

Plan commission hears testimony

The planning commission heard testimony at the zoning hearing held Tuesday night at the municipal building, but have delayed their approval of the proposed zoning ordinance until they have had time to consider requests.

Bob Buttery of General Telephone and Wes Raven of Detroit Edison repeated their request to delete provisions allowing the village Board of Appeals to rule on poles and lines that might run through Cass City but would serve the surrounding area. As essential services, the utilities feel they should be exempt from such control and have stated they doubt its constitutionality.

Gerald Prieskorn also testified that he objected to rear yard regulations regarding development. The present ordinance requires all buildings be within 10 feet from the alley and the proposed plan calls for 20-foot clearway. Prieskorn told the board he would like no restrictions.

Ferris Ware presented a letter to the planning commission asking that the lot next to his home on Hospital Drive be rezoned for single family. It is presently zoned office district and is zoned multiple family under the new ordinance. The testimony was taken under advisement by the planning commission.

Two consultants from Villan-Leman and Associates, Inc., reviewed several technical paragraphs for the planning commission. They suggested an amendment to the home occupation section giving greater protection to neighborhoods. The amendment was taken under advisement by the commission. It specified stricter standards in regards to signs and use of heavy equipment in residential areas.

The planning commission is expected to rule on the ordinance at a future meeting. From there it will go to the village council, who will schedule a public hearing, and then accept or reject it.

School sets budget hearing, annual meet

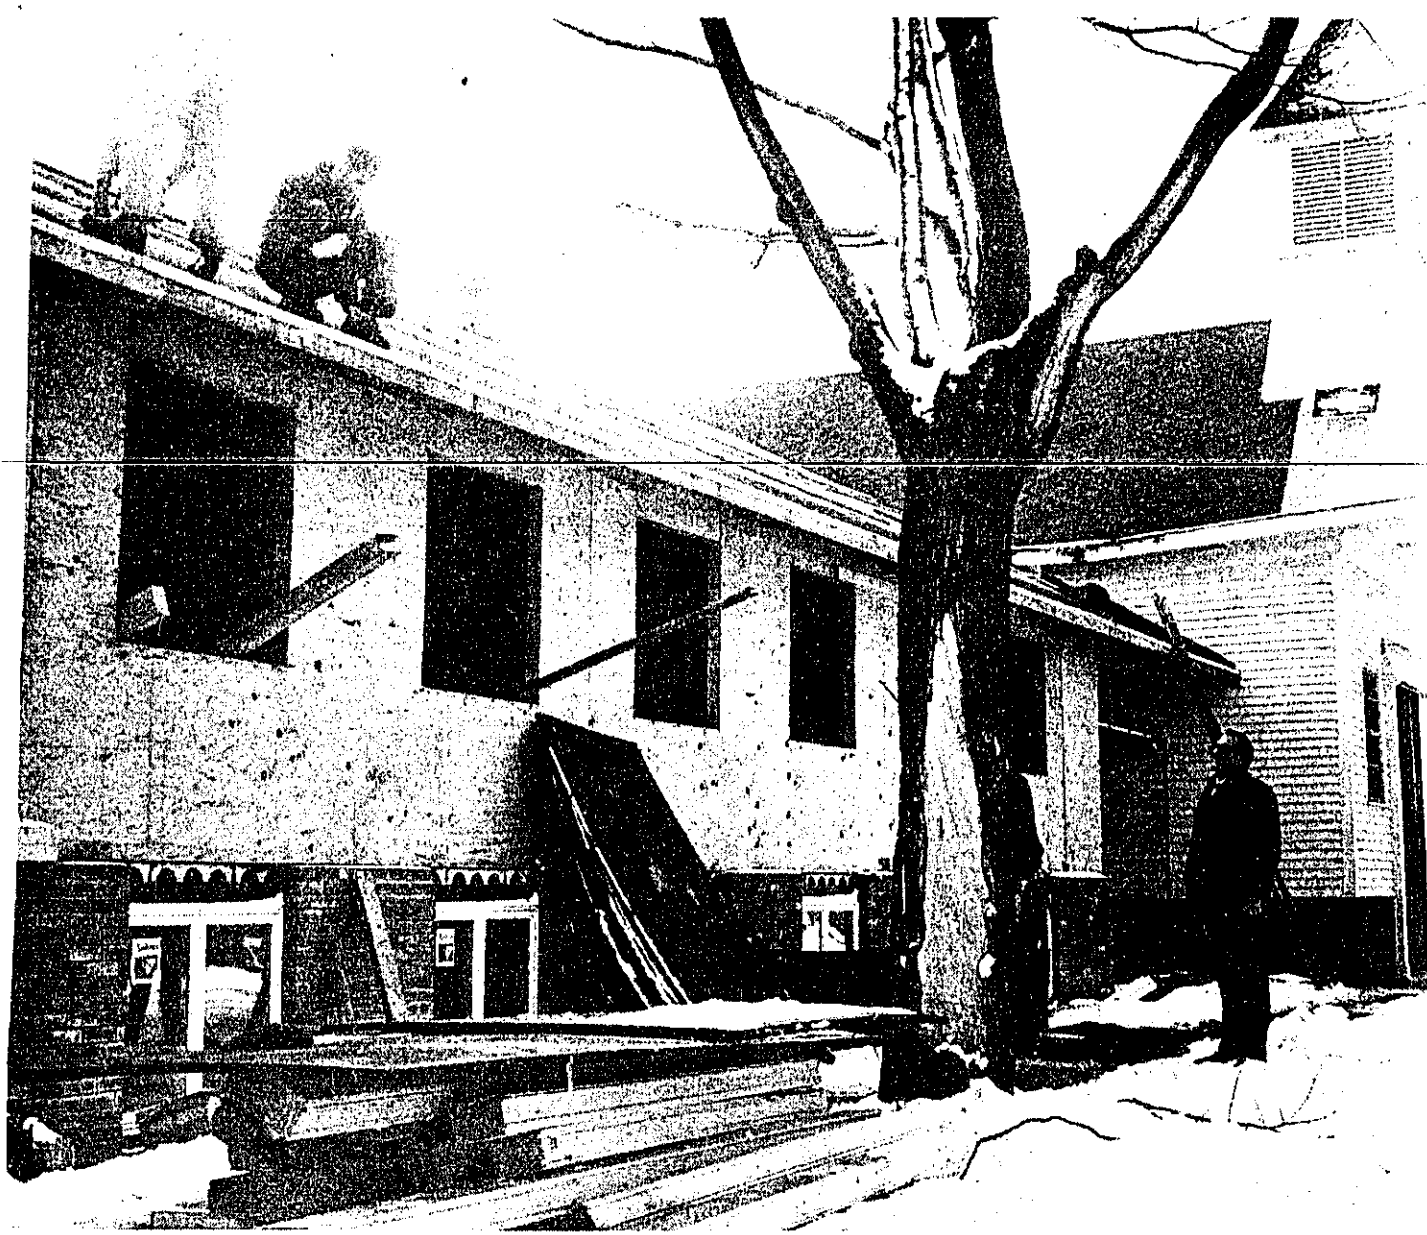

Most area residents' only chance to have a voice in a million dollar plus business comes again Monday at Cass City High School.

That's when the annual meeting and the budget hearing will be held in the speech room at 7:30 p. m.

At the annual meeting, the year is reviewed by members of the school board and residents invited to ask questions about the school's operation.

Usually, if things are running smoothly, few electors bother to attend. In years of controversy the meeting is used as a sounding board to protest board policy.

While it is unlikely that the budget as outlined can be changed by citizen protest, a clear view of the school's financing can be learned by attending the budget hearing and asking questions about the various school costs.

THE REV. L. STREETER checks construction progress of the First Baptist Church.

Report church progress

Despite the delays in construction, the Rev. L. Streeter is still optimistic about the $100,000 addition to the First Baptist Church.

The roof is on and some of the windows are in, but he still expects it to be three or four months before the building on Houghton Street will be ready for use.

The major delay in the building was waiting for the Flexicore for the floor of the auditorium. The long spans of concrete provide enough support so no beams are necessary for the 30x51 foot fellowship hall in the basement.

It had to be put on with a crane by the manufacturers who are based in Georgia. This was done in late October, a day after the Flexicore was put in at the hospital construction site.

Builders had to wait for some of the arches to arrive. They were ordered when the contract was let to Partlo Brothers of Akron, and were to arrive in two months, but it took four and a half.

A minor setback occurred in August following the heavy rains when part of the block wall foundation collapsed.

"It wasn't any tragic thing. It just had to be cleaned up," the pastor said.

Streeter explained that the roof is of the tongue and groove type, which means it takes longer to put on because it has to be nailed two ways, to the arch and to the other roof boards.

Therma-pane windows have already been installed in the basement, and the same type will be put into the auditorium, rather than colored stain glass windows. Curtains will then be used to cover them.

A 12x24 foot kitchen will also be made.

The outside of the building will be brick, and the inside walls will be covered with brown-colored Duracore.

