

Blaze razes

Milligan barn

Saturday night

Fire of unknown cause destroyed a barn belonging to James A. Milligan of 6179 Bay City-Forestville Road, Cass City, Saturday night when the building burned to the ground.

The blaze was discovered in the barn located on Koepfen Road, 1½ miles north of M-81, about 8:30 p. m. by a neighbor, Jack Gallagher, who lives across the road from the building.

Firemen from the Elkland Township Fire Department with assistance from Caro and Gagetown fought until about 11:30 p. m. but were unable to save the building. Loss is estimated at $6000 for the barn, which is insured, and another $2000-$3000 for the straw stored there.

The Milligans kept their heirs in that barn. The animals were outside when the fire started and were kept out of the burning barn by Gallagher, according to Mrs. James Milligan.

Elkland township firemen fought another fire Wednesday evening, July 5, when they were called three miles west and 2½ south to extinguish a hay wagon with a load of hay belonging to Harold Hunt, 6259 DeLong Road, Deford.

Both wagon and hay were destroyed, causing about $180-$200 damage, which was insured.

Firemen were called at about 7:20 p. m. and stayed about one-half hour. Cause of the fire is unknown.

CHARRED WOOD and twisted metal siding are all that remain of a barn destroyed by fire Saturday night. Close to $9000 damage resulted. The barn belonged to James A. Milligan of Bay City-Forestville Road, Cass City.

Fight for nursing home

Move towards rezoning Hills and Dales site

The village council paved the way for a $1 million skilled nursing home in Cass City when it voted 4-1 Monday night to discuss a proposed zoning change for Hills and Dales No. 3 with stockholders of the Hills and Dales Subdivision Corporation and Provincial House, providing certain restrictions to the use of the land can be agreed upon by all parties.

The decision came at a special meeting of the council after a citizens' committee presented the board with petitions signed by 758 village residents urging the council to rezone the Hills and Dales site to a special purpose district to allow the facility to be erected. Provincial House had turned down the alternate Donahue site which the council was willing to rezone.

A citizens' committee that canvassed the village since Friday told council members that 22 persons refused to sign and were counted as no votes, no matter what their reason.

The motion authorizing village president Lambert Althaver to contact Provincial House and notify it that the village is willing to amend the zoning ordinance subject to the written agreement of certain restricting conditions was made by Trustee Bill Bliss and seconded by Trustee Gary Jones. The only council member not voting was Dr. D. E. Rawson who was out of town.

Conditions to be negotiated before the council will amend the zoning include a provision restricting expansion to the east and south of the proposed facility; that Provincial House agree to provide access to the area to the east and north of the proposed site should the village expand that way in the future; that a visual green barrier be erected to screen the area and beautify the site; that 75 feet be the minimum set back of the proposed facility from the boundaries of the property; that the access road to the proposed facility be blacktopped, including about one block of Hunt Street now in existence; and that clinics be built on the land already zoned for that use.

Provincial House has proposed building a clinic on the nursing home site; however, the area south of Hills and Dales General Hospital is already zoned for clinic use.

The issue holding the council from rezoning the Hills and Dales site earlier had been the fear of legal reprisal and the desire to maintain the integrity of the zoning ordinance, stated Althaver.

Both areas that have been under consideration are zoned single family residential. Because the Donahue site was undeveloped and the master plan called for development similar to what the nursing home would do, it was considered the preferred site, he explained.

The council made the decision after about 2½ hours of discussion and listening to arguments presented on behalf of village residents by James Bauer, B. A. "Curly" Calka and Curt Hunt, appealing for action in the best interest of the village. Meanwhile, Dick Palms, representative of Provincial House, presented information about the nursing home before the Caro council the same night, announcing his intention to construct a home in Caro as close to the Caro Community Hospital as possible.

The council was meeting at its regular session and has scheduled no special meetings before the next regular meeting in two weeks. No definite plans were made.

The response to Cass City's motion is unknown. President Althaver was out of town Tuesday and Wednesday.

Non-driver hits store with car

Two persons were injured Friday when a woman who said she doesn't know how to drive bounced a car off the storefront of Thelma's Grocery on Cemetery Road and then into a Detroit Edison utility pole.

Goldie B. Spencer, 41, 9789 Airport Road, St. Helen, driver of the car, and Philip William Olsow, 39, 6620 Houghton St., Cass City, were treated for minor injuries at Hills and Dales Hospital.

Witnesses told police the car made a U-turn and went off the right side of the road at a fast speed, hitting the store and coming to rest at the utility pole at 3:59 p. m.

The driver was cited for careless driving and having no operator's license.

Cass City police investigated two minor accidents Monday, July 3, neither involving injuries.

Edward Albert Mark, 83, 5169

Milligan Road, Cass City, backed into the northbound car of John Francis Generous, 31, 4209 Seeger St., Cass City, on Weaver St. at 9:50 a. m.

Ronald Patrick Poslusny, 38, 5803 Severance Road, Cass City, backed into the car of Louise Melvin Scharr, 61, 6420 Sixth St., Cass City, in the alley behind Fort's Store. The accident occurred at 7:20 p. m.

FROM THE Editor's Corner

So you feel that Denny McLain, the problem baseball pitcher boy is overpaid? You think that the majors should stop fooling with him and write him off?

You have got to be kidding. If the Major League turned its back on Denny, a miser would return the keys to Fort Knox. . . water would run up hill. . . there would never be a difference of opinion in all of Cass City.

It's just not going to happen. Period. The reason is that Denny is the world's biggest baseball bargain for the owners.

He's in Atlanta now and he made another debut. So what? So 50,000 fans turned out and several thousand more were turned away at the gate.

That makes his $75,000 salary puny. If 40,000 of these fans (a reasonable estimate) came just to see Fabulous Denny the owners make roughly twice his salary on that one game alone. Let's not even talk about the money from the sale of beer, pop, hot dogs and ice cream.

And that's only the beginning. If McLain becomes a winner, just a modest winner, Atlanta will reap the harvest in gate receipts whenever and wherever he pitches.

And baseball will benefit, too. Denny creates more excitement, more discussion for baseball than a dozen really good pitchers. Quick now, name the 20 game winners in the National League last year. See what I mean?

The suspicion here is that McLain is really not as good a pitcher anymore as dozens of young hopefuls that are struggling along in the Minors.

His fast ball isn't very fast. All he has left is pitching savvy and good control.

It wouldn't be surprising if McLain went the same route at Atlanta that he did at Oakland.

Pitch a few games and then fade back from the front lines. Canny Charles O. Finley, Oakland manager, may not know a hell of a lot about baseball, but he knows what will bring people to the park.

It's the suspicion here that Finley wasn't all that concerned about whether McLain could pitch or not.

After all, Oakland has pitchers coming out its ears. What Finley wanted was fans at the ball park. McLain delivered.

Atlanta is run by a group of shrewd businessmen, too. They moved from Milwaukee to Atlanta, didn't they? They moved despite overwhelming fan support at Beer City.

Atlanta isn't going anywhere in the league race.

So Denny gets bombed a couple of times. . . he'll be bombed in front of a lot of fans and the dollars will roll in.

Yes, I know that the Supreme Court has ruled that baseball isn't a business.

But every so often it looks like a pretty shabby sport.

Knowing when to mail assures quick delivery under new system

By Kit McMillon

The goal of next day delivery for letters processed under the recently enacted Area Mail Processing (AMP) is readily achieved if mail is put into the right box at the right time.

The Chronicle tested the new mail processing system which went into effect June 24 by requesting several persons in out-lying towns to mail us a letter at 2 p. m. Friday. Letters were also mailed in town.

All letters were received in the next morning's (Saturday) mail. They were mailed from Snover, Gagetown and Deford.

The new AMP system has been implemented throughout about three-fourths of the country in an effort to speed up the mail and reduce the cost of mail processing, which in turn is aimed at eliminating postal rate increases. Modernization is part of the United Postal Service's plan to become a self-supporting government corporation.

Some adjustments have been made in mail schedules to accommodate the new system, according to Postmaster Grant Glaspie, but knowing when to mail and how will solve most problems.

"There's no reason area mail processing can't guarantee next day delivery," Glaspie stated.

Under the AMP all non-local mail goes to Saginaw for sorting and canceling. Mail has been going to Saginaw for distribution, the postmaster explained, but previously the local postal workers sorted and canceled.

The only mail that is sorted in Cass City are letters to a Cass City address and deposited in either the box marked "local" inside the post office or in the recently erected local box in the post office drive.

All other mail is merely dropped into bags and sent to Saginaw.

This distinction can readily be recognized by examination of postal cancellation marks.

The only piece of mail sent to the Chronicle for the experiment bearing a local mark was an envelope deposited in the local box at the post office. The rest bear U. S. Postal Service marks.

A local post mark can be obtained on any piece of mail upon request, however.

Under the AMP system, mail is picked up in Cass City by a truck making a trip around the area at 5:05 p. m. daily. It is taken to Saginaw where it is sorted and distributed. Mail for distribution in the Cass City Post Office returns the next morning via truck at 6:30 a. m.

Currently this is the only time mail arrives or departs from the Cass City Post Office, although Glaspie stated that in the future the system hopes to have a pick-up in the morning and delivery in the evening, too.

Mail under this system travels further in the round-about pattern, but apparently it's just as fast. The sectional concept of sending mail to Saginaw for distribution began in 1965 and isn't anything new.

For example, the letter mailed from Snover went first to the Flint AMP, then to the Saginaw AMP, then to the Cass City Post Office. And it arrived the day after it was mailed.

Besides the erection of a new box for local mail, the local post office has lost one postal clerk, as did 36 of the 127 units in the Saginaw 486 section.

The new program is calculated to save the local office 888 man hours a year and $4440.

Another change in the service is the lack of holiday and Sunday pickup or distribution. This may again be available after some of the kinks are worked out of the program, said Glaspie.

Despite what some persons think is just more confusion and red tape in the mailing system, Postmaster Glaspie remarked that new machinery used in the sorting process in Saginaw is many times more rapid and efficient than local clerks doing the same work by hand.

The raw mail (uncanceled letters) is put on a conveyor belt type of machine which scans and sets up the letters so all are facing the same way. They go through another machine that cancels the letter and separates it into first class, air and special delivery mail. By machine 42,000 letters per hour can be processed, while an efficient worker can process only 1400 in the same time.

Soon another kind of optical scanner will be in operation in Saginaw that reads zip codes and allows an operator to distribute mail into 300 different distribution cities. This machine operates at the rate of 36,000 letters per hour.

Glaspie stated that in the central region of the country about 95 per cent of mail is delivered by the next day.

"I think it's really great," he said. "Like anything new, it takes time to get the bugs worked out."

TWO MAIL BOXES sit now where only one occupied the space two weeks ago. Labeled out-of-town and local, knowing when to mail and which box to use will assure next day delivery under the new Area Mail Processing system.

Administrators boosted 5.5 per cent

New teacher pact to up costs $43,500

The Cass City School District and the Cass City Education Association this week revealed a contract settlement calling for salary increases totaling about six per cent.

The contract was ratified Monday night by the Cass City School Board.

The salary increases will amount to about $43,500 and total budget for salaries will be up $76,500, Donald Crouse said this week. That's because four new teachers will be added to the staff for the upcoming school year increasing the total certificated employees from 80 to 84. Over-all the district will spend over three-quarters of a million dollars ($779,500) for salaries for teachers. The total includes payment for extra services, such as coaching and similar duties. In addition an increase in health benefits will add some $3,500 to the total school bill for the year. For full family coverage the school pays $50 monthly instead of $35 monthly.

The amount of the raise for individual teachers varies with the amount of service. Teachers at the top of the scale were increased more than those at the bottom of the scale, but percentage-wise received a smaller raise.

