

FROM THE Editor's Corner

I'm all for togetherness in married life but I draw the line on sleeping together.

I was reacquainted with the horrors of trying to sleep with a bedmate again recently when my wife went on an orgy and had half the rooms in the house painted again, including my bedroom.

I don't know what kind of paint that is but the smell lingers and lingers. Everyone says that it's weaker now than it was a week ago, but I don't believe it.

I may never be able to get back to the comfort of my bed with the firm mattress again. (The rest of the family says it's like sleeping on the floor. My 12-year-old says it's fine... he could sleep on a bed of nails.)

But back to the fairy tale under discussion... two can sleep together better than one alone.

I tried that supposedly idyllic one-bed-for-two routine when I first married and I found that it was the best of all ways to wake up in the morning with an aching back and kick bruises from the waist down.

The proper way to sleep is to jump into a double bed and make yourself comfortable by lying diagonally across it.

Then there is the matter of covers. When circumstances beyond my control intervene and there is no way I can contrive a bed to myself my standard operating procedure is to huddle up to one side and trust my partner to do the same. (On their own side, please.)

With full cooperation that's not too bad. You can manage tolerably well except... except that there is always a valley in the middle and the cool air comes charging down. If your backbone were a thermometer it would always register a solid 32 degrees after about an hour of this.

That air starts the fight for the covers. She pulls and I yank and it's a battle for survival.

Who's going to give in? Who's headed for the miserable couch in the family room first?

I was about to tell you what's wrong with that couch but this column can't be that long and this is a family newspaper.

Let me point out it's a wonderful place to see the sun come streaming in the sliding glass doors in the morning, the very early morning. Since they painted my room I've been to work early every day.

And when I get up early I go to bed early. Since I've moved into the family room the kids are eyeing their bank accounts to see if they can scrape up enough to buy good old dad a room in a motel.

They started thinking of this when I pointedly ignored the can of room deodorant that I found beside the morning paper at the breakfast table and was unable to hear when they told of the joys of sleeping two-to-a-bed.

Probate youth apprehended stealing gasoline

A 16-year-old Cass City youth has been remanded to probate court after he was caught red-handed stealing gasoline from a tank belonging to Schneberger furniture Wednesday, Aug. 16.

The youth was apprehended while two buddies escaped capture. The gasoline tank is located on W. Pine Street near the elevator.

A burglary was reported Tuesday evening by Mrs. William Race, 4407 West St., Cass City. Police are investigating the theft of a tape player and some tapes, an electric drill, a radio, two power saws, an automobile battery and parts and an electric light.

No signs of entry were visible, Police Chief Gene Wilson said. The theft is believed to have taken place sometime within the past two weeks.

Terry Pinkoski of the Walnut Trailer Park reported to authorities that while he was driving through the Deford area Saturday, some kids threw corn at his car, breaking the windshield.

Ask Red Cross for blood bank

Another attempt to get a Red Cross Blood Bank in Tuscola county is underway.

Petitions have been sent to the Flint Area Red Cross Blood Bank asking that they supply the two county hospitals, Caro Community and Hill and Dales General, with blood effective Sept. 1.

Hills and Dales Administrator Byron Landholt said a meeting was held recently among members of the board of directors of both hospitals and representatives of the Flint Blood Bank.

This petition is expected to be denied or granted sometime this month, Landholt said. If granted, both hospitals would be able to be supplied with Red Cross blood for their patients. Landholt said this would be a step towards getting a blood bank in the county.

There are several factors standing in the way of getting a full program going in this county, the only one in the Thumb that is not participating in the Red Cross Blood Bank Program.

One of these is the lack of an active, functioning Red Cross board, said Landholt. The president of the board, George Fry, left. Vice-Chairman Gordon Glazier had been acting as chairman but has resigned the position.

A local Red Cross Chapter is necessary to administer the program on the county level, said Landholt.

Another factor stopping a blood bank here is money. Landholt estimated about $4-$5,000 would be needed to support the blood program in Tuscola county. To carry on all Red Cross programs would cost about $12-$15,000 a year, he said.

That would be about $1 per family per year.

Despite the lack of an active local Red Cross Chapter, the two hospitals are trying to get the blood program started.

"What we're trying to do is get the ball rolling. We're hoping some of these things will happen simultaneously," Landholt explained. What the results of the petitioning will be he does not know.

The advantage of having the Red Cross Blood Program in this county are many, explained Landholt.

First, Red Cross blood is free. The patient pays only for the administration of the blood, which is about $12.50. A pint of blood costs about $25.

Now the hospital buys blood from a bank in Bay City, and passes that cost to the patient.

Besides the cost, Landholt said the Bay City supply is not adequate to meet needs. Hills and Dales uses about 72 units of blood a year.

Second, blood can be kept in circulation during its 21-day use period. Now if blood is bought from Bay City, the hospital must use it before the expiration date. If not it is thrown out. The Red Cross also uses blood that has gone out of date by breaking it down and processing it into serums or other medicines.

The third big advantage is that if a resident of a county covered under the Red Cross Blood Bank program needs blood anywhere in the world, he can get it free. Patients at Hills and Dales from Huron or Sanilac counties get blood free now, while Tuscola county residents must pay for it.

Sheriff's office confiscates marijuana garden of 164 plants near Caro

Tuscola county sheriff's deputies uprooted 164 marijuana plants Wednesday, Aug. 16, after finding them growing at a rural Caro home by accident.

An officer arrived at a residence on Forks Road, Caro, in Ellington township, to serve a court paper. Driving down the driveway he noticed what appeared to be marijuana plants. He saw more of them when he knocked on the back door, and some more by the barn.

No one was home so the officer left, the report stated, and obtained a search warrant.

Upon return, the warrant was taped to the building's door because no one was home yet, and the officers proceeded to uproot the plants and transport them back to the county jail.

Marijuana plants were also found in the vegetable garden, the report stated.

Search underway for mammoth

By Kit McMillion

An archaeological excavation for a mammoth skeleton is underway in a field north of New Greenleaf.

The dig has barely begun, but supervisor Don Weston is confident the remains of the prehistoric beast will be found. A molar plate, fragments of ivory tusk and parts of a rib have been uncovered already.

"They're in really good shape," he stated enthusiastically.

The area being excavated is several hundred feet in diameter and encompasses what was a peat bog thousands of years ago.

Because they haven't found anything big and because of the tremendous difficulty handling workers and crowds, Weston declined to reveal the exact location of the dig at this time. Last year at the Deckerly mastodon dig, approximately 1800 persons visited the site, creating confusion and hampering work efforts. As soon as a substantial portion of the mammoth is uncovered, however, Weston said the area would be cordoned off for observers.

Weston supervised the mastodon dig also, and is a student at Michigan State University where he is completing work on a degree in archaeology.

The first indication of skeleton remains was made last fall when a tooth was discovered by chance. Tile was being laid in the field and the molar was dug up and mingled with rocks.

The farmer took the fossil to Michigan State University where it was identified as a mammoth molar.

The mammoth is an ancestor of the modern elephant that became extinct about 8000 years ago. The animal measured about 14 feet at the shoulder. Its back sloped downward from a large topknot on its head, believed to be large sinuses and fat deposits. Unlike the modern elephant, it had rather small ears and was very hairy. Long, curved tusks were also characteristic of the beast.

Unlike its relative, the mastodon which ate twigs, the mammoth grazed on grasses and is believed to have died out after the glacial ice covering this part of the world began to melt. His body specialized for a very cold climate, the mammoth was unable to adapt rapidly enough when the climate changed. The mammals also probably wandered into bogs where they became mired and died or were driven into them and killed by men for food.

One of the interesting preliminary finds at the dig site is bits of black stuff Weston identified as charcoal.

"What we'd like to find is an association with man," Weston said, such as butchering. If any artifacts are found, it would be the first time this has been discovered in Michigan. At a previous dig in Michigan, marks were found on bones that appeared to have been made by a sharp instrument, but no tools were discovered.

The search for the mammoth skeleton is painstaking. Before digging even began, the area was mapped out into a grid of 2 meter square areas, so each item found can be identified as to location.

Test pits are being sunk in various spots in the bog depression to try to find the best area for extensive excavation.

Two preliminary pits were sunk last fall, but even before that, Weston said, he covered the area on his hands and knees marking with little red flags any place where a fragment of bone was found on the surface.

When completed, the flags formed a pattern which guided him in choosing test pit sites.

These test pits are 5 feet square. The first layer of dirt, called the plow zone, is removed with a shovel. Anything that might be in it has already been disturbed as a result of crop farming, Weston explained.

