

FROM THE
Editor's Corner

Maybe it's nostalgia that covers it with a rosy hue, making the color vividly brighter as the years roll by. I guess it must be the reason for when the talk swings to abandoning the trip for Seniors. I can't see it. I can't because a wall of memories inevitably gets in the way.

It wasn't much really... that trip to Niagara Falls by Pinconning Seniors. Sort of a puny excursion in these days of casual flights overseas and trips to Chicago for a night on the town.

It should have been old hat to me, too. After all, I'd been there before. But you know something? I can't recall a single thing about the trip when the family carted me, but I remember the trip with the kids.

I remember it well. How big we felt when we bought a bottle of Canadian ale, "fooling" both the teacher chaperones and the tavern owner... sneaking out at night... smoking a cigarette... a dozen other goofy things.

Really, I guess it didn't matter where we went. It's not the trip that's remembered... it's the kids.

We were a small school then. Maybe half the size of Cass City High School.

Naturally, we knew everyone in our grade and the trip was sort of a last hurrah. The time we said adieu to an era, the time when carefree irresponsibility ended and the real business of making a living started.

The time when future plans were revealed in unguarded moments... plans only hinted at before... carefully secreted away to be brought out after the four-year ball was over.

It was on the Senior trip that two of the biggest of the high school cut-ups, Don and Max, the Freidinger twins... revealed that under the happy-go-lucky shell there was much more than froth. There were dreams and plans for making them come true.

How were they to know that in a few short years they would both die in a "war to save Democracy"? It's certain on that trip to Niagara Falls that the only fighting they expected was with each other.

None of us was as smart as the kids of today. We never thought much about the war, our chances of getting killed or whether or not fighting was right or wrong.

Nothing marred the fun and games of that Senior trip.

Maybe it's because classes are bigger that the interest is lessened today. Or perhaps it's because the kids are concerned about Vietnam, Korea, the Middle East or a possible world holocaust between Russia or China and the United States. And are rebelling about the direction we've taken.

If that's so, I can't help think that the Freidinger twins are smiling a little. Just like they did on that Senior trip... but for a better reason.

But then, maybe, like I said, I'm blinded by nostalgia.

Ecology project

Kids' campaign aids village clean up drive

If you think the village looks a little bit cleaner after last week, you can thank the efforts of about 140 seventh grade students who decided to set a good example in cleaning up the village.

Motivating the youngsters was a movie called "The Litter Monster" which was shown to them in science classes at the intermediate school as part of an ecology unit by teacher Miss Julie Kyle.

The movie, produced by the Michigan State Highways Commission, contained several scenes portraying youngsters reacting to their littered environment by pitching in and working when someone was injured in play or an animal was hurt due to bottles or cans carelessly thrown on the ground.

"We've been talking all year about ecology," related Miss Kyle. "When we got down to particulars, we decided Cass City didn't look so good."

On their own initiative, five classes of about 28 students each kicked off the project May 5 by picking up bottles and other litter. A total of ten bags of rubbish were collected from the park, intermediate, high school and downtown area. Each class filled 3 1/2 to 4 bags in a 35 minute period, said Miss Kyle.

Monday and Tuesday were spent in making posters and litter bags which were then distributed in the downtown area Thursday, May 11. That day also, students asked citizens to sign a pledge stating, "I promise not to litter and do my best in keeping the city clean."

The enthusiasm of the students was not dampened when some residents and downtown shoppers refused to sign the voluntary self-promise using excuses such as, "I don't live here," "I didn't start pollution," or merely ignored them.

In spite of the refusals, approximately 400 signatures were obtained. These will be displayed at the school, announcing the names of those willing to proclaim their promise.

The final gesture to inform the people about the need to clean up and stop littering was by impromptu skits and speeches delivered Friday, May 12, to high school and grade school students.

A window display was also erected in the intermediate school, complete with a litter monster created out of garbage.

All these efforts were designed to educate citizens about the problem of litter, said the teacher.

"We talked in class and we decided the first thing to do was to make them (the people) aware. The next thing would be to set a good example," she said.

Wallace scores heavily in GOP land-Tuscola county

Elkland township echoed the Tuscola county and state presidential primary election results Tuesday by giving the most votes for any single Democratic candidate to George Wallace, governor of Alabama.

George McGovern came in second, in Elkland township, and Hubert H. Humphrey third, with a smattering of votes going to other candidates.

Township results were: Wallace, 176; McGovern, 100; Humphrey, 29. Edmund Muskie received 11, Shirley Chisholm, 2, and Henry Jackson, 0.

President Richard Nixon received a total of 220 as Republican candidate by Elkland voters but still received fewer votes in the county than Wallace, with a total of 2081, or 25 per cent of the county. Paul McCloskey, the only other name appearing on the Republican ticket got 9 in the township and 88 in the county.

Throughout the county, 3668 votes were cast for Wallace, giving him 45 per cent of the county ballot, just a little behind the 51 per cent figure he carried in the state.

Voter turnout was about normal for a primary election. The approximately 8000 voters that went to the polls in the county comprise about 38 per cent of the 19,255 registered. The last primary in a presidential election year was in 1968 when less than 7000 of the 18,400 voters or 37 per cent turned out to choose among candidates for sheriff, drain commissioner and District 2 commissioner, the result of the one-man-one-vote ruling.

The turnout in 1970, a non-presidential election year was even lower, about 32 per cent, when voters chose among candidates for governor and senators, as well as local offices.

This year's primary was the first presidential preference primary held in Michigan in 44 years.

Tuscola voters also followed the trend of the state by giving McGovern a second with 1294, about 16 per cent, and Humphrey, 577 or 7 per cent.

Other county results were: Muskie, 170; Chisholm, 72; Jackson, 21, and Hartke, 10.

Thirty-four uncommitted votes were cast for the Democratic slate and 31 on the Republican. A total of 41 votes were cast for the American Independent Party, which listed no candidates, with 2 coming from Elkland township.

Elmwood township voters gave the most support to Wallace, also, with 99 votes. Other Democratic candidates received: McGovern, 45; Humphrey, 15; Jackson, 4; Hartke, 1; Chisholm, 7; Muskie, 0, and uncommitted, 0.

On the Republican side, Nixon received 60, McCloskey, 0, and no uncommitted. The American Independent Party also received no votes.

Wallace also carried Novesta township with 67; McGovern came in second with 27. Other results are: Muskie, 3; Humphrey, 1; Jackson, 1; Chisholm, 1, and Hartke, 0, with no uncommitted.

