

FROM THE
Editor's Corner

I can understand the guy that is motivated by raw power. I can understand the guy that will move mountains for nothing more than fleeting fame. I can understand the guy that is willing to work, work, work just to pile up a few extra dollars.

The club presidents, the business tycoons, the public officials. . . it's not hard to know why they do the way they do. It's not my cup of tea. . . but let's all be thankful that these guys are in there doing their thing for all of us.

When you get down to the gritty-gritty they really aren't doing it for us. . . they are doing it for themselves and we are just incidental beneficiaries. Like the flowers benefit when the bee finds the nectar.

The self-esteem, the personal satisfaction, the inner well being is the nectar that turns these guys on everytime.

Like I said, I can see where these guys might be getting their kicks. But there is another breed that operates in the public interest that is a little harder to understand.

Like Art Atwell, who was treasurer of the Cass City Rotary for I don't know how many years. Or, better yet, Willis Campbell, who was campaign chairman (not president) of the Community Chest for nearly two decades.

The job where the public thanks is miniscule if it comes at all and the work goes on and on and on.

Club presidents do as much or little as they care to. But club treasurers? No way will they let you slip by without an accounting.

The vast majority of most organizations are composed of members who will take these jobs only if there is absolutely no way to avoid it and then only for the briefest possible term allowed.

All backsliders really appreciate guys like Campbell and Atwell. I know.

They are the glue that holds organizations together. . . the more you have the better it is. But even more important they are the guys that make it possible for everyone else to get by simply attending the meetings and buying a periodic ticket or so.

I can't understand why they keep on doing it and I'm not about to ask.

They might just quit and where would that leave the rest of us?

TRYING OUT THE communication system that directly connects patients with the nurses station in the new wing at Hills and Dales General Hospital is Mrs. Janet Sticken, assistant director of nurses and in-service director. The new wing has 26 beds and will provide 10 more beds than are now available when construction is completed.

Staff poised to enter
new hospital wing

Administrator Byron Landholt announced this week that operation shift is expected to be started any day now as the brand new wing to Hills and Dales General Hospital is activated.

Work on the new surgical patient unit is nearly complete and only a small piece of equipment is needed to give the green light to the waiting hospital staff.

The equipment is in transit and if all goes well the wing will be in operation this week end.

When it is operating the improvement will likely be more apparent to the staff than the patient.

Certainly, patients will like the new electric operated beds. . . no need to call a nurse to raise or lower them. Certainly the patients will enjoy ringing the nurse and talking to her through the new communication system rather than wait until she can walk to the room.

And these conveniences will naturally reduce the work load for the nurses and nurses aides.

But equally important are additions like the new enlarged physical therapy room and the new drug store which Landholt describes as "as good or better than any in Michigan."

Each room has special medical equipment built-in for operating convenience. Equipment like blood pressure testing machines and oxygen.

New X-ray equipment is also included in the modernization plan.

Already functional is an enlarged supply room with a new shipping and receiving entrance.

While the new wing is about finished, work on the modernization will continue. As soon as the patients in the present surgical ward are moved the

Petitions due for 2 school board posts

The terms of two trustees on the Cass City School Board expire this summer and must be filled at the regular school election.

Deadline for filing petitions for these posts is Monday, May 15. Petitions are available at the superintendent's office.

It is relatively simple to file for office. Only 20 names are needed to become a candidate on the ballot. However, school authorities suggest a minimum of 25 be secured to allow for invalid signatures.

Presently the school posts are filled by Gerald Hicks and Arthur Severance. Both have completed one term on the board and both have announced that they will seek re-election. Hicks lives in the Deford area and Severance in the Evergreen area.

contractors will start tearing down walls to convert it for business office and medical records use. It will be two months or more before this phase of the work is completed.

When it's all over the hospital will net about 10 additional beds and the new wing is constructed so that a second floor can be added over it.

Total cost for construction and equipment is expected to reach $569,000, Landholt said, and will be paid from hospital revenues.

Mrs. Shaw retires from teaching career

By Kit McMillion

Watching more children than she can ever begin to count grow and develop and working with them has been the reward of a 33-year teaching career for Mrs. Leone Shaw, who will retire this year from the staff of the Cass City High School.

"When you see a youngster suddenly grasps something, when you see a youngster succeed more than he's used to, it's like a burst of sunshine," the teacher of languages said happily.

"I don't think there's anything more rewarding than seeing children develop and mature."

On May 18 the sole retiring teacher from the Cass City school system this year will be honored for her work and dedication at a dinner in Frankenthum sponsored by the Cass City Educational Association.

She came back to the town she was born in to teach in Cass City after a 10-year retirement to raise her four children.

Her husband, Brewster Shaw, and she moved to a farm on Pringle Road in 1945. She began teaching again in 1949 as a substitute elementary and high school vocal music teacher. The next year she took over the sixth grade.

While she was teaching that grade, the high school needed a Spanish teacher, so she took off one hour a day to go to the high school. A short while later, the high school lost the Latin teacher, so Mrs. Shaw took over and started teaching French.

"One of the years I enjoyed most was a year later," she said musingly. "Mr. Willis Campbell allowed me to teach French conversation to the third graders." She taught three classes 15 minutes a day.

School board still struggles with school bids problem

For two hours Monday night the conversation at the regular session of the Cass City School Board had a familiar ring as trustees debated a bid award and the rights of local businesses in competition for school business.

The session was sparked by bids for a tractor-mower for the school and Keith McConkey, of McConkey Jewelry, who asked the school to "get out of the class ring business". McConkey said that he had serviced rings as an agent for a big company for 30 years and now was in a position to handle them himself.

Principal Russell Richards explained to the board that he had invited five major ring companies to make presentations to a student ring election committee late this month for next year's business.

McConkey Jewelry was invited to make a presentation. However, McConkey said that he wanted the students to come to his store where he has a business and for which he pays taxes.

He feels that the school should not be used for displaying jewelry. "If the school is to sell rings," he said, "why doesn't it sell hosiery?"

For 30 years, McConkey said he has fitted students and collected ring money for a large ring manufacturer. We were legally tied and couldn't compete, he claims. But several years ago this changed and he says he now can compete. . . but he wants to compete without the school entering in as an agent.

The time of our administrators should be used for education, he said, not selling rings.

The board listened to the presentation but it failed to sway members who decided after McConkey left to invite him again to compete at the school and stuck to the original plan devised by Richards.

The board then turned its attention to tractor and mower for the school and was again faced with a decision: whether to take a low bid from an outside vendor or a higher bid from a local, tax-paying concern.

Monday the decision, by a 5-1 vote, was for the low bid. The tractor and mower will be purchased from American Industrial Sales, with a service outlet in Bridgeport, for $3,615.87. There were five bids received.

Voting against accepting the offer because of service problems was Arthur Severance. An expenditure that caused no stir and was quickly okayed for an estimated $2,000 was for new science texts and related science kits for grades 1-6.

Also quickly given the green light was a donation of $100 to Artrain. The board felt that it was worth the money for the educational value of the art exhibits and because students will have the opportunity to learn from the professional artists that accompany the exhibit.

NEW COURSE

Next year the students at Willis Campbell Elementary and Deford schools will participate in a new course.

It will be a practical arts program that Deford Principal Gary Kelley said has proved successful in other systems.

Courses like wood shop, ceramics, flower arranging and baking would be offered for a five-week period. Teaching would be residents of the community who are experts in the particular fields.

