Deford man hospitalized with crash injuries

John David McLennan, Shabbona Road, Deford, was listed in fair condition in Hills and Dales Hospital, Cass City, Tuesday with injuries sustained in a Friday morning crash. McLennan was injured when his car hit a tree. Two children, Kenneth, 3, and John Crawford, 1, both of Deford and passengers in the vehicle, were treated and released.

The driver told Tuscola county deputies that John was in the front seat and opened the right door of the car. When he reached for the child, he lost control of the vehicle and it slammed into a tree off Shabbona Road, three-fourths mile east of Cemetery Road.

The accident occurred at 11:15 a.m., as McLennan was eastbound. William Francis Powell, 25, 426 Hartwell Road, Cass City, was treated and released at Hills and Dales for a head injury sustained Sunday when he lost control of his car on Bray Road near Brewer Road. The car skidded 136 ft. before it stopped on a freshly seeded lawn.

Powell told deputies he did not know how the 4 p.m. accident happened. He was ticketed for failure to stop in assured clear distance.

Two Cass City men were treated at Hills and Dales for minor injuries sustained when their car and one following them on Bay City-Forestville Road collided Thursday, Sept. 28.

Thomas N. Bills, 25, 4092 S. Cemetery Road, Cass City, and his passenger, Frederick William Bryce, 43, 5870 River Road, Cass City, received minor injuries.

Driver of the other car, Mary Jane Daniels, 35, 2267 E. Hoppe Road, Unionville, also received minor injuries and was taken home.

The accident occurred at 3:15 p.m. near Colwood Road when the Daniels car hit the rear of the Bills vehicle. Both were eastbound.

Two drivers escaped injuries in separate car-deer accidents. Paul Daniel Chermiawski, 17, Deford, hit a deer as he was northbound on S. Kingston Road, in Koylton township, at 10 p.m. Friday.

Clarence Joseph Luczak, 52, Saginaw, struck a deer on M-81 just east of Cass City near Schweigler Road Thursday, Sept. 28. He was westbound when he hit the animal at 7 p.m.

Decrease in penal fines funding puts library in financial bind

The Rawson Memorial Library board was to meet Wednesday morning to determine the needs of the library and possibly set up a committee to discuss funding with local governing bodies.

Like many libraries in the state, the local library will not receive enough in penal fines, the major source of library funding, to meet expenses this year, and must seek support elsewhere or limit the budget.

According to financial reports, the amount of money received from the county library board through county and state criminal fines, has decreased over the past five years.

Revenue from penal fines received for the 1972-1973 fiscal year totals $5797.95. Last year the figure was $7377.04 and in 1968-1969 the penal fine contribution was $12,443.67.

Besides the decrease in penal fines, costs have increased with inflation and the general operation of the new, larger library building built in 1970.

Since moving into the new building from the old hall between the old fire department and Woods Drug store, the upkeep costs have risen from $742 in 1968-69 to $2210 in 1972. The increase in costs comes from higher insurance, more cleaning, and operating costs of the larger building with air conditioning.

In the old building much of that was included in the $300 a year rent paid to the village.

In that same period, circulation increased from 14,666 in 1968 to 22,213 to the end of September this year. "When the circulation doubles, it stands to reason we'll need more materials," stated Librarian Barbara Hutchinson. Replacement costs also rise and new books are needed for the more spacious new building.

Mrs. Hutchinson explained that the budget allows for $100 per month for purchase of books, reference material, magazines, and records. The amount spent on books has not risen as sharply as other costs.

In 1966-1967, the amount was $1220. Last year it was $1567.

In addition, the village and Elkland township have agreed to support the library up to .3 mill as local support, although the amount from penal fines is considered as local support. Consequently, the governing bodies do not pay extra unless penal fine funds are lower than .3 mill of the current assessed state equalized valuation. If it is lower, the two governments each pay half of the difference.

Based on this year's valuation of $14,071,600, .3 mill amounts to $4221. Penal funds from Elkland township and the village this year totaled $3765.

Financial reports show that the village and township used to give the library .3 mill in addition to the penal fines, but that was discontinued in 1968.

The library also receives state funding in the amount of 5 cents per person in their service area, which amounts to about $300 per year. These funds, however, are supposed to be used to provide extra services, noted Mrs. Hutchinson.

Currently a bill is pending in the state legislature that would provide 50 cents per person. It appears this bill will not pass, however, said Mrs. Hutchinson.

She explained that the local library is not the only one in a financial bind. While no one seems to know why the penal fines are decreasing for library funding, the pressure has been severe enough to force some to close branches or to shorten hours, as the Saginaw system did last summer.

To help close the gap, the library has received gifts from service clubs and other organizations. Last year, the Zonta Club gave $150 and Elkland township $300 with the village donating the asphalt paving for the driveway. A donation of $1000 late in the year from the Pinney State Bank provided the funds for the library to continue operations after other funds were used up last year, said Mrs. Hutchinson.

So far this year a donation of $500 was received from the Community Chest.

ARLAN HARTWICK, left, hands his apron over to Mr. and Mrs. Keith Brown who take over the grocery that he ran successfully for 30 years.

Retires at 63

30-year career ends as Hartwick sells grocery

Arlan Hartwick is young to be retiring. Comparatively young in years (63) and certainly young in appearance, zest for living and outlook on life.

It's hard to believe that the greying, friendly store owner who has presided for 30 years in Hartwick's Market at the corner of Leach and Main has decided to quit.

Somehow, it's hard to imagine not seeing him sweeping the floor, taking his daily walk to the bank or presiding at the meat counter.

For during his years at the grocery one thing you could depend on; the chances were 100 to one that Arlan would be in his store when you came to trade or visit.

Vacations were limited to three days or so at a time and as regular as clock-work through the years, Hartwick's was the store open in the morning before all the rest.

Hartwick is the living example of the old bromide, "hard work never killed anybody".

Even though he's retiring at 63, he probably has worked more than most persons do if they never officially retire.

A native of the Cass City area, born near Elmwood, Arlan as the eldest in a family of 10 went to work while still a student at Cass City High School.

He worked after school and on Saturday in the Kroger store and after he graduated in 1928 started full time.

He worked there for three years then moved to Kalamazoo where he managed a Kroger outlet for five years before going into a small chain operation of his own for five years.

It was successful, too. But these service stores were open from 7 a.m. to 11 p.m. daily and Sunday and Hartwick found himself averaging 87 hours of work a week.

I chuckled it all, to come back to Cass City. You know, he said, we are a close-knit family and I loved to play baseball. In Kalamazoo all I did was work.

He opened the store which he sold Monday to Mr. and Mrs. Keith Brown, now of Cass City, formerly of Trenton, April 6, 1942.

It was a move that I've never regretted, the retiring owner said.

Despite running what amounted to a one-man operation Hartwick found time over the years to be active in the business and civic affairs of the community. He served 8 years as a trustee on the village council and 20 years as a member of the Gavel Club. He is a past president and treasurer of the club.

One task that Arlan will keep for another year at least is treasurer of the Good Shepherd Lutheran Church of Cass City. It's a job he's had for 18 years.

Actually, it's not quite accurate to say that Hartwick is retiring. It's true that he won't be responsible for a business any longer, but already his three children are bidding for his help.

First on the docket is helping one of his daughters build a house. I like that kind of thing, he confided.

All of the children, Jack, 33, and Mrs. Kay Armstrong, 31, of Flint, and Mrs. Cathy VanAllen, 29, of Imlay City have plans for dad now that he's no longer tied to the store.

It's likely that he and his wife Lucy, 56, will be kept busy. And it's probable that Arlan wouldn't have it any other way.

He doesn't have any grand plan for his retirement years. A trip to Oklahoma to visit his wife's mother. Perhaps a few weeks in Florida with other relatives, a little more fishing, that's all.

Why should I leave Cass City, he asks, after all my home is here, my interests are here, all my friends are here. This is where I want to be.

And if I were to start again, today, I'd go into this business again, he confided.

There is opportunity in this store, he said with a wave of his hand. You must be aggressive, you must merchandise, you must be friendly and aim to please and you must work.

And when you review his career, who can argue with him?

FROM THE Editor's Corner

The National Association of Theatre Owners of Michigan, Inc. is making much of the recent decision of the Detroit News not to publish X-rated movie advertisements.