A beginning teacher in the system with a BA degree will receive $8,100 as compared to $7,800 last year. While the same teacher with a Masters degree will receive $8,500 as compared to $8,200 in 1971-72. The increases were about what many qualified observers expected before negotiations started six weeks or so ago.

Several non-monetary CCEA demands that have been submitted annually again were given up at the bargaining table.

No change in the contract was authorized for binding arbitration. The teachers want it, the school refuses.

Duty-free lunch periods and duty-free recess periods were also abandoned by the teachers and there was no change in the personal business day policy where the teachers get a day off, no questions asked, during their first five years of service and two days off following five years service. They originally demanded four days.

The CCEA did secure more benefits in school-paid health insurance as outlined and the school calendar was one largely dictated by teacher preference.

The teachers suggested more teaching specialists and the school is moving in this direction. . . and probably intended to whether or not it was mentioned over the bargaining table.

As usual in the bargaining, the nitty-gritty was the amount of dollars for the teachers and, as usual, it was established just prior to the bargaining deadline established by the union.

The complete salary schedule is:

Yr.	BA	MA
	'71-72	72-73
0	$7800	$8100
1	8120	8580
2	8440	8960
3	8760	9340
4	9080	9720
5	9400	10100
6	9720	10480
7	10040	10860
8	10360	11240
9	10680	11620
10	11000	12000

Besides settling the salaries the Cass City School Board ratified a two-year contract with the Operating Engineers (cooks, custodians and bus drivers) and approved a 5.5 per cent raise for all other personnel at the school not represented by a union.

The two-year contract for the various union represented workers included:

Bus drivers - 1972, $935 per run; 1973, $985 per run. The yearly payment is based on a 30-mile run and 7 cents per mile will be paid for longer runs. The increase is $50 per year. Cooks - 1972, $2.18 per hour; 1973, $2.28 per hour.

The increase is 10 cents per hour each year.

Custodians - 1972, $3.14 per hour; 1973, $3.30 per hour. The increase is 17 cents per hour the first year and 16 cents per hour the second year.

In addition full time custodians will have the school pay $30 for health insurance per month in 1972 and $40 per month in 1973. It is an increase of $10 per month each year from the present $20.

The remaining school employees, including various administrators will receive 5.5 per cent raises. In dollars, employees making more now will receive larger increases.

A breakdown of salaries for administrators follows:

	1971-72	1972-73
Superintendent ($1,200 car allowance continued.)	$21,900	$23,100
High School Principal	18,000	18,900
Guidance counselor	12,750	13,450
Intermediate principal	16,500	17,408
Evergreen principal	12,750	13,450
Deford principal	12,650	13,345
Campbell principal	15,500	16,392

The raise in salaries increased the cost to the school for custodian service when the school is used by special groups for non-school affairs.

Accordingly, the board raised the rates 15 cents per hour. The cost is based on paying the custodian on a time and a half basis for the extra work.

Today, overtime pay for custodians is $4.71 per hour and the school will charge groups $4.85 per hour when a custodian must come in to care for a building outside of regular working hours.

For use of the school kitchens with a cook the charge was increased 15 cents. The new rate is $4.35 at Cass City High School and $3.85 at Campbell, Evergreen and Deford elementary schools.

It's not certain now that the $1 million skilled nursing home will be coming to Cass City. But it is certain that the council has used good judgement and maturity during the entire controversy.

It may well be that there are serious reservations among members about changing the zoning, but they acted anyway when it was clearly demonstrated that altering the zoning was the will of the vast majority.

Whether or not the nursing home comes to the village the council should stand above reproach.

Our hat is off to them for a job well done.

For most crops you'd hardly call the weather scintillating this year. But if my spies have it right it's been a wonderful year for raspberries... maybe as good as last year was putrid. I know the crop stunk last year because I kept waiting for my usual reliable sources to open up so I could shamelessly gorge again... but they never did.

If what is promised is true, I certainly intend to make up for last year's drought from this year's horn of plenty... and let the pounds gather where they may.

Yes, Bob, there is a school board... and most of the time all of the members attend the monthly meeting. Bob Hirm attended his first Monday at Cass City High School and three of the seven school reps were missing.

It's the first time in a decade or so of covering school board meetings that I can recall three missing members.

Some important legislation was passed (salaries of all personnel was raised) but I suspect that all the missing members were aware of the terms proposed and adopted long before the official meeting was held.

Incidentally, in case you ask, I find no fault with the salaries and the settlements. Using the yardstick of comparison with nearby districts Cass City Schools has always been middle-of-the-road, a policy fair to teachers and to taxpayers.

Business was good Saturday night at the Cass Theatre. The show was full. Owner Dick Hendrick said that the crowd wasn't reflected in the cash box.

That's because Friday for the first time since at least 1949 the sound went dead and so did the revenue from the flick.

Hendrick reports that he dished out 50 bucks in cash and 300 rainchecks and part of Saturday's crowd used them for admission. The RCA serviceman came Saturday morning to get the show on the road again.

Slate annual Thumb Barley Tour July 19

The 1972 Thumb Barley Tour and twilight meeting will be held Wednesday, July 19. The annual tour and meeting this year will feature both the Coho and Larker varieties.

The tour in Tuscola county starts at 1:30 p. m. at the Pete Marker farm, 2567 E. Dickerson Road, or 1 mile east of Colwood. There are two fields of Larker on opposite sides of the road -- one field following sugar beets and the second field following beans. Others are:

2:15 p. m. - Duane and Robert Rayl farm. Located 2 miles east of Akron on M-138. Coho and Larker varieties planted side by side.

2:50 p. m. - Harry Bubblitz farm. Located 1 mile west and 1 1/2 miles north of Fairgrove on Kirk Road. Larker variety.

3:30 p. m. - Robert and Jerry Noble farm. Located 4 miles west of Fairgrove at the corner of Bradleyville and M-138. Coho variety.

7:30 p. m. - Twilight evening meeting - E. C. Korthals farm. Located 3 1/2 miles east and 1 1/4 miles south of Reese on Bradleyville Road. Michigan State University barley and oat test plots.

All barley growers are highly encouraged to attend this tour and twilight evening meeting. The Rickel Malting Company and Fleischmann's Malting Company will both have representatives on the tour.

New strains and varieties of barley and oats will be seen at Korthals variety plot. The barley marketing committee will also highlight their activities at the twilight meeting, states Bill Bortel, County Extension Director.

Always take pains with your work or you'll get nothing but pains out of it.

THERE ARE some things that the congregation of the Methodist Church won't volunteer for. One of them is repairing the flashing on the top of the church steeple. And who can blame them?

It didn't seem to bother Gray Construction Co. workers as they quickly and casually climbed to the top of the high spire.

"If It Fitz . . ."

'Well, look who's dead today'

BY JIM FITZGERALD

And then I wrote... The toughest part of being a nutty columnist is keeping ahead of the nuts.

It's like this: Reaching for chuckles, I sometimes exaggerate. I say my wife is so emotional she cries when the flag goes up at railroad crossings. She doesn't really. But the other night I caught her crying at a TV commercial. She was worried about a girl who couldn't get married because her father had dandruff. I explained to her that it wasn't that big a deal, all brides are not pregnant, and she said she had not even thought about that. So she thought about it and cried harder.

See what I mean? Those kind of nuts don't need more salt. It is difficult to write facetiously about a world which continually produces and accepts the incredible. I thought I was kidding, a few years ago, when I suggested tweeker funerals. But now I'm not so sure.

At the time, I was bugged by 2 things: 1) Undertakers were getting too much of the blame for the extravagance and general foolishness of many funerals and 2) goofy couples, in search of private passion in public, were wearing tweekers. A tweeker is just like an ordinary sweater except 2 people get into it and it isn't so much fun if your name is Ralph and your partner's name is Gordon.

My point was that some people spend more than they can afford on funerals just to impress the neighbors. These phones will give dead Uncle Harry a send-off worthy of a king. When he was alive, they wouldn't wave goodbye to him. But if that is what the nuts want to buy, why blame the undertaker for selling it? He's in business, the same as the guy who sells you a color TV when what you really need is a hernia operation.

I concluded, tongue in cheek, by suggesting some day the couple that dies together will be buried together — in a tweeker. Now Hirschel Thornton has knocked the bulge from my cheek and left my tongue hanging out, agast. He probably used tweeker shrouds 20 years ago.

Thornton is the Georgia undertaker with the drive-in windows. At his place, you can pay your last respects without leaving your car, the same as buying a root beer at the A & W.

Thornton has 5 windows facing a busy street. The coffins are tilted and lighted so you hardly have to slow down to see who's dead today. Instead of telling the survivors you are sorry, you just honk sympathetically.

Or a motorized mourner could stick his head out and holler: "He looks so natural." And maybe Thornton would holler back: "He should, he's my window washer."

Thornton says the main advantages of drive-in condolences are 1) You save time; 2) You don't have to dress up and 3) You can come after midnight. In other words, you can grieve on your way home from howling, with a buzz on your brain and "Jake's Bar and Grill" on your shirt.

But Thornton didn't answer the most important question, unless the survivors are sitting on the curb, how do they know you were there? You always sign the register when you visit a funeral parlor. You want to be certain the relatives know you cared about poor Uncle Harry. Besides you wear the same size shoes he did.

But how can a drive-in mourner be sure of getting credit for the visit? The widow isn't going to say "Look, John Dimmit was here, I recognize his tire tracks."

It is a problem, to be sure. I could suggest some solutions nutty enough to fit the situation — such as a little boy in the window to jot down license plate numbers. But I am not going to do it. No matter how ridiculous and impossible my idea is, someone like Thornton will top it. And do it.

I can't keep ahead of the nuts. That's what you call Onward and Upward.

AGENT'S CORNER Don't encourage kids to eat

Sherry Lowell, Area Extension Home Economist

You've heard people say as a chunky little toddler walks by: "My, isn't he just the picture of health!"

Picture him ten years later -- a fat teenager. Too slow and heavy to make the ball team. A waistline that rolls over the top of his swimming trunks. A problem to outfit because clothes just don't come in his shape.

What do you say then as he walks by? Yet the encouragement you gave him to eat more and more as he was just a toddler, may be one reason he's so overweight in later life.

Studies point out that 80 percent of the children who are overweight during their first ten years of life have trouble following a reducing diet and becoming slim and trim as adults.

So, what you do in feeding your child during his preschool years pretty well stays with him the rest of his life. That's why it's so important to help him establish good eating habits then.

Help your child learn to like and to look for the foods that are best for all of us: Milk, fruits and vegetables, meats and breads and cereals. Not only should these be a guide for his every-day meals, but for his snacks as well.

Encourage him in healthy exercise daily, too. Such activities as swimming, bicycling or skating can burn up as much as five hundred calories an hour. Couple this with a sound diet and your child will be well on the way to an adulthood with health habits that are better for him throughout his entire life.

State farm tour slated July 27

The 1972 Michigan State Farm Management Tour will be held July 27 in Lenawee county.

This annual event gives farmers an opportunity to visit some of the most efficient farm operations in Michigan.

Visitors will be able to see as many as 10 Lenawee county farms on the tour. There will be two dairy farms, two beef operations, two swine farms, two field crop operations, and a fruit farm and a poultry farm on the tour.

The tour will begin at 9 a. m. Thursday, July 27. Buses will shuttle visitors from the Lenawee Fairgrounds in Adrian to the host farms. The buses will return to the fairgrounds at 11:45 a. m. Afternoon buses will leave at 1:45 and will return not later than 4 p. m.

This year's luncheon speaker is William Erwin, deputy undersecretary for rural development in the U. S. Department of Agriculture. He will speak at the fairgrounds.

Lenawee county extension director and tour chairman John Comstock says the tour will coincide with the state Black and White Sale at the fairgrounds that evening.

Further details on the tour are available from your county Cooperative Extension Service office in Caro, states Bill Bortel, Tuscola Extension Agent.