An open house would be held at the end of each five-week

2.5-mill tax renewal before
voters Monday

Voters in the Cass City School District will be asked to approve a renewal of a 2.5-mill special operating tax Monday, April 17, in a special election at Cass City High School.

The levy will be for one year as the school board continues to operate a year at a time because of the changing picture for school financing on the State level.

We know that we will need the money to operate next year, members of the board said, and we are asking the taxpayers for the levy on this basis.

President Arthur Severance stressed that the vote for 2.5 mills Monday is a renewal and that no extra tax funds are being requested.

Total tax for operating expenses at the school is 10.5 mills, well below the average for the State.

session. Evergreen school has not yet joined the program because teachers there felt that a strong 4-H program filled this need.

OTHER BUSINESS

In other business, the board approved extended vacations for secretaries with over 10 years' service. A day a year will be added for each year of service over 10 years up to a maximum of five additional days. The vacation time for secretaries is the same now as given the operating engineers.

Election inspectors for the May 8 election were named.

County assessment
up $15,805,888

The Tuscola County Board of Commissioners were to meet Wednesday with township supervisors and approve the new equalized valuations for the county.

At their regular meeting Tuesday at the county court house, they were presented with a total new equalized valuation for 1972 of $208,043,161, by equalization director Mac O'Dell.

This is an increase of $15,805,888 or 8.2% over the 1971 valuation of $192,237,273. The largest part of the increase was due to a study made by the state on residential property which showed the whole county to be low on assessments and on new construction. Law requires the equalized assessment to be 50% of the true cash value of the property. Commissioner Ed Golding said he does not expect a decrease in the 4.2 mills now collected by the county although the added valuation will bring in $66,384.73.

He explained that the county has been operating on the increase in valuation over the last few years to meet the rising costs.

"This is all that's keeping us going," he stated.

He added that Tuscola had the lowest millage rate of any county in the state. "This has made it awful hard for us to do all the things we should have done," he said.

The 1972 valuation for Elkland township is $14,071,600, up 11 per cent over the 1971 figure of $12,672,000. Other valuations in the area are Elmwood, $7,875,200, an increase of 4.3%; Ellington, $2,885,300, an increase of 5.2%; and Novesta, $3,207,800, an increase of 6%.

The morning session of the commissioners was devoted to hearing Lee Wallace of the Eastern Michigan Economic Development Corp. explain how the Act 54 Mental Health Clinic will operate. The board passed a resolution several weeks ago and has applied for federal funds to operate the facility.

He told the board that while the commissioners initiate the program, a citizens committee of 12 interested persons administers it. Golding said they've begun discussing who might make up the committee.

The cost for the clinic is estimated to be $80,000, $20,000 of which must come from the county. Currently, the county is spending about $5000 a year on the child and adult guidance centers in Saginaw and Bay City and are budgeting another $50,000 to pay for the first year of institutional treatment for persons committed from the county.

"With this increase in the valuation, if we keep the 4.2 (mills), we should have some money for that. But we may not get started until Jan. 1, 1973, on account of the lack of funds," Golding stated.

He added that with the clinic the county will be able to treat many of the persons who are now sent out of county here.

In other business, Robert Wellington of the Road Commission presented the annual report to the board. He told the board, Golding related, that a total of $1,800,000 was spent by the road commission in 1971. Of that, $31,196 was spent in Elkland township for new road and culverts, and $17,042 was spent on two new bridges.

Ubly man killed
in one-car crash

A one-car accident Saturday claimed the life of a 23-year-old Ubly man and injured his 19-year-old fiancée when their car rolled 1 1/2 times on Pringle Road near Arnold Road, northwest of Argyle, at 7:05 p. m. Saturday.

Dead on arrival at Hills and Dales Hospital, Cass City, was Gerald Thomas Wroubel, 5025 Ubly Road, driver of the vehicle. Miss JoAnn Peters, 19, of 5433 Pringle Road, Decker, was treated for minor injuries and released from Hills and Dales.

Sandusky State Police said Wroubel was headed west on Pringle when he apparently lost control of the car on loose gravel. It rolled over and landed in a ditch after Wroubel was thrown from the wreckage. He is Sanilac county's fourth traffic fatality of the year.

He and Miss Peters were to be married in May.

The trooper investigating the accident investigated another one-car crash Sept. 17 last year which claimed the life of Wroubel's father, Floyd, 55. The accidents occurred about six miles apart.

Services for Wroubel were to be held Wednesday with the Rev. Gerald Gumbelton, pastor of St. Ignatius Catholic Church, Freilburg, officiating.

In another fatal traffic accident, Joseph F. Irving, 23, of Bay City, was killed Sunday at 8:30 p. m. when attempting to go around a curve on M-25 Bay City-Forestville Road, at Bay Park Road on a motorcycle, hit a guard rail, and landed in a ditch, Tuscola county sheriff reports stated.

His death brings to 5 the number of persons killed on county roads this year.

Numerous other minor accidents involving area residents were also investigated by police authorities.

Minor damage was done to a car driven by Leroy Arthur Gnagay, 44, 9745 Weale Road, Bay City, when Mary Evelyn Smithers, 29, 4326 Woodland St., Cass City, backed into his car, which was stopped on Maple Street for a corner at Main. The mishap occurred about 3:45 p. m.

Bruce Louis LeValley, 20, 4454 Woodland St., Cass City, escaped injury when the car he was driving hit a tree on Huron Street, 40 feet west of West Street, at 3:15 a. m. Sunday. LeValley was headed south when he fell asleep, he told Cass City police.

Douglas Edwin Link, 18, Hoppe Road, Unionville, was ticketed Sunday by Cass City police for failing to stop in assured clear distance when he hit the rear end of a car driven by Charlotte Christine Muether, 19, of Owendale. The Muether vehicle was stopped at the light on Main Street when it was struck by the other car at 5:45 p. m.

Deann Blank, 24, 1444 Main St., Snover, was ticketed Saturday by Tuscola county sheriff's deputies for running a stop sign after she failed to stop on Stevens Road at Kingston Road and struck a trailer being hauled by Ralph Perry Kinney, 20, 6401 Main St., Cass City. The accident occurred at 9:45 a. m.

A car operated by Rosemary Jane Galloway, 43, 4198 Sherman St., Cass City, was struck in the rear by a vehicle driven by Donald Dean Brinkman, 48, 4281 E. Cass City Road, Cass City, when she was stopped on Main Street and going to make a left turn onto Leach Street. The accident happened Friday at 10:30 a. m.

SOON TO RETIRE after 33 years of teaching, Mrs. Leone Shaw, instructor of languages at the Cass City High School, says watching children grow and develop is the best reward of her career.

instructor until she began watching her own children grow.

In her many years of teaching Mrs. Shaw has had the opportunity to see theories of education change.

"I have seen educational fads come and go," she stated, "I don't think there's anything as successful as good hard work."

She went on to say, "I think many educational theories are the brain children of professionals who have never taught in high school or elementary school."

Sight reading was one example she chose to illustrate her point. Fifteen years ago, she said, children were taught to read by recognizing the word instead of breaking it down phonetically, and thus were unable to approach a new word.

Another example in the field of languages is the language lab and its use in teaching foreign languages.

"It definitely has the advantage of giving the students the opportunity to hear other voices than their teachers. But you just can't teach the oral approach at the high school level," she emphatically said.

"Today they are not stressing the use of the language lab as much as they did," she added, explaining that some colleges are not accepting purely

"If It Fitz . . ."

