There is a price war underway among the nation's airlines. Take off for Europe and the airfare is only about $175. This reduction in fares has brought a passenger mix that is totally different than it was a decade

Ignore the plane itself and you could be on a bus headed for Detroit. The people are the same.

The young couple with the baby and the weary look. The soldier and the sailor enduring the trip with the stoicism and pliability of youth. The two young students comparing notes. The family on vacation or moving to a new section of the A cross average, not the wealthy, found across America.

Gone, too, is the tender loving care associated with the stewardesses in the early air days. Now the girls are too busy hustling drinks or serving food to chit chat with passengers.

The flying time has decreased and the passenger load increased. Stewardesses are more like waitresses than host-

But the glamour must remain. For the airlines still fill their planes with young, well groomed, sleek looking girls.

At least they start out sleek looking. . . . but by the time the flight is over they sometimes look like you or I after a hard day at the office or a day caring for the kids.

I read the other day about a French built supersonic plane now under construction that will fly overseas in about 3 1/2 hours or so. . . . about a third of the time it takes now.

Today most domestic flights are no more than four hours regardless of where you are - traveling.

Every time I've been on a plane I've speculated to my-_ self that perhaps the steward-= esses are no longer necessary.

If things are tough for the airlines why not abolish the in-flight meals and the fringes that I suspect most passengers (in the tourist section where I always ride) don't really appreciate anyway.

Jury finds Holman guilty of manslaughter

Kenneth James Holman, 37, of Akron, Ohio, was found guilty of manslaughter Monday in Tuscola County Circuit Court in connection with the death of Robert Albertson. The jury deliberated a total of three hours and 50 minutes before arriving at the verdict Monday morning at 10:50. They had begun deliberating at 4 p. m. the Friday before and resumed

Monday morning at 9. The trial began Sept. 16 and lasted for 7 days.

Albertson was found dead in a pool of blood along Mayville Road near the intersection with Kingston Road Mar. 6 by Jack Clothier of Clifford.

An autopsy revealed that he had died of lacerations to his lungs. He also had cuts and bruises on the head and right leg and fractured ribs on both bert were arrested after investigation showed that the victim had left a tavern with them in a pickup the night before the body was found, Articles and money that had belonged to the victim were also found in Albert Holman's trailer, where the men were staying.

Both stood mute at their April 12 arraignments and pleas of innocent were entered for them. They were charged with first degree murder, that is, murder with malice and premeditation.

Charges against Albert Holman were dismissed April 17 when he was granted immunity in order to testify.

Albert Holman told authorities in a sworn statement that he and his brother had picked up Albertson in a Marlette Hotel

Holman and his brother Alknown the victim before. Afterwards they were going to drive him to Clifford and stopped off to buy some beer. Albert was driving the truck. He said his brother, and AIbertson began arguing, and Kenneth Holman hit Albertson in the head with a beer bottle, Albert stopped the truck, and the men leaped out, where they started fighting. Albertson was again hit in the head.

Kenneth Holman ordered his brother out of the truck, and then drove it over the victim's body several times, testimony revealed.

May 11 the defendant was ordered to be committed to the custody of the Center for Forensic Psychiatry of the Department of Mental Health. Concluded on page 12

Speaking in Cass City

Local control of schools urged by Rep. Spencer

Rep. Roy Spencer is a staunch supporter of local options in government and the outspoken legislator from the 78th district doesn't believe that proposed plans for state-funding of schools will provide it.

Speaking to Cass City Rotarians Tuesday, Spencer said that if the State provides all of the funds for schools via an income tax, all of the control of schools will end in Lansing.

There is nothing in the record that shows the State can do the job as well as local school districts, he added. Spencer also voted against the current State-aid to schools because the formula, he says, favors the rich districts and provides unequal education. In other remarks Spencer · Favored revenue sharing, He said that previously the State voted money to townships, cities and counties regardless of how much local taxes were raised, Now the money is tied to a local effort. However, he stressed, every unit will receive an insaid he:

 Favored repeal of the property tax. It always has been an unfair tax, Spencer believes. But if it is abolished something must replace it. To raise the kind of money needed will require some type of income tax increase. The computer has come up with a figure of $17,000 he said as the median. Incomes over that will pay more taxes via income tax while incomes less than this will pay less. That's if costs remain as they are today. However, State control has always resulted in greatly increased expense.

Illustrating the point, Spencer pointed to the wide variance in millage raised today. He said that the average millage raised by districts today is 28 mills. In my district there is not one school raising this much money. Think of the increased cost. he said, if the State takes over financing and all schools receive the same amount of money. • Following the party line, Spencer says it favors the flat rate income tax and not the graduated tax the Democrats propose.

