Vocal music, pupil safety debate ho-hum school board meet items

The regular session of the Cass City School Board was an oh hum affair Monday night at the high school.

The short regular session included passage of several routine matters and indecisive discussion about curriculum changes.

Following the regular session the board and the various principals discussed teacher performance in a meeting closed to the press and the public.

It is here that the work of the teachers was reviewed. Dorland Kuntz, vocal music instructor, attended the regular session and explained his program to the board.

He pointed out that vocal music at the intermediate school is primarily a music appreciation course and said that there is little chance to make significant changes without a revamping of the program.

He pointed out that about a third of the students taking the course were special education students assigned to the course.

The vast majority of the good students, he added, are taking band or a study hall and not vocal music.

He said that a much more comprehensive program could be initiated if a way could be found to alter the curriculum so that the better students would be able to study vocal music.

My primary concern in the time I have is to get the students to learn the various types of music and to sing together in more than a whisper, he said.

Much of the regular session was devoted to a discussion of a tractor for the school.

Considering variables there was little difference in bids submitted by Rabideau Motors and Marshall Implement.

After hassling about half an hour the board decided to take more bids. The reason was that Trustee Don Koepfgen was strongly in favor of a diesel tractor and bids were received only on gas.

The opinion of the rest of the board was far from unanimous about whether a gas or diesel engine was best for school purposes.

The upshot of the whole affair is that more bids will be requested for gas and diesel tractors. The board also instructed Supt. Don Crouse to seek bids from dealers outside of the school district.

One step forward in next year's curriculum enrichment program is the elevation of Wayne Dillon to a combination guidance, co-op and vocational education position.

He will spend about half his time supervising students in work training positions and most of the rest of his time serving as a guidance counselor.

Another industrial arts teacher will be added to the staff next year, according to present plans.

Mrs. Bernard Freuburger explained the need for a new set of elementary reading texts.

The school will be saying good-by to the family type reading material and switch to a "levels" program. Each child will read at the level he or she achieves.

Extra cost next year for the change in reading materials was estimated at about $2,000. Concluded on page 3.

Probate Judge seeks

$21,000 back pay

Tuscola County Board of Commissioners were surprised Tuesday when they received a letter from Probate Judge Bates Wills requesting $21,000 in back pay.

The board met at a regular session at the Court House. Wills bases his claim on a Court of Appeals and Supreme Court case, Deneweth vs. The State Treasurer, which ruled that the county cannot reduce payments to a judge even though the state has increased the minimum and its contribution.

The salary of the probate judge, Commissioner Ed Golding explained, is determined by the county and paid by the county, although the state sets a minimum salary and reimburses the county for part of the payment.

Since Wills was first elected in 1964, the salary for Probate Judge has increased from $9500 to $20,000. The state first set a minimum in 1967, and provided for reimbursement to the county for part of the salary.

Each year the state minimum increased as well as the amount of reimbursement, so that in 1972 the county's contribution of $5000 is less than the original 1964 contribution of $9500, when they were paying the total.

Wills claims he should be paid the difference between what the county has contributed and the original $9500 for each year their contribution was below $9500.

When asked what the board is going to do about it, Golding said, "Nothing. We don't intend to. It will be up to him. We'd have to be made to pay it."

"We accepted the letter," he said. "The next move is his."

The board also passed a resolution to get started on the Act 54 comprehensive mental health clinic. An application for federal funds has already been approved by the board and submitted through the East Michigan Economic Development District #14. The county will receive $3 in federal funds for each dollar it allocates for the project.

Under Act 54 a county mental health unit will be created. Presently Tuscola county is affiliated with the Saginaw Adult Mental Health Clinic and the Bay City Child Guidance Center.

In other action the board approved a $1500 grant to the Association for Retarded Children. Money has been allocated to the group before, Golding said, although not on a yearly basis. Without help, the facility would have to close, he explained.

In a routine action the board accepted a favorable report from the state on the county's audit, and approved the annexation of a parcel of land for Reese.

Merger plans aired

Owen-Gage seeks answers in pre-vote meet Tuesday

The board of education of the Owen-Gage and Unionville-Sebewaing school districts were directed by the citizens committee to devise a specific proposal for construction of a building if a merger of the district is authorized.

The decision came at a Tuesday night meeting at the Gagetown school after about three hours of discussion and questions when approximately 90 citizens met with school representatives. Owen-Gage board member Kenneth Voelker led the discussion.

This was the second citizens committee meeting and was called by the boards to answer questions which were submitted after the first meeting in January.

After questions were read and answers given, the floor was opened to discussion. Some citizens attacked the boards for trying to force a merger on them when they claimed they didn't want it.

Bill Dodge, Unionville-Sebewaing superintendent, defended the boards and clarified that the citizens committee should give the board direction. "I'm certain that if the feelings of the citizens is forget it, the board will forget it," he said.

Both boards have already approved of holding a vote, but the citizens said they were under the understanding that the meetings were to decide whether or not to hold a vote. The action was thrown back at the board to come up with a proposal because no decisions could be made.

The boards have the authority to call for a vote without citizen approval.

The question of merging the two school districts has been under heavy discussion for over a year, and has been talked about for the past 15 or 20.

The stated reason for the merger is to hopefully build one high school facility. Presently, all of the schools involved are in need of new building facilities.

The present K-8 facility in Gagetown is adequate, said Owen-Gage superintendent Allen Fennell, except that the school is renting space for the junior high.

The 1913 high school building in Owendale, he said, is in very poor condition and constitutes a hazard. "It is an absolute fire trap," he stated. This building is the most critically in need of replacement.

Dodge explained to the citizens committee that the 1926 building there is in need of repair as well as other needed facilities such as locker rooms.

In Sebewaing the problems settle around the lack of laboratory facilities, which were in the building closed by the fire marshal to classroom several years ago.

The boards have obtained a shared option on 80 acres of land in section 26 of Sebewaing north of Bach Road which is due to run out next month. This site for a new central high school or junior high - high school was questioned by some of the citizens because it is out in the country, which would involve more bus transporting and pose problems for transportation to extra-curricular activities.

Also cited as considerations in putting the school in the country were the need to improve roads leading to the site, an increased supervision problem due to the increased size, and whether or not a large school would improve the curriculum.

The boards feel that a central location would allow for a more diverse and specialized program because facilities would not have to be duplicated and specialized teachers could be hired.

The cost figures presented by the board members estimated construction of a 750 pupil central 9-12 high school to be $3,465,000. A 1050 student 7-12 school would cost $4,165,000.

To replace or renovate existing facilities would cost $3,180,000 for Unionville-Sebewaing and $1,960,000 for Owendale-Gagetown, the board estimated.

In response to a citizen's question of why the present buildings were not maintained years ago, came the answer that the boards were talking about merger then too.

Beer in park voted down in election Monday

Voters overwhelmingly disapproved of beer in the park in an advisory vote Monday by a vote of 273 to 83.