The owners are claiming censorship and they are correct. It is censorship.

But it is not, as the American Civil Liberties Union recently claimed, "a violation of the principles of free speech and a free press which newspapers should be the first to defend".

Every newspaper everywhere practices censorship. How can you avoid it? Every time a story is condensed or a decision made to publish or not to publish a story, based on a judgement of its relative value, that's censorship.

Every newspaper from the smallest like the Chronicle to the largest like the News receives almost weekly ads (accompanied by checks) to boost shady schemes that in the end do nothing but bilk the newspapers' readers. Should the Chronicle publish them, should the News?

Of course not. There's a relationship that's unique between newspapers and Americans. There's credence among readers for what they read in their newspapers. Scoff if you will but when it's in the paper it carries weight.

That's why to put it simply, the paper has to have the right to set standards.

Without them reader trust and respect has to shake a little.

The argument that adults should make their own choices as free Americans hardly holds water.

I've never seen a theatre ask for a proof of age in "adults only" movies I've attended. And if I did, I would still feel the newspaper is within its moral and ethical rights to turn down the ads.

The censorship that should concern readers and editors more than whether or not to publish movie ads should be inadvertent censorship.

The coloring of the news because of the views of the writer. Every writer is guilty of it.

In a little paper like the Chronicle the threat is greater because nearly everything written touches the writer, his family or his community.

There's really nothing that can be done about it except to make a determined effort to avoid it.

To make sure that it's well known that the columns of the paper are always open for opposing views. To try and see that every reader realizes that every story is presented as fairly as possible. To see that the facts and the background are presented for you to use in making your decisions about the way your community is run and the direction it should be going.

We've always been dedicated to this and we won't change. We may fail. When we do tell us and we'll do our best to make it right.

DESPITE VALIANT EFFORTS by the Elkland Township Fire Department, the home of Ray Periso, Deford, was gutted Friday.

Fire guts Periso home near Deford

Mrs. Ray Periso of rural Deford said sadly last week that she was not out of her home on Phillips Road for more than 10 minutes when she returned and found it in flames.

She had been called to the garage by her husband and went back to the house to pick up a tool when she found the blaze. By this time, she said, the smoke was so dense that I was forced to go a quarter of a mile to Mrs. Nicols' home to call the Elkland Township Fire Department.

When the department arrived the fire was raging and authorities said that the home with its new addition was a complete loss.

It must have been the wiring, Mrs. Periso said, as she watched the flames eat away at the family home. The furnace was new...in fact it wasn't even working yet.

It was just part of the new things in our home, she went on, almost as if talking to herself.

We had new furniture, new color television, new washer and dryer and that new addition to the house.

Insurance? Yes, but not nearly enough to cover the cost of the addition and all of the new things that we were able to buy this year, Mrs. Periso said as she turned to watch the firemen battle the fire and smoke coming out from all areas of her home.

A combine that caught fire late Thursday afternoon, Sept. 28, has been called a total loss by owner John Rosenstengel, 5193 Hurds Corner Road, Gagetown.

Rosenstengel was combining beans in a field a half mile west of the Hoppe and Hurds Corner Road intersection when he looked back and saw the motor burning. The cause of the fire is not known.

The motor and hydraulic system are completely destroyed. Rosenstengel would not place a dollar estimate on the loss.

Strong Law and Order Stand taken by State Representative Candidate Heine

Ernst C. Heine, Democratic candidate for State Representative of the 84th District, stresses law and order as a primary point in his campaign for election.

Mr. Heine, a native and resident of Frankenmuth, states: "I have talked to thousands of people throughout Michigan, and I am certain that everyone's main desire is the return to respect for a peaceful and orderly society."

Emphasizing a need for safe communities, Mr. Heine firmly believes that, "the only means by which this safety can be realized and the rate of crime reduced, is through the restoration and maintenance of law and order."

If you agree with this strong and dedicated candidate, you will vote for Ernst C. Heine, Democrat for State Representative of the 84th District on November 7.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Heilig

Maribeth McCarty, Ubyly, and Gerald Heilig, Minden City, were united in marriage Saturday, Sept. 16, at 2 p.m. in services held at St. Ignatius Catholic Church, Austin township in Sanilac county.

The Rev. Robert Duggan officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allan McCarty, Ubyly. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Heilig, Minden City.

The bride was escorted down the aisle by her parents. She chose a gown of ivory sateau styled with a fitted lace trimmed bodice and Empire waistline, a high Victorian collar and long puff sleeves. The formal length skirt featured a flounce at the hemline.

Her cathedral length veil featured matching lace and was secured by a headpiece of stephanotis flowers and satin ribbon. She carried an arrangement of assorted stemmed flowers with three white roses.

Attending the bride as matron of honor was Emily Flannery, Detroit, friend of the bride. Bridesmaids were Hanna Milliken, Royal Oak, cousin of the bride; Marylyn Heilig, Minden City, sister of the groom, and Norene McIntosh, Wyandotte, cousin of the bride.

The attendants wore identical dresses of mocha-colored chiffon over taffeta with aqua ribbon under mocha lace accenting the Victorian neckline, the Empire waistline and the bodice. The dresses had puffy sleeves. They carried assorted stem flowers with three red roses and aqua streamers and wore aqua chrysanthemums in their hair. Flower girl was Lesa Van-Exp, Henrietta, N. Y., cousin of the bride. She wore a dress like the other attendants and carried an identical miniature bouquet.

The mother of the bride chose a moss green, floor length gown of chiffon over taffeta with long sheer sleeves. Her dress was trimmed with white braid around the neckline, waist and cuffs. She chose green accessories and wore a corsage of fall-colored chrysanthemums.

The groom's mother wore a floor length turquoise colored gown featuring an embroidered border around the bottom of the skirt and sleeves and beaded trim around the neckline, waist and down the front of the dress. She chose silver accessories and wore a corsage of fall-colored chrysanthemums.

The best man was Ray Heilig, Minden City, cousin of the groom. Groomsmen were A. J. McCarty, Ubyly, brother of the bride; Jon Gillis, Minden City, friend of the groom, and Paul Heilig, Minden City, brother of the groom. Ushers were Jim Heilig, Almont, brother of the groom, and Bernard Morell, Minden City, friend of both the bride and groom. Kurt Heilig, Minden City, brother of the groom, was ring bearer.

A dinner and reception for about 600 guests was held at the St. Joseph's Hall, Argyle.

The couple will make their home on M-19 south of Ubyly following a tour of northern Michigan.

Rabbit tracks

(And anyone else he can get to help)

Do the Democrats have less money for campaign purposes than the Republicans? Judging by the mail that crosses my desk they do. Republican propaganda is outnumbering Democratic propaganda by about five to one. That doesn't necessarily mean anything. Like most editors I pay scant attention to material presented from an obviously biased source.

Sometimes you can't get too much of a good thing. The State Police week-end traffic control is a case in point. They were swarming in the county Sunday. I don't say I was speeding coming home on M-81, west of Caro Sunday, but I wasn't watching my speedometer either. So either the State Police car ahead was going slower than the limit or I was travelling faster.

Anyway when I overhauled that car in blue I slowed. Nobody passes a police car do they?

About a half mile down the road just out of vision in the rise in the road I passed a brown police car parked on the shoulder.

No sweat. I was still behind the first police car and well under the speed limit.

Whew!

Gib Albee casually asked this week at lunch if any hunter had come in for a picture of a trophy deer shot last week.

Posing as an aware newsman I didn't let on that I figured deer season was a month and a half away. He found out anyway.

It is the bow and arrow season, I learned from the conversation with Gib and then I explained that over the years only one hunter had ever reported scoring in the Robin Hood manner.

Albee then proceeded to rattle off the names of other local hunters successful in past years.

Maybe they didn't realize that a picture of a deer shot with a bow is of more news interest than one shot with a rifle.

We want yours if you bag a trophy.

Want to retire at 63 or before? Here's a tip I gathered second hand from listening to Arlan Hartwick who is quitting the grocery business with enough money to never have to work again.

Talking to his successors at the grocery store on Main he told the Keith Browns that the way to make money in the small grocery is to watch the pennies.

That's the way to get around the small profit margin that you live with in this business, he added, as he recalled a lifetime spent in successful competition with groceries large and small.

