

One killed, several injured in rash of area accidents

Don D. Stilson, 22, 6614 Main St., is recuperating in Hills and Dales Hospital from leg injuries suffered in a car-motorcycle accident Thursday, Oct. 21, on M-53. He is listed in fair condition.

He was in surgery three hours the night of the mishap for severe lacerations and fractures to his left leg. A cast will be put on when it heals enough, his mother reported. His recovery is expected to be lengthy.

Don is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Stilson of 4303 Doerr Road, Cass City.

The accident occurred about 5:55 p. m., three-tenths mile south of Bay City-Forestville Road. State Police from the Bad Axe post said the driver of the car, James Osentoski, 21, of Huron Line Road, Uby, reported he was driving south on the highway, was overtaking the motorcycle and about to pass when Stilson attempted a left turn into a private drive and collided with the car.

Osentoski was not injured. A Sebewing man was killed in a similar accident Friday when a car he was attempting to pass turned into the truck he was driving, causing him to lose control and land in a large ditch.

Pronounced dead at the scene was Burton Raymond Gettel, 31, of 8822 MacAlpine Road.

The driver of the car, Mark Alan Bauer, 16, of 1948 Chip Road, Kawkawlin, was uninjured.

The accident occurred at 6:50 p. m. on M-25 Bay City-Forestville Road where it intersects Vassar Road.

Both vehicles were going east on M-25, Bauer told Tuscola county sheriff's deputies.

In another accident Richard Joseph Patnaude, 45, of North Colwood Road, Gageton, received minor injuries when the car he was driving was struck head-on by another vehicle without lights.

Patnaude was heading south on Colwood Road. Treated at Scheurer Hospital, Pigeon, was the other driver, Kenneth Woodrow Haag, 17, of Shebena Road, Sebewing.

The mishap occurred Monday night at 6:12 on Colwood Road, a quarter mile north of Bay City-Forestville Road. Haag was cited for reckless driving.

4 ANIMALS DEAD

Three Cass City residents escaped injury when they struck animals in the roadway last week.

Gerald Thomas Creason, 25, of Doerr Road, was unable to stop Tuesday morning and hit a horse that ran out in front of his car. The accident happened at 4:20 a. m. on Cemetery Road, 1/2 mile south of DeLong Road. Anna MacCallum, 48, of Grassmere Road, struck a deer Thursday, Oct. 21, at 8:15 a. m. when she was going south on Cemetery Road.

Gary Lee Wichert, 24, Elizabeth Street, struck a deer on North Caseville Road, about a mile and a quarter south of Caseville. The accident occurred when Wichert was going south and the deer ran out from the east side of the road. Ted Steciak Jr., 59, of South Thomas Road, Bad Axe, also escaped injury when he hit a deer at 6:50 a. m. Friday as he was going south on Deckerville Road, in Ellington township.

MINOR MISHAPS

Numerous other accidents occurred damaging the autos involved, but not injuring the drivers.

Leona May Eickhoff, 62, of 1553 East Caro Road and Carol Jean Deering, 30, of East Bay City-Forestville Road, Unionville, backed into each other at 3:40 p. m. Wednesday, Oct. 20, on Lincoln Street in Gageton. Sheriff's reports said neither driver saw the other. Anna Marie Smith, 32, of 1388 Church St., Decker, hit a car driven by Joyce Evelyn Haley, 26, of 2980 Huron Line Road, Cass City, at 8:30

Thursday night in the parking lot of General Cable.

Cass City police reports state Mrs. Smith said the Haley vehicle backed out in front of her, while Mrs. Haley stated that she stopped but that the Smith car was going too fast.

The impact caused the Haley vehicle to hit a parked car of Marie E. Vanderpool, 3770 Shaw Road, Kingston.

Shirley Jean Houghton, 32, of 834 W. Sherman St., Caro, struck a car driven by David Anthony Doerr, 16, of 2648 Cemetery Road, Cass City, when she stopped at a stop sign but failed to see him approaching.

The collision took place Friday at 3:50 p. m. as Mrs. Houghton drove into Seeger Street from Church Street. The Doerr vehicle was headed north on Seeger, police reports stated.

Arthur Kelly, 75, of 1885 Cemetery Road, DeFord, was ticketed for leaving the scene of a property damage accident after he hit a parked car on Main Street, Kingston, at 7 p. m. Monday.

A witness told sheriff's deputies that Kelly was driving all over M-46 before he hit the car, which belonged to Larry Peter Campbell, 3245 River Road, Kingston.

Donald Greenleaf, Cass City, reported to local police that the right rear door of his car was caved in when it was parked behind the Cass City State Bank Friday afternoon.

Mrs. Merritt (Myrtle) Allen, 60, of 4848 Dodge Road, is still in fair condition in St. Luke's Hospital where she was transferred following a one-car accident Oct. 11 which killed her husband and injured two daughters.

Connie, 22, and Sharon, 28, were released from Hills and Dales Hospital Friday, Oct. 22. They said their mother was out of the intensive care unit, where she had been 5 days, and doctors were waiting for her condition to stabilize before they could set broken bones.

The accident occurred when Allen went through a stop sign on Dickerson Road at Unionville Road, M-138, and landed in a ditch Oct. 11.

Carol Briolat, 20, is home recuperating from injuries sustained in an Oct. 1 accident. She was transferred from Hills and Dales to St. Luke's in Saginaw Oct. 9 and discharged Oct. 22. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Briolat of 1725 E. Atwater, Uby.

Miss Briolat is wearing a brace as a result of a broken neck, her family reported, and will not be able to return to work until early next year.

The accident occurred while she and a friend were returning home from work in Detroit, about eight miles east of Cass City on Cass City Road in Sanilac county.

Janice Cook, 20, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Cook, 52 Kipper Road, Harbor Beach, received cuts, bruises and muscle injuries in the accident, but is expected to return to work Wednesday.

The Sanilac County Sheriff's Department reported that the driver of the car lost control, and the car veered off the highway and turned over.

Council still mulls school traffic safety

The proposed building codes, a report by the safety committee and a proposal to refurbish and take over some of the responsibility of the Elkland Township Cultural Center were the main topics of discussion of the regular meeting of the Village Council held at the municipal building.

All trustees were present except Gladys Albee. Dr. Ed Scollon appeared to address the council concerning the traffic problem at the high school whereupon the safety committee gave a report of its Monday night meeting.

Gary Christner and Gary Jones advised the council they were investigating the purchase of a blinking sign to be placed at the north end of Seeger Street by the high school, which would be timed to flash at the crucial hours and warn approaching motorists of the school.

The committee is also seeking the permission of the county road commission to paint the word SCHOOL on the road at both the north and south limits of the zone bounded by the intermediate and high schools.

The third recommendation is to install a three-way stop and signal at Rose and Seeger Streets, which would give the buses coming from Rose Street an opportunity to make turns. The present congestion there at certain hours halts the flow of traffic.

This signal would also work on a timer and would blink yellow at the less important hours.

The three recommendations are designed to reduce the hazard to school children crossing streets, reduce the traffic problem at the schools in the morning and afternoon, and eliminate the need for adult patrol guards.

The safety committee also made the recommendation to the council that walk-wait signs be installed at the main intersection of Seeger and Main Streets. The discussion of the walk-wait signals centered on whether it was the village's sole responsibility or if the school should help in some way with a total safety package.

"I felt these walk-wait signs would benefit the community in general irrespective of the school kids," Trustee Christner told the council. Trustee Jones also said he thought it was the village's responsibility.

The council decided however to study the situation a little more and confer with the school board to see if any sharing of the total costs of all the signs might be worked out.

Dr. D. E. Rawson told the council he had no desire to take on the whole responsibility and thought the schools should help.

"A lot is done for these schools by the municipality, more than others," he explained.

Reference to back minutes indicated the cost of the walk-wait signs and installation was estimated at $2750. The State Highway Department would share in half of the expense.

The council agreed to convene a special meeting if it was necessary to decide on the signs, fearing that once the cold set in they would have to delay until next spring. Council President Lambert Athaver presented a proposal to the council that would enable the council to underwrite half of the cost for utilities, janitor and insurance of the Elkland Township Cultural Center.

It was moved unanimously to share the cost with the township, which is presently about $500 a year.

Athaver explained that the second floor of the building would make an ideal meeting place for various organizations, such as scouts, because there are several small rooms and one larger room.

He said he knew of persons willing to donate funds or time to build a second stairway at the back of the building and for other redecorating.

