

FROM THE
Editor's Corner

It's been forecast by some soothsayers of doom that in another decade or so the balance of industrial power will shift to the Orient.

Probably everyone is aware of the threat that Japan, Hong Kong and China pose to United States industry.

Maybe it is a threat. But one local businessman who sits on the board of directors of a local concern just breaking into the Oriental market doesn't believe it.

He pooh-poohs the "great advantage" that Japan has over us in the labor market. It won't be long, he feels, before Japan's labor cost will be greater than ours.

While a rising standard of living will have some effect, this observer doesn't feel it will be the principal reason for coming skyrocketing labor costs that will up Japan's product cost enormously and dramatically.

It's the custom in Japan, he says, to never lay off an employee. Once hired they are virtually never fired.

When the inevitable arrives and markets stop expanding these extra people are going to be hanging around without anything to do except draw wages, leaving the companies in deep trouble.

It's an interesting insight into a relationship that baffles American business and is not generally known here. It's probably the reason that Japanese workers have such a high regard for their employers and a fierce sense of loyalty to the company where they work.

It's this same relationship that probably accounts for the pride the workers have in doing the job right, turning out a product that's the best they can produce.

An idle thought: how many billions of dollars would be saved in industry here if the same situation prevailed?

Certainly everyone has a friend, a neighbor, an acquaintance... someone who works his guts out for himself or a friend on a personal project and then takes off for work with the idea of doing the least amount of work that he possibly can.

He could be the guy that deliberately sabotages the product just for spite or because no one really gives a damn anyway.

Certainly here are two different work philosophies. Which will prove the more efficient and prevail?

Already the CIO has announced one of its basic bargaining requests in the auto industry in 1973 will be to institute ways to relieve boredom from jobs in the plants. Guarantees for annual wage, retirement and other benefits are edging us toward the total security program that Japan has now.

I'd suspect, too, as Japan continues to become internationally involved the old father-son atmosphere will be in for changes, too.

In short, it's likely that both systems will evolve into something similar and perhaps both countries will be eyeing a new rising nation with suspicious eyes as they cut into their markets with cheaper labor and cheaper products.

Retailers plan gala events

Main St. will bustle
when Artrain's here

Meeting in a morning coffee session members of the Retail Division of the Cass City Chamber of Commerce voted to make the business community a bustling place in connection with Artrain July 20-21-22.

The meeting was Tuesday morning at Veronica's Restaurant.

Plans for all kinds of tie-in activities during the big cultural event in the village are on the agenda.

A window from most stores in the community will be devoted to objects of local history in a heritage theme.

Attempts are underway to secure a flea market on the sidewalks of the community.

Members are promoting an antique auction on Seeger Street in the heart of the downtown business district.

Sidewalk displays and sales are planned. Merchants with "sidewalk sale" items will be asked to get them on the street.

Merchants who can't sell on the sidewalk will be asked to have a display of some kind... antique cars, farm machinery or other items that will add to the over-all effectiveness of the town-wide effort.

Heading the drive for the retailers will be Lynn Albee who is the chairman of the retail division this year.

Other merchants will be asked to help with the planning and organizational work.

Businessmen present stressed that the Artrain is a one-time opportunity for the village.

All retailers were in agreement that the more that they could do to add to the variety and interest of both visitors and area residents alike, the more successful Artrain is sure to be.

The consensus was that business should do everything it can to have as many varied activities going as long as possible while Artrain was stopping in the village.

Okay school tax
in light vote

In an exceedingly light vote in an issue that will cost the taxpayer 25 cents per $1,000 of valuation, Tuscola county voters approved money for special education by a substantial majority, 1334 to 806.

The money will be used to expand the special education program and meet rising costs. The 4-mill authorized will raise about $60,000 annually for the Intermediate School District.

Unlike votes for school expenses in high school districts, money voted for the Intermediate District is a levy that never automatically ends.

The proposition carried in every district, but only narrowly in Akron-Fairgrove and Reese. The vote by high school districts:

District	Yes	No
Ak-Fg	83	77
Caro	243	186
Cass City	104	76
Kingston	89	45
Mayville	136	67
Millington	187	83

Air protests over proposed change in Junior High

The Cass City School Board, members of the administration, coaches and interested taxpayers kicked around a proposed change in the basketball program in the intermediate school without coming to a conclusion Monday night at the regular session of the board at the high school.

The discussion was sparked by a proposal by the administration to change the present program of school teams competing on a limited schedule with other schools to an intramural program.

Spearheading the drive to see the change were Supt. Don Crouse and Trustee Mrs. Geraldine Priesskorn. Also wanting to see change was trustee Elwyn Helwig.

Objecting to the elimination of interscholastic competition were all of the coaches in the program and the taxpayers who attended the meeting.

The argument for the change, according to Athletic Director Robert Stickle and Crouse was to increase participation in games.

Much of the criticism appeared to stem from a game when Cass City ran up a score against Caro in a previous season and did not play all the players.

Coaches present and others interested in the program established that this year all boys in the program made more than token appearances in every game. Trustee Dean Hoag said that he favored an intramural program but not at the expense of an interscholastic program.

The coaches challenged the theory that boys lose interest because they weren't playing enough and pointed to the number of boys in the program in each of the grades.

Pro-present program advocates conceded a sharp loss of players in high school but suggested that other interests at that age level were the cause.

Crouse said that his plan called for intramural competition with records, scores and standings. At the end of the season the better players would be selected to play a "couple" of games and then be thrown into a tournament.

All of the persons present, except members of the administration, appeared to favor the present program. However, the board felt that those who may want to see a change were not present Monday.

For this reason they will place the item on the agenda at the next regular meeting and will invite any other interested persons to attend.

For at least one pupil, the program is fine the way it is. Craig Guernsey, a Senior student, who has been in the Cass City program from the grades through varsity competition backed the program as it is when asked for his opinion by Stickle.

NEW LEAGUE?

Stickle also brought the board up to date on a proposed new athletic conference that is under discussion.

Talk about change is nothing new, he explained, but because of the difficulties that several area schools are having, a change that would bring all schools into a greater Thumb conference is under study.

The key to the new alignment for Cass City, Stickle said, is whether Sandusky and Marlette would agree to switch.

Under the plan there would be a Western and Eastern division with some 15 schools.

If Sandusky and Marlette would shift from the Thumb B to the Eastern division of the new conference, Millington and Unionville-Sebewaing would be invited to join in the Western division that would also include the remainder of the schools in the present Thumb B.

Elect delegates in May 16 primary

Voters in Tuscola county will be asked to vote on two proposed constitution amendments and township delegates to the county conventions Tuesday, May 16, in the first presidential preference primary election since the 1930's in Michigan.

A total of nine candidates have filed and voters will have an opportunity to voice their preference among presidential hopefuls. Listed under the Democratic party are Shirley Chisholm, Vance Hartke, Hubert H. Humphrey, Henry M. Jackson, George S. McGovern, Edmund S. Muskie, and George C. Wallace.

Richard M. Nixon and Paul N. McCloskey Jr. have filed under the Republican ticket. No names appear under the American Independent Party.

There are 19,255 registered voters in the county, and what the turn out will be is unpredictable.

"Actually, it's the first presidential preference election we've had since the 1930's," said county clerk Elsie Hicks, "so it's hard to tell. I expect it to be a one day turnout."

Arrest 2 for gasoline theft

Two Decker boys were arrested and charged with larceny under $100 Monday when they were caught stealing gasoline.

Gary L. Bitterling, 18, 5896 Decker Road, entered a plea of guilty to the charge when he appeared before Tuscola County District Court Judge Richard Kern. Sentencing is set for May 22.

His brother, Jerry L. Bitterling, of the same address, entered a plea of innocent to the charge.

They are charged with stealing gasoline from a farmer's tank, and were caught when he filled the tank with a mixture of gasoline and water and the boys' car refused to run.

CURRICULUM ADDITIONS

Principal Russell Richards presented proposed curriculum additions and changes in the high school for 1972-73 and quickly received approval from the board.

A move to lessen study hall requirements was a major change for pupils. Unless they ride the school bus they will not have to be in school on the first or last period of the day if they do not have classes.

The additions for next year include psychology, regional geography, stenotyping, Spanish 3 and conversational German.

Another addition is "lifetime sports" in place of study hall.

Richards also received the okay for many new textbooks, but was unable to tell Monday just how much the new texts would cost local taxpayers.

The resignation of Allen Fennell as superintendent of the Owen-Gage school system was accepted Monday night at a meeting of the board of education.

Fennell, who has been superintendent 6 years, told the board he has accepted employment in a larger school system at Gladwin. His resignation becomes effective July 1.

Approve rate increase for

Thumb Electric

The Michigan Public Service Commission authorized an increase in rates for the Thumb Electric Cooperative of Michigan at Ubyl Friday.

The utility serves 7,350 members in portions of Huron, Sanilac and Tuscola counties and an increase that will net $223,349 annually was approved.

Authorities at the Cooperative said that it would be a week or more before a breakdown of the rates to subscribers could be completed and the amount of increase per user established.

The Public Service Commission also authorized the Cooperative to borrow $1,096,000 from the Rural Electrification Administration to improve and expand facilities to service some 300 new customers expected this year... mostly in the Vassar and Millington area.

Seek solution to established school drug problem

No concrete solutions resulted Monday when parents, children and law officials met to discuss the drug problem in Cass City, but those attending aired their concerns and suggested areas needing attention by both youngsters and adults.

About 30 attended the meeting Monday night at the Cultural Center moderated by Tim Uihman of the Catholic Family Services, Bad Axe, and arranged by Hills and Dales Hospital administrator Byron Landholt.

Law enforcement officials declared that there is definitely a problem with drugs and students in this area and in the county.

Cass City Police Chief Gene Wilson said that the kids at the school have pills and marijuana, although there isn't any heroin in his knowledge. The family medicine cabinet is one source, he said. And marijuana is plentiful.

"Some kids in school have been making trips to Saginaw," he said. Or they get it from college friends on the fringes of the Thumb.

