

FROM THE
Editor's Corner

Next year the odds are great that if you want to float the AuSable River in a canoe you will need a permit that shows you have a right to be on the river.

It's one more indicator of the way things are going. It's a part of the picture where a goose hunter near a game preserve is selected by lot and only a select few are allowed to occupy a blind. No tickle, no shootee.

No hunting, keep out, no trespassing signs abound throughout the Thumb and the State.

Michigan now and Michigan as little as 15 years ago bears little resemblance.

It's a good argument for zero population growth.

That's the root of it all, of course. More leisure time, better highways, shifting interests are merely symptoms, not causes.

As we sit in our quiet corner of the State many of these problems seem far off, not really germane to our life style.

But change creeps up and suddenly Cass City and the Thumb are no longer rural, no longer isolated.

In a comparatively short time, the entire area will zone and the giant megalopolis, predicted in an exhaustive survey, stretching from Detroit to Saginaw Bay, will be a little closer.

One of the faster growing areas in the State is Brighton. The reason is that business and industry is following the population trend away from the city.

And as their jobs move out, the people who formerly rode to Detroit to work are moving further away from their suburban homes.

Edison to close

Cass City office

Following a trend in its service area, Harry E. Richards, district manager, announced that Detroit Edison's office in Cass City will be closed after Friday, Nov. 12.

Replacing the office will be three firms designated as agencies for the company. Bills can be paid in person at Albee Hardware, Cass City State Bank and Pinney State Bank.

Albee will also exchange light bulbs, fuses and detachable appliance cords of standard size and serve as a pick up station for small appliances needing electrical repair.

Richards said that Edison has a sizable investment in the area and is "eager to see the area develop further."

The Cass City office staff will transfer to the Caro office.

SMILING AS SHE RECEIVED flowers from Principal Russell Richards is Karla Stine, the 1971 Home-coming queen. Accompanying her on the field was Ken Marker. Moments later she was crowned by Cindy Strickland, the 1970 queen.

Allot federal funds to 4 county agencies

County agencies were awarded all of the $133,825 made available to Tuscola county under section 6 of the Federal Emergency Employment Act (EEA).

In September $213,000 of EEA funds was divided among various county agencies. The Tuscola County Board of Commissioners met Wednesday, Oct. 13, in a special session to hear petitions from various county and local units of government. They received requests totaling $178,486.90.

The county road commission was awarded the largest share of the funds, receiving $79,420, which will be used to hire an additional 10 employees. Director Robert Wellington requested $100,000.

In September the road commission was awarded $116,093 to pay for salaries of 20 men, five for each of the four county garages.

These men are now being hired and will be used for removing brush and trees from road right-of-ways and clean-up. They receive the starting salary of $4.39 per hour for a 45 hour week.

The sheriff's department was granted $16,600, which will be used to hire two deputies. Sheriff Hugh Marr requested $33,205.02 for three deputies and a radio operator.

The Office of Economic Opportunity requested $5920 and was given $5792 to hire a clerical worker. The office had recently discontinued the position due to lack of funds.

The Cooperative Extension office was granted $6821 to hire an extension aide, who will work primarily with the county 4-H clubs helping to further the 4-H program.

The commissioners also voted to hire a clerical worker for the county to keep books on the federal monies. The salary is set at $5192.

The county doesn't actually have the money yet. The application was sent in Friday. Because the commissioners received notice of the funds only a week earlier, the time was very short in which to make the distribution decisions.

The funds are intended to provide jobs for unemployed persons, giving consideration to veterans. All monies must be matched 10 per cent by the recipient. This can be in kind matching.

Village president James Blades again went to the board with requests for $28,600 to be used to hire a patrol officer, a crewman for the Department of Public Works, a secretary for the village clerk's office, a sanitation worker for the Waste-Water Treatment Department, and a building inspector for the village superintendent's office.

Blades made the same request when the $213,000 was being divided.

The village of Unionville also made a request for $5940.

Caro man killed Friday

Marvin Kritzmans injured in M-65 crash Monday

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Kritzman of South Main Street, Sandusky, underwent surgery Tuesday morning for injuries received in a 5:15 p. m. accident Monday near Hale.

Both are in St. Luke's Hospital in Saginaw where they were transferred from a hospital in Tawas City. Kritzman is listed in fair condition and his wife in good condition.

Mrs. William Kritzman of Cass City said her husband's parents were en route to the Kritzman ranch near Curran when a car pulled across their path. They were going north on M-65.

She said that as far as she knew nothing happened to the other car or driver.

The Marvin Kritzmans, however, sustained serious injuries and were pinned for a time in the car. They were carrying 900 pounds of coal in boxes in the back of the car, which came forward on them.

Kritzman, 67, suffered a badly broken hand and wrist, a broken shoulder, 5 cracked ribs and a badly bruised knee. Mrs. Kritzman, 66, received a dislocated hip, a laceration on the head and bruises.

Mrs. William Kritzman said they will probably be in St. Luke's a week and then transferred to Sandusky.

Five Caro men are back home after a hunting trip to Colorado ended in a crash near Jackson Tuesday, Oct. 12.

They are Virgil Vandemark, 39, of 2190 W. Caro Road, Caro, and his two sons, Terry, 18, and Danny, 15, and Robert Schrader Sr., 40, of Chambers Road, Caro, and his son Robert Jr., 17.

The accident occurred about 10:25 p. m. on I-94 about 12 miles west of Jackson. Vandemark, the driver, was heading west, when the car was struck by an east-bound vehicle that crossed the median strip and rammed into it.

Vandemark's sister-in-law, Mrs. Gerald Vandemark, said that a wrecker bumper attached to the front of the Blazer probably saved his life. It gouged out the passenger side of the other vehicle.

The other driver, Army Major Douglas Williams, 40, of Denver, was killed in the accident. Witnesses said he passed them going in excess of 100 miles an hour and apparently lost control of the vehicle.

The three boys came home Wednesday, Oct. 13, and the two fathers were expected home by Wednesday, Oct. 20. Terry received minor injuries. Danny received bruises on the side of his face, and Bob suffered a broken foot. They were asleep at the time of the accident.

Vandemark suffered a broken left shoulder, a broken leg just below the right knee, and a shattered bone in his forehead. Schrader Sr. had two bones in his jaw broken.

They were treated in Foote Hospital, Jackson.

Another Caro man became the county's 24th traffic fatality when the car he was driving struck an abutment in Vassar township.

Ruben Adam Rodriguez, 27, of 1600 East Dayton Road, was alone when the accident occurred Friday about 8 p. m. on Sheridan Road, a mile south of Waterman Road. It was not reported until 10:30 that night. The area is not frequently traveled. Vassar—Coroner William Clark pronounced Rodriguez dead at the scene.

State Police at the Bridgeport Post said the victim traveled 510 feet after leaving the road and before slamming into the abutment in a ditch.

DICK HAMPSHIRE demonstrates the use of the mini-drill used for marking valuables to foil thieves. It's available for free use.

Little drill making big hole in burglary plans

It sounds like either a giant can opener or a small electric jackhammer but it's making reverberations throughout the nation.

It's an electric stenciling drill and some smart cookie took the drill and combined it with an idea that has the unqualified endorsement of insurance companies and police departments.

The drill is used to stencil the owner's driver's license on the frame of small, costly items that are top targets for thieves.

Already success stories are rampant. Dick Hampshire of Harris-Hampshire Insurance tells about a case in Saginaw.

This family had been burglarized and took advantage of the free program offered by Independent Insurance Agents of Michigan. They put their number on everything.

A while later they received a call from the Saginaw Police telling them that they could claim their stolen items by coming to the station.

The bewildered home owner replied that nothing was missing from their home. But investigation revealed that the stuff had been taken from their Caseville cottage. One of 8 or 9 hit by vandals.

But when the thieves discovered the markings on the items they discarded them in a field where they were found and turned over to the authorities. . . . the only items recovered from the series of burglaries.

This family recovered their belongings before they knew they were missing.

Together with the marking of items, there is a sticker to attach to the door to warn thieves that the valuables have been marked. In California only 3 of 4,000 homes marked with "Operation Identification" were burglarized.

The Michigan State Police also applauded the program. The director of the department said that proper identification of stolen articles is one of the biggest problems facing enforcement agencies. Public auctions of recovered but unidentifiable property is ample testimony to the problem, he said.

He added that along with proper lighting, detection devices and adequate police patrol, operation identification is a worthwhile facet of over-all effective crime control.

Harris-Hampshire has just received the tools to start the program. Hampshire admits that the problem isn't as acute here as it is in urban communities. Not yet, anyway, he adds.

But we have had several claims and the day is fast arriving when marking valuables will be well worth the time it takes.

You can mark numbers almost as fast as you can write, Hampshire explained.

The drill and the stickers in the program are available free from Harris-Hampshire for Cass City area residents.

Pre-school nursery is for learning, not baby sitting

By Kit McMillion

Kids don't take long to get to know each other, and judging from the third session of the Cass City Preschool Nursery, you'd think the 20 youngsters attending had been playing together for a long time.

At the first session held Monday, Oct. 11, Mrs. Mary Lou Buttery, the nursery teacher, said, "Those kids were playing so quietly you could have heard a pin drop."

By Thursday most of the shyness had worn off. Many of the youngsters ran straight to the toys when they arrived and dug right in. Literally, that is. The sand box drew quite a crowd at first, where several boys and one little girl played with the trucks and toy animals.

