ED STOUTENBURG rode this bicycle 870 miles around Lake Huron.

Cass City boy rides bike 870 miles around Lake Huron

Ed Stoutenburg is back home again after a feat few think about and even fewer attempt. He rode a bicycle 870 miles around Lake Huron.

He was one of 33 teenage boys and 7 adult counselors to make the trip under the sponsorship of Campus Life Youth for Christ.

Ed, 15, the oldest of three children of Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Stoutenburg, 4291 Maple, Cass City, made the journey on a 10-speed racer because he thought it would be fun and he wanted to meet some young people from different schools. Teens from the surrounding area comprised the group.

The group left Marlette June 9, just hours after school finished. The first leg of the journey was made in a truck while the bicycles and boys were transported to Goderich, Ontario, where the ride began the next morning.

They rode about 100 miles a day and returned home to Vassar Sunday, where they were greeted by family and food.

Ed explained that the group of cyclists was broken down into squads. All members of the group wore a bright orange flag with the words "People Crossing" on the back of the bicycle seat. A six foot antenna with an orange flag was also attached to the bicycle for visibility. One youthful rider wrote "We're almost there" on his flag, and was followed closely by another tired rider the whole trip.

A typical day began about 5 a. m. when the call to get up was made. "Water in a minute," greeted the sleepy travelers, said Ed, who always managed to drag himself out of bed before he got a glass of water thrown on him.

"Some times we'd ride 20 miles before breakfast," he said, adding that they usually stopped to set up camp about 6 p. m., although sometimes it was as late as 8:30 or 9. They camped in state parks along the way.

At night the boys had devotions and shared their experiences around a camp fire.

The boys rode mostly on main highways and also on the expressway a couple of days, winding their way through Owen Sound, Parry Sound, Sudbury, Massey and Saul Sie. Marie. They re-entered Michigan on the sixth day of the trip.

Averaging 100 miles a day, the boys broke a Campus Life record when they rode 138 miles, riding in the rain for about 3 hours. Ed related that it was cold much of the time and they rode in sweat pants and sweat shirts.

The youthful cyclist told that the trip was relatively free of mishap. One rider hit a bump and was thrown from his bike, resulting in a broken collar bone, but more serious injury was luckily averted.

Ed said another rider escaped injury when his bike was hit by another boy who failed to stop in time, and it tipped over. The boy landed with his head resting inside the wheel of a semi-truck wheel that had just stopped.

Ed had no difficulties. "The only trouble was with the knees," he said. He wrapped his in liniment and bandages.

The troupe had some trouble with motorists trying to push them off the road, Ed confessed. "A couple of cars came close.

One guy got knocked off." He wasn't injured.

Some comments were also thrown at them as they rode along, but other automobile drivers were more friendly.

"Some that came along side would talk a little and say they wished they could come along," Ed said.

Tanned and tired, the young man said he'd like to try the trip again.

Gagetown boy still in coma

Lloyd Michael Gray Jr., 6, of Gagetown is still in critical condition in St. Mary's Hospital, Saginaw, where he was taken June 4 after being hit by a truck.

The boy is in the intensive care unit and remains in a coma.

The child was injured when he apparently rode his bicycle into the path of a truck. He is the son of Lloyd Gray, 4803 State St., Gagetown.

FROM THE Editor's Corner

A University of Michigan psychologist, Robert B. Zajonc, says that contrary to popular belief familiarity doesn't bring contempt. Familiarity produces comfort. Novelty produces tension and discomfort.

When this theory came across my desk last week I latched on to it with the same gusto that I reserve for a big front page exclusive story.

Not that I was about to print it I carefully saved it to show my wife. And underlined the part that read: "remember when you swore you'd never

"If It Fitz . . ."I have these dreams . .

BY JIM FITZGERALD

People keep saying that aging crows like me can't do what we did when we were kids. Nonsense. Last night I fell out of bed.

My wife immediately turned on the bed light.

"Turn out the damn light," I told her from my prone position on the floor, among the wilted sox and candy wrappers.

"Why?" she asked.

"Because I don't want to see what a dumb clown I look like lying here on the floor with no clothes on and my head bleeding," I explained.

"Don't bleed on the bedspread," she said, turning out the light, rolling over, and leaving me for dead.

I was feeling particularly foolish because I hadn't actually fallen out of bed. I had rolled out on purpose. And I hadn't had a drop of booze in several days.

You see, doctor, I have these dreams . .

Some brutes are always chasing me. Usually, they corner me cowering in a corner. My defense is brilliant. I lie on my back and strike out with my feet, bicycle fashion. As long as I keep kicking, the brutes can't get at me. I have no idea why they are after me. Their motive is certainly not robbery because I am nude and am carrying no money in my mouth. It is hard to believe they covet my body.

The mystery is never solved because at this point my wife always wakes me up.

"You are kicking me again," she says. "If you don't stop you are going to be very embarrassed because I will call the police."

"Were you attacking me?" I ask.

"You must be kidding," she says.

The dream changed a little the night I rolled out of bed. The brutes were coming, as usual but this time they had me trapped in bed. Someone (who, doctor?) whispered in my ear: "If you get out of this bed quick you will escape."

I thought to myself: If I roll swiftly to the left I will hit the floor hard and it will hurt. But it won't hurt as much as being murdered by these brutes. So I bravely rolled, CRASH! And I had been right. It did hurt . .

What does this dream mean?

My wife has a simple explanation. She says the brutes represent the legions of readers I have offended through the years. I dream about them, she says because I have a guilty conscience. She says this with obvious satisfaction, because he often misunderstands the sweet things I write about her.

If her theory is correct, I am sleeping with the chief brute. But I can't buy it.