DRUGS INCREASING

The prevalence of drugs is increasing, too, Wilson noted, saying rumors were getting heavier of its availability.

Tuscola county officers substantiated his statements.

"All students in school can tell you who's using the stuff and who's pushing. But they're not going to tell you who it is," said Detective Sergeant Bruce Tait of the Tuscola county sheriff's office. "They won't volunteer anything."

Landholt said the hospital receives about one overdose a week, more in the 20-30 age bracket. "I wouldn't think there were very many attempted suicides," he said.

The official reports of drug use were supported by Brian Althaver, a student, and one of three attending the session.

"I would say there is quite a bit of drug abuse in our school system," he said, from marijuana to LSD, he explained. He didn't venture a guess of the number of students who used or abused drugs, but added, "I think it's getting more prevalent every day."

An estimate was offered to the group by the Rev. James VanDellen, pastor of the Good Shepherd Lutheran Church, who said a student told him 35 to 40 per cent were regular or experimental users of drugs.

"Kids think they're doing other kids a favor by turning them on," said Greg Hampshire, another student.

The question of what could be done about the problem resulted in much discussion and for all the suggested solutions, the general conclusion was that there really wasn't any place to go for help.

NEED FACILITIES

Citizens denounced the lack of mental health services in the county and agreed that decentralizing treatment or counseling was vital.

Where there should be facilities of another nature, it was agreed that law enforcement officials have been given the job because there isn't anywhere else to go.

But this is an unworkable solution because young persons do not go to the police for help.

"In this area there's a feeling with the students in the higher grades that the police are out to bust them," stated Sergeant Tait. "But this is really not our primary mission."

"We're not out there to bust them. We're out there to help them," he added.

But he continued that after a certain point, they had to take police action if they found drugs.

He cited the case of a 16-year-old girl who had taken a bad trip recently. She had been on drugs for two years and swore they were mescaline, he said. A crime lab check revealed they were a combination of LSD and STP, more powerful hallucinogens. The girl was turned over to the probate court.

Several parents echoed the view that law enforcement and the courts were too lax in exercising authority and punishment. And while the officials agreed that they were interested in getting to the source, the pushers, they found it nearly impossible because the pushers were outside the area and the students don't tell.

EDUCATION

Tuscola county prosecuting attorney Leo Maki said, "If there's a problem here, you can't cure it by law enforcement." He suggested education was part of the answer.

Landholt was of the opinion that the educational films and speakers that had come to Cass City had done more to create an appetite than to discourage drug use.

"We need something constructive that doesn't have anything to do with drugs," he stated.

Why the kids turn to drugs was also discussed, with numerous reasons brought forward, including peer pressure, boredom, the desired effect of the drug, some other emotional or mental problem that is manifested in drug use as a symptom, or experimentation.

For the majority, it's to be in with the crowd or to try something new," said Wilson, disputing the thought that the drug users have some other kind of mental problem.

AWARENESS

Some were of the opinion that any drug use is a problem, and that kids must be made to realize they do have a problem if they use drugs.

"The first step is making them aware they have a problem," said Nelle Koepfgen, Cass City school nurse.

But even if the youngster does seek help, there is no place to turn to, for either parents or youngster. The lack of places to turn to was decry, but no one was able to devise an alternative. Help Line, a crisis intervention and referral service by telephone, was named by several as a great help.

The meeting ended after 2½ hours of discussion with the decision that anyone interested in volunteering to become part of a core group to set up a program and seek funds through a Michigan Department of Public Health grant should contact Landholt.

MODERATOR Tim Uihman leads a group of parents and law officials in the discussion to determine the extent of the drug problem in Cass City. He is a worker for the Catholic Family Services, Bad Axe.

(And anyone else he can get to help)

It was a bit of a paradox. Gerald Kerbyson appeared before the board to complain about the massive burning of refuse, including smoky plastic silverware, at the Intermediate School while a major project for one of the student groups is the recycling of glass as an anti-pollution project.

If the Chronicle were observing the Christian way, we wouldn't be casting the first stone about the indiscretion at the school.

We burn in our alley, too. It won't be long before all this burning stops... and about time. We're ready as soon as the village fathers come with a system to replace it the way Caro and other communities have already.

This is a column of trivia and this doesn't qualify. I couldn't help but think about President Nixon's war speech Monday. He talked about "humiliation" and "loss of pride" in the Vietnam conflict.

They seem to me to be feeble excuses for escalating a war that the vast majority feel is futile and without any real reason.

I barged in at coffee time at Croft-Clara and the staff there talked about this in a bull session. The consensus was that the ordinary Joe keeps following along because he just doesn't know enough to make an intelligent decision. He may have reservations about the entire mess but he just doesn't know.

Reminder: the deadline for filing petitions for the Cass City School Board is Monday at 4 p. m. It is likely (but not sure) that incumbents Arthur Severance and Gerald Hicks will face competition at the polls this summer.

Reminder: it's clean-up week May 13-20. That's 8 days, but why be picky? After all the village crew will haul it away free if you get it to the curb by Thursday, May 18.

You won't get another deal this good until next spring, so hustle, will you?

The hottest development going in Cass City these days is a new $1 million nursing home. It's really wrong to name it this. Observers who have seen a prototype call it a country club... and current rates are about $23 for really good care.

Bossman of the corporation interested is Dick Palms, former administrator at Hills and Dales Hospital and a sharp cookie. He's ready, willing and able to come to town at once. If he comes, the operation will greatly expand the village's tax base and be one of the community's largest employers.

The hang-up is finding 10 acres in the village that suits him and suits the neighbors.

Some 80 relatives and friends gathered at St. Pancratius parish hall in Cass City Sunday, May 7, honoring Mr. and Mrs. John McCormick on their 40th wedding anniversary.

The party was hosted by their four children, Mr. and Mrs. John A. McCormick, Mr. and Mrs. James DeLapa, Mr. and Mrs. David Burnette and Mr. and Mrs. Marvin McCormick and their families.

Buffet lunch was served from tables graced by a tiered wedding cake and flower arrangements in colors appropriate for the occasion.

Those in attendance came from Phoenix, Detroit, Coloma, Mt. Clemens, Grand Blanc, Pontiac, Port Huron, Cass City and area towns.

Mr. and Mrs. McCormick were married May 10, 1932, by the Rev. Fr. Hughes at Frieburg.

Henrik E. Stafseth told in a prepared news release this week.

This is $1080 more than the $9983 received during the same period last year.

Tuscola county received $502,459 for the first quarter, compared to last year's $477,307; Sanilac, $485,087, up from $450,430, and Huron, $443,878, up from $407,829.

Stafseth said net receipts of the Highway Fund for January, February and March totaled $146,335,358. This is an increase of $8,044,224 or 5.8 per cent over the same period in 1971.

The funds are distributed according to a formula established by the legislature, providing 46 per cent to the Department of State Highways; 34 per cent to the 83 counties; and 20 per cent to the 529 incorporated cities and villages.

All state taxes on gasoline and diesel fuel, plus license plate fees, go into the Highway Fund.

Amounts going to other villages were: Gagetown, $3785, up from $3696; Kingston $2765, up from $2512; Owendale, $2924, up from $2745; Ubyly, $4903, down from $4963, and Unionville, $3765, up from $3516.

THE FIRST ROSE delivered to Harry Little for potting and care came from Mrs. George Richardson, right. Mrs. Iris Tuckey, left, was instrumental in coordinating efforts to contact women's clubs to ask them to buy roses for Artrain.

Women's groups buy roses to beautify Artrain site

A major step in the preparations for Artrain was completed with the purchase of rose bushes which will be set at the site of the traveling museum.

Harry Little of Cass City, who is also planting marigolds for the site, devised the plan whereby women from several groups each bought a rose and took it to him for potting and care.

The anticipated 60 bushes are expected to bloom red, pink, yellow and white. Little will tend the roses which will be set at the train site in July. Afterwards, each woman will claim the bush that bears a tag with her name on it.

Mrs. Iris Tuckey coordinated efforts to implement Little's idea. Immediate response brought the first bush Friday morning from Mrs. George Richardson.

Participating are the WSCS of Trinity and Salem Methodist Churches, the Catholic Women's Council, Presbyterian Women's Group and the Caro Garden Club.

The site itself received attention this week when Ed Bergman and crew tore down the old Michigan Bean Coal Bin, an eyesore for many years in the community, and an obstacle to the preparations of the site near the Grand Trunk Railroad off Main Street.

The Artrain has been an impetus and will highlight the four-day arts festival, but will not be the sole display.

A tentative schedule of activities related to the community's artistic values and concepts has been worked out. Included are a non-juried art show, a crafts show, music, a photography show, classic films, one-act plays, a display of antiques, seminars on various aspects of arts, an architectural tour of the community's homes and a "Splash and Mash" corner where youngsters through the elementary grades can experiment with clay and paint.

Service clubs and women's groups have pitched in to help with the displays and programs, as well as doing behind-the-scenes jobs, noted Mrs. Holly Althaver, community chairman.

"I'm delighted with the enthusiasm and cooperation of everybody," she stated.

Donations have been received so far from the Shabbona Extension Group, the Cass City Schools, Zonta, Echo Chapter OES, the Lobby Club, and American Association of University Women. Promises of sizeable contributions have been received from Walbro Corp. and the Cass City Chamber of Commerce.

"If It Fitz..."

He wants to see Nixon

BY JIM FITZGERALD

This father was serious. He has 2 sons fighting in Vietnam and he wants to talk personally to President Nixon about getting them out alive. He thought maybe I could pull the strings to get him inside Nixon's office.

It is a laugh. I explained to the father that he was vastly over-rating the influence of a country editor-columnist. If he didn't mind standing in line, I told him, I might be able to get him into the mayor's office in the back of the hardware store. That is the extent of my clout.

The father shrugged and left. And now I'm feeling lousy for having laughed in his face. Sure, he should realize the President talks only to Kissinger and the TV cameras. But that father is afraid he'll never see his sons alive again. He wants to talk to the man who is risking their lives. Is that really so irrational?