The next zone is the fertile area for fossil remains. Several fragments of wood and a stick about 1 1/2 inches in diameter and a foot long have been discovered in this region.

Weston said he believes the wood is spruce.

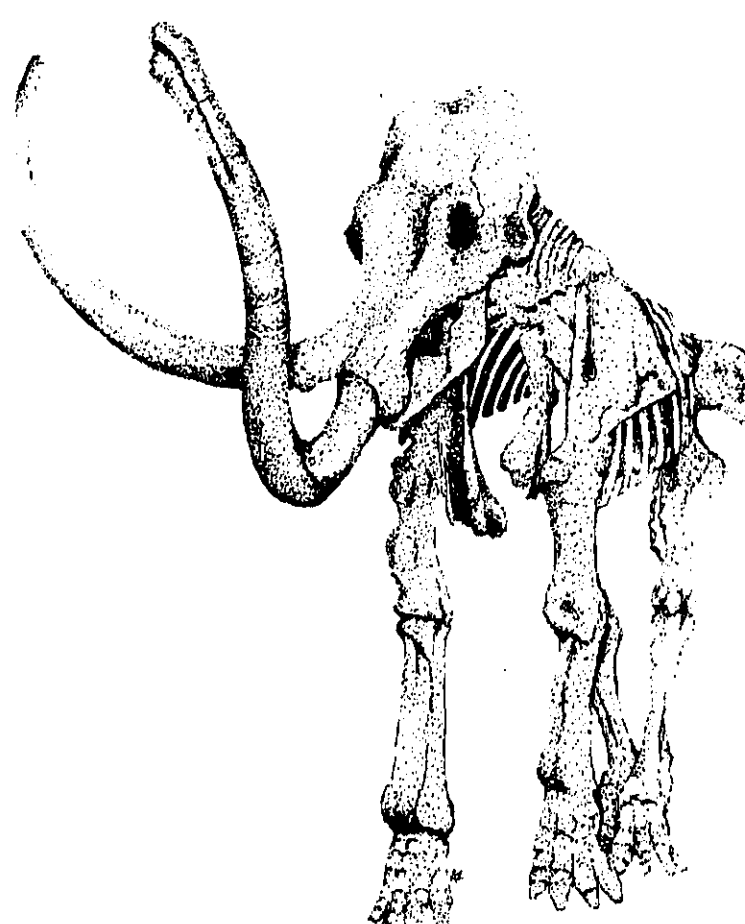

If spruce turns out to be the dominant type, that is the right time level, the archaeologist explained.

This layer, a darker gray than the brown top soil, is carefully removed by a hand trowel, a slow, time-consuming process. The dirt is removed systematically and placed in a shaker with a 1/4 inch screen for sifting.

Dirt is removed until the hard pan is reached. This is the very hard glacial till that was left when the glacier receded about 12,000 years ago.

The archaeological project is being financed by state funds in cooperation with the Department of Natural Resources. Anything found at the site will be donated to the Sanilac Petroglyphs State Park in Greenleaf township where a diorama or display will be erected.

Weston said the dig began a little behind schedule due to heavy rains in early August. He added he hopes the skeleton will be uncovered before he returns to college soon.

Approve pool bond issue

Voters approved the swimming pool bonding issue Tuesday by a vote of 214 yes to 53 no, and three spoiled ballots.

A total of 270 voters showed up at the polls, numbering about 34 per cent of 794 total registered voters.

Now that the $113,000 issue has been approved, the next step is waiting for federal and state approval of the swimming pool plans and the funds to pay for half the cost, estimated at $224,000.

Dr. D. E. Rawson, chairman of the parks and recreation committee, said the applications take at least three months, and ours was submitted in June.

Meanwhile, the village and architects will finish up all paper work on the plans. Bids will be advertised as soon as the matching funds are received.

If approval is received soon, construction could begin yet this fall, allowing some of the bath house to be erected so work could continue through the winter.

If not, construction will begin in the spring, and the pool would probably be completed later into the summer, Rawson said.

Several hurt in car mishaps

Several area persons were hospitalized with injuries sustained in automobile accidents during the past week. The county's 21st fatality was also recorded Tuesday when a Birch Run man was killed in a one-car crash. A total of 21 traffic deaths was recorded in 1971.

Noreen Catherine Helwig, 21, Cass City, was hospitalized at Hills and Dales Hospital with injuries sustained Friday morning when she lost control of her car while traveling east on M-81.

She was driving in a heavy fog when another car pulled out in front of her near Crane Road at 6:45. She applied the breaks on the wet pavement, lost control and landed in a ditch.

Two 17-year-old girls were hospitalized in Caro Community Hospital Wednesday, Aug. 16, following a two-car accident at the intersection of M-46 and M-24.

Jacqueline Marie Weber, Silvernail Road, Deford, driver, and Nancy Bragg, Phillips Road, Kingston, were injured when their vehicle struck a car driven by William Patrick Dow, 16, 9629 Kelch Road, Mayville, who escaped injury.

Passengers in the Dow car were Deloris Jean Dow, 36, who received minor injuries, and Lowren Gene Dow, 14, who was uninjured.

The accident happened at 9:50 a.m. According to Tuscola county sheriff's reports, Dow was southbound on M-24, and the Weber car was westbound on M-46.

Kenneth Lee Sanderson, 39, 6250 W. Bell Road, Birch Run, died at 2 a.m. Tuesday when he lost control of his car on the Frankenmuth Road near Truax Road after failing to make a curve. His car went into a ditch, traveling 120 feet, and rolled over three times.

Minor injuries were sustained in several other area accidents. Linda A. Warner, 26, a passenger in a car operated by her husband, Bruce Rug Warner, 26, E. Huron Line Road, Gagetown, was treated for minor injuries at Hills and Dales Hospital Saturday after their car was hit in the rear by one driven by Harry William Putman, 34, 232 Lynn St., Vassar.

Passengers in the Putman vehicle were Mary Remalia, 38, 520 S. Almer St., Caro, and Sharon M. Warner, baby daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Warner. They all were uninjured.

The accident happened at 7:23 p.m. at the intersection of Hurds Corner and Cass City Roads.

The Warner vehicle was stopped on Hurds Corner Road when the Putman car failed to see him and struck him from behind. Putman was cited for failure to stop in assured clear distance ahead.

Robert Daniel Torres, 18, 6307 N. Dodge Road, Cass City, received minor injuries Saturday when a front tire of his car blew out as he was westbound on M-81, and the car rolled on its side. The mishap occurred at 8:10 p.m. 1/2 mile west of Akron Road.

In another accident Saturday, injury was avoided when Gary Glenn Forster, 16, 6929 Schwegler Road, Cass City, was involved.

County millage raises more money

In a routine meeting Tuesday the Tuscola County Board of Commissioners set the county millage rate at 4.2 mills per $1000 State Equalized Valuation.

This is a formal procedure to put the act on the records so the assessment rolls can be spread. The county millage is frozen at 4.2.

The assessment, however, shows an increase of about 8.8 per cent or $70,575 due to the increase of the valuation of the county from $191,237,273 in 1971 to $208,043,161 in 1972.

The county's share will be $873,781.

The special tax of one mill for bridges was also continued. This will raise $208,043, an increase of $16,806.

In other action, the board authorized the transfer of $59,035.82 to the road commission to pay for bridge work completed in the past month, and authorized the lease of the county farm for $1800 a year, the same amount as last year.

Mrs. Phillip J Nichols

Kathy Lynn Mark and Philip J. Nichols were united in marriage Sunday, Aug. 6, at a 2 p.m. ceremony at the Salem United Methodist Church.

The Rev. Ira Wood officiated. Dale Bullock sang "The Lord's Prayer" and "Somewhere." Carol Parrott was organist. The church was decorated with palms and white gladioli.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Mark, 6353 Wilkie Road, Cass City. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Harold Nichols, 5340 Argyle Road, Decker.

The bride approached the altar wearing a gown of ivory silk organza, featuring an Empire waistline and leg-o-mutton sleeves. Cluny lace trimmed the ruffled neckline, bodice, sleeves, and ruffles of the flounce hemline, which swept into a chapel length train. A band of organza secured her waistline and formed a bow in the back.

Completing her attire was an ivory garden hat, accented with garden daisies and silk illusion veiling. She carried a Parisian bouquet of white carnations, white daisies, baby's breath and purple statice.

"If It Fitz . . ."

Cats are for testing

BY JIM FITZGERALD

Dear Ann Landers:

Boy, now you've really done it. The headline on your column the other day said: "People Who Don't Like Cats Can't Be Trusted."

