

Skilled nursing home settled at Hills and Dales site

Construction of a $1 million, skilled nursing home in Cass City is expected to be underway by the first part of September, according to Dick Palm, vice-president of Provincial House, Inc.

That statement was made Tuesday night at the regular meeting of the village council held at the municipal building, and came after a contract binding upon Provincial House, Hills and Dales Subdivision and the village of Cass City was signed, and a new zoning ordinance adopted with the inclusion of a special purpose district. The council passed both the contract and the inclusion of the SP special purpose district by a 5-1 vote.

The addition to the zoning ordinance provided the means for allowing the 117-bed home to be built in an approximately 9-acre area in the northwest corner of Hills and Dales Number 3.

Between the contract and the definition of special purpose district, all the restrictions the village wanted placed on the land were agreed to by Provincial House.

These included rezoning the area in the special purpose district from RA-1 single family to SP. "The SP, Special Purpose, districts are designed to accommodate specific uses which are generally compatible with one-family residential areas, but, which because of particular characteristics of size or use should not be permitted in a one-family district without review and rezoning by the Village Council," states the zoning ordinance. "Thus, the purpose of this district is to permit, upon request, the use of land or building for specific purposes in order that a high degree of control can be maintained over the use to be provided for," it continues.

The SP district provides for skilled or basic nursing or convalescent homes, rehabilitation centers and accessory buildings. It also provides that not less than 1000 square feet of open space should be provided for each bed or unit, that no building should be closer than 70 feet to any single-family residential district, and no building in any case should be closer to a property line than 25 feet.

Also, buildings are not to exceed one story in height at the front grade and the requirement for an obscuring wall around off-street parking facilities is waived in this district.

CONTRACT SIGNED

In addition to those restrictions, the contract, signed last night, provides that Hills and Dales Corporation will not make any more land now zoned RA-1 available for a nursing home, will plant trees or shrubs as a screen on the south side of the property, will asphalt Dale Street between Hill Street and Hospital Drive, and will also asphalt the road leading to the nursing home and agree to reserve land for street access to allow for future expansion to the north of that area.

Provincial House agreed to a 70-foot setback along the east and south property lines, a maximum elevation of 770 feet for the buildings, and 1000 square feet of open space per bed. No clinics or HMO units will be erected on the site, but a rehabilitation therapy center and congregate housing are permitted. (Palm explained that the rehabilitation center would be for use of patients of both Hills and Dales Hospital and the nursing home.) Congregate housing are rooms for self-sufficient and completely ambulatory patients.

Provincial House also agreed that if they construct congregate housing, it will be only one-story high at the front, insuring it will not be visible by property owners in the area.

The village agreed, by signing the contract, that the land was rezoned SP. They will also install a water main to the boundary line of the property and the village superintendent will examine the site to insure all restrictions are being followed.

Palm told the council that as soon as the surveying is completed this week, the plans will be submitted to the Michigan Department of Health, which is expected to approve them within 30-45 days. Following that, a permit will be secured from the village and construction can begin.

The agreement followed a two-month hassle in which several open meetings were held and the village and Provincial House argued about the site. The final approval came after Palm started negotiations with Caro and a petition campaign indicated that the village was solidly behind construction of the nursing home in the Hills and Dales site approved Tuesday night.

FROM THE Editor's Corner

Artrain was great because Cass City was able to stage it. Artrain was great because the village proved once again that it is able to gird for a massive effort requiring work and cooperation by all.

Artrain was great because it sparked window displays, local art exhibits, merchant cooperation.

Artrain was great because of the guys and gals working, working, working while harboring doubts about the program.

It was a united effort and good for the community. There remain doubts about these non-profit programs. For in a sense now that it's all over the question arises, was it worth it? The time, the money, the worry?

Time after time I've heard disappointing remarks about the train. People expected more, maybe the train was oversold in their minds.

Maybe they felt that the train was to be more of a rolling art museum than what it is: a catalyst to stir interest in the arts.

But the persons who felt shortchanged by the train hailed the local art, the local heritage windows, the various local shows.

They said it almost defiantly as if they knew that the Artrain was supposed to be better but they didn't like it as much as the portraits painted by the artist that lives in the next block.

Which is nonsense of course. Besides the community benefited from working together. Artrain will have been successful if it stirs one talent, if it goads one artist to exhibit, if one person enjoys one painting that might never have been enjoyed without it, or if it sparks a new appreciation of the artistry in the world around us...the artistry of the tool and die maker, a blacksmith or a draftsman.

Artrain pulled out Monday morning and windows devoted to the Heritage theme were rapidly disappearing to be replaced by conventional commercial displays.

In another week it will have been forgotten like the waves made by a stone thrown into a quiet pool.

The most that can be hoped for is that here and there someone will pick up a paint brush or try a pottery wheel.

That here and there an impression has been left that art is not reserved for the especially endowed.