Please look twice

BY JIM FITZGERALD

When actor Burt Reynolds appeared nude, a hairy rose pressed between the pages of Cosmopolitan, he turned on Detroit Free Press fashion writer Marjorie Kunz to such a glow that she attacked all us other men who keep our pants on. Detroit area women clamored to buy Burt in the buff because they never get to see sexy men around home. That's what Marjorie said.

She complained "it is nearly impossible to see a man with any real glamor. . . rugged fellows who have that mysterious quality or dash which would make a woman take a second look."

I was interested in Marjorie's comments because I have always yearned to be a man who attracted second looks from someone except cab drivers trying to decide whether they should risk picking me up.

When it comes to women, frankly, I am still working on the first look. I've tried eye patches, canes, and limps ("Just a souvenir from the Battle of the Bulge, my dear"). Once, for a whole week, I even walked backward. The nearest I came to making out was an old lady who asked me where I bought the topcoat that buttoned up the back.

Ann Landers advised me to run around with ugly, sloppy men, thus making myself look good by comparison. So I started frequenting the singles bars with Joe, a real slob. He was 40 pounds overweight, had a terrible skin problem, and wore bib overalls to weddings. Still I never scored. I finally gave up for good when Joe confided that he'd also consulted Ann Landers and he was using me for the same reason I was using him.

But Marjorie Kunz gave me renewed hope when she wrote:

"No man is going to look like the irresistible European every single woman hopes to meet on her summer vacation as long as he's wearing his high-necked undershirt. Those European males—and men in international society—have learned the trick of going undershirtless and leaving their shirts unbuttoned in a deep V plunge."

By gosh, the last undershirt I wore was olive drab, World War II issue. I was still wearing it in 1955, 10 years after the war, but then I got married and my wife made me take it off. She was worried I'd be in a traffic accident in Canada and people would see my underwear and think I was a spy.

So, for 17 years I've been undershirtless, in style with international society. And Marjorie would surely be intrigued by my deep V plunge which is really more of a middle O. I keep the top 3 buttons modestly buttoned, but the next three are prone to pop open at any time. This surely adds a romantic air of mystery. A woman could never be sure when she might catch a glimpse of my navel. She would just have to keep watching, breathlessly.

Except I have always gone operating with my coat on. That was my mistake. What's the sense of wearing no undershirt if no one knows it?

Thanks, Marjorie. Off comes the coat. I'll phone Joe now, and invite him to accompany me downtown in search of second glances. I'll bet he wears long-johns.

Onward and Upward.

Saturday rites for O. Furness

Final rites were held Saturday for Mrs. Olive Furness, 87, who died April 5 at Hills and Dales General Hospital.

Mrs. Furness was born Oct. 28, 1884, in Mead township, Huron county, the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Julius and Margaret Grandville-Souva.

She married Thomas Furness Jan. 29, 1908, in Platteville. She made her home in this community the past 30 years. Furness died Dec. 27, 1969.

Surviving are three daughters: Mrs. Wilford (Margaret) Thane of Deford; Mrs. Harry (Elizabeth) Pierce of Owendale and Mrs. Stanley (Luella) Pierce of Muskegon; six sons: Bernard and Alfred of Deford, Edwin of Gagetown, Willard of Ferndale, Cecil of Big Rapids and Thomas Jr. of Orchard Lake; 52 grandchildren and 89 great-grandchildren.

One son, Julius, preceded her in death.

Innocent plea entered to conspiracy charge

Mike O'Connor, 17, of E. Elmwood Road, Caro, stood mute and a plea of innocent was entered for him Monday in Tuscola County Circuit Court when he stood for arraignment before Judge Norman Baguley.

He is charged with conspiracy to break and enter in connection with the March 3 theft of gloves, candy and some change from a service station owned by Cleo Spaulding on M-81 at Elmwood Road.

Bond was continued in the amount of $250.

Gary Samuel O'Connor, 29, Shabbona Road, Cass City, was sentenced to 30 days in the county jail and one year probation Monday by District Court Judge Richard Kern on charges of simple larceny in the same incident. He pleaded guilty to the reduced charge March 31. He was originally charged with breaking and entering.

Dan Anger, 28, of Caro was bound over to circuit court and ordered to appear for arraignment April 24 on charges of three counts of conspiracy stemming from the March 11 theft of a $15,000 farm tractor from Gattel Implement Co. in Pigeon.

Anger's bond was increased from $750 to $2500 by Judge Kern following a preliminary exam Friday. He is charged with furnishing a truck and trailer to be used in transporting the tractor.

Conrad A. Mosack, 33, of Gagetown, is also wanted for conspiracy in the theft, but is still at large.

Pleas of guilty to the actual theft of the tractor were entered April 3 before Huron Circuit Court Judge Arthur M. Bach by Virgil L. Smith, 27, of Bay City and William A. Rentschler Jr., 19, of Munger.

Rabbit tracks

By John Haire

(And anyone else he can get to help)

There is nothing inflexible about the school year except that 180 attendance days are required to qualify for State Aid. It's getting near that time when the administration and the MEA sits down to the bargaining table and one of the items to be negotiated is the school calendar.

Supt. Don Crouse would like to know what the parents want in relation to vacation and school opening and closing dates. This year students took about a week at Christmas and another week at Easter. They could have had, for instance, another week at Christmas and nothing at Easter . . . or Easter vacation, the same Christmas vacation and then be out for the summer a week earlier.

I pass this along with little hope for any clear-cut answers. It's virtually certain that what suits one family will not be what his neighbor wants at all.

Still, if you have definite preference call the superintendent about it. He'll want to know.

For years I struggled with Evergreen township and Greenleaf township, the two Sanilac townships that are side by side east of Cass City.

After 20 years I finally straightened this out only to come up with another.

Hoadley and Hadley Roads. The map shows it to be Hoadley Road until it reaches Cass City Road and then Hadley Road from there north.

I've solved this one. Old-timer Emerson Hill was in the office when we went round and round about it and he says it has always been Hadley Road, not Hoadley, for the entire distance. That's good enough for me.

I don't know how the Robert Hoadleys feel about it. They live on Hadley Road and, as far as the Chronicle's concerned, no longer have a road named after them.

I know it has to be spring even though you'd never know it by the lousy weather that's come our way all during March and April.

The reason I know it is that Jim Hyde has been trying to con me into a bet on golf again.

He keeps telling me that he's a grandfather. That he's scarcely able to hobble around any more, that he lost his putter. . . he goes on and on, but I've said enough so you get the general idea.

I almost (almost, I said) played him last spring but before he could get to me he skinned his boss, Buck Rabideau, while vacationing in Indiana and I escaped.

Now, I wouldn't play him even up if he were a great-grandfather.

Uncle Tim From Tyre Says:

Dear Mister Editor:

They ain't much chance of gitting a vote on it in Congress, but the fellers at the country store has adopted, endorsed and passed along to Washington the Doolittle Deport and Culture Exchange Plan. A discussion of Ed's idea took up most of the session Saturday night.

Ed had took note where the Chinese invited a few members of Congress to come over for a visit, and where everybody else was made cause they won't git to go. Ed's plan calls for shipping the hole Congress to China for a month in exchange for the same number of Chinamen. The idea is fer em to walk in one another's shoes. They would trade jobs and wages. The Congressmen would spend the time working in the rice mudholes or sweeping snow off the streets, and visitors here could run all over the country and make speeches about what ought to be done in Congress.

