AGENT'S CORNER

Song builds family

Mrs. Margaret Ross - Extension Agent

The old fashioned singing of carols around the family piano has a lot going for it. This is the kind of shared activity that helps bind a family together. And the beauty of it is, everyone can join in easily -- from tots to grandparents.

Typical Christmas music is well-known by nearly everyone. They don't have to wonder what the words are. And the tune is so familiar that they don't go astray here either. And usually, it's a middle of the keyboard kind of music -- not too high and not too low.

If you need the music to go by, there are plenty of Christmas carol song books available at almost any music store. Trying some of the Christmas favorites from other countries might be something your family would like to do this year. They're just as beautiful and singable as those that we know by heart in this country. And Christmas is a good time for children to learn how other countries celebrate.

So, burst into song between now and Christmas. Make the season meaningful and joyous. And don't let the lack of a piano stop you. Carols are so familiar that no accompaniment is necessary. It's a good way to bring family "harmony" together in more ways than one.

WCTU meets at Kitchin home

Uncle Tim From Tyre Says:
Dear Mister Editor:
I reckon you saw last month where them two 10 years old girls in Chicago got up a petition agin younguns taking castor oil. They circulated their demands in the ward of the hospital where they was being treated, and I understand the hospital promised to give serious consideration to their petition that they not have to take mineral or castor oil in hospitals or anywhere else.

Mister Editor, I am full fer their ends, but I am agin their means. I ain't never been so sick that I thought castor oil was good fer what ailed me, but I've gagged on many a slug of the slimy stuff jest cause my Ma poked a spoonful of it at me. Fer some reason, and I know the reason, it never come to me to pertest. The reason is that Pa would of made me hurt where castor oil wouldn't help.

As a feller gets older, I reckon, he finds the ways of younguns harder to figger. I have heard it said that younguns today are smarter, but I see by the papers where tests shows that IQ of school kids has dropped some since the second war. Well, Sir, the only thing I can figger is that the IQ of parents must of dropped even more. I am full agreed with the feller that said one of the sure ways to tell a backward country these modern days is where children still obey their parents.

Farther more, I think the lady school teacher who was ask on her 100th birthday about her years of teaching has the right idee. She taught 41 year until 1931, but she said she wouldn't try it today even if she was young. Back then, she said, parents disciplined their younguns and teaching was pleasant. Now, she said, she wouldn't know what to do if children rioted in her school.

Practical speaking, we got to admit things is more complicated now fer everybody. Used to, if a youngun didn't go to school somebody from the school went to find out why. Now the school board will hold a hearing to try and figger out what the school done wrong that caused the youngun to stay away. I think we has gone to far in the wrong direction when we ask the younguns what they want and then break our necks to satisfy their ever whim. We got the hole thing turned around till it reads "parents, obey thy children."

Personal, Mister Editor, I am not of the mind that our education system is failing us. I think the system has got to work with the raw material it gits, and that pins the falling right smack on the parents. Its jest a case of wearing the shoe that fits.

And on gitting things turned around, I see where this expert says credit is a way of life, and credit cards is the answer to bad checks. The way I read that statement is that if a feller couldn't charge somepun on a card he'd write a rubber check fer it. I can't figger who's going to come out ahead when the credit card bill comes.