The color scheme for the interior is still incomplete, but Streeter said they were thinking of red carpet. It will basically be a plain and simple building, as is the present church.

"We tried to stick with utility rather than form," the pastor said.

The pews from the present church will be used, with the addition of about 15 new ones, increasing the seating capacity from about 200 to 300.

A new Hammond organ has also been ordered.

The present church building will be turned into a Christian education center, although eventually it will probably be torn down and a new education center made.

Presently, classes are held in the old greenhouse and in the old parsonage. If a new building is made, these will be torn down for parking space.

Streeter reported that the church doesn't expect to borrow as much as it first planned.

"Our people give very well," he said, adding that the church has received money from some persons who are not members of the church.

Ground was broken for the building in May. It was expected then to be completed in five months. It's the first major construction the church has seen since the present auditorium was remodeled in 1953.

The first church was built in 1880, and in 1891 the bell tower was added. Improvements have been made along the way, including an east addition and basement for the church in 1911. The front of the building was made even with the bell tower in 1953.

Ohio man found drowned in submerged car Monday

Asphyxiation due to drowning was declared the cause of death of an Ohio man found in a car in a ditch Monday.

The body of Robert H. Huey, 62, of 2306 Lincoln, Lorain, Ohio, was discovered by Orin Juhar, Forest Road, Unionville, while he was checking Ambrose's drainage ditch for trapping.

The station wagon with the light switch and ignition switch still on and the shift in drive was found in Akron township six-tenths mile north of Kinder Road near Clark Road, about 500 feet east of the walk bridge across the drain.

The car was upside down in six feet of water.

The Tuscola county sheriff's office reported that the man died sometime since Nov. 28. They received the call at 11:42 a. m.

Few accidents have been reported to authorities despite the recent icy roads and foggy weather.

Ellen Margaret Mills, 21, of 6330 Pine St., Cass City, received minor injuries Sunday when she hit a patch of ice, lost control of the car and rolled into a ditch.

Passenger in the vehicle was her daughter, Annette, age 3, who escaped injury.

The accident occurred on Severance Road at 7:15 p. m., according to Tuscola county sheriff's reports.

Donna Lou Mullin, 25, of Deckerville Road, Cass City, escaped injury when her car hit and killed a deer on Deckerville Road in Ellington township. The accident occurred two-tenths mile west of Hurds Corner Road at 3:35 p. m. Sunday.

An Owendale man suffered bruises Tuesday, Nov. 30, when the car he was a passenger in was struck in the front by a runaway truck tire.

Injured was Ascension Turubiates, 28.

State police at the Bad Axe post said the car, driven by Theodore Turubiates, 31, of Owendale, was headed west on Atwater Road, when a left rear dual wheel broke loose from an approaching truck driven by Leonard Emmons, 22, Gagetown.

The accident happened at 1:30 p. m. three miles west of Uly.

Troopers said the wheel rolled faster than the truck and slammed into the car.

Johnny Turubiates, 4, another passenger, was uninjured. Several minor accidents were reported to Cass City police the past week.

A parked car belonging to Edmund Albin Majeski, 43, of Dobson Road, Fillon, was struck by one driven by Anthony Wayne Yost, 30, of 3875 Lampton Road, Deford, when Yost backed into it. The mishap occurred on Leach Street Dec. 4 at 3:15 p. m.

Richard L. Hendrick, 37, of 6711 Houghton St., Cass City, hit a car driven by Theodore Merritt Furness, 29, of 6558 Elizabeth St., Cass City, when he was unable to stop at an open intersection in time to avoid the accident, and hit the automobile in the side. Hendrick was going west on Houghton, according to police reports, and Furness was headed north on Maple when he collided with the Furness vehicle at 6:31 p. m. Dec. 4. In another accident, a car driven by Patricia Jean Novak, 21, of 5704 Deckerville Road, Deford, was hit in the rear by one driven by Ann Marie Milligan, 39, of 436 Deckerville Road, Sandusky. Both were headed east on Garfield when the accident occurred at 4:30 p. m. Dec. 2. The Novak vehicle was stopped for a sign at Seeger St., when the other driver was unable to stop. The roads were icy.

FROM THE

Editor's Corner

One of the gals that work here walked in the other day with a pair of lace-up leather boots, the kind that reach just below the knee.

Nothing much startling about this. . . everybody's wearing boots these days.

Still fashion has a long way to retreat before it gets back to my boyhood days when you were a M-A-N if you wore high-top boots.

For one thing, boots today don't have the pocket with the snap flap on the side where your jackknife was stored. . . ready for instant battle in case of "emergency".

You were cool, man, if you had the high-tops with the jack-knife. It was still neat if you had boots without the knife.

Not really the in thing you understand, but still good enough to qualify as second strata social elite.

If you happened to be one of the few forced by circumstances (economic or parental) to wear a pair of overshoes it was disaster. . . a tragedy at least equal to being forced to attend school today with a "butch" hair cut.

Oh woe! The only thing worse than not wearing high-tops was going to school in overalls.

If you wore jeans it meant that you couldn't scrape up enough money for a pair of those flashy corduroy knickers.

Knickers and high-top boots . . . that was the most. Never mind that high-tops are the most cumbersome, inconvenient, impractical footwear ever invented.

You could oil them, grease them, polish them. . . do with them what you will. . . the plain fact remains: those boots would always leak.

Everyone had a secret formula leather dressing that was guaranteed to make the boots waterproof. It was standard op-

Martins celebrate old-time Christmas

By Kit McMillion

The commercialism of Christmas has been upon us for a number of weeks now and some have even suggested changing the date to get away from the economic exploitation of a religious holiday.

But for the Ken Martin family of Hurds Corner Road, the two pleasantly co-exist in an old-fashioned Christmas, just as it always has.

This year it will be a little different because of a new house and new customs, but sharing and giving are the basis.

The family moved to the area from Saginaw about a year and a half ago. For Martin it was returning to the town he was raised in, where he now operates his electrical business.

Mrs. Carolyn Martin explained that in Saginaw decorations were put up about a week before Christmas, but here they go up earlier, so she started last week end.

"Anything Christmas has got to be old-fashioned," she said, explaining how they'll have a big spruce tree that's very full and will smell like pine and drop needles all over the place.

This is a big production. All of us get in the act. And the presents have to be all around," she said, the excitement of the holiday creeping into her voice as she talked about the plans. The tree will be placed by the front window where it can be seen from the road, and will be decorated with many colored lights and tinsel.

"Those artificial trees don't have it," she said, adding that for some families they were alright, but not for her.

The tree, however, is just one of many ornaments.

"Every floor will have a decoration; every room will have at least one Christmas decoration," she said.

The little decorations change each year, but there are two that are a tradition--the Bible opened to the Psalms with a candle near and a nativity scene.

"The Bible has to be in a prominent place because this is what we're celebrating Christmas for," she emphasized. "I had a special place in the old house. This year I'll probably put it on the TV."

Lights will be strung on the outside of the house, too. And she wants a lawn decoration.

"It has to be a certain something," she said, but added that she hasn't found what she wants yet.

"I have to buy things because I'm not talented like my mother was, but it must not be real commercial, it has to look the real thing," she related. Cookies are something she refuses to buy, however; and it is part of the Christmas hubbub.

"I don't want to bake my Christmas cookies in October," she stated. Baking usually starts the first Sunday in December. Her kids, Cheri, 11, and Kenny, 9, help her make about 8 different kinds. Each gets to choose one kind of the fill cookies and helps with the animal cookies.

"They aren't as pretty as some, and it's a mess, but we have a ball," she said.

"My husband says I go overboard," she added, citing one Christmas when he was sick with the flu.

"We had Christmas cookies 'til Easter that year," she laughed, telling that no one wanted to come inside or accept a gift of cookies.

Sharing and giving gifts plays a big part in the family's Christmas.

"I still believe in Santa Claus as such," said Mrs. Martin. "To me, that is what Christmas is--the spirit of giving."

Christmas Eve is the time the family celebrates Christmas. Early in the evening they exchange gifts.

"Every animal will give the master of the house a gift, and the kids will get a gift from their animals," said Carolyn. She explained that all the animals received a special treat, but don't get special gifts anymore because there are so many of them. They have four horses, three cats and a dog.

The house also receives a gift every year. This year it got a silver tea set, but she keeps it covered so it can be unveiled at Christmas.

"But I show everybody anyway," she laughed.

After the family's Christmas the house is thrown open to friends and relatives.

"I don't believe in this Ann Landers' bit--that you can't drop in," Carolyn stated emphatically. "I love to have people drop over on the holidays."

She explained that when they lived in Saginaw, eight couples that were their friends always stopped over on Christmas Eve. And she always tries to have somebody for dinner for Christmas.

"You complain about the big dinner and the dishes--and now I don't even have my dishwasher--but Christmas is the hubbub and getting together."

All the merry making is only secondary to the real reason for celebrating Christmas--the birth of Christ--and the family always attends church services together.

"I want my kids to realize this is a special day. They'll dress up, but not to the point of feeling stiff. I want them to know why they're celebrating," the mother explained.