Nixon received 38 votes, McCloskey, 0, and no uncommitted. The American Independent Party also received no votes.

In the voting to decide two proposed amendments to the state constitution, Tuscola voters went along with state results.

The proposed amendment that would allow the state legislature to set up a lottery, Proposal A, was approved in the county by a vote of 4591 yes to 3241 no. The proposal passed in the state.

Elkland voters echoed the county choice with 263 for and 258 against the proposal.

In the balloting for Proposal B, which was a proposed amendment that would allow elected officials to resign from their post and accept appointment or election to another public office, county voters nixed the measure, and it went down in the state. The vote was 3810 against and 3786 for. Elkland township voters approved the measure with a total of 283 for and 121 against.

Okay millage

in close

Evergreen vote

Voters in Evergreen township provided the township with extra funds for roads in close balloting Tuesday as a special tax of three mills for two years passed by a narrow, 103-96 margin.

In another special township advisory vote residents gave the town board the green light for township zoning, 125-73.

In the primary vote Gov. George Wallace polled a surprising 76 votes as compared to 92 for President Richard M. Nixon. Evergreen is rock-ribbed Republican country normally.

In the propositions, voters went against the state-wide trend by turning down the lottery, 126-70. They approved proposition B by a 93-89 margin.

Supervisor Lloyd Severance said Wednesday that he was especially gratified that the voters approved the extra millage. I just don't see how we could have operated without it, he explained, especially since the extra expense of zoning was authorized. We'll be in good shape now, he added.

Horse show feature of Western Roundup in June

The first horse show to be held in Cass City since the days of the homecomings will highlight the activities of the four-day Western Roundup June 15-18 sponsored by the Cass City Service Clubs.

The schedule of activities was finalized in a meeting held recently by officers and committee chairmen of the five clubs, Gavel, Lions, Jaycees, Rotary and Elkland Township Firemen.

The horse show will begin at 9 a. m. Saturday, June 17, the third and busiest day as competitors vie for ribbons in 15 classes and a trophy.

The show, which is being organized by Ed Keating, Mark Neiman and Sue Brown, will be open to anyone who wants to compete. Six ribbons will be given in halter, pleasure and horsemanship classes, which will be divided into three age groups, 12 and under, 13-18, and 19 and over. An outside judge will choose the winners.

Three ribbons will be offered in the fun events-trail, tire race, musical tires, pickup race, flag race, balloon busting contest and costume class. A halter will be awarded both the grand and reserve champion at halter, and high point horse will receive a trophy. The prizes are sponsored by Marshall Implement Co., Hunt's Construction Co. and Pinney State Bank.

An entry fee of $1 will be charged all contestants, with a $5 fee for each additional class entered.

The show is a carry-over of plans suggested last year. Time was against the sponsoring clubs when plans were made for the first round up in 10 years last August.

In response to a question of whether or not the show will become an annual event, president Ed Bergman said, "Definitely, if it's a success."

He remarked that horse clubs as far away as Flint and Frankenmuth have shown an interest in attending.

The show will break at noon for a parade through town. Plans for this event are still being developed by Chairman Bob Buttery, but will probably include bands, horses, bikes and other attractions.

At 2 p. m. the same day the water ball tournament among the Tuscola County Fire Departments will start.

At 3 p. m. the chicken barbecue starts. Tickets will be available in advance from members of the service clubs. They will also be available at the gate for a slightly higher charge. Louis Harper of Kingston will barbecue the chickens, and the rest of the meal will be prepared by the service clubs. Last year's ox roast attracted 672. About 2500 attended the event held only one day. A larger crowd is expected this year.

The activities Saturday will provide a high point for the round up, which will start Thursday when the midway is set up. Seven rides and 10 carnival booths will be provided. The dunking pool, a main attraction last year, will also be in operation.

A change in policy this year will allow free parking.

Friday is designated Children's Day with activities beginning at 1 p. m. Awards provided by the service clubs will be given all participating youngsters. Plans are indefinite at this time, but the activities are to be conducted under the village park program.

The festivities will wind up Sunday with a tractor pulling contest beginning at 2 p. m. Six regular and two hobby stock classes will be offered, with the $5 entry fee going into prize money. An admission fee will be charged, with children under 12 admitted free.

Again as last year, all community service, church and women's groups will be offered the opportunity to operate a booth at the grounds.

Retired Nienhuises: no pay job brings rewards greater than cash

By Kit McMillon

The desire to become "more involved" has led a former Holland car salesman and his wife to a new career and a rewarding life as helpers on Teen Ranch, four miles south of Kingston.

Ken Nienhuis and his wife Lor (short for Lorraine) have just completed a 90-day trial period at the Youth for Christ sponsored home for boys and apparently are staying-indefinitely.

"We're going to stay as long as we feel needed," the vibrant and distinguished looking 45-year-old man said. "Six months, six years—it's immaterial to us."

What started as something of an experiment is now a fulltime vocation, anywhere between 60 and 100 hours of work a week.

When they first arrived, there wasn't really anything for them to do.

"If fact," chuckled Nienhuis, "our superintendent wondered what he was going to do with us."

Now days usually begin at 6 a. m., sometimes earlier, and often do not end until 8 or 9 o'clock or midnight. Nienhuis has done painting, gardening and plumb-ing and he laughs, "I hate painting. I hate plumbing and I hate working in the yard."

His wife cleans house, cooks and does laundry for the boys, working harder than ever before but loving it.

They also help raise funds and serve as house parents when one of the regular house parents has a day off, generally keeping an eye on what's happening and lending a hand.

"There's always something to do," they said cheerfully, as they explained their reasons for coming: to help the staff and set an example for the boys and spread the Lord's work.

The Nienhuises have been active in church work for many years. He was a director of the Youth for Christ in Holland for 9 years and when their son took over that position a year and a half ago, they didn't feel they could offer much more there.

"We just felt we weren't doing anything worthwhile," stated Nienhuis.

Before they came to Teen Ranch, they tried helping out a missionary friend of theirs in Mexico. After a couple of days, it became obvious this wasn't for them, so they came back to Michigan.

Nienhuis had been on the board of directors of Teen

Ranch for 5 years, and one of the Youth for Christ officials, after hearing about the Mexican endeavor, told him, "If you're thinking about doing something, come over here."

Inside of three weeks they were at the ranch.