Yours truly,
Uncle Tim

ONE FOR THE ROAD
By Dan Marlowe

The recent column on THE FORCE OF ENERGY, the industrial history of the Detroit Edison Company, produced some interesting sidelights. Mention was made of the fact that Henry Ford was an employee of Edison at the time he perfected his first auto. In 1933, the well known news-caster, Edwin C. Hill, famous for his "The Human Side of the News", did a broadcast on Mr. Ford. The broadcast was later published in pamphlet form by the Columbia Broadcasting System, and I am indebted to Charles Bennett of Harbor Beach for the loan of the pamphlet from which the following observations are taken. "The Ford Motor Company was founded June 16, 1903, capitalized at $100,000 with but $28,000 paid in. There were twelve stockholders, eleven of whom had money, while the twelfth had an idea. His contribution was his four cylinder racing automobile. "Mr. Ford was 40 years old, lacking just six weeks. In 1906 he gained control of his company by acquiring a 51% interest, and three years later, in 1909, he used that control to force upon his reluctant associates the principle of a standardized car under mass production. He summed it up in his famous statement "A man can have his car painted any color he wants so long as that color is black." "In 1919 the Ford, Henry and Edsel, bought out the remaining minority stockholders for 70 million dollars, which gave them the entire outfit, lock, stock, and barrel. "One morning early in 1914 the telegraph wires buzzed from Detroit a message that set the world gasping and brought the name of Henry Ford to the attention of anyone, anywhere, who could read any language. "It was announced that from that day on the minimum wage in the Ford plant would be five dollars a day and the working day would be eight hours in length. In 1876 Mr. Ford himself was working two jobs in Detroit for a 15-hour working day at a remuneration of $4.50 per week. "Here was a man who, by all the yardsticks we use, was a failure at forty; they called him a crank inventor. The great Lincoln, another failure at forty, was sorely disappointed that he was not made a land agent out in the Oregon Territory after his futile term in Congress. Had he gotten that job he never would have been President. "Henry Ford was a success beyond the dreams of man because of a will that would not break; because of a perseverance that would not falter; and because he trusted himself when all men doubted."

Phase II topic of AAUW meet

David Howard, an economist, sees the economic future of our country as always under some kind of economic control to halt inflation.

Howard, a member of the social department of Delta College, addressed the Cass City branch of AAUW Wednesday, Nov. 17.

He explained to the group the type of inflation the country is now experiencing is cost push inflation, where prices rise too fast, as opposed to the earlier inflation of the 1966-68 period, which was a demand pull inflation, the result of too much spending.

After discussion about Phase II and explaining that it was intended to limit wage increases to 5.5% and limit price increases to 2.5%, he said he expected some kind of Phase III program to evolve. What it would be or how long Phase II would last, he said he couldn't guess.

The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Basil Quick, hostess, with Mrs. Hazen Brown assisting as co-hostess. Mrs. Robert Walpole, chairman for the "A Dollar's Worth" program, arranged for the guest speaker.

Letter to Editor

Ubly superintendent feels State give-away is okay

Editor
Cass City Chronicle
Cass City, Michigan

Dear Editor:

Your article regarding Section III monies contained a number of statements that were in error. One would assume that an editor would carefully research a subject before writing an inflammatory article regarding it.

1. The State of Michigan is not giving school districts money because of incompetence. The State of Michigan is giving school districts money based on the number and percentage of students who, on the Michigan Assessment Test, scored below the 15th percentile, or the number of students who placed in the lower 15 out of 100 tested. The state makes no such assumption about the school district, as the assumption that you made. The state test did not say how many children from a district scored near the top of the test, the state did not say that one school was better than another; what the state did say was that schools who were funded had a number of children who were below the 15th percentile.

2. Misrepresentation number 2: "The lower the test score the more money a school received." not true. A school received 200 per student who scored below the 15th percentile - no more - no less.

3. Assumption number 3: "Presto! Pour some money into the school and the school gets better." Maybe - maybe not. The money allocated by the state under Section III of the State Aid Act was not intended to help a school, but intended to help those children who were having difficulty.

4. You state that underachievement is recognized and rewarded. This could hardly be the truth. A child scoring in the 15th percentile or lower is not being rewarded he is being helped.

5. You stated that the conditions under which the test was given varied from school to school. Again this is just not so. Each school district received specific instructions for administering the State Assessment Test. If schools were, as you imply, cheating on the test; we are truly in a disintegrating state of affairs, as you are well aware schools reflect the society in which they exist.

I detected a note of bitterness in your article that may result from a bad case of provincialism. You overlooked the obvious; the assessment program and its subsequent funding under Section III was designed to help children who are having severe difficulty in school even if they live in Ubly or Marlette.

Sincerely,
Joseph Caimi
Superintendent of Schools

JC:pm

EDITOR'S NOTE - nowhere in this letter does it say how the extra money will be used to help the student. . . Mr. Caimi can be directed to many educators in the Thumb area who will concur with the thoughts as indicated in the editorial referred to.