A record turnout of 357 voters appeared at the polls despite the bad weather conditions which began early morning and continued all day. There were nine spoiled ballots.

The proposal was placed on the ballot to find the sentiments of the citizens in regards to the sale or consumption of beer in the Cass City Recreational Park.

The protest began last June when the council adopted an amended ordinance which included a provision allowing for the sale or consumption in the park under certain restricted conditions and with permission of the council. The park has always been off limits to alcohol.

The vote result is not a mandate to the council, but it is expected they will not go against the feelings of a majority of the people.

In the only other competition, Dan Eria won the position of assessor with 122 write-in votes. Michael O'Dell, the other announced write-in candidate, received 87.

All other officers were voted in without competition. They are: president, Lambert Alt-haver; clerk-treasurer, Celia House; trustees, Gary Jones, Dr. D. E. Rawson and William Bliss Jr. Bliss is the only new face on the council, taking the place of Gary Christner, who chose to not run for re-election.

GAGETOWN

In Gagetown incumbent Republican President James England edged out Democratic contender Elery Sontag by three votes, 69-66. This is the third time England has won over Sontag by a small margin.

The competition among the trustees showed the winners to be Republicans Rudolf Leyva, 109; Richard Burdon, 89, and Harry King, 92. Incumbent Democratic trustee Harvey Polk received 77 votes.

Incumbents Mrs. William Ashmore, clerk; William Ashmore, treasurer, and George Wilson, assessor, were elected without competition.

The $190,000 bond issue also appearing on the ballot won by a vote of 78 to 59. The bonds will fund a waste-water disposal system for the village of Gagetown.

England reported that tentative plans now call for work on the waste water disposal system to start this spring and be in operation this fall.

KINGSTON

The opposite occurred in Kingston where 108 of 195 voters appeared to write in names on an almost completely blank ballot.

Elected by write-in vote were president, Walter Harmon, 53; Kenneth Distelrath, 44, and Dennis Steele, 36, both trustees, and assessor, Robert Peter, 34.

The only candidates whose names appeared on the ballot were elected without competition. They are Republican incumbents Mildred E. Parrott, treasurer, and Jimmie Barons, trustee.

The contest between Oscar Mayer and incumbent Beverly Heron for clerk was decided when Mayer withdrew. Both received 18 write-in votes.

VALERIE ELAINE USSERY made a surprise appearance when she arrived early and unexpectedly late Thursday night, Mar. 9. The baby was born at the home of its maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Goodall, 4843 Koepfgen Road, Cass City.

The baby weighed 4 1/2 pounds as measured by the family scale, said her mother, Mrs. Linda Goodall Ussery, and was born at 11:55 p. m. The Larry Usserys, who live in the Walnut Trailer Park, have another child, Larry David, 2.

AAUW juvenile delinquency study released

Copies of "Juvenile Delinquency in Michigan: A Call to Action," the report on a statewide study initiated by the Michigan Division of the American Association of University Women, have been received by the Cass City Branch.

This call to action stems from findings of a year's study of state and county detention facilities for juveniles, the juvenile justice system and its programs for kids in trouble throughout the state. Forty of the state's 61 AAUW branches, including the Cass City Branch, shared in the survey at the county level and forms were sent directly to judges and law enforcement officers in areas where no AAUW branch was located.

The Michigan Division is supporting broad community programs for the prevention of delinquency and rehabilitation of delinquents. Since prevention is related to education and training, AAUW recommends state-supported school counseling be instituted in the early years of elementary school and that all schools should develop concrete alternatives to expelling disruptive students.

Other recommendations include making separate facilities available for non-delinquent children, giving probate judges the right to waive child labor laws for those who are trained, more money for state and local programs, a cross-county data bank on delinquent children to be located in the Office of Youth Services, community follow-up on youngsters released from state training schools, in-service training for those dealing with delinquents, and legislative review of child labor laws.

There are no facilities to house delinquents in Tuscola county, the nearest being the Teen Ranch in Sanilac county, with residential care, occupational and training program for 20 boys ages 12-15.

"If It Fitz . . ."

That dog is lost

BY JIM FITZGERALD

"Look at that poor dog. It's lost. It's cold and hungry. The poor thing. Someone should take it home."

That's my wife talking. But it could probably be any man's wife. I recently surveyed 22 men, all married and all sitting on bar stools. Each man admitted he was wed to a woman who was a pushover for unloved strays of all breeds. In fact, 17 of the men said that's what caused their marriages. They had been strays once themselves. 10 of the men still wore collars with buckles. 5 of them revealed broken leashes tucked into their shirts. And 1 man swore his name was Prince.

But what was even more interesting, each one of these men said his wife had the startling ability to distinguish a lost dog from a found dog just by hearing its bark, from 15 blocks away, behind a billboard, with 5 friendly kids feeding it.

I always ask my wife: "How do you know that dog is lost? It is wearing a collar and a vest and appears well fed. It is trotting purposely. How do you know it is not on its way to a happy home and a kettle of minced cat?"

"I can tell," she always says. "That dog is lost."

This is a remarkable phenomenon and she does not reserve it for animals. My wife can pass a stranger on the street and immediately tell you his life story.

"That man is not happy," she will say. "I think his wife has left him and she won't let him visit the children. So he doesn't know what to do with himself on Sunday afternoons."

"Well," I say, "we certainly should take him home and give him a can of Alpo."

"It's worse with children," she says. "Look at that mother," my wife will say on a crowded street. "She is yanking her little girl around by the arm. She hollers at her and she has been slapping her. I'll bet she beats the poor little girl every night. A woman like that should be locked up. I will take care of the child."

"You are not being fair to that woman," I always tell her. "She may be a wonderful mother. I can remember when you used to drop-kick our son into bed every night. And you used to look him in the breadbox while you ran next door to match filibusters with Shirley and Carol. Anyone who didn't know you might well have accused you of being a rotten mother."

"That was different," she always says. "I love my children."

"How do you know that woman doesn't love her children?" I ask.

"I can tell by the look in her eyes," my wife explains, "and by the way she walks. Her husband has deserted her and she's taking it out on the poor daughter who probably loves her father more and now she can't even see him on Sundays."

"Hey," I say, "maybe that's the guy we passed a few minutes ago. I'll run after him. You hold the woman here. We shall bring this family together again."

"Get that lost dog, too," she says. "I know it belongs to that poor little girl. I can tell by the way she keeps petting the air."

Onward and upward.

SCHOOL BOARD

Formal resolutions were approved for school millage elections and Florence Carpenter, Ann Rogers, Ruth Spencer and Neva Zimmerman appointed to the election board for the April 17 millage election.

Finally, a discussion over school flashing signs was aired again with no appreciable results.

Supt. Crouse feels that a traffic light at the road in front of the Intermediate School might impede bus traffic and slow up the transportation of students.

