

KEN CHURCHILL of Thumb Appliance Center, tunes the dial of this early 1920's radio on display in his shop. Churchill will retire April 1 after more than 40 years in electronics.

'Horse & buggy' days of radio recalled

By Jim Ketchum

On a muddy spring day in the early 1930's, a young man from Cass City hitched up a horse and buggy and drove south and east of town on badly rutted back roads. He'd received word that a woman who lived on a farm needed him, and, since these roads were impassable for the cars of the day, the one-horse buggy was the only way.

He packed the tools he would need. These included testing equipment, pliers, screw drivers and radio tubes, along with a battery and some wire. He was making a service call on a radio.

The man's name is Ken Churchill of Thumb Appliance Center who will become "semi-retired" around April 1.

Ken began fixing radios and viotrolas over 40 years ago when battery power instead of house current supplied the needs of a fledgling entertainment medium.

"One of the problems we had in those early days was how to test equipment in houses with no 110-volt current," Ken recalled, sitting on a stool near his workbench. "I finally rigged up a car generator to produce regular alternating current and mounted it on my car. Then, whenever I needed it, all I had to do was drop it into place and tighten a belt."

Ken began in the 1920's studying radio operation and engineering, hoping to become a commercial operator on board a ship or at a radio station. Then the Depression hit and he drifted into radio repair. "Anything to make a nickel," Ken smiled.

From 1930 to 1935 Ken worked for a jeweller in Cass City named John May who added radio repair to his business as a sideline. In 1936, Ken left May and went to work for Thumb Electric, as it was known in those days.

It was the age of the Atwater-Kent, Grigsley-Grano, Majestic and Radiola radio sets. Stations in Michigan were few and weak, and originated in Detroit.

"We began repairing these sets on a part-time basis because there wasn't enough demand," Ken said. "But by the early to mid-1930's, nearly everyone had one, even before Detroit Edison came through, and that was in 1937 or '38."

Ken said the old sets used a series of batteries which might get a listener through the winter, but not generally. Battery failures made up the bulk of early service calls.

Ken, whose modern steel-rimmed glasses and easy-going manner little belie his 65 years, said he repaired his first black-and-white television set in 1947.

"A Rotary Club official came up here about that time and addressed a group of members," he said, "and told the group that we never would have television here. Of course he was wrong."

Ken said that early television sets came in 10, 12 and 16-inch models usually built in large cases and sold for as much as $500. He recalled that a local tavern owner purchased a 10-inch set with built-in record player and paid $1000 for it.

He recalled with a smile the time he received a call for a new picture tube for a color set. He asked the woman on the phone just how she knew she needed a picture tube.

"Because my husband shot it out Saturday night," she told me.

He said the man came home and didn't like what his wife was watching and, when she refused to change channels, grabbed a pistol and shot out the tube.

Not long ago, Ken said, a man walked sheepishly into his shop and asked him if he could look at a color TV for him.

"He was driving here from Caro, going lickity-split down M-31, when his TV set slid off the back of his pickup and landed upside down on the pavement," Ken said. "It skidded a long way before he could get stopped and the top was sanded smooth."

"Well, we took it in and, after I tightened up a few things, I plugged it in and turned it on. Darned if it didn't work just fine."

He said in his early days, phonographs were all hand-wound and used either steel or cactus needles to play records. Phonograph springs, which drove the turntables, were his biggest headache, he said, because they were packed in graphite grease barrels when they came from the factory and it took forever to find them in the grease.

Today Ken repairs the most sophisticated color TV sets and uses modern equipment not dreamed of even 25 years ago.

He said that after he leaves Thumb Appliance, he plans to open a shop in his home and work on a part-time basis. He shakes his head at the thought of complete retirement.

"I want to have a little something to do," he said, "a few light jobs and maybe once in a while a service call or two. But nothing real big. Besides," he added with a twinkle in his eye, "I'd like to be able to lay in bed once in a while in the morning."

He said he and his wife, Phyllis, would like to travel in Canada and visit some of their children more often.

When asked to sum up some of his thoughts on nearly 45 years in the radio and TV repair business, Ken pondered a moment.

"Well, it's a way of life," he said. "It's had its share of interesting aspects. I don't recommend it to everybody because some people don't like troubleshooting. But there's been fun in it."

DICK HAMPSHIRE

JIM WARE

Hampshire and Ware were nominated after current council members Gladys Albee and Arthur Holmberg both announced they would not seek re-election to the two-year post. Mrs. Albee had served eight years on council while Holmberg was a member for three years. Both cited personal reasons for leaving.

Hampshire, 43, has been a partner in the Harris-Hampshire Insurance Agency of Cass City since 1954 and has lived in the village for 20 years. He is married and has three children.

Hampshire said in an interview that street improvement ranked high on the list of priorities for Cass City in the next two years. He cited the need for more curb and guttering along with street repaving. He said that while this might mean more taxes for homeowners, he felt such special assessments would be approved.

Hampshire also said more off-street parking is needed and advocated upgrading non-metered lots.

He said, in addition, improvements must be made on the sewage disposal plant to meet the expanding needs of Cass City. He said he expects voter approval of any extra monies needed for such a purpose.

Ware, 37, currently serves as vice-president and treasurer of Walbro Corporation and has lived in Cass City all his life. He is married and has three children.

Ware said late last week that capital improvements, specifically the swimming pool and development of new park land are two of the more important issues facing the new council.

"I don't know if any issue has reached a crisis state, he said. "I'm not crusading for anything."

Since the state failed to deliver its share of matching funds to finance the pool project, he said, there would be

Report 2 minor thefts in Cass City area

Cass City Police Chief Gene Wilson reported another unusually quiet week, with only two larcenies to mar an otherwise clean slate. He said, however, that he expects things to pick up with the approach of warmer weather.

Saturday, a tool box containing a set of socket wrenches and several other tools was stolen from the garage of Duane Horne, 4118 S. Seeger. Police report no leads as yet in the case.

At 12:35 p.m. Sunday, police received a call from William "Miss Sr. stating that a one-and-a-half-ton hydraulic jack had been stolen sometime during the night from his milk station. The case is still under investigation.

Community pride and spirit may be things of the past in many localities, but both remain alive and well in Gagetown, pop. 403, thanks in good measure to people like Fred Sullivan and Gary May of Evans Products Co.

They looked for a special way to say "thanks" to the school for the use of the elementary gym and at the same time, to do something worthwhile for Gagetown. That's why they decided to raise some money for repairs and extra equipment in the gym and, in the process, to have and give a good time. With the help of the WNEP TV 5 basketball All Stars, they did just that last Saturday night.

extra difficulty financing it. However, he cited the 78 percent voter approval of the project last summer as evidence of community support.

He said he foresees no great difficulty securing extra assessments for any street improvements. However, the council would have to deal with each street individually, he said.

Voters may cast ballots at the Elkland Township Fire Hall from 7:00 a.m. to 8:00 p.m.

Only two incumbents will vie for the three contested seats on Gagetown's Board of Trustees in next Monday's election.

The two, LeRoy P. Stapleton and William F. Stapleton, are seeking re-election to the six-man board for two-year terms.

LeRoy Stapleton, Republican, has served on the board for six years and is completing his third term. A lifelong resident of Gagetown, he is employed as a builder.

William F. Stapleton, Democrat, is seeking his second term on the board and has lived in Gagetown for the past ten years. He is employed at J. P. Burroughs & Sons, Inc.