My brutes don't look like readers. I have the impression they are soldiers. The enemy? Maybe. Or maybe they are a Pentagon patrol, sent to wash my brain.

My wife says I sometimes whimper during these dreams. That doesn't surprise me. When I'm awake, I am continually stifling sobs, and substituting laughs. This world is full of things to cry about.

If anyone out there likes to interpret dreams, help yourself. In the meantime, I'll have a guardrail put up on my side of the bed.

Onward and Upward?

Mr. and Mrs. James Foster

The Trinity United Methodist Church in Cass City was the setting for the June 3 wedding of Elgene Kay Greenlee, daughter of Mrs. Virginia Greenlee, of Argyle and the late Elgin Greenlee, and James Foster, son of Harry Foster of Caro and the late Benlah Foster.

The Rev. Maynard Q. Kent officiated at the 8:00 p. m. ceremony. Mrs. Joan Sommers was organist and Betty Jo Agar was soloist.

The bride approached the altar with her mother. She wore a white Venetian lace gown with Empire waist trimmed with velvet and seed pearls.

Her floor-length train was held by a cap of Venetian lace and velvet ribbon. She carried mums, roses, baby's breath and blue daisies.

Matron of honor was Joanne Buhl of Argyle, sister of the bride, and bridesmaids were Shirley Foster, sister-in-law of the groom, Caro, and Joyce LaRoche of Cass City.

Their floor-length gowns were blue flowered voile with an Empire waist and georgette crepe sleeves. They wore picture hats with long blue ribbons and carried one long stemmed yellow rose.

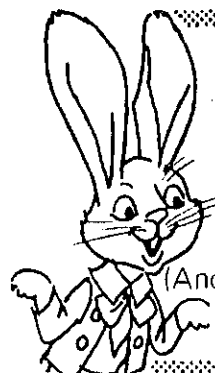

Best man was Wesley Foster of Caro, brother of the groom, and groomsmen were Karl E. Buhl of Argyle and Jim LaRoche of Cass City.

Ushers were Jerry Greenlee of Flint and Allen Downing of Caro.

The bride's mother wore a knit dress with a navy blue bodice and white skirt trimmed in navy with a red and white corsage of roses.

A reception followed the ceremony at the Deford community school cafeteria.

The couple took a wedding trip to upper Michigan.

(And anyone else he can get to help)

It's the generation gap again. Looking around for nicknacks to dish out at graduation time my sister, Margaret, came up with the current hot novelty, a beer can that plays a tune.

The musical cans play several different ditties and Margaret was going to be extra clever. She shopped around and succeeded in buying enough cans that played "The Beer Barrel Polka" for everyone on her list.

What could be better than a beer can playing a beer song? Most anything, I guess. Because none of the grads had ever heard about the song everybody sang for 25 years starting about 25 years ago.

What's a parade without a band? Nothing, says the Western Round-Up Committee. Butter them up, said Bob Buttery as he directed traffic Saturday. They put life in this parade and the entire committee is grateful.

Sometimes I feel that I get hung-up on puns but you can say truthfully that without the band the pep would have been missing from the parade.

There's a dual purpose for having Jonathan Kaner, the University of Michigan medical student, train this summer at Hills and Dales. The first is to further his medical education.

The second is to further his education about the joys of small town living. Hopefully he'll find Cass City just right and after graduation take a serious look at the village as a place for his career.

In answer to your questions. No, Bill Eberline didn't pose for the picture of the chef in the ad that has run several times for Southeastern Michigan Gas.

Bill is a little older (and a little fatter?) than that. It's just his reputation as a chef and the association that comes when you see the can in one hand and a pancake turner in the other that makes so many of his friends believe it has to be Bill.

Evidently things aren't as rosy nation-wide as some of the politicians would have you believe. Miss Joan Maleck was in the office last week obviously elated that she had landed a job after graduating from Michigan State.

She majored in packaging and said that when she left she was the only girl from a class of 200 pupils to have landed a job. She's with Avon in New York.

EDITOR'S CORNER

wear a mini-skirt? Or you scoffed at long hair on men? "It's all part of the pattern. When you are exposed to all of these things they grow on you". As the ad man says, try it you'll like it... the second, third or fourth time around.

Now don't get the wrong impression. My wife has never been up tight about mini-skirts or long hair. Her hang-up is worse than this. She doesn't care to go out west fishing again.

We went last year and the fishing was great. My 12-year-old and I caught a lot of them.

That's man's country. whoops. ... that's people country out there. Clean air. Lots of space. No noise. Nothing to distract you from the fishing.

Nothing is the word that describes it, my wife mutters. I've seen that cabin and those mountains. ... and no thanks.

That's why this little article is worth its weight in gold. Zajonc's experiments all point to the same result: the more often a person comes in contact with something or someone, the more favorable he tends to feel towards them.

With this conclusive proof no woman, including my wife (especially my wife) will be able to say that taking a fish from the hook isn't great unless they've done it a dozen times. And if she does it enough any woman is bound to feel comfortable as she spears a worm with a hook. Sheer exposure is the key. Try it you'll like it.

Any self respecting married man will agree that with this article for proof justice is on my side. But I'm still ready to compromise, to sacrifice. If the women don't care for Montana, the men in the house will give in. ... again. I've already announced that we can go elsewhere. There's Alaska, Ontario, Quebec, Argentina, Chile and hundreds of other places to visit where the trout grow big, fat and sassy.

Already there is mutiny in the air. Despite this generous offer, it may just be that we'll spend this vacation in some plush joint where there's nothing to do but lie around, relax and have someone cater to our every whim.

That's a real vacation, according to the women. You try it, we'll like it, they added. They prepared to celebrate another victory for women's lib in the green house on South Seeger.

COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS

A special Village Council meeting was held on June 12, 1972 at 7:30 P.M. at the Municipal Building. Trustees Ross and Jones were absent. All Planning Commission members were present, as well as Clint House, Village Attorney; Bill Hubbell, Engineering Consultant from Hubbell, Roth and Clark; a representative from Provincial House, Inc.; and representative of the owners of Hills and Dales No. 3 subdivision.

General review of the Council's action of the previous meeting concerning the preference given to the Donahue site for the proposed skilled nursing home followed.

After considerable discussion, the representative of Provincial House agreed to contact the developers, Dr. and Mrs. Harold Donahue, in order to prepare a site plan and cost estimates pertaining to the preferred site.

The possible actions to be taken at the June 29 Public Hearing and Council meeting were reviewed.

There being no further business the meeting was adjourned.

Gagetown girl hurt on tractor

Debra Ann Koch, 13, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Koch of rural Gagetown, was treated at Hills and Dales Hospital for injuries she received Wednesday, June 14, when the tractor she was driving overturned at 1 p.m.

Exports strengthen the economy

Exporting is one of the main areas of concentration in effort to make Michigan's economy strongest and more diversified.

Already, nearly 100,000 Michigan men and women are employed directly or indirectly in the manufacture of products that are exported outside the country. At present, Michigan industry sells to other countries goods with a value totalling more than $300 for every man, woman and child in the state.

The state of Michigan exports more than all but 17 countries of the world.

Most of this total comes from the auto industry, since that is Michigan's main industry. But efforts are being made to expand the areas in which Michigan exports.

For instance, a bowling alley in Moscow purchased 24 lanes from a Muskegon company which is handling the installation of the lanes. And a Korean firm is purchasing $500,000 worth of cookie and cracker-making machinery from a Grand Rapids company.

This is this type of sale which helps diversify the Michigan economy and make the state less dependent on the auto industry for its well-being.

Michigan farm products hit a record sales high in 1971. The state sent more than $113 million worth of products overseas—an increase of more than 20 percent over the previous second best total.

ONE FOR THE ROAD

at home

By Dan Marlowe

You're concerned about the war in Vietnam?

What about the war in the United States?

I'm referring to the road war, the one in which the U.S. lost an army of civilians in 1971.

The Insurance Information Institute has released figures showing that Americans killed one another on the highways with such regularity in 1971 that the death toll for that one year exceeded the total G.I. fatalities in the entire nine-year course of combat in Vietnam. Just think about that for a moment.

During 1971, an estimated 55,000 Americans died in traffic accidents, while injuries totaled more than 4,983,000. Those figures are not misprints, friends; they are cold, hard, unanswerable facts.

Who among us in the past few years hasn't had at least one friend or close acquaintance involved in a fatal or crippling accident? We tend to become fatalistic about it; I know I do myself. "Drive enough miles today and eventually you'll have an accident." That's the saying and the belief.

The Insurance Information Institute makes a pertinent statement in regard to highway accidents. "The slaughter by motor vehicle in 1971 is a tragic reminder that, unlike Vietnam, there is never any winding down in the perennial warfare on the nation's roads."

The Institute noted that 1971 began with some striking improvements in highway accident experience, but that the year's early gains were wiped out by poor showings in July, August, and October.

July and August - the height of the vacation season. July and August - the months when millions of American family automobiles are on the highways.

July and August - just around the corner.

Drive carefully, friends. Don't become a statistic in 1972.

Uncle Tim From Tyre Says:

Dear Mister Editor:

Ed Doolittle raised a question during the session at the country store Saturday night that kept the fellers wound up past closing time. Ed wanted to know why it is that a feller can run for public office after he's old to do anything else.

Ed pointed out that a few months back Adolph Rupp was forced to retire from coaching basketball, and he said if they wouldn't let him coach he would run for Congress. Rupp's school has a rule that everbody quits at 70, but a politician can serve as long as he can get elected. Ed says they are somepun wrong with a deal that says a school teacher in charge of 30 younguns can't work after 65, but a senator that might speak for 15 million people can hold down the job as long as the people want him.

The fellers was general agreed with Ed, but Clem Webster reminded them that the system actual was designed to help folks that wanted to retire but couldn't and that we've got to take the bad with the good. Clem said he could well re-collect when a boy went to work soon as he could pull his weight, and he worked till he died and that was that. But Clem said they had ought to be some thought give to folks that want to keep working as well as them that want to quit.

Zeke Grubb was of a mind that forced retirement is discrimination of the worst sort.

He said you don't junk a car as long as it runs good, no matter how old it is, and folks ought to git at least as much consideration. But Zeke was agreed with Clem that retirement fer them that wants it is fine. What bothers him most about forced retirement, allowed Zeke, is the idee of kicking out a old hand jest to make room fer a young one. Zeke had saw this piece where a company was hiring salesmen that had retired from other jobs, and they was selling rings around the young fellers.

Clem said Social Security had a lot to do with forced retirement, because they had to set a age fer people to be eligible fer it. That age has come to be took as the age everbody runs out of gas, was Clem's words. If that's the case, he added, it ain't no wonder the Supreme Court pulls some of the stunts it does. That court is older than the one that gathers at the store ever Saturday night, said Clem, and the one in Washington had 4,000 cases filed with it last year.

Personal, Mister Editor, ain't none of the fellers ever broke a sweat if it didn't suit him. They worked their land as much as they wanted all their lives, and they jest work it less now. But I am agreed that junking good people is a bad idee. They say sports is like life. Then the young feller coming along had ought to have to beat out the old player fair and square in both games.