The move brought an abrupt change to their life style. They now live in a mobile trailer home provided by the Ranch and receive a small weekly pay for their personal expenses, a far cry from a $20,000 annual income when Nienhuis sold cars.

In Holland they lived in a four bedroom, carpeted home they built 21 years ago. That was sold last week end, giving their new life a note of permanency.

The move to the trailer has been no problem. The couple both are so busy, they said, "We basically sleep there." Most of their time is spent elsewhere.

The hardest adjustment is the changed social life. The mobility of living in town and being able to drop in on friends for coffee is gone forever, but they don't really mind. And Nienhuis no longer golfs, something he used to love.

"By the time it's 10 o'clock at night, we're ready to take a shower and go to bed," they agreed.

Besides helping with the chores, the energetic couple help look after the boys and give them love and friendship. The Teen Ranch was designed to provide a family atmosphere for boys between the age of 12 and 16 who are designated wards of the court.

Mrs. Nienhuis confided she had reservations about coming. "We can come here," I said, "but we're not going to get involved," she related. "But pretty soon they're (the boys are) like your own."

"I was surprised," she added. "It's not any different than back home."

After an initial period of adjustment between the boys and the couple, they get along well. "We're the oldest ones on the staff and they call us 'Mom and Dad'," smiled Mrs. Nienhuis.

"It's been working together like one big family," they said. "Our home is more here than there (Holland)."

Now that they've taken the big step, Nienhuis said, they challenge other couples who are older and have raised their families.

"We desire to see more people in our age bracket become more involved," he stated.

FORMER CAR SALESMAN Ken Nienhuis and his wife, Lor, devote their time to working for young people as assistants at the Kingston Teen Ranch for boys.

The next meeting is to be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Tracy.

Mrs. David A. Osentoski

Karen Sue Gaffney and David Alfred Osentoski were married Saturday, May 13, in St. Pancratius Catholic Church, Cass City. The Rev. Leo Gengler, pastor, officiated at the 4 p. m. ceremony. The church was decorated with white gladioli.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Gaffney, 6567 Elizabeth St., Cass City. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Ira Osentoski, 5301 Van Dyke Road, Cass City.

The bride wore a full-length satiness gown with an attached train. The hemline was bordered with a deep ruffle, and the bodice and cuffs were covered with Venice lace trimmed with lacy organza ribbon and accented with satin-covered buttons.

A pearl and jewel-covered crown peaked at the top, emphasizing the full train-length veil of bride's illusion trimmed in rosebud lace, framing the bride's face.

Attending as matron of honor was Mrs. James MacKay, Novi, an aunt of the bride. Bridesmaids were Miss Peggy Yens, Jackson; Mrs. Jack Burns, Cass City; Mrs. Aaron Anthes, Cass City; Miss Melody Thompson, Cass City, all friends of the bride; Miss Darlene Anderson, Beaverton, a cousin of the bride, and Miss Ann Marie MacKay, Novi, a cousin of the bride.

Flower girl Michelle Wolschleger, Ruth, wore a dress styled in white like the bride's.

The attendants wore dresses of blue, yellow, orchid and pink skirts, with a white bodice and sheer sleeves. White rosebud lace with a streamer of color accented the collar, bodice and cuffs and the top of long lacy veils. A ruffle bordered the hemline.

They carried parasols that matched the color of their dresses with pink sweet peas, blue daisies, yellow fujis, orchid pompons and white baby's breath with greens and ivy winding around the handles.

Bestman was Martin Osentoski, Cass City, a brother of the groom. Groomsmen were Danny Ollig, Jackson; Jack Burns, Cass City, and Phil Nichols, Bay City, all friends of the groom; Richard Patena, Cass City, the groom's cousin; Kevin Gaffney, Cass City, a brother of the bride; and Danny Osentoski, Utica, a cousin of the groom. Ring bearer was Kenny Osentoski, Cass City, a brother of the groom.

A reception for 800 guests followed the ceremony at St. Joseph's Hall, Argyle.

Following a wedding trip to Canada, the couple will make their home on Hadley Road, Cass City. The groom is a real estate broker, auctioneer and farmer. The bride is a secretary employed by the village.

"If It Fitz . . ."*No poem for spring

BY JIM FITZGERALD

It is good to see another spring has arrived and will apparently stay even if I don't get down on my knees and kiss its dew.

Most writers wax lyrical when first they spy the crocus. I don't know what a crocus is.

A good example is this spring salute written by syndicated columnist James Kilpatrick:

"The animals awake. Suddenly there are chipmunks moving in the old stone fences. High in a bare-limbed oak, a squirrel is chattering. We inspect the newly-boxed plots where our vegetables will go. Monstrous! A groundhog has had the impudence to start his hole squarely beneath the zucchini bed!"

Zucchini? Somebody's going to put out a contract on that dumb chipmunk.

I mean, I like spring fine. But different strokes for different folks. I don't see spring in the heart of a dogwood bud. I see spring in the bill from the gas company. But who is going to write a poem about the beauty of owing $15.32 as compared to $42.56?

Kilpatrick wrote about "a sergeant-major of a blackbird with crimson chevrons on his sleeve." Beautiful.

I know it's spring when 2 dirty sparrows return to nest in my carport and decorate the hood of my car in a white motif.

It is spring when my wife spends long hours at the window, giving me a play-by-play description of all the marvelous things our neighbor is doing to his lawn.

It is spring when I hold the annual memorial service for our neighborhood handy man who died 10 years ago. He could put up our screen porch in 30 minutes for $2. It takes me a full day and costs me my sweet disposition which doesn't return until December, just in time to be scared away again by Christmas lights.

It is spring when I pull the cord on the lawn mower 1,543 times and nothing happens except my vocabulary somehow expands to meet the occasion. Then I stomp into the house and see this TV huckster who is cutting the lawn in his Sunday suit. He pulls the lawn mower cord with his pinkie and the marvelous thing starts the first time, every time. He's even got a scoreboard upon which to record his incredible feats.

"That's my trouble. I can't start that lousy mower because I don't have a scoreboard," I told my wife. "I will make a scoreboard and nail it to the side of the shed."

"You'll probably need a second scoreboard to keep score on how many times you hit and miss the nail while putting up the first scoreboard," she said.

It is spring when my wife sings that old familiar song that goes like this: "If you won't take any pride in how the yard looks we should sell the house and move into an apartment, trala la."