With the big day only a couple of weeks away, she's awaiting the right snowy day when she can sit at the dining room desk and write her cards, which include a lot of notes.

She chuckled as she explained that she goes through the alphabet but by the time she's halfway done, her handwriting is practically illegible, but she likes to write to her city friends about the view and the snow and the pine trees surrounding their country home.

The excitement and joy of Christmas is something that is included in the hubbub of saying Merry Christmas to the clerk as the Martins buy their gifts, and it's in the worship of Christ.

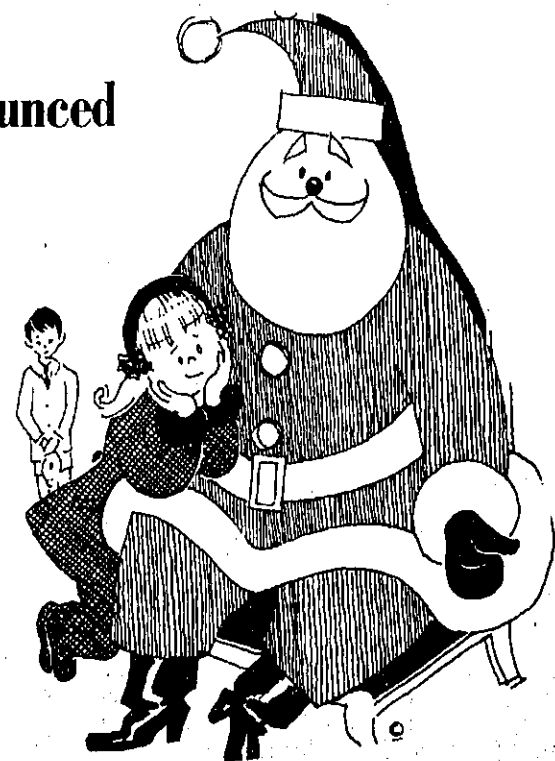

It's a feeling for Christmas.

"If It Fitz. . ."

What a romantic fool!

BY JIM FITZGERALD

How about this for a song lyric: "When it comes to loving you, honey, if letters don't work, I'll try the sky."

Red Skelton is divorcing his wife. Which is why I am disenchanted with love letters. Red wrote his wife words of love every morning for more than 20 years. And this was when they were sleeping in the same room. He said the notes kept their marriage romantic and their love alive. "Every husband should do it," Red said.

I decided to give it a try. That was months ago. I've been trying ever since. I don't write so well sitting on the edge of the bed at 7 a. m. For 1 thing, I can't find a pencil. And I can never think of anything to write about except where is my other brown sock and how come I have to kneel down to see above my belt buckle in the mirror?

But I was getting the hang of it. Just the other morning I wrote her a note: "Don't forget to buy some Alka-Seltzer. I love you." I slipped it under her toast.

"What's the idea of the crumpled note?" she asked.

I should have slipped it under her egg.

Anyway, no more notes from me. Yesterday's newspaper announced the Skeltons are kaput.

A gossip columnist even hinted that Red had found another. Perhaps some of his letters were delivered to the wrong address.

Whatever, Skelton didn't just scrawl mushy words on scraps of wrapping paper. He wrote poetry, with music, and had the messages bound in leather. If all that couldn't save his marriage, there's not much hope in me sneaking sexy suggestions into my wife's grocery list. The best I could hope for would be a more exotic brand of frozen dinners.

Besides, I have a better idea. The same newspaper that heralded the Skelton demise also contained a photo of an uproariously happy wife. She was posing in front of a freeway overpass upon which was hung a 100-foot banner, saying in huge letters, "Pati, My Love in One Year Stronger. I Love You."

Pati's husband knew she'd be driving by. And this was his way of wishing her a happy 1st anniversary. That's class.

For the obvious reason, such public declarations of love always gain wide publicity. If a guy tries to hide an elephant in a phone booth, you know he doesn't really mind if everyone finds out. When boyfriend proposes via billboard, and husbands use newspaper ads to apologize, they are not worried about privacy. They want the world to know. And that's what thrills the women.

"Look, everybody, what a gay, romantic fool is in love with me," she says.

What I have in mind is one of those advertising helicopters flying over the Michigan-Michigan State football game with 104,000 people looking up. The plane could tow a long sign containing the same message I slipped under her toast. That way I could get the Alka-Seltzer people to pay half the cost. The other half I'd cover by winning bets with my buddies who would surely wager that I'd never do anything so dumb. They should have been there when I was writing those stupid notes in my underwear.

Onward and Upward.

$1,000 donated to Hills and Dales Hospital

One thousand dollars was donated to Hills and Dales Hospital Friday morning in the memory of Mrs. Susan Compton.

The gift was given to the hospital by the Sunshine United Methodist Church, and will be used to furnish a room in the new addition under construction.

Susan Croft Compton was an active member of the church while her health remained good, and she left part of her estate to the church in her will.

Santa Letters

Dear Santa,

I am being good. I like you. We watched "Here Comes Santa Claus" on Channel 12. I'm five years old now and in kindergarten.

I want "Ants in Your Pants" and my own game of cards. I want "Lite-Brite" and a candy cane. I'll have a doll and a bib for Marrett, and bring Andy a candy cane.

I will leave you some tobacco and cookies - okay?

Love,
Matt Woody

Dear Santa Claus,

I am a good little boy, 4 years old. Please bring me a pool table, a little chainsaw like my daddy's and a teddy bear to go to bed with me. I will leave you some cookie and milk for you and some hay for your reindeers.

Your little buddy
Chuck Kanke
DeFord

P.S. I would like some candy and nuts to. I will leave the door unlocked.

Dear Santa

I am three years old. I would like a Spirograph and a Light Bright for Christmas. I have a baby brother, Johnny and I would like a toy pig for him. Also for my friend Lisa a Barbie doll.

Thank You.
Barbara Jean Merchant

Dear Santa

My name is Debbie Walters and I am seven years old. I would like a Velvet doll and a popcorn maker and headache game.

And my brother Bobby who is five would like Bozo clown and a gun and a sled.

Love Debbie Bobby Walters

P.S. Will leave you cookies and milk.

Each day is the only one of its kind-plan to live it well.

Yours truly,
Uncle Tim

Uncle Tim From Tyre Says:

Dear Mister Editor:

Ever since the courts decided ranchers had to run ads for cowboys instead of cowboys, the womenfolks, bless em, has been hollering for equal everything. Saturday night at the country store, the fellers, that was well out of sight and sound of their old ladies, discussed how far we can go in this direction.

Bug Hookum allowed that when girls started calling themselves female brothers that put the stopper in the equality jug for him. He had saw by the paper where girls in colleges is now living in them fraternity houses with the boys, and they say they like being female brothers cause they ain't around chattering wimmen all the time. Bug was of a mind that ain't equality, that's deserting under fire.

Serious, Bug said, wimmen that try to be men is set on being more unequal than they was as wimmen, cause the gals got the upper hand now ever way you turn. Ever time they ask for somepun, men fall over themselves getting it fer em, and Bug allowed that included new laws and changes in old ones. Bug said he had saw where men was getting in the act and suing to be airplane stewardesses, which will make the men that ride airplanes all the more in favor of wimmen.

Clem Webster said the equality stopping place was somewhere short of this piece he saw about "destroying the motherhood myth." He said this bunch of wimmen is trying to do away with the idea that wimmen ought to have young-uns. If they don't, who's going to, Clem wanted to know, allowing that was one job wimmen couldn't turn over to the men.

Talking about babies, Zeke Grubb reported where this woman sued her druggist for $250,000 cause he give her tranquilizers stead of birth control pills and she had her eighth youngun. Zeke said the court ruled that the druggist had to pay the woman $12,000 on account of the mixup, but that was to much punishment to fit the crime. After seven younguns, Zeke figured she needed all the tranquilizing she could git, and one more young-un underfoot don't make $12,000 difference.

General speaking, broke in Ed Doolittle, wimmen ain't the only ones got crazy laws. Ed had saw where they is a bill in Congress to license hitchhikers. Ed said he saw trouble giving em a license test, not to mention telling the bums from the hitchhikers. Priddy soon they'll want to license relaxing, which Ed said is cutting dangerous clost to loafing, which is the natural born right of ever American. If they git hobos and road bums, Ed said, they ain't nobody safe.

Gitting back to equality, Zeke said boys has outsmarted themselves about as much as girls. Zeke said his preacher told him that his boy got a GI haircut. The boy turned in the driveway without giving a signal and the feller in the car behind called him a crazy woman driver.

Presbyterian families to hang greens Sunday

The annual Christmas Eve communion of the First Presbyterian Church will be at 8 p. m. Dec. 24 at the traditional candlelight service. The worship will include the sharing of the Christmas story in word and song.

Sunday, Dec. 12, from 4-7 p. m. a Christmas festival for families will be held at the church. Decorations and ornaments for the church will be made, and the traditional greens and candles will be put in the windows of the sanctuary.