Cass City couples named outstanding by Farm Bureau

David Loomis, president, called a "full house" to order at the annual meeting of the Tuscola County Farm Bureau at the Caro High School Saturday evening, Sept. 30, after a dinner served by the Farm Bureau Women, under the direction of Mrs. David Loomis.

Jack Laurie, Cass City, a member of the Michigan Farm Bureau Board, brought greetings from the state organization and discussed current topics of interest to the farm group.

Named as recipients of the outstanding Farm Bureau couples were Mr. and Mrs. Loomis and Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Goodall, both couples from Cass City. The Distinguished Service to Agriculture award went to Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Ruggles of Kingson.

Sheriff Hugh Marr appeared on the program to present an appreciation award for Farm Bureau's interest and promotion of law enforcement. Marr also awarded a certificate of appreciation to Mrs. Clare Carpenter, Cass City, for outstanding and exemplary service in the field of law enforcement. This recognition is the first of its kind to be awarded, by the sheriff's department, to an individual in the county.

Arnold Middleton, Mayville, of the Community Group Committee, presented awards to the top community groups in the county. Receiving turkeys were: Lyman of Unionville; Group 38 of the Kingston area; Arcola from Vassar; Up and Atom, Caro; Kingesta, Kingston, and the Quanicasee group. Mrs. Ford Boyne, on behalf of Farm Bureau presented participation awards to four citizenship seminar students: Larry Zichm, Gagetown; Cindy Schluckbier, Vassar; Ann Rae Sattleberg, Unionville, and Linda Cole of Mayville. Also recognized were Jim Koch of Millington and Linsey Karpovich, Caro, as outstanding 4-H members.

Introduced was this year's Farm Bureau Queen from Tuscola county, Chris List of Vassar, who will represent the county in state competition at Grand Rapids in November.

Members recognized retiring board members and elected Thomas Young of Caro, from District 2; Raymond Partlo, Akron, District 5; and John Borek, Kingston, and LeRoy Schluckbier, Vassar, as directors at large for a two-year term.

The county meeting also passed on several resolutions dealing with crossroad and railroad crossing obstructions, ambulance service, law enforcement, preserving farmland, welfare, brucellosis vaccination, busing, and deepening waterways for exporting area farm products.

Announce new book selection at library

Seventy-five books were selected from the Saginaw bookmobile Tuesday for use at the Rawson Memorial Library for the next six months.

Two new novels are "Weep and Know Why" by Elisabeth Ogilvie and a gothic novel set in the Scottish Highlands "A Falcon for a Queen" by Catherine Gaskin.

"The Headstrong Houseboat or Barnacles are Better than Blowouts but Beware of a Leaky Basement" is the very funny new book by William C. Anderson.

Children will like "Danny Dunn and the Homework Machine" as well as many other good stories in this month's collection.

Other non-fiction titles are "The Second Wife: How to Live Happily with a Man who has been Married Before", "Games to Improve your Child's English", "Scrap Craft for Youth Groups", "The Arco Book of Cats", "The Poor Man's Guide to Bottle Collecting", "Elaine Moore Moffat, Blue Ribbon Horse Woman", and "The Willie Horton Story".

There are many more very good novels, non-fiction, youth and children's books.

"If It Fitz" Hey, look at my PD!

BY JIM FITZGERALD

The kids didn't seem properly impressed when I told them their father had the widest PD the eye doctor had ever seen.

All my teenage daughter wanted to know was what kind of eyeglasses I would be wearing. I told her black horn-rims. She ran out of the room screaming that I would make her the laughing stock of the whole school.

For gosh sakes, I thought horn-rimmed glasses were the sharpest, particularly with a brusque. I think an actor named Russell Nype started it in an Ethel Merman play called "Call Me Madam". A guy in horn-rims looks like he could take them off and hold them jauntily in one hand while scoring touchdowns and ravishing women with the other hand. This is a big improvement over the old image of a mousy professor in wire-rimmed glasses who wore galoshes and flinched at females.

But now my daughter assures me wire-rims are THE thing. Only an owl would wear horn-rims. "Why is that?" I asked her. "Because wires are cool," she explained. Certainly, I should have known that. But I'm so dumb, I thought the guys who sell glasses had taken a tip from the guys who sell long skirts and skinny lapels on Tuesday and then on Wednesday elect Susie Short-skirt and Frank Fatlapels the best dressed God and Goddess in the world.

"When the layered look comes to optometry, it will probably be fashionable to look at the world through the bottom of milk bottles," I told my daughter who was wearing a sleeveless sweater over her raincoat.

She ran out of the room again, poor kid. She never saw a milk bottle, let alone a Russell Nype.

Anyway, what this is all about is that I finally had to discard my Sherlock Holmes magnifying glass and get my first pair of eyeglasses. This is an aging experience, particularly when the doctor looks into your baby blues and says your arteries are hardening.

"Maybe glasses wouldn't be worth the investment," I said. "There won't be much to see in a casket anyway."

"It happens to men in their 40's," he said, ignoring my attempt at deathbed humor. "You'd better get bifocals."

My first pair of glasses are bifocals! I felt like a man who went shopping for a cane and came home in a wheelchair.

The only redeeming moment of pride came when the doctor helped me into the next room where his pretty assistant measured me for glasses. She discovered my tremendous PD.

"Look at this, Doctor," she exclaimed. "It's the widest PD I've ever seen."

"That's right," the doctor agreed. "The average PD is 64 millimeters. Your's is 74!"

"I have never been more proud," I admitted. "What is PD?"

"It is Pupillary Distance — the distance between your pupils," he explained.

Which means I might be able to interest the billboard industry in the space between my eyes. I haven't been so thrilled since my dentist said I built up tartar faster than any other human being he ever saw (Come back every 3 months instead of 6).

Onward and Upward.

Today is when we build a lot of tomorrows out of yesterdays.

Police investigate 3 thefts in Cass City Monday night

Three thefts in Cass City were reported to police authorities Tuesday morning, all occurring sometime during the previous night.

Tuscola county sheriff's deputies are investigating the theft of approximately $170 worth of equipment from a car belonging to Gloria Ryan, Fairgrove. The items were found missing when she left work at 12:30 a.m. Her car was parked in the lot of General Cable. Missing are a tachometer, reverberator, a plastic case of 12 tapes and a tape player. The vent window of the rear door was broken and the door then unlocked from the inside.

Five tapes were taken from the car of Henry J. Sherman, 3988 Lamton Road, Deford, sometime during the same time period when it was parked in the General Cable lot. Entry was gained through a locked door. The loss was estimated at $30 according to Cass City police reports.

Cass City police also investigated the theft of a spare tire from a car belonging to Chester Walker, Sparta, parked behind the New Gordon Hotel. The theft occurred sometime during Monday night and the early morning hours of Tuesday. The loss is placed at $40.

Friday police investigated a reported bomb threat at the Walbro plant. According to Cass City Police Chief Gene Wilson, a call was received from an unidentified person in a local bar who said he had overheard another person talking about having a fight with his girlfriend and planting a bomb.

The call was received at 7:45 p.m. Workers were sent home at 8 o'clock and the plant combed, but no bomb was found.

Two other thefts were reported to Cass City police. Larry Davis, 6644 Pine St., Cass City, reported a tool box missing from his garage. It is valued at $100.

Hugh Lautner, 6593 Houghton St., Cass City, told police a battery charger valued at $25 was missing from his garage.

training sessions

Richard Easton, and Dave Wilhelmson of the Cass City Crop Service, Cass City, returned from a two-day training school at Cadillac.

Feature of the meeting was a half day session on motivational salesmanship conducted by Dr. Herbert True of South Bend, Indiana. Dr. True is a lecturer in psychology on the staff of Notre Dame University, and is considered one of the outstanding training specialists in America.

Sutton United Methodist Church will celebrate its centennial anniversary Sunday with special worship services at 10 a.m. followed by a potluck dinner, and an afternoon spent in visiting and reminiscing.

The morning service will be conducted by members in honor of Laymen's Sunday. All former members, friends, pastors and their families are invited to attend, said the Rev. Lawrence Whitling, pastor.

The Sutton Church located at the corner of Colwood and Dutcher Roads in Ellington township is the last remaining church of the Cass River Circuit which was organized in 1856. The present church building was constructed in 1972 and has been in constant use since then. It was remodeled twice, once in 1914 and again in 1939. In 1954 indoor toilets were added and in 1969-70 a new kitchen, dining room, educational rooms and a pastor's study were added. That project was completed this year when the last of the rooms was carpeted.