Uncle Tim From Tyre Says:

Dear Mister Editor:

Ed Doolittle told the fellows at the country store Saturday night that what this country needs is a few hundred Congressmen that spends our money like it was theirs. But all hell needs, Ed added, is air condition and a few good people, and we is as likely to git one as the other.

The hot summer sun allus gits Ed thinking on the dark side of everthing, and he had been saving up for the meeting to unload his gripes. He said what got him off on the wrong foot last week was his printed bulletin he got in the mail from the Department of Agriculture. They was 719 pamphlets listed as being available from the USDA on request, Ed allowed, and his Congressman said he could git any number up to 20. Ed said being a political year he was surprised they didn't double the number.

The federal Government's idee on serving the people reminded Ed of the way a old optometrist told his new partner how to sell eyeglasses. When a customer ask the price of a pair of glasses, tell him $25. If he don't bat a eye, you add real casual "fer the frame." When he wants to know how much fer the lenses, you tell him $10. If he still don't squawk, you say "fer each." Ed said he is convinced the Government is set on taking everthing it can git and giving only what its got to.

Fer instant, Ed said, he had saw by the papers where the Postal Service was coming down with their rates. He had to read deep to find out they really was saying they weren't going to raise rates by as much as they first said. This is the same kind of relief you feel if the judge says he's going to hang you and then sentences you to jail fer life. Hit em with the worst and then sentences you when you ease off a bit, was Ed's way of explaining the Government way of dealing.

This same kind of thinking allus goes in Social Security, agreed Zeke Grubb. Zeke said he had been reading where all the politicians was calling fer increased benefits, but you have to dig real hard to see where the Congress is going on payments. They want to git you to thinking of the git, Zeke said, afore they hit you with the gimme.

What it is, Ed allowed, is the good news-bad news ways of doing business. We got all excited when President Nixon signed a deal with the Russians to stop making bombs, submarines and everthing. That was good news, but now the column writers tell us the Russians is "a little above us" already in turning out this stuff.

Personal, Mister Editor, I didn't git in the discussion. But I have knowed a heap of folks that had drowned in water that was just a little above their head. Half the truth ain't enuff. I druther know how deep the water is afore I jump in.

Yours truly,
Uncle Tim

FROM THE LITTER BOX

My little kitty

By Kit McMillion

I have a cat that would try the soul of an animal lover. I mean, this little overgrown kitten is no ordinary cat—she's a green-eyed demon.

Arctic is part Siamese. She doesn't have the numerous arms so often portrayed on Siamese statues, but she causes just as much havoc with four well-placed paws.

I have always held cats' feet in awe. I think it's really neat the way they can go sprang!—and instant deadly weapons appear from seemingly harmless, soft, furry, little feet.

One of the nice things about cats is their ability to amuse themselves. My little pussy is an expert—anytime, day or night, she plays, but she prefers the nighttime when I want to sleep.

She has one particular little game she's very fond of and that I dislike intensely. She likes to wrap all four of her legs around my leg while I'm sleeping, then chomp and scratch.

Where she picked up this little gem of a game I'll never know, but punitive action on my part in the form of kicking, swatting and yelling does absolutely zero good.

She's even become better at it of late. She crawls under the covers first and really gets a good grip.

If I could get her to purr louder, I could use her as an alarm clock, since she usually pulls the chomping trick at the same time everyday—about two hours before I want to get up, but I guess either she's hungry or has decided I should rise with the birds, cats and other noisy animals at the crack of dawn.

Her eating habits are also cause for comment. Most cats pull the finicky act, but not Arctic. She eats anything.

I mean, have you ever heard of a cat who likes oatmeal, fried eggs, bacon and fake whipped cream, preferring them to good old catfood? My cat helps herself off my plate, daintily poised over my plate like some kind of vulture. She even helps herself to breakfast toast as it's on the way to my mouth.

I always thought cats were afraid of heights, but not my cat. She jumps out of second story windows willingly. It amazes me that she doesn't break her neck or legs or something.

But at least I don't have to worry about Arctic becoming a drug user. I introduced her to catnip, that tantalizing drug cats are supposed to go ape over. She sneezed while she ate some, then rolled on her back awhile before crouching down in what must be the feline fetal position and staring into space with her eyes completely dilated. She hasn't touched the stuff since.

When it comes to her box, on the other paw, she never lets it out of her sight. Since she spends so much time in it, apparently she thinks it's an extension of her personality or something, because she's very possessive. After I clean it, she insists on jumping in immediately to inspect what I've done.

Despite her demonish characteristics, my little kitty is also very affectionate. She actually waits by my bed in the morning to stare me in the face when I open my eyes.

But I wish she'd do something to the odor of Puss n' Boots on her breath.

Meow.

FFA presents signs to fair board

Nine wooden signs were presented to Tuscola County Fair Board officials Friday morning by members of Cass City Future Farmers of America (FFA).

The signs, measuring about 2 x 1 1/2 feet, will be placed in the livestock barns at the fair-ground following judging of champion livestock in several categories, to give added recognition to winning animals.

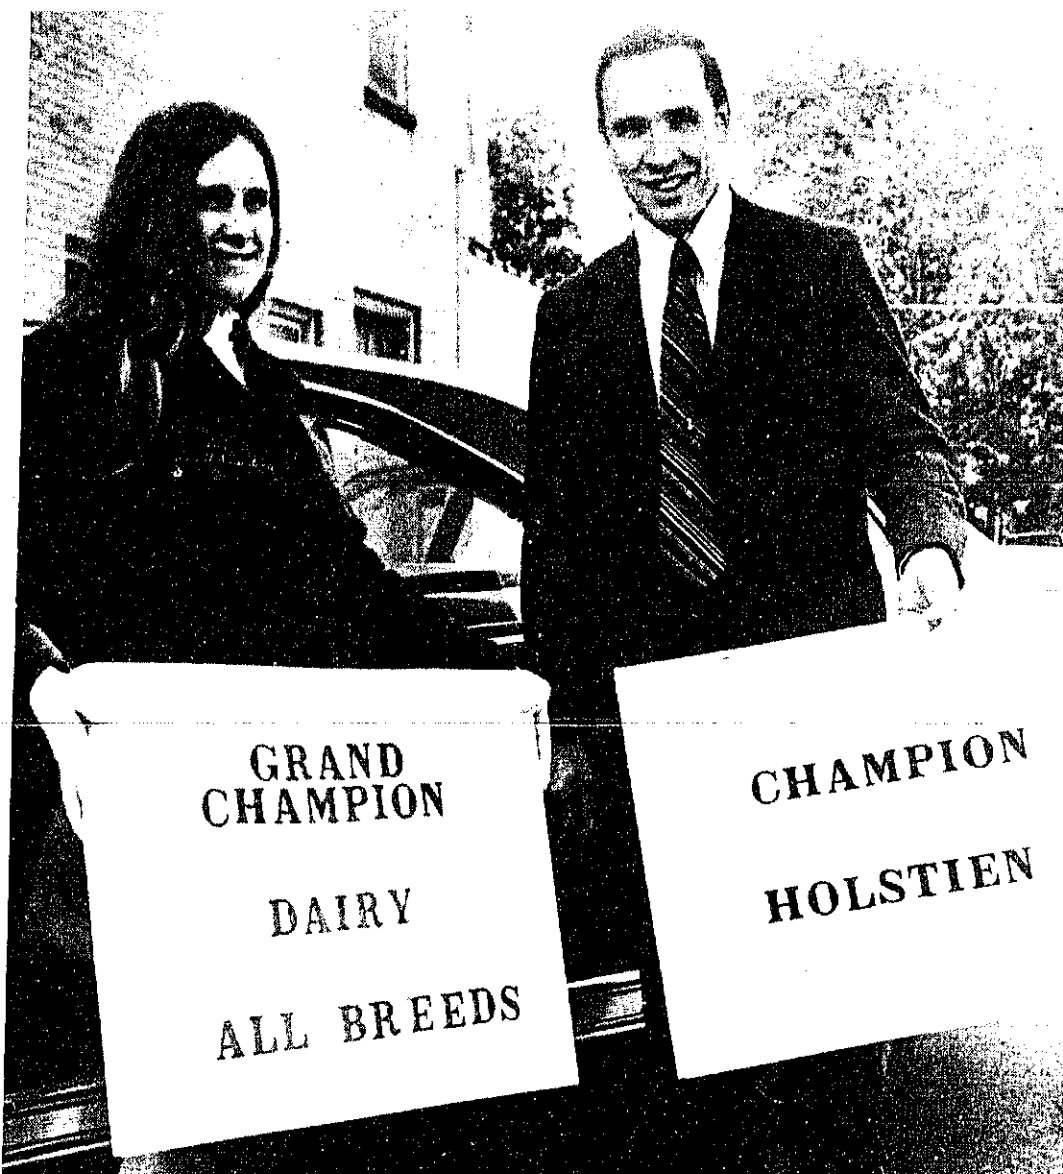

Dale Laming, a member of the FFA, made the signs, and Jerry Langmaid, another vocation agriculture student, did the lettering.

The cost of the signs, about $30 each, was covered by the local chapter.

Carpenter herd is classified

Clare J. Richard J. and Robert J. Carpenter of Cass City report that their registered Holsteins were classified for body conformation July 9. The scoring was done by an official classifier of Holstein-Friesian Association of America, Brattleboro, Vermont.

Including animals previously scored, the Betheldale Farms herd has 1 Excellent, 8 Very Goods and 30 Good Pluses.

THESE SIGNS were presented Friday morning to Tuscola County Fair officials by representatives of Cass City Future Farmers of America. Donna DeLong, vice-president of the local chapter, and Ross Beach display the handiwork of the chapter.

Village of Cass City COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS

A Public Hearing was held on June 29, 1972 at 7:00 p.m. at the Elkland Township Cultural Center. All Village Trustees were in attendance with the exception of Arthur Holmberg. All Planning Commission members were present along with William Walker, Planning Consultant from Vilcan-Leman; William Hubbell, Engineering Consultant from Hubbell, Roth & Clark; Forrest Walpole, Attorney; and Richard Palm representing Provincial House, Inc.

Following the opening of the Public Hearing counsel presented the evidence of notices of the time and place of the Public Hearing called on this date, which were published in newspapers of general circulation; the Saginaw News for fifteen days prior to this date, and the Cass City Chronicle for the dates beginning on June 15, which ran for two weeks.

Counsel also presented affidavit of notices sent to the public utilities and railroad companies affected by the proposed amendments to the zoning ordinance.

The purpose of the hearing was to consider two requests for amendment of the Village's Zoning Ordinance. The requests were from Alice Donahue and Curtis Hunt, representing Hills and Dales Subdivision No. 3.

Considerable discussion was held with those present on both the sites for the proposed skilled nursing home.

Following the closing of the Public Hearing, the Council met for the purpose of reviewing the facts that had been brought out during the hearing.

After this review the Council unanimously agreed to make the following offer to Provincial House:

1. The Village will provide for the extension of Ale Street to Rose Street.

2. The Village will eliminate the requirement for curb and gutter on Ale Street as it is extended to the skilled nursing home site.

3. The Village will accept the offer of Dr. H. T. Donahue to handle all storm water by means of a retention pond at his cost.

4. The Village will install a water main to the site.

5. The Village expects Provincial House to pay the costs of a black-topped street from Rose to the site and the cost of sanitary sewer from the existing high school sewer to the site; specifications for which must be approved by the Village's consulting engineer.