Others went for the wooden slide, climber and row boat, which they rocked furiously back and forth across the floor.

Toys are the main attraction for any child, and the nursery was well equipped to satisfy their wants. The variety let them do many things without getting bored.

Many of the girls quietly played house in the little kitchen, cooking imaginary meals on the play stove and eating them at a little table.

The boys congregated in another section where they played in the sandbox and hauled truckloads of animals around the room. A set of building blocks kept the construction workers busy, and there was a variety of individual games, puzzles, books and stuffed animals.

At first the boys played with the boys and the girls played with the girls, but after things warmed up a little, the kitchen was the scene of integration when several boys began dousing an imaginary fire in the little play house with imaginary water from a section of hose. The self appointed firemen, complete with red hats, also squelched a fire in the "garage."

A lot of yelling and a few tears added to the general confusion during the 9 to 11 a. m. session, but most of the kids seemed to have a good time.

Several of the youngsters were reluctant to leave their mothers at first. The mothers were just as reluctant to leave, each apparently wanting to watch what was happening.

Each will get a turn, however, in the course of the next several months. Three mothers attend each session on a rotating basis so they can help the teacher supervise and share in the development of their children.

Mrs. Norma Wallace, Mrs. Betty Faulkner and Mrs. Kathy Isler took their turn Thursday settling the inevitable squabbles.

"Contrary to a few comments we've heard," said Mrs. Colleen Stafford, president of the executive board, "the nursery is not a place to deposit children so mothers can have some peace and quiet. It is a learning experience for both parents and children."

"The children enjoy each other's company, work out problems, and explore their child-sized world. Parents watch their children develop in their relation with other children and other adults and can learn skills to help them make the most of these preschool years," she added.

A consultant of the Department of Social Services told the board of directors last week, when she made her licensing inspection, that the Cass City nursery was the best equipped and best organized first-year nursery she had seen, said Mrs. Stafford.

The consultant praised them for the job they did and recommended the Cass City nursery as an outstanding example for other nurseries in the Thumb area, the president continued.

"She said she remembered telling us we couldn't do it when we started last fall," said Mrs. Stafford.

Defeat had looked the mothers square in the face when they began working last November. The fire inspector looked at possible sites then and told the mothers there just wasn't any place in Cass City that would qualify for the nursery.

The determined mothers wouldn't take no for an answer.

"They said they just had to have a nursery so he said he'd help find a place," Mrs. Stafford explained.

After a considerable amount of remodeling and much work, the church basement of the First Presbyterian Church was able to meet the strict fire and health regulations.

A new fire proof ceiling was put in and the furnace room had to be blocked off and completely reinsulated. The air vents from the basement were remade to comply with the regulations. The church got the loan for the repairs and did the work, said Mrs. Stafford.

Projects were carried out throughout the year to raise $1000 for the purchase of equipment and supplies. The teacher's salary is paid from the $5 registration fee and the $1 per morning fee for each child. One look at the facilities of the nursery and the playing children reflects the amount of work that has been done to make it a success.

Following the 45 minutes of free play, Mrs. Buttery led them in song games. A chorus of "Happy Birthday" was sung for Jeff Labelle and then came an introduction to a little turtle brought by Scott Albee.

After settling the youngsters on rugs, she read a story from a book called "What is beautiful?" Asking the children what they thought beautiful was brought the reply from Denise Stafford: "It means I love you."

Later cookies and punch were served.

The two hour session wound up with a walk outside to look at signs and learn the meaning of them. The preschool kids did very well and were able to spell out the letters and explain what many of them meant.

Examination of the Slow Children sign brought the remark that the child on the sign looked like a football player.

After the hectic two hours were over, Mrs. Buttery paused to explain some plans they have for the future.

Included are hopes of expanding the nursery to include

Holms installed in OES ceremony

Eighty-five OES members and friends attended installation of officers for Echo Chapter for the coming year at a special meeting Saturday evening in the Masonic Temple.

Installing officer was past worthy matron, Mrs. Lois Binder, who was assisted by Mrs. Mary Hutchinson, installing marshal, Mrs. Mildred McConkey as installing chaplain, Mrs. Betty Murphy, installing organist, and Leo Tracy, soloist.

Retiring worthy matron, Mrs. Carol Furness, and her officers opened for installation. Job's Daughters of Cass City Bethel gave the Bible presentation at the altar.

Officers installed were: worthy matron, Mrs. Donna Holm; worthy patron, Charles Holm; associate matron, Mrs. Marie Jetta; associate patron, Keith McConkey; secretary, Mrs. Alexia Cook; and treasurer, Mrs. Margaret Neitzel.

Others are: conductress, Mrs. Dorothy Tracy; associate conductress, Mrs. Betty Greenleaf; chaplain, Mrs. Ruth Ann Whittaker; marshal, Mrs. Carol Furness, and organist, Mrs. Lucille Wotton.

Star points are Mrs. Gladys Albee, Mrs. Colleen Krueger, Mrs. Esther Guinther, Mrs. Nelle Koepfgen and Mrs. Donna Elisinger. Warder is Mrs. Helen Lorentzen and sentinel, George Jetta. Flag bearers will be Gilbert Albee, Ted Furness and Clarence Merchant. Mrs. Mildred McConkey will be substitute officer.

Guests were from Chapters in Uby, Caro, Gagetown, North Branch and Decker.

Mrs. Roger Root and Miss Karen Holm escorted their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Holm, to the East during the ceremony.

Lunch was served in the dining room at the close of the meeting by Mrs. Ruth Ann Whittaker and her committee, Colleen Krueger, Betty Greenleaf, Marie Jetta, Nelle Koepfgen, Bertha West and Myrtle Ludlow. The buffet table was set with decorations of blue and purple. Mrs. Gaylord Lapeer and Mrs. Roger Root poured at a small table.

To flatter some people it pays to keep still and listen.

BY JIM FITZGERALD

You might be impressed to learn that my family discussed The Last Supper at the dinner table the other evening. Real religious, huh?

Not really. Save your awe. The main subject of our conversation was actually Archie Bunker's TV show. All in the family. The Last Supper just kind of slipped in at the end, unexpectedly, between I Love Lucy and Eirene Zimbalist Jr.

Obviously the discussion was not as religious as it was intellectual.

All in the family is supposed to be more than just another situation comedy in the awful mold of Bachelor Father and I Led 3 Sons, or whatever that lousy thing is. Archie Bunker is the friendly neighborhood bigot. He is continually knocking the Jews and the negroes and the spics and the polacks and the wops. Fred MacMurray would never do anything like that.

Archie is wrong, of course, but he's also pretty funny. And the show is supposed to contain some worthwhile "social commentary". The idea is that you, the viewer, see a lot of yourself in Archie. And when you see what a jerk Archie is, you solemnly resolve to go forth and bigot no more.

Which is a noble concept. Although I wonder if Archie isn't maybe a hero to a lot of viewers, sort of a George Wallace in hard hat. Some people couldn't see bigotry in themselves if they looked in the mirror and saw Lester Maddox.

But I always did worry too much. Back to the important things...

I told my family the Bunker show is the same as every other situation comedy in 1971. It lacks reality. The Bunker family crowd around the same side of the dinner table, just like Lucy's family, the Beverly Hillsbillies and Mary, Tyler and Moore. This is artificial. If all 4 members of my family jammed together on the north side of the kitchen table, leaving the south side vacant, a passing stranger would think we were either nuts or perverts.

My family naturally urged their Wise Old Dad to reveal why the TV people arrange their seating so peculiarly.

"So they can all face the camera," I explained.

"They all sat on 1 side of the table at The Last Supper," my son said. "What channel was that on?"

I ignored this Christian aside and pointed out another example of strange sitting on TV. When 2 men are in the front seat of a car, the passenger always sits smack up against the driver. Even if they both work for the FBI and drive Ford's widest idea, they still sit so cozy it's a miracle if their neighbors aren't talking.

"It's the only way they can both get their heads on a 21-inch screen at the same time," I exclaimed with modest pride at my perceptiveness.

It was at this fascinating point in the conversation that my family insisted on swinging the conversation away from show biz. They are jealous of my superior knowledge in this field.

My wife had recently made her modeling debut in an underground style show. Photos of the event were passed around the table and she said she hadn't realized what a deep dimple she had in her chin.

"It's handy for carrying nickels for the parking meter," I said.

"I carry them in my navel," she said.

"Oh, that's where I carry lint," I said. "But only during the 40 days before Easter." That's when they left the table. But at least they left on a religious note.

Onward and Upward.

2 Cass City boys attend National FFA Convention

Two members of the Cass City Future Farmers of America Chapter just returned from the National FFA Convention held at Kansas City, Mo. Mike Stine and Jesse Zimba represented the Cass City Chapter and participated in the Conference Activities.

The two boys traveled by chartered bus along with several other area FFA Chapter representatives. En route the students were able to visit the Board of Trade and the Museum of Science and Industry in Chicago.

In addition, visits were made en route to the Mark Twain home in Hannibal, Mo.; Purina Research Farms near St. Louis, Mo.; Archway to the West in St. Louis, Mo., and the Royal Livestock Show at Kansas City, Mo.

The students reported that the trip was very educational and had helped them to also better understand the scope and purposes of the FFA on a National basis.

Solve life's little problems and the big ones will always take care of themselves.