Arraign 4 in Circuit Court

Four arraignments before Tuscola County Circuit Court Judge Norman A. Baguley brought three pleas of guilty and one innocent Monday.

Terry Lake, of 4906 Murphy Park Drive, Otter Lake, stood mute to a charge of possession of marijuana and a plea of innocent was entered for him.

He was arrested for possession Sept. 20 in Watertown township.

Larry Lendzian of 330 Hamilton, Caro, pleaded guilty to a charge of fraud. He was arrested for cashing a $419 insurance check issued to a Louis I. Zuckerman Oct. 18. Sentencing was set for Dec. 20, and he was remanded to the custody of the sheriff.

Karl Andrew Bearinger of

Ryan Road, Caro, and his brother, James Bearinger of 143 Milwood St., Caro, each pleaded guilty to a charge of attempted breaking and entering.

They were charged with the Nov. 10 attempted theft of a carburetor from a 1964 Dodge belonging to Bell-Craig Motors, Inc. Sentencing is set for Dec. 20. James is on $500 bond and Karl is remanded to the custody of the sheriff.

Francis Young of Ferndale was sentenced to 3 1/2 to 4 years in prison at Jackson with credit for 74 days. He pleaded guilty at his Oct. 12 arraignment to breaking into a number of cabins Sept. 8 at Cat Lake.

Gregory Brian Wartella and Charles Strevell, both of 509 E. Third St., Davison, had sentencing for a Sept. 29 breaking and entering delayed for one year. They pleaded guilty to the charge of breaking and entering the home of Donald Rau at 9980 W. Dutcher Road at their Oct. 12 arraignments.

Charges against Edwin Fritz and Ronald Fritz of Sebawaing were dismissed when they appeared for sentencing, which was delayed for one year in November of 1970. They had pleaded guilty Oct. 20, 1970, to unlawfully removing property from a vacant building. They were fined $200 in costs each Nov. 23, 1970, and were placed on probation for one year.

Emotions run high in abortion reform

If the drive now underway to place abortion reform on the 1972 November ballot is successful, Michigan voters can expect a very emotionally charged campaign.

That prediction is based on the experience of the only state which thus far has polled its voters on how they feel about abortion reform—Washington. In the campaign there, the battle grew hotter as election day approached.

The one difference would be that in Washington state the issue was referred to voters by the legislature after both houses had approved a bill liberalizing abortion laws. In Michigan, the Legislature failed to act. Since the matter was bottled up in committee, supporters felt the Legislature was unresponsive to the people who wanted to see a vote.

Prior to the election, abortions were legal in Washington only to save the life of the mother.

Now, a woman in Washington may receive an abortion if she wants it through the first 16 weeks of pregnancy, providing she has lived in the state 90 days and has the consent of her husband if she is living with him. Unmarried women under 18 need parental consent.

One step done in purchasing Orr property

The village received notice last Thursday morning, Nov. 18, that its letter of intent requesting $18,500 in land and water conservation funds has been accepted, completing the first step in purchasing the Orr property.

Application for the funds can now be made.

The money, if granted, will be used to pay for about half of the approximately 27 acres of the Morton Orr estate. Extensive plans for this property have been drawn up by the park committee to improve and enlarge the recreational facilities of Cass City.

The federal funds, which are administered on a state level through the Department of Natural Resources, will pay for about half of the $32-$33,000 purchase.

The village filed the letter of intent 75 days ago. Normally, 20 days are required for consideration. Village Superintendent Jim Blades said he didn't know why it took so long, or how long it will be before a ruling is made on the application.

During the campaign, the arguments used in Washington were much the same as the ones used in Michigan and other parts of the country where the issue has boiled over. Opponents of the change, designated referendum 20 on the ballot, called it legalized murder. They blanketed the state with billboards showing a 16-week old fetus with a caption saying "Kill—Referendum 20, Not Me."

Proponents argued, on the other hand, that "no law or government should be able to tell you whether or not you must bear a child."

On election day, Washington voters approved the liberalization of the abortion law by a vote of 599,959 to 462,174 leaving no doubt where a solid majority stood. The total number of votes cast was only 6,000 less than were cast in the race for the U. S. Senate in which Sen. Henry M. (Scoop) Jackson won another term.