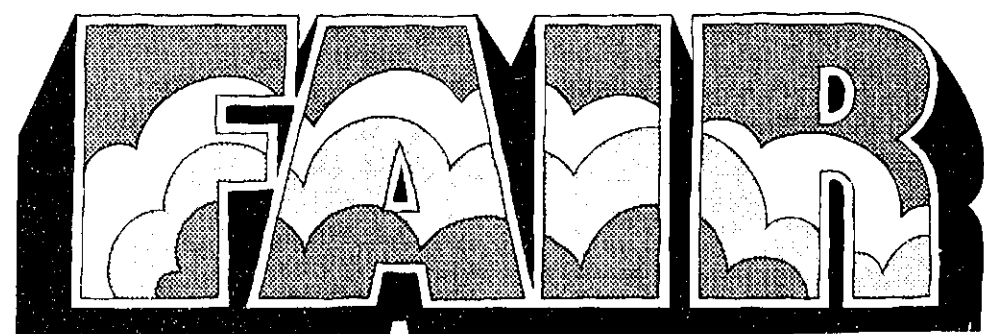

Based on acceptance of the above conditions, the cost of the Donahue site would be approximately $50,000. Since this site is still unanimously preferred by the Village Council, it will amend the Zoning Ordinance to provide for the establishment of medical facilities on this site if Provincial House and Dr. Donahue accept the above conditions.

Mr. Palm informed the Council that he would discuss this offer with Provincial House and will contact the Village officials tomorrow on their decision.

The meeting was then adjourned.

BETTER HEALTH

Teaching children to swim

BY DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

Now that summer has come, there will be many notes in the papers saying that a boat tipped over and a boy or girl drowned. Or perhaps a child climbed a fence and got into a neighbor's swimming pool and drowned. How I wish that every parent would see to it that his young children are taught to swim.

A child's life might be saved someday if he just learned to tread water or dog paddle. There is a fine article on teaching children to swim in Today's Health (June, 1972) in which Sandra Bart and Madeleine Appel give step-by-step instructions for teaching a pre-schooler to swim. As the authors point out, much patience is needed. Sometimes the parent can do it, but often it is better left up to a professional instructor. If a parent does the teaching, he should be a good swimmer and should not have any fear of the water—this can affect the child's attitude.

Some children have no fear of water, but if a child does have a fear, don't expect him to conquer it overnight. The authors suggest that if the child is reluctant to get wet, it is a good idea to let him sit by the side of the pool with his feet in the water. There he can play with toys that he later can take into the water with him.

Some children do better if taught in a class rather than alone. It is best to keep the lessons short—perhaps 15 to 30 minutes. Young children can tire quickly.

At first the teacher can hold the child, resting on her hip with her arm around his chest. As he acquires confidence, he can be pushed out in front a bit. It's a good idea to keep talking to the child, and to make up games to take his mind off his fear. Then coax the child to put his face in the water; that will do much to take away fear. Next, he should be taken into shallow water and be encouraged to stretch out with his abdomen downward and his hands on his teacher's hands. Try to get him to glide a short distance near the top of the water.

Next, teach him to kick at the water. You can teach him the dog paddle while he is in the gliding position. By then he is about ready to swim.

Be considerate, and if the child gets distressingly cold, take him out of the water and wrap him up snugly. Praise him for what he does well. The writers of the article say that the child will not be safe until he can swim a minimum of 10 yards, can breathe comfortably, and can tread water. Even when he reaches this stage, continue to exercise caution; watch him constantly. A preschooler's judgment as to his capabilities is not always accurate.

Of late, it has become popular for parents to start giving very young children swimming lessons, but the American Academy of Pediatrics advises: "It may be possible to teach very young infants to swim and keep their heads above the water, but an infant cannot truly be taught water safety and proper reaction to an emergency." Therefore they advise the parents to wait until the child is at least 3 years old before starting swimming lessons.

Some teachers might try the method my father used when he taught me to swim. He gave me a piece of smooth, lightweight balsa wood, which went under my arms and across my upper chest. I felt safe with that because I knew I wouldn't sink. Learning not to fear the water was one of the most important lessons of my early years.

Today's Health is published by the AMA, 535 North Dearborn St., Chicago, Ill.

Stockholders told Walbro to go public

Walbro Corporation of Cass City became Walbro Corporation of Delaware in a special meeting held Thursday in the theatre room at Cass City High School.

The move was of special significance to stockholders of the company because it is the first step towards a listing in the over the counter stock market.

This fall an offering of Walbro stock will be made through the firm of Bacon, Whipple & Co., investment bankers of Chicago.

After it is sold it will then be possible to buy and sell Walbro much the same as thousands of other securities that are listed on the various stock exchanges. Company officials also announced that William Bacon Jr., an officer of the underwriting firm, was elected to the Walbro board of directors, replacing Lloyd W. Bartlett, who died recently.

Walbro Corporation distributed its last dividend July 5 to shareholders of record June 30. The quarterly dividend was .08 per share.

President W. E. Walpole announced that all operating divisions of the company are expected to show excellent results this year.

BOARD EXPLAINS the change in Walbro Corporation to interested stockholders Thursday.

Busy week in Circuit Court

One man was arraigned and five were sentenced Monday in Tuscola County Circuit Court by Judge James Churchill.

Charles F. Burnash, Millington, pleaded not guilty to a charge of felonious assault with a shotgun. A pre-trial is scheduled for July 24 and personal recognizance bond was continued.

Jerry Hartman, Cass City, was placed on 2 years probation and ordered to pay restitution of $88.88 for joy riding. He had pleaded guilty to the charge, which was reduced from theft of a vehicle belonging to Ray Lapp of Cass City. The car was found stripped and abandoned in February in a woods off Muntz Road.

Frank Androl Jr., Unionville, was sentenced to 60 days in jail on a charge of simple assault. He pleaded guilty to the charge reduced from felonious assault at a June 12 pre-trial.

Richard A. Hutchinson, Vassar, was sentenced to one year in the county jail with credit for 30 days for writing an insufficient funds check in the amount of $269.36 last year. He was convicted of the charge by a jury at a June 6 trial.

William Davis Jr., Mayville, was sentenced to one year in the county jail on a charge of impaired driving. He was tried June 13 by a jury on a charge of third offense drunk driving. The jury returned a verdict of guilty to impaired driving.

Joseph Young Davis, Mayville, was sentenced to one year in the county jail for second offense impaired driving. He was credited for 164 days served.

Wednesday, July 5, Judge Norman Baguley held his regular motion day due to the July 4 holiday.

Terry Butterfield, Millington, stood mute when he was arraigned on a charge of arson.

He is charged with the June 19 burning of a barn belonging to Lawrence Loisell, Swafford Road, in Vassar township. A plea of innocent was entered for him, and $1000 bond continued.

Larry Wascher, Reese, and Ronald Wascher, Saginaw, pleaded guilty to a reduced charge of attempting to steal a Holstein steer at a pre-trial conference. A charge of theft over $100 was dropped. They will be sentenced Aug. 14. Bond was continued for both at $500.

A motion for change of venue was denied in the case of Dan Anger, who is charged with conspiracy in connection with the theft of a tractor from Gettel Implement Co., Pigeon. Anger is charged with furnishing the truck and trailer to be used to haul the tractor.

Anger has stood mute to the charge and will stand trial in Tuscola county.

Mike O'Connor, Cass City, was sentenced to three years' probation and given fine and costs of $400 for conspiracy to break and enter. He was convicted of the charge of conspiracy to break and enter a service station on M-81 when he stood trial before Judge Baguley in May. He was also given 30 days in the county jail.

Re-elect school board members

There was very little to occupy the attention of the Cass City Board of Education in the regular meeting open to the press and the public.

Most of the other than routine work (including salaries) was decided in the closed session following its regular meeting.

Trustees appointed the two Cass City banks and the Citizens Commercial and Savings Bank of Flint as depository agents for 1972-73. Board officers were authorized to sign general fund checks.

The four members present quickly disposed of board reorganization by re-electing all officers. Arthur Severance is president. Mrs. Geraldine Prieskorn will serve as treasurer and Elwyn Helwig as secretary.

Severance was appointed to replace Gerald Hicks as a farmer board representative on the Vocational Education Coordinating Council. Hicks resigned.

Dr. Ed Scollon and Mrs. Prieskorn were named to a bid opening committee for fuel oil, gasoline, bus insurance, milk and meat bids.

Jim Champion of Champion Outdoor Advertising Co. quoted a cost of $625 to modify the sign in front of the school with letters that can't be changed and removal of glass that is easily broken.

The resignation of Michael Muehlenbeck was accepted.

County okays $5,000 tower

Tuscola county commissioners decided Tuesday to build a 160 foot radio tower to be located at the sheriff's office for use by the sheriff, road commission and civil defense offices.

Building a new $5000 tower is cheaper than moving the 100 foot tower presently located at the old road commission warehouse building in Caro, said Ed Golding, district 2 representative. That tower is used by the civil defense and road commission, but will have to be abandoned when the road commission moves into the new building under construction south of Caro.

In other business, the board approved giving the road commission $104,684.55 to pay for the construction of 12 bridges in the county. The money is collected under the 1 mill spread throughout the county. One of the bridges was built on Green Road in Elmwood township.

Commissioners also accepted a bid of $3625 for a Delta 88 Oldsmobile from Wilsie Simpson for a new sheriff's car to replace one damaged in an accident. Top bid was $4050.

District Court Judge Richard Kern appeared before the board asking for more money for court appointed attorneys for indigent defendants. He sought $2000 but the commissioners decided to hold off until the remaining $400 of his $500 budget is used.

Police Chief Wilson reported that he recently met with Robert Wellington of the County Road Commission and a State Police Traffic and Safety Officer from Bay City. Mr. Wilson reported that an application has been sent to the Michigan State Police Traffic Safety Division by the State Police for a change in speed zone on North Seeger starting at Milligan Road to a 45 m. p.h. to the high school and from the high school 35 m. p.h. to the old Village limits, and South Seeger 45 m. p.h. commencing at the old railroad crossing to the Village limits, and 35 m. p.h. to Garfield Street.

Upon request of the Public Utilities Committee a motion was made by Trustee Jones that the fee for the use of the Village of Cass City landfill by Elkland Township residents outside the village limits and Ellington Township residents be increased from $1.50 to $1.75 per capita based on the population figures. This increased rate will apply to the proposed addition of Novesta Township. Motion carried.

Following discussion it was the decision of the Council that Mr. Lou S. LaPonsie of L'Anse, Michigan, be offered the position of Village Superintendent. It was the decision of the Council that the question of the purchase of the old firehall building remain on the table.

The question of whether to sell or keep the third police car was tabled.

Following discussion, a motion was made by Trustee Rawson and supported by Trustee Albee that the Village employ Baker Electric to rewire the two well houses. Motion carried.

A motion was made by Trustee Rawson and supported by Trustee Bliss that the bills as examined by the Finance Committee be approved for payment. Motion carried.

Approval was given to block off the East one-half portion of the Jackson parking lot for a sidewalk cafe during the Artrain's visit.

A request was presented to the Council from Edward Hahn, the Total Service Station and Cass City Cycle Sales for black-top to be put in front of their businesses from M-81 to the sidewalk. It was the decision of the Council to deny this request as there may be action taken to drain west Main Street in the near future.

There being no further business, a motion was made by Trustee Holmberg and supported by Trustee Bliss that the meeting be adjourned.

AROUND THE FARM Telplan a potent farm force

by William Bortel

More and more Michigan farmers are "having an affair" with Synthia. But their wives don't mind, and their bankers are delighted.

"Synthia" is a nickname given to a computer located at the University of Michigan.

Farm management specialists at Michigan State University have developed programs that can be fed into the computer by teletype or telephone...to assist farmers in all kinds of management decisions. Synthia and her programs -- called Telplan -- are accessible to any farmer in Michigan. Cost is the price of a telephone call. Synthia has become a potent ally in the farm management game. She responds to 41 different programs ranging from tax information to crop planting and livestock feeding. She can even tell you if you need more life insurance.

