

Abortion question still clouded at most area hospitals

The question of abortions in the Thumb area continues to be a clouded one at most hospitals and there appears no early solution to the problem.

Most of the area facilities either do not have clearly defined abortion policies or, if they do, are reluctant to discuss them in detail. Part of this reluctance is centered in the fact that there are no clear guidelines at present and so each hospital is, in fact, on its own.

H. Byron Landholt, Administrator at Cass City's Hills and Dales General Hospital, said there are two general rules governing staff participating in abortions. The first states that employees do not have to participate in the operation if it violates their consciences.

Secondly, there must be a sound medical reason for the operation before permission will be granted to use hospital facilities.

"The doctor and the patient must decide whether to have the abortion or not," Landholt said. "The hospital only becomes involved as a third party after that decision is made."

He said there have been abortions performed at the hospital in the past, but there have been none recently. All earlier abortions complied strictly with Michigan's abortion law, Landholt said. That law was recently invalidated by a Supreme Court decision which struck down similar statutes in most states.

"We're all working in a gray area now," he said. "Nothing has been defined yet and it is a difficult thing to settle."

He said the woman has certain rights which she cannot forfeit and, similarly, the unborn child has rights which cannot be forfeited for him by the mother. Consequently, he said, the doctor is left with the decision of whether he should perform the abortion or not. "It's a decision which he really can't make," Landholt commented.

Landholt said he does not foresee any upsurge in requests for abortions or in actual operations, citing the large undefined point of law surrounding the question.

"All we can be sure of is that the legal liability is that of the doctor," he said.

Officials at Caro Community

Hospital would not comment, other than to say there have been no abortions performed there and that no policy has yet been formulated.

Administrators at Huron Memorial Hospital in Bad Axe would not respond to any Chronicle questions regarding abortion.

At Marlette Hospital, no abortions have been performed to date. Hospital officials were to meet Wednesday to formulate official policy on the subject.

Arthur Woelke, Administrator at Scheurer Hospital in Pigeon, said that the hospital had no formal or established policy as yet with regard to abortions. He said none had been performed at Scheurer and that no requests had been made to date.

"We are waiting for guidelines from the Michigan Hospital Association and the American Hospital Association as well as legislation at the state level before we can adopt a policy," Woelke said.

He said if a request for use of hospital facilities for an abortion came in, special consultations would have to be held with all parties concerned before action could be taken.

"It's only a matter of time, however, before something comes along, either through guidelines or through pending legislation," he added.

DR. JOHN DUNBAR, President of the Community Development Society of America, addresses a seminar sponsored by community development leaders in Caro last Thursday.

Long range planning urged in Thumb area

By Jim Ketchum

Long range planning and positive thinking can help any community accomplish its goals toward a better life for all, according to Dr. John O. Dunbar, President of the Community Development Society of America.

Dunbar spoke last Thursday before a day-long seminar sponsored by the Thumb Area Community Development Corporation in Caro.

He emphasized leadership in formulating community development and stressed four primary factors to examine before planning is to begin.

"First of all, we should look at ways of enlarging the economy of the county, township and municipality," he said. "Increased capital investment and productivity should be encouraged along with providing more jobs at higher pay."

Secondly, he stressed the need to expand and develop community facilities and services. He said most communities still labor under the idea that saving money is the most important factor in planning and that this should be accomplished at the expense of providing adequate services.

"Above all, the needs of the people should be met," he said. "Find out what they want before you begin to spend money."

A third point Dunbar made involved individual human growth.

"A person is a restless animal who observes his environment and responds to it," he said. "This is the best definition of psychology I've ever heard because it happens to be true."

He said each person must continue to grow and find satisfying outlets to develop. This is vital in fostering community spirit, he added.

Finally, he stressed development of area natural resources.

Dunbar, Director of the Cooperative Extension Service of Purdue University, told community development leaders that the leadership and, to a greater extent, the financing for growth must come from the local level.

"Ninety per cent of community development is dependent on you and me," he said. "Attitudes, energy and effort all make it happen. Most leadership and capital come from the 75 per cent of the population over 35, and this is where emphasis must be placed."

Dunbar discounted the notion that new industry in an area will reduce unemployment significantly.

"Most increases in employment come from the industry already existing in an area," he said.

He related the experience of Park county, Indiana, which brought in a manufacturing plant paying adequate wages in hopes of reducing its high unemployment rate. After the plant was built, he said, a spot check of license plates in the parking lot showed that most of the employees came across the border from Illinois and that actual area employment increased very little.

Dunbar urged development of facilities such as swimming pools. Again, he related the experience of Park county.

"Some land from the old county poor farm was donated to the county and local businesses in the area put up the material to build it. Local labor was brought in to construct it," he said.

"And, as that pool was being built, everyone involved began to find out that they weren't such bad guys after all," he added.

Dunbar emphasized that human development is a bargain at any price.

"It's going to be cheaper for us to help kids get going and stay going in this world than to pay the costs of rehabilitation or incarceration," he said. "Parents must be open and willing to help their kids learn."

He also called for programs to take advantage of senior citizens and their talents. He cited an experimental project in Vincennes, Indiana, which sought out elderly people and put them to work in meaningful teaching activities.

"A 75-year-old woman held knitting classes once a week in her home," he said. "After the first session, a woman of 50 came up to her and, practically with tears in her eyes, thanked her. This was the first time she'd ever knitted-something she had wanted to do all her life."

Dunbar cited Flint, Michigan as an example of outstanding human development. He urged leaders of the tri-county community development corporation to borrow ideas, innovate and not to be afraid of the future.

"The key to it all is plan on a long range basis," he concluded. "You can do what you want done if you only try. It is not impossible. There is money to be had, if you know where to look."

He urged community development leaders to hire a financial consultant on a full time basis, whose job would involve finding available sources of money for area projects.

Dunbar said he is not worried about presidential impoundment of community development funds and urged people to put pressure on elected representatives in Washington.

"Get the details on what's being cut and then go from there," he said. "Don't worry - public opinion still works."

Council seeks survey to test voter interest in indoor pool

The Cass City Village Council will seek a survey to determine public interest in an indoor swimming pool to be attached to Cass City High School, it was decided in the council's regular session Tuesday night at the Municipal Building.

The survey will help solve several vexing problems the council faces in providing a swim facility for the area.