The center was refurbished at the time of the centennial and has a new furnace, he said.

Presently the center is owned by the township and leased to a corporation which runs it, the president explained, adding that they wish to dissolve.

It was agreed that the village office would act as a clearing house for reservations to use the hall and that users would be required to pay a fee and would be held responsible for any damage done.

The building codes were again tabled to allow further investigation of the codes used in the area.

Don Toshach, a Saginaw architect, told the council there were two national sets of codes they could adopt. The council has been considering the set called BOCA.

He recommended the council find out what other communities in the area use or plan to use and adopt the same. Concluded on page 16.

FROM THE Editor's Corner

You win a few, lose a few. For boosters of the community it was a blow when Detroit Edison announced the closing of its office.

It should have been no surprise as the company had been closing offices all over its area and had previously disconnected its phone service in Cass City to get customers accustomed to calling the Caro office.

Probably worse than the closing of the office is the idea that the office has closed.

Right away persons with a stake in the town ask themselves if the community has turned the corner in the wrong direction.

As far as affecting business it's probable that the impact will be negligible.

It might be that another store in the location could turn Edison's pull-out into an asset instead of a liability.

At the same time that Edison is quitting, other stores are showing signs of increased business activities. Marshall Implement is in the midst of completing a renovation of its building that includes an addition and all new front. Bigelow Hardware is remodeling and less major changes have occurred in many other stores.

There are relatively few vacant buildings in town today. Compared to 10 years or so ago when there were as many as nine vacant stores or 20 years ago when industry was about nil, Cass City is doing all right.

Writing a column like this and not sounding like it's merely keeping a stiff upper lip in face of adversity is difficult.

It wasn't intended that way. Because really the loss of Edison is a minor set back.

What builds retail business is more and better stores. What brings potential customers to town, besides the stores, is the hospitals, the schools, the factories, the recreational park and the other facilities that make the town a center for community activities.

What has kept these basics alive in Cass City has been a spirit of town-wide cooperation and united effort.

The same effort that keeps the community going over the top in the community chest, the same effort that conjured plants here when none existed before.

The same effort that has placed Cass City in a better position today than it has been in any of the 20 years that I have been here.

13 clocks and Hofstedts can't tell what time it is

By Kit McMillion

Telling the time of day should be pretty easy when you have thirteen clocks, but it can pose a problem when each heralds the hour at a different time. This little problem, a result of a collection of antiques, is easily settled by the Gene Hofstedt family.

"I call the operator when I want the time," said Mrs. Maureen Hofstedt. "Everyone of these is different."

As one enters the Hofstedt home at 6764 E. Main Street, the number of old clocks with hidden histories surrounds you. The unappreciative may wonder why there are so many, but not anyone who enjoys the beauty of old things.

The clocks date from about 1880 and all but two are American made. Their wooden cases blend with the warm, dark oak panelings of the house, giving one a very secure feeling.

On the kitchen wall is one very pretty clock known as a kitchen, shelf or gingerbread clock. Made of light-colored oak, it has much fancy carving on the case and still shows the original face, which is now yellow with age.

Hofstedt explained that the important thing about clocks was that they were all the original pieces, not whether they ran or not.

This particular clock was gotten from a friend of theirs, Don Trowhill of Sandusky, who also collects clocks and other antiques.

They have several school clocks, all made of a similar pattern of an octagon face, with an inverted pentagon on the bottom, which houses the pendulum. Two of that style are called railroad clocks, and have a calendar along the numerals on the face. An egg and dart pattern appears on many of the housings.

The clock that started it all was Austrian, made of mahogany. It has a decorative box with carved poles lining the edges.

"We got talked into it by a neighbor. You could hardly get through his living room, he had so many things," said Mrs. Hofstedt. That was about 6 years ago when they were living in Bay City.

"It's a catching disease," she said, adding, "I was surprised at the number of people who collect antiques around here."

A favorite clock of Gene's is an Amish clock from Kentucky. Simple in appearance with its plain wooden box, it was completely hand-carved.

"Someone probably made it for his home," he said, as he admired it.

The style is similar to the school clock, but has a longer pendulum, which is entirely plain. Some of the school clocks have decorated pendulums.

Just last week Mrs. Hofstedt returned from visiting her family in Vancouver, Canada, with a New Haven clock that has been in her father's family for generations. They're not sure if the date on it is 1805 or 1905, but the clock began its journey in Maryland and traveled with the family to Quebec, Toronto, and Vancouver.

The cast iron clock wouldn't run for her father but when he got ready to send it, it ticked for 4 days.

"We weren't sure if it was glad to be going home or sad to leave Canada," said Mrs. Hofstedt.

The cast iron clock now ticks regularly from its place on the mantle, where it gives the appearance of marble. They think the face is mother of pearl, and it presents a handsome appearance.

Besides clocks, which Gene collects, the family has a spinning wheel and yarn winder.

"We picked up the spinning wheel about a year ago," explained Mrs. Hofstedt. "It's about 80 years old and is made of pine, oak and maple."

A cabinet of antique dishes they've picked up in their searching and of family pieces also affords a place for a beautiful cake server with a mother of pearl handle and some pewter dishes that came from China.

"My mother was a missionary in China, explained Mrs. Hofstedt, and brought these back."

She also displayed an Irish slop bowl that had belonged to her family.

"It was used for left over tea dregs," she explained.

THE NEW HAVEN clock on the mantel is the object of admiration of Mr. and Mrs. Gene Hofstedt, who have a number of antique clocks in their home. This one has been in the family for generations.

Vandals hit cemetery in pre-Halloween "prank"

Cass City Police were kept very busy this week end as the result of a rash of crimes in the area.

Bud Almas notified police early Sunday morning that someone had stolen his car from behind the New Gordon Hotel. He told police it was stolen sometime between 1:45 a. m. when he returned home and 6 a. m. when he awoke.

The car was recovered when it was found parked along M-53 near Morrison Road at 1:00 a. m. Monday by a Huron County Deputy Sheriff. The car was in running condition, no tracks were found in the area and no clear finger prints were found on the car.

The keys were in the ash tray of the 1969 Chrysler when it was taken. There are no suspects at this time.

In an apparent attempted breaking and entering, unknown persons tried to enter the home of Ed Doerr at 6440 Huron St. The Doerrs returned home about 3 a. m. Sunday to find both the front and back doors had been kicked in. Damage was done to the front including breaking the door jamb and knocking in panelling inside, Police Chief Wilson said.

No windows were broken and it is not known who did the damage.

Another breaking and entering complaint was registered with the police by Walter Zawilinski, owner of the Cass Tavern. A window on the east side of the building was broken and a board and hammer were found inside.

Three boys were reported in the area Saturday night, and finger prints were found on the glass. However, all three stated they had boarded the window up after they found it broken and someone else must have knocked the board inside.

The complaint is still open as malicious destruction. Nothing was stolen from the tavern.

In investigating the incident, however, Wilson found parts of 4 dismantled bicycles he believes were stolen, at the gravel dump off River Road.

A simple larceny occurred Sunday afternoon when a used tire was stolen off the rack at the Cass City Gulf Station. Ivan Haley reported to police that he had seen a car with a flat tire parked near the station and found the tire gone after they left. Police have one suspect in the case.

In what appears to be early Halloween pranks, six tombstones were knocked over at the Elkland township cemetery. Mrs. Jack Stahlbaum of 6293 Main Street notified police a grave marker was on her front lawn Monday morning. Several stones were tipped over and one was broken.

Vandals apparently did the damage Sunday night.

Bill Kolacz reported to police Sunday morning that someone had broken his mail box and strewn newspapers in his yard at 6241 Garfield. The papers were taken from in front of the Coach Light drug store. There are no suspects in the case.

POLICE HAVE NO leads on the vandals who knocked over six tombstones Sunday at the Elkland township cemetery.

Robert Vances wed 60 years

Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. (Neil) Vance of 1196 Vinewood Ave., Pontiac, will be celebrating their 60th wedding anniversary Oct. 31 at an open house at 4553 Rockcroft, Waterford, Mich.

They were married in East Tawas in 1911 and lived in Cass City for 11 years, moving from there to Pontiac.