Small flowers or few flowers may indicate overcrowding, according to R. A. Mecklenberg, Michigan State University horticulturist. Bulbs can be transplanted but should be dug up in the summer and replanted in the fall. With properly dried bulbs replanted, better blooms can be expected in the spring.

Hungry? You can make reservations now to eat at Travelers' Inn in Marysville Nov. 6. What's on the menu hasn't been revealed but it should be good. The tab is $100 per couple. It's one of six such affairs around the State held on Sen. Robert Griffin's birthday to fill campaign coffers for the Republican assistant minority leader.

Oh hum. Wednesday was the opening of pheasant season. The real true blue hunter will be out... but likely not around Cass City.

For the Thumb has gone from the best to perhaps the worst area for pheasants in southern Michigan. And after 10 years of decline no one really knows why.

Speaking of hunting, a party of intrepid goose hunters journeyed to Shiawassee to hunt via permit last Thursday. They had been lucky in the draw. At the preserve, a drawing for blinds was slated at 5:50 a.m.

Our hunters learned that 5:50 meant exactly that. They arrived at 5:55 and the drawing was over and their blinds assigned to stand-by hunters.

Making the fruitless trip were Phil Retherford, Ralph Retherford, Dick Haney, Tom Craig, Jim Champion and Bill Johnston.

You just have to call it a wild goose chase.

Reluctant report: That city slicker, Jim Fitzgerald of Lapeer, administered his annual pool lesson last Thursday.

Since discovering me, he's put a pool table in his basement. Sad to say, it's paid off, too.

Chamber of Commerce President Mike Weaver will spearhead a committee to speak to medical students at Wayne State University Thursday. The idea is to sell them on Cass City, finance their education in return for having them practice here when they graduate.

It's one of several avenues under exploration and could well be the best.

Dick Hendrick, the most enthusiastic theatre owner there is or was, wrote a letter defending the industry which was printed in the Bay City Times.

In it he said that there were plenty of good shows to see and that patrons should attend these instead of constantly complaining about X-rated offerings at some theatres.

After his letter appeared, Hendrick was telling everyone about the favorable comment it received. And Dick can really bend your ear at times about the movie business. He feels everyone is as interested as he is. But he has something going for him. He's not only kept the theatre alive and well in town, he's improved it.

It's a big plus for Cass City. How many persons do you know who could have done so well?

Hold services for Mrs. J. Tenczer

Funeral services for Mrs. John (Regina) Tenczer, 61, of Gagetown were held at Saint Agatha's Church at 11 a.m. Monday. Burial was in the church cemetery with the Rev. Donald Christenson officiating.

She died Friday, Oct. 15, in Hills and Dales Hospital, Cass City, following a year's illness.

Formerly Miss Regina Kleido, she was born in Elkton Jan. 18, 1910, and married John Tenczer in Nov. 1932 at Pigeon.

They made their home in Gagetown, where she lived until her death. She was a member of St. Agatha's Church.

She is survived by her husband; a daughter, Mary Ann of Gagetown; three sisters: Mrs. John Thiel of Pigeon, Mrs. Antoine Charbonneau and Mrs. Henry Buchholz, both of Livonia, and three brothers: Roy and John of Pigeon and Andrew of Elkton.

Hunter's Funeral Home had charge of the arrangements.

The Dansforth Leadership Award went to: James Koch and Lella Ortner. The program for the evening included a group involvement experience presented by Arden Peterson, Program Leader - 4-H youth, Michigan State University. The leader member awards were presented by Bernard Jardot, Extension 4-H Youth Agent. Also, Miss Linsey Karpovich gave a response for the 4-H members and Richard Carpenter, 4-H Council President, responded for the leaders.

The time insecticide is applied, not the amount, may be the key to effective garden insect pest control, says Dr. William Walner, Michigan State University entomologist. Insects spend their lives in cycles and most cycles have a "weak link." Failure to control at the proper time may lead to disappointing results.

Training

session held

The Extension study groups in Tuscola county will be better informed as a result of a training session held recently in Caro. Local Extension women described the four state program of work areas - Citizenship, Health, Safety and International - and outlined activities for local study group participation.

Mrs. Ray Schulte of Reese discussed the Safety Loan Lessons - "Clothing Can Burn", "Poison Proofing Your Home", "Prevent Carbon Monoxide Poisoning" and "Electrical Safety and You".

Mrs. Walter Schrader, Reese, introduced the new lesson on citizenship - "Parent Responsibility Under the Law". Local study group activity in Citizenship will focus on voter registration and getting out to vote.

Mrs. George Thurston, Vassar, described the International loan lesson, "So You Want to Travel". Ideas of local study group involvement included entertaining an exchange student and having pen pals.

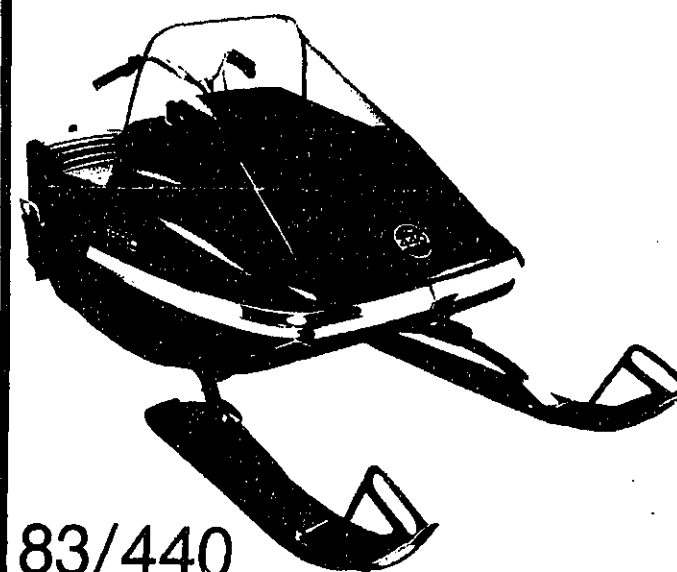

Mrs. Leonard Russell, Akron, discussed the two health loan lessons - "Bug Business" and "Decision??? Drugs". She introduced Mrs. Joe Young, Reese, of the American Cancer Society who showed the film, "It's Up to You". Mrs. Russell encouraged all members to see their local doctor for a health check-up, including a cancer test. Groups whose members all participate will receive a certificate at College Week in 1972.

These loan lessons were developed by the Michigan Extension Homemakers Council. The extension women were urged to tell other community groups about these lessons.

Lori Kilbourn elected to GAA council

Lori Kilbourn was recently elected to be one of six student representatives to the Michigan Girls Athletic Association (GAA) camp council. She attended the GAA Camp Cavell at Lexington Oct. 8-10 with five other girls from Cass City High School. The girls took part in a variety of activities, including fencing, soccer and volleyball.

Attending the camp besides Lori were: Cindy Tuckey, Darlene Auton, Linda Koepfgen, Marie Pena and Chris Ridenour. Miss Brenda Breidinger accompanied them as adult advisor.

Plan dinner for Spencer

A testimonial dinner for Roy L. Spencer, Republican, representative from the 78th district, has been scheduled Thursday, Nov. 4, at Lapeer.

The $10-per-plate affair has been planned by a committee from Lapeer county where Spencer makes his home. Mrs. James J. Phelan of Metamora is the chairman.

Spencer has been in the House for 11 years and is currently the GOP floor leader. He has become a power in the legislature and is considered an authority on schools and school financing.

CONCENTRATION is needed to push that row boat, as this little face tells.

Jaycees sponsor haunted house

A haunted house sponsored by the newly formed Cass City Jaycees will provide entertainment the week before Halloween.

The decision was made at a Wednesday, Oct. 13, regular meeting, the first following presentation of the charter.

The house is guaranteed to be scary and will include a wolf man's den, a crazy maze, a torture room, a witch's room and a room full of ugly heads, said President James Blades.

Monsters will roam throughout the chambers, which will be located in the second floor of the old library building.

The house will be open each evening from 6-9, Oct. 22-30. Admission will be 25¢.

The club also voted to sponsor a hospitality center in front of the theater for Rep. James Harvey, who will be in Cass City Saturday, Oct. 30, between 8:30 and 9 a. m., as part of his tour of the district.

Coffee and donuts will be served.

Roland Pakonen was appointed director of community relations and inter-club activities at the meeting also.

Parts stolen from car lot

Lee Rabideau reported to the Cass City police Oct. 14 that someone stole parts off several cars in the new car lot of Rabideau Motors. The missing items included a battery, a distributor cap and wires for a distributor. The theft occurred sometime the previous week.

The items are valued at $40-45. There are no leads in the case.

Police Chief Cene Wilson also stated that the number of complaints are up this year. At the end of eight months the number stands at over 2100, whereas last year's total was 2517.

The number of traffic citations has decreased, however. Last year at this time there were 214. This year the number to date is 161.

House questions new no fault insurance plan

Clinton House presented views about the proposed no-fault insurance plans now before the Michigan legislature to the Cass City Rotary Tuesday noon.

The new plan will not offer significant cost reductions or protection to the driver, House believes.

He said that present bills fail to provide adequate compensation for loss of work time through injury. A maximum of $6,000 for the first year is not adequate, House believes.

House also said that a major fault is that in minor personal property claims the insurance company has the right to set the amount of loss, leaving the insured in a take it or leave it position.