The dilemma trustees face is not knowing whether or not the taxpayers want an indoor pool or an outdoor pool and the council is fearful that while the issue is being decided the 1974 swim season will slip by without any swimming at all. Swimming this summer is already gone, marking the second straight year that there has been no pool in the community.

Original plans call a vote to be presented to the electorate by the school district in July. If it goes down it would take at least 60 days before a village vote could be presented for funds for the outdoor pool and would jeopardize chances for swimming in the summer of '74.

After kicking the proposition around awhile Trustee D. E. Rawson suggested that a survey could be held earlier than July to get the feeling of the voters.

A straw vote was held before the vote for funds on a matching basis for the outdoor pool and the results proved an accurate gauge of the voter feeling, councilmen said.

The straw vote would be quick and cheaper than a regular election and the council hopes to work with the school to present it.

A bond issue for an indoor pool has been estimated at $3 per $1,000 valuation (3 mills) and a bond issue for an outdoor pool with just the village taxpayers footing the cost would also be 3 mills.

One point that has been definitely established. There will be no Federal funds for the pool project.

A letter from the Michigan

Department of Natural Resources made it official: Cass City's application has been refused.

TREE SIZE

Dr. Rawson told the board that he felt that there should be a size restriction on the trees proposed for planting in Main Street sidewalks.

Plans had called for eight-foot trees and Dr. Rawson feels these are too small. He wants, and the council informally agreed, trees at least 10 feet tall.

Dr. Rawson said smaller trees would be broken off at the top by vandals and the money wasted.

Before the Chamber of Commerce can proceed with the planting they will need a sketch of the proposed planting for review by the State Highway Department, Supt. Lou LaPonsie reported. The highway department also must approve the species to be planted.

OTHER BUSINESS

The council approved an ordinance concerning cross connections in the village as requested by the State Department of Public Health.

The ordinance is designed to stop overflows from private wells and waste from overflowing or seeping into the drinking system.

The new law will require inspection of all industry in the community and will provide tight control over use of water in the village. LaPonsie told the council.

The council also formed an assessment district for proposed curb and gutter work on Maple and Houghton Streets. Cost of the program will be paid by property owners.

The council approved a new method of charging for residential building permits. Previously the homeowners' estimate was taken for construction costs resulting in some under valuation, LaPonsie feels.

Now the cost of the home will be determined on a formula figured at $20 per square foot for homes and $10 per square foot for garages.

After the estimated building cost is computed the building permit formula remains the same: $10 for the first $15,000 of value and 50 cents per $1,000 for

Motorist rescued from ditch Monday

Two 16-year-old Argyle youths have been credited with saving the life of a Port Austin woman whose car skidded into a water-filled ditch at the intersection of M-81 and Greenland Road Monday morning.

Sauk County Sheriff's Department credited Douglas O'Connor and Edward Ruth of Argyle with rescuing Mrs. Clara Pettit, 68, after she swerved into the ditch as she braked while approaching a slow moving farm tractor.

Deputies said the two youths were traveling in a car following Mrs. Pettit and stopped when they saw her vehicle plunge into the ditch which holds about five feet of water.

Sauk deputies said Mrs. Pettit would have drowned if the youths had not rescued her.

The mishap occurred around 9:30 a.m.

Cass City Police report three minor traffic accidents last week.

On Friday, a car driven by Clara Gattney, 41, of 6567 Elizabeth St., collided with a car driven by Donald Mills, 44, of 3846 Cemetery Rd., at the intersection of Main and Seeger.

Police said Mrs. Gattney was driving west on Main Street and became blinded by the late afternoon sun. She did not see the Mills car, which was traveling east on Main Street, and the two collided.

No ticket was issued.

On Saturday, a car driven by Robert Knoblet, 81, 325 Knoblet Rd., ran into a car driven by Richard Dillon, 21, Unionville, in Cass City.

According to police, Knoblet and Dillon were both traveling west on Main Street. As they approached the intersection of Leach Street, Knoblet, who was traveling in the left-hand lane, attempted to make a right turn onto Leach.

He collided with the Dillon car on the driver's side.

Knoblet was ticketed for making an improper right turn.

On Monday, a car driven by Ronald Perry, 34, of 3442 Cemetery Rd., struck a car driven by Richard Sugden, 18, of 5964 Cass City Rd., at the intersection of Huron and Oak Streets.

Police reported Sugden was traveling south on Oak when the Perry car, which was traveling east on Huron, struck him on the passenger side.

Perry was ticketed for failure to yield.

FROM THE Editor's Corner

Is it hard to make a hero out of a guy who has been grievously wounded in a war?

A person who has given a couple of legs, or arms, or an eye or half his stomach to a load of shrapnel has given more of himself than anyone with the exception, of course, of all those who were wasted in the fighting.

But all you can do for them is hold memorial services and grieve for the families.

Compared to the media coverage and the public acclaim that our returning prisoners of war are receiving, the sick, the lame and the blind of the war are forgotten persons.

No parades, no hero welcomes for them.

I read some place that it was a matter of national policy to make returning prisoners of war national heroes.

Certainly I can't say that this is true... but it is true that never before have war prisoners received the massive adulation of those that have been released since the cease fire in Vietnam.

These thoughts came to mind as I read about the two-day celebration planned for Robert A. Abbott of Deckerville.

All area public figures headed by Gov. William Milliken will be on hand for the festivities honoring Capt. Abbott.

It's a scene that has been repeated over and over across the nation as the POW's return home.

Certainly there is no belittling the sacrifice of Capt. Abbott or any of the other returning war prisoners. It's been 10 years since the Deckerville soldier first entered the Air Force. Ten of the prime years of his life.

Is it cynical to ask what about all of these servicemen after the ball (and parades) are over?

It's probable that many of the persons showering Capt. Abbott with adulation this week end will be among the majority of Michigan citizens who turned down the proposal that would allow Vietnam vets a $1,000 bonus.

Most non-career soldiers returning home want nothing more than to pick up the threads of normal life, get a job and enjoy life a little more.

Nothing helps more than a good job, or a good education, or a little help from whatever source is available.

A little attention after the hand stops playing.

A PORT AUSTIN WOMAN was injured Monday morning when she lost control of her car and it landed in this ditch at the intersection of M-81 and Greenland Road.

