used to wander over to watch him cutting wood. One day as he was sawing away violently the old mountaineer said, "You are just like all them other city fellers; when you are sawing, you go like hell because you just can't wait to get the log sawed in two; but me, when I saws, I just saws."

Since being told that story, many a time when work has piled up on me, I said to my secretaries, "Don't worry; we'll just saw."

I think this is an important lesson, because I have seen so many persons who have made themselves sick with worry, brooding day and night about why they did not feel their life had been successful.

I remember one such man, a patient of mine, who at intervals would spend most of a day and a night trying to analyze himself and to explain his mistakes, usually by blaming other people for them. I would point out to him that he usually chose the worst possible time for indulging in these orgies of self-analysis. He would go into them when he was tired from overwork, or miserable after a cold, or discouraged by his failure in some business venture. I used to tell him of the centipede in the child's jingle which:

Was happy quite, until the frog,
for fun said,
"Pray, which leg comes after which?"
Which wrought his mind to such a pitch,
He lay distracted in a ditch,
Wondering how to run.

I said to my patient, "Quit trying to figure things out -- that only makes you ill. Just try to live sensibly and with good temper and good self-control."

"Live," as the great Sir William Osler used to say, "in 'day-tight compartments,' not grieving over either yesterday's mistakes or tomorrow's problems."

It is cheering when every so often I find a working man or woman with very little schooling but a fine and happy philosophy of life -- like the old mountaineer -- and then I conclude that he or she must have come by it simply by working hard and faithfully each day. And to that person I take off my hat in respect.

CCC, Box 957, Des Moines, Iowa 50304.

4-H ACTIVITIES

4-H is not a 'hick' club

By Bernard Jardot

Many kids never join 4-H. They feel it's a hick country club and that it just doesn't swing enough for them. You can be sure they are mistaken. Most active 4-H club members wouldn't trade their experience in 4-H for the world.

Active 4-H members have the opportunity to achieve and earn recognition, whether it was a trip planned by the club or county or a state trip. It is really quite an honor for these 4-H members to represent their club on the county or state level.

With this in mind, take a good look at our 4-H youth exhibits at the Tuscola County Fair next week (August 2-7) to see how involved our young people are. I am sure you will agree that young people can have fun with their projects and other club activities and at the same time display some excellent items.

Give our young people your support by going to the Fair and visiting the youth exhibit area. Also please comment to our young people that they should keep up the excellent work and to get more involved in new project areas. Remind the young people you know who are 9 to 19 to consider joining a 4-H club in their area or start a new 4-H club. For more information contact me at the 4-H office in Caro.

"Hall of Fame, New York University" is the way our photographer labeled this shot. Then our editor strained his eyes to see if he could make out any of the names of these great men on the tablets below the busts. He couldn't! Seven great men, but their names are lost in the shadows.

Nor does that fact obscure their greatness. The contribution each made to his fellow men remains. Yes, their greatness lies in the kind of men they were. The goals they strove for. The fruits of their perseverance and dedication.

They are not great men because they are in bronze. The bronze came later!

The largeness or smallness of our lives is measured in what we are, what we strive to be, what we aim to contribute. Yet these human elements are insufficient without the divine element—faith in God.

Today the Church is helping to mold greatness in many men. Someday a grateful posterity will cast a few of them in bronze.

Long-term bonds finance home ownership program

A most significant area of government endeavor in recent years is housing.

The subject has received few headlines, except for instances when it is mixed in with other controversial topics.

The reason may be that housing itself is a rather unglamorous subject and deals mainly with statistics and blueprints -- things which cannot be easily dramatized into flashy pictures or big headlines.

It should be noted, however, that the state of Michigan is doing some significant things in an effort to make sure every resident of the state has a decent roof over his or her head.

******

One of the best examples of this came recently when the Michigan State Housing Development Authority made Michigan the first state to issue long-term revenue bonds to finance home ownership for low and moderate income families.

The Authority issued a total of $40 million worth of bonds -- $15 million in 30-year bonds and $25 million in 40-year bonds.

The $15 million will be used to help finance the Authority's new home ownership program, while the $25 million will be used to retire short-term notes issued earlier by the Authority to finance rental and cooperative housing.

The home ownership program is expected to result in the construction of at least 3,000 single family homes this year. Homes financed by the Authority are for families with low and moderate incomes.