He also said that he believes that the school's responsibility for children's safety ends when they leave the school yard and is adamant in believing that any traffic warning signs erected on North Cemetery Road be paid for by the municipal or township government involved.

He backed his views by pointing out that in Carothers safety precautions are paid for by the village.

Crouse explained his stand after John Haire, a spectator, remarked that he believed that children's safety walking to school was as much of a school problem as transporting rural students to pick up points or to their homes in the country.

The board officially decided to see the township for help with flasher signs north of the high school and to confer again with village officials. Student traffic safety has been on the agenda for 2 years with almost no concrete results other than the painting of crosswalks on Main Street.

In other business it was announced that Mrs. Brewster Shaw will be honored at a retirement dinner at Frankenmuth Friday, May 19.

2 sentenced to prison in circuit court

Two men were sentenced to prison last week in Tuscola County Circuit Court and five more were given fines when they appeared before Judge Norman Bagley Friday.

Larry Lendzian, 24, of Caro was sentenced to 1 1/2 to 2 years at the state prison at Jackson for auto theft. He pleaded guilty to stealing a car in Detroit to come to Caro to face a charge of using someone else's credit card.

James Bearinger, 17, of Caro was sentenced to 1 1/2 to 2 1/2 years at the prison at Jackson for probation violation. He violated his probation for attempted larceny from an auto by committing a larceny in a building.

Dewey Campbell Jr., Lee Jacoby, Timothy Nowlan and Michael Williams, all of the Akron area, pleaded guilty to a reduced charge of entering an unoccupied building without permission. They were originally charged with entering without breaking an occupied dwelling with intent to commit larceny and setting fire to grounds of another in connection with a July 26 incident near Akron. They were fined $50 and costs of $200.

Wednesday a Tuscola county jury returned a guilty verdict against Robert Weeder of Sandusky. He was convicted of unlawfully driving away the auto of another July 7, 1971. The jury returned a verdict after 4 hours of deliberation. Sentencing is set for April 10.

Gary L. Potter of Caro was sentenced to 6 months' probation and fine and costs of $300 when he pleaded guilty Wednesday to careless driving, a misdemeanor. He was originally charged with negligent homicide, a felony, in connection with the Dec. 24, 1970, accident death of Elsie McBurney, 61, of Cass City.

Ground breaking set Sunday for Deford church

The Rev. Dale Sherry, pastor of the Deford Community Church, announces the parsonage dedication and ground-breaking service for the first unit of their new church building Sunday afternoon, March 19. The church house dedication will be held at 2 p. m. with the breaking of ground scheduled for 2:30.

The new congregation was organized during December of last year, and currently has a charter membership of 64 persons, and an average attendance of about 125. Rev. Sherry assumed pastoral duties Jan. 1.

Special speaker for the Sunday services will be the Rev. Quinton J. Everest of South Bend, Ind. He is the founder and director of the internationally known broadcast, "Your Worship Hour." He will be speaking at the 10:30 morning worship service to be held in the Campbell Elementary School. He also will be participating in the afternoon services to be held on the construction site at Kingston Road in Deford.

Rabbit tracks

By John Haire

(And anyone else he can get to help)

The change in voting locations from the Cultural Center to the former library building was confusing to many voters. The Chronicle received four calls about it on election day. One village voter said he called the village office requesting that a sign telling the voters where to go be posted at the Cultural Center.

It wasn't done, but it's probable that most voters found their way to the new location anyway.

Who is H. J. S. in Cass City? He submitted a question to the Michigan Traffic Safety Council and it received statewide publicity in the council's "The Safety Valve" column. The question: Do I need to have brakes on my two-wheeled farm trailer if I use it only to haul feed for my cattle, etc.?

The answer: It depends on the size of the trailer and if use includes operation on a highway. Even after scanning the phone book I haven't the foggiest about who submitted the question.

Will the real HJS please stand up.

It has to be a tongue-in-cheek promotion. If it is someone spent a little money to make it so. Through the mail last week came material from the "committee to make St. Patrick's Day A Legal Holiday".

Besides the campaign letter (printed green, naturally) there was a membership pin, a membership card and a green balloon.

The stirring campaign copy included pithy statements like "Many of us were fortunate to be born Irish. . . but for friends who were not born to the green, it is another recourse. It is something like Baptism. . . by blood or desire."

It goes on and on, but you've got the general idea. One other note, a member of the committee, according to the letterhead is (faith and begorrah) Ziggy Czarowski.

How many Eagle Scouts are there in Cass City? More than the 15 reported last week, for sure. Two names added to the list are John Day and Arlington "Barney" Hoffman. Next door neighbors, the two received their Eagle badges in the 1930's. Day's was the first ever awarded and Hoffman's the second. There may be others. Records prior to 1943 are sketchy.

Court decision that says tax limitations are illegal, all control theoretically now rests with the school board.

But only theoretically. Cass City is going right ahead with its special operating tax renewal and it's hard to believe that members would go ahead in face of an adverse decision at the polls.

It is near certain that restrictions will be restored by constitutional amendments as soon as possible.

It can't come too soon. The quicker that all school unions, school administrators and school boards know for certain that today's situation is temporary the better it will be for everyone of us who foot the bill.

Local taxpayer vigilance is the only way to keep school costs in line.

Strange how soon a youngster begins telling his parents how life should be lived.

THE VILLAGE OF CASS CITY COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS

The regular meeting of the Cass City Village Council was held on February 29, 1972 at the Municipal Building. Trustee Holmberg was absent.

The minutes of the regular January meeting were read and approved.

Tom Thompson and Bob Gentner, C.P.A.'s from Yeo & Yeo were present to review the 1971 audit report in detail. Several comments and recommendations were made by the C.P.A.'s in the accompanying letter.

Mrs. Calvin MacRae was present at the meeting and requested that the Council consider the extension of a sewer line to the first house south of the high school.

Mrs. MacRae was informed that no sewer line runs along Seeger Street outside the Village limits, and the closest sewer hookup would be several hundred yards away. A study will be made to determine what could be done to connect her property to Village sewers.

A representative from Prime, Toshach & Spears presented plans for the park - pool development program.

Following a discussion with the architect on the proposed plans, a motion was made by Trustee Christner and supported by Trustee Jones that the preliminary master pool - park site plan be approved, and that the Park Committee be authorized to proceed with plans to obtain a scale model of the proposed facilities. Motion carried.

A brief financial report for the month of January was presented.

A Public Hearing was held on the proposed budget for fiscal year 1972.

The proposed budget for 1972 was reviewed by the Council. After some discussion it was moved by Trustee Ross and supported by Trustee Christner that the proposed budget be accepted as the Village of Cass City's budget for fiscal year 1972. Motion carried.

A motion was made by Trustee Jones and supported by Trustee Albee that the Vil-

Save the wildlife

By Kit McMillion

The week beginning Mar. 19 is National Wildlife Week. It probably doesn't mean much to most persons, but if you were an animal, you might pay a little more attention.