The Sutton Church and its sister church, the Sunshine Methodist Church, were transferred to the Port Huron District in June 1970. Before that they were always part of the Saginaw Bay District. Members of the Sunshine Church now attend the Sutton Church following the closing of that church in June. The name chosen for the new church membership of approximately 140 is the Sutton-Sunshine United Methodist Church. The new name was chosen at the annual church conference Sept. 13.

EXTENSION

The Shabbona Extension Group met Monday evening, Sept. 25, with Marie Meredith, hostess. Ten members were present.

The meet was conducted by Mrs. John Agar. The women's creed was repeated in unison followed by a moment of silent prayer.

Mrs. Agar and Mrs. Dan Masten reported on the officer training meeting they attended. Mrs. Clark Auslander, assisted by Marie Meredith, told of the tour of the southern part of the county.

Plans were made for the coming year.

The Oct. 23 meeting will be with Mrs. Paul Murray. The lesson on Design Dimension in Fabrics will be presented by Mrs. Laurence Hyatt and Marie Meredith.

The hostess served a dessert luncheon.

A pie baking contest will be held Nov. 15. Contestants are to be between 17 and 30 and pies entered are two crust fruit pies. They are to be at the meeting place a half hour ahead of the program. Registration is to be 24 hours prior to the contest so the committee can plan accordingly.

BETTER HEALTH

Toy dog encourages deaf to talk

BY DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

A release from the West Virginia University describes a remarkable system that they have for helping deaf children to learn to talk. The big problems with hearing-impaired children, especially during their pre-school years, are how to teach them to speak, and how to encourage them to be receptive to speech. The great Helen Keller, who was both blind and deaf from an early age, once said that deafness is a greater handicap for a child than loss of sight, if only because of the close relationship between speech and hearing.

At the West Virginia University clinic for pre-school children with hearing impairments, they are trying a special method of interesting these children in learning to talk. Recently, Sandra Shore Schneider, one of Professor Jo Ann Layne's students, got the idea for Bo, the blinking dog -- a large stuffed animal with a microphone in his nose, wearing a hearing aid, just like that of the children. The big thing about Bo is that his eyes light up when a child speaks to him, so that the child sees that he has accomplished something with his voice.

Bo is working very well, because now the deaf children would rather speak to Bo than to the human helpers. Also, the animal is a tool for teaching the children that there are many ways to make sounds. And, as Mrs. Schneider says, "By turning a switch in Bo's back, I can use him to test if they are hearing at a certain level of loudness."

Bo has been such a success that now the engineering team working with the clinic people has designed Bo II, which will be useful in teaching children to speak with a certain volume of sound. As they say, loudness is difficult to explain to a stone deaf person. The new Bo will show children how loudly they are speaking with the help of lights that flash on a light board. When a child is learning to speak, the teacher will make a sound that will be displayed in a certain pattern of lights on the board, and then the child can try to duplicate the pattern.

Naturally, the age of the child will help determine to some extent the pitch at which he talks. And usually a little girl will speak at the highest itches, while the adult man will speak at the lowest pitches. There is still much work to do on the design and production of this type of device. The Bo devices are inexpensively made, but much remains to be done. This method of helping hard-of-hearing youngsters to learn sounds, looks like a good idea, and, hopefully other clinics will try it.

CHEMICALS CAN HARM THE BODY AND BRAIN

Many years ago, Dr. Garrod of England wrote a very important book on what he called "Inborn Errors of Metabolism" (body chemistry). More and more today, scientists are becoming interested in the diseases that are due to some disturbance of the body chemistry. Also they are learning how to correct the disturbances. The best-known disease of this type is diabetes, which as most people know, is due to the lack of insulin formation. Without insulin, a person's body cannot use sugar and carbohydrates. In the old days, before we had learned how to make insulin and give it each day to the person, the young diabetic would soon die. Today, the young diabetic can live a long and happy life as long as he keeps taking insulin, or an insulin-type drug.

Another disease of the body chemistry, which injures the brains of infants, is PKU (phenylketonuria). Some years ago, it was discovered that some infants are born without the phenylalanine hydroxylase which enables them to use phenylalanine. As a result, that and other chemicals pile up in the child's blood and interfere with the development of the brain. Treatment consists of a diet low in phenylalanine (Ketoniol, or Lofenolac). If the condition is discovered early enough, and treatment is begun immediately, the child's brain can be saved from injury.

Another disease, galactosemia, is due to the lack of a chemical which enables the infant to use the sugar of milk, and then, of course, he has to be brought up on a fluid which does not contain milk. The untreated infant soon loses weight, he vomits, he may become jaundiced (yellowish), his liver enlarges, cataracts form in the eyes, and he becomes mentally retarded. With a no-milk diet, he can be saved.

In the coming years, many more such diseases will be found. Researchers already know of a growing number. Hope keeps growing among many psychiatrists that psychoses such as schizophrenia will be found more definitely to be caused by metabolic disturbances, and will someday be treated successfully with chemicals. For years Drs. Hoffer and Osmond have been using chemical treatment and reporting good results. I have seen some of these results and have been very well impressed by them.

Often diabetes in an adult of 40 or 50 does not require drug treatment. Some cases are so mild that the person can get along on an antidiabetic diet. If you would like to learn more about the causes, symptoms and treatments of this disease send for Dr. Alvarez' booklet "Diabetes Which Appears In Middle or Late Life." Include 25 cents and a self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request to Dr. Walter C. Alvarez, Dept. CCC, Box 957, Des Moines, Iowa 50304.

FROM THE LITTER BOX

Take heed!

By Kit McMillon

This column has been canceled due to lack of interest.

This past week I have spent nursing a cold and sore throat that must have resulted from getting my hair cut.

I got my hair cut and immediately lost the protection it gave my throat and ears. I got it cut because I was tired of looking like a shaggy dog, and with my usual lack of good timing, I decided to tamper with the ways of nature in the face of winter.

The face of winter attacked my recently exposed ears--some people didn't think I had any just because I never pay any attention to what they said--and I got an earache.

At least I thought it was an earache because my ear hurt.

But when I looked into my equally aching throat, I decided that, based on my immense knowledge of medical folklore based on an herbal text banned by the American Medical Association and the numerous articles written about quack doctors, the large red spot staring back at me in the vicinity of my tonsils, indicated a sore throat.

Following the suggested procedures of numerous helpful persons, I rubbed smelly stuff on my throat, drank lots of fluids and stayed in bed. Winter never looks so dismal as when it arrives and finds one stuck inside with a sore throat staring out on the gray gloom of certain devastation to one's ears.

Following the logical procedure, I went to the doctor. He gave me some pills and said drink lots of fluids and stay in bed.

It's amazing how good you can feel while sitting in a doctor's office with a sore throat while other patients come in hacking and coughing and sniffing. I began to feel like I shouldn't even be there with my minor complaint.

FIGHT FIRES BY PREVENTING THEM

- 1 If a fire breaks out in your home, get out fast -- with your family. Fire can spread faster than you can run.
- 2 If you find smoke in an open stairway or open hall, use another preplanned way out. Teach your children how to use the phone to report a fire.
- 3 Make sure children can open doors, windows and screens to escape routes.
- 4 Make sure your family knows the quickest and safest ways to escape from every room in the house.
- 5 DON'T fight a fire yourself.
- 6 If you are trapped in a smoke-filled room, stay near the floor, where the air is better.
- 7 DON'T jump. Many people have jumped and died -- without realizing rescue was just a few minutes away.

Uncle Tim From Tyre Says:

Dear Mister Editor:

Well, I had aimed to git a little work done around the place during the first cool days, but I never got around to it. Fact is, I ain't as excited about work as folks are in Japan. Zeke Grubb was telling about how work crazy they are during the session at the country store Saturday night.

According to this piece Zeke read, companies in Japan have to force workers to take vacations. It got so bad about everybody wanting to work all the time, reported Zeke, til the companies have took to making folks pay fines fer working during their vacation times. And Zeke said a lot of em actual pay to work, cause they rather be on the job than trying to figger what to do with all their spare time.

