

Winter breathes last icy blast on Cass City, Thumb area

CARS PICKED THEIR way warily along M-81 west of Cass City Monday. High winds hampered snow removal crews in efforts to open the road to traffic.

THIS SNOW PLOW digs a path through snow-clogged M-81 Sunday morning west of Cass City. Crews worked overtime to open major highways and relieve stranded motorists.

THIS M-81 SIGN is nearly buried by a snowbank created when state road crews plowed out the road Sunday. This snow pile, just west of Cass City, measured almost 10 feet in height.

Cass City residents continue to dig out from under state's worst snowstorm in six years

Tuscola county and the Cass City area reeled under winter's heaviest blast of the season and the worst snowstorm in six years.

Winds clocked as high as 65 miles an hour whipped nearly two feet of snow into mountainous drifts, closing virtually every road in the county Saturday. Traffic was limited to snowmobiles which ran missions of mercy around the clock.

Doctors and nurses were taken to and from Hills and Dales General Hospital by snowmobile until late Sunday afternoon when streets near the hospital were finally opened by Cass City snow removal crews.

Cass State Home and Training school publicly asked all employees, regardless of shift, to report for work. A snowmobile brigade formed by volunteers ran shuttles between the home and the downtown area of Caro to pick up employees.

Administrative officer Andy Heath said that, in addition to the snow machines, a truck was sent into the downtown area of Caro to pick up employees.

"The storm hit at night, which was the worst time," Heath explained. "That's when we're staffed least. Most of the night staff stayed on into Saturday and worked around the clock."

He said more help was available in this snow emergency than in 1967 because more employees of the state facility own their own snowmobiles. "Unquestionably," he said, "the volunteer snowmobilers offered us a tremendous service."

Tuscola County Road Commission crews were pulled off work Saturday afternoon as they fought a losing battle with the snow and wind. Work resumed in the early hours of Sunday morning after the snow stopped.

By Monday, the road commission had made headway on main roads in the county and were on 24 hour schedules in order to open back roads. Crews had most county roads open by Tuesday evening.

Wind and snow were also blamed for the collapse of a section of Wesley's Quaker Maid dairy plant Sunday afternoon.

Manager Gerald Stilson estimated his loss at between $2500 and $3000. He indicated that the damage, however, would not cause any interruption of his operation.

He said the major problem would be getting milk to the plant.

"We figure we're about two days behind," Stilson said Monday. "Of course the farmers are the ones who are going to suffer the greatest loss because the milk will spoil before we can get there."

Numerous activities were cancelled. The high school band festival in Vassar scheduled for last Saturday was called off. No new date has yet been set, according to George Bushong, Cass City High School band director.

Churches in Cass City cancelled services and schools were closed on a wholesale basis. Officials declined to speculate Monday when operations would return to normal.

Orville Horford, manager of the Thumb Electric Co-operative in Uby, said Monday numerous power failures were reported over the week end. However, he indicated that none was serious enough to cause any widespread blackouts.

"Our main problem was getting to the trouble," Horford said. "Once we got through the roads to the lines, we had them fixed quickly."

He said repairmen worked 24 hour shifts from early Saturday morning until Sunday afternoon when full power was restored. Officials at Detroit Edison reported two major power failures.

The village of Tuscola in the western part of the county was blacked out for several hours when wind tore down major transmission lines Saturday.

That same day, most of Keesee was without power until late in the day.

In all, Edison reported 169 calls. Sheriff's officers and Tuscola County Road Commission personnel aided in restoring power by clearing some of the snow away so that company trucks could get to the scene of trouble.

General Telephone customer service director James Courtney reported very few problems with telephone equipment due to the storm damage.

He cited the fact that most cables and lines running to individual houses are now underground as the major reason for a relatively trouble-free week end.

"Our major problem seemed to be with long distance circuits being tied up," he said. "People were anxious to contact relatives and this tied up the lines. In some cases, emergency calls could not go through."

He said a power failure in Kingston Saturday did not affect phone service. Battery power kept telephones in operation until normal service could be restored.

Cass City snow removal equipment worked steadily from late Saturday night in efforts to clear mammoth drifts and piles of snow from village streets. Trucks loaded heavily with chunks of snow headed for the municipal park to dump their contents into even larger snowbanks.

The snowstorm of last week end brought back memories of other late-winter blizzards to many in the Cass City area.

For example, Arthur Eskilsen of 6456 Third St., remembers a late snowstorm back in 1946. He said he was raising chickens at the time and recalls that the chicks had just started to feather out when the snow hit and knocked out electric power.

"We had to take an oil heater out to the barn to keep them warm until we got power back on," he said. "That's what saved 'em."

Eskilsen said he knew a late-winter storm was on its way, in spite of the preceding warm weather.

"I've lived a lot more years than these younger people have, and I know," he said.

FROM THE Editor's Corner

My uncle should have been dead 20 years or so ago.

What else could you expect from a guy who has been 20 pounds or so overweight for 40 years and a short fuse temper that was forever exploding?

Well, today this guy the insurance actuaries rate a poor risk is approaching 80 and you should be as healthy.

I'm not saying he hasn't slowed down any. He doesn't wade trout streams anymore... unless the weather is nice.

When he helped remodel his brother-in-law's house a couple of years ago he probably only worked seven or eight hours a day and then rested.

In his prime he'd work like this and then head for his favorite trout stream at mid-night and fish to dawn.

I'm sure that he never gave a second thought to high or low cholesterol or the dangers of an unbalanced diet or any of the other food fads that keep periodically cropping up.

Certainly he never took a vitamin supplement in his life. I'm reminded of my uncle often these days as I read the various theories that keep surfacing.

It seems that every food eaten has been attacked at one time or another as being injurious to health.

That even includes milk, the perfect food. My uncle hates milk and in his adult life I've never seen him drink it.

Every week or so dieticians and others come up with new theories, new diets, new "discoveries" about what's good for you, what's bad for you.

If you followed all of them, you'd probably starve to death.

I go along with a doctor who told me once that the best thing you can have going for you is healthy grandparents.

My uncle has his own theory about good health. He was a superintendent of schools and for most of his career worked during a time when superintendents, like teachers today, didn't work during the summer months.

During those years he'd hike away from his Illinois home to a cottage in northern Michigan. He spent those summers trout fishing and relaxing. He claimed that these summers kept him healthy, vigorous and better able to do his job.

All you can say about that theory is that it worked for him.

And wouldn't you like to be in the position to be able to give it a try?

Area Parents Without Partners helps single parents deal with reality

By Jim Ketchum

The fog grew thicker as the clock drew close to meeting time. Three of the members were already at the Community Bank building in Uby, waiting for the others. They would be along, though, because, for many of its members, this organization is the answer to the complex needs of their situation.

The organization is Parents Without Partners and the members are widows, widowers, divorcees and those going through the agony of divorce who have children. The idea is not so much group therapy as it is simply a corporate pooling of strength.

PWP is a national organization founded in New York in 1958 by concerned clergy and lay people interested in the problems of the single parent. From there, the group has grown to over 600 chapters in the United States and Canada, and is now headquartered in Washington, D. C.

One of the newest chapters started in this area is located in Bad Axe. Walter Nienaltowski, a Port Austin bartender, serves as president.

"For a long time the closest chapter of Parents Without Partners was in Saginaw," he said, holding a short, unlit cigar in his right hand.

