

GOOD NEWS for citizens interested in securing more doctors in Cass City was revealed Thursday by Hospital Administrator Byron Landholt, left. Landholt said that negotiations with one physician have reached the contract signing stage.

LaPonsie eyes early spring start

6 village streets tapped for improvement in '73

Village Superintendent Lou LaPonsie has an ambitious street program outlined for the village this year and is poised to implement it as soon as conditions permit this spring.

Included in the plan is work on six village streets, an alley and three parking lots. Total village cost is expected to exceed $24,000.

Maple Street, from Main to Church, is a "major" street as designated by the State in its breakdown for use of State highway money.

Black top and curb and gutter of Maple will cost the village $6,350. Curb and gutter is paid by property owners.

A major project on Leach Street will be started this year. Six-inch water main for drainage will be installed for $7,200. It is the first step in a $25,000 project. Next year it is anticipated that curb and gutter and blacktopping will be added. The proposed work starts on Main and extends to Garfield and could make another secondary thoroughfare for factory traffic.

Houghton Street is due for a facelift, too. From Seeger to West, Houghton is expected to receive curb and gutter and blacktop.

Because of the addition of the skilled nursing home in Hills and Dales subdivision, Hospital Drive will receive a 22 foot wide blacktop. Hospital Drive completely encircles Hills and Dales General Hospital and must be used as an access road to the new nursing home.

After negotiations with Smith Builders, the council authorized new storm sewer on Hill Street. The drainage will extend 410 feet north from Church Street.

Total cost of the project is estimated at $2,000. Smith and the village will split this cost. Now that agreement is reached, Smith Builders is expected to add 20 new units to its apartment complex on Hill Street.

Trustee Bernard Ross reported that he had received the okay from property owners along the alley between West and Leach Streets, south of Main, to cooperate in blacktopping the alley.

The agreement calls for the village to place the blacktop on the alley and each property owner to blacktop at least 10 feet on their property at the same time.

The village demands this so that the edges of blacktop owned by the village will not be exposed to excessive wear.

The final road construction work calls for a double sealcoat on Vulcan, from Garfield to Church and on Third from Vulcan to Brooker Streets. The cost is estimated at $2,000.

LaPonsie explained that there is a traffic problem with trucks on this street that services the grain elevator and maintenance is high.

A double seal will hopefully reduce this cost and encourage more traffic on the road, he said.

PARKING LOTS

Finally, work will be completed on three parking lots. The parking space added to the lot north of Main and west of Seeger will be hard surfaced. There is 9,248 feet here.

Also slated for hard surface is the "Gross" lot, between Oak and Seeger, south of Main. There is 9,248 feet in this parking area leased by the village.

A small project to be completed is at the Rawson Library. For an estimated $300 the parking area west of the facility will be hard surfaced.

Problems and progress outlined

CIE watches and works towards a better school

The steering committee of the Citizens for Improved Education (CIE) has been taking a long hard look at Cass City Schools for six months now and last week three members of the group voiced opinions about current school activities and future trends.

President Don Childs, Mrs. Joyce Lane and Mrs. Theresa Burnette are in complete accord when they point to the one great achievement for the CIE in its infant months: establishing a line of communications between parents and the school.

We've been trying to establish a reputation as a constructive organization, said Mrs. Lane. We don't want to be considered just another PTA or as simply watchdogs of school operations.

We're trying to be a voice for the parents, says Mrs. Burnette, a place where the parent can be heard and his message carried to school authorities with some weight. No one listens to an individual alone, they feel.

We have at least received token consideration of our proposals, they pointed out.

We're trying to be a voice for the parents. . . .no one listens to the individual alone, they feel.

While not organized to be critical, after watching the operation for six months they have opinions.

One is that the school board doesn't take enough time to discuss expense projects. At one meeting, said Mrs. Lane, the board authorized $1,000 for repair of the gym partition without any talk about it all. I and other members feel that things like this should be talked about. . . .not just routinely okayed because it was on the agenda.

Mrs. Burnette feels that there should be a program of advancing students on the basis of ability instead of grade level and says that this type of program is working in other schools. We should at least look into it, she says.

While these are negative factors, as seen by these CIE representatives, there have been positive achievements.

