

3 crash victims up county traffic tolls to 12 in Sanilac and Tuscola

POLICE AND AMBULANCE officials prepare to remove the body of Roger Richmond, 26, who was killed in a collision at M-53 and M-81.

Automobile accidents claimed the lives of three persons in the area over the last week, and seriously injured several others.

Miss Tamara Vatter, 17, of Decker, was listed in fair condition in Bay City Mercy Hospital Tuesday afternoon, where she is being treated for injuries sustained in a two-car crash Sunday night shortly after 8 p. m. She was taken out of the intensive care unit that morning.

A passenger in her car, Mrs. Nina Davis, 41, of Cass City, was released from the hospital Tuesday morning.

Miss Vatter was east bound on M-25 when her car collided with one driven by Daniel Dexter, 35, of Bay City, who was also injured in the mishap.

Authorities said the Dexter vehicle crossed the center line when the head-on collision occurred.

Miss Vatter and Mrs. Davis were returning from Tri-City airport where they had taken Tony Davis and Larry McClorey, both bound for the Naval Training Center, Great Lakes, Ill.

INVESTIGATION CONTINUES

The Sandusky County Sheriff's Office is still investigating a two-car crash that claimed the life of a Michigan State University medical student Thursday morning, April 13.

Killed in that collision was Roger Richmond, 26, who was traveling to Bay Port to visit his parents following Wednesday national board examinations in Detroit.

The driver of the other car was Charles Mester, 19, of Deford. He suffered minor injuries but was not hospitalized.

The accident occurred about 8:30 a. m. at the intersection of M-53 and M-81, four miles east of Cass City. Visibility was very poor due to a heavy fog. Both vehicles came to rest in a vacant lot at the northeast corner of the intersection. Richmond's vehicle was heavily damaged, and the other came to rest on its top.

Richmond was pronounced dead at the scene.

Authorities are not speculating as to the cause of the accident yet until their investigation is completed.

A brother of Mester was killed in a two-car crash about three miles from the scene of this accident Sept. 12, 1970.

William Mester, 18, and four other persons died when a vehicle driven by Mester and one driven by William Schram, 42, of Cass City, collided about one mile east of Cass City.

Killed in that crash beside the two drivers, were Charles R. Bellin, 21, of Columbiaville, and Dorothy Schram, 46, and son, David, 14, of Cass City.

FIERY CRASH

David F. Force, 24, of Silverwood, was killed Saturday evening at 9:20 p. m. in a car-truck collision on M-53, about three miles north of Marlette, bringing to six the number of persons killed in Sanilac county this year.

Randy A. Whittaker, 20, of Deford, a passenger in the Force vehicle, was released from Marlette Community Hospital Monday where he was being treated for injuries.

Sandusky State Police said they believe the compact car Force was driving crossed over the centerline, collided with the side of a garbage truck operated by Donald O. Righten-burg, 24, of Sandusky, and then careened off the right shoulder of the road. Force was thrown from the wreckage and apparently died instantly. He was pronounced dead at the scene. The truck was on the side of the road in an effort to avoid the collision and was tipped on its side in the ditch by the force of the impact.

Marlette Volunteer Firemen were summoned to extinguish a fire that broke out in the load of garbage on the truck, staying until nearly 1 a. m. Rightenburg and a passenger in the truck escaped injury. A witness told police the Force car appeared to be weaving on the highway and had forced other cars off the road just prior to the accident.

Funeral services were scheduled for 2 p. m. Wednesday in Caro. Among his survivors is his widow, the former Concluded on page 11.

The same day Randy Horne of Seeger St., Cass City, paid fine and costs of $35 for disorderly person. He was arrested April 11 on a warrant issued for an incident that occurred about a month ago at the Cass City High School.

Police were called to the school when Horne refused to leave when asked by school officials. He was creating a disturbance in the halls. Horne is not a student at the high school.

John Albert Vanderpool, Shaw Road, Kingston, pleaded guilty to a charge of reckless driving Thursday, April 13, and was given fine and costs of $90 or 15 days in the county jail. He chose to spend the time in the jail. He was arrested April 12 in Caro.

Suspect 3 teens of area theft

Petitions will be filed with probate court against three Cass City juvenile boys, ages 15 and 16, for the April 1 breaking and entering of Damm's Implement Store, said Police Chief Gene Wilson.

Police were led to the thieves when one of the boys cashed a $2 bill in an area store. Among the approximately $27 in change and $160 in bills were eight $2 bills.

The boys admitted taking the money under questioning by police.

Three incidences of vandalism were also reported to police.

Four seedling pine trees valued at $20 were reported destroyed at the residence of Frank Mosher, 4316 Doerr Road, Cass City. The trees were broken off sometime Sunday night. A bird bath was also destroyed and horseshoe pitching stakes were taken.

Dennis Merchant of 5449 N. Cemetery Road, Cass City, reported vandalism to his car which was parked behind the Sommers Bakery. Plug wires were pulled off and some of the hose on the engine was broken off. The dip stick was also taken. The car was damaged sometime between 1:30 and 11 a. m. Saturday.

FROM THE Editor's Corner

You don't have to be a table tennis player to be interested in the Red Chinese visit to Detroit and the United States but it helps.

Like the host of other amateur hackers around the nation I wanted to see what the real pros did on a ping pong table. The game and the techniques of the masters was of more interest to me than the social implications of the visit.

Certainly the real significance of the matches was the thawing of relations between Red China and the United States. That's easy to appreciate. . . but it wasn't necessary to watch the performance to know that for the first time in a generation there have been official ambassadors from China visiting here.

What I wanted to see was how the game was played by the recognized champions of the world. How they gripped the paddle. . . whether or not the best players stressed defense or offense.

The oceans of publicity have moved ping pong away from the misconception that it is a parlor game played by sedate old ladies or kids too young to play baseball.

More persons know now that it is a highly competitive sport that requires athletic ability and top conditioning when played at the championship level.

A few years ago tennis was probably at the height of its limited popularity in Cass City.

The matches with the Chinese recalled these days all last week. . . recalled them because of Horace Bulen.

I couldn't help but think how he loved the game and how well he played it before the bicycle accident that has sentenced him to a wheel chair and bed for what appears to be the rest of his life.

Approve 2.5 mill tax renewal for one year

Renewal of a special 2.5 mills operating tax was approved by Cass City School District voters Monday in a light vote.

A total of 403 votes were cast with 327 yes, 74 no and two spoiled. There are about 2800 registered voters in the district.

The levy will be for one year. With the renewal of the 2.5 mills, the school will be able to continue a full program in 1972-73, said Superintendent Donald Crouse.

The board could levy less than the 2.5 mills if enough funds were received from the State Aid Formula; however, Crouse said this is unlikely this year.