It is likely that there will be no agreement on this issue, Spencer believes, and the final solution will be left to the voters when both tax methods are presented to the voters in a referendum.

 Straddled the fence about abortion. Spencer says that this is one issue where there is no middle ground in the legislature. He pointed out that he feels a woman should have freedom of choice but didn't know if it should include removing the fetus of an already conceived baby.

Spencer defended the legislature's long fruitless sessions about taxes and schools.

We could have had a short session by just voting yes to a tax and going home. We haven't reached agreement because no program has been suggested that agrees with enough of the Senators and Representatives to be passed.

Our responsibility, Spencer says, is to fight for an equitable bill no matter how long it takes. Adopts speed law

Council seeks federal funds for park site expansion

A hearing for the Garfield Street curb and gutter project, passage of a village speed control ordinance, discussion of the proposed development codes and a report of the park committee comprised the main business at the regular meeting of the Village Council Tues-

Four residents appeared for the hearing, which was held to let citizens register views about the special assessment roll, which was accepted by the

The roll totals $6,527.40. Charge to the resident is $3.30 per lineal foot. Excavation of the work has begun.

President Lambert Althaver said it was the policy of the village to put back the ground behind the curb in its previous condition.

A village speed control ordinance was accepted which sets the speed at 25 miles an hour on all streets in the village except Rose Street, which will be 15 mph, and all village roadways in the park, which will be 15 mph.

The 35 mph limit will remain from West Street to the west village limit and from Ale Street to the east village limit. These are set by the State Highway Department, although efforts will be made to get them

Police Chief Gene Wilson told the council that recently they were unable to prosecute a speeding violation in court because they couldn't prove they had an ordinance.

Foil illegal drug purchase at local store

A Caro woman has pleaded guilty to a charge of fraud in connection with an attempt to get a forged prescription filled

Bonnie Lee Morton, 30, of 809 Caro Road, Caro, appeared Monday before District Court Judge Richard A. Kern on a charge of trying to have a prescription for class A drugs filled at the Coach Light

Mike Weaver, owner of the drug store, told police that a woman came into his store Saturday with a prescription for class A drugs he recognized as forged.

He called police but before an officer arrived, the woman fled, leaving the prescription and a welfare card behind.

Weaver explained that the prescription was for amphetamines, which is not a narcotic. but is classed with the other drugs that have the strongest potential for addiction.

codes was delayed for further study. It was the conclusion of the council and the village attorney, Clinton House, that the codes would be useless without some means of enforcing

House advised the council that the five proposed codes did not provide for fees or penalties for failure to comply. The BOCA codes are written by a national firm and provide technical specifics for fire prevention, mechanics, plumbing, building and housing. "Unless we have someone to enforce them, it doesn't mean anything," House said.

"And it won't solve the low-cost housing objected to by the citizens," he added. At the August meeting a number of citizens appeared before the council requesting stronger The state is in the process of adopting similar codes which will bind the village unless it has their own, Village Superintendent James Blades told the council. Further investigation of the codes will be made by the village engineer and an architect. Efforts to get an inspector with other communities jointly will be made.

"At this point in time Cass City is in no position to enforce any technical building codes," stated President Althaver, explaining that since it was close to the end of the building season, it would be advisable not to rush into a law they can't enforce.

In other business, Dr. Delbert Rawson told the council that the park committee had filed a letter of intent with the state to build a new swimming pool. He explained that it was done because the process is a very lengthy one and many of the things the State Department of Health has cited as violations will require recon-

Bean crop bad, prices good

Most of the bean crop is in this year and elevator personnel are calling it "terrible." Bob Wischmeyer of Michigan Bean Elevator, Cass City, said they had about 85% of the crop in with an average yield of 10-11 bushels per acre.

Frank Schott of J. P. Burroughs in Gagetown reported 99% of the crop in with much the same yield, 10-12 bushels per acre.

An average yield in a normal year is 20-23 bushels per acre. The price is good--$11.50 per 100 pounds as of Monday. Wischmeyer said last year at this time it was $8-9 per 100 pounds. The new crop price began at $10 per 100 pounds

The elevators are taking in about half of the normal crop. Wischmeyer said the recent rains have hurt the farmers because of the second growth of the beans and because some of them are rotting in the fields after being pulled because it has been too wet to thrash.

Don Tosach of Tosach, Prine and Spears, a Saginaw Architect firm, will look at the pool soon to determine exactly what can be done and what can be saved, Rawson said. After that is done. plans to rebuild or repair will

A letter of intent has also been filed with the Land and Water Conservation fund for $16,000 to be used for the purchase of part of the Morton Orr estate which joins the village property on the east.