And I sing right back: "But where would I put my pool table, zippy do da?"

Then she is liable to tell me where to put my pool table. And I threaten to hire Zucchini to put a horse's head in her bed. And she says she is already sleeping with the other half.

How can you expect me to write a spring poem about that? My only rhyme for daffodil is gottakill. Onward and Upward.

(And anyone else he can get to help)

The summer season is definitely with us. I can tell because that Florida entrepreneur, Cliff Ferguson, is back in town. He wouldn't think of stirring in Michigan until the weather is guaranteed to be 65 degrees or more.

No one would say that Bill Kritzman is interested in ornithology (that's the treatment of birds) but he did shoot an Eagle and several birdies while cleaning a couple of Pigeons when he posted a 33 in the Cass City Golf League Monday night.

The Chronicle received a thank-you for publicity in the Tuscola Intermediate School District's successful campaign for a quarter of a mill for special education.

It really didn't turn me on because the whole thing, even the signature, was mimeographed. Perhaps the district could use a little special education in public relations. . . if it's not worth taking the time to sign is it worth the 8 cents it cost to mail?

It's good to see Alger Freiburger parading up and down the main stem again. Alger has a new Leader Dog who looks enough like his previous dog, "Jet", to be a twin.

It's evidently easier for Alger now than it was when both he and his dog were rookies training together.

What's this about a woman's will? The Michigan Heart Association reports that women find it more difficult to quit smoking than men and suffer far more disabling illnesses.

Could that be because women are truly the weaker sex?

Not announced yet, but apparently true is a coming change in ownership in a new car dealership in Cass City.

Rumors also are floating around that a partnership could be upcoming at another agency.

One of the last bastions of anti-inflation has fallen. It's the coffee in the office at Walbro. It used to be that you could get a cup of coffee for a nickel there.

But no more. Sadly, the price is now 10 cents. Even more sad: it's highly probable that Dick Wallace, the last of the big spenders, will now make me buy my own.

At a nickel a cup every holiday and on his birthday he'd buy me a cup.

ONE FOR THE ROAD
Shoplifting is on the rise

By Dan Marlowe

Shoplifting is one of the most expensive of crimes to the general public.

This is true because the shoplifting losses of merchants inevitably show up on the price tags of everything we buy.

Teenagers, housewives, drug addicts, professional thieves, kleptomaniacs, and larcenous employees steal millions of dollars worth of merchandise each year, and to offset these predictable losses merchants must mark up their merchandise.

The vice-president of a national clothing chain declares: "Shoplifting is the single most serious problem with which we have to deal."

The head of security of five large department stores states: "Shoplifting is not a strong enough word; our whole emphasis should be to get across the message that shoplifting is stealing."

And the secretary of a big-city retail-merchants' association says that merchants hurt themselves by not prosecuting vigorously when shoplifters are caught. His particular point is that shoplifting is just as much a crime as holding up a gas station.

National estimates indicate that shoplifting causes a 2 per cent loss in inventory, and the equivalent of this figure is added onto retail price tags. Thus shoplifting hurts every pocketbook.

Inventory shortages have tripled in the past three years, with shoplifting accounting for about half and employee thefts for most of the rest. Amateurs are responsible for 65 per cent of shoplifting losses, according to statistics, and police records show that 50 per cent of shoplifters are between the ages of 13 and 19.

Parents are often to blame in these cases, one expert says. They make no effort to check the truthfulness of their children's claims that a new item of clothing, jewelry, or cosmetics is a gift or a "loan" from a friend, no matter how implausible the story offered.

Shoplifters fall into two major categories: the amateur who steals for himself, and the professional who steals to resell. Some individuals make their living from shoplifting, and there are drug addicts who finance their continuing habits with money obtained from selling stolen goods.

"There's a service in some large cities where if you know where to go you can order just about any item in a store," a security man says. "You can order a $125 dark-blue, double-knit suit from a particular men's shop, and expect to pick it up in a week. Professional shoplifters will steal it and sell it to you."

Merchants' associations are making increasing efforts to get their message across that shoplifters will be prosecuted. They are subsidizing the production of movies which are shown in schools, and not just to teenagers; the movies are shown to children in grade schools.

The message is invariably the same: shoplifting is a crime, and if you're caught you can expect to pay the penalty.

Sanilac county women tour
Detroit Police

Sanilac County Extension women boarded two buses early last Wednesday morning, May 10, and headed for Detroit. Their Annual Spring Tour brought them to the Detroit City Police Headquarters. They saw first hand how the communications are handled -- incoming calls as well as assigning people to investigate the report. Also, how they utilize the computer and other law enforcement agencies in their fight against crime.

Personnel in the Scientific Division explained and showed how tests, such as the lie detector and ballistics tests are conducted.

Also included on the tour was a musical at the Fisher Theatre. Mrs. Orla Pritchett, Sandusky, was the tour Chairman.

The misfortunes hardest to bear are those that never occur.

FROM THE LITTER BOX

Myopia

By Kit McMillion

I am a myope. That's another way of saying I'm nearsighted—or if you take my eyeglasses away, I'm as blind as a mole.

Ever since I was in the third grade I've been the victim of corrective lenses. It all started when I'd make a reach for something and miss it or try to sit on a chair and with the grace of a puppy, deposit my sitting-down-part on the floor.

I'd hoped spectacles would cure me of making a spectacle of myself. Poor eye sight was a good excuse while it lasted.

I recently paid a visit to my friendly sight man, and the fun began all over.

The receptionist seated me in a chair to wait, so I amused myself by eyeing the numerous buttons, lights and equipment that gave the place the look of a mad scientist's laboratory. But bravely I waited.

Then the man came in and took my glasses. He said he wanted to find out what sort of lenses were in them, but I was sure he just wanted to make sure I'd stay put. Once my glasses are taken away, I'm immobile.

Then he got out this fancy flash light and told me to look at the back of the room. I fought the urge to stare straight into the light, and wondered if maybe it was some kind of laser beam or zap machine.

He then proceeded to amuse me with a slide show. It was only in black and white and I prefer color, but it didn't make much difference. I couldn't see it.

The Man said, can I read the top letter? Well, whether I could have seen it or not, I would have said E, cause everybody knows since they were in the first grade and the school nurse comes in with a big E and then asks if you can tell which direction the little e's on the machine face, that E is always the first letter on the chart.

So I said, E. Then came a more discriminating test. Could I read the second line? N. Z. A little bit smaller, but not very difficult.