While not helping the insured, the plan has not proved successful in cutting costs, House cited Massachusetts where the plan is in operation and premium costs raised.

The no-fault insurance plan is one that is under consideration in States across the country. Proponents believe that it will cut costs and also help relieve crowded court dockets.

Chasing fires is fun

By Kit McMillion

Since I've started this job, I've done a lot of running after fires. I usually tell people I "chase fire engines" when I do this, when actually I just race like crazy to get there before the fire is put out. Friday I literally chased the fire engines.

When the alarm went off about 1:15 p. m., I called the sheriff's office like I usually do to ask "Where's the fire?" They didn't know this time, so I ran to the fire department and stuck my head into the little radio room where I was told it was a barn fire, 8 east and 2 north.

A radio report came just at that time saying an airplane pilot had seen a burning barn in the vicinity and had radioed the Huron county sheriff.

I got into the Tank and speeded out to the scene but--there was no smoke, there was no barn, there were no fire engines, there was no fire.

I thought it was rather strange, but decided I must have gotten wrong directions somewhere along the line. So I cruised over bumpy backroads, adding at least 40 miles to the odometer, looking for a fire.

I wasn't the only one looking however. I met a sheriff's patrol car and a car with a couple of firemen, but we always seemed to be going in opposite directions.

Finally, after about 45 minutes of observing the lovely countryside (the trees are really beautiful this time of year) and trying to keep from bumping off the road and into a ditch, I was on my way back to the office, thinking of ways to tell my editor I couldn't find the fire, when, lo and behold! the Elkind fire truck passes me.

My big chance. I was sort of wondering what they were doing racing all over the back roads instead of fighting the fire, but mine is not to wonder why.

I began turning the car around in the road, praying no other vehicle would come, and keeping an eye out for a trail of dust and a red blinking light, which was fast vanishing in the distance.

Now for the fire, I thought, which must really be blazing by now. There still wasn't any smoke, but I decided the firemen knew what was happening, so I started the chase, which took me over about 5 more miles of gravel road, around turns that were a lot sharper than I thought.

Finally they stopped. The fire! But when I got there, they asked me if I'd seen a fire, just as I was ready to ask them "Where's the fire?" One hour later, still no smoke and no fire, so we all decided it must have been some kind of mistake, laughed about it and went home.

Checking back with the Huron sheriff's office brought the enlightening news that there hadn't been a confirmation to the barn fire.

One hour wasted.

Ed Bergman, fireman, said the chase was "stupid" but he and the rest of them answered the call and stayed on it for an hour, which I think is true dedication to duty, especially when they lost an hour's work. (I get paid for chasing fires. It's part of my job.)

And, for anybody who had worries like I did that there was all this equipment out running around the countryside and what would happen if there was a fire in the village?--rest your fears.

Ed assured me that three of the five trucks the department has were in town, with plenty of hose to hitch to the hydrants. The village is always protected, he said.

That's nice to know, isn't it? Meow.

AROUND THE FARM Prepare plants for winter

By William L. Bortel

Mr. Home Owner! Do you have your shrubs and plants ready for winter? The first step in avoiding winter injury is to take action now.

Harsh winter winds often dehydrate trees and shrubs. The very limited amount of water that we received during the summer has certainly lowered the water table for our shrubbery. The small amount of rains that we have been receiving this fall have not replenished the water supply that the plants need to enter the winter months. A little extra effort this fall will give you green, healthy ornamentals next spring.

The most important factor in watering trees and shrubs is to reach the deep roots of the plant. Infrequent heavy watering is recommended since it stimulates deep root growth where the moisture is likely to fluctuate less. Water your shrubbery exceptionally well now and again in two to three weeks so that the roots will have ample protection with moisture and guard them against winter injury. Soaking is important so that the water can penetrate into the root zone of the shrubs or trees.

Rodents and rabbits have been known to be a problem after the snow accumulates and can seriously damage your trees. Measures should be taken now to prevent rodents or rabbits from completely removing bark around the tree or stem of an ornamental. Bark removal, known as girdling, can lead to death of the tree.

To protect trees and shrubs, wrap the lower trunk with one-fourth to three-eighth inch hardware wire before the ground freezes. Form the wire in a tube around the trunk at least 18 inches high and set it in the ground to a depth of one or two inches.

Rose protection is also equally important for the winter months. Spraying for disease is extremely important as you prepare your bush roses for winter. An excellent method of protection is piling soil eight to ten inches high around the canes immediately after the first killing frost. Next, tie the canes together to keep them from being blown about and loosening the root system. Then pile hay, straw or other mulch material over the mounded soil for extra protection.

October and November are the key months to help the home-owner to protect his beautiful ornamentals from winter injury.

Fall may be at the door, but it's fumbling with the key.

The hardest thing in the world is to get an honest opinion.

Campus Life opens annual haunted house

"Scream in the Dark", including the annual Campus Life Haunted House, opens next Tuesday one mile east and one mile south of Kingston on, appropriately, Cemetery Road. The happening, which last year attracted more than 1,900 area teenagers, offers trips through a haunted woods, a pitch-black maze and an operating room with a maniacal doctor on the loose -- to mention only a few.

The Haunted House will be open Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday -- Oct. 26, 28 and 30 -- for senior high youths and Friday, Oct. 29, for the junior highs.

Teens, which will be admitted for $1.50, should plan to arrive between 7 and 8 p. m. Special music by "Steve and Maria," horror movies, a short program and refreshments will follow the tour of the Haunted House.

To get rid of moles, get rid of their main food source, suggests William Wallner, Michigan State University extension entomologist. Moles feed mainly on grubs. The recommended method of destroying grubs is properly applying granular chlordane. This works both as a control and at reducing environmental contamination.

Uncle Tim From Tyre Says:

Dear Mister Editor:

Bug Hookum said he allus had heard that the Army would fold up if it run out of paper clips, but Bug told the fellers at the country store Saturday night that he never knowed afore that writing everthing in quadruplicate was so important everwhere. Bug said it ain't no wonder his Full-Employment Plan ain't been adopted by Congress.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION GENERAL

State of Michigan.
Probate Court for the County of Tuscola. File # 21389.
Estate of Jay C. Hartley, Deceased.

It is Ordered that on November 8th, 1971, at nine a. m., in the Probate Courtroom in the Village of Caro, Michigan a hearing be held on the petition of Fred Auten, executor for license to sell real estate of said deceased. Persons interested in said estate are directed to appear to show cause why such license should not be granted.

Publication and service shall be made as provided by Statute and Court Rule.

Dated: October 14, 1971.

ress.

You recollect, Mister Editor, that Bug perposed that we grind up all the welfare records and get rid of unemployment by hiring people that's out of work to fit all the pieces of paper back together. Bug said Saturday night he now knows that such a plan would stop the country cold in her tracks.

Bug said he had went to the department store last week to get his old lady one of them no-stick frying pans she's been harping about. First off, the clerk wanted to know which one of the store's charging plans he wanted to use. There was the layaway, the delay, the cards of all kind and some-pun called a revolving plan, the clerk said, and afore he got thru all of em Bug said his head was revolving.

When Bug told the clerk he wanted to pay cash American money fer the pan, the feller got all rattled and had to go look fer a special book to put down the sale in. Bug said the clerk had to make out quadruplicate copies cause he wasn't use to handling plain money, and he had to turn in the money and give copies to folks that took care of complicated sales involving money.

That was progress we can do without, allowed Clem Webster. When we get geared up so it's easier to go in debt than to pay everthing down and nothing the rest of your life, we've got to much progress, was Clem's words. He said he was thinking jest the other day how all the fellers at the store would be arrested if they was in town where they got loitering laws. Clem said loitering was doing nothing, and when that gets to be a crime things ain't progressing in the right direction neither.

Farthermore, Clem went on, we had ought to have special places where folks can loiter. They is a heap of things that is better settled when you're setting around loitering than when you go setting fires and throwing brickbats at police in them cities. Part of the trouble in this country now is that we don't stop, talk and listen, was Clem's words. Now-a-days, he said, you got to have a appointment for everthing from getting a oil change to having a tooth fixed, and keeping all them appointments is taking the fun out of everday living.

Bug was agreed we do a lot of damage in the name of progress, and he was of a mind that we cut down on the fun in other ways. For instant, Bug had saw where wimmen quit pushing fer being on pro baseball and football teams when he was all set to laugh at em.

Yours truly,
Uncle Tim

Floyd Rondo dies in Florida

Final rites for Floyd Rondo, 68, were held at 3 p. m. Friday, Oct. 15, from Little's Funeral Home, with the Rev. Allen Jannex of Rives Junction officiating.

Burial was in Novesta cemetery.

He had died at the Bay Front Medical Center in St. Petersburg, Fla., Monday, Oct. 11, where he had been in ill health for a week.

He was born February 21, 1903, in Tuscola county, the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles and Anna Zuka Rondo and married the former Miss Josephine Clark Oct. 13, 1930, in Ellington township. Following their marriage, they made their home in Pontiac.

He worked for the Pontiac Motor Co. as a set-up man before his retirement.

Surviving are the widow; a daughter, Mrs. Charles (Nancy) Langdon of Auburn Heights; three grandchildren and a number of nieces and nephews.

A son, a daughter and seven brothers and sisters preceded him in death.

Don't let well enough alone—make an effort to improve it.

Favors are easily done on credit—at very high interest.