Mr. Vance retired from General Motors Truck Division 16 years ago, after 33 years of service. They have nine children, five daughters and four sons. They are: Mrs. Elmer (Lucille) Krause of Davisburg, Mrs. Joseph (Eleanor) Koren, Mrs. Louis (Viola) LaBarge, Mrs. Clare (Verna) Sowden, Mrs. Billy (Lucy) Vandagriff and Robert, Nelson, Lewis and William, all of Pontiac. They have 24 grandchildren and 19 great-grandchildren.

Mr. Vance has been confined to the Bloomfield Nursing Home for the last few years after suffering a stroke seven years ago. Mrs. Vance still lives at home.

Mr. Vance has three sisters, Mrs. Ernest (Gertrude) Campbell of Ubyly, Mrs. Sam (Gladys) San Filippo of Dearborn Heights and Mrs. Leonard (Blanche) Copeland of Cass City.

It's not that Alfred Beutler is a pessimist that he's about to tell Leo Ware to please stop buying the Farm Journal for him. Ware has been subscribing yearly for Beutler to the magazine as a gift to a valued customer. The greying Beutler was in the office to renew his subscription for 2 years and reported that he now is a paid up subscriber to the magazine through the year 2,002.

There should be some easy money floating around for ambitious youngsters... or their parents. The Chamber of Commerce sponsored pumpkin contest is off to a slow start and it now appears that all who enter will receive a prize. The Chamber offers two $5 prizes, one $3 prize and 10 $2 prizes. Bring your pumpkins to Mutual Savings anytime before Saturday noon.

The question most often asked this week of the Chronicle and Village President Lambert Althaver is: What night is tricks or treats for Halloween? Well the official answer in Cass City and in Gagetown is Saturday night. The trouble may be that some of the small fry can't read. Officially trick or treat is Saturday... unofficially it could be most anytime.

The Cass City varsity football team has been relatively free from injury this year. The Junior Varsity hasn't been so lucky. In the last game against Marlette Don Erla broke an ankle and Don Galbraith suffered a shoulder injury.

William Campbell is one of the angry young men spearheading a drive to keep hunters from shooting does again this year in Tuscola county.

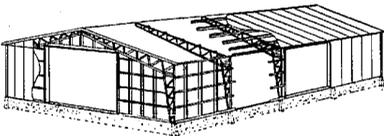

He writes that no doe hunting signs purchased by the county are available from Cass City Gun Club members or ST&H and L & S service stations. Cleo Spaulding at Elmwood also has the signs.

Dr. W. A. DeYoung, pathologist at Hills and Dales Hospital, says that there is a new test out that can determine if patients are susceptible to hardening of the arteries.

He suggests that in the future it could be standard practice for youngsters in their early teens to take the test. That way potential victims could be discovered and placed on a diet to stem the disease before it advances so far that it is irreversible.

A test like this may have been able to help patients such as Chuck Hughes, the Detroit Lions end who was stricken by the disease, Dr. DeYoung explained, while adding that arteriosclerosis in the young is a comparatively common disease.

Sports vs books

BY JIM FITZGERALD

After exhaustive study, 2 psychologists have reported that sports do not build character. Being a football star does not make Johnny a better person.

20,000 high-school coaches just slit their jockstraps. But I am laughing. I am remembering a basketball coach who was also a history teacher. He couldn't understand how I could be 6 foot tall and not want to play basketball. Every time he graded my history assignment, he subtracted 10% because I was a sissy and 15% because St. Stephen High was in last place in the St. Clair County League and it was all my fault.

He was 1 of those coaches who insisted Lincoln would never have been elected president if he hadn't been a little leaguer. World War 2 would be won on the West Point football field, he said, and France fell to Germany because French kids never learned how to play shortstop.

If that coach is still alive today, he probably thinks the world's greatest sissies are Dr. Bruce Ogilvie and Dr. Thomas Tutko, psychology professors at San Jose State College in California. For 8 years they tested 15,000 athletes, worked with 27 professional teams and hundreds of high school and college teams. And they concluded there is nothing to support the traditional idea that sports build character.

"Indeed," they said, "there is evidence that athletic competition limits growth in some areas... athletic competition has no more beneficial effects than intense endeavor in any other field."

So there, Coach. 30 years later, my judgement is vindicated by experts. I never could understand how running around in public in my underwear would make me editor of the New York Times.

It's not that I don't like sports. As a boy, I went to all the games and crawled around under the bleachers, looking for dropped money. That's how I became a fan. I still attend more games today than most normal men. I take my son along to pick up the money although I get half if I see it first.

The other day my mother came visiting and got her first look at the recreation room recently installed in my basement. Dear Old Mom remembers my hyper-relaxed boyhood better than anyone. She remembers when I delivered newspapers on foot and my dad looked out the window and swore he had to line me up with some trees to see whether I was moving.

"You have finally achieved your boyhood ambition," Mother said. "You have your own pool table and your own bar with running water and cold beer. I am so proud of you." I explained to her that it was, shucks, really nothing. And I asked her if she had been worried, those many years ago, about a son who never went out for school sports.

"You were always sitting around the house reading," she remembered, "while the other boys were out playing ball. I asked you once if you thought you'd grow up to be a great man and you said you'd rather grow up to be a great reader."

Hmmm. I wonder if books build character? I don't remember any teacher ever saying so. I never won a letter for my sweater for reading. There were never any pretty cheerleaders chanting: "Go man, read that sentence, under-

BETTER HEALTH

Dangers of undetected gonorrhea

BY DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

I keep reading medical journal articles written by public health experts who are much worried about the gonorrhea which is now an epidemic, especially in high schools and colleges. Many of the young victims of the disease seem to look on it much as they would a cold, but it can do the body much harm. I remember one of my college chums who got a "dose" that caused him to suffer for years from prostatic inflammation. This left him sterile (unable to produce a child) and for a while he suffered from much pain in his abdomen and in one knee joint. For a while, he could not urinate with comfort, and for years he was very distressed as a result of the gonorrhea.

He caught the disease from a very nice young woman who had been deserted by her husband. Later I learned from a physician friend that the woman's husband had disappeared because he had been "cheating" on her and had discovered that his mistress had infected him. Rather than confess his misdemeanors to his wife, he had "taken French leave".

One of the greatest problems in controlling gonorrhea is that many times a woman does not get enough symptoms to tell her that she has been infected and she could injure any man who might have sexual relations with her. I have seen many such women who suffered from abdominal pain and became sterile. The two Fallopian tubes that run out from the top of the womb toward the ovaries plug up with the infection.

According to health authorities, since 1965 the incidence of gonorrhea has gone up 15 per cent a year. In the year ending June 30, 1970, the disease was reported to have attacked 573,000 people, but we must remember that these were only the cases reported by physicians. Because so many physicians do not report the cases, the men in the Center for Disease Control in Atlanta estimate that at least two million people contracted the disease in 1970. The authorities say that 80 or 90 per cent of women with the disease do not show symptoms, and hence remain untreated. Naturally, they cause thousands of men to get infected.

For years after 1943, when penicillin became available, it was so easy to cure gonorrhea that people lost their fear of the disease. Then disaster came, because the germ that causes gonorrhea became resistant to penicillin. Now I am glad to read that a new type of antibiotic called TROBICIN has been found which is said to quickly cure 96 per cent of cases. The usual dose for men is one injection of 2 grams; for women the dose is 4 grams.

For a while, the antibiotic tetracycline was used in cases where penicillin did not help, but then the germ became resistant to that drug also. There is a chance that someday the germ will also become resistant to Trobicin, and then another antibiotic will have to be found.

Some authorities now say that the wise man having sex will use a condom, and a wise woman will ask that her partner use a condom. Wearing this tube-like device, made of a very thin fabric, takes away some of a man's pleasure, but it could save him from a year or more of very distressing illness. In a man, the symptoms of gonorrhea are quite easily recognized. Perhaps the man will have pain and discomfort when he urinates, and an irritating, pus-like discharge will develop and continue for several days or even weeks. But with the end of the discharge comes the end of any recognizable symptom. If he does not go right away for treatment, he may later develop the symptoms that I saw so often before the coming of antibiotics -- sterility due to scar tissue that blocks the seminal duct (the tube through which the sperm join with the liquid part of the semen), he may suffer for years from pain and difficulty on urinating, and a long time later, he may possibly suffer from an arthritic condition.

As I said, diagnosis of gonorrhea in a woman is much more difficult. The disease can cause blindness in newborn babies, but fortunately, a routine preventive measure is now used in all hospitals to protect all babies from this danger.