The village will have to match the $16,000 with equal funds. The total estate is 27 acres, It will soon be surveyed to determine what land will remain

Gordon Okerstrom presented the plans to the council, which were accepted. The signs will have pines behind and flowers in front, and the letters will be illuminated, he said. There will be no cost to the village, he said, adding that they had not decided upon a specific location although they have received approval from the State Highway Department to place them on the Main Street right

Blades reported to the council that the village may receive more money as a result of the redistribution formula passed recently as part of the revenue sharing act.

He said that last year the village received $15.05 per person and would have received $17.44 this year under the old for mula. Instead we will receive $20.05 per person, although this is not yet a definite figure because the new state average has not been determined, he explained.

The money is from the state income tax, sales tax and in-

Woman dies when fire sweeps home

Funeral services were held Wednesday for Miss Anna May MacKichan, 81, who died as a result of smoke inhalation Saturday night when her mobile home at 4335 West Street burned.

Firemen were called to the scene about 9:00 p. m. by Mrs. Dorothy Seeley, a neighbor. She said that Miss MacKichan had called to her from the front porch of the building and asked her to call the fire department. Mrs. Seeley said she told the woman to come over to her house and went inside to make the call. She thought the woman was behind her. Miss MacKichan had said had to get something first, she added, and apparently went back into the house. Miss MacKichan was later found lying curled up on a couch in a den near the front of the house. Coroner Ben Collon pronounced her dead. A fireman said she would have had to go down a short hallway and probably got trapped. Collon said she died of smoke inhalation, explaining that it probably would have taken only a minute. Mrs. Seeley broke the garage window in an effort to reach her, but the smoke forced her

"The whole house was filled with smoke," she said. Neighbors and onlookers waited in the cold drizzling rain while firmen fought the blaze and searched for Miss

MacKichan. Sgt. Richard Holcumb of the fire marshall division out of the State Police at Bay City told Asst, Fire Chief Richard Root that the fire started with the hot water heater.

caught a flammable fabric near it on fire. The gas furnace was not turned on and was not the cause," he said.

Root explained that when the gas water heater went on, it didn't get enough oxygen. He said they weren't sure what sort of flammable material had been near the heater, but said it was pushed right up close to it. It was not part of the heater, he said.

The fire spread rapidly to the porch and roof.

Police Chief Gene Wilson who lives about three houses away said he saw flames shooting out of the roof. A large hole was burned in the roof above the heater and the interior was completely gutted.

The intense heat of the fire melted the metal siding, too. Miss MacKichan had lived there only six weeks, having recently moved from Applegate, where she had spent all of her life. She lived alone.

The mobile home was built about three years ago according to neighbors. Final rites were held at 1

p. m. Wednesday from Little's Funeral Home, Cass City, with the Rev. Truman Munzell of Applegate officiating. Burial was in Elkland cemetery. Miss MacKichan was born

o-mutton sleeves. A lattice lace entwined with white satin ribbon fashioned the Empire waistline and edged the hem of the gathered floorlength skirt. Her jewel-headpiece held secure her cathedral length illusion veil and she carried a formal cascade of miniature carnations, white roses, stephanotis and ivy. Serving as her sister's maid of honor, Wanda Woods wore an orange chiffon frock enhanced with a fluted neckline and long Edwardian-styled sleeves. Venice lace accented the V-styled, ruffled bodice to the Empire waistline from which fell the A-line floorlength skirt.

Janet Gettel, sister of the groom, and Cathy Woods, cousin of the bride, were bridesmaids and wore gowns identical with the maid of honor. They carried Autumn Sunset bouquets of orange carnations, butterscotch and bronze pompons and brown popples. They wore headpieces of matching flowers securing their veils.

Flower girls were Karen Gettel, sister of the groom, and Tracy Haag, niece of the bride. They were gowned in dresses similar to the bridesmaids' carried miniature bouquets and wore flowers in their hair.

Best man was Kim Brown, assisted by Lee Weishar and Gary Gettel, Jerry Woods, David Parks and Mark Gettel were ushers.

Following the ceremony, a buffet dinner was served in the Church Fellowship room for 200 guests. The groom's mother greeted guests in an apple green dress with matching accessories and a corsage of zernia roses and mint green carnations.

Upon their return from a wedding trip to Wisconsin the couple will reside in East Lansing where the groom is a senior at MSU.

NOTICE TO USERS OF VILLAGE WATER SERVICE

During the flushing of the hydrants Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday, Oct. 5-6-7, there may be an abundance of crystalized iron (rust) in the water supplied to your area of the Village.

This condition does not render the water unfit or harmful for consumption; however, clothing washed in this water will probably become discolored.

Check the color of your water before placing your clothing into it.

The Village is not liable for damage caused by this condition.