Plymouth Satellite is built as if you wanted to keep it in the family...

for a long, long time.

Satellite is our beautiful entry in the mid-size field. All-together beautiful and built to last. Satellite isn't just beautiful. It's built to last, too. Beneath its sleek design is a deep-down strength to keep you going a long time. Also, our two-door Satellite isn't just a four-door with two doors hung on it. It has a different design from our four-door Satellite. Result? Our two-door Satellite comes through as a more sporty, personal car. Our four-door has a longer wheelbase, a roomier interior. All the room a family needs. The longer you keep it, the more you like it. Satellite is built with the rigid strength of unibody construction. It rides on to last, we speak from experience and facts. For example, 9 out of 10 new Chryslers registered in the last 10 years are still on the road. So if you are looking for a beautiful car... for a car that's built to last... for a car that's priced less than a full-size car... here's your beautiful answer. Satellite, coming through with the kind of car America wants. Who knows? This may be the car you pass on to your son.

Chrysler's famous torsion-bar suspension. And every Satellite goes through a thorough 7-step dip-and-spray process that guards against rust. Put them all together and you've got a car that will keep its good looks a long time and stand up to your kind of driving. 9 out of 10 new Chryslers registered in the last 10 years are still on the road. When we say Satellite is built

Coming through with the kind of car America wants.

Pumpkin is good to eat

Mrs. Margaret Ross - Extension Agent

As you drive down the highway you can see many homes where pumpkins are being sold for Halloween and Thanksgiving festivities. Big ones, little ones - most of them are destined to become Jack-o-Lanterns or decorations for a harvest table. For the perfect Jack-o-

Lantern, Mary Kerr suggests that you choose a pumpkin which is rounded in shape, ribbed, flattened ends, heavy for its size, and a rich orange color. Don't forget to save and dry the seeds. They make excellent eating, and a nice addition for your Thanksgiving nut dish.

Most of us rely on canned pumpkins for cooking, rather than fresh pumpkin. Most processed pumpkin, however, is combined with squash to give body to the product - 1/3 pumpkin and 2/3 squash. Top quality canned pumpkin has an even grained texture, with little separation of liquids and solids.

Canned pumpkin is low in calories and high in nutritional value. One-half cup of canned pumpkin contains 38 calories and supplies over 100% of your recommended dietary allowance of vitamin A. Some pumpkin in pies, tarts, cookies, breads, and casseroles.

Coming Auctions

Saturday, Oct. 23 - Stanley Inda will sell feeder cattle, feed and farm machinery at the place located two miles north and three and a half miles east of the Kinde school on Schott Rd.

Saturday, Oct. 30 - To settle the Gertrude Bouck estate, an auction of household goods and furniture will be held at the residence located one block west and a quarter of a block south of the stop light in Elkton.

The explanation is, according to the experts, that driving 25 minutes or so to the job is acceptable for the added benefits moving away from the crowds bring.

Already the exodus to this area by city dwellers buying 10-acre plots for a home and living room is upon us.

It's probable that zero population growth in this country will be achieved. The birth rate is declining and after a leveling off period due to increased life span the inexorable increase in people here will probably stop.

But the science which makes it possible provides other questions as yet unanswered.

For instance it's predicted that parents will be able to choose whether they have a boy or a girl in the near future. Surveys indicated that many more boys would be wanted than girls.

When the balance gets too lopsided, what then?

Already around the college campuses the smart talk is that it won't be long before it will be necessary to get a ticket to have a baby.

With this predetermination of sex, when you apply for your permit will it have to be pink for girls, blue for boys?

That's ludicrous isn't it? Sure it is. Just about as far fetched as needing a ticket to take a ride down a Michigan River was 10 years ago.

Or thinking that Cass City could ever be involved in the urban problems of our cities.

Change, the one thing most of us want least, is the one thing we all need most.

WELL ADJUSTED

A man, sure of his ability to take life in stride, won't try to force his will on others.

Sentence 2 in circuit court

Two sentences comprising the only criminal business in the Tuscola County Circuit Court Monday.

Judge James P. Churchill sentenced James K. Miller of Port Huron to 2 years probation with 60 days in the county jail and fine and costs of $400.

Miller was found guilty of resisting arrest by a jury Aug. 31. He was originally charged with assaulting an officer and carrying a concealed weapon. The latter charge was dropped when the jury found him not guilty.

The charges resulted from a Dec. 8, 1970, incident when officers attempted to arrest Miller for speeding on M-46.

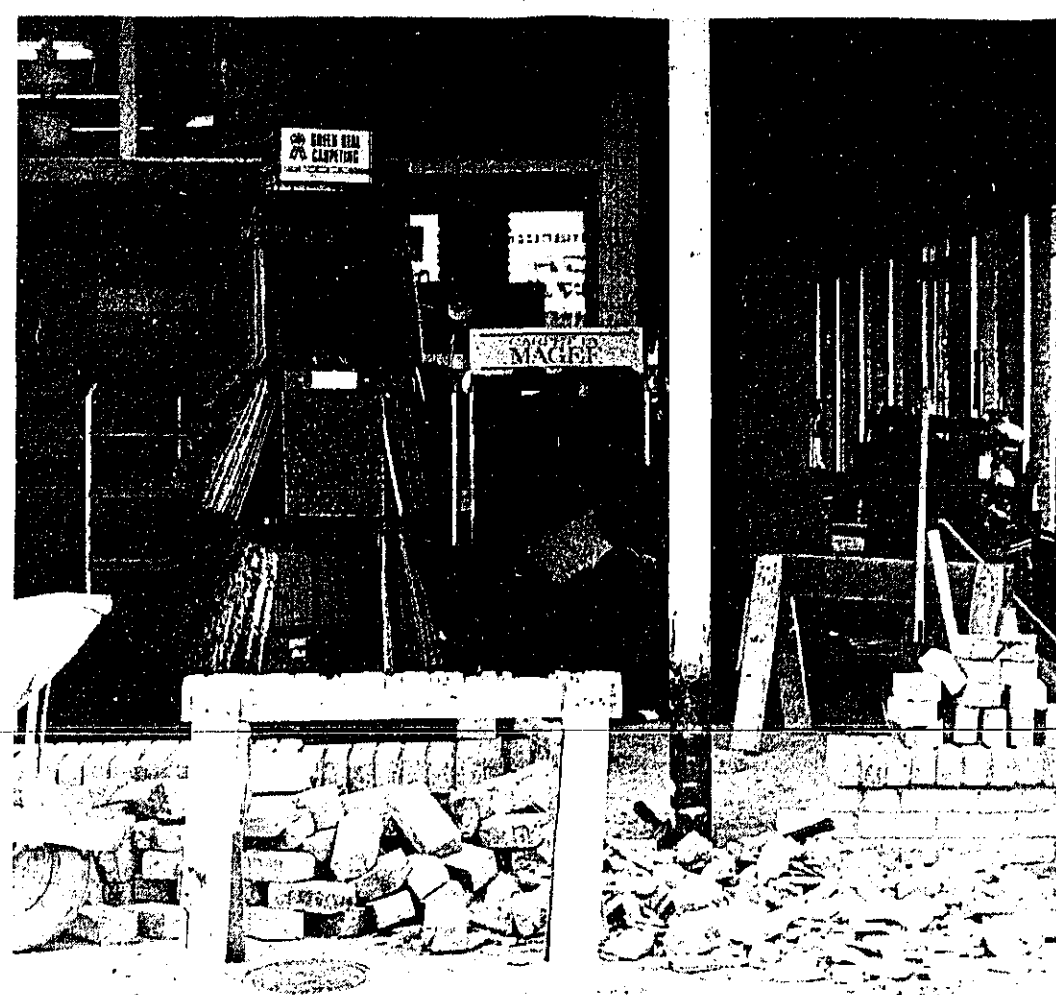

Byron Leslie of Clio was sentenced to 90 days in the county jail with credit for 28 days. He pleaded guilty to a charge of driving away with an auto belonging to Betty Mae Manchester. The theft occurred Aug. 24 in Arbutus township. Motion day for Circuit Court has been rescheduled next week for Friday, rather than Tuesday.

2 plead in district court

Two area persons appeared before District Court Judge Richard Kern Monday.

Donald Leroy Albrecht, 21, of 7800 Sebewaing Road, Owendale, was arrested Saturday on Elmwood Road in Elkland township on a charge of consuming on a highway. He pleaded not guilty.

Dennis Alan Lustke, 22, of 6240 N. Cemetery Road, Cass City, paid fine and costs of $35. He was arrested Monday in Cass City for being a disorderly person.

WORKMEN GOT busy quickly to repair the damage to Schneeberger's furniture store this week after it was rammed by a truck driven by Charles Hughes. The steel post in the middle of the picture was bent and cracked.

The accident is still under investigation.

MINOR MISHAPS

William Emery, 45, of 6508 Deckerville Road, Deford, was treated at Hills and Dales Hospital Monday for injuries sustained in a car-bicycle accident.

The accident occurred Monday at 6:25 on Deckerville Road, 1/2 mile east of Cemetery Road. Tuscola County Sheriff's reports stated that Emery was riding a bicycle, going east in the middle of the west bound lane, when he was struck by a car driven by Verna Ruth VanNorman, 59, of 3658 N. Decker Road, Deford.

Sixty feet of skid marks were left on the road, but she was unable to stop, the report stated. It noted that the bicycle had a small light close to ground level.