County unemployed still major problem

While unemployment in Tuscola county has dropped greatly from one year ago, figures still average close to state and national totals.

According to Larry Baker, labor market analyst for the Michigan Employment Security Commission, figures for January show 6.8 per cent of the labor force out of work. This compares with a figure of 12.1 per cent for January of 1972.

Most of the increased employment came in the light-metals industry, Baker said.

He also indicated that over 2,000 workers commute daily to jobs outside the county. Most of these workers travel to General Motors plants in the tri-city area, Flint, or Lapeer. Some, he added, travel as far as Pontiac and Detroit to work.

Baker indicated that this trend made the compiling of statistics somewhat confusing.

"People are listed as employed in the county where they work, but they are listed as unemployed in the county where they live," he said. "This tends to make unemployment look worse than it really is."

Statistics for the month of January for Tuscola county show that of 12,525 persons listed as a part of the work force, 11,675 had jobs. Of the 850 out of work, 525 receive some kind of unemployment benefits from the state. Officials estimate another 325 not working who, for one reason or another, have not reported to an MESOC office.

Karl Oemke, head of the MESOC office in Caro, urged anyone out of work who has not already done so to report to that office. In that way, names can be placed on employment lists and, in some cases, persons might be eligible for benefits.

The 6.8 per cent unemployment figure for the county compares with a 7.0 per cent total statewide and a 5.1 per cent nation-wide unemployment rate.

"If It Fitz . . ." Getting red eye

BY JIM FITZGERALD

Cry along with the clown . . .
It was a TV commercial, for gosh sakes. For Polaroid cameras. It gave me what my kids call "red eyes." That means Dad is not actually sobbing behind his newspaper but his control is shaky and better not jiggle him.
The Polaroid pitch shows an old man being visited by his son and grandchildren. Or more likely it's his grandson and great-grandchildren. This guy is really old. It appears he lives in some sort of a "home" in the country with other old men. He doesn't get many visitors.
One of those Johnny Cash (pre-Standard Oil) voices is singing mournfully in the background. He sings about how the old guy used to think he could "hold time still in his hands," something like the All-State

man. But suddenly time passed him by, whoosh, and here he is in the December of his years with no earthly plans for New Year's Eve.
But Old Gramps has a Polar-oid camera. When the relatives come calling, he snaps like crazy. If they never come back, he will have their pictures to remember them by.
Not only that, but Old Gramps can also show the photos to his fellow residents at the home and brag a little.
That's what he does in the commercial. His photos, in color, are perfect. You can count the freckles on the noses.

Which is enough to make me cry right there. I've had a Polaroid for several years and I never get pictures like that. I'm lucky if I can count the noses on the faces. What does the old man know that I don't?
But it really wasn't my camera disability that made my eyes red. It's simply that I'm a sucker for the problems of old people and I'm often ashamed of how younger people treat them. As you grow old, you do not automatically grow less human and less sensitive. I mean, old people care too. Like the old guy with the Polaroid.
Or like this:
My wife's 86-year-old aunt dropped dead the other day. A widow, she shared her home with her 82-year-old brother.
When he got up one morning, he couldn't find her. She wasn't at her usual post in the kitchen, fixing his breakfast. She wasn't in the living room or in the bathroom. Fearing the worse - she'd recently suffered a severe heart attack - he checked her bedroom.
She was dead on the floor beside the bed. In death, her face was cruelly distorted. The sight made her brother physically ill. He later told us what he did.
With tender fingers, he changed the expression on her face until she looked at peace.
Then he put a pillow under his big sister's lifeless head. Then he made the necessary phone calls.
That night, the 82-year-old man went home with his son. He said he could never sleep in his sister's house again.
Cry along with the clown . . .

Rabbit tracks

By John Haire

(And anyone else he can get to help)

Evergreen township residents have always had a special, personal interest in their school and it remains now many years after the district merged with Cass City.
The grade school is a focal point for many community activities.
Evidence of this interest surfaced the other day when Otis Dorland voluntarily took charge of the storm beat school yard and graded it just because it had to be done.

Last year in Michigan cigarette smoking jumped to an all-time high after two years of decreased consumption. Over 60 million more packages were sold in 1972 than in 1971. In 1972 cigarette ads were knocked off TV and for a long time so were most anti-smoking commercials.

Don't ask me what any of this proves except that the "it can't happen to me" syndrome is still alive and well, thank you.
There's no doubt now that cigarette smoking increases the chances of cancer, heart disease and a host of other ailments.

I planned a business trip to Detroit last Thursday so that I could take in a regional high school basketball game at the University of Detroit.

I saw Detroit Southeastern and Detroit Northwestern play. It was a fine basketball game, but I doubt if I'll go there again.

The crowd was orderly and the fans around me friendly. But as one of maybe 50 whites among several thousand blacks I was uneasy.

Was it my imagination running overtime? Who knows?
I only know that it's a very real feeling and a sad commentary on our times.

Regular readers of this trivia know that it's been the contention here that the township doesn't need the cultural center.

Saturday selling the building will be an agenda topic at the annual meeting.

But talking isn't acting and if I were asked to guess in advance, I'd say that no action will be taken.

Taking a peep into a long-range crystal ball I'd predict that the building will be a recurring agenda item until the township no longer owns it.

These predictions come to you free from the same guy who said that Sebawaing-Unionville and Cass City would play before a full house in the tournaments.

KETCHUM'S KNAPSACK

In defense of President Roosevelt

By Jim Ketchum

A few years ago, a composer wrote a popular song entitled, "Where Have All Our Heroes Gone?" and while the lyrics went past the point of corniness, there was a shred of reality in them. We really don't have too many heroes anymore and, it seems, when a person latches onto one, he ought not be made to give it up.

Unfortunately, that is what a few rabble-rousing authors are trying to do to me. They are attempting, at great expenditures of time and money, to destroy before my very eyes, the only hero I ever had—President Franklin Delano Roosevelt.

I first discovered FDR in the dusty recesses of the public library in St. Louis, Michigan at the age of 11. I remember leafing through the Q-R volume of the World Book Encyclopedia, copyright 1947, and turning to his pages.

There was that smiling old face, full of wit, tempered by years of personal struggle, radiating confidence and restoring the nation's faith in its leaders and in itself. I was struck immediately, and began collecting everything on the great man I could find. Books, newspaper clippings, recordings, personal reminiscences of family—anything I could.