Yours truly,
Uncle Tim

BETTER HEALTH

Over-the-counter drug guide

BY DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

Recently my good friend, Erwin Di Cyan, Ph. D., an able pharmacologist and drug consultant, wrote a much-needed book with the help of Dr. Lawrence Hessman, M.D., the chief of internal medicine at Lowell General Hospital in Massachusetts. The book is entitled "Without Prescription, a Guide to the Selection and Use of Medicines You Can Get Over-the-Counter Without Prescription, for Safe Self-Medication."

Probably millions of persons feel the need for this book. It can give much help in choosing among the many drugs that are advertised and sold over the counter; drugs that are said to bring a person relief from the symptoms of colds, allergies, sleeplessness or heartburn.

As a physician, I find this book very interesting, because it tells me what chemicals are in the medicines that I hear advertised on television and radio.

As the authors say, "Our intention is to give as much useful information as practicable for the layman's use, yet to avoid even an appearance of bias in favor of any product." They say that the practical purpose of the book is "to help the reader make an informed and intelligent choice of medicines that he can reasonably safely use by self-medication."

As they emphasize, the book is not intended to replace the physician. It is meant as a guide for the person who has to choose among several proprietary drugs without a prescription. The doctors discuss various remedies for the "common cold" -- the painkillers, the decongestants, the antihistamines and the cough medicines. There is also a section on the drugs available to persons with stomach and abdominal discomforts, such as the antacids, laxatives, anti-diarrhea drugs and drugs for persons with hemorrhoids.

The doctors also discuss the current fad of using "feminine hygiene sprays," and tell us what such sprays, powders and douches contain.

Now that summer is here, people are choosing among the many oils and lotions on the market that are supposed to protect the sunbather or cause him to tan more quickly. They will want to know what these preparations contain and how well they work.

As the doctors point out so wisely, an ointment or lotion containing a "sun-filtering agent" does not necessarily guard against a sunburn. "Reliance on these products may be a false security, for after swimming most of the application will be washed off. Similarly, perspiration in the hot sun also reduces the effectiveness of the cover that such an application lends," say the authors.

As I have said in this column, skin specialists know that the sun tends to dry and age the skin. We know that persons who are exposed to the sun for many hours, like lifeguards and farmers, tend to develop more skin cancer than those who do not spend much time in the sun.

We wish that people would not flock to the beaches during the summer in order to get themselves deeply tanned. However, as long as the fad remains popular, we doctors do not expect people to heed our warnings about the hazards of exposure to the sun.

The book by Drs. Di Cyan and Hessman is filled with wise advice about the treatment of most of the more common diseases and distresses that assail Americans. It contains much of the wisdom that Dr. Di Cyan has picked up during his many years of giving advice to the manufacturers of drugs.

"Without Prescription" is published by Simon and Schuster, Rockefeller Center, 630 Fifth Ave., New York, N.Y. 10020. It costs $7.95.

AGENT'S CORNER

New recipes for strawberries

Sherry Lowell, Area Extension Home Economist

No one really knows how strawberries got their name. It may be linked to the straw placed between rows of berries to keep them clean and protect plants from the cold. Others think their name came from the way berries appeared scattered or "strewn" among the leaves of plants.

Whatever the reason for their name, the beauty and flavor of strawberries make them popular. For berries at their best, choose those with full red color, firm flesh, sweet aroma and a generally bright appearance. Berries with white tips are undersize and gain no further sweetness or flavor after they are picked. Keep in mind that a strawberry's size has no effect on quality or flavor.

High and low. . . one-half cup of fresh strawberries supply half the daily requirement of Vitamin C, for a low 28 calories. Keep those green caps on though until shortly before serving to save the Vitamin C value.

This June, try Scandinavian Shortcake and serve it on Midsummer's Night Eve. . . June 24. . . the longest period of day light in the year. You will need two flaky pastry rounds each pricked and cut into 8 wedges before baking. Fill the rounds with strawberries and 1 cup whipped cream. Decorate the top layer with another cup of whipped cream or topping and garnish each wedge with one whole strawberry.

For future feasting, make a supply of homemade strawberry jam. Be sure to choose the correct freezing variety for superior flavor from a chart available at your Cooperative Extension Service office. At the same time you can ask for your copy of uncooked freezer jam. Happy feasting!

the direction of energy

When the big wheel turns clockwise, the little wheel turns counter-clockwise at a greater rate of speed. Thus man controls energy in the physical universe, determining, according to his own will, its direction and effect.

There is a spiritual universe, too. A world in which God, who gave us freedom of will, provides the guidance, help and inspiration which unite our minds with His for purposes which are GOOD.

We realize with trembling in this nuclear age that the physical and spiritual universe are not two—but ONE. We cannot live in the one and forget the other. For the world we know will perish unless man's spiritual vision governs his use of the energy he controls.

Wise and reverent minds have always known this. That is why we have CHURCHES... why we share their Life and Work with one another.

AROUND THE FARM On the job with Don Keblor

By Don R. Keblor

Every so often I'll have someone ask the question, "What does the County Cooperative Extension Service do?"

When this question is asked invariably the person has never availed himself of the county Extension Service office.

Now it is not easy to explain in minute details all the informational and educational subject matter materials this federal, state and county agency has available.

Everyone seeking information about agriculture, home economics or 4-H youth subjects comes to the extension office for first hand information.

Actually, the informational materials available to farm and non-farm people is unlimited. The agents of your county extension service are available for consultation, in the office, on the farm, in the home, rural or urban.

Last week some of my visits to farms and homes were as follows: We planted a total of four narrow-row bean plots at the Nixon Brother's and Ruben Keinath farms. Four oat producers had me appraise their cereal leaf beetle problem. I collected cereal leaf beetle larvae at Erwin Webers for analysis to determine if they were parasitized. Three home owners were visited to determine the cause and prevention of tree shrubbery damaging insects.