Several other minor accidents occurred. Alex J. Robles, 21, of River Road, Cass City, escaped serious injury when the car he was driving went off the road, hit a telephone pole and overturned in a ditch along South Elkton Road.

The accident occurred Thursday, Oct. 14, at 2:40 a. m., a quarter of a mile south of McAlpin Road in Huron county.

State Police from the Bad Axe post said Robles was unable to explain how he had lost control of the vehicle, and that he was shaken up but not hospitalized or treated for injuries.

In another accident, a parked car belonging to Velma Helwig of Gagetown, was struck in the rear by a car driven by Russell Alvin Deneen, 6646 E. Elmwood Road, Cass City.

The accident occurred Thursday, Oct. 14, at 10 p. m. on South Seeger Street, 55 feet north of Garfield Street.

Damage estimated between $500 and $1000 was done to the Schneeberger TV Sales and Service building at 8:35 p. m. Monday when a truck driven by Charles Oran Hughes, 19, of Cass City, rammed into it.

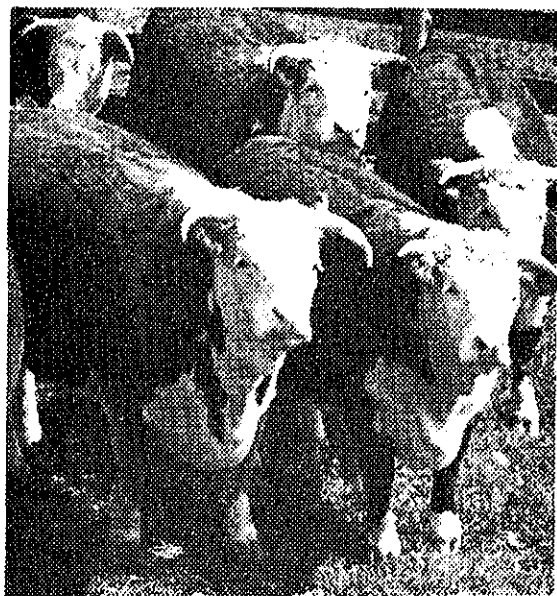

Hughes told Cass City police that he put the truck in gear, started it and the gas pedal stuck. It was in the lot of the Mobil gas station at the time.

Damage to the building included two broken windows and a brick pillar.

Q: WHAT'S THE STORY ON "OPERATION IDENTIFICATION"?

A: It's a program to discourage theft by identification of valuables and notifying potential thieves of this action.

Q: HOW DOES "OPERATION ID" WORK?

A: By inscribing your Michigan driver's license number, with a special electric pencil, on portable items of value.

Q: WHY DOES THIS DISCOURAGE THEFT?

A: A window sticker for your home serves notice that valuables are identified; and — if stolen — would be direct evidence to convict a thief if found in his possession.

Q: WHERE DO I GET THE WRITING TOOL AND WINDOW STICKER?

A: An electric pencil and the "Operation ID" window sticker are available — without cost or obligation — at our office.

Are You Interested in Putting a Thief Out of Business?

Then join "OPERATION IDENTIFICATION" with a visit to our office. We'll loan you the special electric pencil and give you a window sticker. There's no cost or obligation. Stop in. Join up. "OPERATION IDENTIFICATION" needs you.

Did you remember?

Things I've lived this long without doing:

- Reached for a cigarette instead of a sweet.
- Wet down a dry Martini.
- Heard anyone read the riot act out loud.
- Been invited to a lady's apartment to see her etchings.
- Read the palm of a duchess by candlelight.
- Played Russian roulette with a double-barreled shotgun.
- Ridden the rails.
- Had a rumble with a rabbi.
- Taught a talking horse to say neigh.
- Rounded the Horn on a sailing ship.
- Offered a chair to a stool pigeon.
- Barked up the wrong tree.
- Dived from a 100-foot tower into a wet sponge.
- Get caught up with my mail.
- And it's getting later than I think.

Sgt. MacAlpine receives third
Bronze Star

Army Staff Sergeant Robert E. MacAlpine, 29, was awarded the Bronze Star medal in August while serving with the 824th supply and service company in Vietnam.

The son of Mrs. Willma N. Wheeler, 4444 Friedburg Road, Snover, he was presented the Bronze Star, his third, for distinguishing himself through meritorious service in connection with military operations against hostile forces in Vietnam. The medal, adopted in 1944, recognizes outstanding achievement.

Sgt. MacAlpine received the award while assigned as a motor sergeant in the company near Long Binh.

He received two Bronze Star medals in 1969 while he was serving with another company in Vietnam, and also holds the Purple Heart and the Army Commendation Medal.

He is at home on leave and will leave Nov. 15 for Rhode Island, where he is assigned to the 14th Air Defense Group. Prior to his 3-year tour in Vietnam, he served 4 years in Germany.

Desmond Bell to sing at local church

Desmond J. Bell, bass-baritone, will be a guest performer at the First Baptist church in the 10 and 11 a. m. services Sunday, Oct. 24.

Bell has been a performer and professor of music at Grand Rapids Baptist Bible College the past nine years. He has had considerable experience in evangelistic campaigns, as a church music director, and in oratorio performances in the United States and Canada. He presents his "Sermons in Song" in churches throughout the country.

A native Canadian, he is a graduate of Moody Bible Institute, Grand Rapids, B.C., and holds a master of music degree from Western Michigan University.

The services are open to the public.

BETTER HEALTH

Mass testing to show chronic disease

BY DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

One of the ideas that we physicians and public health officials have gotten in the past few years is that of screening large groups of persons in order to find those suffering from chronic diseases that they do not suspect they have. For example, experts have concluded that there are perhaps several million persons walking around in this country with unrecognized diabetes. This can be dangerous, because if the diabetes is not recognized and treated quickly, and especially if it is of the severe type, the person can get a serious hardening of his arteries, a severe form of kidney disease, heart disease, and blindness.

That is why the Twin Cities Diabetes Association in Minnesota has a big bus containing a laboratory and equipment to test a person quickly for diabetes. They may park the bus outside a big factory and have all the employees go through the laboratory. Well-trained young women take a blood sample and then report to the person if the chemist finds a significant increase of blood sugar indicating a possible diabetes. There are many other such screening studies for specific diseases, such as tuberculosis or glaucoma (a serious disease of the eyes which, if not treated early, can produce blindness).

There has just come to my desk an interesting pamphlet entitled "Early Disease Detection -- A New Way to Health," in which Edward Edelson describes a newly developed type of mass screening called AUTOMATIC MULTIPHASIC HEALTH TESTING (AMHT). This fancy term simply means giving tests to detect several diseases in one session. The technique was pioneered at the Kaiser-Permanente Clinic in California. Medical technicians and nurses perform the essential tests and take a health history. They also use automated equipment and computers to get the results of the tests quickly.

Interestingly, of 31,843 persons tested at the Kaiser-Permanente Clinic, they found that only one out of every three persons tested was completely free of any signs of disease. One in 50 was found to have a previously undetected high blood pressure; one in 100 had a hidden diabetes; one in 300 had emphysema (a disease in which the lungs gradually lose their elasticity, making it difficult for the person to breathe); one in 500 had heart disease, and one in 600 had an unsuspected abnormal alcohol.

Similar tests are being made in other cities. For example, I read that in Richmond, Va., the Department of Public Health screened 60,000 persons in six months. Each day 400 persons were examined. The patients had an X-ray examination of the chest, a measurement of some elements in the blood; they had a test for syphilis, a blood-pressure reading, a test of visual acuity, and a very important measurement of the pressure within the eyeball (to see if the person had signs of glaucoma).

One problem is that once signs of disease have been found as a result of a screening program, there is no guarantee that the person will follow through and go to his physician for treatment. We physicians have the same problem with our patients. We cannot always get them to follow our directions or take the medicine we prescribe.

The advantage of the huge group type of testing is that it can save overworked physicians' time. Few physicians care to take the time to give a complete physical examination, and few busy persons care to take time off from work to go into a hospital for the X-rays and tests, especially persons who are feeling well. Yet we all know how essential early diagnosis is -- even before the person is aware of any symptoms -- in such diseases as cancer, glaucoma, and diabetes.

We have seen the death rate from uterine cancer among American women decrease greatly since gynecologists began routinely giving women a "Pap" test, which can show pre-cancerous changes in the cells of the uterus, thus enabling the woman to be treated before a cancer can grow and spread to other organs.

Multiphasic health screening can also save our country money. In a recent government report I read that some 67 million Americans suffer from at least one chronic condition, which costs the United States $58 billion a year. It makes much better sense to spend perhaps $2 billion to find the persons who are headed for serious trouble and who could perhaps have their good health and their life span extended by early recognition of their disease and good medical treatment.

People who would like to know more about automated multiphasic health testing, how and where it is done, and how much it costs, can write for Public Affairs Pamphlet No. 467, "Early Disease Detection -- A New Way to Health," Public Affairs Pamphlets, 381 Park Ave. South, New York, N. Y. 10016. The pamphlet costs 25 cents.

Another good source of information, especially for persons belonging to such service clubs as the Jaycees or Lions, who might want to get their chapter involved in organizing a screening program, can write the Disease Detection Information Bureau, 3553 West Peterson Avenue, Chicago, Ill., 60645.