The fellers at the store was doubting that Zeke read the piece right. Clem Webster said he could believe it, cause them folks in Japan must be working night and day to make all the stuff we're buying from em. Besides, went on Clem, with so many people on so little land, workers probable got more room to relax and move around in the factory than at home. Clem said he could name fellers that look forward to going to work to git away from the old lady and the younguns.

Actual, allowed Ed Doolittle, working ain't all that strange, even in this day of everything on the automatic. Ed had saw where 3,000 teenage boys and girls worked this past summer in the Youth Conservation Corps, and all of em enjoyed the new experience the experts called the "work ethic." One official of the federal financed outfit said the younguns wanted to show there is still a place for simple toil in a complicated society.

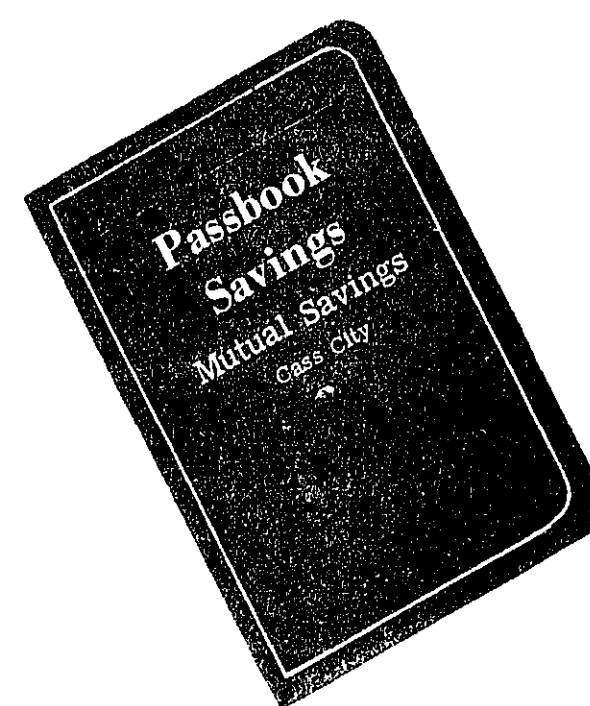

General speaking, Zeke said, work is its own reward. Zeke was of the mind that after 40 a feller still has a lot of steam to git things done, but it takes a lot more to git the boiler going. Opportunities is like they allus was, went on Zeke, most of em come disguised as hard work. The fellers got to talking about jobs and economy, and they was agreed things will keep humming at least through the November election. In other words, spoke up Ed, we'll keep wearing last year's clothes, driving this year's car and spending next year's income. As fer politicking, Ed was in favor of using the Indian system where the chief was allowed to speak as long as he could stand on one foot. What we need through October, declared Ed, is more one-foot political speeches. Fer sure, Mister Editor, politics ain't all that's going on. I see by the papers where some schools is offering night courses fer wimmen on how to understand football. I figger a heap of our football TV widders has decided if they can't lick em they'll join em.

Yours truly,
Uncle Tim

FROM THE FILES OF THE CHRONICLE

FIVE YEARS AGO

Mr. and Mrs. Basil Wotton attended the justice of peace seminar held at Boyne Mountain. Mrs. Wotton is a certified justice of the peace.

A local leader was elected to head the Tuscola County 4-H Mother's Club. Mrs. Keith Russell of rural Cass City is the newly elected president.

Mrs. Ruth Hoffman will be the new bookkeeper for the village, replacing Mrs. Barbara Marshall who resigned because she is leaving the village.

The age of pre-packaging is here and Cass City High School will follow the national trend when the cafeteria at the new Cass City High School is functioning smoothly. The board authorized a pre-packaging system for feeding students at Deford School with food prepared at the new cafeteria.

High score of 294 points earned John Brewton the distinction of "best record yet" in the Punt-Pass-Kick contest.

TEN YEARS AGO

Property valued at approximately $18,120 was set into the Cass City School District by the County Board of Education following the board's dissolving of the Humes School District.

A mystery balloon-like object that floated across Cass City skies is unidentified despite several attempts to find out what it was.

Kathleen Fisher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Fisher of Ubyly, is one of about 40 students studying to become licensed practical nurses at the training center in Bay City.

A Cass City farmer was one of two alternates named to the county ASC committee during elections held at the county convention. Named as first alternate was Don Doerr, Elkland township.

Members of the Hills and Dales General Hospital Women's Auxiliary voted to donate $25.00 for the purchase of bulbs to be planted during the coming Clean-up, Paint-up Campaign and in conjunction with fall landscaping work around the hospital.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

In a radio address President Truman launched the strictest food conservation drive in American peacetime history when he made an appeal to the public to observe two days of self denial each week to help feed hungry Europe.

Steve Harbec received injuries when a small section of a trench on the lot in the rear of the Reed & Patterson market caved in as village employees were making the excavation by hand labor.

Among nearly 100 Michigan doctors who were inducted as charter members of the Michigan State Medical Society's "Fifty-Year Club" was Dr. George Bates, pioneer physician of Kingston.

Directly following the winning of the world championship by the New York Yankees who defeated Brooklyn, President "Larry" MacPhail announced his retirement as president of the Yankees.

At a recent district meeting of the Woman's Society of Christian Service of the Methodist Church, held at North Branch, the local WSCS group won first place in a reading project and were awarded a prize of $5.

THIRTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

TOUCHDOWN . . . we all know the thrill that lifts us to our feet when OUR team scores. We cheer, we sing and shout.

It takes teamwork to put a man over that goal line. The whole team must work together to move that ball down the field . . . "the right way." The guards and tackles must hold the line. The ends must be "on target" to receive passes. The quarterback must know his plays and execute them with speed and skill.

Likewise, in the game of life we need wisdom and strength beyond our individual endeavor. It is essential to receive inspiration and help in order to achieve successfully our goals in life. Your church can provide that faith which leads to everlasting victory.

Hold rites for M. MacAlpine

Funeral services were held Saturday for Malcomb "Mac" MacAlpine, 68, lifelong resident of this community. He died Thursday, Sept. 28, at Hills and Dales Hospital, Cass City. He had been in ill health the past four years.

Mr. MacAlpine was born Oct. 14, 1903, in Grant township, Huron county, the son of Mrs. Margaret Allen MacAlpine and the late Archie MacAlpine.

He was a member of the First Baptist Church of Cass City for the past 20 years.

He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Margaret MacAlpine, Cass City; two sisters: Mrs. Howard (Margaret) Stratton, Carson City, and Mrs. Bernice Darling, Memphis; two brothers, Delbert, Owendale, and Meredith, Rochester, and a number of nieces and nephews.

One brother and his father preceded him in death.

Services were held at the First Baptist Church at 2 p.m. with the Rev. Lloyd Streeter, pastor, officiating, assisted by Rev. Jim Evans. Interment was in McTaggart cemetery in Huron county.

Little's Funeral Home, Cass City, had charge of arrangements.

AROUND THE FARM Symptoms of soil compaction

By Don Keblor

Over the past few months I have written several articles regarding soil compaction causes and preventative measures. However, I really haven't defined identification standards one can use as guidelines to determine if excessive soil compaction exists on a field.

Soil compaction is difficult to measure in the field except by use of complex instrumentation when the crops are under stress.

Regardless of this, the effects of soil compaction can be seen from the following conditions suggesting soil compaction.

These three considerations must be made and are water movement, plant growth characteristics and soil conditions. Individually, not all of the following points are proof of soil compaction, but collectively they strongly suggest a soil compaction problem.

You may also see major soil cleavage plains in the plowed layer parallel to the surface of the soil and several cubic inches of soil close to the plant which are devoid of crop roots.

Look at your crop growing conditions which usually are the quickest or soonest observed abnormalities in your field. These crop conditions suggesting compaction are — poor seed germination and plant emergence, excessive winter killing as seen in wheat and alfalfa, severe root rot problems, shallow root systems and fibrous root systems developing in cleavage plains between individual soil clods.

Also included is a high susceptibility of the crop to drought or heat damage, slow plant growth and visual plant nutrient deficiency symptoms despite the fact that ample fertilizer was used.