Other visits included calls on three fertilizer dealers regarding crop, soils, fertilizer and herbicide questions.

While in the office the over 35 visitation, telephone and letter information requests were varied in scope. Several involved the control of insects such as rose chafers, European pine sawfly larvae and cereal leaf beetles. One person wanted to control algae in a farm pond, where to obtain trees for the pond area, fish for the pond and when to plant the trees. Lawn cultural practices recommendations were given to five persons plus garden fertilizer recommendations.

One set of hog housing plans were drawn up and another livestock producer requested beam, joist and post specifications to build an overhead storage.

There were other information requests also, but this resume of last week's activities briefly describe a small part of the Extension office involvement in dispersing information. These were my activities and doesn't include the activities of the county director, the 4-H youth agent, the home economist and program aide or the two secretaries.

I guess the real way you can find out what the county extension service office does or can do for you, stop in, phone or write for answers to your questions. If there is an answer we'll give it to you. If we don't have the answer, and there is an answer, we'll obtain it for you.

The Michigan Society of Fellows, a program unique to public universities, was established in 1970 at The University of Michigan with a $2 million Ford Foundation grant to assist graduate students "who show originality and whose interests are not regularly accommodated in other scholarship programs."

Walbro work plan hailed by college bound students

In the 18 years that Walbro Corporation has been a member of the Cass City community, one of the guiding tenets fostered by President W. E. Walpole and enthusiastically endorsed by all of the company's management has been community service.

If it's good for the community, it's good for Walbro.

That's been the policy and it's been successful. It wasn't surprising that when Harold Isard, personnel manager, suggested a special summer program for college and college-bound students 4 years ago, it was warmly received.

The summer work program has grown steadily since it started. This summer 30 girls and 10 men are working and saving for college.

You'll find them everywhere in the plant. On the production line. In the office. At the telephone switchboard. In packaging. Wherever there is a need and sometimes even where there isn't.

Despite the growing scope of the program every student who would like to work can't be hired. We sometimes have to make work for some of the fellows enrolled in the program, Isard said.

That's mainly because there are more production line jobs for women and the girls can serve on inspection or in secretarial capacities. The 10 men working are primarily classified as laborers and handle clean-up chores, painting and ordinary maintenance.

One of Isard's larger problems is determining who will get the jobs. There are more applicants than the company can use despite the continued growth of the program. Students living in Cass City are given preference.

Students that make it do well. Sally Geiger, 20, now a Junior at Central Michigan University, says if you do your job you can come back each summer. She calls it a continuing scholarship program.

All three of the Geiger girls have worked at Walbro while attending college.

Sally says she can work during the summer, at Christmas and spring vacation and save $700 over transportation and personal expenses.

The future for upcoming college students is bright. Walbro is expanding.

As Walbro grows the program expands. We fully expect that it will continue to do so, Isard said.

3 enter pleas in circuit court

Three persons were arraigned Monday before Tuscola County Circuit Court Judge Norman Baguley.

Pleas of innocent were entered for Larry Wascher of Saginaw when they stood mute to a charge of stealing a Holstein steer valued over $100. The charge stemmed from the May 18 theft of the animal from the Merrill Packing Co. Pre-trials were scheduled for July 5.

Ramon G. Sanchez, Bay Port, entered a plea of guilty to a reduced charge of larceny in a building. He was originally charged with breaking and entering Miracles Deford Grocery April 23. He will be sentenced July 31.

In other court business, four persons were sentenced.

Douglas Englehart, Shabbona Road, Deford, was placed on three years' probation with the first 60 days in the county jail. He was also given fine and costs of $400. He was found guilty of larceny from a motor vehicle by a jury in May.

Charles Gladded Jr. of Muncie was placed on two years' probation and given fine and costs of $400 for stealing a 4-place Ski Cart from a Reese implement store. He was also ordered to spend 30 days in the county jail.

Irene and Harvey Millard were both sentenced to three years' probation and each given costs of $300 for larceny in a dwelling house. She was also given two weeks in the county jail and her husband 30 days.

Letters to Editor

World of ideas will come with Artrain to Cass City

Cass City Chronicle
Cass City, Michigan

Dear John,

It seems time for someone to say, "Why is Artrain, a project of the Michigan Council for the Arts, coming to Cass City?" Why? Artrain was constructed for us, for communities that are not closely associated with the culture that has historically been found in all metropolitan cities throughout the world. The major museums, libraries, symphonies, theaters, all are store houses of the best that man has in him to express. Many people never are touched by what is in those store houses because they don't feel they will see or hear anything that is meaningful to them.

The Michigan Arts Council recognized this even as a newly formed state institution. Its various programs are designed to bring people and work from the arts' world to all the people of the State of Michigan, a very tall order. Some of their programs have been very good—some too highbrow. The best have been when it was people to people, live activity. Living poets, reading their own poetry to children in a schoolroom; young dancers explaining as they dance what ballet dancing means to them; a sculptor working in a community for a week with anyone who wants to know about sculpting; theater done live in a school gym; communication of ideas live, in living color, and not videotaped to be shown at a later date. There is action and reaction, people learning from each other.

The Artrain brings with it a whole world of ideas about what art is, what man has said about the world from the beginning of time, how he has been saying it in the last 100 years, and how much art is around us, both good and bad today. Then after one is saturated with those ideas, one can look at work of today's artists in a small museum car, and finally see artists at work.

We the committee for Artrain of Cass City, felt we could offer to the whole Thumb Area a remarkable opportunity to be part of a communication of ideas. But more important, it gives us an opportunity on an individual basis to share our own creativity. The Heritage Weekend features Artrain, but along with that, we are offering to the whole area the opportunity to display our own best in the crafts, photography, painting and sculpture, and in the area of our historical heritage, antiques and demonstrations of some of the older home arts that are being revived. We will also have theater, seminars, and music.