The third seat will be filled by a write-in candidate.

FRED SULLIVAN, KEN NYE and Gary May, three of Evans Products Aces who played in last Saturday's benefit game against the TV 5 All Stars.

'Thank you' game nets $325 for Gagetown gym

By Jim Ketchum

The idea began with Sullivan, a bookkeeper whose open collar and ready wit are familiar fixtures at Evans.

"For the last two years, the school has let our employees use the gym for recreation at no cost to us," he said, gesturing in the direction of the school. "We began asking ourselves why we couldn't do something for the school."

He laughed as he recalled how the idea for the game came to him.

"We kicked the idea around for awhile and so finally I called Channel 5 sometime in October or November and asked them what could be done. The only open date they had was March 3, so we took it."

Sullivan's friend and co-worker at Evans, Gary May, added that it really came about by accident.

"This whole thing started out as a big joke," he said, brushing his greying, shoulder-length hair off his forehead, "and Fred took us seriously."

Once begun, the project snowballed. Principal Bill Britt organized a group of eighth-graders to print and sell tickets.

As an added incentive, 10 tickets to a Saginaw Gears hockey game were given away, two each to the top three ticket sellers and two each to the students who produced the two best posters promoting the game.

Britt said that most of the money raised will probably be used for physical education gang, none is so in spirit. "We don't care if we win or not," May said before the game as a big grin flashed across his moustachioed face. "We just want to come and have a good time."

The Gagetown gym was built in 1938 as part of a cooperative effort between taxpayers and the federal government. A total of $16,000 was raised through a special bond issue and another $14,000 came from the Public Works Administration. Currently it serves as a part-time classroom area as well as elementary school gym. Many of those 1938 items such as scoreboard, clock and seats still remain.

The Evans Products Aces lost a hard-fought game to the TV 5 All Stars, 59-54, Saturday night before a standing-room-only crowd at the Gagetown Gym. A total of $325 was raised for gym improvements.

mats and for protective padding around metal posts in the gym. He said during a sixth-grade game he was coaching that these two items are most pressing right now. He said that items such as backboards and game clocks would probably come out of other funds allotted by the school board.

Britt, who one day last week found himself teacher, basketball coach and bus driver as well as principal all in the same day, said that this is the first activity of its kind in his memory for Gagetown. Each year special funds are raised for items such as projectors, record players and tape recorders, but these usually involve bake sales, talent shows and door-to-door collections.

Sullivan says he is not concerned how the board spends the money raised at the game. "We just want it used in the gym," he said.

FROM THE Editor's Corner

Tom Yawkey has evidently just discovered what the average baseball fan has known for a decade. Baseball isn't what it used to be.

For you poor souls who always read the front page instead of the sports page, Yawkey is the benevolent owner of the Boston Red Sox. That's benevolent like in feeling baseball is a sport, and winning the pennant is more important than turning a profit.

That's benevolent like in unzipping the pocketbook a quarter of a century ago to try and buy a winning team and to hell with the costs.

Have I said enough so you get the picture? Yawkey is a fan who happened to have enough money to buy a baseball team.

There used to be lots of them. In Chicago, where the Wrigley chewing gum made the money to support the Cubs, or in Detroit when Walter Briggs

Canny cow connives to dash away from last corral

Maybe there is something in this extrasensory perception and if there is, cows belonging to Erla Packing Co. have it.

Tuesday a truck load of cattle was headed for the last round-up at Erla's slaughterhouse south of Cass City and one steer seemingly got the message, and promptly debarked right under the traffic light on the corner of Main and Seeger Streets.

Never mind that cows these days are bringing $500 or so on the hoof and that hamburger is worth around $1.00 a pound. This bossy had had it, or rather had made up its mind not to have it at all.

In non-typical steer fashion it tossed its head into the wind, eyed available escape routes and took off full steam ahead down Seeger Street with the herdsmen and a bunch of laughing high school students in hot pursuit.

It reminded veteran observers of an incident several years ago when a whole herd waiting for the packer busted out and scattered over the countryside.

It took six months before the last of this wild bunch was rounded up and returned. For awhile there was a rodeo everyday south of town.

While this week's rebel wasn't quite this successful it was the key to a merry chase while it lasted.

The animal veered down Pine and then cut out across a sea of mud towards Seeger, taking refuge in an empty garage.

Trapped but not conquered the elusive bovine bolted away when the herdsmen tried to halt it and romped for several minutes before returning to the garage, eventual capture and a spot in that great corral in the sky.

My teachers will never believe it when I tell them why I'm late, one grinning youth reported.

Funny, he didn't seem to care at all.

THE SIGN says "stop", but this steer obviously didn't get the message Tuesday morning. The animal escaped from a cattle truck headed for Erla's slaughterhouse and rambled through six blocks of town before being cornered in a garage.

A lie has to keep moving or the truth will nail it down.

"If It Fitz..."

The sergeant & friend

BY JIM FITZGERALD

A few days after I wept to see the POW's come home on TV, there was something else about the military on the tube.

It was R.H.I.P. Waller Cronkite or one of his cruthe henchman was telling how the Pentagon spent $16 million yearly training soldiers and sailors to be servants for generals and admirals. Thousands of enlisted men spend their military careers shining the general's boots, or pushing his wife's shopping cart through the supermarket.

"R.H.I.P.," explained the TV announcer, "Rank Has Its Privileges."

And whamo, it was nostalgia time. The first time I'd heard that R.H.I.P. jazz was in 1945, in Camp Polk, La.

Both wars were over. Army camps were bulging with civilian-soldiers like me, doing little more than drink beer and count the days until the discharge came. I was a sergeant by then, with overseas service behind me and only a few more months before I would go home and drink beer and count the days until the unemployment checks came.

For the first time in my military career, I wasn't sleeping in a barracks room full of foul-mouthed, messy soldiers who talked and looked as bad as I did. Instead, I had the private room at the end of a barracks, and only 1 roommate, Pfc. John McDonald of Topeka, Kansas. We rated this luxurious privilege by virtue of exemplary conduct, battlefield bravery, and the fact we got into the room first and locked the door until our homestead was firmly established in our footlockers.

The company commander, a Capt. Parker, came inspecting one day. He looked at me, and he looked at McDonald, and then he gestured for me to follow him into the hall.

"R.H.I.P.," the captain whispered to my ear.

"Huh... sir?" I asked.

"Rank Has Its Privileges," Capt. Parker said. "You're a sergeant. You don't have to share your room with that Indian if you don't want to. He's only a P.F.C."

The captain then left, leaving me to consider a switch in roommates. McDonald was an Indian, despite his name which I had accused him of stealing from a wagon train. And there were several paleface corporals and sergeants in the barracks room who would be tickled to exchange bunks with McDonald if I wanted to exert my holy rank.

I didn't. And that night Chief McDonald and I drank firewater and did a war dance outside the captain's quarters. It might have been the first peaceable protest. Not one scalp taken.

I might add that Pfc. McDonald had spent several months in a German POW camp.

I might also add that things haven't changed a lot since 1945. Now, as then, there is much to weep about.

staff reporter

That new face at the Chronicle belongs to Jim Ketchum, who joined the staff March 1 as a reporter.

Ketchum came to Cass City from East Lansing where he was graduated from Michigan State University with a degree in journalism. He was born in Lansing and lived most of his life in the mid-Michigan area.