I remember when I had a solution for ending the U. S. involvement in Vietnam (I love that word "involvement." When you say it real quick, you don't get a bit of blood on your teeth). My suggestion was a constitutional amendment requiring the President to attend the funeral of every U. S. citizen killed in Vietnam. I figured he'd prefer bringing the boys home to sitting down with their parents and explaining how Junior died for the Bay of Tonkin.

I expounded that brilliant idea many years ago. Egad, I should be a Democratic candidate for President. I've been a dove longer than Senator McGovern. I was against this stupid war way back when the French thought it was a good idea. But, of course, I cheat. I'm even against fist fights.

Lyndon Johnson was chief honcho when my funeral column somehow leaked into the White House. The general in charge of screwball newspapermen immediately wrote me a stuffy letter explaining that the President didn't have time to attend all those funerals (the fatality count was about 30,000 then, with thousands more accurately penciled in by Pentagon prognosticators). But, the general assured me, the President was certainly concerned with the suffering of survivors. To prove it, he sends them all medals.

I then wrote another column suggesting what the general might do with his medals. And I haven't heard from the White House since.

Some people will tell you things are better today. Nixon is "bringing the boys home" (in time to vote for him land the U. S. casualty rate is so low, the President could almost find time for the funerals.

For the United States, the war has become an impersonal, automated event. We fly out and drop tons of bombs and return home in time for a hot dinner. Of course, we kill thousands of people, including women and children, but they're "Gooks."

But those slant-eyed people bleed as they die, the same as Johnny. Their families cry. And a child with no parents is an orphan, in Thanh Hoa the same as in Toledo.

So I would expand my constitutional amendment to include funerals of the enemy. The President, through an interpreter, could explain to a mother that he killed her son in Cambodia to keep the Communists out of New Jersey.

That'll be the day. That'll be the same day I get that father in to see Nixon.

Exercise

Sherry Lowell, Area Extension Home Economist

Find that your spring and summer clothes somehow don't fit the way they did when you put them away last fall? You're not alone!

There are two ways you can correct this.

1. Buy a new spring and summer wardrobe (much too costly and impractical).

2. Increase activity through exercise, participation in sports and other outdoor activities.

Walking is one inexpensive form of exercise. Have you tried it lately? Walk to the store. Park at the far corner of the parking lot. When you have a choice between an elevator or stairs, choose the stairs. Walk tall, pull in your stomach and square your shoulders.

Everyone knows exercise shapes one's body. Did you know that it also improves your poise, relaxes tension, tones your muscles, builds your strength and holds back the aging process.

So when you discover your clothes no longer fit, you may want to try increased activity before investing in a new wardrobe.

Investigate minor auto accidents

Tuscola county sheriff's deputies are investigating an accident in which Mrs. Dixie Byerly, 4845 Kingston Road, Kingston, was run off the road as she was westbound on Deckerville Road, 2 miles east of Deford.

She told officers a car came directly at her in her lane. To avoid an accident she swerved and landed in a ditch. She was not injured and no damage was done to her car.

Three Cass City men escaped injury when they were involved in two separate car-deer accidents. Edward Arthur Spencer, 5862 Kelly Road, Cass City, struck a deer when it jumped in front of his vehicle as he was westbound on Deckerville Road, near Plain Road, at 4:40 a. m. Saturday.

A car operated by James Robert Kile, 5526 N. Dodge Road, Cass City, went into a ditch and rolled over when he swerved to avoid a deer crossing Crawford Road. The accident happened at 10:30 p. m. Sunday as he was northbound near Kelly Road. A passenger in the car was Chuck Hughes, Crawford Road, Cass City.

Cass City police investigated a minor accident Friday at 3:50 p. m. when Frederick F. Harbec, 2567 Cemetery Road, Cass City, backed into a car driven by Mrs. Alison Brown, 5933 Pringle Road, Cass City, as both were waiting at the bus entrance to the high school.

Mrs. Galloway is an internationally and nationally known china painter and each year holds a class to teach china painting.

The tea entitled "Treasures and Pleasures" was sponsored by the Wixson Club of Caro.

Commissioners conduct quiet meeting Tuesday

A relatively quiet meeting was held Tuesday by the Tuscola County Board of Commissioners in regular session at the court house.

A letter announcing a public hearing at which testimony about proposed doe hunting areas in the state will be heard was read. Commissioner Ken Kennedy will attend the July 13 meeting in Cadillac.

The board has been against doe hunting in Tuscola county since this area was first opened several years ago. The state law allows does to be taken although the board of commissioners passed a resolution against it, which was ultimately unenforceable.

The DNR governing board will decide what areas should be open to doe hunting after the hearings.

In other business, Bill Bortel, County Extension Agent, appeared before the board to discuss a proposed bean specialist for the tri-county area. The man would be paid by the state but the county would have to pay for traveling expenses and secretarial help.

The bean specialist would work out of Tuscola county. A beef, hog and chicken specialist is proposed to work out of the Huron county office, also available to the tri-county area.

Currently, traveling expenses for 4 agents is $450 to $500 a month, said Commissioner Ed Goding.

Cost figures for another man were not available at the meeting, and the decision was deferred.

"We just don't have that kind of money in the budget right now," said Goding.

Goding said he and other commissioners are still feeling out the opinion of farmers in their districts.

In other business, the board set a salary of $8500 for an appraiser to assist Equalization Director Mac O'Dell. No one has been hired yet to the position created several weeks ago by the commissioners.

The board also voted to give a 5 per cent wage increase to Ed Goodchild who assists in the drain office part time. The increase brings his wage to $2.70 an hour.

The board also adopted a resolution that Tuscola county employees can have a payroll deduction plan for personal life insurance at their own cost if they wish.

A spring perennial: what about the senior trip ?

Every spring about this time the question of a Senior Class trip at Cass City High School is banded about at one or more school board meetings.

At Monday's meeting, Principal Russell Richards again asked about the trip. He objected to the various money-making schemes that were necessary to finance the trip and the time taken by the sponsor to supervise the various projects.

This sparked the usual discussion with the usual inconclusive answers.

The board is reluctant to cut the trip entirely but would probably be receptive for changes in the present system.

No suggested change has yet struck a responsive chord and it is likely that the Senior trip will receive future board attention.

The board voted to change a rule concerning graduation. Students without enough credits to graduate were formerly barred from commencement ceremonies.

When the student failed at the last moment a problem for the student and the family developed.

Now students who are enrolled in enough courses to graduate by the start of the fifth marking period will be allowed to participate in ceremonies regardless of whether or not they pass the courses.

If the student fails, he will simply receive a blank diploma graduation night.

In other business, the schools renewed membership in Michigan Association of School Boards for $465, discussed the cost of repairing a sign at the school and approved a request by George Bushong.

Bushong was granted approval to use school facilities for six weeks from June 19 to July 29 to give private music lessons. A lesson a week for students in grades 5-12 is planned at a cost of $15 each or a maximum of $30 per family.

Getting a reasonably vandal-proof sign with locking letters will cost $1,132, Supt. Donald Crotts told board members. A check of alternatives will be made before a decision is reached.

Gerald Kerbyson complained that burning of trash at the Intermediate School was causing problems at his home. The board agreed and will investigate a compactor to eliminate burning and have the barrels moved for the remaining days of school.

FROM THE LITTER BOX

The war is still here

By Kit McMillion

Exactly one week ago, I was getting ready for work just like many other mornings, half listening to the news on the TV while I went about the daily routine of making myself look presentable and satisfying my appetite.

But I paused and stopped when I heard the newsmen begin a story about the second anniversary of the Kent State 3.

The students and professors that remembered held a vigil and a memorial ceremony. As the pictures showed the candles and the mock graves, it made me stop to remember.

I recalled very vividly exactly what I was doing that day, and I chided myself for forgetting.

Two years ago—it seems so far away now, just like the war in Vietnam has become as I get older and further from the concern that my fellow student showed and that students still show.

It was a warm spring day; the magnolia trees had blossomed and the campus was green and beautiful. Most of the students were either playing on the quadrangle, throwing frisbies or, as I found out later, getting arrested for a disturbance that triggered the strike.

Many of those events are sort of hazy now and I can't recall the exact sequence.

But the Kent State 4 are indelibly stamped on my memory.

I was in the news editing room half-heartedly doing some page make-up and with considerably more interest keeping track of what was coming over the wire services.

The bells rang, meaning a bulletin, and then the stunning news of the shootings printed out. I couldn't believe it.

It seemed incredible then and it still does, but it happened.

four students had been killed by national guardsmen.

And the indirect reason for their death, the war in Vietnam, is still going on, with fewer chances, it seems, of any kind of settlement.

Every night since I can remember the news has been filled with something about Indochina, maps and pictures of soldiers dying.

It's easy to become immune to the violence and tragedy of the wasted lives, and now that there are more yellow persons dying and being maimed than Americans, it's easy to think of it as their war.

And the extended television coverage over so many, many years has numbed people's sensitivity to war.

People are weary.

I personally am so tired of the war, I'm almost beyond caring. The demonstrations no longer arouse much reaction. But I'm glad someone still cares enough to get out and say so and have not accepted my acquiescence.

The news the past month has again been filled with depressing and disappointing news about the war. The country we have been attempting to protect is being over run, and the peace talks have stopped.

Some of the soldiers are coming home to find there is little sympathy for them and fewer jobs.

Sitting safely in the middle of Michigan, it's easy to forget about that war. There's nothing much we little people can do about it. But just because your sons, brothers or lovers aren't there anymore, doesn't mean you should forget about it.

The war isn't going away.

Meow.

Stewardesses become good wives

By Dan Marlowe

If you single men want a well-trained wife, marry an airline hostess.

That's the advice of a supervisor of hostess training for one of the major airlines. The supervisor, an 11-year veteran of the airlines herself, says that statistics prove there are fewer divorces in families where the wife was a stewardess than for any other female profession.