Geez, Ann. Have you ever bit your toast and discovered a hunk of newspaper between the butter and the bread? (Your picture looks better greasy.) Have you ever driven to work hunched over, so you can see below the newspaper column pasted to your windshield?

So I got the message. Some clown in Tucson wrote you such incredible things as: "People who don't like cats are invariably mean, vicious and underhanded. . . I have never met a cat hater who wasn't a scoundrel."

And this: "We can learn much from these scrupulously clean, unfailingly dignified creatures. The ancient Egypt-tians were the wisest of all. Anyone who hated a cat was put to death."

Such rot. Cats are good for nothing, Ann, except testing legends. One legend is that cats always land on their feet. The only way to test this is to take a cat to a roof and throw it off.

Another legend is that cats have 9 lives. This should be tested whenever the opportunity presents itself, especially on highways. The thing to do is carve an X on a cat you think is dead. If you see X sneaking around again the next day, you know it needs at least one more test, maybe eight.

The thing that gets me most about cats, Ann, is they are so dumb. There have been 2 cats living in our house for over 2 years. They know I hate them because I'm always testing them. But still those stupid cats will jump on my lap when I am reading or snoozing. This disturbs me no end, and I always heave the cats at the farthest wall. You'd think they'd learn to steer clear of me. But not those dumbos. The next day they'll land on me again, and I'll heave 'em again.

Only houseflies are as dumb as cats.

The Tucson clown said cats are "unfailingly dignified." Wow, Ann. Cats flop around the house all day and lick themselves in unlikely spots. This is dignified?

The clown also says cat haters are vicious and underhanded. Yes, but only when we are crossed by cats, and then not always. I sometimes throw small cats overboard.

It is just as easy to generalize about cat lovers, Ann. They are always people who love Doris Day, go to bed early, and talk baby-talk to everyone under 15 years old. Cat lovers can also be identified by the terrible smell of 1 room in their homes. The door can't be shut. This is the cat's bathroom.

You are probably puzzled, Ann. If I hate cats so much, why do I allow 2 of them to live under my dinner table? It's the same old answer: If I don't do as I'm told, my wife won't let me be boss of the house anymore.

Besides, we were introduced by an archeologist who said he dug her. I'm sure I married an ancient Egyptian.

—Onward and Upward.

Rabbit tracks

By John Haire

(And anyone else he can get to help)

The New York Times headlines its goof under a "correction" head while the Louisville Courier-Journal says "beg your pardon".

I'll just say that I was wrong last week when the Chronicle reported that new Deford Principal Dave Lovejoy received a "some $4,000 boost" over teachers' wages.

The correct figure is closer to $3,000. That's because the schedule for the Deford post was cut from $13,345 previously announced to $12,000 when Lovejoy was hired. The salary was decided in an executive session and I'm sure made part of the regular minutes when Lovejoy was formally hired.

Not everyone is cussing that rain that poured down Monday night. Dick Root and the rest of the Elkland Township Firemen are grinning from ear to ear.

That's because it came just after new sod was placed at the Elkland Township Fire Hall.

The sod looks great and the firemen not only spent several nights getting the ground ready but hauled the stuff direct from the field. The sod is seconds and the firemen fetched 5,000 yards at a bargain cost of 10 cents a yard.

Quick now, what's the last thing you would expect to find in an empty building on Main Street in Cass City?

Give up, you'll never guess. It's a Democratic headquarters. That's right, Democratic. In this land of the GOP that's almost like the Black Panthers opening in Mobile, Alabama.

Almost, I said. Anyway there's a large group of men promoting Sen. George McGovern for president. Two of them that have already collared me are Fred Leeson and Rick Erla.

It will be hard to sell this to the residents of Uby and certainly the employees affected won't buy it, but the closing of the Nestle Company Oct. 20 may not be as tragic for the community at large as it appears at first glance.

Nestles is down to about 15 workers now, a far cry from the 85 hired when this type of operation boomed.

The same situation occurred over 15 years ago (if memory serves) in Cass City. Nestles closed.

When it did Cass City awoke, started promoting and the result was several new industries and employment that was, and is, making the community go.

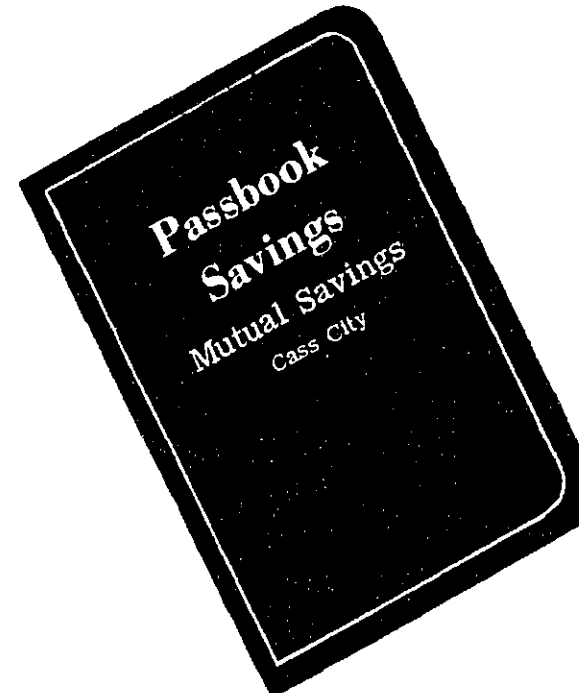

Teen Ranch in Kingston is turning into a favorite Cass City charity. A year ago Mrs. Lucile Bauer started the ball rolling when she conducted a campaign that raised several thousand dollars for equipment.

This year she is arranging for cards to be distributed that should bring in more needed funds.

Last Saturday an ox-roast was held under the direction of Lorn Hillaker at the White Creek Club with all proceeds going to help the ranch.

Incidentally, if you want to see what your money buys, authorities at the Ranch will be happy to show you around.

Marine insurance is a bad name for marine insurance. At least, we think it is! If you're like most boat owners, your sailing, cruising or fishing is generally confined to weekends. In fact, most of the time, your boat isn't even in the water—it's in "storage" somewhere! That's why you need more than marine insurance. We'll cover your boat in the water and out, and anywhere in between. You can insure your boat and trailer as easily as an automobile. Want to reduce the cost of your present insurance? ### 4-H ACTIVITIES

Youth host sugar beet tour

By Bernard Jardot

Once again the Tuscola county youth hosted the annual 4-H and FFA youth project tour Aug. 15. There were some 60 youth, their parents and 4-H leaders, and several friends of 4-H.

There were also representatives of the Michigan Sugar Company and the Caro Sugar Beet Growers Association. It is these good friends of 4-H along with the parents and leaders who make our youth sugar beet program such a success. The youth who hosted this year's tour were: Bernard Bauer, Reese FFA chapter; Ronald and Michelle Bierlein of Beetniks 4-H club, and Sandra and Pamela Bernreuter of the Beetniks 4-H club.

Also, a stop was made at the Beetniks 4-H leader's farm, LeRoy Schluckebier, who discussed planter problems and showed the group some replanted fields.

Uncle Tim From Tyre Says:

Dear Mister Editor:

Sometime it looks like the framework of America is coming unglued and they ain't nothing we can do to put it together agin. That was the feeling I got, Mister Editor, after listening to the fellers at the country store Saturday night. I am convinced that what this country needs is somebody to figure out what this country needs, cause we can't come up with the answers the way we're going.

Per instant, Ed Doolittle reported where the federal government is studying how to provide national health insurance that would cost ever family $1,000 a year. This plan would give the family the same benefits they can get now from private companies for $400 a year. Ed said a feller that can see the benefits in that probable can see why, after 200 years as a public service, the post office now is supposed to be a profit-making outfit.

There don't seem to be no solid ground anymore, went on Ed. He said laws that has been on the books in this country for 100 year sudden ain't fit to use. Ed said he was full agreed with the senator that said most of the rulings handed down by the courts in this country is "perfecting the wolf from Little Red Riding Hood." The idea of right and wrong ain't changing, declared Ed, but the courts is. The rights of the criminals now is give more guarantees than the rights of the victims, was Ed's words.

Bug Hookum recalled the discussion the other week about airplanes hijacking, and he said it had been on his mind. He said he first figgered the remedy was to have everybody gonked on the planes, but, like Ed said, that would be taking away everybody's right to wear clothes. Bug said the best deal would be to have two hijackers on the same plane wanting to go to different places, then they could shoot one another.

Zeke Grubb's preacher stopped by the store, and he said he was agreed with Ed that what folks don't expect the Government to give em they try to gouge out of each other. He said he had been trying to get two Sunday school rooms built on the church, and he could see how brickmasons and plumbers is making $60,000 a year just in overtime, like he saw in this magazine piece. The preacher said he ain't accusing nobody of shoddy work, but he said this feller in his church had a new house, and he was putting the cat in the basement at night and letting her out of the attic in the morning.