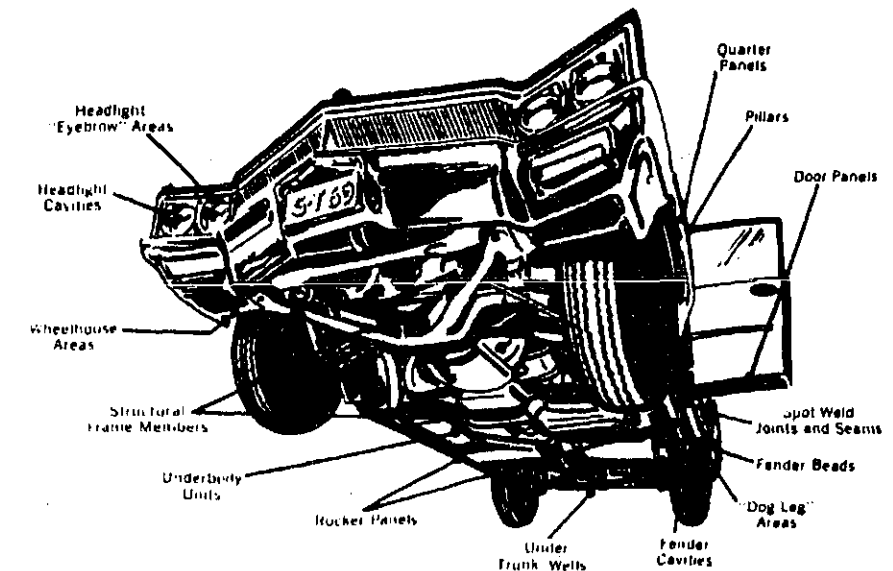

So, review the above factors and symptoms and see how many occurred on your farm in the last three years at least. If you have severe or excessive soil compaction problems on your farm or fields you would have seen many of these symptoms.

Even Easy Street has no miracle avenues leading to success.

Versatile apple

SHERRY LOWELL - EXTENSION AGENT

THE FRUIT OF A THOUSAND USES

... is a good name for the versatile apple! Not only does it offer you thrifty shoppers a good buy, but nutritional gains and delicious eating as well. Although the apple is not a major source of any one specific nutrient, it is a delightful mixture of modest amounts of a number of important ones. They provide vitamins and minerals, but not too many calories. There are only 70 calories in a medium-size apple with fruit sugars quickly available for energy. your family. Fruitful eating this season. Serve them just plain, out-of-hand or put some of these apple dishes on your table.

BAKED APPLES

Preheat oven to 375 degrees F. Wash 6 baking apples. Remove "core" of each, but do not cut through bottom of apple. Place apples in baking pan and fill with a mixture of 1 cup raisins, 1/2 cup sugar, 1 tablespoon butter, 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon and 1/2 teaspoon nutmeg. Pour 1 cup water into pan around apples. Bake 45 to 60 minutes or until apples are tender.

FROZEN APPLE SALAD

Blend 2 packages cream cheese and 1/2 cup salad dressing (or mayonnaise). Add 1/2 cup chopped pecans, 2 tablespoons chopped green peppers, 1 cup grated apple, 1/2 cup chopped canned peaches, and 1 tablespoon lemon juice. Mix well. Fold in 1 cup stiffly whipped heavy cream. Pour into refrigerator tray and freeze. Slice and serve on fresh watercress.

APPLE-PORK CASSEROLE

Place a layer of sliced, cored apples in bottom of buttered casserole, and cover with a layer of sweet potatoes. Add another layer of apples and sprinkle with brown sugar, nutmeg, cinnamon and salt lightly. Add a light layer of flaked coconut. Top with 4 medium-thick browned pork chops. Spread chops with a thick layer of orange marmalade. Bake, uncovered, in 350 degree F. oven an hour and 40 minutes. Just before serving, add another sprinkling of flaked coconut and bake just long enough to top the coconut with brown. Serve with crisp salad.

Seek less acid

New research for canning tomatoes is being contracted by Agricultural Research Service. One reason for the needed research is the development of less acid tomatoes.

In the meantime, it is recommended that home canned tomatoes be packed hot into quart glass jars and processed in boiling water at 212 degrees F. for 20 minutes. This is a longer time than previously recommended, says Mrs. Ann Ross, Thumb Extension Home Economist.

Or low acid varieties of tomatoes may be hot packed into jars and processed 10 minutes (for pints), or processed for 15 minutes (for quarts) at 5 pounds pressure in a pressure canner.

By using these methods, homemakers will probably not encounter difficulty or flat sour spoilage.

As usual, home canned tomatoes or tomato juice showing spoilage (off odor, signs of fermentation or mold growth) should be put down the household waste disposal system and should not be fed to pets or animals.

ON WINGS

People never really understand how easy it is to fly until they see their money doing it.

education are filled.

Gov. William G. Milliken suggested back in 1969, when he first unveiled his education reform plan, that the State Board of Education be abolished altogether and that the governor appoint the state superintendent of public instruction. He later modified this to have the governor appoint the board. That plan fell to partisan fighting.

Odd as change in the near future appear very dim, since many people just don't worry much how the boards are filled. All the conscientious voter can do is get that list of 31 names and start to learn what he can about each candidate: an unlikely task.

INSURANCE CHECKED

The Michigan Consumers Council has been looking into those life insurance premiums you pay for life insurance policies taken out on installment loans you're paying off.

Council President William Morrison says it looks like the consumer is paying more than he should for such insurance. But since the premiums are usually small and usually included in with the installment payment, little is done about them by the consumer.

To correct the situation, the council has presented a series of recommendations for the Michigan Insurance Bureau to stop excessive premiums and inadequate coverage.

While credit life insurance benefits both the consumer and the creditor, Morrison points out, the consumer ends up picking up the entire tab.

"It's to the consumer's advantage, since, in theory he's assured that the debt will be paid if he is incapable of doing so; and it's to the creditor's advantage, since he is assured that he will collect in the event of death or disability," he says.

Different, probably better systems are used in most states. The boards are filled by appointment by the governor with the advice and consent of the Senate, just as the governing boards for Michigan's other public institutions of higher will sell a policy and then, if a large claim is made or seems in the offing, will cancel and refund on premium payment.

In some health insurance cases, the policy may state that the holder must be permanently disabled before it will pay. Since most disabled conditions are not permanent the consumer then cannot collect, even if he is disabled for the length of the loan.

Very fortunate is the motorist who leads a wreckless life.

SLOWER PACE

The fellow who is inclined to lead a fast life should drop his anchor before it's too late.

++++++

Another problem the council found is that some companies

Planning for reception on list early

After the solemnity of the wedding ceremony, it sometimes seems as if a sky-rocket had burst when the reception begins. All tensions vanish as guests kiss the bride and wish her and the bridegroom a happy future. Surely, the wedding reception must be the most exciting of parties.

It doesn't matter whether 200 guests have been invited to a lavish reception at a club or hotel or it's a quiet home gathering of close friends and relatives. The wedding reception is the party of a lifetime.

However, like everything else connected with a wedding, a smooth-running reception takes planning. If it is to be held in a public place, reservations should be made early. Fortunately, banquet managers and caterers are most helpful.

When they are told what has been budgeted for the reception and the number of guests who will attend, they can estimate what can be served for that amount of money.

Afternoon receptions are less expensive than a wedding breakfast or dinner.

If desired, a color scheme can be specified. Many places will also arrange for flowers and musicians. Responsibility for the entire reception can be delegated with the knowledge that all will proceed smoothly on the day of the wedding.

Both teams undefeated

Frankenmuth next roadblock in Hawks' drive for Thumb B League championship

There will be no letup Friday for the Cass City Red Hawks as they continue their chase towards a Thumb B Conference championship with another crucial game at Frankenmuth. Both teams are undefeated and the winner will perch all alone on top of the conference standings.

Don't expect it to be easy, cautions Coach Roland Pakonen. The last half against Bad Axe should open our eyes. We can't afford to let down for a moment.

Let's face it, he added, we just don't have the size to dominate and overpower anyone. We've got to do it with quickness, desire and hustle. While the Hawks are undefeated, in both Thumb B clashes they have been outgained along the ground. It's been the air arm and the opportunistic play of the team that has the Hawks in the rare air of first place. We'll improve as the season progresses. Pakonen said.

we've been able to stick a few in the less experienced players in the game and it's been a great help.

The coach pointed to the offensive backfield as a case in point. Last week Scott Guinther moved into the starting backfield and now we are able to rest our entire offensive backfield while on defense. Unfortunately we haven't been able to platoon our line, he said.