One of the most significant, they feel, is the drug abuse program. Childs said that the CIE prodded and pushed this program along until it reached its present stage where a drug survey is about to be released.

The CIE intends to keep watching results and to push for more drug-education action.

Another feather in the CIE bonnet, the members said, is the traffic safety program that is now inching along again. It was halted for better than two years until we asked about progress at a board meeting and now we have school caution lights coming, they pointed out.

We still believe crossing guards are necessary, added Mrs. Lane, but caution lights are a step in the right direction.

CIE members not only watch, they work.

They are helping in the elementary schools teaching slow learners and assuming other tasks. What we need, Mrs. Burnette said with conviction, is a parent in every classroom at the school.

Other activities of the CIE will include handling a book fair at Deford, Evergreen and Cass City.

They are also plugging for two-way radios in the school buses as a safety measure. They have them at Lakers school and they are working out well, members feel.

Although they haven't been operating long enough to go through a school board election, the CIE plans to take an active part. . . .including endorsing candidates if they feel it is in the best interest of the school.

Most of these ambitious plans are now being carried on by the 17-member steering committee.

The CIE has no membership other than this. . . .but members point out that they have the names of 150 others that can be called when school conditions warrant concentrated action.

We plan to be a force in school and community affairs from now on, said Childs, as Mrs. Burnette and Mrs. Lane nodded quick agreement.

To finance 4-doctor clinic

Whirlwind fund drive set to raise $210,000

Volunteers are expected to be rapping on doors sometime this month in an effort to raise some $210,000 to build a four-man clinic on Hill Street directly east of Hills and Dales General Hospital and to fund the doctor acquisition program.

Fred Auten, co-chairman of the fund raising drive with Robert Keating, revealed the plan to some 25 interested residents Thursday night at a meeting in the basement of the hospital.

Auten expressed confidence that the money could be quickly raised and that the clinic could be ready to be occupied by June 1.

The fund raisers will be working on two campaigns simultaneously. The first will seek $60,000 in donations to fund unrecoverable costs of the program.

The money is needed to pay for the benefits guaranteed physicians and other costs in locating them in the community. They include:

- A finder's fee to the agency that successfully refers doctors to Cass City - $4,500 each doctor.
- Guarantee to doctor of $30,000 yearly salary for first year.
- Rent-free use of clinic for first year. Money will be used to pay utilities, building up-keep, taxes and related items.
- Payment of costs to entertain and show prospective physicians the community.

Auten said that he felt that major contributions by the local banks and industry would carry the load here.

The $60,000 will be turned over to the hospital board for administration because the hospital is a non-profit corporation.

Building the clinic will cost an estimated $155,000 and the Auten-Keating plan for financing it is to sell stock in a profit corporation.

Minor injuries reported in area accident

This has been a quiet week in Tuscola county with only two accidents and either minor or no injuries in the Cass City area.

Tuesday morning, Jan. 30, a two-car collision occurred at the intersection of the Crane Road and M-31 in Elklund township. According to the sheriff's report, Frederick James Nolan, 18, of 4421 Crane Road, Cass City, was heading north on the Crane Road. He stopped at the sign, then pulled out into the intersection before seeing Ralph Perry Kinney, 21, of 6461 Main Street, Cass City, who was heading east on M-31. Kinney tried to avoid the collision by pulling to the right. Slightly injured was Carol Ann Kinney, 22, who was treated and released from Hills and Dales Hospital.

The accident occurred at 7:00 a.m. The report cites Frederick Nolan for failing to yield the right of way.

Thursday, Feb. 1, at 6:50 p.m. a two-car crash occurred on M-31, a quarter-mile southwest of Cass City Road.

The sheriff's report states that Lee Raymond Kellison, 31, of Cass City, was heading southwest when he attempted to pass Roger C. Ball, 24, of 6734 Church Street, Cass City, who was heading the same direction.

The Kellison car slid out of control on the ice and struck the left rear of the Ball vehicle and the property damage accident occurred. Kellison was cited in the report for traveling at a speed too fast for the conditions.

A one-car accident at 7:10 Monday night near Sebawaing took two lives and boosted Huron county's fatality toll to an incredible total of six.