It did not matter that my parents were of the good Republican tradition, although even they admitted that they voted for him in 1932 and 1936 (who didn't?). I wanted to do more than just research Roosevelt. I wanted to make him my friend, my personal president. To a large measure I succeeded. I still live in hopes of visiting Hyde Park and Warm Springs someday, as they beckon to me with Mecca-like anticipation. I even wrote a novel about him which at this moment languishes in the far reaches of my desk.

For all those many years, my president stood on his pedestal, untouchable by anyone. We knew the haters were all wrong anyway and that the course he had set for the nation was a permanent one. His tradition would live forever.

Then the onslaught began. At first it was subtle and only comprised one or two pages in a fairly innocuous book by Johnathan Daniels called "The Time Between the Wars" in which he intimated that my president had had a love affair with Eleanor's social secretary. Lies, I cried! Impossible! Raymond Moley denied it, and so did everyone else of any credibility.

Then came Joseph P. Lash and his detailed account, "Eleanor and Franklin", a work based on the private papers of Mrs. Roosevelt.

Billed as the complete expose of the "Lucy Mercer Affair", the book does not convince me. In it, Lash devotes one short chapter to the purported affair and then proceeds to make us feel sorry for Eleanor throughout the rest of the book.

To make any sense out of all this, an observer must be aware of many things in the personality make up of these two. Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt, FDR epitomized the outgoing, dashing, debonair politician and man of the early part of the century. People turned him on; he needed their companionship and esteem as much as they needed his. He enjoyed a drink, week-end jaunts with numerous friends of both sexes and loved to fly in the face of convention.

Eleanor, on the other hand, stood for the Victorian, pristine values of a by-gone generation. Her morality, which at times became a "holier-than-thou" proposition, got in the way of a forgiving, understanding, full kind of love for her husband. To her, he must walk the straight and narrow every moment or else he was not good enough. She mistook pleasure and warm feelings, at times, for infidelity.

She could never be the classic model of a wife. When FDR became president, she continuously badgered him with requests for his time and attention to matters of state she felt needed his immediate favorable action. She could never let him have a quiet, uncluttered evening of relaxation alone or with her without bending his ear to some cause which at that moment held her interest. At times he needed some wifely understanding and she was incapable of delivering.

Perhaps that's what made Eleanor Roosevelt such a remarkable woman in terms of getting things done. But it made her a less than successful wife. I doubt seriously that someone as intelligent as FDR would allow himself to become involved in such an affair. It just doesn't make any sense. And had he done such a thing, he would have been driven to it, no doubt, by a wife who could not understand that love means forgiveness, too. It means compassion and giving of self.

Eleanor couldn't give it because she was involved too much with Eleanor.

For FDR's part, I doubt if he ever really fell in love with Miss Mercer. Perhaps Miss Mercer fell in love with him, which was not hard to do. But I don't think the feeling was mutual, because he loved his wife, authors notwithstanding. And if Eleanor and history did not understand that, it was their loss and not his.

Franklin Delano Roosevelt was too big a man for such matters. Life held too much for him.

The rabble-rousing authors have failed, for I still hold him in greatest esteem and still as my only hero.

Zonta Club initiates new members, hears Philippine exchange student

The monthly dinner meeting of the Zonta Club was held at the home of Lorene Riestra with Edith Little as co-hostess, Tuesday night, March 20. A potluck dinner was served.

Four new members were taken into the club: Beverly Little, Sandy Bergman, Shirley Buschlein and Margaret Merisco. Esther McCullough performed the initiation services.

The Club donated to the Ramalah School, Grow and UNICEF, International projects. Also a $10.00 donation was given to a Brownie Troop which the club is sponsoring.

The guest speaker of the evening was Grace Vito, exchange student from the Philippines. Grace has spent eight months in Cass City and is a senior in Cass City High School.

She told of the many changes here in school and environment. In her school they attended from 7:30 to 4:30 p.m. with no study halls and wore uniforms and bobbie socks to school.

She is happy about learning to do things from her foster parents, Mr. and Mrs. Don DeLong, where in her country they had servants and were not allowed to do anything. In her letters home she said her parents joke and just can't believe it but she is very proud of her accomplishments. Her biggest accomplishment was learning to wash the cows.

This is the first time she has seen snow as in her country the coldest it gets is between 55 and sixty degrees.

Speaking of her country she said there are 7,807 islands with a population of 48 million with English, Spanish and several different dialects being spoken. There are some primitive islands and, in the southern part of the country, a race had been cut off from civilization, really a nation in itself, she said.

She has one sister in college who plans to be an international ambassador and Grace is studying business to work with her father who is an agriculturalist and works in the stock market.

The next Zonta dinner meeting will be held at the home of Toby Weaver with Beverly Little as co-hostess. There will be installation of new officers for the next two years. A Silent Auction will be held for the program.

Everyone is requested to bring some of their treasures they no longer want. The meeting is set ahead for April 10.

PICTURED HERE AT the March 20 meeting of the Zonta Club are (L-R) Esther McCullough, Shirley Buschlein, Margaret Merisco, Sandy Bergman, Beverly Little and guest speaker Grace Vito.

The better the fertilizer, the better the lawn. That's why Scotts TURF BUILDER is America's favorite lawn fertilizer. Turf Builder is made by the exclusive Trionized process which releases its nutrients over a prolonged period. There's no excess surge growth to cause extra mowing, and there's no wasteful over-feeding or nutrient loss due to leaching. Just a thicker, greener, sturdier lawn. Spread Turf Builder on your lawn this weekend, and see for yourself.

DOWN with crabgrass!

You can put down crabgrass even before it starts by spreading Scotts HALTS PLUS For Established Lawns. One application forms an invisible barrier that will stop crabgrass as it sprouts, so the ugly stuff can't get started this year. It feeds your lawn at the same time, making good grass grow greener and sturdier. Result? A thicker, more vibrantly green lawn—without ugly crabgrass.

Uncle Tim From Tyre Says:

Dear Mister Editor:

Nowadays, the best way to fetch rain is to wash the car. That ranks right ahead of setting the golf clubs outside the front door like you're waiting for a buddy to come by and pick you up to go play a round. If you turn your old lady loose with a pocketbook full of credit cards you get the same sinking feeling as when you turn on the color TV five minutes before the Super Bowl and all you get is streaks of green Jello.