This is probably more important to our community in the long run than the train. What we do to express the best that is in us and what happens after the train leaves is the point of the whole week end.

Every man, woman, and child who wishes to participate can do so and we hope everyone will come, be a part of this week end and find that there is something within him that is touched by what someone else has done—whether it be in a work of art, or an old bottle, or the fun of a barber-shop ballad. Art is not something apart from us. It is us and the best lives and communicates for centuries. We need very much to communicate with each other, to feel we all belong and care for each other—the young, the old, the farmer and the town folk, whatever the division might be called.

This was not meant to be a commercial venture, though it certainly is costly to bring such a week end to fruition. Hopefully, it is worth the time and thought shared by all the people who have given of themselves and their financial support to Artrain and Heritage Week.

Why Cass City? Why not? This community has something especially unique to offer and to share—its own expression of "the best that is in us." That is what Artrain is all about. It will be a good week end for all if we all can give something to it. So I hope everyone will come and share in the activities and the fun of being part of a special time.

Sincerely,
Holly Althaver
Artrain Chairman, Cass City

ON THE ASSEMBLY line students are busy, too. Sanding castings at the main plant are, clockwise from front: Nancy Kerbyson, Brenda Harris and Mary Beth Esau.

Country safe in hands of young

Dear Editor,

Late Sunday night I had a flat tire. Being an old man I really was in trouble trying to change it.

Two Hot Rodders "screeched" to a stop, jacked up the car and in 10 min. they had the spare on - the flat in the trunk - and tore off "cooking on the front burner". They refused to accept any money for helping me. They work in Cass City someplace and one of the boys' names was "Terry." It was 30 miles from Cass City, so they did not stop because they knew me. I think the country is safe in the hands of the Hot Rodders, so let's appreciate the younger generation instead of running them down.

THE WINNERS IN the horsemanship competition line up for the camera. The riders and the way they finished were: Al Kuenzli, third; Bruce Fox, sixth; Ed Keating, fifth; Barb Auten, first; Marlene Chapman, second, and Kay Kendall, fourth.

THE TRACTOR PULL Sunday proved to be one of the most popular of all events held at the Western Round-up.

THE TRACTORS had trouble pulling on the service drive at Cass City Recreational Park. It was too soft for best traction.

ALWAYS a highlight of the competition was the annual water ball contest where firemen from around the area compete, department against department. Richville won.

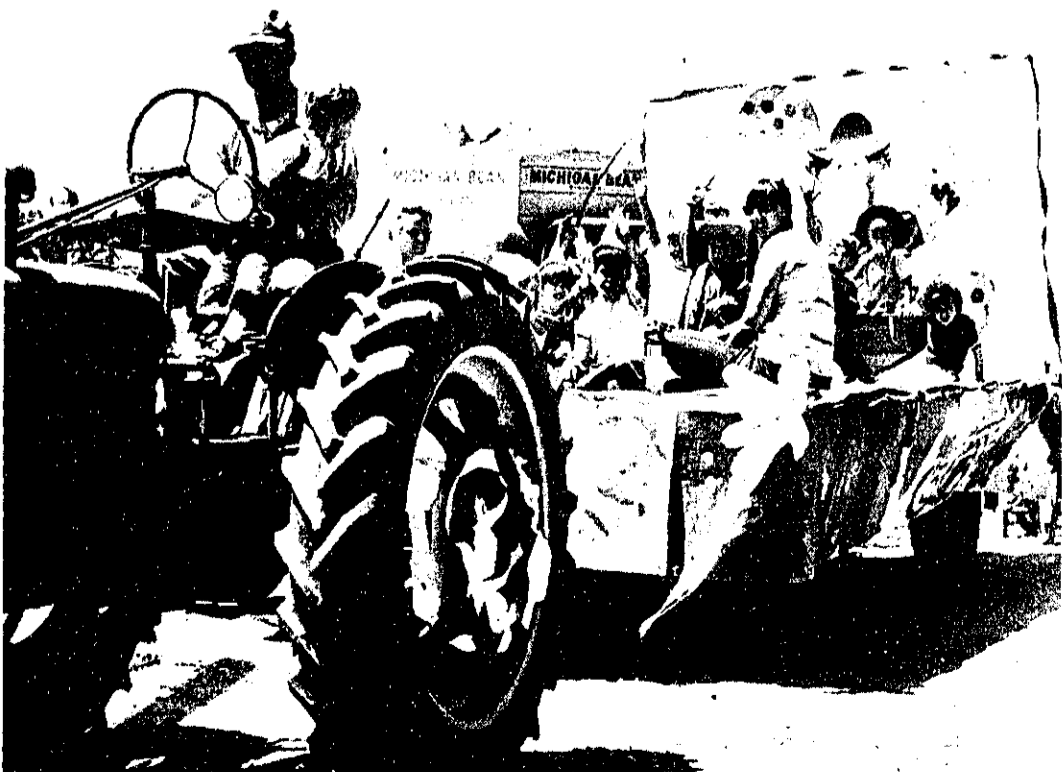

THE PEP BAND helped make the parade a parade and was warmly received by the crowds and the parade committee.