Personal, Mister Editor, I find it hard to find hope, but it's still there. I see where this college student took a shower for 169 hours to set a new record, so I know there's at least one clean youngun left. And this feller in Illinois that runs a railroad with 20 miles of track gives me hope. He says he ain't as long as the Santa Fe, but he's jest as wide.

Yours truly,
Uncle Tim

Seek spiders for MSU survey

Lend a hand in a Michigan State University entomologist's "spider hunt", urges Bill Bortel, Tuscola county extension agent.

By bringing spider specimens to the county Cooperative Extension office, you'll help Dr. Richard J. Sauer conduct an extensive one-year survey of Michigan spiders.

The entomologist will use survey data to prepare a spider identification booklet for use by public health officials, pest control operators, medical doctors and extension agents.

The survey also may detect any poisonous spiders in the state. The Northern Widow is the only poisonous spider known to inhabit Michigan. Collected specimens will be used in planning control of dangerous spiders and in developing better spider bite treatment.

Capture the spider in a jar or kill it with a few drops of rubbing alcohol. The agent will send the specimen in a vial to Dr. Sauer, along with a data sheet explaining the kind of building where the spider was found, location within the building and whether the spider was in or near a web.

Immediately report any suspected spider bites to your doctor, and capture the culprit spider for identification by MSU entomologists, the agent advises.

Dr. Sauer concludes his survey April 1, 1973.

AGENT'S CORNER

Pressure can low-acid tomatoes

Judy Marks — Extension Agent

So you canned low-acid tomatoes last year and they didn't keep! Don't blame the tomatoes. Try them again - this time can them under pressure.

Low-acid tomatoes must be canned under pressure like any other low-acid vegetable. The hot water bath method will not work.

Want some canned low-acid tomatoes that will keep? You do! Then hot pack the tomatoes and process them in a pressure canner.

To hot pack, peel and quarter the tomatoes and bring them to a boil. Stir to keep them from sticking. Pack them boiling hot into jars to within one-half inch of the top. Add one-half teaspoon salt to pint jars, one teaspoon to quarts.

Adjust the jar lids and process the jars in a pressure canner at five pounds pressure. Process pints for 10 minutes, quarts for 15 minutes.

Cool and store them as you would any other home-canned vegetable.

Workers 20%
machine labor
in Sanilac

Twenty percent of Sanilac county's labor force is involved in operating some type of machine according to the 1970 census data making the operation trade, the largest employment area. 11,699 workers made up the employed labor force in the county according to the census. Statewide, the operatives is also the largest singular employer with 17.5 per cent of the State's laborers operating a machine other than transport equipment.

The second highest occupational employment area is craftsmen and foremen which constitute 16.6 per cent of Sanilac's labor force. Statewide the figure is 15.4 per cent.

As expected, farming provides employment for a large number of workers in Sanilac county where 15.7 per cent of the residents listed farming as their occupation. But comparing the farming occupation statewide, that only 1.5 per cent of the state's labor force is so engaged.

Clerical occupations accounted for 10.6 per cent of the county's employed labor force. Statewide, the figure is much higher for clerical occupations, in fact the occupation provides the second highest area of employment with 16.9 per cent of the state's jobs relating to the area.

In descending order the following occupations make up the remaining county labor force. Service workers, 9.0 per cent. Professional and Technical workers 7.3 per cent. Managers and Administrators 5.6 per cent. Transport equipment operatives 5.5 per cent. Sales workers 4.6 per cent and private household workers 1.3 per cent.

BETTER HEALTH

Childless couples can find help

BY DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

I recently received a letter from a woman who very much wants to have a child, but after ten years of marriage, she has not had any success in becoming pregnant. Now she wonders where they can turn for help.

The first thing to do is to check both partners, to see if they are "fertile." The husband must have his semen checked to see if it contains sperm (the microscopic cells that are necessary for the impregnation of the woman). A normal fertile man produces two to five hundred million sperm with each ejaculation. The doctor will want to see how many sperm the man has, and how many of these sperm are alive and healthy. To do this, the doctor will examine the semen with a microscope. If he counts less than sixty million sperm per cubic centimeter of fluid, the man's fertility is low. If there are less than ten million, there is very little hope that the man can produce a child. This is surprising, considering that it only takes one sperm, uniting with one ovum, or egg, to conceive a child. Scientists have no explanation for why there must be at least ten million sperm per cc.

If the man is producing no sperm at all, this could be due to the fact that the testicles are not manufacturing them, or that there is something wrong with the passageway through which they travel from the testicles. There is no possibility of a man without semen producing a baby. If the man has some sperm, but they are low in quantity or quality, the doctor may suggest that the man try to improve his general health. He may suggest that the husband and wife cut down on the frequency of intercourse, so that the man's sperm can accumulate for awhile.

If the man's semen is found to be normal, the woman must be examined to see if she has any signs of disease in her pituitary glands or ovaries. Then she must have her womb examined and perhaps have her two fallopian tubes (that run from the top of the womb to the ovaries) checked. An X-ray test can show whether these tubes are open. If the woman is ever to have a baby, they must be open.

The doctor will also want to know if her general health is good, or whether she may have a low-grade infection somewhere in her body that can interfere with the woman's ability to become pregnant. The doctor will also examine the chemical make-up of the secretions of the vagina.

If no serious disease can be found either in the woman or the man, the doctor may give the woman a drug called CLOMIPHENE. Dr. A. H. MacGregor and his associates treated some 4,000 women with the drug, and 31 per cent became pregnant. One peculiar action of the drug is to make multiple births, usually twins, in about 10 per cent of the pregnancies. Also, there are some other side effects that are not pleasant, such as hot flashes, loss of hair and some temporary visual disturbances. If these appear, the use of the drug must be stopped.

There are a number of fertility clinics and private physicians specializing in the problems of fertility. Interested persons can write the Planned Parenthood Federation of America, 501 Madison Ave., New York, N. Y. 10022.

There is also an excellent pamphlet, "Why Can't You Have a Baby?" prepared by the Public Affairs Pamphlets, 381 Park Ave. South, New York, N. Y. 10016. The pamphlet is No. 309, and costs 25 cents.

WHAT IS LIPEMIA?

Lipemia is fat in the blood. The root LIPO refers to fat, and -EMIA refers to blood. Today, the amount of such fat is often measured, and an unusually large amount is looked on with disapproval, much as we doctors look on an excess of cholesterol with disapproval. When a physician wishes to lower the amount of fat in the blood, he may have to try the effect of two or three diets because patients can react differently to diets.

What are the common defects of the eyes? How serious is glaucoma, seeing double, blood-shot eyes? Dr. Alvarez answers these and many other questions in his 30-page booklet "How to Safeguard Your Vision." For your booklet simply send 25 cents and a self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request to Dr. Walter C. Alvarez, Dept. CCC, Box 957, Des Moines, Iowa 50304.

Letter to Editor

Scout leader urges mothers to help

Dear Editor
Cass City Chronicle

Dear Mothers - School is nearly upon us and with it the beginning of another year of scouting - where are our leaders? Last week in the Chronicle a liner was issued asking for volunteers to lead the Brownies and Girl Scouts - there hasn't exactly been a stampede. We feed, clothe and attempt to nourish our children religiously. Scouting is a function to help build character and make better citizens of our children. You say you're working, too busy or simply not qualified to lead a troop. We are all busy with one thing or another, and yes many of us work, but as for qualifications - if you're qualified enough to be a parent this is sufficient to be a leader. Perhaps you could help on a co-op basis. If you care enough to keep scouting in your community you will be able to work leadership into your schedule.

In the past Cass City has had outstanding leadership and put out some very decent people from it. (This also stands for boy scouting) What's wrong with our younger parents now?

I led a Brownie Troop of 20 delightful little girls last year and the personal fulfillment was more than could be put down on paper. Sure it was hectic, and by far a real work out, but to see the eyes of those little girls as they recited the pledge, completed a project or sat thru an ice show made it all most worth while. I guess we made a party out of every known holiday and if we ran out of special events we'd have a "Happy to be Alive" party. We sure had fun.

This year after recently moving, besides also working out and many other extra commitments I felt I wouldn't be able to continue leading. Yes, I bowed out, until my own daughter asked if I was too busy for her and the other children. That comment hit hard, and let's face it, our first commitment is to our children. With that I'll be right in there another year and maybe somewhere out there more of you will stand up and volunteer, please, for our little girls.

