

Cass City residents still favor municipal swimming pool

Unless the federal government acts favorably on Cass City's request for matching funds to build a municipal swimming pool, residents may face another long, dry summer.

If an informal, unscientific survey conducted by the Chronicle holds any credence, most Cass Cityans would be willing to pay for the project completely in order to see it built.

Mothers with small children especially stressed the need for some kind of outdoor recreation in town.

"I personally think it would be worth it," Wilma Eubank, mother of six children, said. "I'd like to see the pool covered so it could be used on a year round basis. I would vote extra money for it." Evette Curtis, mother of two, agreed, and stressed local responsibility for the project.

"It's our place to pay for a pool if we want one. It's our own responsibility and we shouldn't expect anyone else to pay for it," she said.

Rose Guinther, who has three children, shook her head at the thought of another summer

Mary Rabideau and Rose Guinther

without a swimming pool and said she would vote favorably on another bond issue if such a move were necessary.

"In fact," she said, "I think the whole town would approve it."

Last summer, voters approved by a 214-53 margin, a bond issue raising $113,000, half the cost of the facility.

Mary Rabideau sounded a more urgent note when she said she would approve increased taxes to see the project through to completion.

"It (the pool) has to be built, she stated. "We shouldn't cut back or scrimp on it, either. We have to plan for the future. If we do, it will be cheaper in the long run." She suggested that service clubs might be of help raising extra funds if no action is taken by the federal authorities.

Jerry Prieskorn was more

Ann Bassett and Gerald Prieskorn

emphatic. "We've got to have a pool. I don't care how we get it," he said. "If the federal government can't help us, we'll just have to do it ourselves."

He said he would like to see funding for a swimming pool handled on a township-wide basis, rather than relying on Cass City residents to bear the costs alone.

"I think the township as a whole would approve a bond issue for it," he said.

Nineteen-year-old Cathy Pierce said she would approve higher taxes to build the pool if that were the only way.

"Everyone benefits if we have one," she said. "It's kind of a prestige symbol, and it sure beats driving to Caro to go for a swim."

Not everyone questioned spoke in favor of the project. Ann Bassett, mother of two grown children, said she would vote against another bond issue if it were proposed.

"I'm not in favor of any more taxes," she said. "Something else should be done instead of raising taxes again."

Carol McKee was undecided on the question of another bond issue.

"I'm not sure if I would vote for it or not," she said. "We just had curbs and gutters put in on our street and that takes lots of money, too."

FROM THE Editor's Corner

My regret is that all Federal hand-outs for projects like Cass City's swimming pool weren't axed while President Nixon was at it.

Maybe it's my rural, white, midwestern background, but when tax money comes floating in to build a swimming pool I can't help but feel half guilty... that here is another stupid, wasteful program that's costing us all money. I half-question whether we have any moral right to it.

What real reason is there for a guy in Detroit paying for a pool that Cass City folks use... or for residents here to pay for a pool for use in Detroit?

The rub is that the way things stand now, some of us share, some of us don't. That's wrong.

The consensus of residents may be to go ahead, pay the taxes and build the pool. That's good.

But it pinpoints another problem. Village government today is just plain inadequate for many of the needs of the area.

Our pool financing problem is a case in point. We call it the Cass City pool, but it's not. It's a pool for the use of our area and there may be more patrons from outside the village limits than within.

It just seems logical to me that the cost of the pool, the cost of the park, the cost of any service should be paid for equally by the persons for whom the service is provided.

Nothing is skyrocketing more these days than the costs of services and construction.

As a matter of simple economics can the day be far away when something better than today's system will be mandatory? A wider tax base will be essential to pay for the needs of the area.

It's not suggested that persons living outside the village haven't been willing to help out when asked. They contribute to park maintenance today via township grants.

But population in the townships is growing while the village census remains nearly static.

As townships grow there will be a greater and greater need for service of the type furnished by the village today.

Only the village won't be able to do it. Not with our present land area, present tax base.

There have to be changes. The pool question pinpoints the problem.

Just to clear the air let me say that I support any reasonable method of financing to get a pool built... including a bond issue where the village pays the shot.

But I suggest that the pool issue just might be a good place to start to look for reasonable alternatives to the archaic system of financing and service that village government provides.

VILLAGE PRESIDENT Lambert Althaver, standing, makes a pitch to the Cass City School Board Monday for an enclosed swimming pool at the school.

No exceptions

State says signs must go

Those red tags that have cropped up on roadside billboards aren't there for added advertising. They are notices of violation, placed there by the State Highway Department.

No advertiser is exempt under Michigan's new Billboard Control Law. It applies to churches and service clubs as rigidly as it does to oil companies and automobile dealerships.

That's the word from Melvin Schweigert, utility permits engineer for District 6, which comprises 11 counties. He explained last week in Saginaw that the law would be enforced regardless of who is involved.

"We've been going out first after junk or abandoned cars," he said. "But now we're getting around to other business signs. And we're sending letters to churches and service clubs and such organizations, warning them they are in violation."

He said about 34 signs have been removed in Tuscola county so far and 168 more have been tagged. He also said 27 permits have been issued in the county to keep existing signs in place.

Under the law, the owner may purchase a $3 permit which will allow the sign to remain in place if it meets the following requirements.

It must be smaller than 1200 square feet and displayed in a zoned business area, or within 800 feet of an active business in an unzoned area. It must be 100 feet away from other billboards on primary roads and 500 feet away on interstate highways.

Two of those signs in violation belong to Good Shepherd Lutheran Church of Cass City. Rev.

James Van Dellen, pastor of the church, said he was unsure what action Good Shepherd would take.

"I've talked to one or two members of the congregation, and the opinion seems to be that we might just pull them down instead of paying a fine or waiting for the state to do it," he said. He emphasized, however, that no decision has yet been made.

The church's small signs, at the east and west village limits, both measure less than 100 feet from the right-of-way, and thus are in violation.

Crash hospitalizes Cass City man

Two persons were injured Thursday, March 8, when a car crashed into the rear of a stopped Sanilac County Road Commission dump truck on M-53 in Evergreen township, according to Sanilac County Deputy Sheriffs.

Taken to Hills and Dades Hospital were Larry P. Hollis, 39, Cass City, driver of the car, and Jerome J. Rutkowski, 29, Uby, a road commission employee.

Police said the truck was stopped on the roadway and the crew was repairing holes in the pavement when the accident occurred, about 2 p.m. Driver of the truck, Virgil D. Van Naman, 61, Decker, said the amber warning lights were flashing.

Rutkowski escaped serious injury even though he was standing in back of the truck. He told police he saw the car coming too fast to stop and ran to the front of the truck before the collision. He suffered only a sore leg.

Hollis, who as of Monday was listed in fair condition, sustained a back injury.

A car driven by Glen Churchill, 72, of 7723 Krapf Rd. stopped suddenly while traveling east on Main Street and forced a car following him driven by Louis Pierce, 6406 Seventh St., to swerve into a parked car on Main Street.

Neither was seriously injured. Churchill was ticketed for failure to stop in assured clear distance ahead and ordered to appear in traffic court March 20.

March 6, police arrested Frederick Frank Harbee, 19, of 2567 Cemetery Rd., for careless driving on Church Street near the Cass City Lanes.

Officers said Harbee was tussling his car on Church Street and driving on both sides of the street.