Young people should know that in many states today, it is possible for a minor to be treated by a doctor without the knowledge of the parents. Also, doctors are much more concerned with helping the youngster get well than they are in giving him a lecture about morals. Syphilis is a more dangerous venereal disease than is gonorrhea because it can disastrously affect any organ of the body, including the brain. Unless it is well treated and quickly gotten rid of, it can cause even insanity and death. Like gonorrhea, it can infect a man or woman without giving warning of its arrival. It can often be cured quickly with penicillin.

 In his booklet "Psycho-Sexual Troubles of Men" Dr. Alvarez tells you about sexual development, masturbation, sexually precocious boys, venereal disease, homosexuality and other topics. If you would like a copy of the booklet simply send 25 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Dr. Walter C. Alvarez, Dept. CCC, Box 957, Des Moines, Iowa 50304.

Boys don't do that!

By Kit McMillion

When I was observing the pre-school nursery last week, I heard one boy make a remark that chilled my blood, not because it was so gruesome in itself, but because it represented that whole trend of society that has messed up so many lives already.

What that little boy said sounded sort of cute, the way most things from children sound, but it wasn't.

He saw one of his little male companions at the play house where several girls had congregated and very sharply told him, "Boys don't play with doll houses."

It upsets my liberated woman's soul to hear a chauvinistic remark from one so young. But it isn't his fault; he was merely reflecting something he had been taught by his parents and something he picked up from his environment, most likely the television.

(I personally consider the boob tube to be the bane of man's existence.)

A friend of mine told me a similar thing happened when he took his 3-year-old son Christmas shopping last year. When they got to the doll section, the little tyke said he couldn't go down that aisle because dolls are for girls.

Thank goodness people are questioning the value placed on this silly role-playing prescribed by our society. Maybe people will have a better chance to be individuals instead of worrying about whether or not something they do is right or wrong.

Now don't get me wrong. I'm not some sort of super-fanatic woman's lib type. (I flatter my ego by telling myself I never unliberated.)

But much of my childhood was under the pressure of the mold. I was given dolls, but I preferred snatching my brother's neat things.

I just think people--and children--should be able to do and be what they want to. People pay lip service to this all the time, which is neatly summed up in the album Hair--"Kids be free. Do what ever you want to do, be whatever you want to be, just so long as you don't hurt anybody."

Good advice, but that little quip is said tongue-in-cheek, for those of you who haven't heard it. It means, broadly translated, that boys should be able to play with dolls if they want to, and girls shouldn't be restricted to them if they don't want to.

It just means that kids should have the opportunity to be themselves, to be people.

Harvey to visit

U. S. Rep. James Harvey, Republican from the 8th district, will be in Cass City from 8:30 to 9:30 a. m. Saturday, Oct. 30.

Harvey will be traveling in his "mobile office" in which he makes periodic trips to communities in his district.

He will be in front of the Cass Theatre. Harvey uses the visit to hear from constituents and answer questions.

Coffee and donuts will be served.

TUSCOLA SOIL CONSERVATION district directors toured the southwest portion of the Tuscola district recently. They observed conservation practices concerning drainage and pollution programs and strip cropping as a means of controlling soil and water erosion.

In front are Paul Findlay, chairman, and Maynard McConkey, director. Standing are: Leon Keinath, vice-chairman; Bruce Ruggles, secretary-treasurer; Charles Wells, director, and Alvin C. Smith, conservation technician.

Chamber plans Halloween

A busy evening is planned for small fry and their families for Halloween week end.

Saturday night at 7:30 p. m. area residents will be treated to a free show at the Cass Theatre, "With 6 You Get Egg-roll", starring Doris Day and Brian Keith.

Starting at 10:45 the Cass will be reopened and two suspense shows will be shown at regular prices. Coffee and donuts will be served free at this performance.

There will be no Saturday matinee this week. Regular programming resumes with the 4:45 show Sunday.

Before the free show Saturday afternoon $50 will be given away in a penny hunt in the parking lot north of Main Street between Leach and Seeger Streets.

Rites held for former resident

Final rites for Mrs. Ethel Florence Martin Billings, 84, were held Monday, Oct. 25, at Everiss' Funeral Home, Adrian.

She died of cancer Oct. 23 at Potomac Valley Nursing Home, Rockville, Md., after a short illness.

Mrs. Billings was born in Cass City Feb. 16, 1887, to George and Charlotte Bush Martin, one of eight children. She graduated from Cass City High School as valedictorian in 1905. After receiving her Teacher's Certificate from Central Michigan University, Mt. Pleasant, she taught at Niles and Pontiac. She was a member of Pi Sigma Chi Sorority.

She married Dr. Marion LeRoy Billings Sept. 13, 1910, in Cass City. They made their home in Mt. Pleasant where Dr. Billings taught at CMU, and moved to Adrian in 1921 and then to Bowling Green, Ky., in 1926, where she resided since. Her husband was head of the psychology department at Western Kentucky University, Bowling Green, until his death in 1950.

Mrs. Billings was an active member of the First Presbyterian Church and was a Worthy Matron of the Order of Eastern Star. She was also active in a number of civic organizations in Bowling Green.

She is survived by two daughters: Mrs. Robert W. Scott of Wichita, Kan., and Mrs. Harry B. Wood Jr. of Bethesda, Md.; a sister, Mrs. Beulah Calley of Bay City, and four grandchildren.

She was preceded in death by her husband, three brothers, Frank, Raymond and George, and three sisters: Mrs. Jack (Annie) Dorr, Mrs. Herbert (Cora) Scott, and Mrs. John (Viola) Bohnsack, all of Cass City.

She was the sister-in-law of John Bohnsack and aunt of Harry Bohnsack, both of Cass City. A memorial service was held at the First Presbyterian Church, Bowling Green, Tuesday. A living memorial in her honor is being established in the Faculty Wives' Scholarship Fund at Western Kentucky University. The family suggests that memorial gifts be designated and sent to the College Heights Foundation, WKU.

Win the battle of life--be a hard hitter and keep it up.

Firemen's tradition

Free popcorn

Youngsters in the Cass City area can look forward to a free bag of popcorn again this year, courtesy of the Elkland Township Fire Department.

Every Halloween night for the past 13 or 14 years the firemen have passed out the popcorn at the fire station. This year the treats will be given Saturday night, Oct. 30.

The popcorn machine they use has been in the community for a number of years. It was originally the property of Alfred Fort of Fort's Store, who set it up outside the theater about 40 years ago. It passed to the hands of the Boy Scouts, who then sold it to the firemen for about $25.

Every year 50 pounds of corn are popped and buttered and given away in bags. They always order 1000. When they run out of bags, they just toss the corn in the kiddies' sacks.

That's somewhere between 13,000 and 14,000 bags of popcorn.

Fritz Neitzel, who has been on the force 25 years, said that last year was a bumper crop for the kids. They had 10 pounds left over from the year before and popped all 60 pounds.

"It's above and beyond the call of duty, facing 1000 kids," he said, grinning.

The money to pay for the popcorn comes out of the firemen's own pockets.

First AWANA

meet scheduled

The first official meeting of the local AWANA Youth Association will be held Wednesday, Nov. 3, at the Campbell Elementary gym.

AWANA, which stands for "Approved workmen are not ashamed" from the scripture verse, II Timothy 2:15, is for all children in grades three through eight and is sponsored by the First Baptist church in Cass City. It is a national organization.

Meetings will be held weekly under the supervision of 16 adult leaders, with five or more secretaries. The 1 1/2-hour club session will include a game circle, tribe time and Bible council.

The introductory meeting Nov. 3 will begin at 7:15 p. m. and both parents and children are invited to attend.

Miss Mary Hanby, Christian Education director at the Baptist church, is in charge of the program.

Union to award $100 scholarship

A $100 scholarship to be awarded to a college senior in the field of education has been announced by the teachers of the Cass City Public Schools.

The announcement was made this week in commemoration of National Education Week.

The scholarship is limited to those students who graduated from Cass City High School. Any college senior who is eligible may apply by writing the president of the Cass City Educational Association, Robert W. Logan, Cass City High School, before Nov. 12.

The scholarship will be awarded sometime in December, following review of the applications by a committee.

Parents are urged to notify their children of the scholarship.

Letter to Editor

Thanks paper for coverage

To the staff of the Chronicle:

The parents of the Cass City Preschool Nursery would like to say thank you for the fine cooperation you've given us this past year.

Without your help in publicizing our efforts, the task of organizing our nursery would have been more difficult.