"So we got to wondering what we could do. About that time we got in touch with Tim Uhlmann of the Catholic Family Service in Bad Axe and he agreed to help those of us who wanted to organize a chapter."

The club held its first meeting last December.

He said currently there are 14 paid members in the chapter. Fifteen are needed to charter the club and he said this should happen within a month or so.

Nienaltowski, who is known to everyone in the club as "Walt", has two children, a boy 15½ and a girl 14. He looked smilingly around the meeting room in the basement of the Community Bank building of Uby, where PWP holds its monthly general meetings.

"The bank gave us use of this room for nothing," he said. "I think that's a pretty good deal, don't you?"

Membership in PWP costs $12.50 per year. Of that, $5.50 goes to the national headquarters in Washington, D. C. Members receive a monthly magazine called The Single Parent, published in Washington, along with a monthly newsletter, the Lone Thumb Print, issued by the local chapter.

The national magazine deals in detail with peculiar problems to the single parent and methods of coping with them.

For example, the March issue focused on how to deal with a separation, the problem of child custody, activities for single parents and reviews of books. The articles are produced by doctors, clergymen and professional guidance counselors.

Walt pointed out that PWP is definitely not a lonely hearts club, although he added that some remarriages have resulted from attending club sessions.

"At first when they come," he said, "they're pretty reluctant to talk about why they're single, but usually they open up quickly, sometimes before the first meeting is over."

Walt, whose husky physique houses an understanding spirit, hopes that the Bad Axe chapter can grow rapidly.

"I expect this chapter to number as many as 100 by the end of the year," he said confidently. "Just seven years ago, there were only five chapters in the whole state, all in Detroit. Now there must be 16 or 17 statewide. Midland's chapter must have around 200 members."

Walt said PWP plans activities that both parent and child can attend. For example, on March 25, the club plans a horse-drawn hayride in Port Austin for parents and children.

"When we go on our activities, we always go dutch treat," Walt said. "That way we all have a good time."

Those who come to PWP meetings find they have a place of understanding fellowship.

Joan Adrakowicz of Owendale serves as secretary of the club and finds herself growing because of it. She was divorced after 17 years of marriage. She has eight children ranging in age from one to 17.

She stressed the importance of self-awareness and applied

STATE SURVEY crews continue work on widening of M-81 in Cass City. The project also calls for curb and gutter and new drainage tile on the west side of the village.

State begins work on M-81 widening

State Highway Department survey crews began work this week on an estimated $380,000 road widening project involving nearly a mile of M-81, in Cass City.

The department plans to widen the road to four lanes 1800 feet farther east and 2500 feet farther west, according to district engineer Edward L. Upson. In addition, he said, curb and guttering will be installed along with an improved storm sewer system at the west end of town.

"We plan to complete the field work and engineering this year," he said, "and will probably let the bids for construction early in 1974."

He said the construction would probably be completed by autumn of next year with possible clean-up work the following spring.

The drainage problem at the west village limits, which has plagued Cass City for many years, should be solved with the installation of new tile, probably 36 inches in diameter, Upson said.

He indicated that the storm sewer portion of the project would be built on a shared cost basis with the village. He said Cass City's share would amount to approximately $33,000. The state will install the sewer and then recover the village's share after construction is completed, he said.

Upson said he foresees no problem with existing rights-of-way being adequate for construction.

"What we're doing, in effect, is getting rid of the mud and dirt on the shoulder," he said. "We're widening the pavement from 24 to 48 feet with curb and gutter. I don't anticipate any need to expand the right-of-way."

The highway survey crew plans to be in Cass City about a month to complete its fieldwork. Party Chief Karl Koistinen indicated recent rainy weather might put his crew behind schedule, however.

"If It Fitz . . ."Factories don't make nuts

BY JIM FITZGERALD

UAW President Leonard Woodcock is so right. I suspect he used to recite Shakespeare while working on the assembly line.

Woodcock recently expressed anger at "academics" for writing "elitist nonsense" about the blue collar blues.

A lot of chrome domes claim factory work is so boring it is driving the workers buggy. Woodcock doesn't buy it. He says the chrome domes don't know what they are preaching about because they "have never done any real work in their lives."

What do the factory workers say? I'm glad you asked. I worked a total of several years in the factories of Mueller Brass, General Motors and Chrysler (even then, Ford had a better idea). And I remember the work as far from boring.

On the contrary, it was often entertaining. Sometimes it got exciting.

The beautiful thing was that you could do the work without thinking about it. This left plenty of time for thinking about other things. You not only could whistle while you worked, you could lead the band and tap dance.

For instance, I spent 1 summer counting MoPar fan belts for Chrysler. This was called "Taking inventory." I counted millions of belts as I transferred them, 1 by 1, from one bin to another. But I wasn't bored. I simply shoved the bins 15 feet apart and played belt basketball. I got so I could throw a belt into the bin with my eyes shut, between my legs, standing on 1 foot, while a co-worker poured Coke in my socks.

Then, at Mueller Brass, there was the infamous water test about which I have written previously. The assignment was to discover if there were any holes in various plumbing parts. I did this by fitting the parts into an air machine and then dipping the machine into a tank of water. I would then pull a lever which sent air shooting into the part. And if there were a hole in the part, I would get a face full of water. Or maybe the water would hit me in the pants, depending on the location of the hole. You never knew. It was exciting.

Also educational. Because at the next-door air machine there was a worker named Jake Jacobson who aspired to become an actor. He, like me, appreciated that factory work leaves the mind free for more interesting things. He constantly recited passages from Shakespeare in a magnificent baritone that quivered the water. Today Jake is a famous sports announcer on Channel 5 in Saginaw. Everytime I hear him declaim a baseball score my pants feel soggy.

Any repetitious job can become boring if you don't use your imagination which is another word for daydreaming. If a guy grows weary of talking football with co-workers he can always just shut up and think about Sophia Loren or even his wife. I used to daydream a lot about the day I would own Mueller Brass and would construct an air machine big enough to test foremen for holes in their heads.

Leonard Woodcock is right. It is insulting to say factory workers are so dumb they can be driven nuts by a ho-hum job. All they have to do is think about something else. (Don't tell me, I know I just left a big hole that Ralph Nader could drive a busted truck through.) Anyway, my old friends tell me I'm a lot nuttier now than when I worked in factories. Onward and Upward?

Chart your course in advance—then concentrate all your energy toward that coveted goal.

the principles of psychology to the problem.

"Before the divorce, I never understood the actions of my husband and what's worse," she said. "I never understood why I reacted the way I did. Since then, I've learned that everyone must grow from a childlike state to an adult before he can take on the parent state. I had grown some, but my husband had not grown. We couldn't communicate and so the marriage split up."

She stressed emphatically the need for courses in human growth in high school, because this is the age when people begin to develop deep and involved relationships.

She said that along with her study of psychology, she has done work in theology. She reflected a moment on what that meant to her situation.

"I look at human crises as very similar to those Christ faced on earth, because he was human too," she said with intensity in her eyes. "If we can follow that example, we can meet the challenge of crisis and come out the better for it. We get stronger with each crisis met and it makes you look forward to how you're going to meet the next challenge."

Her self-assuredness is exemplified by others in the group also.

Charlotte Talaski has found strength in PWP and this has helped her adjust to the trauma of an ill husband who took his own life last year. She has six children.