For years, Smokey the Bear has been warning against forest fires, and for somewhat less time horses and large cats have been selling cars.

When it's convenient, man exploits the animal image to sell, convince or convert. And he exploits their bodies as well, ravaging their herds or flocks or homelands or driving them into extinction.

Through the wanton carelessness of man, many species are no longer with us. They're gone forever, unless the Hindus are right and some are reincarnated from existing frogs or something.

James Fisher in a book called "Wildlife in Danger" says that of 4226 species of mammals living at 1600 A.D., 36 are extinct and 120 more are in danger. Of 8648 species of birds living at that time, 94 are extinct and another 187 are in danger.

At least 89 of those endangered species are in this country.

And the list of threatened animals continues to grow. After a campaign to save them, the whooping crane are faring a little better. Their population was listed as 67 for 1971, when there were only 15 in 1941.

But other species are disappearing, such as the polar bear, Siberian tiger, golden eagle, mountain gorilla, grey fox, buffalo, white rhino, whales, many breeds of spotted cats, all because man, who is supposed to be rational, is greedy.

Recently the Thumb has been barraged with many nature-type films, plying moviegoers to see some of the last beautiful animals, the plot invariably centering around the animal versus his greatest enemy, man.

Everyone shakes their heads and says it's a shame, but...

One of the reasons so many of the beautiful creatures are disappearing is that their pelts or fur is so desirable for decorating both the male and female of the human species.

I've nothing against fur coats, but I do object to the destruction of graceful and lovely beasts just so some human, who could be just as comfortable and fashionably dressed in something else, can wear spots.

Environmental groups are making moves to try to save some of these animals. One of the moves, if passed, will result in a step of importance.

The Michigan Senate Committee on Conservation is considering a bill that would prohibit the buying or selling of pelts or skins of leopards, tigers, cheetahs, polar bears, red wolves, vicuna, alligators, mountain lions, cougars, ocelots, jaguars or grey wolves.

Legislation as this is a step in the right direction, but it is important that each person make it his own conviction to not participate in ridiculous killing of animals (and I am not objecting to all hunting) and to condemning commercial use of animals solely for the sake of ornament.

Animals were here before we were and they have little say in their own affairs. They can't vote. The least we smart animals can do is protect their right to survive.

MRS. EDNA MALCOLM remembers how Deford used to be.

The happy days: Deford and Mrs. Malcolm were young

Mrs. Edna Malcolm is almost as old as Deford. She missed the very beginnings when the town was established in 1882, but has watched almost all of the changes that have taken place.

She lives in Kingston now, where she moved to a small house next to the telephone company about 2 years ago, but she'd like to return to the little town where she grew up, married and raised her family.

Many changes have occurred since she was born Feb. 11, 1888. "Blamed if I know which house it was," she said, thinking hard and trying to find the right memory.

Only the shells of buildings remain where once prosperous businesses were housed, but Mrs. Malcolm remembers how it used to be.

"Life, it seemed to me, was very happy, as I look back," she said.

Sitting in an overstuffed chair in her small but homey living room, she glanced at the pictures of her family and mementos collected through the years.

Living within a mile of Deford all her life has sheltered her from some of the harrassments faced by moving families. The lines in her face are few compared to some oldsters, and her plump face smiles with the inward vigor of self-content.

But she, like the town, has grown old, with greying hair and arthritic bones.

The train depot is now a shambles, but during her youth, the Pontiac, Oxford and Northern Railroad ran through town three times a day, bringing the mail and providing transportation when horse and buggies were the only alternative. The train was important to the life of the town in other ways, too.

"Years and years ago, when I was a girl, there was a potato cellar," she mused. The farmers grew potatoes and kept them there and then shipped them out by way of the train.

The elevator is also gone, but it too was once a great business. It was closed about 5 years ago after being the mainstay of the town since before the turn of the century.

"In the fall when they brought the wheat up, I remember," she said, "the trucks and wagons were lined up for two blocks." "We felt terrible when it closed down," she added, a wave of sadness flitting across her face.

The Deford bank, which was a privately owned Frutchey Bean Co. bank, was closed about 1950. And while it was small, it was the only bank in the area that didn't close down during the depression.

She remembered when she was a little girl of 3 or 4 years how she slept overnight with her uncle Arthur Bruce's family. He ran the post office which was located in a hardware store, last owned by R.

Biggest cow ever sold at livestock auction

One of the biggest cows to pass through the auctioneer's hands at the Michigan Livestock Exchange east of Cass City was sold Tuesday, Mar. 7, for $500.

A Holstein cow weighing in at 2000 pounds was sold for 25 cents a pound, said Bob Labor of the exchange.

The average weight is 1000 to 1500 pounds. The beast was owned by Carl Wolf of Palms, who said he had a larger cow at home.

The Murray Packing company of Grand Rapids bought the animal.

POINT OF VIEW
Circumstances rule the weak, but are just another obstacle to be surmounted by the strong.

E. Johnson before it closed six years ago. The Road Commission bought the building since and has been using it as the Deford Garage.

Life in a small farm community was isolated and calm, but compared to today's life, Mrs. Malcolm thinks it was great, even better. "I wouldn't say our town was too active," she stated. "The only amusements were going to church. There weren't any cars to go to Caro or Cass City. About the only place young folks went was to church."

Her life in the church included charter membership in the Methodist church which is still there and was built when she was 11 years old in 1899.

"We didn't have problems then. Nobody got into mischief or nothing," she said. When queried about the troubles affecting today's youth she just shook her head.

One of the highlights of the year was the trip to the Cass City fair.

"The kids from all around would pile on my dad's lumber wagon. He had a season ticket for $1 and we'd all get in free," she laughed. With the far away look of someone remembering the fond days of youth, she told of how she could always be found at the merry-go-round.

Much of what went on around town didn't mean much to Mrs. Malcolm, who spent most of her life caring for her son, daughter, and husband. The significant things for her were the landmarks in her own life. She gaged the time and connected events by the births, deaths and marriages of her friends and family.

She lived in a log house until she was 11, when her father, Elmer Bruce, built a brick house on their 80-acre farm, one mile east of Deford. At 16 she and her family moved to the white frame house her dad had built in town. When she married Howard Malcolm in 1909, they built a house next door, across the street from the school, where she continued to live until two years ago. Shortly after they were mar-

What's it to you... THIS CHURCH GOING?

Why, you say, do ministers and other Christians so constantly urge you to go to church?

It's probably because you're human. They know that there lies within you an urgent lack of confidence in yourself, a feeling of dependence on a Supreme Being. When you lift your heart in prayer or raise your voice in hymns of praise, your spiritual energy is renewed.

They know, too, there is something in the human heart that makes men brothers — more fully satisfied to SHARE in worship.

Going to church is all that... and much more!