I come by this information the other day in a piece about the things that put the downs in a life full of ups and downs. I was reminded, Mister Editor, that we don't want downs, just ups, and I thought about how the downs use to be as different as they were the same. When I was coming along all we had to do to get rain was mow a acre or two of hay. If that didn't work right away, we could leave a bag of cement outside overnight and go to bed assured of a shower afore day.

This matter was took up Saturday night at the country store, and it was Ed Doolittle that reported where his preacher said we got to have the downs to recognize the ups. Ed said this called to mind the salesman that allus wore his shoes two sizes to little cause the only pleasure he could look forward to was taking off his shoes at night. Usual, Ed said, we don't have to plan our ups and downs, they find us easy enuff.

For instant, Ed said, we got a heap of built-in ups and downs in our cars and pets. They ain't no cure fer debt in this country till we do away with cars, Ed said, and people that has monthly payments bigger than their monthly income still will feed their dog better than they feed their younguns. The fact is, declared Ed, we don't own cars and pets, it's the other way around, but it's like when the London flue is going strong. We don't want it, but we feel left out if everybody else gits it and we don't.

General speaking, allowed Clem Webster, marriage probable gives us a clearer understanding of the ups and downs of life than anything. Clem said he allus had a soft spot in his heart for his uncle that said he had a beef-stew marriage, him being stewed half the time, his old lady beefing the other half and neither one knowing which half come first. Clem said he was glad him and his old lady enjoyed a strange and wonderful relationship, she's strange and he's wonderful.

As fer downs, broke in Bug Hookum, a whole bunch of neighbor wimmen called on his old lady last month when she was laid up with what she like to call the Paris flu cause it seemed more in style than London. Bug said they caught one another up on all the gossip, and he noted that the widest mouths had the narrowest minds. He said he become the first dirt farmer to break the sound barrier when he told em all to go home.

Yours truly,
Uncle TimMrs. Ryan, 84,

Tri-county

home meet set for April 4-5

Homes, being very personal, hopefully serve to satisfy our very deepest human needs. Is your home an environment for human growth? This is the topic for a public meeting to be held: Wednesday, April 4, from 1-3 p.m. at the Tuscola Civil Defense Center in Caro; Thursday, April 5, from 9-11 a.m. at the Sanilac Farm Bureau Building in Sandusky, and Thursday, April 5, from 1-3 p.m. at the Huron County Building, Third Floor, in Bad Axe.

The classes will be taught by Thumb Extension Home Economist Ann Ross and will include sharing ideas, as well as studying case studies of real life situations. Take-home materials will be provided.

Shelter of any kind, to be meaningful, must relate to the people and to their needs—material, spiritual, intellectual, and social. But family members are not always aware of the effect of their homes on themselves as they dwell therein. Nor are they aware of significant improvements that can be made quite easily if the reasons for the changes are fully understood.

Everyone interested in learning about how to better meet the needs of family members "right around home" is invited to come and see what can be learned. There is no charge for these classes.

In a way it is too bad Tennyson gave the world his classic verse about a young man's fancy. The dreams of Spring are not only for young men . . . and they're not only thoughts of love.

In many ways Spring awakens new hopes in every heart. The surge of life is renewed. Old frustrations are forgotten. The targets of happiness seem nearer. This is particularly true during Lent.

It's a good time to think. And from our thinking to plan how best to pursue the goals we really cherish.

Spring, and Lent, is a good time to go to church . . . or to go back to church if you've been away awhile.

Spring is a good time to seek the Source of resurgent living.

BETTER HEALTH

Life in a surgeon's world

BY DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

I just read a remarkable book describing many of the subjects that for so long have been taboo for most surgeons to discuss. Most important, he shows the surgeon as a human being, with the same feelings, desires, strengths and weakness that other people have. He shows the surgeon's life as he lives it—and it is perhaps the best story I have seen of a doctor's life and his behavior with different types of patients and with his fellow doctors.

Dr. Nolan courageously discusses many of the subjects that for so long have been taboo for most surgeons to discuss. Most important, he shows the surgeon as a human being, with the same feelings, desires, strengths and weakness that other people have. He shows the surgeon's life as he lives it—and it is perhaps the best story I have seen of a doctor's life and his behavior with different types of patients and with his fellow doctors.

He discusses frankly the disease symptoms produced when a physician unwisely gave a patient 14 different medicines at one time. The patient, Mrs. Taylor, had been in the hospital for pneumonia six months earlier.

Dr. Nolan said, "She had pills to get rid of fluid, pills for her blood, pills for her nerves, three different pills for her circulation, a pill for her blood pressure, two different pills for dizziness, several different vitamin tablets. Fourteen different medicines! I couldn't believe it!"

He tells of another patient who came in complaining of low back pain. When Dr. Nolan examined the woman, and couldn't find anything wrong, he gave her a prescription for a painkiller, a muscle-relaxing drug, and told her to come to the clinic for diathermy (heat therapy). But she did not improve much.

Later, Dr. Nolan's wife, Joan, unwittingly gave him a clue to Mrs. Moriarty's back trouble. She happened to say, at dinner, "Did you hear that Paul Moriarty has started drinking again? He's been back at it for the last two weeks." And as Dr. Nolan says so wisely, "Of course, it was Paul's drinking and not any problem with her spine that was causing Judy's backache. If I had sat down and talked to Judy, I could have made that diagnosis earlier and saved her the cost of two weeks of unnecessary therapy."

Dr. Nolan has a chapter on how doctors can keep themselves honest, but he says he feels it is a myth that "only doctors can judge other doctors." He feels that intelligent laymen, with technical help from doctors, could do it better.

In some fine hospitals today they have a group of doctors and laymen who review all the surgery being done, to make sure it was necessary. If one surgeon is particularly careless about removing too many normal appendices or gall bladders, his operating privileges will be denied him.

Long years ago, two very able surgeons, friends of mine, overrode my objections, and each operated on a woman who did look very ill with abdominal pain. I knew from the woman's history that she was having unusually severe attacks of migraine, such as are sometimes accompanied with severe abdominal pain and in each spell, prostration in bed. I had seen her come out of such spells before, without much, if any, treatment, but the surgeons said, "If we do not operate and the woman dies in a spell, we will be sued."