"Being a hostess," she says, "is the best possible training for being a housewife. If a girl can explain to 124 people why the chicken is a little cold today, she can certainly explain to one man across the dinner table."

Of course a single man has a running head start in selecting a hostess—the airlines prefer that word now rather than stewardess—as a mate. The girls have been pre-selected for him in a manner of speaking. "Only the best looking girls or those with the most sparkling personalities are selected for hostess training," the supervisor explains. "And the training is stiff enough so that the misfits tend to weed themselves out."

The trait that stands a hostess apart—the best of them—is even-tempered disposition, a quality sometimes lacking in non-hostess' marriages. "Good hostesses are almost temperless," the supervisor explains. "Girls who have flown for years have to develop patience, ingenuity, and common sense. And they have to care for people or they would never have selected the profession in the first place."

Housewives could learn something by watching hostesses the next time they fly, she says. There's the hostess crouch, for instance. That's the business of leaning over passengers to serve them from a tray. Or stretching to put things in the overhead rack, a combination of near-isometrical exercises. "You don't see many hostesses with flabby thighs," the supervisor says. "They're trained to flex their knees and let the thighs do the work. When a girl is hired, she's given a physical and assigned weight limits. Once a month they're checked, and if they go over the mark, they're fired. The girls learn to take care of themselves."

The girls also learn about food, how to prepare it, and how to serve it with a flair. They learn to carve roasts, to serve wines, and to smooth the rough edges from the grumpiest passenger's ill-humor. Being a hostess really does seem like the perfect finishing school for a girl who wishes to marry.

It's even possible to improve upon near-perfection.

"Single men should keep an especially sharp eye out for European or Asiatic hostesses," the supervisor confides. "When a girl from a culture which stresses female subservience to men combines this with hostess-training, the result can be sheer bliss as far as the man is concerned."

So there you are, gentlemen. The line forms on the right at Metropolitan Airport.

Eric John Esau, 21, a degree candidate from the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, attended commencement ceremonies Saturday.

Esau, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Esau, 6100 E. Milligan, Cass City, received a bachelor of arts degree in English, in the College of Literature, Sciences and Arts.

3 FFA teams win silver awards at state contest

Three Cass City Future Farmers of America (FFA) teams received notice last week they won silver awards in an Agriculture Skills Contest held April 29 at Michigan State University, East Lansing, FFA advisor Ross Beach said.

They were among the more than 450 3-man teams representing nearly 100 high schools in the annual event designed to evaluate skills learned in vocational agriculture classes and in FFA.

The teams winning silver honors were: agriculture mechanics, Dave Deering, Mike Nicol and Mike Karr; dairy cattle judging, Randy Smith, Dan Cooper and Paul Voss; and livestock judging, Bob DeLong, Dana Truemmer and Dick DeLong.

Cass City also participated in two other areas: agriculture management, Donna DeLong, Jim Dorland and Scott Hartel, and land conservation, Mike Stine, Fred Nolan and Gordon Wills. Attending as alternate was Kim Hutchinson.

Sponsored in part by the State FFA Association, this contest activity is conducted jointly through the Michigan Department of Education, and the colleges of education, agriculture and natural resources at Michigan State University.

Extension holds homemakers night

Fourteen Tuscola county extension study groups gathered at Reese High School for their annual Homemakers' Night April 27.

Mrs. Walter Schrader, Reese, welcomed over 100 extension study group members and their guests to an evening of "Understanding through Friendship".

The program featured a slide presentation of Northern Europe by Mrs. William Ritter, Cass City. She and her husband spent three years in Holland and showed many beautiful scenes of their travels abroad.

Mrs. Harvey Reif, Reese, chairman of the Northwest Gifford Extension Study Group, accepted the Reach and Teach Award Certificate for her group. They earned an average of nine points per member in their efforts to reach new members and teach them through Extension sponsored meetings and lessons.

Mrs. Alvin Bauer, Reese, was awarded the Clark Memorial Scholarship which will cover her expenses for College Week for Women at Michigan State University in June. Mrs. Charles Maupin, Caro, was selected as an alternate winner.

The impressive candlelight installation of officers to the County Extension Homemakers' Council concluded the evening program.

BETTER HEALTH

Parasitic skin diseases

BY DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

In recent years, scabies, the once common disease of poor people, has been staging a comeback, this time among teen-agers and upper-class adults. Scabies is due to a tiny mite that bores through the skin — most commonly the skin in the spaces between the fingers, the backs of the hands, the elbows, armpits, groin, under a woman's breasts and in the navel.

The symptoms are intense itching, and the person will notice a small, reddish elevated track on the surface of the skin. Scabies are usually acquired through contact with other persons with scabies, or with clothing, bed linen or towels that have been contaminated with the mites. In family pets, the condition is known as "mange." Fortunately, there are drugs that will kill the tiny mites and will thus work a cure, and machine washing kills scabies mites on clothing.

Sometimes an epidemic of scabies will sweep through a hospital. In November, 1971, 200 cases of scabies were reported in a small community in New England. This was the first "epidemic" in the United States.

Similar itching is produced by lice. One variety grows on the head, mainly on the scalp at the back of the head and behind the ears, but occasionally even in the beard and eyebrows. They live more commonly in people with long hair, and are transmitted through personal contact or by contact with infested hats, hair brushes, combs or pillows.

Another variety is known as pubic or "crab" lice. They are often hard to see with the naked eye. They are usually in the genital area, but they can also infest the eyelashes, moustache, and armpits. A "crab" lice victim may or may not have itching, and the condition is readily spread through close physical contact.

Body lice leave tiny bite marks that can be found on the shoulders and about the waist. They are the result of living conditions where it is difficult to bathe frequently and change clothes often enough. These lice often live in the seams of clothing and in bedding linen. Obviously, bathing often and dry cleaning or boiling clothes will bring relief.

A DISTRESSING AUTOPSY RULE

In the American Medical Association News, I read that according to a new court ruling, Illinois hospitals and physicians must now, in order to do an autopsy (a study made after a person has died, to determine the cause of death) get permission not only from the nearest of kin, but from "all close relatives of a deceased person." The judge thought that a number of relatives can have rights in determining whether an autopsy should be permitted.

When a man died in Chicago's St. Joseph Hospital in 1967, one surviving brother gave permission for an autopsy, but the second was not notified, so he sued and was awarded $1,000 in damages. I think all physicians will now hope that this judicial decision will be appealed to a higher court. Why? It seems unwise and unkind to make obtaining permission for autopsies so difficult. In so many cases, much scientific value can be learned from autopsies, especially on patients whose medical problems were puzzling.

That the new regulation would seem to be unnecessary is shown by the experience of a great clinic during the last 50 years. There, permission was obtained from the nearest of kin, and I never heard of anyone suing because of this practice. I have had relatives of a patient write me to say that because their brother's insurance was not payable if he died of heart disease, they were happy to have proof that he died of something other than heart disease.

LIGHT MAGAZINE FOR THE BLIND

I like to mention the beautiful Light magazine published by the Braille Institute. In this spring, 1972 issue I see an article on how the computer helps sightless readers to select talking books. After a person has requested a book, the computer simply tells the librarians if the book is on the shelf. If it is, the computer gives the necessary information so that it can be shipped out. Most talking books are on records.

There are also articles on

AROUND THE FARM

More food for the money

by William Bortel

Family income buys considerably more food today than 20 years ago, partly because agriculture has become much more efficient, and partly because consumer incomes have risen faster than food prices. For example, here's what the average U. S. factory worker can buy with an hour's pay:

	1950	1971
White bread	10.1 lbs.	14.1 lbs.
Frying chickens	2.4 lbs.	8.9 lbs.
Milk	7.0 qts.	10.4 qts.
Butter	2.0 lbs.	4.0 lbs.
Eggs	2.4 doz.	6.4 doz.
Pork chops	1.5 lbs.	3.4 lbs.

And diets are more varied. People are eating 42 per cent more poultry and 35 per cent more beef than 10 years ago. They are eating 27 per cent more vegetables and 9 per cent more processed fruits. Americans are also dining out more often, boosting food sales from eating out by a whopping 73 per cent.

In the midst of this affluence, the nation has not forgotten its needy citizens. Family food assistance programs are provided for more than 14 million people. The National School Lunch Program reaches 24.4 million children and more than 800,000 children receive a nutritious breakfast at school under the School Breakfast Program.

Cite 2 banks

By Bernard Jardot

The State Savings Bank of Unionville and the Mayville State Bank recently received the 4-H Silver Clover Citation from the Michigan 4-H Foundation.

The citation, presented to banks throughout Michigan that have contributed one hundred dollars or more within the past year to the "Opportunities to Youth" programs, was made at the monthly county 4-H council meeting. The Extension 4-H youth agent, Bernie Jardot, and county council president, Keith Russell of Cass City, made the presentations.

Each of these bank representatives called this donation as an investment to our youth for the future. All our friends of 4-H should be commended for their support of our 4-H youth program here in Tuscola county as well as on the state level.

Serving 100,000 young people, the Michigan 4-H Foundation is dedicated to assisting in the formulation and financing of special projects which strengthen the size and effectiveness of the 4-H program. This includes our Camp Kett Leader Training facilities and other leader training activities throughout the state.

Unrest over prices spurs farmers to group together

Farmers in Michigan as well as the rest of the country have been flexing some new political muscles in recent months.

It started when unrest over low prices caused the resignation of scholarly Clifford Hardin as Secretary of Agriculture and the naming of Purdue professor Earl Butz as his successor. Butz wasn't trusted by many farmers when he took office and some farm groups lobbied extensively against his confirmation. But he was confirmed and has since been a very outspoken advocate for the plight of the farmer.

The most recent furor was over food prices. Butz, instead of laying back, came out swinging when consumers started complaining about what they paid for food.

It isn't farmers' fault the food prices are going up, he said over and over. In the past 20 years the prices paid farmers for food products has gone up 6 per cent while the price for them at the checkout counter rose 43 per cent.