At the meeting, she confidently asked questions of the guest speaker, a certified public accountant who presented information on taxes for single parents. Her poised look and steady voice never implied the crisis through which she passed and, to an extent, is still passing.

She takes the responsibility of six children in stride.

"I came from a family of 14 children, so caring for six is a picnic compared to that," she smiled.

PWP has an advisory board which serves as a guide to the young charter in this embryonic stage. All chapters must have such a board which arranges for guest speakers and aids the acting officers in planning activities.

PWP is interdenominational non-sectarian, and primarily an educational organization devoted to the welfare and interests of single parents and their children.

How have members and those who come as guests heard of PWP? Mostly through word-of-mouth passed from member to friend. Also, radio ads are purchased and press releases are sent out to newspapers all over the state.

Members find PWP a place to talk freely and to open up to others in the same boat.

"The problem of being a single parent is a very real fact of life that must be dealt with," Walt summarized. "Parents Without Partners deals with it."

No lines now at licensing offices

If you're the type who doesn't enjoy waiting and you haven't purchased your new Michigan license plates, then Automobile Club of Michigan advises doing so now to avoid possible long lines on Saturday, March 31, the last valid day for displaying 1972 car plates.

"License plate offices are virtually deserted up until the final three days before the new plate deadline, and vehicle owners can usually obtain them within several minutes after arriving," states Joseph L. Ratke, Auto Club licensing manager.

Ratke reminds that all Michigan passenger cars and motorcycles must have 1973 license plates displayed by April 1 or be in violation of state law.

"An increased sale of 650,000 license plates over a year ago at this time should ease long lines somewhat the final few days, but those individuals who always wait until the last day will have waits of up to 30 minutes at some license plate offices," Ratke points out.

The Department of State also filled 491,781 license plates requests by mail this year, a jump of nearly 200,000 from last year, the first time licenses were offered by mail in Michigan. This year's mail order deadline was February 10, compared to December 31 the previous year.

"Most vehicle owners have been mailed a preprinted registration form by the Department of State," says Ratke. "It should be checked closely for errors with missing information completed and the certification on the reverse side filled out and signed. Cost of plates is printed on the form."

To obtain plates, vehicle owners must bring either the prepared renewal form or the certificate of vehicle title plus proof of public liability and property damage insurance. Uninsured drivers must have an extra $45 for the Motor Vehicle Accident Fund.

By John Haire

(And anyone else he can get to help)

Our nomination for the loser of the week is Chronicle Staffer Jim Ketchum and all the rest of the poor souls who looked at the balmy skies last week and hustled to their favorite service station to have snow tires removed.

Our nomination for little winners for the week are all of us procrastinators who were going to remove snow tires, but didn't. The big winners have to be guys like Newell Harris who called the garage to have tires changed only to be told that they were too busy to handle the job.

From all sides stories like that of Mrs. Lillian Kendall have come floating in. Mrs. Kendall wants to thank Charles Hewlett for checking on Senior Citizens and getting them supplies as needed. Hills and Dales Hospital Administrator Byron Landholt had some names on his list of help for the hospital and lists them in the liners. There are many others.

It takes an emergency, sometimes, for the good in good people everywhere to come to the surface.

Gremlins were working overtime last week. First they flopped a negative of the Freshmen cheerleaders so the names came out in reverse order. Next they shrunk the size of the new building at the high school from the proposed 28x56-foot size to a meager 16x24-foot size and, still not finished, separated the sport pages that were supposed to face each other.

I took pictures all year of the Cass City basketball team including a couple of team shots. But none of the faces were as good as those caught by George Bushong during the season.

So . . . the pictures you see in the special pages about the team were made from negatives supplied by George and it's nice to have these kind of guys around to lean on.

It's come to light that the benefactor who entered my name in the pseudo contest in which I won "second prize" as announced in this trivia last week was Miss Nancy Kerbyson.

She entered the Haires while in Florida last spring along with anyone and everyone else she could think of.

I didn't bother to check but it's dollars to donuts that all the other Cass City families she entered were "second prize" winners, too.

Among the casualties of the big snow Saturday was the district band festival slated at Vassar. It is an especially annoying problem for the school here.

That's because the earliest possible Saturday it could be scheduled now is probably March 31. And that date coincides with the start of spring vacation and the Senior Trip Club's jaunt to the sunny south.

If the festival is rescheduled for that Saturday there could be a good many vacant chairs when the band sits down to play.

Tuscola supervisor crash victim

Tuscola County Supervisor Charles Campbell, 81, Akron, was killed Thursday, March 15, when the car he was driving struck another car on M-25 near the Wisner Township Hall, about one mile from Quanicasee.

Campbell, according to police, pulled out in front of a car driven by Gerald Jantzi, 51, Bay City.

Jantzi and his wife were not seriously injured in the mishap which occurred at 8:50 p.m.

Campbell, a supervisor from Wisner township, became Tuscola county's fourth traffic fatality of the year.

Poison Prevention Is More Than Packaging

New Federal law requires child-proof packaging for many products involved in childhood poisonings. To protect your children, ask for this special packaging . . . use it . . . and after using, be sure to resecure each safety closure!

However, Remember . . .

- Children are curious. They want to taste things. They will try to open the best designed safety guards.
- Children will imitate. Take your own medicine out of their sight.
- Children love sweets. Never tell them medicine is "candy." They'll eat it when you're not around.
- Small children can't read warning labels. Store hazardous household products and medicines in separate cabinets. Keep these substances locked up when not in use. Clean out cabinets periodically.
- Children get hungry and thirsty. Keep hazardous products in original containers, never in cups, soft-drink bottles or other food utensils.

AGENT'S CORNER Thumbsucking a major problem for children

ANN ROSS - EXTENSION AGENT

A thumb in your child's mouth may be an irritating habit to you, but don't let it overwhelm your good feelings toward him. Nagging, threats, or bribes at this point won't help the thumb-sucker "kick his habit."

It's not unusual for children to suck their thumbs until they are five years old or older. As they grow older and find that they would like to stop, they often can't overcome the habit without some help from you.

At this time -- that is, when the child asks for help -- you can do several things that will point him toward his goal. You might give him a reward when he goes for periods of time without a thumb in his mouth. Gentle reminders when that thumb sneaks in tell him that you understand his plight.

There are dental devices on the market that can be of some assistance. One type is made of four or five small wire loops that hang from a frame that fits into his mouth and serve as a reminder to him.

But this kind of device isn't effective unless he wants to use it to help himself. Usually, girls ask for help earlier than boys.

Remember, thumbsucking is really the child's problem. When he's out to solve it, he will, especially if you provide encouragement.

Faulty alarm system costly for company

Some days you just can't win for losing.

Take the case of Croft-Clara Lumber Co., of Cass City. Three times in the last two weeks a faulty sensing device at the alarm at the Elkland township fire hall and sent firemen scurrying to their trucks to do their duty. Each time the alarm was false and each time firemen returned to the firehouse grumbling about how something ought to be done.

Well, Croft-Clara tried. After the third false alarm early Friday morning, the lumberyard people decided enough was enough. So they attempted to defuse the lying sensor that had kept firefighters on edge so long.

Then somehow, something slipped and, sure enough, the alarm went off a fourth time, around 9 o'clock Friday morning. Firemen scurried to the station and as soon as they arrived, turned around and went home.