Uncle Tim From Tyre Says:

Dear Mister Editor:

Ed Doolittle, that allowed some time back that he was trying for at least one good laugh a week, reported to the fellers at the country store Saturday night that he got his last week. He had saw by the paper where National Pay Yore Bills Week was observed, sponsored by the American Collectors Association.

Of all the weeks ever set aside, from Crime Prevention to Peanut Butter Sandwich, Ed said Pay Yore Bills involved more folks direct. The hole country is running on credit, said Ed, and Governments is leading the way. If everybody was to pay their bills, the unemployment rate would shoot up out of sight on account of all the collectors and time-payment clerks out of work. When you git right down to it, said Ed, Pay Yore Bills Week is hazardous to the national health.

Clem Webster said they was a grain of truth in Ed's malarky, but Pay Yore Bills Week come and went and Ed must of been one of powerful few that paid any mind. Clem said Pay Yore Bills can be bunched with Brotherhood Week and Clean-Up Week fer all the good they do. All of them is hard cases of getting the horse to drink after you git him to the water, was Clem's words.

Actual, went on Clem, the country is in such a fix that credit is somepun a feller, a company and a Government has got to have. Clem recalled a few years back when this little town wanted to put in some sewer and water lines, but they couldn't sell no bonds to big investors cause they had never borrowed money afore and didn't have a credit rating.

Now you take President Nixon's $25 billion bill fer this budget year, Clem said, and you can see how far good credit can carry you. The country has gone $425 billion in the hole, and we're going right on to $493 billion in June of next year. The trick, tho, Clem explained, is that the country pays its bills no matter how much it has to borrow to do it. The Collectors Association said two out of ever five Americans has debt troubles, but Clem was of a mind they was three Americans short in their figgers.

Zeke Grubb broke in to declare that Nixon's new $25 billion debt was a good debt, where what most that folks has is bad debts. The President said his deficit was good cause it was a "full employment" debt, but when Democrats went in debt during times of full employment they had bad debts. What the Democrats needed was a excuse, declared Zeke. He said if a conservative bunch can spend like we're doing it'd be a sight in the world to see what liberals could do with Pay Yore Bills Week.

Personal, Mister Editor, I allus figgered a business that had to git out and scratch for its income stood a bigger risk of going in the hole than a Government that knows its income in advance, but I reckon that jest shows my ignorance.

Yours truly,
Uncle Tim

4 area persons arrested last week

Four area persons were arrested in the past week.

Linda Louise Yost, 28, of 6940 Deckerville Road, Deford, was released on $1000 personal recognizance bond after she was arrested Monday. She is charged with larceny in connection with a shoplifting incident at Erla's Food Store March 4.

Robert Wayne Jordan, 19, of rural Cass City, entered pleas of guilty to driving with his license suspended and reckless driving Monday before District Court Judge Richard Kern. He was arrested Sunday on Cemetery Road. He was sentenced to 60 days in the county jail for driving with a suspended license, and $125 fine and costs for reckless driving.

Julius Louis Novak, 59, of 1468 Spencer Road, Deford, was arrested Saturday on a district court warrant. He was charged with contempt of court when he failed to appear Feb. 28 for sentencing. He was convicted (by a jury) Feb. 2 of impaired driving. He was fined $50 for contempt of court and $100 plus $54 costs for the impaired driving charge.

George Kelly, 28, of Kilmanagh Road, Pigeon, and formerly of Cass City, was arrested Friday on a circuit court warrant in Cass City. He is being held in custody of the county jail.

Council approves new lights in special meet

The village council approved the change-over from incandescent to mercury vapor street lighting at a special meeting Tuesday morning at the New Gordon Hotel.

The action was taken so that the order for the new lights can be placed before March 15 when a $5 installation fee is added per light. Installation for the 143 new lights, which will take place in future months, will cost nothing for taxpayers and will provide about three times as much light as well as being longer wearing.

The council had been considering the change-over for about four months but had been waiting for the decision of the Public Service Commission regarding rate increases. That decision is still pending.

Village superintendent James Blades explained that the new lights will cost about $600 (4.6¢) more with the present rates on a yearly basis. The budgeted amount for street lighting is $13,000.

If the rate increase is approved by the commission, he explained, it would still cost more, but the incandescent lights would not give as much light for the money. The downtown area is already serviced by mercury vapor lights.

The council also approved the lease of $1 for the land near the tracks by Main Street, just north of the railroad, belonging to Wicke's Corporation. The lease will be for the length of time needed to prepare and hold the Arttrain, an art museum of the Michigan Council for the Arts, which will be coming to Cass City in July. The village is sponsoring the Arttrain. No tax-payers' money will be spent on the project.

The new secretary for the village office was also hired, Karen Gaffney was to start work Wednesday morning. She was chosen from 15 applicants for the position approved this year by the council. Her salary is $2 an hour, as provided in the budget.

The council also authorized the village engineers, Hubbell, Roth and Clark, to make the mandatory biennial street improvement program report which must be sent to the state, and to proceed with standards requirements for the construction of West Street and the paving of Garfield Avenue.

The State Highway Department recently notified villages that they would no longer certify improvement plans and that this must be done by an outside registered engineer in projects costing $5000 or more.

ONE FOR THE ROAD

Gone with the Wind an accident

By Dan Marlowe

GONE WITH THE WIND is making the rounds of small-town movie theaters again.

This may be the fifth or sixth time around in some cases for the most financially successful movie ever made.

The third generation of movie-goers is now enabled to see it since its first appearance in the '30's.

The book's publishing history is almost as unusual as its longevity upon movie screens. Its author, Margaret Mitchell, was a very unusual individual. GONE WITH THE WIND was her only published book. Before or after, she never published another one.

The fact that WIND itself was ever published was an accident. Margaret Mitchell was a genteel southern gentlewoman in a day when the phrase meant more than it does now. A compulsive writer, she wrote every day, but for her own amusement only. She never had any intention of publishing.

An editor's assistant who had an introduction into the Atlanta society circle in which Margaret Mitchell and her husband moved heard about Margaret's writing habit. She asked politely to see something, but Margaret refused. Some time later a friend secretly abstracted three chapters from a carbon copy of WIND and sent it to the editor's assistant, who at once became enthusiastic.

But Margaret Mitchell did not succumb easily to the publishing siren's song. It took another two years to convince her to release the manuscript. A perfectionist, she agonized over every sentence in every paragraph. But finally she agreed, and the rest was publishing history.

Years after the book became an all-time publishing blockbuster, the same editor's assistant was visiting in Atlanta again. Over tea in the Mitchell home one afternoon, Margaret Mitchell confided that she couldn't understand what all the furor was about. "I never thought WIND was all that good," she confided, "Nowhere near as good as the book I wrote before it."

The editor's assistant was aware that WIND was a first novel, and her ears shot straight up in the air. "Another book?" she cried. "Where is it? I must see it!"

"Oh, I destroyed it years ago," Margaret Mitchell said coolly. "It wasn't good enough."