Your cooperation will be greatly appreciated.

Sometimes you can't see the trees for the forest, Late this summer I talked with Bill Dunn, a Gagetown native, now a teacher at Trenton High School. He remarked that the teachers there might strike and said that he just couldn't afford it. I said that it would be even worse if it became a repeat of the Reese District strike. He remarked that the climate was different in Trenton and he wasn't worried about being fired.

Now I read where all of Trenton's striking teachers have been dismissed.

It must be especially frustrating for teachers like Dunn who really wanted to sign in the first place.

Dorland Kuntz, a Cass City teacher and union chief, collared me at halftime of the football game Friday about my unkind remarks about "Quarterly Report" in a recent

He wanted to know if I was super critical of the TV news show that was required viewing for my daughter because it interfered with a favorite program on another channel. He mentioned a movie at the same time.

It's certain, isn't it, that Dorland knew of the movie from the TV guide and not because he was watching it instead of the Quarterly Report? Isn't it?

Sometimes you publish a regular feature week after week and get to wondering if anyone is reading it.

Nobody says much about District Court news most of the time. But I now know that it's widely read, After I printed I was touched for $25 for running a stop sign it seems that EVERYBODY is reading that column.

Pheasant season opens in about three weeks. Yes, there are still pheasants in Tuscola county. Paul Burdon of Gagetown said that he had good luck last season most every day and has seen quite a few birds this year.

Memories of early Cass City days

Cass City, Mich. Sept. 24, 1971

Dear Mr. Haire.

When I read in yesterday's Chronicle under "Mizpah celebrates 75th year" many folks must have had a real laugh as I did when I read that "in 1910. a small parsonage was built with one end enclosed as a stable for the minister's horse." I wonder who edited the history I wrote. It read, "In 1910 when J. A. Avery was here a small parsonage was built." (end of paragraph).

The church sheds for the horses had been built at an earlier date at a cost of $66 plus donated labor and material. When the parsonage was built, one end of them (antecedent clearly church sheds and not the parsonage) was enclosed as a stable for the minister's

I know things were rather primitive but we hardly went back to old country ways of housing the livestock with the

Then I remembered that "Ye Editor" one time acknowledged when an ad was brought in from the old wagon shop advertising "reaches and hounds" that you didn't know what they were. I thought perhaps he doesn't know that churches built sheds to shelter the horses even before they built homes for the minister. From 1896 to 1910 we rented empty farmhouses never paying more than $2 per month. Then as old minds will I began to reminisce and wondered how many today know how different things were in Cass City at the turn of the century. I can remember when the first "Power Plant" was built back of Heller's Flour Mill where the Chevrolet garage is now. Fuel was supplied by cordwood (four foot long) cut by the farmers in the winter. Huge piles of it were piled up by spring to last through summer and fall. Water came from points driven in the gravel. Arc lights appeared on our village well but the town was fortunate that a point driven a few feet in the gravel produced a well. How it was on the clay to the north I don't know but there were few homes up there.

By the time I started H.S. in 1907 we had a cold water faucet in the hall and a half dozen tin cups hanging on chains to drink from. There was also cold water in the laboratory and we also had electric lights in the assembly room, the Superintendent's office and the lab. The lights were bare bulbs hanging from the ceiling and the current so weak you could see the glowing filament.

I've wondered who in town was first to abandon the wooden wash tub used in the kitchen by the cookstove in cold weather and in the woodshed in warm weather for a bathtub and who was first to replace the ice box (supplied with ice cut in the winter and stored in sawdust in the big icehouse), River water was cleaner in those

Back to the mill where farmers took their wheat and took home flour, bran, shorts and middlings. Yes, those are English words and each had a use. Things were not wasted. From corn the miller produced corn meal for Johnny cake and mush. From oats he made oatmeal and mush and oatmeal were our cereals. We paid for no fancy boxes or expensive advertising.

The more well to do kept horses. Mr. Pinney, (Fred's grandfather), had a beautiful pair of driving horses with which he came out to his "Summer Resort" on the "Deadwater" of the Cass where he had a nice two story cottage with a veranda on two sides. a stable for the horses and a boat house. I presume he was the first one in town to own a hard rubber tired buggy with fringed canopy top, it was considered a beautiful rig.

And by the way Meredith will tell you with a chuckle how he won a ten dollar bet by selling Mr. Pinney a car and then was given $100 to take it back after it ran off the side of the road while he tried to view the countryside as he did with the horses.

Then I remember the beautiful team which Mr. Lee, the undertaker, used on the hearse. The barn burned in the night and the horses were lost. He was a heartsick man and I think everyone sympathized with him.