Moderate income families benefit by paying lower interest because the Authority can get much cheaper rates on a $15 million bond issue than the home owner can get on a mortgage. Individuals can finance their homes through the Authority and realize a savings. They still pay all the principal on the mortgage and all operating expenses of the home.

Low income families can sometimes receive federal assistance which reduces their interest rate to 1 per cent. They also must still pay the principal on the mortgage, plus operating expenses.

The interest rates on the bonds issued recently averaged 6.93 per cent.

Gov. William G. Milliken hopes the program will help fill "the gap between federal public housing and homes that can be purchased on the open market."

"About 70 per cent of Michigan's households are effectively priced out of existing new and used housing markets," he says. "Substantial numbers of people are denied any real opportunity to improve their living standard, regardless of their ambition or diligence."

BIKES ARE CYCLES

Michiganders who joined the growing number of mini-bike owners received a reminder from Secretary of State Richard Austin not to take that bike onto public streets improperly.

Austin says before a mini-bike can be driven on a street or highway it must include all equipment motorcycles have, including headlamps, rear lamps, rear view mirror and the like. It also must be registered with his office.

And it can only be driven by a licensed driver who is wearing a helmet.

Austin says that if the tiny vehicles are taken onto public roads, the driver should "exercise extreme caution and stay away from busy streets and thoroughfares."

WHAT? NO FINALS?

Today's college student undoubtedly has a more complicated world to learn about than his parents and there are also undoubted pressures on him from all sorts of places.

But there is at least one area where he's starting to have it softer. Michigan State University recently announced it has eliminated the compulsory final exam.

The Academic Council, composed of both faculty and students, recently approved a recommendation that said "institution settings occur in which a final examination may not be necessary or desirable." Shucks, a lot of students have known that for years.

The proposal recommended that the two-hour period designated for finals be used for "examination, discussion, summarizing the course, obtaining student evaluation of the course, instruction, or any other appropriate activity designed to advance the student's education."

Today's student has it tough in some respects. But how can he expect much sympathy from his elders if he never has to stumble into a final bleary-eyed from too much coffee and a lack of sleep caused by trying to cram a whole term's work into one night?

Anyone 16 years or over is eligible to answer the phone, and those younger can work in the background with files, according to Helen Woloshen who is in charge of preparations.

Volunteers will attend training sessions beginning Wednesday, Aug. 11, from 7-10 p. m. at the Tuscola Intermediate School office building in Caro, at the corner of Court and Grant, just opposite the jail.

The service will be located in the OEO office where the county commissioners have donated space. Hopefully there will be two lines operating 24 hours a day, but that depends on the number of volunteers.

Busy session in Circuit Court reported Monday

A bench warrant was issued Monday by Circuit Court Judge James P. Churchill for the arrest of William F. Brenner.

Brenner, of 310 1/2 Oakley St., Saginaw, failed to appear on a charge of driving away with a motor vehicle. He forfeited $1500 bond.

He was arrested June 27 by a Tuscola county sheriff's deputy after a chase on M-46. The 1970 Honda motorcycle, valued at $2500, that he was riding on had been stolen June 23 from the parking lot of the apartment of Roger Wrona of Southgate, owner of the cycle.

John Michael Stadler, 20, of 135 Huron, Vassar, stood mute to a charge of breaking and entering, and a plea of innocent was entered for him. A pretrial examination was set for Aug. 10, and a bond of $1000 was continued.

Stadler is charged with breaking into a service station-restaurant called the Halfway House on M-15, owned by Willard Leach, on June 18.

A preliminary examination was held July 9 before District Court Judge Richard Kern, at which time Daniel E. Atkins was appointed as council.

Leach told the court then that about $600 or $700 in cash and about $2000 worth of checks and charge slips were missing from the office of the restaurant. The door had been tampered with, although the drawer containing the money had not been locked.

The money was later recovered.

Also on Monday Judge Churchill sentenced Joseph Kaplaniak, 41, of 1585 Boy Scout Road, Caro, to two years' probation for aggravated assault.

He was also fined $150 and made to pay costs of $300 at $35 per month. Sixty days in the Tuscola county jail were postponed for 15 months, during which time he was ordered to pay back child support and not to enter a bar until he had done so.