Highlights of the 1972 Western Roundup

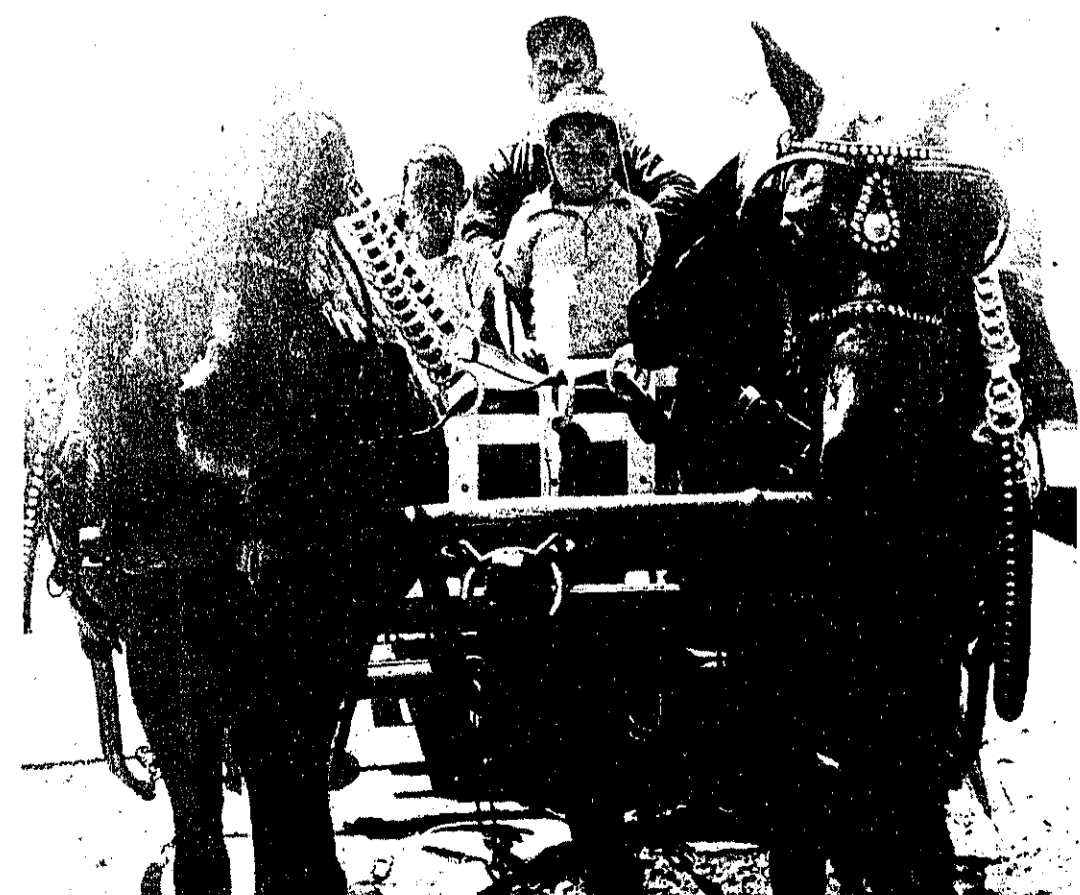

A MASS OF SMILING children and profusion of bikes helped make Saturday's parade a gala event.

ONE OF THE BEST decorated floats in the parade was sponsored by the Cass City Pre-School Nursery. The kids enjoyed the ride all the way down Main Street.

FIRST IN THE pleasure class competition was Marlene Chapman.

UP FRONT AND enjoying it all in an old fashioned wagon ride were these two youngsters helping drive this fine team.

THE AUTOPULSE fuel pump division of Walbro Corporation hit a new milestone Friday when the plant on Main Street in Cass City produced its 100,000th pump this year. The June 15 date was by the far the earliest that the production mark had been achieved. All the veteran employees pictured at a cake and ice cream session held to commemorate the day can remember years when this record was unthinkable. From left: Ralph Chapman, Clyde Wells, Mrs. Lee Rabideau, Mrs. Tommy Cook and Mrs. Willy Kroetsch.

Tigers climb in Little League race

Rain curtailed activity in the Cass City Little League as four games were played during the week. One of the teams rained out was the Yanks. Despite this the league leaders solidified their position on the top with a single win while the runner-up Pirates were splitting two games.

CUBS—GIANTS

One of the major problems facing the rebuilding Giants this season is finding pitchers who can get the ball over the plate. The Giants lost to the Cubs, 25-6 and four different Giant hurlers were charged with 18 walks. Ernie Stoutenburg, the starter, took the loss while Jeff Martin, relieved by Steve Meeker, got the win.

The Cubs slammed out 11 hits while the Giants were held to two hits. Martin, with three hits in four tries, was the leading sticker for the Cubs.

PIRATES—TIGERS

The Tigers scored an upset win over the Pirates and stamped themselves as one of the teams to watch in the last half of the season with a 14-1 decision.

The Tigers rode to victory on the arm of Mike Richards who tossed a no-hitter and struck out 12. Bill Shagene was the loser. He whipped 13 while allowing eight hits.

Ken Martin rapped out three hits in four tries to pace the Tigers' attack.

YANKEES—ORIOLES

The Yanks took a two-game lead in the vital loss column over the rest of the field with an 8-0 decision over the Orioles.

Clarke Haire pitched the win, striking out 8, allowing three hits while walking one. Rick Hollis pitched a strong game for the Orioles until he weakened in the fifth and allowed six hits and five runs.

Terry Vollmer, Jeff Hartel and Tony Doerr showed the way for the Yanks with two hits each. Hollis slapped out two of the losers' three hits.

PIRATES—CUBS

The Pirates got back on the winning trail after losing earlier in the week with a 14-9 decision over the Cubs.

The game was closer than the final score indicated. Through the first five innings, the Cubs were ahead, 8-7, but the Pirates came up with a giant last inning, scoring 7 times to salt away the win. Dean Alexander allowed seven hits and went the distance for the winners. Terry Compo started and took the loss for the Cubs. Shagene slapped out two hits for the winners and Jeff Martin got three hits for the losers.