I also remember selling and delivering hay to Mr. Bigelow (Charles' grandfather) for his

I know this is getting long but where do you stop when you begin going back over three quarters of a century. I'm sure older readers will enjoy this and younger ones should realize the advantages they have. One more thing and I'll close.

The cows! Many town folks kept their own as milk was not for sale in the stores. Town boys made a little money gathering up the cows driving them out to pasture in the morning and returning them at night. Uncle Will Fleenor who managed the Anketell Lumber Yard, kept several cows and it was my job to deliver milk with a little express wagon. It was strained into little tin pails and delivered while warm. I remember two customers were Mr. Tennant and Dr. Hayes.

How did people survive? For one thing we had never heard of milk inspectors or air and water pollution and pasteurizing and homogenizing were unknown

Chronicle GET RESULTS of Cass City for something -your good sense. So far not one person here has expressed any ideas about journalism being a glamorous job. Now, my big-city friends just don't have that kind of sense. (Their only experience with journalism is Brenda Starr, I think.) I called a good chum of mine last week to catch up on what's happening at my old alma mater, and she said it was dull as usual, but said I must be having oodles of excitement.

That is partially true. I am having some fun and I'm meeting a lot of great people and doing some pretty interesting

But glamorous? I don't think so. Like any job, journalism is work, hard work, too.

Most stories just don't happen. We are sometimes given a tip or a suggestion that something is happening, or our routine investigation suggests something that deserves more development.

And sometimes these leads take me out into the rain (I recently spent a day in bed with a head cold for my efforts), interrupt week ends or force me out of my small and comfortable castle (my apartment, if you didn't guess) to chase fires or go to meetings.

But it's worth the effort, giving you the opportunity to know what is going on in our community.

The week of Oct. 10-16 is set aside for national recognition of the free press and the work it does as watch dog and informer. It makes me feel good to know that my profession gets a week along with I want to thank the people preventing fires and being kind to animals. I really get a great feeling of satisfaction when we publish the paper on Wednesday, but it takes constant attention on our part, day in and day out.

52 weeks a year, to do the job. As a watch dog and informer, a reporter has the responsibility to tell it like it is. There are certain schools of thought in the field of journalism that say objectivity is impossible. Advocacy-journalism is their style, which means they write for a cause, interjecting their own feelings.

And you've heard about news manipulation. There may be a place for this kind of reporting, but as far as I'm concerned, truthful, accurate, complete and objective information is the best way.

The paper I interned with has a motto that is printed on every issue of the paper. It says: "Give light and the people will find their own way."

I think that is a good motto for reporters, but it also carries the message that the people have a responsibility to read

But not only does it rest on reading the paper, but in free contribution to it. This can be by writing letters or giving information when asked,

A publisher may own a paper, but it's yours, too.

One-hundred and ninety-nine years ago the assurance of a free press was written into the constitution. With your help we can keep it that way.

focus has been placed on shoes and boots. Boots are big and heels are heavy this season, Joanne Thurber, Extension Clothing Specialist at Michigan State University, states that there is a wide variety in foot fashions this year. One type of shoe that is "in" for this season is sporty with heavy heels and soles, wide toes and stitched edges. The shoe may have a heavy waffle sole and look like a work shoe, or a hiking shoe, or an athletic

> There is also a return to pretty shoes - faceted toes give these a slim look with an elegance and ease to match the softest of body-dresses.

With the varying hemlines,

Much interest is being placed on the feet through the use of ties and straps - combined with any heel height-that ride on ankle and sometimes venture to the knee.

ONE FOR THE ROAD Revolution in magazines

By Dan Marlowe

There is a revolution taking place in the magazine publishing business.

As evidenced by the recent demise of LOOK with $10,000,-000 in debts, even the giants are falling. Before that there was the Saturday Evening Post, along with lesser entities.

The trend is well established and the culprit is the magazine subscription. The recent increases in fourth class mail rates -- with more to come -- are going to be more than any magazine with a large number of mail subscribers is going to be able to handle. In the future no magazine which can't make it on newsstand sales -- Hefner's Playboy, for instance -- is going to be able to survive.

In the past couple of years the only major magazine actively soliciting increased subscription readers on a large scale has been Reader's Digest. Others have been cutting back.

Tour farms to learn

improved ways

Continuing to keep informed on the engineering management and economic changes taking place in the dairy farm industry today, the County Cooperative Extension Agent with Michigan State University Specialist conducted an on-the-farm study of several dairy farms in Mich-

Attending the session were Thumb area County Agents Tony Rapes, Bill Bortel, Ed Strong, Lyle Thompson and area dairy agent Bill Bivens. The two areas emphasized in this program were improved calf and young stock housing and methods of manure handling.