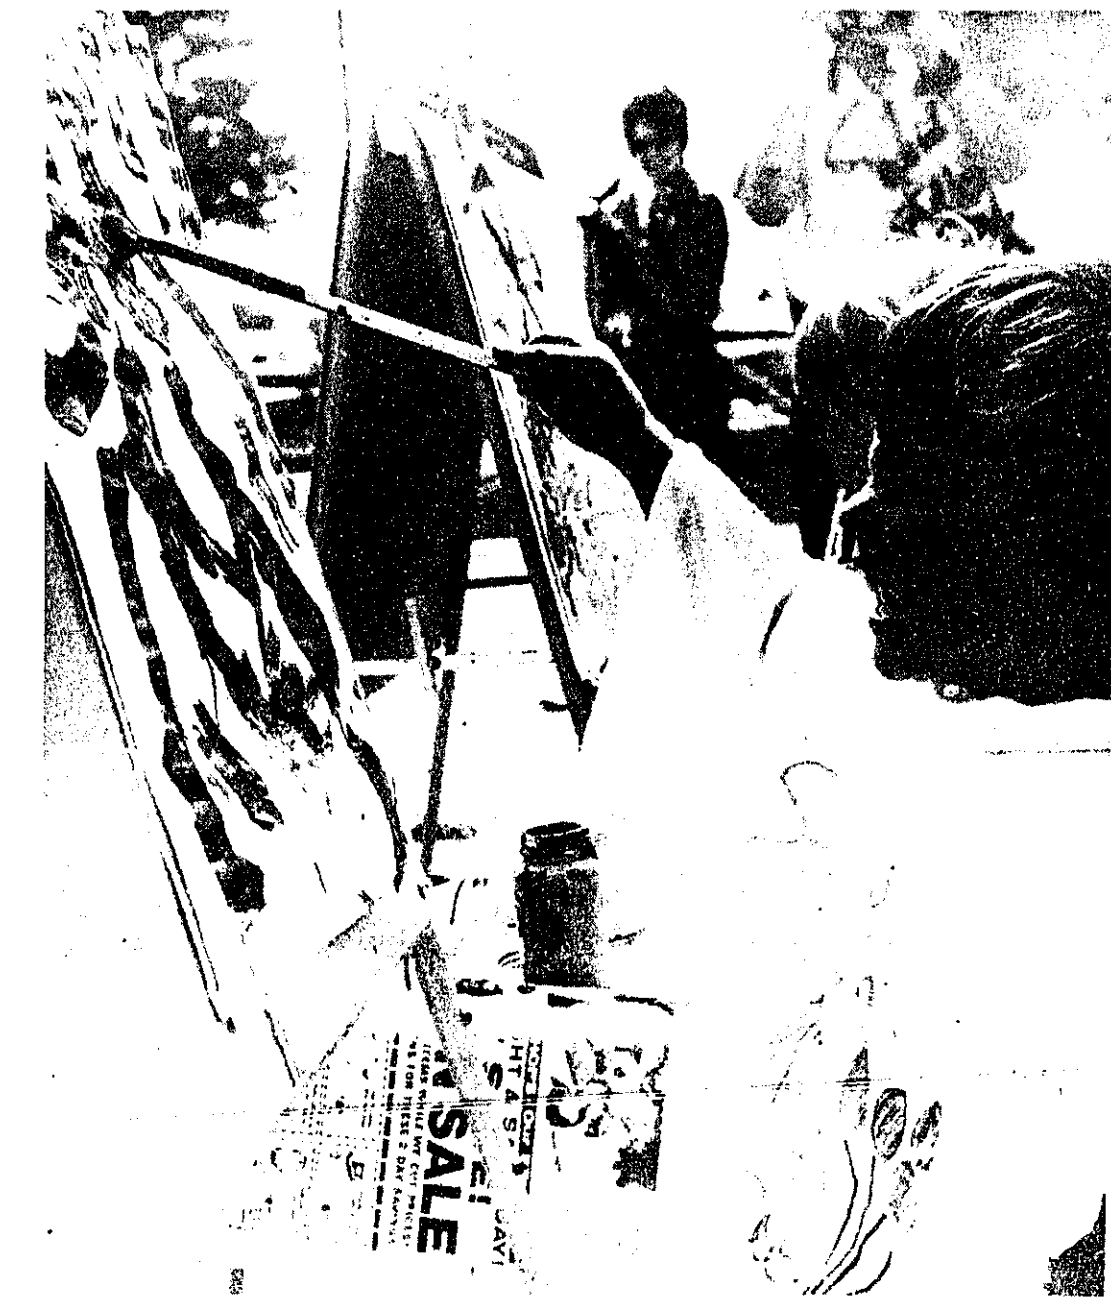

That here and there is a new appreciation of the art that surrounds us everywhere.

The thought is that Artrain triggered these reactions and because it did, Artrain was great for Cass City.

Japanese businessmen like warmth of small town

The warmth and friendliness of Cass City will go overseas next week when six Japanese businessmen return home after a three-week stay here.

It was a first visit to America for four of the men. For another, it was the third time in the States, but the first time he'd ever been to a small town. "It's a true American ideal," said H. Kobayashi. His words were translated by Ichiro Ota, a Japanese student at Berea, Ky., where he has been studying business administration.

Before coming to Cass City he had been in many large cities—New York, Boston, Chicago, San Francisco. But coming to Cass City has changed his impression of America. "He feels there is more humanity, kindness," explained Ota, trying to translate the Japanese as literally as possible.

The six Japanese have been guests of Walbro, where they are studying production methods. Speaking rapidly in Japanese among themselves and shaking their heads, they discussed their observations of rural America. They agreed on one thing—they liked the warmth and friendliness of the people.

S. Kuraoka, commenting on a van trip the men took through the Thumb area and as far north as Potosky, said he was impressed with the size of the country and the beauty.

Japan is one twenty-eighth the size of the United States, or about the size of California. But only one-third of that area is livable, the gentlemen related. Consequently, everything is very crowded in Japan.

"He's guessing," translated Ota, "that's why the people are so lenient. They don't seem to care about the small details of living."

In Japan, however, much attention is given personal grooming and cultivating the individual because of the crowded living conditions.

It impressed him too, Ota related, that "The country is rich. The foods are gracious and, especially, the ladies are charming."

As a change of pace, the Japanese ate lunch Friday at the buffet dinner at St. Pancratius Church. Between mouthfuls of ham, potato salad and baked beans, typical American picnic dishes, they explained that the average American meal is larger than Japanese meals.

T. Yagi, a traveled businessman who speaks fluent English, said that Japanese foods are similar to American dishes, and the popular belief that all Japanese eat rice, is not true. He added that the Japanese government tries to control the cultivation of rice.

The basic difference between Japanese and American meals," Yagi continued, "is they're served on separate dishes, to preserve the individual flavors."

During their stay in Cass City, several of the men have been living in an apartment and the rest have rooms at the hotel.

While most of their meals have been taken at the invitation of many families in town, breakfast at least must be prepared by themselves. And that means buying food.

Communicating has not been easy, especially since only Ota

SIX OF THESE BUSINESSMEN will return this week to their native Japan. During their three-week stay in Cass City, they said they liked the friendliness of the town the best.

Artrain called a whopping success with 3677 visitors

The visit of Artrain to Cass City last week end has been hailed as one of the most successful appearances of the train.

A total of 3677 persons went through the train, an average of 920 persons a day. That figure exceeds the 800 a day average when the train was in Lapeer, and the slightly less than 800 a day figure for Owosso, the two stops just prior to Cass City. Thursday, 803 persons went through the train; Friday, 1126, Saturday, 865, and Sunday, 883.

Cass City also set a record for the per person contribution towards the train. A total of $740.13 was received, averaging about 20 cents per person visiting the train. The best figure prior to this was 12 cents per person.

Half of that amount remains in Cass City to promote the arts. The other half goes towards the cost of operating the train, which reaches a figure of $240,000 a month.

Members of the Artrain staff told local committee members that Cass City's effort compared favorably with other sites. The cross section of art, arrangements and community participation was as good as or better than any other community, they said.

"Artrain did exactly what it was supposed to do," said Holly Althaver, community coordinator. "It involved everybody."

The festival of the arts opened officially Thursday morning with a simple ribbon cutting ceremony at the site. Despite the extreme heat, one of the largest crowds in the history of Artrain was on hand to greet Mrs. William Milliken, guest of honor and general chairman of the Artrain committee.