$70 taken from sports center

The theft of $70 was reported Saturday from the L & S Sports Center, Main Street, Cass City. The money was taken from a locked cash box, owner Floyd Luetke told police, and was discovered when he looked for the money in the evening. Police are investigating.

Babe Ruthers overpowering in first 2 games

Cass City's Number One team entry in the Thumb Babe Ruth League was off to an auspicious start this week as it registered two lopsided wins in two starts.

In the first game, June 14, Harbor Beach fell, 15-4. Dan Mellendorf slammed four hits in four tries to lead the attack.

Jerry Toner pitched three scoreless innings to receive credit for the win and Dave Zawilinski mopped up.

The Hawks rolled over Bad Axe Number Two 21-0 for another victory.

The Hawks collected 10 hits. Dave Eberline, K. Coryell, Roy Pierce each garnered two hits while Jerry Toner helped his own cause on the mound with a home run.

Toner pitched five innings and Mellendorf finished up with two more scoreless innings.

First games indicate wide open Church League race

The regular season championship and the Methodists came charging back in the last part of the season to win the play-offs.

It looks like another year of tight competition in the Cass City Church League, judging by opening games played last week.

Last year the Catholics won

Deford-Catholics

In the opening game Tuesday, June 13, Deford Community Church upset the Catholics 7-3 and stamped themselves as definite title contenders.

Gary Kelley pitched the win and Al Zawilinski took the loss. Zawilinski was plagued by wildness. Lewis Tibbits with two for three led the Deford attack while Dave Bliss hammered out two for four for the Catholics.

Baptist—Snover

In the nightcap the Baptists slugged out a 15-9 decision over Snover-Laing. Gary Mellendorf pitched the win and Gene Dorman took the loss. Jack Hillaker slammed a homer, triple and single, and Randy Brown and Dan Mellendorf each collected two hits for the Baptists. Bruce Denton had two hits for the losers.

Methodists—Shabbona

Thursday the Methodists took over where they left off last year as they scored a close, 7-5, decision over a strong Shabbona-Deford nine. Jerry Toner, Don Galbraith and Mike Murphy slammed two hits each. Roy Sefton led Shabbona with two hits while Ron Nicholas hit a home run in the losing effort. Nicholas took the loss and Eldon Stoutenburg pitched the win.

Colwood—Fraser

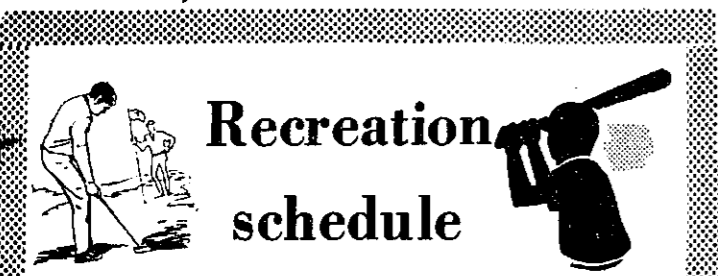

In the late game, Colwood took the measure of Fraser United Missionary, 12-6. Keith O'Dell pitched the win and Roger Root was the loser. For Colwood, Joe Graham and the Smiths - Dave, Lowell, Don and C.R. - each collected two hits. Jim Tuckey was a one man gang for Fraser with two hits including a home run. O'Dell hit a homer to help his own cause.

Novesta—Lutherans

The Novesta Church of Christ scored an 8-5 decision over the Cass City Lutherans Friday as Don Englehart outduelled Nelson "Moose" Willy. Englehart, Ralph Zinnecker and Jim Warju led Novesta while Ken Martin and the Rev. James VanDellen led the Lutherans.

Owen-Gage—Lamotte

In the final game of the week Owendale-Gagetown United Methodist Church served notice that they will be a factor in the race with a 10-0 decision over Lamotte United Missionary. Dennis Koch allowed two hits to get the win. L. Hirsch was touched for 13 hits to take the loss. Jim Ray and C. McKellar collected two hits each for the winners.

Every week the Chronicle will print the schedule of the following week's activities provided by the village under the summer recreation program. Erla's remain on victory trail

Rain ruined Erla's Food Center's schedule as they played only one of four league games carded.

Despite the rain, the Foodmen did play three games and won them all. Only one of the games counted in the Thumb Traveling League race and that was against McGill's.

McGill's is one of the stronger teams in the league and the victory was one that Erla's had to have to stay in contention in the loop race.

Al Bosch was on the mound for Erla's and when he pitches one run is a bunch. It looked as if neither team was going to score as they went through the first six innings in a scoreless deadlock.

In the last inning Wally Hempton and Rolie Nicholas combined with two hits, plus an error, to score and end it all joyfully for Erla's.

Bosch allowed two hits, whiffed 13 and didn't walk a man.

The other two games were played in a double header against Flint Trucking as part of Western Round-Up days.

It was unfortunate that Erla's couldn't have picked a stronger foe playing before the home folks for the first time this year. For the sad fact was that Hunt's were just outclassed. In the first game Bosch stepped to the mound and pitched another classic, allowing just two hits and no runs in a 9-0 decision.

Hempton slammed a line drive over the right field fence and Ruby and LaRoche picked up two hits each to show the way. Bosch struck out 16.

In the nightcap that went five innings, Elwyn Helwig allowed just one unearned run and coasted to victory as his teammates pounded out 11 runs and 13 hits.

Wednesday Erla's was to have played Vassar Bank at Frankenmuth and Thursday Unionville will host Cass City.

Fans will have their first opportunity to see the team in action in League play when Fairgrove comes to Cass City Recreational Park. The game starts at 8:30 p. m. Monday.