Now, he said, can I tell what the third line says. What third line? I answered.

That ended the slide show right then and there, so we went onto bigger and better things.

The Man pushed a funny mask affair in front of my nose and I was beginning to wish I'd brought my Musketeer ears along because I sure felt like a small mouse peeping out of a duplex mouse hole.

Then a recurring thought hit me again, just like it hits everytime I'm in a dentist's chair or on a doctor's examining table. I am at the mercy of this guy. Help.

Then I had to do the bit about can you see that line and how blurry is it.

Following that session, I had to make the really big decisions. What kind of frame would I choose.

The Man led me into a room that was absolutely crammed with glass frames. Now the trick here is to try on the frames and get as close to the mirror as possible and squint up the eyes so you can get a general idea how the frames compliment your face. Anyway you do it, it's still usually a shock when the frames come back with lenses. I usually try to convince the Man someone made a humongous error and these are NOT the frames I ordered, but the only one that makes the mistake is me.

Meow.

Let's have sports for sport's sake—take none too seriously.

Wallace wins mock school election

A mock presidential preference primary election by Cass City High School students named George McGovern winner with a vote of 156.

George Wallace came in second on the Democratic ticket with 39. Other results were: Shirley Chisholm, 20; Hubert H. Humphrey, 10; Edmund S. Muskie, 8; Henry M. Jackson, 1; and Vance Hartke, 0.

On the Republican ticket,

President Richard M. Nixon received 86 votes and Paul McCloskey, 1.

The mock election was held Friday at the school. The election culminated a week-long pseudo-campaign conducted by members of the student body.

Four students assumed the role of four of the Democratic candidates, making posters and producing political advertisements over the public address system. Taking the parts of the candidates were Ken Novak, George McGovern; Ron Crandall, George Wallace; Sherry Schneberger, Shirley Chisholm, and Rick Erla, Hubert Humphrey.

The purpose of the mock election was to introduce students to the election process, said Robert Logan, government and civics instructor.

About three weeks prior to the vote, a registration drive was held. Of the 385 registered voters, 336 voted. Another 104 students were potential voters who failed to register.

The week-long programs concentrate in four areas—behavioral studies and motivation, communications functions and leadership, management functions and methods, and economics and employee relations.

All play and no work is too expensive to think about today.

Special Gift

You could pass the tree a hundred times without seeing the bright little bird peeping out.

Nature neglected to give man such camouflage. In the scheme of things he is actually quite obvious. But God created man in His image—a much greater asset. He was given a strong body and a mind with which to think. And He has given us a very special gift; the miracle of Faith.

Yes, Faith is a gift. It comes only through our seeking, and the quest is not an easy one. Strangely enough, you might not find Faith in church. But there you will discover where to begin to look for it.

BETTER HEALTH

The runaway child

BY DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

In the U. S. News and World Report, I read that each week more than 100,000 of our children run away from home, schools and institutions. A conservative estimate is that about 600,000 minors ran away in 1970. Also, adolescents continue to leave schools at a rate exceeding half a million a year. That should make us worry.

More girls than boys are running away, and more runaways are ending up in small cities near their home, rather than in faraway "glamour cities." Some go to the "runaway houses," which have now been set up in many big cities. In Chicago, the average age of a runaway is 14 years, although some are 10 or 11.

In Boston, homeless youngsters sleep all night in automat restaurants, and in San Diego, where it is warmer, they sleep on the beach. Some, unfortunately, come to harm. Some of the girls become prostitutes, and other youngsters become drug peddlers, thieves and beggars. In Washington, D. C. there are several dozen havens - public and private - built to look after the 10,000 or so runaways that are always present.

ent. Last year a "runaway house" and two foster-care homes looked after 462 girls and 556 boys.

Some youngsters run away because of school problems, or a longing for adventure, or because of quarrels with parents, or neglect or brutality in the home. Perhaps some run away because that is now a socially acceptable thing. One boy ran away because his parents refused to buy him a $400 stereo set.

More girls than boys get arrested. An encouraging fact is that some 75 per cent of the youngsters go home after an average of three days. About half of the runaways come from broken homes. What is sad is that some of the youngsters are "throwaways," which means that their parents don't want them, and won't accept collect telephone calls from them. In such cases the youngster has to be put in a foster-home, or a "group home." People who know say that it is getting harder to get youngsters to go back into their families than it was before.

In some of the runaway homes, "crashers," who are just looking for a free bed, aren't accepted. The youth must accept counseling, medical attention, and psychological or psychiatric care if he or she needs it.

One girl of 15, when interviewed, said she was on her sixth runaway since she was 11. She said she could not get along with her parents. Some runaways remain with friends nearby. In many cases, investigation shows that the child did not have much of a home, with an alcoholic father and a mother out all day working somewhere. In one case it was found that the alcoholic father sold the family's food stamps in order to buy liquor.

In Chicago, the police say runaways commit one-fifth of the youth crimes. Many runaways hitch-hike. In Berkeley, California, a main street has many youngsters waiting, each with a sign saying where he wants to go. Parents of a runaway child may "vacillate between love and anger." The child may run away in order to blackmail his parents emotionally, or to see if they really love him.

As I have said here before, I have seen the suffering of persons on each side - I have seen the youngsters in my office, lost and sometimes sick and confused, eager for kindness and affection. And I have seen the parents of a lost child, often sick with worry, not knowing where their son or daughter was, and living with regrets that they parted in wrath. Sometimes the parents had told the child, "Don't ever come back." The parents said this in anger, and later, they would give anything to know where their child was, and if he was all right. These situations are heartbreaking.

NON-SMOKERS ARE COMPLAINING

I read that Senator Schweiker of Pennsylvania has introduced a bill that would require every form of transportation to provide some area for non-smokers. I can understand this, because one of my relatives, as long as he lived, was so distressed by cigarette smoke that he had to resign from his club. His son had even more trouble with cigarette smoke because it produced tiny blisters on his corneas (the window on the front of the eyeball).

What are the symptoms of emphysema? What causes it? How can cigarettes contribute to the damage? Dr. Alvarez answers these questions and tells you about the treatments available in his booklet "Pulmonary Emphysema." For your copy send 25 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for it to Dr. Walter C. Alvarez, Dept. CCC, Box 957, Des Moines, Iowa 50304.

Trinity Church to honor 23 members

Twenty-three persons are among the members of Trinity United Methodist Church who have been a part of the Fellowship for 50 years or more.