The best comparison in Michigan is the parochial ban on the 1970 ballot -- also considered a very emotional issue. Yet there were 180,000 fewer votes cast in it than in the race for governor.

False alarm draws police to Mutual Savings

Many Main Street pedestrians were perplexed Friday night when a newly installed sensitivity burglar alarm system went off accidentally at the Mutual Savings.

The alarm sounded about five minutes to seven and police arrived shortly after. Both doors were securely locked, and nothing was disturbed except the peace.

Mrs. Andrew Eubank, of Cass City, an employe, was called, but when she arrived a few minutes later, she realized she had forgotten her key.

Meanwhile a small crowd of curious spectators gathered in front of the building.

The alarm was turned off after about 15 minutes when Mrs. Burton Allen of Deford, who runs the office, arrived and flicked the switch.

The alarm was installed Friday afternoon, she said, and she hadn't had time to notify police authorities that it was in. She explained that it is a sensitivity alarm and needs adjusting. It can be turned up so that a fly buzzing in the room could set it off.

Apparently the triggering agent Friday was the vibrations of the furnace as it turned on. The vamps were turned in the direction of the alarm. The building was very warm when she went in, she said.

Lutheran youth invite parents to open house

An open house sponsored by the youth of Good Shepherd Lutheran Church was held Sunday night at the parsonage basement to introduce parents to the programs and projects of the youth.

Polk hymns were led by Judy Woody and Kit McMillion, who played guitar. A brief presentation by youth members was given, explaining the banners made by the group for hanging on the walls, and the topic of the youth Bible class, a Christian attitude towards sex.

Refreshments followed the program.

Discover theft at Ballard's cabin

A break-in was discovered last week end at the Rose Island Road cabin of Dr. and Mrs. J. H. Ballard, Cass City, located north of Sebewaug.

The front window was broken and a dutch oven, 16 duck decoys, a two-man cross cut saw of antique value, an ax, machete and a frying pan and decorative ring, both made of iron, were taken.

The theft occurred sometime since last May when the Ballards last used the cabin.

Huron county sheriff's department are investigating.

HANGING THE GREENS on Main Street is part of the annual preparation for the holidays. Dressing this lamp post Thursday while the weather was still warm are Eldon Stoutenburg on the lift, Frank Guilds at the wheel and Melvin Thompson on the ground.

The Main and Seeger intersection sports four new red decorations bought by the Chamber of Commerce for $500. The others were up last year.

Jack Redwine promoted by Quaker Oats

JACK T. REDWINE

Jack T. Redwine, of Evanston, Ill., a native of Cass City who attended Caro schools, was named vice-president and counsel of Quaker Oats Company of Chicago. Redwine had been a member of the company's law department since 1964. He and his wife have three children.

Corn crop down 40 per cent

With all the corn crop in, elevators report a substantially lower yield due to the drought of last summer.

Bob Wischmeyer of Michigan Bean in Cass City said they had about a 60 per cent crop averaging 50 bushels an acre, with the range from 15-80. A good crop is 90-100 bushels an acre.

Price has ranged from $.80-.90. Last Friday it was at $.85.

Jim Turner, manager of J. P. Burroughs, Gageton, said the same thing, guessing the average yield at 70 bushels per acre.

Despite the low yield, the elevators have handled more corn this year than last because much more acreage was planted. Wischmeyer said this was due to last year's good price of $1.25 and the government urging through the feed grain program.

Many seek aid from Help Line

Hello! This is Help Line. Whose daughter is pregnant, not married and afraid to tell her parents? There are at least 18 girls in Tuscola county between the ages of 13 and 19 facing this problem. Besides being pregnant, they have one other thing in common--they're scared! How many more are there who haven't called Help Line?

Whose teenage son is so far out--on a bad-mescaline-trip that he doesn't know who he is or what he's doing? His friends say he's "talking crazy." They're scared and don't know what to do.

Whose barely teen-age daughter is so close to a mental breakdown that she fights for her sanity every day? The sad part is her parents don't even realize she's having a problem.

Over 200 calls have been received by Help Line volunteers. 159 of these were placed by teens across the county.

