Weekends are for racing says cycle buff Ets Terbush

By Kit McMillion

Enduro motorcycle racing sounds like a man's sport, doesn't it? But it isn't necessarily so, as Mrs. Darold "Ets" Terbush of 5878 Main St., Deford, can testify.

ified.

From appearances you'd never guess. A tall and graceful woman clad in a fashionable chartreuse pants suit, you wonder what she looks like in her helmet, goggles, leather boots and lacket.

But you can believe her when she says she loves it because there's a certain glint in her eve.

A young housewife and mother--she's 25--Mrs. Terbush explained that she began riding last summer when her father bought her a 125 Yamaha trail bike. "I'd never been on one until we got the trail bike," she said. She and her husband rode it double until he decided to get a cycle of his own. "My father was the instigator of it all," she said, adding that her mother and a friend also ride. Her 5-year-old daughter, Shelly, wants to be a racer, "She's excited about getting a mini bike," her mother said. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Etsel Wilcox of Deford, go with them to the races and take care of Shelly. "They gas us up," their racing daughter said, explaining that she can only go about 60 miles on a tank of gas. Ets raced for the first time at Midland July 18. Since then the Terbush family has been on the go. "I think we've been home only two week ends since May," she said. "We put the bikes in the pickup and take the house trailer and spend the week end. Sometimes we just go north to ride." Enduro racing means riding through woods, over mud, sand, hills and other undesirable terrain to test the rider's endurance, often without a trail to ride on. "The object is to maintain a constant speed of 24 miles an hour over the whole course," she said. "It's practically impossible to do, especially on the turns."

The race is 80 to 100 miles Of the four races she's entered, Mrs. Terbush has come long and riders are given 4 hours to complete it. If they in second three times. Cass City man dies, wife seriously injured in one of 3 fatal crashes

A Cass City man was killed and his wife critically injured in a one car accident Monday when the car failed to stop at a stop sign and landed in a ditch.

The victim was Merrit Darell Allen, 57, of 4848 Dodge Road, Cass City, who died from a ruptured aorta, according to Coroner Ben Collon. His wife, Myrtle, 60, is listed in serious condition in St. Luke's Hospital in Saginaw. Two daughters, Connie, 22, and Sharon, 28, were also seriously injured and are listed in fair condition in Hills and Dales General Hospital.

The accident occurred at 9:25 p. m. in Columbia township. Tuscola county sheriff's reports state that Allen, the driver, was headed east on Dickerson Road and went through a stop sign and across Unionville Road, M-138, where the car landed in a ditch. Dickerson Road makes a jog

movies destroyed

A civil suit was filed with the Tuscola County Circuit Court requesting that 8 reels of film belonging to Karen Folsom be destroyed because they are obscene, lewd, lascivious, filthy, indecent and disgusting. The suit was filed Thursday. Oct. 7, by Prosecuting Attorney Leo E. Maki for Tuscola county. The film was taken from the Folsom home in rural Caro as part of the investigation of the Dec. 3, 1970, murder of Allen Folsom.

A petition requesting the return of the film was filed Sept. 17 by Mrs. Folsom. It was taken under advisement by Judge James Churchill Oct. 4.

The whole thing was casual, Spectators looked up from their paper. Most conversation halted briefly and a couple of students stopped holding hands, After the group marched off single file one of the members of the Michigan band resting before the afternoon performance said, hell, we might as well give them a hand. So the performers received a perfunctory round of applause and the readers went back to their papers, the guy to his gal and the visitors started talking again about the upcoming football game.

Moments after the show the momentary pause in the routine subsided like the ripple in a pool when a very small rock breaks its surface.

You might suspect by this that the day of the campus protest is ending. . .carries no weight anymore.

I think the real reason for the little stir was that demonstrations and protests are old hat to most students and campus visitors. . . .sort of an expected adjunct to reading, writing and arithmetic. It's certain, too, that the schools know how to handle protests better than they did when they made headlines across the country.

I don't feel that the lack of excitement was due to a change in outlook by students, but rather a change in the establishment.