The Cass City High School band provided background music for the ceremony, playing "Promises, Promises." Mrs. Milliken addressed the crowd of several hundred, complimenting the community on its effort and praising the good work.

The Artrain visit was greeted with near disaster Tuesday morning, July 18, when it first came into Cass City because it wouldn't fit at the site off M-81 and train officials said it couldn't stay. However, tragedy was thwarted when the caboose was un-hitched and parked across the street.

The numerous related activities also proved successful. A full theatre of kids enjoyed the free puppet show Saturday morning. A steady stream of visitors examined the store windows filled with displays of antiques and the art show hung at the Cultural Center.

Attendance at the four seminars was small, as was the theatre presentation of "Zoo Story" at the high school little theatre. About 50 persons showed up to hear the Sunday afternoon presentation of "Joseph's Amazing Technicolor Dream Coat" sung by a local choir at the high school.

"The Dillman school was an absolute success, with people there all the time," said Mrs. Althaver, describing the craft demonstrations at the renovated school house, 2 miles west of Cass City.

James Hansen, a Look magazine photographer of 32 years, and now a free-lance photographer arrived Saturday evening and stayed until Monday morning to take pictures of local persons viewing the train and of the other activities in town.

Some of the pictures are scheduled to appear in "Topic" magazine, a publication of the U. S. Information Agency in Washington, D. C.

The only unhappy event to mar the success of the train's visit was the theft of two cats belonging to members of the Artrain staff. A black part Siamese and a grey part Persian, both males, were taken from the car of Andrea Radu of Detroit, Wednesday afternoon, July 19, when it was parked at the site. A reward has been offered for their return.

The addition of an extra man from the Tuscola county sheriff's force aided in the prevention of any other damage of theft or vandalism.

Comments about the train varied from praise to criticism, but many of the visitors went back for a second look. One of the most often heard complaints was that everything went too fast. Nevertheless, the Artrain experience in Cass City is considered a huge success.

"This opened some doors that weren't open before," stated Mrs. Althaver.

She and one committee member have been invited to attend the next Council of the Arts board meeting to discuss Artrain and what it really does in a small rural community and what the response to the train is.

State police to patrol county

Another in the long series of campaigns to reduce accidents in Tuscola county was announced this week when Michigan State Police Director John Plante revealed that part of a $300,000 Federal grant will be used to pay for special State Police patrols in the county.

and Yagi speak English, but the problem can be overcome. "Of course they can't speak English," said Ota, "but when they go shopping, they can see the price and show it."

Robert Walpole, who has been working closely with the men, said one of them remarked to him he was surprised at the American custom of counting back change after making a purchase. In Japan, the change is merely handed over and its accuracy taken for granted.

Casual conversation is difficult if not impossible, said one Walbro official, but the language barrier is broken somewhat when technical terms are discussed. A number is the same on any blueprint.

Here on business, the Japanese gentlemen often discuss their work in the evening, letting their leisure and working hours mix together. M. Shima made the observation that while everybody here works hard, there's a definite split between work and leisure. He commented on the habit of Americans "getting away for the week end". In Japan there is no distinction like that, where people must work harder and longer to make a living. It's also difficult to get away because almost everywhere you go is crowded. Japan has a population of about 102 million and claims the largest city in the world, Tokyo.

Another aspect of business very different from the States is the loyalty a worker has to his company. Once a corporation accepts a young executive, he works in the same place for life, said Yagi. That goes for the factory workers, too. The corporation assumes a paternalistic attitude towards its workers and such things as lay

"If It Fitz . . ."She has a tear fetish

BY JIM FITZGERALD

Congressman Don Riegle would understand why my wife was crying in a pancake restaurant. He might even understand about her wristwatch fetish.

In his recent book "O Congress, Riegle revealed he is married to a woman who turns to tears at the sight of any old person with a limp. She will worry about such a stranger for hours, wondering fretfully whether anyone is helping him cross streets. It does no good to remind her that Godfather Brando was still killing people when he was so old he couldn't talk.

I hate to brag, but my wife is so sobby she makes Riegle's wife look as sugary as Doris Day at Dinah Shore's wedding. I have previously reported she cried patriotically when the flag goes up a railroad crossing. Pat has dripped tears of joy at the sight of searchlights crisscrossing the sky, heralding the grand opening of a supermarket. And she plunges into deep mourning whenever our car passes the tattered carcass of a deceased armadillo, pressed flat against the freeway.

So there we were in Aunt Jenny's Pancake House, in a strange city. Next to us, suddenly, there was some kind of a family reunion. Several adults and children were meeting for the first time since Lincoln's funeral. There was much kissing and hugging and exclaiming.

My wife sobbed loudly. "What are you crying about?" I asked her.

"They look so happy," she said.

"In a few minutes they will be fighting over who pays for the pancakes," I said.

"You're not fooling me," she said, "your eyes are wet too."

That is typical. She always accuses me of being as soft and sloppy as she is. Misery loves company (you may quote that if you wish).

"Look kids," she said, sticking her fingers into my eyeballs. "Daddy's eyes are watering."

Oh well. At least she had quit kissing her watch. People had begun to wonder if she was queer for ticking, or something.

You see, we had just come from visiting our 2-year-old granddaughter. She's a bright kid who spends most her time playing ring around the rosy while singing "ring around the collar" with an Hawaiian accent. When Grandma had to leave Michele cried for a few minutes. Grandma cried for 200 miles.

But she finally subsided and, in fact, began cooing. I noticed she was nuzzling her wristwatch, actually giving it little kisses.

"Are you winding that thing with your nose?" I asked.

"I am just looking at Michele," she said.

She showed me a medal attached to her watchband. I thought maybe it was some sort of a Presbyterian St. Christopher. No. Somehow she has a picture of Michele engraved on that medal.

"She's the sweetest little thing," Grandma cooed as she hummed "ring around the collar" and necked with her wrist.

"My eyes are wet," Grandma sobbed.

Michigan MirrorStack of still unfinished work to greet legislators*WORK NOT FINISHED

A stack of unfinished business will greet Michigan legislators when they return to the Capitol the first week in September.

The lawmakers have already done quite a bit this year, with the enactment of a series of environmental measures, establishing a presidential primary, submitting a Vietnam veterans bonus to voters and establishing a state lottery.

But several highly significant measures still are waiting for final action.

Heading the list are bills to establish a no fault auto insurance system and putting into motion an accelerated transportation construction system for Michigan. Both bills have cleared one house of the legislature and both have been fought tooth and nail by lobbyists for different special interest groups.

The no fault insurance bill passed the Senate May 8 and has been in a House committee ever since.