Total tax for operating expenses at the school is 16.5 mills.

RUMMAGE SALE

Horace Bulen was probably the best table tennis player in the village in addition to being unquestionably the best regular tennis player in the area.

In ping pong he stood close to the table and with his long arms simply returned everything that came his way until his opponent in frustration made a mistake or wilted from exhaustion.

I just had to believe that Horace was glued to his set when part of the matches were aired on television.

As I watched I wondered also just how the matches were affecting him. . . what he was feeling, thinking.

And I tried again to place myself in his position. What would I do, how would I react? I didn't have an answer last week, just like I didn't have one nearly 2 years ago when the accident happened.

There is no answer. A life shattering experience like the one Horace Bulen endures is one that no one thinks about or faces up to unless it occurs. . . and sometimes not then.

All of us should be overwhelmingly grateful that we probably never will be tested.

All of us should think about Horace Bulen more than casually. . . for when we do it will be easy to count our blessings.

DISPLAYING THE VARIETY of candles they make as a hobby are Mrs. Leslie Severance and her mother, Mrs. Wynne Wilson, of rural Cass City.

Candle making business a mother-daughter hobby

A part-time hobby that could fast develop into a full-time business for Mrs. Leslie (Kay) Severance and her mother, Mrs. Wynne (Elyah) Wilson, of rural Cass City is making candles.

The two have been molding the various shaped pieces of colored wax for about 10 years, learning partly from books and more from experience.

The busiest part of the year is the peak season before Christmas, when they used about 125 pounds of wax. "We were always out regardless how much we bought," said Mrs. Wilson. The candle making goes on all year, however, and soon they'll begin making some for Mother's Day gifts.

They sell the candles according to how much wax it takes, rather than how long they work, with prices averaging about $2 or $3. These prices may go up soon because of the increase in the price of candle wax, which forced them to turn to regular tanning wax that they buy in the grocery store. The various hues are achieved by using the basic candle colors or by adding crayolas taken from the children's coloring sets.

The wax is melted in a double-boiler affair, and all the work is done in the women's kitchens, which has its hazards.

"We split some wax one day and she's still scraping it off the cupboard," chuckled Mrs. Severance as she told about making some of the candles in her mother's kitchen. Another time, Mrs. Wilson told, they spilled a whole mold in the sink, but managed to rescue it before the molten wax clogged the drain.

The longest part of the process is cooling the wax in the mold. The best way, they explained, is to set the mold in cold water for about three hours and then let it set overnight.

"After it cools, we take old nylons to polish it and smooth the sides," explained Mrs. Severance as she showed the glossy finish on a light green candle.

That's for the ordinary type candle.

Some of their wax creations resemble food objects more than tallow, such as a soda glass of Coke or banana split.

Kay explained that she got the idea for the banana split while visiting a small town in Colorado.

"I made it twice before it came out good," she stated. "The hardest part was getting the yellow of the banana to look like a banana."

The molds for the ice cream scoops were taken from a plastic egg, and the banana mold was made out of a piece of plastic fruit. The whipped cream that covers the mounds of wax was made by whipping soft wax with an electric beater.

"We used an old one of mom's 'cause it's kind of hard on the mixers," explained Kay.

The whipped wax is also used to simulate snow, and does an admirable job for "snowballs." "We sold a lot of those as teacher gifts," Kay added.

Last Christmas they created Christmas trees from an ordinary green tapper candle and some whipped wax. "We whipped green wax and put it on in the shape of a Christmas tree and put colored glitter on them," she explained.

These were used in centerpieces of pine, and are only one of the centerpiece ideas they have created. Sometimes they make a candle to order to go with a certain centerpiece.

Another method of adding a decorative touch is by dripping colored wax over the side of the candle. This usually requires about 6 to 8 layers, and is sometimes done to cover up small flaws, such as air bubbles or streaks.

If that doesn't work, the wax is melted down and the candle is begun anew.

"A lot of the goofs we give to Dad if they don't look too bad," Kay confided. "He doesn't really care, as long as he has a candle burn."

Mrs. Wilson agreed that her husband was their best customer and is a great candle lover, burning one every night. He also gets in on the act by making molds for the candles. Kay said he often comes up with ideas of his own and makes the molds on the presses where he works at Marlette Coach.

He also gave them the drill they use to make a hole in the center of the candles for the wicks. After the wick is in place, they fill the small hole back up with wax to secure it.

"That isn't the way the book says to do it, but we have our own way," laughed Mrs. Wilson.

The candle making is just a hobby the women claimed, saying they also decorate wedding cakes, make jewelry, arrange flowers and embroider.

"We're always goofed around with something," said Mrs. Wilson.

2 plan benefit for stricken Gene Chapin

It has been a long, expensive road on the way back to health for Gene Chapin of Marlette, formerly of Deford, but the future looks brighter now than at any time in the last six months.

Chapin has been suffering from a brain tumor which steadily eroded his health since June 1971.

He had been in and out of Hills and Dales General Hospital and a Saginaw hospital while growing steadily more ill.

By Christmas time he was unable to walk and the future looked bleak.

But the long road turned for the stricken Chapin when he entered Harper Hospital and his illness was diagnosed as a brain tumor.

Following surgery, he has shown steady improvement and prospects for recovery are bright. It's a long, slow process, a friend reported, but he improves a little day by day.

The long hospital stay has been expensive. The family has been helped by workman's compensation but the financial burden has been oppressive.

To help, two friends of the family, Mrs. Harold Kilbourn and Gerald Hicks, have arranged a musical benefit for Chapin. The event is slated Saturday night at 8:00 p. m. at the Deford Methodist Church.

A tree will be offered will be taken at the performance and all money collected will be given to the family.

Naturally, the benefit is open to anyone wishing to attend.

Car fire causes minor damage

Minor damage was done to a car belonging to Bernard Dadacki, 3050 Phillips Road, Cass City, when faulty wiring apparently started a fire under the hood Tuesday.

Firemen were called to the scene 4 miles south, 2 west and 1/4 north on Phillips at 4:21 p. m. The fire was out by the time they arrived, a fireman said.

Mary Wilson wed in Mexico

Mary Katherine Wilson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Wilson of Cass City and a 1964 graduate of Cass City High School, and Miguel Roldan L., son of Señor and Señora Manuel Roldan of Mexico City, Mexico, were married Feb. 18 in a civil ceremony by the justice of the peace in Mexico City. Their witnesses were Dr. Osorio and his wife, Nieves, cousin of the groom. In Mexico it is the custom to be married first by the justice of the peace and secondly in the church. The government does not accept the church wedding as legal, so most couples have two weddings.