Officials at Croft-Clara indicated that each time the alarm went off, it cost $125. They said some of the calls were covered by insurance, however.

Let's hope the lumberyard never really catches fire. No one would believe it.

Thumb area OEO funded for operation until 1974

The Thumb Area Economic Opportunity Commission will continue to operate until 1974, it was announced today by Lee-Roy Clark of Millington, newly elected chairman of the Commission which operates a number of programs in Tuscola, Sanilac, Huron and Lapeer counties.

Clark, an official of the United Automobile Workers, said the local community action agency was refunded earlier this year for $101,000 and that the money is being received in monthly installments.

Clark indicated that the federal Office of Economic Opportunity is expected to close its regional offices in April of this year, but that most of the 31 community action agencies in Michigan are assured of funding until 1974.

"In the Thumb," Clark said, "our local community action agency operates a number of programs funded by various federal agencies."

"We know that Head Start will operate here until February, 1974, and we have every expectation that Head Start will be continued without interruption."

"Our Mainstream project is refunded at least until the end of August of this year and we are told there will be some manpower programs in Michigan after that time.

"The only program we now expect to end soon is the Neighborhood Youth Corps Program. We now think the program will end in June. This means that we will not be able to hire 340 young boys and girls for summer jobs."

"What essentially has happened is that our OEO money will probably end after December. This is only a dollar of every eight dollars we spend in the Thumb," Clark explained.

"Some of our money is drying up but we fully expect to stay in business after OEO is ended if it is ended. There will be a Thumb Area Economic Opportunity Commission."

"Of course we are worried about some cuts. We may have to cut our staff further, we may have to operate without a director or full-time director, but we will operate."

"The board of the Thumb Area Economic Opportunity Commission has expressed its concern about criticism about the war on poverty," Clark added.

"During the past year, we had almost 1,000 families receiving paychecks under various programs. We created new, permanent jobs in 1972 for over 150 men and women. We helped people get off welfare. We helped a dozen businesses expand or get started."

"We are concerned at the lack of knowledge the present administration seems to have about the effectiveness of local community action agencies," he said.

"We hope that Governor Milliken or the legislature will see the value of programs that get people off welfare and that there will be some state money from the tax surplus to continue working programs. Of course, this is still only a hope," he added.

Area mammoth 9,600 years old

A Jefferson mammoth unearthed in Huron county last summer has been carbon-dated at 9,600 years old.

The mammoth skeleton was uncovered on farm land of Dolan Sweeney by a group of volunteer workers under the direction of Don Weston, an archaeology student at MSU.

A log crossing a tusk removed from the site near New Greenleaf was dated at a mere 3120 years, while another log found about five feet away from the tusk was dated at 11,970 years old.

The Sweeney mammoth is only the fifth mammoth in Michigan to be carbon dated. The results substantiate archaeologists' belief that mammoths lived in Michigan between 12,000 and 12,000 years ago.

Clark, who was one of the original board members of the Thumb Area Economic Opportunity Commission when it began seven years ago, recently succeeded James Ballard of Huron county as chairman of the board.

Other new officers of the Commission are Werner Muehl of Sandusky, who replaces Mrs. Virginia Ortiz of Lapeer county as vice-chairman; the Rev. James Nicholson of Huron county, who is new secretary and Karl Oehmke of Caro, who remains as treasurer.

LeRoy Marion of Marlette is executive director and Raymond LeRous of Yassar is deputy director of the agency.

KETCHUM'S KNAPSACK Things that go bump in the night

By Jim Ketchum

Strange things are happening in our apartment building. Late, at night, just after we turn out the lights and groan in resignation of another day done, our bedroom becomes the residence of "the tell-tale heart". I'm sure that if he were alive, Edgar Allen Poe would relish the thought.

Usually, between 10:30 and 11:00, a thumping, pulsating sound, not unlike the beat of an excited heart makes its presence known. It comes from below us and I hesitate to pull up any of the floorboards for fear of what I might find.

As an objective and reasonably level-headed reporter, I have refused to believe in any sort of ghosts or ghouls or long-legged beasts. But we have a "thing" that most certainly goes bump in the night.

At first I blamed it on the heating system which is all-electric and which will, at times produce a little noise when heating or cooling down. But further investigation showed me that the "thing" still beat even when the heat was turned off. Then I thought it might be the people downstairs kicking up a ruckus. But that proved not to be the case either.

When the "thing" begins its rounds, other strange noises begin to crop up all over the apartment. The refrigerator squeaks and shudders, a noise comes from the porch and strange sounds drift in from the bathroom.

The "thing" will beat eight or 10 times, then stop for a few seconds. Then, again that increasingly familiar thump, thump, thump. This will go on for about five minutes and then stop as suddenly as it began.

The first time it happened, I sat bolt upright in bed.

What's that noise?" I whispered.

"Huh? Whazzat?" my sleepy wife mumbled.

"That noise," I answered as it began pounding once more. "Do you think I should go check it out?"

"Oh, you don't have to if you don't want to," she mumbled again, turning over and falling back to sleep. Nothing is more disgusting than a fearless, sleepy, snoring wife when something from the black la-goona might be underneath the bed, waiting for his moment to devour two unsuspecting humans.

Perhaps our psyches are working overtime. Jimmy Launce just completed playing excerpts from old horror films on his Music Hall Program on WJR and maybe the after-effects of that series are beginning to tell on us.

They say the legendary Bela Lugosi was buried in his black suit and cape, just to be on the safe side in case some of those horror fantasies he portrayed on the screen proved to be true. You don't suppose old Bela has somehow found his answer and is trying to communicate his information with us, do you?

If he is, then I have a message for him.

Bela, do me a big favor and find another apartment to haunt. I am just a lowly newspaper man doing battle against an unfriendly administration. Find someone else to pick on, will you please?

Thanks.

VILLAGE OF CASS CITY COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS

The regular meeting of the Cass City Village Council was held on February 27, 1973, at the Municipal Building. Trustees Holmberg and Albee were absent.

The minutes of the regular January meeting were read and approved.

Mr. James Courtney of 4313 Sherman, was present to ask Council if something could be done about the rust in the water at his home. Mr. Courtney noted that all of his appliances which were new in August had discolored to a brown shade and no amount of scrubbing would get them clean. Mr. Courtney was told that when the frost was out of the ground the water line coming from Garfield Street north along Sherman and the water line south from Third Street along Sherman would possibly be connected in an attempt to circulate the water flow.

Mrs. Noreen Partridge, President of the Senior Citizen's Club, was also present to ask Council if some of the members of the Senior Citizen's Club who were not able to walk any distance could park free along Main Street in front of the Cultural Center. Albee's Hardware and Kritzman's. She had already received permission from the store owners. Council told Mrs. Partridge that the legality of this would have to be looked into further before making a decision.

Mr. Roger Little, President of

Chamber of Commerce, was present also to receive Council's approval on planting trees in the sidewalks along Main Street. Mr. Little, told the Council that the Chamber would take care of all expenses. They plan to put in 40 trees, 5 trees to a block. Council gave Mr. Little their approval but told him that the State Highway Department should be contacted because of the fact that Main Street is a State Highway.

Tom Thompson and Bob Gentner, CPA's from Yeo & Yeo were present to review the 1972 audit report in detail. Several comments and recommendations were made by the CPA's in their accompanying letter.