Following the workshop, a pot-luck dinner will be held. Each family is asked to bring a dish to pass and table service.

A short worship service led by members of the Sunday School classes will close the evening.

(And anyone else he can get to help)

Cass City students are making a campaign out of getting a student lounge at the high school.

A pupil-conducted survey revealed some startling facts. Among them is that a sampling of parents show 80 per cent in favor. (Nobody officially asked me.) Another is 18 of 21 teachers were in favor of the facility.

One not so startling fact that emerged is that much more than 50 per cent of the student body spends the majority of the time not studying in the study hall. Students have a complete survey report available for inspection.

Suggested facilities in the lounge include a juke box, pool tables and ping pong. Among five advantages of the lounge, the students say, is that it can be an educational experience, giving responsibility to the students so they can manage the lounge and learn in the process.

I can't help but think how great a lounge would have been when I went to school. I'm great in pool and ping pong.

Here's a school project that no one can object to. It's boots for needy kids. Authorities at the school say that several students in the elementary school need boots for this winter.

Parents with boots that no longer fit could really help out, they say, if they bring them to the school for distribution. If you do it today you won't forget.

Our Florida winter residents are not spending part of each day biting their nails and worrying about what's happening to their house back home.

Not so you would notice, they're not. The village has offered to make a free external visual inspection of vacationers' homes on a routine basis if the Floridians care enough to request it.

Not one request for the new service has been received, Supt. James Blades says.

Evidently Cass Cityans feel that chances of a robbery are zilch while they are away.

They are spoiled, that's all.

Is it my imagination or are most of these persons repeat winners from previous drawings around town? I'm sure that a couple have won before. . . and maybe others of the quintet have also.

Anyway, Ed LaBelle, chairman of the Lions drawing, said that the winners (beside the Lions) of the benefit project as determined by Monday night's drawing were: Gerald Thorp, Caro, Russ Schneeberger, Alma Swanson, Minnie Jaus and Al Seeley, all of Cass City.

Christmas
thieves

By Kit McMillion

Since the village has put up the Christmas trees, they have had to replace at least 75 colored light bulbs that have been stolen. And this is three weeks away from Christmas!

The Chamber of Commerce pays for the decorations and the village crew uses time at public expense to service them. I'm sure very few persons begrudge the village the colorful and decorative displays. I happen to think they are quite attractive and lend to the joyous spirit of Christmas.

But I think it's downright disgusting how they are abused. When the crew asked me to guard the tree in front of the Chronicle window with my life I thought they were kidding. But Friday they were out there putting in new bulbs. I really find it difficult to believe.

One of the men told me that there are 40 bulbs on one string of lights. Eight were missing from this particular tree, and the tree across the street had been completely cleaned out. The thieves even coiled up the cord neatly and tucked it under the tree, the man said.

What is the big thrill of stealing the light bulbs? (Maybe someone thinks they grow into trees if planted.)

It's really very sad and is a mighty poor reflection of the whole town that this happens. Conversations I've had with several persons indicate it is the younger set that do the damage. Regardless who does it, the whole village is to blame. The kids for stealing and the parents for not teaching their youngsters more manners and some respect for property that belongs to other persons.

I've been told Cass City used to be known as a Christmas town and that people came from miles around to see the decorations and the pageant. I'm sorry I missed both of them, and I'll really be sorry for the town if the continuous thieving results in no decorations at all.

Christmas isn't much fun without them.

I always thought this was supposed to be a time for giving and sharing, but it seems to be one of taking by an awful lot of persons.

It seems pretty stupid to me that the chamber should have to spend $67.39 for extra bulbs (they cost $4.45 apiece) and that the crew should have to spend a lot of time replacing light bulbs when there are many more important things for them to do.

Anybody I see taking another bulb from the tree by my window had better beware. It's the only one I'll have this year, and I intend to enjoy it.

Light bulb thieves, you have been warned.
Meow.

Check stored grain regularly

Tuscola county experienced a large number of new drying units being built on the farms last year. Also there is considerable more grain being stored on the farms this year. This grain should be checked regularly in storage even when dried directly.

Farmers should: (1) Open top door and smell grain, (2) Probe and check moisture if they can, (3) Turn on the aeration system and smell the exhaust air and check the temperature, (4) Check around the bin walls to see if grain feels more moist than in center of bin.

If there are indications of grain being out of condition, take action immediately either by aerating the grain, by additional drying or by moving the grain to another bin. We feel this is important if the farmer wants to market high quality produce, states Bill Bortel, County Extension Director.

The name Charles Custom Furniture means long-wearing, quality-built furniture. Each piece of Charles Custom Furniture is Tri-Level Construction* through and through. The finest hardwoods are combined with durable B. F. Goodrich real latex foam to create a masterpiece of seating comfort. Self-decking, arm caps and reversible seat cushions are standard with all our furniture for longer wear and greater value.

Take a look at this dynamic duo! This fully Scotchgarded fabric looks like royalty with its threads of gold brushed with fern and beige tones—but it wears forever. Back cushions, side panels and seat cushions on both the 92-inch sofa and 65-inch love seat are quilted for that extra touch of elegance.

Traditional elegance is beautifully fashioned from easy-care nylon blend quilted, floral fabric in rich jade tones. All-around skirt, hand tufted back and arms are standard equipment for this 97-inch beauty!

Choose accessories from the spectrum of blues and greens found in this fine imported Italian "matched-medallion" pattern fabric. This tight-back sofa is quilted all around for long wear. Pair it with this button-tufted back, skirted velvet chair in any color you can choose!

ONE FOR THE ROAD

Notes and quotes

By Dan Marlowe

It's illegal to mutilate money, of course, but some mod types are using dollar bills as advertising fliers. A bill might have the legend ABOLISH MONEY plastered across the forehead of the father of our country. Or a comic-strip balloon might be seen issuing from the General's mouth, demanding REVOLUTION NOW. On the back, under IN GOD WE TRUST, some cynics have lettered EVERYONE ELSE WE SPY ON. So far only radicals have exploited these dollar-bill graffiti, but can Madison Avenue afford to overlook this ultimate point-of-sale commercial? We can undoubtedly look soon for SPEND THIS BUCK AT YOUR FRIENDLY A & P-- PLAID STAMPS.

Did you realize that Luxembourg has no crematorium? Citizens of the Duchy who want to incinerate a loved one must ship the remains out of the country and have the urn of ashes mailed back to them. A straightforward sort of commerce, it would seem; but the government took notice of it and slapped an 8% import duty on the ashes, characterizing them as "material processed by a foreign firm and re-imported as a finished product."

Don't - I - wish-I'd done-it - in - fiction - before-some-clown-did-it - in - the-news-papers department: St. Louis customs agents grabbed a package mailed from Thailand because it contained the skins and skulls of a couple of leopards. Such stuff is contraband; leopards are an Endangered Species. But one of the investigators decided to take a second look at the illegal trophies. He found, packed inside the skulls, $50,000 worth of heroin. The mailing, label told the feds just where to go to arrest the dope-smuggler. Then there's the hijacker who parachuted from a commercial airliner with $200,000 of the airline's hard-earned cash. Any self-respecting editor to whom such a resume had been submitted would have turned it down as preposterous.

For that gourmet on your Christmas list or for the Man - Or - Woman - Who - Has - Everything, consider the CAN-NIBAL COOK BOOK OF FINE OLD RECIPES. All the standard recipes are here: French Toast (two Frenchmen, lightly beaten); Elephant Sauce (1 quart sauerkraut, 1 small elephant); Fried Egghead; Cream of Elbow Soup, and literally dozens of other bright ideas for serving leftover leftovers. Write United Sales Company, Box 636, Reading, Pa., $2 the copy. No home should be without one.

Definitions Webster's hasn't yet been clued in on: FLUTE, whiskey disguised in a soda bottle and given free to a policeman in a bar or sent to the officer on duty in a precinct house.

Band concert

slated Dec. 16

Selections for the Christmas concert have been revealed by band director George Bushong. The concert is scheduled for 8 p. m. Thursday, Dec. 16, at the high school gymnasium.

The seventh grade will play Toyland, Christmas Medley and Let it Snow! The eighth grade will play Holiday Tune, a modern arrangement of Silent Night, White Christmas and Wooden Soldiers.

The high school band will perform Christmas Curtain Raiser, a festival of Alfred Burt Carols, Old St. Nick Takes a Rocking Trip, and Sleigh-ride.

GOOD FUTURE

Strive to make today better than yesterday and tomorrow will take care of itself.

Down Memory Lane

FROM THE FILES OF THE CHRONICLE

FIVE YEARS AGO

The Tuscola County Board of Supervisors approved the massive new sanitation code for the county Monday at its regular meeting at Caro.

Plans are being completed for the establishment of immunization clinics in Tuscola county.

Authorities for Klein Fertilizers, Inc., announced this week that construction of a new fertilizer plant to serve the Thumb started this week. Damage was estimated at about $8000 in a fire at a home owned by Darold Terbush in Deford Monday afternoon.