On Feb. 21 the couple were again married in the Church Nino de la Paz, which is located in the famous "Zona Rosa" section of the city.

The maids of honor for the wedding, also done according to the customs, were Gisela Roldan, maid of the "arras" which is a box containing 13 golden coins presented by the groom to the bride to signify that their home will always be free from money problems and the bride may never want for anything she may need.

Glória Roldan was maid of the "ramo" which means bouquet in English. She was responsible for the bride's bouquet. Maid of the "anillos" which means rings was Patricia Roldan, and maid of the "lazo" was Marcela Roldan. The lazo is a rope of flowers which is placed around both the bride and groom which signifies that they are to be together for life. The four maids of honor wore matching dresses in colors of the rainbow - yellow, pink, blue and lavender.

The reception following the ceremony was held at the Camino Real Hotel, one of the largest and most popular hotels in Mexico City. There the guests were served dinner and drinks and were entertained by a seven-piece band from the National Conservatory of Music, Mexico City.

The bride's mother, Mrs. H. P. Wilson, and friend, Evelyn Wilson, flew to Mexico City for the wedding and spent 10 days.

Following a wedding trip to San Francisco, Calif., the bride, a former legal secretary and part-time model in San Francisco, and the groom, owner of a store in Mexico City, will make their home in Mexico City.

"If It Fitz . . ."I have a dream, but . . .

BY JIM FITZGERALD

I know this man who has a terrible problem. John, a charming middle-aged fellow, was bragging mildly to his friends at the golf club. He'd found a perfect winter home in the southwest. "I like it for 3 reasons," he explained, "there are no Negroes, no Jews and no old people."

Further conversation revealed that the last 2 reasons could almost be rolled into one. He had been bugged by all the elderly folks "bent over and shuffling" along Collins Ave. in Miami. "And they're all Jews," he added.

The age bit must bug John the most. He knows there is no way he is going to turn black or Jewish. But the only alternative to growing old is rather unpleasant. The day may come when he will not want to live next door to himself. I've never heard anyone accuse John of being a bigot. No one has ever pointed a finger at him and said, "White racists like you, through the years, have created the race problem that is tearing America apart today. Maybe the worst thing you have created is black racists."

In the country club set, no one questions John's right to be "choosy." After all, he worked hard to get where he is. If he can afford a lily white tower, why shouldn't he live in it? What do you want him to do — stroll through Harlem at midnight to prove he loves his fellow man?

John and his friends can make a convincing case. They never bought any slaves. They never gassed any Jews. They are not responsible for what some fanatics did 50 or 100 years ago. They always joke with the lockerroom attendant, they think Ella Fitzgerald is the greatest singer in the world, and they do business every day with minority races ("some of them are the nicest people you could ever hope to meet.")

But John doesn't want to live near them. He doesn't want them belonging to his club ("One or two is OK, but you let one in and the next thing you know they've taken over"). And he gets positively ill at the suggestion that some day a black man might climb into bed with his daughter ("But man, that Lena Horne is some dish!"). It's a free country, isn't it? Are you trying to tell John he can't live where he wants to, and choose his own friends, and belong to Rotary instead of the NAACP?

Not me. I know John is wrong. I cringe when he unknowingly advertises his stupid prejudice. I feel sick and lose hope when I see him teach his children the same brand of polite hate. I ache to holler out and tell John that I have a dream . . .

But I don't. I know this man who has a terrible problem. It's not John. It's me.

Slate gospelsingers at*Snover church

The Singing Avilas, well known gospel singers from Midland Michigan, will be featured this week end in special services at the Laing Free Methodist Church located on Decker-ville Road just east of M-19. Simon Avila and his wife Cecelia are the featured singers with Miss Joyce Favorite at the piano.

Services will begin at 7:30 p. m. on Friday, Saturday and Sunday nights (April 21-23). They will also be featured in the Sunday morning services at Laing at 10:00 and 11:00 a. m. The Rev. Charles Husted, pastor of the Laing Church, extends a welcome to all.

Story hour to highlight library week in village

As part of the observance of National Library Week, April 16 to 22, the Rawson Memorial Library has scheduled a story hour and made several displays of books.

A hospitality corner will be held Friday and Saturday afternoons from 3 to 5 at the library, hosted by the library board.

The story hour for children three years through third grade will be Saturday, April 22, at the library from 1 to 2 p. m. Special displays of books are at the library and in the window of Sommers Bakery on Main Street.

Librarian Barbara Hutchinson noted that circulation has increased over the past few years, with an average circulation of 2236 books per month for the first three months of this year. This is up considerably from the previous years: 1971—1850 per month; 1970—1250 per month and 1969—1090 per month.

Besides the regular fiction and non-fiction books, the library also offers other services to educate, inform and entertain local users, said Mrs. Hutchinson.

These include reference material, a historic collection including a pre-1900 atlas of Tuscola, Sanilac and Huron counties, old high school yearbooks, a Michigan Pioneer Collection, a History of Bay and Tuscola County and other old papers and journals available on request, as well as over 40 weekly and monthly magazines and four newspapers.

Terry Keith Blasius, 19, of Caro and Faithann Louise Spencer, 17, of Millington.

The library also contains a collection of record albums that can be checked out for home use.

The librarian explained that if the local library doesn't have certain books, a request can be made to other libraries in Saginaw, Lansing, Detroit or the University of Michigan.

The library also takes part in the revolving book pool, a service of the Saginaw Area

Library System. About 350 books from the pool are in the library, with 50 being exchanged each month.

"The aim of our local library is to be of service in any way possible," said Mrs. Hutchinson.

The library is open 2-5:30 p. m. daily, 9-11 a. m. Tuesday and Friday and 7-9 p. m. Monday and Friday.

Rabbit tracks

By John Haire

(And anyone else he can get to help)

A host of Cass Cityans have visited Las Vegas this year . . . most of them sadder and wiser . . . and poorer for the experience. One who didn't go and should have is Clinton House. All of you unlucky people who have never won anything in your life, listen to this: estimates were that there were upwards of 500 persons at the Rotary district conference in Midland last week end. During the course of the two-day event prize drawings for members attending were conducted. There were lots of prizes so winning was not a real big deal although the odds were very much against it, of course.

Picking the same name for two different drawings is luckier than anyone has the right to be. I won't comment further except to say that House won three times.

And to say that the Chessy cat grin that Clint has been wearing all week is slightly sickening to all us losers.

Incidentally, the entire conference at Midland was hosted by Tom Proctor, the only district governor to come from Cass City in the history of the club.

The job requires countless hours as well as a gift for organization and the reports are that Tom supplied an ample measure of both.

Remember when the gym was open two nights a week two years ago? Well the same thing is happening again and the same man is responsible for it . . . Fred Hurlburt.