Voters to decide 3 tax proposals for school, pool, property

Members of the Cass City School district will be called on to decide three important issues this year, all of which will hit taxpayers in the pocketbook if approved.

Monday night in regular session at the high school the board decided:

● To ask for approval of an extra debt tax (probably $1 per $1,000 assessed valuation - one mill) for four years to finance purchase of 59 acres of school land.

● To ask voter opinion on the addition of an indoor swimming pool at the high school.

● To seek a renewal of 7 1/2 mills of special operating tax money for 3 years.

While the district's tax rate has remained constant for the last several years there has been a steady increase in the valuations of the district and in the amount the district has available for operation.

The administration says that because of the State formula the increase in valuation has been counterbalanced by changes in the State payment formula so that the district receives no more local tax money.

Regardless, there have been substantial increases in the amount available. Since the 1970-71 school year, total operating revenues have jumped a hefty $242,634 from that year's total of $1.2 million.

The increase has enabled the school to establish a reserve of $100,000 so that it doesn't need to borrow money while waiting for tax funds to arrive and to expand the curriculum.

The prognosis is that the $100,000 will be swelled by funds not spent at the end of the current school year.

In addition a utility building will have been built and extensive remodeling completed in the Intermediate building from current operating funds.

If the State provided the district with comparable funds for 1973-74 it would appear that the district would have more than ample funds to operate if voters renew the 7 1/2 mills.

However, the current picture for State funding for schools is clouded. If the current State plan were adopted Cass City would come up 1 1/2 to 2 mills short of the amount needed to operate, Supt. Crouse says.

The school has been operating on a total of 16 1/2 mills for operation which is among the cheapest in the State. In a 1971-72 study Supt. Crouse is quick to point out that from among 329 K-12 Michigan districts, Cass City ranks 526. In other words, only three other Michigan districts spend less per pupil than Cass City.

The board okayed an option on 59 acres of land adjacent to the school from Dr. and Mrs. H. T. Donahue. The option is for two years and will cost $6,000.

If the land is purchased the $6,000 will apply towards the purchase price.

The 59 acres will cost $93,500. According to a report from Don Koepfgen the total is based on a price of $1,500 per acre, plus $3,000 for the frontage lot on North Seeger Street. A walkway to the property for $2,500 was offered but deemed not necessary by the board.

The Donahues want payment spread over 8 to 10 years with interest at 6 per cent.

It is expected the special vote for funds will be presented to the electorate at the regular school election in June.

Additional land for the school has been under negotiation for over a year. Most of the land will be for future expansion but there is an urgent need now, according to school administrators, for more recreational area near the intermediate and elementary schools.

The proposed addition includes land between the present high school and elementary schools and extending east to village park land.

POOL QUESTION

Village President Lambert Althaver appeared before the board and told members that Federal funding for an outdoor pool at the park is probably kaput and asked the school to consider adding an indoor pool to the school facilities.

He pointed out that a pool actually serves the school district area and that programs at the park are designed with school district boundaries as area boundaries.

Since Federal funds appear lost to the community, Althaver said, the council would need to go back to the village voters for more money for an outdoor pool open only three months of the year.

His remarks opened the door to a wide ranging discussion.

The cost of a basic pool would be a half million dollars and actual cost probably would reach upwards to three-quarters of a million when necessary extras are added, according to school estimates.

Supt. Crouse estimated that it would cost 3 mills for a pool adjacent to the school; two mills for construction and an additional mill for operation.

The board decided to find out whether the taxpayer was willing to pay for a pool at the school. Crouse will contact an architect for preliminary drawings and cost estimates. No date has been set to present the issue to the voters.

Vandals sting bee keeper for $100 damages

Vandals caused over $100 worth of damage to 18 bee hives owned by Owen Pierce, 4721 Seeger St. Tuscola county sheriffs report that the hives, located on Denhoff Road near Kingston, were knocked over and damaged Sunday, March 4, and again Sunday, March 11.

Sheriff's officers said one of the hives was shot with a shotgun. No suspects have been found in the case.

Four wheels and tires were taken from beneath a trailer. Concluded on page 18.

School okays low building bid

The Cass City School Board accepted the low bid of Wilmot Home and Building Center to build a 16x24 foot utility building at Cass City High School.

The bid accepted in the regular session Tuesday was for a net cost of $4,805. The bid was considerably below the next low bid of $5,425. A total of seven bids were received. The high bid was for $7,500.

The bid was accepted by a 6-1 vote. Against the proposal was Dr. Edward Scollon. Scollon said that he failed to see the need for the building at the school.

Another expenditure approved by the board was for a new portable stage for use in the gym at graduation and similar functions. The cost is $1354.

A new appraisal is needed for school insurance needs and the board authorized Cale Flynn to conduct it at an initial cost of $1,500.

Trustee Geraldine Prieskorn said that she had received complaints from parents because the team teaching program in the kindergarten had been eliminated.

She said that parents were pleased with the results of the experiment with their children.

It was dropped at the request of the teachers, Grade Principal Jacqueline Freiburger said. Team teaching makes more work for the teachers and is impossible unless the teachers agree to it, she explained.

One of the teachers in charge of the special program asked for a class alone next year, she added.

TWO PERSONS were injured when this car, driven by Larry Hollis, Cass City, collided with a Sanilac County Road Commission truck March 8 on M-53 in Evergreen township.

"If It Fitz . . ." It's a pistol

BY JIM FITZGERALD

If I ever shoot some guy who bugs me, the first question I'll ask myself, as I step over the dead body, is this:

If I hadn't had a gun, would I have bitten him to death?

This is an important question, as any member of the National Rifle Assn. can tell you.

Every time someone shoots a big shot, such as Bobby Kennedy or George Wall, there arises a great wait for gun controls. And then, quick as an echo, the gun people answer:

"Guns don't kill people, people do. If the murderer hadn't had a gun, he would have stabbed the guy to death with his wizzie stick."

Certainly. There is an interesting paradox in the gun controversy.

Most lawmen, especially in big cities where the blood spurts regularly, are strongly in favor of gun controls. And their strongest opposition comes from law 'n order people who usually wear love notes to cops on their bumpers.

I have a friend who automatically snarls "Love It or Leave It" everytime he sees a boy with long hair. Naturally, I call him Archie. He thinks all policemen are marvelous people. It's not their fault the commie judges turn all the crooks free.

But Archie owns 12 pistols. He has them stashed, always loaded, all over his home. These handguns have only 1 purpose — self defense. Archie uses rifles and shotguns to kill animals. The pistols are for killing any unwelcome person who might invade Archie's castle. He also keeps the shotguns loaded, in case of an aerial invasion by pheasants.

One of this nation's hardest-nosed cops is Detroit Police Commissioner Nichols. He is one of Archie's biggest heroes, ranking right up there with Spiro Agnew and John Wayne. But everytime a policeman is gunned down in Detroit, Nichols renews his fervent plea for a ban on handguns.

"Hey, Archie," I tell him, "Commissioner Nichols wants your pistols."

"He don't mean me. He means the crooks who go around robbing and shooting people," Archie says.

"He means you, Arch. Nichols says most shootings result from family arguments. The husband gets drunk and shoots up his family. If he didn't keep a gun under his pillow, he'd just sock them around. Everyone would be sore the next morning, but they'd be alive. It should be against the law for anyone except a cop to own a handgun."