He lives in Cass City with his wife, Alice, who worked as a librarian at MSU for the past four years and holds a masters in library science from University of Illinois.

Tuscola County gives 6% more
to Xmas seals

Tuscola county residents have contributed $9,726 to the traditional Christmas Seal campaign conducted by the Michigan Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association, as of February 26.

This is a 6 percent increase over last year's total, reports Robert A. Clowater, MD, president of the Saginaw Valley Region of the Michigan Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association. He added that overall state contributions have reached 98 percent of the $925,000 campaign goal, excluding the Detroit Metropolitan area.

Residents in Tuscola county who have not yet answered their Christmas Seal appeal letter are urged to do so by Dr. Clowater. The campaign officially ends the last day of March and the funds contributed will help the Christmas Seal Association to continue its efforts in the control of tuberculosis and other respiratory diseases.

Rabbit tracks

By John Haire

(And anyone else he can get to help)

Retract, retract, retract.

That's the word from the Gagetown Aces after they played the TV-5 All-Stars Saturday in the Gagetown gym.

The Evans Products boys say no way are they over-the-hill. I just can't understand that reasoning. After all the Aces did lose to the TV-5 All Stars.

Everyone knows that writers and broadcasters are notorious on the playing field. Notoriously inept.

If you can't beat players in the communication field who can you beat?

It's first come, first served again. The new Michigan State Highway maps arrived at the Chronicle for free distribution.

One to a customer, please, as long as our limited supply lasts. When the maps here are gone, free ones are available by writing the highway department at Lansing.

Friday's loss to Sandusky in basketball was a tough one. The toughest for the team in recent years. It is pleasing to report that there were no demonstrations and no fights between players or fans after it was over.

It should help Cass City negate an unfavorable image that we've projected with some unfortunate incidents in the past.

I'd about decided that the farm auction business was definitely on a down hill grade. In 1972 the number was slashed dramatically. But this spring there has been a surge of sales again.

I asked Auctioneer Lorn Hillaker about this and he just shrugged. Machinery prices are high, he says, and maybe some farmers are selling because of the favorable market.

It's hard to get Phil Retherford out of town for long unless you have the key.

The key is to suggest a golfing tour. Then he's ready, willing and able.

He just returned from a winter jaunt to South Carolina...tanned, invigorated and full of stories.

He's been unquestioned king of the coffee table raconteurs all week.

He's been telling all...except his golf score.

Help wanted. Two members of the Cass City High School class of '63 plead. There will be a ball reunion Saturday, June 9, at the Ugly Fox Hunter's Club and eight classmates are missing.

Will the real Nancy Dearing, Bill Hutchinson, Phil Jones, Jane MacLachlan, Bill Miller, Connie Miller, Sandra Shagena and Marlene Uffig please stand up?

Send the addresses to Karen Izydorek, Decker, or Joyce Justin, Marlette.

Most people are satisfied with very little—just so it's a little more than the neighbors.

County to host Dairymen next Wednesday

Quality forages is the title of an important Dairy Day for Tuscola dairymen on Wednesday, March 14. The activity will be held at the 4-H Building at the Caro Fairgrounds starting at 10:00 a.m. with milk, donuts and coffee for the early arrivals.

Many dairymen are experiencing poor quality forages and a special program has been planned looking at production practices for quality forage and good corn silage. The program will present an opportunity to look at hy-lusine corn, super sweet corn, sorghum and Wheeler rye.

The afternoon program will feature what constitutes "Optimum Rumen Fermentation" of the dairy cow and what the dairyman can do. A special section has been programmed to look at silage additives, synthetic proteins and gadget products.

All dairymen and agriculturally related enterprises are invited to this special Tuscola County Dairy Day, states Bill Bartel, County Extension Director.

Microwave ovens gain popularity

Judy Marks — Extension Agent

A microwave oven in every kitchen? Not entirely impossible reports one manufacturer. More and more homemakers - up to 95 per cent - will be preparing meals in these types of ovens.

The popularity of microwave ovens has and will increase with the development of browning units.

In the past many foods such as steak and hamburger were unappetizing unless they were browned by conventional cooking methods before placed in the microwave oven.

Two manufacturers have come up with special browning utensils to be used in the microwave oven. The utensils are preheated in the oven, the food is then placed in the skillet, plate or grill - whatever utensil you are using. The food surface is browned by the heat of the utensil and microwave energy cooks the food's interior.

Want both sides of the food product browned? Just turn it over like you would if cooking on a broiler or griddle.

Microwave ovens were once a luxury - partially because of cost. Cost of these ovens has decreased and more units will be available in the under $200 bracket. Several are now available.

This once futuristic appliance may become as common as a television set.

What to build alongside a new silo.

Our all-steel Citation² building is strong and sleek — and up to 70 feet wide, with no interior columns.

It makes a great dairy barn, beef shed, or confinement house.

But the best thing about our all-steel, pre-engineered, mass-produced, ready-to-erect Citation² is that it costs about the same as a decent pole barn. And often less, in widths over 50 feet.

Call us for more information and planning help.

BETTER HEALTH

New book gives health hints

BY DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

"Your Health Is What You Make It" is the title of a new and interesting and fact-filled book by Dr. C. W. Whitmoyer Sr., a man who has spent his life in several interesting fields, one of which is food chemistry. He calls his book, "A Guide for Diet, Vitamin Supplementation, Cholesterol Control, Exercise, Mental Health, and Longevity." I found much of interest in this excellent book.

Dr. Whitmoyer has information about many of the food problems that are now worrying people. He says that his primary purpose in writing the book is to help people to understand how they can sensibly take care of their own bodies--as he says, many people do not safeguard their health. He gives much fundamental information about the substances of which the body is composed, and the life-sustaining processes that are needed to keep a person healthy. He tells much about the various vitamins and their roles in our health.

One very interesting chapter is on vegetarianism, and I am interested to see that he says "The strict vegetarian diet embodies a real health hazard in terms of protein and iron deficiencies. A strict vegetarian diet tends to be low in iron and protein, which may lead to a lowered level of vitality, an anemia, and a possible liver damage. A vegetarian, in order to get half of the daily requirement of proteins from beans (the most concentrated vegetable protein source), would have to eat a pound of lima beans daily.

He points out that many people who consider themselves vegetarians do consume animal proteins, in such foods as milk and eggs, custards, pastry, beef broth, or seafoods, and he says what I have mentioned here before, that among nationalities which subsist largely on a diet of vegetable origin, such as rice and other cereal products, the population is generally undernourished, and the incidence of disease is high.

Another popular fad today is the so-called organic foods, which many food enthusiasts are excited about. Dr. Whitmoyer explains that the term organic foods is usually intended to describe a class of food products produced under "natural" conditions; "this implies that the fertilizer used on the soil where the food is grown is of an organic type (deprived from living bacteria or molds) instead of the inorganic or 'chemical' type. Food from an animal source is to be from animals which have not been fed any chemical growth promoters, stimulants, or conditioners. The concept requires that no pesticide or herbicide (weed killer) has been used in the production of the product. It implies that the product is free from additives, preservatives, and substitutes.

Dr. Whitmoyer has made a lifetime study of biochemistry, and he agrees that people should not consume harmful chemicals, but he points out that a crop grown on soil fertilized with "natural" fertilizers and compost is no better in terms of nutrient content, and in fact, if the soil is not as rich, the crop grown without the use of chemical fertilizer may be inferior in quality. He also assures people that the amounts of chemicals taken into their bodies in food grown with chemical fertilizers are so small that they cannot do anyone any harm.