Ed told the fellers his plan is the closest we'll git to a law that makes Congressmen tend to their job in Congress. He had took note of a bill to cut down on absents in Congress, and of how quick it was buried somewhere. That bill has as much chance as the Justice Department does of investigating that ITT deal, was Ed's word.

Actual, Ed went on, absents fer law makers is a national ailment. He reported where he saw South Carolina had to send out police to arrest legislators and bring em in so they could git enuff together fer a vote. The way it is, allowed Ed, is that all these folks work harder to stay elected than they do to git elected, which don't leave no time fer the job.

If the Doolittle plan was give a try, declared Ed, Congressmen would come home happy to do their jobs and take their chances at the polls. And maybe they could git down to business and take a hard look at the problems in this country, instead of just promising more of our money as a cure for everybody, Ed said.

Clem Webster allowed he was surprised to hear Ed push his plan, since Ed allus like to say gitting more Republicans in Congress was the only hope fer the country.

Democrat Clem said he figured what Ed had in mind was sending a boatload of Democrats to China in exchange for folks that would support the Administration's plan to ease old Chang Ky Chek out of the picture.

It were Zeke Grubb that backed Ed's plan strong, but he went on to say that he wanted a amendment setting the exchange fer full two year, and fer farmers to set in Congress while the Congressman was gone. Zeke said farmers has got to the place they think no laws is good laws. Zeke said that plan to fix the egg surplus by killing 10 million of the country's 320 million laying hens was a example of gitting more Government help than we can stand these days.

The only thing that would settle, said Zeke, is which goes first, the chicken or the egg.

Yours truly,

Uncle Tim

AGENT'S CORNER

Keep spring mud outside

Sherry Lowell, Area Extension Home Economist

Springtime and the best of back entries take on the look of a disaster area. As April showers awaken flowers, the family is busy cleaning up the yard and preparing planting areas. Children take to outdoor play again. To the homemaker it is "tracked-in mud month". And something has to be done about it!

The first step to limiting the amount of outdoor debris brought indoors is to make sure everyone uses the same entry after "dirty" work or play. To keep mud and grit from being tracked through the house, resign yourself to the fact that this area will have to be cleaned at least once a day -- maybe more on busy week ends when children are home from school.

Next figure out the best ways to keep the clutter confined to that one part of the house. It is ideal if a half-bath is located near the entry. However, if this isn't possible, have them take off their shoes or boots before walking through the house. They may groan, but it takes longer to erase the trail of tracks than for them to get out of and into shoes.

Another saver is to locate all the things children are likely to come in for near the "mud-way". If possible, arrange a series of hooks and holders on a wall. Or try a narrow free-standing bathroom towel rack. A suitably-sized carton will hold bats, balls, mitts and what-have-you. A rimmed cookie tray is a handy temporary home for muddy boots and wet sneakers and can be carried with contents to the sink for suds sponging. Machine washable scatter rugs soak up a lot of foreign material. Have at least two on hand, one in use and one in the wash. Shake rugs out as often as necessary and launder frequently.

Finally, organize your clean-up equipment. Keep a small caddy or box of cleaning supplies nearby to deal with fingerprints and dirt on and around the doorknob and adjacent walls. A quick back and forth with a sponge mop keeps most flooring tolerable, with a more thorough scrubbing of the small areas two or three times a week, depending on the ratio of people, activities and outdoor conditions. A lightweight vacuum is helpful to pick up loose dirt from floors and especially carpeted

FROM THE LITTER BOX

Al, it's alive

By Kit McMillion

Did you ever think that the black (or maybe yours is poodle pink or avocado green) phone sitting on the desk (bedstand, hanging on the wall) is alive?

I am convinced that mine is. The one I have at home is a cute little devil, but the one at the office is a regular ogre.

Like a child it screams "Mommy, Mommy." I have something to tell you, but when I answer it, hoping this is t-h-e big news tip, it's just another routine call, interrupting my thought pattern.

It even looks alive. The body is as shapeless as most, and it has a long arm, mouth and ear. It even has an arteriole system. If it gets cut, like a long distance cable recently did, it dies and just gives a mournful wall.

And like a living beast, it has numerous means of communication. It screams, but it also hums, buzzes and whirps, depending on what mood it's in.

And like something alive, it demands attention and won't be still until it gets it.

Besides being a nuisance, it's a bad influence. It shows off its users' bad manners. Although it has other human traits, a telephone doesn't have eyes. But some persons think it does, apparently, because they don't say who they are.

And a telephone isn't a butler. It can't show a person out and give a graceful finish to a conversation. But some people seem to think it's that, too, because they just hang up without terminating the union. I wonder if they do that to guests at their home.

Personally, I envy the people who don't have a phone. They know the bliss of uninterrupted sleep, baths and meals.

But me? I'm not that smart. My phone seldom rings, so I always answer it. I keep telling myself it might be very important. So I jump out of bed early on Saturdays for wrong numbers, and slide out of nice hot baths, drip water and try hard not to break a leg to get to the phone just as the caller gives up and I hear that definitive click.

I tell myself if it was important, they'll call back. But

An adding machine performs accurately for anyone who uses it correctly. Each person may record a different column of figures. Answers will vary accordingly but each will be correct.

Life also registers what we give it . . . produces results correspondingly. Sometimes we are so hurried and hurried with whirling activities we forget to include worship.

When we do clear our minds for understanding and prayer with God, good results follow.

The Church has accurate answers for modern problems. Let it help you find correct solutions.

JUST A START

It begins to appear now that the price-wage freeze is no more than a slight cooling breeze.

AROUND THE FARM Growing corn has changed

by William Bortel

In taking a close look at many of the top corn producers, we find several changes in the cultural growing practices of corn. Growers are challenging corn production and are only satisfied with top yields.

Growers are planting their corn thicker with higher plant populations. Growers find that 26,000 to 27,000 kernels should be planted if we plant corn in mid-April on high producing corn land. Corn producers planting the last of April may reduce their planting population to 25,000 to 26,000 kernels and May plantings will yield best with 24,000 to 25,000 kernels. Growers striving for top corn yields wish to have a final harvest stand of at least 22,000 to 23,000 stalks per acre.

Nitrogen application has increased 95% during the last nine years on growing corn. Potash increased by 40% and phosphorus by 5%. Exceptional increase in nitrogen has accounted for high yields. Growers are finding it economical to apply 150 to 200 pounds of nitrogen for high yielding corn. It takes over 1 pound of nitrogen for a bushel of corn so if a grower is striving for 125 to 150 bushels of corn, he will have to apply a minimum of 175 pounds of nitrogen.

Earlier planting has also contributed to higher yields. Corn producers find they must plant corn in Tuscola by May 5 to compete with corn production in the corn belt. If a grower has much corn to plant, it is better to plant corn on the 20th of April rather than the 20th of May for the best yields. Growers find they must plant a modern day corn hybrid for top yields. The single, three-way and special crosses are usually superior in yielding capacity today. A grower only has to produce one or two bushels of additional corn per acre to justify the extra expense of growing these modern day hybrids instead of our four-way crosses. The new plants are shorter and have more erect leaves. This design allows more light to fall on the lower parts of the plant. Tall corn, with spreading top leaves, absorbs considerable sunlight, but is in the wrong place. The ear isn't formed in the top of the plant, but down in the sixth or seventh leaf whorl.