The offense occurred Feb. 16 in Indianfields township against Ralph E. Rowell. He had attacked Rowell with a knife, giving him a wound in the neck which required 15 stitches.

Kaplaniak accused Rowell of having an affair with his wife, from whom he was separated.

FRANK LESTER, Cass City's oldest resident, will celebrate his 104th birthday, Sunday, Aug. 1. Mr. Lester, who lives with his children, feels pretty good and contributes his long life to a strong and healthy constitution.

AROUND THE FARM

Better management will up farm profits

By Don Kebler

For years the trend in farming has emphasized growth and expansion for a greater number of unit outputs. Whether this is correct or not, it has been the farming operation trend.

I have been working with farm operators for many years on farm management and business analysis. In this capacity I have found some cases where physical expansion by itself could ruin their businesses.

Really there are two ways to expand a business. One is to increase the physical assets as land, buildings, livestock, machinery and labor. The other is to expand operator effectiveness in applying his time to obtain more outputs from the present physical assets already on hand.

The former and not the latter expansion method is the general direction taken by farm operators. They think the way to higher profits is more land, more livestock buildings and bigger machinery.

As I analyze both Telfarm and non-Telfarm cooperator operations, I am finding more and more are at a unit size capable of producing higher profits than presently realized.

Inefficiencies of management abilities and time are accounting for lost profits. Some of these inefficiencies in cash crop operations are poor timing of herbicides, planting and insecticides. Farming portions of the farm where the soil is incapable of producing profitable crops is quite common as losses from these soil areas reduce profits from the operation.

Two major inefficiencies in dairy operations are high calf losses and producing and harvesting lower quantities and qualities of feed and forages. Top return dairy operations are realizing at least two dollars returned from the sale of dairy products produced for every dollar value of feed fed. If more time could be spent in the production and proper harvesting for maximum feed value of these crops, more dollars will come in as profit.

Actually, the successful farm operation is one of proper unit size where the so-called little extra management inputs are added to allow the prevailing assets to perform to their maximum capacity.

I grant you that every farm operation is different with increase profit solutions different also. At the same time there is hardly any farm operation that is operating at more than eighty percent of its potential. Many are less efficient than this.

So before expanding the physical assets of your business spend some time in examining the management assets. Management asset expansion is far less costly too.

Knoblets host W CTU meeting

Letter to Editor

Urges support of Career Center

Dear John,

We have discussed many things in Cass City this summer some of which are liquor in the bars, beer in the park and a very few and in my opinion limited discussions of the future of our young people. I have heard very little if any comments around town of the vote coming up on Aug. 23 about the Vocational School. The school would help many young and older people alike to prepare themselves for useful jobs not only in our community but in other places as well. It is a school devoted to the training of a labor force for the future, where people can be trained in trades that do have to work at some trade or another or end up on the relief rolls.

There is plenty of talk about our sons and daughters going off and becoming hippies but will be useful to them in their working careers.

Not everyone can or even wants to go to college but they why aren't we talking about how to train them for useful work with honest wages? This should be our main concern when we go to the polls on Aug. 23 and cast our ballots for the vocational school.

Seek Elmwood road thieves

Two homes on Elmwood Road were entered Saturday, July 24, and a trumpet and portable record player were stolen.

Katheryne Donavon reported to Bad Axe State Police at 5 p. m. Saturday that the player, valued at $80, was missing from her home. She discovered the theft after returning from an afternoon shopping trip.

The other theft occurred at the Leland Sherrard home where a trumpet valued at $375 was reported missing to the Caro sheriff's office Sunday.

Delores Sherrard said that when she went to get the trumpet at about 9 p. m. Saturday to practice, it wasn't in its usual place. They searched the house and were unable to find it.

The Sherrards had been absent for several hours Saturday, and the house was unlocked at the time. There were no signs of entry.

Owen-Gage seeks millage

Monday, Aug. 2, the voters of the Owendale-Gagetown School District will get a second chance to approve a millage for the operation of the schools.

This time there will be two ballots. One will be a renewal of the present 6 mills for two years. The second ballot will be an additional one mill for one year, according to Superintendent Allen Fennell.

The June 14 vote was 208 to 189, and the single ballot asking for 8 mills was defeated.

Fennell said the school board "felt there might have been some misunderstanding," and for that reason there are two ballots this time.