What problems are today's young people facing? Basically, the same ones their parents faced and somehow survived. Boy-girl relationships head the list of calls coming in. Thank goodness, human nature never changes! But it does cause problems.

Young people today feel just as insecure, inadequate and unappealing to the opposite sex as their parents did. In addition, pressure from peers and parents is terrific! Help Line volunteers recognize how important and serious their problems are. How to get a boy to like you or make a girl stop chasing you are still crucial questions. Girls still get mad at their best friends for stealing their boyfriends; wonder about making out; and worry about being old maids. The conflicts of approaching manhood are still the same for boys.

However, the prevalence of drugs in our area adds a new dimension to their problems. Unlike the other calls coming in to Help Line which normally involve only one or two persons, drug calls usually concern a group. Are we really getting calls about drugs? Many more than we expected! Young people aren't as knowledgeable about drugs as we supposed. They worry about their friends experimenting with drugs and want to know how to help them; they want to know the symptoms and effects of drugs on their bodies. They admit their parents would flip if they knew they were users.

How many prank calls has Help Line received? None. Some people may have thought they were playing a prank but we don't think so. Usually, one of the group ends up calling Help Line with a personal problem.

Are just teens calling Help Line? Definitely not. The youngest caller was barely old enough to read, the oldest well in her sixties and we've touched every age in between. The range of problems covers everything from depression, loneliness, personal relationships, alcohol and drugs, to curiosity and attempted suicide.

Help Line began as the initial project of the Drug Abuse Committee with a bank account of $1,000. Major expenses have been for training materials, advertising and, of course, telephone bills. The cost of putting Help Line into operation left us with a bank balance of $432. The $100 check recently presented by the Sheriff's Posse brought it back up to $532. Other monies donated specifically to Help Line have been put into a separate account and will be used to pay the Help Line bills. That total now stands at $130. The remainder of drug money will go for other projects directly related to drug usage.

The phone bill for October was $85.19 and included calls from all over Tuscola county. Residents outside Tuscola county cannot use our Enterprise number. We can't afford it. It costs $3.00 per town for the coverage offered. Help Line is charged for calls according to the area they're placed from. The Millington area alone placed 60 calls, Vassar 32, the remaining calls coming from the other towns. Certainly this indicates a need for this service. Solving problems is expensive and donations are gratefully accepted. Send them to Help Line, 223 East Sherman St., Caro, Mich. 48723.

Help Line recently graduated another group of volunteers bringing the total to more than 100

Small, speedy Hawks await tall and talented Freeland

If the Cass City Red Hawks are a factor in the Thumb B Conference race this year it will be speed that will do it.

For the Hawks' big problem this season is the lack of the big man to handle the rebounds. The tallest man on the squad this year is just six foot, one inch. It's probable that every team Cass City faces this year will be taller.

Cogeh, Fred Hurlburt said he hopes to compensate for the lack of size with an all-court press and the quickness the team has shown. This team is well drilled in the fundamentals, Hurlburt continued, and is the best unit I've had at Cass City, except for size.

There is a host of new faces in the 12-man squad. Only one player is back from the squad as it was formed last year going into the first game of the season. He is Junior Paul Bliss. Bliss is starting his third year of varsity play and will be the team's floor leader and ball handler.

Last year he showed steady improvement as the season progressed.

The remainder of the squad that flanked Bliss is either gone via graduation or did not report for basketball.

The regulars who have graduated include Rob Alexander, the team's leading scorer and rebounder, and Richard "Zike" Miller, a two-year regular. Scott Guernsey also has graduated.

Cass City will be counting heavily on a couple of underclassmen who worked their way onto the varsity last season. Sophomore Scott Hartel moved into the varsity in mid-year as a Freshman and immediately nailed down a position on the starting five. He played in the center slot last year, but this year he will be shifted to forward.

Hartel was moved to make room for Fred Harbec at center. Harbec wasn't out for basketball last year, but Hurlburt is looking for him to be a rugged rebounder along with Hartel in the Hawk front line.

The other starting forward is Dave Hillaker, 5 feet, 11 inch Sophomore who made the starting five because of his ability to shoot, Hurlburt said.