Weed control is much more essential with short corn since the spreading leaf plant is not present to help shade out weeds. A good herbicide corn program should be worked out for the weeds that are on your farm or individual field. Atrazine or Atrazine-Lasso combination has been the most popular for the corn producer. Bladex is new and some growers will like the spray since there is no residue for the next crop. These are only a few of the more important bits of information on how growing corn has changed. Corn production cultural practices will continue to change as the plant breeders provide us with better and higher potential yielding hybrids.

district office

The Tuscola Soil Conservation District still has a few seedlings left. Included are white pine, scotch pine or white spruce. Contact Tuscola Soil Conservation District Office, 852 S. Hooper Street, Caro, Michigan.

The trees may be used for reforestation, windbreaks, Christmas trees, erosion control, or wildlife cover. Place your order today as planting time will soon be here.

Establish new speed zone

A 45-mile-an-hour speed zone on a section of M-81 just south of the Caro city limit in Tuscola county, was announced today by the Department of State Highways.

The new zone, extending a quarter mile south of the city limit, will serve as a speed transition zone between the 65-mile-an-hour limit on M-81 and 35-mile-an-hour limit in Caro.

The new limit will become effective as soon as signs are posted.

Advertise it in The Chronicle.

ONE FOR THE ROAD

Locker room lib

By Dan Marlowe

Women's lib is not all bad. Male students at Indiana University have discovered that it has distinct and clearly visible benefits.

There is a well patronized sauna bath in the men's locker room in the Physical Education Building at the university where students and professors steam their pores after brisk workouts in the gymnasium.

A few weeks ago an attractive young woman took off her clothes and joined the boys in the sauna bath. Ever since school administrators and campus police have been combing the regulations looking for ways to keep out the girls.

The director of campus police says there's no question that a male student would be arrested immediately if he showed up in the women's locker room. But to arrest a girl for trespassing in the masculine domain would require a prosecutor's warrant issued on the basis of a complaint. And so far, no complaints have been filed by the male students.

"We're still exploring the complexities of the situation," the police director says carefully. "But so far no one has come up with a solution."

After the first girl made the breakthrough, more coeds began showing up at the sauna, sometimes two and three at a time. They sit naked with the boys in the dry, high heat which many claim has a healthful effect, and campus officials have been baffled as to how to proceed.

One of the girls complains that recent publicity has spoiled the previously relaxed attitudes among the male bathers. "No body ever asked my name or got uptight the first few times I walked in," she says, "but since the campus police came nosing around it's been a hassle."

A university spokesman admits that present regulations specify only that the facilities are reserved for faculty, staff, students, and guests. This includes bona fide girl students who have the right to use all campus facilities, including the sauna. The university has considered building a sauna in the women's locker room, but finds it difficult to justify the added expense since only two or three girls at a time use the men's sauna.

The director of campus police notes that the numbers of male sauna users haven't increased appreciably since the girls began joining in. But he thinks he knows why. "The girls come unannounced, not on a regular schedule," he explains. "And it can get pretty hot for a guy waiting around for them to show up."

It has been suggested the university has a great recruiting gimmick going for it in maintaining a coed sauna.

That in fact the number of sauna-users on campus may outnumber the basketball players.

And in the state of Indiana that would be a very great number of sauna-users, indeed.

Pitching only question for veteran Hawk 9

Cass City High School will have a veteran at every position when the 1972 Thumb B Conference baseball season opens, but for the first time in the last three years will not rank as favorites to cop the crown.

The pre-season pick has to be defending champion Lakers, who have a veteran team and defeated Cass City twice last season to win the Thumb B crown and push the Hawks from the State tournament.

The Hawks are missing just two players from last year's runner-up squad, but the two will be sorely missed.

They are Rob Alexander and Kim Hopper. Both were pitching aces and strong hitters and they will be missed. How much will depend on three chukkers who have been waiting in the wings while Alexander and Hopper did their stuff.

The pitching hopefuls are Gene Salas, Fred Harbec and Pete Frederick.

Helping the novice hurlers will be a team with an added year of experience.

At first base is Sophomore Don Galbraith, a power slugger and adequate fielder.

The keystone combination should be as good as there is defensively. At second will be Henry Cooklin, a senior and three-year veteran. Planking him at short will be Gene Salas who is a junior and was a regular last season.

At third Randy Brown has the inside track. He's a senior and jack-of-all-trades. He played a little at the hot corner, did a little catching and generally was there when Coach Fred Hurlburt needed him last season.

In the outfield fleet Louis Salas will be back in center while Scott Hartel, a sophomore, will be starting his second year as a regular in left. Senior Gene Hopper, a heavy hitter, will be in right.

Challenging these boys will be many other good ball players who would be regulars on many conference teams this year.

Behind the plate will be Junior Kip Hopper, starting his third season as a regular. He was a good receiver and good hitter in 1971 and should be better this year.