In his chapter on obesity and health, he gives a very good description of what extra strain the obese person places on his body as he goes about his daily activity. He compares the overweight to a 50-pound pack that the person carries on his back all day. I remember as a mountain climber, carrying a 30-pound pack, and how exhausted I was at the end of the day when I was able to take it off. But the obese person must carry this extra baggage around with him wherever he goes.

"If there is any physical work to be done, the extra 50 pounds always makes first claim on his energy. If it becomes necessary to run for a train, a bus, or a plane, this has to be done with 50 pounds of extra baggage."

In the last part of the book are 33 invaluable pages of a table showing the composition and caloric value of all our many, many foods. I can't remember ever having seen such an enormous and helpful table.

This book is a fund of good information for anyone who wants to know the sensible way to take good care of his health. "Your Health Is What You Make It" is published by Exposition Press, Inc., 50 Jericho Turnpike, Jericho, N. Y. 11753.

What causes arthritis? What should people know before they start trying to get help for their arthritis? Dr. Alvarez answers these and other questions as well as outlining a test to detect rheumatoid arthritis in his booklet "Arthritis and Rheumatism." If you would like a copy send 25 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Dr. Walter C. Alvarez, Dept. CC, Box 957, Des Moines, Iowa 50304.

Uncle Tim From Tyre Says:

Dear Mister Editor:

I see by the papers where they're holding these sessions in towns around to tell folks how to get ready for their Social Security. I bring this up at the country store Saturday night, allowing that having to go to school to learn how to qualify for your Social Security was like training to collect your life insurance. Right away, I saw saying that was a mistake.

Clem Webster wanted to know if I had been dealing with any insurance companies lately. With all the different plans and all the forms you got to fill out for the Government that is perfecting you from the insurance company, Clem allowed, they ain't no way a average feller can know what he's paying for or what he'll get. Final, Clem said, you jest got to trust insurance salesman to treat you right.

Ed Doolittle was agreed with Clem that they is to much paperwork in everthing fer anybody to know much about anything, and Ed said Social Security ain't no exception. The rules has been changed recent, Ed went on, and he, fer one, was glad to find them articles in the papers telling about the changes. It's going to take the Government and the papers working together to halfway keep us up with all the changes in the rules made with ever new budget.

Furthermore, went on Ed, old folks need all the help they can get with their memories. We is to soon old and to late smart, was Ed's words. The sad thing is, allowed Ed, when a feller's young, he don't care about finding out, and when he gets old he fergets what it was he was supposed to learn. Ed said all he knowed about Social Security is you pay it in whether you like it or not, and you can't get it out til the Government says so. Among the things he don't understand about this program, Ed said, is why your income has anything to do with being eligible to get some of your own money back when you get old.

Actual, Mister Editor, all the fellers is past three score and 10, and ever one of em has signed up for ever Government benefit they could find out about. Which goes to prove, I reckon, that if you can't understand em, join em. They don't know nothing about devaluing the dollar neither, but they can talk for two solid hours on how the move last month to make the dollar stronger by making it weaker is jest like them deficits of strength we use to hear about in the federal budget.

General speaking, the fellers was agreed that trying to teach old folks with bad memories about benefits they got coming is a good idee, cause nobody can think of everthing. Clem said he saw where this company put out a "fergot kit" that was supposed to have 30 items in it that people used ferget, but they fergot and jest put in 29.

Yours truly,
Uncle Tim

Michigan Mirror

Michigan meat standards face major challenges

Michigan's beleaguered hot dog has been under heavy and sustained attack in recent years from major meat packing firms located outside Michigan.

For Fast Results

Try
Chronicle
WANT ADS

Armour, Wilson and Hormel packing companies want to stop Michigan from imposing its stricter standards on the products they manufacture outside of the state to sell here. If that happens (and a federal appeals court has sided with the meat packers) Michigan hot dogs would contain for the first time such ingredients as lips, snouts, stomachs and udders and other non-skeletal meat.

One of the claims made consistently by those attacking Michigan's standards is that the higher standards allowing only skeletal meat produce higher priced hot dogs, bologna and other meats in Michigan than are found elsewhere.

The Michigan Agriculture Department, which is leading the fight to protect Michigan standards, recently punched a big hole in this claim.

Inspectors were sent by Department Director B. Dale Ball over a two day period for shopping at 47 stores in Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin, Ohio and at 11 Michigan stores.

The inspectors bought identical brands. They visited stores in the same chains to insure that the prices would be comparable. The stores were located in markets that were the same size as well, to eliminate any difference that might result from visiting different sized towns.

The results were a solid vindication of the Michigan standards.

Prices in Michigan actually averaged two cents a pound cheaper for hot dogs than in the other states. The average price of the Michigan hot dogs was 87.1 cents per pound. The average price of the hot dogs in other states was 89.2 cents per pound.

*****

Inspectors found examples where the same brand was as much as 20 cents per pound cheaper in Michigan than it was in the other states.

"Some of the big national packers have made noises about how they don't really use all those 'undesirable' animal by-products," Ball said in releasing the results of his survey. "That's a lot of baloney."

"In Harvey, Ill., you can buy hot dogs that contain beef lips, beef tripe, pork salivary glands, lymph nodes, fat, and soy protein concentrate. That's what it says right on the label. And the price is 89.5 cents per pound. That's a pretty high price for offal." To make a poor pun: Ain't it offal?

*****

Anyone who tasted Michigan hot dogs and those in other states knows that Michigan hot dogs taste much better. They are juicier and much more appetizing.

That is because they contain only skeletal meat left from the various cuts. If the meat packers have their way, they'll be shipping the lesser quality stuff found in other states into Michigan.

And if the survey taken by the Department of Agriculture is any indication, the only people who'll save money on the change will be the meat packers themselves.

TRADE PROMOTED

The push is on to give Michigan a greater amount of business connected with international trade.

Already, it's estimated 85,000 jobs in this state are directly related to exports which total $3 billion per year. If the new efforts are successful, another 25,000 jobs will be created over the next five years.

The legislature helped in this effort last year by authorizing a European office for Michigan in Brussels, the headquarters of the European Common Market, and an Asian office in Tokyo, which has become the economic center of Asia.

The Brussels office was opened in early February and the Tokyo office opened its doors just last week.

A trade mission visited both Moscow and Warsaw in February in effort to increase Michigan trade with those and other countries behind the iron curtain.

At the present there are 16,000 companies in Michigan manufacturing one or more products. Fewer than 2,000 of them export any of the output.

Gov. William G. Milliken, who is pushing the trade expansion program very hard, says: "We want to get more Michigan products and companies into our market areas in Western and Eastern Europe, as well as in such markets as Africa, Japan, Hong Kong, Australia and, eventually China and all of Asia."

At the same time he wants to encourage foreign investment in Michigan, a move which would not only produce jobs but help reverse the dollar flow.

Which describes your feelings?

Yes... No... I could do more enjoyable things if I had the time.

Yes... No... I have a good occupation and my supervisors approve of my work, but personally, I'm not satisfied.

Yes... No... My realistic conception of an ideal life is very different from that which I'm living now.

Did at least one question apply to you? If so, it's quite possible that you're not getting the most out of life. Only you know the reasons, but whatever they are, God can help you.