I kept asking the woman what tragedy had come into her life, because I have seen these terrible crises of abdominal migraine come with psychic problems, but always she told me that there was no psychic cause. A year later after two abdominal operations which showed "nothing wrong"—she came to me just to clear her conscience because she had lied to me. She confessed that she had married a man who kept having brief spells of mild insanity which terribly distressed her, and caused her crises of pain. When he died, she was well.

Dr. Nolan has chapters on doctors and sex, doctors' wives—he tells of the loneliness of the doctor's wife whose husband spends all-day and sometimes part of the night in the hospital—about malpractice suits, fee-splitting, how doctors get along with each other, and how doctors in a small town such as Litchfield, Minn., handle the difficult problem of telling a husband or wife who is perhaps a personal friend, that he or she has venereal disease, and that the person's mate must be treated and the source of the disease found.

Dr. Nolan also talks about how patients look to doctors, the treatment and mismanagement of the super-neurotic patient, and many other very interesting subjects.

Altogether, this is a splendid book I wish it could be read by all young surgeons starting out in practice. It can also help lay people to understand their own doctors better.

"A Surgeon's World" is published by Random House, Inc., New York, N.Y. 10022. It costs $7.95.

The determination of the exact cause of a back pain is often one of the most difficult problems in medicine. Dr. Alvarez tells you about the possible causes, and the treatments that are available in his booklet "Low Back Pain." For your copy send 25 cents and a self-addressed, stamped, envelope with your request to Dr. Walter C. Alvarez, Dept. CCC, Box 957, Des Moines, Iowa 50304.

Thumb area can grow despite isolation

The Thumb area can grow and develop both socially and economically despite its geographic isolation from the rest of the state, according to L. LeRoy Marion, acting director of the Thumb Area Community Development Corporation.

Marion spoke at a seminar sponsored by the corporation in Caro last Thursday.

Marion explained how, through efforts of concerned citizens working within a structured organization, development could be stimulated.

"C.D.C. exists as a private, non-profit corporation and can get state and federal money as well as funds from private sectors of the economy," he said.

"It acts to fill a gap which exists at the county or village level by providing money and ideas."

One phase of development Marion suggested involved the sugar industry.

"Instead of shipping raw sugar out of the area for processing, why can't we process it ourselves right here?" he said.

He cited the area's high unemployment rate and the fact that 40 per cent of the labor force must go outside the area to find work as a need for development programs.

Marion suggested that the tri-county area plan on a large scale and proposed a pooling of effort to bring in desirable industry.

"There may be a possibility of developing the corner of M-81 and M-53 into an industrial park with water and sewer systems furnished by all three counties," he said. "In that way, development costs will be spread over a wider area and all will benefit."

He cautioned against industrialization which does not take into account ecological as well as manpower factors. He said there should be industries brought in which would not contribute to the pollution of the environment and which could take best advantage of the existing labor force.

Marion said that 90 per cent of the students in high school do not receive any vocational training, which only contributes to employment problems for the area.

"Whatever else happens," he said, "vocational training is vital to the Thumb. There are signs pointing toward a re-awakening of the importance of this."

Marion explained that the Small Business Administration has money for loans to start or expand businesses which range upwards of $350,000 per customer.

"What many people don't realize is that through C.D.C.'s Small Business Investment Corporation, a borrower can obtain another $350,000," he said.

C.D.C., as a non-profit corporation, owns several profit making companies, by way of a holding company. All profits derived in this manner go to fund the parent corporation. Added to that are state and federal funds in the form of grants and loans.

C.D.C. will take over some of the burden previously carried by the Office of Economic Opportunity which is being phased down. C.D.C. will lose $101,000 which OEO contributed through this year.

Marion described the Thumb as being a peninsula within a peninsula and cut off by water on three sides as well as not having major freeway systems. But he stressed that these should not stand in the way of development.

"Our communities have to play up their proximity, living conditions, tax bases and the like," he said, "not just the fact that they have a new school or new fire hall."

He said the individual makes a greater impression on businessmen coming into the area than the mayor or civic officials.

"A businessman doesn't care if the mayor has a new Cadillac," he said. "He cares what the individual resident thinks about the community. He cares what the gas station attendant or the waitress or the bartender think of the town. And, often, that's what a businessman will base his impression on."

Marion said growth is possible and must take place, and added that it will take leadership on the local level, to make it happen.

Much effort needed

L. LeROY MARION, acting director of the Thumb Area Community Development Corporation, explains the purposes and goals of CDC before a seminar in Caro last Thursday.

Board hears plan for State court funding

The Tuscola County Board of Commissioners has authorized payment of about $193,000 to the County Road Commission as its share in a five-year bridge construction and maintenance program. The money represents a one mill tax levy specifically earmarked for the purpose.

The authorization came at the regularly scheduled board meeting held Tuesday.

The money is spent on construction of bridges and culverts on county roads. Last year, four such constructions took place in the Cass City area, according to Maynard McConkey, member of the board from Cass City.

McConkey said the road commission overspent somewhat on the program last year because they obtained favorable contracts with construction firms, and that some of the authorized money has already been spent.

The program is currently in its fourth year of operation. In other action, the board heard a request from William Scott, county school commissioner, to continue funding the school nurse program currently in operation. At present, there are three nurses working in the system averaging one day a week each.

Scott asked that the program be continued or expanded. He explained that the program may come under the jurisdiction of the district board of health next year, but until that time, the board would have to continue to support it.

The board is expected to take action on the request in the near future.

Judge Norman Baguley outlined to the board some of the changes which may come in the financing of circuit courts in the future, should a judicial reform proposal now before the state legislature be approved.

Under the court reform plan, the state would take over funding of circuit, district and probate courts, relieving counties from the obligation.

Also in the proposal, these courts would come under state supervision rather than remain under the control of local officials.

Western Round-up plans formulating

Plans are under way for the annual Western Round-up to be held this year from June 21-24, in Cass City.

Committees are currently in the process of being formed and assignments should be forthcoming at a meeting to be held next week.

A request by the steering committee to build a track for the tractor pull event was submitted before the village council Tuesday night. The request asks that a 25x300' track of one foot of clay be constructed somewhere in the addition to the park purchased from Mort Orr.

Village President Lambert Althaver said that the track probably can be constructed but a final determination on site would have to be made. He said the problem is access to such a track, and urged the committee to work with the park committee toward a final determination.