Current records show 12% of all calves born in Michigan Dairy farms die. In an effort to cut this economic loss, several farms visited had either built a new calf barn or had added proper ventilation, heat and insulation to an existing Manure handling is not only a physical problem on dairy farms today but with the concern for improving our environment, extra care is necessary to protect against pollution. Different facilities were visited, including an elevated gutter cleaner design to stack the manure for several months driven scraper for free stall alleys and a lagoon type of water storage connected to an irrigation pump. It is obvious that dairying is one industry that is not waiting until it is forced to improve the environment, but is actively adding self control to its enterprise.

Bill Bivens, Thumb area dairy agent, states that "this of training session is excellent. Not only do we see new technology but the fact that it has a practical application and how it is applied to that particular farm. After all, the type of recommendations we are asking about daily is, how can a farmer do a better job on his farm as it is, not what would be the best answer if he was to start all over".

SO TRUE

The cost of high living is the reason people can't meet the high cost of living today.

TIP TO MOTORISTS

Drive to live-it's the number of times that you arrive home safely that really counts.

some drastically. In its final days the Saturday Evening Post pruned subscription lists ruthlessly. All magazine publishers have made the painful discovery that servicing a subscription list costs more money than can be brought in even by a substantial increase in the selling

The day is fast approaching when magazine publishers will tire of subsidizing subscription readers from their operating funds. When the day comes, magazines which have not collapsed from the labor pains of birthing a new concept of magazine sales will withdraw from the subscription wars and rush their products to the newsstands.

Many magazines -- especially those with specialized readership--will not survive the hurly-burly of the hardboiled newsstand world, Magazines will devour each other in the dog-eat-dog battle which ensues. Famed old magazine names will disappear, some sooner than you may think. Since men will always print something as long as there are men to read it, it's possible that a new generation of magazines will appear, different in concept, different in outlook, and--sadly--different in price. A number of magazines have already exceeded on a per issue basis the cost of a reasonably priced paperback book, and only occasionally with justification.

The revolution is upon us; the red tide is at the gates. It says here that it's unlikely that you will be asked to renew very many of your current magazine subscrip-

It is a wonder how some women stand their years of overwork. I think of mothers of a large family, or widows who must work all day and part of the night to take care of children. Many a woman will keep going bravely for months as long as a child or a mother or a husband is very ill. During this time she may not mention pain or fatigue. But then. when the invalid recovers or dies, the woman goes to pieces and starts complaining of many discomforts, all apparently of functional (psychically produced origin).

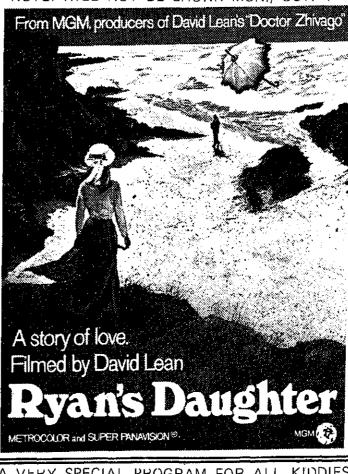

Occasionally I will see a youngish or middle-aged woman or man who tells a story of a sudden collapse, followed by a breakdown, all suggestive of a little stroke. The store feller says TV has its place, but it ain't in a place of business or where folks talk to one another. The thing about a picture, moving or not, he said, is that you're bound to git tired of looking at it soon or late. Fer instant, he said he wouldn't take anything fer being able to watch the first man walk on the moon, but he wouldn't give a plug nickel to see a thousand more men

But they ain't no TV, and they ain't no football, and Sat-urday night the fellers was counting their blessings. Clem Webster said he looked at TV baseball at home ever now and then, and he could tell pritty much what was going on. But from now on thru the first of the year, Clem said, all he can see between the razer blade and beer commercials is big shapes with numbers running into one another.

Doolittle, that has a daughter working in a city that has a live football team, said he went to a game onct when he visited his girl. He allowed the only difference from TV football is a million people is yelling in yore ear what is going on out on the field, and at least half of em ain't happy

President Nixon is called the nation's No. 1 fan, Ed said, and that don't mean he blows more air than anybody. It means he likes sports, football special, and he goes out to a lot of the live games. The only reason he can see fer the President taking time out fer football, Ed allowed, is that it probable gives him cause to think about the rough side of the Russians and the Chinese. He might remind hisself at ever game, Ed said, that them boys is more than ping pong and chess tournaments and trading moon dust samples.

While the communists is working on deals to make Mack trucks and entertain the President, they got stuff bubbling in different pots on the back burners. They's more in the papers right now about trade than about treaties to stop making germ weapons that can kill everbody 20 times over, but that don't mean we're out of the woods, was Ed's words.