Among many other things in the Bible, He promises freedom and a new life to those who sincerely seek it.

Why don't you come to church this Sunday and let Him know that you want to be free of your chains?

To live a half-life when a full life is available isn't really like you.

Is it?

Chard Holstein joins select dairy group

A Registered Holstein cow owned by Don G. Chard, Shover, has entered the select circle of national leaders on Dairy Herd Improvement Registry test.

Holstein-Friesian Association of America reports that DeChard Laurie Posch Lassie 6870963 (VG) has completed the fourth highest official national milk record made by a Junior four-year-old Registered Holstein milked twice daily in the 305-day division of the DHIR program. Her official 305-day production totaled 28,680 lbs. of milk and 985 lbs. of butterfat.

If everyone was placed on a pay-as-you-go basis today many would be traveling backward.

VIP plane tour excites patients

The first airplane ride for any youngster is an exciting experience. It is even more exciting when these youngsters are residents of the Caro State Home and Training School. Last week, ten boys from the Caro State Home took their first plane trip, a twelve minute United Airlines commercial flight from Tri-City Airport in Saginaw to Flint's Bishop Airport.

The trip, arranged through Mr. Christianson and Mr. Hathaway, employees of United Airlines, began with a tour through the 727 cockpit conducted by Captain Reed and his crew.

The VIP tour continued with first class accommodations and a reserved window seat for each boy.

"Everyone was extra good to the boys," stated Mr. Robinson, Teacher's Aide at the Caro State Home. "Captain Reed provided a running commentary on what was happening and autographed maps and souvenirs for everyone."

One boy confided that the "feeling of leaving the ground made me happy. It was fun flying over the water and seeing the little cars down there." Another boy whose only experience with little cars was his model race track set yelled out as they flew over the 175 interchange. "Lookit, they're going both ways on the race track."

The boys, ages 15 to 21 were chosen from a pre-vocational training program handled by Mr. William Tulloch, Special Education Teacher and Mr. Don Robinson, Teacher's Aide and Cabin 121 Project Leader. The 121 project is a federally funded program centered in a cabin built by residents.

"The boys were awarded the trip for excelling in their everyday tasks," stated Mr. Tulloch. "We all usually do better when we are motivated and have some incentive to look forward to. These young men anticipated this trip for some time. As a result of their own efforts and with the kindness of friends 'learning through doing' was put into practice."

The young men earned most of the money for the trip through the program which teaches lapidary work, agriculture, woodworking and basic academics.

AROUND THE FARM Five requirements for top corn production

By William Bortel

Here are five points for the farmer to consider for top corn production.

I. Use of a "Modern Day Hybrid" —

P. A. G. SX-53, Funk's G-4343, Funk's G-4444, O's Gold SX-100, Asgrow PX-58, Super Cross S-25, Northrup King PX-50A, Garco S-94A, P.A.G. SX-69 and De Kalb XL-12.

II. Planting Early — by May 10th. A delay in planting after May 1-10:

(1) Yield per acre is 9 per cent less. (2) Moisture content of the grain is 3.3 per cent higher at harvest. (3) Silking is delayed 6.5 days. (4) Increase plant height - 6 to 8 inches. (5) More root lodging.

III. Planting Thick.

(1) Select varieties bred for thick planting. (2) Plant a bag of 80,000 kernels to 3 to 3½ acres. (3) Early planted corn should have more seed than late planted corn. (4) Use more seed on heavy soils. (5) Seed box treatments are 2 ounces wettable powder Diazinon or 1 ounce Dieldrin 50 per cent wettable powder applied for each bushel of seed.

IV. Use of a Herbicide.

(1) Average broadleaf and grass problem except thistles - 1 lb. active Aatrex plus 2 lbs. active Lasso per acre, or pre-plant and incorporate in soil 1 lb. active Aatrex plus 3 lbs. active Sutan per acre.

(2) Average broadleaf and grass problem and plant sugar beets - 1½ lb. active Bladex plus 2 lb. active Lasso per acre.

(3) Average broadleaf problem only - 2 lb. active Aatrex per acre.

(4) Average broadleaf and thistle problem - ½ lb. Dacamine post emergence or until corn is 4 to 8 inches tall.

(5) Emergency only - 1 lb. active Aatrex plus 1 gallon crop oil.

V. Use of Adequate Nitrogen.

(1) No legumes, no manure - 175 lbs.; (2) 8 ton manure - 145 lbs.; (3) Legumes, no manure - 105 lbs.; (4) Legumes and manure - 65 lbs.; (5) Apply early - plow down if possible.

EDITOR'S CORNER

looked to his Tigers for kicks and to his manufacturing plants for cash.

This spring when the players' union and the owners were struggling to hammer out a contract Yawkey announced that he was no longer sure whether or not he wanted to stay in baseball any longer.

It's this corner's opinion that if all the owners were like Yawkey, he'd have no concern about unions and contracts.

But, like he says, baseball is changed. Perhaps he should have got an inkling about it all when Milwaukee jumped to Atlanta or Charley O. Finley skeedaddled from Kansas City to Oakland or when CBS purchased the New York Yankees.

Even better he could have slipped out of the big leagues and talked to minor leaguers about conditions. About salaries. About bonus contracts and collection troubles.

For every Tom Yawkey in the game there are a half dozen who view the game just like the unions say they do: as a profit making corporation and run it for profit before everything.

I feel that the current ownership of the Detroit Tigers are businessmen first and fans a distant second.

The question that the average fan has to ask: does it make any difference?

The answer to that eventually will tell the tale about baseball, its success or failure.

If the new fan is like me, baseball will live forever.

I'm a Detroit Tiger fan, win or lose, thick or thin. I rejoice when they win, suffer when they lose.

I won't change and I suspect down deep that Tom Yawkey won't either.

Baseball fans to the end.

46 county agriculturalists view $40,000-acre California land

Forty-six Tuscola agriculturalists recently returned to Tuscola county following their planned tour which visited various parts of California to learn what was happening with agriculture and agribusiness. The agriculturalists toured the Stockton, Salinas, Imperial Valley and San Diego areas by bus.

The group walked on farm land that was selling for one dollar per square foot or over $40,000 per acre. Tomatoes and cucumbers were being raised on the land under plastic tunnels. The land was taxed at $500.00 per acre.

The Tuscola agriculturalists visited three bankers to see what was happening with agriculture credit. Agriculture credit is big business in California and the bankers stated that agriculture is the backbone of any rural community. Bankers in California were interested in good records and farm managers establishing a line of credit.

Unionization of farm labor is creating problems in California. We had an opportunity to visit with a few farm leaders to see what is happening with the Teamsters and the Agriculture Workers Organization Committee. It appears as if farm labor unionization is just around the corner and we had better learn to work with them.

Tuscola agriculturalists returned to the county with much optimism but found agriculture is changing. Marketing is the name of the game and independence is about over with. Individual farmers cannot exist if no control in the market place.

Agriculturalists accompanying the tour were: Mr. and Mrs. Duane Ackerman, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Ackerman, Reese; Mr. and Mrs. Albert Arnold, Caro; Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Becker, Unionville; Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Herpenter, Mr. and Mrs. Waldo Garner, Vassar; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Findlay, Mr. and Mrs. Don Keimath, Caro; Mr. and Mrs. Roy Hickey, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Shannon, Fairgrove; Mr. and Mrs. John Honakie, Unionville; Mr. and Mrs. Allan Houghtaling, Reese; Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Kurpsel, Millington; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Metcalf, Fairgrove; Mr. and

Capacity crowd sees Red Hawks fail in title bid

Cass City's bid for its first share of a Thumb B Conference title since 1959 went down the drain Friday as the Red Hawks dropped a heart breaker to the Sandusky Redskins, 68-64.