The committee also indicated that the track could be used for other events as well.

The committee also requested permission to use the practice football field as the site for the horse show. This request was approved.

Outline benefits of Red Cross blood bank

Cass City has joined the drive to keep Tuscola county as a full participant in the Red Cross Blood Bank program and some 20 volunteers were briefed last Wednesday on the way to keep the needed blood flowing into the bank.

The meeting was held at Hills and Dales General Hospital and was arranged by Jon Fahrner. Attending were representatives of various churches, civic groups and industry. According to hospital authorities, belonging to the Red Cross program has many advantages for local residents.

Three of the primary benefits are:

- Free blood available for the immediate family of anyone in covered counties across the nation and in Canada.
- A ready source of blood when needed.

● A probable reduction in cost to local hospitals.

Red Cross Representative Ray Metiva explained that the county's quota for full coverage was 1940 units a year. A unit is slightly less than a pint. To meet this quota Cass City should come up with about 100 units every time the blood mobile unit comes to town.

The first visit has been scheduled for April 17 from 2 to 8 p.m. at the Elkland Township Fire Hall.

Metiva told the group that many volunteers will be needed to assist the doctor and nurses with the donors.

The work at the blood mobile site will cap a whirlwind campaign designed to get the donors needed.

Churches and clubs will be canvassed and the Red Cross is seeking volunteers to conduct a phone campaign.

The Red Cross advertises that the blood is free and in one sense it is.

In another it is not. While there is no cost for the blood itself there is a processing charge of $14 per unit which the hospital pays to the Red Cross.

These charges are eventually passed on to the users in charges of lab fees and similar costs.

While the prices are better than other non-profit competing blood banks offer, local authorities maintain, it is not the primary reason why the Red Cross program is being pushed in Cass City and the county.

Fahrner told the group Wednesday that he felt the Red Cross program was the most comprehensive and offers the best care for the patient needing blood.

JON FAHRNER explains the Red Cross blood bank program to representatives of village churches and civic groups.

Arraign 2 in Circuit Court

Two men arraigned last week in the breaking and entering of a house in Arbela township last January have stood mute to those charges in circuit court.

Leonard Wooster, 19, Birch Run, and Rodney Mason, 17, Beaverton, appeared Monday at pre-trial examinations before Judge Norman Baguley. Each stood mute and pleas of innocent were entered for them by the court.

Another hearing was set for April 9. Bonds were continued at $1,000 each.

The break-in occurred last Jan. 9.

In another case, a psychiatric examination was ordered for Anthony Reinhart, Ecorse, in connection with two counts of writing bad checks.

Reinhart was ordered remanded to the Forensic Center pending the outcome of the examination. He is charged with passing bad checks of $70 and $90 on December 23.

Reinhart stood mute at his pre-trial examination March 26, at which time Judge Baguley ordered the psychiatric tests.

Bond in the case was continued at $500.

Karl A. Bearinger, 20, Caro, pleaded guilty to two counts of probation violation in Circuit Court Monday. He was arrested March 20, and charged with being drunk and disorderly and resisting arrest.

He was originally charged in November of 1971 with breaking and entering of an auto in Caro and had been placed on two years' probation.

Sentencing was set for April 9. An Akron man was bound over for trial Friday in circuit court on charges of carrying concealed weapons.

Jack Edward Goodman, 4434 W. Cass City Rd., is charged with carrying a .32 caliber revolver and a .22 caliber revolver in the back seat of his car.

Judge Baguley set trial for April 9 and continued bond at $1,000.

Letter to Editor

Thanks for a job well done

Dear Editor:

Trucks, equipment and men are useful in restoring electric service if they can reach the problem area. Crews of the Tuscola County Road Commission and Deputies of the Sheriff's Department removed the ice for Edison during the week-end storm.

All of us at Edison appreciate these men and their handling of what appeared to be an impossible situation. Many thanks for a job well done!

Sincerely,

George E. Andersen

Credit firemen with saving Owendale plant

Quick work by firemen from Owendale, Gagetown, Sebewaing and Pigeon is credited with averting a major disaster when fire broke out in the east wing of Automotive Industries in Owendale.

The fire, believed caused by an electrical fixture, was discovered Saturday evening at 6:45 p.m. Workers used fire extinguishers to hold the fire in check until firemen arrived. Flames were visible through windows when the fire department arrived.

The loss was estimated at some $7,000 in ruined or damaged shipping records, furnishings, vending machines and office equipment.

Production was not expected to be interrupted in the plant that employs some 200.

Fouts received one of two Managers Achievement Awards presented to EBS managers at Southwestern Life's annual field management meeting recently in Dallas. He manages the company's Kansas City office and supervises the servicing of group life and health insurance plans in five Midwestern states.

The Fouts are the parents of three daughters, Amy Lynn, 16, Lorie Arlene, 14, and Sherrie Lee, 10, and reside at 7731 Falmouth in Prairie Village, Kan.

Awards were presented in two categories, based on size of office. Fouts won the award for larger offices.

Arrest Ozbat for breaking up Cass Tavern Friday

Cass City Police Chief Gene Wilson reports police activity back to a more normal pace after two quiet weeks followed by two hectic ones.

Police arrested Richard Ozbat, 231 W. Congress St., Caro, on charges of being drunk and disorderly after he broke down three doors at the Cass Tavern Friday night.

Police said Ozbat smashed a glass door downstairs with his fists and then broke two more doors in an upstairs apartment.

Ozbat was treated for cuts received from broken glass.

Also on Friday, police received a report that someone had smashed the windshield on a pickup belonging to Norris Holdburg, 302 S. Crawford Rd., Delord.

Police said Holdburg parked the truck at Erla's packing house early Thursday morning and returned to it Friday morning to find the broken windshield.

Holdburg drives a truck for Erla's and must be gone a day at a time frequently, police explained.

Officers found a soft drink bottle in the snow a short distance away which they theorize might have been used on the windshield.

The investigation continues.

Tuscola county sheriff's officers reported a house trailer located at 3262 Froede Rd., Kingston, had been broken into Monday and ransacked. Earl Griswald, 5300 E. Samlake Rd., who was watching the trailer for the owner, told police he discovered the break-in early that morning.

No suspects have been found in the case, and the investigation continues.