The student view is so close to the view of the nation on the war issue that there is very little to protest about. The impression persists that the kids are waiting for the next real gut issue that they can challenge the establishment.

All the banners at the football game Saturday that I saw concerned football. . .not the War, not ecology, not Black power, not dope, not even women's lib. Even nation-wide TV coverage wasn't enough to stir the demonstrators.

But a new issue will surface it always has. When it arrives today's students will have become establishment and will be as aghast about it all as adults always seem to be. But the young will eat it up. It's like my 12-year-old said at the end of the day.

It's been a funday, dad. Those guys in that building put on a real cool show. It was neat. So it goes. The young will always protest and their elders always protest the protesters.

Board mulls school

traffic problems again

The Cass City School Board has capitulated to the demands of Grant Hutchinson to solve a drainage problem at the school but is still no closer to a solution of the traffic problem under discussion for a year or more.

These were two of the more important conclusions reached in a session of the board Monday night at the high school. was a session highlighted primarily by routine decisions. In the previous session, Hutchinson had appeared before the board to protest the diversion of water to his golf course from school property.

The school's engineer said that no water was diverted. A committee was formed and investigation revealed that there was some doubt as to whether water was diverted. However, the committee recommended paying for drainage at a cost of about $1,000. The theory behind the decision was that while there is some doubt about the legal obligation now. when future work is completed drainage should be in the direction of the golf course. So in return for a written agreement that future drainage can tie into the main to be installed, the board voted approval of the installation. The problem caused by school. traffic, the hill north of the drive and the school buses was aired with seemingly no solution in sight.

Trustee Dr. Ed Scollon asked if any progress had been made toward installation of a red blinker at the school. He asked that action be started in this direction.

He also reported that students were "burning rubber" as they left the school parking lot and driving past his home toward the village. : Mrs. Geraldine Prieskorn said that buses entering the highway have been holding up traffic. The safety patrol situation was again bandied about, but no concrete action or suggestions resulted. The situation remains essentially as it was when Mrs. Bernard Freiburger first aired the subject last winter.

AWARD CONTRACTS

Several routine contracts were awarded to low bidders. Twenty bus tires will be furnished by Cass City Gulf for $59.43 each, the lowest of 3 bids. Hunt Construction will remove snow from the parking lot with a 2 1/2-yard machine for $14 per hour. A grader will cost $12 an hour. Tuckey Block, the low bidder last year, was second bidder Monday. Principal Russell Richards reported little interest in adult education. He said that of the various classes offered only without comment. Donahues price site

land at $1500 an acre

The Cass City School Board inched forward on two plans for capital improvements that are high on the priority list of Supt. Donald Crouse.

The most expensive is consideration of additional site land. Crouse told the board the preliminary discussion with Dr. and Mrs. H. T. Donahue indicated that there are 58 acres adjacent to present schoolowned land and that the cost would be in the neighborhood of $1,500 per acre. The owners are reluctant to sell lots fronting on Seeger Street, but Crouse said that at least one of the lots would be needed to establish traffic patterns to avoid congestion in future expansion.

Trustees Don Koepfgen, Elwyn Helwig, Dr. Ed Scollon and Dean Hoag will investigate.

In any case, a special millage levy would be needed to pay for the acquisition.

A smaller, but more immediate expenditure is needed to improve the lighting in the intermediate gym, Crouse said. He said that he talked to Wagner-Patton, Thumbelectricians, and the estimate for the job was $4,000.

The superintendent favored awarding the contract without bids because it would hurry the installation. He speculated that the $200 fee for drawing specifications and the elimination of advertising for bids might make up for any increased costs lost without bidding the work. However, Mrs. Geraldine Prieskorn said that as a board member she felt that it was unfair not to bid the work. The board agreed. City;

CASS CITY CHRONICLE-THURSDAY, OCTOBER 14, 1971

PAGE THREE

Monday night at Cass City High School the school board held an "executive" session (executive - that's a fancy word for meetings closed to the taxpayer and the press) and it was listed on the agenda to discuss personnel problems.