A capacity crowd stormed the Sandusky gym for the title clash and the doors were closed and locked at 6:30 p.m., a half hour before the junior varsity game and a full two hours before the main event started.

And the fans that came to see a top-notch basketball game certainly had no reason to feel cheated. From the opening whistle until the dying moments the two teams played the way teams are supposed to play when the title is at stake.

Both clubs dropped a dozen points behind during the game only to come charging back to keep the outcome in doubt until the very end.

Cass City opened with a full-court press and the press combined with some stone-cold shooting by Sandusky enabled the Hawks to race into a big margin.

At one point in the first quarter the Hawks had charged into a 17-5 lead and at the end of the first quarter Cass City was comfortably in front, 21-10.

The Redskins hit on only 4 of 17 in the opening period. But in the second quarter there was an absolute lid on the bucket for Cass City.

Shot after shot rolled off the rim as Sandusky took the rebounds and started burning the nets and Al DeMott and Jim Hale canned everything they threw up from all over the court.

As a result the healthy Hawk lead was gone in minutes and Sandusky moved in front for the first time during the game, 32-30, just before the half. Paul Bliss knotted the score at the intermission with a popper from the side.

Sandusky started fast in the third quarter and moved in front to stay although neither team was able to stage a decisive rally during the period.

Early in the final quarter it appeared as if Sandusky had taken charge. They capitalized on the outside shooting of DeMott and a couple of fast breaks to pull ahead by 10 with five minutes left.

It was a dark moment for Cass City fans. But Coach Fred Hurlbert's charges slapped on the full-court press again and it bothered the Redskins just like it did in the opening quarter.

A couple of turnovers caused by the press, a drive by Bliss and suddenly the Hawks were right back in it.

With 2:10 left, Cass City was behind by just a single point, 62-61, and it was anybody's ball game.

With a victory opportunity in grasp, Cass City turned over the ball the next two times down the court and it was all over.

Hale rammed home a basket to make it 64-61 and DeMott converted two free throws to widen the gap to 66-61.

When John Casto ripped in another two-pointer the score was 68-61 and Sandusky took no chances on fouling in the dying seconds as Kip Hopper and Scott Hartel scored.

DeMott scored 26 and Hale hit for 20 to lead all scorers. Dave Hillaker countered with 16 points and Bliss added 15. Nick Gibas scored 14.

Gibas helped to counter Sandusky's height advantage with a yeoman's rebounding job.

The stirring victory gave the Redskins a share of the title as the Lakers won as expected from Vassar to share top honors.

JUNIOR VARSITY

The Cass City Junior Varsity ended the season on a winning note with a 75-60 decision over the Sandusky reserves.

Hawks slip by Bad Axe in listless opening tourney game, 70-59

It was the opening night of the District 84 tournament Monday at Cass City High School and you had to pinch yourself to realize that this was the first game in the annual March madness for high school basketball fans.

It was a dull, listless game before a sparse crowd. Not a typical tournament game, more like a typical mid-week unimportant game that is repeated hundreds of times before fans across the state.

The only thing good about it for Hawk fans is that Cass City defeated Bad Axe, 70-59.

With the victory the Hawks earned the right to meet Mar-lette. The game was to have been played Wednesday night and Cass City reigned as overwhelming favorites to win and enter the finals Saturday night.

It was a peculiar game. For most of the 32 minutes, Cass City coasted along behind a lead that ranged between a dozen and 20 points.

Using that now familiar full court press, the Hawks jumped off to a 20-12 first quarter margin and in a slow moving second period managed to add a point to this margin. At the intermission the Hawks were in front 33-24.

After the intermission both teams played ragged uninspired basketball. Turnovers were frequent on both sides.

Still, it proved to be the most decisive quarter of the game for Cass City. The Hatchets not only played poorly they shot even worse, scoring only 4 points in the eight minutes while the Hawks counted 16. At the end of three-quarters Cass City was in front 49-28 and it appeared as if a run-away was in progress.

Then the Hatchets came alive. John DeChane and Bob Carder led the fourth period attack to more than hold their own against the Cass City regulars.

When Coach Fred Hurlburt cleared his bench early in the fourth period, the Hatchets stormed the nets with a barrage of baskets.

When Hurlburt shoved the regulars back in with three minutes to play there was a 10-point difference. Before the Hawks got the feel of the game again the margin was down to six.

But a couple of quick baskets and a pair of free throws by Paul Bliss ended any fleeting chance for a Bad Axe upset as the clock ran out with Cass City in control.

Bliss played his usual strong floor game while Dave Hillaker scored 14 points for Cass City. Other Hawk scorers in double figures were Bliss, 12; Kip Hopper, 12; and Nick Gibas, 10. Other scorers were Scott Hartel, 8; Kim Glaspie, 6; Randy Wright, 4; and Jerry Toner, 4. DeChane and Carder led the Hatchet attack with 13 points each.

UBLY WINS

The Ubly Bearcats fouled out two key players in the final three minutes of its opening round district tournament battle with North Branch Tuesday night at Cass City but still were able to overcome a 13-point Bronco lead in the final period to register a breath-taking 75-71 decision in the last minute of the game.

While both Ron Gekle and Clare MacIntyre fouled out, Doug MacEachin didn't. And it was MacEachin who led his team to the victory with 31 points including three decisive free throws in four tries in the last 30 seconds of the game.

The charity tosses iced the game as the Broncos came roaring from behind when Gekle and associates seemed to come to life after playing listlessly through the first three periods.

The Bearcats had a definite height advantage but didn't use it until those final hectic eight minutes of the game.

Early in the action North Branch set the pace and forged into the lead.

Paced by two excellent guards, Tim Powell and Larry Lamphier, the Broncos broke from a 6-6 tie after a little more than three minutes to jump in front 23-13 at the end of the opening period.

The pair continued the onslaught in the second quarter. Lamphier was especially effective. Everything he tossed skyward ended swishing through the nets.

The chunky blond guard continued to pace the attack through the third period as North Branch was able to stay in front by a comfortable margin, 58-45.

One of the turning points in the game for Ubly was shutting off Lamphier in the final period. He was nearly completely throttled in the final frame by the aroused Bearcats.

Even without any last quarter production, Lamphier netted 22 points while Powell added 17. In contrast, MacEachin's big point production came in the big fourth period rally that netted Ubly 30 points and the come-from-behind victory.

With the opening round victory, the Bearcats won the right to face Sebawaung-Chionville Thursday night. USA drew an opening round bye.

While USA will be favored, an Ubly victory would be by no means the upset of the century. In the regular season the two teams split.

Ubly seems to play well in Cass City's tournaments and already has one district tournament trophy won here when they beat Cass City in the final game, the last previous year that the Hawks played in Class C competition.

READY FOR THE rebound are Scott Hartel and Dave Hillaker. The action occurred in Monday night's tournament.

JV squad 2nd in Thumb B loop

Cass City's Junior Varsity approached the record posted by the varsity as Coach Skip Pranger's charges ended the year 15-5 over-all and 11-3 in Thumb B Conference competition.