The coach announced this week that the gym would be open to the community Tuesday and Thursday nights from 7 to 9 p. m. till the end of the school term. It's strictly a no-pay deal for Hurlburt . . . except in personal satisfaction. The program starts Tuesday, April 25.

This is what drives the city residents to the country . . . the small-town concern for others.

This little saga started when Dick Hendrick found a pair of prescription sunglasses on the walk on Main Street. He advertised them and a Pontiac couple drove down and claimed them for their son.

In any major city you can name, the chances are 100-1 if those glasses were lost on the walk they would be (1) ignored (2) picked up for resale or (3) deliberately smashed just for the perverse pleasure of it.

If you read the above item and are mentally patting yourself on the back . . . don't. It's the opinion here that given the same surroundings most persons in the city act the same as most people here and vice versa.

Think a minute: would you stop to try to find the owner of a pair of glasses in Detroit?

The State's oldest country correspondent has finally decided that enough is enough.

This week Miss Rosalia Mall quit writing the Gagetown news. She can look back at 43 years of continuous outstanding work for the paper and service in the Gagetown community.

Now 91 and still hale and hearty Miss Mall finished with the same dedication to the job that marked her 43 years. She found her own replacement.

Mrs. Elery Sontag is the new Gagetown correspondent and the news from Gagetown should be directed to her.

BETTER HEALTH

Causes of emphysema

BY DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

Emphysema is a disease in which the lungs lose some of their elasticity, and as a result, the person has much trouble breathing and getting air out. The word emphysema comes from a Greek word which suggests that the lungs are blown into, or inflated, and actually what happens is that the air gets into them, but then tends to stay there. As one would expect, many an emphysematous person suffers terribly from a severe shortness of breath. Commonly, the cause of emphysema seems to be years of heavy cigarette smoking.

But now I read that Drs. C. Mittman, J. Lieberman, F. Marasso, and A. Miranda, of the City of Hope Medical Center in Los Angeles, say that one out of 10 emphysema patients has a deficiency of alpha 1-antitrypsin in the blood. Evidently then, there are two causes for emphysema -- one the inherited abnormality, and the other, heavy cigarette use for many years.

The doctors have found that if a man has inherited the deficiency in antitrypsin, he can get emphysema with only a moderate amount of smoking, and he is likely to get it early in his life. Also some of his relatives are likely to be short on the antitrypsin.

The conclusion is that "cigarette exposure of more than 25 pack years (the number of packs per day times the number of years the person has been smoking) usually precedes the development of overt airways obstruction in patients with intermediate antitrypsin deficiency."

The doctors feel that it is wise for the relatives of emphysematous persons to be tested for the amount of antitrypsin in their blood, with the idea that if they have a deficiency, they may be candidates for lung disease.

One of the experts in treating emphysema, Dr. Alvan Barach, of New York City, has often said that he can greatly help emphysematous persons by giving them a small tank of oxygen which can be carried in an overcoat pocket. After breathing some oxygen, a person who has been too short of breath to move much, can get up and walk some distance comfortably.

GOOD NEWS FOR CHILDREN WITH OCCASIONAL CONVULSIONS

That great expert on epilepsy, my dear friend Dr. Frederic Gibbs, of Chicago, has often said to me that after having seen hundreds of children with convulsions, he knows that many lose their convulsive tendency as they grow older, perhaps during their 20s.

According to researchers at the Washington University School of Medicine in St. Louis, children who for 15 years have been kept free from convulsions by good drug treatment, will often go on without seizure after going off the medicine.

Of 148 convulsive children who had been taking anti-convulsive remedies for at least four years, only 24 per cent suffered more attacks after the medicine was stopped. One of my greatest joys during my last 40 years of practice has been the bringing of an end to convulsions in many children. Such children had been irritable and ill-tempered, due to the nature of their disease. Or they were unable to sit still and concentrate on school work long enough to keep up with their class. Perhaps they were a disruptive element in class, so that the teacher had asked the parents to keep them home from school. But, few days after taking diphenylhydantoin or deanol, they were able to go back to the classroom, considerably changed and with great improvement in their behavior.

Many things can be done to help an older person who has a severe emphysema. Dr. Alvarez gives vital information on breathing apparatus, suppositories, and drugs and on methods of diagnosing emphysema in his booklet, "Pulmonary Emphysema." You may obtain a copy by sending 25 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Dr. Walter C. Alvarez, Dept. CCC, Box 957, Des Moines, Iowa 50304.

FROM THE LITTER BOX

Bless the small town

By Kit McMillon

I have always maintained that humans are by nature at least half-way kind when it comes to helping their fellowman, even in the face of the many stories told about stranded or sick persons that died because no one stopped to help, because people were too busy living their own little lives or too busy to get to work to make the money they like to spend on their own pleasures.

Sociologists blame it on the ever-expanding metropolis turning the countryside into a wasteland, and the crowded conditions of the average American city.

I grew up in an area that was in the direct line of traffic between Chicago and the rest of the world, or so it seemed, and where the lack of trust or interest in people outside your immediate sphere is very strong.

This never seemed so true as when I returned to the land of my childhood recently. A friend and I went to Illinois in order to pick up some books I own, and while there ran into a miserable snowstorm and what I consider to be a very bad joke on the part of nature. Not expecting this deluge of solidified rain, the snowflakes had already been retired. So we got stuck. Actually, the roads were just icy and hilly and movement became impossible without a little push from hands to straighten out the wheels and get onto the main track.

While we were struggling to keep the truck from sliding into the road, trucks and cars galore, it seemed, merely looked at us and drove around, as if we were some kind of minor irritation but nothing to get too upset about or stop to help.

Of all the times I've gotten stuck in Michigan, someone has always helped get me out.

That was just one incident that made me think, I want to go home, to Michigan.

Geographically, Michigan and the Thumb is off the beaten track. Some say it's bad because many of the influences from the "outside world" don't have an opportunity to become assimilated by the natives. Personally, I'm beginning to like the idea more and more.

Compared to the thriving cultural and intellectual centers of the cities, small town Cass City is a wasteland.

But, it has other qualities I like an awful lot.

In Illinois I had to get back into the habit of locking the car at night, even though we live outside the city and it's no more populated than the heart of Cass City.

And locking the house door, I even managed to forget to unlock it one morning and was stuck outside for a bit.

The simple common courtesies of being human seem to show up a lot more here than in any city. They always say you don't appreciate it until it's gone. I'm glad I just had to leave for a few days.

Thank God for small towns. Meow.

4-H ACTIVITIES

5th graders to study conservation

By Bernard Jardot

When you hear the term conservation I am sure it means different things to each of you.