Each mill will bring in about $14,500 or a total of $101,500. All of the money will be used only for general operations of the school.

"We're going to be in real trouble," Fennell said, "if the renewal millage is not granted because it makes up about one-third of the budget."

By reducing the additional millage by one mill, the school has forfeited their band program.

If the additional one mill is not approved, one or more of the foreign language, physical education or library programs will have to be cut.

David Seurynck in car mishap

A Gagetown youth received minor injuries Sunday in a one car accident east of Gagetown.

David Seurynck, 19, of 5879 Jacob Road, Gagetown, was a passenger in a car driven by James Thomas Albrecht, 18, of 7800 Sebewaing, Owendale, and owned by Leo Seurynck.

The accident occurred at 1 a. m. on Wilsie Road, 1/2 mile from Koepfgen intersection in Elkland township.

Tuscola county sheriff's report said Albrecht thought he was driving on another road when the road came to an end, and they went into a ditch. He was driving about 45 miles an hour in a dense fog.

The dead end was not marked with signs.

The Seurynck boy was not admitted to a hospital for his injuries.

Open bids for area road work

Bids were opened Wednesday, July 21, in Lansing by the Michigan State Highway Commission naming Frank Strausberg and Son, Saginaw, the lowest bidder for road improvements in Tuscola county.

The bid of $209,579, must be approved by the State Administrative Board before a contract can be awarded.

A 12.6 mile section of M-25 from the Bay-Tuscola county line north to Unionville and paving of the bridge carrying M-25 over the Quanicassee River one mile north of Unionville is slated to be completed by November.

Also scheduled are improvements to the curve on M-25 at Stein and Volz roads nine miles north of Unionville. These will be financed under the department's 1971 safety program.

VINTAGE YEAR FOR PLYMOUTH SATELLITE

ONE OF OUR BEST YEARS.
It takes something special to come up with a Vintage Year. But that's what '71 has been for Chrysler-Plymouth. Everything—from drawing board to final assembly—has come together in great fashion. We like to think our slogan "Coming Through" had a lot to do with it, because it's more than a phrase. It's a pledge, a dedication to one purpose: To come through for you with the kind of automobiles you want, not only in style, size and price—but also in quality you can live with for years to come. A good example is Plymouth Satellite.

DESIGN IS RIGHT-ON.
Plymouth Satellite started out a new idea in intermediates, the only all-new intermediate for the year. The idea was that a 2-door and 4-door model should have different designs so that interior dimensions would not be compromised. The idea came across so well, Road Test Magazine voted it "U.S. Car of the Year."

NOW, A GREAT SELECTION COMING THROUGH FINAL CLEARANCE PRICED.
While some years are good car years, '71 has been a Vintage Year for Chrysler-Plymouth. Quality shines and shows in every line. A drive in a Plymouth or Chrysler will prove how our '71 models have come through. Check out our great selection. We think you'll find that a quality car at a final clearance price is what "Coming Through" is all about. For us. For you.

Majorettes go to school, get ready for fall

By KIT McMILLION

Four Cass City girls left Sunday for a 4-day majorette clinic in Alma.

They are Pat Smentek, 16, Rt. 3, Mary Beth Esau, 17, Rt. 2, LaDonna Brown, 15, 5694 E. Cass City Rd. and Evelyn Merchant, 16, 5549 N. Cemetery Rd.

The clinic is conducted by Mary Evelyn Thurman who is known internationally for her instruction of baton twirling, and is held at Alma College from July 26 to July 30.

The girls are all majorettes with the high school band, three of them beginning their first year this fall. The Merchant girl was a twirler last year.

At the clinic they will learn new techniques and new routines. Also, they will choose a new uniform. Band director James Kot said that a local seamstress will make the outfits after they are designed. Although it is not yet decided what they will look like, they will probably incorporate the maroon and white school colors and perhaps have some sort of a small skirt.

Daily competition will provide an opportunity for the girls to show off the skills they learn. They will live in the college dormitory for the duration of their stay.

The new school year will boast other new firsts, too. Rick Erla, 17, 4633 Huron, will lead the band as the drum major. He got the position after applying for it and has played guitar in the band. He led the seniors through town last spring for his first time.

The band will be bigger and better according to Kot, who predicts more than 90 members for the coming year. He said the attitude of the kids has changed and if they keep practicing everyday they have a chance to get a first rating at the festivals.