The record placed them second in the Thumb B behind Frankenmuth.

Top scorer for the JV's was Dan Mellendorf. In 19 games he totaled 354 points, an 18.6 per game average.

Joe Zawilinski was next with 13.3 points in 20 games followed by Charlie Walsh (8.5) and Don Karr (8.3). Other scoring records posted were: Bill Bader, 1.9; Dave Eberline, 6.4; Ben Hennessey, 5; Kim Hill, 1.6; Ed Neal, 1.1; Jim Root, 2.1; Ed Stoutenburg, 3.4.

For the season the JV squad averaged 65.45 points per game and held their opponents to an average of 56 points per game.

Hawk Frosh end year undefeated

After completing an all victorious season last week with a 75-49 decision over Sandusky, the Cass City Frosh basketball team named Clark Hillaker and Dave Zawilinski as the most valuable players.

Most improved was Kirt Kendall.

In their final game the Hawks jumped in front 20-13 after a quarter and widened the margin to 44-27 at the intermission. Scoring leaders for Cass City were Ken Lowe, 19, and Dave Zawilinski, 17.

Coach Dale McIntosh said that the players hustled all season and that the talent on the team promises to make the Cass City varsity very competitive in the years ahead.

Second row: Charlie Walsh, Dan Mellendorf, Ben Hennessey, Don Karr, Ed Neal, Coach Skip Pranger. Absent was Kim Hill.

CASS CITY'S only undefeated team this year was the Freshman. This squad raced through the season, defeating every team by a margin of 10 points or more.

Tim Stickle wins wrestling medal

The Cass City High School wrestling team, now in its second year, failed to qualify anyone for the State finals at the regionals held Friday and Saturday at Freeland.

However, Tim Stickle received a fourth place medal in the 112-pound class as he won three of five matches.

Only the top three wrestlers in each class qualify for the State.

Other team members who wrestled well included Dale Vollmer, fifth, and Curt Strickland and Chet Sieradzki, sixth.

Cass City's team placed 13th among the 22 teams competing.

Mild weather aiding ecological field studies

For the first time in 64 years, ecological research at The University of Michigan Biological Station here has not been stilled by a frigid northern Michigan winter.

Founded in 1909 on the shores of Douglas Lake near Pellston, Mich., the 9,000-acre Station has traditionally been shut down by deep snow and freezing weather. This winter, however, a small cadre of U-M scientists has accepted the challenge of cold weather environmental research.

"Winter conditions seriously hamper ongoing ecological field studies—test equipment often malfunctions, deep snow limits mobility, and daylight hours are reduced, not to mention the discomfort of the scientist when outside," explains U-M Research Limnologist John E. Gannon.

"As a result, most field work has been conducted during spring, summer, and fall, yet a realistic approach to ecology demands that winter receive equal investigative emphasis."

Gannon, who heads this first scientific probe into the icy secrets of the semi-wilderness area, points out that the Station is the largest of its kind, and one of the oldest, in the world. It is also one of the most studied areas: hundreds of scientists have carried on research here through the years and over 1,400 scientific publications concerning their work have appeared.

"Nevertheless," Gannon adds, "the great bulk of this research was done in warm weather, which makes our efforts exploratory, even pioneering."

To enable year-round research by scientists-in-residence, some facilities at the Station were recently winterized. Numbering less than 15, the winter group is skeletal compared to the summer complement of around 250 faculty, students, maintenance personnel and their families. Size, however, does not reflect the diversity or potential importance of the research.

Gannon, for example, is studying lakes in northern lower Michigan, especially those in Cheboygan and Emmet counties. Although Douglas Lake is receiving the most emphasis this winter, the Michigan limnologist has already sampled 33 other lakes in these counties.

"My preliminary work is designed to determine the water quality of the lakes, but in the future I plan to subject them to more detailed limnological studies," he observes. Limnology is the scientific study of fresh waters, including physical, chemical and biological aspects.

According to Gannon, most of the lakes he has examined are in relatively good condition. But he voices concern that the land use policies responsible for the degradation of many lakes in southern Michigan are, for the most part, still perfectly legal in northern Michigan.

"The increasing recreational pressure on these lakes, manifested in new highways, cottage building, and multitudes of boats, could result in rapid deterioration," he warns. He also says that if protective ordinances exist—and in many cases they do not—they usually treat all lakes as if they were identical.

Characterizing such blanket ordinances as "wholly inadequate," Gannon points out that lakes vary considerably in their ability to cope with human impact. Generally, he says, large lakes can withstand more use than small, shallow ones. Flushing time, the time required for the water in a lake to be effectively changed or cleansed, is another important factor.

"Lakes with a rapid flushing system are 'tougher' than lakes with a slow system," he notes. "Further, a polluted lake with a sound flushing system should respond favorably when pollution is abated."

When his findings on Douglas and other regional lakes are sufficiently conclusive, he hopes to assist local officials in drafting realistic zoning laws to protect the lakes.

"I think a very practical application of the knowledge would be a ranking system for the lakes," he explains. He says that the lakes could be categorized according to their capacity to handle man. A specific set of zoning laws would then be drawn up for each category.

"This procedure would differentiate between 'weak' and 'strong' lakes," he notes. For example, lakes that are highly susceptible to pollution could be preserved through mandatory shoreline "green strips" where building would be prohibited.

Stronger lakes could be more fully developed.

Regardless of the method, the U-M scientist argues, sewage systems and shoreline construction must soon be tightly regulated.

"The pioneer attitude of 'I can do whatever I want with my own property' is still widespread in northern Michigan," he maintains, "and if legal restrictions are not used to deal with this prevailing attitude, the result can only be the destruction of what is essentially everyone's birthright—clean lakes."

Gannon's pragmatic research typifies that of the Biological Station's winter crew. Research Assistant David Rofritz is studying the impact of recreational vehicles on wildlife. During winter his chief subject is snowmobiles; during summer he says it will likely be trail bikes. Another project now under way is aimed at analyzing the effects on soil of clear cutting, a controversial technique for harvesting timber.

Because the researchers are probing new areas, test equipment often must be modified or redesigned by Ole Lundin, the Biological Station's technical manager. Kevin Carter, a Pellston high school student, assists Gannon with the lake research while maintenance men Willard Sakeriska and Patrick J. Cunningham keep the Station operational despite snow and below zero temperatures.

U-M Botany Prof. David M. Gates, director of the Station, says the winter group is "an instrumental part of the Station's increasing emphasis on solving regional environmental problems."

"This first winter-long effort is a milestone in the history of the Biological Station," he says, "and it will accelerate our research while simultaneously enlarging the body of knowledge so vital to our educational program."

New experimental 'parole contracts' plan inaugurated in state's prisons

Long recognized as one of the country's most progressive, Michigan's Department of Corrections, now comes with another experimental plan designed to make it truly a "correction" department.

The program begins in March and will involve a test group of 300 inmates admitted during the month. It involves the signing of a "parole contract" by an incoming inmate.

Under the program, a man entering prison can set up a schedule of education and counseling designed to satisfy his needs to become a productive member of society at large. He then will sign a binding contract with the Corrections

Department guaranteeing him parole on his earliest parole date, provided he accomplishes all the things listed in the contract.

Similar plans are already in effect in California, Arizona, Wisconsin and Minnesota. They are aimed at developing individual goals for each inmate.

Three things can be accomplished, says Corrections Director Perry Johnson.