During that period, the nation's wage rates rose an average of 6 per cent each year.

In fact, he said, he hoped farm prices rose even higher, since the farmer still wasn't getting his fair share of American prosperity.

Butz isn't the only one speaking out. Several movements are going on at the state level as well.

The Michigan Senate passed a bill to permit farmers to form unions for negotiating prices of their products -- something that has not been done.

One of the problems farmers have always faced: they only get what the processor or elevator they sell their products to will pay. Farmers are by nature independent, so it's hard to organize them into a group.

The National Farmers Organization, headed by Oren Lee Staley, has tried for years to sell collective bargaining to farmers, but hasn't sold enough of them to make it stick.

The Senate bill, however, would allow farmers who grow more than 50 per cent of a particular crop to form bargaining associations. The association then would bargain with handlers and processors on such items as prices, terms of sale and quality specifications.

If no agreement were reached, the two would submit their best offers to an arbitration board which would pick one of the two offers as the most equitable.

The bill's main sponsor is Sen. Charles O. Zoller, a wealthy fruit farmer from Benton Harbor, who said the bill is designed to save the family farm.

"Right now they're caught," he says. "They're dealing with a perishable commodity which they must sell. And they have to accept the price that's being offered because they have no bargaining power."

Farm wives have been working too. While the men have been busy talking and legislating, their ladies, perhaps inspired by women's lib movement have swung into action.

A group of Michigan farm wives organized themselves into the "Women for Survival of Agriculture in Michigan." They are headed by Mrs. Connie Canfield of Decatur and they are serious.

Among the things they have done to call attention to the plight of the farmer is visit the Capitol and present their case to Gov. William G. Milliken.

"The farmer's costs are set," Mrs. Canfield told Milliken. But the farmer is powerless to determine what he will receive for his produce. The need for marketing and bargaining legislation is urgent."

They picketed fru it receiving stations for low prices and launched publicity campaigns to help their cause.

"The Michigan farmer needs a voice that can be heard and our group plans to be that voice," Mrs. Canfield says.

When Congressman James O'Hara made some comments in December which the group felt were uncomplimentary to farmers, he found a letter on his desk from one of its members.

"We will leave no stone unturned in our effort to give the public an honest version of the lives and work of the farmer," she vowed.

Extension tours

Detroit police

Tuscola county extension women boarded a bus early Wednesday morning, May 3, and headed for Detroit. Their annual Spring Tour brought them to the Detroit City Police Headquarters. They saw firsthand how the communications are handled -- incoming calls as well as assigning people to investigate the report. Also, how they use a computer in checking out a person.

The Scientific Division personnel explained and showed how tests, such as the lie detector and ballistics tests, are conducted.

Also included on the tour was a musical at the Fisher Theater. Mrs. Joe Young, Reese, was the tour chairman.

The ability to like people, and make them like you, is a grand success in itself.

Joy is discovering that the great tradition of Valiant value lives on in Plymouth Duster.

A couple of years ago we introduced a sporty version of the Plymouth Valiant, called Duster. Duster has quickly become one of the hottest-selling small cars in America. It figures. Duster is just big enough, just small enough to be just right. So is the price. And so is our deal.

Joy is a comforting fact, like Chrysler is the roomiest car in America.

Chrysler Newport Royal is every inch a big car -- the roomiest production car in America, according to Automotive Industries. But another comforting fact is that Royal is priced around a comparably-equipped Ford LTD Brougham and Chevy Caprice. That's what we mean by joy.

CASS CITY

Uncle Tim From Tyre Says:

Dear Mister Editor:

Did you see them recent stories out of the Philippines where scientists has gone in the woods over there to study this tribe that was found living like the cave man? Ed Doolittle come to the country store Saturday night with a handful of clippings on the subject, and he allowed what was pretty good was where one scientist said that tribe can learn the civilized world a heap about living.

For instant, Ed said, we got a world where a feller can get rich selling do-it-yourself divorce kits and where we got enuff bombs to bust the world open like a stopped on catelope. The Tassaday tribe ain't got no weapons or divorce, Ed reported, and they ain't even got a word in their language for anger. Whoever said that ignorance is bliss said a mouthful, was Ed's words.

The fellers was general agreed with Ed, Mister Editor, that civilized man is about to outsmart himself fer a fare thee well. Bug Hookum said it looks to him like learning is gitting out of hand. If a little education is a dangerous thing, allowed Bug, to much education is worst. When we git to the place where experts say religion is bad fer children, like this report he had saw, Bug said we has got to smart fer our own good.

Actual, broke in Clem Webster, the education pendulum might be swinging the other way. Clem said he had saw we got a surplus of school teachers now that can't git jobs at $500 a month, and we got companies crying fer pipefitters that could start at $800 a month. Furthermore, Clem said, we got to have somebody with some practical sense to figger out problems like he saw this college had. They is 9,000 students at the college and they drive 7,000 cars. In the hole town they ain't but 3,500 parking places. The best remedy the educated town manager could come up with was that half the students would have to be driving around all the time, and everybody else in town would have to walk.

General speaking, allowed Ed, they is enuff good solid ignorance left in the country to keep us out of danger for a while yet. Ed had saw where young-uns under six now spend 65 per cent of their time watching TV. And another example, Ed said, is that the stores in this country had got us convinced that we was gitting all them trading stamp gifts flat free from nobody knowed where, but now they has got us just as convinced that if they quit giving stamps they can reduce their prices. Somewhere in there is a lesson, was Ed's words.

Personal, Mister Editor, I know we can't crawl back in a cave, but I agree with Ed that when a college offers a course in robbing banks in order to "establish a level of mutual self-respect between robber and robbed" we has gone overboard. Maybe its time to set up a new course called "Right and Wrong."

Yours truly,
Uncle Tim

The regular meeting of the Cass City Village Council was held on April 25, 1972 at the Municipal Building. Trustee Ross was absent.

The minutes of the regular March meeting were read and approved.

Thomas Sutter appeared before the Council regarding trouble with kids loitering in the public walkway between Konrad's Bakery and Ryland and Guc, Inc. Following discussion with Mr. Sutter, Police Chief Wilson informed him that his department would concentrate on this problem.

Jim Gross was also present to request that certain improvements be made to the Village parking lot behind his store. Mr. Gross was informed that the requested improvements to the parking lot would be attended to.

Jim Johnson and J. D. Alexander, representing the Little League Program, were present to request that the Council consider a permanent cyclone fence for the two Little League diamonds and a temporary water line installed so that proper watering of the ball diamonds could be done.

Following discussion, a motion was made by Trustee Bliss and supported by Trustee Jones that a permanent fence be constructed at each of the ball diamonds and a temporary water line put in. Motion carried.

A motion was made by Trustee Rawson and supported by Trustee Bliss that the Council accept Ed Bergman's bid of $100 for the demolition and removal of the Michigan Bean Coal Building located at the Artrain site. Motion carried.

A motion was made by Trustee Albee and supported by Trustee Jones that the bid from Frank Strausberg & Son for approximately 720 tons of asphalt at $10.20 per ton be accepted. Motion carried.

A Public Hearing was held on the proposed Zoning Ordinance. Warren Wood, Chairman of the Planning Commission, and Clint House, Village Attorney, were present at the hearing.

Several questions were asked by interested citizens regarding particular sections of the proposed ordinance.

Following considerable discussion of the Zoning Ordinance, a motion was made by Trustee Rawson and supported by Trustee Albee that the recommended change to Section 1504 of the proposed Zoning Ordinance be tabled. Motion carried.

The Public Hearing was closed and discussion of the Zoning Ordinance will be continued at the next Council meeting.

The Council was informed that a Public Hearing on the Subdivision Regulations and Engineering Design Standards Ordinance will be held May 17, 1972.

Tom Herron appeared before the Council to request permission to not pave streets within a subdivision he is developing. The Council advised him that the Planning Commission has recommended the developer of subdivisions to stand all improvement costs and that the Planning Commission has proposed Subdivision Regulations and Engineering Design Standards under consideration at the present time.

A motion was made by Trustee Bliss and supported by Trustee Jones that adoption be made of proposed Ordinance No. 77, An Ordinance establishing minimum standards governing minimum plumbing standards in terms of performance objectives, implemented by specific requirements, which will provide reasonable safeguards for sanitation to protect the public health against the hazards of inadequate, defective or insanitary plumbing installations; and repealing existing Ordinance Number 38 of the Village of Cass City, Tuscola County, State of Michigan, (which Ordinance will be duly posted and published pursuant to statute). Roll call vote: Yeas-5, Nays-0. Motion carried.

A motion was made by Trustee Bliss and supported by Trustee Holmberg that adoption be made of proposed Ordinance No. 76, An Ordinance governing the design, construction, alteration, enlargement, equipment, repair, demolition, removal, conversion, use and maintenance of all buildings and structures; known as the Building Code; Providing for the issuance of permits, collection of fees, making of inspections, providing penalties for the violation thereof, declaring and establishing fire limits and repealing existing Ordinance Number 38, An Ordinance providing for building, plumbing and electrical construction and fire prevention in the Village of Cass City, State of Michigan, (which Ordinance will be duly posted and published pursuant to statute). Roll call vote: Yeas-5, Nays-0. Motion carried.

A motion was made by Trustee Albee and supported by Trustee Jones that adoption be made of proposed Ordinance No. 75, An Ordinance relative to the prevention of vice and immorality and the preservation of the public peace and good order in the Village of Cass City, (which Ordinance will be duly posted and published pursuant to statute). Roll call vote: Yeas-5, Nays-0. Motion carried.

The following resolution was moved by Trustee Bliss and supported by Trustee Holmberg: "That a Special Assessment District be created on West Street between Pine Street and Garfield Street, Village of Cass City, for the purpose of installing curb and gutter on West Street in that area, with the entire costs of the improvements to be paid by special assessment."

The Village Assessor is hereby directed to spread the special assessments prorata on the district, composed of all property owners on each side of West Street, between Pine Street and Garfield Street, according to the length of each lot's frontage on West Street." Motion carried by unanimous vote.