"That's crazy," says Archie. "What about that Detroit judge, James DeHio, he carries a pistol under his robe and he even has some cops stationed in his courtroom."

"Watch it, Archie. Now you're on the Judge's side and against the police commissioner. You are being a traitor to your bumper stickers."

"I don't care," says Archie. "If anyone wants to take my guns away, they'll have to do it over my dead body."

Yeah.

It is in times of emergency that the true character of many people is brought to light.

Beauty shop owners view new styles

The women of Cass City will look more beautiful than ever this year thanks to Ms. Ardith Flintoff of the Michigan Cosmetologists Association.

Ms. Flintoff conducted a training session this week for local beauty shop owners on new trends in hair styling at Helen's Beauty Shop and introduced the hair stylists to four new styles for 1973.

She said the trend of today's hair styles follows those of women's clothes closely and emphasized that this trend will continue. She called this trend the "total look."

She also said that precision hair cutting is the secret to good styling, adding that this tends to give hair a natural glow.

Ms. Flintoff, whose home base is Jackson, travels to beauty salons all over Michigan training beauty operators in latest styling innovations and techniques.

The four styles introduced this spring are the jumper cut, designed to go with women's jumper outfits; wedge cut which emphasizes the new look in shoes; the camisole cut to go with new tops, and the cuff cut to accentuate the return of cuffs on blouses and pants.

GLADYS MONTEI, beauty operator, adds the finishing touches to Marion Graham's cuff-style hair-do during a training session this week.

Commissioners OK machine purchase

Tuscola County Board of Commissioners have approved the purchase of a machine which will eventually microfilm all important documents at the county courthouse.

The board, in a meeting Tuesday, gave the go-ahead for purchase of the machine, called I-Teo. Commissioner Maynard McConkey said initially, it will be used exclusively in the register of deeds office.

Eventually, he said, records from other offices will also be processed and put on microfilm. "This will provide a better method of preservation for these documents," he said. "They will take up less space and be less prone to deterioration."

He said the machine should be in service in about 90 days. In other action, Probate Court Judge C. Bates Willis advised the board that new rules to speed up probate work will be put into effect April 1. He told the commissioners he would expand on these changes at the next meeting.

Also at the meeting, County Medical Examiner Dr. Herbert E. Nigg advised the board that he did not want to continue in that post due to time considerations. He told the board he would be willing to act as a deputy examiner, but that the commissioners should begin the search for a new examiner.

SOUNDS FAMILIAR

"He drove straight to his goal," said the political orator. "He looked neither to the right nor to the left, but pressed forward, moved by a definite purpose. Neither friend nor foe could delay him nor turn him from his course. All who crossed his path did so at their own peril. What would you call such a man?"

"A truck driver," shouted a single voice from the back of the room.

And anyone else he can get to help!

Like families, tax supported institutions spend more when there is more to spend.

It's true wherever you go and it's true at Cass City High School. An example is the new utility building authorized Monday. Judged on a priority basis it's a marginal building. One board member felt it wasn't worth the cost.

Certainly in a time of tight budgets it wouldn't have been constructed.

In fairness, it should be stressed that Cass City School has been an efficient operation in the past. . . based on a comparison with other Michigan school districts.

But we can't rest on this record. It's not the contention here that the 7.5-mill operating tax renewal should be mixed by the voters next month.

But if the State tax picture remains as rosy as it has been the levy could be reduced until the budget fat has been pared again. Just because it's authorized doesn't mean it has to be spent.

Contrarily, if the State cuts our revenues as drastically as current plans indicate, we should be willing to pay more, if we have to. Let's spend everything we need for quality education and no more

I get letters. . . this one from Ms. Mary Gianfield of Cedar Crest College. She wants any information I have on Representative Hutchinson.

I haven't been able to figure whether that's a compliment or a put on.

Truthfully, I never heard of Rep. Hutchinson.

I haven't seen Jim MacTavish since the school decided to vote on an indoor pool. But if he's going around saying, I told you so, forgive him.

MacTavish was a lone voice in the community that announced for all to hear that an outdoor pool was foolish and an indoor pool was what we all needed.

Roger Bergman has bats in his belfry. Well almost. . . he killed it bats last week while knocking down the former St. Pancratius fellowship hall with his brother, Ed.

Am I lucky? This week I won "second prize" in a contest I didn't know I entered.

In big print it says I won 4 days and 3 nights in the Walt Disney World area of Florida, plus other assorted goodies.

In the small print it says that I pay for all meals and transportation plus a $19.95 service fee, plus $7.50 per night double occupancy if I go between June 1-Sept. 5 or between Dec. 15-April 15 and that I get to listen to a land sales pitch by Gaveland Ranch Acres, Inc.

Am I lucky?

Hire new director for mental health department

Several months of interviews and searching came to an end this week with the hiring of a director for the new Tuscola County Mental Health Department.

The 12 member Act 54 Board has announced the appointment of Dennis Johnson, 30, of 515 N. Almer St., Caro, as the department's director. Johnson is presently program director for the Educable Trainable Program at Caro State Home & Training School, and will assume his new duties April 2.

The County Act 54 Board has been searching for a director since it was first organized early last year by the Tuscola County Board of Commissioners.

Johnson's appointment was announced Monday by Howard Bell, chairman of the Act 54 Board. He has been a resident of Caro since January of 1969 when he accepted a position at Caro State Home. He was named in his present directorship in June of 1970.

Prior to arriving in Caro, Johnson was probation and parole agent for the Michigan Department of Corrections at Kalamazoo from August of 1967 until December of 1968.

A native of Lansing, Johnson was graduated from Lansing Community College with an A.A. degree in 1963, received his B.A. degree from Olivet College in January of 1966 and his Master of Arts Degree from Northern Michigan University in August of 1967. He served as director of occupational therapy at the psychiatric unit at St. Mary's Hospital in Marquette in 1967.

The new director said the first priority will be to hire a mental health department staff and equip the department's office. Initially, the staff will include a secretary and a second man who Johnson said will either consist of someone with a social work background or a psychologist. The department will operate out of offices located in the Department of Social Services building located west of Caro near the intersection of M-81 and Walk Road.

Johnson said his job will be to establish effective programs for the community in the areas of mental health illness, mental retardation and drug abuse. "I envision this as including diagnostic work, referral services, some direct services and utilizing existing resources that are already operating in the county, along with some direct treatment by our own staff," he said.

In its first year, the Act 54 Board has been allocated a $80,000 budget with the county contributing $15,000 and the State providing the remaining $65,000 on a 3 to 1 matching fund basis.

Why plant trees subject to insect attack?