To some of you, conservation means more parks and outdoor recreation areas. To some, it means protecting song birds, wildflowers, and other things of nature. It may mean providing more fish and game for better hunting and fishing. This may include setting aside wilderness areas to remain in their natural condition to be viewed and not necessarily used.

Conservation can include all of these things. True conservation must be concerned, first and foremost, with the soil, water, forest and other resources necessary to our life and well being.

With these concerns in mind, I have developed the 4-H conservation project activity with most of the 5th grade classes in Tuscola county, through the cooperation of the schools and the Tuscola County Soil Conservation District.

Most of the schools have made plans for some form of a school conservation trip.

The Want Ads are newsworthy too.

Uncle Tim From Tyre Says:

Dear Mister Editor:

The feller that runs the country store got hisself in a tangle with the state revenue folks. He told the fellers about it Saturday night, and he reminded them that in this country where freedom and justice prevail the only ones that is guilty till proved innocent is the taxpayer, and after they're proved innocent they're presumed guilty.

What happened, the store feller said, was that he figured his sales tax wrong, and to make matters worse he sent it in late. The revenue men was down on him in short order, and they didn't take his word for nothing. Stead of using his sales slips they went back and figured sales tax on all the stuff he had bought wholesale. They said if he bought it wholesale he sold it retail, but he told em that weren't so. About half the goods was let go on credit, and he said it looks like he won't collect more than half of that half.

So the store feller is paying sales tax on groceries he give away, and he says he's looking into ways to git tax deductions on the bad debts and on the donation to the Government. He told the fellers he had saw where doctors now think that bloodletting is good for the body, so he reckons he'll have to come around to understanding that the Government sucking ever tax dollar out of a man's business keeps him healthy and hard at work.

Ed Doolittle said it's hard to see hope for the financing of Government in this country. Ed allowed he was full agreed with the newspaper column writer that said the Government takes us to git money so it can go into business again us and then tax the profits of our business so it can pay for its losses. Ed said the power to tax is the power to destroy, and absolute taxation destroys absolutely. Still, all the Governments look for new ways to git what we got, Ed said, but the taxpayer never finds it as easy to raise taxes as the legislature does.

General speaking, declared Clem Webster, folks never see that what the Government gits it has to take from them. We got the idea, said Clem, that somehow money for all them programs jest happens, and we don't stop to think that last year Governments at all levels collected $1,175 from each person in this country. Local taxes has went up two and a half times in the last 10 years, Clem said, and Washington's take has doubled.

Mister Editor, I am of the opinion after hearing the discussion that it ain't no wonder folks turn to the telephone for help. They can't see what's on the other end, so they can hope for the best stead of knowing the worst. We git answers to ever problem on the phone. We got everything from the right time and prayers to how to have a baby and where to take a stray dog.

The other day, I saw they now is a dial-a-horoscope where, after you know what happened and is happening you can find out what's going to happen.

Yours truly,
Uncle Tim

Spring cleaning helps

Sherry Lowell, Area Extension Home Economist

The spring season heralds warmer weather, chirping birds and spring housecleaning for some. The average homemaker considers cleaning one of the most tiring jobs in her home. Let's take a few moments to discuss some work-saving suggestions to increase your feeling of accomplishment and to save your time and energy.

Try to simplify your work! Ask yourself these questions: WHAT is the job? WHY is the job done? WHERE is the best place to do the job? WHEN should the job be done? WHO should do the job? (Consider the family "team"; their aptitudes, interests, time and energy). HOW should the job be done?

Next, arrange a work schedule that is to be followed regularly but that can be changed if emergencies arise. Avoid too many seasonal jobs by planning better weekly and daily cleaning.

Provide convenient storage. Consider the age and size of family members and plan storage for their clothing and personal belongings. Help the family "team" members to use their allotted space to reduce clutter around the home. Also, provide duplicates of less expensive cleaning supplies and tools to save steps in one or two story homes.

Check your standards. A clean and orderly house is a good thing - for your family's health, comfort and well-being. But suit your efforts to your needs - sometimes "a lick and a promise" is best to save your energies and time for other important things.

Make the best use of your body. Use BOTH HANDS when you dust or wash windows. Lift with your LEG muscles and hold the load close to your BODY in front. Use rhythmic, sweeping, continuous motions and avoid short, jerky ones. You will find that a moderate pace leaves you more relaxed and allows the vacuum cleaner to do its best job. Finally, REST 10 MINUTES out of every hour to avoid feeling overtired and tense before cleaning is finished.

Check your attitude. Don't expect the impossible, because even with a good cleaning plan and the right tools, it is still work to keep a house clean. Plan to do a little each day to replace worry and irritation with interest and enthusiasm in each new day.

E.O.C. worker

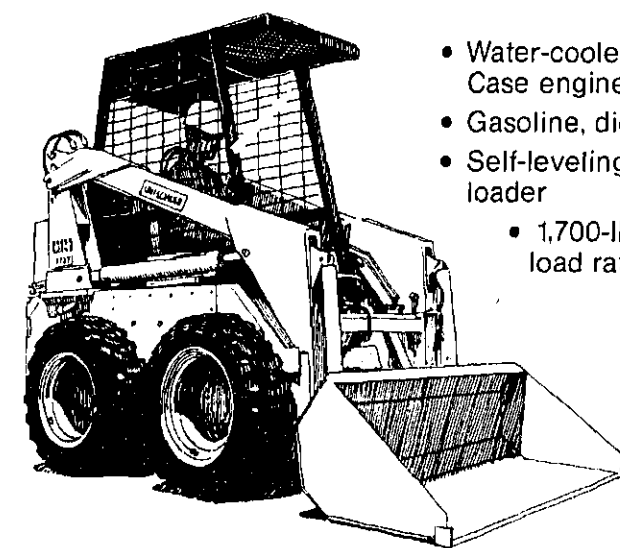

Mrs. Helen Woloshen, field worker for the Tuscola County Office of Economic Opportunity Commission, told the Cass City Lions Auxiliary the many areas in which the Thumb area EOC works to aid persons in the county.

She addressed the group Monday, April 10, at a regular monthly meeting held at the Wildwood Farms restaurant. The Thumb Area EOC is a community action agency funded through the federal government and local funds whose purpose is to work to plan, establish, coordinate and carry out programs promoting the health and welfare for the people who have problems of an economic or social nature.

Among the services offered, she told the group, are various types of counseling, employment, housing, drug education and transportation. She also explained how her office was instrumental in setting up the Help Line telephone emergency crisis center and training volunteers to manage the program.

About 22 attended the meeting.

Here is one of those great epigrams of my favorite philosopher — Dad! Or was it Mother? It's hard to remember for sure.