In recent debates, Cass City lost two of three matches against various Thumb opponents at the third meeting of the Lower Thumb Debate League in Vassar.

Mrs. Frederick Auten was elected president of the Hills and Dales Hospital Auxiliary.

TEN YEARS AGO

Persons tempted to buy carbon tetrachloride fire extinguishers for other than private dwelling or factory and manufacturing use are warned by Elkland Township Fire Chief Alvin Avery that they are flouting with disaster and the law. Larry Merchant, 16-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Merchant of Cass City, was named state winner of the Michigan Artificial Breeders award recently by the Michigan State University.

Tuscola County Supervisors hired Mrs. Peggy Austin, Caro, as assistant county nurse. Larry Robinson was named to the second team all-state squad as picked by a panel of coaches, including Coach Mike Yednak of Cass City.

Candy, corsages and Santa Claus await those senior citizens attending the annual Senior Citizens Christmas Party at the New Gordon Hotel.

A pole barn, 1400 bales of straw and a calf were destroyed in a fire at the Donald Reid farm, six miles north, one mile east and a quarter mile north of Cass City.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Cass City exhibitors won many prizes at the Junior Livestock Show in Detroit, including the reserve champion steer of Billie Zinnecker.

Larry McPhail, manager of the New York Yankees, and a former Cass City boy, has remembered Alfred J. Knapp, a friend of long standing, with another baseball memento.

Hugh Munro, former funeral director at Cass City, and who sold his business to Harry Little several months ago, is now with the Graves Registration in France.

G. W. Landon's team is the winner of the first scheduled championship in the Cass City Bowling League, and Cecil Larkin, in individual averages, is the top bowler.

George L. Martin, former Cass City young man, and retired Junior College chemistry instructor at Bay City, was sworn in as commissioner of the third ward in Bay City.

THIRTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Miles W. Casteel, backfield coach of Michigan State College, was the principal speaker at the Cass City Rotary Club.

Open house was held at the Youth Center to acquaint parents with the center.

The 4-H club boys of the Cass City community were again successful in winning many prizes at the junior shows at Buffalo and Detroit.

Miss Loma Reagh, student at Pratt Institute, Brooklyn, N. Y., School of Fine and Applied Arts, has been given a scholarship by the Western Arts Association. She was a graduate of Cass City High School.

A play, "When Christmas Comes," was presented by the children of the sixth grade in front of the Cass City Woman's Study Club. Two selections were played on Hawaiian guitars by Elaine Kirton, Lena May Cross and Betty Golding.

OFF-BEAT

Ignorance has to be bliss when a man has more money than he knows what to do with.

AGENT'S CORNER

Buying a fresh tree

Mrs. Margaret Ross - Extension Agent

A Christmas tree is a Christmas tree... or is it? Not according to some of the experts. Since many trees are cut in early fall to meet the Christmas demand, your primary concern is that of buying a fresh tree. Give the tree you're considering a quick test for freshness.

Look at the color. Is it a healthy green? Some producers spray their trees with a non-toxic green colorant. That makes it impossible to judge freshness by color alone.

Smell the tree. If you smell a fragrant odor, the tree is probably fresh.

Check the cut end for stickiness. A fresh tree will be sticky when it's been cut. You'll also want a straight butt end of at least five to six inches to place in the stand.

Test the needles for freshness. Do they break easily and drop off the tree when it's bounced lightly on the ground? If so, the tree is probably not fresh. Fresh needles are less brittle and few will drop from the tree.

A fresh tree is not only a prettier Christmas tree, but it's safer. Keep your tree fresh by sawing off an inch or two from the butt end. Then stand it in a pail of water in a cool place until you're ready to move it indoors.

And most important of all, try to include several of the family members in the shopping trip for the tree. You can teach all of these judgemental skills of tree selection plus enjoying the experience as you prepare for Christmas together.

Prosecutor advises commissioners doe law unenforceable

What might have been a test case to decide the legality of the county ordinance prohibiting antlerless deer hunting in Tuscola county has been halted by Prosecutor Leo Maki in his decision not to issue an arrest warrant for a man who shot a doe.

In a two page letter he will present to the Tuscola County Board of Commissioners, the prosecutor explains that after looking into the matter he was of the opinion that it could not be enforced because it was contrary to a state law.

The letter was in response to a complaint made against a man who shot a doe in Tuscola county during the regular season. The hunter had a permit.

The law in question contradicts the state law permitting doe hunting in this county. The Tuscola ordinance was passed unanimously Sept. 14. Although the governor refused to sign it, a complaint was made to the sheriff's office and an investigation of the incident made.

He summarized his views by saying that a basic premise of the state law allowing the shooting of antlerless deer, including does, was that the people of Michigan own the wildlife, not just Tuscola county, although some of the animals live in the county.

He went on to say he recognized the intent of the board in trying to protect the deer, but said he felt the challenge should be made against the legislation itself or by filing a suit against the Department of Natural Resources.

He noted to the board that a similar suit recently failed in Dickinson county.

He also said he checked with the state attorney general who agreed that the ordinance was illegal and suggested to Maki that his office might have stepped in to halt proceedings if an arrest were made.

Maki explained that he reached his decision not to issue an arrest warrant because he felt it would be manifestly unfair to the man and would probably cause him great expense, when he might be found not guilty because of the situation.

He added that if that happened, a false arrest suit could be brought against the arresting officer, and he did not want to put him in that position.

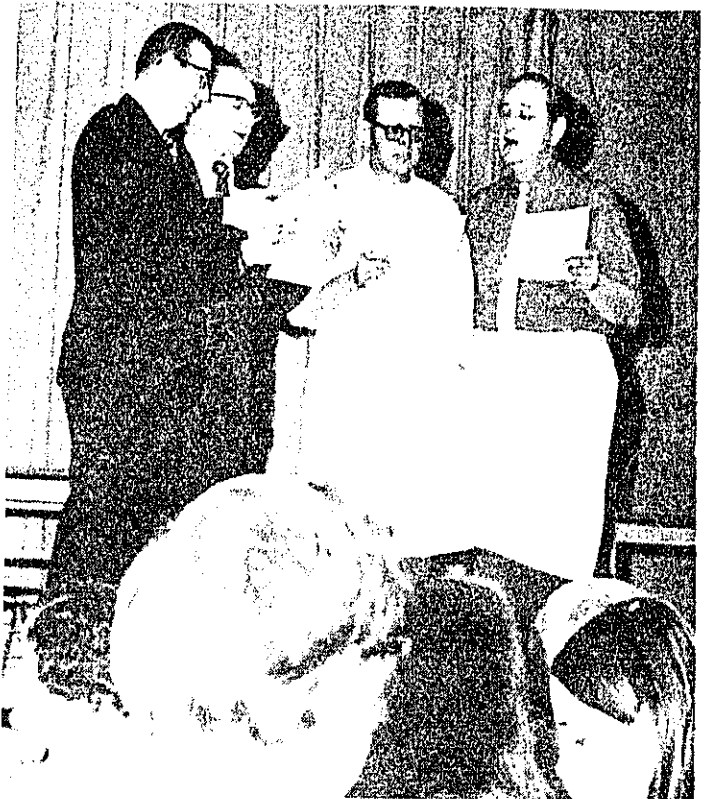

Rotary entertains at newcomer party

HIGHLIGHT OF THE ANNUAL Rotary Club Christmas party for newcomers to the village is always the appearance of Santa on the scene. All of the children present lined up as that jolly old fellow dished out gifts.

THE YOUNGSTERS enjoyed the community sing, too, Tuesday. Intent on doing their best are these three youngsters captured in an unaware moment. From left: Denise and Dawn Kritzman and Darla Crouse.

2 criminal cases in circuit court

Little action occurred in Tuscola County Circuit Court this week with only two criminal cases heard.

Tuesday morning Roger Edsel Ford of Clifford pleaded guilty before Judge James Churchill to the reduced charge of a disorderly person just before his trial for possession of marijuana was to begin.

He stood mute at his Mar.

10 arraignment and a plea of innocent was entered for him. He was charged in connection with a Jan. 2 raid in Kings-ton township.

The trial was delayed while several motions to exclude information gathered in the raid were heard by higher courts.

The charge was reduced from a felony to a misdemeanor because proof of possession was not conclusive.

Sentencing is set for Dec. 27. Monday a motion declaring Ronald Samuel Olson, 29, of Madison Heights incompetent to stand trial was accepted, and he was committed to the Center for Forensic Psychiatry of the Department of Mental Health.

His plea of guilty made at an Oct. 12 arraignment was set aside and a plea of not guilty entered.

Olson was charged with breaking and entering a house on Cat Lake Road north of Mayville.

Foreign themes highlight greens hanging

The annual hanging of the greens was celebrated Sunday night by the Salem United Methodist Church with a theme of Christmas Around the World.

Students acted as guides and interpreters as they led their parents through the rooms decorated in motifs from different countries.