A motion was made by Trustee Rawson and supported by Trustee Albee that the bills as examined by the Finance Committee be approved for payment. Motion carried.

The Parks and Recreation Committee and Public Safety Committee gave brief reports.

Upon the recommendation of the Public Utilities Committee a motion was made by Trustee Rawson and supported by Trustee Bliss that a contract with Hubbell, Roth and Clark to prepare an analysis of the Wastewater Treatment facilities as modified by the Council be accepted. Motion carried.

No report was given on additional street lights.

Superintendent Blades reported that Less Ross and E. B. Schwaderer were unable to inspect the used street sweeper in Ann Arbor that has been under consideration. It was the decision of the Council to not purchase this particular sweeper and to investigate further.

No report was made on the request by Tom Proctor to purchase the old Fire Hall building.

The Council was advised that extending sewer facilities to Calvin MacRae's property on North Seeger would cost a minimum of $2,500 and could cost $4,000 or more depending upon the specific engineering requirements. The Council decided that present budget limitations would not permit extension as requested at this time.

A motion was made by Trustee Rawson and supported by Trustee Holmberg that the millage rate of 13 mills be levied on the state equalized valuation of the Village of Cass City in the amount of $9,110,800. Motion carried.

A motion was made by Trustee Jones and supported by Trustee Albee that an additional trench be dug at the sanitary landfill. Motion carried.

Clean-Up, Paint-Up, Fix-Up Week was set for May 13 - 20, 1972.

President Althaver read a letter of resignation from James Blades, Village Superintendent, effective April 28, 1972.

Trustee Jones reported to the Council that Dan Erla, Village Assessor, has enrolled in assessors' school and would like the Village to pay for his enrollment fee. The Council will look into this matter further.

There being no further business, a motion was made by Trustee Albee and supported by Trustee Jones that the meeting be adjourned.

Who pays for damage done while it's in storage?

Marine insurance is a bad name for marine insurance. At least, we think it is! If you're like most boat owners, your sailing, cruising or fishing is generally confined to weekends. In fact, most of the time, your boat isn't in the water—it's in "storage" somewhere! That's why you need more than marine insurance. We'll cover your boat in the water and out, and anywhere in between. You can insure your boat and trailer as easily as an automobile. Want to reduce the cost of your present insurance? Cured cancer patient Mrs. Hurd finds joy in just being alive

By Kit McMillion

You could almost say Mrs. David Hurd has been living on borrowed time for the last 13 years.

Now 49, she is healthy and happy, and enjoying every bit of life she can, because she has faced what could have been the end.

At the age of 36, Mrs. Hurd discovered she had cancer. Sitting in the living room of her comfortable home at 6644 Third St., Cass City, she recalled the fateful day. "I can still remember the day the doctor told me. I was in shock and didn't realize what he said until I got home."

That was in 1959. It started with a visit to the doctor because of a stomach ache. Shortly afterwards, she began hemorrhaging and decided something just wasn't right. A

Pap smear, the first she'd ever had, revealed cancer of the cervix.

"I was surprised. I never dreamed I had cancer. I just felt tired." She shouldn't have been. Cancer of the cervix is all too common.

After the shock wore off, she said she became frightened.

"I was scared to death. I was really scared at first. I had just got through reading a story about a woman who had cancer, who didn't tell her husband or anything. She died," related Mrs. Hurd.

She decided to have surgery right away. "I didn't want to die because I had my family that needed me," she said. The doctor had warned her that without treatment, she would have only about one year.

Following surgery and radium treatment, the woman came home to care for her 5 children, the oldest then 15 years. Following several years of intermittent tests, no recurrence was discovered and she was pronounced cured. "It was marvelous to hear the doctor say I was okay," said the happy woman. "Thanks to the Lord, I'm still here and feeling good."

Mrs. Hurd is one of the fortunate ones. But every year many die needlessly because the disease is not detected until it's too late. Last year about 13,000 American women died of uterine cancer alone, about half the death rate 30 years ago before the introduction of the Pap test.

The American Cancer Society, which holds its annual crusade in April, estimates that 52 million Americans now living will develop cancer and that 34 million, or about two-thirds, of them will die.

No one came to Mrs. Hurd's door this year, and she said forthrightly, "I was kind of disgusted. I want to give something because I am alive."

Although she isn't active in the cancer drive here, she collected for years in Auburn, where she and her family were living when she got out of the hospital.

"When I got better, I went around taking up for cancer. I think everybody should give," she stated.

She explained that people don't think their money does much good, but Mrs. Hurd knows it does. She found out the hard way. The cancer foundation paid for the radium treatments, which amounted to $110 for her.

"I think that's why a lot of people don't give," Mrs. Hurd said, because they don't know some of the money goes for treatment.

Just happy to be alive Mrs. Hurd does what she likes best, taking care of children. She cares for youngsters whose own mothers are working, as well as an occasional babysitting job for her six grandchildren.

From her own harrowing experience, Mrs. Hurd advises anyone to get a check up "If you feel the least bit funny or sick."

"An awful lot of my friends and my mother died of cancer," she said with a sad look.

But she smiled again as she restated her joy in being alive.

Collect $1400 for cancer in 3 county area

Approximately $1400 has been collected so far in the American Cancer Society door to door campaign, reports Ruth Hoffman, chairman of Novesta, Elkland and Elmwood townships.

The drive, which began April 10, has been slow in getting underway in some areas. Less than half of the county has been covered so far, Mrs. Hoffman estimated.

The first door to door campaign in six or seven years has been quite successful so far, said the chairman. Funds are received only from individual solicitation, but she emphasized that the educational aspect of the drive is just as important.

As of Wednesday night, May 3, funds received stood at: Cass City, $771; Elmwood $190; Elkland, $273, and Novesta, $20. Several hundred more dollars have been received since. The goal for this area is $2500.

In the county, $23,006.83 has been collected.

Sixty to 70 persons are working in each area. Chairmen are Jack McDaniel, Cass City; Arlene Retherford, Novesta; Frances Golding, Elkland, and Kathy Sullivan, Elmwood.

Money still talks, but stops to catch its breath quite often.

Usually a show-off is showup when the showdown comes.

JUST HAPPY to be alive, Mrs. David Hurd enjoys reading and caring for children. She was cured of cancer.

Sentence tractor thieves to 3 years' probation

Two men who pleaded guilty to the theft of a $15,000 tractor from Gettel Implement Co., Pigeon, were sentenced Friday in Huron County Circuit Court by Judge Arthur M. Bach.

William A. Rentschler Jr., 19, Munger, and Virgil L. Smith, 27, Bay City, were each placed on 3 years' probation and ordered to serve 90 days in jail with credit for 55 days already served.

Both were also ordered to pay fines and costs of $350 and make monthly oversight payments of $5 through the duration of the probation period.

Rentschler was driving the truck that was to be used to haul the tractor. He was taken into custody by Huron County Sheriff's Deputies after the vehicle became involved in a fatal accident west of Owendale, March 11.

The tractor, meanwhile, was being driven by Smith to a destination point in Tuscola county. He was arrested by Tuscola deputies for investigation after he had passed the scene of the accident.

Charges of conspiracy in the theft have been made against Dan Anger, 28, Caro, and Conrad Mosack, 33, Gagetown. Anger has pleaded innocent to the charges. Mosack is still at large.

A plea of innocent was entered for Dean C. Williams, Grand Rapids, when he stood mute to a charge of fraud Monday in Tuscola County Circuit Court before Judge Norman Baguley.

Williams is charged with falsely representing himself as a representative of the Veterans' Administration when he sold a cemetery lot for $395. The charges were brought against him by Gerald E. Houghton, Caro, who bought the lot August 1970 and was told he would get a second lot free. A pre-trial is scheduled for May 22.

Friday, Gregory Drews, 18, of Mayville, was found innocent of malicious destruction of property following a jury trial. The jury deliberated about 1/2 hour before handing down the verdict.

Drews has been accused of damaging restroom fixtures at Jim's Good Gulf station at M-24 and M-46.

Two other men pleaded guilty to reduced charges when they appeared for trial Wednesday, May 3.

Richard Kuzma, 19, of Vassar, pleaded guilty to a misdemeanor charge of malicious destruction of property. He was originally charged with a felony malicious destruction of property in the shooting out of windows at Vassar Dec. 11.

1971. He will be sentenced May 22.

Jerry T. Johnson, 32, of Flint, pleaded guilty to a charge of simple larceny, reduced from a breaking and entering charge of a dwelling in Millington, Nov. 25, 1971. He was sentenced to 90 days with credit for 90 days spent in jail.

Judge Norman Baguley presided at the trials.

Recovers from speared foot

John A. Asher of Cass City is expected to be hospitalized until next week following an accident when he was accidentally speared Saturday at 3 a. m. while spear fishing at Steel's Marina near Bay Port. It may be a month before he is able to return to work. Asher and Barry Wilson, 18, of Millington were at the edge of the water and Asher was carrying a lantern. He spotted a sucker in the water near his foot and yelled for Wilson to spear it. Wilson missed the fish and drove two times of the spear through the youth's foot.

He was taken to Pigeon where the two youths went first to the not-yet-open new Pigeon Community Hospital and took "quite awhile" locating the old hospital which will be in use for a week or so more.