But, anyway, it isn't true. The older I get the more I realize that there are some who can tie their own neckties but still aren't men.

Maturity is not measured by what you can do. It is measured rather by your reasons for doing — or not doing — things you can do.

Think that sentence through once more. Your son will become a man when he has sound reasons for doing one thing and not doing something else, even though he could have done either.

It is in the character-molding and spiritual growth which the Church provides that both youth and adults discover the soundest motivation of life. In worship and religious training we embrace the reasons that will prompt our courageous decisions as Christian men and women.

FIVE YEARS AGO

Now that the village has its dump site, 1 1/2 miles south and about a half mile east of Cass City, trustees are busy looking for ways to raise money to make it useable.

Police Chief Carl Palmateer issued a plea to anyone with information that might lead to the apprehension of the vandals who smashed 46 parking meters in Cass City Sunday night.

Sheldon Peck, missionary appointee to Japan, was speaker at the Baptist Church in the absence of the Rev. Richard Canfield.

Tom Crow, 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Crow, escaped serious injury when he was struck on the head by a wild throw of the shot put during the Gavel Club Invitational track meet.

One of the oldest clubs in the Cass City area recently tossed in the sponge when the Hay Creek Union Aid, active in the community for more than 50 years, disbanded at a potluck supper held recently at the Shabbona Community Hall.

tells of poems

at club meet

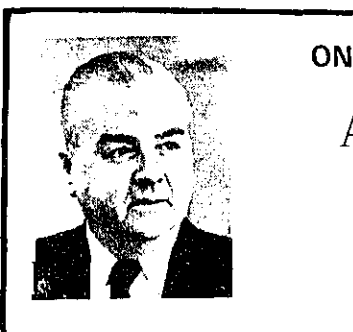

Eighteen members attended the monthly meeting of the Senior Citizens club April 13 at the Cultural Center. A co-operative dinner was served at 12:30 p. m.

President Nixon has named May "senior citizens' month," according to the American Association of retired persons, and a program will be presented in keeping with the proclamation.

Tentative plans were made for a bus trip to a place of interest in the near future. Cards were sent to four persons who were ill.

Rev. M. R. Vender told of the making of a poem and he and Mrs. Vender read several poems that he composed.

All senior citizens are welcome to attend the club's monthly meetings.

Airlines cater to animals

By Dan Marlowe

The airlines are going all out these days for the four-footed trade.

If you want to take your aardvark or your zebra with you on your vacation, chances are something can be worked out.

"If we treat someone's dog right," says one airline official, "more than likely we've got two steady passengers in the future, man and dog."

Most airlines now have air-conditioned, air-pressurized animal compartments in baggage sections. Your pet can be comfortably accommodated there if he measures no more than 36 inches from ears to front paws. If he's larger, he'll have to travel air freight. A woman in Montana spends part of each year in New York City and always ships her pet burro air freight.

Brainiff recently shipped two bottle-nosed dolphins from Atlanta to Honolulu. The seven-foot creatures were placed in hammocks within a fiberglass container built by the owner. A special pump recirculated water that was sprayed over the dolphins. The owner paid the normal shipping charge for perishable cargo.

Incidents occur occasionally. A carton of baby alligators was being loaded on a plane when the bottom of the carton gave way. "They was 'gators everywhere," an airplane employee drawled later. "Amongst the baggage, on the ramp, running off in all directions. You should've seen the women scrambling!" But the 'gators

Dismiss 2 pot charges in circuit court

George Kelley of Pigeon and formerly of Cass City was found guilty of probation violation at a hearing before Tuscola County Circuit Court Judge James Churchill Monday.

Sentencing is set for April 28. He was arrested March 10 following a chase by police through Cass City when they tried to serve a warrant for non-payment of child support. He was originally placed on probation in August 1968 for carrying a concealed weapon. In other action, motions to dismiss the cases of Robert McIntosh of Caro and Robert Molina of Vassar were accepted by the court. Both were charged with possession of marijuana.

The cases were dismissed by the judge, as many possession charges in other courts, because the men were arrested under the old marijuana state law that was declared unconstitutional.

The trial of Joseph Young Davis of Mayville was ended Wednesday when the jury was unable to agree on a verdict. The trial began Tuesday morning, April 11, as the jury began deliberating late in the afternoon. Davis is charged with third offense drunk driving. He was arrested Jan. 29 in Indianfields township. Another trial will be scheduled. Meanwhile, Davis was released on $400 bond.

New building code imminent

Adoption of the zoning ordinance and BOCA building codes may occur at the next meeting of the Cass City village council Tuesday, April 25. The zoning hearing is scheduled for 8 p. m. that evening to listen to citizens' opinions regarding the ordinance which the planning commission has been working on for the past year.

Village President Lambert Althaver said that changes could be made in the ordinance at that meeting.

Althaver said consideration of the BOCA codes is also scheduled for that meeting. These codes have also been under consideration by the council for some time.

They will not eliminate low cost housing, Althaver said, but "it's going to guarantee at least a minimum standard."

The current building codes were adopted in 1947 and are not enforceable for a variety of reasons. The state is also close to imposing its own set of building codes on local governments that do not have their own, Althaver explained.

3 killed in separate car accidents

er Helen Koepf, who lost her first husband in a one-car crash March 6, 1969, on Cemetery Road that killed John D. Crawford, 28, of Cass City.