John Henry Buniack, 17, of Geiger Road, Sebawaing, was driving south on the Ridge Road when he apparently failed to negotiate a curve, left the road, and struck a tree. Buniack was killed instantly as was his passenger, Glenn Allen Lorentz, 17, of Ridge Road, Sebawaing.

Sales will range upwards from $300 minimum until the entire amount is raised.

Auten pointed out that after one year the doctors would be given the option to buy the building at whatever the going price is at the time or to lease with an option to buy.

After the first year, investors would either be making money on their investment or have the money returned, according to the committee plan.

The success of the plan naturally will hinge on a successful campaign to lure doctors here.

Thursday Hospital Administrator Byron Landholt presented an encouraging picture of this phase of the campaign.

He said that negotiations with one doctor are now at the stage where contracts are to be drawn and references checked.

In addition, at least seven or eight other prospects are interested enough in coming to the community to look it over.

That's why the ramrods of the program, Mike Weaver and Tom Proctor, are pushing so hard to see the clinic completed at once. They see it as the key to an enlarged medical staff in the community.

MANY CLINICS

The four-man clinic will not be the only available spot for doctors in the village. It was revealed that the hospital will purchase the clinic owned by Dr. H. T. Donahue and lease a portion of it back to him.

That leaves room for one more physician there.

A plan to have Paul Chappel of Mariette, a dentist, move into this building has been nixed.

Instead the Cass City Development Association (CCDA) will build and equip a dental clinic for the new arrival on a site owned by the hospital directly south of the hospital on Hospital Drive.

The CCDA was formed to promote industry in the community and stockholders are residents of the community.

FROM THE

Editor's Corner

Over the years in Cass City I've been known to bet a bob or two about nearly everything that comes along. . . .except slot machines and State lotteries.

I just can't get excited about betting against a machine when reason dictates you must end up a loser.

I can lose quick enough when the odds are even.

But other than that I get a charge out of matching my judgement against yours and challenging lady luck at the gambling table.

To do so I've gone to Las Vegas several times and to the Caribbean once.

It's only natural that I grin with anticipation over the recent proposal that the hotels in Detroit be allowed to offer gambling on a legal basis, isn't it?

It's natural, but I don't. I'm against it.

Yeah, that may be hypocritical. But I have my reasons.

Certainly, if gambling were offered in Detroit, sooner or later I'd try it. Probably sooner.

Certainly, I'd have fun doing it. And I'm not afraid of being carried away. No way could I ever allow myself to lose enough money that it would affect my family life.

To put it simply, I'd rather play poker than ride a snow-mobile.

But let's face it. When legalized gambling comes in, a whole new ball game starts.

It's an unreal world. One trip to Vegas will prove this.

Granted, Detroit may never develop into a Las Vegas. But when gambling comes the same old crowd comes with it.

When I was in Antigua, for instance, I recognized two of the guys in the casino at the Holiday Inn there because I'd seen them in Vegas.

And how long do you feel it would be before gambling came to Bay City, Saginaw and Flint if it were okayed in Detroit?

No way could they close the door here and leave it open in Detroit.

I'd just as soon not have my teen exposed to the Las Vegas syndrome that close to home.

When he's an adult it's a different story. Then maybe we can go to Vegas together.

A once-in-a-while lark. Let Nevada take my money and do with it what it will.

That's vacation dough, anyway. Expendable. For everyday living I'll take the staid old Thumb where the highlight of the week just might be the weekly high school basketball game.

Or at most that penny-ante poker game at the home of a friend.

"If It Fitz . . ."

Just 4 little words

BY JIM FITZGERALD

The original thought, I guess, was that Chris couldn't eat words but, what the heck, she never eats anything else for breakfast, either. So she gets words. In notes. It all began with 2-shift school, last September. Daughter Chris, a hippie-haired junior, is on the morning shift. Her first class is at 7 a.m. which means she must get up at 5 to allow time for combing and dressing and groaning in front of the mirror. It takes time to try on 1,345 outfits and then head for classes in overalls, dirty shoes, sweat shirt and a sleeveless sweater that would have been tight on her 3 years ago. (The layered look makes hand-me-downs look fashionable.)

couldn't go to bed without writing something, because Chris expected to hear from me. She would wake me up at 5 a.m. and demand to know why I hadn't written. One night recently the writing well was unusually dry. I finally scrawled 4 quick words and let it go at that. The next morning, there was no answer from Chris. She usually writes on the back of the note from her Mother and me. But our note was gone. Chris explained at dinner. She had taken the note to make sure it wasn't lost. She wanted to keep it because she was so pleased at what I'd written. My 4 words were: "I love you - Columbo." "You don't say that enough," she said. Hmmm. If you'll excuse Columbo some philosophy, I'd say the whole world doesn't say that enough. Write someone a love note today.