These persons are to receive special recognition in the 11:00 a. m. worship service Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hutchinson, representing the group, will pass a lighted torch to Luann Galloway and Donna Francis, representatives of the 1972 Youth Membership Class.

REV. DUDLEY C. MASURE

Guest preacher will be the Rev. Dudley C. Masure, who served the Cass City Methodist Church from 1941-1944. Since leaving Cass City, Mr. Masure has been a chaplain in the U. S. ## OES honors past officers

Twenty-one past worthy matrons and four past worthy patrons of Echo chapter OES were given special recognition at the monthly meeting of the chapter held Wednesday evening, May 10. Their years of service to the chapter reach back over a 36-year period when Mrs. Katie Mudge was worthy matron in 1936. Mrs. Mudge was among those in attendance.

Mrs. Reva M. Little, who has more than 35 years of membership and who served as an officer for 22 consecutive years, was presented with her life membership in the Order. Her daughter, Mrs. Lois E. Roberts of Center Line, who is a member of Echo chapter, made the presentation to her mother. Worthy matron, Mrs. Donna Holm, presented Mrs. Little with a record of the minutes of each meeting of the year Mrs. Little served as worthy matron in 1940-41.

Sixteen officers answered roll call. During the business meeting, two candidates were elected to receive the degrees of the Order and plans were made to confer the degrees in a "Friends Night" meeting May 25 at 8 p. m.

In other business members voted to increase the initiation fees from $3.00 to $5.00. Plans were made to sponsor an ice cream social to be held in connection with the Artrain visit in July.

Dessert refreshments were served in the dining room to 38 by Mrs. Lucille Wotton and her committee at the close of the meeting.

Uncle Tim From Tyre Says:

Dear Mister Editor:

The fellers at the country store has studied the situation up one side and down the other, and it had been agreed that the reason politics is in such a mess is that for the first time in this country's history the minority outnumbers the majority. Ed Doolittle summed up the findings of the study, and he said that put another way, that means they ain't no way to fool even half the people all the time.

Ed said it was clear that til politicians realize the majority has been overrun, they ain't no way to git this country out of reverse. They is so many minorities hollering fer so many different things, Ed declared, that they ain't enuff folks left to make up a majority. Farthermore, he said, ever minority has their own idee which way forward is, so nobody is able to git this old ship of state moving.

Zeke Grubb said the poverty war was just one example of minorities taking over. Politicians made the mistake of thinking that everybody was pore or was not pore and didn't want nobody else to be pore. Actual, the pore that don't want to be pore is a minority that got to be a majority cause everybody else was split about 100 ways on what to do about the pore. Another case is tax reform, went on Zeke. Most folks that git elected thinks a majority wants lower taxes, when all they want is lower taxes fer them, not fer everybody. The way it works, explained Zeke, is the more money you make the less taxes you pay and the more you can slip under the table to the politicians, so the big-money minority is the ruling majority.

They ain't no real difference, agreed Ed, between the old time candidate that wound up his speech by allowing "them's my sentiments, and if you all don't like em, I'm happy to change em," and the way things run now. Ed had saw where during the campaigning before the Wisconsin primary, Muskie said he would shut $14 billion worth of tax loopholes, and McGovern promised the next day that he would double Muskie's figger. Neither one said how he would do it, Ed said, and neither one said he would hurry back to Washington to work on it, cause they was to busy trying to git elected so they can settle down to the business of gitting re-elected.

Mister Editor, you jest have to git away from politics and Government to find reasonable reasons fer doing anything. Fer instant, I've decided that since all my gardening tools is over at Ed's house it'll be practical fer him to plant my garden at his place. And this will save Ed's chickens the trouble of having to walk down to my house to scratch up all my seed.

Wimmen has a way of finding practical ansers to. My old lady told me she was going to cure me from being cranky at breakfast and, being the majority at our house, she did. She quit fixing me any.

Yours truly,
Uncle Tim

Letter To Editor

Thanks for job well done

Dear Mr. Haire, Evergreen Guys and Gals, mothers, dads and friends picked roadsides in Evergreen township during the past two weeks.

It is unbelievable what was found on the roadsides, so this means someone threw it out. We brought the junk to the Shabbona garage last Saturday and succeeded in filling a big gravel truck twice.

Our thanks to the garage, Mr. Frank Pelton, who unloaded the truck, to Mrs. Mary Vatter for having us for our wiener roast and ball game.

Between 50 and 60 turned out for a job well done. Thank you.

Please don't litter!

New mail system starts here June 9

The Cass City post office will become part of a new concept in mailing handling June 9 when an "Area Mail Processing" plan goes into effect in Saginaw and 96 surrounding post offices.

Postmaster Glaspie said, the program is intended to speed the ultimate delivery of mail through maximum utilization of Saginaw's modern mail processing machines.

"By sending mail to a central point, we can give our customers faster deliveries while cutting our costs," Glaspie said. The principal idea behind the program is to transport all non-local mail from the 96 participating offices to Saginaw for postmarking, cancelling, sorting and dispatch. Such mail will receive a postmark reading: "U. S. Postal Service 486" rather than Cass City, Michigan.

"However," said Glaspie, "we want no misunderstanding about postmarking. Any person or firm that asks for a Cass City, Michigan postmark will get it." Glaspie cautioned against using the word "city" on mail addressed for local delivery in Cass City. He said, the mail should have Cass City, Michigan as part of the address.

Louis Langenburg, 6197 Koepfgen Road, Cass City, suffered bruises and scrapes when she apparently rode her bicycle into the path of a car driven by James Bauer, 60, 6321 Dale St., Cass City.

Tuscola county sheriff reports stated that the girl was in the southbound lane and rode into the northbound lane and into the path of the northbound vehicle. The Bauer car left skid marks 123 feet long. The mishap occurred at 3:02 p. m. Sunday about four-tenths mile north of Muntz Road.

A warrant for negligent homicide has been issued against Jerry L. Laughlin, 28, of Cass City, who was the driver of a car which struck a motorcycle from behind early Monday and killed two men.

Dead are Malcolm J. Leitch, 22, 2688 Atwater Road, Uby, and Gerald E. McGee, 24, 206 N. Krohn Road, Elkton. The two men were riding a motorcycle eastbound on M-142 when the crash occurred near the eastern limits of Elkton. The time of the accident was placed at about 2:40 a. m. and was determined from a wrist watch found near the cycle. The crystal was shattered and the watch had stopped at that time.