Along the ground the Hawks have been outgained, but the air arm has been as great as the most ardent fan could desire. The Hawks defeated Bad Axe, 22-14.

Two of the Cass City touchdowns came on passes.

On the first play of the game Curt Strickland faded back and tossed a perfect pass to Paul Bliss who was two steps ahead of the Bad Axe safety. Bliss caught the pass without breaking stride and raced to pay dirt. The play covered 70 yards. Gene Salas ran over for the extra point.

Cass City scored again on the next series of downs. Bad Axe fumbled on its own 15 and the Hawks recovered.

The Strickland-Bliss combination set up the second score. Bliss took the pass and went to the one-yard line from where Salas pounded over for the marker.

In the closing moments of the first half, Cass City completed a pass that bounced off the hands of a Hatchet defender into the hands of Scott Hartel. Bliss then broke loose in the corner of the end zone to score again on a pass from Strickland. Salas pounded over for the extra point.

At the intermission it looked like a rout. But Bad Axe refused to quit and came bounding back. They scored on a sustained drive in the third period as Bob Carder raced 20 yards to score and then added the extra points on a pass.

Early in the fourth quarter, the Hatchets scored again. They were aided by a personal foul against Kip Hopper that kept the drive alive after it was seemingly stopped.

The coaching staff picked Dan Mellendorf as the Red Hawk of the week for his defensive play. He stopped a touchdown with a tackle, Pakonen said, and also led the team with nine individual tackles and six assists.

The improving Mellendorf wasn't even with the varsity when the season started but was moved up because of his impressive play with the Junior Varsity.

The statistics:

	CC	BA
First downs	20	18
Rushing yards	112	224
Passes complete	7/15	4/12
Yards passing	167	43
Total yardage	279	267
Passes intercepted	1	1
Fumbles lost	1	1
Punt average	3:38.2	4:34

Girl eagers suffering from rookie pains

The Cass City High School girls' basketball teams are suffering rookie pangs in their first year of Thumb B League competition.

The varsity has lost its first two games. Caro topped the Hawks 35-14 and Marlette won, 30-25.

Meanwhile the JV squad racked up the first victory for the girls this year with a 19-13 decision over Caro. The Marlette JV's defeated Cass City 23-20.

In the Caro game Patty Bergh was high scorer with 11 points while Karen Martin had 6 points and Peggy Schwartz, 4, for Cass City. Kelly Gee was credited with 3 rebounds.

In the JV game Nancy Koepgen scored six points and had four rebounds.

Marlette defeated Cass City when a rally failed after the Hawks went in front in the final quarter. Carla Ruso and Peggy Schwartz scored 6 points and Sandy Hartel scored 5 points. Sandy Hartel and Carla Ruso had four rebounds.

In the JV game Kathy Clarke scored nine points and Crystal Slaughter, 6 points, for Cass City.

Charity may begin at home, but folks become more charitable by giving to the homeless.

Caro-Cass City

JV's in tie, 6-6

The Cass City Junior Varsity staged a 60-yard drive in the second half to tie the Caro JV's last Thursday 6-6 in a game played at Caro.

Coach Skip Pranger credited the defense for holding the Tigers in check when Caro moved deep into Hawk territory several times.

In the TD drive, Ed Stoutenburg, Wayne Brooks and Don Erla picked up the yardage with Stoutenburg going over for the marker.

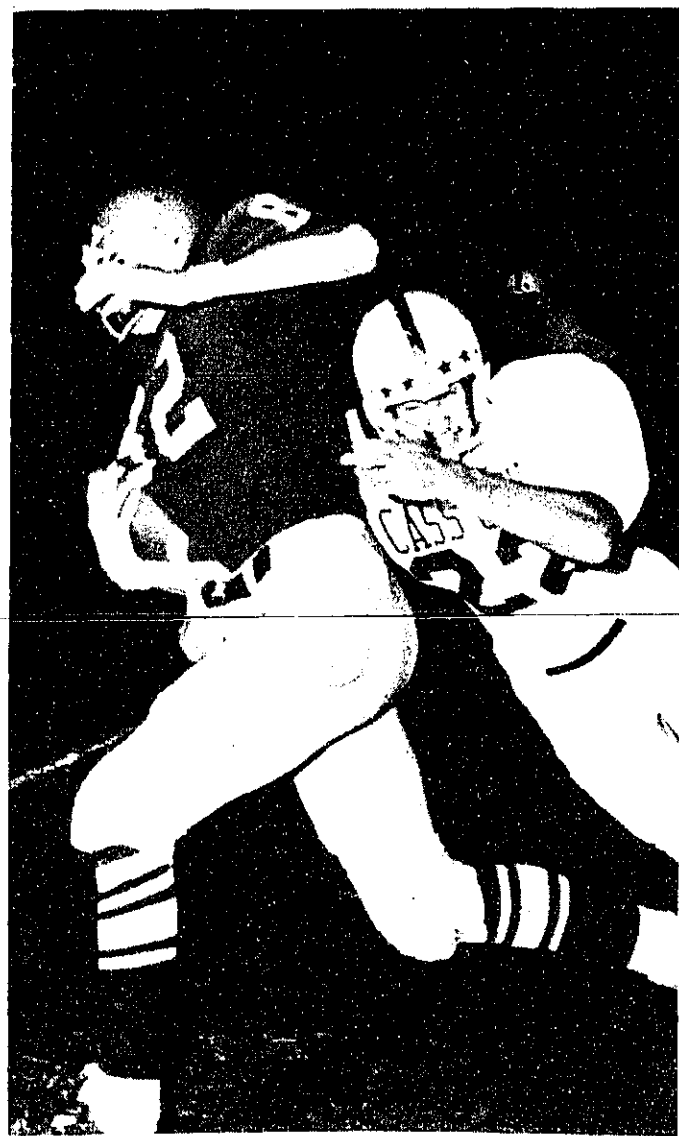

Erla was named the Junior Red Hawk of the week for his play on offense and defense.

Beautiful flowers: champion grower Carl Smith raises gladioli and irises from his own genetic crosses

By Kit McMillan

The brilliant colors of blooming gladioli against the drab clouds of the rainy morning reflect the care and enthusiasm of Carl C. Smith as he walks among his flowers.

With the critical eye of a successful flower raiser, the gray-haired Smith bent occasionally to pluck a stalk of flowers and point out a flaw in the stem or flower arrangement that would make it a loser at a show.

And he should know. He's got boxes of ribbons and trophies stashed away in the old family house located on Colwood Road just north of Cass City Road where he's lived alone the past 20 years.

He said he couldn't find most of the ribbons now anyway, but he carefully unfolded a protective layer of tissues and revealed a bronze medal awarded him in 1949 at Bay City for a strain of gladioli he crossed, now known as "Ivreee."

The American Home Medal is one of his pride and joys and was awarded for a white gladioli he grew from seed. Ivreee lasted five or six years and then seemed to deteriorate, he said almost sadly as he showed three other medals from the North American Gladiolus Society and the New England Gladiolus Society.

Walking among the white, pink, purple and red flowers surrounding his home, he explained he started raising the plants as far back as 1925 when friends gave him some bulbs. He didn't start growing them seriously until the early forties and in 1942 he began his first seedlings.

Besides being cheaper than buying bulbs, he said it was more fun because he could create his own flowers and each cross was different.

"I've always been interested in plant breeding," Smith related. He started showing while in high school and won many awards with grain exhibits.

Ivreee was his first big winner in flowers, but he's had some success over the years with other crosses. Many of his seedlings were rated in the top 100 for a number of years, and the first year he showed seedlings, five took best of show.

In Bay City his cross took almost the whole show. "Three times it happened that way," he sighed happily. Showing a photograph of 12 ribbons and at least nine silver trophies taken at one show, he said slyly, "You get those when you're not looking."

Smith said he started going to the shows to try to learn what the judges were looking for in seedlings, although he emphasized that he saved the ones he liked just because he liked them and not because they were necessarily show material.

"It isn't too hard to win ribbons if you work at it," he said, but went on to explain that sometimes it seemed like luck. One woman showed up at a Detroit show not even knowing how to display her spike of gladioli and walked off with the grand championship, he laughed.

Another time he decided to take a spike that was sitting in his basement just because it seemed a shame not to, and it also walked off with high awards.