GONE WITH THE WIND hasn't dealt too kindly with the principals connected with it. Margaret Mitchell stepped from a curb in Atlanta and was killed by a car. Of the six principals connected with the movie, four stars, the director, and the producer, only Olivia de Havilland is still with us today.

But in both the publishing world and the movie world, GONE WITH THE WIND was a success of a type which will keep its memory ever green.

AROUND THE FARM

Agricultural meetings

by William Bortel

Last week found myself involved with many educational meetings in Tuscola county. The meeting Monday was working with the Tuscola County Certified Seed Growers as they are working with better quality seed and a marketing program. Bob Aldrich is chairman of the marketing program and he is actively soliciting support in Tuscola county and the Thumb area.

The second meeting of the Hedging and Forward Contracting Workshop was held Tuesday. Many farmers are using these marketing tools in marketing their commodity. Wednesday the county-wide Tuscola Dairy Dinner was held as the county was recognizing the second major industry. Dairying in Tuscola county is important to 354 dairy families.

Thursday I was making preparations for the Tuscola county corn plots in the county. There will be three plots in 1972 along with a small additional plot which will be held in the southern part of Tuscola county. Additional features this year will include plant population rates, nitrogen rates and forms, a corn herbicide plot and use of zinc chelates. I also had the opportunity to work with a few dairymen throughout the day in balancing their dairy feeding program. We are finding several farms that are over-feeding their dairy cows in the later part of their lactation and under-feeding their cows in the early part of their lactation. We should be switching several pounds of the grain to the early stages of lactation.

Thursday also found us meeting with the Fair superintendents in preparation for the 1972 Fair. The dates this year will be July 31 through August 5. Judges are being secured and initial preparations are taking place through the Fair board and the 4-H Youth Program.

Health project is indoor picnic for 4th graders

COOK Lori Teichman helps the hot dogs along.

WHETHER IT'S BALANCED OR NOT, Doug McArthur, left, and Jim Wright don't care, just so it tastes good.

Learning to apply their health lessons was the object of a "Food Fair" held Friday, Mar. 10, by the fourth grade students of Miss Ruth Carlson. The 29 youngsters brought salads and desserts from home and determined how much money to spend on hot dogs and buns.

The hot dogs were cooked in the room. The boys and girls helped set up the tables, and greeted the guests.

Set all night slumber party at Deford gym

There will be an all-night party at Deford Elementary School gym Friday as a Campus Life group celebrates St. Patrick's Day with a slumber party. The board approved the request after it was disclosed that there will be 8 to 10 female chaperones, a male chaperone and a policeman on duty at all times during the time the girls are at the gym.

In addition, the Campus Life group has agreed to pay all of the standard charges for using the facility. Campus Life is the new name for the former Youth for Christ organization. Members come from all over the Thumb and authorities couldn't speculate as to the number that may attend from the local school district.

Michigan Mirror

$19.6 million in highway funds depends on billboard control

Action in the legislature to control billboards is not motivated solely by a desire to keep the roadsides of Michigan free from an unsightly clutter of outdoor advertisements.

Michigan is one of 12 states which were notified they don't have enough controls on billboards to meet federal guidelines. Without a toughening of those guidelines, Michigan stands to lose $19.6 million in federal highway money.

The 12 states together may lose a total of $138 million if they don't move to control billboards. That sum would be spread among the states which have adequate restrictions.

The federal action was taken by the Department of Transportation under powers given it in the Highway Beautification Act.

The act authorizes the department to establish guidelines for billboard control. The secretary of transportation may penalize states which fail to comply with the guidelines by withholding 10 percent of their federal highway allotments. The state which stands to lose the most money if it doesn't toughen its laws is Illinois, which has $32.4 million at stake. Second is Texas with $23.9 million, and Michigan is third.

RENTER PROTECTION

One of the unpleasant problems which can develop between a renter and the landlord involves the handling of the damage deposit.

The deposit is a sum of money, usually the equivalent of one month's rent but sometimes more, which the renter hands over to the landlord as security in case the property rented is damaged. If there is no damage, the renter is supposed to get the money back when he leaves.

Unfortunately, things don't work at times as they're supposed to. Some renters find landlords try to hold them responsible for damages existing when they moved in. Others believe landlords try to charge them for such normal wear as fading paint or the wearing down of a rug rather than for actual damages.

And some renters object to the idea of handing over a substantial amount of money to another person or company over a period of time with the company or person using the money interest free and perhaps investing it for themselves.

That situation may change. A bill has been introduced in the House by Rep. Earl Nelson, D-Lansing, to rectify some of the problems and set up some safeguards. It is the result of a year-long study of the situation conducted by a special committee appointed by Speaker William Ryan and headed by Nelson.

Among the things Nelson's bill would do are:

--limit deposits to no more than one month's rent.

--require the landlord to keep the deposit separate from his own money and pay interest on it to the tenant.

--return the full deposit to the tenant when the tenant moves out or initiate court action to keep part of the deposit if damage occurs. If the landlord does not do either within 30 days, the tenant is entitled to double the deposit back.

"As a result of the testimonies from the hearings I felt that we needed a set of logical rules to insure that the rights and responsibilities of both the tenant and the landlord were protected and enforced," Nelson says. "The provisions in this bill are a step in the right direction."

If the bill is adopted, it would seem that it would at least make it clearer where each side stands and reduce potential for much conflict.

SIGNS ADDED

Motorists familiar with the "gas, food, lodging" signs found on freeways to advise of the services at the next exit will soon be seeing two additions to some of those signs.

The additions will be the words -- when appropriate -- "hospital" and "camping."

The hospital sign will mean a state licensed hospital is located within five miles of the exit with a physician on duty 24 hours a day and continuous emergency service.

The camping sign will mean state licensed camping facilities with at least 50 campsites, electricity, showers, flush toilets and a public telephone are located within five miles of the exit.

Award trophies at dairy dinner

The Tuscola county dairymen held their annual Dairy Dinner Wednesday, Mar. 8, with over 150 people in attendance. The dairymen and guests present were recognizing the second major industry in Tuscola county - dairying. Dairying brings into Tuscola county over 8 million dollars of gross income. Dairying is important to 354 dairy families in the county and they produce the most wholesome food available - milk, states Bill Bortel, County Extension Director. The Dairy Social Hour and a presentation of ten trophies highlighted the activity.

Mrs. Betty Laurie of Cass City prepared a table and displays of many dairy products available to the housewife today. The dairymen and guests were able to sample the displays to see what the new products were.