The farmers usually need some help before they can talk to Synthia. Cooperative Extension Service agents and specialists provide help and consultation.

Field terminals that are hooked directly into the computer are located at MSU and at 30 field locations throughout the state. Tuscola is fortunate to have a terminal with a touch-tone telephone at their Extension office in Caro.

Synthia can answer 200 problems at a time and make over 200,000 calculations in less than a minute. Stop at your Extension Office to see how you can use the computer program.

Bean Queen entries close July 19

The Tuscola County Bean Queen Contest will again be held in connection with the Tuscola County Fair Thursday evening, August 3. The bean queen committee is now seeking nominations from various organizations to sponsor an outstanding girl in their community for the 1972 Tuscola County Bean Queen crown.

The deadline for entering the contest is set for July 19. The following Wednesday evening, July 26, the contestants will be asked to meet at the County Farm Bureau building where they will be provided with a lunch. The judges will be present for the evening when they will interview each girl and select a Queen for 1972.

Application forms are available at the Extension Office in Caro and the County Farm Bureau office for any group wishing to submit a nomination for Tuscola County Bean Queen in 1972, states Bill Bortel, County Extension Director.

Babe Ruthers head for showdown games

Cass City No. 1 Babe Ruth won a pair of games during the past week that now gives them an over-all record of 4-0 and tied with Bad Axe No. 1 in the Huron County Babe Ruth League.

In one of the games, Cass City whipped Caseville 11-0 in 5 innings. Chuck Bliss pitched the entire game and got credit for the win while striking out 7. Jerry Toner ripped 3 for 4 including a home run and Dave Eberline picked up 2 hits in 3 tries.

In the other game played Monday, Cass City defeated a good Port Austin team 6-3 with Jerry Toner pitching the entire game to pick up the win.

A showdown looms for the last two weeks for the league championship as Cass City has yet to play three of the better teams in the league.

The play-offs will begin immediately following the regular season on Thursday, July 27 and Monday, July 31 with the championship game to be played Thursday, Aug. 3. All of these games will be played in Uby under the lights.

More than 140 University of Michigan engineering faculty members have consulting affiliations with industry.

SACRIFICES

In this life it is not so much what we take up that brings success, but what we give up.

Blooper Ball

Gagetown whipped into a half game lead in the Thumb Area Blooper Ball League at Gagetown last week with a 5-0 defeat of previously undefeated Duffy's of Sebawaing Wednesday, July 5.

It was one of two wins by the defending league champions. In Monday's game Gagetown walked past Cass City, 12-3.

In the other Monday night game Pabst upset Colwood, 16-6. Jack's Bar defeated Cass City, 6-1, in the final game of the week.

The standings (July 10)

	W	L
Gagetown	7	1
Duffy's	6	1
Colwood	4	3
Jack's Bar	3	5
Pabst	2	6
Cass City	0	8

Next week's schedule:

July 17 - Pabst vs Jack's Bar 7:30 p. m. Cass City vs Duffy's 8:30 p. m.

July 19 - Cass City vs Duffy's 7 p. m. Jack's Bar vs Pabst 8 p. m. Gagetown vs Colwood 9 p. m.

Bowling

High scores last week for young persons bowling under the village sponsored summer recreation program are: 6 years, Malcomb House, 25; 7 years, Robbie Albee, 41; 9 years, Libby Hartel, 74; Kenny Martin (substitute) 116; 10 years, Kurt Proctor, 120; 11 years, Kim Hool, 95; 12 years, Jess Groth, 121; 13 years, LuAnn Gallagher, 102; 14 years, Ed Schwartz, 132.

Vandalism, theft reported in area

Cass City police are still investigating the theft of an automobile from Rabideau Motors.

A 1966 Chrysler belonging to the car dealer was found over-turned in a ditch about 4:30 a. m. Sunday on Wilsie Road, about 1 1/2 mile west of Cemetery.

The vehicle valued at $500 was taken from Rabideau's Main Street lot sometime earlier that morning.

Police also investigated the theft of a tape deck player, speakers, a tape, some tools and papers from a truck belonging to Dale Damm, 4307 Leach St., Cass City. The dash of the vehicle and wiring were also damaged when the truck was attacked early morning Tuesday. Damm estimated the loss at more than $75. Damm also reported the theft of a canister containing about $2 in cash taken from their home on Friday.

Vandalism to 6 windows and 2 light bulbs of the elevator silos on Main Street were also reported Friday. Damage by B-B guns amounted to $38. Mrs. Al Bennett reported the July 5 theft of her son's bicycle from their home at 6352 Main St., Cass City.

THERE'S AN OBJECT lesson in this car. This car was found on its top two miles north of Cass City Sunday morning. It had been stolen from Rabideau Motors Saturday night. The thieves "hot wired" the car to make it run and when it was wrecked abandoned it in a field. Events like this are common in metro areas and evidently will be a growing problem in rural communities like Cass City.

Little League starts play-off games

Final Standings

	W	L
Yanks	9	1
Pirates	7	3
Tigers	7	3
Cubs	3	7
Orioles	2	7
Giants	0	9

The Tigers served notice to the League Champion Yankees that they are ready for the play-offs that started Monday as they scored an upset win Wednesday, 8-7.

The Tigers used a big five-run second inning to power their way to the victory.

The Yanks came back with runs against starter Mike Richards and Reliever Jeff Martin to tie the game, but the Tigers pushed across a run in the seventh on a hit by Mike Richards to end the game.

Clarke Haire the third pitcher to work for the Yanks, was charged with the loss. The Tigers banged out eight hits while the Yanks picked up seven.

The victory enabled the Tigers to end the year tied for second place. The Yanks previously clinched the championship.

PIRATES-ORIOLES

The Pirates finished strong in prepping for the play-offs. They won a pair to tie for second place.

The first victory was a 24-10 decision over the Orioles. Dean Alexander was plagued by wildness, but allowed just one hit to get the win. His teammates whipped out just four hits but the Pirates were helped by numerous walks and errors. Keith Flappart started and took the loss.

PIRATES-GIANTS

the regular season. They whipped the Giants, 19-7. Dave Nye started and took the loss for the Giants while Dean Alexander was on the mound again for the Pirates. The Pirates hammered out seven hits while the Giants collected three safeties.

Erla's win at home, lose away

Playing in the Thumb Traveling League is proving to be more testing for Erla's softball nine than the old Uby league.

The Foodmen dropped two of three games during the week but had the satisfaction of posting the lone win Monday in front of the home folks at Cass City Recreational Park.

The week started bad, bad, bad as Mayville VFW hammered out a 12-3 decision in a game played July 3 at Mayville. Actually the game was decided in the first inning as 11 Mayville players went to the plate and five runs were scored. After that it was a case of mopping up.

Dick Suhr started and took the loss. Al Bosch relieved him and was hit hard for the first time this season. Meanwhile, Jackson was limiting Erla's to just three hits. He helped his own cause with four hits in five tries including a home run.

REESE WINS

In a well played game, Don McGill bested Bosch in a pitchers' duel, 1-0, at Reese. McGills won in a game played Thursday.

Reese scored in the first inning on two hits and an error and that was the ball game. Both teams picked up four hits. McGill struck out eight and Bosch whiffed 10.

CASS CITY WINS

In the game at Cass City, Erla's went 11 innings before edging Sebawaing Log Cabin, 4-3. Cass City scored twice in the first on a hit by Wally Hempton and a circuit sock by Langhorne. A home run by Elwyn Helwig added the third run. Sebawaing charged back in the late innings to tie the score against Dick Suhr. Bosch took over in the seventh and pitched five shutout innings. He struck out 12 of the 16 men he faced and allowed one hit. In addition his hit drove in the key run in the 11th inning.

Erla's was to play Old Heidelberg at Akron Wednesday at 8:30 and then undefeated Akron Thursday at Reese.

Monday the team returns to Cass City for a game against Vassar State Bank at 7:30 p. m.

Kim Glaspie and Rick Erla appeared before the Cass City Rotary Club Tuesday noon to tell of their experiences at Rotary Leadership School they attended at Camp Rotary, Clare, recently.

The boys both said that the association with 54 outstanding young men was the most beneficial portion of the program.

They told of the ideas and challenges they received from the various speakers and announced that plans are underway to have a meeting and Christmas party among delegates in December.

A Special Adventure in the Arts Designed to Expand Your Creative Horizons.

Cass City Heritage Week
July 20 - 23

Artrain visitors experience world of art, creativity and imagination

With the first step onto the Artrain, the viewer steps into another world—the world of art, the world of imagination and the world of creativity.

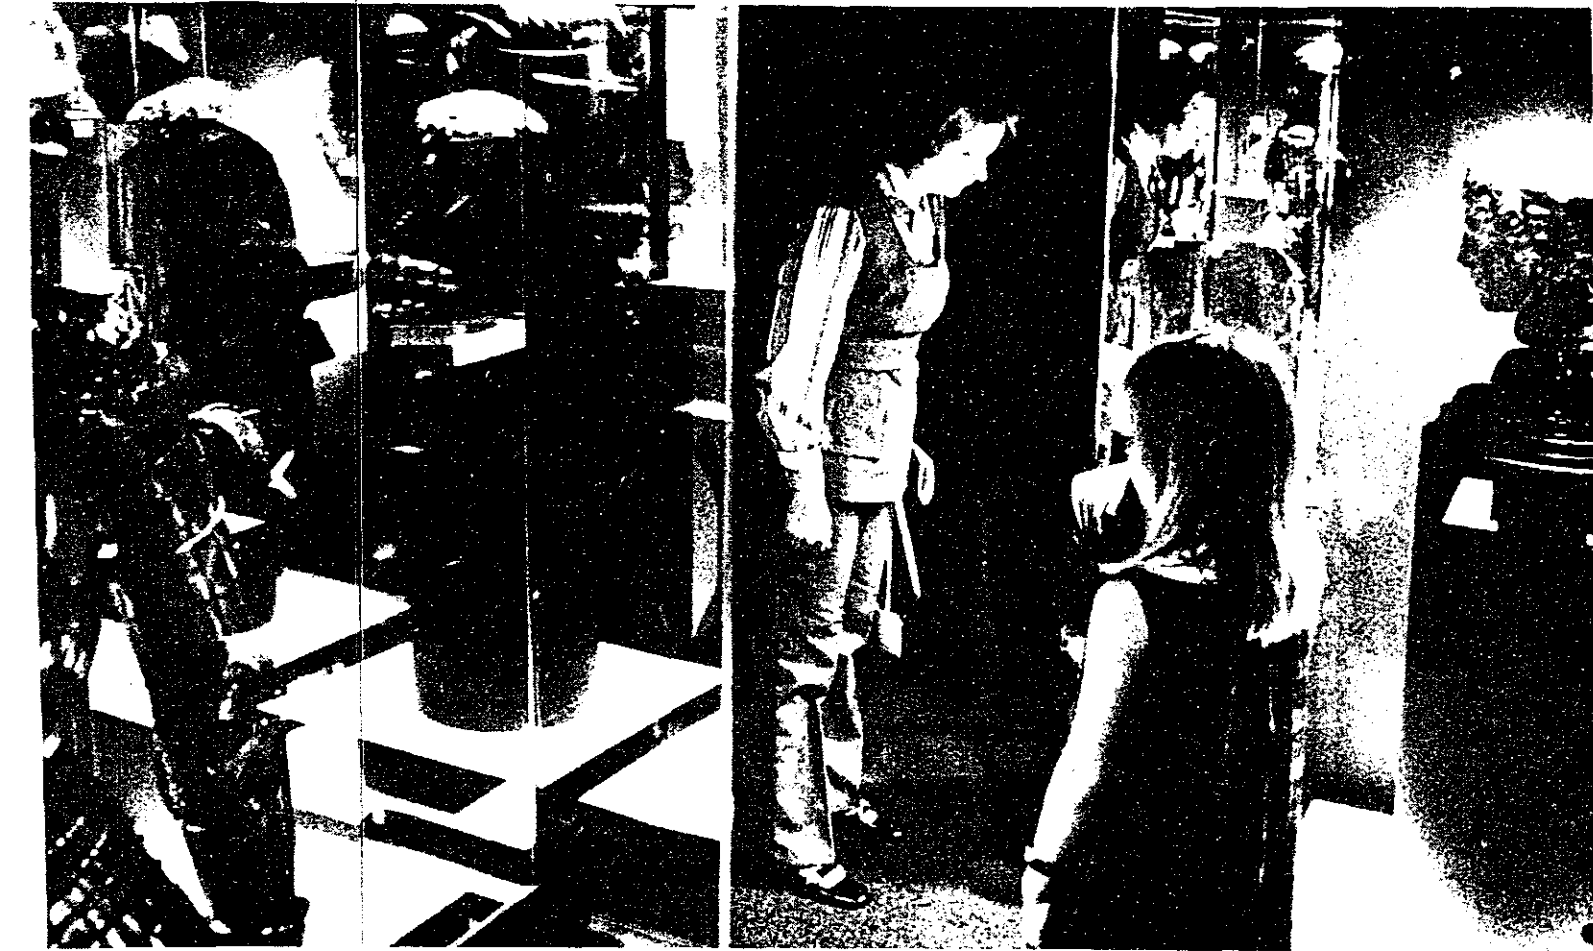

The first portion of the train is called "Man Creates." The exhibit opens with a visual panorama of work unveiling the creative attempts of individuals from past cultures to enrich their world through art.