Just winning ribbons, however, is not the sole purpose of showing. One gladioli cross he created called D304 took several reserve championship awards. But it was never established because Smith didn't think it was good enough.

"I didn't want to introduce something that isn't going to be any good," he explained, saying that about 600 new varieties of gladioli are introduced each year but most of them never last.

The crosses are made by pollinating a particular chosen plant with pollen from another plant based on the color, size and overall balance of the plants, Smith explained.

To prevent contamination, petals are broken off the lower edge of the flowers and two remaining petals are secured together by a toothpick, to protect the seed producing organ, he went on. Or little bags can be tied around the flower head, although Smith doesn't think this is entirely necessary.

In the fall the seeds are taken from the plant.

Despite his success, Smith has never made much money from his flower crosses.

"The first thing anybody asks is, 'Is there any money in it?' I just do it for fun," the old gardener explained, tenderly cradling several stalks of gladioli as he walked back to the old farm house.

Sometimes he sells a dozen flowers or a few bulbs, but it isn't his primary occupation.

He doesn't go to gladioli shows anymore either. At 69, Smith said he doesn't like to drive the distances required by an avid competitor.

He added shows now are too concerned with the judging and the judges' personal opinion anyway, making it boring for the spectator and subtracting from the purpose of the show—to create interest.

A past judge in Michigan and Ohio shows and former editor of the Michigan Gladiolus Society magazine, he can make that statement with the authority of one who has come up through the ranks.

Now Smith spends the major portion of his time experimenting with his iris plants, which have taken the place of the gladioli.

He started with the new breed in 1964 and so far has taken blue ribbons with his seedlings and two coveted exhibition certificates awarded by the American Iris Society. Five judges must concur for a seedling to win the award, he explained.

The highest award is a Dikes Medal, which he laughs about the possibilities of winning, saying he'd never get one of those. But he's very proud of his certificates.

Admitting he has too many plants to take care of now, he spends the major portion of his time in his flower gardens.

He no longer keeps accurate records of his crosses and means the uprooting of his name stakes in the iris beds by the winter snows, but adds he knew every ancestor of his Ivreee.

Now he's more concerned with growing pretty flowers, the blight that has attacked his favorite pink iris seedlings and the rest of the plants around his home.

Pointing to the yellow spots on dandelion leaves and the corn surrounding the farm home, he showed his concern with the plight of all the plants, expressing his fears about what might happen if the universities stop their research programs on plant diseases and half chiding himself for working with flowers instead of studying the plants he gestured to in the corn and bean fields behind him.

With the chill winds of winter approaching, Smith will start work sorting potatoes during the day and dig out the bulbs of his many flowers after work for storage in the basement.

The job will occupy his time through February when he'll wait out the rest of the winter until the first part of May and he can start preparing his flower beds again for their yearly show of color.

SEED PODS like these are the result of cross pollinations. Smith has crossed his own gladioli flowers for many years with success.

CARL SMITH shows an unusual iris in bloom in October, just one of the flowers in his gardens on Colwood Road. He has already won several top awards with his iris crosses.

9 criminal cases heard in circuit court

One plea of innocent was heard Monday in a busy criminal court calendar before Circuit Court Judge Norman Baguley of Tuscola county.

Roy Charles Jobson, Vassar, stood mute when arraigned on a charge of breaking and entering the Colosky's Juniata Market in Vassar township June 26. A plea of innocent was entered for him. Bond of $2500 was continued and a pre-trial scheduled for Oct. 30.

Paul Colosky, Mayville, was also arraigned in connection with the Colosky's Juniata Market break-in. He pleaded guilty to a reduced charge of larceny in a building. Sentencing is scheduled for Oct. 30.

Roy C. Palmerton, Clifford, and Daniel James Cook, Kings-ton, both pleaded guilty to attempted larceny in a building. The men were originally charged with stealing two heifers from a barn on English Road. Both will be sentenced Oct. 30.

Michael W. McCray pleaded guilty to a charge of attempted breaking and entering of an occupied dwelling. He will be sentenced Oct. 30. McCray was originally charged with breaking and entering the Lyle Ackerman home at Dixon and Kirk Road in Juniata township.

Robert Searles, Juniata, pleaded guilty to a probation violation. He will be sentenced Oct. 16. He was placed on three years' parole in January 1971 and violated it when he pleaded guilty to driving under the influence in district court in September.

In other court action, Robert Kabat, Reese, was sentenced for use of a controlled substance, barbitol, to six months in the county jail with credit for 38 days.

Ronald Kaechle, Royal Oak, was sentenced to 90 days in the county jail with credit for 16 days for simple larceny. He had pleaded guilty to the charge earlier.

In other business, a jury was selected Tuesday for the trial of Charles F. Burnash, Millington, who is charged with felonious assault with a shotgun. Burnash has pleaded innocent to the charge. The trial is expected to be completed by Friday.

CONSPIRACY TRIAL ENDS

Dan Anger, Caro, was convicted of one of three counts of conspiracy in connection with a March tractor theft from Huron county Thursday, Sept. 28, after five hours of deliberation by the jury.

The jury returned a guilty verdict to conspiracy with Conrad Mosack, Gagetown, and furnishing a truck and trailer for use in transporting the stolen property.

He was found innocent of conspiring with William A. Rentschler Jr., Munger, and Virgil L. Smith, Bay City, who pleaded guilty and were sentenced in Huron County Circuit Court for the actual theft of the $15,000 tractor from Gettel Implement Co., Pigeon.

Mosack is still at large although a warrant for his arrest was issued in March. Anger is to be sentenced Oct. 14 by Judge Norman Baguley. Bond of $2500 was continued.

4-H ACTIVITIES Seek help for Bonanza Auction

By Bernard Jardot

We ask the support of all our friends of 4-H in our State Wide 4-H Bonanza Auction at Michigan State University on Oct. 14. Basically an auction, it will need, of course, merchandise to sell, as well as buyers to purchase the donated items.

The contributions can be agricultural products and industrial items, as well as many other small articles too numerous to mention. We will collect donated items at the Wilber Memorial 4-H Building Thursday, Oct. 12, from 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m.

Baptists stage

election contest

The Sunday School of the First Baptist church started an attendance contest last week with an election theme, under the direction of Superintendent Ferris Ware.

The Sunday School has been divided into two parties, Ambassadors for Christ and Crusaders for Christ. Candidates were selected in a "primary" held Sept. 24. George Fisher Sr. is the presidential candidate for the Ambassador party, with Harold Rayl as his running mate. Running on the Crusader ticket are Dick Shaw for president and Jack Hillaker, vice-president.

Votes are tabulated each Sunday morning at "election headquarters" in the church lobby, based on attendance of members and visitors brought to Sunday School.

The local church is also competing with Caro Baptist church during the six-week contest, which ends Nov. 12.

In addition to the church-wide Sunday School contest, the junior department is staging a gubernatorial race with Sandy Guinther and George Fisher III competing. Their running mates are Lori Ewald and Scott Fisher, respectively.

Both parties are actively campaigning with visitation, posters, theme songs, slogans and demonstrations.

Tips on Travel

If you pack a magnifying glass with your maps, you'll have the undying thanks of your "navigator" who will find the job much easier.

You'll find your vacation will be more relaxing if your schedule is flexible and allows time for unscheduled stops for a welcome swim or climb to the top of a lookout tower to admire a panoramic view.

PLAN NOW to consign your snowmobile or sports vehicle to the Rotary Club's annual auction sale Sunday, Oct. 22, at Cass City Recreation Park. Call Dick Erla 872-2191 for details. 9-28-3

"IT'S A SHAME"

That a normal to value bid on the old library & fire hall building, should cause such admitted extreme shock and frustration to the low bidder that he was crying much harder after 30 days than when first exposed to the shock. The shock must have been equally severe to the local governing board also as not one in two successive meetings had the fortitude to second a motion made by Bernard Ross to accept the highest bid. Support was quickly available to deny a sale to the highest bidder.

I suppose it will be of little consolation now to those involved in this skirmishing to know that I did not want the old building in the first place.

My bid was made in the interest of the general public and to prevent the theft of or a gift of a public building with the sanction of a public body.

My mission has been accomplished, and I am no longer interested in the Old Fire Hall & Library Building.

The best laid plans of mice and men often go astray while planners and connivers may rue a latter day.