A motion was made by Trustee Jones and supported by Trustee Ross that the recommendation of the Budget and Finance Committee to enroll the Village employees in Blue Cross-Blue Shield be approved and also that the total insurance program be put up for bids starting 1-1-75. Motion carried.

A motion was made by Trustee Rawson and supported by Trustee Bliss that the bills as examined by approval for payment. Motion carried.

There being no further business a motion was made by Trustee Jones and supported by Trustee Bliss that the meeting be adjourned. Motion carried.

BETTER HEALTH

Advantages and technics of breast-feeding

BY DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

I was much interested in an article on the subject of advantages and technics of a mother's breast-feeding her infant, written by Dr. Helmut Vorherr, M.D., of the University of New Mexico.

Dr. Vorherr says that when a woman intends to breast-feed her baby, it helps to prepare the breasts beforehand for nursing. For example, a woman can massage the breasts and nipples twice a day with a wet washcloth during the last six to eight weeks of pregnancy. It may also help to soften the skin with a non-irritating cream. The doctor feels that after the infant has been nursing for from seven to 10 days, only 10 minutes of nursing on each breast should be permitted.

Dr. Vorherr has an interesting account of the differences between mother's milk and cow's milk. He says that after the second post-natal week on cow's milk, the infant should receive additional vitamin C. He says also that milk formulas may produce allergy, with resultant eczema or ulcerative colitis (a severe inflammation of the large bowel).

Also, bottle-fed infants may become infected with bacteria which are not present in mother's milk.

As the doctor says, cow's milk must be diluted for an infant because its concentration of minerals is from three to four times higher than it is in breast milk.

The doctor favors the mother's nursing her child, as I do.

Dr. Vorherr's article is in the June, 1972 issue of Postgraduate Medicine.

WHAT IS A DYSPETIC?

Although today we physicians know that few persons lack pepsin (the digestive ferment in the stomach) and few owe their indigestion to a lack of this ferment, many laymen, and some doctors, speak of a certain type of man or woman as dyspeptic. ("Dys" means lack of.)

Such a person may have but little appetite or capacity for food, he may lack interest in his meals, and he may fear to eat, feeling sure that much food at one time will disagree with him. A man will say that he cannot touch food that is acid, fried, rich, or warmed over, or anything that contains roughage, or any dessert. And yet, with all his self-restraint, he can go on suffering just the same.

Some dyspeptics fall in the group of health food faddists, who believe in living on little besides whole grains, fruits, or nuts. In some persons, there must be a defect in the digestive tract which causes it to function poorly throughout life.

Sometimes a thin dyspeptic has what I call the "small laboratory disease." My father was one such person. He was comfortable if he ate little for his digestive laboratory to digest. A physician, he often said that he liked to eat his food in "original packages" and cooked simply, without fancy seasoning. Thus he would eat a piece of meat, but he would not touch a ragout, or a Hungarian goulash.

Many dyspeptics, at necropsy (the study of the tissues of a dead person), are found to be without gross disease in the digestive tract.

WARNING SIGNS OF KIDNEY DISEASE

I recently received a pamphlet from the Kidney Foundation of Illinois, which gives five warning signs of kidney disease, some of them more serious than others but it is important to discover any disease in the kidneys as quickly as possible.

The warning signals are:

- 1) Puffiness around the eyes, particularly in children.
- 2) Swelling of parts of the body.
- 3) Lower back pain just below the ribs.
- 4) Visibly bloody, or coffee-colored urine. Changes in the pattern of urination, increased frequency, or much urination at night.
- 5) Burning or any abnormal

AROUND THE FARM

Don't blame farmers for higher food costs

By Don Kebler

For those people who are blaming the farmer producer for the high cost of food, I say guess again. Here is a basic fact one needs to remember about farmers and farm prices compared to any other type of business.

Except for a very few food commodities produced by the farmer, he has no bargaining control over the price offered for his commodities. Consumer demand for the supply of food available sets the price on the buying price of farm products. High demand and low supply increase the price received by the farmer.

On the other side of the ledger, a farmer has no control of the prices he pays in operating costs like fertilizer, machinery, seed, etc. So in simple mathematics, a farmer will produce those commodities he can make a profit on. If he can't or won't produce unprofitable products and the demand is greater than the supply, prices of these commodities rise. Bad weather causing crop yield decreases can also raise costs. These high crop prices affect us not only in higher food prices but also higher costs to produce animal protein.

Let's now look at some grocery shelf prices on food commodities compared to the price the farmer is paid for the raw commodity used to produce the item in like quantity measures. For instance, a bushel of wheat is selling for around three dollars. The same bushel of wheat manufactured into a well-known brand of prepared cereal is selling for 30 dollars a bushel or ten times what the farmer receives. Less than a year ago wheat prices were at least a dollar less. This same prepared cereal sold for under 25 dollars a bushel. In one year's time the farmer received one dollar per bushel more for a commodity receiving over 5 dollars more.

Egg price change runs about the same. The egg producer receives about 22 or 23 cents a dozen for grade A eggs below what the consumer pays.

Another example is navy beans. Navy beans, a farmer is paid 9 cents per pound, are processed, packaged and sold as dry edible beans for 25 cents per pound. A sixty-cent a bushel increase or decrease should change the consumer price by one cent a pound.

You or I can easily figure these differences in raw products sold by the farmer and what we pay for the processed food sources. Let's not forget there are other foods we buy not produced by farmers as fish, frogs, lobsters, etc. Their costs have increased right along with farm source foods. So have the prices on detergents, notions, brooms, paper towels and many other non-food items purchased in a grocery store. Don't include these non-food items from the grocery store as your total grocery bill.

Lastly, while the price of beef and pork have increased on an average of less than 2 per cent a year, the average personal disposable income per person has increased 7 per cent. In other words, we could be paying three and one-half times more for food today than 27 years ago and not be paying any more proportionately to our spendable income whether it be 1957 or 1973.

So is the farmer really to be blamed as much for the high rising food costs?

Tall, tall St. Stephen ends tournament trail for Cass City in regionals, 78-60

Cass City came to the end of the tournament trail last Wednesday as it bowed to the superior height of Saginaw St. Stephen, 78-60, in the first night of regional competition at Grand Blanc.

It was a contest for only the first few minutes of the first quarter. With about three minutes gone, Cass City was in front, 8-6, but that was the last time they were to be in contention.

The Hawks showed tenaciousness in their first regional tournament test in 15 years as they were pitted with tourney tested St. Stephen.

But the big story of the game was the height advantage enjoyed by the winners. St. Stephen's shortest man was as tall as Cass City's tallest and the quintet completely dominated the rebounds on both boards.

Cass City usually got just one shot while it seemed to Hawk partisans that St. Stephen kept shooting until the ball went in.

By actual count, in one series the Saginaw team shot seven times before finally shoving the ball through the hoop.

The handerling was on the wall in the last half of the first period as St. Stephen started to pull away. At the end of the quarter it was 18-12.

Both teams scored well in the early minutes of the second period as St. Stephen maintained the margin, 24-10.

But Cass City suddenly went ice cold and the team ranked number one in the state all season showed why, as they rammed home 16 consecutive points before the Hawks could score again.

By halftime the game was decided as St. Stephen was in front 40-20.

Cass City outscored St. Stephen in the final two periods but the winners were in control all the way.