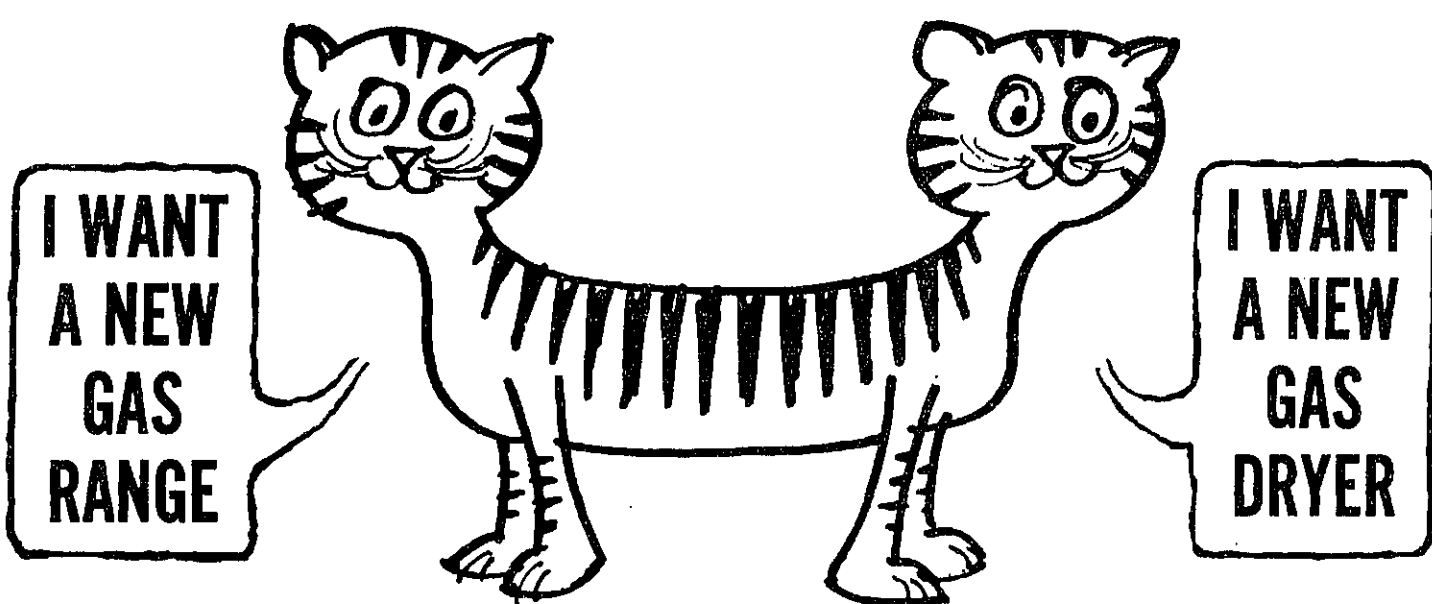

The Progressive class had Italy, High School--Czechoslovakia, Junior High School--Orient, 5 and 6--England, 3 and 4--Germany, 1 and 2--Mexico, and Nursery--America.

French and Scandinavian corners were also decorated. The children made use of objects from the various countries that church members have collected over the years in their various travels.

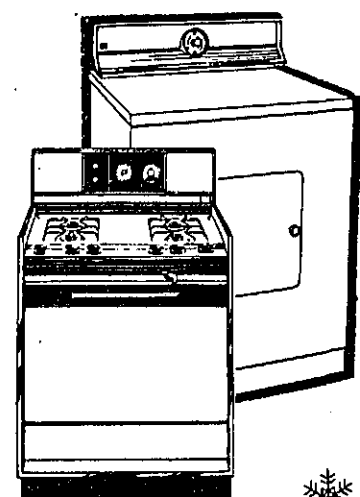

Informal supper and a program of carols and readings followed. Balls with Merry Christmas written in many languages were hung on the tree in the sanctuary by the children.

Bean growers to meet Saturday

Tuscola County Bean Day will be held Saturday, Dec. 11. The day will provide an opportunity for all bean growers of the area to hear the latest in research and information on growing beans. The event will be held at the Akron-Fairgrove School starting at 10:00 a. m. The school is located north of Fairgrove one and one-half miles.

This year's program will be centered around new herbicides, how to kill perennial weeds in the bean fields, and maintaining a high fertility and tillage program on Tuscola county farms. Also, marketing will highlight the afternoon's program. A complimentary lunch will be provided at noon, sponsored by the Tuscola county elevators.

The entire program is sponsored by the Tuscola county bean growers association and the Tuscola County Extension Service, states Bill Bortel, county extension director.

Encourage giving through political campaign deductions

While politicians in Washington have been arguing whether to tap income taxpayers for $1 a head to finance presidential campaigns, the Michigan Legislature has quietly taken steps to encourage Michiganders to contribute voluntarily to campaigns.

A new state law allows any resident to take a deduction on his state income tax for deductions to political campaigns of up to $50. The law goes into effect Jan. 1, meaning it will be a factor for next year's campaigns.

Michigan is the sixth state to enact such a statute, which was sponsored by Sen. William S. Ballenger, R-Ovid.

"In an age of ever-increasing and exorbitant campaign expenses, this new law will encourage thousands of people and hundreds of organizations in Michigan to give, or to give more," Ballenger says. "This will take vast pressure off the hundreds of non-wealthy citizens in Michigan who run for office, and will give a lot of good men a better chance to play what present laws have been helping to make a rich man's game."

Ballenger sees the best insurance against letting candidates become "owned" by a few big contributors as being "to get so many people to participate in the giving that no candidate would feel dependent on special interest groups."

"It would be a really healthy development if the Michigan voter can be persuaded to leave his public servants less dependent on the financial fat cats, be they individuals or organizations."

POLARIZATION CONTINUES

Despite recent legal advances in the field of equal opportunity for all races, Michigan is still a state in which the races are separated by their residences.

A recently completed study by Michigan State University professor Daniel H. Kruger, shows the black population in Michigan's major cities is increasing while white population is migrating to the suburbs.

Roughly 82 per cent of the 1 million black residents of the state live in the central cities of the 10 largest cities of the state, the report says. More than 100,000 of those moved into Michigan between 1960 and 1970.

At the same time, however, the total white population in central cities dropped by 17 per cent.

Kruger sees these developments as accentuating the problem of desegregation of the state's public schools. He told the U. S. Senate Subcommittee on Equal Educational Opportunity recently state educators are going to have to do more if equal education is available to all students.

"The State Department of Education must assume its general leadership role as provided in the state's constitution for providing high quality educational opportunity," he said.

ARGUMENTS GROWSPECIOUS

Opponents to the drive for a one-house Legislature for Michigan have been doing more work recently as they started to see some progress on the part of the one-house advocates.

They recently stretched quite a bit to come up with yet another argument against the concept.

It seems in the country of Chile, President Salvador Allende has been pushing the idea of a one-house legislature for his nation. Allende is the first Communist to be freely elected president of any country. The unsaid conclusion to the anti-one-house argument was that a one-house legislature is another "Communist plot."

This totally ignores the fact that the only American state with a one-house legislature is Nebraska—which certainly is not a hotbed of radicalism. The state, in fact, gave Richard Nixon a bigger percentage of its vote in both 1960 and 1968 than any other state.

Perhaps it should be hoped those advancing this argument never learn that the father of Communism—Karl Marx—also was very much in favor of a public school system. We might have a campaign to abolish public schools.

Village plans sled run, ice rink

Facilities for tobogganing and skating are being prepared by the village, with snow and cold weather the only things needed.

The ruts are being removed from the sledding hill in the park by filling them with dirt, and the 300 yard long slope is being prepared especially for toboggans.

A hockey ice skating rink is being made over the tennis courts. The base is done, and Tuesday morning saw the initial flooding to test run off.

The rink will be available for skaters when it is cold enough to keep the ice solid.

Villagers are also reminded that snowmobiles are not allowed in the park. A $100 fine can be levied for those caught. Ordinance also sets 10 p. m. week days and 11 p. m. Friday and Saturday as the latest they can be run in the village.

BETTER HEALTH

Distress confused with heartburn

BY DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

Probably most people, and even most of my brother physicians, think that when a patient says that he has heartburn, what he has is an excess of acid in his stomach. The thing to do is to give him some alkaline drug which will neutralize the excess of acid.

Actually, through the years I have read most of the literature on heartburn, and many years ago, I carefully studied the stories of distress told me by 123 patients with heartburn. I found then that the symptoms can sometimes be met with in persons with almost no acid in their stomach. I have even seen the symptoms in the presence of complete lack of acidity of the gastric juice.

Interestingly, no matter how acid the stomach juice is, it can seldom be felt in the stomach, unless the person has an ulcer. I was found to have twice the normal amount of acid in my stomach, but have never felt heartburn. Ordinarily, also, the mucous lining in the esophagus (the tube leading from the throat to the stomach) cannot feel acid, because many people occasionally regurgitate a little of their stomach contents into their gullet without distress. Many a time I have regurgitated a little food into my throat, where I tasted it, and still I felt no burning.