The Dairy Dinner was under the chairmanship of Richard Leix of Fostoria. He introduced the speaker, Mr. Richard Arnold, Farm Editor of WKAR Radio Station in East Lansing. Mr. Arnold spoke to the group on "The Image of Agriculture." John Graham presented a short narration of dairying in British Honduras as a special feature of the program. The trophy winners were as follows:

(1) Top DHI Herd - Ronald Hampshire, with J. P. Burroughs of Gageton donating a trophy; (2) Top Owner-Sampler Herd - Emil Schiefer of Vassar, with Farm Services in Kingston donating a trophy; (3) Most Improved DHI Herd - Grover and Jack Laurie of Cass City, with Federal Land Bank sponsoring a trophy; (4) Most Improved Owner-Sampler Herd - Maynard Stine of Deford, with Moriarty Building, Inc. sponsoring the trophy; (5) Highest Lifetime Producing Cow - Ronald Hampshire of Deford, with Krown Building Company sponsoring the trophy; (6) High Cow for the year - Graham Brothers of Caro, with Tuscola County Production Credit Association sponsoring the trophy; (7) 15,000 Pound Club - DHI - (a) Ronald Hampshire - plaque sponsored by Caro Coop. Parked car stolen early Saturday

A stolen vehicle was reported to Cass City Police early Saturday morning by Michael Zawilinski of 4302 Ale St., Cass City.

He told police the car had been taken from behind Jack's Bar where it was parked. The keys were in the ignition and the doors unlocked. There are no suspects.

Arrest Kelly after wild police chase Friday

George Kelley, formerly of Cass City, is in the Tuscola County Jail awaiting trial on charges of reckless driving, eluding the police and driving while license suspended following a wild chase with police Friday.

The chase started as Kelley attempted to get away from Cass City Police Chief Gene Wilson who had a warrant for his arrest on a charge of non-payment of alimony.

Wilson spotted a truck owned by Kelley in back of a local bar and after walking through the bar spotted Kelley leaving the alley behind the bar and started to give chase with blinkers flashing.

Wilson followed Kelley through much of Cass City and while he was in pursuit, Kelley allegedly ran three stop signs at various intersections before heading out of town on North Cemetery Road.

With Wilson following, Kelley allegedly jammed on his brakes several times and one of the times Chief Wilson was unable to stop in time and rammed the rear of the truck.

The chase continued to Wilsie Road, two miles north of Cass City, and where the road ends Kelley rammed a log to total his vehicle.

When Kelley got out of the vehicle and Wilson was attempting to place handcuffs on him, he slipped and Kelley broke free.

At this time Wilson suffered lacerations of the face and was treated for the minor bruises at Hills and Dales General Hospital after the arrest.

Meanwhile, help from the Huron County and Tuscola County Police Departments had arrived and Kelley was apprehended running across a field. The arrest was made by Tuscola Deputy Ronald Fox.

William A. Rentschler, 19, of Munger and Virgil L. Smith, 27, of Bay City have been charged with grand larceny by Huron County Prosecutor Peter Burns Capling for stealing a tractor from Gettel Implement Company, Pigeon.

The two men may also face more serious charges stemming from an accident in which Mr. and Mrs. Reid A. Hedley, 80, of Unionville were killed.

The crash occurred when Rentschler and Smith were attempting to move the stolen tractor by truck to a pre-determined location.

The tractor proved to be too

George Seeley dies Tuesday

Born in Elmwood township May 22, 1890, he was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles Seeley. He married May Ewald in Cass City Feb. 20, 1914.

Surviving, besides his widow, are: one son, Clifford of Cass City, and step-grandchildren. A son, Raymond, died Feb. 29.

Services will be held at Little's Funeral Home at 2:00 o'clock Friday with the Rev. Allan Stebbins, pastor of the Wahjamega Country Church, officiating. Burial will be in Hillside cemetery in Elmwood township.

Rotary names officers

Officers were elected for the 1972-73 year for the Cass City Rotary Club Tuesday noon at the New Gordon Hotel.

President is Clint House, Rodney Krueger is vice-president, and secretary, Newell Harris. Bob Buttery is the treasurer. Members of the board of directors named were Roger Little, Dick Erla and Gary Christner.

The men will take office July 1.

The luncheon speaker was Emil Pfister from Mt. Pleasant, district governor-elect. He outlined the goals and satisfactions of Rotary Club service.

In the evening he met with officers of the Thumb area Rotary Clubs in the Cultural Center.

heavy for the trailer and the result was that Smith started to drive the tractor down the road and Rentschler went ahead in the truck.

However, the truck stalled on Sebewaing Road, about a mile west of Owendale.

Rentschler said that he tried to flag a passing motorist without success.

The truck was in the road and was without lights, according to witnesses, when a car driven by the son of the accident victims, Glen F. Hedley, 48, of Unionville crashed into the trailer.

While police were investigating the crash Smith drove the stolen tractor through the area.

Because of the unique features of the case, Prosecutor Capling said that he wanted to further study the case before deciding if other charges should be brought against Smith and Rentschler.

Several minor accidents were investigated by authorities in the area the past week.

Charles A. Grifka, 27, of 4186 Mushroom Road, Deford, escaped injury when the car he was driving struck a deer on Stevens Road in Wells township, four-tenths mile east of Froede Road. The deer ran out in front of his car about 7:15 p. m. Sunday, according to Tuscola county sheriff's reports.

In another accident, a car operated by Diana Lee Miller, 21, of 4321 Van Dyke Road, Deford, hit a vehicle driven by Keith Harvey Kinkman, 50, of Ritter Road, Cass City, when

New 4-H horse club forming

A newly forming 4-H Horse Club will hold an organizational meeting Monday, Mar. 20, at 7:30 p. m. at the home of Dave McNaughton, 5822 Cass City Road, Cass City.

Youngsters 8 to 19 years are welcome to join the club, an extension of the Cass City Livestock 4-H Club.

Leaders were chosen at a Mar. 7 meeting. They are David McNaughton, Chuck Peasley and Joann and Tom Ritter.

The next general meeting of the Livestock Club will be Mar. 23 at 7:30 p. m. at the Campbell Elementary School gymnasium.

4-H ACTIVITIES

Why not join 4-H?

By Bernard Jardo

Young people today are asking many of the following questions - who am I as a person, where do I fit in and how do I as an individual fit into this complex, changing and challenging world.

Through our affiliation with Michigan State University - the Extension 4-H Youth Program is using many new educational approaches to helping people know themselves through involvement in the many 4-H projects and activities that are available in the 4-H youth program.

As in the past learning experiences and leadership training continue to be an important part of every 4-H youth project. Extension youth programs are changing, to keep pace with the schools and other youth agencies in the involvement of more county young people.

The key to this program is the many volunteer adult and teen leaders who make this program possible. We need more interested parents and other adults to share their time with a 4-H club or group.

Your child will find 4-H one of the most meaningful experiences of his growing up years. If your child is between the ages of 8 and 18, is not now a 4-H member, why not contact the Extension 4-H office, Civil Defense Center, Caro.

Shower of ideas at Mini College

By Sherry Lowell

Bring your umbrella! Be prepared to catch the "Showers of Ideas" at your fifth Annual Mini College Day Saturday, Apr. 8. Cass City High School is where it's at for five stimulating classes offered both in the morning and afternoon. Also you will not want to miss the luncheon speaker, Mrs. Audra Francis, Chairman of Saginaw County's Board of Commissioners.