Distribute area '73 phone books

One of the most widely used publications in the United States--the telephone directory--is now being delivered to General Telephone customers in Caseville, Cass City, Elkton and Kingston. Jim Courtney, customer service manager for the company, said although there are no major format changes in the new directory, he suggests customers familiarize themselves with the location of important information within the directory.

The alphabetical index and table of contents for the directory appear on the inside front cover and the list for frequently called numbers appears on the inside back cover. A localized exchange area map, printed in conjunction with the Continental U. S. Area Code Map, also appears again in the directory.

"Places for you to write in emergency numbers are conveniently located on Page One," Courtney pointed out. "We want the location of these numbers readily available and easy to find." Instructions for all types of calls--station-to-station, person-to-person, conference, collect, overseas, mobile and marine--and a graphic description of both interstate and intrastate long distance rates appear in the introductory pages of the new directory. Included is an explanation of the discounts applicable for dialing intrastate long distance calls direct.

Political parties cut debts; still seek funds

Michigan's two major political parties did a quite unusual thing last year: they made money, an operating profit. That's not to say either party is rolling in clover now, since the situation is far from that. But both the Republican and Democratic parties were able to make sizeable dents in the debts they have piled up in recent years despite the fact they were involved in presidential and senatorial races. The Democratic Party has a much smaller debt than the Republicans, owing $40,000 compared to the $725,000 owed by the Republicans. A lot of the Republican debt is owed to affluent party members who make loans to the party, so there is little worry of massive foreclosures.

remaining $230,000 owed by the United Republican Fund, which operates in Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties. The Republican debt includes about $100,000 owed from the 1968 presidential campaign and another $100,000 owed from Lenore Romney's disastrous Senate campaign of 1970. Both parties anticipate new fund raising efforts this year to help cut down the deficit and--in the case of the Democrats--possibly eliminate it altogether. Both spend a great deal of time worrying about money. Despite all the other factors talked about in the political arena, the truth is still, as former California House Speaker Jesse Unruh once put it, that "money is the mother's milk of politics." Without money, the parties cannot be effective.

The Democrats were able to cut $140,000 from their debt. Two years ago, it stood at $180,000. This was done while the party was contributing about $180,000 to the presidential campaign of Sen. George McGovern and the senate campaign of Attorney General Frank J. Kelley. The party also had an operating budget of $300,000 each year for salaries, offices and supplies, meaning it raised roughly $1 million over the two year period. In addition, McGovern forces raised approximately $400,000 for the general election and Kelley raised about $300,000. The Republicans cut more off their debt--about $230,000. But they started out owing about $1 million, so they're still far behind. Party spokesmen say about $495,000 is owed by the state GOP headquarters with the figures compiled by the Michigan Tourist Council. The council divides the state into four regional areas and studies each area separately. The areas are the Upper Peninsula, the western side of the state, the eastern side minus Detroit and southeastern Michigan and the portion not counted in the eastern side. The Detroit area, including eight counties in and surrounding Detroit, showed the greatest increase in tourism last year, with hotels, motels and campgrounds averaging a 12 per cent increase in business. Restaurants had an increase of 20 per cent in business over 1971.

The remainder of the eastern side was just a little above the previous year. The area enjoyed a record winter season, up 11 per cent in business, while the spring and fall were about the same as 1971. The western side of the state had an overall increase in tourist related business of 11.3 per cent while the Upper Peninsula had an increase of 8 per cent. The increase in tourism, of course, can bring extra problems in terms of pollution of the environment. Pollution includes everything from paper wrappers thrown from cars to overuse of forests and streams. One of the problems the state now faces, and government is working on it from several different angles, is how to expand tourism and the rest of the economy and at the same time preserve the beauty unique to this state that brings the tourists in. Overuse of the land and resources, if left unchecked, could ruin the very things that attract people here in the first place.