In the backcourt, Bliss will be flanked by Kip Hopper. Hopper moved up from the Junior Varsity last year at tournament time and played a fine game in a pressure situation.

Waiting in the wings is a bench of the starters flanking a bench that Hurlburt can turn to without losing much of his firepower.

Randy Wright, 6 foot, 1 inch, will see lots of action in the front court while Curt Strickland and Kim Glaspie are ready to help out in the backcourt.

Bob Ross, a junior, is a rugged rebounder for his size and Dale Auslander shows steady improvement. Drew Guernsey, a junior, showed flashes of brilliance as a JV last year and could mature this season.

The tallest player on the squad is Kurt Freiburger who needs to add polish to his game to use his height to greatest advantage.

On the entire squad there is just one senior and the Hawks should be learning for the next year as they play this season.

Judging by the records last year and the strength of the team in the league, most observers see a finish somewhere in the middle this season.

The Lakers and Caro figure to be the powerhouses. Both have veteran teams with good rebounding and both won their districts last season.

A shade under these teams is Bad Axe which still has Lloyd Schmeiner and a veteran cast. Cass City should be rated with Frankenmuth as dark horses for a shot at the title.

The remainder of the teams figure to be battling it out all season long. . . but there doesn't appear to be any school in the Conference able to dominate the play this season. Any team may win on any given night.

It's possible that Cass City could have a better team and a poorer record. That's because their non-league games are with Freeland. If Freeland has a team anywhere near the one it has fielded in recent seasons the Hawks could be in for a long evening. Last year Freeland was big, rough and talented.

Gate open; two horses missing

Two horses were reported missing from the Donald Wernette farm, 3 miles east and 1 mile west on Greenland Road.

Mrs. Wernette said they left Thursday morning, Nov. 18, and when they returned Friday the pasture gate was open and the cattle out and the two ponies gone.

Missing are a brown mare bred to foal and a palomino stallion.

Michigan to lose in 135 year boundary dispute with Ohio

One of the oldest legal hassles ever seen in this country is about to be ended by the U. S. Supreme Court and Michigan may be the sorry loser.

The dispute is 135 years old. Involved is 200 square miles of water and bottomlands of Lake Erie between Michigan and Ohio. Normally, the area wouldn't attract that much attention, but geologists say it is rich in oil and gas deposits.

The whole thing started back in 1836 with what has become known as the "Toledo War" -- a difference of opinion between Michigan and Ohio over where the boundary between the two states should be.

A "Final line" was drawn only after the two states threatened war over the disputed piece of land and President Andrew Jackson sent a peace mission to head off the battle. In return for giving up the piece of land being disputed, Michigan received what is now known as the Upper Peninsula.

The boundary was laid out by a captain named Talcott in the U. S. Corps of Engineers in 1836.

The current dispute involves establishing exactly where the north cape of Maumee Bay in Lake Erie was situated when the final boundary was drawn. The cape has since eroded and the question is whether it should be the determination for the boundary between the states on the Lake Erie shore and if so, where it was exactly when the line was drawn.

Ohio claims the boundary between the states reaches out into Lake Erie at a 45 degree angle northeasterly to the Ontario border. Michigan claims it goes straight east from the Michigan-Ohio border.

The Supreme Court appointed a retired federal judge, Albert B. Maris of Philadelphia, as a special master in the dispute.

Maris just finished more than four years of taking testimony and hearing arguments in the dispute.

He recommended to the court that it agree with the Ohio position that Michigan pay all the court costs involved. He said the border should follow a line extending from near Toledo across Turtle Island in Maumee Bay, far north of where Michigan says it should go.

The high court is expected to decide the matter later in its current term.

CHILD CARE URGED

State Public Health Director Maurice Reizen thinks the state ought to put together a coordinated child health policy. "In Michigan--as elsewhere around the nation--there are literally hundreds of public and private agencies which involve themselves with the health, education and welfare of our children," he says. "Yet because there is no single expressed policy underlying all of them we give only fragmented, uncoordinated and inconsistent attention to the wide range of severe, and often tragic, problems from which our children suffer."

A concerted effort, he thinks.