Backers of the bill promise to move it out of committee onto the floor when they return. It is being opposed vigorously by the state's trial lawyers, who stand to lose millions of dollars in fees if the bill is enacted.

The bill would require a policyholder's insurance company to pay his claims within 30 days of filing or pay a 12 per cent penalty fee. The payment would be made regardless of

Uncle Tim From Tyre Says:

Dear Mister Editor:

I see by the papers where bartenders has the highest voting average of any group in the country. This report I saw on voting patterns says more than 90 per cent of bartenders use their voting privilege, and the groups studied showed a drop from there all the way down to 16 per cent for housewives. Mister Editor, I thought this up one side and down the other, and I can't figger why bartenders lead the voting parade. Maybe you can work on it.

Maybe it is that the feller behind the bar hears ever possible political argument and is in a better spot to make up his mind. On the other hand, after hearing so many discussions on the subject, you might think he would lose interest. Other than housewives, wimmen general turn out pritty good for elections, according to the study. The 18 to 21 year olds ain't as excited about taking part in running their Governments as they was afore they got the vote.

Every driver in Michigan would be required to have insurance on his or her car, something that is not now the case.

The bill has strong backing from both Republican Gov. William G. Milliken and Democratic Secretary of State Richard Austin. In the Senate it was sponsored by Sen. L. Harvey Lodge, R-Waterford.

Lodge said courts today are jammed with suits coming out of auto accidents. One result, he said, is that persons who really need money to quickly pay hospital bills or household bills because of lost income must wait "years and years and years before they get anything. And then the lawyer gets a big chunk of the money."

Lodge is a lawyer and he said his own law firm will suffer if the bill is enacted.

"But I don't care," he said. "I think the public's interest comes first."

Fleming's intransigence prompted Milliken, for the first time in his career as governor, to issue a strong denunciation of an individual person—Fleming.

Milliken said Fleming "failed to keep his commitment to me" that a schedule for the committee to consider the package would be given the governor in April. The result, he said, was that a "single-minded senator has obstructed the legislative process and is blocking free and open debate by elected legislators."

Fleming responded that Milliken was acting like "a spoiled brat" and a "dictator."

because it would take one quarter of the two cent increase in gasoline taxes proposed in it to be used for mass transit planning in urban areas. The other 1.5 cents per gallon would be used for highways.

The plan passed the House Feb. 24 but has never been considered by Fleming's committee. He finally scheduled three public hearings at out of the way places for this summer, but makes no secret of the fact he doesn't like the bill.

While the name calling probably didn't have much effect on success or failure of the bill, other moves have been made by the executive office to shore up support for it prior to a showdown in September if one is required. The governor helped secure support for several legislative measures in June which were pet projects of lawmakers whom he needs if the transportation package is to pass the upper chamber.

Thus, the Senate can be expected to take up the transportation package in September, whether Fleming wants it or not. His only decision may be whether to go along in some sort of face saving manner or to continue his opposition and risk the embarrassment of a public defeat.

Readers of this trivia know that the Haires are chow hounds. We love to eat it up wherever we happen to be.

Last Saturday we happened to be in Gaylord. Let me recommend the Chalet buffet dinner to you. The food was good and plentiful. A dozen different salads and jellies. Fresh shrimp, marinated herring, liver paste and garlic bread, tossed salad with choice of dressing were included at the salad bar.

The main course included mashed and baked potatoes, two kinds of hot vegetables, rolls, a beef dish someone said was sauerbraten, lean barbecued short ribs and prime rib of beef. Dessert follows if you can still get it down. The price? $5.50. Not bargain basement but cheap in comparison to other restaurants serving food not as good.

Cass City's Little League program is a good one but Saturday we saw one better. It was also at Gaylord. The teams were playing at night and I wouldn't believe that it was Little League in action.

The kids were big and good. Especially from Gaylord's North Huron team. I envied them.

Fans here know that we've made progress in facilities with a new fence and two diamonds. But Gaylord showed me just how great facilities can be.

The grass on the diamond looked about like a golf tee green and the dirt portion of the infield was as smooth as the one in Tiger stadium.

The dark green board fence around the diamond was striking and the boys were playing under an excellently lighted field.

Before every boy came to bat his name was announced over an excellent loud speaker. There must have been 250-300 fans attending.

I asked about the North Huron team because it was impressive and found the reason. It is the defending Little League State champion.

Villarreal died as a result of injuries received in a 32 foot fall at the prison.

GENERATION ON

They hit the road early, these youngsters of today.

They cover a lot of miles. At a pretty fast pace.

And what they need most are the moral and spiritual values that do not change in a fast-moving age.

The role of the Church and the family is becoming more crucial every day. Wise parents realize their children should have the advantage of religious training. They sense the importance of their own example in encouraging positive Christian principles.

We need not worry about our youngsters growing up so rapidly . . . as long as they grow up well.

4-H, FFA attend livestock school

Approximately 100 persons from the Tri-County area attended the Youth Market Livestock School and Sale Thursday, July 20, at the Michigan Livestock Exchange, four miles east of Cass City.

This is the first time the school was held in this area, and the first time more than one school has been held in the state. Every August a similar project is conducted at St. John.

The purpose of the sale was to provide educational experiences for 4-H and Future Farmers of America (FFA) members.

Livestock grading and commercial market sales techniques were discussed.

Resource personnel from Michigan State University and the Michigan Department of Education, Division of Vocational Education, attended the sale. Leading the demonstrations and grading contest for beef cattle was Dr. Richard Dunn of MSU. Roger Hale and Graydon Blank, both of MSU, led the demonstrations about swine and sheep, respectively.

The day began at 7 a.m. with the unloading and grading of livestock from Huron, Tuscola and Sanilac counties. About 100 cattle, 75 pigs and 50 sheep were brought to the yards.

A swine grading demonstration and contest was held in the morning. Winners of the contest were Tim Trepkowski, Ubyly; Rod Kuhl, Sebewaing, and Steven Einhardt, Bad Axe.

A lamb grading demonstration was held early in the afternoon, followed by the beef grading demonstration.

Winners of the beef judging contest were: Brent Stockle, Bay Port; Tim Severance, Cass City; Barbara Black, Wisner; Dennis Smally, Ubyly, and Tim Trepkowski, Ubyly.

A sale of the young persons' livestock was held at the conclusion of the demonstrations. Prior to the sale, Bob Labor, manager of the Michigan Livestock Exchange, and Ike Walton, from the exchange, spoke about commercial facilities, market systems and market demands.