If a diabetic is to avoid damage to his arteries, eyes, heart, brain and kidneys he must take good care of himself. In his booklet "Diabetes Which Appears in Middle or Late Life," Dr. Alvarez tells you when to suspect diabetes, what the dangers of the disease are (especially to pregnant women), and what treatments are valuable. If you would like a copy of his booklet send 25 cents and a self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request to

Mr. Farmer!

Former area teacher dies

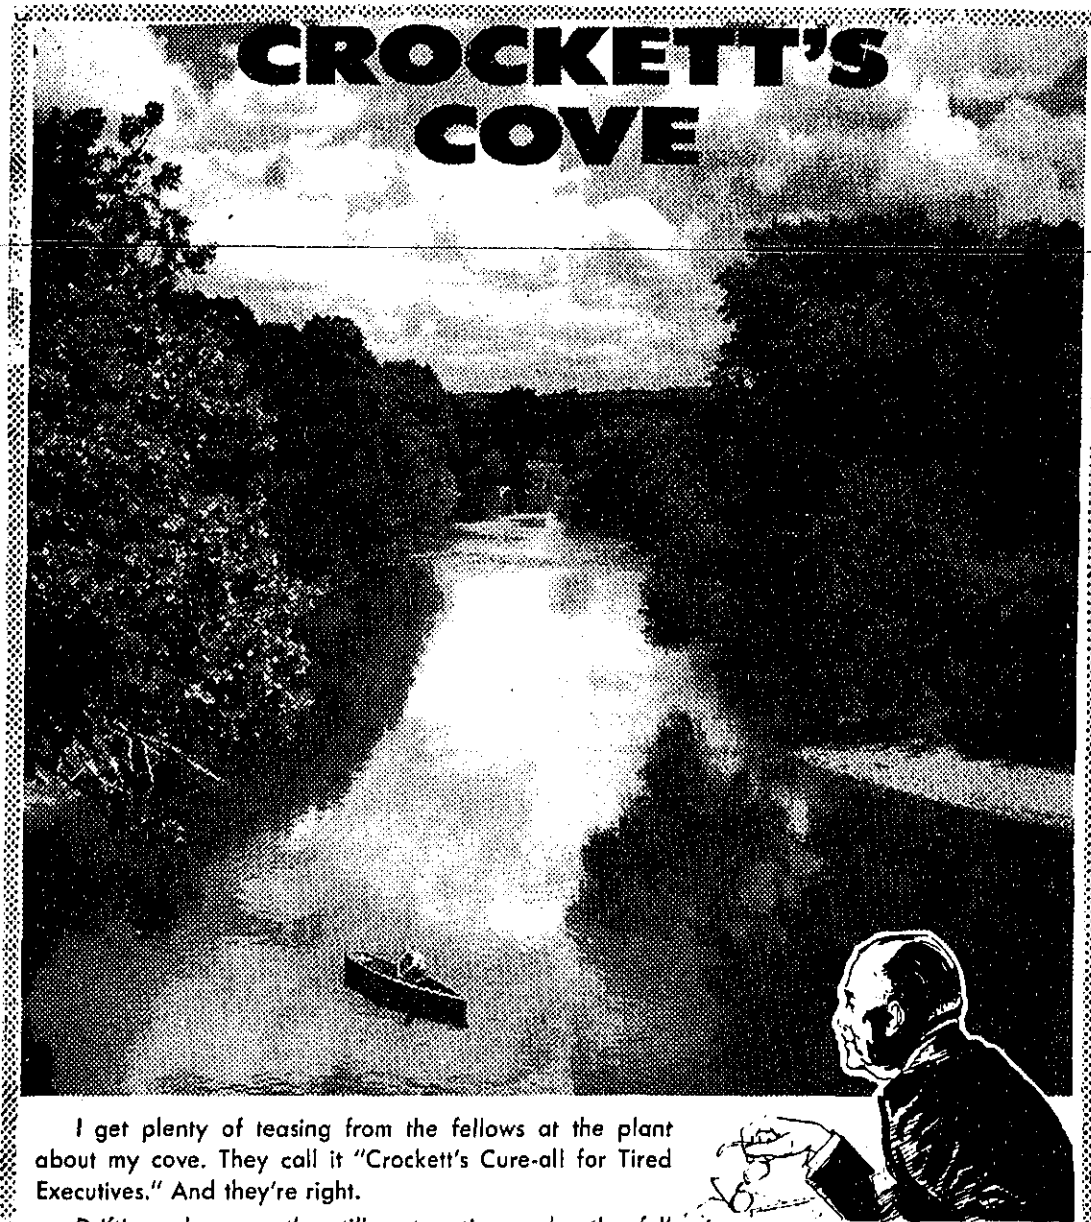

Mrs. Aileen Gordon Carlson, a former teacher in the Cass City area, died at her Detroit home Sept. 19 following a long illness.

She was born March 28, 1904, in Greenleaf township. Her parents were John and Anna Gordon. She married Elmer M. Carlson July 3, 1926.

Surviving are her husband; three children, Delores Justus and Duane Carlson of Detroit and Denton Carlson of Plymouth, and nine grandchildren. Also surviving are her step-mother, Mrs. Ida Gordon, and a half sister, Mrs. Don Hanby, both of Cass City, and several cousins from the Cass City area.

Funeral services were held Sept. 21 in Detroit, with Jerome Frandle and Ben Tennis Wood officiating. Burial was in Livonia.

I get plenty of teasing from the fellows at the plant about my cove. They call it "Crockett's Cure-all for Tired Executives." And they're right.

Drifting alone on the still water, tiny under the full sky, things fall into perspective. A bird calls, upriver a fish arches, a passing breeze brings blossom scent. Somehow, no matter how thorny my problem, the harmony of God's nature takes the kinks out of me.

Things weren't always this way. A few years back a tree was just a tree to me -- a lake, a lake. Now, whenever I look, I see God's goodness.

It all started one evening when, worried and depressed, I wandered into a church. I can't remember now what was sung or read, but I will never forget the sense of God's presence. Since then, God's Church and teachings have been my strength.

Your church offers inspiration and a fresh viewpoint. Take advantage of it.

Seek aid for burned out family of 7

A request for help has been made to aid the Duane Johnson family of Snover who lost their home and possessions in a Sunday afternoon fire.

The request was made by a friend, Mrs. Lorna Krueger of 1646 N. Main, Snover, who said that the Johnsons had lost everything and had no insurance.

There are five children ranging in ages from 2 to 8. Clothing is needed in boys sizes 2, 4 and 6 and girls sizes, 6 and 8.

Johnson is a factory worker in Pontiac. He wears a man's size small, and has a shoe size 8. His wife is a 38-40, dress size 18, and wears a size 9 shoe.

The family had been renting at the home on Arnold Road. They are presently staying with friends in Watertown, but are attempting to make a new home.

Donations may be taken to the Krueger home (Call 872-9142) or across the street to the John Bolin's at 1625 N. Main.

Firemen were summoned to the building about 2 p. m. but were unable to quell the blaze, which is believed to have started in the living room. The loss was estimated at $9000.

The Johnson family was watching television at their friends when the fire began. Johnson told authorities he had no idea how the fire started.

Thumb reps at

NAEHE meeting

"Our Role as Educational Facilitators" was the theme developed by the speakers featured on the 1971 National Association of Extension Home Economists meeting agenda.

The NAEHE held their 37th annual meeting at the Americana Hotel in Miami Beach, Florida Sept. 28 - Oct. 1. Judy Marks and Ann Ross, home economists in Extension from the Thumb, attended this meeting.

Keynote speakers included Dr. John Furbay, guest lecturer for General Motors, who spoke on "Revolutions: Which one?" and Dr. J. B. Claar, Illinois Extension Director, who spoke on "The Home Economist in Community Development". Friday morning, a Recognition Breakfast honored 77 home economists - including Marion Maxon of Michigan, who received Distinguished Service Awards. Mr. Edwin Kirby, Administrator, Extension Service, USDA, Washington, D. C. presented the awards and spoke on "The Opportunities of Program Balance."

Over 1,000 Extension Home Economists from 47 states and Puerto Rico attended the annual meeting. There were 73 educational exhibits and tours planned to help those who attended to become better teachers and leaders in their home communities.

MDA offers tests for bean seed blight

B. Dale Ball, director of the Michigan Department of Agriculture, today announced MDA will provide another service to state farmers, testing of field bean seed for bacterial blight.

The testing methodology was developed by Michigan State University, which then requested that MDA incorporate this service with others in its laboratory; this request was also concurred in by the bean industry.

A testing fee of $5 has been established for each five pounds sample received between October 15 and December 15. Because of the heavy demand on MDA laboratory facilities the remainder of the year, a special fee of $15 has been set. If the grower requests germination tests, an additional fee of $1.50 is assessed.

Forms to accompany samples for testing are available from Michigan Department of Agriculture.

culture, Laboratory Division, 1615 South Harrison Road, East Lansing, Mich., 48823 or by contacting county extension agents in bean-growing areas.

William Young, MDA plant pathologist, said bean bacterial blight is an internal disease which can affect the quality and yield of a harvest. It cannot be controlled by dusting or spraying. To avoid bacterial blight, disease-free seed must be used.

Young said seed, to be certified, must pass rigid standards established by the Michigan Crop Improvement Association which have been incorporated into regulations of the Michigan Department of Agriculture.