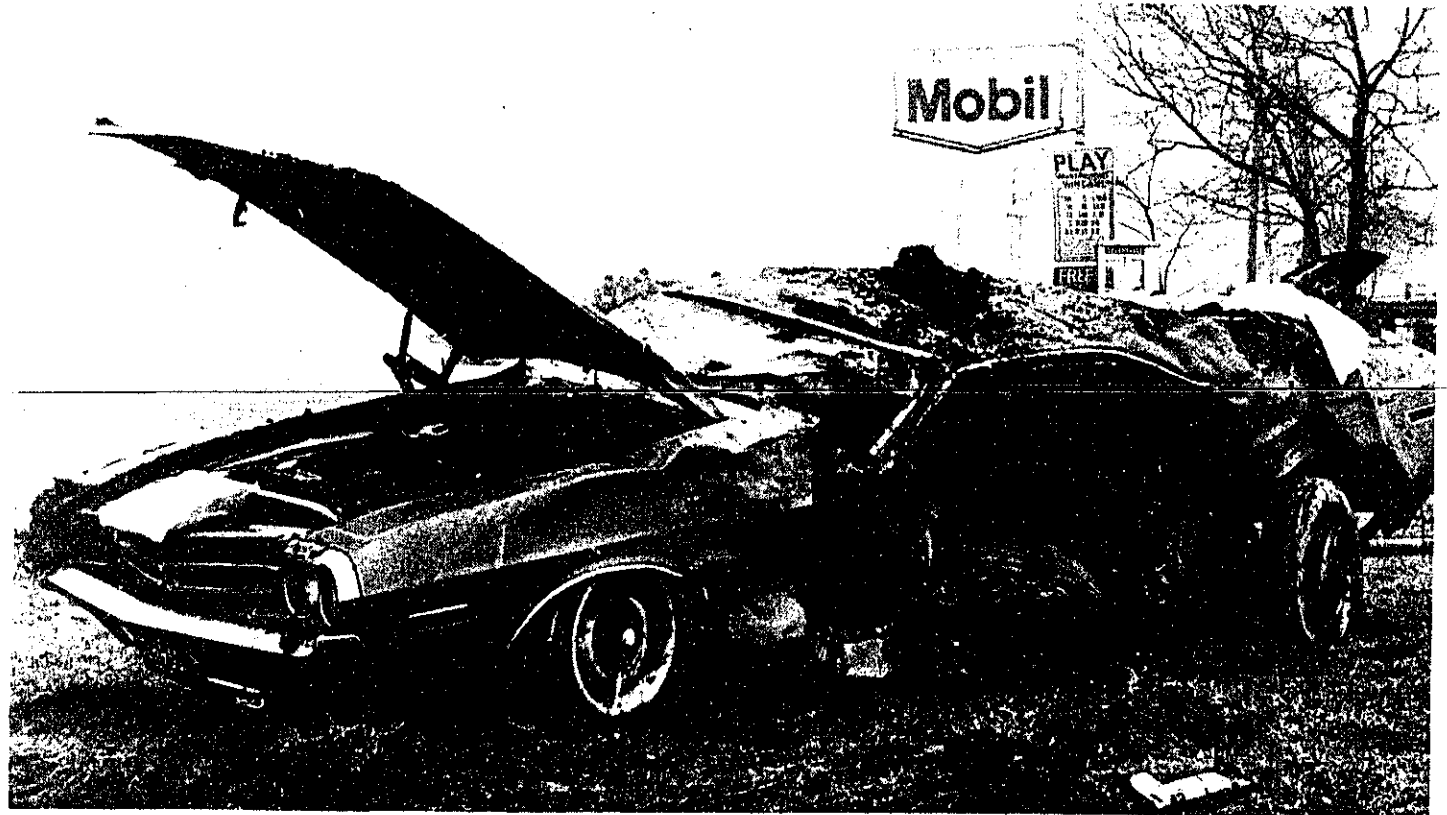

A brother of Whittaker, Gerald Bruce, 18, died in a crash May 8, 1969, when he was a passenger in a car involved in a head-on crash on Elmwood Road. Six persons died in that accident.

6TH COUNTY DEATH

The death of a 16-year-old Mayville High School student Friday brought to six the number killed on highways in Tuscola county this year. George A. Pezzo was killed at 8:01 p. m. when he attempted to make a left turn on Saginaw Road and rammed into a car attempting to pass him at the same time. Pezzo was riding a motorcycle.

Thomas William Downs, 54, of Oxford, was driving the car and escaped injury. Both were west bound.

In a minor accident, vehicles driven by Ronald Edmund Patera, 30, of 5689 E. Severance Road, Deford, and John William Kappen, 42, of Keilitz Road, Cass City, collided Wednesday, April 12, at 6:15 p. m. when Patera, who was attempting to make a left turn, drove into the Kappen vehicle that was passing him. Neither was injured.

THE DRIVER of this car was pronounced dead on the scene following a two-car crash Thursday morning during heavy fog at the intersection of M-81 and M-53. Killed was Roger Richmond, 26, a medical student at Michigan State University.

CHARLES MESTER, 19, of Deford, walked away from the crash with minor injuries. His car rolled after the impact and landed on its top.

Military funeral for crash victim

Funeral services were to be held at 2 p. m. Wednesday for David Frank Force, 24, of Silverwood, who was killed in an automobile accident Saturday evening near Marlette.

Force was born Sept. 26, 1947, in Caro and lived in Tuscola county all his life.

He married the former Helen Koepf of the Cass City area Aug. 19, 1969, in Watrousville. Force served with the armed forces in Vietnam from 1968 to 1968.

He is survived by his widow; two daughters, Joan Marie, 4, and Stacey Jo, 11 months; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Force of Caro; a maternal grandfather, Frank Hadi of Caro, and one brother and two sisters, all of Caro.

A military funeral was held under the auspices of the American Legion #7 and VFW Post #4164, The Rev. Ronald Mason, pastor of the Lansing Cedarway Free Methodist Church, officiated. Services were conducted from the Ben Colton Funeral Home, Caro. Burial was in Caro cemetery.

LOST FOREVER

After such a long absence, we probably won't recognize normal, even if we get it back.

Former resident ends long career

John J. Garety of Saginaw, a former resident of Cass City, has retired after 15 years as an automotive maintenance mechanic with the Michigan Department of State Highways.

The Garety name, however, will continue in service with the Department's maintenance division.

A former shipyard machinist and automotive mechanic with the Tuscola County Road Commission, Garety perfected a spreading mechanism for paving highway shoulders. Dubbed the "Garety Spreader" by maintenance engineers, the device automatically compensates for shoulder bumps and depressions to deliver a smooth paved or gravel surface.

A native of Huron county, he has served in the Department's 11-county Saginaw District since 1964. He joined the Department in 1957 as a mechanic in the Three Rivers maintenance garage.

In retirement, Garety will turn his attention to "things" he has wanted to do for many years. One of these is visiting his children: Mrs. Roger (Rosemary) Sams, Marana, Arizona; Edwin, Toledo, Ohio, and Raymond, of Muskegon Heights.

Bright political future seen for Lt. Governor Brickley

When lists of rising political stars are compiled in Michigan these days, one of the first names to be seen is James Brickley, lieutenant governor.

The handsome, youthful-looking former FBI agent is in a post which has served as a stepping stone for numerous other Michigan political figures. The list includes Sen. Philip A. Hart, Supreme Court Justice and former Gov. John B. Swainson, Court of Appeals Chief Justice T. John Lesinski and, of course, Gov. William G. Milliken.

Brickley, it is assumed, will run either for governor or the U. S. Senate some day.

And many people expect he will not.

And if he doesn't, Brickley will be the most logical Republican candidate to succeed him. He would probably have the nomination for the asking. Indeed, it is believed Milliken hinted this to Brickley without actually spelling it out in 1970 when he handpicked the then U. S. Attorney for his running mate.