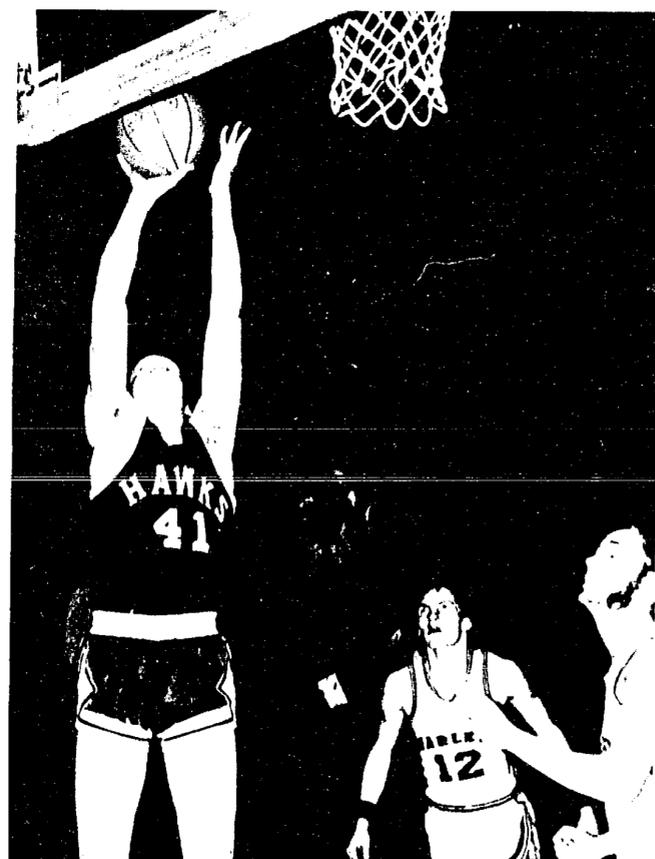

I was glad to hear that Cass City is finally going to have some trees along Main St. We could use some! But why the secrecy as to which variety of tree is under consideration? Surely more than one of the many varieties of trees in the world would be suitable for the purpose, and why not choose one that would not be subject to insect attacks?

Hear few complaints over tax jump

Elkland and Novesta township landowners should be ready for bad news when they receive their tax bills again. Assessments are up from 15 per cent in Elkland township to 27 per cent in Novesta.

Elkland township supervisor Edwin Karr reports an approximate 15 per cent jump in assessments this year as compared with a 10 per cent raise last year.

In spite of the increase, Elkland's board of review reported only a few complaints had been registered with them as of Monday morning. Karr said there had been no major problems with taxpayers and that some only come to compare their assessments with neighbors and most usually leave satisfied.

Novesta supervisor Gail Parrott reported very little activity at that board of review and said most of the action has centered on changes in property descriptions where land has been sold or changed hands.

Parrott said assessments for Novesta have been raised about 20 per cent on timber cut-over land and 27 per cent on agricultural land. In spite of this, he said, there has been no adverse reaction to the increases.

He also said that poor or marginal farm land which has been split up for building sites has been raised.

"People just seem to accept the raises," Parrott said.

Self-sufficiency has never been known to secure efficiency.

Voter registration proposal tied to license renewal

The fact that he oversees both Michigan drivers and Michigan voters, prompts Secretary of State Richard Austin to come up with a completely new proposal for registering voters in Michigan.

Austin's suggestion, so simple it's surprising no one thought of it before, is to register voters whenever they renew their drivers license.

If that is adopted, Austin says, "it will cover nine out of every 10 Michigan voters, and will provide even stricter checks on voter rolls. It will save time, money and confusion and it will eliminate the need for 'crash' voter registration drives."

"In one move we can improve the integrity of the voting rolls and also encourage citizens to participate in the elector system as voters."

Austin's proposal would mean voters would be reregistered every three years. In addition, everytime they move, it would be recorded as soon as they recorded their change in address on their drivers license.

When persons registered, Austin's office would send each one a voter identification card listing the Congressional, state senate, state representative and county commissioner districts. Current voter registration cards list only the precinct a person is in.

There is usually a long road between the point something is proposed and the time it comes into effect, if it ever does. But Austin's plan is simple enough and logical enough that it may have a chance.

Even Gov. William G. Milliken has indicated he might approve the idea, and it would need some Republican support to be adopted.

was recently made available to continue its bigger projects through June, 1974.

Appeals to Congress for extension of the commission's life at least through an extra year were made by Gov. William G. Milliken and officials from other states affected.

"This would provide Michigan counties in the commission area with a continuation of grant funds at the level the state now is receiving while Congress has a chance to act on the president's new program proposals," the governor said. "It will take some time for these new programs to become established, and federal funds must continue until then so there is no disruption of assistance."

The President is expected to continue some of the commission's functions in other new programs he will propose, but no one knows yet just how much help he will push for. Many people will be affected by what the final decision is.

COMMISSION THREATENED

One agency threatened with extinction in the budget slashes underway by President Nixon in Washington is the Upper Great Lakes Regional Commission.

The Commission is made up of representatives of Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota and was set up to help stimulate economic growth in the northern parts of the three states. Since its inception, it has pumped millions of dollars into the three areas to help in such diverse enterprises as junk car clean ups, tourism, agricultural development and other economic improvements.

The commission was due to expire this June and close its Washington office, but money

TRADE PUSHED

Michigan's efforts to increase its exports will receive another boost April 16-20 when the state shows some of its wares in Tokyo at the U.S. Trade Center.

The show will be devoted entirely to food items and is open to food firms from all over the United States.

Japan is the largest market outside the United States for food products and about 80 to 90 per cent of its imports are handled by buyers headquartered in Tokyo.

Michigan's efforts in the trade show are coordinated through the state agriculture department. The show will be followed by a presentation to Japanese food service business officials April 18-19 and a presentation to similar executives in Hong Kong April 25-26 and in Singapore May 2-3.

This state is also establishing a permanent trade office in Tokyo to increase our exports to that country and the rest of Asia.

With the American dollar devalued again, prospects for increasing foreign trade, and thus strengthening the Michigan economy, must be viewed optimistically. One effect of devaluation is to lower prices of American goods in other countries.

KETCHUM'S KNAPSACK

East Lansing revisited

By Jim Ketchum

A few years ago, a reporter who shall remain nameless, did a feature story about life in Cass City for the Michigan State University newspaper, The State News. In that story, the reporter in question did what is known in the trade as a hatchet-job on this town.

Since my wife and I have just moved here from East Lansing, it seems appropriate for me to reciprocate and give Cass Cityans some impressions of Sillytown along the Red Cedar River.

East Lansing exists because of the university and, occasionally, in spite of it. The city boasts some of the highest per capita incomes, I.Q.'s and taxes in the state. It is the rare street that does not have at least one or two $80,000 or $90,000 homes, complete with garbage disposals, dog droppings and sky-high mortgages.

Yet, on these same streets, older, slightly rundown houses become what is euphemistically called student housing. These places usually amount to hippie communes with co-habitation an accepted way of life among the free generation. These students stay students only at the never-ending mercy of instructors who would rather give "d's" than flunk anyone.

Status symbols take on many forms in East Lansing, but a trained observer can spot some of the more apparent ones. The Cadillac nestled next to a Volkswagen in a two-car garage is a common example, although I'm not sure which car is the symbol.

Another symbol is trash. East Lansingites do not dispose of just any old kind of trash in any old receptacle. Shining galvanized cans are popular and so are disposable plastic bags for the more ecology-minded. Once in a while, someone will set out a plastic garbage can, but these are not considered good taste unless they are green and blend in with the lawn.

The trash itself holds status, too. You don't see common items like bent curtain rods, broken paper lampshades or tin cans. Junk in East Lansing consists of empty champagne magnums, gold-leaf picture frames, and ornately carved table lamps. I once watched a junkman pick out a lamp, examine it carefully, and replace it in the back of his truck, obviously disappointed at the lack of quality.