5 proposals face voters in November election

The participatory democracy concept is having one of its brightest moments in Michigan this year.

Michigan voters, in addition to all the usual offices they vote for, have petitioned four different proposals onto the November ballot for a final decision by the electorate. Each one is an attempt to do something the Legislature could not reach agreement on or an attempt to override the Legislature.

The four proposal vote becomes even more fascinating when it is known that less than one-third of the states even allow their citizenry access to the ballot through the petition route.

Most recent arrivals to the ballot are two proposals contained in a joint petition drive launched by Gov. William G. Milliken and the Michigan Education Association (MEA).

The first of these would virtually wipe out the property tax as a means of financing schools. The second would allow the Legislature to levy a graduated state income tax rather than the flat rate tax it now levies on personal income.

The joint petition drive was launched following the failure of efforts to achieve some sort of legislative agreement on property tax relief. Milliken has been working since 1969 to find some sort of program which both Republicans and Democrats could buy, but to no avail. He finally decided to go over the Legislature to the people to see if they would approve his program. The Governor calls the proposal for property tax relief "the single most important statewide issue for Michigan voters and taxpayers in November—a means of assuring quality and equality in the education of our children."

Probably the most controversial item is abortion law reform which also was put on the ballot through the petition route.

The proposal would give Michigan one of the most liberal abortion laws in the country. It would permit a woman to have an abortion for any reason during the first 20 weeks of her pregnancy. Current Michigan law allows an abortion only to save the life of the mother.

The abortion petition drive also began as the result of legislative inaction and stalemate. An abortion liberalization bill passed the Senate in early 1971, but never got anywhere in the House, due mainly to the fervent opposition of House Speaker William Ryan, D-Detroit.

When it became obvious the House would never approve an abortion bill, the petition drive was launched.

The final item petitioned onto the ballot by the people deals with the question of daylight-saving time (DST). It is the latest step in a series of actions which have been taken in Michigan on a sometimes controversial issue.

Michigan, along with three other states, originally exempted itself from the uniform time law passed by Congress which calls for observance of DST unless the state specifically exempts itself. The exemption, originally voted by the Legislature, was upheld in a 1968 statewide vote by a margin of less than 500 votes.

Backers of DST soon went the petition route again and were able to put together the signatures needed to put the issue on the ballot once more.

In addition to the four petition proposals, one proposal from the Legislature will be on the ballot. That calls for a $266 million bonding program to finance a combination bond-educational aid program for Michigan's Vietnam Era veterans.

The veteran's proposal was put on the ballot by the Legislature when sudden agreement was reached on it in both houses late in June.

Along with the issues which made the ballot were three which made a try but couldn't get the signatures they needed.

The most far-reaching of these would have given Michigan a one-house Legislature rather than its current two-house setup.

The drive was launched in 1971 and appeared for a while as if it might really take off, especially when the Legislature dawdled through the summer of 1971 without accomplishing much on the budget. But it never was able to develop the money or the organization it needed, due in part to the fact no pressure group working with the current Legislature wanted to be identified with a drive which would cut a lot of legislators out of jobs.

A proposal to legalize possession of marijuana died on the vine, too. Backers of the drive made a late start and also lacked the organization and money needed to collect the 200,000 or 300,000 signatures needed to put a proposal on the ballot.

The final issue not on the ballot was a drive to give the people, rather than a state commission, the power to set legislative salaries. People behind the drive felt Michigan legislators are overpaid for the work they turn in.

AROUND THE FARM

Seed new lawns now

by William Bortel

The best time to establish a new lawn in Michigan and Tuscola county is Aug. 15 to Sept. 1. The following lawn establishment steps are recommended:

1. Test the soil for fertilizer and lime requirements. We have information on where soil testing services are available at the Extension Office in Caro.

2. Till the soil and prepare the final contour. Do a good job now, since corrections are difficult to make after the grass has been established.

3. Remove stones and other debris.

4. Apply fertilizer according to recommendations based on the soil test. Work into the upper two or three inches of a seedbed. A general recommendation of two pounds of nitrogen, two pounds of phosphoric acid and two pounds of potash per 1,000 square feet is adequate for many new lawns. This is equivalent to 20 pounds of 10-10-10 or 10 pounds of 20-20-20.

5. Prepare final seedbed by raking smooth, then rolling.

6. Seed. Divide the seed into two equal amounts and apply in opposite directions across the area to insure uniform applications.

7. Rake seed lightly into the upper one-quarter inch of the seedbed. Don't "bury" the seed.

8. Mulch with straw to insure seed germination and establishment. Use 75 to 100 pounds per 1,000 square feet.

9. Roll again to firm the seedbed and hold the straw in place.

10. Keep watered for three weeks. This last step is probably the most important of all. Irrigate at least once a day, preferably at noon. If a mulch is not applied, you may need to water more often to keep the soil surface moist.

When the grass is approximately one to one and one-half inches high, remove half of the straw mulch. When the grass reaches a height of two inches

GET UP...
AND GO

Does the alarm clock get you up? No, it merely tells you it's time to get up. Whether you get out of bed is a matter of discipline.

Church bells don't bring anyone to church. They simply remind Christians where we ought to be on a Sunday morning. The rest is a matter of discipline.

Such discipline, whether it calls you to work or to worship, is fundamentally a trait of your own character. It begins with earnestness, it is strengthened by habit, it is directed toward any responsibility or opportunity which you value.

The value a person puts upon God and his own soul usually determines whether he worships each Sunday, or now and then. Put another way: the man who knows what worship and inspiration can mean in his life never is hesitant to get up and go.

And, of course, discipline has special meaning for a Christian: those who lived and worked with Christ were DISCIPLES.

THIS PAINTING of President Richard Nixon and his daughter Julie will be sent to the White House soon. The artist, Raymond Finley of rural Kingston, painted the portrait from a magazine photograph.

Kingston artist sends portraits to White House

A picture of President Nixon and his daughter Julie painted by a Kingston man has been accepted for display in the White House.

Raymond Finley painted the portraits using a magazine photograph as a guide. An untrained artist, Finley has been painting for about 2 years. "I was really surprised when they accepted it," he said. His wife called the White House a week ago Sunday to ask if some photographs taken by the U. S. Information Agency photo reporter during Artrain were available.

A tape recording told her to call back the next day, which she did. One thing led to another and pretty soon the Finleys had been told to send the painting.

"That way I figured somebody would see it," related Finley.

Only 42, he has been unable to work for the past few years. In 1957 Finley suffered a heart attack, which slowed him up, and another one in 1965 caused him to be permanently disabled.

A carpenter for 14 years, he now supports his wife and 12 children ranging in age from 4 to 22 on Social Security.

"I tried for three years to hold jobs down, but every time I'd get sick," he said.

He only started painting 2 years ago after his oldest son gave him a set of oils for Christmas.

"Then I started painting," said Finley. "But I didn't get really interested until after Artrain was here," he added enthusiastically.

"I had a lot of fun there. They gave me a lot of encouragement," he grinned. Since then he's painted three pictures.

The paintings hang in his wood frame house located on English Road south of Kingston. His first creation was a wood duck, painted on cardboard. Others include an aerial view of their home, a portrait of his father and a scene of Navaho Indians weaving rugs.

No real stranger to creative works, Finley did finishing carpentry before he developed a heart condition, designing cabinets to suit the customers' taste.

His daughters like to draw, too, and his oldest son paints a little. Other than these, the only other artists in the family are an aunt who paints china and a sister who teaches arts and crafts.

"I never thought I could paint," Finley stated. Now he's trying to get lessons through a social security rehabilitation program. He hopes to sell paintings someday.

Finley said he enjoys painting because, "It's creating something. It relaxes my nerves," he added. "I get to painting and I forget everything."

Slate 4-H Bonanza auction-exhibit

The presidents of Michigan State University and the Michigan Farm Bureau and the vice president and director of Ford Motor Company have united in support of a monumental event to help Michigan 4-H youth.

Called 4-H Bonanza, the event will culminate in an auction-exhibition Oct. 14 at Michigan State University's Jenison Field House.

The triumvirate chairmen of the gala event are Dr. Clifton R. Wharton Jr., president of MSU; Elton Smith, president of the Michigan Farm Bureau, and Benson Ford, vice-president and director of Ford Motor Company.

The first event of its kind in the nation, Bonanza will feature the sale of all types of Michigan products (including a horse valued in excess of $50,000) and entertainment by such nationally known celebrities as Art Linkletter.