The slide presentation quickly shows the path man has taken, covering the major cultures and civilizations, accompanied with music and an explanation.

From there the viewer is ushered into the portion called "Cultural Landmarks," a mini-museum covering the past 3000 years of civilization. A small portion of the train car, it gives the illusion of being larger by the magic of mirrors. Examples of art masterpieces are enclosed in the walls of mirrors, arranged by cultures, including Egyptian, Greek, African, North American Indian, European Renaissance and Far Eastern.

Leading into the next display area is a passageway lined with floor to ceiling photographic murals, depicting scenes in nature that have motivated and inspired artists to create. This section is appropriately called "Creative Motivators."

The second car begins with a display of small and very fine drawings. Viewers are urged to begin looking at these as soon as they enter the car because shortly afterwards, an audio-visual presentation, entitled "Creative Innovators," begins, showing and explaining works of artists who have started new trends in art, and who were often laughed at or ignored when their ideas were first expressed.

AN EXCITING VIEW of artwork from cultural periods of the past is seen in this reflecting chamber of glass and mirror, just one of the attractions of the Artrain.

Included are Claude Monet, Vincent Van Gogh, Pablo Picasso and Henri Rousseau.

The next portion of the train is called "Man the Artist." Each box on the walls illustrates the visual tools of the artist used separately or in combination. These tools are point, line, plane, volume, mass, texture, light and color. A film called "Art—the Mark of Man" shows how artists use these visual tools and put down their hands what their eyes see.

In the next section, the viewer must again take a quick look at the small wall displays of "Environmental Design" before a film begins explaining art in man's environment. The small displays are of items used daily showing how they were designed for beauty as well as function. Included are silverware, chairs, clocks and drills.

The third car, "A Vision of Art" is the Decent Gallery, with representative contemporary art. Most of the displays are on loan from the Detroit Institute of Art. The whole car is devoted to the gallery. Contemporary sculpture, painting, lithographs, bronze and silver works and etchings are displayed.

From the gallery, the viewer enters the work area, where he can watch artists at work.

A MODERN PAINTING by Roy Liechtenstein shows how art has changed over the centuries. Study for Brushshole with spatter is in the gallery car.

Baggage car artists show how it's done

After a tour through the art-packed Artrain, visitors will probably wonder how art is created.

Just how does the artist put paint on a canvas or how is a piece of pottery made? Those questions can be answered in the baggage car where local artists will demonstrate "how-to-do-it." They will work in a studio equipped by the Artrain during the hours of 11-5 and 7-9.

Local artists participating are Naida Doerr, who will paint; Cara Prieskorn will demonstrate stitchery and how to "throw a pot" - making pottery on a wheel.

Howard Bacon will demonstrate wood carving; Greg Mark will paint and Jim Maharg, a college student at Aquinas College, Grand Rapids, will demonstrate ceramics. Linda Brown Eisinger, a Central Michigan University student, will paint.

Artists from surrounding areas will also participate.

From Caro will come Debbie Maxwell, who will draw; Gladys Galloway will demonstrate china painting; Tudi Hyde will exhibit the ancient art of knotting-macrame. Bob and Kathy Keckler will demonstrate hand built pottery, wood block printing and painting. Dick and Susan Spiller will show weaving and pottery making.

Joanne Bule of Shover, a Deckerville school art teacher, will also demonstrate weaving.

Some of the artists will work more than one shift, reports chairman Karen Wallace. Anyone else interested in working on the train should contact Mrs. Wallace.

SEATED PARVATI represents the contribution of India and may be seen in the Cultural Landmarks section of the first car.

Theatre events offered as art

THIS GROUP OF YOUNGSTERS under the direction of Mrs. Ruth Hoffman will sing a modern composition of an old Bible Story Sunday afternoon from 3-4 p. m. when they perform "Jacob's Amazing Technicolor Dream Coat." The performance will take place at the high school cafeteria patio.

As part of a total immersion in the arts during the visit of the Artrain to Cass City, several different kinds of theatre will be offered.

Old time movies will be shown free of charge in the little theatre of the high school from 8-10 p. m. Thursday and Friday nights.

Two different groups of films will be shown, each lasting about an hour. One grouping consists of: "Laughing Gas" with Charlie Chaplin; "Hurricane" with W. C. Fields and "Night Owls" with Laurel and Hardy.

The other series is "Men of War" with Laurel and Hardy; "I'm no Angel" with Mae West and "The Pharmacist," another W. C. Fields flick.

At that same time in the little theatre Saturday and Sunday nights a serious drama with a stinging comment on contemporary life will be presented.

Dick Allen and John Nelson of Caro will present Edward Albee's "Zoo Story." A small donation will be asked to cover the cost of the royalties.

A light-hearted scene from the musical "Carousel" by Richard Rogers will follow the drama. Students participating in the Caro Enrichment Program will perform under the direction of Jerry Bowron of Bad Axe.

A festive choral presentation will lighten the tone when the Community Youth Choir, under the direction of Mrs. Ruth Hoffman, presents "Joseph's Amazing Technicolor Dream Coat," a modern rendition of the Bible story composed by the authors of "Jesus Christ, Super Star," Webber and Rice.

The choir will sing on the steps of the Cass City High School Cafeteria patio Sunday from 3-4 p. m. In case of rain, the concert will be inside the cafeteria.

A barber shop quartet will sing Saturday evening at the park entertaining at the Eastern Stars ice cream social. The quartet consists of Mrs. Ruth Hoffman, Mrs. Glenda Wilson, Mrs. Luann Reed and Mrs. Cathy Sullivan.

Art a creative outlet for Mrs. Doerr

An intense interest in painting that began a quarter of a century ago has been a creative outlet for Mrs. Naida Doerr to express the world as she sees it.

Relying heavily on bright colors and design, the paintings on display at the Rawson Memorial Library provide a sample of the many varied styles of the 43-year-old artist. She works in charcoal, oils, acrylics and water colors.

Mrs. Doerr has always painted simply for her own enjoyment and to share what she sees and feels about the things around her. Her husband, Edward, has encouraged her, she said, and because she has been able to paint just for fun, she feels obligated to please no one but herself.

"One of the most difficult things is not to listen to other people," the artist said emphatically.

She was asked to show her paintings at the library by the Artrain committee. It's the first one-woman show she's ever had, and has exhibited only once before at the Saginaw Museum.

Mrs. Doerr took her first art course as a high school student in Traverse City. "My teacher encouraged me. When I graduated she gave me a lot of supplies to keep me going," she related.

It wasn't until 15 years ago when she came to Cass City that she really began painting seriously. Before that she was busy raising her four children, but as she acquired more spare time, she decided she wanted to learn more.

Mrs. Doerr studied under Leontine Wallace, a former Cass City artist, for three years, whom she considered a great instructor. Then she spent some time as a student of Mrs. Julia Roecker, formerly connected with Alma College and curator of the Saginaw Museum.

In 1964 she took some courses at Leland, an extension of Michigan State University, just for the fun of it.

Mrs. Doerr claims that interest more than talent is the key to becoming an artist. "They teach you to see things, the shape, the relationship between one thing and another, the size," she said.

Many use the excuse they can't paint because they have no imagination, the artist said, adding that she used to say that too.

"Imagination comes through doing," she stated. "If you have the desire to learn, it can be done."

Her favorite medium is water colors. She works mostly with a wet wash because "I like the fusing of the colors," said Mrs. Doerr.

She admits she's not very good at landscapes, but likes to paint portraits of certain persons that appeal to her as models, although she hates painting a person's picture just to make a likeness.

Water colors are her favorite because they're quick and very free, allowing her to express her basically impressionistic style. With water colors, also, a great deal of thought must precede the actual painting.

"That's the most important thing of painting—more thought than painting," she said. "You don't just sit down and paint a picture."

Her painting, which is done in the kitchen of her home at 6440 Huron St., Cass City, goes in spurts. When she gets inspired to paint something, she may think about it for days before she gets out the paints. As she begins applying colors, the medium begins doing things on its own.

"It's kind of like a living thing; it takes over," she said of her consuming interest.

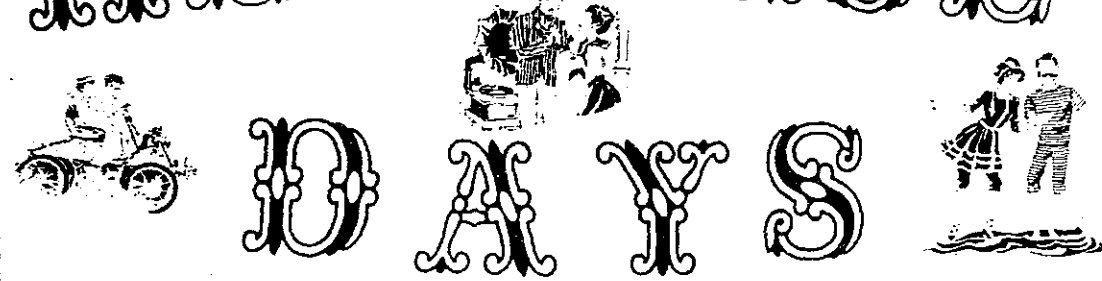

SHOWING a few of the many paintings she will display at a one-woman art exhibit at the Rawson Library is Mrs. Naida Doerr.

THE FREEMAN home on South Seeger Street is one of about 30 structures that are described on a driving tour showing examples of area architecture. The Dutch Colonial home was built in 1925 and is one of the first pre-cut homes in the area.

Driving tour shows area architecture

One aspect of the Artrain activities that does not require being at any one particular place at any set time but is still a valuable and interesting activity is the architectural tour.

A driving tour of 33 homes and buildings compiled by Mrs. Tom Jackson, with assistance by state Artrain Committee, is available in booklet form at the Artrain.

The tour takes about 45 minutes to an hour, depending how much you want to look at some of the old homes and residential landmarks of the Cass City area.

The modern types of architecture are also represented by a selection of new homes and religious and commercial structures.

The tour begins at the old Dillman School on M-81 about 2 miles west of town, which is also the site for craft demonstrations.

From there it winds around and through Cass City and along several country roads, ending back in Cass City.

The tour booklet describes each structure and tells a little about the history of the building, giving an insight into the personalities and lives of the early residents and illustrating graphically how styles have changed.