Still another symbol is signs. Outside of Gattlinburg, Tennessee, I have never seen more flashing neon and billboard in every color imaginable compressed into so small an area than in East Lansing. Eye pollution was born on Grand River Avenue, the major street through town. There are places along that route where passing motorists can see nothing but signs—no trees, no buildings—just signs.

If MacDonald's Hamburgers do not blind you with flashing notices of 500 billion burgers sold, then Colonel Sanders beckons with a 20-foot high bucket of fried chicken. Standard Oil invites you to ask them, and sign after sign begs you to eat tacos, pancakes, hot dogs and fish.

Traffic ranks as a major problem. When classes change, a sea of human flesh oozes across Grand River Ave. from the university and into East Lansing's already congested streets. If a driver stops to let one or two students cross the street, 350 more will follow, none in any particular hurry. Some have destinations; others just walk for the sake of walking, in hopes of scaring up some action.

Walk into any store in downtown East Lansing and prepare to spend about 20 per cent more than you would anywhere else. There runs a rumor that those business firms engage in price-gouging to take advantage of students who have no transportation to shop elsewhere. But every firm denies such practices, citing inflation as the culprit.

Three years ago, students attempted to organize a boycott of East Lansing merchants to drive prices down. Then, somehow, the war became the issue, as it usually did in those days, and before one evening ended, rock-throwing students shattered dozens of plate-glass windows along the golden mile. As a result, prices took another giant step upward.

Most people who live in East Lansing work for the university, or so it seems, and they let you know it in subtle ways. For example, they will ask, "What department are you with?" or "What do you teach?" When you answer that you are not with the university, the response usually comes in the form of a condescending "oh."

Universities produce an atmosphere which separates them from the real world and MSU is no exception. Perhaps that explains some of East Lansing's unreality, for if the university did not exist, neither would the town.

Given a choice of living anywhere in Michigan, East Lansing would not rank at the top of my list. But then, neither would anywhere in the upper peninsula. Nor would Detroit.

Funny, but once in a while, for some unknown reason, I miss the ordered insanity that is East Lansing.

Just a little.

Sanilac County to abandon roadway

Sanilac County Road Commission has set 11:00 a.m. April 4, as the time and date for a hearing to abandon a one-mile section of Patterson Road between Spencer Road and Holbrook Road in Austin township.

Road Commission engineer Fred Elwood said that the petition for abandonment was filed because of several hazardous conditions existing on the road.

"We want to abandon it due to a bridge being out which has been out for a long time," he said. "Also motorcycles going down there have caused damage to crops and livestock."

He said there are no houses or driveways on the road which would be affected by abandonment. In effect, he said, the road itself has already been abandoned, but legally, the 66-foot right-of-way still belongs to the county. The petition would allow the right-of-way to revert to the landowners along the route. They could then fence it in or use it at their discretion.

The hearing will be held at the Road Commission offices in Sandusky.

4 attend AAUW new topic workshop

Four area women represented the Cass City Branch of the American Association of University Women at the Michigan State Division's New Topic Workshop last Saturday on the campus of Genesee Community College.

Representing Cass City were Mrs. Jack McDaniel, president; Mrs. Stanley Kim, Mrs. L. E. Althaver and Mrs. Gerald Prieskorn, board members.

The workshop dealt with problems in communication, development of human potential, global interdependence and woman's self identity.

BETTER HEALTH

One way to help youngsters on drugs

BY DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

I just received material from the Addiction Services Agency, in New York, telling about ACTION, an experimental program started two and one-half years ago by Bristol-Myers to see if young people might do the best job of warning other youngsters of the awful danger of ruining themselves, their health and their lives, with drugs-like-heroin.

Actually many able youngsters have done an excellent job publishing articles they have written about drugs and splendid cartoons showing in pictures the hazards of using dangerous drugs.

The idea sounds to me like a good and promising one. It reminds me of my first patient who came suffering from chronic alcoholism. He was brought to me in 1967, when I had just started practice, by his wife, who hoped that I would be able to help him out of his destructive drinking habit. I knew enough to tell the woman that I had had no experience in treating alcoholism; but still she insisted that I at least try.

And so I talked to him a few minutes, until he said, "Hey, Doc: were you ever drunk?" And I had to say, "No; I never was." My patient promptly got up and said, "Then what in hell do you know about it?" and he walked out. After thinking a moment, I realized that he was right.

Years later, the famous "Bill W." based the success of his Alcoholics Anonymous on this principle, which is that the only man likely to cure an alcoholic is an ex-alcoholic.

Now, the idea behind the ACTION program is in getting young people to create what-ever communications tools they feel will work to keep other youngsters away from drugs. This means that teenagers will be talking to other youngsters in a language they will best understand, in a way to which they will be most sympathetic. Among the ACTION programs that the young people have already created is a play called "Beat the Pusher"; a talk show for a local radio station, a magazine called "Youth Power," filled with writings about drugs by young people, and a song called "Wake Up People."

As Mr. John Sheedy, of the Bristol-Myers company, says, "When you consider the fact that these kids range in age from 12 to 17, the achievements were indeed something to marvel at."

People who would like to know more about the program can write the Addiction Services Agency, 65 Worth Street, New York, N.Y. 10013.

ENCOURAGEMENT FOR PEOPLE WITH LUNG CANCER

In the Newsletter of the National Association of Science Writers, Delos Smith, an eminent science writer, tells how he, a heavy smoker, was found to have a lung cancer. He went to the great Memorial Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center in New York City, where the experts gave him 20 isotope cobalt-60 radiation treatments. Soon, X-ray films showed that his cancer was gone.

Later, he had a "daughter growth," a metastasis, as we doctors call it in a thigh bone.

and one was also destroyed by radiation. Today, at 67 his general health is good.

This story should encourage many patients with cancer to go quickly for treatment. What is sad is that so many people, when they find a lump, put off going to a doctor until it is too late for a cure.

DANGERS OF WINTER SPORTS

Recently, I saw an informative article on coping with winter sports injuries. For instance, I learned that most ski accidents happen because of fatigue on that last run, late in the afternoon.

Today, safety bindings are being devised to avoid many serious skiing injuries. Beginners who feel a bit too confident about their skill are more likely to be injured than are more accomplished skiers. The leg muscles should be strengthened by practice before one tries any fancy work. Many people unwisely think they can get up from a mainly sedentary job, perhaps at a desk, and be ready for the demands on the leg muscles of skiing, but this is wrong. They must prepare with exercises for the skiing season.

Skiers should be careful to protect themselves against the burning effects, especially on the eyelids and lips, that are due to light reflected up from the snow. Shatterproof sunglasses should be worn. The skier should also watch out for frostbite, often on the ears.

Nowadays, snowmobiles are causing many severe and even some fatal accidents. Alcohol accounts for half of them. Night driving is very dangerous and persons who run into an unseen wire may be decapitated.

A safety helmet should be used; one shouldn't drive too fast. On a long ride, two people in snowmobiles should go together. Remember that going at

Leaders trained for marriage program

Eight participants of a Marital Enrichment program sponsored by the Cooperative Extension Service met recently with Dr. David Imig for a brief training. Dr. Imig is a Family Life specialist in Michigan State University's Extension Service, as well as a faculty instructor. He outlined the purposes and procedures for the Marital Enrichment sessions. He also described ways in which the structured process is helpful to ordinary couples who want to get the most from their marriage. Marital Enrichment leaders use a leader's manual and the four to six participating couples use their own log books to record their progress. Actually the leader is a facilitator or structurer in the process so that persons who have taken the series can, if desired, learn how to lead others through the process. "Couples find Marital Enrichment both exciting and stimulating as they communicate their positive feelings", according to Dr. Imig. Couples interested in taking the six-session series may contact Ann Ross, Extension Home Economist, County Building, Bad Axe. (Telephone 269-9949)

FORMS AT THE REAR

"Well, private," snarled the tough old sergeant, "I suppose after you're discharged from the army, you'll be just waiting for me to die so you can come and spit on my grave?"