Attending the meeting were Gary Kelley, Deford principal; Robert Stickle, intermediate principal, and Mrs. Bernard Freiburger, Campbell principal.

When the regular meeting ended President Arthur Severance asked if they had anything to bring up before the board.

We've got nothing to discuss, said Stickle, quick as a wink under discussion is one of us.

There was a brief visitor at the school board meeting Monday. He was Bill Kritzman. He dashed in and out in about 15 seconds flat. What he wanted was my proxy for Cass City Development Co, shares so that there would be enough shares represented at the meeting to form a quorum. He got my signature and took off.

But not without comment. Glad you took the interest to drop by; yeah, be sure to visit us again, board members jibed as Bill hastily retreated.

I'm not old. . .no not that. But. . . the years do creep by and inflation creeps (or runs) with it. I thought of this in Bay City the other day when I stopped at a Coney Island restaurant where I've eaten since I was a youngster.

Most of the time I order the same things, 2 dogs, chili and a glass of milk. Then, more often than not it's a double dip ice cream cone.

I did that one day last week and the bill came to $1.98. When I first started getting the same lunch at the same places the total cost was 30 cents.

I own a miniscule portion of Walbro stock and this week received notification that the stock I own has been split four for one. I now own four shares for every one I owned previously. I don't know why that gives such a feeling of sudden wealth . . . of getting something unexpected. I know that it's the same company, with the same worth and that prior to the split each share was worth four times what it is today. Regardless of all this, it's still pleasant to receive the split. It's something for nothing and I don't care if it is illusionary.

As the fishing pressure increases along the Thumbshorelines so do the incidences. Put enough people together and you'll have that certain small percentage of meat hogs, poor sports and rubes. Dick Szarapski, the best fisherman I know, says that they are all there now in the Port Austin area. They are using big treble hooks and snagging Steelheads and Browns in the river and in the lake, Dick reports.

They show little respect for the other fishermen and seem intent on bringing home a fish at any cost.

It was slightly disgusting to Dick as it is to most fisher men and all sportsmen. If I had to do that, he said, I'd quit fishing.

An estimated 100 persons attended the charter night ceremonies of the Cass City Jaycee Club highlighted by the installation of officers and an address by District President Patrick Sheridan of Detroit. Sheridan told the group that the Cass City club has an advantage in that it can look around the community, see what needs to be done and do it. There is no tradition that says the club must do something else before it tackles the job that needs to be done, Sheridan said.

Thomas Gorton, president of the Livonia Jaycees, introduced the charter members and President James Blades. He recalled Blades' outstanding achievements as a member of the Livonia chapter and the numerous awards he won as a Jaycee in his community.

Blades told the group that he would work for the unity of the district that includes the Thumb.

He pledged that the chapter would be active in the affairs of the nation, state and the community. He also pledged that he would live up to the Javcee creed

I grew up under the shadow of George Orwell's "1984" and talk about test tube babies, but that never worried me too much because I still think nature has the chemists beat. But the value of human life does concern me. Someone worked out the retail value of the elements of the human body once and it came to about $2. That is probably increased by now because of inflation. But doesn't it seem silly to even try to put a price tag on a life? Last Wednesday night I watched a TV movie called "The Last Child," which was frightening in many respects. For those of you who didn't see the flick, it was about a young couple who were trying to have a second child in a society that permitted only one birth per family.

Tough looking persons from the "Population Control Center" followed them around trying to arrest them for having a baby. I think it's pretty obvious that any law like that is unfair and just plain stupid.

But what was even more disgusting was the government method of controlling the situation--forced abortion or simply killing the infant after it is born.

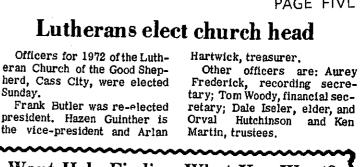

I have enough faith in people to believe things won't go that far, but the idea proposed by the movie has more possibility of becoming a reality than some others.