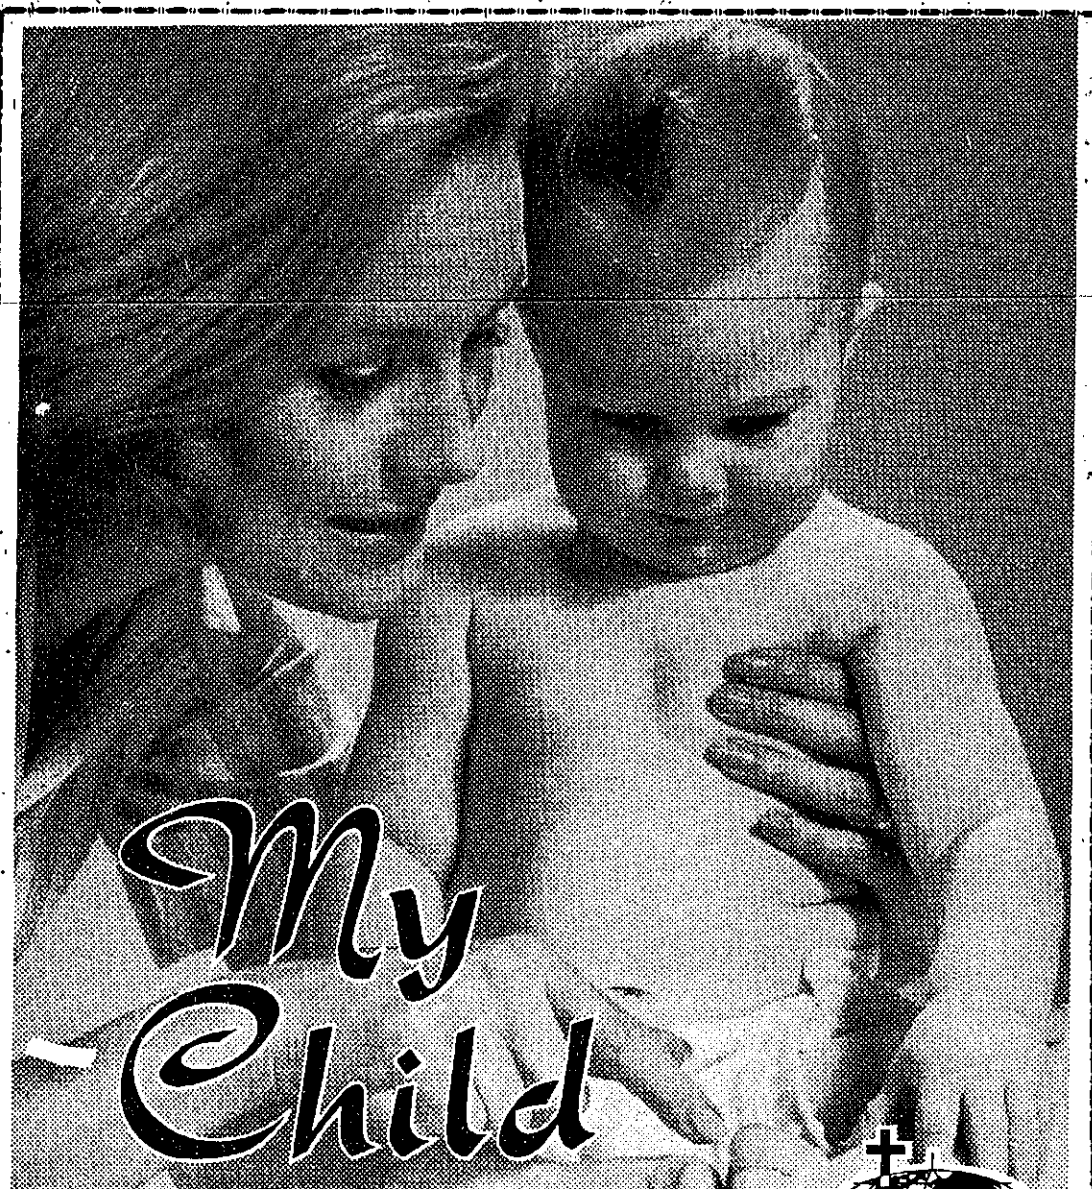

At this hour there was no physician available.

Bad Axe State Police arrived and bolt cutters were secured. The spear was cut off and the points shoved through the foot.

It was fortunate, authorities report, that the tines went completely through the foot, making them easier to remove.

LAW ENFORCEMENT OFFICIALS discussed the drug problem and how they deal with it at a meeting Monday night held at the Cultural Center. Far left is Tuscola County Prosecutor Leo Maki, Tom Proctor, local druggist, Vern Gallaway, Detective Sergeant Bruce Tait, Sheriff Hugh Marr and Cass City Police Chief Gene Wilson, led by Tim Uhlman, right foreground.

There's a lot of sentimentality in the observance of Mother's Day. Let's be practical.

Only one thing really counts: MY CHILD!

There is no glory in being a mother unless one has earned how to prepare a child for Life. Nor is there any pride in motherhood unless one has done her utmost to share with her child the great spiritual heritage which is her own.

People love to compliment us: "Just like her mother!" they say.

If mothers through the centuries had been satisfied with that goal, our civilization would have stagnated in the days of the cave men.

The mark of a devoted mother is her desire to make of her child even a finer person than she or her husband has become. And in this common aim she and her husband find their staunchest ally in the Church.

SNOWMOBILE TRACKS show up plainly in the winter wheat field of Dean Hutchinson about 1 1/2 west of Cass City. Settle Reese 44 teacher dispute

An agreement between 43 teachers of the "Reese 44" and the Reese Board of Education was ratified Monday evening by the board, ending the suits against the Reese School Board. The agreement states that the teachers shall immediately be reinstated with the status formerly held and a letter of resignation will be accepted immediately from all 43.

The Board, in the terms of the agreement, will also pay the Reese Teachers Education Association the sum of $3000. The teachers filed suits against the board of education when they were fired in March 1971 for their action in a strike which resulted after 10 months of negotiations failed. The teachers were seeking reinstatement in their appeals.

In the case of the one teacher who did not agree to the settlement, the attorneys for the school board have filed a motion to withdraw. Arguments on that motion will be held Friday.

WSC meets

The Woman's Study Club met Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Alice McAleer. Roll call was on study topics for next year.

Miss Muriel Addison reviewed two books by Edwin Way Peale, "Four Seasons of America" and "Springtime in Britain," and Dick VanDyke's "Faith, Hope and Hilarity." The group paid $25 to speech therapy, the county project for the year. The scheduled County Federation meeting was scheduled Thursday, May 11, at Vassar.

The June 14 meeting will be at the Crossroads Restaurant.

Sheriff probes 2 area thefts

The theft of a mini bike was reported to Tuscola county sheriff deputies Sunday by Don Little of 5530 E. Severance Road, Deford. Little told deputies the bike was missing from a shed belonging to his neighbor, Dick Fortsights, who lives in the city and comes to his rural home on week ends.

Little discovered the missing bike when he went to care for his neighbor's horse and noticed a lock was broken off a shed.

The theft of approximately $200 worth of equipment was reported by Douglas Englehart, Shabbona Road, Deford. He told deputies Wednesday, May 3, that a set of headers and a fan was removed from a car parked at his parents' home on Delong Road. The items were taken sometime during the day when no one was home, he told deputies.

Slate tax meet

A meeting of importance to property owners is scheduled Wednesday, May 17, at 8:30 p. m. at the Tuscola County Farm Bureau building, 416 Wells St., Caro.

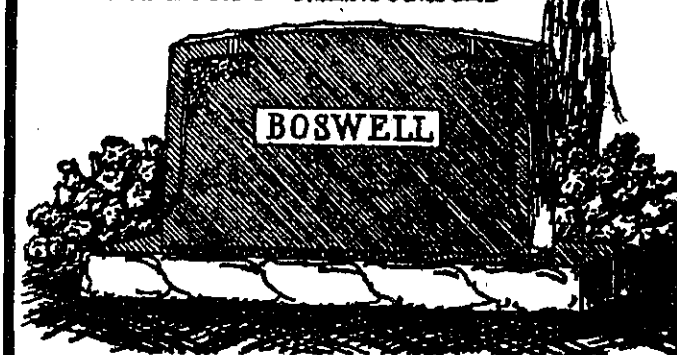

Sponsored by the bureau's local affairs committee, the public is invited to learn about the petitions to permit people to vote on a change in property tax and a change in local control of schools.

Nearly 800 women attended the 54th annual state convention of the Michigan Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, Inc., held May 5-7 in Grand Rapids.

Local BPW members attending at the Pantlind Hotel were Grace Nemeth, president; Clara Gaffney, treasurer.

The theme of the convention was "Passport to Action." Miss Katherine Peden, Kentucky stateswoman and business executive, was national representative to the Convention. She is the first woman to seek the office of United States Senator from the state of Kentucky.

Lou Gordon, radio and television personality, was the Saturday evening keynote speaker, and BPW members from the area in and around the convention city took active parts in convention programs and action.

A mental health and drug abuse "Awareness Conference" scheduled for May 20 at the Iona State Hospital will be the first of similar activities offered throughout the year.

BPW awards

3 scholarships

Three senior girls were chosen for $100 scholarships by the Business and Professional Women at their regular meeting May 3 at the New Gordon Hotel. Named were Romyne Bassett, Pat Smentek and Pam Kilbourn.

Officers elected last month were installed: Betty Carmer, president; Wuanita Ryland, 1st vice-president; Mardell Ware, 2nd vice-president; Mable Wright, recording secretary; Theda Seeger, corresponding secretary; and Laura Bryant, treasurer. District Director Mrs. Clara Schriber presided over the installation.

Twenty-one members and seven guests were present at the dinner meeting.

Destroy new trees at high school

The seven trees planted at the Cass City High School last week were found uprooted Monday morning.

The new trees, which were planted by Harry Little as part of Arbor Day Celebration, were pulled by hand. Motorcycle tracks were found on the grass around the trees. Cass City police are investigating the act of vandalism.

Police also investigated two instances of larceny from Albee's Hardware. Two bicycles valued at $90.45 were reported missing Friday. Earlier in the week, Albee's reported an 8-track stereo tape player taken from the store. Mrs. Gladys Albee told police she unpacked the player about 2 p. m. Tuesday, May 2, and when she returned about 7 p. m. to put it on the shelves, it was missing from the store room. The player is valued at $49.95.

Police also investigated the theft of a tape player from the home of Dorothy Panatl, 6729 Third St., Cass City. She reported that the player was in the front room and was apparently taken between noon and 2:30 p. m. Thursday, May 4. The door was unlocked.