Some years ago Dr. A. M. Babey found 10 heartburn patients who had no acid at all in their stomachs, and in fact no gastric juice. He then injected some gastric juice into the lower third of each person's esophagus, and only two of them felt any burning.

Not all persons mean the same thing when they say they have heartburn, but they usually describe a burning or pecking, a hurting or rending feeling, which begins around the lower end of the breast bone and runs upward. A woman I knew who often regurgitated acid gastric juice never felt burning unless she ate cucumbers, radishes, or green peppers. Also, she had heartburn during her pregnancies, possibly because the growing fetus in her womb stimulated the lower end of her bowel and thus caused waves of contraction to run up as far as her throat.

Evidently, there is much more to heartburn than the regurgitation of acid juice into the gullet. That stomach acidity has something to do with it is indicated by the fact that bicarbonate of soda will usually give relief. My strong impression is that in order to suffer from heartburn, gastric contents, but not necessarily acid gastric contents, must regurgitate into an esophagus that has become sensitized in some way.

A tendency to heartburn runs in some families. Also, the condition can result from eating too much, eating certain foods, drinking certain liquors, or smoking certain brands of tobacco.

Curiously, after suffering for years with heartburn, some persons suddenly get well for no reason that they can see. I regret that I never thought to make a study to see which of the several anti-heartburn preparations on the market give the most relief. It would seem that most of the acid-neutralizing drugs on the market work well enough, because during my 35 years or more as a gastroenterologist (stomach and bowel specialist) only a few patients came complaining primarily of heartburn.

I saw hundreds of men with an ulcer in the duodenum (the foot-long section of bowel just below the stomach), but they generally complained of "hunger pain," an abdominal pain that came usually just before meal time and was immediately relieved by the taking of food. That is quite a different story than the one told me by a heartburn sufferer.

What causes an ulcer? What are the common symptoms? What is the value of physical rest and dieting in treating an ulcer? If you would like to read the answers to these and other questions in Dr. Alvarez' booklet "Ulcers of the Stomach and Duodenum" send 25 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for it to Dr. Walter C. Alvarez, Dept. CCC, Box 957, Des Moines, Iowa 50304.

He's a middle-aged man with a lot in common with other 44-year-old men everywhere—a slightly receding hair line, a little extra weight and a family that brings a special glint to the eye as he talks about them.

It would be easy to guess him to be what he was. . . a white collar worker in industry. It would be harder to guess him to be what he is: the Rev. James Siebeneicher, pastor of the Novesta Baptist Church.

It would be hard, that is, until you stopped a moment to talk to him or his wife at their modest parsonage home on Lampton Road, southeast of Cass City.

Then it would be no trick at all to tell just what he does. For Mr. Siebeneicher the greatest joy in the world is spreading the gospel and he works at it just about every minute of every day.

It wasn't always that way. For most of his adult years the new pastor worked in a business office. He was trained for it. He graduated from a business college and spent his life making a living in an office.

His family was started. Besides his wife there are three children. At Alma are Bonnie, 18, and Michael Jones, 19, a student at Alma College. At home is Catherine, 15, who attends Cass City High School.

Mr. Siebeneicher spent seven years at his last clerical job, through 1968, working for a trucking firm.

That was the year that his whole life changed. I read the Bible over and over, maybe 25 times, and was saved by the Word, he says simply. I was overjoyed and decided that I wanted to spread this joy to others.

He chucked his job and his career to attend the Grand Rapids School of Bible and Music, preaching when he had the chance.

After graduation he worked at the Flint Rescue Mission as assistant superintendent and along the way converted his wife to the faith.

Now he regards his pastorate at his new church as a wonderful opportunity, a calling with great potential.

We have room to grow, he says, and my mission here will be to try and realize our potential.

In the two months that he has been in the pulpit, the new pastor exhibits quiet satisfaction over early results. Average attendance is up from 28 to 45 in the 12-family church membership.

There are 16 children attending the Good News class conducted by his wife.

Be sure to mention that we have lots of room here, Mr. Siebeneicher says, and that all visitors are welcome.

None are so blind as the folks who take too many eye-openers.

2 youths slowly mending from injuries

Bruce King, 21, who was seriously injured when his car hit a tree in September, is home again after 70 days in the hospital.

He returned to his home at 4678 Kennebec, Friday, Nov. 26.

His father, James King, said he was still unable to walk and would need therapy, but is otherwise improved.

King suffered a broken knee cap, a broken femur and two broken ankles in an early morning accident Sept. 18 when he fell asleep at the wheel of his car on Cemetery Road and struck a tree, about a half mile north of Kelly Road.

He was taken to Hills and Dales, but transferred to Bay City within a week. The pin in his leg was removed just before he came home.

King would have been a sophomore at Delta College. Plans to return are indefinite, his father said.

After two operations and six weeks in the hospital, Edward Schwartz, 13, may get to go home this week end.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Schwartz, 6383 Main St., Cass City, was severely burned the night of Nov. 2 when he lighted a trash can that apparently contained a container of gasoline and it exploded, covering him with flames.

Skin grafts were made Tuesday, Nov. 30. His mother said the doctors told her they were a 90% take, and that he can walk around his hospital room now. Most of the 6 weeks has been spent on his back.

He underwent surgery Nov. 10 also, at which time the burned skin which was not healing was removed. The burns extended from his waist to shoulder and covered about half his chest.

Mrs. Schwartz related that he might return to school before Christmas, but that is completely undecided.

Elect Huron county ASC

committeemen

Results of the election of Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) Service Community Committeemen for Huron county were announced by Dan Franzel, chairman.

ASC committeemen are in charge of local administration of Government Farm Programs such as the Rural Environmental Assistance (formerly ACP), Set-Aside, Wheat and Feed Grain, Wool, Sugar, CCC Price Support and others.

Committeemen from Grant Community are Sanford Powell, Cass City; Howard Irwin, Cass City; Don Metzger, Owendale; Kenneth Maharg, Cass City; and Mike Hatlas, Owendale.

The members of each committee will meet at 8 p. m. Dec. 15 at the T.V.O. Hall to elect County ASC Committee Members.

FIRST SALE Saturday by members of the Cass City Gavel Club went to Tommy Wallace, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dick Wallace of Cass City. The lot at the corner of Main and Maple is loaded with trees that the club sells to raise money for the Cub Scout program. Workers include, from left: Wallace, Paul Clabuesch, Les Ross and Vic Guernsey.

90-voice choir to present

Cantata Sunday

The Cass City High School 90-voice choir will present a Cantata Sunday at 7:30 p. m. at the High School gym under the direction of Dorland Kuntz.

The choir has been rehearsing "Everywhere You Go It's Christmas" for eight weeks, Kuntz reports.

Soloists expected to perform include Kathy Koepf, Karen Hahn, Tim Coryell and Randy Brown.

Accompanists are Becky Loomis and Vickie German.

Steal alternator from parked car

Mrs. Norma Hudson of 2021 E. Elmwood Road, Cass City, reported to police Thursday, Dec. 2, that someone had taken the alternator off her car while it was parked in the General Cable lot.

She discovered the theft of the $70 item when she got off work at 7 a. m.

The alternator was taken sometime during the night, but thieves left no marks or tracks. Police have no suspects.

Arrest youths for stealing police light

Two youths were referred to authorities in connection with the November theft of a headlight from the Cass City Police car.

William G. Izydorek appeared before District Court Judge Richard Kern Monday and pleaded guilty to the misdemeanor. Sentencing is deferred to June 1972.

The other boy, a juvenile, was referred to probate court. The headlight, valued at $40, was removed from the police car during the night of Nov. 14.

Richard Hamady, 24, of Cass City, entered a plea of innocent to a charge of driving with his license suspended. He appeared before Judge Kern Monday.

Frank George Skripic, 45, of Deford, was arrested Dec. 5 on a District court warrant for driving with his license revoked. He posted $75 bond.

Oh, how we lied.

Leaking was just one of the hazards of hightops.

Middle-agers will remember that everyone wore heavy wool socks under the boots. One pair was good, 2 pair better.

Guaranteed to keep you warm. The only trouble was that usually the extra socks made the boots too tight and cut off circulation.

The results were that toes turned blue with cold when outside and wet with sweat when inside.

Every day that the weather called for hightops, there were two battles. A minor skirmish when they were tugged on in the morning and a major battle when they were struggled out of in the evening.

Now don't assume by all of this that there hasn't been any progress made on the fashion scene over the years.

We've really come a long way, baby, in the boot world. When I was a boy, a girl wouldn't have been caught dead in a pair.