We are proud of our nursery school, and we appreciate your support.

Sincerely,
The Cass City
Preschool Nursery

Schedule school parent-teacher conferences

The Deford, Evergreen, Campbell Elementary, and fifth and sixth graders in the Intermediate school will hold parent-teacher conferences during American Education Week, Oct. 24-30.

American Education Week has been held annually since 1921 under the auspices of the National Education Association, the American Legion, the National Congress of Parents & Teachers, and the U. S. Office of Education, to encourage citizens in all parts of the country to look closely at the schools in order to provide adequate support and initiate action toward correcting problems or weaknesses in the educational program.

It is hoped that parents will avail themselves of this opportunity to visit their children's schools and meet with the teachers. Report cards can be still, formal "notices" of a child's classroom performance. Elementary teachers feel that a personal meeting between parent and teacher can reveal a common concern for the pupil's progress and through this working together arrive at some concrete ways to improve the child's academic abilities, or perhaps find a solution to a social or emotional problem.

Warning! Stay clear of hydrants

Police Chief Gene Wilson has warned would-be Halloween pranksters that anyone caught tampering with a fire hydrant will be arrested, and if they are over 16 years, can expect to go to jail.

Four hydrants have been opened in the past two weeks, he said.

Village youngsters are reminded of the curfew also. A state law provides that no one under 16 should be out between 12 midnight and 6 a. m. unless accompanied by a parent-designated guardian over 21. No one under 12 should be out between 10 p. m. and 6 a. m.

John Masten, 82, buried

CHRONICLE WANT ADS

THEY DO THE TRICK - QUICK

Funeral services for John J. Masten, 82, of Shabbona, were held at 1:30 p.m. Wednesday at the Marsh Funeral Chapel, Marlette, with the Rev. Stephen Chapko, pastor of the Shabbona United Methodist Church, officiating. Burial followed in the Rich Cemetery, Mayville.

He was born Jan. 11, 1889, in Deerfield township, and farmed in that area and in around the Marlette and Shabbona area most of his life. He was a veteran of World War I. He is survived by his widow, Mary; a son, J. D. Masten of Shabbona; two grandchildren; three great-grandchildren; two sisters: Mrs. Lettie Lumme of Postoria and Mrs. Arlie Budry of Fairgrove, and a brother, Charles, of Caro.

Kid brothers who snoop are bad enough. Kid brothers who take notes while they snoop - they could grow up to be blackmailers!

Yet, Joey doesn't think what he's doing is really wrong. He's just having a little fun at Sis's expense. And that notebook will come in handy the next time she threatens to "squeal" on him.

Part of growing-up is learning what is fair and what is unfair. Part of growing-up, too, is learning to forgive someone who has been unfair to us.

Never underestimate the immediate value of religious training in the Church. Obviously it provides a sound moral and spiritual foundation for later adult life. But, right now, it is molding the attitudes and decisions which will influence his life today.

Some things are hard to forgive

Uncle Tim From Tyre Says:

Dear Mister Editor:

Ever now and then, the feller that runs the country store cuts somepun out of the magazines he gits, and he passes em on to the fellers for their discussions. Saturday night, he had this clipping of a ad run by the Oregon Department of Parole and Probation. The ad was fer aids to work in the department.

What struck the store feller's eye was that the ad said "in order to qualify the applicant must have been convicted of a felony within the state of Oregon, and have been confined in a state penal institution." The store feller said he allus had heard the only way to git ahead in the game was to be born with 40 year experience, but he allowed this was the first time he had saw where being a ex-convict was a advantage in getting a job.

Actual, said Ed Doolittle, when you think about it the ad makes a lot of sense. What better way to understand the problems of convicts than to be of been one, ask Ed, and what other line of work is a ex-convict better prepared fer? It looked to Ed like a all-around good idee, and it is to bad that we don't use that same way to fill other jobs.

For instant, Ed went on, he saw where the Army spent $11 million running ads fer soldiers, but they didn't try the experience angle on the boys. The ads got 4,000 recruits, the Army said, and that figgered out to sompun like $2,600 fer each man. If the Army will pay that kind of money jest to git em in, said Ed, think how tickled the Army would be to keep them that's got experience.

The trick is to git the fellers that's been in the Army to go back in with the idee of changing things fer the better, Ed said, like cutting out KP and working on week ends. Ed said he would admit it's a heap easier to make the Army better than prison, but the experience angle would work jest as good.

Clem Webster said it was funny to him that a feller can't be a plumber unless he's got five year experience as a plumber, but he can git elected to any office without no experience at all. The only time we place any value on political experience, Clem said, is when our feller is in office and has got it. If we're trying to git our feller in office, he don't need it, was Clem's words.

General speaking, agreed Ed, you can't figger angles. Ed reported where a judge in Virginia fined a youngster $100 and sentenced him to sit on a hogpen and look at the hogs fer calling a policeman a pig. Ed figgered the boy probable was thinking how sticks and stones jest break bones, but words got him in a heap of trouble.

Personal, I give up on angles. I saw where this feller voted fer the state to raise all road signs two feet, cause he said if the job was left to the Federal Government they'd lower the roads two feet.

Yours truly,
Uncle Tim

Boost self-help by listening to children

A group of couples from Huron, Sanilac and Tuscola counties gathered at Stafford Park in Port Hope for a Parents' Retreat Oct. 15 and 16. Dr. Eugene Peisner, Family Life Specialist from the Michigan State University Cooperative Extension Service, led discussions on how to talk and listen more effectively to children.

Dr. Peisner has been conducting similar sessions throughout Michigan for thousands of Head Start parents, youth groups, extension audiences and others, according to Extension Home Economist Ann Ross.

The new dialog techniques are a composite of ideas presented by leading psychiatrists and counselors.

After a potluck dinner Friday, the group participated in exercises to show typical parental responses to children's problems.

Saturday the group learned of ways to help children find satisfying solutions to their own problems. This is done by "effective listening" which encourages the child to think through and decide on actions to solve his own problem - unhampered by parents' roadblocks.

The method, not considered permissive, helps improve the child's self-concept and decision making ability.

Persons attending the camp-out retreat included Mr. and Mrs. William Lay; Mr. and Mrs. Dave Smith of Vassar; Mr. and Mrs. Allen Houghtaling and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Schroder; Reese; Mr. and Mrs. Ed Strong; Snover; Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Williams of Filion; Mr. and Mrs. Clement Veaser, Mr. and Mrs. Don Remillard and Mr. and Mrs. Lee Ross of Bad Axe.

Some of the participants will be involved in training sessions for all parents to be offered by the Cooperative Extension Service in January.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Prosser of Westland were Wednesday afternoon callers of their aunt, Mrs. Eva Ashcroft.

4-H

Several leaders attended the 4-H banquet Thursday, Oct. 21, at Sandusky. First year leader pins were awarded to Keith Ebe, John Agar, Don Smith and Dean Smith. Don Masten received a 15-year pin.

Clair and Virginia Auslander were recipients of the Friend of 4-H Award. This award is presented each year for outstanding work in 4-H. Parents are asked to accompany their children to the next 4-H meeting at the Evergreen School Monday evening, Nov. 1, at 7:30. Election of officers and sign up for 1971-'72 will be held and checks will be given out.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Wheeler and Mary Ann were Thursday evening callers of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Moriarty.

Mrs. Don Smith and Julie were Monday afternoon callers of Mrs. Eva Ashcroft.

Haag awarded Distinguished Flying Cross

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Haag of Bad Axe were recently informed that their son, Warrant Officer Gene Haag, 23, has been awarded his second Distinguished Flying Cross with the first Oak Leaf Cluster.

Haag distinguished himself Mar. 3 when he flew his helicopter through enemy anti-aircraft fire and around aircraft already downed in the landing zone of a relief base, where he picked up supplies and forces. He then proceeded to a besieged fire base of the Army of the Republic of Vietnam in Laos where he landed safely, under increasing intense enemy anti-aircraft fire, with badly needed troops.

He also has the Bronze Star, the Army Commendation Medal, the Vietnamese Flying Cross and the Vietnamese Cross of Galantry with the Bronze Star.

He returned May 30 from a year in Vietnam after flying over 800 missions. He is presently stationed with his wife, the former Betty Jo Bloomfield of Sebewaing, in Wertheim Germany. Their address is: WO2 Gene Haag, 382-52-3851, 351 AVN Co., Box 37, APO New York N. Y. 09047.