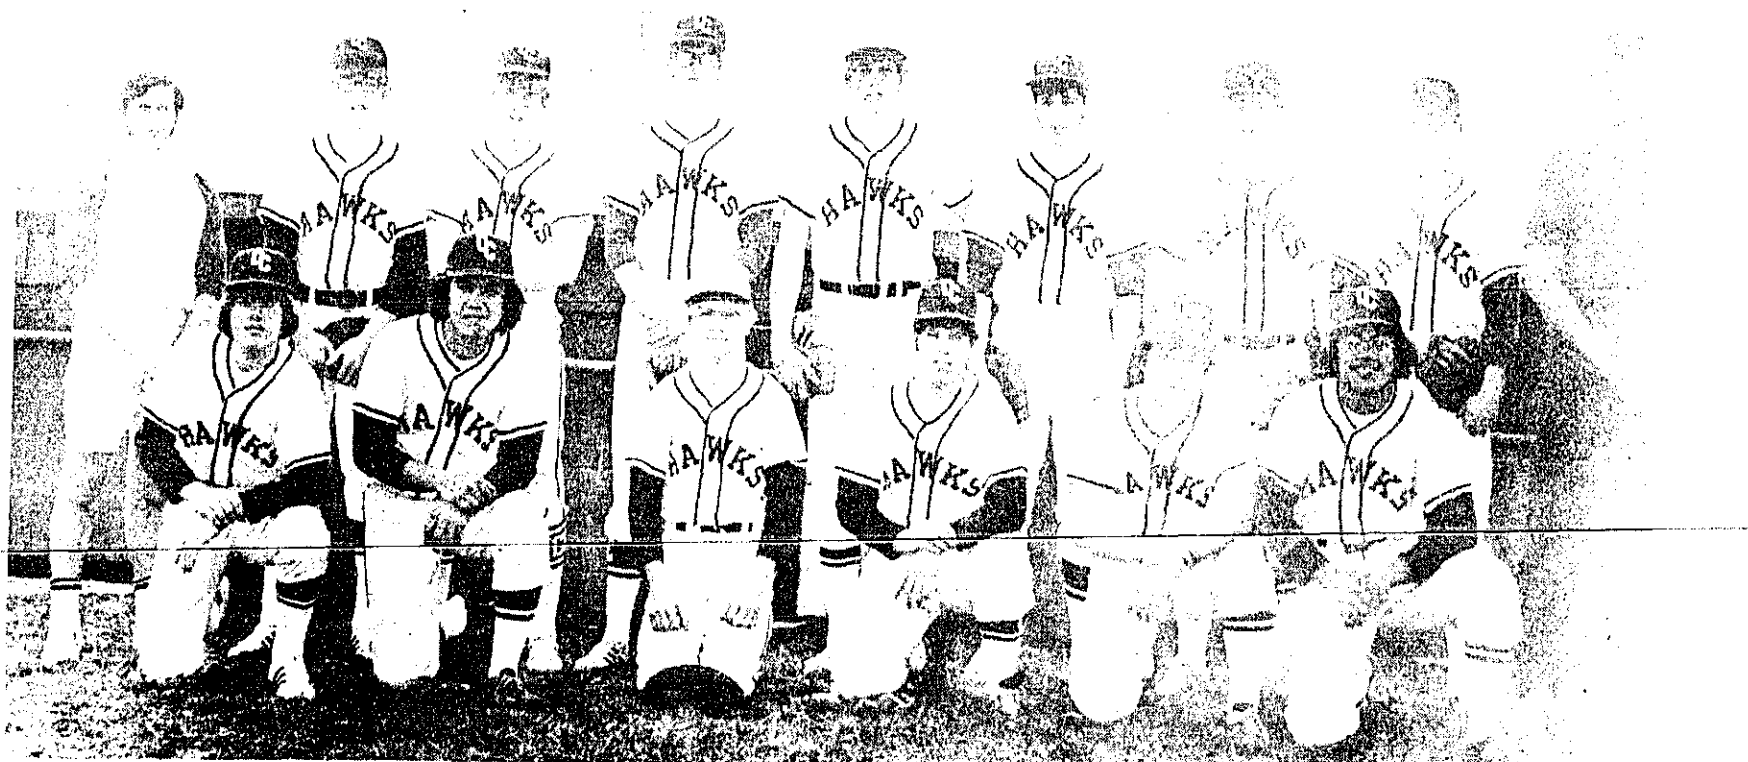

A bright prospect is Freshman Jerry Toner, who has a strong arm and quick hands.

A better line on the pitching and the newer players on the squad should be available Friday when the squad plays at Sebawaing.

The Indians traditionally have extra fine baseball teams. In two practice games last spring the Sebawaing nine defeated the Hawks, the only team other than the Lakers to do so.

The schedule:

April 12 Reese at home
14 Sebawaing, there
20 Caro at home
24 Bad Axe, there
27 Frankenmuth, there
May 3 Reese, there
4 Sandusky at home
8 Marlette, there
15 Vassar at home
18 Lakers, there
(Make up dates May 22 and 25).

Hawk thinclads powerful in distance events

The key to a successful season for Cass City High School thinclads will be the development of underclassmen in the sprints, hurdles, and field events, Coach Paul Clabuesch said this week while assessing the Hawks chances in the Thumb B Conference.

If quantity is any key, Cass City should come up with some surprises. Clabuesch said that 40 boys are out for track this spring.

Quantity aside, there is real talent in the distance events in Cass City. Curt Strickland was first in the mile last year and Craig Guernsey was second in the half mile.

In the 2-mile Tim Stickle and Steve Selby were second and third. Dale Vollmar was first in the 440 in the Conference in 1971.

Strickland and Guernsey are the sparkplugs of the squad, Clabuesch feels, and help the entire squad to push for better results.

The coach looks for points in the sprint events this year from Dave Luana, fifth last year, and Don Karr, a Freshman speedster, looks good while Gene and Louis Salas could also pick up points.

The relay teams are strong, especially in distance relay events. Randy Wright, Tim Knoblet and Chester Sieradzki look promising in either the 880 or the mile.

In the new 440-relay the team needs to come up with some sprinters. Anchoring the 440 and running in both relays will be Kip Hopper. Others expected to help are Fred Harbec, Kurt Freiburger, Dave Erla and Paul Becker.

In the past few years, the Hawks have had trouble picking up points in the field events and it looks as if the trend will continue this spring. For sure it is the weakest area of the team.

Fred Harbec and Tim Knoblet are scheduled for the shotput. Craig and Drew Guernsey, Bob Ross and Paul Prangle will compete in the long jump. Don Karr, Scott Hartel and Jim Wentworth are high jump candidates while Dan Mollen-dorf and Steve Izydorek are working out as pole vaulters. The hurdles are another area which is critical for the Hawks. How the team progresses in this event could be an important key to the over-all finish of the squad. Candidates are Jim Wentworth, Drew Guernsey, Bob Ross, Ed Stoutenburg, Ken Novak and Mark Posluszny. Biggest competition in the conference is expected to come from Caro, Bad Axe and Vassar.

The schedule:

April 19 Vassar, Bad Axe at home
22 St. Louis relays
26 Lakers, Sandusky at home
28 Central Michigan relays
May 3 Caro at home
6 Gavel Club at home
10 Marlette, Frankenmuth at Frankenmuth
13 Regionals
17 Conference meet at Caro
20 State Track meet
22 Tri-League at Caro
24 Underclass meet at home

Births decline

at area hospitals

Babies are no longer a booming business in Tuscola county. Authorities at Hills and Dales General Hospital say that the number of babies born in the hospital and in the Caro Municipal Hospital has gone steadily downwards in recent years.

At Hills and Dales the peak was reached in 1968 when 224 babies were born. In 1971 just 190 were born at the hospital. Authorities also estimate that more than 50 per cent of the babies born to county mothers are born in hospitals outside the county.

The trend at local hospitals is a trend in Michigan and across the nation.

In 1971 in Michigan there were 10,000 fewer babies born than the previous year, a decrease of 5.7 per cent.

Petition process restricted by new primary election law

The Legislature took a couple of steps forward in opening the political process when it enacted a presidential primary for Michigan, but it took a step or two backward, too. While it gave Michigan voters a direct voice in how their state delegations will vote in Miami Beach and San Diego this year, it put a bit of a crimp in the time honored petition process.

Incorporated into the new law setting up the primary was a provision barring the circulating of petitions within 100 feet of a polling place. The primary bill was an opportune time for the lawmakers to do it, since the primary itself received all the attention.

Induct Honor Society members in candle-light ceremonies

Forty-two new members were added to the Cass City High School chapter of the National Honor Society in traditional candle-light induction ceremonies held this week.

Additions to the society's membership are made each spring by a faculty council, based on selections made from a list of eligible students compiled by both teachers and students. Candidates must have a grade point average of B or better and membership cannot exceed fifteen per cent of each class roll. Although scholarship is necessary for consideration, election to the society is never based on this alone. Students must also have excelled in service, leadership and character.

The induction program, planned by Dave Ackerman and Mrs. Karen Wallace, honor society sponsors, was held in the high school cafeteria Tuesday evening, April 11. Tim Knoblet was the master of ceremonies. Speaking on the place of scholarship in the honor society was Susan Hoppe, class valedictorian.

Other students who participated in the program were Karen Eskilsen, Nancy Kerbyson, John Lockwood, Ron Cran-dell, Beverly Dorman, Mary Beth Esau, Mollie Butler, Joan Russell and Paul Pringley. In addition, a musical selection was provided by Jeanne Alexander.

Secretary, Board of Education

It was accepted procedure, until now, to circulate petitions at polling places, and the attorney general's office had drawn guidelines to make sure petition circulators didn't interfere with the voting.

The presidential primary on May 16 is early enough that the various groups working to put propositions on the November ballot this year can use the day to circulate petitions. Polling places are especially valuable as petition circulation spots because the circulator is assured the signatures of registered voters and a steady supply of potential signers all day.

There was some suspicion in Lansing that one of the main reasons for the new restriction was the drive for a one house legislature conducted by State Rep. Joe Swallow, R-Alpena.