Now, I'm a believer in Zero Population Growth and population control. And I'm not entirely against some changes in legalizing abortion. But I think it's downright scary if concern for life isn't the chief consideration

Commissioners to divide $113,825 of federal funds

A special meeting of the Tuscola County Board of Commissioners was held Wednesday to receive applications from units of government for shares of $113,825 made available to the county under the Emergency Employment Act of 1970. (EEA), Commissioner Ed Golding said the board received notice of the money the latter part of last week and have until Friday, Oct. 15 to file applications. Cass City village superintendent James Blades said he was invited to the meeting and intends to make the same request he made at the special meeting Sept. 21, when $213,000 of EEA funds was divided among several county agencies.

His request is for $28,600 for salaries of a patrol officer, a crewman for the Dept. of Public Works, a secretary for the village clerk, a sanitation worker for the Waste-Water Treatment Dept. and a building inspector for the village superintendent's office.

He expressed doubts about getting any money this time = either. At the regular meeting of the commissioners Tuesday, a letter was read from Governor William Milliken stating he had been advised by the Attorney General that he had no authority to sign an ordinance about doe hunting.

He didn't sign the ordinance the commissioners had passed to prevent an antierless deer hunting season in Tuscola county, but he didn't veto it either, Golding stated. That meant the board had no veto to override, he said. The board did authorize and instruct Leo E. Maki, county prosecuting attorney, to investigate any other means they could prevent the season, Golding said an injunction or suit might be possible. The commissioners are working several extra days this week making up the budget for

This matter was brung up Saturday night at the country store, and Ed Doolittle got the floor right off and answered my question. He said the trick is to keep folks we got around longer. Tuscola county has many fine reliable contractors. To my knowledge they will furnish a detailed set of plans, go over these plans, materials and labor requirements and bid on the work involved. They will also give references and places where they have constructed like facilities. They will not require payment in full before services are rendered but will agree with the farmer that at intervals during construction partial payments are to be made with balance in full upon completion. These contractors will gladly sign a statement, or release whereby the farmer is not liable to any material, labor or other debts incurred by the contractor. If a contract is signed both parties should be sure of its contents. Here is where it pays to consult an attorney. The farmer should let his credit source go over the details too and know his contractor.

4-H ACTIVITIES 4-H clubs join pollution fight By Bernard Jardot

Youth's interest in environment pollution of all kinds, and its eventual effect, crop up all over. It even emerges in their popular songs like, "In the Year 2525"

Participation in environmental teach-ins, demonstrations and projects like Earth Day are further indications of a wide-spread movement among youth to help clean up our planet earth. We hope that they do not join these movements as a fad, but are sincerely interested in our environmental pollution problem. Here in Tuscola county the 4-H youth program has gone beyond the regular 4-H club conservation projects to introd ce environmental conserva-

More pupils at all area schools

Cass City, Owen-Gage and Kingston school systems all report an increase in school enrollment this year.

The total in the Cass City district is 2011, up 29 from last year's 1982. The biggest increase was in the intermediate school, which showed an increase of 34 students. The total is 568, and last year it was 532.

Superintendent Donald Crouse said the increase was due to a wave that has been passing through the school. This year the students are 6th graders, and they had to add another section because there are about 30 more students than last year's sixth grade.

The high school lost 4 pupils to bring enrollment to 559. Campbell Elementary school has 2 more with 576. Evergreen has 154 students, an increase of 10, and Deford has 154, a decrease of 15,

Crouse said the system is getting a little crowded, and there are no extra rooms at tion. We have introduced the 4-H Environmental Conservation project in most 5th grade classes in the Tuscola county schools. Each school and class will determine the special activities they will participate in. These include class and of injuries in an automobile school field trips and several accident. schools now visit the Seven Ponds Nature Center at Dryden.

The fight against pollution is a battle against time. It knows no age limits; those under 21 as well as those over 30 are needed to join the fight. Many of our 4-H clubs and the county 4-H Service Club have clean up projects in their club program. We must get others involved - how about your group?

Campbell. Owen-Gage schools show an increase of 33 to make, a total of 700. The breakdown is Owendale Elementary--206;¹⁰ Gage-town Elementary--156; junior high--118 and high school--220.