"First, it gives the man motivation for achievement and self-change, based on the most desired of reward - release from prison," he says.

"Second, it removes the anxiety and uncertainty concerning release which has often crippled rather than added to motivation. And third, it puts parole on a very systematic and objective basis, thus avoiding possible charges of arbitrariness against the Parole Board."

The contract program is completely voluntary on the part of the prisoner. Only those who want to participate need do so.

It will say specifically which goals the inmate will attain to secure the parole. A standard contract form will be used with individual objectives in the areas of behavior, education, vocational training and counseling.

A convict will be able to cancel the contract anytime he wants without prejudicing his record.

Johnson says the critical aspect of the new approach is the increased involvement of the inmate in diagnosis of what he needs in prison and what skills he wants to acquire.

"The crucial element of the parole contract," he said, "is that the reward-parole-is contingent upon an inmate's own behavior and achievements."

GROWTH ENDANGERS DEER

An everpresent danger in development of the state's lightly populated areas is that a heavy influx of people can destroy the beauty and serenity which originally attracted people to the area.

Wildlife experts at the Department of Natural Resources say one of the latest manifestations of this problem involves its hopes to double the state's deer herd by 1980 from 500,000 to one million. They are afraid the land sides boom in the northern part of the Lower Peninsula and the Upper Peninsula may threaten these plans.

"We're still hoping that we can achieve our goal, but we have no idea what the widespread construction of roads, plus summer or retirement home buyers' preference for mature woods and big trees will do to our plans," explains David Arnold, supervisor of the DNR's forest wildlife section.

To help alleviate the problem, the DNR has a deer range treatment program through which it helps assure food for deer.

Where timber has been harvested the range area would be "processed."

Remaining brush and small trees would be cut and pulverized into the soil. Larger trees would be ground into chips and sold to paper mills.

This leaves the land an ideal planting bed for new forests with the planting of aspen trees, wild raspberries, strawberries, sweet fern, huckleberries and many herbs.

Aspen is one of the state's more profitable sources of pulpwood. And for the first 25 years of its existence aspen provides excellent food for deer. After 25 years it is harvested and the area is replanted.

"While we do know that our projected new forests will provide a great deal more browse for deer than mature forests, we cannot yet be certain that the improved range will supply enough good food to insure survival of one million deer," Arnold says, "especially if there are long hard winters with lots of snow."

CROSSES SELF UP

The man who burns the candle at both ends is apt to leave part of his life's work undone.

40 county employees seek union vote

About 40 employees of the county, working in the Tuscola County Courthouse, will decide whether or not they want council 55 of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees to represent them as a union. The courthouse vote, which has been brewing for some weeks, will come March 29 following the county commission's request to the State labor board.

The county employees will be in two units as matters stand now. One unit will comprise the 4 women employees of the District Court. The other unit of between 35 and 40 employees, will cover the county's remaining courts and the regular county offices. Council 55 of the American Federation of State, County, and Municipal Employees now represents employees in Hills and Dales Hospital, the County Medical Facility and Caro Community Hospital, both located in Caro.

Tuscola county has had an employees association for several years but the move toward a union came with widespread dissatisfaction of the wage scales set up by the firm of Yager and Associates of West Virginia late last year.

Thieves rap Rapson's again

Thieves broke into Rapson's Market in Gagetown last week end, opened a safe believed to be over 100 years old, and fled with $175, including $20-$25 from the cash register.

The owner's son discovered the robbery when he opened the store for business Sunday morning. This was the fifth time the store had been robbed in as many years.

State police from the Bad Axe post reported entry was gained after the thieves broke the glass in a rear door.

The antique safe was opened apparently after the thief turned back the combination dial until it clicked. Police said the safe had only one tumbler in the lock mechanism.

About $150 in currency and change was taken from the safe, police said, along with additional change from the cash register.

In the four previous robberies, Rapson's lost $300-$400. The owner, Edric Rapson, said he is not sure what he will do to prevent future robberies.

Thieves also struck in Kings-ton this week, according to a report from the Sandusky State Police.

A battery was taken from a car owned by Gerald Nichol who lives on highway M-46.

Car parts theft is an ordinary occurrence for cars parked on the side of the road while owners travel to work in car pools.

However, the Nichol car was parked adjacent to the Nichol home, police said.

Meanwhile, Charles F. Witkovsky, 23, of Caro waived examination in Huron County District Court last week and was waived to circuit court on a charge of concealing stolen property.

Witkovsky is charged with concealing stolen snowmobile parts in the trunk of his car and was arrested by Bad Axe State Police.

The parts allegedly were taken from Marshall Distributing Co. where Witkovsky was working.

The youth is free on $500 bond.

State Police post coming to county?

The possibility of Tuscola county's having a state police post this year came up in a Caro village council meeting Monday.

Representatives who had attended the Michigan Municipal League meetings in Lansing pointed out there is a new push for a State Police Post in Tuscola county and State Police administrators, including Lieut. Zane Grey of Traffic Control Division in Lansing, looked over the present Road Commission Headquarters at Milwood Street, Caro, in the last 10 days.

The Milwood Street building combines office space, garage and driveway and is strategically located, with easy access to M-81 and M-24.

Lieut. Grey indicated that he was pleased with the location. The building will be vacated by July when the road commission moves into its new building on M-24.

It is expected that State Police would set up headquarters in the Milwood facilities by mid-July.

Rep. Loren Armbruster and Sen. Alvin DeGrow of Pigeon are reported working hard for a Post in the county in the 1973 budget.

Lee Sharpe sent to Jackson for 3-10 years for armed robbery

In a delayed Circuit Court motion day a number of matters came up before Judge Norman Baguley who just returned to the court after taking some vacation time for his Naval Reserve cruise. None of the matters concerned residents of this area but Robert Williams of Vassar was sentenced to two years' probation, fine of $200 and costs of $200, payable at the rate of $30 a month for his attempted sale of marijuana. Williams spends the first 60 days in jail with credit for four days served.

Lee W. Sharpe, 18, of Mayville, was sentenced for armed robbery to serve from 3 to 10 years in Southern Michigan prison with credit for 56 days served. Judge Baguley recommended that Sharpe receive psychiatric and counseling care.

He was sentenced for his part as an accessory to the armed robbery of Joe's Tavern in Richville last summer.

Joseph Mannarino, 18, of Caro stood mute on two separate charges of breaking and entering and one charge of possession of a controlled substance. Pleas of not guilty were entered for him in each case and a pre-trial hearing was set.

Mannarino was arrested Monday and charged with larceny of $100 from the grocery store of Bob Stoddard at Watrousville.

2 unhurt in area mishaps

A property damage accident occurred Thursday, March 1, in Dayton township and involved Phillip Walter Judd, 16, of 4829 North Cedar Run Road, Cass City. According to the sheriff's report, Phillip Judd was heading in a westerly direction on the Snover Road west of the Maple Grove Road when the car slid off the road on the south side and into a tree. Neither Judd nor his two passengers, Kathy Anker, 23, and Denise Anker, 3, of Cass City were hurt.

The accident happened at 2:50 p.m.

Early Sunday morning, Robert David Mann, 32, of Pinconning, ran off the Cedar Run Road and into a mail box owned by Donald Naffian.

According to the sheriff's report, Mann was driving south, a mile north of M-81. He told deputies that a pickup truck started to back out of a driveway into his path and he swerved to the left to avoid an accident. Mann was unhurt.