A blitz was planned by Swallow and his followers for May 16 to secure the needed names. Since his proposal would unseat at least 72 of the incumbent legislators, it hasn't drawn much favorable comment in the legislative chambers.

The new restriction is unfortunate on a much broader scale. In these days of increasing alienation between the citizen and his government, the petition route remains one last resort the disgruntled voter can take when all else fails.

Unwillingness or inability has been apparent in recent years for the legislators to handle such controversial topics as abortion reform or property tax relief. With a $17,000 a year salary on the line, many legislators have been reluctant to go out on a limb on such issues.

It seems terribly unfortunate that the lawmakers, after being unable to do it themselves, make it harder for the people to secure needed reforms.

MISTAKES BEGIN

The age of computerized mailing lists has resulted in a rapid increase in instances of candidates receiving letters asking for contributions to their opponent's campaign or to another member of the opposition party.

The long series of mixups has begun again in Michigan. State Rep. Thomas Guastello, D-Sterling Heights, apparently was the first recipient of such a mailing this year. Guastello reports he received a letter from former Commerce Secretary Maurice Stans, chairman of the Finance Committee for the Re-Election of the President, and a membership card for the committee.

The letter asked for money to help President Nixon's try for a second term. Guastello, a lifelong Democrat, refused.

ANIMAL FATALITIES

A more intriguing, though perhaps less useful, bit of information to come along recently: the raccoon appears to be the worst jaywalker in the animal kingdom, at least in Ionia County.

That report comes from the State Highway Department by way of the Ionia County Road Commission, which is the only county in the state to keep such records.

The commission reported picking up 445 raccoons which were killed crossing 114 miles of state highways in 1971.

The second worst, or most unlucky, species was the squirrel, which had 163 of its species killed by motor vehicles.

Other species were found in the following order: turtles 140, opossums 137, skunks 82, deer 77, cats 67, dogs 66, woodchucks 57, muskrats 49, rabbits 45, foxes 22, mink 5, and 1 lonely badger.

The bird kingdom lost the following numbers: pheasants 16, owls 12, partridges 10, crows 8, hawks 7, and 1 quail. No record, though, on whether they were walking or flying when they were struck down.

Adversity is considered a great strengthener—that is, as long as it doesn't happen to you.

Other students who participated in the program were Karen Eskilsen, Nancy Kerbyson, John Lockwood, Ron Cran-

Plan annual Western Round-up

Preparations are underway for the second annual Western Roundup to be held June 15-18 at the Cass City Recreational Park under the sponsorship of five local service clubs in a joint effort.

With details still to be worked out, the expansion to a four-day event will feature a bigger midway and more events, although the general plan for the roundup is similar to the one held last August when approximately 2500 persons attended the day long roundup.

Service Clubs president Ed Bergman said he has no idea how many more will attend the four-day affair.

A parade will lead off the events and is tentatively scheduled for Thursday afternoon or Friday morning.

An all events day will be held for the children on Friday. Saturday will feature the ox roast and the Tuscola County Firemen's Water Battle tournament. A horse show for area youngsters will offer ribbons for the winner.

The event will wind up on Sunday with an all day tractor pull. A trophy and entry fees will be awarded the winner.

The midway this year will be bigger and include 7 rides and 10 game booths provided by Garden City Shows, entertainers. The dunker's booth will also be a part of this year's midway, and booths will be open to community service clubs.

The cost of tickets is not determined yet, said Bergman, but he expects them to go on sale within a month.

Representatives from the Rotary, Lions, Gavel and Jaycee's clubs and the Elkland Township Fire Department will meet again next week to discuss further details.

As last year, the clubs sponsoring the event will split whatever profit is made and the money will go back into the community through the service organizations, Bergman explained.

Officers were elected at a recent meeting of the group. They are: Ed Bergman, president; Mike Weaver, first vice-president; Bob Wischmeyer, second vice-president; Dick Wallace, third vice-president; Jack McDaniels, secretary, and Bob Buttery, treasurer.

First grass fire of year Sunday

Elkland township firemen were called to the residence of Russell Powell Sunday, 8 miles south and 1 1/2 east of Cass City, to fight the first grass fire of the season.

The call came at 11:35 a. m. and it took firemen approximately one-half hour to extinguish the blaze begun by an electric fence. The fire burned several acres of land but caused no other damage.

Another grass fire was extinguished by firemen Monday about 5:15 p. m. Burning garbage flew out of a trash can at the Ken Stoll residence on M-53, two miles south of M-81. Firemen ask residents to be careful about burning and remind them that burning permits are required and are available from S.T. and H., Croft-Clara Lumber or Bulen's Chevrolet garage.

TEACHER RETIRES

conversational course credits. Mrs. Shaw explained she started the same sort of thing years ago when she was teaching in the old high school. She sent her students into the photography darkroom to practice with a tape recorder in their spare time.

Besides the change in approaches to education, Mrs. Shaw has seen a change in the students, too. She says they are just about the same except the ones over the past few years have been more undisciplined. She blames it on the parents who in many instances, she said, married before they were mature enough to enjoy raising children, and consequently, the youngsters were left alone too much.

But compared with other schools she thinks the Cass City bunch is pretty good.

Just a couple months shy of 65, Mrs. Shaw has no intention of sitting back and taking it easy after her school days are done.

She intends to do a lot of the things her busy career has not allowed to do, such as redecorate her home, garden, ride horseback, travel and spend time at her piano again.

Church League to organize at Friday meet

An organizational meeting for the Cass City Church League has been scheduled Friday, April 14, at 8 p. m. in the Fellowship Hall at the Good Shepherd Lutheran Church in Cass City.

Representatives of all churches who plan to enter teams are requested to attend so that the schedule can be arranged and plans for the 1972 season completed, authorities said.

Report wallet theft from school locker

Larceny of a wallet containing $35 in cash, a $16.50 check and personal papers was reported Monday by Mike Wood of 3675 E. Caro Road, Cass City. Wood told police the wallet was taken from his locker at the Cass City High School. Police are investigating.

A breaking and entering was also investigated by police at Jack's Bar. Police were notified Friday morning that $88 and two six packs of Coke were taken from the bar, although no liquor is believed missing. Entry to the building was gained through a back window which was unlocked from the inside. Jack Kappen, owner, told police he did not check the window before closing at 2:45 a. m.

Police are also seeking an arrest warrant for the man who stole a car belonging to Mike Zawilinski, 4302 Ale St., Cass City, March 11. The vehicle was taken from behind Jack's Bar. Zawilinski told police he followed the car which he saw being driven south of town and onto River Road.

Laud 4 school debate students

Four students from Cass City High School have been awarded Certificates of Merit by the Detroit Free Press for having distinguished themselves as outstanding debaters.

The four are: B. J. Haire, Cara Prieskorn, Ronald Crandell and Mike Klinkman. The students participated during the 1971-72 season in the Michigan High School Forensic Association debate series sponsored by the Free Press and the University of Michigan Bureau of School Services.

The topic debated was: "Resolved: That the jury system in the United States should be significantly changed."

Lutheran group meets

The April meeting of Good Shepherd Lutheran women was held Tuesday, April 4, with 16 ladies present, including one guest.

The program for the evening was led by Christian Growth Chairman Judy VanDellen, who presented a discussion on Bible reading with some guidelines on how to read it, Bible study helps, which are available, and suggestions on how to begin various kinds of Bible study, both personal and groups. She also told of Bible study by mail with one or more friends.

The business meeting followed, conducted by President Adeline Butler. Main topic of discussion was the 24th annual turkey dinner to be held in April.