ONE OR THE OTHER

Two Army privates fell out of a hike and as they trudged along the road came across a dead animal.

"This critter has got three stripes," said one.

"Well," said the other, "it's got to be either a skunk or a sergeant!"

TIME and TIDE

Curious, isn't it, how people look at life so differently? To some there is an irresistible desire to cope with the tides of life by escaping from dullness to new lands and faces.

And so it is with time! One person begrudges every second as a relentless march toward the end of life. Another sees the sands of time as a slow and painful journey.

What shapes these different viewpoints? The Christian sees, in the certainty of seconds and the regularity of tides, a revelation of the order and beauty that God perfects in His works.

Every man needs God and His Church to give his life its noblest point of view.

Marlette no competition for Red Hawks

Oh hum. Cass City defeated Marlette Wednesday night in the second round of the district C tournament at Cass City, 95-42, in a game marked by little excitement and an even smaller crowd.

For the second straight night it didn't seem much like tournament times.

The reason was that no one expected Marlette to put up much of a battle and Marlette followed the form chart.

The game was nothing to get excited about. The Red Raiders simply don't have the talent to compete this season.

The Hawks started strong and dominated play in every quarter.

Coach Fred Hurlburt substituted liberally throughout most of the game although he didn't bench all of his regulars until midway through the final period.

By this time Coach Terry Reid had thrown in the towel and was giving his bench a chance to play.

Cass City was in front by 10 at the end of the first quarter and by 13 at halftime.

In the third period the game turned into a rout.

The Hawks meshed 29 points while the Red Raiders netted just nine and fans were heading for the exits.

In the last period Cass City whipped in 20 points for one of its top point production periods of the year.

Nick Gibas led the attack for Cass City with 23 points while dominating the boards. Kip Hopper scored 10 on fast breaks and short pops from outside the foul circle.

Other Cass City totals were: Paul Bliss, 8; Dave Hillaker, 11; Scott Hartel, 10; Jerry Toner, 6; Randy Wright, 10; Phil Berridge, 1; Jay Tuckey, 2; Paul Chapin netted 11 to lead the Red Raiders.

Cass City put it all together Saturday night before a near-capacity crowd at Cass City High School gym to run rough-

You're never too old to enjoy high school basketball. With the aid of his cane he made it here every time his team took the floor. He's an Uby fan to the end as the Bearcats sign on his back attests.

Uby rally fails; USA wins, 68-65

If the Uby Bearcats realized that there are two halves to every basketball game the chances are good that they would have been in the finals of the District B basketball tournament at Cass City Saturday.

But judging by the results of the games against North Branch Tuesday and Unionville-Sebewaing Thursday the Bearcats didn't seem to come alive until after the intermission.

Against North Branch the Bearcats were able to rally and survive, but against USA Uby was unable to generate enough fast half firepower to win and dropped a 68-65 decision to the Patriots.

For the first time in the tournament the stands were reasonably filled and the game generated the kind of interest that fans have grown to expect at tourney time.

USA broke a tight game open in the second quarter to lead by as much as 10 points. The Patriots took advantage of momentary lapses in the Bearcat defense to score on long downcourt passes and driving layups.

At the intermission USA was in front 37-30. But in typical Bearcat fashion, Uby came back strong in the last half.

At the end of the third period the Patriot margin was down to four points.

Early in the fourth quarter Uby tied the game. Several times the underdog Bearcats had an opportunity to forge ahead but were never able to get the basket that would have put them in the lead for the first time in the game.

The Bearcats were hindered defensively as Doug MacEachin played most of three quarters with four fouls although he wasn't forced to leave the game until the dying seconds when USA had the game all but wrapped up.

Tracy Erwin led USA with 22 points while Brian Yonke and Al Strieter with 12 each and Paul Geiger with 10 were also in double figures.

For Uby Bob Geikle netted 22 while MacEachin netted 17 and Clair McIntyre, 11.

GOING ONCE

The auctioneer interrupted his chanting to announce that someone in the audience had lost a billfold containing $1,000 and that a reward of $200 was being offered for its return.

A voice from the rear of the crowd called, "Two hundred and ten dollars."

around and through the Patriots' defense for driving lay-ups in the first quarter while setting up teammates with his usual sharp passing.

Nick Gibas, Scott Hartel, Randy Wright and Dave Hillaker were able to control the backboards against the taller, but slower USA quintet.

The pressing defense that has been so successful during the last half of the season for Cass City was again instrumental in helping the Hawks to the one-sided win.

The Patriots were guilty of numerous turnovers and took hurried, low percentage shots during much of the first half.

It wasn't much of a game unless you happen to be a dived-in-the-wool Cass City fan.

The contest was decided after the first eight minutes.

With Bliss hitting on drives, Gibas pouring in points on short pops from around the foul circle and Hillaker hitting from the side Cass City was in front by 20 points almost before the fans had settled in their seats.

At the end of the quarter it was 26-14 and at the intermission Cass City led 47-25.

Midway in the second quarter USA Coach Oland Dunkel cleared his bench and the smaller, but quicker, substitutes were more effective than the regulars.

USA fans said it was the worst game that the Patriots played all year.

Regardless of what team was playing, Cass City maintained its lead with ease, although in the final period with the bench playing for both schools the Pats were able to post a 30-27 advantage to slightly close the gap.

It was the first district title for Cass City since 1959 when the school was in Class B. That year they were knocked off in the regional opener by Grand Blanc, 54-50, then one of the stronger teams in the division.

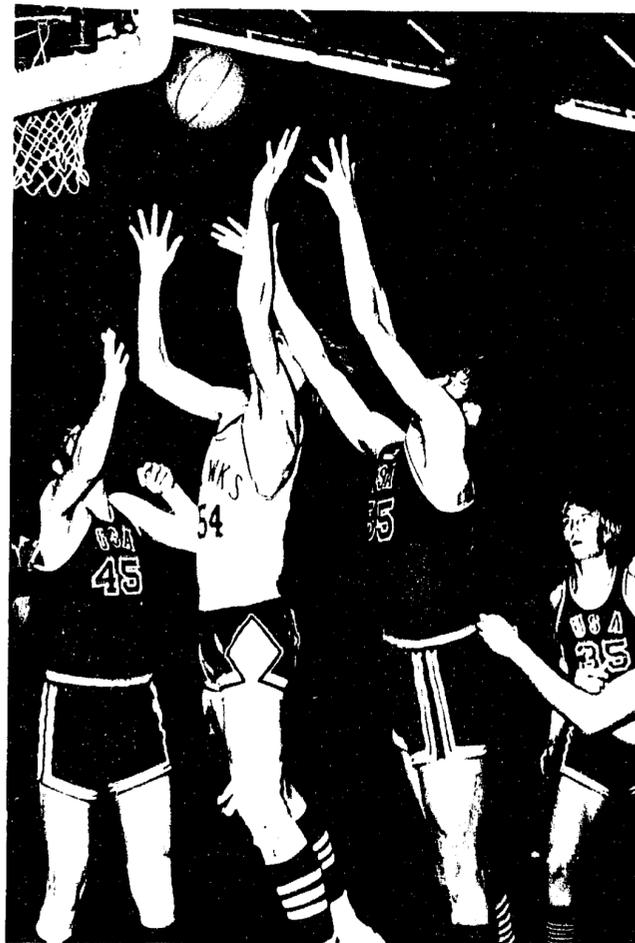

It appears that things haven't changed much. Wednesday the Hawks were to have faced St. Stephen of Saginaw.