The Michigan 4-H Foundation is sponsoring the unique event and hopes to raise $250,000 for Michigan 4-H programs, including those for the underprivileged and minority youngsters. In addition to financial assistance to 4-H programs throughout Michigan, one of the chief purposes of Bonanza is to create an awareness of 4-H programs, the 4-H Foundation, the Cooperative Extension Service, MSU and the opportunities they all provide. The Michigan 4-H program, which has been an intricate part of the Cooperative Extension Service at MSU since 1914, currently provides opportunities for over 200,000 Michigan youth.

"We also hope to create an atmosphere of total involvement of people from all segments of our Michigan population, including agriculture, industry and MSU, in mutual support of 4-H," says Ralph Kirch, the executive director of the Michigan 4-H Foundation.

Included in the list of programs proposed for sponsorship are leadership training conferences, a state parks program, a mobile environmental laboratory, the International Farm Youth Exchange, a mobile home youth program, specialized training scholarships and community resource development projects.

In addition to the triumvirate chairmanship, several other key leaders throughout Michigan and MSU have accepted chairmanships associated with the event. Included are: Walker Cislis, chairman of the Board of Detroit Edison, chairman of the banquet committee; John Doneth, MSU professor of agricultural economics, co-chairman of the sale committee; James H. Duncan, president of Michigan Bankers Association, chairman of the finance committee; John Fetzner, president, Fetzner Broadcasting Company, president of publicity committee; Ernest Girbach, chairman, Michigan State Fair Authority, chairman of the general livestock committee; Glen Lake, president of Michigan Milk Producers' Association, chairman of general agriculture committee; Robert Leary, general operations manager, Ford Tractor Operations, chairman of agriculture business committee; Frank Merriman, vice-chairman of the MSU Board of Trustees, chairman of the agriculture committee; and John Platts, president of Whirlpool Corporation, chairman of the industry committee.

Set open space land use bill hearing

State Representative Philip Mastin (D-Hazel Park), chairman of the House Taxation Subcommittee on Assessment Practices, announced subcommittee public hearings on a bill which would create a state land use or land development commission and establish a tax structure that would make possible the preservation of open space and farmland.

The bill under consideration (Substitute House Bill 6256) was introduced by Mastin.

The land use commission it would create would inventory and designate areas of the state of critical environmental concern, areas impacted by key facilities, such as power plants and highways, and areas of development and land use of regional benefit, Mastin explained.

"The commission would have the duties of developing ways to exercise state control over the use of land within such areas, assuring that local regulations do not restrict or prevent development and land use which would be of regional benefit, and developing policies which would influence the location of new communities and the use of land around such communities," Mastin said.

"The proposal would also develop that type of tax structure that would allow and encourage the preservation of open land and farmland. This is imperative if we are to preserve what little of this precious resource we have left in urban-rural fringe areas. Land is under tremendous pressure for development. This legislation would be one way to decrease that pressure."

The Mastin bill would seek to preserve and protect land which conserves or enhances natural or scenic resources; protects streams or water supplies; promotes the conservation of soils, wetlands, beaches or tidal marshes; enhances the value to the public of adjoining or abutting parks, forests, wildlife preserves, nature reservations or sanctuaries, or other open space; enhances recreational opportunities; preserves historic sites, or retains in its natural state a tract of land of not less than five acres located in an urban area and open to public use.

The landowner could apply for a special "use value" assessment on his property. In order to obtain this special assessment, the land would have to be either certified by a local or regional planning agency that it is zoned or part of a land use plan for open space, farmland or timberland or certified by a county equalization director that it has been used as open space land, farmland or timberland for three of the preceding five years.

Success is apt to come to those who haven't time to wait.

Methodists top Catholics for title

Teams play like champions in championship game

It was a championship game and the two teams played like champions.

It was sad that one team had to lose. Monday night the Catholics and the Trinity Methodists battled for nine hard innings before the red shirted defending play-off champs bested the Catholics, 1-0, to take the regular season title in the Cass City Church League.

Veteran Eldon Stoutenburg pitched what may have been his best game in a long mound career.

Over the nine innings he allowed just four hits and walked two. He was matched almost pitch for pitch by Carl Zawilinski who started and then retired with a sore shoulder and by John Maharg who finished up and took the loss.

The Catholics threatened in the seventh and again in the ninth. Both times Jim Mastie ended the inning with long, well hit fly balls to the outfield.

The winning rally came after Randy Kozan reached first on a booted grounder. Eldon Stoutenburg singled and Kozan raced towards third. The throw to third was wild and Kozan raced home with the only run of the game.

The hitting for the Methodists was scattered while Phil Gray slammed three of the Catholics' four hits.

BAPTISTS UPSET

The stage was set for the title game after United Missionary, mired deep in the standings, upset the Baptists in a make-up game Saturday, 9-8.

The Baptists jumped off to an early lead but the Missionaries kept coming back to score the narrow victory. Root was the winning pitcher and Mellendorf took the loss.

OTHER GAMES

There were games galore as the league rushed to end the year and prepare for the play-offs.

Missionaries continued to roll with a 9-4 decision over Shabbona-Deford.

Colwood racked up two wins. One was a 12-2 decision over Deford Community and the other a forfeit from Snover-Laing.

Missionaries chalked up a win with a decision over Snover-Laing while the Methodists had no trouble posting a 13-3 decision over Lamotte.

Church of Christ got back on the winning trail with a 12-8 decision over Shabbona-Deford while the Lutherans stopped Missionaries, 8-4.

ACCIDENTS

came over a hill on Schwegler Road and failed to see a tractor driven by Paul Edwin Becker Jr., 16, 4333 Hadley Road, Decker, in time to avoid hitting it in the front end. The mishap occurred at 7:45 p.m.

Marie Rosetta Snow, 26, Hurds Corner Road, Cass City, escaped injury when she hit a horse belonging to Sam Dicks, Decker, on Thursday, Aug. 17, and failed to see the animal in the fog.

Cass City police investigated a minor accident Monday when Glenn Bernard Peruski, 29, Bay City-Forestville Road, Ubly, backed into a vehicle of Rebecca Elizabeth Stauffer, 22, 129 E. Congress St., Caro. The minor mishap occurred on Church Street at 4:35 p.m. Peruski told police he didn't see the other car.

Predict banner year for coho, chinook salmon

Since the first coho and chinook were planted in Lake Michigan six years ago, Michigan has surpassed such dominant West Coast fishing states as Washington and Oregon to become "The Salmon Fishing Capital of the World," according to Automobile Club of Michigan.

Last year, state anglers caught more than one million salmon from the Great Lakes and tributaries for the first time, and despite the absence of large numbers of early spawning Alaskan coho this year, the million mark should be equaled again in 1972.

Major reasons for fishermen to expect another banner year for coho and chinook are:

•The availability of nearly 1.5 million coho and chinook in state waters.

•More anglers being lured to state waters, especially on Lake Michigan and feeder streams, due to added interest in perch, steelhead and lake trout fishing.

•Prospects of latching onto a record catch.

•Improved techniques of anglers in catching the elusive salmon.

"There is no question that in terms of size and total numbers available for catching, Michigan has become the primary salmon fishing location in this country, and perhaps the world," states Joseph Ratke, Auto Club touring manager.

"And this year's catch may be bigger and better than ever, provided the weatherman cooperates as he did last year when anglers were able to get out on the Great Lakes more days than at any time in recent years," Ratke says.

A record 34 locations--three more than last year--will have mature salmon runs this fall. Included in the 1971 spring plantings, which will yield most of the salmon taken this fall, were the first open water plantings of coho and chinook ever.

Besides the open water plantings, salmon were planted in several sections of major rivers to provide more areas for fishing activity. With the diversified stream plantings, DNR officials expect increased river activity this year, even though new snagging rules have been put into effect.

Foul-hooking of spawning salmon with weighted hooks up to three-quarters of an inch across still will be allowed on streams south of the Muskegon and Rifle rivers from October 1 through December. This includes such popular Lake Michigan tributaries as the Grand, Kalamazoo and St. Joseph rivers.

However, special limitations have been placed on northern Michigan streams with only four approved for snagging. Designated sections of the Muskegon and Manistee rivers in Lower Michigan and a portion of the Falls River and the entire length of Haymeadow Creek, Delta County, in the Upper Peninsula will be open for snagging in September and October only.

A breakdown of the more than seven million salmon plantings in the spring of 1971 include: 2.8 million coho and 1.8 million chinook in Lake Michigan, 1.2 million coho and 900,000 chinook in Lake Huron and 500,000 coho and 250,000 chinook in Lake Superior.