All-stater Elijah Coates lived up to his advance billing as he scored 30 points mostly on jumpers from around the foul circle.

However, it was Phil Beavers, the other half of St. Stephen's one-two attack, that proved even more damaging to the Hawk cause.

Beavers scored 20 points, was a demon on the backboards and blocked several Cass City shots.

After a slow start, Senior Paul Bliss bowed out in style with 11 points and an excellent floor game.

Bliss passes helped Nick Gibas to score 21 points, mostly on short jumpers from inside. Scott Hartel added 16 points while Dave Hillaker, 8, and Jerry Toner, 4, completed the scoring for the Hawks.

St. Stephen was able to avoid excessive fouls in the game. Cass City went to the charity stripe just six times during the game, converting two.

While Cass City failed to last through the opening round of the regionals, it should be pointed out that the Hawks played in one of the toughest regionals in the State and St. Stephen may well prove to be the State champions when the last game is played March 31 in Ann Arbor.

The Saginaw team went on to win the regionals with a close decision over a very fine Pontiac Catholic quintet Friday night.

The line score:

St. Stephen	18	22	18	20
Cass City	12	8	20	20

Letter to Editor

Says thanks for big sports year

Mr. John Haire
Editor of The Chronicle
Cass City, Michigan
March 15, 1973

Mr. Haire:

This past fall and winter has been a most exciting one for many of us who have attended and enjoyed the football and basketball games that Cass City has played. Like myself, I imagine many people looked forward all week to the game that was to be played that Friday only to have another "big game" replace it.

In our society today we seem to talk about the bad things the youth of today do. Many times we seem to forget all the hard work, time, and energy that the young people spend in doing constructive things, such as athletics, band, and youth groups.

I feel that the players and coaches have done a great deal in bringing a feeling of pride in our school and this feeling seems to have become evident in people of the community. I know that the players and coaches got a lot of personal reward from their fine seasons but I would like to express my "thanks" for letting many of us share in their memorable year.

Thank you
Yours truly
Wayne Dillon

SCOTT HARTEL WAS able to get inside the St. Stephen defense several times in the regional tournament game at Grand Blanc, but the tall Titans had little trouble topping the Hawks. Watching are David Rousseau (24) and Thomas Gallant, right.

Telephone Co. installs new equipment

Additional long distance circuits between Cass City and Saginaw are in the process of being installed, according to J. E. Courtney, Customer Service Manager for General Telephone company.

Courtney stated that since all calls placed from Cass City to places outside of the Cass City exchange must go through Saginaw, any increase in long distance calling will increase the number of calls placed on the Saginaw circuits.

The $16,433 project will provide 12 channels of carrier and associated trunks. Each channel of carrier equipment is capable of handling one long distance call.

Tom Ward, Central Office Supervisor for the Cass City area, reviews present carrier equipment.

"This addition is part of General Telephone's continuous service improvement program to insure the best possible service to our customers in the Cass City exchange," Courtney said.

The carrier equipment is slated to be in service by May 1, 1973.

40 Cass City children treated at poisoning center in 1972

The week of March 18-24 has been designated National Poison Prevention Week by the National Safety Council in an effort to help prevent accidental poisonings to children and adults in the United States.

At Hills and Dales General Hospital, over 40 cases of accidental poisoning were admitted last year, according to Mrs. J. Hubbard, Nursing Supervisor.

She said 10 children were admitted with poisonings ranging from swallowing lighter fluid to patent medicines and household cleaners. These substances were all in their original containers and not in soda pop bottles or glasses, she said.

Health officials warn parents to be on the lookout for potentially poisonous liquids around the home and advise parents to act quickly, even if they only suspect their child may have swallowed something dangerous. Usually, a residue of the poison may remain around the mouth and teeth. They stress quick action in any case.

Mrs. Hubbard said that parents should call the emergency room of the hospital before bringing their child in.

"In that way, we can help in early treatment before they leave home," she said.

Mrs. Hubbard said all the children admitted for poison treatment were under five, and so could not read labels.

Under government regulations, many medicines sold over the counter must now have hard to open lids. These "child-proof" packages are currently used on over half of the 50 most frequently ingested substances. It must be kept in mind, however, that no package is completely safe and must always be put out of a child's reach.

Many household products, however, are not covered by these federal standards and must be watched closely. For example, cleaning fluids, detergents, drain cleaners and oven cleaners usually come in non-protective containers and, worse yet, are usually stored under the sink in the kitchen.

The safety council points out that there is no universal antidote for poisonings and what will work on one substance may kill when used with another. In addition, new chemicals are being produced for which proper antidotes have not been produced or which take so long to isolate that by the time treatment can begin, often it is too late.

The council emphasizes speed as the important factor in treating an accidental poisoning. It recommends calling a hospital or poison control center immediately, dilute the contents of the stomach and find the poison so the proper antidote may be administered.

It cautions against making the patient vomit unless you are certain he has not swallowed something corrosive or of a petroleum base.

Accidental poisonings are not confined to children alone. Mrs. Hubbard said that, during the season, numerous cases occur of people accidentally overdosing themselves with aspirin or other drugs, on the premise that if a little is good, a lot is better.

Health authorities caution against exceeding proper dosages for medicines. Aspirin appears to be the major offender because of its ready availability. Also, aspirin in conjunction with other drugs can cause poisoning. If there is any doubt, call a doctor to check out your medication.

Another area of concern lies with paint. Some children have a craving for unnatural foods such as chalk, ashes and paint chips. Most older paint chips contain large amounts of lead and ingesting these can lead to major poisoning.

Latex-based paints contain no lead, but do contain preservatives which might cause problems. These ingredients should be listed on the label.

Above all, parents are urged to get the facts. If you have any questions concerning poisoning or poison prevention, call Hills and Dales General Hospital at 372-2121. They will be happy to provide any information concerning treatment and prevention.

The internationally known Kelsey Museum of Ancient and Medieval Archaeology at The University of Michigan is visited by some 15,000 people each year.

Accept pleas in Tuscola circuit court

Joseph Mannarino, 18, Caro, will be sentenced April 23, after pleading guilty to charges of breaking and entering at the Tuscola County Retarded Children's building Sept. 7. Mannarino pleaded guilty as charged before Circuit Court Judge Norman Baguley Tuesday.

Mannarino also faces trial in circuit court April 2, on charges of stealing two mag wheels from an auto in Caro January 17. In that case, Judge James Churchill continued bond of $2500 last week.

In still another case, Mannarino is charged with larceny from a supermarket. It is charged that Mannarino took cash, checks and food stamps totaling $989.00. Judge Churchill set pretrial examination for April 2 and continued bond at $4000.

Two men pleaded innocent in circuit court Friday on charges of breaking and entering a home Jan. 9, belonging to Erwin Manchester of Arabela township.

Leonard Wooster, 19, Birch Run, and Rodney Mason, 17, Beaverton, entered pleas before Judge Churchill. A March 26 arraignment date was set.

Darwin Belknap, Flint, will be arraigned April 2 in circuit court on charges of breaking and entering a house in Arabela township last May. Judge Churchill continued bond at $500, and remanded him to the county jail.

Tell Thumb area pupils at CMU

The total for the county ranks it 21 among Michigan counties in number of students at CMU. Huron county ranks number 16 with 304 students and Sanilac county ranks 25th with 131 students.