Sheriff's officers also report an air compressor and a shotgun were stolen from a house owned by Harry Cenzor of Manky Dr., Akron. Police said the compressor had been located in the basement and was used to locate leaks in the plumbing system.

Cenzor told police he discovered the theft Friday. The compressor was valued at $300-$400.

The shotgun, a 410 magnum, had been stored in the house.

No suspects have been found in the case.

Teachers to be feted Tuesday

Twenty-six teachers from Tuscola and Huron counties who collectively have served 715 years in the teaching profession will be honored at the annual Spring Banquet of the Tuscola District of the Michigan Education Association (MEA) to be held 6:30 p.m. Tuesday, April 3, at the Vassar High School Cafeteria.

The invited speaker is Terry Herndon, Executive Secretary of the MEA and recently appointed Executive Secretary of the National Education Association.

Herndon began his education career as a math and science teacher in Warren Consolidated Schools in 1962. In 1967 he became Assistant Director of the NEA Field Service Division in Washington, D. C., until 1969 when he was appointed Executive Secretary of the MEA.

A specialist in negotiations, Herndon received his BA and MA degrees from Wayne State University in Detroit, with additional work at Albion College and at Morehead College in Kentucky.

Most successful men are those who stayed calm—and collected.

Celebration planned for returning POW

Deckerville, in the Thumb will be the focal point Saturday, March 31, and Sunday, April 1, when a gigantic Welcome Home Celebration for Capt. Robert A. Abbott, returning POW and all veterans of the Vietnam war will be held Saturday and a Worship Service of Thanksgiving on Sunday.

Village President, Lloyd F. Buhl, said this week that the celebration is being held not only to commemorate the ending of the war but in thankfulness for the safe return of Abbott, a prisoner almost six years in Hanoi, and one of the few returning POW's in this part of Michigan. "We are asking all communities in the Thumb and Saginaw Valley to participate with us in these two days of celebration and Thanksgiving," Buhl said, and from the program lined up most areas have responded.

The Saturday program will start with a parade at 2 p.m. Capt. Abbott, Governor William Milliken, Congressman James Harvey, State Senator Alvin DeGrow, State Representative Quincy Hoffman, and other dignitaries will be included in the parade, which at present is a mile long. Veterans units from Sanilac, St. Clair, Huron and Tuscola are participating along with the National Guard Company out of Port Huron. Over 57 units are listed at present in the parade, and Parade Marshal Asa G. Fleck is getting more entries daily. Restricted to non-commercial units, anyone wishing to enter a unit should contact Mr. Fleck or call Deckerville 313-376-3855. As high as nine bands are expected for the parade.

Abbott, his family, the Governor, and others will mount a reviewing stand in front of the municipal building near the end of the parade and review it. The parade will end at the Deckerville Community School gym where a program will be held. Included in the program will be numbers by the Deckerville band, the Port Sanilac Choral Club, presentations to Capt. Abbott by several groups he was associated with when a student in Deckerville, and speeches by Governor Milliken, Congressman Harvey and others. Capt. Abbott will present a wreath to the parents of four young men who were killed in Vietnam and lived in this area. Plaques honoring three of these men who attended the Deckerville Community Schools are on the walls in the main entry of the school. The program will conclude with remarks by Capt. Abbott.

There will be a public dinner in the school following the program and dance, modern and old time, in the elementary gym that evening.

Sunday afternoon at 3 p.m. a community worship service of Thanksgiving will be held in the high school gym with Rev. Alan Weeks of the Deckerville United Methodist parish in charge.

While the safe return of Capt. Abbott touched off this area-wide celebration, Mr. Buhl said, it should be emphasized that all veterans are being honored.

Kaufman herd again state's top producer

Thumb area dairymen were well represented at the annual Michigan Purebred Cattle Association awards luncheon Monday, March 19, during Farmer's Week at Michigan State University.

Jack Kaufman and Sons, Sandusky Dairy farm, again earned numerous awards with their high-producing Holstein herd. The Kaufman herd received the MSU Department of Dairy Science Award for the highest butterfat average for the past five years - 765 pounds of butterfat.

The Michigan DHIA award for the highest fat average in 1972 - 21,692 pounds of milk and 834 pounds of butterfat also was presented to the Kaufmans.

Also presented the Michigan Purebred Dairy Cattle Association award and the individual cow performance awards for the highest 305-day actual DHIA milk and butterfat records. Their "Cirose Lucky Lady" produced 32,958 pounds of milk and 1,293 pounds of butterfat last year to top all Michigan cows in all breeds.

Other Thumb area dairymen recognized were: Newell Ginglell, Brown City; Phillip Cripps, Palms; the second and seventh highest herds on test in Michigan. Also the Gregory & Krause Brown Swiss Herd was the second highest producing Brown Swiss herd in the state.

Martin Graham of Brown City was recognized for the highest 4 year old registered cow in the state. Ginglell's Kaufman's and Gregory & Krause also had high cows for their age categories.

Thumb meet for gymnasts slated Saturday

Cass City High School will host a Thumb Area Beginning Gymnastic Meet Saturday, March 31, beginning at 10:30 a.m.

Induct students into honor society Wednesday

Forty-six new members were added to the Cass City High School chapter of the National Honor Society in traditional candle-light induction ceremonies held this week.

Additions to the society's membership are made each spring by a faculty council, based on selections made from a list of eligible students compiled by both teachers and students. Candidates must have a grade point average of B or better and membership cannot exceed 15 per cent of each class roll. Although scholarship is necessary for consideration, election to the society is never based on this alone. Students must also have excelled in service, leadership and character.

The induction program, planned by Dave Ackerman and Mrs. Karen Wallace, honor society sponsors, was held in the high school cafeteria Wednesday evening, March 28. Mike Klinkman, class valedictorian, was master of ceremonies. Speaking on the place of scholarship in the honor society was Jeanne Alexander, class salutatorian.

Other students who participated in the program were Alan Romig, Barbara Auten, Curtis Strickland, Joe Haney, Kim Glaspie, Lori Kilbourn, Joan Erla and Roy Sefton. In addition, musical selections were provided by Jayme de Oliveira Jr., and Robinson Da Masseda Das Reis, exchange students from Brazil.

Ackerman presented Mike Klinkman with an honor award recognizing his perfect 4.000 grade point average compiled over the past four years. This represents perfect achievement in his high school career.