SPEARHEADING the local efforts to make Artrain a success in Cass City has been Mrs. Holly Althaver. She worked closely with Dar Davis, right, community coordinator of the state Artrain committee.

Project began 2 years ago

Bringing Artrain to Cass City has been no simple task.

The events next week will culminate what started two years ago as an inquiry by the American Association of University Women art representatives, Mrs. Holly Althaver and Mrs. Karen Wallace.

Number 12 on the list this year, Cass City is the thirty-third visit Artrain will make. It is also one of the smallest villages the train has visited. Only two other villages on this year's schedule have less population.

The center of four days of art-oriented activities was made possible by the determination of the AAUW.

Community Coordinator for the event, Mrs. Holly Althaver explained that in the fall of 1969 she found a small article in a Detroit paper explaining that a train was going to be put together and tour the state, bringing art to the out-of-the-way places. The article stated that the train should be a reality within a year or so and would be free to sponsoring groups.

As art representatives for AAUW, it was their responsibility to keep abreast with art trends and activities in the state, so the two women investigated.

An inquiry was sent to the Michigan Council for the Arts, the state organization that made the train possible, expressing the need for a sharing of the arts in the rural Thumb area. A reply from the council said the train would be ready in about a year.

The train opened Memorial Day, 1971, in Traverse City, hometown of the Gov. and Mrs. William Milliken, and spent the first season in the northern part of the state. Mrs. Milliken is general chairman of the train.

"We were not put on the first year's schedule even though we were one of the first to inquire," related Mrs. Althaver, because of the geographical difficulties.

In October 1971 notice was received that Cass City was tentatively on the schedule for the 1972 tour. It wasn't until March that the dates were confirmed, noted the chairman. Before this affirmation three visits were made to the village by the community coordinator of the Michigan Council for the Arts.

"It wasn't until they had talked to the original steering committee, looked at the site and the village that we were then recommended to the Artrain Executive Committee," explained the chairman. A mix from that committee would have killed the project.

With the signing of the contract May 11, the sponsors agreed to take on numerous responsibilities for the train, including finding suitable site, developing it, providing electrical service, guides for the train, housing for the staff and promoting the event.

Long before the contract binding the agreement was signed, however, preparations were begun. As chairman, Mrs. Althaver made an 80-slide presentation illustrating a walk-through tour of the train to about 25 different groups. The idea behind this was to acquaint the community with the train and to solicit support, which has been generous and quick in coming.

The project was taken from the immediate sponsorship of AAUW when it was learned that an incorporated group had to sponsor the train's visit, said Mrs. Althaver. The village was asked to assume the roll of non-profit sponsor. This also afforded the train with a community-wide base.

Experts to talk at 4 seminars

The purpose of Artrain is to educate as well as entertain, and visitors will have an opportunity to learn about four art-related areas through hour-long seminars during the Artrain visit presented by area experts.

The first of the free seminars will be held Thursday from 2-3 p. m. at the high school little theatre when a program about Chinese art will be presented by a trio of local persons—Mrs. Stanley Kinn Sr., Miss Gertrude McWebb and Dr. D. E. Rawson.

Cultural influences on art in China will be explored with the help of slides and displays of bronzes, stone sculpture, embroidery and paintings.

Of the three speakers, Mrs. Kinn has been to China where she served as a missionary in the twenties. The other two have been historians of Chinese art for many years.

Friday another aspect of China will be explored when Mrs. Gladys Galloway of Caro demonstrates china painting. An internationally known instructor, Mrs. Galloway has taught china painting in Caro for many years and is considered an expert in the field.

Contemporary flower arranging as an art form will be demonstrated Saturday by Mrs. John (Louina) Riley of Caro. She is a blue ribbon winner in state competition for Federal Garden Clubs, a national organization. She will show how to arrange flowers to make a work of art. Mrs. Riley is a teacher of arts and crafts at the Caro High School adult education classes and also fashions original figures from stones.

The final seminar to be presented will be about antique bottles. Randy Strey of Caro will explain some history of bottle making and antique bottles. Only 17, he is a licensed antique dealer and owns and operates a store in Dearborn where he sells his old bottles.

All School art show displays young talent

Part of the preparation for the coming of Artrain has been the education of the youngsters in the schools, and some of the results of those efforts will be displayed in the halls of the Cass City High School as a Children's Art Show.

Paintings and drawings of junior and senior high students as well as grade school children will be on display, and will be open to the public the same hours as the Artrain, 12-8 p. m. Thursday, Friday and Saturday and 1-5 p. m. Sunday.

Some of the art made by the grade schoolers will be on display at the train site in the form of a collage on a large triangular sign which will be used to schedule the day's events.

Under the direction of Mrs. Karen Wallace, several high school art students were trained to present companion material about the arts.

They discussed with the students the different ways to look at art, how regional culture affects art and the relationship of art to the environment.

A series of slides of the Artrain were then shown to the children.

The drawings represent the youngster's concept of the Artrain.

Demonstrate crafts at Dillman School

What was once a place for learning the three R's has been transformed into a Heritage House for the display and demonstrations of crafts, a practical application of art.

Under the direction of Mrs. Sharon Erla, a group of Pre-school Cooperative Nursery mothers cleaned and painted the old Dillman school building, located about 2 miles west of Cass City on M-81.

Dirty floors were scrubbed, and dingy walls painted a bright white and red, covering musty smells accumulated on old brown and yellow painted walls. Cheerful blue and white checked gingham curtains hang on the windows, several of which are sporting new glass panes.

The renovated building will house old-time crafts and workers who will show how it was done.

Although workers are still needed to display their talents and techniques, a number have been lined up.

Marion Keating and Alice Ruhl will demonstrate paper tole, an old art of paper cutting used to make decorative three-dimensional ornaments.

A quilting loom will be set up and the "quilting ladies," as they call themselves, will show how the quilts are made and put together. The women are a group of five or so who meet at the home of Mrs. Helen Little monthly.

Eugene Hofstedt and Delores Tuckey will demonstrate chair caning; Debbie Brown will show how rugs are hooked, and Mollie Butler will make Raggedy Ann dolls.

Helen Little will also show tatting, and Phyllis Boylan will demonstrate knitting, with a display of clothing and items she has made.

A display of home canning will be made by Ann Rogers.

REPAINTING the old Dillman School house took many hours of work. Mrs. Sharon Erla, chairman of the Craft House committee, and Mrs. Marianne Walpole, steadying the ladder, were just two of the workers.

Merchant windows display cultural past

Walking downtown Cass City will be like taking a step into a museum of culture—past and present—when Artrain and Heritage Days are celebrated next week.

Downtown store windows will be decorated with things of the past with each store showing what they might have sold many years ago.

Displays will include old clothing, pharmaceutical supplies, antique clocks, jewelry, furniture, appliances and bottles.

A complete display of milking equipment starting with a bucket will be in the window of Damm Implement Company and sponsored by the Shabbona Extension Group.

Carl Smith's collection of old Kodak cameras will be in the Woods Drug Store window.

The Gagetown Woman's Study Group are also sponsoring a window in Western Auto Hardware where they will display the many tools and appliances used by women in their job as home-maker.

Old sewing machines and mannequins will be shown at the Shafer's Fabric store, and a collection of Cass City "collectables"—dishes and souvenir items—displaying the name Cass City will be in the window of Ryan's Clothing store, compliments of Marion Keating.

An old-fashioned Christmas tree and old toys are expected to be displayed in the window of the Gamble Store.

Chairman Dorothy Stahlbaum said as many antique cars as possible and possibly miniature steam engines will also be on the streets.

Food abounds during Artrain

Visitors to Cass City will be able to feast their eyes on art and their stomachs on good food.

A variety of luncheons have been prepared to supplement service by local restaurants.

The Catholic Church will serve at the social hall on South Seeger Street from 11:30 a. m.-2 p. m. Friday. The Presbyterian Church will host a meal the same hours Saturday at the church basement on North Seeger Street.

Sunday, Good Shepherd Lutheran Church will serve from noon-2:30 p. m. at their fellowship hall on East Main Street.

The Order of the Eastern Star is sponsoring an ice cream social in the Cass City Recreational Park Saturday, from 5-7 p. m. with old fashioned ice cream dishes, and music by a barber shop quartet.

Several service clubs will host an outdoor cafe on Seeger Street downtown with foot long hot dogs, refreshments and ice cream. Firemen, Gavel, Lions and Rotary will man the cafe.

And for thirsty visitors at the Artrain, the Girl Scouts will operate a lemonade stand near the site.

CASS CITY

Dillman School 100 years old in '72

The "little red school house" that is the center for the arts and crafts demonstrations is as much a part of the heritage of the area as what is going on inside.

Dubbed "Heritage House" for the duration of the Cass City Heritage-Days celebration, the Dillman School has been renovated and painted and hopefully will become a center for active participation for the arts in Cass City after the excitement and turmoil created by the coming of Artrain.

The little school building has largely been ignored since the doors closed in 1951 and its pupils were transported to Cass City, where a larger and more modern school offered a more varied education.

However, it represents a part of country life that is not so far in the past and that for years started every child on their way in life.

The records of the school are largely gone, but a partial history was gleaned through an examination of some early school board minutes, through the courtesy of George Dillman of Detroit, an ancestor of the man for whom the school was named.

The minutes showed that the present building was erected about 1873, the same year James Dillman was elected chairman of the school district.

The motion to raise $75 to build a school was made Sept. 4, 1871, at the annual meeting. Two months later at a special meeting, it was decided to build the school 24 feet wide by 30 feet long with a 12 foot ceiling. A site was also to be purchased and for the 1872 meeting.

The building originally was to be completed by May of 1872, but apparently it was delayed, for another $225 was approved at the 1872 meeting.

The building was enlarged upon in 1886 when it was resolved that an addition be made to the building by adding a 16 x 24 foot section to the rear at a cost not to exceed $250.

The building was "reset" several years later when a special meeting April 7, 1888, approved that motion. The school house apparently was moved back from what is now M-81. That meeting also approved a motion to put on new doors, repair the windows, plastering and build an 8 foot addition for the entry.

Whether that was a response to a problem still faced by school boards is difficult to determine. A motion made Sept. 13, 1879, that "parents shall pay for property destroyed by their children belonging to the district."

Another problem that has plagued the country schools, even though they lost the battle, was consolidation.

References in the minutes go as far back as June 10, 1886, when a special meeting of voters was held concerning appealing the action of the Township Board of School inspectors in detaching a portion from school district 1 and adding it to district 5.

Eight days later another meeting was held and a committee was appointed to make bonds to support the expense of the appeal. On Sept. 6, another committee was appointed to secure legal advice in keeping the district as it was formed in 1863.

It was shortly after that that the addition to the school was built. Apparently, they won the battle because the consolidation with Cass City schools did not take place until April 15, 1957, 71 years later.

Perhaps some of these teachers are remembered: Minnie Kinnard, Edna Wood, Bessie Gracey, Evangeline Pursell, Lela Gimmell, Gladys DeLong, Verna Keilitz, Ruth Elliot, Myrtle Hegler, Laura Stewart, Dorothy McElowney, Irene Hall, Lorene McGrath, Watis, Vera Flint, Lucile Anthes, Winifred Orr, Elma Bushong, Mrs. Helen Greenleaf, Betty Hower and Roselyn Joyce Barber.