Discussion of the Monday night Bible study group was held. Other groups are encouraged to form. Only two or three persons are needed to start a group. If interested, contact Mrs. VanDellen.

The annual kitchen cleaning day was scheduled for Thursday, April 13. Ladies are asked to come any time after 9:00 a. m. and to bring a sack lunch.

Mrs. Butler announced members were invited to an evening of fun and fellowship at Cross Lutheran church in Pigeon April 10.

Luncheon followed with Mrs. VanDellen and Lucille Stine, cohostesses.

Correction

In reporting the Novesta annual township meeting it was stated last week that the board contributed $3000 towards the retirement fund that the residents voted out, while the township contributed $1500. The township board actually contributes $300 total.

Tips to keep robbers away

BY DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

It is a good idea for everyone to know some basic precautions against burglaries. In the splendid little magazine, Today's Health, published by the American Medical Association, there was a recent article on avoiding robbers.

For example, if you are moving into a new house or apartment, or if you lose your door keys, have all the locks changed immediately. Also, never give your keys to deliverymen or maintenance people.

It is very important to have locks that cannot be opened easily. Any beginning burglar knows how to open an ordinary lock with a celluloid strip or credit card. You should have the type of lock in which there is a bar that drops down. In so many cases, the front door may be well protected with good locks, but the back door is so poorly made that any thief worth his salt can enter in a minute. Also, it is useless to have a door locked if it is made of glass. Also, glass windows on a porch can easily be broken and the thief can reach inside and open the door. Sometimes it helps to have a chain lock on a door. I suspect, in some cases, a hand can reach in and unlock the chain.

Every door that opens onto the outside of a house or apartment should have a "Peephole," so that when someone knocks, the person inside can look out and see who is there. Many unpleasant things happen when a person opens the door without knowing who is standing outside.

I will never forget my amazement when I read a book on the Boston Strangler. During the time that the strangler was loose in Boston, the police were cautioning everyone not to open their door to strangers. But a great many women continued to allow strangers into their apartments, thus risking their lives. Any woman reading the story of the Boston Strangler will think twice before she opens her door.

It is advisable to keep "stranded motorists" outside while you phone for help for them. People should always keep doors well locked, because there are so many people roaming around looking for a door which has not been well locked. When coming home, your door bell and wait a bit, so that if there is a thief inside, he can get out the back door. Also, if there is any sign that someone is in your house or apartment when you enter it, the safest thing is to leave immediately, and give him a chance to escape.

I have often thought of how I could lose my life if I entered my apartment and found a thief ransacking my attic case, looking for drugs. In his excitement, he could kill me.

People who leave on vacation, for even a few days, should have a little apparatus which turns the lights on and off at intervals at night.

People are wise not to place any announcement in the newspaper saying that they will be out of town. A doctor friend, whose sister was getting married in another city, put a note in the newspaper. While the family was at the wedding, a thief ransacked the house and took everything of value. He got in easily by breaking a pane of glass in the kitchen door.

Be sure to stop all deliveries of newspapers and food while you are away on a trip. In winter, have someone shovel the snow. Also, ask neighbors to report any suspicious noises to the police.

If you are a woman living alone, don't advertise the fact. Use initials only for telephone listing and mailbox identification. Anyone who is alone with a stranger in a self-service elevator should get close to the panel and with the first hostile move, hit the alarm button as hard as possible and yell. And most important, if someone comes to hold you up, give him all your money without any argument or fighting, and be grateful if he doesn't shoot you.

You can learn about the psychology of a person who lives by stealing from "The Thief, The Autobiography of Wayne Burk, Professional Thief," as told to Ted Thacker, Jr. Burk tells very frankly and honestly, and in detail, about how he stole perhaps $15,000,000 from people. It is hard to understand why a man who, in one day, had stolen $100,000 would not try to live quietly somewhere for months without risking his life and freedom again.

On three occasions he was sent to prison for life, but according to our modern crazy way with criminals, he was always let out on parole. And then, of course, he soon went out to steal more money. He says that he sometimes worked as a bartender, but always got bored and went back to burglary.

"The Thief" was published by the Nash Publishing Co., 9255 Sunset Blvd., Los Angeles, Calif. 90069. It costs $6.95.

Colitis usually means one of three conditions. (1) pure nervousness; (2) reaction of the large bowel to nervousness; (3) a serious inflammation of the large bowel. If you would like to learn about the causes, symptoms and treatments of colitis send for Dr. Alvarez' booklet "Colitis." Just include 25 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Dr. Walter C. Alvarez, Dept. CCC, Box 957, Des Moines, Iowa 50304.

Arbor Week Tree Kits for Youths

Like these two young students from Holt, Debbie Howe and Danny Gipe, every fifth grader in Michigan will receive his or her own tree-to-be as a special feature of this year's Arbor Week, set for April 23-29. Coming to fifth grade classrooms across the state are some 7,000 "Birth of a Tree" kits containing about 200,000 black locust seeds and synthetic soil blocks in which the seeds are to be germinated. The free kits will reach schools so that students will have enough time to plant their blocks, see the seedlings sprout up, and have their young trees ready for transplanting in outdoor surroundings as part of Arbor Week Ceremonies. The Department of Natural Resources hopes the "Birth of a Tree" program will kindle a life-long interest among young people in tree planting and natural resources conservation. Prominently supporting the DNR in this effort are the Radio Distributing Company of Detroit, the J. A. White Company of Grand Rapids, and participating Zenith dealers, who purchased the kit materials; and the Michigan Daughters of the American Revolution, who financed all mailing costs. Packaging the kits with assembly-line efficiency were inmate labor personnel at the DNR's Southern Michigan State Forest Nursery at Brighton. --Mich. Dept. of Natural Resources

Add new books at local library

A number of new books have been added to the Rawson Memorial Library collection recently. Among them is "Go Ask Alice," a fifteen-year-old girl's diary, finished just before her death, telling of her unintentional start on LSD at a teen party, her bouts with flashbacks, and pressures from peers who didn't want her to quit and tell on them. Art Linkletter recommends this book to parents.

New novels for young adults are "My Darling, My Hamburger" by Paul Zindel, and "Mr. and Mrs. Bo Jo Jones." Other new novels are "The Conspiracy" by John Hersey, "My Name is Asher Lev" by Chaim Potok, "Fourth Street East; a Novel of How It Was" by Jerome Weidman, and "The Terminal Man" by Michael Crichton.

New non-fiction titles are "America's Camping Book" by Paul Cardwell, "America's Garden Book" by James Bush-Brown, "The Low-Upkeep Book of Lawns and Landscapes" by Elvin McDonald, "Chilton's Automobile Repair Manual - 1972 ed.," "Questions and Answers on Real Estate" by Robert Semenov, "How to Become a Good Dancer" by Arthur Murray, "The Natural Way to Draw" by Kimon Nicolaides, "Stillwell and the American Experience in China" by Barbara Tuchman, "The Quality of Mercy: A Report on the Criminal Condition

A Special Letter to our Customers

Dear Folks:

I am that parcel of land you looked at a short while ago. Perhaps you didn't like me as you walked over me, or maybe I was too soft to walk on; Oh! I know I am dirty and drab looking at this time of year, but you know something, I just woke up! If you would like to come back and see me again in a few weeks, I promise to be cleaned up, my grass will be green, trees leafing out, flowers in bloom, birds singing and it will be so peaceful and quiet. I will always be here, and I become more valuable to each new owner.