ONE FOR THE ROAD

Makeup changes noticed

By Dan Marlowe

The Encyclopedia Britannica states that in 1970 85% of women used lipstick, 92% used talcum powder, and 80% used smooth-on fragrance in one of its many forms.

The survey also showed that use of these three top-selling products begins in the 12-13 age group and continues up to the 60-to-70 year olds.

A noticeable change in the type of new product being given the "hard-sell" treatment by cosmetics firms in 1970 suggests an all-out attempt to regain the custom of the older woman.

Over the preceding decade, emphasis had been on "looks", in a word, on makeup. In 1970 there was a return to the earlier concept of skin care. A great deal was heard about the "pH" factor in products, an acid-alkaline balance which, when correctly proportioned, was said by specialists in the field to produce "the flawless complexion."

Preoccupation with the face beneath the makeup was the 1970 message from such leading beauty firms as Revlon, Elizabeth Arden, and Orlane. Packaging, too, showed signs of greater simplicity, aimed, it would seem, at the more thoughtful taste of the older woman. Some preparations were marketed in workmanlike roll-on containers, swivel sticks, and plastic packs.

In line with the vogue for "unisex" clothes, French firms promoted their eau de cologne as a unisex toilet water. In her unremitting search for up-to-the-minute ideas and gimmicks, in cosmetics as well as clothes, Britain's Mary Quant introduced a new range of stick-fast makeup preparations labeled "Make-up to make love in." Available in medium, dark, and bronze shades, Mary Quant's Colour Stick was said to have long-lasting adhesive qualities. The range also included a stubbornly clinging eye-tint.

Water-color eye shadow, first marketed in the top and medium price ranges, was made available in cheaper brands. Mixed with a drop of water and painted on, these shadows could be applied in either intense or subtle shades. They were said to be proof against caking, fading, and streaking.

1970 also showed a trend away from animal-product compounds to hygiene aids prepared from nut, plant, and fruit oils blended with flower essences.

I'll bet all you girls thought I never noticed.

Buehrly suffers skull fracture in accident

Dale Buehrly, 36, of Greenland Road, Cass City, is recovering in Hills and Dales Hospital from a skull fracture and concussion suffered in an industrial accident Friday at Sebawaing Industries, Inc., where he is employed as a die setter. He is listed in fair condition.

The mishap occurred about 8:15 a. m. when Buehrly and two co-workers were setting a die in place on one of the presses at the plant.

His brother, Don, who also works at the plant, said that Dale was locating the air pins that secure the die to the press, using a safety bar constructed of 2-inch steel. When the last pin was pushed into position, the air pressure caused the press to snap together, which drove the bar into Buehrly's head as he leaned over. The air gauge registered about 5 pounds of pressure, he said. The bar hit him on the right side of the head, catching him in a line even between his eye and his ear.

It just missed injuring his eye or hitting his temple, which probably would have killed him, said his brother. His head has been immobilized by placing sand bags on either side.

As it was, Buehrly was taken to the hospital by ambulance, unconscious and in shock, where his condition was at first listed as guarded.

Prankster hours

The village council established between 5:30 and 9 p. m. Saturday night as hours for area children to celebrate Halloween.

President Althaver said he had received a number of calls about it.

It is the first time the village has attempted to determine hours for trick or treaters, but took the action because Halloween falls on Sunday night this year.

13 clocks and can't tell time

said Gene. They discussed the values and drawbacks of small towns and the life it affords, but expressed real pleasure in Cass City.

"Four years ago when I was on the road, I'd come through Cass City when we lived in Bay City and say to myself, 'Boy, what a dinky town.' Now this seems like paradise compared to Minden City. Cass City is an improvement since we lived in a little town," they agreed.

Mrs. Hofstedt lauded the nearness of everything -- "Stores just down the street" -- whereas before stores were 25 miles away.

"There's everything here we need," they concurred.

They included many intangibles appreciated by the many families who move from the city to a small town.

So much moving has made it difficult for the family to lay down roots and as a consequence, they rely on themselves more.

"We've found that it takes two years for us to feel comfortable in a new place, to become part of everything," said Mrs. Hofstedt. "If you're a joiner you can go from one community to another easier."

"We've had to be self-sufficient," explained Mrs. Hofstedt, "but you're almost afraid to get close to somebody because you know you have to say goodby."

It doesn't bother this independent family, though, because the lives many people lead don't interest them.

"I suppose it sounds selfish," stated Mrs. Hofstedt, "but we have many interests and it takes a lot of time to raise our family."

"But if you count up the number of hours in your life," said Gene, "I just don't have the time to waste doing things I don't enjoy."

"Yes," agreed his wife, "if you're always doing things for other people, you end up frustrated and unhappy."

Part of the reason they like the clocks and antiques is because it reminds them of a happier time when problems in society weren't so pressing.

"I suppose it's like living in the past, but it had so many things we don't have now, like manners," said Mrs. Hofstedt, "the politeness, just caring for each other."

She continued: "We like old things because there's a certain warmth in them. Like the clocks; they've lived around the lives of people. We go but they're here afterwards."

They don't just collect them, however; most of the old things they've collected are used daily.

It's the shadow of a doubt that keeps the worrier from having a ghost of a chance.

THE HOFSTEDTS also own a spinning wheel and yarn winder. Behind them is a railroad clock.

County mulling budget

The Tuscola County Board of Commissioners accepted the report of the Ways and Means committee Tuesday at their regular meeting.

The commissioners met 5 days and one night last week to work on the budget and Friday to meet Wednesday and Friday of this week to make final decisions on the budget for the coming year.

Commissioner Ed Goding said the salaries were not yet settled.

The finance committee was handicapped this year in working on the budget because the chairman, Charles Woodcock, has been in a Saginaw hospital the past three weeks following an operation.

In other business the board approved the purchase of a Burroughs L-5000 magnetic record computer to be used in making the payroll, in tax billing, in the friend of the court's office and by the treasurer to do part of the accounting. The cost of the machine is $24,651, which includes a magnetic record reader.

The cost of the programming is separate. Payroll would be $1675, budgetary accounts $1625, property tax billing $900 and $2600 for use by the friend of the court.

Check your daily diet habits

Mrs. Margaret Ross - Extension Agent

Are you a fat dieter? Do you get tired up to lose weight, and then expect miracles from skipping lunch or giving up all types of bread?

Mary Kerr says that such radical changes in your dietary habits probably aren't necessary, and, chances are you'll soon be back to your old habits.

Have you thought of the effect these changes could have on yours and your family's health? on the food budget? on your morale?

A good diet must begin with what you are eating now. Start with the last 24 hours. What did you eat during that time -- everything from jelly to desert topping?

List each food and the size of serving in one column, and where you ate it in another. Then assign each food to its category in the basic four food groups: meat, milk, bread and cereal, and fruits and vegetables. Also make a separate list of sweets, fats, etc. -- the "sugar and spice and everything nice" we tend to eat and then forget.

In order to get the food nutrients you need, as well as minimum calories (1,100 to 1,200), you should eat daily at least two servings each of meat and milk products and at least four servings each from the bread-cereal and fruit-vegetable categories.

Exotic European beef bulls come to Michigan

The Exotic European beef breeds are coming to Michigan in the flesh. Nov. 4 three bulls representing the European new beef breeds will be on display at the Calhoun County Fairgrounds, Marshall. The breeds represented will be Simmental, Limousin, and Maine-Anjou. Michigan is one of eight states involved in a 2 1/2 week tour of the United States. The tour is sponsored by New Breed Industries, Select Sires, Inc., and Michigan Animal Breeders Cooperative, in cooperation with the bulls' Canadian owners.

This visit will be the first time that any imported full-blooded animals of these breeds have entered Michigan although frozen semen has been available through MABC for the past few years. Use of frozen semen by Michigan beefmen has resulted in several half-blood offspring in each of the three breeds in herds throughout Michigan.

The importation of these Western European breeds occurred a few years ago. Used for cross-breeding purposes in North America, the new breeds have gained overnight acceptance with beef producers. When crossed on domestic beef cattle, the resulting offspring have demonstrated amazing gain rates, heavy muscling, and adaptability to North American range conditions.

Simmental originated in Switzerland and are one of the world's oldest recorded breeds. Developed for milk and beef, the Simmental cattle are also noted for high fertility and physical soundness.