There were seven open water plantings in the Great Lakes, including: Lake Michigan at Platte Bay, Big Sable Point and Portage Lake and Lake Huron at Hammond Bay, Harrisville, Port Hope, Port Sanilac and Lakeport. About 825,000 coho and chinook were planted in open water to provide a larger and longer salmon fishing season this fall on the Great Lakes.

The Cass River, which empties into Saginaw Bay via the Saginaw River, received its first plantings last year. Although 450,000 salmon will be swimming through the Bay, only a few are expected to be hooked because of the Bay's warm water, generally higher than the 50-55 degree temperature preferred by both coho and chinook for feeding.

Sixteen streams have now been planted with chinook with the best catches expected from 1969 plantings since this king-sized partner of the coho usually takes three to four years to mature. This variety will run 20 to 40 pounds with 1970 plantings weighing from 15-25 pounds and '71 plantings between five and 12 pounds.

A few giant chinook from 50 to 65 pounds may be taken from Lake Michigan. These are from the 1967-68 plantings. Coho, which mature at three years, generally will run eight to 18 pounds with a few four-year-olds at 25 to 35 pounds.

The state record for chinook is 42 pounds, eight ounces, caught last fall in the Pere Marquette River. The largest coho is a 30-pound, eight-ounce fish hooked last fall in the East Arm of Grand Traverse Bay. A 33-pound, three ounce coho was taken in the Little Manistee River weir below the Six Mile Bridge in 1970, but this was not taken by hook and line.

Although regular salmon runs are underway, the peak is expected to begin in mid-September on the Great Lakes and continue through the first two weeks of October. Heaviest activity in streams will be in October and November.

Unlike last year when salmon fishing in late July and early August was booming due to early runs of the Alaskan strain, success has been spotty so far this season as only 75,000 Alaskan coho were planted in the Upper Peninsula streams of Thompson Creek and the Manistee River. Alaskans were not planted in Lower Michigan in 1971 because of added costs.

A comeback by the once-almost-extinct perch in Lake Michigan and the popularity of lake trout throughout the Great Lakes is luring more fishermen onto state waters. Because of the added pressure, increased number of coho and chinook will be taken by perch and trout fishermen.

Salmon catches on the Great Lakes will come mostly by trolling with plugs, flatfish, daredevils and flashlures ahead of lures to attract the fish. In the streams, snagging where it is legal and stillfishing will be most popular.

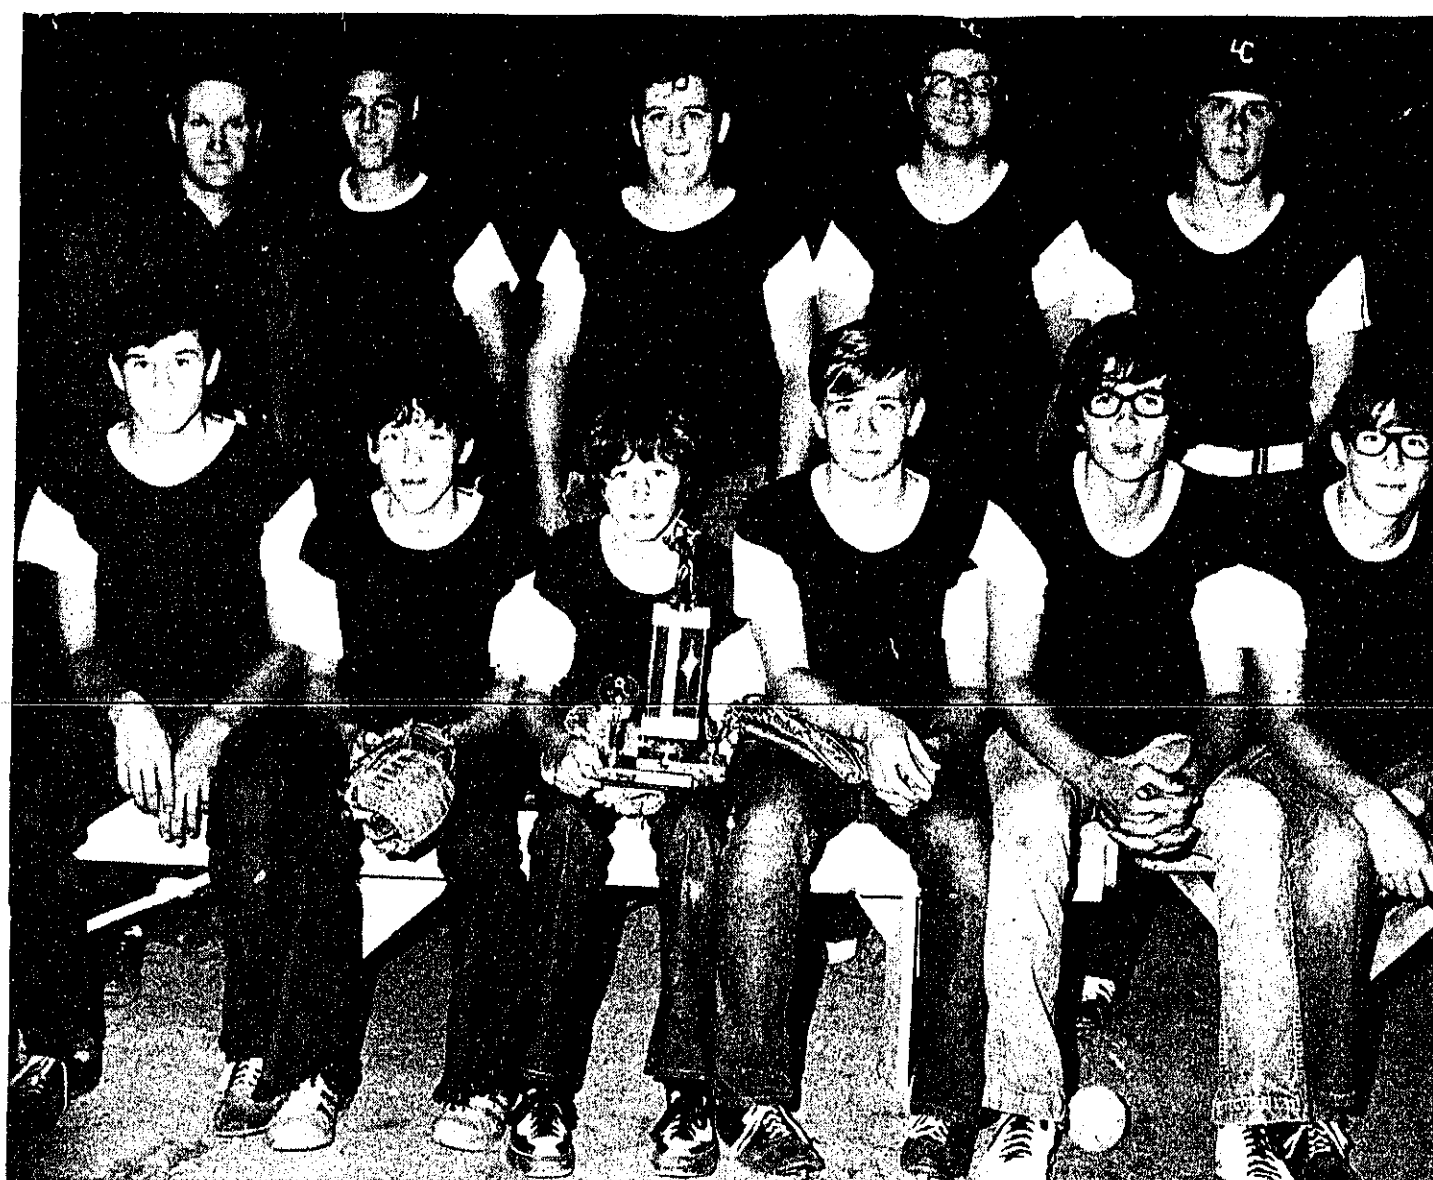

Anglers should find water temperatures below 60 degrees--preferably in the 50 to 55-degree range--since salmon normally stop feeding in higher temperatures and are difficult to catch. Anglers can use a thermometer or listen to charter boats via radio to find the proper water temperature.

Lake Michigan again will be the salmon hotspot with more fish available for catching and more boat launching facilities than elsewhere on the Great Lakes.

Anglers know that in order to catch salmon on Lake Michigan, they must fish mainly in 50 to 55-degree water temperatures. However, finding coho in Lake Huron is a major problem since depth patterns are different and have not been clearly established as yet. Lake Huron is shallower than Lake Michigan, and with the warm waters of Saginaw Bay influencing the lake from Tawas to Huron City, conditions are erratic.