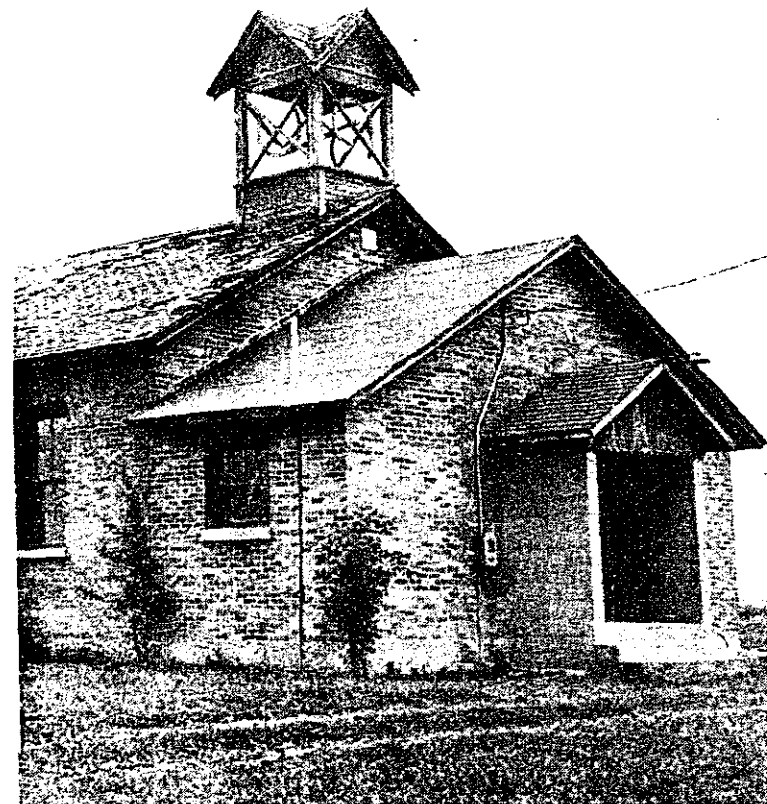

Kids can smash and mash

While the grownups are showing how it's done in the baggage car of the Artrain, budding artists will also have an opportunity to express themselves at the Smash and Mash corner at the Artrain site.

Under the supervision of high school students guided by chairman Mrs. Barbara Tuckey, youngsters through the 6th grade will paint, draw, model with clay and make paper bag puppets.

Supplies will be furnished. Pre-schoolers through the second grade are scheduled noon-2 p. m. Thursday and 11 a.m.-2 p.m. Friday and Saturday.

Third grade through sixth grade can work at the Smash and Mash corner from 2-4 p.m. Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

THE OLD DILLMAN SCHOOL celebrates its 100th anniversary this year and is a part of Cass City's cultural past.

Make This a Festive Occasion

The arrival of ARTRAIN in Cass City next week brings to mind the coming of the first train to this community just 90 years ago, November 18, 1882, bringing for our pioneer forefathers an end to the isolation which marked their frontier community. That occasion was celebrated, we are told, with a parade, band music, and a community dinner honoring the crew and those officials who arrived on that first train.

ARTRAIN is also an important event for all of us. Not only is it bringing to our doors many, many things we might otherwise never have opportunity to see and enjoy, but it is also stimulating the exhibition and display of talents and treasures within our own area. The pleasures are for everyone.

Take time to enjoy them.

Our bank is proud to have been a business institution in Cass City for 86 of those 90 years since that first train arrived. We are confident of a bright future, and want to do our part in assuring its arrival for all of our citizens.

Tea for Mrs. Milliken after opening ceremony

A simple ribbon-cutting ceremony followed by a public luncheon at the Cass City Cultural Center in honor of Mrs. William Milliken will mark the official opening of Artrain and the affiliated art activities July 20.

Everyone is invited to the 10:30 a. m. ceremony to be held at the Artrain site off M-81 on the west edge of town.

A few words will be said by members of the Artrain committee who will then be taken on a guided tour of the museum.

Mrs. Milliken, wife of the governor, is the working chairman of the Artrain committee, Senator and Mrs. Alvin DeGrow of Pigeon will also attend the opening ceremony.

The reception at the Cultural Center will begin at 11:30 a. m. when all exhibits open. The public is invited to the open house to meet Mrs. Milliken, and view the art show at the cultural center.

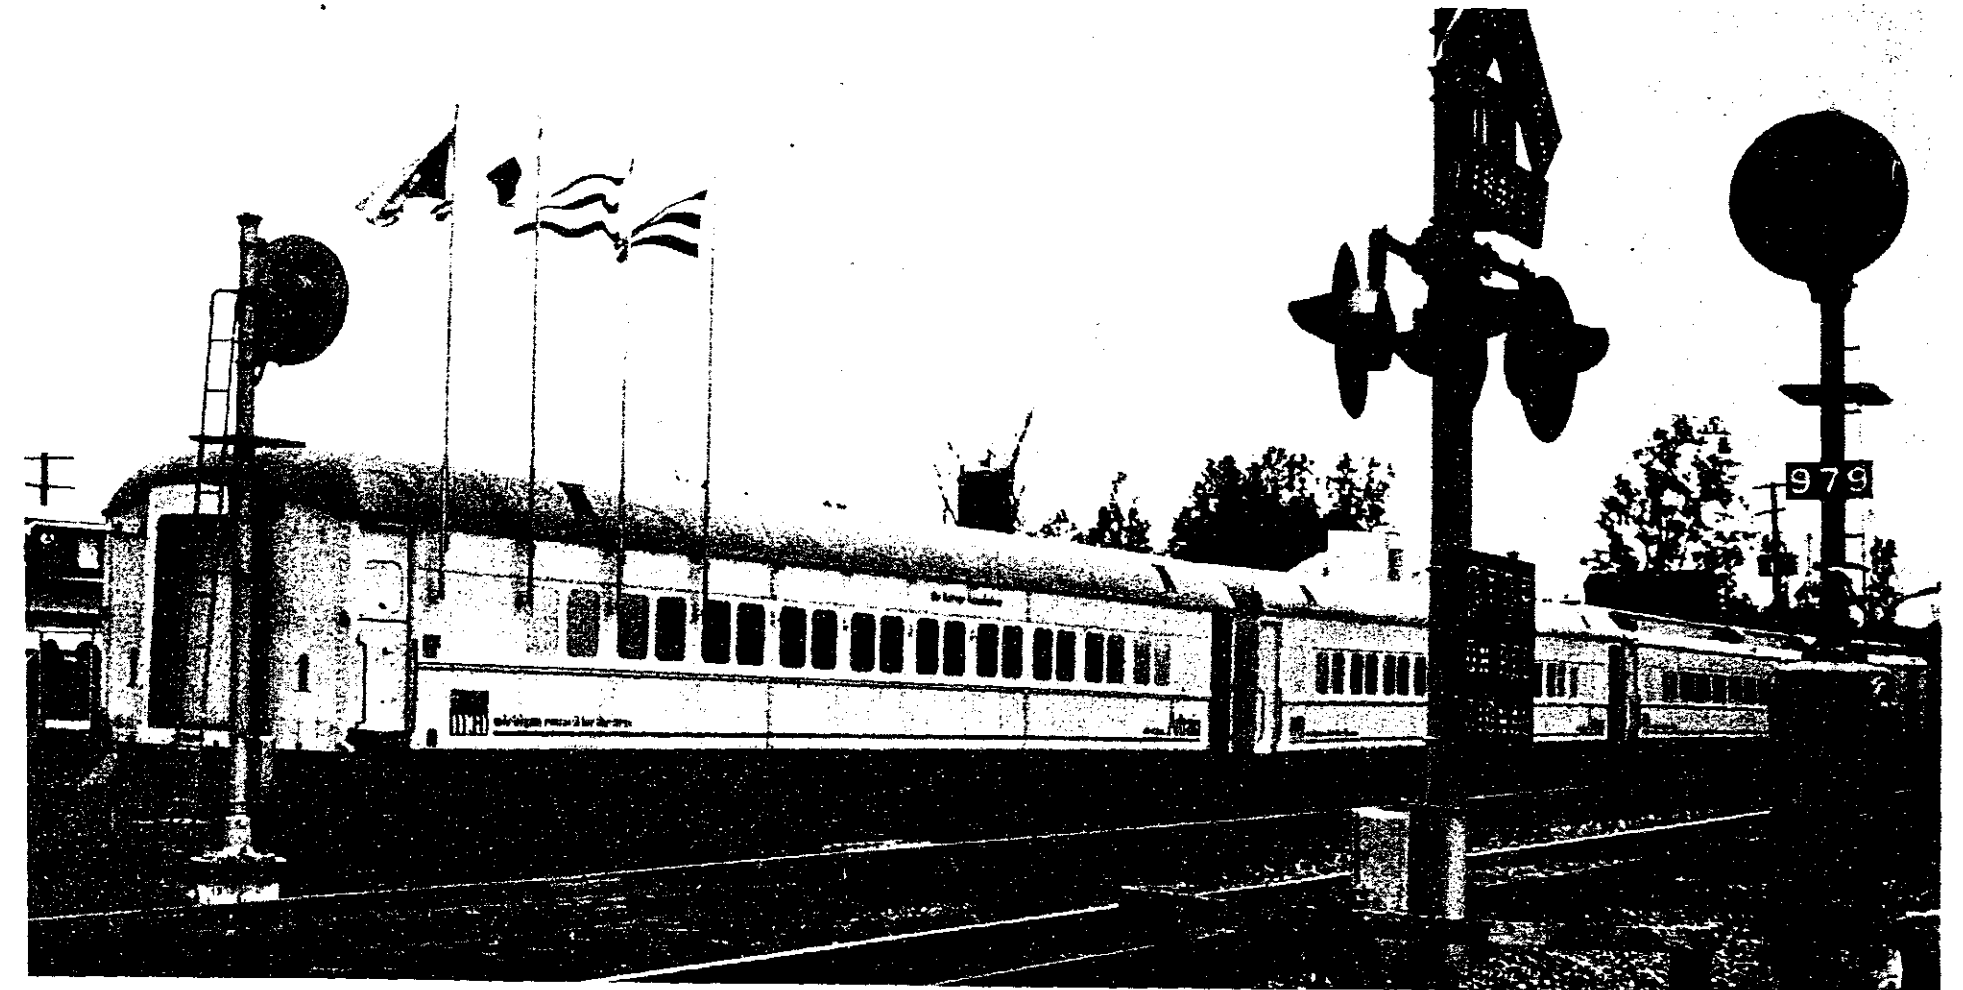

Other shows are the craft show at the showroom of the Auten Motor Sales on Main Street and a photography show to be held at the new township firehall on Ale Street.

The opening ceremony culminates hours of work and months of planning by committee members, and marks the beginning of four days of looking at art, participating, experiencing live theatre and having fun while learning.

A FLURRY OF FLAGS and color will greet Artrain visitors when they visit the train on the Grand Trunk Rail Road siding in Cass City on Main Street.

Site developed where eyesore stood

THE COAL BIN of the Michigan Bean Elevator was on the Artrain site, creating an ugly eyesore to visitors and residents of Cass City.

THE BUILDING was torn down by Ed Bergman. The land was then leveled for landscaping.

The landscaped site complementing the rainbow-colored Artrain will provide a pleasant setting for visitors when public tours begin Thursday, July 20.

Located on a siding of the Grand Trunk Railroad off M-81, the area was an eye-sore before the old Michigan Bean coal bin was removed and the ground leveled.

Visitors will see instead a beautifully landscaped area, cordoned off with split rail fencing and adorned with flowers. Walkways of wood chips will direct visitors to the entrance and exit of the train. And plenty of free parking will be available near the site.

A large triangular sign constructed by high school shop students and erected by the train will exhibit a schedule of each day's events.

The development of the area was under the auspices of the Cass City Jaycees with Roland Pakenon in charge, although numerous other persons worked to make the project a success.

The many roses at the site were nurtured by Harry Little after many women bought the plants and gave them to the Artrain committee.

Although most of the development costs were free, the electricity needed to operate the slide and movie presentations and the air conditioning equipment as well as the hook-up is expected to exceed $750. Detroit Edison will be serving the train through a technically complex system of wires.