The Limousin breed is of French origin. Fast growth, small calf size, and heavy muscling are among the desired traits of these cattle. The Maine-Anjou is one of the world's largest breeds of livestock. Bulls reach weights of 3000 pounds or more as mature animals. Cows will reach one ton at maturity!

Select Sires and NBI personnel will be on hand to discuss the merits of these breeds with visitors between 10:00 a. m. and 4:00 p. m. Frozen semen and insemination service to these and other beef breeds is available through Michigan Animal Breeders Cooperative, East Lansing.

AROUND THE FARM Plan retirement income

By Don R. Kebler

Six hundred thousand farmers will be eligible to retire from now through 1981 and many will retire in poverty. They will not necessarily be poverty stricken in owned assets but in available living income and, because of this, many will not retire until health requires it.

Fortunately for many it is not necessary to retire in poverty or because of poor health. Many have acquired net worth assets convertible to cash or other income producing means.

The proposition before these people is for converting their net worth to best advantage. However, before they can make proper decisions an inventory of their assets to type is necessary.

One of the best places to begin is to learn what their Social Security retirement income will be, and add to this other income from interest on investments, savings, rent, etc. This annual income is most certain. The next step is to assess the sale value of the farm, tools, livestock and cash crops on hand. This is their reserve checking account which pays no dividends unless used.

After asset inventory is complete, an annual income need goal is decided. Once decided it will be evident whether retirement plus other interest, rent, etc. income will suffice. Be sure to include the interest from the re-invested monies received from the sales of livestock, tools and stored cash crops.

At this point one will know whether to sell the farm or to not sell and hope for a guaranteed annual rental income.

Cass Cityans

win prizes at

Vassar convo

The East Central District Association of the Michigan State Federation of Women's clubs met Wednesday and Thursday, Oct. 20-21, at Vassar.

The theme of the meeting was "The challenging Seventies-Let us go forward". Presiding was Mrs. Eleanor Eicher of Pigeon. Gageton club women were in charge of table decorations Wednesday and the Cass City club was in charge of table arrangements Thursday.

The banquet speaker was associate professor Morley Fraser, of Albion college, who spoke on "Making your Marriage Work".

Thursday meetings were in charge of Junior club members. Guest speaker at the luncheon was assistant Junior Director, Mrs. Bruce VanDeusen. Mrs. Dorothy Komorny spoke on "What is a cooperative nursery" and a Flint Junior club panel discussed "Glass collection and recycling".

There were 100 entries in arts and crafts in which Mrs. Herbert Ludlow received a prize on her quilt and Mrs. Grace Moore received a prize on an afghan. Mrs. Moore also was awarded ribbons for a quilt and a painting.

Attending both days of the meetings were Mrs. Edward Baker, Mrs. Esther McCullough and Mrs. Alice McAleer. Others who attended the Thursday sessions were Mrs. Ludlow, Mrs. Paul Murray, Mrs. Ella Croft and Mrs. John Zinnecker.

The only men who get ahead are those who go ahead alone.

Zonta told of marijuana

Two State Troopers spoke about Drug Abuse at the monthly dinner meeting of the Zonta Club held at the home of Gladys Fort with Agnes Milligan as co-hostess.

Trooper Gary Howe explained the many names for marijuana as pot, tea and grass. The marijuana plant, for which no medicinal use is known, comes from an Indian Hemp plant, and can be taken orally or smoked.

The plant grows from 10 to 12 feet tall and never has an even number of leaves, he said. Much marijuana is grown in Michigan, but it isn't as potent as that grown in Mexico or the western states, the trooper explained, saying that cultivated marijuana is better for its use.

Using pictures to show the tragic results of the drug and the great problem it is creating among the youth in small communities as well as cities, he spoke of the different ways it affects the user by making him depressed, talkative, unsteady, drowsy or excitable.

The troopers told the club that persons on harder drugs, such as heroin, invariably started out on marijuana.

Howe explained that the drug can be detected by its sweet smell, similar to new mown hay or grass, and ranging from the regular corn cob pipe to the crude home-made pipe made from small plumbing pipe with the joint as the cup.

Assisting Howe was Trooper James Montheil.

The next meeting will be held at the Toby Weaver home, Tuesday, Nov. 16.

4-H ACTIVITIES

Seek parental cooperation

By Bernard Jardot

As a 4-H leader, have you ever asked: "What's wrong with today's parents? Why won't they get involved with their children? Why don't they volunteer to help with 4-H activities?"

Not all parents will help. But research and experience tell us most of them are willing when their children are in 4-H. Like most people who volunteer, however, they must be asked to do a specific thing at a specific time. So be specific about when and what you want done.

The way you ask parents to do something often is based upon how well you know them. So start to build rapport with parents as soon as their children become 4-H members. Capture their attention and arouse their interest. You can do this by showing them your interest in their children and by letting them know about 4-H. You cannot expect all parents to understand 4-H objectives, your group's objectives and boy's and girl's individual objectives.

If you expect parents to be very interested and active in everything your 4-H'ers do, then chances are they will be. They also will lend more active support.

It requires planning and thought to determine when and how much responsibility to delegate to parents. You should involve them in services related to 4-H activities where they can receive recognition or with projects where they can use their job skills and special talents.

SPECIAL RECOGNITION

At the recent Leader-Member Recognition Banquet, Tuscola County 4-H clubs recognized the services given by two friends of 4-H, Mr. Robert Labor, Michigan Livestock Exchange Manager, and Mr. Rudy Petzold, Editor of the Tuscola County Advertiser. We also wish to thank the newspapers of Tuscola county for their fine coverage during National 4-H Week.

County Advertiser. We also wish to thank the newspapers of Tuscola county for their fine coverage during National 4-H Week.

Delegates attend

Rochester meet

Delegates from the Caro congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses have returned home after attending a three-day religious assembly at Rochester last week end. The assembly was sponsored by the Watchtower Bible and Tract Society of New York and was under the direction of Harry A. Fetzik, district supervisor and traveling representative of Jehovah's Witnesses.

Delegates from 16 Michigan congregations attended and took part in the program activity. David Szekely, local area presiding minister, said that "these congregations provided volunteers to operate service departments to care for the needs of the delegates."

The highlight of the three-day program was the main discourse Sunday, "Can You Live Forever? Will You?" delivered by Mr. Fetzik. There were 1,982 in attendance.

Saturday morning, 31 were baptized by water immersion. These people will join in the teaching and preaching fellowship of Jehovah's Witnesses.

Mr. Szekely said meetings would be resumed at the Caro Kingdom Hall, 1659 Deckerville Road, Sunday. All interested persons are invited.

To make ends meet today people will have to learn to do more—more doing without.

SUNDAY, OCTOBER 31 - 10:00 & 11:00 a.m.

Steve and Maria Gardner... the personable, youthful husband-wife duo team, met as fellow musicians traveling with the famous Sparrows. Both are outstanding vocalists who travel extensively representing Campus Life, a division of Youth for Christ. Maria was named "Best Vocal Soloist" in international music competition at Winona Lake, Indiana. Steve was named winner of the International folk solo competition.

Maria, who toured Australia and the Dominican Republic as a member of a YFC Teen Team, studied at Fort Wayne Bible College. Steve, a graduate of Wheaton (Ill.) College, was featured in a YFC "Winner's Tour" through the Midwest and West Coast states.

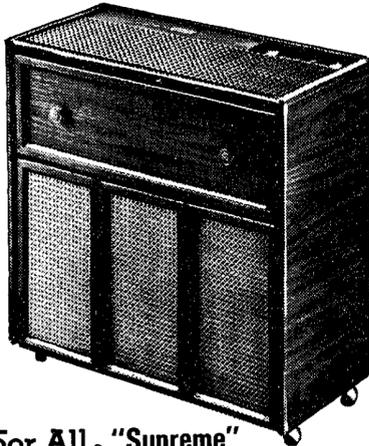

Together, Steve and Maria have become a most popular singing team. They have toured throughout the U. S. and Canada in concerts and appearances at youth rallies, church and camp functions. Their presentation is both entertaining and inspirational, with a musical style that features flexibility and variety.

The Gardners present songs accompanied by guitar and taped orchestral sound tracks from their newest long play Four Most recording, "You Can Experience." Billboard magazine, the official trade publication of the recording and music industry, recently said of this album, "It takes a special talent for a folk duo to sing religious music and convey a subtle message. This duo has the talent and demonstrates it well..." They are popular with audiences in youthful coffee house settings or adult, traditional church-related meetings.