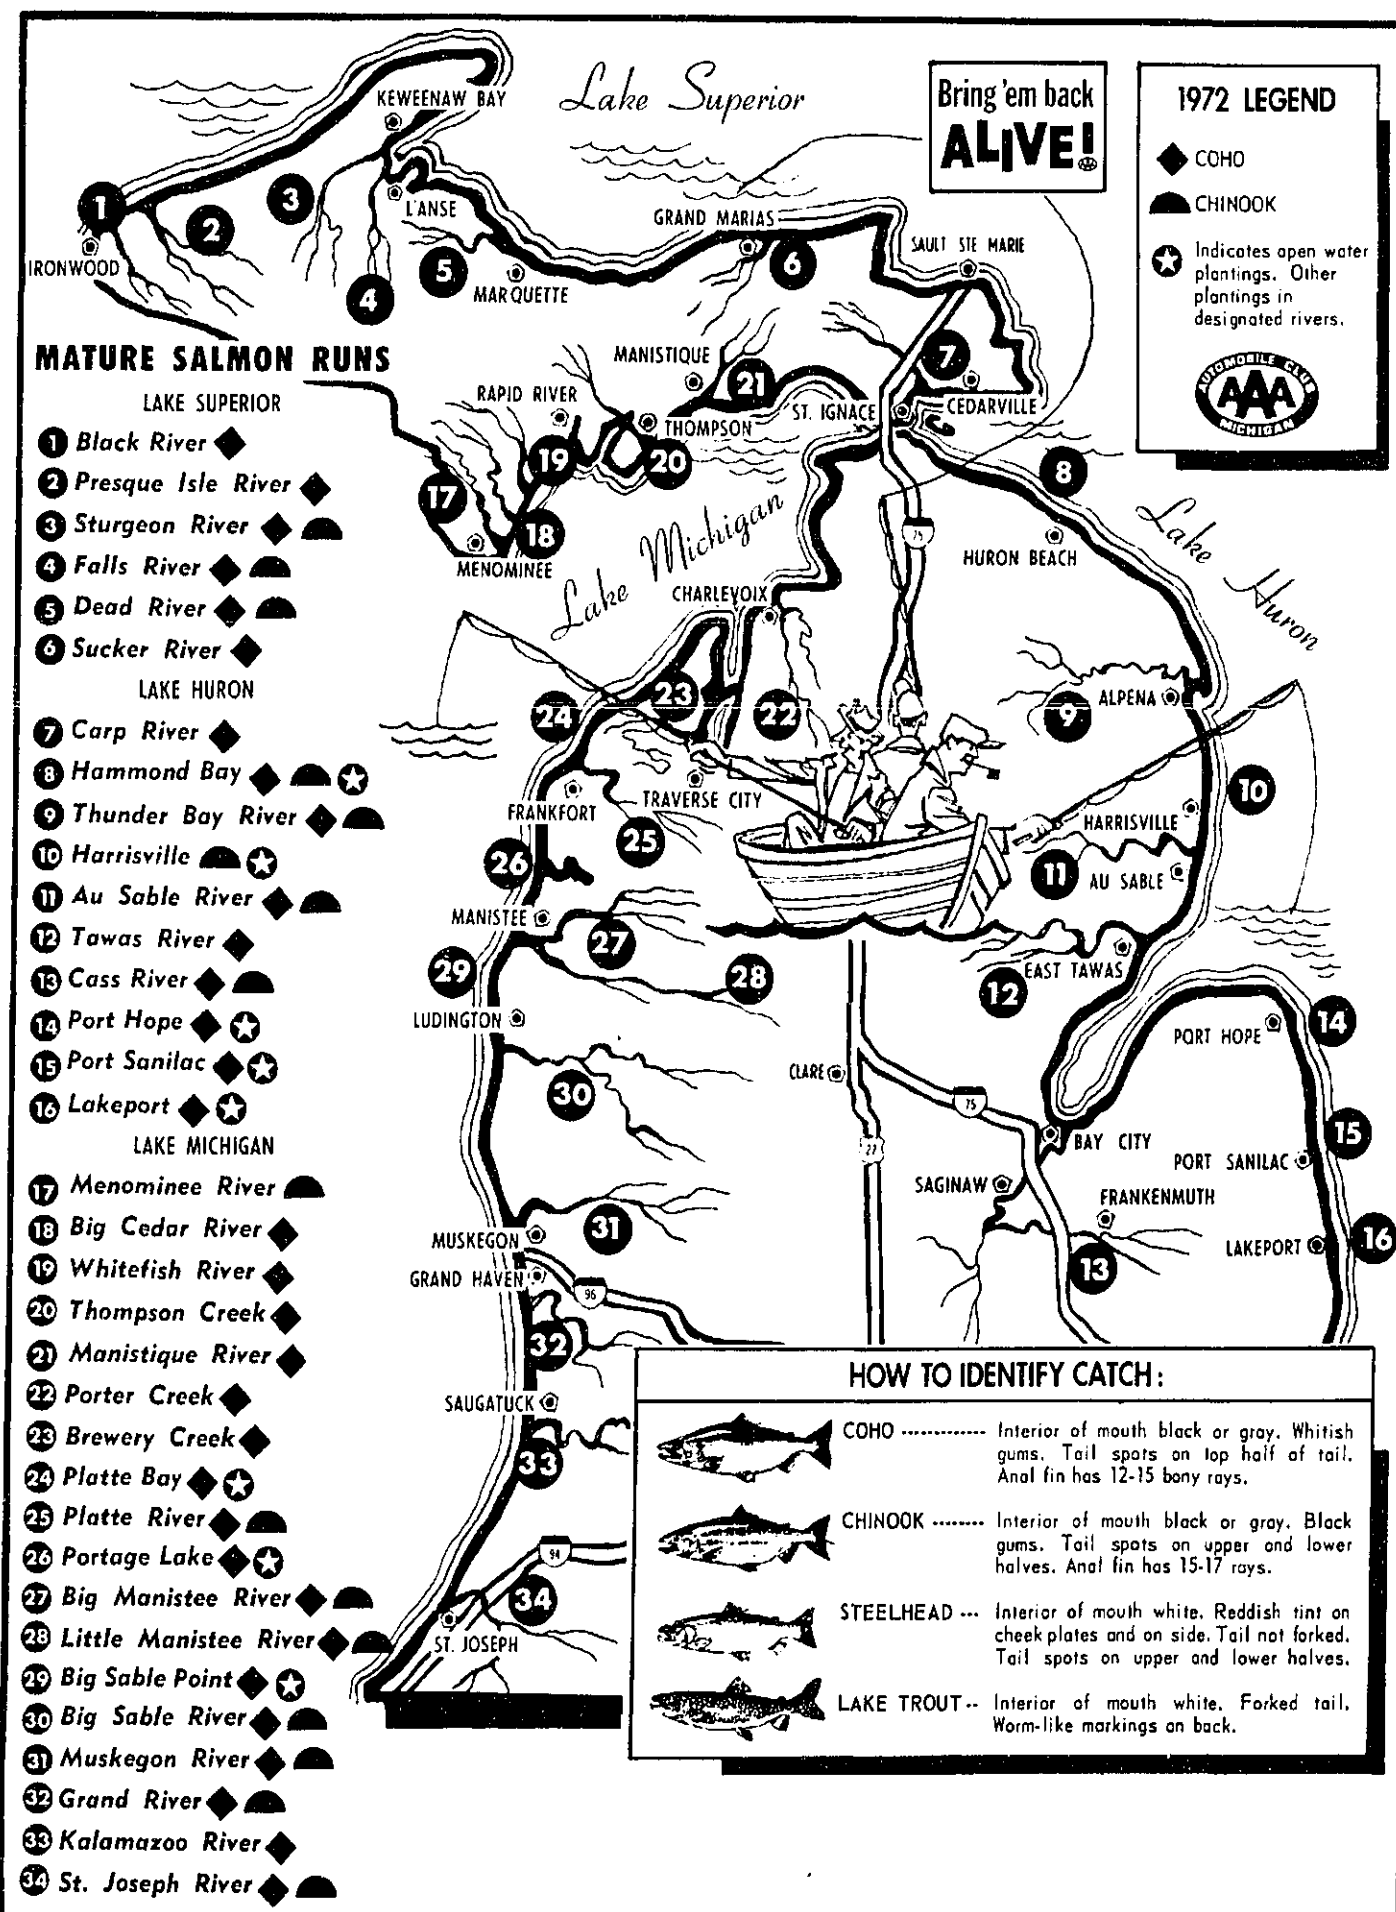

Fishermen are advised not to fish the Great Lakes in anything smaller than an 18-foot boat. Since salmon often are fished five miles or more from shore, boaters should keep a watchful eye on the weather.