St. Stephen has been ranked number one in the state all year and was the runner-up for the championship last year.

The two schools were to play at Grand Blanc High School.

UBLY'S RON GEKLE shoots over Daniel Diehl of USA to score in the close game won by USA in the district semi-finals.

NICK GIBAS HELPED Cass City dominate the backboards against the rangy USA team. He snagged this rebound from between Bryan Yonke (45) and Daniel Diehl (55).

Official Proceedings Of The

TUSCOLA COUNTY BOARD OF COMMISSIONERS

COOPERATIVE EXTENSION SERVICE

Michigan State University
 Proposal for a Multi-County Agricultural Extension Program for Huron, Tuscola and Sanilac Counties.
 According to the 1969 Census of Agriculture, farmers of Huron, Tuscola and Sanilac Counties sold nearly $100,000,000 worth of products produced on their farms, as follows:

County	All Agr. Sales	Dairy Sales	Field-Crop Sales	Livestock Sales	Poultry Sales
Huron	$34.8 mil.	$10.7 mil.	$11.7 mil.	$ 8.0 mil.	$ 3.6 mil.
Tuscola	26.3 mil.	6.1 mil.	15.5 mil.	2.0 mil.	1.9 mil.
Sanilac	32.9 mil.	20.2 mil.	8.4 mil.	3.3 mil.	0.2 mil.
Total	$94.0 mil.	$37.0 mil.	$35.6 mil.	13.3 mil.	$5.7 mil.

No three adjoining counties in Michigan produce the dollar-volume of farm products that Huron, Tuscola and Sanilac do. Together they account for more than 10 percent of the State's total agricultural output. Fewer than 5 percent of the Michigan Extension agents working in the Agricultural sector are presently headquartered in Bad Axe, Caro or Sandusky.

At the present time in Huron County is staffed with two Agricultural Agents (Warschewsky and Rapes); Tuscola County is staffed with two Ag Agents (Bortel and Kehler); and Sanilac County is staffed with two Ag Agents (Sieling and an unfilled position), plus a Dairy Agent (Bivens), who serves all three counties (Multi-County Agent). It is proposed that we establish two additional Multi-County Agent positions for the 3-county area as follows:

1. A specialized Livestock Agent to work with beef, swine and sheep producers of the three counties on production and marketing problems. He would probably be headquartered in the Huron County Extension Office.
2. A specialized Ag Agent to work with the bean growers of the three counties on production and marketing problems. It is essential that such a man have training and experience in the production field, but he should also be familiar enough with marketing principles to be able to properly integrate the production-marketing function. He should probably be housed in the Tuscola County Extension Office.

Financing
 The salaries of all seven Ag Agents now in the 3-county area are paid by Michigan State University. Michigan State stands ready to pay the salaries of the two additional Multi-County Agents shown above.

Offices, secretarial help, equipment and supplies, and travel for the present seven agents is paid entirely by the Boards of Commissioners, in the case of Bivens, a Multi-County Agent, his office and travel expenses are paid jointly by the three Boards of Commissioners (Sanilac 50 percent, Huron 30 percent and Tuscola 20 percent.)

It is proposed that the Boards pay the office and travel expenses of the two additional Multi-County Agents. However, rather than pooling support funds, it is suggested that each of the three Boards provide a $2,000 annual travel budget for the Multi-County Agent headquartered in its local Extension office, plus adequate secretarial help, supplies, equipment, telephone and other office necessities.

Administration
 Each Multi-County Agent would be an employee and full-fledged staff member of the MSU Cooperative Extension Service. Each would be responsible to the County Extension Director of his home county for office procedures, operating expenses, and local and area program supervision. It is further proposed that the three Boards of Commissioners name one of its members to represent them in matters dealing with the administration of the 3-county Ag Extension Program. For this purpose the three representatives would meet semi-annually with the County Extension Directors of the three counties.

Responsibilities of Multi-County Agents and County Extension Directors as they relate to the Multi-County Extension Programs

1. The Multi-County Agents and the three County Extension Directors are each directly responsible to the State Cooperative Extension Office as follows:
 - a. The County Extension Directors are responsible for Extension leadership and contributions to the overall development of the agricultural resources of their respective counties. As regards development of these enterprises covered by the Multi-County Agents, the County Directors will look to the Multi-County Agents for counsel and expertise.
 - b. The Multi-County Agents take the initiative for periodically bringing together the County Extension Directors and themselves to jointly decide on program directions, subject-matter priorities and educational activities in those areas they are responsible for.
 - c. On the basis of these decisions, the Multi-County Agents prepare the written Program Plan for the three-county area in those areas of their responsibility. Unsettled differences of opinion are referred to the County Extension Directors and then to the State Cooperative Extension Office in this order.
 - d. In implementing the Program Plan the Multi-County Agent has primary responsibility for direct on-the-farm educational work in the three counties, servicing requests for information, and for leadership in planning and carrying out educational activities and events in the areas of their responsibility. Such activities and/or methods as demonstrations, meetings, tours, field days, short courses, shows, sales, etc. will be encouraged to expedite the adaption process.
 - e. The Multi-County Agents maintain up-to-date mailing lists of producers of the area, and assist the County Extension Directors and Agricultural Agents in maintaining up-to-date county lists as needed.
 - f. The County Extension Directors and Multi-County Agents may jointly establish representative three-county advisory councils to counsel with them on Extension educational direction, priorities and activities. In some situations county advisory councils may also be desirable.
 - g. The Multi-County Agents take leadership in carrying out area-wide mass media informational programs for their areas of responsibility. The intent of the above statements is that the County Extension Directors, Agricultural Agents, and Multi-County Agents work harmoniously together to develop and carry out an aggressive educational program that results in an up-to-date efficient and prosperous farming industry in the area.
2. Each Multi-County Agent is responsible to the County Director in that county with whom he is officed for local office procedures, administrative reports and for administrative liaison with the State Office. The Multi-County Agent also advises with the County Director on day-to-day activities and operations.

Because the County Extension Directors are responsible for coordinating staff efforts to insure adequate local Extension financing, it is imperative that the Multi-County Agents keep them well informed as to their program activities, accomplishments, plans and needs.

Timing
 The Cooperative Extension Service is prepared to implement the program as soon as the three Boards of Commissioners have approved of it and as soon as qualified men can be employed to serve as Multi-County Agents.