Rabbit tracks

By John Haire

(And anyone else he can get to help)

Everything's topsy-turvy this winter. The weather has been spring-like for about three weeks. So has the dog problem. Most always complaints about dogs running loose reach crescendo proportions every spring. But Chief Gene Wilson says that complaints are already rolling in this year. He reminds owners that their dogs will be picked up and that the law requires they be tied within the village.

We overheard on the Main stem the other day that one farm family that lives southeast of Cass City has six; that's s-i-x, snowmobiles. Anyway you figure it that's a bundle of dough to have parked in the garage most of the winter.

One guy I know sympathizes with the problems of snowbug owners, but is grinning all the same. He's Bill Zemke who used to own a couple, but sold them both and now has none.

There's no figuring this weather. Even the Farmer's Almanac was way off, says Mrs. Dorothy Phillips, who told me to "forget it" when I asked what that venerable publication had to say about this winter's 55-degree days.

Cass City may soon become known as the home of district governors of International Service Clubs. Tom Proctor just completed a year as a district governor of Rotary.

Now Allen Witherspoon is making a pitch to be a Lions District prexy. You've got to be dedicated to do it. District president means work, work, work and without salary. And every district governor I ever talked to indicated that the post was assumed at a good deal of personal financial expense.

Cliff Ryan ran an ad last week announcing that he and his wife would close for 10 days for a Florida vacation. The Ryans are basking in the sun right now.

Before he left Cliff reported that he wished he could figure out a sale ad that would bring the response that the vacation notice ad did last week. Maybe when he returns tanned and refreshed he'll think of one.

The United States Postal Service feels that the war in Vietnam is really over. Kaput. And so is mail delivery of newspapers to soldiers stationed there.

The Service announced this week that they could no longer deliver papers to this battle area. The Chronicle will add remaining terms of subscriptions to other designated subscribers, if desired. For right now we will hold up the subscription and begin it again when instructed.

UP AND UP

SCOUTING'S 63rd Anniversary Celebration

Scouting. It Knows No Limits

There are no city limits or county lines in Scouting. A boy is a boy, whether he comes from a big metropolis or a farming community. His interests may differ, but his high goals never vary—working to better the community or working at developing a personal skill. He will give his all to achieve good sportsmanship as well as to conservation. He is a realist who deals honestly with himself on all counts. Bright, alert and proud of what he stands for, the only limit he might strive for is the sky. We think he'll make it.

Learning The Skills Of Living

SCOUTING TODAY'S A LOT MORE THAN YOU THINK

In order to progress as a Scout, a boy is required to learn new skills—all of which help him to become a more competent human being as well as a better neighbor. A Scout must be tested on several new skills each time he moves up in rank. His options include exercises in Community Living and Conservation, Camping, Hiking, Citizenship, Swimming, First Aid, Family Living, Cooking, Communications, Physical Fitness and Environment. Distinct from merit badges, Skill Awards demand completion of several different projects in the particular field. Result: achievement!

Scout Oath

"ON MY HONOR I will do my best to do my duty to God and my country and obey the Scout law; to help other people at all times!; to keep myself physically strong, mentally awake and morally straight." Happy birthday to the Boy Scouts.

While attention was focused on more spectacular issues, the Michigan Legislature last year quietly slipped through a name change for many of the state's mental institutions. July 1 the Caro State Home and Training School will become the Caro Retardation Center.
The name change is a reflection of the many changes that have occurred in the institution since it was designated the Caro State Home and Training School in 1968 by another Act of Legislature. The institution no longer serves the entire state. Now, a regional facility, it serves the four county area of Huron, Saginaw, Sanilac, and Tuscola.

The focus is no longer on being a "home" where the retarded are admitted as infants and expected to live out their lives in isolation from the community. Instead, the facility is to serve as an intensive training center concerned with potential community placement. "The focus is toward acting as a community service, developing community programs, working closely with the Act 54 Boards, providing diagnostic and evaluation services", stated Dr. Marlin Roll, Superintendent of the newly designated Caro Retardation Center.
The term training school has also caused misconceptions. One young man wrote to ask why the institution wasn't under the auspices of the Department of Corrections rather than the Department of Mental Health.