Avert fire above Sommers'

Firemen were called to the apartment above Sommers' Bakery on Main Street Monday when Bruce Bartle of that address awoke to find the room filled with smoke.

Bartle extinguished part of the fire that is believed to have started near the chimney from an over-heated gas heater. Firemen completed the job after being called to the scene about 11:30 a. m. An estimated $150 damage was done to the ceiling of the building, where firemen were forced to axe portions away.

Elect nursery board members

The Cass City Preschool Nursery parents held election of next year's board members at a general meeting Monday, May 8.

The new officers are Ms. Dale Iseler, president; Mrs. Robert Walpole, vice-president; Mrs. Dave Lovejoy, secretary; Mrs. Richard Sugden, treasurer; Mrs. Robert Tuckey, area representative; Mrs. Harold Adams and Mrs. Arnold Erla, board members at large.

There are still openings in the three and four year old groups, and anyone wishing information concerning enrollment can contact Mrs. Iseler or Mrs. Walpole.

Dr. Joel Darby, a child psychologist from Saginaw, will talk with the nursery mothers at a special parent education meeting Saturday at 10 a. m. at Mrs. Tuckey's home on Schwegler Road. Any mother of a child enrolled in the nursery may attend.

Hold rites for

Mrs. Matthews

Funeral services were held Monday for Mrs. Jennie E. Matthews, 91, who died May 4 at the home of her daughter, Mrs. John Webb, Gagetown, after a long illness. She was a former Yale area resident.

She was born Sept. 1, 1880, in Speaker township to Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hallead. She was married to James Matthews Oct. 24, 1911, in Speaker township. He died Aug. 11, 1943.

Mrs. Matthews was a member of Cass City Church of Christ and was a past noble grand of Rebekah Lodge No. 234, Yale. Surviving are her daughter, Mrs. John Webb; a son, Howard, Royal Oak; three grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Services were held at the Kaatz Funeral Home, with E. R. Bruce, pastor of Church of Christ, Bad Axe, officiating. Burial was in Elmwood cemetery.

Baptist WMS

meets Monday

Fifteen were present Monday evening when the Baptist Church Woman's Missionary Society met at the home of Mrs. C. U. Brown.

Mrs. Richard Shaw presided over the business meeting and appointed committees for the father-son banquet. Members voted a $10 contribution to the cost of cupboards being built in the new kitchen.

Mrs. Rosella Kretschmer was in charge of devotions with "mothers" as the theme. Mrs. Kretschmer served refreshments at the close of the meeting.

22 at Legion Auxiliary meet

Twenty-two attended the monthly meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary Monday evening at the home of the president, Mrs. Elgene Keller, in Caro.

During the business meeting, Mrs. Keller reported on the seventh district association meeting held Sunday at Utica. Fifty-three members, representing 21 units in the district, were present in the Auxiliary business meeting which followed the joint memorial service. Mrs. Keller appointed to the nominating committee, Mrs. Arthur Little, Mrs. Eva Bair and Mrs. Garrison Stine. Election of unit officers for the coming year will take place at the June meeting.

The Auxiliary will participate in the Memorial Day services May 29, with Mrs. Doris Klinkman in charge.

Games and refreshments were enjoyed at the close of the business meeting. The door prize went to Mrs. Lilah Wilhelm.

MT. MORRIS High School didn't bring along its champion sprinter, Roy Young, to the Gavel Invitational Saturday but they didn't need him in the 100. In the preliminary heats Don Gamble won his heat [top photo] and his brother, Ron, captured his. Don went on to capture the event in the finals, but Ron failed to score.

Hawks close in on baseball title with 2 League wins

Cass City High School's baseball team is looking more and more like champions of the Thumb B Conference this spring. Undeclared in the Conference the Hawks notched two more victories over league foes to push their record to 5-0. Only Caro, with one defeat, has a chance to defeat or tie Cass City for the title and a victory with Vassar Monday would lock up at least a share of the title for the school.

The Hawks have just the Vassar game and a Thursday, May 18, tilt with Lakers left in the regular season.

The same combination that has won all year did it again for Cass City this week. In a crucial game with Sandusky last Thursday the Hawks combined good pitching with tight fielding and timely hitting for a 7-0 decision.

The nine-hit attack was led by Kip Hopper who slashed out four hits in as many tries.

The Redskins' sloppy play in the field made things easy for Cass City. The first of six errors helped Hopper to score in the first with the only run really needed for the Hawk victory.

But Cass City cashed two runs in the second as Randy Brown and Henry Cooklin collected singles and Sandusky committed another costly bobbie.

In the fourth, two more runs chased across on a triple by Fred Harbee and Hopper's single. The scoring ended in the sixth when Cass City scored two more runs.

Harbee pitched 5 1-3 innings, striking out six and walking two. Jerry Toner took over and struck out three while allowing no runs.

The Hawks committed one error.

Junior League trophies given

Sunday Night Junior League closed their bowling season with a banquet at the New Gordon Hotel Sunday, April 30.

First place team trophies went to John Hacker, Jay Tuckey and Randy Wright and second place trophies to Kurt Freiburger, Paul Freiburger and Eldon Stilson.

The following trophies were also presented: Steve Selby, high series, 600; Kurt Freiburger, 2nd high series, 575; Randy Peters, high game, 234; Mike Frederick, 2nd high game, 232; Steve Selby, high average, 164, and John Hacker, most improved.

High team series and high team game trophies went to Mike Frederick, Don Galbraith and Steve Selby.

FFA holds annual awards banquet

The Cass City chapter of Future Farmers of America (FFA) held its spring awards banquet May 1 at the Cass City High School cafeteria.

The purpose of the banquet is to recognize the outstanding achievements of individual members as well as those in the community who have supported the FFA during the past year by giving time, encouragement and service.

An initiation service was held for greenhand degree and chapter farmer degree. Also, new officers were installed for the coming year: Ken Hall, president; Donna DeLong, vice-president; Mike Stine, treasurer; Gordon Wills, secretary;

Ron Austin, reporter, and Dana Trueman, sentinel.

Other awards were given for scholarship, Dennis Little; Star Greenhand, Kim Hutchinson, and Star Chapter Farmer, Gordon Wills.

Special recognition was given to Bob DeLong by the DeKalb Company as the outstanding senior in vocational agriculture. The DeKalb Award is based on leadership, accomplishment and scholarship in the agricultural field.

Special recognition for service to FFA was presented to Damm Implement Co., Marshall Equipment, Croft-Clara, Inc., Rabideau Motors, Michigan Bean Elevator and Manuel Benetiz.

One new record in Gavel Invitational

It was the Flint area again in the Gavel Club Invitational Saturday at Cass City Recreation Park as Mt. Morris tied with St. Louis for the championship. The teams each scored 21 points. Cass City finished sixth with 19 points.

Mt. Morris tied for first without the services of their celebrated sprinter, Roy Young, who was attending the wedding of his sister.

Caro and Vassar were the best from the Thumb B with 29 and 26 points respectively. Vassar's mile relay team set a new record despite a blustery wind that hampered the contestants. The Vulcans' time of 3:36.5 broke the 3:37.3 mark set by St. Louis in 1964.

Al Michalak of Caro tossed the shot 55 feet, 7 3/4 inches and Dirk Sutherland pole vaulted 13 feet.

Cass City won points with a fourth in the 880-relay and a second in the mile by Curt Strickland. Other points were earned with a third in the medley relay.

Trophies were awarded to winners in each class. In Class C, Perry won first place over three other teams and in Class D, Caseville won over Owen-Gage, Dryden and North Huron. The complete results:

Junior High wins again

The Cass City Junior High victory string was nearly broken by the Lakers last Thursday but the young Hawks rallied to notch a narrow victory with a win in the relays and a 66 1/2-60 1/2 decision.

The Hawks were first in 8 of the 15 events. They were led by Posluszny who scored a double win, finishing first in the 100-yard low hurdles (1:13.5) and the 220-yard dash (2:25.3).

Other winners for Cass City were: B. Pena, shot put, 38 feet, 10 inches; E. Pena, 60-yard H.H., 10; Englehart, 60-yard dash, 7.35; 880-yard run, R. Diaz, 2:27.4; 100-yard dash, Sherman, 11.85; Mile, Schaeberger, 5:36.4; 880-relay, Cass City, 1:47.9.

THE PREMIER individual in the shot put in the Thumb is Al Michalak of Caro. At the Gavel Invitational he won his specialty with a toss of 55 feet, 7 3/4 inches... about 6 feet further than the second place man.

THE MARK
At
CHURCH OF THE NAZARENE, at Cass City
SUNDAY, MAY 14, at 11:00 a.m.

The Mark is a compilation of five great musical talents, creating one of the finest, unique sounds in music today. The group, although together for just a short time has vast music experience.

Dave Collins, principal arranger and pianist for The Mark, received his musical background from Capital University in Columbus, Ohio. His artistic pen and fingers are what create the sounds so pleasing to your ear. Also studying at Capital University is Dave's lead singing brother, Artie. The youngest member of The Mark has a special talent being able to make his voice fit to the style of each song. Artie Collins may surprise you with a big melodious tone, a soft straight tone, or even sounds from the depths of soul music.

The top tenor and the bass come from similar music backgrounds, both studying at Olivet College in Kankakee, Illinois. J. B. Boggs' silk like tenor voice is likely to make your heart skip a beat as he works the extremities of his almost unlimited range. Bert VanEgmond, a native of Hillehom, Holland, is the bass singer. His rich, smooth and well trained voice becomes the anchor man of the group.

The powerful, big baritone sounds come from a student of the University of Michigan and master of ceremony for The Mark, Ron Roessink. While traveling for nine years with The Sons of Harmony Ron sang in a majority of great auditoriums throughout the U. S. as well as recording in many of the fine studios.

Their program is musically exciting but more than that, inspiring to your thoughts of a brighter tomorrow. When you put all this together it's no wonder they are known as the magnificent male sounds of The Mark.