FROM THE LITTER BOX Phantom bruiser strikes again

By Kit McMillion

The dog days are here, and I'm glad. Not because I'll be able to get that sunburn I've been promising myself. Not because I have air conditioning, because I don't, and not because I'll be able to go swimming in my pool, because I don't even have a large wash tub. And I can't swim anyway.

I'm happy because it's so hot I can't move and the phantom bruiser can't attack me.

When the weather is cool I feel like I've got all kinds of energy and usually end up dissipating it by running around and into things. That's when the phantom bruiser strikes.

This has been going on every since I can remember. I think I was the only kid on my block to be black and blue and it wasn't mud or paint.

I remember when I taught myself how to ride a bicycle. I balanced myself on the thing, and pushed off, and crash - the bruiser scored another hit. By the time I finally learned how to ride the stupid thing, my spindly legs looked like I'd been run over - many times.

Now, I wake up in the morning with huge multicolored blotches on my body, and I wonder how did that happen? It's so easy to forget that just the day before I did something graceful like fall on the stairs or something.

I blame it on the phantom bruiser. You know, he must be a real maser, 'cause I've got a couple of friends who always seem to be black and blue, too.

My mother summed it up one day when she said I wasn't a strange kid, but so clumsy!

Sometimes I think she prided telling a story about me tripping on a pebble, not a rock or a stone, but a pebble! and falling flat on my face. The result was several misplaced front teeth. I always disclaim it, because my conscious memory doesn't include that incident.

And even if it did happen, the phantom bruiser probably tripped me on purpose.

And then there was the time I almost fell out of the second story window of my apartment. Some delicious looking pears, were just begging to be picked, so I figured I could oblige them. He pushed me again.

That's why I like the heat. The most the bruiser can possibly hope to do is drown me. And I don't swim, so I'm safe.

Meow.

AROUND THE FARM Chop fine, stack, pack silage

by William Bortel

For better silage from a bunker or trench, chop fine, pack continuously during filling and stack the silage at least 20 feet deep if possible.

Silage packs better if finely chopped. This reduces the level of oxygen penetration, reduces spoilage and increases the lactic acid content of the silage. In Michigan State University tests, steers fed silage chopped $\frac{1}{4}$ to $\frac{1}{2}$ inch gained faster and more efficiently than steers fed silage chopped $\frac{3}{4}$ to $\frac{3}{8}$ inch.

Packing also reduces oxygen penetration. Pack continuously throughout the filling process using a heavy tractor equipped with dual wheels and a dozer blade.

Even with tractor packing, silage in horizontal silos filled less than 20 feet deep will not ferment properly. You will have heavy oxidized losses because oxygen trapped at filling won't be expelled, and more oxygen will penetrate after filling because silage isn't packed tightly enough.

Keep in mind that even with tractor packing, oxygen will penetrate to a silage depth of approximately 10 feet. Therefore, even with 20 feet of silage depth, only the bottom 10 feet is free from all oxygen.

Chopped green plant material must be absolutely free of oxygen in order for fermentation to occur. Following fermentation, the silage must be kept free of oxygen until fed to preserve the products of fermentation.

BETTER HEALTH

Some dangers of Sleepwalking

BY DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

A while ago I found an article on a subject that fascinates many people—sleepwalking. One estimate is that there are some four million Americans who have consulted physicians because of distress over sleepwalking, but there are doubtless millions of other persons who walk in their sleep. Many have walked in their sleep as children, and forgotten about it when they reached adulthood. Most of them have no memory of their sleepwalking.

As Isabella Taves says in her article in Today's Health, it is not entirely true that people who walk in their sleep won't hurt themselves. She tells of a 14-year-old boy who had the misfortune to walk in his sleep out of a camper-truck while it was traveling along at 50 miles an hour; miraculously, he escaped with only cuts and bruises. Curiously, there are reports of sleepwalkers driving cars, buying tickets, boarding planes, crossing from the rooftop of one tall building to another, and other very complicated activities.

It is remarkable how far some sleepwalkers will go. For instance, Dr. John Sours of New York City told of a young man who, when on a hunting trip, got out of bed in his sleep, put on his hunting clothes, gathered up his shotgun and shells, and still fast asleep, walked several miles to a duck blind, where he sat for nearly an hour until his father found him and woke him up.

A few women have been known to go sleepwalking in the nude, even outside their home. One man found his sleepwalking wife without a stitch on, up in a tree in their yard. But experts say that there is no evidence that a sleepwalker will do anything contrary to his nature.

Why do people walk in their sleep? Experts have a number of different theories. One of the world's greatest experts on sleep, Dr. Nathaniel Kleitman of the University of Chicago, together with Dr. Eugene Aserinsky, found that a sleeper's eyes will always move rapidly beneath his closed lids when he is dreaming. These rapid eye movements (REMs), are now well-known.

Two psychiatrists, Drs. Anthony Kales and Allan Jacobson of Los Angeles, using the studies of REM, became satisfied that sleepwalkers are not acting out dreams. It was found that sleepwalking persons walk only during the deep-sleep periods when studies of their brain wave patterns showed "slow-wave" type activity, and there were no REMs, and no dreams reported.

Dr. Roger Broughton of the University of Ottawa found that children's sleepwalking was combined with bed-wetting and sleep terrors.

There is some evidence that children start sleepwalking when they have been disturbed by some distressing problem at home, such as the death of a parent, or bitter quarreling between parents, or the death of a pet dog or cat. The theory is that the child is "running away" from the unpleasantness. Some researchers have found that when the pressure that is disturbing the sleepwalker is relieved, he stops the walking.

What should you do if there is a sleepwalker in the family? It is best not to awaken him abruptly by shaking him. Just repeat his name calmly over and over again, and when he wakes up, assure him that he is safe and tell him where he is. Or if he is not doing something potentially harmful or dangerous, you can leave him alone and he will in time return to his bed. Certainly, no child should ever be punished for sleepwalking.

It is wise to take precautions, especially if there is a small child who walks in his sleep. Have a tightly fastened gate at the head of the stairway and make sure that the windows cannot be opened beyond a certain point.

Fortunately, in most cases, with time the child gets over his or her tendency to sleepwalk. Today's Health is published by the American Medical Association, 535 N. Dearborn St., Chicago, Ill. 60610.

Should varicose veins be removed early just because they are ugly, or should the woman wait until they give her trouble? Dr. Alvarez gives you his views on this problem and tells you about some of the reasons the veins enlarge, in his booklet "Varicose Veins." You may have this booklet by sending 25 cents and a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Dr. Walter C. Alvarez, Dept. CCC, Box 957, Des Moines, Iowa 50304.

How badly would this damage your vacation?