To outfit the new band members the school bought 35 new uniforms at $125 apiece which match the present maroon and white ones.

After a summer of practicing and lessons they are on the up-swing, he added.

Small groups of students have been meeting twice a week since June 13 for instruction. The lessons finished up this week.

During the week before school starts, from Aug. 23 to 27, the marching band will practice from 6 to 8:30 p. m., to finish up the summer preparations.

According to Kot there will be a large influx of freshmen. Last year the junior high band received a rating of 2, excellent, at the festivals, which gives hope that the senior high band will be able to pull a higher rating than the 3, average, rating it got last year.

REGULAR MEETING OF THE CASS CITY VILLAGE COUNCIL

The regular meeting of the Cass City Village Council was held June 28, 1971 at the Municipal Building. Trustees absent were Rawson and Ross.

The minutes of the regular May meeting were read and approved.

Several members of the Elkland Township Fire Department were present to request that the Council permit them to sell beer in the park in a beer tent during the summer festival planned for August 14.

After considerable discussion, a motion was made by Trustee Jones and supported by Trustee Christner that Ordinance No. 48, Section 9, prohibiting alcoholic liquor in the Village, be amended as follows:

(a) No alcoholic liquors shall be consumed on the public streets, highways and public places within the limits of the Village of Cass City except as herein after provided:
1. The Village Council may grant special permission to organized groups who have submitted a written request for the use of designated areas within the Cass City Recreation Park for the consumption of alcoholic liquors; and provided further that policies governing the reservation of the park areas, dispensation of alcoholic liquors, guarantees of compliance and such other matters as may concern the protection of the public interest shall be approved by the Village Council.

(b) No person shall sell or in any manner furnish alcoholic liquors to minors.

(c) No minor shall have possession of alcoholic liquors.

Enacted by the Village Council of the Village of Cass City, Cass City, Michigan on the 29th day of June, 1971. On Roll Call vote was Yeas 4, Nays 0. Motion carried.

The Financial report for the month of May was reviewed.

Nelson Willy reported that he attended the Conference of the Michigan Water Pollution Control Association. He stated that one of the main points of the conference was the proposed reduction of federal financing for sewage disposal plant operations. Villages and local governments will be required to pick up a greater amount of the cost. No action was needed by the Council at this time for sewer rate increases; however, rate changes may be needed in the near future in order for the Village to meet State and Federal financing guidelines.

It was brought to the attention of the Council that a new dump truck should be purchased as the 1965 Dodge truck is in poor condition. A proposal was presented to the Council for a new 1971 Ford Dump Truck.

A motion was made by Trustee Holmberg and supported by Trustee Albee to purchase a new Ford dump truck with the specifications noted. Motion carried.

The Building, Plumbing, Housing and Fire Prevention Codes for the Village were discussed briefly. It was decided by the Council that a detailed study will have to be made on each code in order to determine if they are suitable codes for the Village. The Council expressed the recommendation that local builders be invited to review the codes and suggest any changes they feel would be needed.

The Street Program for the Village for 1971 was discussed in detail.

A detailed report was made by Jim Blades outlining the major and local streets that will be sealcoated and calcium chloride applied. Asphalt surfacing is planned for Church Street from Seeger Street to the East Terminus; Pine Street at Oak Street; Oak Street from Main to Garfield Streets.

The remaining street program which is hoped to be completed by the end of fall includes street excavation on Garfield; curb and gutter for Garfield, and storm sewers for Leach and Garfield Streets.

After considerable discussion about the street program, a motion was made by Trustee Albee and supported by Trustee Christner that the Council advertise for bids on approximately 2,600 feet of curb and gutter for Garfield Street. Motion carried.

Superintendent Jim Blades reported that the Third Street Park, located on Third and Maple Streets is available for purchase by the Village. No action was taken at this time.

It was also reported by Mr. Blades that as a result of a recent law passed by the Governor, the offices of Village President, Clerk, Treasurer and Assessor have now been extended for two-year terms.

A motion was made by Trustee Holmberg and supported by Trustee Jones that the Municipal Resolution accepting the Municipal Maintenance Contract between the Michigan State Highway Commission and the Village, and designating James Blades as Maintenance Superintendent be approved. Motion carried.