Program Benefits
 Based on experience with such Multi-County arrangements in several other locations in the state, the following benefits will accrue to farmers and the agricultural industry of Huron, Tuscola and Sanilac counties:

1. Will permit of greater specialization by all Extension Agents serving the 3-county area at a time when farms are rapidly becoming larger and more specialized, and need more specialized help.
2. Will reach farmers that are not now being effectively reached by Extension programs.
3. Will result in more agent-time in the field in direct consultation with individual farmers (research has shown that the most effective work done by Extension Agents is done on an individualized, problem-solving basis).
4. Will provide direct assistance on a problem of major concern to farmers today, namely profitable marketing of their products.
5. Will result in quicker agent-response to requests from farmers for help.
6. Will result in close working relationships between farmers and commercial agribusinesses serving farmers.

Arthur Willis, County Treasurer appeared before the Board with his annual report.

Following two relatively quiet weeks, Cass City saw a rash of larcenies take place, and included Police Chief Gene Wilson as one of its victims.

Monday, March 5, Chief Wilson reported that his police jacket, valued at $55 was taken from Cass City High School while he attended a basketball game. The theft occurred around 9:30 p.m.

Wilson said a custodian told him he saw the jacket hanging on the coat rack around 9:00 p.m., but when he went to get it, it was gone.

Also on March 5, a can filled with 200 half dollars was taken from the home of Mrs. Mary LaPeer, 6379 Fourth St. Mrs. LaPeer told police she took her daughters to school that morning and did not return home until that afternoon, when she found the door to her house open.

The coins had been kept on a shelf in a closet. No suspects have yet been found.

Three larcenies occurred last Wednesday, March 7. A tape player valued at $85 was stolen from a car belonging to Lois Kaake of Cass City. The car had been parked overnight at 6242 River Rd., when the theft occurred. Police said a rear window was open and the thief used it to gain entry.

Also on March 7, a tool box valued at about $75 was stolen from a pickup truck belonging to George Lapp, 3700 Cemetery Rd., Cass City.

Lapp told police he went howling that night at the Cass City Lanes around 7:00 p.m. and when he returned to the truck a little after 9 o'clock, the tool box was gone.

Police said most of the tools were unmarked but that the owner could identify them again.

That same day, Glen Miracle, 6458 Garfield, reported to police that someone broke into his van and stole two tires valued at $110.00.

Police said the back doors of the van were unlocked and that the thief simply opened the doors and took the tires.

Police reported a minor traffic accident last Saturday evening at the corner of Main and Leach Streets.

EXCUSE

An inebriated husband was met at the door by his furious spouse who demanded his excuse for arriving home at 3 a. m. After several thoughtful seconds, he peered at her with bloodshot eyes and replied rather hopefully: "Breakfast!"

LORI KILBOURN, Cass City High School Senior, stirs this pot of chili prior to the chili supper Monday evening at the high school. The Senior Trip Club raised $750 toward their trip to Nassau.

Trip club nets $750

Cass City High School seniors are about $750 closer to their goal of a trip to the Bahama Islands. The senior trip club made that much on their chili supper held Monday evening at the high school cafeteria. About 300 suppers were served, which consumed 98 of 100 gallons of chili that had been prepared. This latest effort brings the trip fund to about $8,500. A goal of $12,000 had been initially set.

Accept pleas in Tuscola Circuit Court

Joseph J. Mannarino, 18, Caro, was arraigned Tuesday, March 13, in circuit court on a charge of larceny from a vehicle. He was arraigned before Circuit Court Judge James Churchill. He stood mute and a plea of innocent was entered and accepted by the court. Bond was continued.

Mannarino also faces trial on two other charges dating back to last fall. He is charged with breaking and entering the Tuscola County Retarded Children's building Sept. 7, and with breaking and entering at Palmer's Drug Store in Caro Oct. 26. He pleaded innocent to both of those charges.

Also arraigned Tuesday was Daniel Torrez, Caro. He stood mute on one count of assault with a dangerous weapon and one count of being armed with a deadly weapon. Pleas of not guilty were entered and accepted by the court. Pre-trial examination was set for April 2.

Robert Pratt, Millington, pleaded guilty to a charge of conspiracy to steal a battery. The plea was accepted by the court and sentencing was set for April 16.

Two sentences were handed down by Judge Churchill Tuesday, March 13.

In one, William Gordon, Detroit, was sentenced to from three to five years in Jackson State Prison after being convicted of carrying a concealed weapon.

In the other, Robert Hockaday, Detroit, was sentenced to the county jail for eight months after being convicted of possessing illegal quantities of mphetemines.

In court action Monday, Gordon Houghteling, B. Vassar, was bound over for trial on a charge of larceny. Police charge he stole four tires and rims from an auto parked in Vassar last fall. Judge Norman Baguley continued bond.

Mitchell Becker, Bridgeport, was bound over for trial on a larceny charge. Police claim he stole a tandem trailer in Bridgeport last fall valued at $350.

Leonard Wooster, Caro, was arraigned in circuit court on a charge of breaking and entering. Judge Baguley remanded him to the county jail for examination. Bond of $1000 was set.

Robert Williams, Vassar, was placed on two years' probation after being found guilty of selling marijuana. He was fined $200 plus $200 in court costs.

80% of Seniors try booze, survey shows

Alcohol is the biggest drug problem among students at Cass City High School. A recent survey indicated that 80 per cent of the seniors had used alcohol.

All but 27 of the students in the 12th grade said that they had either tried or used alcohol regularly.

The use of hard drugs was small with only 5.3 per cent of the students reporting using drugs on a regular basis. However, the actual number of students using drugs would be less than the 5.3 per cent total because of the users, many use more than one drug, swelling the amount of drug use but not the number of student users, Counsellor Jerry Cleland said.

No attempt was made to explain the terms in the questionnaire. Students from the fifth grade through high school were asked whether they used barbiturates or amphetamines without attempting to translate them into terms used by kids on the street.

The use of hard drugs appears to be a minor problem here. Two students in the 12th grade said they were regular users of heroin. Two 10th graders and two Seniors said they occasionally used cocaine and four others said that they had tried either cocaine or heroin.

Cleland said that there was no way to determine whether the report was accurate or not. It's probable that some students understated their involvement while others exaggerated or completely misrepresented their drug use, he said.

The survey was conducted at the school after several meetings with members of the Citizens for Improved Education.

Comments by the students indicated that 75 of 206 regarded the community program as insufficient while 20 said that the program is sufficient.

Other students told how the program could be improved while 17 of the responders said it was "none of your business".

Light vote elects slates in Cass City, Gagetown

In one of the lightest voter turnouts in recent memory, Cass City voters elected two new trustees to the village council and returned a third.

With only 111 ballots cast, Republicans Richard Hampshire and James Ware were elected to the two-year post. Both were unopposed. Hampshire received 90 votes while Ware tallied 10. Incumbent Bernard Ross pulled 65 votes.

Election officials said that with no issues on the ballot and no contests, interest in the voting lagged markedly. Last year a record 37 voters turned out for spring elections. At that time, a proposal to permit beer in the village park was turned down by a three-to-one margin.

Leota Ashmore was elected to Gagetown's village council Monday, polling 24 write-in votes.

Returned to office were incumbents Lefroy Stapleton, Republican, who received 62 votes and William Stapleton, Democrat, who polled 26 votes. A total of 68 ballots were cast. The voting totals went as follows: Lefroy Stapleton 62; William Stapleton 26; Leota Ashmore 24; Ellery Sontag, 22; Lawrence Cummings, 10; Fred Sullivan, 1, and George Wilson, 1.