A holiday on the road is great fun unless, of course, it's marred by an accident. The damage to your trailer or camper can be repaired. That's what you have insurance for. But what about the damage to your vacation? With our "altogether" trailer insurance, your holiday doesn't necessarily come to a complete halt then and there... cash for living expenses helps you continue on vacation while the trailer's being repaired. That's just one of many coverages designed to help make your holidays altogether better.

Talk less and listen more! Listen when he talks to his dog or his doll. You might find out some of his innermost feelings about himself—about his lot in life—about his feelings toward others.

Listen when he tries to talk to you, too. Too often parents are more likely to want to tell a child what to do—rather than posing a question that makes a child think about his own choices.

Sometimes it takes a lot of patience to hear a child out—especially when he's rather slow at getting around to the point. But cutting him off with a "Hurry up—I haven't got all day" will lessen your chances of a good communication channel with your child. He'll be more free about telling you his troubles, his joys, his plans when he gets older if you let him know you're interested in what he has to say when he's little and eager to tell all.

Show interest in what he has to say—even though it may seem trivial to an adult. Ask him leading questions to encourage him to talk all the more. After all, this is a good step toward having a child who learns to think on his feet—who's more open and willing to converse with others once he gets out into the more competitive world. It's a step toward getting him ready for participation in life.

Look for record crowds at Tuscola county fair

More than 4400 individual exhibits will be on display at the 91st Tuscola County Fair when it opens Monday.

Fair President Walter Jackson, Caro, stated that this is about the same as last year, although there'll be about 25 more in dairy cattle as a result

Council passes zoning law

Parking in the central business district will continue to be provided by the village under the new zoning ordinance adopted by a 4-2 vote Tuesday evening by village council members.

An amendment exempting the B-1 Community Business District from providing off street parking space as required for each particular type of business at the time of erection or enlargement of any building or structure passed 5-1. Trustee Dr. D. E. Rawson was opposed to the parking exemption for the 8 blocks zoned B-1 and containing most downtown business. He told the council that he wanted to see some provision made for the participation of the merchants in securing additional parking space.

The zoning ordinance, an up-dated ordinance which has been under consideration by the village council for the past 2 years, has immediate effect.

The council also passed an amendment to the ordinance providing for a SP special purpose district, which allows construction of a skilled nursing home in Cass City.

In other business, the council voted to seek bids for the old fire hall building and extended the arts and crafts program two weeks.

President Lambert Althaver reported to the council that the approximately 27 acres known as Orr East Property had been officially purchased last week for $31,200, half of which the village will be reimbursed. He also said that 72 per cent of the village taxes had been collected.

of a new herd in the county.

Besides the regular exhibits and premium judging, several new events are offered this year. The horse pulling contest Saturday at 10 a.m. in the lightweight division (3000 pounds or under) will be state championship.

The tractor pulling contest at 1 p.m. Friday will also be state championship, according to Jackson.

Approximately $13,000 in premiums will be divided among exhibitors in open and 4-H and FFA competition. Another $24,000 will be awarded winners of the many races, horse and motorcycle.

Jackson said the fair is aiming for 50,000 visitors, an increase over the more than 40,000 persons who attended the 6 day event last year.

The big event opening the fair will be the Diamond S. Rodeo out of Bradenton, Fla. The only performance is Monday at 8:30 p.m., preceded by the Colt Stakes Harness Racing beginning at 5:30 p.m.

Monday also begins judging of many 4-H exhibits. Horses and ponies will be judged Monday beginning at 8:30 a.m. and the dog show starts at 2 p.m.

Horticulture, floriculture and foods exhibits will be judged Monday as they arrive.

All other 4-H projects will be judged Tuesday beginning at 9 a.m., except sheep, which will be judged Wednesday beginning at 8:30 a.m.

Open classes for horse judging begin at 8:30 a.m. Tuesday for ponies and hackneys, Pony of the America, Appaloosas and western grades. Quarter Horses, Palominos, Arabians and youth activity classes will be judged beginning at 8:30 a.m. Friday.

Dairy cattle will be judged Wednesday and beef cattle on Tuesday. Sheep will be judged Wednesday, and swine on Tuesday.

Farm products will be judged Tuesday, floriculture on Monday and Thursday.

Gates open 8 a.m. daily, with general admission for adults 75 cents and children up to 12 years free. Children 13-16 inclusive, 50 cents.

County favored in pay settlement

A back-pay dispute between the Tuscola County Board of Commissioners and Hilton Sables, a former county sheriff's deputy, has been settled by the state labor board, the Commissioners were told yesterday.

Chairman Shuford Kirk reported that Sables had settled for $2890.97 and his attorney, William Drillock, for $703.47. Sables had originally asked for back wages and attorney fees totaling $5000.

Sables was discharged from the county sheriff's department in October 1967 and charged with failing to perform his duty. When he was reinstated with the department but taken off road duty, he quit.

He wrote a letter to the commissioners in April requesting the back pay. The commissioners at that time took no action.

In other business, Howard Bell, chairman of the board of directors of the Act 54 Mental Health Board, reported to the commissioners that they have received $10,000 of their state grant. The county voted yesterday to appropriate $3000 for the mental health clinic.

The commissioners also accepted the resignation of John Burns as a member of the canvassing board. He is running for a township office. In his place, they approved Bernita Schobert, Kingston.

The next regular meeting of the county board will be Aug. 10 instead of Aug. 8 due to the primary election.

2 injured in car crashes

Two area persons were hospitalized with injuries suffered in separate automobile accidents last week.

Jerry Lee Bitterling, 18, 5898 Duckerville Road, Decker, is listed in satisfactory condition in Caro Community Hospital where he is being treated for injuries sustained in a one-car accident Friday.

According to Tuscola county sheriff's reports, Bitterling was westbound on M-46 when he lost control of the car about 1/2 mile east of Kingston Road at 4:45 p.m. He crossed the eastbound lane, drove in the ditch 405 feet and rolled over after hitting a road marker.

Bitterling was cited for careless driving.

Juanita E. Ferris, 59, 1571 N. Main St., Snover, is listed in satisfactory condition in Marlette Community Hospital offs are unheard of, he explained.

When the men return home, they'll face three weeks of work piled up at their offices. They'll be taking home with them about six rolls of film each to show off Cass City to their friends. Much of their leisure time has been spent taking pictures.

Used to the many recreation possibilities of the city, the only uncomplimentary thing they said about Cass City is a common complaint—there's nothing to do.

But the warmth and friendliness they've felt here has made them feel at home. Translating Takano's words, Ota said, "He quite often forgets that he's in a foreign country except for the language."

where she was taken following a two-car crash Saturday.

She was a passenger in a car driven by her husband, William D. Ferris, 62. He escaped injury.