A motion was made by Trustee Christner and supported by Trustee Jones that the bills as examined by the Finance Committee be approved for payment. Motion carried.

There being no further business, a motion was made by Trustee Albee and supported by Trustee Christner that the meeting be adjourned.

Erla's card game with champ team

Erla's played a busy schedule of six games during the week while posting a 3-3 record.

The games should have sharpened the squad for Saturday's game with Roma Inn of Bay City, the 1970 Class B State Champs.

Saturday's clash will be another in a string of State Champions that Erla's have faced. They already have met the Class AA and D Champions of last year.

Against the Church League All-Stars, July 21, the Church team opened with a slugfest win over Erla's, 14-13. Elwyn Helwig started and took the loss. Dan Erla pitched the final five innings. Englehart was the winning pitcher.

The nightcap was a better game and featured fine pitching as Bob Mazure hurled Erla's to a 4-1 decision. Smith pitched well for the losers.

Saturday night the Foodmen split a double header with Mayville. In the opener, Mazure hurled his team to a 5-3 win as Erla's rallied in the fifth inning to score three times to ice the contest.

In the last game, Mayville posted an easy 9-0 decision behind Albright who allowed five hits and walked just one. Meanwhile his mates were racking Dan Erla and Mazure who took over in the fifth for 11 hits.

Monday, Snover visited Cass City Recreational Park and split a double header. Blank blanked Erla's in the opener with a four hitter and a 2-0 decision.

Mazure was nearly as effective for Cass City as he allowed just four hits but errors cost him two runs in the opening stanza and that decided the game.

Erla's staged a four-run rally in the opening inning and then held on for a 7-6 decision in the final game of the week. Englehart pitched the win although he was touched for 11 hits. Erla's combed Innes for 13 hits in the victory effort.

Swim team bows to Caro, Marlette in week's meets

The Cass City swim team was swamped by Marlette Monday night by a 91-47 score. Cass City found itself in trouble with the relays because the squad lacks sufficient depth for the event.

The relays downed the team July 21, too, causing them to lose to Caro 58-38.

Before the relays, Cass City held Caro's 44 points with 38, and Marlette's 63 with 47.

Catholics back in driver's seat in Church League

The Catholics moved back into the driver's seat in the Cass City Church League as they continued to win as Deford lost its second game of the year to drop into second place.

Monday, July 19, Snover ran over Ellington, 10-0. Gene Dorman pitched the win and Mark Lewis the loss. Gary Gerstenberger rapped two hits in three tries.

In the second game Colwood stayed in the running for the title with a close, 6-5, decision over Missionary. Dave Smith outdueled Rinerd Schember for the victory. Wilbur Palmer and Don Smith rapped two hits each for Colwood while Summers, Haley, Irrer and Arroyo collected two safeties each for Missionary.

Colwood was behind 5-4 going into the last inning and rallied for the victory after the center fielder dropped the ball while trying to make a throw with the bases loaded and two runs scored.

The Lutherans went over the .500 mark with a 5-1 decision over Owen-Gage Tuesday, July 20. Nelson Willy took the win and Gary DeVore was charged with the defeat. Willy and Bill Ziedler collected two hits for the winners.

In the nightcap the Catholics pounded out a 19-9 decision over the Baptists. John Maharg was the winning pitcher and Gary Mellendorf took the loss.

Bliss, Asher and Turner had two hits each for the winners while Lee Taylor slammed out three hits for the Baptists. The Catholics collected 13 hits and the Baptists made five hits.

Thursday the fast improving Cass City Methodists made it a no contest over the then league leading Deford nine with a 9-1 decision behind Eldon Stoutenburg. Ron Nicholas was the victim of hefty stick work by Rick Lorentzen who hit for the circuit and Don Galbreth who connected for three hits.

In the late game, Shabbona ran wild with a 19-7 decision over Snover-Laing making it easy for Les Severance to pick up a win over Gene Dorman.

Friday Missionary - RLDS kept Ellington Nazarene from registering its first win of the year with a 15-2 walkaway victory. Rinerd Schember was the winning hurler and Mark Louis took the loss. Dave Schember slapped a home run and Les Nicholas had three hits in three tries in the game that was called after five innings.

In the final game of the week, the Lutherans and Colwood battled to no decision in a game called because of rain after five innings with the score knotted, 5-5.