The implied statement was more to the effect that when Milliken didn't want to run anymore Brickley could have the nomination, rather than a flat promise for 1974, at least that is the way theory runs.

would be his for the asking. And he would represent the first formidable candidate Hart had faced after successive ridiculously easy campaigns against Elly Peterson and Lenore Romney.

Brickley could change jobs a lot sooner, too. Should Attorney General Frank J. Kelley unseat Sen. Robert Griffin this November, the attorney general's office would be vacant.

That post would be a natural step for a former U. S. Attorney, and Brickley could probably have it if he wanted it.

The lieutenant governor's path, then, is strewn with possibilities for advancement. All he has to do is wait for the opening to come and take it.

Brickley himself has given no indication of which road he would prefer, devoting himself to his duties as lieutenant governor. But there is no doubt he expects to try for bigger things.

"Nobody," he once told a reporter, "dreams of growing up to be lieutenant governor."

"SCANDAL" ARISES

One of the annual stories which pops up around the Capitol each year concerns the Republican Legislative Fund Raising Dinner and the purchase of tickets to it by employees of Republican legislators.

The $100 a plate affair is held in the spring of each year with an outside speaker coming in. Last year the speaker was Oregon Sen. Mark Hatfield. This year on May 18 it will be New York Sen. James Buckley.

The dinner raises money for Republican legislative races -- mainly the races in swing districts which decide the political control of each house.

Some $60,000 was raised last year for the Kiddy. It is hoped by Republicans it will be even more this year as they attempt to wrest control of the House away from the Democrats -- a very difficult, if not impossible assignment.

Again this year, there was some complaining by a few secretaries about the $100 cost of the ticket, but the whole thing isn't all that shocking when looked at more closely.

For one thing, the secretaries, most of them in the $9,000 - $11,000 or more per year category, make a lot more money than they would working for private business. For another, if their bosses aren't re-elected, they have to go job hunting.

The sponsors of the dinner don't mind the publicity at all. They believe the old theory that it doesn't matter what is said about them, just so their names are spelled correctly.

"News stories just give the dinner more publicity and help with sales," said Sen. William Ballenger, R-Ovid, the Senate coordinator of the dinner this year. "I kind of look forward to them. Free advertising never hurt anyone."

Children 5 years old by Dec. 1 are eligible. Birth certificates and immunization forms are necessary. Parents will receive pre-school vision clinic schedules at the round-up which will be held at 8:30 a. m. to 12 noon and 1 to 3 p. m.

Children need not attend the round-up this year, Supt. Allen Fennell said.

Hawks prep for opener

Weather permitting the Cass City Red Hawks will open the 1972 baseball season Thursday when they visit the Caro Tigers in a game that starts at 4 p. m.

A scrimmage game last week against hard hitting Sebewaing indicated that the Hawk pitching is still a question mark.

If the rookie hurlers come around the Hawks will be a factor in the Thumb B Conference title chase. If they don't it could be a long season ahead.

Fred Harbec, Gene Salas and Pete Frederick are the boys that Hurlbert is counting on. Frederick was the most effective in the initial outing.

Monday, April 24, the Hawks are slated to play the first home game of the year when Bad Axe comes to town for the 4 p. m. contest.

Name honor roll Ferris students

Two from the area were among 1092 students honored for scholastic excellence during the winter quarter and were named to the Academic Honors List. Dr. James V. Farrell, vice-president for academic affairs at Ferris State College, Big Rapids, announced.

The students are James P. Vatter of Shover, a general education major, and Gerald L. Mozdien, technical and applied arts.

Students must have earned a 3.25 average and carry at least 14 credits to be named. Others in the county on the list are Susan K. Knaggs, Caro; Norman R. Sange, Millington; and Paul A. Fox and Charles A. Weber, Vassar.

Students end practice teaching

Two area students attending Western Michigan University, Kalamazoo, have completed their directed teaching school assignments this month with the close of the winter semester.

Among the 1273 education majors are John Herbert Maharg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Maharg, Maharg Road, Cass City, who taught at the Freeland Community Schools, and Marta Marie Hall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Hall, 401 Brock, Caro, who taught at Shiloh Junior High School, Swan Valley.

Kindergarteners enroll Friday at Owen-Gage

The annual Owen-Gage Kindergarten round-up is scheduled Friday, April 28, in the project room at the Owen-Gage center.

Children 5 years old by Dec. 1 are eligible. Birth certificates and immunization forms are necessary. Parents will receive pre-school vision clinic schedules at the round-up which will be held at 8:30 a. m. to 12 noon and 1 to 3 p. m.

Children need not attend the round-up this year, Supt. Allen Fennell said.

AROUND THE FARM Noise damages hearing

By Don R. Kehler

We hear or read accounts of farm accidents involving tractors, harvesters, choppers, augers, power take-offs, etc., which result in visible damage to the operators. But how about the invisible physical damage occurring more often to farmers, that of ear damaging hearing loss?

This physical damage creeps up so unnoticed, so unpainfully, the affected and many times the family of the affected don't even notice the slowness of the hearing loss.

According to some reports I have heard, this hearing loss is occurring at an increasing rate among farming occupation persons. For years it has been more common in people engaged in heavy industry occupations.

What causes this deterioration in hearing? Sharp vibrations as from explosives and firearm blasts and high frequency noises. High frequency vibrations appear the most common sources causing rapid vibrations in the ear. Some sounds are of such high frequency they cannot be heard yet cause vibrations in the human ear.

Today, more than ever, more equipment and machinery used by farmers are of the high frequency vibration type. They are using high speed drills, sanders and grinders. The tractors, combines, choppers and blowers are designed for higher capacity speed and power. If you haven't noticed how these machines and tools really wind up when operating at maximum capacity, make this test and find out. Use this machinery or tools in the normal manner followed in your work. After about fifteen or twenty minutes, stop the item and listen. What do you hear? If you notice no difference than experienced before operating the equipment, consider yourself lucky. If you however notice a dull sensation like having cotton in your ears or having them covered with your hands, damage is occurring. If you experience a whining sound you have really put a strain on your hearing mechanism. Some of those hand grinders really set up a high pitched frequency that keeps your ears really whining and dull for many minutes following their use.

So what can be done to prevent or at least retard this noise from causing hearing losses? For years people in industry have been using earplugs or cups to deaden the vibrations associated with their occupations. Farmers might want to do the same.

Naturally there will be arguments against noise suppressors worn in or over the ears such as uncomfortable, bothersome and inconvenient. Some will say they operate their equipment by sound changes as certain equipment sounds indicate improper operation or performance dangers. I can't argue against these ideas so, it breaks down to values. Is hearing acuteness of greater or lesser importance compared to inconvenience and comfort?

One thing is more probable than improbable and that is hearing losses are occurring and will continue among farmers who do not take precaution.