Receiving minor injuries in the mishap was Mabel Blaesser, passenger in a car driven by her husband, Jacob Blaesser, 67, 546 Bourns St., Vassar. He also was uninjured.

The accident occurred at 3:40 p.m. when Ferris attempted to pass as Blaesser was making a left-hand turn. Both cars were eastbound on M-46 when the accident happened near E. Froede Road.

Two drivers escaped injury in a similar accident Sunday on M-81 at Ringle Road. The vehicle driven by Robin Lynn Pugh, 18, 350 Froede Road, Deford, collided at 7:15 p.m. with one driven by Don Steven Fink, 21, 643 Bissonet, Osoda, when Miss Pugh made a left turn in front of the west-bound Fink.

Cass City police investigated two minor accidents.

A vehicle driven by Robert James Ross, 17, 4665 Hospital Drive, Cass City, struck a parked car of Linda Lee McPhail, 28, 4068 S. Cemetery Road, Cass City, which was parked behind the car wash near Church St.

According to police reports, Ross had put his car in neutral after washing it and it rolled down the grade, hitting the McPhail vehicle in the left front.

Cars driven by Norman Lee Coates, 30, 6750 Elmwood Road, Cass City, and Christina Lee O'Dell, 17, 4405 Brookier St., Cass City, collided at 2:50 p.m. Wednesday, July 19, when the O'Dell car had stopped to make a left turn from Seeger onto Pine, and Coates was unable to stop in time to avoid the collision. Neither was injured.

STATE POLICE

Plants said that Tuscola is one of the six "high accident" counties to receive special patrol. The others are Berrien, Cass, Eaton, Hillsdale and St. Clair.

The money will be used to pay 50 troopers overtime wages for the patrol work.

Tuscola county this year has recorded a 13 per cent increase in accidents and a 27 per cent increase in fatalities in the first five months of 1972.

Fighting the highway death toll is nothing new in Tuscola county.

In 1968 Sheriff Hugh Marr and the late James Epskamp, prosecutor, called an emergency session to seek solutions to the high accident rate and vowed to crack down on highway speedsters.

Later a campaign of extra patrols was announced by the State Police. In addition, Tuscola county has one of the highest fine rates for traffic infractions in the Thumb.

Tuscola county is scheduled to have eight troopers in eight cars on duty during the day Fridays, Saturdays and Sundays.

At night the troopers will double up with the eight patrolling in four cars.

The troopers will concentrate on speeders and drunk drivers. A survey, according to Lt. Z. E. Gray of the state police safety and traffic division, has shown that the most accidents occur here between 6 p.m. and 4 a.m. Friday to Saturday and Saturday to Sunday.

While the accident rate is high now in comparison to other counties, the worst may be yet to come. Studies indicate that the largest percentage of fatal accidents occur during the last six months of the year.

In the first six months of 1972 a total of 14 deaths was recorded from highway accidents.

Letter to Editor

Artrain coordinator applauds community effort and spirit

July 25, 1972

Mr. John Haire, Editor
Cass City Chronicle
Cass City, Michigan 48726

Dear John:

Artrain left Cass City Monday morning and the bustle, bustle of the week end is over, but something special remains that is rare today in much of the world—a sense of community. The response to the opportunity to share our heritage and community with anyone who wished to come was beautiful to see. The invitation to be a part of this celebration brought participation of friends from several surrounding communities in the seminars, theater, store windows, and as artists on the train.

The Artrain Committee is deeply indebted to the Chronicle for its excellent coverage over the many weeks of preparation, and we were especially pleased with the centerfold edition on Artrain that became our program at the train. Cass City is the only community to have done a program this way for an Artrain visit, and it is to be used in training sessions for future communities.

To each member of the community who became a part of the Artrain and Heritage week end, the Artrain Committee wishes to say heartfelt thanks. Without the outpouring of support and the long hours of labor on the part of the committees, there would not have been a developed site, art exhibits, seminars, delightful windows, theater, music, puppets, luncheons, the tea for Mrs. Milliken, or the Artrain visit. For a community the size of Cass City to have offered such a wide range of programs with such excellent quality is nothing short of phenomenal.

As chairman of the Artrain Committee and Heritage Week, I want to express my appreciation to everyone who shared himself in any way to make Artrain's visit meaningful. The Artrain staff found us to be a warm, open, and friendly community. They were sorry to leave. I think that is a fine tribute to all.

Artrain did accomplish for us exactly what it should. We gave the best we had to give, shared it generously, and we are better friends and neighbors, a little more knowledgeable, and we had some fun along the way.

Sincerely,

Holly Althaver
Artrain Chairman

Babe Ruthers top Bad Axe for loop title

Cass City's number one team successfully defended its Huron County Babe Ruth League championship with a 4-2 decision over Bad Axe number one Monday.

It was a close game all the way. Cass City scored two in the first and Bad Axe came on in the middle innings to tie the score.

In the sixth Cass City scored what proved to be the winning run as Jerry Toner slammed a line drive between the outfielders in right-center for a home run.

An insurance run was scored in the sixth as Dan Mellendorf chopped a double down the left field line to put runners on second and third. The run scored on an infield error two outs later.

Jeff Zink and Ed Stoutenburg singled to account for the remainder of Cass City's four hits. Toner pitched the win.

In other games Cass City defeated Uby Thursday and outlasted Cass City number two team last week, 5-1.

The Cass City game was well played. Rick Damm went the distance for the winners and allowed three hits. Joe Gruber, Bob Pena and Kurt Little connected for the losers. Joe Gruber pitched for Cass City number two and took the loss. Toner's triple was the only extra base hit.

Chuck Bliss pitched a fine game for Cass City against Uby, striking out 10. It was all over in the first inning as Dave Eberline walked and Toner hit a circuit clout for two runs.

With the regular season toga stashed away, Cass City number one will enter the play-offs today (Thursday) in a game to be played at Cass City Recreational Park.

DEFENDING CHAMPIONS - Cass City number one team won the Huron County Babe Ruth League title Monday with a clutch decision over Bad Axe number one. Methodists still undefeated in church league

There has been a shake-up in the standings of the Cass City Church League after games played last week, but the results didn't affect the Cass City Methodists who remain undefeated at the top of the league.

Kicking off the action Monday, July 17, were the Baptists and Church of Christ. The Baptists moved up in standings with a 5-0 decision behind the one-hit pitching of Gary Mellendorf. Scott Hartel led off with a single and that was all for Novesta. The Baptists collected five hits off loser Don Englehart.

FRIDAY GAMES

The Lutherans chalked up their second of three victories with a 13-4 decision over Deford Community. Nelson Willy pitched the win while Tibbits took the loss. Tom Woody, Bill Ziedler, Ken Martin and Willy collected two hits each for the winners. McKee picked up two hits for the losers.