Laughlin told Huron County Sheriff Merrit R. McBride he saw the taillight on the motorcycle just before the crash.

The cycle landed in a ditch 292 feet from the point of impact. The machine landed on top of McGee. Leitch was laying nearby. Coroner James P. Colgan pronounced both dead at the scene, suffering from broken necks and internal injuries. McGee also sustained fractured legs.

It is uncertain who was driving the motorcycle, which is registered to Leitch.

Laughlin's car came to rest crossways in the westbound lane and was heavily damaged.

In another accident in Huron county, Mark A. Ross was cited for failing to stop in assured clear distance ahead when the car he was operating struck a vehicle driven by Lloyd D. Hanson, 19, Snover, in the rear.

Hanson was treated and released from Huron Memorial Hospital for back injuries sustained in the mishap. A passenger in the Hanson car, Larry W. Stanton, 24, Uby, was shaken up, and Ross suffered a chipped tooth and facial cuts.

The accident occurred 10:54 p. m. on M-19 about three-fourths mile south of Uby. Huron county sheriff reports stated that Ross said he came up over a hill traveling about 50 miles an hour and was unable to stop in time to avoid the car stopped to make a left turn. Lloyd M. Gray, 28, 4803 State

St., Gagetown, suffered minor injuries when the car he was driving struck the rear of a vehicle operated by Otto E. Keilitz, 60, 632 Allen St., Caro. Keilitz told Tuscola county sheriff deputies he was traveling east when he was hit from behind. Sheriff's reports stated that Gray was also eastbound at a high rate of speed when he attempted to pass the other car and struck it. The accident occurred at 7:05 p. m. May 10, on M-81, one-half mile west of Colwood Road.

Gray was cited for failing to stop in assured clear distance. A witness told deputies the car was traveling at least 90 miles an hour.

Eric Duane Mead, 17, Hurds Corner Road, Cass City, escaped injury when the car he was driving overturned Friday on Purdy Road, at Gifford. Purdy told Tuscola deputies he was northbound and came over a hill when he saw the dead end road. He braked, lost control and turned the car on its top. The mishap occurred about 7:15 a. m.

John Bennett Lorentz, 82, Decker, was cited for failing to report an accident when his car went over the curb and hit a parking meter on Oak Street, and he left the scene. The mishap occurred May 10 at 10:05 a. m.

Our Al is a pro . . . !

He's spent the last 25 years driving the big wheel rigs, hauling steel to Michigan's industrial community. He has driven a million accident free miles during that time.

The 57-year-old River Rouge resident was honored by Secretary of State Richard Austin and the Michigan Trucking Association in February when he was named MTA's Driver of the Year.

It was the 24th year in a row we have honored a Michigan big rig driver for safety efforts during their career. Al Guarino is a pro. Just like the other 250,000 truck drivers in Michigan.

But we don't rest on the laurels of Al Guarino. We look to the future and the Al Guarino's of tomorrow. This year we will award 12 scholarships to Lansing Community College to train the drivers we need for Michigan's fourth largest industry.

By the way, Dick Austin thinks so much of our Al, he is having a copy of the above photograph placed in every Secretary of State branch office. Look for it next time you stop in.

We're proud of Al Guarino, and all of Michigan's professional truck drivers — those of today and those of tomorrow. We're working to keep you in goods and services.

Remember . . . If you got it, a truck brought it.

Wall coverings are gaining in popularity. It's true more people are using it on their walls - but the advent of scrubbable wall paper has brought new ways of using it. The heavy duty vinyl wall covering can be made into wall matched window shades for kitchen or bath. The material is heavy enough it could be used by itself - or - it can be attached to an existing shade or cloth with special adhesive.

November vote to decide daylight savings time debate

Some issues are placed before the Legislature or the general public, voted up or down, and forgotten about as other concerns move into the spotlight.

Parochialism was a good example of this. It was approved by the Legislature in 1970, voted down by voters and laid to rest.

But then there is Daylight Saving Time which has been rejected by the Legislature and rejected by the people. And it hasn't gone away. As a result, voters will get a second chance to voice their opinion on it this November.

DST by itself is a very simple idea. During the summer months when people like to be outside a great deal, the clock is moved ahead an hour.

This means that an office worker who gets off at 5 p. m. is actually leaving the office at 4 p. m. standard time. That gives him or her an extra hour of sunlight in which to be outside after work.

For non-office workers such as farmers, the fiddling with the clock is just a nuisance, however. Farmers don't work by the clock—they work by the sun.

For such interests as drive-in movies, it means sunset comes too late to attract big crowds. If Michigan adopted DST, the sun would go down after 10 p. m. in late June and July.

The problem is made more difficult because Michigan is on the border of the eastern time zone. The western part of the state, economically oriented towards Chicago and Wisconsin, is out of step time-wise with those places. But by keeping Michigan on standard time the year round, western Michigan

Business lauds school's work study program

Ground work for a cooperative work-study program is being laid for students of Cass City High School, with a favorable response from students and local businessmen.

The program is being implemented under the leadership of Co-op director Wayne Dillon, who will also be a part-time counselor next year. The program has the backing of school administrators and the response from the students and businessmen so far is favorable.

The program, technically known as a cooperative occupational program, is designed to give the student an opportunity to learn by doing, said Dillon. The program offers students a chance to get on-the-job training and experience and earn some money.

The program is needed, Dillon explained, because many of the students graduate from high school with no idea what they want to do. This program will offer them exposure to job possibilities in the community and will also provide the businesses with good part-time help.

This need to help non-college bound youngsters is just as important as the guidance given those who intend to further their education, stated Dillon, noting that the school is inadequate in this area now.

Plans call for approximately 30 students to work under the program the first year.

The program will give students 16 years and older an opportunity to work a minimum of 15 hours a week. The combined total of work and school is limited to 48 hours a week. When employed, the students will be under the same work requirements afforded other employees.

Dillon explained that the students will receive credit for time spent on the job to satisfy school instruction that will enable the student to better understand the nature of his work. Grades for the work will be based upon progress reports of the employer.

"I haven't had any businessmen say no, we won't take part," he stated.

The students have also been receptive. Application forms have been handed out to the students; few have been returned empty so far. The students must apply for the program and will then be interviewed by the prospective employer who will choose among them.

The key to the success of the program is the businessman, stated Dillon.