Take your pick of two classes from the list below. Learn about "Wills and Distribution of Property" from Anne Field, Extension Specialist, Home Management, Michigan State University. Or "Increase Your Happiness Moments" using a method taught by Dr. Eugene Peisner, MSU Extension Specialist, known for his work in human development and family relationships.

"Learn to Use Conflict" through class participation with Dr. Maxine Ferris, Communication Consultant for New Horizons Program. Involve your whole "Family in Fun and Music." Make music part of your leisure time using ideas from Dr. Ed Meadows, Extension Specialist in Music, MSU. Finally, take "A Live Look at Trees and Shrubs" with Doug Chapman, Genesee County Extension Horticultural Agent.

Contact one of your "Thumb" Cooperative Extension Service offices in Sandusky, Caro or Bad Axe before Mar. 27 for information on Mini College Day pre-registration for classes and lunch. The registration fee of 50 cents will cover the expense of materials for the event. Luncheon will be available at a nominal cost by pre-registration only.

AGENT'S CORNER

Proper food storage saves money

Sherry Lowell, Area Extension Home Economist

Family food shoppers save cents by planning to arrive home soon after grocery shopping trips. As shoppers, you are responsible for the safety and palatability of perishable foods after you buy them.

As soon as you arrive home, immediately refrigerate or freeze all necessary foods. Milk products quickly lose quality at room temperature. Also, thawed ice cream becomes hard and crystal-like when it is re-frozen.

You may need to refrigerate meats or other foods until a short time later when you can properly prepare, cut-up, and wrap them for freezing. Food frozen at the peak of quality makes good eating later.

Frozen foods lose quality and flavor when they become partially thawed. Try grouping frozen foods together for the trip home. For your own safety, avoid packages with heavy ice layers and paper soaked with juice of the product. Frozen protein foods, such as fish, pizzas, meats and poultry may be unsafe to eat when thawed then refrozen in the store or at home.

Glass or metal food containers properly sealed and free of bulges, also need a little extra care before storage on home shelves. Wash metal can tops and bottoms with a cloth dipped in hot soapy water, then dry. Completely immerse unopened baby food jars in hot soapy water and quickly wash glass sides and metal top. Rinse and dry. These measures will not only keep storage shelves cleaner, but will remove dust, food spilled from broken containers at the store, and possibly fly eggs and other contamination which could get into food when you open the can. Keeping your food safe to eat is important in the grocery store, as well as at home. Heed safety precautions to get more flavor and enjoyment out of the food you buy.

40 attend

OES meeting

Forty attended the monthly meeting of Echo chapter OES March 8 in the Masonic temple. Guests were present from Vassar and Elkton, including Mrs. Mae Young, worthy matron of Elkton, and Mr. and Mrs. Leon Dykhouse, worthy matron and patron of Vassar.

A full corps of officers answered roll call with Mrs. Donna Holm, worthy matron, presiding.

During the business meeting, members voted to add $50 to the scholarship fund, making a $100 scholarship available to some local senior. A committee will distribute gifts at Easter time to patients in the medical care facility at Caro. Mrs. Margaret Neitzel, Mrs. Betty Greenleaf and Mrs. Alexia Cook compose the committee in charge of new by-laws books to be printed.

A committee of men served refreshments at the close of the meeting.

BETTER HEALTH

New way to find breast cancer

BY DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

A fine report in Time magazine recently showed three excellent pictures of various methods of studying women's breasts for possible cancer. One shows the conventional X-ray film of a normal looking breast, in which no details of the inner breast tissue can be seen. The second picture is called a xeroradiograph of the same breast, showing much of the internal structure of the breast; and the third is a xeroradiograph of the breast clearly showing a tumor. This xeroradiograph method was used in a series of 1,535 such examinations during the past year, and 54 cancers were discovered (13 of which were unsuspected), before metastasis (scattering of the cancer cells to other parts of the body) had taken place.

A prototype of the present xeroradiograph instrument was first constructed in 1946. The incomplete, clumsy model was later acquired by Dr. John Wolfe, of Hutzler Hospital in Detroit. He has been a pioneer in the field of xeroradiography. His work then caught the attention of Dr. John Martin, a radiologist at St. Joseph Hospital in Houston. Dr. Martin and several colleagues convinced the Xerox Corporation and the American Cancer Society that the device could be very helpful for cancer detection, and last year the Xerox people delivered the first model of the new machine to Dr. Martin. The work to develop the machine cost $5 million.

The machine uses conventional X-ray equipment to photograph the breast. The difference is that in the developing, instead of X-ray film, the xeroradiograph uses a selenium plate that has been specially treated to make it sensitive to X-rays. Once exposed, the plate is inserted into a processor similar to an office copier, where it is "developed" electronically, and the result is an exceptionally accurate "picture" of the tissues of the breast.

I am glad to see that the machine is now going into hospitals in Houston, Chicago, Los Angeles, and Detroit. This new method may lower the rate of death from cancer of the breast as the wonder "pap" test has done with cancer of the womb.

ILL EFFECTS FROM SMOKING MARIJUANA

Recently, I have read dozens of articles on marijuana, some writers saying it rarely injures the smoker physically, and others saying that it certainly can do a lot of physical, mental, social, and economical injury. Recently, Dr. H. Kolansky and William T. Moore, of Philadelphia, carefully studied twenty men and eighteen women, aged from 13 to 24 years, who were smoking "pot" about three times a week.

Psychoses developed in eight; and four of these eight eventually attempted suicide. Thirteen unmarried and formerly virginal girls became sexually promiscuous. Seven of them became pregnant, and four picked up a venereal disease. All of the thirty-eight showed some adverse psychological effects, sometimes complicated by some "neurological impairment", meaning damage to the nervous system.

The researchers noted the important fact that none of these patients was predisposed to psychiatric problems -- as by a bad nervous inheritance, or previous neurotic behavior -- before he or she started smoking marijuana. As the authors concluded, moderate to heavy use of marijuana would seem to lead to serious trouble.

The main characteristics that a person displays when he does get into trouble with the use of marijuana are a consistent display of poor social judgment, a poor attention span and concentration, depression, anxiety, and passivity. Many stop bathing and dressing neatly, and some neglect their studies and their work. A few become hyperactive, aggressive and agitated. Some become suspicious of other people, and some become somewhat childish.

A heavy use of marijuana can bring such symptoms as slurred speech, a staggering gait, hand tremors, and disordered thinking. All of this suggests strongly that the smoker of marijuana may need medical help and rehabilitation, but he certainly does not need a jail sentence. Spending time in jail does not help or reform anyone. Experts can see some sense in punishing a person who is selling marijuana to school youngsters, but they cannot see any sense in jailing a youngster caught possessing or smoking a "reefer".