In the late game the Catholics continued to rebound from their early season slump with a 10-7 decision over Fraser United Missionary.

MAKE-UP GAMES

Saturday two make-up games were played. In the first Owen-Gage trampled Church of Christ 10-1. D. Koch pitched the win and Englehart took the loss.

Koch struck out six and was backed by Dennis Koch with three hits and Dale Karr with two hits.

In the final game of the week the Lutherans won easily, 10-0, in five innings over Lamotte. Willy pitched a three-hit shutout. Woody with three for four and the Rev. James VanDellen with two for two were the big stickers.

The standings:

Trinity United Methodist	6	0
Owen-Gage	4	1
Catholics	5	2
Baptists	4	2
Lutherans	3	2
Church of Christ	3	3
Fraser-C.C. United Miss.	2	3

Lamotte United Miss.	1	5

LUTHERANS SNOVER-LAING

In the nightcap, Ken Martin had little trouble registering a win over Snover-Laing, 16-3. Dorman was the losing pitcher. For the Lutherans Al Romig and James Belk each slammed three hits in three tries while John Hacker hit two for three.

THURSDAY GAMES

In the opener, Shabbona-Deford edged Deford Community, 5-4, behind the pitching of Ron Nichols. Lee Hirsch took the loss.

In the nightcap, Cass City Methodists continued to roll with a 9-4 decision over Owen-Gage in a battle of unbeaten. Eldon Stoutenburg pitched the win and D. Koch was charged with the loss.

Mike Murphy slammed three hits and Toner and Lorentzen, two hits each for Cass City, while Lorenz and Barnes picked up two hits each for Owen-Gage.

Blooper Ball

tourney crown

Bay View Bar of Bay City copped the championship in the Gagetown Blooper Ball Tournament held last week end in Gagetown.

The winners received individual trophies for playing on the title team. One of the longest games in recent years was another highlight of the tourney. Gagetown and Colwood went 18 innings before Gagetown finally walked off with a 3-2 decision. The long contest was equal to 2 1/2 regular seven-inning games.

In regular competition in the Thumb Area Blooper Ball League, Jack's Bar of Cass City took Pabst, 5-2, in the early game Monday, July 17, while Duffy's topped Cass City teachers, 6-1, in the nightcap.

Wednesday, July 19, Duffy's repeated its victory over the teachers. This time the score was 14-0. In the middle game, Jack's Bar of Cass City topped Pabst, 3-1, in 11 innings. The last of the triple header Wednesday Gagetown walked all over Colwood, 15-0, to remain on top by a half game in the league race.

Physicals set for gridders

Athletic director Robert Stickle announced this week that physicals for boys intending to try-out for the Hawks' football or other athletic teams will be held Saturday at the Cass City High School gym. The examinations start at 1 p.m.

Police probe 2 thefts Monday

The theft of a $90 fan was reported Monday from in front of the Quaker Maid Dairy Store. A Greyhound bus had dropped off the package for Martin Electric Co. sometime between midnight and 6 a.m.

The theft of a car battery was also reported Monday morning when Marie Jean McCready, 2680 E. Dickerson Road, Unionville, told police the battery had been taken from her car, which was parked in the General Cable parking lot.

Arrest one for disorderly

Goldie Spencer, 41, of Cass City, was given fine and costs of $50 when she appeared before District Court Judge Richard Kern Monday on a charge of disorderly person. She was arrested Friday in Cass City.

The question: will competition make Erla's better tourney team?

Starting Saturday, Aug. 5, Erla's will find out if playing a season in a tough softball league sharpens skills for tournament play. For on that date the Foodmen will enter the State District at Port Huron. Instead of entering the fray as champions as they did for so many years when playing in Uby, Erla's will enter as just another also-ran in the Thumb Traveling League.

If the season's long play has proved anything it is that Erla's lacks pitching depth. All year long when Al Bosch was on the mound, the team was tough, as good as any other. Without Bosch the club suffered some decisive losses.

During the last week's play for instance, Erla's won three of four. The loss was to Reese Mueller, 7-1, and Dick Suhr was charged with the defeat.

Bosch pitched one of the games, whipping Mayville VFW, 6-1, while striking out 10. Bosch allowed two hits while his teammates hammered out eight hits off the slants of Briggs, Elwyn Helwig and LaRoche showed the way with two hits each.

Although Suhr has been hammered hard in some of his outings this summer, Wednesday, July 19, he was the kind of pitcher that Manager Dan Erla hoped for when he signed him at the start of the season.

Suhr limited Unionville to three hits in a 10-1 decision and struck out 15. The Foodmen's lusty hitting attack was led by Langhorne with three for three including a home run.

Thursday the two teams met again and Suhr again pitched his team to an easy victory, 10-1. This time he allowed three hits and struck out four.

His teammates scored in every inning but the second and sixth. Rollie Nicholas showed the way with five hits in five tries while Hempton and Suhr racked up three hits each in five tries. In all Erla's banged out 21 safeties.

It was a different story against Reese. The Reese nine opened the game with a hit and continued to pound Suhr until he was relieved in the fourth by Helwig. Actually the game was decided in the first inning when Reese scored twice on three hits.

Helwig with two hits showed the way for Cass City. Schenck-bier with three for three was the big stick for the winners.

People shun village primitive park area

PLENTY OF SITES

Perhaps the reason that the site never became popular is that Cass City has locations galore for parks.

In addition to the Cass City Recreational Park that was expanded several years ago and is about to be enlarged again, the village owns two other choice park sites.

The first is the land in the southeast section of the village.

It was purchased as a second park area in the village and original plans called for it to have practice ball fields and other playground equipment.

But enlargement of the "big" park has proved to be a large task and has occupied all of the attention of the village council as well as using up all of the available funds.

Another area that the village owns is the former Cass City dump.

It is generally agreed that the site at the forks of the Cass River is ideal for a picnic-park area.

A year ago Cass City discovered that it owned about 700 feet of frontage on the Cass River that it never knew it had.

Former Supt. James Blades made the discovery and it was decided to turn the land into a primitive park area.

The land which runs west from the railroad bridge on the main stream of the Cass, a mile south of Cass City, was used as a project for the Neighborhood Youth Corps workers. Underbrush was cleared and fallen trees removed.

Despite the ambitious plans the primitive park concept never caught on. Today the underbrush is back and new trees have fallen and the area looks much like it did before the project started.

Outside of fishermen who regularly roam this area and the rest of the Cass River, the land has not been significantly used, said Nelson Willy, waste control engineer for the village, from his plant overlooking the 700-foot area.