The new law, which renames the Caro State Home, designates the institution under the jurisdiction and control of the Mental Health Department "for the humane, curative, scientific, educational and economical treatment of mentally ill or mentally retarded persons".
Rules on tutoring for GI Bill students recently were liberalized, making it easier for students in need of tutoring to qualify.

PRECIOUS PACKAGE

This picture of Carla makes me think of an old proverb my mother used to quote: "Precious things come in small packages."
Go ahead, mark me down for a doting dad. I'm quick to admit that my little girl is precious to me. With her loving arms about my neck I feel richer than a king. I walk into a room and see her eyes light up — so who wants to be president? As she snuggles down among the blankets, I kiss her and tell myself that I'll give her the best, now and always.
That's why I take her to church every Sunday. I want God to be a part of Carla's life from the very first. I know that an understanding of God and His love will ensure my daughter's well-being far beyond any material gift I could give her.
God's goodness is yours for the taking. Enrich your life. Go to your church, and take your family with you.

Explain retarded center to Catholic women

St. Pancratius Women's Council held their regular monthly meeting Monday, Feb. 5, at the new parish hall. Twenty-two members and one guest were present.
Speaker was R. DeeWoell, director of community relations at the Caro Retardation Center. She showed slides concerning residents at the home and explained the roles individuals can play in helping as volunteers, under the program called the "Foster Grandparent" program. She also stated that donated items are accepted at the center.
Fr. Leo Gengler urged members to participate in the Key 73 program.
Small chairs and tables were purchased for a classroom in the new parish hall. The group decided to use part of the proceeds from a bingo party to furnish another classroom. Helen Rutkoski and JoAnn Smithson are chairmen of the party.
Anyone interested in doing volunteer work at the Caro State Home is invited to meet at the St. Pancratius parking lot Feb. 18 at 1:30 p.m. when a group will go to the facility to learn more about the opportunities for volunteer service. There is no obligation for attending.
Refreshments were served by Toby Weaver, Elsie Hahn, Agnes Gruber and Marcella Vatter.

There's no charge. Calls are not traced and will not appear on the telephone bill. Caro area residents should dial the local number, 673-6147, for direct service.

Help Line is currently open from 4:00 p.m. to 12 midnight

OEO programs
budget cuts

The Office of Economic Opportunity for the Thumb area is living in a rapidly changing atmosphere these days since President Nixon indicated that it was due to feel the axe in his budget cuts. The best guess from F. LeRoy Marion, the head of the program, is that some items that now stand by themselves like low budget housing will continue to operate, while other programs such as the manpower program, will switch to other agencies, such as social service.

Tuesday, OEO was given the word that Headstart, the program dealing with giving youngsters an early start in a school oriented atmosphere, will be continued this year and it is possible that other programs, already financed for the year or part of the year, will continue until at least the fiscal year is over July 1.

Gagetown buys land for sewage system

The Gagetown Village Council purchased 14 acres of land, for a total cost of $7,000, to be used as a lagoon for the proposed village sewage system at Monday night's council meeting. The property was purchased from the Gagetown Development Corporation. Two Revenue Sharing Checks for 1972 were received. They totaled $4,934 and $4,714. The council also voted to seek access from the village to a Class A road. The action is aimed at allowing heavy trucks, that may be over the road weight limit, to serve the village business and industries.

Trusties skip
jail; return

Claude William Bell, 28, of 6368 Huron Street in Cass City is now serving time in the Tuscola county jail without benefit of trustyship and the same situation holds true for Richard Hutchinson, 41, of the Caro area. Bell and Hutchinson walked away from the jail Jan. 27 while each was a trusty. They walked away separately, while out of the cell area, and while Hutchinson returned of his own volition several hours later, Bell returned the following morning.

The under-20 age group places the most calls and the largest number of these concern dating, peer pressure and parent-child relations. While all calls are important, it's disturbing to note the large number of drug and problem pregnancy calls. Except for summer months, these two types of calls consistently account for 10 per cent each of all calls received or one-fifth of the total which now stands at about 1400.