WHEREAS, the Michigan State Highway Department, under date of September 17, 1971, has approved an addition to the program previously approved by the Michigan State Highway Department on September 2, 1970, in connection with which the bonds were issued, and it accordingly is necessary to amend Exhibit A attached to said resolution adopted October 21, 1970, by adding to said Exhibit A certain additional highway improvements to be financed from the proceeds of sale of the said Motor Vehicle Highway Fund Bonds of the County; and

WHEREAS, it is necessary for the Board of County Road Commissioners of the County of Tuscola to adopt a resolution amending the resolution adopted by the Board of County Road Commissioners on September 25, 1970, recommending the issuance of bonds to the Board of Commissioners of the County;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE BOARD OF COUNTY ROAD COMMISSIONERS OF THE COUNTY OF TUSCOLA, MICHIGAN, This 7th Day of October, 1971, as follows:

1. That the resolution adopted by the Board of County Road Commissioners of the County of Tuscola on September 25, 1970, be amended by adding to Exhibit A attached thereto the additional highway improvements set forth in Exhibit A attached hereto, estimated to cost $465,000.00.

2. That it is recommended to the Board of Commissioners of the County of Tuscola that said additional highway improvements described in Exhibit A hereto be financed from the proceeds of sale of the Motor Vehicle Highway Fund Bonds of the County of Tuscola dated December 1, 1970.

3. That this resolution shall be executed by all members of the Board of County Road Commissioners of the County of Tuscola and that a certified copy thereof shall be filed with the County Clerk for the County of Tuscola to be served upon the Commissioners of the County of Tuscola as an amendment to the regular recommendation of the Board of County Road Commissioners for the highway improvements described in Exhibit A.

Caro jolts Cass City

Hawk-Eagle clash seen as battle of young teams

Friday two young basketball teams will meet when the Cass City Red Hawks face the Frankenmuth Eagles.

Both teams will be seeking a first Thumb B Conference victory. The Eagles bowed to Sandusky in the loop opener and the Hawks were crushed by Caro, 74-49. Frankenmuth has a Junior-studded line-up while Cass City features Juniors and Sophomores on its team.

It's too early in the season to make judgements on the possible winner of Friday's tilt. But the outcome of the game should help local fans make a judgement about this year's team.

Are the real Cass City Red Hawks the team that defeated Freeland or the squad that was overwhelmed by Caro?

Against the Tigers, Cass City rebounded poorly, shot ineffectively and was guilty of numerous turnovers.

Undoubtedly one of the reasons why Caro dominated the boards was the play of Sophomore Mark DeNoyelles. DeNoyelles swept the boards clean and was the triggerman in Caro's fast break.

Caro jumped off to an early lead and was never behind. The score was 15-3 at one point as the Hawks couldn't buy a basket.

But late in the period Cass City started to find the range and close the gap. By the end of the first quarter the score was 23-11 and at the half, the Hawks trailed by five, 34-29.

The Tigers were able to withstand any Hawk attempt to forge into the lead in the third period and fell apart when Paul Bliss left the game with five fouls early in the final quarter.

The Tigers threw a half-court press on the Cass City guards and the result was turnover after turnover. A tight game was turned into a rout in a matter of minutes. At one time Caro had galloped into a 30-point lead and all that remained was the mopping up.

It was the first taste of Thumb B Conference brand defense for several Hawks and the results showed it.

Dave Hillaker showed Sophomore jitters as he converted just one of 10 tries. Scott Hartel netted just 3 of 14 tries.

As a team the Hawks shot just 30 per cent and Caro was only slightly better with 32 per cent with 24 baskets in 75 attempts.

Dirk Sutherland of Caro was the high scorer for the night with 19 points. DeNoyelles was next with 16 points. For Cass City Paul Bliss, Fred Harbec and Hartel each scored nine points. Kip Hopper followed with eight points.

JV LOSSES

It was Caro's night all around as the Tiger JV's broke open a tight game in the last quarter to win going away.

Defensive back

Rayl named to all state team

BULLDOGS

JAMES RAYL of Gagetown has switched uniforms now and is one of the stars on the potent Owen-Gage basketball quintet. It would be an achievement if he could duplicate his success in football. The 5 foot, 8 inch, 155-pound defensive back was named to an area all-state team as defensive back. He had 162 tackles and 14 interceptions during the year.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Rayl of Gagetown.

TIP TO MOTORISTS

Safety-minded drivers know that courtesy, caution and common sense curtail casualties in any kind of traffic.

4-H ACTIVITIES

Sugar Beet

Awards

By Bernard Jardot

The 4-H and FFA Sugar Beet Project members in Tuscola county were honored at the Annual Sugar Beet Banquet Monday, Dec. 6. This banquet is sponsored by the Caro Sugar Beet Growers Association and the Caro Plant, Michigan Sugar Company.

The 4-H factory Premier Growers Awards were presented to the following 4-H members: Mark Buchinger, Steven Buchinger and Andrew Buchinger of Richville Community 4-H Club; Keith Ackerman and Denise Ackerman of the Progressive 4-H Club; Donald Morton of Akron 4-H Club; Dennis Rodammer of Jolly 4-H Club; Monte Monte of Jr. Horsemen 4-H; Mark Timko, Pat Sheridan and Shawn Sheridan of Toppers 4-H Club; and Connie Keinath, Karen Keinath, Mark Schiefer and Alan Rodammer of the Tuscola Beetniks 4-H Club.

The FFA Factory Premier Growers Awards were presented to the following FFA members: Charles Bauer and Michael Hill of the Reese FFA Chapter; Terry Tomlinson of the Caro FFA Chapter; and Ricky Russell of the Akron-Fairgrove FFA Chapter.

These Sugar Beet Project Award Winners are invited to attend the State Sugar Beet Banquet in January. At this time the State Trip award winners will be announced, reports Bernard Jardot, Extension 4-H Youth Agent.

The Caro banquet included a special program presented by Mr. John Rummel, Director of Advertising and Public Relations of the Farmers and Manufacturers Beet Sugar Association. Also last year's State Trip Winners, Brian Bierlein, Mark Buchinger, and Charles Bauer, reported on last year's award trip.

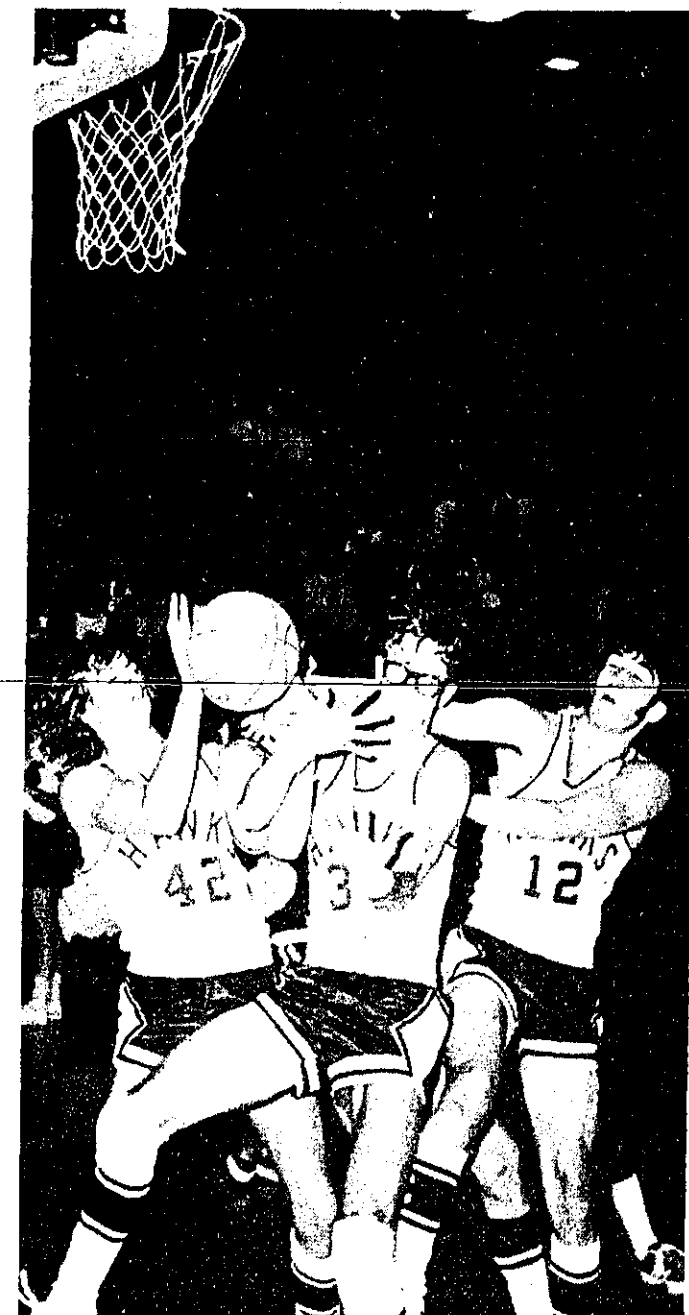

Always be up and doing and you'll never be counted out.

APPEARANCES

Making both ends meet would be comparatively easy if people didn't buy things their neighbors can't afford either.

FRANCIS STAPLETON, 14, shows off the first red fox he's trapped. He caught the animal in the Gagetown area Thursday night, Dec. 2. He's the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Stapleton, 4919 Center St., Gagetown.

THE HAWKS swarmed under the bucket on this play, took the rebound and then missed the shot. From left, Fred Harbec, Scott Hartel and Paul Bliss.