Kingston schools show a total enrollment of 882, up 39. The high school has 393 and the elementary school, 489. They are not experiencing crowding, as they just moved into the new high school in January 1970, but there is some bunching of students. This year a third grade was added, and the second grade added last year dropped.

Preschool

open house

slated Oct. 21

The Cass City Preschool nursery opened its doors Monday to 20 eager youngsters aged 3 and 4.

The licensed cooperative meets Monday, Tuesday, and Thursday from 9 to 11 a.m. at the First Presbyterian Church.

The first day was the culmination of much work by parents and months of preparation. Last week a consultant from the Department of Social Services made her licensing inspection and told the mothers they were the best organized and best equipped first year nursery she had seen, said Mrs, Mary Albee, secretary of the board of directors.

The nursery is designed to give children and parents an opportunity to learn skills and develop relationships among each other.

The next major goal of Cass City's new nursery is to enroll at least 10 more children.

An open house will be held Thursday, Oct. 21, from 10 to 11 a. m. for all mothers and their preschool children who are interested in observing the nursery in session. Registration forms and health forms will be available then. For more information parents are asked to call Mrs. Lynn Albee at 872-2279.

With more children, the present class could be divided into separate groups for threeyear-olds and pre-kindergarten.

income housing, and for some it is proving to be a traumatic experience.

The Federal Government's Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) is the prime mover in a plan whereby three and four bedroom homes are sold to qualified individuals on low monthly payment 30year contracts.

Qualifications vary depending upon the builder, but most start with the family's gross income, from which 5% is deducted, and then an additional $300 is deducted for each child. The new figure must then fall between a federally-determined minimum and maximum figure to be eligible for a low-income home.

Presently a three-bedroom home sells for $21,000 and a four-bedroom home for $24,000. Several options are open to the buyer; he can have a garage, or a full basement, but rarely both, at least without an additional charge. The homes are stick-built, as opposed to modular or precut. They are mainly ranchstyle, with the garage an extension of the home if it is wanted. A quarter of the homes built to date have been FHAfinanced, and have conformed to FHA financing precepts and building codes. Individuals owning property in the vicinity of new low-income housing have been concerned that such construction will downgrade the neighborhood. Inspection of such homes doesn't bear out this feeling, if a few reservations are kept in mind.

The size of the lot has a great deal to do with the appearance of the completed home. A three-bedroom home with attached garage on an 80x120 foot lot in an area of older homes, or in an all-new development, usually can hold its own in appearance. A threebedroom home without garage, on a smaller lot, tends to look boxy. Concern has been expressed by present homeowners in the area of new construction of this type as to the kind of individual who will purchase these homes. One builder when contacted upon the subject expressed himself as follows: "Look, Iknow people think we're going to put ADC mothers with six kids into these places, but it's just not so, It's a simple matter of dollars and cents. We can't put anyone into them who can't make the payments."

bone of contention to some neighboring owners. They fear that with monthly payments so small as to resemble very reasonable rent in some cases, there will be no inducement for the low-income housing owner to properly maintain his home. One thing that has become obvious with the number of companies surging into the field is that there is a definite demand for this type of housing. In the majority of cases the homes are sold before they are completed. Cities and townships have found that construction follows state building codes, usually close to minimum specifications. One point is made again and again in connection with the new low-income housing: what is going to be left of these homes by the time the final 30-year contract payment is made? Michigan's Thumb is well on the way to finding out.

For a local project, the group will give money toward the purchase of a table to be used at Senior Citizens' meetings. Mrs. Esther McCullough, assisted by Alice McAleer, Julia Murray, Thelma Schwaderer, Lydia Wiehing, gave a report on "Home and Family." A discussion followed. Dr. William Carpenter, Michigan State University horticulturist, says that roses need extra care if they are to look their best. Proper cultivating, mulching, watering and disbudding will lead to prettier roses throughout their blooming season.

Wow! Hawk golfers perfect posts first grid win in undefeated season Junior Varsity won its first game in three starts Thursday with a 26-14 decision over The league win combined with In a sudden death playoff Toner Frankenmuth.