Special sermon featured at Salem Methodist

A dramatic sermon, entitled "The Challenge of the Cross," will be a special feature of the Lenten Worship Service in Salem United Methodist Church Sunday, March 25, at 11:00 a.m. The Chancel Choir of the church will also be featured in the service.

The drama cast includes representatives of several local churches, and is directed by Miss Linda Isbister. This new form of ministry is very effective in presenting the theme of the Lenten Season.

The dramatic presentation will be given in the Presbyterian Church Sunday, April 1.

invitation of the bells

America is a land of bells!

Wedding bells, door bells, dinner bells, school bells, sleigh bells... all speak of a country where freedom from tyranny exists.

Chimes also keynote freedom of speech as commentators broadcast the news. Typewriter bells ring out freedom of the press. And church bells, whether they be the musical chimes from a cathedral's spire, or the ding dong from the steeple of a village chapel, typify freedom of religion.

Churches throughout the land are open to all. Inside their doors, we cast aside worry that shackles our hearts in this atomic age. We find strength and courage to face the unknown future. Our faith, hope and trust in God, who says, "Fear not; for I am with thee," is renewed and peace fills our anxious souls.

Let us accept the invitation of the bells to "Come and worship," and go to church regularly.

Correction

Oops! We goofed!

In last week's Chronicle it was erroneously reported that a car driven by Glen Churchill of Cass City stopped suddenly and forced a car driven by Louis Pierce, also of Cass City, to swerve into a parked car on Main Street.

Well, that just ain't quite the way it happened.

Seems that Pierce was stopped and that Churchill ran into him from the rear, forcing him to hit the parked car.

Churchill was ticketed for failure to stop in assured clear distance ahead.

Reupholstering in vinyl gives new life to chair

That old chair, Father's favorite. Mother's pet peeve. Don't throw it out. Do it over.

As near as your nearest upholstery shop, there's an expert who can rejuvenate that sad sack. Give it a new look — and add a lift to your living room — by giving it a new cover.

Here's a hint: choose a vinyl reupholstery fabric — for durability, for color.

Masland Duran supplies most of the country's leading upholstery shops with their most popular covers. Not slipcovers, but permanent make-over materials that are long for this world. Long on style, long on wear.

There are tweeds, checks, solids, textures. Elegant traditional patterns and bright modern florals. Plus vinyls that look like silk, linen, matelasse, tapestry or brocade.

People used to think of vinyl as plastic, and sometimes felt they had to apologize for its use. Not so today! Now people would rather use vinyl that wipes clean and withstands wear than to select a more delicate fabric you can't sit on for fear it will soil.

So, home improvers, unite! While you're adding on, building in, and otherwise focussing attention on more spacious living, give some thought to the decorative aspects of improving your environment, too.

THE TRUE TEST

of any insurance comes only when disaster strikes. We pass that test with flying colors — that's a big reason why more of you than ever before have placed your trust in us.

Kenneth Marker graduates from

AF training

Kenneth P. Marker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Marker, Unionville, graduated March 2 from the basic training program of the United States Air Force at Lackland AFB, Texas.

Kenneth P. Marker

Marker is now attending school at Sheppard AFB, Texas, where he is taking classes toward an electrical power production specialist's degree. He and his wife, the former Karla Stine of Cass City, are 1972 graduates of Cass City High School.

Mrs. Marker left Cass City Wednesday, March 14, to join her husband at Wichita Falls, Texas.

Uncle Tim From Tyre Says:

Dear Mister Editor:

Ed Doolittle rode the bus to the city to visit his daughter that works in an office. He was reporting on his trip at the country store Saturday night, and he touched on a matter that took up most of the agenda. How much longer can this country keep going. Ed wanted to know, with everybody's hand stuck in somebody else's pocket?

When he was in the bus station in the city years back, Ed said, he had to pay to get in the toilet. But there was hot water and he could shave and freshen up, and there was a stack of paper towels. On his last trip, went on Ed, the locks had been took off the toilet stalls cause the court said that wasn't fair to poor bus riders. But there was no hot water, and no paper towels. There was a feller standing by the toilet door with some towels on his arm, and he would let you use one if you tipped him a quarter.

Actual, said Ed, he allus had disagreed with eating places that add 15 per cent to the bill fer tip, and he never had felt right about his old lady tipping a boy fer carrying a bag of groceries from the store to the car when he was walking right beside her and would rather of carried em. Tipping, to him, declared Ed, was showing appreciation to somebody fer doing somepun extra, not just fer doing their job.

Practical speaking, went on Ed, we've final got everthing turned around from do to dole, from doing unto others to doing others in. It looks like everybody is figgering a angle on how to git through the gate on somebody else's push, was Ed's words. Fer one, allowed Ed, he was glad to see President Nixon give attention to cutting off some of the deadwood that take pursuit of happiness to mean at Government expense.

The fellers was general agreed with Ed. Even Clem Webster, that usual votes agin Ed at ever turn, said a Government that will spend $84 billion more than it takes in this year has got to change its ways. But Clem said they is more to economy in Government than cutting out welfare programs while keeping on pouring money into big companies doing business with the military. And, went on Clem, hiring fellers away from outfits with big Government contracts to work up the federal budget ain't likely to mean cutbacks.

Furthermore, said Clem, we got Congressmen that is sticking their hands in everybody's pockets. He had saw this report where 74 of our Senators picked up a extra $570,000 in 1971 traveling around at public expense to make speeches, and some sold articles they wrote on public time and had their staff secretaries type up.

Personal, I recall what Senator Williams said some years back when asked about taxes. He said "they will continue." So will pocket picking.

Yours truly,
Uncle Tim

THIS SECTION OF Wesley's Quaker Maid Dairy in Cass City collapsed under the stress of high winds and heavy snow Sunday afternoon. Damage estimates ranged from $2500-$3000.

Before the snow it was rain that closed township roads

Michigan's fickle weather patterns once again dealt residents another blow. From mud on Friday it was snow on Saturday.

Seven miles of roads in eastern Tuscola county were reported impassable as of Friday, according to the Tuscola County Road Commission.

Officials blamed an unusually early spring break-up for conditions as bad as they have been in nine years. And things aren't expected to get any better for another couple of weeks.

In Elkland township, Crawford Road between M-31 and Elmwood Road is closed along with Reed Road between Ruebly Road and Grassmere Road.

Ellington township reports Green Road between Akron

Road and Elmwood road impassable.

Koylton township has been the hardest hit. Three roads have mile sections closed due to mud. They are Denhoff Road between Kingston Road and Cemetery Road and farther east between Clothier Road and White Creek Road. Clothier Road between M-36 and Denhoff Road, and Mariette Road between Kingston Road and Phillips Road.

In spite of the bad roads, the mail has gone through.

A spokesman at the post office in Cass City said no mail has been returned by rural route carriers. While special arrangements have been made among the mailmen to travel alternate routes, no one has been left without his mail.

THIS CAR finds itself hopelessly buried in a snowbank west of Cass City. Work crews continued into the week digging-out operations begun early Sunday morning.

SCHOOL BUSES won't be stopping here for awhile in Gagetown. This flooded portion of the Bay City-Forestville Road was typical of the problems motorists faced last week on some secondary roads.

State to spend $700,000 on area roads

Bids on five highway construction and maintenance projects in the tri-county area totaling an estimated $700,000 will be taken March 28, in Lansing, the State Highway Commission announced last week.