Other kinds of calls include loneliness, depression, marital problems, venereal disease, suicide, runaways, child abuse and requests for general information on a variety of subjects. Volunteers are trained under the direction of Marge Clos, psychologist, with the aid of professional persons from the Caro State Home staff. The Tuscola County Players share their talents by presenting mock phone calls which the trainees are required to answer. Volunteers offer two services to callers, listening and referral. Many calls require nothing more than an empathic listener to help the caller find the solution to his problem. Other calls may present a problem which requires referral to an agency handling that type of problem. Volunteers have at their disposal a referral directory listing these agencies. In addition to the Sheriff's Department and local hospitals, professional help is provided by Dr. Clos and Dr. Fulvio Ferrari, psychiatrist, who are on 24-hour call to handle Help Line emergencies.

Help Line began its operation on September 27, 1971 with an initial $1,000 donation from the Tuscola County Sheriff's Office. It continues to operate through the generous donations of clubs and organizations all over Tuscola county. Help Line always needs money and volunteers. If you'd like to join or contribute to this countywide project, contact one of the following persons: Pres. John Burns, 683-2554, Vice-Pres. Joan Chapin, 673-6476, Sec.-Treas. Edythe Lado, 827-2067, Trainer Marge Clos, 673-3191 or Board Member, Dick Allen at the Tuscola County Advertiser, 673-3181.

Thumb B title up for grabs

Suddenly it's a race again! Cass City over Eagles, 71-60

DAVE HILLAKER, number 32, has his jump shot working again. He was functioning full-tilt Friday in a victory over Frankenmuth. Number 23 is Frankenmuth's Piesko who played an outstanding defensive game for the losers.

THUMB B LEAGUE (Friday, Feb. 2)

W	L
Sandusky	8 2
Cass City	7 3
Frankenmuth	7 3
Lakers	7 3
Caro	6 4
Vassar	3 7
Marlette	1 9
Bad Axe	1 9

Suddenly it's a Thumb B Conference race again. A race that is more apt than not to go to the final game of the season when it will be showdown time between Cass City and Sandusky.

This delightful turn of events for Cass City fans came Friday after the Hawks raced past Frankenmuth, 71-60, and Caro upset Sandusky, 76-73.

Now the Hawks go into the easier portion of the league schedule starting at Marlette Friday. Following a tough non-league encounter with Harbor Beach Tuesday, the schedule calls for conference tilts against Vassar and Bad Axe.

It is hoped for awhile as if Cass City's season was going from bad to worse against the Eagles.

In the first five minutes, the hosts turned it on to race into a 14-1 lead as most of their shots found the mark and the Hawks were unable to buy a bucket.

But then Fred Hurlbert's charges turned to the weapon that has proved successful in the last half of the season to turn the game around: the full court press.

It changed the tempo of the game and before the Eagles adjusted, Cass City had scored 17 straight points to go into a 21-14 lead.

It was a game of ups and downs. The Hawks continued to roll along in the second quarter and at the intermission were in front, 37-28.

But Frankenmuth came to life early in the third quarter and outscored the Hawks, 12-1, to move into a one-point lead midway in the period.

But that was the end. Cass

City stiffened and the lead whipsawed back and forth for a few moments before the Hawks went in front to stay. At the end of three quarters, Cass City was in front, 51-47. Still, it was anybody's ball game until late in the final period. Cass City was in front by six and went into a controlled ball offense.

Frankenmuth fouled in desperation and when Cass City converted most of its attempts it was all over for the host team. There were many individual bright spots for Cass City. Sophomore Jerry Toner turned in his best game since moving up from the Junior Varsity, scoring 15 points and handling the ball well.

Dave Hillaker continued his outside sharpshooting to score 22 points to lead all scorers. Paul Bliss played his usual sharp floor game while chipping in 16 markers. Other scorers for Cass City were Nick Gibas, 6, Scott Hartel, 4, and Randy Wright, 8. Frankenmuth's scoring was well divided with three players, Rummel, Hublinger and Kar-kus in double figures.

JUNIOR VARSITY

The Cass City JV team had no one to match the height of the Frankenmuth Junior Varsity players and Frankenmuth had little trouble racking up an easy 80-52 decision.