In three short years, Cass City High School's golf team moved from league doormat to league champions and Saturday will be the Thumb B Conference representative in the regional tournament at Romeo.

The Hawks' victory Monday at Sandusky was no fluke. The team won the championship by charging through the regular season undefeated. The team shot a 341 at the league meet for first place.

seven straight dual victories resulted in a perfect season for Cass City with 56 points out of a possible 56. Cass City's Jerry Toner and Marlette's Randy Rogers tied for the best score with 78's. Marlette was second with 344.

won medalist honors for the tournament. Toner's 78 for 18 holes also established a new school record, breaking the old mark of 82 held by Jude Patnaude, Other scores of the champions were: Don Galbraith and Craig Helwig, 83; Rich Lowe, 97, and Randy Brown, 99.

Coach David Lovejoy said that he felt the team's success was due to the over-all depth of the squad, Playing a big part in the dual victories throughout the year were Kim Glaspie and Tim Stickle, Lovejoy said.

assessment roll for curb and gutter on Garfield Street be accepted and levied as soon as work is completed. Motion carried. The Financial Report for the month of August was reviewed. Trustee Rawson reported that the Park Committee met with Jim Ware to further study the municipal pool problem. An architect is being retained to investigate the present pool deficiencies and consult with the park committee as to the best action.

It was reported that the Third Street Park has been purchased by Jim Ware, and will remain a public park. The Safety Committee reported that they will be meeting before the next regular Council meeting.

Requests have been sent out for a bulk gasoline tank. It was also reported that the Planning Commission will be holding its second public meeting to review the proposed zoning ordinance and subdivision regulations. If there are no major objections by the Commission regarding the zoning ordinance and subdivision regulations, they will be turned over to the Village Council with the recommendation that they be adopted. The Village Attorney was present to recommend to the Council the needed changes or additions to the B.O.C.A. codes. It was recommended that three steps be taken to assure the Council that the B.O.C.A. codes are substantial codes for the Village. The recommendations are to (1) consult with a professional architect, (2) consult with our own Village engineers, Hubbell, Roth & Clark, Inc., and (3) follow up on the possibility towards the establishment of a joint building inspection system with Caro. A report will be made at the next council meeting regarding these recommendations.

President Althaver requested that the Council consider the formation of a tree planting program for next year, A discussion was held on the purchase of the Orr East property. Superintendent Blades reported that he is waiting for the letter of intent for federal funds to be assigned to the appropriate federal agency; at which time, an application will be sent to the Village.

The Village Attorney presented to the Council a proposed ordinance for speed limit changes. After some discus-ported by Trustee Jones that the Council accept the Jaycee Chapter's "Welcome to Cass City" entrance signs project. Motion carried.

A discussion was held on John Little's request to purchase a portion of the Village's property located on Brooker Street at Houghton Street. No action was taken at this time as the Village Attorney will draw up a public easement document for review by the Council.

Superintendent Blades reported that a request was received for a cable television franchise. A discussion was then held on a prior resolution granting permission to Thumb Video Company of Caro to install and operate a community antenna television system in Cass City. An investigation will be made by the Village Attorney to determine if this company is still in existence, and what action should be taken. A motion was made by Trustee Ross and supported by Trustee Holmberg that the Village Treasurer be given an extension of the tax collection date to October 8. Motion carried. The Council discussed the proposed State's revenue sharing formula and its impact on the Village. Exact details of the formula are still being worked out by the Department of Treasury, and complete information will be presented to the Council at a future date. Superintendent Blades reported to the Council that the Detroit Edison Company has filed an application with the Michigan Public Service Commission to amend its rates. Mr. Blades told the Council that as a result of this rate increase, it may be less expensive to convert to new type of street lights. A detailed report will be made on this matter at the next regular Council meeting. A motion was made by Trustee Christner and supported by Trustee Albee that the bills as inspected by the finance committee be approved for payment. Motion carried. The Council was informed that a donation of $85.00 was given to the Village in memory of William H. Proctor to be used for a new pool or summer recreation equipment. There being no further business, a motion was made by Trustee Albee and supported by Trustee Holmberg that the meeting be adjourned.