So if Mr. Nixon can relax watching football, he has Ed's

Putting On Happy Face

Putting on a happy face – for the home exterior – is, nowadays, as easy as saying, "siding."

Where once the care of the house outside was a burden to the homeowner, now siding makes it a blessing — because there's no, or little, care.

With easy-to-care-for, modern-material sidings of mineral fibers, aluminum, asbestos cement and solid vinyl, the homeowner can be freed of continuous upkeep for the outside of his home.

Regardless of the exotic names they give the food that's served, it still tastes like what it is: food catered and served on a tray. Sort of like the pre-steamed hot dog you buy at the ball park.

You eat it because that's all there is.

Given a choice wouldn't passengers rather take the money and buy their food on the ground before or after the flight.

4-H develops good citizens

By Bernard Jardot

Through their project work and club activities, 4-H'ers develop into responsible citizens, improve our environment, and build nutrition and health. They also engage in community development, strengthen family life, promote education, chart careers, and help spread the 4-H learn-by-doing idea around

We note with pride the edu-cational opportunities these young people receive through the 4-H program. Under the leadership of the Cooperative Extension Service, 4-H meetings and other activities are conducted by volunteer local leaders with the help of 4-H youth agents. This also includes special group 4-H programs with our 4th and 5th grade students in the Tuscola County School Systems. The 4th grade students worked with the 4-H Bicycle Safety project and the 5th grade students worked with the 4-H Environmental Conser-

These action oriented boys and girls from 9 to 19 years, and some 27 million men and women who once were 4-H members, know the meaning of involvement. To them we extend our sincere good wishes for success. We also look forward to their continued achievement in their varied projects in science, agriculture, home economics, personal development, community service, leadership, and citizenship. They are building a better way of life for themselves and their world. Opportunities in 4-H and the opportunity to join 4-H are greater now than ever before. Young people may join whether they live on farms, in towns, cities or in the suburbs. Those of all cultural and economic backgrounds are welcome to ioin. The main requirement is wanting to belong to a learnby-doing organization that just doesn't talk about it, but does

The cooperative Extension Service of Tuscola county provides each 4-H member with the latest research information and up-to-date methods for carrying on the projects selected. Using this information, the 4-H'er develops his or her project, keeps records, prepares educational exhibits, and makes demonstrations for the benefit of others.

If your son or daughter is interested in 4-H, or if you would like to be volunteer leader, why not contact a local 4-H club or contact the county 4-H

at Holbrook

now independent

The Holbrook Baptist church of rural Cass City was reviewed by a council of 13 pastors and seven lay messengers from Baptist churches in Michigan preparatory to becoming an established local Baptist church. It had previously been a mission church.

The service was held Tues-day evening, Sept. 14, at the Holbrook church. Upon examination of the church's Confession of Faith, Covenant, Constitution and By-laws, the council accepted the Holbrook church as being duly organized.

Pastor and Mrs. Milton

Gelatt, working under Galilean Baptist Mission, Inc., started holding services at Holbrook in 1959 and it has operated as a mission church since then. The members have purchased the church property and an addition has been made to the original building within the past year. The addition provides space for Sunday School classes and other church activities.

A dedication service for the building was led by Rev. Larry Mattis, director of the Galilean Baptist Mission, Inc.

wins award

Owen-Gage Future Homemakers of America have won the Red Rose chapter award for contributions, made locally and on the State, National and International level.

The 50 girls have visited rest homes and provided entertainment for the elderly. Each girl gave a penny an inch of height to State headquarters and sent Christmas cards to servicemen overseas as a National project. As an international project the girls made dresses for little girls in Viet

They gave coupons to a Bad Axe hospital to help finance a kidney machine.

Milliken trying to change image of Republican Party

A very concerted effort to push the national image of the Republican Party further toward the center of the political arena away from the right edge is underway by Governor William G. Milliken.

The Governor, who has been a moderate to liberal Republican all his life, will be chairman of the national Republican Governors Conference during 1972 campaign. That position makes his views more significant nationally than they might otherwise be and gives him a platform from which to press his approach. The Traverse City native kept a low profile on the national scene during his first two years in office, since he had inherited his post and had yet to prove he could win a statewide election. But as soon as he won last November, he started moving on the national scene and got some prompt with state issues and this year's difficult Legislature from January into September, he found time to pen a letter to GOP National Chairman Robert Dole of Kansas pleading for more moderation on the national scene by the GOP. The Governor said the party spends too much time "converting the converted" and not enough time finding the votes it needs to win. He particularly was critical of the party's weekly publication, "Monday," which he felt was often too strident in its tone.

The first result was his selection as chairman of the GOP governors in a secret ballot over Oregon Gov. Tom McCall.