Hawks waltz to win over Marlette; Vassar next test

Cass City celebrated its home-coming as expected last Friday by waltzing past Marlette, 30-0, and now must settle down to the serious business of making a run for a high finish in the Thumb B Conference.

Caro is leading the league and is the odds-on favorite to walk away with the title and only the Lakers have any chance at all of overtaking them.

But Cass City does have a chance to climb as high as second, but it is a long tough row ahead.

The first test comes Friday when the Vassar Vulcans are the hosts. And the improving Vulcans held Sandusky to a scoreless tie last week.

The Hawks will be favored but an upset is not a remote possibility.

After the Vassar confrontation, the games get tougher. The Lakers come to town Friday, Oct. 29, for the final home game of the year. And after the Lakers, Caro completes the conference season. The Hawks will probably enter both games as underdogs.

The question that the fans are asking these days, is how much has Cass City improved during the year.

They completely dominated the game against the Red Raiders, but the Raiders haven't shown much against anyone this season.

After a scoreless first quarter, Cass City scored almost at will and Coach Bill Philbin was able to relax after Kip Hopper capped a drive by going over from the 2-yard line and Craig Guernsey scored when he went 82 yards on a punt return.

Guernsey also scored on a 4-yard jaunt to put Cass City ahead 18-0 and set the stage for a joyful home-coming half-time celebration.

Gene Salas scored on a four-yard run in the third period. The hard-running fullback was again the leading ground gainer as he slammed 88 yards in 11 tries, several times breaking tackles for extra yardage.

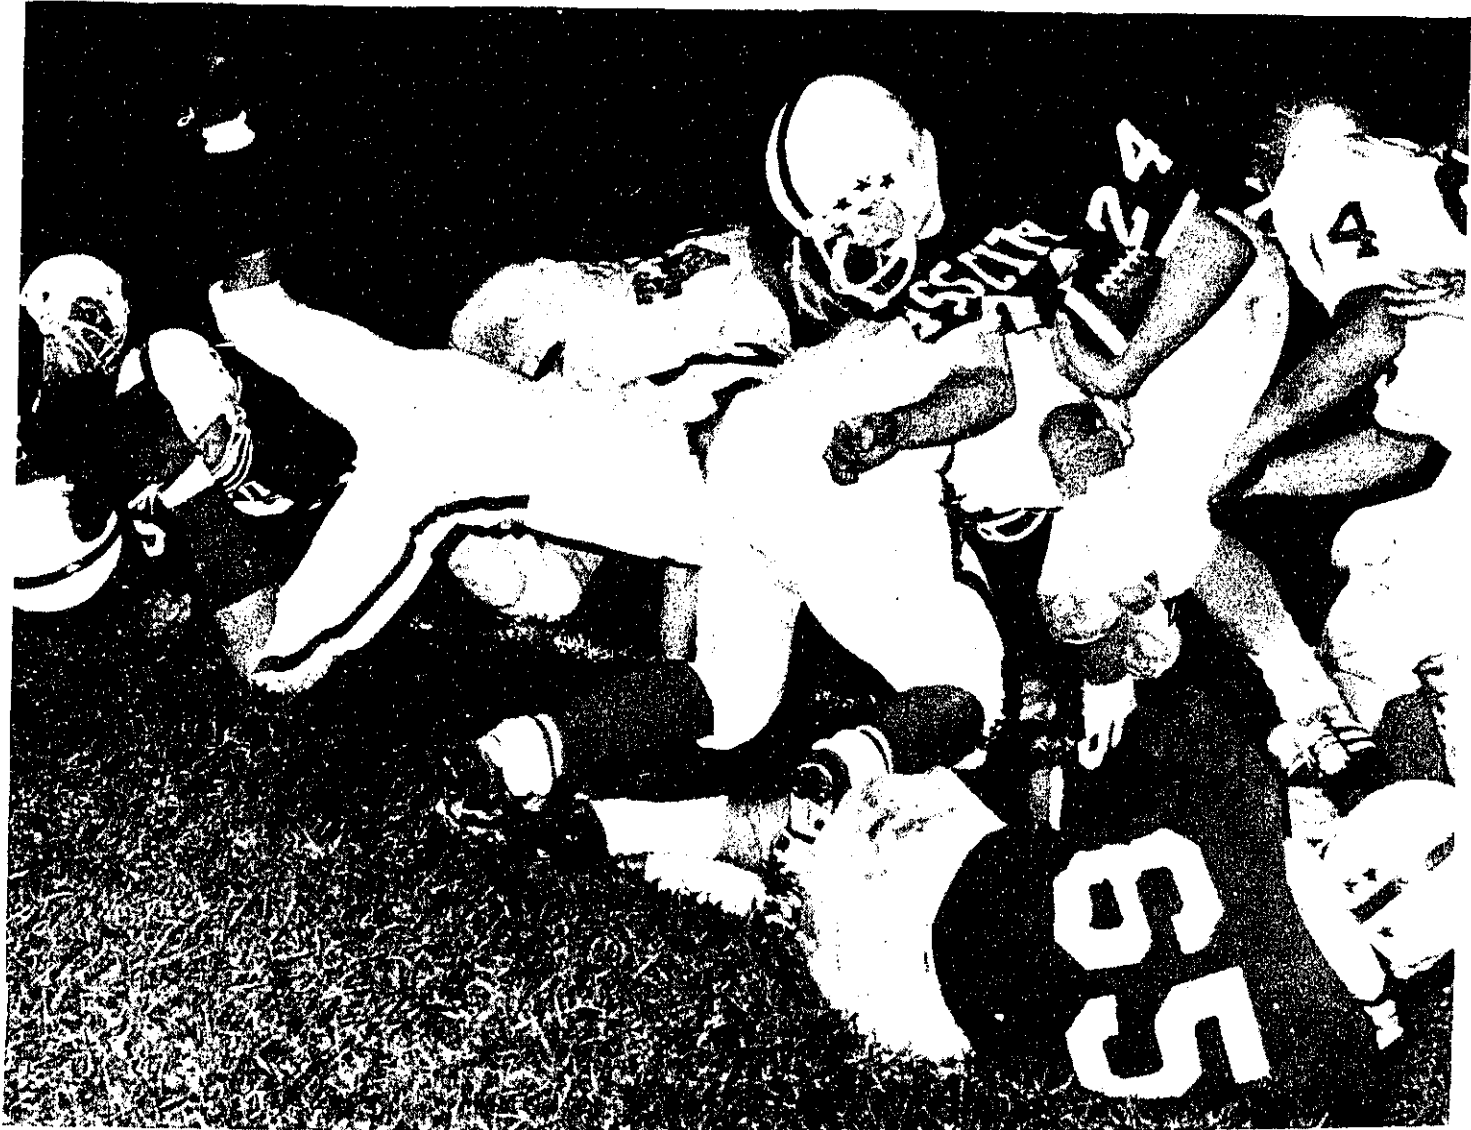

The statistics told the tale. The Hawks racked up 19 first downs to four for Marlette. The Hawks gained 273 yards rushing and 84 passing. Marlette totaled 64 yards rushing and only 12 yards passing.

Kurt Strickland picked up 84 yards passing including a 25-yard touchdown toss to Fred Harbec. Scott Hartel was the receiver on two plays good for 39 yards.

While no statistics were available for defensive efforts, Tim Knoblet played his usual strong game at linebacker and Kip Hopper and Craig Guernsey were cited by Philbin for their defensive efforts.

Begin fire hall construction

The footings are done and the walls are begun on the new Elkland Township Fire Hall. Construction began at the corner of Church and Ale Streets Oct. 4, following the letting of bids to local contractors Oct. 1. Fay McComb was low bidder with $87,495. McComb said they were working steadily but could not estimate a completion date. "It all depends on the weather," he said.

The 60x90 foot building will be built according to the basic plans, but some changes will be made because of the cost. McComb said he couldn't say what those changes are until after the Elkland Township Board meets. The next meeting is scheduled for Nov. 8.

The building is being funded by a 1 mill levy for 5 years which was passed by voter approval July 15.

Sandusky bows to Hawk JV squad

The Cass City Junior Varsity evened their season's record at 2-2 Thursday by defeating Sandusky, 20-6.

The Hawks moved out from a 6-6 tie at intermission to score twice and ice the victory. Ron Spencer, Cass City fullback, netted both second half touchdowns and plunged for the extra point.

He chalked up 166 yards rushing despite losing a 55-yard touchdown jaunt because of a penalty. Coach Skip Pranger said that Spencer also led the defense with timely tackles.

The Hawks went into an early lead when Dan Mellendorf took the opening kick off and went up the middle for 70 yards and a touchdown.

Sandusky scored later in the half to knot the score at the half.

Tonight, Thursday, the Junior Hawks travel to Marlette to meet the Red Raiders at 7 p. m.

Hopper named for Red

Hawk award

Each week picking a player for the Red Hawk award is proving to be a task for Coach Bill Philbin and his grid staff. In winning efforts, several players are always in close contention and in a losing game, no one really appears worthy.

This week's selection is just like the previous ones. Kip Hopper, Kurt Strickland and Craig Guernsey were the nominees.

CASS CITY
KIP HOPPER

Guernsey played what Philbin called his usual consistently good game on defense and offense. Strickland did a fine job at quarterback.

Guernsey had won previously and Strickland plays on offense only so Hopper was given the award.

Hopper picked up 70 yards in 14 carries and was a bulwark on defense against Marlette, Philbin said.