A group of related projects in Sanilac county call for a total expenditure of $320,000 and involve resurfacing 14 miles of existing roadway. Five miles of old M-51 from Crosswell north will be repaved, along with five miles of Mariette Road beginning five miles north of Peck, east; and four miles of Galbraith Line Road from a point five miles south of Peck east. Target date for completion was set for September.

In addition, another $60,000 will be spent on repairing and resurfacing the M-46 bridge over the Cass River two miles west of Elmer. Officials say this project should be completed by August.

In Sanilac and Tuscola counties, the shoulder along 24.7 miles of M-46 from Vassar Road east to M-53 will be sealed at a cost of $60,000. The project is scheduled for completion in May.

In Lapeer and Tuscola counties, M-24 from Murphy Lake Road north to Mayville Road will undergo concrete joint repair. This project is tied in with several others in Lapeer county and will total $210,000. Scheduled completion date is July.

In Huron county, shoulder seal will be applied to 16.2 miles of M-53 between Bad Axe and U.S. 25. Completion of this $50,000 project is scheduled for May.

Mrs. Mullin finds joy in relics of the past

By Jim Ketchum

Been up in your attic lately? Not sure what to do with Grandpa's old trunk or the picture frames your mother used or that beat-up chest of drawers with the handle missing? Or is that whatchamacallit in the corner so old that you can't really say what it is?

You can always keep them and refinish them. Or would you like to be rid of them? Fine, sell them. Now, what are they worth? Not sure?

There's someone in Cass City who could help you. She's Elsie Mullin, 4662 N. Seeger St., and she has appraised, bought and sold antiques for the past 20 years.

She and her husband Roy, who works as a sales manager at Walbro Corp., came to Cass City last November from Minneapolis, Minn. With them came some charming pieces of their own collection, along with a keen interest in old things.

Mrs. Mullin, who would scarcely pass for a grandmother, said she became interested in antique collecting over 20 years ago and took the only course available on the subject at the University of Minnesota.

"Then I started going to sales," she smiled. "From a hobby, it became a deeper interest, and so I just naturally got more involved."

She said she worked as an appraiser and salesperson for estates in Minnesota and grew to look at such transactions as more than just the dispersal of things.

"As you unpack a trunk or a whole house, you begin to realize that it is more than just an assortment of things," she said. "It's a whole lifetime and a very personal experience."

She maintains that it is the woman who generally determines what is to be saved in a household and, because of this, the character of the home, family and society comes through.

"As you delve deeper into it," she said as she sat in the living room of her home on a blustery March day, "you are struck with the endless fascination of the romance, mystery, pathos, joy and exhilaration that must have been that particular life."

Since coming to Cass City, Mrs. Mullin has been involved in four estate sales, acting as appraiser and go-between from owner to buyer.

She said she will buy estates, but that she prefers to work for the best prices for owners.

"Most people tend to over-price articles with sentimental value," she said, "and under-price really valuable things."

That's where she comes in. Her contacts with dealers and interested buyers helps assure a fair price for antiques.

She said collectables in Michigan are priced higher than those in her home state of Minnesota. She explained that most of the people who settled Minnesota were immigrants who came with nothing at all in the way of possessions. On the other hand, people who settled Michigan generally came from the east and brought their household furnishings with them.

Her voice grew warm as she spoke of how someone can become so involved in antique collecting.

"It's a lot like throwing a pebble into a pool of water," she said softly. "One wave rings out and starts another and another."

She said her collecting efforts have helped make her more aware of herself and her background. She researched her heritage and found relatives in Norway who were still living on the same land they had for the last 400 years.

"Then I began studying Norwegian eight years ago," she said, "and that helped me even more to develop the knowledge of my background."

She said she has never been bored in her collecting or selling efforts. Each estate, no matter how large or small is important to her because of the heritage involved.

Aside from a few items of furniture, her personal favorite collectors items include beads.

"We found a box of old drapery beads used many years ago to divide rooms," she said. "Before the sale, we found a note telling where to locate this bead box in the attic. When we found them, we discovered that each one was hand made out of pieces of wallpaper rolled tightly and shellacked. There must have been over a hundred."

She said no one wanted to buy them at the sale, so she purchased them and will eventually use them again. She also has a collection of hand-carved beads from China. She said the revived interest in China has sent the price of oriental items skyrocketing.

Over the years, she said, she has run across numerous unusual items at sales.

"One item I'll never forget was a set of matching crocheted detachable collar and cuffs for a woman's dress made entirely out of human hair," she said. She explained that the use of human hair in fine sewing was common in the Victorian era and that often men's watch chains were made of hair.

Another item of interest she found was a Chippewa medicine man's apron which contained pockets for the substances he used in treatment. What made it unusual was that it was sewn on red fabric.

After further investigation, Mrs. Mullin said she discovered the red fabric was once the coat of a Royal Canadian Mounted Policeman. She said she was told it dated from 1850, and weighed nearly 10 pounds.

Another special interest shared by the Mullins is woodcarving. She said they took a course in the finer aspects of the art last January in Frankenthum and hope to put it to use soon.

When asked her philosophy on buying collectables, she answered without hesitation. "You will seldom be disappointed if you simply let yourself go and be guided by your instincts."

Arrest 6 in area larcenies probe

Six persons were arrested last week by Tuscola county sheriff's officers in connection with a series of larcenies in the Cass City-Caro area.

The six, four adults and two juveniles, were taken into custody from Wednesday through Friday of last week, after sheriff's officers received a confidential tip.

Detective Ron Phillips, of the sheriff's office, said each arrest led to another, culminating in the six being jailed. He said the arrests resulted in the recovery of most of the stolen property.

"We think this group may have been responsible for about 20 larcenies in the area," Phillips said. He indicated that nearly $3500 worth of property had been recovered.

Among the items found were tools, wheels, tires, speakers, a snowmobile motor and some auto parts.

Caro and Mayville police worked in conjunction with the sheriff's department in the arrests.

Phillips said he had no indication that the group was a part of any larger organization or that they had sold any of the stolen merchandise. He said a majority of the items involved in this series of larcenies had been recovered.

Names of the persons being withheld pending their arraignments in circuit court next week. The investigation continues.

Cass City police report thieves broke into a warehouse on Vulcan Street and stole two lawn mowers and two garden tillers sometime between February 5 and March 16.

Lloyd Bryant, owner of the Gamble Store, said the items, valued at $340, were still in the crates, awaiting transfer to his store for sale.

Police said entry was probably gained through a horse stable under the warehouse. They suspect the thieves opened a door leading from the stable into the main warehouse and then unlatched the big sliding doors from the inside.

Police have no suspects at this time.

A SPECIAL MESSAGE TO OUR CUSTOMERS

Dear Friends!!!!!!

Neither you nor I have seen anything yet as far as inflation is concerned. In the weeks, months and next two or three years ahead the rapid spiral of inflation will make today's prices look minimal.

If you purchase a parcel of land now at today's prices, the value of that parcel of land will increase along with inflation, also with the increased wages and personal income that are bound to come, you will have made the best investment on earth.

It has always been our policy to offer our customers various Real Estate Investments based on current values.

The prices quoted in this ad are last year's values and as a special favor to our customers we are lowering the down payments until Sept. 1 to rock bottom in order to help you become the proud owner of a parcel of land. Make your selection early for the best choice.