Hawk-Laker tilt rated even after Vassar succumbs 25-6

The final home game for the Cass City Red Hawks promises to be one of the best of the season between two clubs that look about even, based on previous games this year. The Lakers and the Hawks are tied in the Thumb B Conference following the Lakers' one-point loss to Frankenmuth and Cass City's 25-6 decision over Vassar last Friday. A victory would be especially sweet for both teams. Laker

Coach Tim Anthes, a Cass City alumnus, would like nothing better than to top off the turnaround that he has fashioned at Laker High with a win over his alma mater. A win for Cass City would guarantee the Hawks at least as many wins as losses. . . the best record that the team has had in many, many seasons.

The Red Hawks will be playing in front of their dads Friday. It's dads' night at Cass City Recreational Park and fathers will be honored during the game and invited to the locker room following the contest.

The following Tuesday night it's likely that they will be part of the picture when movies of the game are shown at the high school cafeteria.

To a man, the fathers will be hoping for better luck than Vassar's dads' experienced when Cass City came to town last Friday.

The Vulcans looked great in the early going but as the game progressed the Hawks got better and the Vulcans didn't.

Early in the first quarter, the host team blocked a Kip Hopper punt and promptly ran the ball in for a touchdown to take a 6-0 lead. Mike Smith scored.

But that was all for Vassar. Cass City took command.

The Hawks mounted a drive after recovering a fumble that moved to the Vulcan eight where a play hotly disputed by Vassar fans put Cass City on the scoreboard.

Kip Hopper took a hand-off and raced to his right flat where he found Scott Hartel in the end zone for the marker. Vassar fans are still convinced that he passed the line of scrimmage when he threw.

But there was nothing tainted about the remainder of Cass City's markers as they blew Vassar out of the game.

Another fumble recovery set the stage for another drive that saw Kip Hopper plunge over for the marker. Fred Harbec kicked the extra point and the Hawks led at the half, 13-6.

In the third period, Cass City iced the game.

Craig Guernsey took a Vassar punt and behind fine blocking raced down the right sidelines untouched to score.

After this Hawks' tally, Vassar never again threatened. Kurt Strickland ran for 5 yards and the final marker of the game and it was all over but the mopping up.

Gene Salas was the leading ground gainer with 65 yards in 13 carries. Hopper averaged 6.6 yards in 9 carries.

Tim Knoblet led all tacklers with 16 points while the coaches singled out Ron Turner for his defensive work.

and Dave Erla added the 2-point conversion.

Mike Frederick, Cass City quarterback, threw 3 touchdown passes. A loss to Dan Mellendorf covered 35 yards and Kevin Corvill was on the receiving end of 10 and five yard pay-off heaves.

Stoutenburg scored again from the 2 after setting up the score with a long run.

Mark Phillips replaced the injured Ron Spencer on defense and was credited with a fine performance by Coach Skip Pranger.

Leading the defense were Mellendorf, Dave Brooks and Charles Tukey. Spencer saw little action but did play long enough to have a 75-yard touchdown run called back.

The Hawks will conclude their home schedule against Vassar Thursday night at 7 p. m.

CURT STRICKLAND ran over for the touchdown on this play as Cass City scored an easy victory over Vassar, 25-6, Friday.

J V's post third win in row

Cass City chalked up its third victory in a row, 36-0, Thursday night as the Junior Varsity whipped the Marlette JV's. Ed Stoutenburg ran 20 yards on a sweep for the first score and Dave Erla added the 2-point conversion.

Fire destroys Nichols' garage

A Tuesday afternoon fire of unknown cause destroyed a garage of Dallas Nichols, 8 miles east and 3 south of Cass City, on Germania Road.

Elkland township firemen received the call at 1:35 p. m. Eight men battled the blaze, but were unable to save the building. Estimated loss is $8-$10,000. Elkland township firemen answered three calls between Thursday and Sunday of last week, none too serious.

A 5:10 a. m. alarm Saturday brought 15 men to the Ernie Spencer home on Jacobs Road, 6 miles west and one-eighth north of Cass City Road, where fire ruined his car. Damage to the 1966 Ford, which was total, was estimated at $850. Cause of the fire is unknown.

A false alarm at 3:44 p. m. Sunday saw 14 volunteers go to the Sunoco Gas Station in DeFord. Tuscola county sheriff's deputies said an operator called in the fire.

Thursday afternoon, Oct. 21, a grass fire summoned 8 men to the Ray Kulish residence 2 miles west of DeFord on Deckerly Road. Firemen Ed Bergman said a passerby called in the blaze, but checking revealed that Kulish had a burning permit and was just burning brush.

He warns persons burning leaves that they need a burning permit, which can be obtained free from Ed Bergman at the ST and H gas station, at Bulens Motor Sales or at the Jerome Root Jr. and Ken Copeland homes.

Burning without a permit makes one liable to a fine of $100.

EXTENSION TOUR

Thirty ladies of the Extension Club went on a tour around the area Thursday. They met at the Cultural Center in Cass City where they were served donuts and coffee by Mr. and Mrs. Keith McConkey. James Blades spoke on plans for Cass City.

The group toured the General Cable plant, Hills and Dales Hospital and the Don Koepfgen dairy farm.

William Bortel, Extension Director for Tuscola county, gave a talk. The Sherwood Forest Country Club was their next stop for a luncheon. James England, mayor, gave a talk.

At the Caro travel agency they heard a talk by the director. They went to the Tuscola County Advertiser and learned the details of printing a paper. The last tour was the school, where they heard a talk by Superintendent of Schools William Scott and were served coffee.

one because it would be easier and help avoid confusion.

"Codes are the minimum," he stressed, "but they usually become maximums."

A bill presented in the legislature would require villages to adopt a set of state wide codes if they don't have their own by Jan 1. Toshach's advice to the council was to adopt their own and then adapt it to their particular situation.

The crux of the problem still rests on inspection, and the architect thought the state would probably require each local unit to hire their own inspector.

Village Superintendent James Blades told the council the village of Caro might be willing to share an inspector with Cass City for one day a week, while the village would pay 20% of his wages and travel expenses. This is not yet settled, however.

Toshach recommended a county wide inspector.

In other business the council moved to buy 50 trees as part of a tree planting program, awarded bids for the purchase of a gasoline tank and pump for use by the village and tabled a recommendation by Blades for the conversion of incandescent to mercury vapor street lights.

Because of the number of trees that were damaged or killed during the severe August storm, the council decided to provide replacements. The total cash outlay will be about $1000.

Blades advised the council the state highway forester has marked 18-20 trees along Main street with a yellow X which they will remove. Some of those may be replaced by the village.

ST&H Oil Company made the only bid for the gasoline tank. In the bid they offered 4 prices for a tank, ranging from $181.50 to $221.10 and two different sizes of pumps at $176.28 and $192.01. Blades was instructed to buy a tank and pump that fell within the specifications of the bid.

Another bid was opened from Standard but was rejected because it specified prices for gasoline, which the village will bid separately at a later date.

In a proposal to the council Blades recommended the village convert 148 of its 176 street lights from incandescent to mercury vapor.

This would give the village three times as much light at somewhere between $54 and $95 per month more than incandescent. Detroit Edison requested a rate change in early 1971 which would increase the cost of incandescent lights.

Under the present rates the cost per month for the 148 incandescent lights is $538 and would rise to $816. If converted to mercury vapor, the cost under present rates would be $592, at proposed rates $851. Without a rate change mercury lights would be $54 per month more, and with it $35 per month more than incandescent.

The rate increase is before the Public Service Commission and it is uncertain if it will go into effect, so the council tabled the proposal.

President Althaver did suggest that Blades prepare an additional recommendation for new lights in the areas of the village which are not presently served by street lights.

Blades reported to the council that the planning commission would hold a hearing on the zoning ordinance and subdivision regulations Nov. 18.

Dr. Rawson told the council that the trees should be planted this fall yet so they have a better chance of survival in the spring.

Turner named Hawk of week

RON TURNER

Coach Bill Philbin and his staff have named Ron Turner as the "Red Hawk" of the week. Turner was named after the films showed that he played a strong defensive game, Philbin said.

He was credited with nine tackles and recovered a fumble. In addition, he put lots of pressure on the Vassar quarterback in passing situations, the coaches agreed.

Turner is the first lineman to be singled out for the weekly award. Capt. Tim Knoblet who has been named for the award this year is a lineman, but plays linebacker on defense.