"The businessman becomes the teacher. We feel we can utilize this person. He has talent," said Dillon.

The worst combination we know of is lots of initiative and an offensive personality.

Family tradition: Knoblet awarded Smarks trophy at all-sports fete

The Paul Smarks trophy awarded to the outstanding Senior athlete-scholar-sportsman at Cass City High School was presented last Wednesday night to Tim Knoblet by Principal Russell Richards.

It was the highlight of the annual all-sports banquet held in the school gym before parents and friends of the school athletes.

Tim was the third of the Knoblet brothers to get the award, following in the footsteps of Jim and Jerry, for a record that may never be equalled. The boys are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Knoblet.

The presentation capped a long evening of tributes by coaches to players on the various school teams.

The evening was kicked off by Bill Philbin, football coach. He presented awards and letters to various players on the squad and recapped the grid season.

With a veteran cast returning next fall, we should be the Thumb B Conference champions, he freely predicted. Junior varsity players were introduced by Skip Pranger.

Cass City's lone league championship came in golf. Coach Dave Lovejoy presented letters and explained that Cass City has just one senior and should be heavy favorites to repeat next year.

The prospects for most Cass City sports will be bright, the coaches believe. Coach Fred Hurlburt told how the varsity squad turned the year around at midseason and credited Coach Philbin for his help during the cage season.

With just one regular missing from the squad next year, Hurlburt said that Cass City should be one of the teams to beat in the conference and in the tournaments.

Introducing the basketball junior varsity was Coach Pranger.

A new sport this year was wrestling. Although the results were what could be expected, Coach Paul Clabauesch said that the interest shown makes it about certain that wrestling will be a growing sport at the school.

This year, he added, the boys and I were learning together.

Baseball and track players were introduced, but because the season is in progress no letter winners announced.

Coach Hurlburt pointed to the Hawks' undefeated record in the Thumb B and the excellent chances for a diamond title this spring.

The track team's record in dual meets has been good, Coach Philbin said.

Master of ceremonies for the evening was Athletic Director Robert Stickle. Also introducing teams were Dale McIntosh, Freshman basketball, and Miss Brenda Breidinger, cheerleading.

The boys and their parents were told of the value of athletics by Allen W. Bush, State Director of Athletics.

He said that nowhere does the taxpayer get more for his money than in the athletic program. Athletes learn to play by the rules, learn discipline and learn cooperation, he said, and these are lessons that must be learned sooner or later.

What better place than the athletic field, he concluded.

THE THIRD MEMBER of the Fred Knoblet family, Tim Knoblet, smiles broadly as he joins his two brothers as the winner of the coveted Paul Smarks trophy. Presenting the award was Principal Russell Richards.

Hawks clinch share of Thumb B title with win

Cass City clinched at least a share of the Thumb B Conference baseball title Monday afternoon with a 4-3 decision over Vassar at Cass City Recreational park. The win kept the Hawks undefeated in conference play with a 6-0 record, a game and a half ahead of second place Caro.

The Hawks could win it all Thursday at Laker High with another victory. Defeating the Lakers could be a man-sized job as the defending league champions are generally conceded to be better than their record this spring.

The Hawks used the same formula for victory over Vassar that the team has used all season. . . tight defense and timely hitting.

Fred Harbec and Jerry Toner combined for the win. Harbec tossed the first 4 2-3 innings, giving up six hits and two runs. Toner came on to mop up, allowing two hits and one run.

The game was tight all the way. Cass City trailed until the third. Vassar picked up single counters in the first and second innings. The Hawks got one of the runs back in the second as Don Galbraith singled, stole second and came racing home on Henry Cooklin's single.

The Cass City Red Hawks will enter the state tournament with a district game against North Branch at 4 p. m. Monday when North Branch will play at Cass City Recreational Park.

The Branchers are a strong team and hold a 2-1 decision over the Lakers in regular season play.

In the third, Cass City went ahead to stay. Kip Hopper, Pete Frederick and Scott Hartel all walked. Hopper scored on an error and Frederick stole home for the second counter.

The last Hawk run came in the fourth and the same combination that scored in the second was responsible. Galbraith singled, stole second and rode home on Cooklin's second single of the game.

Vassar came charging back with a run in the sixth but it was too little and too late for the Vulcans.

Bob Bishop and Randy Hecht each collected two hits in three tries for the losers.

2 Hawks qualify for State meet at regionals in Caro

The Senior High Band will present a concert Thursday, May 18, at 7:30 p. m. at the high school gym. Director George Bushong reported this week.

Music will range from a Robert L. King March through composition by Strauss and end with the Pop Rock idiom of today.

There is no admission charge and the public is invited.

Cass City qualified two individuals for the State finals Saturday in the Regional Class B track meet held at Don Stamats Field in Caro but both boys were forced to break their school records to do it.

Craig Guernsey in the 800 and Curt Strickland in the mile will represent Cass City in the finals Saturday.

Despite their outstanding individual efforts the caliber of the competition was so great that both boys finished third, just good enough to make it into the finals.

Cass City's only other points were earned by Steve Selby who finished fourth in the two-mile.

Cass City totaled 8 points to tie with Millington and Yale for seventh place. Mount Morris, paced by Roy Young who set new regional records with victories in the long jump, 100 and 220, was first with 49½ points.

Best showing by Thumb B teams came when Al Michalak of Caro set a regional record in the shot put with a toss of 55' 2¼ inches; Dirk Sutherland set a record in the pole vault (13' 2¼), and Vassar copped the 440-relay in regional record time of :45.5.

THE FIRST HIT in the Hawks' victory over Vassar Monday was collected by Don Galbraith who knocked two singles to share hitting honors with Henry Cooklin.

Junior High hosts narrow track win

The Cass City Junior High track team won a triangular meet with Sandusky and North Branch Thursday with a victory in the final event and a one-point margin over runner-up Sandusky. The score was Cass City, 61½; Sandusky, 60½; North Branch, 37.

Cass City won 5 events and shared the top spot in the sixth on the way to victory.

Howard won the pole vault (8' 3") and Schweikart finished first in the 440 (1:2.6).

Schneeberger continued undefeated in the mile, winning with a 5:42.8 and Poslusny copped the 220-yard dash in :27.75.

The 800-relay team of Hillaker, Englehart, Pena and Sherman added another first to the Cass City total.

Englehart ran the 60-yard dash in :7.2 to tie with Byrd of Sandusky for first place.