While the letter started out as a private communication, it surfaced during a GOP National Committee meeting in Denver and received national attention.

Milliken's most recent public push came in Puerto Rico at the National Governors Con-

In a meeting of the Republican caucus, Milliken asked Dole if he planned to pay more attention to the Republican governors in the future. Dole said

ings on the entire question. "More and more in Michigan

-- and I think if recent polls are any indication, in the nation --voters, I believe, consider themselves not Republicans or Democrats but as independents," he said. "And I, therefore, believe that we have to make a plan and a very deliberate appeal as a party to independents."

Afterward Milliken issued a statement summing up his feel-

"If we focus our approach on the declining hard core and we emphasize efforts to convert the converted, I believe that we'll waste not only ammunition but efficiency, and we'll also turn away the independents upon whom we depend for support in winning in

"Our most important job and our most important goal ought to be to build our party into an active, vibrant political force that embraces people of all ages and of all races. And we're trying to do that in Michigan.

He also, he has made it clear, is trying to do that in the rest of the country.

ILLNESSES INDICATED

If a mass screening program to check the health of state civil service employes is a valid sample of the general population, there are a lot of people walking around who ought to be seeing a doctor.

The mass screening involved physical examinations for 25,000 state employes at three permanent clinics and two mobile units over the past two years. The tests produced results which prompted either the hospitalization or the placing under a doctor's care of one out of every 10 persons

"We have state employes not only alive, but alive and working today who otherwise might not be with us at all, or hopelessly disabled, because screening referred them to a physician for treatment when disease was in the treatable stage," says Dr. John A. Cowan, the retiring director of the pro-

"In some cases medical treatment resulted in complete recovery and in other cases it delayed progress, lessened severity of disease, and eased the residual effects," he says. "It is my conclusion that group health insurance plans of the future will include screening and other health maintenance benefits to help sort out from the healthy population those persons who don't know they are sick but who need a physician's immediate care."

In other words, it's cheaper for insurance companies and much better if the policyholder has a regular checkup to nip diseases in the bud. The ounce of prevention is still preferable to a pound of cure,

Red Hawks bow after stiff Thumb B battle with Bad Axe, 14-8

Cass City Red Hawks came within three inches of facing rough, tough Frankenmuth still undefeated this Friday. That's the margin by which the Bad Axe Hatchets made a first down on the Cass City five-yard line to keep a scoring drive alive and go on to beat the Hawks last Friday, 14-8, at Cass City Recreational

The key play came in the third quarter with the score tied at

The Hatchets had moved down field on the strength of their air arm to move to the Cass City seven-yard line with fourth and two yards to go.

Bad Axe Quarterback passed in the flat to try and pick up the needed yardage and the chain gang was called to measure.

CRAIG GUERNSEY

Craig Guernsey, Senior halfback for Cass City, has been selected for the weekly Red Hawk award for his efforts in the game against Bad Axe. Coach William Philbin said that a review of the films showed that Guernsey was strong on defense, blocked well and was an effective runner. Guernsey nosed out Tim Knoblet, Philbin said, because he was slightly stronger on offense than Knoblet who was a defensive stand-out against the Hatchets.

loop wins

The Cass City High School golf team took over undisputed possesstion of first place in the Thumb B Conference with a win over Marlette Friday, 167-169.

The Hawks are undefeated. and the close win Friday was attributed by Coach David Lovejoy to the depth on the team. Don Galbraith, the school's top golfer, led the squad with a 41 and the rest of the team was also in low 40's. Jerry Toner, Rich Lowe and

Craig Helwig posted 42's and Randy Brown, a 44. Tuesday afternoon, Sept. 22, the Hawks went on the road for the first time and defeated Sandusky, 168-179. Galbraith posted an impressive 37. Other scores posted by Cass City in the win were: Rich Lowe, 43; Helwig and Kim Glaspie, 44, and Toner, 45.

GRADE-POINT

A good athletic record may get a boy into college, but it won't keep him there.

All four Cass City backs averaged over three yards per carry with Hopper posting a seven-yard average with 21 yards in three tries.

Most Cass City fans were happy with the Hawks' performance in the game. Coach William Philbin said that his team exhibited a good deal of pride by not folding after Bad Axe went ahead in the third period.

While Cass City has looked talented in its first two outings, the real low-down on the team should be coming up Fri-

Early games leave no doubt that Frankenmuth is one of the better teams in the Thumb B Conference and a strong showing by the Hawks would place Cass City among the elite of 1971. Frankenmuth rolled over a strong Sandusky eleven last SPEEDY MIKE KAPANKA, Bad Axe halfback, was one of the reasons that the Hatchets edged Cass City Friday. Here he scores for the visitors as David Doerr (no. 65) gives chase.
